Russ Pacific Rocket May Be War Missile

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The rocket Russia fired into the Pacific might have been the prototype of a war missile capable of carrying a nuclear equivalent of a million tons of TNT. Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev claimed long ago to have developed a battle-ready Atlas intercontinental missile. But the Soviet warhead still would have only one-tenth the destructive force of the Atlas. The Atlas missile is a multi-stage rocket that is fired from a mobile launcher. The rocket is fired in a program to produce boosters for heavy satellites and interplanetary space voyages. Whether it was a space or a weapon project, the rocket yielded valuable data to the Russians on guidance accuracy and atmospheric re-entry.

506 Miners Trapped After Shaft Cave-In

After Twenty Hours, Hope Seems Dim

By HENRI SCHUP
United Press International
COALBROOK, South Africa (UPI) — All 506 coal miners trapped for 20 hours by a collapsed shaft "may already be dead," an official of the Clydesdale mine said today. "There's about 8,000 tons of rock, coal, and dust between the rescue parties and the trapped men," he said. "I can't see how anybody could survive that long." The men were trapped 600 feet below ground late Thursday when a rockfall sealed them in. An earlier statement all but gave up hope for the 500 Africans and six white men trapped in a shaft filling with deadly methane gas. Rescue teams had to turn back because of the heavy concentration of gas, which was freed from old abandoned areas of the mine when the walls collapsed. The rockfall caused a breakdown in the main ventilating fan machinery and for hours almost no fresh air reached the men. The system was repaired later but officials feared it was too late. Sobbing wives, children and relatives of the miners waited at the pithead from before dawn for word of the men. Statements by mine officials sharpened the anguish. The disaster was termed the worst in the history of South African mining. It almost was worse — 297 miners trapped by the original rockfall managed to reach the surface. They volunteered immediately to go back in after the 506.

Rescue teams which were trying new attempts to reach the men said they would use their pickaxes and bare hands if necessary to fight through to the men. They said they did not use explosives. Other rescue workers were trying to drill holes through the rock walls to the trapped men so more air could be piped into them. They were believed to be getting some air by a lazily turning emergency fan but it apparently was not enough. Outside the mine anxious relatives waited at the pithead. The situation was worsened by the fact that twin rockfalls were loosing methane gas from old sections of the mine that had been abandoned. (See MINERS, Page 2)

To Ask Death For Dr. Finch

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Prosecutor Fred N. Whitchello says he is going to ask the gas chamber for both Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carol Tregoff. Whitchello told United Press International, after presentation of the bulk of the state's case, that he has not changed his intention of asking the death penalty in the killing of the surgeon's brunette wife. The law in California is unusual on this score. If the jury reaches a verdict of first degree murder, arguments are opened all over again on the penalty and then they must reach another unanimous verdict on the penalty. The woman who spent the evening with Mrs. Barbara Finch, 33, before she was shot to death July 18, is scheduled to testify at the murder trial today. Convict John Cody, 29, who "hopes" he is a ladies' man and admits he is a liar, swore Thursday that he had not been asked to get counter-evidence for divorce against Mrs. Finch and to sleep with her if necessary. Cody was returned to jail in Minnesota after testifying Finch and Carol hired him "not to follow Mrs. Finch, to kill her."

Demos Kick Off 1960 Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats kicked off their 1960 campaign today with a national committee meeting that will be climaxed Saturday by a $100-a-plate banquet featuring seven presidential hopefuls. Former President Truman also will speak at the dinner, which is expected to bring more than $200,000 into party coffers. Democrats have complained that the party is financially strapped. Adlai E. Stevenson will be the only major Democratic presidential possibility who won't speak at the banquet. The unsuccessful 1952 and 1956 candidate originally was scheduled to appear but withdrew on grounds he was not seeking the nomination. The potential candidates who will address the dinner are Sens. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.) — the only announced contenders — Stuart Symington (Mo.) and Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.), and Govs. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown (Calif.), Robert B. Meyner (N.J.) and G. Mezenr Williams (Mich.). At least nine other Democratic governors and hundreds of party faithful also will attend the affair at the Sheraton-Park Hotel.

Cost Of Living Index Shows December Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's living costs declined in December for the first time in four months, the government reported today. The Labor Department's consumer price index fell one-tenth of one per cent to the October level of 125.5 per cent of average 1947-49 prices. It was still 1.5 per cent above the level of a year ago, however. Lower prices for food, clothing and "hard goods" were factors in the drop although service rates and other commodities continued to climb. The department announced that despite the decline about 575,000 workers will get one to two cents an hour wage increases because of previous advances in the cost of living. About 330,000 workers in electrical equipment plants, including General Electric, and West Coast aircraft firms will get a penny an hour pay boost. Another 230,000 workers in the trucking industry will get raises of two cents an hour and 12,000 in miscellaneous categories will get a penny. Their wages are tied to the index through cost-of-living clauses in labor contracts. The December drop wiped out a one-tenth of one per cent advance in the index for November. The average for the year 1959 was nine-tenths of one per cent above the 1958 average. This was the smallest annual increase in the past four years and well below most of the post-war years, the Labor Department said. Average buying power of factory workers shot up more than 2 1/2 per cent last month because of the decline in living costs and increasing wages reflected by the end of the steel dispute.

FBI Still Seeking Spears' Confession

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — FBI agents today sought a confession from ex-convict Robert V. Spears for the sabotaging of an airliner that crashed in the Gulf of Mexico killing all 42 persons on board. Spears is suspected of having tricked an old friend, William Allen Taylor, 55, of Tampa, Fla., into taking his place on the ill-fated plane to collect $100,000 in flight insurance for his wife and two young children. The pudgy 64-year-old bespectacled Spears failed to crack after nine hours of intensive questioning by FBI agents Thursday and Thursday night. Spears' young wife, Frances, 36, directly linked her husband to the mysterious Nov. 16 crash today when she disclosed she had met with him twice in a Dallas hotel. Once on Jan. 7 and again on Jan. 11. Both times she begged him "to give himself up." She had maintained earlier she believed her husband was dead. "I don't want to hamper in any way the FBI investigation," she said. "If my husband is innocent, I want him proved innocent. If he's guilty, let the chips fall where they may."

Convalescent Home Drive Boss Named

A. A. Schuneman, president of the First National Bank, was appointed chairman yesterday of the finance campaign committee to raise funds for the Top O' Texas Foundation project, the Barrett Memorial Convalescent Home. Foundation president, Arthur Teed, told the group they will need to raise $220,000, in addition to the $30,000 they now have, to see the convalescent home become a reality. Members of the finance committee include James McCune, treasurer; E. O. Wedgeworth, Adrian Foster, Frank Culbertson and C. P. Buckler. The committee will meet at noon today in the basement of the First National Bank to discuss plans for the campaign kick-off in March. Gene Hollar, of Moore and Hollar, architectural firm, read a letter from the Hill-Burton representative in Dallas stating the federal funds are available to the group. Teed told the group that "since Hill-Burton funds are available, the next step is raising our part of the money." Teed also said the finance committee will use local workers only, and a professional fund raising firm will not be called upon. Wedgeworth told the group a brochure will be prepared with a picture of the proposed home, a model of which was displayed at yesterday's meeting by Moore and Hollar, architects. The brochure will also contain pictures of some of the rooms in the building.

