Today, the 20th anniversary of the every first Earth Day, may well be the beginning of the largest proenvironmental movement in history.

Hackler and Nathan Hopson, public works director, have said cities even those in rural areas like the Panhandle - have come to understand that drastic changes must be made in the way governments and their constituents deal with waste.

"But it's hard to get people erals and conservatives are agreeing excited about garbage," Hackler admitted.

> Earth Day organizers are hoping to change that.

A recent cover story in it takes 550,000 trees to produce the Newsweek pointed out that if Americans do not become more concerned about the problems of waste, citizens will literally be drowning in their own garbage by the turn of the century

"That's a great deal of money," Hopson said. "This is the revenue the state is raising to give technical assistance and grants (for alternatives to landfilling). It will also go to enforcement.'

In practical terms, that means salaries for personnel to travel from landfill to landfill looking for violations and citing ongoing problems. The fines assessed from citing violators will further aid the enforcement process

Marvin Urbanczyk, part of a Polish family that helped settle the Panhandle in the early 1900s, is selling a machine from his White Deer plant that he created to compost cow maure for his own farming operation in 1973.

It is one answer cities are finding that works in reducing the waste problem.

> Landfill experts from New York City to Los Angeles and Minnesota to Houston, when contacted about the virtues of Urbanczyk's machine and ideas for a total reclamation effort, had nothing but praise.

"Our only problem has been the politics," said a city manager in a midwestern city who asked not to be named because of conflicts in that city over waste issues. "There is short term cost in this. It costs money to build this kind of operation.

"The problem is that no city council that's in for a year or two wants to go to taxpayers and say, 'We raised your taxes to pay for this thing that will extend the life of your landfill 50 years, help save our planet and that, a few years down the road, is going to make us some money on selling the recyclables.

"It's a question of doing the right into compost that can be used for thing. To be honest, most cities want to do the cheap thing. Right or wrong has nothing to do with it."

confession

LAS VEGAS, N.M. (AP) The confession of a Kansas man in the shooting death of a Springer woman can be used as evidence in his trial next month, a state district judge has ruled.

District Judge Jay Harris on Friday denied a defense motion to suppress the confession of Gregg Francis Braun, 28, of Garden City, Kan.

Braun admitted during a preliminary hearing last August to shooting the store clerk, Geraldine Valdez, last July 23 in Springer. Braun is scheduled to go on trial May 7, with the trial expected to last two weeks.

Braun also is charged with four other counts of murder in the July 19 shooting deaths of two convenience store clerks in Garden City, in the July 20 killing of a photo processing shop owner in Pampa, Texas, and the July 21 slaying of a woman in an Ardmore, Okla., flower shop.

The judge on Friday also denied a motion for a new preliminary hearing and said all statements made by Braun to police following his arrest would be admissible at the trial.

Colfax County Sheriff's deputy Charles Duran testified Friday that Braun told officers shortly after his arrest, "I leave no witnesses behind."

Duran said Braun made the statement while being transported from Springer to Raton the night that Valdez was killed.

Harris granted a defense motion for a change of venue in the trial, moving the trial to Taos.

Harris granted the change of venue on the basis of pretrial publicity and because Harris said it would be difficult to come up with a sufficient number of potential jurors in Colfax and Union counties.

Braun is being held in the Colfax County Detention Center.

Harris on Thursday rejected 35 other defense motions and approved four others.

Defense attorney Gary Mitchell of Ruidoso had submitted 42 defense motions.

Harris rejected challenges to the constitutionality of the death penalty as well as motions seeking an increase in the number of peremptory challenges for removal of potential jurors and seeking two separate juries to decide the guilt-innocence phase and penalty phase, if any. Harris also rejected a request that the questioning of jurors about the death penalty be delayed until after the guilt-innocence phase.

Photographer Don Getsug prepares to shoot another picture Friday of Lefors Mayor Gene Gee and other members of the credit union in preparation for a national advertising campaign.

Lefors credit union to be featured in national advertising campaign

By BETH MILLER Staff Writer

LEFORS – Lefors Federal Credit Union will make a mark in history this summer when it is featured in advertisements in six national magazines.

And shooting the pictures for the advertisements was making big news in the small community on its present 1,052 members with $2.59 million in assets. Thursday and Friday as the photography crew descended on the town.

Lefors Mayor Gene Gee and other people from the town will be featured in the black and white advertisement that is scheduled to appear in the June 11 issue of Sports Illustrated, and the July issues of Home Living and Outdoor Life.

four credit unions featured this year by CUNA Mutual Insurance Group of Madison, Wis., explained Ralph Robinson, CUNA Mutual public relations manager.

"Lefors Federal Credit Union is the epitome of all credit unions," Robinson said, "with the philosophy of not for profit, but for service."

The national advertising campaign is directed at drawing people to credit unions and attempts to show the difference between a credit union and other types of financial institutions.

Robinson said credit unions have a position of social consciousness and social responsibility and such is evident with the Lefors Federal Credit Union.

people who need loans," Robinson said speaking about credit unions

The national advertisements are simple testimonials from credit union members who have experienced and benefitted from a credit union. Each one points out the close, caring relationships credit unions establish and maintain with their members, Robinson said.

Part of the Lefors advertisement reads, "Our credit union is the financial foundation of the whole town."

The Lefors credit union came into being in 1959 when about a half dozen men wanted to see the community grow, said Eva Timmons, manager-secretary of the Lefors credit union. People were finding it difficult to get financing and although several savings and loans and banks in the area were consulted, none would offer what was considered reasonable financing to the Lefors people.

Led by Fred Blackwell, the men were successful in getting a credit union charter on June 6, 1960. No money was paid for salaries, but these men began establishing a bookkeeping system and recruiting members. They put their own money in shares and were able to have money to loan.

The credit union continued to grow and expand to The credit union has made 7,642 loans in the amount of $16.69 million since its organization.

Lefors' financial institution helped the volunteer fire department purchase an ambulance in 1961 and has helped the city of Lefors purchase equipment.

In March 1975, the credit union came to the aid of Mechanix, Family Handyman, Sports Afield, Southern many when a tornado swept through the town causing an estimated $3 million in damages. The credit union The financial institution was chosen to be one of helped people who had lost their homes, cars and personal items get established again.

> "It's amazing what volunteers can do," Robinson said of the Lefors Federal Credit Union's history. "They went from volunteers without salaries and developed into an organization with $2.5 million in assets and over 1,000 members. And we're finding this all over (the country)."

> Ben Piazza with LOIS/GGK, a Chicago advertising agency representing CUNA, said, "The whole idea is to show how credit unions are different and unique kinds of financial institutions that serve people and communities in ways that banks and savings and loans can't."

Piazza said Lefors is an example of a "phe-"There are options and opportunities for deserving nomenon" going on throughout small towns in Texas where the towns are either disenfranchised from financial services or banks will not establish in the town because it is too small.

Timmons, also a member of the board of directors, said the credit union's success reflects on its members and those who volunteer their service.

Other members of the board of directors of the credit union are W.C. Kennedy, Arnold Story, Donna Roberson, R.C. McPherson, R.B. White, Robert Morriss, W.C. Simpson and Johnnie Mertel.

The Supervisory Committee is made up of Opal Hall, Virginia Archer and Betty Sue Clegg. And the Credit Committee is composed of Joe Clarke, Q.L. Presley, R.B. White, Charlie Sullivan, George Smith and Troy Shipman...

Credit union employees are Timmons, Kathy Duckworth, Angelia Goldsmith and Carole Watson.

Local companies join Earth Day effort

By BEAR MILLS Staff Writer

Two major U.S. companies with operations in Pampa have joined in the effort to draw attention to preserving the environment.

Hoechst Celanese and Wal-Mart are observing Earth Day with local public education efforts. Ladin Moore, engineering and industrial hygiene manager for Celanese, announced the corporation has joined a nationwide effort sponsored by the Chemical Manufacturer's Association called "Responsible Care."

"Responsible care ... illustrates a commitment to the public for improved performance in three important areas," Moore said.

Those areas, environment, health and safety, are areas where chemical companies are committed to proving to the public they are as concerned as any environmental special interest group, Moore claimed. He acknowledged the public has little confidence in the chemical industry, but said much of that fear is unfounded. He also presented information stating that some legitimate concerns have been unduly blown out of proportion by the media.

"In our efforts to enhance and protect the environment, we outline expectations for the reduction of waste products from our plant," Moore said. "In all instances in which we have waste, we develop directives for the proper care and disposal of the waste.'

