Poindexter trial begins today

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former national security adviser John Poindexter goes on trial today for his part in the Iran-Contra affair, the scandal that tarnished the last two years of Ronald Reagan's presi-

Poindexter is accused of conspiracy, obstructing Congress and making false statements for allegedly covering up Oliver North's secret Contra resupply network and lying about a 1985 shipment of Hawk rnissiles to Iran.

The former president gave videotaped testimony last month in the case and Poindexter's lawyers are expected to replay it in court. Reagan said he instruct- alleged assertions to Congress on Nov. 21, 1986, that ed his staff that all efforts to assist the Nicaraguan he didn't find out that Hawk missiles had been Contras "should be done within the law."

Reagan said he didn't think Poindexter had made any false statements to Congress and that "I'm in complete support" of letters by Poindexter which form the basis of one of the obstruction charges against him concerning the Contras.

Poindexter is the highest-ranking Reagan administration official to go on trial in the scandal, U.S. District Judge Harold Greene is presiding in the Poindexter case and a jury of 12 people will be selected from a pool of residents from the District of Columbia.

Directing the prosecution is Chicago trial lawyer and former U.S. attorney Dan Webb, while Poindexter is being defended by longtime Washington D.C. attorney Richard Beckler.

The Iran-Contra affair began unfolding in October 1986, when an ammunition-laden C-123 that was part of North's operation was shot down inside Nicaragua. North later testified under a grant of immunity that he began shredding documents after the cargo plane was The next month there were news reports from after the delivery. Poindexter ha said his recollection of the Hawk shipment was "very, very fuzzy" in November 1986 and that while he may have made incorrect statements, he did not lie to Congress.

National Security Council computer messages support North's testimony last year that he kept Poindexter advised of the November 1985 shipment both before and immediately after it occurred, but Poindexter said he forgot.

'My best recollection is ... that I did not remember anything about, or know anything about the Hawks until January '86," Poindexter told congressional investigators in immunized testimony in 1987.

The $1.5 billion telescope, the most expensive unmanned spacecraft ever built, will offer a view of the universe with a clarity 10 times greater than what now can be achieved from the ground.

Greyhound has been operating with 700 replacement drivers plus, it says, 350 union drivers who crossed picket lines. But the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Local Unions said only 95 union-represented drivers were behind the wheel.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Photogenic setting cover for drug war

Cartegena, Colombia, made a magnificent stage for the recent anti-drug summit. The fortress-city gave the assembled politicians -President Bush and the leaders of Columbia, Peru and Bolivia – a proscenium from which to demagogue about their "war" on drugs and to craft a siege mentality for the world audience.

Bush wants to push the three leaders to expand drug-interdiction efforts in their countries. "What I'd like to convince them," he said, "is we can be extraordinarily helpful, particularly to Colombia and their courageous fight against narco-traffickers, by a sophisticated interdiction effort." U.S. Naval forces would expand their use of advanced radar and intelligence capabilities to detect drug-bearing planes and boats.

A few obseravtions. First, only three years ago were U.S. military forces permitted to engage in such civilian police actions. For more than a century before that policy change, our military was prohibited from engaging in anything but clear military actions. Our ancestors feared, quite rightly, the sort of military control of the citizenry that has enslaved people throughout history. Such wisdom should not be discarded so quickly.

Second, though some progress has been made to reduce drugtaking in some groups, this is only partly related to the drug "war." A survey released by the National Institute on Drug Abuse found that illegal drug use dropped in 1989 among high school seniors, college students and other young adults.

Is this a victory for the "war" on drugs? Well, all the government-produced anti-drug messages probably had some effect, as did a huge amount of private sector campaigning. But the study noted that this is part of a 10-year trend. In other words, this decline in drug use began before not only the drug war conducted by Bush and his drug caesar, William Bennett, but also before the "Just Say No" anti-drug campaign begun by Nancy Reagan in the early 1980s.

Alas, the major counter-trend is the vast increase of drug commerce in ghetto "crack houses," in which whole sections of our inner cities have become war zones. This urban catastrophe was a predictable consequence of the notion the government had to mobilize as in war.

Third, despite the drug war, including the massive assault on the Colombian drug cartels of recent months, the price of cocaine has not risen; it has declined. In the past decade it has dropped by 80

Fourth, the continued war not only costs taxpayers $12 billion per year under Bush's plan, but is giving the government vast new powers to police, snoop, sniff and jail. A congressional study found that half of all prisoners in federal jails are there for drug offenses, even though 94 percent of such offenders imprisoned for the first time had no record of violence.

Finally, more Americans are realizing that drug abuse is a therapeutic, not a criminal, problem; therefore, drugs should be re-legalized or decriminalized. Despite the photogenic background the fortress-city provided Bush back in the United States, the war on drugs slowly moves toward the peace of legalization.

