Presidential Prospects Paraded By Democrats

Seven Hopefuls At Campaign Kickoff

By WILLIAM THEIS United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Democrats paraded their selection of presidential prospects at a gala campaign kickoff dinner Saturday night and leveled a blistering barrage on the Republican they hope to beat in November - Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Seven party leaders who are either avowed or still silent candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination spoke here Saturday night at a gala dinner. They took pokes at the Eisenhower administration and Republican Party but centered their hottest fire on Nixon who has the GOP presidential nomination virtually sewed up.

Democratic President Harry S. Truman set the tone for the occasion by making no reference to Nixon, who had said previously that any Democrat who backed party politics could whip Nixon.

Democratic nominees that are still uncommitted to anyone at this time although they have "certain inclinations." Nixon has frequently been re-elected favoring the candidacy of fellow-Missourian, Sen. Stuart Symington.

Democratic hopefuls took to the stage to give their views on the Democratic nomination. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, who stands for relief that the public record can be wrapped up in packaged, deodorized and sterilized and served hot to voters...

The American people do not want a sickening or sickening. They do not want a declining to be led down on great issues is a triumph of Democratic principle.

Do not like that kind of pot of cunning which prides itself on its cunning. (See KICKOFF, Page 4)

James Fatal To In Family

MARYION, Ind. (UPI) - A truck driver Saturday night killed a family of four who believed for days that they were ill with a "flu bug" which actually were being slow-poisoned by gas fumes from their heating stove.

Franklin Copp, 38, his wife, Helen, 30, and their six children, ranging in age from 3 to 12, were found dead of asphyxiation in their home in a middle-class neighborhood. Mrs. Copp had been ill since Wednesday, but believed they had a touch of influenza. What happened is not clear.

Guest speaker at the luncheon will be George R. Dempster, president of Knoxville, Tenn., president of Dempster Brothers, Inc., manufacturer of heavy equipment.

Evidence Chain Forged

By SYD LOVE United Press International

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) - FBI agents worked in secret Saturday night in their attempt to forge a chain of evidence linking Robert V. Spears to the crash of an airliner in which 42 persons died.

Spears, 64, wanted on abortion charges in Los Angeles and with a record of convictions ranging from fraud to armed robbery, appeared undisturbed in his county jail cell by implication of the case-how and why his name was on the passenger list of the National Airliner that crashed in the Gulf of Mexico Nov. 16.

Rain A Clincher In Mine Tragedy

COALBROOK, South Africa. (UPI) - Torrential rains swept the Clydesdale coal mine disaster area Saturday night bringing the danger of massive new cave-ins that would turn the site into a permanent graveyard for 440 trapped miners.

Company officials expressed fears that rescue operations would have to be given up entirely and the pithead forever sealed because of the unstable condition of the surrounding rock strata.

This condition worsened every moment because of the heavy rains that churned the ground above the Clydesdale pithead into a sea of mud and threatened to flood the shaft beneath.

Even before the rains, a new rockslide forced rescue workers to flee for their lives, bringing a halt to their desperate operations.

The miners, together with 70 work horses, have been entombed for more than two days in a gallery 600 feet below ground without water and with air befouled by deadly fire damp (methane) and carbon dioxide.

Texas Experiences Calmest Political Season In History

United Press International In nine days the books will be closed to Texas' legislative hopefuls, and unless there is a late surge of candidates the ballots will be inked for one of the calmest years in state political history.

Sixteen state senators face re-election. Only eight currently have possible opponents.

Top Chicago Cop Quits

CHICAGO (UPI) - Police Commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor, 31 years on the force, quit Saturday amid charges of widespread police-theft and corruption.

Thirteen policemen already have been arrested. O'Connor's resignation, because of "ill health," was announced by Mayor Richard J. Daley.

He also served as commissioner of finance and taxation for the State of Tennessee in 1932, and was chairman of the board of the Great Smoky Mountain National Park. He is a former president of Citizens for TVA, Inc., and was president of the Building Code Congress of Tennessee.

Hershel Wilks, chamber president, will preside at Monday's meeting. The invocation will be given by the Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Ben. Golehon will provide special entertainment.

Sid Patterson, a former Pampa now with the Dempster Co., will introduce the speaker.