Moore said plant safety is a top priority of "Responsible Care" and that proving to the community that the plant is safe is also of chief importance.

"Hoechst Celanese is continuing to work actively through such programs as Responsible Care to protect the environment and the health and to Pampa Middle School Monday in safety of our people and each mem- honor of Earth Day.

Shrine are bringing their circus here Tuesday and Wednesday, April 24 and 25, for four performances at the Top O' Texas rodeo arena, East Highway 60. Performances are at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. both evenings.

Although the circus will feature acts from all over the world, Pampa Shriners have been hard at work since last October in preparation for the circus and readying the stages for each act.

To be included in the circus are a mix of lions and tigers trained, butnot tamed, by Tamara; the Jordans and the Globe of Death; and an aerial performance by the Wallenda Duo, the grandson and granddaughter of the great Karl Wallenda.

Stevens to lead revival here

By BEAR MILLS Staff Writer

A religious revival that began four weeks ago at First Assembly of God Church has spread to 10 other congregations of varying denominations in the city and is now centering around evening services at the M.K. Brown Civic Center Heritage Room.

Mike Stevens, 32, a native of Pampa who now bases his evangelism efforts out of Shreveport, La., is leading the event.

Revival meetings will begin tonight at 7 p.m. and continue through Wednesday.

Stevens said what is happening in Pampa is the same type of spiritual renewal that Methodist church founder John Wesley described in England two centuries ago.

'We are seeing people coming and seeking forgiveness and just wailing at the altar of God," Stevens said.

He described revival as the counteracting of spiritual decline and building of spiritual momentum, as opposed to evangelism, which is aimed at bringing converts to Christianity.

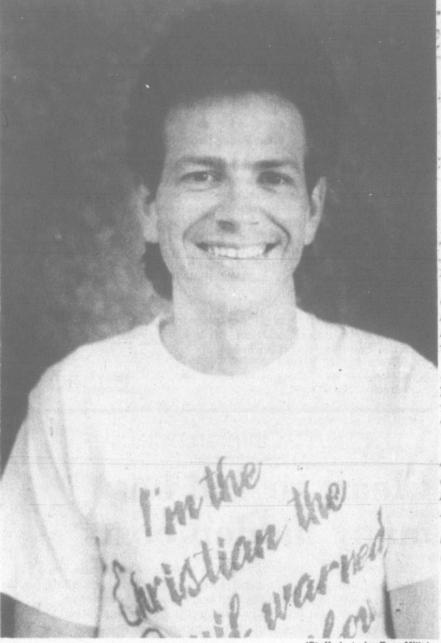

"God didn't destroy Sodom and Gomorrah because of their sin," he explained. "That has never been the way God operated. He destroyed them because there was no righteous core. A self-professed atheist said not too long ago in U.S. News and World Report that he had studied world history and seen that where the church has a spiritual awakening, the nation prospers."

Stevens said Pampa is on the verge of a "spiritual changing of the guard" and that a spirit of religiosity in the city is about to be replaced with a true relationship with God.

"This is a time when the city is seeing a visitation by the Lord," Stevens said. "It is no coincidence that the eyes of the nation through television and the press are on Pampa (because of the Hoechst Celanese lawsuit). Let them come back and see some people getting saved and being healed."

Stevens said the 10 churches include denominations ranging from Pentecostal to Baptist. He was ordained in First Baptist Church and said he was saved in high school after years of going out during lunch and getting high on drugs.

(people) on to marijuana and that was a lie. So why not turn them on to the truth of Jesus Christ?"

After the four evening services this week, Stevens said, revival leaders will determine what to do next. He said there were originally no plans for the revival to last five weeks.

"But Pampa has never had the awakening," he said. "Jay Strack's crusade (in Pampa last year which filled the civic center auditorium for a week) could have gone on longer. Sometimes we're so stuck in our plans and schedules - I believe we ought to give God a chance.

"In Hosea 10:12 it says to seek His zeal for Jesus, he said, is / the Lord until we see righteousness.

Part of the resistance to "anything happening" are two attitudes given the names NIMBY and NIMEY by environmentalists.

NIMBY stands for "Not In My Backyard" and reflects the attitude that environmental problems are someone else's concern. NIMEY is "Not In My Election Year" and points out that many politicians . would rather do the cheap thing than the right thing where ecology is concerned, believing saving taxpayers' money is the only thing voters are concerned about.

"Elected officials often lack the will to go to the mat and say, 'We need a recycling center," said Mike Sheward, manager of public affairs for the National Solid Waste Management Association. "The problem is it takes three to five years to put most recycling operations in effect. To wait even a year could end up adding three to five years to getting something done" because of bereaucratic red tape.

Congressman Tom Luken of Ohio, who heads a subcommittee on environmental issues, said during hearings, "People are going to have to start to think about what happens to their garbage once it leaves their homes. Gone are the days when individuals did not have to take responsibility for their planet earth."

The clear message is that a lack of concern for the environment is no longer an option.

Eastern cities are dumping billions of tons of toxic fluids into the Atlantic Ocean each year - the runoff from landfills that are so full waste is piled like mountains for thousands of acres.

State officials in California are currently considering bans on outdoor cooking and gas powered lawn mowers because air pollution in the state is so bad.

In Vermont, Gov. Madeleine Kunin is seeking a ban on disposable diapers in the state because they are not biodegradable. Nebraska has already outlawed them as dangerous to the environment.

Panhandle water experts are insistent that certain practices in the oil patch have led to years of rampant pollution and waste where the Ogallalah Aquifer is involved which could threaten the areas major fresh water source.

Luken is adamant about tougher federal legislation where garbage is concerned.

'We are no longer going to allow our garbage to pollute our ground and water, "Luken said. He added he is proposing EPA regulations that would remove any toxic substance from the waste stream to prevent leaching into the ground.

Edward Byers, a senior analyst for Cambridge Reports, said, "Even though the great majority of Americans have consistently ranked solid waste disposal among the top local priorities, there has been strong public opposition to placing facilities in one's own community.'

Within five years the Panhandle could see this problem firsthand.

Researchers from Texas A&M are predicting that eastern cities will be approaching landowners in this area with multi-million dollar offers to bury trash in what they perceive to be a "vast wilderness."

The downside of such offers, said Hopson, director of public works in Pampa, is that it takes years to get a landfill certified, and once it is full, those states move on seeking new places to bury garbage and the landowner is left with acre upon acre of useless trash-filled ground.

Congressman Luken said the only answer to growing trash and nowhere to bury it is recycling. Period.

"This means that individuals will have to be responsible for recycling materials such as newspapers, yard waste, glass, metal and plastics," Luken said. He added that "changing the ethic of Americans who indulge themselves in disposable habits" must be a top priority of governments in order to curb the problem.

At least three plans for regional recycling and composting facilities are being considered in the Panhandle, one by Pampa, one by Dumas and a third by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

But, even with such benevolent attitudes toward dealing with waste prevalent, problems still arise.

For instance, if the region has three landfills, city managers from the other 50-plus municipalities are uniformly insistent they want the right to go to whichever landfill, in state or out, that has the least expensive tipping fees that day.

While that is good for those cities, it is bad for the landfills, which need at least 200 tons of waste a day to maintain a composting, recycling operation. If the landfills don't get their minimum, they will be forced to close and those cities looking for the best deal will be faced with no where to go.

Whatever the eventual solution to the nationwide problem, if it is found, it is certain it won't be cheap. From all appearances, unless NIMBY and NIMEY are conquered, it is possible no solution will ever come.

Day is to educate and incite the average American to action. Sponsors have said when that happens, "the leaders" will see it is safe to follow along and begin moving toward responsible environmental strategies.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Putting our money on nonsense

Here at tax time, let's see what critical government functions are being funded with the money taken from your paycheck. But, remember, don't get angry with Internal Revenue Service workers, they are just following congressional orders.

The National Science Foundation, along with the National Institute of Mental Health, awarded $107,000 to study the "sexual looking, classical conditioning of sexual arousal, and improvement of copulatory performance with practice" of the Japanese quail. The project concluded that male quails showed a distinct preference for a female quail over male quails and female ducks. Congress will spend $100,000 more on this project this year.

Congress has broader interests. They fund other important research projects like: $84,000 for a study of why people fall in love; an itty-bitty $2,500 for a study on the causes of rudeness, lying and cheating on tennis courts; and $46,000 for a study on how long it takes to cook breakfast eggs.

