Brother of Murdered Vice Queen, After Burying Sister, Suffers Mental Breakdown

Pierre Franklin, brother of Vivian Gordon, slain New York woman racketeer, after burying his sister's body, collapsed mentally and was carried forcibly to a psychopathic hospital. His 16-year-old niece had a few days earlier committed suicide rather than bear longer the disgrace brought on by disclosure of her mother's vice-ridden life.

Third Victim in Trilogy of Murder, Suicide and Near Madness

MAY REGAIN REASON

Montreal Man Had Claimed Vivian Gordon's Body, Interred Friday

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—The third victim of a trilogy of murder, suicide and near madness, Pierre M. Franklin, brother of strangled Vivian Gordon, tossed fitfully in a hospital today under heavy guard.

Yesterday—the eleventh day since his racketeer sister's body was found in a park thicket and the sixth since the lifeless form of his 16-year-old niece was found in a gas-filled kitchen—Franklin suffered a mental collapse and forcibly was taken to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue, strapped to a stretcher.

Early in the morning he dashed half-clad into the I-I from his room in a hotel—shouting and crying. Five house detectives and a nurse labored with him for three hours before they could subdue him. When police arrived, they found him lying on the bathroom floor, gibbering.

His room was littered with newspaper clippings revealing the sordid underworld life that led Vivian Gordon to her death and shamed her daughter, Benita Bischoff, into an untimely grave. Photographs of his sister, a striking auburn haired woman, in a variety of poses and of his niece in her first dancing costume lined the walls.

Hospital officials said he was not in a serious condition but would require constant care and observation to restore his mental state to normal. He weighs well over 200 pounds and is of a hearty, healthy type.

Saying Montreal was his home, Franklin came here several days after the crime and claimed his sister's body, carrying his kinship in affidavits. He and an unidentified woman, the only mourners, buried her Friday in Westchester county. He paid his hotel bill Saturday night and said he was returning home the next day.

Meanwhile, the hunt for Miss Gordon's slayers virtually was at a standstill. With professional detectives and 15,000 of New York's "finest" co-operating, not a single clue has been turned up which points toward a solution of the city's most engrossing mystery since the murder of Arnold Rothstein in 1928.

Work Never Done While Power For It Lasts—Holmes

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Oliver Wendell Holmes went about familiar duties today, exemplifying the philosophy expressed in a radio address on his ninetieth birthday.

"The work is never done while the power to work remains," he said. "There is a little finishing kind before coming to a standstill. There is time to hear the kind voice of friends and to say to oneself: 'The work is done, but just as one says that, the answer comes: The race is over, but the work is never done while the power to work remains.' The center that brings you to a standstill need not be only coming to rest. It can be while you still live. For 'live' is a function. That is all there is in living."

"Live—I Am Coming"
"And so I end with a line from a Latin poet who uttered the message more than fifteen hundred years ago:
"Death plucks my ear and says: 'Live—I am coming.'"

Those in the room with him at the study in his home, saw that the tributes affected him. Holmes, however, did not flinch. He showed no signs of nervousness or the unfamiliar stress of the microphone. He cleared his throat and he began. It was the only sign that he was a radio neophyte.

All of the speakers quoted from his speeches, writings and decisions. Dean Clark of the Yale law school said Holmes was so often heard of his times that those who disagreed with him today often found themselves agreeing later.

Charles A. Boston, president of the American Bar Association, said he had profoundly moulded the law and those who make it a profession. He spoke from the studios of the Columbia system in New York.

Hughes' tribute to the chief justice, who associates with him daily at the supreme court, said Holmes was "a constant contradiction of all that great age usually implies."

"The most beautiful and rarest thing in the world is a complete human life, unmarred, united by intelligent purpose, and uninterrupted accomplishment, blessed by great talent employed in the worthiest activities, with a 'deserve' that never dimmed and always growing," the chief justice said. "Such a rarely beautiful life is that of Mr. Justice Holmes."

Rabid Dog Causes Killing of Others In Elbow Section

Following reports of attacks upon many dogs and other animals in the Elbow community by a dog considered hydrophobic residents of that section were killing their canine pets Monday.

No reports of any one being bitten had been received, although one man was considered endangered after having received a scratch while attempting to separate the rabid dog and one belonging to him, which was badly injured in the fight.

This was the second report within a week of attacks upon animals by rabid canines.

Conference May Agree On Policy To Save Crude, Bolster Market

By R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer
TEXARKANA, Ark., March 9 (AP)—Representatives of the governors of six oil-producing states labored behind closed doors today in an effort to solve marketing conditions they claim have taken the industry to the brink of disaster.

Cleora Murray, cousin of Governor W. H. Murray of Oklahoma who called the meeting, the second sponsored by him in eight days, announced at noon that the participants would take lunch during their closed session and continue discussion while they ate.

He said definitely that there would not be an open meeting, but that a statement of the outcome would be made when the session adjourned. "A public meeting would be a waste of time and forbidding," Murray said, adding that the conference had many important matters to thresh out in an effort to prescribe a remedy for an economic condition which he said was more serious than the average citizen realized.

Uniform Plan
He said it appeared that the conference could agree on a uniform plan that would conserve oil now under ground and at the same time avert a slipping market made adverse by disorderly production and importations of foreign crude to a market already overloaded.

Mark Mitchell of Independence, Kans., who was substituted for Alfred M. Landon as that state's representative, had not arrived at noon, leaving the number of participants at six.

