Insurance Hearings Arouse Controversy

Asian Flu Outbreak Sweeps Across Nation

Seen As Campaign Issue In Elections

By United Press International
Fresh outbreaks of Asian flu swelled across the nation today, causing high absenteeism from schools, jobs and in the entertainment industry.
The Asian bug, which as a wide-eyed foreigner to U.S. shores two years ago caused scores of deaths and laid millions on their backs for a few days, was up nearly as widespread as in 1957.
But it had caused a "low grade epidemic" in Southern California and threatened serious outbreaks in the Detroit area, where anti-flu vaccines were running low.
Some states reported a higher than normal incidence of influenza-type cases, and across the country the damp, cold season was taking a heavy toll of school children, teachers and civic officials.
An estimated half-million Los Angeles area residents were stricken with Asian flu and other viruses. Dr. Malcolm Merrill, state health officer, identified the disease as Asian influenza, but county health officer Roy O. Gilbert said half a dozen viruses probably were involved.
Actors, actresses, crew members and even producer-director Alfred Hitchcock were laid low with bloodshot eyes and fevers. Work on more than five TV shows and Hitchcock's movie, "Psycho," was delayed or postponed by flu attacks.
In the Detroit area, Albert Piasa, president of the Detroit Board of Health, said doctors were ordering about five times as much vaccine as a short time ago and supplies were running low.
Detroit's city-county health director, Dr. Joseph Milner, said teachers have been absent from school at double the normal rate. A spot check indicated that factory absenteeism was 2 per cent above normal. Milner said 40,000 persons in the Detroit area were stricken with some type of flu.
The first two cases of Asian flu were reported in Iowa Thursday. State officials said large numbers of people were suffering from an unidentified virus in the Davenport area and believed the flu was spreading in Iowa.
Thousands were ill in a Texas flu outbreak, but state health department official Dr. Howard E. Smith said the illness was at "status quo."

AUSTIN (UPI)—Political observers who predict that automobile insurance will be the biggest campaign issue of 1960 could be right if the public hearing before the State Board of Insurance is any indication.
The board, threatened by some legislators and applauded by others for its new "safe driver" plan of insurance rating, hoped to wind up the hearing today and then decide whether to toss out the program altogether, keep it as is, or make some modification.
The last choice seemed to be the one most acceptable to the majority of witnesses to appear as the hearing opened Thursday.
Sen. Jarrard Secrest of Temple, a lawmaker who has championed flexible automobile insurance in Texas, sternly warned that if some changes are not made by the board, the legislature is likely to strike it down entirely.
"I have found more resentment to this plan than to any other state action since I have been a member of the legislature," Secrest said.
Rep. Steve Burgess of Nacogdoches said "tax bills didn't shock the people like this insurance plan did."
The plan, which went into effect Jan. 1, basically provides for higher insurance rates for drivers who have traffic violations and accidents on their record in the past three years, and gives decreased rates to drivers with no violations.
The strongest opposition came from those who thought traffic violations should not be used as a basis for rate making. A lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the plan was filed against the board Wednesday in Houston on this basis.
But Gus Wortham of Houston, a representative of the Texas Fire and Casualty Companies, said violators must be included if the plan is to encourage safe driving.
"You don't prevent accidents by penalties against those who happen to have them," he said. "To prevent accidents, it is necessary to discourage the driving practices which cause accidents."
"That is what this plan is designed to do, and this is the heart of the issue regarding the inclusion of traffic violations for rating purposes."
C. E. Tarver of Houston, a spokesman for Gulf Coast General Insurance Agency, said Texas policy holders "seemed to be four-to-one in favor of the plan" because approximately 80 per cent of the drivers expect a reduction in premium rates.
Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, a leading critic, contended the plan was an unfair base because all violators are not caught. Hazlewood said an East Texas (See INSURANCE, Page 3)

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Supreme Soviet today unanimously approved Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal to cut Soviet armed forces by 1,200,000 men, thus putting it into effect.
Both houses of the Russian Parliament approved the new law after Khrushchev again took the rostrum to note that "all people who spoke on my report and on the draft law expressed their approval."
"Allow me to express my gratitude," he added, voicing his thanks for the confidence given him by the Communist Party central committee and the government.
Khrushchev also asked the Supreme Soviet to approve a resolution calling on all the world's parliaments to follow Russia's lead in cutting their national armed strength.
Both houses formally approved the resolution and then ended the first 1960 session of the Supreme Soviet.
The vote on the arms-cut law was made by a show of hands in both houses. There was no dissent.
The final day of the two-day session of the 1,400-member Parliament saw speaker after speaker giving his approval of the troop slash. Khrushchev said the Soviet Union would depend for its future defense on a nuclear rocket force and a "fantastic" new weapon now in development.
Adoption of Khrushchev's proposal came after Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko charged that the Western powers were trying to delay disarmament and only "the Soviet Union is leading the disarmament effort."
Gromyko said that as a result of the troop cut Russia would have fewer forces than the United States "despite the fact that the territory of the Soviet Union is greater than the United States, and its frontiers longer."
Ivan Spiridonov, secretary of the Communist party in the Leningrad area and the first speaker, called on the United States to follow the Russian example of cutting its armed forces and said this would be a good start toward peace.
He said the Soviet Union was disarming because it believes in concrete actions and not formulas and that he believed Khrushchev's plan should be adopted because it does not in any way diminish the Soviet Union's defense effort. (See REQUEST, Page 2)

Carr Blasts Will Wilson For Decision

His Request Was Granted—Quickly!

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is plenty of reason for America's "show me" attitude toward Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's announcement that he will slash the Soviet armed forces.
And there is little room for comfort. Even if Khrushchev carried out the 1,200,000-man cut, he still apparently would have the largest military establishment in the world.
Behind U.S. skepticism over the new cut were Allied intelligence reports that Russia has not made anything like the cut in armed manpower that it previously has announced.
Moreover, in telling the Supreme Soviet Thursday that he would reduce military forces by one-third, Khrushchev gave himself two years to carry out the promise.
During that time, he could capitalize on the propaganda value of the promise even if later he found some reason not to make good on the reduction.
Another reason for U.S. skepticism is Khrushchev's statement that Soviet military forces now number 3,623,000 men. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization estimates Russia's armed manpower at 4,900,000.
The newest promised reduction brings to 3,040,000 the number of men Russia has said it would cut from its armed forces since August, 1955.
All evidence indicates Russia politically has adopted the massive retaliation concept originated by the U. S. Air Force after World War II. But militarily the Soviet Union has continued its preparations for all kinds of wars and has built flexible forces for the purpose.

Chicago Policemen Arrested On Burglary Charge

CHICAGO (UPI)—Flying squads of police rounded up eight low officers in swift, pre-dawn raids today and booked them on burglary charges.
Police officials said the raids, staged in secrecy reminiscent of the quickie roundups of Chicago's war years, turned up four stolen cars, enough to fill two rooms at the state's attorney's office.
The roundup was launched on a tip of a burglary suspect who argued that the eight policemen were as fences for a gang of thieves.
Asst. State Atty. Frank Perillo said a "goodly" number of other policemen were believed involved. Some reports said the number might go as high as 40.
Police Commissioner Timothy J. Conroy immediately suspended the arrested policemen from the force and they were booked on burglary charges by deputy chief of detectives Howard Pierson.

Four TV Advertisers Charged With Fraud In Demonstrations

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission has accused four manufacturers and their advertising agencies of using deceptive "demonstrations" to promote nationally-known products on television and in printed ads.
The products were identified as Rapid Shave's moistening qualities, Palmolive's shaving cream, and Alcoa's aluminum foil and Pepodent toothpaste.
The commission charged Thursday that demonstrations of these products in TV commercials and some instances in newspapers and magazine ads "do not prove what they purport to prove."
The alleged "deceptions" included a moisture-producing substance applied to the margins to produce "flavor gems" and glass or plexiglass coating on sand to give Rapid Shave's moistening qualities the "misleading implication" that Rapid Shave's moistening qualities would permit even sand paper to be shaved.
The Colgate-Palmolive Co., maker of Rapid Shave, insisted in a statement that its shaving cream could shave sandpaper as advertised. It conceded it did not actually use sandpaper in its demonstration—but only because of lighting and other technical problems.
The FTC charged Alcoa Wrap demonstrations subjected an "ordinary wrap" to deliberate abuse so it would compare unfavorably with the Alcoa product. Alcoa denied the charge and said its claims for its aluminum foil have been backed up in tests.
The FTC said a demonstration in which Pepodent and a competitive product were used to scrub cigarette smoke stains on a piece of enamel "does not actually prove, as purported, that Pepodent toothpaste is effective in removing tobacco smoke stains from teeth."

