

Cargo Plane Down In Cluster Of Houses

Seven Killed In Chicago Crash

CHICAGO (UPI)—A four-engine freight plane crashed in flames today into a cluster of homes and an apartment building while trying for an emergency landing at Midway Airport, the world's busiest airport.

At least seven persons were known dead.

The Trans World Airlines Constellation had just taken off from Midway in pre-dawn rain and fog when the pilot, Capt. C. W. Helwig, radioed the control tower that he was swinging back for an emergency landing.

His plane came down three blocks away from the airport on Chicago's southwest side with an impact that sounded like a blockbuster bomb.

Police said the plane first hit the peak of one home, crashed through a lamp post, and then roared into two bungalow-type houses. Its tail smashed the corner of a two-story, eight-apartment house building.

Fire engulfed the area. Two homes were practically burned to the ground within an hour and a third was all but demolished, police said. Residents of the homes were believed to have been trapped in their beds.

Civil defense officials said one of the known dead was the pilot. He was thrown 100 feet from the plane, still strapped to his seat. The two other crew members, 1st Officer D. W. Watters and Flight Engineer A. L. Auge, were believed to have survived.

The bodies of a man and a woman were the first taken from the flaming apartment house to the Cook County morgue.

It was the first major plane crash in four years at Midway, where a plane lands or takes off every minute. The airport is located close to new, bungalow-style, housing developments. At the time of the crash, visibility was so dense that low-skimming planes overhead could not be seen.

Twenty-two lives were lost in Midway's last disaster, when a Braniff Convair plunged into a corner of the airport while trying to land on July 17, 1955.

Within minutes after the TWA plane hit just before 5 a.m. today, the pleasant residential area looked like a flaming junk yard.

In scores of homes, frightened men and women awoke to see flames dancing outside their windows.

"One of the injured, George Mulhally, said "I was in my bed and my wife, Elizabeth, was in the kitchen cooking breakfast for our two teen-agers when the plane hit."

"The house was in flames. I crawled out of my bed, over a dresser, and crashed through the window. Elizabeth, my kids Betty and George—I feel they didn't get out."

Russell Haley, 25, himself a fireman, said "we heard this big explosion and suddenly it looked like the world was on fire."

"I looked next door and the house looked like a shambles. I tried to call the fire department but my phone had gone dead."

"I ran into the street—still in my nightclothes—to a fire box on the corner but it was locked and I didn't have the key. Wouldn't you know? Every other box in the city has a handle but ours was locked."

Explosions shook the neighborhood in the minutes following the crash. Two pedestrians, walking to work, were hit by the blasts and numbered among the injured.

Police immediately put an emergency plan into effect. Officers said there were "people burned and injured in the apartment building. That's all we know."

Firemen rushed all available equipment to the scene on the southwest side of Chicago near Midway, the world's busiest airport.

A man who lived across the street, Chester Rumco, said the crash jarred him with such force that he thought a gas tank had blown up.

Rumco said he thought the casualty toll would be high.

"Someone might have survived in the apartment house but I don't think anyone survived in two or three houses next door," he said.

"The thing happened just before

8 a.m.," he said. "There was a resounding crash and a terrific explosion. At first I didn't know what happened."

"I looked out the window and thought a gas tank had blown up. But then I saw a prop sticking up in the wreckage and I knew it was a plane."

Another neighbor, M. De Bolla, said three buildings were burning fiercely on Kilpatrick Street near 64th St. One was a six-story apartment building, the second a two-story home and the third a one-story dwelling, he said.

"All I can see through the flames is a motor and one propeller. The rest is just molten metal," he said while the blaze raged.

FOUR PERSONS WERE INJURED Monday night when this 1957 Studebaker collided with a bull on the Borger Highway about eight miles west of Pampa. The car's driver, James Burgess, 54, suffered a fractured skull but was in good condition today. Three other persons in the Burgess car suffered bumps and bruises. Patrolmen listed the car as a total wreck. A second car rammed the bull moments after the initial crash, but the driver and her infant in the front seat were not hurt. (Daily News Photo)

Yarborough Pledges Good Wheat Plank

AMARILLO (UPI)—U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough told the Texas Wheat Growers Assn. today that Democratic platform in the 1960 elections will include a plank for "a secretary of agriculture who will dedicate himself to making an offer to trade millions for paltry $22.75 ing—a national farm program work."

"Farmers who support a Republican administration at the polls," Yarborough added, "can expect more of what they've been getting—lower prices for their products and higher living costs."

The senator spoke to the wheat growers' convention here.

He said the farmers are "producing more food but enjoying it less."

The senator said that farmers, in order to get a "fair share of the food dollar," should receive "what candidate Eisenhower promised but his administration never delivered."

He said that would be a program of production controls and a price support "based on a fair share of the food dollar."

He charged Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson is trying to force down price supports. Yarborough said this caused farmers to plant more acres, instead of fewer as Benson had expected, and surpluses mounted.

"There is no question," Yarborough said, "but what we should greatly expand our surplus food distribution. We not only need to expand it, we need to supplement it to secure a balanced diet for all those needy persons who cannot supply a square meal for themselves."

RICE IN EYE GROWS

FUKUOKA, Japan (UPI)—A doctor here reported today he had removed from the eye of Uchichi Seki, 71, a grain of rice that got stuck and took root. He said the root had grown to a length of about a third of an inch in 10 days.

Pampa To Be Featured In British TV Documentaries

London television producer Christopher Burstall will make two return trips to Pampa in 1960 to photograph life in the Panhandle. The first documentary, in March, will deal with the area's early history. A BBC camera crew of five men will accompany Burstall on forthcoming visits.

Burstall, according to Coy Palmer, was highly pleased and "deeply interested in the Pampa area." The Londoner was most impressed with a cattle drive he witnessed Thursday near Kingsmill, Palmer said.

2 Cars Slam Bull On 152; 4 Persons Hurt

Four Pampa residents were injured about 7:30 p.m. Monday when their car rammed a bull on Texas Highway 152. A second car struck the animal moments later but the occupants were not injured.

Taken by ambulance to Highland General Hospital were Mr. and Mrs. James Alfred Burgess, 719 E. Murphy, their daughter Gary Lynn Burgess, 14, and Richard Dean Martin, 10.

Doctors at Highland said this morning Burgess suffered a fractured skull and nose, and lacerations of the forehead, but is "doing fine."

His wife was treated for lacerations of her forehead, and released Monday night. The Burgess girl, Gary, was given first aid for particles of glass in her forehead.

Highway Patrolman Stanley Schneider said the Burgess car, a 1957 Studebaker, was headed east toward Pampa when the bull strayed across the highway. The bull and car collided and the Burgess car skidded off the right side of the highway into a wire fence.

Seconds later a car headed west driven by Mrs. Emoline Ramey, 406 N. Purviance, rammed the bull. Mrs. Ramey and a baby in the Ramey car, were not hurt, but damages to the car's front end were extensive.