But if bad men are chosen

In his Declaration of Rights in 1776, he laid down a homely proposition. So that legislators "may be restrained from Oppression by feeling and participating the Burthens of the People, they should, at fixed periods, be reduced to a private Station, return to that body from which they were originally taken."

Mason's principle is sound, for many members of Congress rarely feel the "burthens of the people." The area of present Gray County was included in the Old Mexican Municipality established in 1718.

After Texas became a republic in 1836, present Gray County became a part of Bexar District with San Antonio as the county seat.

Present Gray, Wheeler, Donley and Collingsworth countries were combined as Wegefarth County when that county was created on June 2, 1873. This county was named for C. Wegefarth, who was interested in promoting immigrants into the area.

On August 21, 1876, an act of the Texas state legislature created 54 counties in the Panhandle-Plains region. In this block of 54 counties, according to the census of 1870, there was not a single citizen. Each of these 54 counties was named for a person who had made a significant contribution to early Texas.

Gray County was named for Peter W. Gray, a native Virginian, who was a member of the first Texas legislature in 1846, a member of the confederate Congress during the Civil War, and a judge appointed to the Texas Supreme Court shortly before his death in 1874. Gray was known as a "learned and incorruptible judge, the able advocate and unflinching patriot." His financial aid enabled H.K. Yoakum to complete a history of Texas.

The boundary of Gray County began at the northeast corner of Wheeler County and the southwest corner of Hemphill County. It extended 30 miles west; then 30 miles south; then 30 miles east; then 30 miles north to the place of begin-

Texas law required that a county must have 150 qualified voters before it could organize its own government. Therefore, counties with fewer than 150 voters were attached to other counties for judicial purposes. Gray County, with nine other counties, was first attached to Clay County with Henrietta as the county seat. In 1881, Gray County was attached to Wheeler County, which and had been organized in 1879 with Mobeetie as the county seat. The county seat of Wheeler County was moved from Mobeetie to Wheeler in 1908.

In 1895, the 24th state legislature attached Gray County to Roberts County, and Gray County's 1895 tax roll is on file at Miami. Roberts County had been organized in 1889 with Oran as the county seat. The name of Oran was changed to Parnell in 1890, before Gray County was attached to Roberts County. Roberts County at Parnell was sometimes held under a tree before a courthouse building was constructed. On July 11, 1898, Miami was elected the legal county seat of Roberts Coun-

Henry Weckesser of Miami, who had built houses for Joe Harrah and Perry Lefors, and who was to build the first courthouse at Lefors and the first school building at Pampa, moved the courthouse building from Parnell to Miami.

The building was on a heavy truck called a government water wagon. Weckesser had made heavy wheels, which were two feet high, from timber two inches by six inches. Weckesser and his crew of men left Parnell with ten mules pulling the truck, but it was necessary to employ four more mules to cross Red Deer Creek, northwest of the railroad station.

Video magazines start to improve circulation

By RICHARD DE ATLEY Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Magazine-format videos, which stumbled in the early 1980s, may have found their legs with specialized formats catering to fashion followers, golfers, scuba divers and teen-age mutant heavy metal video freaks.

The newer videos feature originally produced articles and have attracted advertisers such as Revion and Coca-Cola. Others shun advertising, passing on production and distribution costs to the buyer.

The video subscriptions prices range from $119.95 a year for four issues on flying to $59.95 annually for a quarterly on sailing.

One video magazine being testmarketed now in Indiana and Colorado, "Persona," will be sold monthly at supermarket checkout stands for $4.95, just like its personality-focused print magazine cousins. The two-hour tape is reusable.

Most are from smaller companies, but at least one major player, Capital Cities-ABC, is in the game with "Wide World of Flying," which it produces, and "Wide World of Golf," a joint venture with Jack Nicklaus Productions. Others include the "Moda" fashion video out of New York; "Sea Fans," "Set Sail" and "Angling" from Passage Home Communications in Denver; and a planned magazine for video consumers, "Video and Sound," due in May from Video Publishing group in Miami.

MPI video in Oak Forest, Ill. has captured the skateboard set with "Hard and Heavy," a heavy metal review magazine, "Gorgon," devoted to the serious splatter-fantasy movie fan, and perhaps one of the top sellers for the video magazine format, "Secret Video ton.

Games Tricks, Codes and Strate-

MPI claims the first edition of "Secret Video Games" sold 200,000 copies.

"There are so many nuts, Nintendo nuts, who just sit there and play day after day, the same game, and they all have VCRs," said MPI spokesman Chuck Parello. "So they have to watch the tape, take down notes, then turn the tape off and turn the game on."