The official representation was, in addition to Murray and Mitchell: R. E. Ten and of Dallas, chairman of the Texas central production committee; T. H. Barton, Ed. Jordan, Ark.; W. Scott Heywood, Jennings, La.; William H. Cooley, Garkens, La.; and Carl M. Cox, Cheyenne, Wyo. Bartor and Cox did not arrive until after the conference was well under way. Murray wanted to wait for them, but they exhibited impatience at delay and said the conference should "get down to work immediately." Cox was accompanied by John G. Marshall, also of Cheyenne. C. E. Harlow, Arkansas state oil commissioner, was here but he was not admitted to the meeting, standing outside in the corridor with newspapermen.

Conferees
Frank Burford, Oklahoma City attorney here to discuss with delegates the legal questions with reference to production and other conservation measures; W. J. Armstrong, Oklahoma state conservation officer; Roy C. Johnson of Ardmore, W. P. Kavanaugh of Tulsa, Dave Donoghue of Fort Worth, and others interested in the outcome of the meeting were in town but were not called into the executive session. There was no general attendance of producers.

League Girds For Another Battle In Pro Law's Behalf

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9 (AP)—The Anti-Saloon League in annual convention here, today girded itself for another battle on behalf of prohibition in the presidential campaign of 1932 after hearing F. Scott McBride, its general superintendent, predict the dry law would be a leading issue then.

Denouncing the recently advanced plan of John J. Raskob, national chairman of the democratic party, for state control of liquor, McBride charged last night that the proposal was backed by "the multimillionaires of the east."

"They come forward now and tell the southern states what they should do and offer states' rights," he said.

"To repeal prohibition is merely to encourage those fellows who are enemies of the things we love. This is no time for us to haul down the stars and stripes, to anarchy and lawlessness."

"President Hoover," Dr. McBride stated, "said more in the ten minutes following his oath of office and has stood by it more closely than any of the presidents who preceded him. It is now up to the law-abiding people of the United States to stand behind President Hoover and that constitution to block any movement for making the prohibition question one of state option."

An address on "gossip incorporated" was given by Mrs. Henry V. Peabody, chairman of the woman's national committee for prohibition enforcement.

She charged that "gossip incorporated" was "a national organization which controlled a great portion of the press." She charged this "organization" with "character assassination" in the case of Bishop James M. Cannon, Jr., of the Southern Methodist Church.

"If we lift the prohibition ban," she said, "we will lift it against opium and then tell people that they don't have to obey the law. We will tell them that if they don't obey the law, they will go to prison."

ABILENE, Texas, March 9 (AP)—The grand jury of 104th district court, dismissed last week, was summoned for reassembling next Monday to consider a charge of murder filed here late yesterday against Mrs. Virginia Pigg.

The woman's husband, M. I. Pigg, 37, traveling tire salesman of Abilene, was shot and killed early Sunday afternoon at his home here. One bullet fired from a 38-caliber revolver in the hands of his young wife pierced his heart and he fell dead at her feet—the tragic culmination of a stormy ten minutes following his return after an absence of more than 24 hours.

Mrs. Pigg's defense is that her husband, under the influence of drink, attacked and threatened her with death. It was his life or hers, she contended.

The 18 months old child of the couple, Patricia Lee, was the only other person in the house. When neighbors, summoned by the weeping wife, hastened to the Pigg home, they found the child sitting in her high chair in the bedroom in which the shooting had occurred, looking down innocently at the body of her father. Pigg, fully dressed and with coat open, was lying on his back, a widening stain of red on his breast.

Struggle Indicated
The room was in disarray, suggestive of a struggle. A bathroom door was badly splintered around the knob.

"I didn't mean to shoot him, but I only fired to frighten him, but it was his life or mine," cried Mrs. Pigg, sobbing out her story to neighbors. It was that her husband had been away since early Saturday. She had sought him vainly, she said. When he returned Sunday afternoon and she protested at his absence, he attacked her, she said.

"He ran me around the room, making threats on my life," she cried. "As I retreated to the dresser I saw the pistol and snatched it up. I only intended to frighten him. I don't know what happened next but I saw him fall at my feet. I called to him and when he did not speak to me I ran out and summoned neighbors."

The wife said it was her habit to keep the loaded gun on the dresser, as her husband was away most of the time.

Truck Operator Strikes Back At Taxation Efforts

All of those who use either the commercial or privately owned motor truck, bus or automobile, in the state of Texas are today faced with a demand from the railroad interests that more regulation and more taxation be applied to these motor vehicles in order to give the railroads "equality of competition."

This statement was made today by O. L. Williams, oil field trucking contractor of this city who claims that the railroads centering in Chicago have announced that they are taking steps to encourage the enactment of laws in the states in which they operate providing for restrictions on the weight, size, load, and speed of motor vehicles and for higher taxation.

Mr. Williams urged all classes of motor users to write to their representatives and senators protesting against the campaign to raise the cost of highway transportation "so that those who travel by bus or ship by truck will have to pay at least as much as if they used the railroads."

The railroads insist, according to Mr. Williams, that it is the common carrier that is hurting them, "but the public should bear in mind that the common carrier truck represents not more than 5 to 10 per cent of the 3,000,000 motor trucks in operation and handles from 10 to 20 per cent of the freight tonnage of the country handled by trucks."

Mr. Williams said that regulating the common and contract carrier will not force this business back to the railroads because, no matter how much these vehicles are regulated, they still have the private carrier as a competitor. If necessary, the shipper will buy a new or second hand truck and haul the goods himself because the railroads can't give him the service on rails, he declared.