The bull was thrown into a ditch and presumably died instantly.

Impending Weather Menaces Washington

Worst Flood In 27 Years Covers Valuable Farmland

SEATTLE (UPI)—Thousands of acres of western Washington dairy and truck farming land were inundated by the region's worst flood in 27 years today and a hovering storm threatened more damage.

Already the flood, which virtually surrounded but left safe this city of more than a half million persons, had:

Turned an estimated 1,100 persons out of their homes.

Made the two main east-west highways in the state impassable, except for one-way traffic on one of them.

Blocked all transcontinental railroads through the state.

Stranded hundreds of dairy herds, forcing farmers to turn back the industry 50 years and resort to hand-milking.

North of here, at Everett, in Snohomish County, floodfighters reported the situation was easing somewhat early today. South of Seattle, at Kent, a weary-voiced civil defense official said:

"We're losing."

The official, Ed English, meant it had been raining hard in the Cascade Mountains and was drizzling in his area. Rescuing stranded farm families was becoming a spotty task.

"A lot of 'em said they were going to stay put, come hell or high water. High water came and we had to get 'em," he said.

The weather bureau said a storm front was hovering north-west of here and due over the Puget Sound country today. With it would come rain.

"I have no idea how long this will go on," said W. M. Beach, deputy Seattle-King County civil defense director. "I hope it stops raining, that we get some clear weather and that it is crisp and cold. Warm chinook winds have melted the snowpack in the mountains which have added their runoff to the heavy rains 'we have had. It all adds up to no good."

The Weather Bureau's forecast was not encouraging. Mild temperatures with occasional light rain or drizzle in the lowlands and continued warm temperatures (See WEATHER, Page 3)

Roger Touhy Free After 25 Years In Slit

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI)—Roger "The Perisher" Touhy, prohibition-era prince of Chicago's underworld, walks to freedom today.

Touhy will leave Stateville Penitentiary after 25 years behind bars for a crime he says never happened.

Touhy, now a stooped and graying 61, won his parole Nov. 13 after a decade of legal battles.

His program for release was approved Monday and T. Edward Austin, superintendent of the Illinois Division of Parole Supervision, said he could go free today.

Touhy went to prison in 1934 for the kidnaping of John (Jake) The Barber Factor, who now lives in Los Angeles.

Throughout his trial and long years of imprisonment, Touhy maintained his innocence, claiming he was framed by police, prosecutors and Al Capone, then Chicago gang lord and Touhy's reputed arch-rival.

TRRC Hears Gas Rate Arguments

AUSTIN (UPI)—The bitter rate fight between Lone Star Gas Company and 320 Texas cities lay before the Railroad Commission today.

There was no indication when the commission would hand down its decision, but there were indications that which ever way the commission rules—the decision would be appealed.

The company is asking for an increase of 10 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas transmitted in the company. It wouldn't mean an immediate hike in consumer prices, but it would give the company a bargaining point in asking cities for a higher price.

Lone Star is also asking the commission to approve an escalator clause to allow an adjustment up or down whenever the price of gas to the company is increased or decreased.

In closing arguments before the commission Monday, Warren J. Collins, Lone Star's chief counsel, said he couldn't understand the "anti-business attitude" of the cities.

He said the company was making (See RATE, Page 3)

Claim Against Pampa For $5,752 In Damages

By MARVIN OLSEN
Daily News Staff Writer

W. A. (Art) Rankin, who owns rental property near the Hobart St. underpass, this morning presented city commissioners a letter stating that the city owes him $5,752.56 for damages incurred during construction of the underpass.

Rankin, whose suit last spring for damages has not yet been dismissed in district court, implied that an agreement on today's petition would be a settlement of the suit on file in district court.

Rankin said his losses of rent totaled $1,750. He owns buildings rented by five Hobart St. businesses at the corner of Rham and Hobart. The cost of rebuilding the front of his property (driveways, etc.) was set at $3,832.56.

Rankin's proposal this morning took Mayor Ed Myatt and commissioners by surprise. Mayor Myatt said the commission thought Rankin's suit for damages had been dropped, followed the outcome of the Clarence Ward vs. City of Pampa suit. (A district court jury made no award to Ward).

Rankin said the suit had not been dropped, "but it's dismissed as far as I'm concerned." Rankin added that "I only want my physical damages made good."

Mayor Myatt said that he and the commission will give Rankin's proposals "thought and study" and will re-open the matter at next Tuesday's meeting.

In other business the commission decided to "table until next week" two bids offered on four city trucks and one car. The bidders were Kissee Ford and International Harvester.

Claim Against Pampa For $5,752 In Damages

Kissee was low bidder on a 1960 four-door sedan and a two-ton street department truck this morning. International Harvester was low bidder on a three-quarter ton pickup and two two-ton trucks.

A motion to accept low bids this morning was made by Commissioner Jim Crawford, but the motion failed to be seconded. Crawford's second motion, to re-advertise for bids, also failed a second. Commissioner H. V. Wilks' motion to table the bids for more consideration, was then seconded by Crawford.

This morning's meeting opened with discussions on the Canadian

Wall Collapses On Working Fireman

TAYLOR, Tex. (UPI)—A brick wall buckled and collapsed on a fireman battling a vicious blaze in the downtown section of Taylor Monday night.

The fire destroyed the Schroeder Motor Co. and damaged at least three other business establishments.

The injured fireman was Joe Foyt. He dropped his hose and ran as the brick wall of the motor company swayed, and tumbled down. He was hit by several bricks and taken to a hospital for treatment of an injured arm.

Fire Chief D. J. Korman sent two pumps and a ladder truck into the fight. It was over an hour before the blaze was brought under control.

The motor company was a total loss, Korman said.

Accused Man Faced With Murder Pact

HOUSTON (UPI)—Another piece of a bizarre murder plot that resulted in the killing of Mrs. Joseph P. Selby, an attractive 48-year-old grandmother, fell into place today.

Police searched Selby's office and found a "murder contract" he drafted.

"If you have a very ignorant person, you could make believe it is a legal contract," Capt. Weldon Waycott of the Houston police homicide division said.

Mrs. Selby was shot to death in her fashionable Afton Oaks home nine days ago. It appears that a yet unidentified "hired killer" fired the two shots that killed her.

Carpenter's Wife Held In Hammer Killing Of Children

ROSSVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—A 32-year-old mother stumbled into the home of the Rev. Long and told him she had just killed her children.

"Yes, I've killed all four of them," the Rev. H. H. Long quoted Mrs. W. A. Thrallkill, as saying.

The bodies of the Thrallkill's four children, Mildred, 3 months; Bobby, 17 months; Alfred, 4 years old and Wiley, age 8 were found Monday night with their heads bashed in.

Catoosa County Sheriff J. D. Stewart filed murder charges against Mrs. Thrallkill, who was held in the Lafayette city jail. She was reported very calm.