Along with these investigations are thousands of others, totalling billions of tax dollars for research like: Is it possible to reduce the stress levels of pregnant pigs by having them jog? Do sunfish that drink tequila sunrises display more aggressive behavior than those given gin-and-tonics? Why do monkeys, rats and humans clench their jaws and gnash their teeth? Do pigeons understand economic principles?

Congress doesn't only spend our earnings for spent $500,000 to build a 10-story replica of the Great Pyramid of Cheops (Egypt) in Bedford, Indiforked over another $200,000 for an 800-foot replica of the Great Wall of China.

Congress also wants to improve mass transportation. That's why they send officials of the Urban Mass Transit Administration, at a cost of $68,160, to Disney World to learn Disney's secrets on how to move people and improve employee Citizens for a Sound Economy. morale and performance.

grief. It's toenail clipping. Some podiatrists bill Medicare for as many as 116 in one day. That's one clipping every 15 minutes.

Just a few weeks ago, Secretary of Transportation Sam Skinner and President George Bush announced their desire to beef up our transportation system. Part of their agenda includes beefing up an already existing $241,764 computer project to assist those lost travelers who either cannot or refuse to use a map.

Then there's the Defense Department which spent 13 years and $38 million to develop a better studies; they do brick-and-mortar work too. They gas mask; the new mask is no better than the old one. The Air Force illegally shuttles officials on military planes at a cost of $2,334 per hour. Taxana. With the building materials left over, Congress payers shelled out $221,800 to fly 21 members of Congress and 80 "officials" (read wives, staff and friends of congressmen) to the Paris Air Show.

All of this is just the tip of the iceberg showing Congress' callous disregard for our hard-earned money. The story is documented in Wasting America's Money, published by the Washington-based

Opinion Clean air bill has many hidden costs

President Bush's support of the clean air bill enacted by the Senate this month may seem like good politics for a man already riding high in the public opinion surveys. Nobody objects to cleaner air, after all. But when the bill comes due for this massive assault on U.S. industry, Bush's popularity may be blown away like smog by a Santa Ana.

A bipartisan Senate majority passed the bill, 89-11, but some members of both parties warn of disaster. Said Democrat Alan Dixon, "This bill will absolutely decimate my state of Illinois." Other states whose economies would be choked off include Michigan, Ohio and Indiana in the Rust Belt, and coal producing West Virginia, whose Sen. Robert Byrd said, "I cannot vote for legislation that will destroy the livelihood of thousands of hard-working men and women."

Economist Warren Brookes warns that the bill means "Armageddon for the Bush administration. We can just kiss the U.S. good-bye

... It's that serious." Even though Bush has constantly pledged "no new taxes," the bill in effect imposes the $21 billion price-tag as a tax on industry.

The bill imposes tougher tailpipe emissions on new cars, even though it is old cars that remain the major polluters. By jacking up the price of a new car by several hundred dollars - exact figures await industry mass production of the devices - the bill may actually slow down the process of cleaning the air, since people will hold onto their pollution-spewing old cars longer.

It also imposes absurdly tough new requirements on industrial plants, including oil refineries, paint shops, chemical plants, smelters and dry cleaners. Especially hard hit will be 107 coal-powered electric utilities in the Midwest. Costs may go so high for residents and industries that we may see a repeat of the early 1980s, when depression hit Michigan and neighboring states, driving hundreds of thousands of people to the Southwest. Many of these people would drive out in their old, polluting cars, to California, Arizona and other areas supposedly helped by the clean air bill. All this misery will bring alleged benefits to the air we breathe. Yet for a long time we have been making continuous improvement. Today, emissions of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide by new cars have dropped by 96 percent from the mid-1960s. Smokestack scrubbers remove 90 percent of electric power plants' sulfur-dioxide emissions.

There are other, market-oriented steps we should take to reduce pollution. Regulations impeding the construction of new nuclear power plants should be sharply reduced. The new, small plants are much cheaper and better than the old ones, and would gradually replace coal-burning plants.

Trade quotas on Japanese car imports should be eliminated. According to the Brookings Institution, the quotas add frem $1,000 to $2,000 to every new car, domestic or import, discouraging people from trading in their old, polluting junkers for new, cleaner cars.

The clean-air bill may still be halted in the House. Rust Belt Democrats don't want to see jobs lost in their districts. Ironically, if they can stop the bill, they may also save the Bush administration.

Escort service can be taxing

You must have heard that IRS and state officials conducted a massive raid of escort service offices in 23 cities and 15 states and unearthed possible money-laundering schemes as well as tax evaders. The idea is to put all these criminals who run these things, as well as women who hire out as escorts, in jail. There will be plenty of room for them once we release all those murderers and rapists who promise they'll never do anything like that again. What frightens me a bit, however, is authorities saying they seized all sorts of credit card records that show the names of escort service customers. I'm not certain if these customers are also going to be hunted down and thrown behind bars, but I did phone an escort service myself once.

I thought maybe if I admitted the whole thing escort service patrol raids my house.

In reference to the "NEWS" story that appeared on the recent front pages of Pampa News, I feel the community should be involved with this issue. Lawyer Upchurch's bleeding heart is not concerned with the welfare of the people of Pampa but hoping to feather his nest with greenbacks. Unfortunately, he has conducted a massive propaganda campaign with the help of the news media and television.

I certainly was disappointed with Dr. John Denko and Dr. Gerald Holman of Amarillo prostituting their professional image by going to bed with Lawyer Upchurch. Instead of a suit against Celanese, the community of Pampa ought to file a malpractice suit against Upchurch.

Unfortunately, there was an explosion at Celanese with some injury and deaths occurring. Those people should be compensated.

To use scare tactics to inflame and divide the community and harm an important part of our community, Hoechst Celanese Corporation, is wrong. Dr. Denko or Dr. Holman are neither one a specialist in the field of industrial products and their disposal.

I feel Pampa should get behind Celanese and express our feelings about this matter.

Boycotting business is not the solution

To the editor:

In accordance with the recent flood-tide of letters concerning Rev. Pfeil's boycott of Hastings, I am compelled to write one more letter.

As a concerned Christian, Rev. Pfeil has very valid points. There is an alarming, ever-increasing demand and availability of pomographic materials on the market today. In some cases, this has led to a related rise in violent crimes.

However, boycotting a business by which many make their livelihood is not the answer. That is like trying to fight a raging forest fire with a toy water gun. Let me hasten to say that I DO NOT ADVOCATE PORNOGRAPHY, nor am I in support of those that rent or sell such items.

In Ephesians 6:12, the Bible tells us that our fight is not with flesh and blood – people or businesses if you will – but with rulers and authorities, and against the powers of this dark world and the spiritual forces of evil in the heavenly realm.

As believers in Christ, we have been given the authority to tear down those spiritual forces in the heavens.

In Luke 10:19 Jesus gave us the authority to trample on snakes and scorpions and to overcome all of the power of the enemy. This is accomplished in the spirit realm through prayer, not boycotting, not marching, not parading.

In order to prove our point, we would have to publicly boycott a great many more stores than Hastings. That would mean no quick stops in most convenience stores, and never setting foot in nearly any video store to rent or buy a family film.

works and words.

Remember, Jesus reached out to people in their sin to present to them the love of His Father. He did not attempt to perfect them before He ministered to them. Instead, he met them on their level and showed them a more excellent way.

In the service of Christ, Brenda Vincent Pampa Why do people have to make our choices?

To the editor:

Why do people feel they need to help us with our personal choices?

I see and read about many people who do just that. I want to get one thing said before I begin my thoughts. People do not sign their names because of the harassment that will follow – well, I'm not afraid of you.

I am not defending pornography. I am defending my right to choose. I will not emphasize that I do not watch or look at it. Whether I do or not is none of your business. It is between me and God, and I will stand in front of Him for that judgment alone.

America is the land of the free. We are allowed to make our own choices and then live with the consequences of those choices. This is how we learn. If these choices are taken away, we do not learn anything except to do what we are told.

One example of this that comes to mind is the Jonestown incident. These people were told what to do, and we know how that ended.

People have to be able to make their own choices in life. We do it everyday. We decide to speed or obey the law, we decide what to wear, what to eat and to say. Everyone's life is a system of choices. That is the way God meant it to be.