FBI Men Probe Crash Of Plane

By RONALD H. NESSEN
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Government agents conducted a man-month investigation today to determine whether a bomb caused last week's National Airlines crash which killed all 34 persons aboard.
Part of the inquiry centered on a passenger who was covered by about a million dollars worth of recently-acquired insurance.
FBI and Civil Aeronautics Board investigators were trying to discover whether a man-made explosion blew the New York to Miami flight from the sky near Bolivia, N.C., Jan. 8.

Less Persons Unemployed In December

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Unemployment fell "significantly" last month although it usually climbs in December, informed sources said today.
The number of jobs also rose to a record high for December and average factory workers' weekly earnings increased to a new peak.
The official job figures will be announced today by the Labor Department. They were described in advance by Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell as a "good improvement" over the previous month.
The unemployed numbered 3,670,000 and employment reached 65,640,000 in November.
Mitchell said settlement of the steel dispute cleared the last major cloud from the economic horizon. He predicted 1960 would be "extraordinarily good" economically. He made the forecast at a news conference Thursday before leaving for a rest in Florida.

Kennedy, Humphrey Expected To Enter Wisconsin Primary

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin said today he expected a head-on clash between Sens. John F. Kennedy and Hubert H. Humphrey in his state's presidential primary April 5.
"I have no inside information but I think there is a good chance that he (Kennedy) will decide that he's got to go in Wisconsin," Proxmire told a reporter.
Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), who has announced he will enter the District of Columbia and Oregon primaries, said he would throw his support to Adlai E. Stevenson under certain conditions.
Stevenson, unsuccessful Democratic presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956, insisted he is not candidate for his party's presidential or vice presidential nomination this year. "I enjoy private life," Stevenson said.
Humphrey already has announced that he will enter the Democratic presidential primary in Wisconsin, where he claims strong support.
If Kennedy should stay out, Proxmire said he would be "inclined to consider seriously" entering the primary as a favorite son candidate.
Kennedy told the National Press Club Thursday that he was impressed by the recommendation of his brother and campaign adviser, Robert F. Kennedy, that he stay out of the Wisconsin primary. He suggested that if he entered (See KENNEDY, Page 2)

Department Store Sales Increase

DALLAS (UPI)—Department store sales in five major Texas cities for the week ended Jan. 9 were 1 per cent higher than sales at the same time last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas said today.
Actually, sales in four of the five cities dropped below last year's volume but a sharp increase in store sales at Dallas lifted the total for the five cities over last year's mark.
Dallas was up 10 per cent. San Antonio stores showed the sharpest sales drop, falling 10 per cent under last year's total. El Paso and Fort Worth were 7 per cent below 1959 totals while Houston was off 5 per cent.

Of Woman Professor

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Dr. George H. Mickey, distinguished scientist and dean of the Louisiana State University Graduate School, took breakfast in the parish jail today—charged with murder in the bludgeon slaying of his spinster scientific protégé, J. B. Klinge Jr., announced at 5:30 p.m. Thursday that Mickey had been arrested. Two minutes after the announcement, the dean was booked on a warrant signed by District Atty. J. St. Clair Favrot.
Last Sunday, Mickey was re-elected president of Beta Beta Beta, a national biological fraternity. Early the same day, the body of Rosie McMillan, his alleged victim—a biology pioneer in her own right and a professor in the university's New Orleans branch—was found beside her little Renault car in a narrow private road near the swollen Mississippi River.
Her skull was cracked with 18 blows from a sharp, heavy weapon. She lay in a massive stain of blood, and the coroner said she must have bled to death about an hour after the attack. Besides teaching she had been researching on a government grant, for the space program, studying the possibility of using algae to replenish the air for human beings in space ships.

Air Force Exits Threatened Ice Floe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force announced today it has successfully completed the evacuation of 29 men and all equipment from an ice floe experimental station that started breaking up a week ago 450 miles north of Point Barrow, Alaska.
A spokesman said the last evacuation flight left the ice floe this morning. Air Force Capt. Arthur H. Schroeder, commander of the drift station, was among those aboard.
Maj. Philip A. Peacock, public information officer, said eight men were flown to Fairbanks Thursday in one of the two C123 transports being used in the withdrawal operation. A road grader, mattresses, pillows and a radio antenna were also brought out on the flight.

Roberts Co. Junior Stock Show Scheduled Saturday

The Roberts County Junior Livestock Show is scheduled to begin tomorrow in Miami at 2:00 p.m. Victor Joyner, Roberts County Agriculture Agent, said today.

Awards will be given for the first five places in each of two divisions, (1) heavy and (2) light, steer calves. The divisions will be equal and determined by weights. The top weights will be in the first division and the lesser weights will comprise the second.

Cash awards will be: $12.50 for first; $10.00 for second; $7.50 for third; $5.00 for fourth; and $2.50 for fifth in each division. In addition, Wayne Maddox, Miami Hereford Breeder, will present a loving cup to the youngster possessing the Grand Champion calf.

L. M. Breedlove, County Agent of Clarendon, will serve as Judge. The men of the committee of the Miami Service Club are: William Tolbert, Newt Cox, and J. W. Thompson. Reeves Pharmacy will serve lunch to all exhibitors.

The show will take place on the vacant lot across from Mrs. C. A. Gunn's Apartments.

Historical Society Plans Observance Of Anniversary

The Pampa Genealogical and Historical Society completed plans for the observance of their first anniversary last night.

Tracy D. Cary, president of the organization, said they will hold a dinner in February to celebrate the founding of the society last year.

Two volumes on genealogical research in England and Wales were presented to the society's collection in memory of Mrs. M. K. Brown at last night's meeting.

David Grayson of Whiteside was appointed committee chairman of the group's book collection and archives committee. Other members include Mrs. C. M. Heflin, Mrs. Cliff Drake, Mrs. Clayton Persons, Mrs. J. L. Barker, Mrs. Joe Anderson, Mrs. Walter Love and Mrs. Margarite Black, all of Pampa, and Luther Fruit of Borger.

Guests at last night's meeting included Mrs. Montie Haggard and Mrs. Dee Anders, both of Pampa.

Only One Accident Reported To Police

Only one accident was reported to the police department yesterday.

At 10:35 a.m., a car driven by Gloria F. Foster, 1206 E. Francis and an automobile driven by Tomas D. Phillips, Rt. 2, Pampa, collided near the intersection of Kentucky and Coffee Sts.

No injuries resulted from the crash, but the Foster car was damaged in the amount of $78, and the Phillips vehicle suffered approximately $50 damage.

Police pointed out this is the 36th wreck in the city since Jan. 1. The monthly average for last year was 48. There were 79 accidents in December of 1959, all before the stretch of bad weather near the end of the month.

The official said investigators would explore thoroughly the background of each passenger and would question relatives and neighbors.

Bakke said Frank took out accident or life insurance policies from April to December totaling about $589,000 plus two policies totaling $125,000 just before boarding the plane. All were made out to his wife, Janet, a former fashion model.

Newsman saw the widow dash from the Franks' $45,000 Westport home Thursday night and speed away in a car. The wife of her attorney described her as "absolutely hysterical" over developments in the crash inquiry.

Frank's grandfather, Philip Frank of New York City, said he knew "absolutely nothing" about any big insurance policies. He said his grandson was "in high spirits, not at all depressed" when he saw him last at a Christmas dinner.

weaken the Soviet Union's striking powers.

(Some of Spiridonov's remarks were deleted by Soviet censors who also cut in on the Moscow London telephone line when a reference was made to the "fantastic, formidable" weapons mentioned Thursday by Khrushchev.)

Spiridonov said he regretted that millions of persons in the world were still working on "sterile" jobs producing arms or in military service.

Nikita Zaslavkin, deputy head of the department of labor and wages of the U.S.S.R. state planning committee, wrote today in the newspaper Leninskoye Znamya that demobilized sailors and soldiers would be found jobs in the national economy.

He said industrial and clerical workers were in demand everywhere, especially in Siberia, the Urals, the Far East, Kazakhstan and the north country in ore mining, coal, timber and construction work. He also said the savings in cutting the armed forces would construct 10,000 buildings.

All Moscow newspapers printed the full text of Khrushchev's speech, with Komomolshaya Pravda, the young Communist organization paper, headlining: "reason Dictates: Disarmament! Peace!"

The Soviet Tass news agency said meanwhile the U. S. State Department statement on Khrushchev's disarmament resolution "attempts to cover up a reluctance to take reciprocal disarmament steps."

the Wisconsin contest. Humphrey should go into the New Hampshire primary March 8. But Humphrey has no intention of entering the New Hampshire test, which is regarded as wrapped up for Kennedy.