Her husband, a carpenter, visited her Monday night but did not ask her about the children, police said.

Rossville police Sgt. Sam Hamlet said "she talked about being depressed and that she had to kill her children. I don't think she realized what she had done."

The 32-year-old mother stumbled into the home of the Rev. Long and told him she had just killed her children.

"You don't mean you've done that," Long asked her.

Long, pastor of the First God of Prophecy Church, asked his wife to step into another room and then called police. Mrs. Thrallkill was shaking and her clothing was splashed with blood.

Long said Mrs. Thrallkill was not a member of any church but his church had helped the Thrallkill family with groceries from time to time.

Thrallkill was not at home at the time of the slayings.

Thrallkill said his wife had experienced emotional trouble about a year and a half ago but said she was treated and seemed to "snap right out" of it.

The Thrallkill family lived in a small house next door to a country grocery. Rossville is 15 miles south of Chattanooga, Tenn., on the Tennessee-Georgia border.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am cheap. Here is my problem. I am an 18-year-old girl who is considered quite popular, have a good reputation. When a fellow takes me to a show or some place nice, I feel that I have to repay him for what he's spent on me. I don't go too far, but I can't turn him down when he wants to park and make out. I am not "in love" with any of them. They are just nice dates. Afterwards I always feel cheap. When a boy has spent his hard-earned money on me, I can't say no. Is this wrong?

NOT CHEAP. DEAR NOT: This is wrong. When a fellow asks you for a date, all he is entitled to is your company. Unless you want to risk your "hard-earned" reputation, don't feel obligated to give a boy his "hard-earned" money's worth.

Roy C. Sparkman Credit Speaker

Roy C. Sparkman, assistant secretary of Security Federal Savings and Loan Ass'n, was guest speaker at the Pampa Credit Women's Club meeting on Friday evening in the City Club Room. Mr. Sparkman spoke on "Definitions, Business and Legal Terms."

Beautiful Gowns To Take Milady Through Holidays

By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) - The imaginative use of ribbon in fashion brought out a full display of designer talent at a recent showing here.

From a christening dress right on through to beautiful ball gowns, this country's top designers showed what could be done with ribbon both as trim and as an integral part of the dress. There were charming dresses for little girls as well as big girls.

Ribbon appeared even in lounge wear and casual wear as trim for cashmere sweaters, waist banding for a skirt or decorative trim on slim pants.

The eight designers who were presented with Second Annual Ribbon-Designer's Awards were: Jan Derby, Lee Evans of Mr. Mort, Tina Leser, Helen Lee of Alyssa, Mr. John, Sally Victor, Vanity Fair lingerie and Lily of France.

More than 200 fashion editors throughout the country took part in the balloting. Final selection of winners from the list of nominees was made by Gaile Dugas, Women's Editor of Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n; Betsy Blackwell, Editor-in-Chief of Mademoiselle; Eugenia Sheppard, Women's Editor of the New York Herald Tribune and Nancy White, Editor-in-Chief of Harper's Bazaar.

Even a swimsuit made entirely of black moire ribbons and designed by Tina Leser was paraded before an audience made up of members of the fashion industry.

Scouts Receive Brownie Pins

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) - Brownies from Girl Scout Troop 13 received their pins at a meeting held in the IOOF hall recently. Mrs. J. R. Ellis, troop leader presented pins to Rhonda Mott, Sandra Werley, Paula Butler, Kerry Allen, Barbara Cates, Paulette and Jeannette Lilly and Nancy Harlan. The Brownie Promise was given by each girl receiving a pin. Following the pinning ceremony, Scouts sang the Brownie Smile Song.

Mrs. G. E. Huckins presented the troop leader with a pin and a Brownie chain guard.

Mothers attending the program were Mmes. Keifer Butler, O. E. Aiken, G. W. Cates and Gene Harlan.

'The College Woman' Discussion Topic At University Women's Dinner Meet

American Association of University Women met recently in Pool's Restaurant for their annual Thanksgiving dinner meeting. Hostesses Mrs. LeRoy Ogden, chairman, Miss Ruby Trusty and Miss Nova Mayo. Tables were decorated in a Thanksgiving motif with miniature pilgrim and turkey candles surrounding horns of plenty filled with artificial fruit.

A short business meeting with Miss Evelyn Milan, president, presiding followed the dinner.

The program for the evening was "The College Woman - Individual and Citizen" with Mrs. J. E. Myers serving as moderator. Other panel members were Miss Sibyl Turner, Mrs. L. M. Harrah, Mrs. H. V. Wilks and Miss Martha Montgomery.

Miss Turner spoke on AAUW membership and what women gain by being members. She explained that AAUW has been accepted as a foundation and are now able to offer more scholarships.

Mrs. Harrah spoke on the status of women. She stated that one-third of the labor force in the United States is made up of women. There are approximately 22 million women employed outside the home, she said. She also spoke on the legal and political status of women.

Mrs. Wilks' topic was Higher Education for Women. She stated that parents should begin teaching their girls when they are in grade school the need for a college education and instill in their minds the desire to attend college.

Miss Montgomery spoke on the legislative program and urged all women to pay their poll tax and then vote. She also urged everyone to write his congressman concerning the passing of bills to provide better schools and more pay for the teachers.

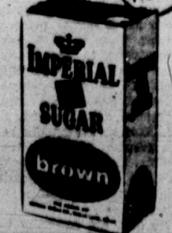

The next meeting of the American Association of University Women will be held Feb. 16, 1960, at 7:30 p. m. in the City Club Room. The program for that meeting will be "Stage Design in Our Time" by Miss Beverly Smith.

Thanksgiving Meal Will Cost Less

By PATRICIA WIGGINS United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A turkey dinner with all the trimmings will cost less this Thanksgiving than it did a year ago and not as much more than in 1954.

That's the conclusion made today by The Machinist, weekly newspaper of the million-member Machinists' Union.

It based its findings on a comparison of prices charged by a local supermarket chain for Turkey, cranberries, pumpkin, milk, eggs and other staples of the annual feast.

Machinist editor Gordon Cole said he believed the price trends were typical of the nation as a whole.

Here's the paper's item-by-item rundown on prices of Thanksgiving ingredients this year and last:

—Turkey is 10 cents a pound less for a 17-pound bird, or $1.70 less than the $3.33 price tag in 1958.

—Lettuce is a cent less per head. Milk now costs 24 cents instead of 25 cents a quart in the Washington area.

—Cranberries, canned pumpkin and bread prices haven't changed.

—Eggs at 59 cents a dozen, are a dime a dozen cheaper.

—Apples are down from 45 cents to 39 cents per five-pound bag.

—Coffee is now 77 cents a pound, a decrease of 12 cents.

—Eggs at 59 cents a dozen, are a dime a dozen cheaper.

—Apples are down from 45 cents to 39 cents per five-pound bag.

—Lettuce is a cent less per head. Milk now costs 24 cents instead of 25 cents a quart in the Washington area.