If God had not wanted us to make our own choices, he would not have put the forbidden fruit in the Garden. He gave Adam and Eve a choice. They chose and lived and died with the consequences. If Ricky Pfeil is a man of God (as he says he is), why doesn't he believe this? It's in the Bible.

He seems to believe that if he takes the choice away, people will act like he wants them to. That is not the way of the world. People resent being told what to do. The truly good people will choose the correct way, but everyone must be tempted. Everyone from the beginning of the world had choices to make. The only person to choose the correct way every time was Jesus. He resisted all temptation. Mr. Pfeil might have us believe he has always resisted temptation, but he has not. No one has except Christ.

The one thing I find strange is this. The preacher who spoke out most against the love of money is in jail for that very thing. The preacher who spoke out about adultery made a tearful confession about just that thing. It seems these preachers overcompensated for their own shortcomings.

As a parent, I have noticed the child who denies it the most is the one who broke the lamp. The teen-ager who speaks out about smoking usually has a pack of cigarettes in his pocket. This is human nature.

This makes me wonder about a preacher who speaks out about violence and pornography. I am not

Let's join together to keep Pampa clean To the editor:

I would like to address a little issue about keeping Pampa clean. I'm not very good with words or spelling, so bear with me if I make any mistakes.

Dating to 12 years ago when I moved to Pampa, I bought a small piece of property on South Wilcox, a quiet neighborhood. At about the same time, one of my older brothers had already moved in the same block.

Well, he cleaned up his property and I mine. But in between his place and mine is a water drainage and people had been using it for a dumping ground. Between my brother and my family and the help of a younger brother, we managed to clean it up and haul everything to the real LANDFILL, at our expense. Well, we now call this area "THE CREEK." Now

Well, we now call this area "THE CREEK." Now we mow it and keep it trash free year-round. Our children use it for a playground and are proud if it. During the rainy seasons, it looks like a beautiful little lake. We have received many compliments from our neighbors.

"THE CREEK" is on the east side of Wilcox Street. But, on the west side of the street, is the other part of the drainage. The weeds are so tall that they look like trees. People are starting to use it for a dump ground, because the weeds will hide their junk. So, if we are going to keep Pampa clean, let some of you start on the S-0-U-T-H side of Pampa for a change!

The city won't help us, we have called and called and called, with no response. If we could keep this area clean, then maybe we can discourage people from dumping here, and also MOSQUITOES are a very big problem during summer nights.

THANK YOU, the neighborhood would really appreciate the help!

What is quality care? It's caring for people

To the editor:

My letter is in response to Norman Knox's letter. What is quality care? Is it the best care possible that can be given to a patient or is it how the care that was given looks on paper? There is a difference.

As a health care professional myself, I know this to be very true. A hospital must have a heart, it must care about its patients and employees first before quality care can be achieved.

Any employee that knows his employer really cares about him will strive and work to do the best job possible. Enjoying your job leads to well-cared-for patients, leads to quality care.

But how can it be said a facility gives quality care when so many complaints are heard out in the public? I challenge the public to voice their opinions and complaints, by either letters to the hospital or letters to the editor. Maybe the employees have suggestions. There is always room for improvement with anything, from doctors on down.

We must remember that our real bosses are the patients. If we don't have those patients, we don't have a job. Also remember, if you don't like what you do, you usually aren't going to do a good job. If you don't like people and if you don't want to help sick people, the medical professional is the wrong business for you. If you are in the medical profession to make it rich, you are in the wrong profession. The medical profession will soon price itself out of business. It is almost impossible for the average person to go to the doctor and then to the pharmacy.

Our pastors should lead us to repentance

To the editor:

The stench of our religious hypocrisy has come before God. We devour each other over our differences, while Satan marches into our congregations even to the boldness of turning many from the truth of Jesus Christ.

We isolate into separate camps and point accusing fingers at one another while countless Souls are destroyed.

We take pride in our self-righteousness and exclude those who are searching for truth.

We build bigger, more beautiful churches and search for pastors who won't dare offend us by telling us the truth. At the first hint of trouble, many of these men run and hide. Why? Who do we fear the most, man or God?

What will it take for us to realize that we are being called to repent? All of our ways seem right to us, but God searches our hearts. Pampa is being called to repentance or judgment and it begins in the House of The Lord.

Repentance begins with our leaders. The true leadership of our community begins with our pastors. REPENT. STAND UP. BE BOLD, and lead our community to repentance and restoration. Michael Hartsock

Should perverts have freedom of choice?

To the editor:

When rape is abolished, when child molestation has ceased, at the very moment all homosexuals are made straight, at that very moment I'll believe that we should all mind our own business and allow a Baptist to sell pornographic material.

Until that time, we know that such crimes are directly related to such smut and we should help Rick Pfeil in his attempt to clean up Pampa.

Those of you that believe in freedom of choice should enjoy the freedom of choice a pervert exercises when he waits outside our schools choosing which of your daughters or sons suits his fancy.

Letter guidelines

Letters must be neat, typed if possible, or at least written in a legible manner. Try to limit your letter to a maximum of two pages, double-spaced if typed. Letters may be edited for length, clarity, spelling, grammar, taste and any potentially libelous statements.

Letters must be signed and include the writer's telephone number and address. Addresses and phone numbers are not published, unless requested for a specific reason, but are needed for verification. Names will be withheld and kept confidential upon reasonable request, but must be included with the letter for verification.

Our responsibility as believers is to develop and maintain a life of prayer having a powerful impact in the spirit realm of our community and our region. The problems of our individual communities will begin to change and take care of themselves when God is being given the glory by His children's lifestyles instead of accusing Mr. Pfeil of anything, since I do not know how he acts in his own home or in a store where no one knows him. But the examples of the others gives us something to think about.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) -Researchers say they've found a new link between genetics and AIDS that could help explain why some people become sick soon after exposure while others stave off serious illness for years.

KEY LARGO, Fla. (AP) - President Bush's silence on environmental policies affecting Florida's Keys during his visit has not been matched by activists. They're using his vacation as a forum to call for an offshore oil drilling ban.

Several organizations have announced plans for demonstrations this weekend in Islamorada, where Bush has scheduled a fishing excursion and a ceremony honoring a coral reef preservation group on Sunday. One group has promised daiquiris mixed in solar-powered blenders.

Also, some officials have criticized the administration's inaction on the oil drilling issue and Sunday's upcoming Earth Day celebrations to assail Bush, who proclaimed himself the "environmental president" while campaigning.

"For Bush to remain silent when all of the Florida Keys is opposed to offshore oil drilling is appalling," said Ann Whitfield, executive director of the Florida Public Interest Research Group. "This would have been the time to act, but he missed an opportunity to show he has a real interest in the environment.

Bush has said he is willing to ban drilling in some environmentally sensitive areas, but stopped short of guaranteeing protection of the Florida Keys.

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., urged Bush to ban oil drilling and support a Coast Guard plan to move shipping lanes farther from fragile reefs off the Keys, where three freighters ran aground last year.

"You know all the arguments and I look forward to the day when we material made of asphalt cement and up to 25 percent crumb rubber, which is derived primarily from grinding up old tires.

Texas is a pioneer in using rubber-asphalt, with the use of 3.6 million tires in roadway work since 1983, the highway department said.

Overall, 85,000 tons of asphaltrubber have been used on more than 3,700 lane-miles, in 20 of the state's 24 highway districts, the department said.

The department said Friday that in February alone construction contracts were awarded that will use more than 500,000 tires.

"It seems to extend the life of the pavement," said Bob Templeton, head of the highway department's construction division.

Asphalt-rubber was developed in the early 1960s by a highway engineer from Arizona. But it was 1975 before the Arizona Department of Transportation put down several test sections of 'asphalt-rubber, according to Texas highway officials.

Asphalt-rubber is now used in at least 35 states, Canada, Europe and Australia. Texas first used it in 1976.

Lady Harvesters golfers set sights on state berth

By SONNY BOHANAN Sports Editor

With back-to-back district titles to their credit, Pampa's Lady Harvester golfers are no strangers to regional competition.

Indeed, all but two members of last year's regional team are back this spring and according to coach Frank McCullough, they've got some lofty goals for Monday's and Tuesday's Region I-4A Tournament.

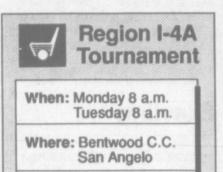

"Up until last year, when we'd play all we'd think about was making it to regionals," McCullough said. "Once we got to regionals, we'd kick back and relax and say, 'We made it.' That was our mistake.