"The railroads charge that the truck and bus do not pay for the roads they use," he continued. "The average truck owner in the United States pays twice as much for his registration permit as do the owners of private cars and eighteen times as much if they are common carriers and own at least a three-ton truck."

Mr. Williamson continued thus: "Motorists in the United States are paying over a billion dollars a year for highway taxes."

MEETING CALLED
A meeting to which the public is invited, will be held at the district courtroom here at 8 p. m. Wednesday, at which time a discussion of "true facts relative to the trucking industry," will be held.

G. H. Wilson, representing the Texas Truck Owners' Service Bureau, of Austin, will discuss the question. Local truck owners are asked to attend the meeting.

annually in special taxes alone, or two thirds of all of the annual rural road improvement costs. Of this total, more than $500,000,000 is paid in gasoline taxes alone. Not only are these taxes levied in every state but every increase hits every private automobile and private truck owner as well as the commercial hauler. Yet the tax grabber would force these taxes even higher, and divert the funds from their legitimate purpose—road development—to a dozen unrelated uses.

"The railroads make the charge that they are being subjected to unfair discrimination by being required to contribute heavily to the cost of highways for the use of their competitors. The fact is that twenty-one states, including Texas, have laws on the books which require that they be subjected to such discrimination."

Catastrophies Strike Europe Unmercifully

Record Snowfall of Year Covers Much of Western Hemisphere

200 DIE IN BALKANS

Hurricane Fatal to 11; Weather Leads To 23 New York Dead

(By The Associated Press)
New quakes rattled the Balkans and an isle of Japan today, bitter cold gripped Europe; French rivers swelled higher and higher; snow covered much of the western hemisphere; gales continued to pelting over the Atlantic, heckled the North Atlantic seaboard and pitched high the waters of the Great Lakes.

Death, destruction and injury were being slowly counted in the third day of world wide turbulence.

From Port Louis, Mauritius, came first news that a hurricane of last week left 11 dead.

At least 200 had been counted dead in the Balkans before fresh shocks this morning sent terror-stricken natives seeking doubtful shelter for the third time in as many days.

Geyzers
Hot water geyzers from great earth cracks in the foothills of the Valandova region increased the terror.

London was experiencing the worst snow storm of 20 years and the worst cold of 15 years. Scotland lay under the deepest snow of the year and the cold bit into northern France, Germany, Belgium, Scandinavia, Austria and Poland.

Rivers of Burgundy and Southern France were swelling beyond danger heights and fresh snows caused anxiety. The Seine at Paris was a foot above alarm level. Low sections were evacuated.

Gales on the American side of the Atlantic washed in their own report of tragedy—the wreckage of a boat at Newburyport, Mass., search was being made for bodies.

23 Dead
Twenty-three were dead in accidents attributable to the storm around New York yesterday. The middle west and New England were digging out of drifts that blocked their roads. Sixteen were left dead in the two-day blizzard of the central states.

Northern New York state was under eight and a half inches of snow. New Jersey was taking stock of the damage left in the wake of a 54-mile gale that swept over its seaboard.

The province of Quebec, Canada, was engulfed as best it could against the stiffest March winds and worst snow storm of 50 years.

Deepest sympathy which, no matter how strong and sincere can comfort little when one's mother has passed away, is extended to the children and many devoted descendants of Mrs. Fannie Leatherwood, one of the women who helped in the heroic role of Mother to build the community.

Value of adequate hotel facilities is being demonstrated more and more in Big Spring. The number of conventions scheduled to be held here in the next few months is good proof.

This week we entertain druggists of West Texas. Recently the southern Presbyterian Synod of Texas, the West Texas Dentists, the mechanical employes of the Texas & Pacific Railway company and a number of other bodies have been entertained here.

A district meeting of Federated Women's club, Methodist women of the Northwest Texas conference and several other groups have meetings scheduled for Big Spring.

Aside from the net cash left in a town by convention delegates, proper entertainment of them forms one of the most powerful and valuable advertising agencies for any city.

Baseball weather may be here soon. Wonder if the boys are going to dig around the Dusty Diamond again with the kind of a city league?

Boys down at the shops are feeling better. They report more than 40 locomotives which have heretofore been sent to the Lancaster yards in Fort Worth for repairs have been sent here, materially increasing the volume of work to be done in the local shops. One shop man termed the policy "the best thing that has happened to us in two years."

Sudden increase in operations on the T&P east of Fort Worth, due to the oil boom down there, caused locomotives to be routed here to prevent congestion in the Fort Worth shop, say local employes.

This West Texas profits in one way, indirectly, from discovery of oil in East Texas.

The bus and truck boys are going to do some defending it appears. A meeting called for Wednesday evening here for the session from the truckers' standpoint of the fight being made by railroads for "fair

Fifth Anniversary of Town Draws 15,000 Visitors

BORGER, Texas, March 9 (AP)—Fifteen thousand visitors from the Texas panhandle and adjoining states today joined in congratulating Borger on her fifth birthday.

Four airplane gave a stunting exhibition. A fireworks display, and dancing were planned for the night program.

Members of the Hutchinson County American Legion, sponsoring the celebration, had charge of the city jail, and the M. P.'s spent the day arresting their friends on fictitious charges. Mayor Miller was fined $3 for vagrancy, Mayor Chapman $1 on a like charge, and Gene Howe was fined $1 for being the ugliest man in town. Charles Grimes of the Pampa post was also fined.