Kennedy's strategists think a contest in Wisconsin, next door to Humphrey's Minnesota, would not be a fair test on neutral ground. They feel that Kennedy could win most of the delegates but still show weakness in farm districts.

Foreign News

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign Editor
The man-of-the-week: Antoine Pinay, fired as finance minister of France.

The place: Paris.
The quote: "Do you think I'm going to keep Jacquinet company?"

It was the bitter remark of a man at another turn in the road of a political life which has had many turns.

It was Pinay's exit line from the government of President Charles de Gaulle's Fifth Republic whose success in restoring the French economy in just over a year's time largely has been attributed to Pinay.

The reference was to Louis Jacquinet, a member of Pinay's own Independent (Conservative) Party, who holds a post of minister of state but with little or no power.

In effect, it was a summation of Pinay's own attitude. Pinay, a "hard money" man, was saying that either he would rule French financial policy, or he would be fired. He would not resign.

To be sure, there was one more line. It came 24 hours later, after a final conference between Pinay and de Gaulle at which Pinay reportedly refused to accept a post which represented a step down.

"I am quitting the government and I am retiring from all political life," he said, "at least momentarily."
The latter phrase meant that

Bad Snow Storm Sweeps Eastward

By United Press International

A crippling snow storm, dropping up to 11 inches on northern plains states, swept eastward across the Great Lakes today.

Schools and roads were closed wholesale in Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska and Iowa as one of the season's worst storms piled up high drifts under the lashing of winds up to 50 miles an hour.

Four tornadoes, spawned by the clash between northern cold and southern warmth, caused damage in Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

New snows in Wisconsin threatened to send the Rock River rising again at Rockford. In northern Illinois, where 30 residents of a low-lying island were forced from their homes by flood waters.

The storm was expected to drop four more inches of snow in central Wisconsin today before driving into northern lower Michigan.

The Northeast, just recovering from a nine-inch snowfall, was pelted by freezing rain which produced hazardous driving from southwestern New England to Western Pennsylvania.

Thursday's snow storm dropped 10 inches in Kansas, six to 11 inches from northern Colorado through Nebraska and two to 11 inches across Iowa before moving Gaule now. But, significantly, he left the door open.

Data Capsule Dismantled

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Scientists began taking apart a data capsule from the nose of a new "hot rod" Thor missile today to find out if the space rocket booster did everything it should in flight.

The data capsule was contained in a new conical nose cone driven by a new propulsion system. It was recovered from the ocean northeast of Antigua Island two hours after the Thor roared 1,700 miles over the Atlantic Thursday.

The test flight was the first in a series of three for the "hot rod" Thor engine with which the Air Force hopes to increase the missile's use for civilian space experiments.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whatever the strength the stock market has should come to the fore in the early part of this year, according to Gerald M. of E. F. Hutton & Co.

think it will be concentrated in the Dow stocks, in special situations and possibly in some "rebounds" from an as of 1959 selling, the stocker points out.

Bank stocks continue to offer value for income and moderate longer term growth, says analysts in New York — Manufacturers Trust, First National and Chemical Bank — are notably priced.

McChesney & Co. says Ford appears to be attracting greater attention above the strong support zone. Harco seems to have one better chart pattern in its up. Further upward progress seems to be in order for Harco, firm adds.

URGES PET VACCINATION
 GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (UPI)—Burl Cockrell, city sanitarian, urged Grand Prairie residents to vaccinate their pets today to fight a rabies threat. The city health department has found a number of rabid skunks. "I fear there's a reservoir of rabies around our city—these skunks are coming into town at night and it is not normal for this animal to do this," Cockrell said.

URGES DENTAL CARE
 AUSTIN (UPI)—Gov. Price Daniel urged parents to educate their children in dental care Wednesday in proclaiming Feb. 7-13 as "Children's Dental Health Week" in Texas.

Will Not Be Puppet For District Atty.
 HOUSTON (UPI)—Mrs. Jacques Moessler, lashing out at Dist. Atty. Dan Walton, "resigned" Wednesday night from the Harris county grand jury.
 But there was a question of the legality of her move. District Judge Sam Davis said after checking law books on the subject that he was convinced that a grand juror could not legally resign.
 "I'm not discharging anybody and I'm not accepting any resignations," Davis said. The jury's term ends on Jan. 31.
 "Wild horses couldn't drag me back," she said defiantly.
 "I'm just sick and tired of being a puppet for the district attorney's office," she explained.
 "Dist. Atty. Dan Walton has been forcing the grand jury to function like a rubber stamp."

Police Searching For Weapon Which Killed Biology Teacher

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Authorities today began an intensified search for the weapon used to club an attractive biology professor to death just five miles from the campus of Louisiana State University.
 The renewed search for the thin, blunt instrument — perhaps the flat side of an axe or hatchet — followed the questioning of Dean

George Mickey, 49, "one of the few persons who knew" the slain professor, Dr. Margaret Rosamond McMillan, 39.

Mickey, dean of LSU's Graduate School, was one of several faculty members questioned by authorities. He is married and the father of two grown children.

Sources told United Press International that Dr. McMillan and the dean, an outstanding biologist himself, had a "brother-sister" relationship. She carried his picture in her billfold and a card indicating he was to be notified in an emergency.

Deputies would not say now close they were to finding out who met Dr. McMillan last Saturday night and killed her.

Chief Deputy J. B. Kling said there were still other persons who would be questioned during the course of the investigation. He indicated Mickey might be interrogated again along with other faculty members.

Capt. Jack Adams said "some laboratory analysis" tests were being made but refused to disclose their exact nature. Fingerprints found on Miss McMillan's car were being processed.

Navy Tests New Type Polaris Rocket

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—A Navy drive to get nuclear-warhead Polaris missiles aboard submarines before the end of 1960 picked up steam today after a perfect 900-mile strike by a proto-type rocket.

Navy sources said Wednesday's test missile, which has the same general physical proportions of the forthcoming operational Polaris, "met all its test objectives."

"We think it did everything we wanted it to" in its flight toward a target area just north of Puerto Rico, said one source.

The day also saw the successful firing of two 500-mile-range Matador guided missiles by a Tactical Air Command team. Matadors already are operational and on defense duty with forces in Europe.

But the Polaris, which Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White said would "complicate the enemy's defense problem" with its unique ability to be fired from submerged and moving submarines, grabbed the attention.

The rocket's 1960 test record is two successes in as many attempts. But unlike the shot six days earlier, Wednesday's Polaris contained no built-in guidance system. A "Make-do" system controlled from the ground kept the missile on course.

The shot came just a few days before the USS Observation Island, a laboratory ship equipped with a "ship motion simulator" tube from which Polaris-like will be fired within the next two months, was scheduled to arrive at Port Canaveral.

Scout Leaders To Borger Training Institute Sat.

A group of Adobe Walls Council professional and volunteer leaders will travel to Borger Saturday for an all-day session of the Scouters Training Institute, council executive Brantly Hudson said today.

Starting time is 9:30 a.m. and the program is expected to end around 5:30 p.m. The meeting is for district and council leaders who will relay their plans and information to the scoutmasters and others who work directly with the boys.

The Adobe Walls Council encompasses a 15-country area and 21 communities. Within its limits are more than 5,500 boy scouts and more than 2,500 volunteer leaders. One hundred forty two institutions sponsor 200 units within the council.

The place of the meeting will be the First Christian Church Educational Building at 200 S. Bryan Street, Borger.

Culture Abroad In Hands Of Adviser

By ALICIA HART
Staff Correspondent

INGTON (NEA) — The picture of the un-American is beginning to change in Europe. Barbara White, a new U.S. Information Agency cultural affairs adviser, says that taste-conscious Americans are realizing that U.S. history and philosophy are not the only things that should be taught in American schools. She explains that teachers who were with the U.S. began to realize that American courses were essential to their students.

Barbara White is the first woman to become a cultural affairs adviser for USIA.

and graduated from Mount Holyoke College in Massachusetts.

When she's not spreading U.S. culture overseas, Miss White enjoys hiking, swimming, horseback riding and choral singing.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Some months after her little sister was born, Patty developed the maddening habit of weeping whenever she was corrected.

Hurried and preoccupied, her mother would say sharply: "Don't mess up daddy's paper like that. If you want the funnies, turn the pages until you find them instead of pulling them all apart that way."

Patty, pushing the funnies away would look as stricken as though you'd accused her of murder—and promptly burst into tears.

This response made her mother feel like Simon Legree, an unpleasant feeling. Ashamed of hurting Patty, she'd try to make amends by taking her on her lap and cuddling her. But as this comfort contained apology and some secret impatience, it failed to comfort.