Limit setting technique is part of ### the discipline teaching process

If we were to look up the word "discipline" in a dictionary, we would find that it means to lead, to train, to guide, to teach. Therefore, we could say that discipline is the overall guidance that you give your child as he matures. Effective discipline helps produce desired change or growth in a child, maintains the child's self-esteem, and keeps a close relationship between parent and child.

Limit setting is one part of the teaching process that is discipline. Limits help your child understand the world around him and how it operates. They also help insure that your child's behavior will be acceptable" to others.

There is not a "magic formula" for setting limits. There are no universal rules that can be applied to every child. Children need welldefined and consistent limits. They forget easily and therefore need many repetitions or answers from their parents. The following are some limit setting tips to try.

For Babies 7-14 Months

(1) Remove a child from an unacceptable area or put the forbidden object away.

(2) When you say "no", say it firmly. A simple reason can also be given such as "That's hot."

(3) Try to redirect the child's attention when you want him to stop doing something.

(4) If a child is so fascinated that and over to a forbidden object, try to figure out what is so appealing about. If possible, the child should be offered a safe alternative or substitute.

(5) Be consistent in imposing limits. This can be very difficult. Therefore, try saying "no" to only those few things that are important enough that you will follow through.

(6) It helps to keep valuable and breakable objects out of the child's reach, or put away for a time.

(7) If possible, furniture that can cause problems, such as chairs that tip easily or sharp-cornered tables, should be removed. Babies will pull themselves up to stand using anything they can reach.

Children Ages 2-4:

a child's activity. Mention the appealing element of what's ahead. (3) Don't ask a question if he's likely to say "no" and don't take "no" too seriously if it's the automatic kind.

(4) Use face-saving techniques including distraction, substitution (can't do this but can do this), and giving your child an out ("you can walk or I'll carry you"). Sympathize but bear in mind that children can't always have their own way.

(5) When children refuse to do things suddenly, try to figure out why, offer some help, and then have them do what they're supposed to do

(6) Explain the reasons for what is happening but don't overtake.

(7) Bring in humor any way you can.

(8) Be aware of your own feelings. Be friendly, not angry, in your firmness.

Remember to use these alternative to punishment: (1) Point out a way to be helpful; (2) Express strong disapproval without attacking character; tations; (4) Sh make amends (6) Take action to experience his misbehavio

'Follies' opens

Amarillo College Theatre Arts/Dance department will present Stephen Sondheim's Tony Award winning musical "Follies" on April 25-29.

The play tells the story of the first and last reunion given by Dimitri Weissman at his theater before it becomes a parking lot. The theater is filled with performers from Weissman's Follies in addition to ghosts of elegantly costumed show girls.

Throughout the evening there are Follies numbers that are at once thrilling and eerie as the aging performers mingle with their younger selves. Finally the derelict stage blossoms into a true FOLLIES production, exposing the follies of youth, love and life.

The performance runs approximately 2 1/2 hours with a 15 minute intermission. The play deals in adult subject matter and has some objectionable language. For more information call 371-500. Show times are 8:15 p.m and 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The award is given for exceptional and outstanding service in the areas of art, business and finance, civic leadership and public service, education, health care; legal, science and technology, volunteerism, and special categories such as farming, ranching, politics, communications and philanthropy.

Godwin was nominated by Chapter I PEO and Waterfield was nominated by the Women's Club of Canadian.

Cornutt was nominated by the Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce. She has served on the Chamber Board of Directors since her retirement from Pampa High School in 1976 where she worked for 14 years, eight years as the distributive education coordinator.

Cornutt is currently serving as three year director for the Chamber. She has served on numerous committees including as chairman of the annual membership banquet committee for 10 years. Cornutt served as the board treasurer from 1986-87. Cornutt is responsible for the Chamber's "Country Fair" fundraiser, an event succesfully going into its sixth season.

Dona Cornutt

After the devastating explosion of the Hoechst-Celanese plant in 1987, Cornutt was named program chairman of the city-wide rally to encourage the rebuilding of the plant attended by approximately 8,000 people including state, county and local officials along with Hoescht-Celanese management.

Cornutt was honored as the Beta Sigma Phi Woman of the Year in 1960. She has served the community through the Pampa Fine Arts Association, as block solicitor for the cancer and heart association drives, and chairman of the Knife and Fork Club. She is currently a member of the board of trustees for Coronado Community Hospital. Cornutt is a member of the Pampa Art Club and the Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ.

DEAR ABBY: This letter is long overdue in support of your antismoking campaign. Thirty-three cancer. These patients were learning to speak with the aid of some mechanical device that had been recently perfected. As I was leaving the audito-

DEAR ABBY: Yes, I know, every child gets cranky and acts up occa- to the child, and in a very loud and the parents usually takes the child out of the room if the child doesn't calm down within a few minutes.

We were sitting at a table next to a toddler who was screaming at the top of his lungs. The mother said (to her husband), "Just ignore it — he'll quiet down." Well, the child didn't quiet down — so an elderly woman at the table across from them turned sionally in a restaurant, but one of commanding voice bellowed, "WILL YOU PLEASE HUSH UP"! The child was struck dumb! The parents started to laugh and, believe it or not, the toddler laughed too.

A gentleman was leaving the restaurant, and as he passed the table where the "hush up" woman was seated, he smiled pleasantly, leaned down and said, "Good for you!" ALSO IN THE CHEERING SECTION

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Earhart of Midland and Sue Harrison of Pecos, Tex. announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Lynn Earhart, to Thomas Douglas Auwen, son of Mr. and Mrs Thomas Auwen of Paripa and Mr. and Mrs. Grant Cambern of Hattiesburg, Miss.

The couple plan to be united in marriage on June 15 in St. Paul United Methodist Church.

The bride-elect is a 1980 graduate of Pampa High School and has attended Clarendon College and Texas State Technical Institute. She is a member of the Order of Eastern Star and a volunteer at Tralee Crisis Center. She is employed by Fluor Daniel Corp.

The prospective groom is a 1982 graduate of Pampa High School. He is employed at Coronado Hospital.

April weather makes us want to plant warm season vegetables. Be wise, be cool and watch air and soil temperatures. Plant tomato, pepper and eggplant when the soil at the four-inch depth is at least 60 to 65 degrees F. To warm the soil and thereby increase growth rate of roots, make raised beds and cover the soil with black plastic mulch. Immediately after planting, install plastic-wrapped cages over the plants to increase air temperature and relative humidity while prewrapped cages protect tomatoes from attack by the best leafhoppers (which transmits curly top virus) and from the thrips insect which injects the plant with spotted wilt virus as it feasts on tender leaf tis-a-day smoker. When I went to the hospital one evening to visit a friend who had leukemia, I got off the elevator on the wrong floor, and before I realized my error, I was halfway into a 32-bed ward of tracheostomy patients.

What shocked me more than anything I had ever seen in my entire life was a patient smoking a cigarette through the hole in his throat! Abby, the sight of that man, who apparently was so desperate for a cigarette after all he had been through because of his smoking venting wind damage. Plastichabit, made a true believer out of me. I quit cold turkey — and to this day I have never lighted another cigarette!

My wife and I have four children, now grown, and none of them ever started smoking, and none of their spouses or children smoke either. I hope this can encourage at least one chain-smoker to quit. I am now 68 years young - due to quitting - and if you want to use this letter, please feel free to use my name. ROBERT B. LEATHERS,

DEAR MR. LEATHERS: Congratulations. Your story about the horror of seeing a tracheostomy patient smoking through the opening in his throat re-minded me of the following: About 20 years ago, I addressed a group of post-surgical patients at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. They called themselves "The Lost Chord Club" because they had had their voice boxes removed following a bout with

Later in April when frost is less likely and soil is warmer, set out potted plants of squash, cucumber, nuskmelon, watermelon and okra. Wait until soil is 65 to 70 degrees F. to plant seed of the vine crops, blackeyes and pintos. Gardens with a southern exposure, protected by a building or fence on the north side will be warmer in spring. Trellis your snap peas and snow peas when tendrils form. Bed down sweet potato mother roots in a warm hotbed or under a row cover to grow slips for transplanting in May or early June.

Always set up windbreaks to shield newly set transplants and never let soil dry out around roots. Finish planting Sweet Spanish type onions by early April. Sow cold tolerant sweet corn now and wait two or three weeks to sow seed of the cold sensitive varieties that have the SH (shrunken gene for super sweetness) genetic makeup.