Perfect weather helped to draw throngs of visitors.

Mrs. Fannie Leatherwood, Mother Of Prominent Big Spring Family, Dies From Hurts Received In Fall

Death and life, within twenty-four hours of each other, entered the Leatherwood family this past week-end.

While Mrs. Fannie Leatherwood lay in one room at the Big Spring Hospital on Saturday evening dying, a great grandson was born in another room in the same hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Read, Jr.

Four generations were assembled in the hospital at the same time. Mrs. Leatherwood passed away to her final sleep at seven o'clock Sunday evening, surrounded by all but four of her forty-seven living descendants. Death was caused by injuries received in a fall at her home Saturday morning.

She died happy in the knowledge that her two sons, Buddy and Sol Sledsoe had become members of the church. They had joined the First Baptist Church in the revival which the pastor, the Rev. R. E. Ray finished two weeks ago. Her last words were: "I would be willing to go right now if only the Lord would come and take me."

Mrs. Fannie Leatherwood, Mother Of Prominent Big Spring Family, Dies From Hurts Received In Fall

She had lived a quiet, retiring life for many years, before her death, but her many children lived and on Oct. 31, 1896 she married

Spencer Franklin Leatherwood, who had recently returned from the Civil War. She continued to make her home in the same neighborhood, even after the death of her husband on Aug. 12, 1899 and probably would have finished her life there if her two older sons had not gone to Texas.

To Texas
They insisted that she move the remainder of the family to Texas about the year 1900. She changed her car and came to West Texas, settling at first in Rannels county and soon from there to Howard county where she lived on a farm near Elbow; but as the girls grew older married and lived in town, she moved to Big Spring to be near them and for the last thirteen years she has lived in the home at the corner of Fifth and Johnson streets.

Mrs. Leatherwood joined the Primitive Baptist church about the time of her marriage and, although most of her children have been members of the Missionary Baptist church, she died a member of the church of her adoption.

PENNANT FEVER EPIDEMIC HITS SENATORS

President And Bat Boy See Good Year

It seems that the idea of a summer golf loop is progressing with rapidity, as it were. Since an announcement was made several days ago that a four club loop would be launched, other towns, not included in the quartet, have voiced sentiments that would lead one to believe they too would like to get into the thick of the battle of the putter and masher. Now comes Snyder asking for a berth. Lamesa has recently shouted demands of a similar nature. At the present the lineup includes Midland, Big Spring, Colorado and Texon. So it looks as if the loop will be a six club affair after all. Fred Stephens, the country club solon, declares another meeting will be held in due time, and the matter more thoroughly gone into. If anyone is interested in the matter, this department has a copy of the rules and regulations, by-laws and in-laws of the Oil Belt Golf Association, which we will gladly retrieve from our littered desk, and pass it on to those knowing more about golf than we do.

Athletes, More Advanced Than Last Year, Expect Gala Times

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer. BILLOXI, Miss., March 9 (AP)—An epidemic of pennant fever in its most virulent form has descended upon the camp of the Washington Senators here. Apparently no one in any way connected with the establishment is immune. It's in the very air that wafts in off the placid bay.

From President Clark Griffith down to Frankie Baxter, the assistant trainer, who has been with the club man and boy for 16 years, the Nationals believe it is their year. Although not quite so outspoken, Manager Walter Johnson is hit as hard as any of them. Johnson just says he can't figure out why a club in the American league good enough to outrun his boys.

Fired Up
The athletes, themselves, are fired up. They sense a flag, and there are no holdouts. The veteran battermen, like Fred Marberry who normally do not reach their best form until a month after the campaign begins, started preliminary conditioning weeks ago and are further advanced than they have been at this stage in years. There is little for the Big Train to do except get his men in shape. He hasn't a position to worry about. His mound staff, which includes five veterans who won 15 or more games last season and ranked first in earned runs allowed, is intact. His infield is set, with plenty of reserve strength; the same with the outfield.

A Find
About the only thing Johnson feels he could use right now is a little better hitting behind the plate, and it looks like he has found that in Cliff Bolton, a chunky receiver who hit 37 for Chattanooga last season. The coaches are putting in overtime work, trying to improve his fielding. Roy Spencer and Bill Hargrave are the veterans of the staff. Alvin Crowder, Sam Jones, Fred Marberry, Lloyd Brown and Irving Hadley comprise the "big five" of the pitching corps. All were winners last year, turning in 79 victories. Burke, who showed promise last year, completes the veteran staff. Lynn Griffith, who won 21 for Joplin in the Western Association, looks like the outstanding prospect among five rookies in camp.

The inner works is strongly fortified, with Joe Judge at first, Charley Myer at second, Joe Cronin at short and Ossie Bluege on third. Bluege alone of the quartet hit under 300 last season. In reserve at first, the Senators have Joe Kubel, a brilliant understudy for the aging Judge, and in Jack Hayes a youngster expected to make Myer hustle for the keystone assignment. Wally Dashiell from Chattanooga will get a utility role. Sam West, Sam Rice and Henry Manush make up a ball-busting outfield.

The third amendment, by Senator Pollard of Tyler, provided that the owners or operators of such machines who accepted money without giving the service extended should be liable to fine and imprisonment under the law.