It merely confirmed Patty's impression that making a mistake was an intolerable thing so that she burst into tears again the very next time she was corrected for making one.

With children like Patty, the problem is always to reduce their fear of making mistakes.

We reduce it by giving them careful opportunities to correct the mistakes. Instead of cuddling out weeping Patty for messing up daddy's paper, we sit beside her on the floor and show her how to restore its scattered pages to order.

Instead of avoiding the subject of the tap she's left running in the bathroom by turning it off ourselves, we go upstairs with her while she turns it off with the same hand that left it running.

Instead of getting caught in her impression that making a mistake is a terrible thing, we reduce its terror for her by showing her how to put it right.

A child who is oversensitive to criticism has not been made aware of his own self-correcting powers. Though our cuddling may comfort him temporarily, it gives him no experience of his own strength, but keeps him dependent on ours.

Instead of helping him find the reassurance he needs within himself, it keeps him clinging to the we-deny-it-to-him, he-goes-to-pieces again. This is why, if we love him, we take the time to help him develop a record of self-correcting action that reduces his dependence on us as at the same time it reduces his fear of making mistakes.

Congress created the service that inspects and grades meat in jacking houses on June 30, 1906.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: First of all I for a respectable girl.

am no teen-ager, I am 23, I am not "innocent" either. When I was 19 I got involved with a guy and ended up with a baby and no husband. After this, whenever I dated a fellow he took it for granted that I was easy and I had a fight on my hands after every date.

Men think that just because a girl made one mistake she has nothing to lose. When I make it plain that I am not easy, they think I am putting on an act. How is a girl who has reformed supposed to act on a date, Abby?

DEAR PUZZLED: She is supposed to act like a lady. After you have convinced the men (by repeated ladylike behavior) that you are not putting on an "act" they will realize you are sincere. If you lose them, consider yourself lucky. You'll know they were not looking

DEAR ABBY: We've had a lot of trouble with our son, who is now 15. I guess you could call him a "problem child." He is smart, but he is lazy. He has no boy friends or girl friends and says he doesn't want any.

His counselor at school told us that we should take him to a psychiatrist. My husband says he will never do it because he's afraid it will show up on his permanent record and will be held against him if he applies for the service or college. Is my husband right, Abby?

PROBLEM CHILD'S MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: Your husband is wrong to deprive his son of a mental examination when it is apparent that he needs one. When people realize that it is no more "disgraceful" to straighten out the kinks in their thinking than it is to straighten out the kinks in their arms, legs or spines, we will have come a long way. By all means, take the boy to a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: That letter in your column about the man who was a two-faced sinner and practically lived in church reminds me of my brother-in-law.

He counts the slices of bread in a loaf and tells his poor, widowed mother how long the loaf should last her. And believe it or not, this fool practically lives in church, too. Do you think a man like that belongs in church?

DEAR PUZZLED: I can't think of a better place for him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED MOM: The first thing to do is take your daughter to a qualified physician to ascertain whether she is, in fact pregnant.

Have you read Abby's new, best-selling book, "DEAR TEEN-AGER"?

The girl whose wardrobe is composed entirely of sweaters, skirts and blouses might pause to reflect that a little planning might give her some really handsome one-piece dresses. In good woools and silks, these could create a wardrobe of distinction to replace the odds and ends.

RUTH MILLETT

A man who reads this column wants me to write "a piece about mothers who turn their children against their fathers."

I'll be glad to oblige because I think a lot of women do try to get more than their share of their children's love—at the expense of the father.

Some wives who are openly critical of their husbands deliberately try to turn the children against their fathers.

Others just get into the bad habit of building themselves up by subtly tearing Papa down.

A mother does that whenever—She says: "All right you can do thus-and-so if you won't let your father know. He would throw a fit."

She doesn't want to say—"No" to the child herself and says "You'll have to ask your father."

Instead of saying "Your Dad and I will have to talk it over and decide." She silps the child extra money warning him not to tell his father who is made to seem stingy when he is only trying to teach the child to get along on a certain amount of money each week.

She makes such remarks as, "I understand, but I don't think your father would."

She buys the daughter more expensive clothes than she knows is sensible and warns her not to tell Daddy how much a dress cost making it seem that Daddy doesn't want her to have the things she wants but Mama does.

She protests in front of a child when she shows it to him. Again when she shows it to him. Again making it seem that Daddy doesn't want her to have the things she wants but Mama does.

She and her husband have a disagreement and she makes sure that the children feel sorry for her and resent their father's attitude.

Grandmother knew what she was doing when she used a foot bath of salts or baking soda. The warm water solution brings relief to tired, aching feet and also helps soften any rough spots. Keep your feet immersed for about three minutes.

Polly's Quiz

By POLLY CHAMER

Polly: My kitchen is visible above the tile and on the wood-work. I want to carpet the tile floor in the same light green. But what color can I use for shower and window curtains?—Mrs. B. C.

Dear Mrs. B. C.: You're off to a good start. For windows and shower curtain, use a small-patterned print in yellow and green. Print might have touches of brown and white. Use a plain white duck or plastic curtain as liner for the print shower curtain.

Mrs. O. P. S.: You live in a house. What your friends about it doesn't matter unless they're willing to change their to suit you. It is a good to repeat the same colors in living rooms. But vary the colors you've a lot of beige and in the living room, let the green take over in the kitchen. accents of beige and brown. Give a door or louvered screen behind the kitchen from the living room a trifle.

Dear Polly: I'd like to have an all-blue-and-white bedroom but I'm afraid it will be too cold-looking. What do you think?—Mrs. K. S. T.

To me, an all-blue-and-white bedroom seems both charming and restful. But add just one touch of color; raspberry or a deep, glowing, ruby red. You can get color in by using ruby crystal scent bottles, a ruby velvet pillow on the bed or ruby-red for a chair cover. Remember to pick a deep shade of ruby or raspberry. You are not trying for red, white and blue.

Gloves Finals Tonight; Rexroat, Welty Score KOs

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

Seven open fights and nine high school bouts highlight tonight's finals in the Pampa District Golden Gloves tournament. Action gets underway at 7:30 p.m., with nine pee wee battles.

Winners of tonight's fights will be declared district champions. Both winners and runners-up will receive trophies.

Tonight's top bout could be in the 160-pound high school division, when a pair of the hardest punchers in the tournament meet head-on. Norman Rexroat of Pampa clashes with Robert Welty of Hereford. Welty and Rexroat scored Thursday's only knockouts.

Another top fight will probably be in the 126-pound high school division, between another pair of bellers — Gary Smith of Lefors, who scored a TKO Thursday, and Charles Moore of Pampa, and Charles Moore of Pampa, and Charles Moore of Pampa.

Two of the tourney's classiest boxers, Ronnie Morgan of Pampa and Donnie Lesley of Hereford, battle in the 133-pound high school division finals.

Two favorites of Pampa boxing fans, Gary Wills and Charles Scider, make their tournament debut tonight in the open division. Wills meets Bruce Topper of Pampa in a 160-pound clash, and Snider takes on John Cardero of Hereford in a 147-pound battle.

Johnny Claunch of Pampa, 1959 state light-heavy champ, fights Elmer Clements of Canyon in a 175-pound open bout, and Dickie James of Pampa battles Abel Moline of Amarillo in the 118-pound open division final.

Pampa boxers will also be involved in the other three open finals, with Johnny Ironmonger going against Pete Garcia of Dumas in the 113-pound class; James Morse taking on Eddie Ramirez of Amarillo in the 128-pound scrap; and Raul Ramirez meeting R. C. Welty of Hereford in a 135-pound go.

The two 160-pound high school semifinal bouts highlighted last night's action, as 29 of the 28 bouts were fought to a decision and four were ended by knockouts and TKOs. Two were no decision.

In the first 160-pound semifinal, Robert Welty of Hereford knocked down Raul Ramirez of Hereford three times in the second round, in scoring a knockout. Perry took an eight-count the first two times, and Referee Cliff Dunham raised Welty's hand as the victor without bothering to count the third time.

Rexroat floored Larry Lopez of Hereford only once, but that was enough. The aggressive Pampa hit Lopez with a solid right uppercut to the chin at the one minute mark of the first round, and that was all. Lopez didn't stir until after the count of 10.

Gary Smith of Lefors scored one of Thursday's three TKOs when he opened a cut over the eye of Bill Gorden of Perryton with 50 seconds gone in the first round of their 126-pound high school fight. Smith was winning handily before he opened the cut.

Jim Green of Dumas, a 90-pounder, gained the only other technical knock-out in the first bout of the night, when he stopped Roland Masters of Lefors in 41 seconds of the first round. Green came back later in the night to win a decision over Mickey Armstrong of Perryton.