Pecan Tree Care

Spring time is here and it is time to spray zinc and fertilize old pecan trees.

Spray immediately after the buds break and then two or three more times until June with zinc.

Zinc sprayed on foliage helps produce larger leaves and promotes overall tree growth and nut production. The homeowner should use two teaspoons of zinc sulfate or NZN in one gallon of water sprayed on the pecan tree foliage about every three weeks through June.

The prime time to fertilize pecan apply one pound of ammonium sulfate, 21-0-0, per inch of trunk diameter

Fertilizer should be broadcast on the surface under the pecan tree and should extend out to the canopy. A common misconception for fertilizing is to dig a hole near the trunk and pour liquid fertilizer into the hole. Since most feeder roots are in the top 18 inches, is no need for fer-tilizer to be placed beneath the depth of the soil.

Newly planted pecan trees should be cut back to one-half their height and should not be fertilized the first year. When pecan trees are dug at nurseries, the roots are damaged. Cutting the tree back gives it a better chance of regenerating a new root system.

Mulching is also important in helping young trees get established. Some of the best mulch is leaves, hay or grass clippings.

Unlike most trees, young pecan trees can withstand Roundup applications that are used to kill surrounding grasses. Young trees need plenty of water and should be kept relatively free of competition with grasses, especially Bermuda grass. These practices, along with adequate deep watering of your pecan tree, will allow for three to five feet of growth per year.

Rho Eta members spread Easter goodwill

Winter made what most of us hope was her last spring visit for the year, but was kind enough to let us have a nice Easter Day. While some Pampans went visiting, others entertained out of town guests of family and friends.

Members of the Rho Eta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi regularly put a lot of effort and fun thoughts into their community service projects. In February, they entertained clients of the Pampa Sheltered Workshop with a dance, complete with decorations, records and refreshments. Clients and hostesses danced and laughed the evening away.

Then on Sunday before Easter, they filled Easter baskets with all sorts of homemade goodies and headed for St. Anne's Children's Home in Panhandle. They hid Ecster eggs, played games with the children and gave each child a beautiful Easter basket.

Rho Eta participants were Pam Story, Lynn Ferrell, Pam Garner, Tracy Skinner, Kathy Topper and daughter Jennifer, dressed in a brown bunny suit. How thrilled the children must have been to see a real, live, talking Easter bunny! Georgia Mack has been the chapter sponsor for 20, or is it 25, years.

Belated birthday congratulations to Wayne Bryan, 10-year-old son of Ruth and Rickey. There was a family birthday party with a helicopter/airplane theme, birthday song, cake and gifts. Others attending were his twin sisters, Jennifer and Nicole; grandparents, Bonnie and Bob Wood, Shirley and Arnell Bryan, and an aunt, Pam Bryan.

Friends and former patients of Dr. M.C. Overton Jr. will want to know that he will celebrate a milestone birthday next Sunday, April 29. Dr. Overton's address is Good Samaritan Retirement Home, 2200 W. Seventh, Amarillo, 79106.

Another retired Pampa physician, Dr. R.M. Bellamy, will celebrate a birthday on May 5. Both were well loved and respected here for several decades before their Calif.

retirements

Belated birthday congratulations to Robert and Wendy Wood on the birth of Sarah Rebecca. And also to Ron and Taci Fernuik on the birth of Michael.

Visiting from Australia while on a two-month holiday in the U.S.A. is Michael Roan who met several Pampans in his home town on a Baptist mission tour two years ago. He is the house guest of Bob and Linda Whatley, Amber and Paston, with extra emphasis on Amber. Some planned activities include attending the donkey ball game with Dana and Fred Epperly, lots of picture taking, touring and "cowboying" on the Andis Ranch as guests of Bobby Lee and Jerry Bond, attending Rotary and Lions Club meetings, motorcycling, taking in Palo Duro Canyon and the museum. A warm Pampa "Welcome!!" to this nice young man.

It's good to see Eb Riley up and about after open heart surgery. Both he and Inez are happy to be home again. Dana and Fred Epperly visited Dana's sister and husband Gloria and Harold Pitts in Holdenville, Okla.

Sherry Guinn of Tyler and Kari, Mike and Kody Parker of Lubbock visited the girls' parents, Jerry and Mary Guinn. Newlyweds Todd and Angela Richardson of the Dallas area visited their parents, Cynthia West, James and Berdena Richardson. Also visiting the Richardsons were Berdena's mother Telitha Jones of Laverne, Okla., and her sister, Fern Jones of Anaheim,

The Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce will have its membership challenge drive Wednesday and Thursday, April 25 and 26, following a 6:45 a.m. breakfast in the M.K. Brown Room of the Pampa Community Building. The membership development committee challenged the chamber's board of directors and the two groups together challenged the Borger Chamber of Commerce.

If the local membership committee loses to the board of directors, members will wash the chamber windows while directors look on. On the other hand, if the board loses, membership committee members will do the observing.

The losing town will travel to the winners' town and cook hamburgers for the winners. Charles Buzzard, chairman of the Borger challenge committee, feels confident Borger chamber members will be in Pampa at a later date for the cook-off. Chairman of the local membership development committee is Georgia Mack.

Inez White had a houseful of guests. Her daughter Alice Rosser came from Amarillo. Another daughter, Susan, her husband Larry Sprowls, their son Matthew, daughter Tammy and husband Cody Poag, all came from Levelland, and another son, Ray and his wife Zoie arrived from Amarillo. Inez was delighted to have them with her in church. Susan's house and everything in it had burned recently, but thoughts of building back somehow removed some of the pain of the loss.

Visiting Barbara and Kevin Hanks were Barbara's mother and sister Virginia and Marianne Adamek of El Centro, Calif. Doyle and Peggy Beckham enjoyed a visit from their daughter Lana from the Dallas area.

Glen and Diane Hix and family of Laverne, Okla., visited Ralph and Lola Hix. Freddie and Janice Upshaw from Hart and John and Delora Mackie visited Rickey and Sharron Brown. Lynn Crawford spent the weekend with his parents

Lynda and Roger Crawford. Heidi and Randy Roush of Grapevine visited Heidi's parents the Rev. Gene and Jean Allen. Heidi stayed to spend a week of doing mother and daughter things like lunch and shopping sprees.

Doreen and Wallace Bruce spent the weekend in Abilene visiting their daughter Doretta Tolar and granddaughter Courtney. Mark, director of music at the Pioneer Baptist Church, directed an Easter musical with Doretta playing the part of Mary.

Visiting in the home of Dan and Jo Johnson were their daughter and family, Susan and Bruce Austin and two children of Arlington.

Jim and Kathleen Green enjoyed showing their little two-month-old granddaughter Keeley Reid, who with her parents Amie and Ben, spent Easter in Pampa

Carmen' to feature local talent

About 26 members of the Pampa Elementary Chorus and nine students from Lefors Elementary School will perform during the opera Carmen to be presented at M.K. Brown Auditorium Saturday, April 28 at 8 p.m.

Student directors are Wanetta Hill of Horace Mann Elementary and Lela Harris of Lefors. Recently Mila Gibson Burkhard of Amarillo was in town to rehearse the students. She is assistant professor of music at Amarillo College and founder and executive director of Amarillo Opera Inc. Burkhard is anxious to promote opera in the Panhandle through touring companies.

"They are excited about the total experience," says Hill, about the students performing the "Toreador Song" and a marching number. "They have great voices and are eager for the experience of working with the opera and orchestra and being on stage.'

Mayor Richard Peet will be playing the role of the mayor in the production. City manager Glen Hackler will play a city official and Superintendent Harry Griffith will be a picador.

LOS ANGELES (AP) -Although he often plays the klutzy and overbearing Ernest P. Worrell, actor Jim Varney should not be mistaken for the character.

Varney, after all, played Shakespeare as a teen-ager and Death of a Salesman as an adult and has weathered years of stand-up comedy on the club circuit. Yet to vast numbers of his fans, Varney is Ernest, as he discovers every time he walks through an air terminal.

"It's hard not to be recognized, strong, and if you gathered those markets together, a movie would go.

"We were sort of hoping to make the budget ($3.2 million) back, and it did a little better than that."

Ernest Goes to Camp was picked up by Disney for a Touchstone release in 1987, "and it was successful beyond our dreams." That led to Ernest Saves Christmas in 1988. This time the budget doubled to $6 million and it also did well.