The house today adopted a resolution proposing to change the method of redemption of property sold for delinquent taxes. The proposed constitutional amendment was introduced by Rep. Johnson of Carrizo Springs and would permit redemption of property within the first year on payment of the sale price plus 25 per cent and during the second year on payment of 50 per cent additional.

The vote was 110 to 0. A bill by Representative Farnley of Fort Worth proposing to prohibit banks from pledging the assets to preferred depositors was killed when the house refused to print the bill on a minority report.

The house passed a bill by Representative Holland of Houston to permit judges to defer sentences in convictions of misdemeanors where lines were assessed. A bill was introduced by Representative Johnson of Omaha to require clerks of the district courts to keep a record of pertinent facts in the life of each defendant brought before the court in a criminal action.

Three bills were introduced by Representative Cunningham of Eastland to give three citizens of Eastland county permission to sue the state for damages alleged to have been incurred from operation of the highway department. Persons who would be given permission to sue were J. W. Turner, P. C. Norton and T. L. Overby.

A bill was introduced by Representative Dwyer of San Antonio to prohibit fire insurance companies from cancelling insurance contracts because of arson, until a court of competent jurisdiction had officially entered a verdict of arson.

A bill by Representative Harman of Waco prohibiting the sale of fish from Lake Waco and the Bosque river in McLennan, Bosque, Hamilton and Erath counties was passed by the house.

Representative Justis of Corsicana succeeded in having passed by the house a bill to require foreign legal reserve life insurance companies, fraternal order insurance and mutual life assessment associations to pay the same tax required of other insurance companies and associations. The senate today adopted a resolution by Senator Poague of Waco calling upon the heads of all state departments and clerical and educational institutions to furnish the secretary of the senate not later than March 20 with the number of state-owned automobiles and trucks used by them.

The senate today for the first time refused to take up a bill out of its regular order. The bill was by Senator Holbrook of Galveston and proposed that the state highway commission be empowered to condemn lands for gravel pits and rights of way through towns.

Senator Parrish of Lubbock introduced a bill which asked that depositors for school funds be required to make depository bond equal to double the amount of school funds allotted or else pledge collateral in bonds equal to that amount.

State Calendar

AUSTIN, Texas, March 9 (AP)—Orders made public today by the railroad commission: North Texas Coach Company, Inc., allowed to change schedule on bus line from Fort Worth to Wichita Falls via Decatur and Bowie, effective tomorrow.

The Steers have returned from the state tourney. Bill Stevens and his charges, returned to their West Texas stronghold Sunday. The Steers, it will be recalled, were eliminated without a great amount of ceremony, in the opening round by Yancey, a bunch of boys from Medina County. They remained over to see the finals in the school-boy cage chase.

We haven't conversed with Stevens regarding the state tournament. Those that saw the Steers didn't play baseball. Had the game been just another game, there is little doubt but what the Steers would have socked the Medina County representatives with much gusto. But the game wasn't another game. The state championship play cast a different rump on the entire arrangement. As a result, the Steers went down. The state tournament brought to a close the 1931 cage history of the local high school. It is too bad that the Longhorns failed to advance farther into the state tournament than they did. But they had a very successful season, regardless. For the first time in history a Big Spring team represented this section in the state finals. The Steers played lots of games, and won the majority of them. They took the district and bi-district honors in a breeze. Their season has been far from unsuccessful. In our estimation Bill Stevens is to be congratulated on going what he did with the Steers.

We have at hand a letter from the Giant Manufacturing Co., informing us it will be possible for us to obtain night baseball equipment for the summer. The letter, with all its blanks, will be turned over to Spikette Henninger of Cosden Refinery. Personally, we viewed night baseball all last summer.

Only representatives of the states were permitted in the conference room, after extensive facilities for newspaper men had been arranged. Considerable delay was occasioned while Murray sought to await the arrival of an Arkansas representative. Murray announced that London would not attend but said a New Mexico delegate was enroute to the meeting. The Oklahoman did not know his name. Congressman Wright Patman was among the spectators asked to absent themselves from the room.

What the NEW HUMIDOR PACK

*means to Camel Smokers**

COMPARE a package of Camels with any other cigarette and note the difference in the technique of packing.

Note that Camels are completely enclosed in an outer transparent cover of moisture-proof cellophane and sealed air-tight at every point.

We call this outer shell the Humidor Pack. It differs from the ordinary cellophane pack and while it is egg-shell thin, it means a lot in terms of cigarette enjoyment.

It means, for instance, that evaporation is checkmated and that Salt Lake City can now have as good Camels as Winston-Salem.

While Camels are made of a blend of the choicest Turkish and mellowest domestic tobaccos, it is highly important, if you are to get full benefit of this quality, that these cigarettes come to you with their natural moisture content still intact.

The Humidor Pack insures that. It prevents the fine tobaccos of Camels from drying out and losing any of their delightful flavor.

Aside from cheap tobacco, two factors in a cigarette can mar the smoker's pleasure:

Fine particles of peppery dust if left in the tobacco by inefficient cleaning methods sting and irritate delicate throat membrane.

Dry tobacco, robbed of its natural moisture by scorching or by evaporation gives off a hot smoke that burns the throat with every inhalation.

We take every precaution against these factors here at Winston-Salem.

A special vacuum cleaning apparatus removes dust and now the new Humidor Pack prevents dryness.

Check the difference yourself

It is a very simple matter to check the difference between Humidor Packed Camels and other ordinary dry cigarettes.

First of all you can feel the difference as you roll the cigarettes between your fingers. Camels are full-bodied and pliable. A dry cigarette crumbles under pressure and sheds tobacco.