—Cranberries, canned pumpkin and bread prices haven't changed.

TOUHY

(Continued from Page 1) in 1942, but was recaptured two months later. An extra 199 years was tacked on to his original 99-year sentence for his part in the breakout.

The State Parole and Pardon Board okayed Touhy's parole after approving his plans to live temporarily with his sister, Mrs. Ethel Alesia. Touhy's wife, Clara, and his sons, Thomas, 33, and Roger, 35, also have promised to care for him.

Touhy could not expect to fade into the anonymity accorded another famed Illinois ex-convict, thrill killer Nathan Leopold. His autobiography, "The Stolen Years," hit the Chicago bookstands this week.

Touhy's book, which opens with the 1942 jailbreak, tells the story of his gangland years and trial and details his subsequent fight for freedom.

Tech's E.J. Holub Makes NEA All-America Team

B HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Richly qualified athletes from throughout the world compete in the Olympic Games in Rome late next summer, but the best won't be there. The greatest athletes are American football players, whose game is too tough to find a place on the Olympic program.

Being named to the All-America team is the culmination of eight years of play, four in high school and four in college. The All-America player has risen above thousands who didn't hesitate to give and give, slam and slam and take and take with utter abandon.

So, it is a rare privilege to name the brilliant combatants adjudged the finest in the land at their respective positions and elected by the nation's coaches and football writers to the 1959 NEA All-America team.

Start with the most important operative on the field, Coach Rip Engle doesn't have to tag Richie Lucas as the finest all-around college quarterback in the nation. Everybody who has seen the bespectacled accounting major agrees.

Lucas set a Penn State record for total offense in a season by you an idea of what took the mark was held by Lenny Moore of the Baltimore Colts. He passes, carries, blocks, leads the team in pass interceptions, does most of the punting and other professionals planned to draft him as a defender.

Billy Cannon of Louisiana State already has gained every honor reserved for a college player with the exception of The Heisman Award, usually reserved for seniors. He is the defending 100-yard dash champion of the Southeastern Conference and put the shot 53 feet, 7 1/2 inches.

Ron Burton broke Otto Graham's career scoring mark of 121 points at Northwestern.

An elusive runner who combines explosive speed and guile with catapulting power, Charley Flowers carries the foremost career average of any ranking Southeastern Conference back. Flowers is a tremendous blocker and sticks out in a corner linebacking role. To give you a slant on how hard he plays, the Mississippi law student suffered a nose for the fifth time in his football career in this fall's Tennessee game.

Mississippi Takes Second Place; Texas Cops Fourth

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Syracuse, which tests its perfect record against the "spoliers" from UCLA next week, remained first in United Press International's major college ratings today for the third straight week.

Mississippi, idle last week, replaced Southern California in the runnerup spot. UCLA, which plays Utah this week, armed up for its clash with Syracuse by upsetting Southern California last Saturday, 10-3.

While Southern California fell to seventh after suffering its first 1959 defeat, Louisiana State advanced from fourth to third. Texas moved from sixth to fourth and Wisconsin, the Big Ten's Rose Bowl representative, from ninth to fifth. Georgia, Southern California, Washington, Texas Christian and Arkansas completed the top 10 in that order.

All the top-ranked teams except Syracuse have ended their regular seasons or finish this week. The 35 leading coaches who rate the major schools for UPI will select a national champion after the

Quarterback Club To Meet Tonight

The Pampa Quarterback Club will hold its final meeting of the year tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Pampa Junior High School Cafeteria.

Club President Charlie Robison urges all members to be present, as important matters will be discussed at the meeting. Treasurer Ralph McKinney said that the financial report for the year will be given at tonight's meeting.

Last week, the club voted to postpone the annual Harvester-Shucker football banquet from Dec. 10 to Jan. 14, in order to obtain a good speaker.

Ten-Pin Tales

BY MARVIN OLSEN

The American Bowling Congress gain this week turned up some highly interesting figures. The highest 5-man team effort of the year as bowled last week by Dorothy Cleveland, a fantastic 534 scratch. Doraty also holds a year's top one game figure, a 75.

Other gigantic team efforts were turned in by Buddy Simon Sign of Cleveland (3513); Laux Realty of Cleveland (3444); and Central State of Houston (3426).

High individual games this season are three 525's, rolled by Lenah of Detroit, Bob Bures of Cleveland, and Bob Okren of Milwaukee.

Pampa Showed 'em

Local bowlers are congratulating each other this week on Pampa's feat showing in Amarillo's Panhandle Open.

The winners were: Howard Musave, first in Class A all-events at 1882; Dale Haynes and Ray Johnson, first in class A doubles at 1305; Haynes fifth in all-events with 1827.

In team events Schlitz finished second and McCathern and King placed third.

In Class B events, Marshall Johnson won second with a 632, and Class C Lynn Colville was first all-events with 1700, Gene James second with 1686, Jack Kenner third for first in singles with 574, James and George King were first doubles with 1179, and Colville and Charles Ashby captured third at 1135.

Bowlers of the Week

Harvester's weekly awards for bowling achievements were on the past week by Bea Pritchard, a 661 with handicap, and Stan Brake, who rolled a giant 670 for 703 handicap series. Brake's big effort was posted Wednesday night.

Garden Gatherings

Hap Martin romped to a 618 Friday night in the Skyline League and set a season record in Garden Lanes with a 253 single game. Hap's big game was shade better than Ted McDonald's 208.

LSU Accepts Offer From Sugar Bowl

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—LSU Coach Paul Dietzel said today his Tigers "want to play Ole Miss and no one else" in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day.

The team voted unanimously Monday night to defend its Sugar Bowl title in the New Orleans classic. No opponent for the third-ranked Bengals has been named but second-ranked Mississippi looms as the brightest prospect. LSU's acceptance was unconditional.

The Mid-Winter Sports Assn., sponsor of the Sugar Bowl, extended the bid to LSU Saturday after the Tigers downed Tulane 14-8 in the season finale. The squad delayed action in order to allow time for all bids to come in. However, only the Sugar Bowl came through with an offer, although several bowls sent feelers.

Dietzel said, "It was a team decision. I told them I'd back them all the way—that I'd coach them if they wanted to play, or if they didn't want to play I'd stand up for them."

In a television appearance, Dietzel said Sugar Bowl officials have never denied that Ole Miss was the second team under consideration for the game. A spokesman for the association said that an official invitation could not be sent until the end of the season. Ole Miss plays its last game Saturday, against Mississippi State.

Ole Miss Coach Johnny Vaught has said he "would like nothing more" than to meet LSU again. The Tigers downed Mississippi earlier this season in a 7-3 thriller at Baton Rouge.

TCU Men To Play In All-Star Game

FORT WORTH (UPI)—All-America tackle Don Floyd and fullback Jack Spikes of Texas Christian University have received invitations to play on the West squad in the annual East-West Shrine Bowl game at San Francisco Jan. 2.