Second Escapee Captured

Salt Lake City Cops Nab Him
The second of Pampa's two jail escapees, Stanley F. Garbutt, was captured in Salt Lake City, Utah, yesterday. Sheriff Rufe Jordan said he received a telegram from the Salt Lake City Police Department that Garbutt had been apprehended and is being held for his department. Garbutt, 22, broke out of the Gray County Jail with Cecil Edward Sexton, 18, Jan. 10. Both men were awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary to begin serving terms for burglary. Jordan said today Sexton, who is reported to have told a wire service he won't return to Pampa alive because "I've seen too many of the inmates beaten with jail keys," has now changed his mind and agreed to waive extradition. When told of the statement, which originally said "city jail," Chief of Police Jim Conner said the story was completely untrue, since "Sexton has never been in our jail." Jordan said no one has been beaten in the county jail, "either with jail keys or anything else." (See SECOND, Page 2)

Cold Weather, Frost Damage Florida Crops

MIAMI (UPI) — The coldest weather of the year blanketed Florida with frost and freezing temperatures early today. Damage to tender vegetable crops was believed to be heavy. Readings plunged to a low of 19 at Gainesville, in North Florida, and Miami recorded a 36, lowest for the date in Weather Bureau records. Frost, almost unheard of here, covered the windshields of cars and lawns. More of the same was predicted for tonight. Warren Johnson, veteran chief of the federal-state frost warning service at Lakeland, said it was too early to assess damage from the freeze. "But we definitely know there was some damage during the night," he said. "Reports indicate some crops in the 'Glades area were hurt rather severely," he said. "Temperatures in some places there dropped as low as 24 to 29 with heavy local frost." He added that tender crops such as cucumbers, squash and peppers near Immokalee "probably were hurt quite badly." Also suffering some damage were truck farms along the lower east coast where ripening vegetables were covered with frost and 28-degree temperatures.

Last night the Inn had 54 per cent occupancy. Bear equipment means satisfied work. Come see us. Pampa Safety Lane, 611 S. Cuyler. MO 5-8771. Adv.

Funeral services are pending for Mrs. Ruby D. Jacobs, 62, who died this morning in her home, 320 W. Francis.

She was born Mar. 28, 1897 in Oklahoma and moved here ten years ago from Lubbock. She had resided near Ardmore, Okla. for a number of years before moving to Texas.

She was preceded in death by her husband, T. D. in 1942; also by one son.

Mrs. Jacobs was a member of Harvesters-Mary Ellen Church of Christ.

Survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Francis of Pampa, Miss Mildred Montgomery of Lubbock, Mrs. Duane McDonald of Goldsboro, N.C. and four grandchildren.

Arrangements will be announced later by Duengel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

FINCH

was not her signature. He said it was his opinion that Finch had forged it by copying or tracing.

Grant Cooper, Finch's suave and able attorney, got out a magnifying glass and peered with intensity at blow-up signatures of the pair as he asked Mire to explain how he reached such a conclusion.

Mire pointed to "tremors" in the handwriting and Cooper said he had trouble spotting such tremors.

Mire on two occasions accidentally referred to the signature as that of "Barbara Graham," and the crowded courtroom laughed at mention of the convicted California murderess about whom the movie, "I Want to Live," was made.

The check for $3,000 left only $182.70 in Mrs. Finch's personal account. The state charges money—as well as love—was the motive for the killing, Mrs. Finch had legally "fled" up most of the doctor's fortune, estimated at $750,000.

Cooper in his cross examination brought Mire's concession that "no person will sign their name exactly the same way twice."

"Do you ever make mistakes," Cooper asked Mire.

"I am 87 years old and I have made a lot of mistakes in my life," said Mire. Cooper laughed. "I don't mean that," he said. "Have you ever made a mistake in your profession?"

The expert replied that in no case in which he has testified had he been proved wrong.

Better Deal Under Khrushchev

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — A veteran Moscow correspondent said Thursday the Russian people enjoy greater freedom under Premier Nikita Khrushchev than under the late Josef Stalin.

Henry Shapiro, Moscow bureau manager for United Press International, predicted that President Eisenhower will receive a warm welcome when he visits Russia later this year. Shapiro spoke to members of the UPI Tennessee Assn. of Newspapers.

"We are finally on speaking terms with the Soviet Union," he said. "Khrushchev has a better grasp of realities of life and foreign policy than any leader before him."

Shapiro, a veteran of 23 years in reporting Russian activities, said he considered it significant that the Russian people now "are franker about their government, more expressive and enjoy greater freedom" than under Stalin and his immediate successors.

"World revolution is no longer a point of indoctrination" of the average Russian student, he said.

been sealed off when the veins there ran out.

It was almost a twin disaster in the mine. The first fall of rock trapped more than 200 miners Thursday and rescuers were able to bring them out. But then it developed 506 men, six Europeans and 500 natives, were trapped farther down.

Mine officials rushed additional rescue teams from Johannesburg in the Transvaal, 50 miles away, and from other mining centers in the area. But the explosions blocked the miners late Thursday and there was little air to breathe.

Today was exactly one year after a lesser mine disaster in Pennsylvania when the flood-swollen, ice-packed Susquehanna River broke through its bed and flooded the tunnels of the Knox Coal Company's Port Griffith mine. A number of miners escaped, but 12 men were trapped in the honeycomb of tunnels and their bodies were never found.

Welcome New Friends With Get-Tea-Gethers

"Welcome Neighbor!" What a heart-warming message for the new family who moved into the house down the road!

If you don't already have a Welcome Neighbor Tea Committee in your community, here's how you can start one. Ask for a volunteer group of 4-6 women to serve as tea hostesses for a few months. Establish a basic menu and have each volunteer provide one dish, or be responsible for a specific duty. This will cut down on cost, time and labor in preparation. It's also a good idea to provide a table kit to include the necessary table - cloths, napkins and other standard required equipment.

When you are on the welcoming committee you can literally roll out the red carpet by placing a length of red velvet or a remnant of freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat and immediately add 1/4 pound loose tea. Cover. Brew 5 minutes. Strain into a teapot until ready to use. When ready to serve, place teapot of piping hot water on the table and keep the water hot by placing it over a candle warmer, alcohol or a candle heat. Pour a little tea concentrate into a cup and fill with hot water. Serve with milk or lemon and sugar. By varying the amount of concentrate, you can vary the strength of the tea to suit each guest.

To add variety to the tea, you might like to serve Hot Tea Lemonade or Hot Spiced Tea from a chafing dish. Assorted Tea Sandwiches will keep moist and fresh in a breadbasket, a Continental Tea Ring and Assorted Cookies make an ideal, simple menu.

To make the bread basket, cut off top of bread and hollow out center of top and bottom. Prepare sandwiches, place in bread basket and replace top until ready to serve.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: How much water does a girl who weighs 85 pounds and is five feet tall need in a bathtub? She thinks she has to have it up to her neck. She acts like she is the only one in the family who has to take a bath. When she gets through, no one else has any hot water. Please put this in the paper. She won't listen to me, she is 12.