If you will hold a cigarette to each ear and roll them with your fingers you can actually hear the difference.

The real test of course is to smoke them. And here's where the new Humidor Pack proves a real blessing to the smoker.

As you inhale the cool, fragrant smoke from a Camel you get all the mildness and magic of the fine tobaccos of which it is blended.

But when you draw in the hot smoke from a dried cigarette see how flat and brackish it is by comparison and how harsh it is to your throat.

If you are a regular Camel smoker you have already noticed what proper condition of the cigarette means.

But if you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack you have a new adventure with Lady Nicotine in store.

Switch your affections for just one day, then go back to your old love tomorrow if you can.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

The Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

State for T&PN

THE Texas & Pacific Northern Railway company's application to build a line from Big Spring to Sabcock, Amarillo and Vega, may become one of the most widely discussed and important filed with the interstate commerce commission in recent years.

In the brief filed in behalf of the application by the state of Texas through the attorney general, James V. Allred, jurisdiction of the I.C.C. is expressly questioned.

This may set up a situation wherein the often questioned right of the federal body to decide whether a line of railway entirely in one state shall be built may be tested through the courts.

To attempt to predict what effect, if any, the attorney general's position may have upon the fate of the application would be useless.

The mere fact that the state has unqualifiedly filed as a supporter of an application opposed by other lines operating within the state is significant. In recent years the only other case in which the state has taken a stand as an intervenor of record in a similar case, was in the Denver case, in which Dan Moody as attorney general figured as a supporter.

Monday is the final day on which briefs may be filed. Announcement of the recommendation of the examiner who conducted the T&PN hearing is expected most any week.

Meanwhile one of the richest agricultural sections in America is anxiously awaiting the attitude of the federal authorities toward construction of a line that would, every citizen believes, add millions to value of property, and serve as a most effective antidote for any sluggishness from which business may be suffering.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Democracy at It Again

Kansas City Star:

THE national committee in Washington yesterday resulted in notable service to the Democratic party organization and to the Republican party as well. Democracy's leaders now know what might have been plain before, that the two party elements apparently are irreconcilable on perhaps the chief issue before the party and the country itself.

That knowledge, gained this far ahead of the party convention, should be of some value. It is a clear warning of the perilous road ahead for Democracy on the question of prohibition. What Democracy will be able to do about it, only the future can tell. It is plain that the party does not know what it can do about it.

As for the Republicans, they should be happy if not jubilant. For the first time in two years they have had a "break" a definite and a big one. If the Democrats had assembled in the capital city yesterday for no other purpose than to give comfort and assurance to Mr. Hoover and the Republican organization, the scarcely could have succeeded better than they did. It might have seemed for a moment that the Democrats were going to play "good politics," that, as Mr. Haskob indicated, they were not going to take any stand, even be called upon to take any stand, on the red hot issue of liquor.

But it was not to be. The ghost had to stalk into the banquet chamber. No amount of forced hilarity, self-assurance or complacency could keep out the disturbing apparition. The issue lay upon the soul of Mr. Haskob. It had to be brought to the surface. The party chairman could not hold silence; neither could the opposition forces within the committee ranks.

Thus the major lines of the national campaign seem to have been drawn more than a year in advance. Throughout two years, instead of just a part of one year, the next presidential campaign will be waged. As the line-up now goes, the Republic are as lucky. Their position is perhaps settled through the stand Mr. Hoover and of the party itself at its last convention. But the matter of Democracy is to be severely tried. It seems to be a miracle of 1928 over again, so far as prohibition is concerned.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

SYNOPSIS: Search for the missing will of Annabelle Querdling may disclose a possible answer to the riddle of her murder. Her niece, Evelyn and Marjorie Blake, would forfeit their inheritance should they marry, according to the will, but both deny knowledge of it or of the murderer. So also do Lionel Duckworth, Evelyn's fiancé, Dr. Netherton, Major Gresham, in love with Miss Querdling, as well as others questioned. A mysterious stranger seen near the house on the fatal night proves to be Vincent Blake, brother of the niece and possible beneficiary of the estate, but he denies having entered the grounds. In discussing the case with the police Superintendent Richmond, Jimmie Haswell, young detective who has been aiding him, asks if he is prepared to accept the guilt of one or both of the nieces.