Floyd, a strong contender to repeat as an All-America selection, said he would accept his invitation, but Spikes has not announced a decision.

Halfback Jim Shofner, a member of the 1957 Horned Frog squad was the last TCU player to appear in the annual charity classic. He played in the game held early last year.

NAMED SHRINE COACH

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ray Elliot, football coach at the University of Illinois for 18 years, has been named to the East coaching staff for the annual Shrine football game here, Dec. 26.

AFL Completes Draft of Players

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—The American Football League will have an edge in approaching the players, none of the owners anticipated bidding war with the National League except for the two or three "blue-chip" athletes on each team's negotiating list.

The owners expected their player payroll to be between $350,000 and $400,000 approximately the same as the National League teams.

Lamar Hunt, owner of the Dallas franchise and temporary chairman of the league, said the group had contracted two possible commissioners, both of them not now connected with the league.

Hunt said also that the American League would follow the rules now used by the National Football League. However, at least two of the members of the league favor installation of the college two-point conversion rule which permits a team to score two points after a touchdown by passing or running the ball from the three-yard line.

The league's eight teams—New York, Los Angeles, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Denver, Houston, Boston, Buffalo and Dallas—each drafted 33 players.

The No. 1 picks of each team were Boston's Gerard Schwedes of Syracuse; Buffalo, Richie Lucas of LSU; Houston, Richie Lucas of LSU; Dallas, Don Meredith of Southern Methodist; Minneapolis, Dallas, Don Meredith of Southern Methodist; Denver, Billy Cannon of Denver, Roger Leclerc of Trinity; Houston, Billy Cannon of LSU; Los Angeles, Monte Sticks of Notre Dame; Minneapolis-St. Paul, Dale Hackbart of Wisconsin; New York, George Iso of Notre Dame.

Bulldogs May Decide Saturday

are so anxious to match Georgia against Penn State in their inaugural game at Philadelphia, Dec. 19 that they sent two representatives to Athens, Ga., Monday for a meeting with Butts.

The Orange Bowl selection committee also is hot on Georgia's trail, although Miami also is being considered as a possible opponent for Missouri in the Florida classic.

"We won't do anything until after Saturday's games," said Van C. Kussrow, chairman of the Orange Bowl selection committee. "It all depends on what happens at Jacksonville and Atlanta."

Miami, which bounced into the bowl picture by surprising Michigan State last Friday night, closes out its regular season against Florida at Jacksonville Saturday.

The Gator Bowl selection committee has added Pittsburgh and South Carolina to its list of candidates, which also includes Georgia, Georgia Tech, Alabama, Miami and Clemson, while officials of the Blue Bonnet Bowl at Houston, Tex., would like to match Georgia against Texas Christian.

The pairings for the Rose Bowl was completed Monday when Washington officially accepted a bid to meet Wisconsin's Big Ten conference champions, while Penn State agreed to appear in the Liberty Bowl and Louisiana State formally signed for a return appearance in the Sugar Bowl.

Four Bowls Want Georgia

United Press International

Georgia's "Cinderella" football team is being courted by no less than four bowl selection committees.

Promoters of the Orange, Gator, Blue Bonnet and Liberty bowls are bidding for the Bulldogs, who bounced back from a dismal 4-6 record last season to win the Southeastern Conference title this year.

Coach Wally Butts scheduled a quad meeting for today, presumably to discuss all four bowl invitations. However, the sixth-ranked Bulldogs are not expected to accept a bid until after their annual grudge match against Georgia Tech at Atlanta Saturday.

Ousted Manager Cus D'Amato Says He'll Sue Commission

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cus D'Amato, banned fight manager, then someone at the commission started the report that the commission had ruled Johnson could pick up his purse any time he wanted it. Chairman Melvin L. Krulwich emphatically denied that any such ruling had been made.

He did say, however, that the commission was merely holding the money—"at Johnson's request," as it accumulated from various sources connected with the June fight.

He said also the commission has no return-bout contract on file.

But Krulwich declined to answer when asked if Ingemar could pick up his purse before fighting Patterson again.

Two Public Evils In The United States—Bad Laws Governing Unions And Banks

This column has considerable to say about bad laws governing unions and banks. The magazine, "First Principles in Morality And Economics," has an article under the above heading. I think the editor should have included another bad law that is largely responsible for bad laws governing unions and banks. That law is the one giving the states a monopoly on schooling, commonly called education.

If we were properly educated, we wouldn't have bad laws governing unions and banks. It is because we are economic illiterates that we have these bad laws referred to above by the editor of this magazine. The article proceeds in this manner: "Two of the biggest evils in the United States today are: (1) unions, as they operate; and (2) banks, as they operate; or better said, two of the biggest evils in the United States are the laws giving unions and banks special privileges."

"Bad laws permit union members to do what an ordinary private individual would be sued for doing or for which he could be thrown into jail. This is aggravated by a lax enforcement of laws in those cases where the law still protects partially against unionism. The consequence is that unionism is rife with gangsterism, of a mild or virulent type. Unionism itself does not make men bad; it is the bad laws giving special privileges to unions which make bad men of union leaders and members."

"The bad bank situation is equally because of bad laws, which permit banks to put out circulation credit, that is, a 'counterfeit' credit, up to five times the amount of gold reserves which the bank has deposited with its Federal Reserve Bank. The law authorizes bankers to manufacture money. Exactly as in the case of the unions, the trouble is not the absence of law, but the existence of a law permitting a special privilege."

"We do not need any new laws prohibiting union violence. All that we need to do is to rescind laws which in actual practice permit union violence. Similarly, we do not need a law to prohibit banks from putting out circulation credit. All that we need to do is to rescind the law which permits banks to do that. Repeal the present bad laws! Do not pile law on law!"

"There are certain elementary laws for society. Two of these are (1) the law against violence and (2) the law against theft. The laws pertaining to unions are bad because they do not prohibit union violence, but grant opportunities for violence to be perpetrated with impunity. The banking laws are bad because they do not prohibit banks from perpetrating theft in the form of circulation credit, but deliberately authorize it."

"The laws on unions violate the Sixth Commandment, Thou shalt not coerce (kill). The laws on banking violate the Eighth Commandment, Thou shalt not steal."

"A return in public law to the elementary Ten Commandments will greatly benefit society."

The Clarity of Austrian Economists: The editor of "First Principles in Morality and Economics" has a very interesting article on the difference between the classic English economists and the Austrian economists. Here is the way he puts it: "As admirable an introduction to economics of any treatise known to us is Menger's 'Principles of Economics'. That is preferable compared to Legumini by reading the classic writings of Adam Smith or David Ricardo: these men have been so drastically revised by the work of the Austrians (Menger, Bohm-Bawerk, Wiesner, Mises) that it is confusing, and also a serious error in method—wholly anachronistic—to begin with the outdated English classicists. After a reader has gained a sound base from the Austrians, then the works of the old English classicists, which deserve imperishable renown, can be read with great profit—but they will then be read discriminatingly. As Bohm-Bawerk wrote: 'The most important and most famous doctrines of the classical economists are either no longer tenable at all, or are tenable only after essential alterations and additions. (From his article on "The Austrian Economists" in the "Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science," January 1891.)"