HER MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: If your daughter at 12 "won't listen" to you on such a minor matter, prepare yourself for some major disappointments. Children should be taught that "sharing" with members of the family is expected. If your daughter doesn't learn this soon, she'll probably be in hot water up to her neck all her life.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for 21 years. While she was away visiting relatives for two weeks, I found a picture of a strange fellow hidden under the paper lining of a drawer. I became very upset and angry and wrote her a letter (I included this picture) and I told her she needn't bother to come home. I figured she would not have this picture hidden unless she was hiding something else. She called me up when she got my letter and said this fellow had been dead for years and that I had a lot of nerve accusing her of wrong-doing. Who is right?

ANGRY HUSBAND: DEAR HUSBAND: You had no right to suspect the worst and accuse her of wrong-doing before hearing her explanation. And to tell her "she needn't bother to come home" was about as fair as a judge sentencing a defendant without hearing the case.

DEAR ABBY: What makes you women so nervous?

CHARLIE!
DEAR CHARLIE: You men!

DEAR ABBY: I am a waitress with so many "beefs" a Yorkshire pudding would go well with me. In first place why do people call me "Girly"? I am 54 years old. I have "IRENE" embroidered on my uniform pocket, but people still call me, "Girly". Also, what can I do about old men who can feed

CHARLES MASSEEGE... revivalist

Former Grid Star To Speak Here Sunday

Charles Masseege, former Ranger High School and Hardin-Simmons University football star, will be the evangelist in revival services beginning Sunday morning at the Central Baptist Church.

James W. Carraway, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in Colorado City, will direct the music.

Masseege began his ministry while a high school student. He led his football team to the state championship and was named to the mythical all-state and all-south-eastern teams.

As a Hardin-Simmons student, Masseege played football for the school while at the same time pastoring a Baptist church in Ran-ford. Sunday services are scheduled for 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday school will meet at 9:45 and Training Union will be at 5:45.

Weekday revival services will be at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., with a special visitation effort at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The revival will continue through Jan. 31.

It is requested that news and pictures for Friday's Daily News Church Page be submitted by Wednesday noon each week.

If the deadline is adhered to it will give the news and mechanical staff enough time to prepare each week's church page.

O. Henry, famous short story writer whose real name was William Sydney Porter, is buried in Asheville, N.C.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. BOB GOODWIN
Calvary Assembly of God
THE HEARTBEAT OF THE CHURCH

Acts 1:1-12

In our text we find the account of the ascension of Jesus Christ after his resurrection, having given commandments to his disciples through the Holy Ghost. Being assembled together with them, he commanded them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, "WHICH, SAITH HE, YE HAVE HEARD OF ME. FOR JOHN TRULY BAPTIZED WITH THE WATER: BUT YE SHALL BAPTIZE WITH THE HOLY GHOST NOT MANY DAYS HENCE"