Chapter 17 WEIGHING THE CASE RICHMOND was silent for a few minutes, but when he spoke it was with his old vigor. "I am prepared to accept the guilt of any one, man or woman, within the bounds of the evidence." Jimmie nodded and the superintendent continued. "Take the two girls, Evelyn and Duckworth called on you two months ago about the letters. On the night Miss Querdling was found to be indoors singing, as witnesses have said, while she benefited through her death, their story is consistent. "Evelyn seems truthful, while Marjorie has never explained her movements in the garden, saying that after talking to the doctor she had waited alone in the moonlight. It brings me back to my former suspicion, for until I heard of Vincent Blake and the will I had the doctor foremost in my mind. He probably knew of the will—he may even have been a witness to it. "You realize that your case against him rests entirely on the supposition that he wants to marry of going home, nor his subsequent movements. He phoned Marjorie so that her story would agree with his. Also, had there been others in the garden, would not he or the girl have seen them?" "It was a formidable indictment, but he had not finished. "If the will has been stolen, he and the girls are perhaps more likely than any one else to have taken it. And if any one continued those death threats to throw suspicion on the original writer, who so likely as this doctor who knew about them from the first and who was playing for a big stake?" "As he concluded he looked with an air of triumph at Jimmie, who quickly saw that if he supported the theory put forward, Netherton's arrest would undoubtedly follow. "Have you not overlooked the fact that Major Gresham was in the crime?" Jimmie inquired. "I have not overlooked it. We are satisfied with his explanation." "Still, it weakens one of your points against Netherton. And Gresham was to get 5,000 under the will. What about that? Was not his story a bit odd? Five thousand is a good deal of money. He may have known of the will. The lady herself may have told him. But he would know it was valueless until signed." "Exactly, Mr. Haswell. You can't be both sides of the hedge." "Anyway, I must look both sides," laughed Jimmie. "You have said you are convinced the will was not signed; and that disposes of the 5,000 and your case against Gresham." "I have no case against Gresham. I only pointed out that you seemed to be forgetting him. Your points against Netherton all rest on the assumption that he loves or wants to marry Marjorie Blake. You can easily attach too much importance to what you call Miss Querdling's warning. Undoubtedly her mind was obsessed with the desire to prevent her niece marrying. "It does not prove that the wish or intention existed. If Netherton can show that he really loves some one else, or if Marjorie can show that she does, your case comes un-stuck." Richmond declared that though inquiries in the village had failed to disclose any such love affairs. "They both may be fancy free, said Jimmy, "but should there be any other attachments, the bottom drops out of your case. Netherton's sole motive for killing Miss Querdling would be to get Marjorie and the money. If he does not want her, or she does not want him, the motive disappears. While Netherton's financial position might have caused him to seek a rich wife, it might also deter him from seeking any wife at all—or prevent his asking a girl to marry him. As to Marjorie, it is perfectly natural, in view of her aunt's attitude, that she should try to conceal a love affair. "Richmond waved his hand with a gesture of impatience. "What do you suggest?" "Neither the doctor nor the girl will disappear," Jimmie answered. "You can take them whenever you have a mind to. Do not do it until you have practically cleared every one else. Gresham you acquit. Frater have accounted for Vincent Blake. His story has yet to be verified. But an empty car was seen against the fence, inside the fence. Whose was it? Where was the owner? Until you can answer those questions you will not have a complete case against any one." Superintendent Richmond was silent. "You see," Jimmie went on, "our clear thinking has worked in a circle and come back to the point at which we started. Solve the mystery of that car and everything else may fall into its right place. Perhaps you are right, Mr. Haswell. I believe Netherton is the man, but I'll have another go at it. "Richmond's perplexity was understandable, but Jimmie tried next morning to disambiguate the case from his mind as he joined the Wades at breakfast. He was glad when Audrey telephoned him and suggested golf. "I'd love it," he told her. "You mean another foursome?" "No. I want to play—with you. The little pause told him she was thinking not only of the game, but that she wanted an opportunity for a quiet talk. There was a sort of suppressed eagerness in her voice, something important back of it.

HOW'S your HEALTH

THE Thyroid

More is probably known about the structure, function, diseases and treatment of the thyroid gland than of any other of the so-called endocrines or glands of internal secretion.

The thyroid is located near the wind-pipe and a little below and behind the Adam's apple, and is formed of two pear-shaped lobes. Close to it, but of different functions, are similar glands of internal secretion, the parathyroids.

The thyroid through its secretion or secretions, regulates the metabolic rate of the body. It controls the rate of "burning up" of body fuels. MacCarrison declares that "the thyroid is to the human body what the draft is to the fire."

The thyroid stimulates growth in the young and assists in the utilization by the body of protein substances. It influences, in some way not yet determined, sexual function.

The thyroid secretes a substance known as thyroxin, of which iodine is an important element. It is interesting and significant that thyroxin is found in the milk of nursing mothers, the infant obtaining its chief supply of iodine in this way.

Since the secretions of the thyroid influence growth, this is another point in favor of the breastfeeding of infants.

The influence of the thyroid on growth has been shown by Jacques Loeb, who demonstrated that by the destruction of the thyroid in tadpoles they could be kept from changing into a frog.

The tadpoles could grow to unusual size and for relatively long periods, but they lacked the capacity to change into the adult frog stage.

On the other hand, if very young tadpoles were fed with thyroid gland, the change into frogs could be hastened, some reaching the adult stage when no larger than a fly.

Hotel Keys
Officers who took charge of Pigg's effects found among them two keys to a local hotel room. Gray Browne, county attorney, said he had learned that Pigg and several associates from other points had attended a tire men's conference here over week end, the visitors occupying a suite of three rooms. Browne said an inspection of the rooms revealed a large number of empty beer bottles, an empty wine jar, and a newly empty alcohol jar.

Last night, and again this morning, Mrs. Pigg went to the morgue to view her husband's body. Today she was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. T. B. Caldwell, of Mount Pleasant, and her husband's sister, Miss Rose Ann Pigg of Dallas. The young woman and her sister-in-law stood close together as they looked at the body, Miss Pigg giving way to grief.

Today the body of Pigg was placed in an ambulance, to be conveyed to Greenville, his former home, for burial tomorrow. In the cortege leaving Abilene were Mrs. Pigg, Miss Pigg, Mrs. Caldwell, and a group of friends of the couple.

The Piggs came here six months ago from Sweetwater. They were married three and one-half years ago. Neighbors said they lived very quietly, apparently very happy, and the the Sabbath afternoon tragedy was a shock to the neighborhood.