In a 135-pound high school semifinal, Pampa's Morgan fought one of his best bouts of the year in outboxing the classy and dangerous Albert Moline of Amarillo. In the first round, Morgan knocked Moline all the way across the ring with right-hand punch, but Moline stayed on his feet.

Trent Olson of Pampa and Joe Villa of Borger lived up to expect-tations in the 112-pound high school division. Both boys had won by TKO the night before, and both were trying to repeat, as they had a fine slugging match all the way. Olson copped the decision.

Two Pampa fighters met misfortune in the only two open division semifinals of the night. R. C. Welty, 135, of Hereford gained a split decision over Lucky Dunham, and ring-wise Pete Garcia of Dumas won a decision over Lambro Martinez of Pampa in a 112-pound battle.

The Dunham-Welty bout was a cautiously fought match, with Dunham landing most of the punches.

CALL OFF MEET

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — The Great Lakes speed skating meet, sponsored by the Wisconsin Skating Assn. and scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, has been called off. Reason? Lack of ice.

announced today.

Rothschild added that Basilio of Chittenango, N.Y., has tentatively agreed to the fight.

Jordan agreed, the promoter explained, because he is getting 35 per cent of all net receipts. Rothschild expects a gross gate of $175,000. He said a television fee of $75,000 already has been guaranteed.

Jordan-Basilio Fight Scheduled

NEW YORK (UPI) — Welterweight champion Don Jordan of Los Angeles has agreed to defend his title against ex-champion Carmen Basilio at the Syracuse (N.Y.) Auditorium, June 10, promoter Norman Rothschild announced today.

Texas, A&M To Clash Tonight In Crucial SWC Cage Contest

By BRYCE MILLER
United Press International

It's going to be tougher for Texas tonight now that the Aggies have been knocked off by Southern Methodist.

And chances are the outcome of the tussle will result in the Longhorns tightening their hold on the league leadership or a four-way deadlock at the top of the Southwest Conference title scramble.

Whatever happens, it's sure to be a classic struggle and for the first time pits Jay Arnette against Carroll Broussard, the two titans of the chase for individual honors.

Texas goes into the game with the only perfect league record—three straight wins.

But if the odds-makers stay honest, A&M will take care of that and the Mustangs will whip Baylor's troublesome Bears at Dallas. In the only other league action for the rest of the week, the rugged Razorbacks from Arkansas are favored to romp over Rice at Fayetteville on Saturday.

That would throw the lead into a four-way tie, but the key is whether or not the Aggies can come through and topple Texas.

Unbeaten Basketball Teams Could Lose This Weekend

By United Press International

California's NCAA champions face two easy week-end games beginning Friday night while the nation's only two remaining unbeaten major college fives prepare for week-end games that could leave the country without a perfect record team.

California (12-1) takes on Washington State (7-8) tonight and Washington Saturday night in what shapes up as a routine week-end for the Darrall Imhoff-led Bears. It could even be a week-end in which the Bears seize the national leadership, because the only two remaining unbeaten teams are definitely in jeopardy.

Cincinnati, the nation's No. 1 team with a string of 13 straight wins and the national scoring leader in Oscar Robertson, plays Bradley, ranked No. 5 and 11-1 for the season, at Peoria, Ill., where the Braves are practically invincible. Villanova, 12th-ranked and 10-0 for the season, risks its perfect record against West Virginia, No. 3 and 1-1, at Charleston; W.Va. with the Mountaineers favored by about 10 points.

Ohio State, ranked No. 4 and 10-2, meets Northwestern while St. Louis, No. 10 and 10-4, opposes Drake in other top Saturday night games.

Ninth-ranked Utah, only team of the top 10 to play Thursday night, scored its 12th victory in 14 games when it beat New Mexico, 112-81, at Albuquerque, N.M. The Utes ran up a 58-32 halftime

SURPRISE PRICE

The average car buyer, we've found, thinks Mercury costs hundreds of dollars more than it actually does. It's so beautifully styled, so superbly built. It comes as a pleasant surprise that a Mercury costs so little more than the leading low-price name car — only $36* more for this Monterey 4-door sedan. No wonder Mercury sales are up more than any other car in its field — a big 48%.

THE BEST $36 YOU'VE EVER SPENT. This price difference over the low-price car buys Mercury's more beautiful styling. It buys a quieter ride (23% more insulation), greater stability (7" longer wheelbase), and extra quality. See and try 24 more advantages at your Mercury dealer's showroom.

Longhorns Receive Boost From Bradley

By LLOYD LARRABEE
United Press International

AUSTIN (UPI)—A surprising Longhorn basketball team, led by mild-mannered Harold Bradley into Southwestern Conference leaders after he cellular-dwellers last season, at their strongest test tonight against Texas A&M.

Bradley, a quiet-spoken, N. Y. native who came to Texas from Duke after last season's dismal 4-20 Longhorn record, has boosted the team into disputed conference leadership with a 3-0 record and an overall season mark.

"It's still early," Bradley said, assessing his ball club's hopes.

Free Wee Cage Practice Set for Saturday

Teams in the Kiwanis - Optimal pee wee basketball league will begin practice sessions Saturday at 10 a.m. The workouts will be held at the separate schools taking part in the pee wee basketball program.

League play gets underway next week. Each team will play a double round-robin schedule, with two games each week, on Thursday afternoon and Saturday morning.

Fourteen teams are entered in the league, seven each in the fifth and sixth grade divisions. Schools taking part in the program are Lamar, Mann, Houston, Austin, Baker, Travis and Wilson.

The Short Line

By RED GRIGGS

Oscar Fraley, UPI columnist, has compiled something of a short dictionary on interpreting the speech of college basketball coaches.

For instance, when a coach who has just lost a game on free throws declares "I don't want to criticize the referees, so the less said the better," it translates like this:

"Of all the blind bandits I've run across, these were the worst. If they're not on the school's payroll, I miss my guess."

"We just weren't hitting," after interpretation, comes out as "My kids must have been out all night on a party because I know none of them study. It looks to me like they all need glasses because the Bloomer Girls could hit the basket better with a volley ball."

"We don't have the height" means "the guys who dig up our kids must have been scouting the grade schools. Everybody else has a seven-footer and I'm expected to make like a genius with a crowd of under-sized midgets."

"We're waiting breathlessly for the football edition."

Baylor Coach John Bridgers, the speaker for the Jan. 21 Harvest-Shocker football banquet, is a man who believes in giving straight answers, sometimes with a little humor thrown in.

When someone remarked, after he took the Baylor job, that he had picked a tough assignment for himself, he replied "Any job you get is a hard one. The easy ones have already been filled."

Bridgers' job the first year was hard, but not thankless. He guided the Bears, who weren't supposed to win a game, to a 4-6 record against some of the toughest teams in the nation.

Tickets to the football banquet, at $2.50 each, are on sale at six locations - Richard Drug, Malone Pharmacy, Pampa High School, B&B Pharmacy, Hughes Building Barber Shop, and Ellis Barber Shop in the Combs-Worley Building.

High scoring Laura Switzer of McLean has been promoted from the Wayland girls B team, the Queen Bees, to the Flying Queens. Miss Switzer is one of only three freshmen playing with the defending national women's AAU champions.

PHS At Tascosa Tonight

Ball Control Tilt Is Very Probable

AMARILLO — According to an old proverb, all things come to he who waits. Two District 3-4A basketball teams may be out to prove the truth of that old adage tonight.

The Tascosa Rebels and the Pampa Harvesters, who clash tonight at 8 p.m. in Tascosa Gymnasium, are two squads which have made waiting — for their shots — pay off.

Tascosa, which last year had a dismal 4-22 record, has compiled a 9-8 season mark and a 1-2 district record this year by playing ball control in almost every game.

Pampa has used slow-down tactics more sparingly, but very successfully. The Harvesters played a complete ball-control game to beat a Denton team which had broken their 53-game winning streak; used stalling tactics to come within one point of Berger on the Bulldogs' home court; and beat Lubbock Tuesday, 50-47, through use of the same strategy.

"Unless we can take a big lead to begin with," said Harvesters Coach Clifton McNeely, "we'll have to play the game Tascosa's way. You have to shoot carefully against a team that controls the ball as well as the Rebels."

Coach Ace Parker of Tascosa, who learned his ball-control tactics under Hank Iba at Oklahoma A&M, is the only district coach with five starters back. He has done a remarkable job with his material, taking a team which was trounced by all comers last year, and building them into a squad which lost by only six points this season to mighty Midland, one of the state favorites.

Only two teams, Palo Duro and Plainview, have beaten Tascosa by more than eight points, and only twice has more than 50 points been scored against the Rebels. Starters for the Rebs, who are 1-2 in district play, are Curtis Waters, Mike Sims, Bert Randal, Bob Groves and Joel Low.