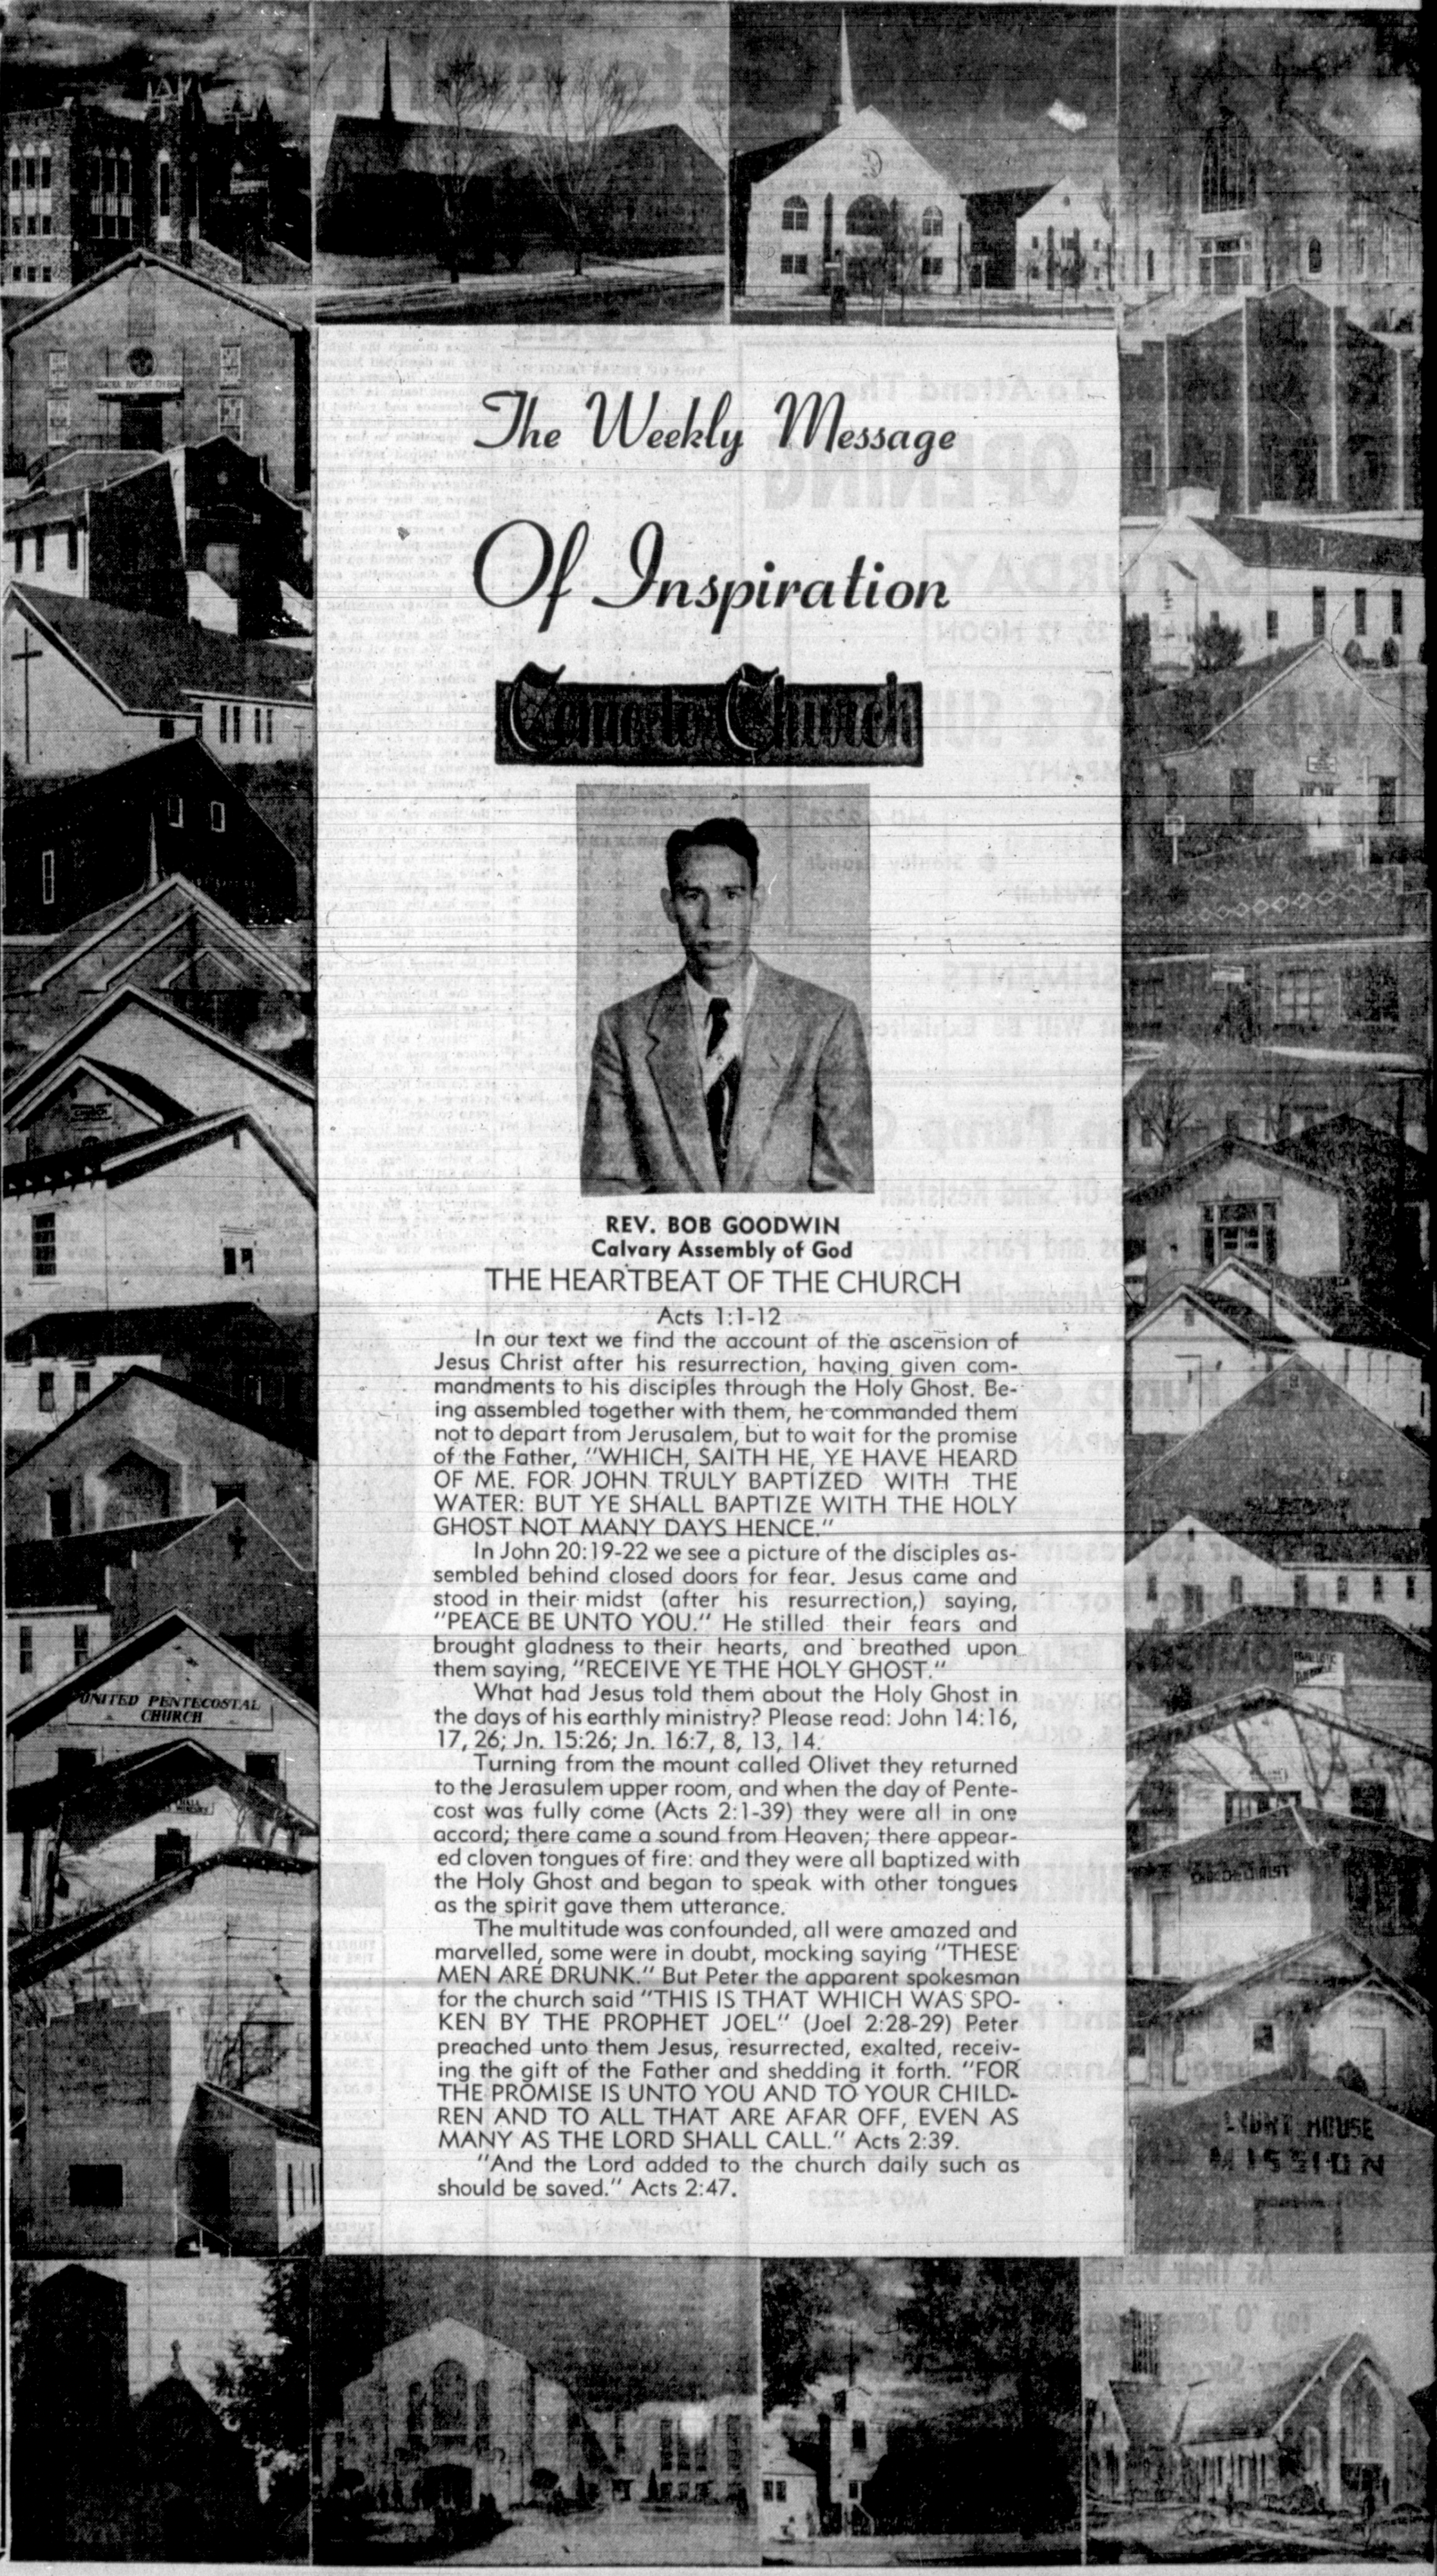

In John 20:19-22 we see a picture of the disciples assembled behind closed doors for fear. Jesus came and stood in their midst (after his resurrection,) saying, "PEACE BE UNTO YOU." He stilled their fears and brought gladness to their hearts, and breathed upon them saying, "RECEIVE YE THE HOLY GHOST."