"This applies to the difficult subject of money, too. Even Menger, as late as 1892 wrote: 'The enigmatic phenomenon of money is even at this day without an explanation that satisfies; nor is there yet agreement on the most fundamental questions of its nature and functions. Even at this day we have no satisfactory theory of money. (Quoted by Laughlin, page 223.)"

"Menger is comparatively recent in economic history. But could I?"

We both agreed to forget the whole thing, and go on the way we had been going—with Mary thinking she's the smarter, and I knowing I am.

THREE-PRONGED PROBE OF GOVERNMENT 'WASTE' SCHEDULED IN CONGRESS FOR PRESIDENTIAL YEAR

WASHINGTON—The long denounced and much investigated problem of "waste in government" is to be subjected to a new three-pronged scrutiny at the coming session of Congress.

A major aim of this latest round of probes is to provide the Democrats with high-powered ammunition for next year's presidential election.

The three groups set to make these potentially explosive investigations are:

The Joint Economic Committee, headed by Senator Paul Douglas (D., Ill.) and Representative Wright Patman (D., Tex.), whose staff has obtained numerous highly critical reports by the General Accounting Office of glaring instances of waste, extravagance and possibly worse by the three armed services. These proceedings are slated to start December 18, several weeks before Congress reconvenes.

The Senate Preparedness Investigating Committee, headed by Senator Lyndon Johnson (D., Tex.), which has been making an extensive study of the immensely expensive missile and satellite program. These revealing hearings are to get underway in January.

The House Government Operations Subcommittee, headed by Representative L. H. Fountain (D., N.C.), which has collected a lot of evidence on high profits in leasing grain storage facilities to the Agriculture Department—in some instances as much as 100 percent. Also cases of government agencies leasing unused facilities at low rates to private individuals who then leased them to the Agriculture Department at much higher charges to store surplus grain. An Air Force hanger is startlingly involved in one of these transactions. These dynamite-loaded hearings are also slated to open in January.

Both Senator Johnson and Representative Fountain have impressive records of productive exposures. Their disclosures have forced the repayment of millions of dollars to the government, and the elimination of certain officials.

The last two investigations by Fountain resulted in the recovery of $1.5 million in "windfall" profits from large cheese makers, and the indictment of a group of drug manufacturers for price-fixing, particularly on anti-poison vaccine. These charges are now being tried in New York.

Several hundred detailed reports by Comptroller General Joseph P. Campbell are the principal basis of those hearings the Joint Economic Committee is launching next month on waste and extravagance by the three armed services.

According to these studies, some military costs were 30 percent higher than they should have been. One extraordinary finding uncovered in the Defense Department itself, contains the admission that more than $105 million in "excessive purchases" of office equipment, other furnishings and athletic supplies have been made in the past four years.

It is the intention of Senator Douglas and Representative Patman to publish these General Accounting reports. Following are some highlights: "In one sampling of Air Force contracts, our examinations of cost estimates disclosed excessive estimates of $17 million in the purchase of airplane parts. . . . In 'such water has gone under the bridge' even since Menger's time, and there is today a satisfactory money theory. But the trouble is that people do not like it, because that satisfactory theory is based on the premise that theft is wrong."

another sampling, we found that negotiated prices totaling about $58.7 million were unreasonably high and had been negotiated without adequate consideration of available information.

"In these cases we found waste of $13.8 million, or about 30 percent."

"In almost all of these instances the negotiation of unreasonably high prices may be attributed to deficiencies in control by the Air Force and by its prime contractors over the pricing of contracts."

Two other General Accounting reports cite a $2.844 million "overcharge" in a $38.528 million contract, and a $1.335 million item being included in a contract for something entirely different. These scathing exposes conclude with the following comments: "As a result of our investigation, the Air Force is now taking steps to recover the ($2.844 million) overcharge. . . . But no effort has been made as yet to recover the $1.335 million item for components that were actually required by the contractor for use in performing another contract."

Comptroller General Campbell has also informed the Joint Committee that lack of personnel and funds is seriously limiting his scrutiny of government spending.

"Because of our limited manpower resources and budget," said Campbell, "it is impossible for us to fully review government expenditures and to adequately uncover waste and extravagance in the government."

—MORE F & D SLEUTHS—Food & Drug Commissioner George Larrick, who played a key role in the cranberry "crisis," wants to increase his inspectors staff from 500 to 1,000 by January 1961. His request for funds for this purpose is now pending before Budget Director Maurice Stans. Larrick is stressing that the additional inspectors are needed to enforce the new duties voted the Food & Drug Administration by Congress. The agency seizes an average of 150 tons of contaminated food and other supplies weekly. . . . The House investigating Committee, headed by Representative Oren Harris (D., Ark.) has sent staff agents to New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles for information on underworld ties with truckers in those cities. Anyone who can shed light on that should get in touch with Harris.

SOCIAL WHIRL—The Capital's winter debutante season is starting early, with a cotillion on Thanksgiving night. Some 30 deb from Washington and neighboring towns will make their bows to society at this big ball, at which two orchestras will play. This event will be followed by a smaller smaller coming-out party throughout December. At all these affairs, the rules of department and regalia are the same: The deb must wear white gloves and long white gloves, carry bouquets of red roses and be escorted by their fathers or a "sponsor" . . . Russia had two horses in the eighth International at Laurel, Md., but Soviet Charge d' Affaires Mikhail Smirnovsky had his money on a U.S.A. thoroughbred—Bald Eagle, who won and paid a good price.

Do you remember? World War I started when a German pocket battleship went to the city of Danzig ON A GOOD WILL MISSION and started shelling it.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK—My Pa, who never had much of it at one time in his life, used to tell me as we sat around an evening fire in a Mexican gold camp that money was a nice thing to have but that like as not it was more a curse than anything else. This was a man who could sit on a sack with $30,000 or $40,000 in gold in it and light his pipe as though he were sitting on a bale of cotton. Later, getting some kind of a foothold in New York, I began to meet people to whom $40,000 was something you bet on a roulette or spent on a long trip and I found he was right: unless you are born to it, money is a kind of burden.

An old friend seems burdened at the moment. Inside 10 years a warm-hearted Cuban band leader has become such a major force in the TV business that he and his wife own the film studio they once worked in, control a whole block of TV shows and in other ways are making money hand over fist—and what has happened so far? I'll tell you: The papers almost daily hint at severe domestic trouble between Desi Arnaz and Lucille Ball, one colleague even going so far as to say that the decision has been made and in settlement she will receive 31 per cent of the stock in their enterprises.