Pampa, tied for second in the district with Palo Duro, Amarillo, and Tascosa, will probably keep the same position with a victory. Palo Duro is favored to beat Monterey tonight, and Plainview is favored over Lubbock, although Berger should beat Amarillo. The Harvesters are 2-1 in district play and 12-2 for the season.

Pampa's starters will be Craig Winborn, 6-3, who has averaged 18.9 points per game; Pat Carter, 5-10, with a 14.4 average; Joe Timms, 5-11, who has averaged 6.5 points; Allen Wise, 6-2, with a 6.3 average; and Phillip Gist, 5-11, with a 5.8 per game average. Stewart. The Shockers have a 9-4 season record.

Nat Prexy Leads Team To Victory

By United Press International

The Syracuse Nationals are the kind of do-it-yourself ball club where even the club president sometimes gets into the act.

Nat President Dan Biasone did Thursday night when he took over the coaching chores and guided his team to a 119-112 victory over the St. Louis Hawks in a National Basketball Assn. contest.

Biasone, who also serves as assistant coach, jumped into the breach during the second period after player-coach Paul Seymour was ejected by referee Arnie Helt for protesting a foul call too vigorously.

Under Biasone's guidance, the Nats overcame a 16-point deficit to hand the Hawks their third loss in as many nights. Bob Pettit scored 35 points to lead St. Louis while Dolph Schayes was high man for Syracuse with 29.

Willie Naulls' 36-point performance paced the New York Knicks' comeback to a 131-128 victory over Minneapolis in the only other game played.

The Knicks moved into the lead for good only in the last three minutes after Elgin Baylor and Rudy La Russo both fouled out for the Lakers. Baylor wound up the high scorer for Minneapolis with 26 points.

Boxing Award To Johansson

NEW YORK (UPI) — Strong national control of professional boxing and proper contributions from television to pay for a boxing "police force" were the principle proposals made at the annual dinner of the Boxing Writers' Assn.

Heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson from Sweden, accepting the association's "Fighter of the Year" award, said the United States should have "national cooperation — like the cooperation among European countries."

Dimpled Ingemar, in tuxedo and black tie, spoke of the confusion in his negotiations for a return title fight with Floyd Patterson, and he won a year of hilarious approval from the turn-away crowd of more than 550 at the Waldorf-Astoria when he said:

"I like it better at home, where you shake hands over a simple contract, have your fight and get paid the day after the fight."

He hasn't been paid since he won the title from Patterson on June 16.

Flemming On Budget

sort of nasty of us, we support... we wonder if budget has anything to do with the ways of propaganda... out of the office of Arthur Flemming, who is fast becoming the biggest bureaucrat of all.

Flemming heads the expanding department of Health, Education and Welfare, which is reaching its climax down into all phases of the United States.

It will be remembered that last year the Department of HEW ran a rough sledding with the shower administration and the budget bureau, so that Flemming didn't get everything he wanted in the budget which was submitted to Congress.

However, department's lobbying friends to work on the lawmakers. HEW wound up with a sizeable increase.

While President Eisenhower seems to favor unlimited expenditures in the foreign program but not quite so much spending on American taxpayers, indicated he was not going to let his cabinet member spend Congress gave him. Later, however, it has been reported he is planning and Flemming will get it all by June 30.

And now that Flemming is coming out against the cranberry merchants, poultry and other producers, it is reported he will have all he wants in the budget to be submitted to Congress.

Flemming first took off on the cranberries right before Thanksgiving, claiming a spray material used on some of them might cause cancer. Now he is sounding the alarm that he thinks (but doesn't know) that certain chickens and livestock fattened with Stilbestrol also may cause cancer.

It is just possible that these products have some influence in cancer cases. There have been quite a few honest and sincere people who have been sounding alarms about the tendency to use certain sprays and other artificial aids to growth and preservation of products. Usually these people have been dismissed by the bureaucrats as "crackpots." But now that the big bureaucrat comes out with a pronouncement, it becomes important news.

We hope there are a few congressmen in Washington who will look into this vast bureaucratic outfit with an idea of cutting back ever. It has been reported he is planning and Flemming will get it all by June 30.

Dark Future

ews is that a number of ma- unions, including Reuther's workers, dock workers and road brotherhoods, are getting ready for a big push in 1961. Efforts will be made by these unions to accumulate large strike funds for use at this time. Expectation is that future major strikes will be long drawn out and costly.

The 'Other Side'

someone were to ask us what we would consider one of the most important mental attitudes of a proper grasp of economics, we would have to suggest that to one of the most important things is to be able to think the problem thru from the other side of the fence.

The ability isn't exclusively used to economics. But certainly it is primarily valid in that area of search and analysis.

For example, we are plagued with the moment what is causing inflation? How does inflation come about? Briefly, it comes about by government meddling in the economy.

Specifically, it can be said that inflation ensues when the supply of currency or credit increases. But, the stranger to economics might object to this answer. Isn't also true, he might ask, that business expansion depends upon the ability of the businessman to hold more money or credit? And isn't this expansion of money or credit inflationary?

The answer must be that it may have a temporary inflationary effect. For whenever the amount of currency or credit in circulation precedes actual production, inflation follows. But, when the businessman, for example, borrows money so that he can expand his business, he is confronted with the absolute necessity of paying back that which he borrowed, from future production. Thus, what was inflationary at the start, is deflationary at the end, and the two cancel out each other.

This is why we do not normally consider that a business loan is inflationary per se. The danger from inflation does not arise in the market place but in the halls of the Federal Reserve Board and in the Congress and the executive mansion in Washington.

For in these places, money can be borrowed, not against future

"Economics For The Teachable"

No. 2
In the last issue I was quoting from Leonard Read's article in the January issue of "The Freeman" magazine, in which he had explained that the meek must those who had the will to learn. Then Read, under the heading of "The Creator as Sovereign," writes:

"Contrary to socialism, this way of life for teachable people, who concede their fallibility, denies that government, staffed by fallible people, is the source of men's rights. It holds, instead, that men 'are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men..."

"...With this as a premise, sovereignty—the source of rights—rests with the Creator; government is but a man-made means to protect this arrangement between man and his Creator. When Creativity is assumed to exist over and beyond the conscious mind of man, a whole new concept of man's relationship to man and God is once he conceives of himself in this setting, knows that he is not knowledgeable but, at best, is only teachable. The greatest conscious fact of his life is his awareness of the Unknown."

Then Read continues to explain how necessary the division of labor is and how impossible it is for a man to make a lead pencil without exchanging goods and services. When a man produces more complicated things than a lead pencil and exchanges what he produces for what others produce, there is no thievery, for both parties are benefited which, in turn, benefits everyone else.

That's what voluntarism or liberalism really means, that men must get what they get by benefiting those from whom they get it. Then Read further writes:

"The teachable person looks with awe upon all creation. He agrees that 'only God can make a tree.' And he also understands that, in the final analysis, only God can build a house. Nature, Creation, God—use your own term—if not interfered with, will combine atoms into molecules which when configured in one manner will form a tree, in another manner a blade of grass, in still another manner a rose—mysteries upon mysteries! And there are demonstrations around him that the creative energies of men, when not interfered with, do, through space and time, configure, in response to human necessity and aspiration, to form houses, symphonies, foods, clothes, airplanes—things in endless profusion."

Thwarting Creative Action
"Creative action cannot be induced by any form of authoritarianism, be the commands directed at oneself or at others. However, any idiot can thwart these actions in himself or in others, precisely as he can thwart the forces of creation from manifesting themselves as a tree. He can prevent a tree from being, but he can't make it be. Creative force can only inhibit, restrain, penalize, destroy. It cannot create!"

"The teachable individual imposes no inhibitions, restraints, or penalties on creative actions. He leaves them free to pursue their miraculous courses."

"The man who knows how little he knows would like to see the removal of all such artificial obstacles to the flow of creative energy and energy exchanges. But, even this, he doesn't quite know how to accomplish. He would rely mostly on an improved understanding of the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments, and other consistent ethical and moral principles. He hopes that more and more persons eventually will see that even his own self-interest is never served by impairing the creative actions of others, or living off them as parasites."

Government's Limited Role
"In summary, then, the teachable person is content to leave creative energies and their exchanges untouched; and he would rely primarily on ethical precepts and practices to keep these energy circuits free of destructive invasion. The governmental apparatus would merely assist these precepts and practices by defending the life and property of all citizens equally; by protecting all willing exchange and restraining all unwilling exchange; by suppressing and penalizing all fraud, all misrepresentation, all violence, all predatory practices; by invoking a common justice under written law; and by keeping the records incidental thereto."