The new release, Ernest Goes to Jail, escalated to $9 million - "But we have lots of special effects. I fly in this one. Boy, are my arms tired.' Born in Lexington, Ky., Varney began acting in local theater at 8. At age 16 he was playing Shakespeare in a professional theater, though he didn't tell his teachers. He sought his fortune in New York at 18 and slogged through off-Broadway, din-

Helen Hayes gives more anecdotes in her latest book

By KAY BARTLETT AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Helen Hayes' latest autobiographical book, My Life In Three Acts, was written because the 89-year-old first lady of the American stage is still the girl who can't say no.

It comes from the treatment she received in her beginnings as a child actress with an alcoholic but vivacious and high-spirited stage mother.

"My career from earliest childhood was like a bright shiny bucket in a bucket line - I was passed along from hand to hand with everyone helping," she writes.

A free-lance writer, Katherine Hatch, approached Miss Haves with the idea for a book filled with anecdotes about her life in Mexico, where she has long owned a second home.

"I couldn't imagine why anyone would want such a book, but she was so enthusiastic I agreed," says the woman who, with her gray hair and warm smile, is the epitome of what a grandmother should look like. "I think the book ended up with ess than 10 pages about Mexico."

Hayes' more than eight decades in show business have included such Broadway hits as Victoria Regina and Happy Birthday, films ranging from A Farewell to Arms to Airport - for which she won an Oscar - and countless television appearances.

She has written or contibuted to several books, including an earlier autobiography titled On Reflection, which was published in the 1950s.

Her new book turned out to be rich with anecdotes about famous figures who came to be her friends Charlie Chaplin, Gloria Swanson, Lillian Gish, F. Scott Fitzgerald, Irving Berlin and William Randolph Hearst among others.

She first met Chaplin when she was invited to a party at the home of Alice Duer Miller, a writer whose home was later to become Gracie Mansion, home of New York City's mayors.

The trouble was Chaplin failed to make the party. Later when Irving Berlin, Alexander Woollcott and Hayes and her playwright and screenwriter husband, Charlie MacArthur, were walking home "a taxi careened around a corner and roared toward us. It stopped with a jerk and out tumbled Charlie Chaplin."

Since the party was over, they

'It was the first meeting

Another Chaplin vignette captured by Hayes involved his legal squabbles. He attempted to hide out in New York, but word reached him there was a summons back at the hotel. He grabbed the first taxi and told the driver to keep driving him around Central Park.

Finally the driver said he was a family man and wanted to go home. Chaplin amazed the driver by identifying himself and his plight. The driver said he lived in the Bronx, nothing fancy, but he could go home with him and sleep in a room with his 10-yearold boy. Chaplin gratefully accepted.

Hayes is most moving when she writes about her love for her husband of 30 years, the personal tragedies, such as the sudden and untimely death of her daughter, Mary, from polio, and her return to Catholicism after her husband died.

She met MacArthur for the first time because she bumped into Marc Helen Haves Connelly, who asked her to help him chose a Christmas present for his lady friend. "Well, I was bowled over. Right then and there I fell in love with Charles MacArthur, the most beautiful, most_amusing, most amazing and dazzling man I had ever met."

"Charlie never lived that remark down," Hayes says in an interview. Charlie opened his arms and asked, "On our 25th wedding anniversary we went to '21' - Charlie loved that restaurant, it was his hangout - and God," she says, despite its rocky on our table they had a bowl of salted peanuts, dyed green.

Murder with Mirrors, the producer called to tell her 20 million had watched it.

"I found that I felt depressed," she writes. "Twenty million people! The total audience I had reached in 80 years in the theater - all those plays, all those beautiful lines, all that shared intimacy with live patrons - amounted to a tiny fraction of the number of people who had watched me the night before in a mediocre TV show," she writes.

Hayes writes hilariously about her encounters with royalty. Her mother had lectured her never to speak to celebrities unless they spoke to you.

She tells of her meeting the grand duchess Marie of Russia, who had a job promoting Machiavelli's perfume at Bergdorf's.

"When Marie came into my dressing room, she sat down on the sofa and gave me a bottle of perfume," Hayes writes. "Before I could stop myself, my first utterance was, 'Is Your Serene-Highness still working at Machiavelli's perfume counter?'

Then there was an afternoon ferry boat ride with Beatrice Lillie to Blackwell's Island in the East River. After strolling around, lunching on hot dogs, ice cream and lemonade, they decided to leave. Bea Lillie, who in private life was Lady Peel, married to a member of the British peerage and capable of pulling that rank when needed.

At the ferry, a guard asked for "A few minutes into the first act their passes.

'My dear sir,' Bea replied in her mond, the Tribune critic, was toniest Lady Peel voice, 'I am Beatrice Lillie, and this is Helen Hayes. We both have performances to give tonight, and we have to get to our theaters.'

"The guard was unmoved. Then she added, in her best British accent, 'I am Lady Peel; Hayes is the first lady of the American theater, and this gentleman is the distinguished playwright, Mr. Charles MacArthur.'

"The guard sighed wearily. 'Listen, lady, we've already got some love of the bottle. "Until Mary died, Lillies here, and several first ladies and maybe a couple of MacArthurs too. There probably has never been a character out of television commercials who became star of a TV series and a string of movies.

"It started with a local commercial eight years ago, and it just sort, I could go 30 or 40 minutes. ... You of took off," recalled Varney. "We thought it was a flash in the pan, but it won a couple of advertising awards. It was shelved for a year, the character wasn't even used. Then they brought it out for a dairy. In two years we had about 40 dairies. Obviously it worked for the first one.

ROCKPORT (AP) - Miguel Garza Sr. has been building boats most of his life.

When he was younger he built them with his father and uncle. Their specialty was the Texas scow sloop - a craft not seen on the Texas Coast since 1935.

Garza may be the only person in the Coastal Bend who still knows how to build the boat.

'It's not written down, it's in my head," Garza said. "So I have to build this one or there won't be anymore.'

For the next six months, Garza and other volunteers plan to donate their free time on weekends to build the Texas scow sloop, a boxy, flatbottomed boat once used for shrimping.

Since April 1, about 25 volunteers have started building the boat on the Texas Maritime Museum grounds under Garza's direction.

Building the sloop is the Texas Maritime Museum's first major project since opening at its present location on Navigation Circle on July 1, 1989, said Jerry Moore, executive director of the museum.

"What's really neat about this project is that Texas waters haven't seen one of these boats for 35 years,"

Moore said. "We're doing this the traditional way, using hand tools and the old construction techniques."

Although volunteer Wally Keil said modern-day machinery would speed the process along, Keil did not seem to mind giving up his weekends to build the boat.

"A lot of the volunteers are retired and are looking for things to do," Keil said. "Some are real handymen."

Moore said the 27-foot boats were developed to be used for shrimping in the shallow waters of the Laguna Madre, and were once common in South Texas.

A net was strung between two of the boats and they "literally swept the bay," Moore said.

"It was very efficient, but it was too efficient," he said, and the method was outlawed in Texas bays.

The stricter fishing regulations forced the abandonment of the sloop in the 1950s. The boats are still used in Mexico where the regulations are not as stringent.

"The design is the same and it hasn't changed in 100 years," Moore said. "But evidently the Mexican government is about to enforce (new regulations), and once they (scow sloops) are gone, that's it. There's no more.'

Garza, a boatbuilder from Corpus Christi who works primarily in Aransas Pass, first began working on these craft in the 1930s.

Materials for the project have been provided through grants from the Southwestern Bell Foundation and H.E.B. Grocery Co.

The Texas Maritime Museum began in 1975 as a privately sponsored display of nautical antiques at Rockport's annual Seafair. Interest in establishing a permanent museum grew, and in 1980 the Texas Maritime Museum Association was incorporated.

In 1987, the state Senate designated the Texas Maritime Museum to serve as the official museum of its type for the state.

EARTH DAY THOUGHTS

I read where this is the Twentieth Anniversary of "Earth Day." I guess this is one of those events I have been missing for the last twenty years. I have been too busy "playing in the dirt" to know we have been having "Earth Day."

Usually we get a lot of news release filler type of information for these events but none for "Earth Day."

I am left to wonder just exactly what the purpose is. As I wonder, I am reminded of something I heard preached to me by my Dad and I saw him try his best to fulfill it.