Desi has been arrested for drunken driving. Desi is being sued by an actor who claims that Desi, while intoxicated, gilded him in Spanish and was otherwise abusive.

The roster could be added to and all I can say is that when Desi was earning an errand dollar here and there and sometimes life was chancy in the economic department he (a) adored his wife, (b) never got drunk and (c) never abused anyone. He was a man of charm, light heart and a merry fellow.

Desiderio, caral, hijo. Let's get your feet back on the ground. Desi and Lucy (you don't call her Lucille if you know her) used to have a pleasant little place near ours out in the San Fernando Valley. They had a modest swimming pool, a Buick and sometimes Lucy would work in a movie and sometimes Desi would put a Latin rhythm band together.

put out her lovely hand and with a smile as warm as a $30 (last-er said: "It's ALWAYS good to see you, Whitney. Always."

I'd have put down my coat for her to walk on. But Desi, by golly, I think he needs a little talking to. And make a few club or theater dates with it. Life was neither a grind nor was it gold-studded. Lucy had a passion for collecting milk glass to the extent that one of her wonderful dinners was a culinary miracle but you might end up snow-blind. Once a birthday was coming up and Desi telephoned around and asked maybe 50 people to hide in the bushes until dusk, when Lucy would come home from some movie he had conned her into seeing and then we'd all jump out and yell "Happy Birthday."

He spent the afternoon, after she left for the movies, corralling gardenias by the bushel and when she got out of their car, with her hair up in curlers, her not only looked pretty but a little slouchy and was fit to be tied when 50 dressed and washed friends leaped out and cried greetings. The gardenias carpeted the swimming pool water, Desi's Latin musicians broke into sentimental Mexican and Cuban airs and everyone cried like crazy. The kids adored each other.

Then they put their own TV show together and it became such a success that they began buying up and owning Hollywood, having already bought most of West Coast TV. Their income was in hundreds of thousands and they could have anything they wanted. Life magazine did one of those Story of a Tycoon things about Desi and it began to look as though, in time, they might even own the Bank of America, too. I'm not sure they don't.

And, like that wonderful old man with the pipe in the gold camp said, it all began to look like more of a curse than a blessing. Desi apparently got the fidgets. Last time I saw Lucy was at the opening of "Red Head," a musical here, and we eyed each other covertly. I wasn't going to take a Hollywood chance after 10 years and get shubbed as I spoke first. But I needn't have worried. Lucy walked over, man with the pipe in the gold camp said, it all began to look like more of a curse than a blessing. Desi apparently got the fidgets. It's Up To You

Pit Dug Deeper By Welfare State

By HOWARD KERSHNER, L. H. D.

Under the pressure of the welfare state, the American people have lost their judgment, their sense of balance and their perspective. This year we shall spend $6 billion on the farm program.

To show how far we have departed from sanity in our reckless extravagance, we should remind ourselves, that up to the mid-thirties, our government had never spent so much money for all non-military purposes in any one year of its history.

Newspapers state that the New York Central Railroad and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad are considering discontinuing all service into the city of New York. The plan is to stop all commuter trains and to terminate through service some 30 miles out of the city. The railroads have been taxed, regulated and featherbedded into near destruction of what once was a fine efficient service. The fruits of socialism are ripening and they are bitter indeed.

The service may not be discontinued and some scheme of federal subsidy may keep it going but if so, we are digging the pit all the deeper. Under the pressure of mounting public expenditure, cities and towns through which the roads run are taxing them in so instances more than the total revenues derived from the point where the taxation occurs.

State and federal regulations have destroyed the ability of railroads to manage their affairs efficiently and special privilege given to railway labor unions state and federal legislation has enabled them to impose an unconscionable degree of featherbedding which hangs upon them like a dead weight about the neck of swimmers trying to keep afloat a rough sea.

Discerning men and women have long known that government managed economy cannot succeed. The question is, will the people discover that fact before it is too late to save themselves from tranny, oppressions, a suffering by cutting their government down to size and assuming responsibility for their own activities in a free market economy wherein men are free to conduct their affairs in the most helpful, efficient and cooperative manner they can devise? This system has always produced prosperity when as government intervention, the welfare state, socialism and a form of collectivism, advocated by little men aware of their lack of constructive abilities, have always destroyed it.

Brother Edgar sees a need for thrift. (Chicago Daily Tribune)

The President's older brother, Edgar Eisenhower, a lawyer in Tacoma, Wash., has occasionally lectured Mr. Eisenhower on big government spending and high taxes. Edgar evidently sees a need for further improvement, for he has just become a member of the board of trustees of Americans for Constitutional Action, an organization dedicated to oppose "spendthrift and inflationary" government policies.

We confess an admiration for Edgar. He doesn't let family loyalty get in the way of fundamentals. If the government spends too much and taxes are too high, who is running the government? Why, Brother Dwight; so he should be opposed on principle, just as any other President should be who showed the same defects.

Adm. Ben Moreell, head of ACA, said in announcing the appointment of Edgar and other trustees that only by eliminating "the existing socialist virus in our body politic" and by returning to the "constitutional conservatism" of the founding fathers "can we hope to reestablish our free federal Republic."

It is a welcome switch to find an Eisenhower adhering to this unequivocal statement of principle.

Newspapers state that the New York Central Railroad and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad are considering discontinuing all service into the city of New York. The plan is to stop all commuter trains and to terminate through service some 30 miles out of the city. The railroads have been taxed, regulated and featherbedded into near destruction of what once was a fine efficient service. The fruits of socialism are ripening and they are bitter indeed.

"COMMUTER EXPRESS"—Roy E. Wendahl, Hughes Aircraft Co. vice president, and Burt C. Mansmith, Lockheed Aircraft Corp. vice president, inspect the model of a space ferry which the two companies have jointly designed and proposed to the government. The "commuter express" is intended to shuttle men and materials between earth and nearby space for construction and maintenance of space stations. It could also be used as a space laboratory and testing and training facility. Mounted on top of a giant three-stage rocket, the arrow-shaped vehicle would be able to carry four men and some 14,000 pounds of cargo into orbit.

Wall Street Newspaper Chatter Type Rating Sought By TV

NEW YORK (UPI) — Passions are easily spent — and fickle, according to Inside Wall Street. Sputnik jets and other members of the jet-set were clobbered during August and September, the publication points out, but since then many have made dramatic comebacks, topping in some instances market highs realized before the August-September debacle.

But, it adds, these "hot - shot" securities have climbed back too fast. "It is true to argue that such fantastic gains are inconsistent with standards, hitherto honored as gospel."

Inside Wall Street believes a sustained correction is inevitable. "Traders should ease out... re-accumulating during the next shakeout."

The Fitch Survey, discussing the resurgence of Bulova, views the stock as being "possessed of speculative merit" for possible appreciation over a period. The company's operations are effectively adjusted to the current competitive situation in the watch industry, and its defense and other product lines broadening in the commercial field.