"Very well. So far, in theory, creative energies or action and their exchanges are left unhampered. Destructive actions are self-disciplined or, if not, are restrained by the societal agency of law and defensive force. Is that all? Does not the person who is aware of how little he knows have to know a lot of economics?"

JAILER SUSPENDED
FORT WORTH (UPI)—Police Chief Cato Hightower suspended jailer H. L. Wyatt for five days Wednesday because he forgot to lock the cell of Ernest Eugene Everett, 20, a robbery suspect. Everett escaped Saturday and hasn't been found. Hightower ordered "rep. mands" written into records of five other police officers in connection with the escape.

Panama Canal Hatched From Bed Of Conspiracy

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

The Panama Canal, indeed, the very Republic of Panama, were hatched from serpent's eggs, warned by an international conspiracy from which it plainly appears that a brother-in-law of President Theodore Roosevelt and a brother of President Taft received enormous graft. The genius of the plot was William Nelson Cromwell, a New York lawyer who founded the law firm which John Foster Dulles later adorned. However, the Panama job was pulled when Dulles was still a student at the Sorbonne, in 1903.

Congress had appropriated $40 million to quiet the claims of Frenchmen who had invested in a French venture to duplicate the Suez in the Colombian State of Panama.

The climax was a wild attempt by President Roosevelt to clap Joseph Pulitzer into prison for criminal libel against the prestige of the United States. There never was such a crime and Roosevelt really had in mind less majesty against him and Taft and their kinners. The indictments also accused Delavan Smith, the publisher of the Indianapolis News, which joined Pulitzer's New York World in blasting this colossal payola. Unfortunately, all the charges were dismissed on motion so that the facts never could be ascertained under oath. But Pulitzer, noisily posed as an heir to the grand renown of John Peter Zenger, the editor who almost went to the gallows in New York for impudence toward George III, Smith laughed his way through the whole thing with scorn for the Rough Rider.

There are two books which I recommend to the student of fateful absurdities, in particular "The Untold Story of Panama" by Earl Harding, a Pulitzer World Reporter. The Athens Press of New York brought out this one last spring. The other is "Joseph Pulitzer" by Don C. Seitz, one of Pulitzer's great editors.

The story began with the Panama failure of Ferdinand de Lesseps, the French engineer who promoted and dug the Suez. In Panama yellow fever killed countless barefoot laborers and many Europeans and Americans. De Lesseps went back to France broke and left Colombia holding its own empty franchise. One of the French engineers was Philippe Bunau-Varilla. He buttonholed Cromwell to charter new firm to assume the lease but not the liabilities of the old one.

Any moral discomfort which ensued is well assuaged by urgent reality. The only losers were a few French investors and all humanly gained immeasurably in medical science alone. Then too there has been the great stimulus to international commerce.

President Roosevelt undoubtedly ratified the revolution which wrested the State of Panama from the United States of Colombia. Cromwell, Bunau-Varilla and others thereupon fomented a drunken uproar and American employees of the isthmian railroad refused to haul Colombian troops to oust the barefoot Panamanian borachos. American agents invoked payola to quiet half-a-dozen Colombian generals. Everybody got drunk and the whole war cost no more, save than a nosebleed.

Bunau-Varilla, already in Washington, eagerly became Panama's first minister to the United States. The same night he signed a treaty giving us perpetual sovereignty over the Canal Zone within the Republic, a status as legal as most international contracts.

In 1908 a bunch of Panamanians turned up in New York to shake down Cromwell. They said he had settled the French stockholders' claims for $3,500,000 and swiped the rest of the forty million. One of Cromwell's press agents told the world Cromwell was going to have these blackmailers indicted for making foul accusations against Douglas Robinson, the husband of Roosevelt's sister, Corinne, and Charles P. Taft, a brother of President Taft.

This stupidity of Cromwell's own press agent was a valid excuse to get these brutish suspicions into print. But Pulitzer did no editorial growling and the story lay sleeping until the day before the national election of 1908. Then Smith exploded it in Indianapolis as an outright charge against the Roosevelts and the Tafts. Pulitzer then came awake baying. Roosevelt called him a liar and he broke loose.

Seitz says Charles W. Fairbanks, who had been Roosevelt's vice president, thought T. R. double-crossed him to nominate Taft for the term from 1909 to 1913. Seitz wrote that Fairbanks secretly owned the Indianapolis News.

Fairbanks timed the scandal so that Taft beat Bryan in Indiana by only 10,000 and the Republicans lost a senator and 12 out of 14 congressmen.

Mr. Harding can rest now. All these years this story had been gnawing at the innards of a noble veteran of the ethical, factual law school of journalism.

Looking Sideways

by WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Although I have never seen a complete game of baseball in my life, a confession likely to earn me a hit on the head in many quarters, I count among warm and good friends a gentleman named Joe DiMaggio. He and another gentleman of New York named George Solotarev sometimes make me a third at their dinner conferences and among the three of us we can put away a handsome mound of scuff.

What brings on this thus far elliptical reference is that DiMaggio is reported recently to have turned down $75,000 to make 13 TV commercial films of one minute each, and I do not doubt it for a second, although Mr. Baseball is the most avid TV fan I know. He either is that or orientational, and don't think it is the latter. Among things he does not need is another $75,000, acquisition of which would only put him in the hot clutch of Uncle Sam's revenue agents. DiMaggio is earning a handsome penny, as it is, as an executive for a distributing firm and another $75,000 would result in the tax posse getting as much as $74,450 of it. I can't see anyone with 13 films for $550, net. Beside which, DiMaggio is a shy fellow and getting out there on film to pitch for some commodity would embarrass him greatly.

While DiMaggio was in Japan recently, Master Solotarev and I broke open a sizzling steak in East 46th Street and, having 35 more minutes to spare before certain time on Broadway, we sat and idled until Solotarev said, "Let's go up to Joe's suite and relax until just time to grab a cab over to Broadway." We walked a block or so to the Hotel Lexington and were whisked to the 18th floor where DiMaggio has a suite only slightly less large than Soldier's Field in Chicago. It has an enormous living room with a balcony giving one a panorama of New York, a bedroom, a kitchen, two baths and an office. He does his work when in town, from this office and thus gets legally to erase a few tax costs from the operation there. We used the living room as an oasis and I don't think I have seen as many TV sets in one room as in my life. In stores selling TV sets it is possible that more exist under one roof but even then I've seen stores with less.

There was one in one corner, one in another and one in a third, each full-sized and one, I think, for color-TV. It also had one of those gimmicks you hold in your hand of their moral teachings. Furthermore, this Decalogue is very explicit about the right to private property. Here is an issue upon which the minister should have definite convictions and about which he should be able to do a great deal.

A great deal needs to be done for no moral principle is under more attack than the right to private property. Although Stanley Hankus forced this into the open by his head-on collision, for the most part, the attack on private property in America is covert and gradual. For example, by implication the right to private property is subtly denied by our progressive graduated income tax. When one group in a given society is forced to pay a larger percentage (not merely a larger tax) in order to subsidize other groups in the society, such a system implies that man with a large income does not have a moral right to whatever part of his income exceeds some arbitrarily fixed limit. Not only does this principle of equalizing wealth deny the moral right to private property, but once the principle is accepted, there is no stopping place until all are reduced to the same level of income. The Ten Commandments forbid one man to covet the wealth of another. What are ministers saying about this legalized covetousness—and theft by majority vote?

The right to private property is also denied by a labor union when it demands the right to manage what it does not own. The fact that a worker uses a machine to produce goods does not give him ownership of that machine. If he goes on strike, does he have a moral right to prevent another worker from using the tools or machine to earn for the real owners, the stockholders, a return on the savings they have invested? If the worker remains on the job, does he have a moral right to limit the production of the machine or tools and thus rob the owner of his just return?

If we do not protect the rights of the owners of property, we had better be prepared for a rapid descent down the Communist road. John Adams warned the generation that was fashioning our Constitution: "The moment the idea is admitted into society that property is not as sacred as the laws of God, and that there is not a force of law and public justice to protect it, anarchy and tyranny commence." Whether or not John Adams was right in his judgment, the priest, rabbi and minister are all committed to a religious system which makes the sanctity of private property central in its moral teaching. The events of recent years have indicated that John Adams was right. Whenever private property has been abolished, as in Communist lands, tyranny has followed.

The minister does not have to dabble in politics nor to preach on economics to help stop this decay of freedom in America. He needs only to be convinced of and to convince others of the faith and moral teachings he represents.

When Is A Plea Of Half-Guilty Justified?

by HENRY McLEMORE

Is there such a plea in the courts of law as Half-Guilty?