This Man's life was saved by a Long Distance call that went through fast

"Emergency!" a voice shouted. "Get Raymond Ditmars, quick... New York, Fordham 5560!"

Molly Malone, long distance operator, did not know the speaker was George Vierheller, Director of the St. Louis Zoo. She did not know that nine minutes earlier Marlin Perkins, curator of reptiles, had been bitten by a deadly Gaboon viper.

She did not know that Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the New York Zoo, is one of the few authorities on the treatment of American snake bites.

All she knew was that it was an emergency! "I'll do my best," said Molly. "Hold the line."

In New York, three or four minutes later, Ditmars lifted his telephone receiver.

"Perkins has been bitten by a Gaboon viper," he heard Vierheller say. "We have injected serum. We want to know how far we can go—what kinds of serum to use, how much, and at what intervals."

Concisely, Ditmars gave directions—the sure, definite directions of the expert.

"It's serious," he concluded, "but you must pull him through."

Perkins did pull through... Today he is back at work in his laboratory. Scars, marking the incisions in his left arm, are the only evidence of his ordeal.

On ordinary calls, long distance is just as speedy, just as dependable. If you give the number of the telephone you are calling, in most cases you will be connected while you hold the line. It's like telephoning across the street.

And you can talk 100 miles for 60 cents.

*Dr. Forest H. Staley, St. Louis authority on snake poisons, took charge after emergency treatment was given, conferred twice more by telephone with Ditmars—pulled Perkins through. —See Bulletin of Anti-Venom Institute of America, Vol. III, No. 2, July, 1923.

her did before him. Rich men, educated men, on Wall Street and in all big Businesses were perhaps carrying on their Fathers business in what they had always thought was a safe and sane way, yet look what happened to them. Look what happened to everybody. The smart, the crafty, the shrewd, they all got it, only they had somebody who would help em. These people had nobody, their friends were the same as they were. I was raised on a Farm and Ranch combined, was raised where they had Renter Farmers, and I have always conscientiously believed that a poor share crop renter was the poorest and least provided for men in, this or any other Country, and the Cotton renter is just half again poorer than this wheat or Corn renter, so you see what shape he is in. The man in the City that has to live in the slums with his family, but he gets something every day for his work, he has something to show for it every week, he knows what he is making, he knows what he is spending. He has his little money, he can buy what he can find its the cheapest. This poor renter has to stay with the same merchant for the year even if he is overcharged. Then they tell me some of you have raised your Red Cross Quota. Well all I hope is you are never a Renter farmer. (Copyright 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Miss Edith Gay Honored By St. Patrick's Tea

Lovely Handkerchiefs and Good Wishes Showered On Honoree

Miss Edith Gay, who is leaving for her home in DeKalb, was the honoree at a lovely St. Patrick's tea, and handkerchiefs showered upon her yesterday afternoon at the home of her cousin, Miss Roberta Gay. Assisting Miss Roberta were Miss Marie Faubion, Mrs. Johnnie Lane and Mrs. H. M. Rainbolt.

The rooms were attractively decorated for the occasion with peach blossoms, pink carnations, ferns and bowls of fresh violets.

Miss Faubion was at the door and Miss Alice Leeper presided over the register in which the guests' names were written and the book later given to the honoree.

The dining table carried out St. Patrick's colors effectively with an Irish rose lace cloth over green. Green tapers flanked a centerpiece of blue violets. Cheese nut sandwiches in the shape of shamrocks, green potato chips, olives and green and white mints were served. Mrs. Johnnie Lane poured, assisted by Mrs. J. O. Barker.

During the afternoon Miss Thelma Jackson at the violin, accompanied by Miss Roberta Gay and Miss Dorothy King at the piano, furnished enjoyable music for the tea.

The honoree received many lovely handkerchiefs.

The following guests called between the hours of 2 and 5: Mrs. Roy V. Jones, Miss Fannie May Russell, Mrs. Hayes Stripling, Mrs. Frank Etter, Miss Thelma Jackson, Miss Clara L. Cox, Mrs. L. C. ## County Children And Teachers Invited To Attend Art Exhibit

A special invitation has been extended to all school children and teachers in Howard County to come on Wednesday to the basement of the Presbyterian Church to see the art exhibit of paintings by Texas artists.

The children of the town schools will visit the exhibit at different hours in the afternoon from 2 to 5. Children in Coahoma and rural schools are asked to attend during those hours whenever it is most convenient. Members of the Hyperion Club will be at the exhibit as hostesses.

Town and county adults are invited to the informal silver tea on Thursday afternoon from 3 to 6. This is one of the most worthwhile events of the season, and ranks with the presentation of the Shakespearean plays as a event of high cultural importance to young and old alike. It is hoped that everybody who is interested in art or in the expression of native Texans in any of the arts, will see this exhibit. It is one of the best collections of Texas art in the state. This is the first time Big Spring and the surrounding country has had such an opportunity.

IGNORE TROLLEY TRACKS
HARTFORD, Conn. (INS)—"Lines of tracks mean little as hazards to many people in Connecticut," says Robbins B. Stoeckel, state commissioner of motor vehicles, who finds residents of the state altogether too careless about parking their machines near trolley lines, and who is campaigning to end the hazards. Commissioner Stoeckel's study in the matter revealed the fact that so many trolley lines have been abandoned and their tracks left in place that people are taking it for granted that all trolley tracks are no longer in use. Results have been tragic.