What had Jesus told them about the Holy Ghost in the days of his earthly ministry? Please read: John 14:16, 17, 26; Jn. 15:26; Jn. 16:7, 8, 13, 14.

Turning from the mount called Olivet they returned to the Jerusalem upper room, and when the day of Pentecost was fully come (Acts 2:1-39) they were all in one accord; there came a sound from Heaven; there appeared cloven tongues of fire: and they were all baptized with the Holy Ghost and began to speak with other tongues as the spirit gave them utterance.

The multitude was confounded, all were amazed and marvelled, some were in doubt, mocking saying "THESE MEN ARE DRUNK." But Peter the apparent spokesman for the church said "THIS IS THAT WHICH WAS SPOKEN BY THE PROPHET JOEL" (Joel 2:28-29) Peter preached unto them Jesus, resurrected, exalted, receiving the gift of the Father and shedding it forth. "FOR THE PROMISE IS UNTO YOU AND TO YOUR CHILDREN AND TO ALL THAT ARE AFAR OFF, EVEN AS MANY AS THE LORD SHALL CALL." Acts 2:39.

"And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." Acts 2:47.

Buddy Rawls Gets Fighting Heart Award

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

Buddy Rawls, a courageous senior quarterback who once played an entire football game after having his jaw broken, received the Fighting Heart Award Thursday at the annual Harvester-Shocker football banquet.

After Coach Babe Curfman presented the award plaque to Rawls, Buddy became so "choked up" with emotion that he couldn't speak for about half a minute. Fighting back tears, Rawls finally said, "Thank you, coach, for me and for the whole team."

Rawls actually played the entire last half of the season with a broken jaw, using a special face mask for protection. Rawls' jaw was broken in the first quarter of the Monterey game, but he played the entire game and turned in an outstanding defensive performance.

In another feature of the banquet, held last night at Pampa High School Cafeteria, senior student Marcia Ward was crowned as Harvester football queen. Pampa football co-captain Bobby Stephens crowned the queen, then rather shyly performed his pleasant duty of kissing the beautiful young lady.

The queen's attendants were sophomore Margaret Burns, escorted by Dwan Urbanczyk; and junior Sue Brown, escorted by co-captain Jim Scott.

Mrs. Mabel Torvie, who directed the crowning of the queen, was given a bouquet of roses by the football team for being a loyal and devoted Harvester fan.

John Bridgers, Baylor University's head coach and athletic director, gave the night's main address. It was the kind of speech he has been noted for since coming to Baylor — short, directly to the point, and spiced with humor and common sense.

very strong," declared the former Colt coach. "He wore a brace on his back, and had contact lenses. One leg was shorter than the other, and he weighed only 180 pounds (very small for pro ball)."

"Despite all these handicaps, though," Bridgers said, "Berry became the best end in the business through effort, sacrifice, and dedication."

Warming up to his subject, the 37-year-old mentor drew some laughs through the light-hearted way he described Baylor's season. (Actually, Bridgers took over the youngest team in the Southwest Conference and guided it to a 4-6 record against some of the roughest opposition in the country).

"We helped make some of the greatest records in the country," Bridgers declared. "When Texas played us, they were ranked number four. They beat us and moved up to second in the nation. When Arkansas played us, they were 10th. They moved up to 10th. SMU had a disappointing season until they played us—but we helped them salvage something out of it."

"We did, however," he added, "end the season in a blaze of glory. We ran all over Rice—23 to 21 in the last minute." Bridgers then told his "secret" for keeping the alumni happy. "We played it smart," he said. "We won the first and last games. When you win the first one and the last one, the alumni will sometimes forget what happened in between."

Turning to the serious part of his address, Bridgers said that the main value of football is that it tests a man's courage and determination. "We coaches," he said, "like to get the big boys who have all the physical equipment to play the game. But it's the player who has the fighting qualities to overcome his lack of physical equipment that we remember the longest."

He named two such players, one of whom was Raymond Berry, end of the Baltimore Colts. (Bridgers was line coach of the Colts in 1957 and 1958).

"Berry," said Bridgers, "caught more passes last year than anyone else in the league, yet when he finished high school he couldn't even get a scholarship for a four-year college."

"Berry kept trying, though," Bridgers continued. "He played for a junior college, and won a trial with SMU. He stuck with the team, and finally made the squad his senior year. He was no sensation, but he was good enough to be the 20th draft choice of the Colts."

"Berry was never very fast or

Among out-of-town guests attending last night's banquet were Baylor Assistant Coach Chuck Purvis; Borger Coach Gene Mayfield; Shamrock coach and former Pampa assistant coach Eural Ramsey; Pat Patterson, Tascosa coach, and Mrs. Patterson. They were introduced by O. B. Worley.

Special entertainment was presented by a Pampa High School girls trio composed of Mary Sturgeon, Zoy Corona and Shirley McCoy. They were accompanied by Mrs. Hugh Sanders. Their selections were "You've Got to Be a Football Hero," "Why Do I Love You" and "It's a Grand Night For Singing." Dinner music was presented by Maxine Milliron at the organ.

The Harvesters and their parents, and Pampa's assistant coaches, were introduced by Curfman, who also introduced the cheerleaders for their service to the school.

Durocher Now For Umpires!

HAVERHILL, Mass. (UPI)—Leo Durocher, who earned the nickname "Lippy" through more than 25 years of umpire-baiting as a major league player and manager, Thursday night switched sides and labeled the arbiters' salary scale "disgraceful."

Durocher, speaking at the annual Haverhill Journal baseball dinner, said, "umpiring is one of the loneliest jobs in the world. They are practically slaves and get their pay is disgraceful."

The former manager of the old Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants said umpires "are not even included in a pension fund. They should receive at least $18,000 a year for their jobs."

Pampa Tries For Comeback

PLAINVIEW — The Pampa Harvesters, losers of three district games by a total of six points, try to hit the comeback trail here tonight at 8 p.m. against the Plainview Bulldogs.

Pampa now has a 2-3 District 3-4A record, and its hopes of repeating as district champion look slim. However, the Harvesters could get back in contention if three of tonight's games turn out "right". (If the Harvesters beat Plainview, Monterey upsets Borger, and Amarillo whips Palo Duro).

Pampa Fighters Take Five Bouts

BORGER — Pampa won five of seven boxing matches here Thursday night against inter-city competition, in the Borger District Golden Gloves tournament. Lefors captured its only fight, and there was one Pampa intra-squad bout.

Finals in the Borger tournament are slated for Saturday night, at 7:30 p.m.

Trent Olson led Pampa's victory parade by scoring a TKO over Lee Johnson of Dumas in the second round of their 112-pound clash. Olson, who was named the "Fightingest Fighter" of the Pampa tournament, staggered Johnson with a hard right, then moved in on him and gave him a merciless mauling. The referee stopped the fight.

Lefors only entry 60-pounder Terry Sanders, also scored a TKO. He stopped Gary Burkes of Dumas in 24 seconds of the first round. A scheduled 126-pound match between Gary Smith of Lefors and James Morse of Pampa was postponed.