Wounds 'Self'

HENDERSON (UPI) — Reuben Pool, 31, accidentally shot himself Sunday when he tripped and fell while going out into his yard to shoot a chicken hawk.

A blast from his 20-gauge shotgun hit him in the abdomen and ranged upward toward his heart. Pool underwent emergency surgery at Henderson Hospital, where physicians described his condition as serious.

Pool is a member of a prominent Rusk county family.

TV Turkeys Slated For Thanksgiving

TELEVISION IN REVIEW By FRED DANZIG United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thanks to science, bigger, fatter and meatier turkeys are headed for the Thanksgiving Day tables.

I don't know who to thank, however, when it comes to TV turkeys, of which there have been some mighty plump specimens this season.

The blue ribbon turkey, in my scorecard, was "The Jazz Singer," starring Jerry Lewis. But the turkeys that trotted right along behind it included the Louis Jourdan special, The Milton Berle special with Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Victor Borge's Copenhagen special and the Bob Hope show with the four Crosby boys.

But if you're shopping around for turkey, it's not necessary to wait for the specials. Each night of the week, some newly-hatched ponderous turkeys gobble up some of TV's prime time. Here are the candidates for this pedigreed barnyard:

Monday — Bourbon Street Beat; Adventures In Paradise.
Tuesday — Dennis O'Keefe show; Tightrope!
Wednesday — Hawaiian Eye; Wichita Town.
Thursday — Betty Hutton show; Johnny Ringo.
Friday — Rawhide; Hotel De Paree.
Saturday — Five Fingers; Bonanza and The Man and the Challenge.
Sunday — Riverboat; The Alaskans.

Police Capture Seagoville Con

SEAGOVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Police captured an escaped federal prisoner in a stolen car after a high-speed chase Monday night.

Richard Charles Elkins, 23, of New Boston, Ohio, had only two months left to serve when he fled the federal correctional institution at Seagoville early Monday.

After an all-day search by local authorities and a team of FBI agents, a stolen car was spotted on the outskirts of town. Police finally stopped it at Crandall, five miles east of Seagoville. Elkins was at the wheel.

He was serving an 18-month sentence for forging government checks, and due to be released on Feb. 1, 1960.

Warden L. P. Gollaher said Elkins apparently climbed over a fence behind a machine shop between 6:10 a.m. and the morning call at 7:25 a.m.

Two other clubs in District III were given similar awards. Main speaker at the Waco convention was Tom Marshall of Jackson, Miss., a former Jaycee national vice president. Over 500 Texas Jaycees attended.

Jaycees Win Award

Farm Vote Not Deciding Power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) said today the Republicans can't be beaten in 1960 on the farm issue alone even though there is no prospect of passing major farm legislation next year.

Aiken, ranking Republican member of the Senate Agriculture committee said in an interview that any "farm revolt" would not have the severe political impact of a decade ago.

"The number of people engaged in agriculture is not over 10 per cent of the total population," Aiken explained. "And while agriculture is losing people, the rest of the population is growing by leaps and bounds."

"The Republicans can't be beaten on that issue alone next year."

U.S. Seizes Cranberry Shipment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has moved to seize three more shipments of contaminated cranberries, including one that the industry voluntarily agreed to withhold from grocers.

At the same time, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) announced it had tested and approved as safe another 4,236,000 pounds of cranberries since Friday.

This means that 13,152,000 pounds of berries have been approved as free of aminotriazole, a chemical weed killer that causes cancer in rats. Some 200,000 pounds have been seized as tainted.

The pace of the government testing tended to confirm previous official statements that there would not be nearly enough cleared berries to go around for Thanksgiving dinners Thursday.

Student's Quick Action Saves 2 Tots

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Authorities today credited an 18-year-old high school student with saving the lives of two children after they were pulled from their burning home.

Joe Piper was on his way to Stephenville High School Monday when he and a friend saw flames and smoke pouring from the home of Mrs. Manuel Garza.

They reported the fire. As firemen arrived, Mrs. Garza came from a neighbor's home screaming "my three children are in there."

Mrs. Garza ran in and helped firemen pull out Renne, 4; Mary Ann, 1; and Richard, 2.

The little girl wasn't breathing. Piper, who learned first aid and the mouth-to-mouth breathing technique at Sea Marcos Academy, grabbed Mary Ann.

"I kept hoping and praying all the time," he said. "I thought she was dead, but I wanted to try to bring her back. I worked on her several minutes before she began to breathe."

He carried her to an ambulance and put her in as rescuers brought Richard from the house. He grabbed the boy and beat on the ambulance door until the driver stopped. Then he climbed inside and cradled the youngster in his lap, breathing life back into him also on the way to the hospital.

"I thought the second child was dead, too, but I got some confidence after reviving the first baby," Piper said.

All three children suffered second and third degree burns, smoke inhalation and shock. Mary Ann was listed in critical condition, and the other two in serious condition at Stephenville Hospital and Clinic.

Any Old Way, Just Use 'Em

NEW YORK (UPI) — V. Heiby, president of the Fire Instrument Corp., proposed today a way out for the cran industry — use the bright berries as Christmas tree ornaments.

Heiby suggested that the cranberry growers of a California diaster? You can assure that they will have a py Christmas if you will buy just one pound of berries. Then, using a needle, ordinary twine, string, thread and place the cranberry on a Christmas tree. This old fashioned tree ornament Grandma always used. Use again this year. It will add to your tree and you will that wonderful feeling that have helped some cran growers have a merry Christmas.

Lenin Peace Prize To Writer

ROME (UPI) — Danilo Dolci, a 34-year-old writer and reformer called "the Gandhi of Italy," receives the Lenin Peace Prize of Russia here today.

Dolci was arrested four months ago for leading 200 unemployed Sicilian laborers out to work the roads in a strike in Sicily. He did this to make the point there was plenty of work available if only the government authorized it and thus help the poor.

"When they came to arrest me I offered only passive resistance as an Indian spiritual leader (Mahatma K. Gandhi) did," Dolci said at his trial. Police said he was a "well-known agitator."

Here from Moscow to confer the Lenin prize on Dolci was a writer Ilya Ehrenburg.

JUST TACK ON Warps FLEX-O-GLASS

Over Your Doors, Windows, A Few Dollars Worth of Protection

Flex-O-Glass has made our porch a year 'round, livable room. The children love it.

"Here's an inside view of our large screened porch. If you couldn't see the snow outside, you'd think it was taken in summer. What doesn't show is the crystal-clear Flex-O-Glass tucked over our screens—an invisible barrier between our home and winter. This is the second year we have used the same Flex-O-Glass. We expect it to last at least two years more. That means it will cost us only about $15 a year to protect the rest of the season against drafts. We can leave our furniture on the porch the entire year and provide a warm, protected play area for the children. If you would like to use this letter to tell other home owners how much they're missing by not using your wonderful Flex-O-Glass to protect their homes against winter weather, you have my enthusiastic approval."