I started to find out yesterday in traffic court, but then I got chicken for fear I'd be held in contempt and thrown in the jug with a bunch of habe corpus, torts and hardened writs.

I was in-traffic-court on a government reservation, charged with going 30 miles per hour past an officers' club and a BOQ, where the speed limit is a gentle 20 m.p.h.

I was doing thirty all right, no doubt about that—and that made me guilty. But I wasn't guilty in the same sense as if I had been going by a grammar school or a kindergarten. There were no captives or admirals playing in the street, and there was little chance of an ensign chasing a football out into the road.

Too, the speed limit is an even 30 m.p.h. on much of the government reservation, and the switch to 20 m.p.h. is heralded by a modest little sign half-hidden by an immodest bush.

So, when the judge asked me how I wanted to plead—Guilty or Not Guilty—I wanted to say, "Kind of so-so, Your Honor," or " 'Bout half-and-half, Judge." I came within an ace of doing just that, and would have had it not been for the judge's eyebrows. They weren't the kind of eyebrows that would stand any nonsense, no matter how logical the nonsense was. So I said, "Guilty," loud and strong, hoping to make the judge say something like this to himself:

When you want to change channels without taking a walk, Mr. Solotarev wanted to see and hear the news, so he used the largest black and white job, I wanted to watch a young actress perform a few scenes—remembering her lines and used the other black and white job. Later, commenting on this to George, I said it was a wonderful thing to be able to turn in any direction and get stared at by a TV set. He said, yes, but this was just the beginning. He took me to the bedrooms and there was one you could view while lying in bed, there was a second one in a corner which you could view while relaxed in a deep chair and a third one, portable, was on top of a chest of drawers, ready for any emergency. The two large sets also had a manual distant channel control gadget.

"When Joe is relaxing," said George, "I don't think he likes to have to get up and walk."

Well, I don't think so, either. Emerging from this forest of instruments, I said with perhaps a trace of sarcasm that, no doubt, Giuseppe DiM had still a seventh set in the office part of the suite lest he get a sudden fierce hunger to watch TV and be unwilling to trudge as far as the living room, an exhausting walk of some 11 feet.

"Oh, sure," said George. "There's one there."

In the course of life, I have passed the night in homes with 12 bedrooms and maybe as many as 10 baths. Even in homes with two swimming pools, one indoors and one out. But no amount of traveling has ever before brought me into a hotel suite stocked with seven TV sets. It seems to me that not even a Maharajah of India, in the days when things were going good for Maharajahs, would have had seven sets.

All of which caused me to telephone George a few minutes ago and say: "George, DiMagg ought to take that TV commercial offer. It would be on film and he could watch himself seven times at once."

"Oh, he wouldn't do that," said George. "It would scare him."

"Now here's a man I like. He doesn't quibble. He knows he is wrong, bravely admits it, and is willing to take his medicine. There aren't many men like that in the world, and I could have a jury trial, let me show my admiration by letting him off with a light fine."

Unfortunately, the quality of my voice was lost on the judge. He didn't exactly hang me, but he didn't pat me with a feather, either.

That marked the second time that the quality of my voice failed me in the court. The first time came when the judge, in briefing me on my rights as a citizen, told me that I could have a jury trial, if I wanted to—that I didn't have to accept any sentence from him if I wanted otherwise.

Then he asked me if I wanted a jury trial or would I consent to having him do the job.

"I'll be glad to have you do it, Your Honor," I said.

Oh, how I poured my heart and soul into that speech. My Barrymore ever gave more. I wanted him to know, by the tone of my voice, the look of childlike faith on my face, that I trusted his wisdom and fairness above that of any other judge, or any jury on earth, and that I would rather have my arm twisted than to have anyone else weigh the merits of my case.

I must have looked a bit like a faithful dog gazing up into the eyes of his master.

It was such a tremendous effort on my part that after I had heard the judge's verdict, I was hardly able to pay my fine.

I wish I had had enough of the hero in me to plead half-guilty. That might have appealed to the judge more than my simple fawning did.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Friday, Jan. 15, the 15th day of the year, with 351 more days in 1960.

The moon is in its full phase. The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1831, the first practical American built locomotive made its first run in South Carolina.

In 1870, for the first time in political history, a cartoon appeared with a donkey symbolizing the Democratic Party.

In 1919, the famous concert pianist Ignace Jan Paderewski became the first premier of Poland.

In 1922, the Irish Free State was established.

In 1943, workmen completed the Pentagon building.

In 1953, President Truman bade the American farewell over a nationwide radio and television, being the first outgoing president to do so.

A thought for today: In his first message to Congress in 1945, President Truman said, "The rest is to serve and not to dominate; responsibility of the great states is to serve and not to dominate the world."

CRUDE FORECAST DOWN
AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Railroad Commission reported the U.S. Bureau of Mines forecast for Texas crude oil in February is 2,900,000 barrels—60,000 barrels lower than the January forecast.

'Dimes' Research Gains on Many Fronts

BIRTH DEFECTS A newborn baby is examined at the University of Minnesota School of Medicine as part of a March of Dimes-supported study of 9,000 mothers and their babies to determine if a certain virus which attacked these women during pregnancy causes children to be born with crippling birth defects.

VIRUSES New March of Dimes support for research consists of more than grants for laboratory studies. It is also used in teaching research techniques. Dr. Maurice Green investigates viruses at St. Louis University applying knowledge gained while on a National Foundation fellowship.

ARTHRITIS Dr. Noel Rose of the University of Buffalo performs a blood test in connection with an investigation into the causes of crippling rheumatoid arthritis. The study is one of many across the country being financed with March of Dimes funds.

POLIO Effects of the Sabin oral polio vaccine are studied at Tulane University, New Orleans. Here five-year-old Michele Musso receives vaccine from Miss Dorothy E. Laflone, an epidemiologist. The vaccine, developed under March of Dimes grants, has been subjected to extensive field testing in Russia and other countries.

Clayton Will Name National Debt As 'Heir'

HOUSTON (UPI) — The late Mrs. William L. Clayton left part of her estate "to be used for the retirement of the national debt," a will filed for probate showed today.

Exact amount to be used to pay on the debt was not revealed, but she directed in a handwritten codicil dated Aug. 3, 1957, that one-half of her interest in the Susan V. Clayton Trust No. 2 to go "to my beloved country, the United States of America, to be used for the retirement of the national debt."

Mrs. Clayton, wife of the co-founder of Anderson Clayton and Co., the world's biggest cotton firm, died Jan. 7 at the age of 75.

Specific bequests totalling $3,686,000 were to go to her husband, 56 other relatives and three servants in her handwritten will executed April 18, 1953.

She directed that two-thirds of her corporate stock in her husband's cotton firm go to Texas Children's Hospital in Houston. The remaining one-third was given to Mr. and Mrs. Clayton.

Any balance after distribution of designated bequests shall go to Texas Children's Hospital, Mrs. Clayton directed. No estimate of the estate's value was available.

DISPLEASED BURGLAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Price told police he returned home from vacation Wednesday and found a burglar had stolen three dozen golf balls, consumed the contents of a wine bottle and scrawled in lipstick on the bedroom mirror. "Cheap skate."

EXPLOSIVE FARE

PONAN, Poland (UPI) — An autopsy on Bongo, the hippopotamus who died recently at a ripe old age, yielded a hand grenade and a postman's leather bag, Pos-nan Zoo officials reported Wednesday.

Stevens Will Be Tregoff Case Witness

By JACK V. FOX

United Press International

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actor-director Mark Stevens said today he has volunteered to appear as a prosecution witness in the murder trial of Dr. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff.

"I knew Dr. Finch and his wife," said Stevens. "She was a good friend of mine. We played many a game of tennis together."

Stevens, 39, who said Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch, 33, was a "wonderful person," was expected to testify of hearing Mrs. Finch express fear of her husband before she was found shot to death July 18 at the Finch $65,000 West Covina home. Finch, 42, and his mistress, Miss Tregoff, 23, are accused of the slaying.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Fred N. Whichello made the surprise announcement of calling Stevens as a witness shortly before the trial was recessed Wednesday until Monday.

A virus epidemic caught one of the jurors and a defense lawyer and both the state and defense agreed to the recess rather than replace the male juror with one of the four alternates.

Two hoodlums arrived Wednesday night to be on hand Monday along with Stevens to testify for the state. The men were contacted in Las Vegas, Nev., where

OK NEGRO APPLICATION

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — Columbus Board of Public Safety began accepting applications today for jobs on the police force. A petition signed by residents of a predominantly Negro district urged the city to employ Negro policemen because of an "appalling increase in crime" in the area.

Finch and Miss Tregoff were paid assassins to kill Mrs. Stevens, the state claimed.