Saturday's Schedule

Williams May Sign Today

BOSTON (UPI) — Ted Williams comes to Boston today and presumably will sign his 1960 contract with the Red Sox.

But whether the 41-year-old slugger will play this season is another story. For Ted the Terrible has hinted he will give it a whirl during spring training and then decide whether a cranky neck and rubbery legs will force his retirement.

The neck caused Williams to lose his famed timing last season. A pinched nerve in the neck forced him to stand unnaturally at the plate and threw off the timing of his swing.

Did Bill Brown get a fair shake from the University of Texas, and in particular, from Harold Bradley? He doesn't think so.

Brown, the former all-stater, quit the Texas squad Tuesday after being held out of Monday's Baylor game (which he had been scheduled to start) by Bradley.

According to the story Bradley gave the wire services, he held Brown out of the Baylor game "for disciplinary reasons." Bradley stated that "some situations developed late Monday that prompted me to discipline Brown." Bradley said, "I felt the best interests of the entire team would be served if he were withheld from the Baylor game. In view of this, I asked him not to suit up."

By his remarks, Bradley implied that Brown had been guilty of some serious breach of training rules, or some equally grave infraction.

However, we talked yesterday with Mrs. A. C. Brown, Bill's mother, and she gave an entirely different version of "the situation" which prompted (Bradley) to discipline Brown.

What Was Brown's Infraction?

Mrs. Brown, who had talked to Bradley about the incident on the phone, after Bill made his decision to quit the team, said that this is what happened:

Bradley approached Brown Monday, before the Baylor game, and said that he'd heard rumors that Brown was thinking of transferring to another school.

"It's just a rumor," Brown replied.

Bradley asked Brown if he had been thinking about going to another school, and Brown replied that he had been thinking about it, in case he couldn't make the grade for the Texas basketball team; but that thinking was as far as it went.

Bradley then told Brown that he thought it would be best if he (Brown) sat out the Baylor game. The reason Brown thought, in Plainview has a slight advantage over the Harvesters in height, and a big advantage in experience. The Bulldogs average about 6-2, compared to Pampa's 6-1, and have four returning starters, while Pampa has only one — Craig Winborn. Plainview's returning starters are Larry Akin, Dale Webb, Bill Ramsey and Johnny Messer.

The Harvesters lineup tonight is uncertain, because of multiple injuries to playmaker Phillip Gist. The 5-11 guard is hampered by:

1. An injured back on which he wears a brace.
 2. Some pulled muscles in his left leg.
 3. A cut over his right eye, (re-treated when he collided with another player while going for a loose ball), which required 15 stitches to close.
- If Gist is unable to play Hershel Terrell, 5-9, will go in his place. Other probable starters are Craig Winborn, 6-3, who is averaging more than 18 points per game; Pat Carter, 5-10, with a 13 point average; Allen Wise, 6-2, with six points plus mark; and Joe Timms, who is also hitting slightly more than six points per game.
- The varsity game will be preceded, at 8:15 p.m., by a B game. Terry Cully's Pampa Shockers, who have lost three of their last four games by one point, will be trying to increase their season record to 12-5. Probable starters for the Shockers are Jim Crinklaw, Lloyd Balch, Charles Fant, Jim Stephen-

Pampan Wanted To 'Red Shirt'

The A&M incident and the Baylor benching, according to Mrs. Brown, were only the straws that broke the camel's back. Bradley had told Bill on several occasions that he "wasn't playing my style of basketball."

Brown insisted that he was trying his best to conform to Bradley's style, and to follow Bradley's instructions. Bradley evidently didn't feel Brown was doing a good enough job of trying, and so kept him on the bench.

The Browns' biggest grievance in this situation is that Bill didn't want to play varsity ball this year, to begin with. Instead, he wanted to stay out of competition and avoid using up a year of eligibility. However, Bradley and Brown's parents talked him into playing varsity ball this season.

The Browns feel that if Bill was unable to learn, this year, Bradley's style of play, that he should have been encouraged to "red shirt" and sit out the season, and thus have a year to develop as Bradley directed, without losing a year of eligibility.

"Bill will definitely not return to the University of Texas," Mrs. Brown said. "He'll be back in Pampa next Wednesday. He'd like to play for some college in this general area, though of course he'll lose some eligibility."

Why The Indefinite Statement?

I have no way of knowing, for sure, whether Brown or Bradley is right, or whether Brown has been unjustly treated. However, I do believe that Brown's side of the case, as well as Bradley's, should be made public.

In the story Bradley gave to the wire services, Brown was certainly pictured as the villain in the piece. If, as Brown contends, he was disciplined because of rumors and because of "thinking about" transferring to another school, that is a distorted picture. A coach, of course, must decide whether he will or will not use a player, but conversely, the player has the right to decide whether he wishes to return the next semester to play for that coach, whether he wants to play elsewhere, or whether he wants to chuck the whole business and open a hot dog stand.

Corruption In Unions

At the close of 1959, Dr. Simon Rotenberg, associate professor of economics, presented a paper before the 12th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The event occurred in Chicago.

We have had the privilege of looking over his paper and have been rather favorably impressed. We believe this is the first time that a competent scientist has correctly and fearlessly labeled and defined the practice of corruption in the trade union movement and tended to show the inescapable incidence of corruption under existing union organizational systems, practices and methods.

The paper referred to is called: "A Theory of Corruption in Trade Unions." Presumably, those wanting copies could obtain them for a small fee from the University of Chicago.

Dr. Rotenberg begins his thesis by establishing that unless or until a monopoly of power intrudes into the market place in the labor field, there could be no possibility of corruption occurring at this level. And he goes on to correctly point out that all artificial monopolies are maintained in some degree by force or the threat of force.

Thus, he shows that a union may obtain a monopoly of a labor force through several methods—having once obtained this monopoly it is free to seek and obtain a corrupt payment.

He says: "We shall consider mainly the case of corruption in which a private charge is collected for doing something that a nominal, relevant rule requires to be done without the payment of this charge."

Then he goes on to show that this is precisely the case in union organization. The man who works for the union as an organizer, steward or business agent receives his financial reward by reason of corruption. For the fact is that if force is not in the possession of the union boss, he could not collect a fee for providing the services of others (they would provide

Tax Revisions

While tax men in government are crying that no tax revision is possible "because of high government spending," tax men outside of government are crying that tax revision must come "because of high government spending."

At least the spenders and the would-be economizers are in agreement that there is high government spending.

But what to do about it? Politicians are reluctant to lose one iota of their power or prestige. And this can be understood. When governments finally reach the point of over-expansion so that a retrenchment is inevitable, the individual politicians who plot that retrenchment are rarely mentioned favorably in history. The kudos always seem to go to the lusty prodigals. Blame usually trickles down to those sensible persons who tried to pay the price for prior extravaganzas.

Among the most helpful of the agencies of tax men outside of government, we have found the Tax Foundation of 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York City. This agency has been in business for some time making careful and authoritative studies of government spending and taxing policies. And the Tax Foundation is loud and clear in its plea for some kind of tax revision.

To further thinking along this line, the foundation has released a new publication called "The Federal Individual Income Tax: Revising the Rate and Bracket Structure." It is worthy of study.

It points out that while tax rates today are nearly the same as they were in 1942 and the taxable income brackets are exactly the same as they were 18 years ago, the impact of this tax structure on today's economy is far heavier, due to inflation.