"Wide World of Golf," which had its first issue in January, already has 14,000 subscribers, said producer Terry Jastrow.

"What the viewer wants in the '90s is service-oriented programming," Jastrow said. "He wants what he wants, when he wants it. as he wants to consume it."

Perhaps the most aggressive marketing plans are for the "Persona" video magazine, from Majestic Video Publishing in Culver City, Calif. The fourth issue will be issued next week in its test market, but Majestic hopes to have the next available in 35 states, eventually spreading nationwide.

"Persona" takes two big chances: It aims for a wide audience, which other video magazines have shunned, and competes with regular and cable television, which are loaded with entertainment and personality shows.

"We try to do what TV doesn't do," said chief executive officer Charles Terry-Goldstein. "The trend is for shorter pieces. We're saying, 'Let's give it more

Coca-Cola was the sole sponsor for one "Persona" edition, and Goldstein says planting oneminute commercials throughout the 90-minute shows keeps most viewers watching instead of reaching for the fast-forward but-

Future female soldier asks if woman's place is in battle

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel that way." Readers? about sending women into combat? This is a subject I've never seen mentioned in your column.

I am a woman who will be going through Army basic training in a few months. I think it would be foolish of me to say that I want to go into battle (after all, who wants to get shot at?), but I think it's totally unfair to exclude women from combat duty when they can handle it as well as men. Women should be expected to do the same work as men in the military and in wartime.

When are the American people going to realize that women are a viable source for our national defense? Canadian law has been revised, and now women are allowed to serve in all military positions except on submarines - in the Canadian armed forces.

There are plenty of men out there who would gladly give up their combat positions to women, and plenty of women who would jump at the chance to prove themselves in

I'd be interested in seeing what other readers, especially men and women in the military, think of this. A FUTURE FEMALE SOLDIER

DEAR FUTURE FEMALE SOLDIER: My first impulse is to say, "Women do not belong alongside men in combat." But, on second thought, perhaps a woman's place is where she wants to be.

Syracuse turns back Hoyas in OT Orangemen earn top seed in Big East Tournament

By The Associated Press

For it's one, two, three techs you're out of the old ballgame.

Georgetown coach John Thompson, henceforth to be known as Big Bad John, learned that lesson the hard way Sunday and it may have cost the seventh-ranked Hoyas the Big East regular-season championship. Thompson said it didn't, even though it meant an immediate To-point swing.

With Georgetown leading No. 10 Syracuse 36-33 late in the first half, Dwayne Bryant of the Hoyas was called for a foul. Derrick Coleman made the first of the 1-and-1 before Jim Burr hit Thompson with a technical for something he Thompson left the coach's box to complain and Larry Lembo called a second technical. Not to be outdone, Pete Pavia, the third official, also called one — three technicals mean automatic ejection in college basketball — when Thompson walked on the court to protest further.

Coleman made the second half of his 1-and-1, then converted five of the six technicals - two shots for each — and Billy Owens hit a 3-pointer off the inbounds play, giving Syracuse a 43-36 lead. The Orangemen went on to win 89-87 in overtime and earn the top seed in the Big East postseason tourney.

"It's probably my fault more than the officials' fault," Thompson said. "I have respect for all three of them and have worked with them all before. I probably let my competitive juices flow, 84. and those of us who have competed understand that. I made a mistake, and that's that."

The tragedy-marred weekend in college basketball also included:

The death of No. 22 Loyola Marymount's Hank Gathers, who collapsed during Sunday when Alonzo Mourning made two free throws night's West Coast Conference semifinal against with four seconds left for an 81-79 lead. ## 'Coach V' turns to philosophy

By JIM LITKE

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Politics, not philosophy, is Jim Valvano's strong suit.

Of course, until the events of last week unfolded, he had very little to be philosophical about.

Up until then, he was the celebrated Coach V, the man who put the bite back in North Carolina State's Wolfpack. He was the fast-talking, wise-cracking hired gun with the funny accent. He rid the basketball-loving people of pity.' Raleigh of the inferiority complex that comes with having Turnout was heavy in many areas on Sunday, with legislatures and local offices at stake in the Russian, Ukrainian and Byelorussian republics, which hold more than two-thirds of the Soviet Union's 290 million people.

Reformist Communist leader Boris N. Yeltsin easily won a Russian parliamentary seat with 72 percent of the vote in his home district in the Ural Mountain city of Sverdlovsk, Anatoly Moisyev, a member of the republic's election commission, said today.

Yeltsin hopes to be elected president of the Russian republic by legislators. That post is currently held by Politburo member Vitaly Vorotnikov, who also won a seat Sunday with a majority of 71.3 percent.