One of his sayings was, "Try to leave this place in better shape than you found it." Some folks can understand exactly what he meant by that. Others may need a little explanation since he doesn't mention conservation, preservation, ecology, pollution or any other of the many fancy names used today.

Now, if we all practiced leaving our immediate environment in better condition than what it nylon. was when we found it, life would be beautiful. Of course, that would also have to include what we did or do with all of our "trash."

Many times we leave our "trash" for someone else to worry with and that is where a lot of the problems are. A lot of folks and companies have pretty front yards but back somewhere is the trash dump - what does it look like?

A lot of farm/ranch folks, including myself, get real upset when self-righteous folks look over our fences and see "something" they don't think is good for the environment.

Maybe before they throw the first stone, they should walk in our shoes for a mile or two to see came better diet and longer, happier lives for sis will be on the proper handling of the product, how the fit is. Economic survival is the most important consideration because that provides the necessities of life for all of us.

Droughts and floods are examples of "Mother Nature" hurting her own environment. Sometimes it takes man awhile to repair damage that "Mother Nature" caused herself. Time does heal a lot of wounds if given a chance.

Along the same lines, the following phrases were written by the late Dr. John Caren, former Old Days. chairman of the Horticulture Department at Michigan State University in 1970. It has a little Society. food for thought on "Earth Day."

IN BALANCE WITH NATURE In the beginning

There was Earth, beautiful and wild;

And then man came to dwell. At first, he lived like other animals

Feeding himself on creatures and plants around him.

And this was called IN BALANCE WITH NATURE.

Soon man multiplied.

He grew tired of ceaseless hunting for food;

He built homes and villages. Wild plants and animals were domesticated. Some men became Farmers so that others might become Industrialists, Artists, or Doctors.

And this was called Society.

Man and Society progressed.

With his God-given ingenuity, man learned to feed, clothe, protect, and transport himself more efficiently so that he might enjoy life. He built cars, houses on top of each other and

And life became more enjoyable.

The men called Farmers became efficient.

A single farmer grew food for 28 Industrialists, Artists, and Doctors, And Writers, Engineers, and Teachers as well.

To protect his crops and animals, the Farmer produced substances to repel or destroy Insects, Diseases, and Weeds.

These were called Pesticides.

Similar human substances were made by Doctors to protect humans.

These were called Medicine.

The Age of Science had arrived and with it more members of Society.

Soon it came to pass

That certain well-fed members of Society Disapproved of the Farmers using Science.

They spoke harshly of his techniques for feeding, protecting, and preserving plants and animals.

They deplored his upsetting the Balance of Nature; they longed for the Good

By this time, Farmers had become so efficient, Society gave them a new title: Unimportant Minority.

Because Society could not even imagine a 5243.

shortage of food.

- Laws were passed abolishing Pesticides, Fertilizers, and Food Preservatives.
- Insects, Diseases, and Weeds flourished. Crops and animals died.
- Food became scarce.

To survive, Industrialists, Artists, and Doctors were forced to grow their own food.

People and governments fought wars to gain more agricultural land.

Millions of people were exterminated. The remaining few lived like animals. Feeding themselves on creatures and plants around them. And this was called IN BALANCE WITH NATURE.

Most of nation's cropland farmed in rotation pattern

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new ing a natural fertilizer. report by the Agriculture Department says most of the nation's cropland already is being farmed under some kind of crop rotation program.

One of the highly touted features of the administration's farm bill proposal is more flexibility to allow plant without losing commodity program benefits.

Advocates also say flexibility would permit more crop rotation and the advantages of natural fertility enhancement instead of high crops. reliance on commercial fertilizers and other chemicals.

According to a report in the April issue of Farmline magazine, USDA economists Stan Daberkow and Mohinder Gill studied the threeyear rotations of seven major crops "because there is concern that con- percent of U.S. farmland is continutinuous cropping is a prevalent practice" among farmers.

"Such monoculture farming may require the use of agricultural chemicals to replace essential crop nutrients in order to achieve steady yields year to year," the report said.

On the average, 80 percent or more of the land in major field crops in 1988 was included in a crop rotation plan using five to 10 cropping patterns over a three-year period. In some states, however, only two or three cropping patterns potatoes and cotton. were used.

Daberkow and Gill also found good economic reasons for rotating

"In some areas, alternative crops are not feasible because of climate conditions."

It added: "In other cases, planting in rotations is not economically sound because of investments in equipment and expertise.'

"Everybody knows I'm affiliated with Kim, but in this case it's my deal," said Guyer, whose firm helped the 36-year-old actress purchase most of the northeast Georgia town of Braselton. "She is not buying that station." The station has been owned since 1988 by New South Group Inc., headed by 44-year-old Timothy Brumlik of Orlando, Fla. He was arrested in September after accepting $1 million from an informant pretending to invest profits for Columbian drug dealers, officials said. Investigators have said they have no information that the millionaire channeled any of the allegedly laundered funds into television stations. Basinger, a Georgia native, in January purchased 1,800 acres in northeast Georgia, including much of downtown Braselton.

NEW YORK (AP) -Actress Katharine Hepburn has begun writing her memoirs and expects to be finished about August.

"I am full of prayer and hope it will be interesting," she said in a telephone interview from her Manhattan townhouse. She declined to give details of the book, tentatively titled Me.

The book will be released in 1991, publishing house Alfred A. Knopf announced.

DALLAS (AP) - Producer-director Bud Yorkin says his latest film, Love Hurts, may get a name change before it is widely released.

The film, shot in the Dallas area, made its debut Thursday night at the USA Film Festival.

"There's been a mixed response on the title," Yorkin said. "Several people who have seen it say the title is too negative, while the picture is too positive."

The film stars Jeff Daniels as a recently divorced salesman heading to his small hometown following his divorce to attend his sister's wedding. Amy Wright plays his sister.

"It's close to a Woody Allen-type picture," said Yorkin.

28 Sunday, April 28, 1990-PAMPA NEWS Study: Dietary fiber can reduce colon cancer risk

By PAUL RECER AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Diets with about twice the amount of fiber and vegetables now consumed by most Americans can reduce the risk of colon cancer by about 40 percent, a government study shows.

A research report published in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute reviewed 37 studies conducted since 1973 and found what it called "a great deal of evidence" that diets rich in fiber and vegetables protect people against colon cancer.

"The data ... suggest a reduction in risk of approximately 40 percent for persons consuming diets high in fiber and vegetables," the report said. "Furthermore, there are undeniable cardiovascular benefits and little likelihood of adverse consequences associated with this data.

Bruce Trock, a researcher at Fox Chase Cancer Center in Philadelphia, said the evidence "is particular food or uniformly determine the prepowerful" and very clear.

Trock said he and two National Cancer Institute researchers, Elaine Lanza and Peter Greenand methods used in the 37 dietary studies by the studies. different scientists. Populations in the variety of tralians, Americans and New Zealanders. Some of the studies were based on questionnaires and others on actual dietary records.

"We classified the studies as to how strong the evidence was," Trock said in a telephone interview. 'We found of the studies that we thought were well done, there were only two that did not support the (anti-colon cancer) effect. When you include some studies where there was some question about how valid the result was, then there was an additional six that were not supportive of diet because "you don't have much room for fat." the effect."

'We worry that some people think they can just take a (fiber) pill and then go ahead and eat a high-fat diet.'

Trock said the studies did not emphasize any cise amount of fiber needed to achieve the protective effect.

But he said most Americans probably would wald, concluded there was a protective effect have to double the amount of fiber consumed to from fiber after a careful analysis of the statistics achieve the cancer protection effect suggested in don't think so.'

and other organizations are recommending 20 to 30 grams of dietary fiber a day. So we're really talking about doubling a typical intake."

This can be done, he said, with up to six servings a day of fruits, whole grain bread, vegetables and whole grain cereals.

"It is a relatively simple change that is beneficial for other diseases and doesn't seem to bring with it any adverse side effects," said Trock.

People who eat 20 to 30 grams of fiber daily, he said, will automatically reduce the fat in their Several studies have suggested that reduction of fat in the diet can lower the risk of heart disease and of some other types of cancer, he said.

Trock cautioned that the studies surveyed did not suggest that high fiber powders or tablets would accomplish the anti-cancer effect.

"Because the majority of the evidence is based on food rather than supplements, I think people would be well advised not to achieve this effect by taking supplements," said Trock. "We worry that some people think they can just take a pill and then go ahead and eat a high-fat diet. Maybe some day they can, but right now we