"For example," said the study, "while a married person with an income of $3,000 paid a tax of $269 in 1942, a married person with the same income in 1959 adjusted for changes in consumer prices

Better Jobs

by R. C. HOILES

A Needed Book By A Man Of Vision — Von Mises

I have just finished reading Ludwig von Mises' book "The Theory of Money and Credit." Mr. von Mises, in 1912, was the first economist, to my knowledge, to give the real explanation of depressions. He wrote, at that time, that all depressions were the aftermath of the government expanding credit and then contracting it. And it expanded credit with the belief, in many cases, that it was the natural way to cause prosperity. What, of course, it did not see was that if it continued to expand credit, the unit of money would eventually become worthless, as it did in Germany in 1923.

"The Theory of Money and Credit" was first published in 1953, and again published in 1954, and had a third printing in 1959, with a new addition of 44 pages on monetary reconstruction. Mr. von Mises, in this part of the book, works out a plan of returning to sound money without bringing on a depression.

As I stated in a former article, I believe von Mises is the soundest economist now living, not only in the United States, but in the world. Some years ago I brought him to Santa Ana, Calif., to give a free lecture on the causes of war. I got my money's worth by one statement he made to me, personally—namely, "that it would be much better to have the banks go broke one at a time than to have the government go in and try to save them, with the result that the dollar would continue to be worth less and less until it eventually became worth nothing. His prediction, so far, has been coming true.

Mr. von Mises closes the book just preceding his new part on monetary reconstruction with this statement: "... Only where political forces are not antagonistic to private property in the means of production is it possible to work out a policy aiming at the greatest possible stability of the objective exchange value of money."

And by "objective exchange value of money" he means, what money will buy in other commodities. Mr. von Mises recognizes that labor unions that arbitrarily set prices with the assistance of the government are bound to cause unemployment. And he also realizes that the politicians are, in an embarrassing position, and so they try to deceive the public by increasing credit in the United States by way of permitting the banks to increase their deposits, which has the same effect as increasing printing press money.

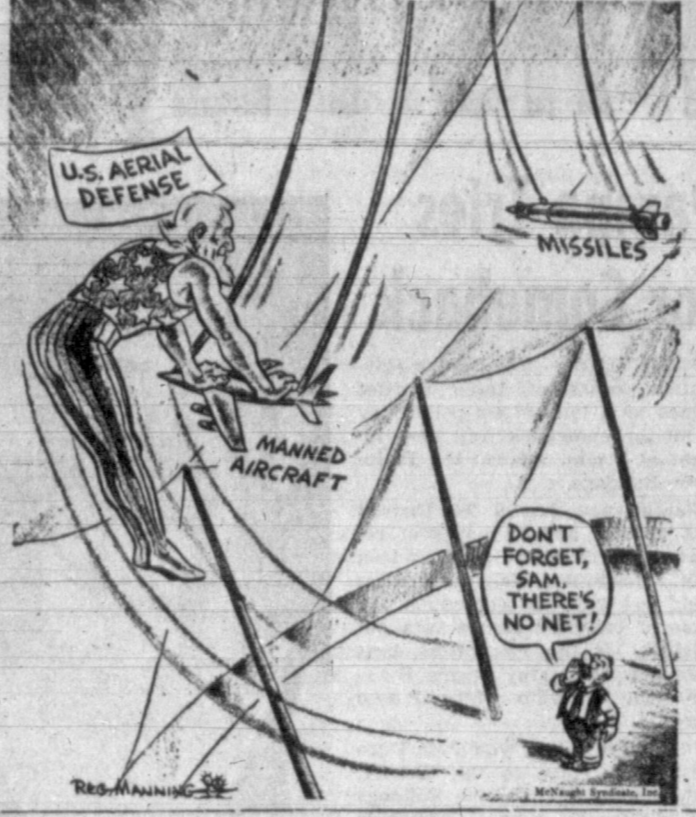

This increased deposit fools the public—and they do not realize that their dollar is being watered down by increased deposits. In his new addition to this wonderful book, which gives a pretty thorough history of the development of credit and banking, under "The Principle of Sound Money," he describes "The Classical Idea of Sound Money" in this manner: "The liberal doctrine sees in the market economy the best, even the only possible, system of economic organization of society. Private ownership of the means of production, to shift control of production to the hands of those best fitted for this job and thus to secure for all members of society the fullest possible satisfaction of their needs. It assigns to the consumers the power to choose those purveyors who supply them in the cheapest way with the articles they are most urgently asking for and thus subjects the entrepreneurs and the owners of the means of production, viz. the capitalists and the landowners, to the sovereignty of the buying public. It makes nations and their citizens free and provides ample sustenance for a steadily-increasing population.

"As a system of peaceful cooperation under the division of labor, the market economy could not work without an institution warranting to its members protection against domestic gangsters and external foes. Violent aggression can be thwarted only by armed resistance and repression. Society needs an apparatus of defense, a state, a government, a police power. Its right just privilege must be safeguarded by the continuous preparedness to repel aggressors. But then a new danger springs up. How to keep under control the men entrusted with the handling of the government apparatus lest they turn their weapons against those whom they were expected to serve? The main political problem is how to prevent the rulers from becoming despots and enslaving the citizenry. De-

For example, a 70 per cent ceiling on rates would lose only $145 million in taxes for the government. We feel very strongly that some very deep-seated and basic revisions are going to have to be made in this nation's tax structure if it is to avoid the pits that trapped prior civilizations in much the same manner. We were happy to note that the Tax Foundation had given up its position simply because the politicians are saying that they have to keep taxing because there is so much spending going on.

Obviously, there is too much spending going on. But a curtailment in taxes, if rightly provided, the political incentives to reduce spending. It's worth a try.

No Margin For Error

Fair Enough

Television Repetitious Of 'Ten-Twenty-Thirties'

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

The little-boy department of television is only a repetition of the stage plays which were the teething rings of elders who now view the westerns and get-em-ups of city streets with alarm and indignation. Those plays were known as ten-twenty-thirties. They were sound dramas carrying enormous equipment of costumes, scenery, and lights and a siren to simulate the rising cry of tempest. There were off-stage explosions and other commotions. Trees crashed and walls of buildings fell. There was one ruddy drama, "The Still Alarm," in which a building burned on-stage and the fireman saved the child.

For a reason obscure even then, the ten-twenty-thirties were regarded as uncouth and probably immoral plays, although honor, justice and virtue always prevailed.

"The Count of Monte Cristo" was a cut above the ten-twenty-thirty in the cultural scale because it had a European background. The plot was done dirt and in the end he did in his enemies, numbered one! two! and three! he ticked them off.

There was a raging sea in "The Count" which came in two versions. I preferred the one in which the Count was tied in a bag or blanket and thrown into the sea from a castle wall. The audience faced the castle from seaward. The Count, or reasonable facsimile, landed in a tank or trough containing water with a canvas bag billowing in the dim moonlight all around. It was fine simulation. In the other version the audience sat ashore, heard the angry ocean and saw an object heaved seaward. Then there was a splash as stagehands below the sea wall tossed up buckets of water.

William Gaxton, now shepherd of the Lambs in New York, made his debut in San Francisco as a wave, crouching under the canvas and making it undulate. Great oaks from little acorns grow. Mr. Gaxton went to a Broadway triumph in "Of Thee I Sing" as the prototype of Jimmy Walker, whom he resembled and mimicked. Victor Moore as Alexander Throthelbottom, the vice president of the United States, resembled and mimicked Calvin Coolidge in this great American satire, which, unfortunately, has no relation to my topic.

The principal author of ten-twenty-thirties was Harry Clay Blaney, who also worked in his own leading roles. He wrote either 60 or 300 such dramas. That is considerable margin for error but many of his plays were whittlings off the same stick wherein he set a respectable precedent for our current shooting-arm dramas. It seems to me that his best work was "Across The Pacific" although I have no recollection except the title.

Barnstorming companies went constantly up and down the land except in summer, for even Des Moines and St. Joe had regular theatres then.

The actors got $20, $25, $40, and perhaps a star got as much as $75 a week.

Puck and Judge had a standard type of tragedian with long blue hair and a long coat with a full collar and with spats, walking railroad ties home from whatever his show had closed. Actors were calledfense of the individual's liberty against the encroachments of tyrannical governments is the essential theme of the history of Western civilization. The characteristic feature of the Occident is its people's pursuit of liberty, a concern unknown to Orientals. All the marvelous achievements of Western civilization are fruits grown on the tree of liberty."

This book is printed by the Yale University Press and the price is $7. If anybody wants to know why things happen, it would be about as good a $7 as could be spent.

Looking Sideways

by WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK, N. Y.—There is no doubt about it, we are probably the only people on earth who have to learn three languages, sometimes even four, before Time and the River are through with us. We learn a sort of basic English until we get into adolescence, then a second teen-slang language, a third and adult kind of good speech when we pass from adolescence upward and then, as the declining years come, we have to learn a new language of adolescence because our children and grandchildren operate in this patois and we would be lost if we failed to learn it.

This multiplicity of combat with a common language became starkly clear over the last week-end when a torrent of teens engulfed our house, filling it with the sounds of TV, the blares of radio and the mystic speech patterns of that generation.

Here were seven young ladies sprawled on the rug before a hearth discussing the problems of good grooming. When to curl hair, when not to, what to do about eye-shadow and similar mistiques of the female young. Now, see if you can decode what they said. "Live. But. For. God's. Sake. Let. Live!" The ministerial alliances lacked confidence in their line, however, and, being locally entrenched against these nomads, put ordinances through their city councils. They also cast aspersions on wicked, painted ladies who wore cotton tights and skirts almost up to their knees.

"Nellie the Sewing Machine Girl" and "Nellie the Beautiful Cloak Model" were fine, unadorned examples of a type of entertainment now known scornfully as corn. Laura Jean Libby wrote many plays of the same artistic quality as the Blaneys.

There was little actual shooting except in "The Roundup," which was regarded as real, legitimate drama with Indians besieging the U.S. Cavalry. In this, Macklyn Arbuckle astonished mankind by rolling a cigarette with one hand. People thought this was slight-of-hand.

There was always a villain who made people hiss him with great sincerity, a fellow which no w saddens my heart with longing. The villain wore an open cape, hat and stick and exclaimed "foiled!" and "curses!" One Blaney had a saw-mill scene in which the hero, probably named Paul Mordant, as many heroes were, was lashed to a plank which then was fed into a buzzsaw. The suspense was terrible but he always got saved.

Chicago was a producing center and many companies went out in all directions. There was no actor of equity and art for art's sake was not a merer but a way of life among a crazy people.

The greatest of all these shows next to the Blaneys and Libbys was a white slave drama called "Little Lost Sister." It had three acts, written for an act a night, three nights running, for $100 an act to pay for an operation on my mother in 1913. The author was Arthur James Pegler and it ran for 20 years in stock, on show boats and in rep or repertory shows in the Cumberlands where it was second only to "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

The greatest line in the ten-twenty-thirty was exclaimed by the working girl who spurned the cad in the opera "cage" exclaiming, "Rags are royal raiment - when worn for virtue's sake."

While these undesirable effects occur in the practices of all experienced physicians, there is at least two schools of thought with regard to their management in the doctor-patient relationship.

Some practitioners prefer to say nothing about them before-hand lest the patient become alarmed and perhaps imagine that an undesirable reaction is about to occur.

Others believe as I do that forewarnings are in the best interest of good medical practice.

In our view, the informed patient can limit the extent of damage by early recognition of the undesirable effect.

In the case of injury to bone marrow, for example, this time factor is often a lifesaving. And, as a matter of self-interest, the physician who forewarns the victim of an undesirable effect may be spared unjust criticism, unwarranted dismissal and an unfair charge of malpractice.

How do you prefer to be dealt with?

occurred, taking 29 lives.

A thought for today: Poet Lord Byron said, "On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined; no sleep till morn."

Save Your Bottles For Mailing Letters

by HENRY McLEMORE

The wise man, the far-seeing man, will start saving every empty bottle and cork he can lay his hands on.

He will stack them in his attic, in spare closets, and all over the back yard.

The time is coming, and it doesn't appear too far off, when only the very rich will be able to afford to use the mails. The rest pressed for a date with that lead-head. A mirror for a glance is riches but to stare is to invite meg-wags."

Some of it is comprehensible. Sure. But you tell me what meg-wags are. I asked. Meg-wags are the tantrums Princess Margaret is supposed to indulge in when personal life become a burden. Another group, rapt and strained over the caterwauling of some adolescent youth who had the good fortune to make a recording before taste and the public dimmed his light, was rhapsodizing over some of today's so-called singers.

"This is a man with the gleam of cool coal from dark underlining his throat. I dig this one deepest because his depths are all there in those tones. I mean. This one kind of gets you where the sun shines hottest and the winds are steady and cool. If this girl were alone on that kind of island, I mean, and she had to yell for help this I could understand and write about in some book, but working in a mine with all those other canaries I don't dig."

The last sentence has a rap-ture all its own, being salted with imagination, inventive, scorn, imagery and pace. This is difficult in one sentence.

Two lads standing unsteadily before a one-volume edition of Marlowe were surveying the literary scene.

"Now, Joe, I have to tell you that for a man to turn his typewriter into living goods, this O'Hara is my vote, he can do it the coolest. He even makes silk when he glops up his pages with a lot of uncles and aunts and who-was-his-uncles routines. This is very hard, I would say. It's like those legends in the Bible. They go a long way and cover print-but-who-needs-it? O'Hara makes you need it."

The boy with him said "Yes, Right." Which was a lot of conversation at one time from this type.

But the one most enchanting was a sprig of 15 going on 16, her kilt short and of a tartan unknown to anyone in Scotland, her legs slim and straight, her chin firm and her eyes bright and clear. This one was as pretty as all get out but had the leaves of extreme intelligence to go with it. As one girl said, "She looks like Jackie Moran out of Sury Idiot, but has brains the way California has sunshine."

"I've been slammed up against some reading matter about this miracle place in Portugal," she said to me. "Fascinating! Whoosh! And it said this. His-her had written some prophecies to be opened this year, 1960, by either her Bishop or her Cardinal, who can tell without a score card? Anyway, someone like the Pope or something is going to open this real cool letter this year and who can wait? If we are going to be meg-wagged the hard way by Fate and Circumstance, those twin monsters, I want to know it."

She meant to sacrifice or disrespect. Rather she was consumed with interest.