PAID YOURS? - Pampa Jaycee Richard Cooke talks to Mrs. Gayle Trollering, 1116 Prairie Dr., about transferring her poll tax to Pampa. Mrs. Trollering and her husband recently moved to Pampa from Shamrock. Between 1 and 4 p.m., Saturday, Cooke sold 28 poll tax receipts. The Jaycees will have a trailer house at the former LaNora Theater location next Saturday.

Castro - U.S. Feud Grows

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Phillip W. Bonsal, U.S. Ambassador to Cuba, returned here Saturday to confer with his superiors on what he called a serious deterioration in U.S.-Cuban relations.

Bonsal, scheduled to meet with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter Sunday morning, told newsmen he was "very concerned" about worsening developments which he blamed on "unwarranted attacks" by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

President Eisenhower discussed the situation with Herter in a special conference at the White House Saturday.

Elopement Over, Heiress Coming Home

PARIS (UPI) - Runaway heiress Gamble Benedict meekly boarded a plane for home Saturday in her brother's custody and ended a four-week international elopement with a married boy friend.

The big romance in the life of the heiress to part of the Remington-typewriter fortune ended with her arrest in protective custody by unsympathetic French police and her appearance as a juvenile in court where her 21-year-old brother, Douglas, was given custody of her until she left France.

The 19-year-old heiress drove off with him to Orly Airport where the Benedict family, apparently sensing victory in its fight to prevent her from making a "tragic mistake," had booked seats aboard the next flight for New York (an American flight 115, ETA 8:15 p.m. EST).

There was no sign of Andre Porumbeanu, the 35-year-old Romanian-born chauffeur with whom Gamble wanted to take a chance on love.

There were reports he might be deported from France. A court official said after the hearing for Gamble that the dashing suitor was trying to "straighten out passport difficulties."

Gamble and Douglas—who himself had a marriage annulled as a mistake when he was 18—departed with attorney Robert Hoffman. He had been sent from New York by Gamble's guardian grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Benedict, in a desperate effort to prevent her from carrying out her plans to marry Porumbeanu.

Porumbeanu, who has an estranged wife and a daughter only nine years younger than Gamble, was seeking a divorce so he could wed the heiress.

Porumbeanu indignantly denied that he and Gamble had done anything morally wrong.

GEN. JACQUES MASSU ... Algerians want him

Ousted Massu Sees DeGaulle Re His Future

PARIS (UPI) - Paratroop Maj. Gen. Jacques Massu had a face-to-face meeting with President Charles de Gaulle in Paris Saturday while Massu's angry partisans staged protest strikes in Algiers over the firing of their hero.

Some 2,000 Europeans blocked traffic in Algiers and shouted "We want Massu." Authorities set up road blocks and dispatched armored cars to guard key intersections and government buildings as protest walkouts shut down 70 per cent of the shops in some city areas and halted bus transportation.

Massu, dismissed by De Gaulle as commander of the key Algiers region, reported to the Elysee Palace and spent nearly an hour closeted with the President and his top aides.

A palace source said De Gaulle (See MASSU, Page 4)

Saturday Wreck Injures Driver

Larry Glen Pool, 15, was hospitalized for observation Saturday afternoon after a two-car accident one mile east of Pampa on U.S. Hwy. 60.

Highway Patrolman Stan Schneider, who investigated the accident, said Pool was making a U-turn across the highway when struck by an automobile driven by 16-year-old Ronnie James Kear, 409 Graham.

Schneider said a 1954 Chrysler driven by Kear, continued across the highway and into a ditch where he was hospitalized with a deep cut. Kear was admitted to hospital with cuts and bruises. Kear was treated and released. Pool was listed in "critical" by Highland Hospital attendants Saturday.

X-15 Successful In High Test

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) - The experimental manned rocket ship X-15 successfully completed its fourth powered flight Saturday, furthering America's knowledge in rearming man from the fringes of space.

North American Aviation test pilot Scott Crossfield again was in the controls as the 50-foot missile-plane was carried aloft tucked beneath the wing of a giant C-54 bomber.

The eight-jet mother ship rumbled down the Edwards AFB runway and lifted at 5:48 p. m. east-scheduled morning flight was delayed because of telemetry troubles between the ships.

Texas Retail Sales Soar To New Mark

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas' retail sales soared to a new annual record during 1959 as $12,725,000,000 poured into merchants' tills, a survey showed Saturday.

Sales for 1959 were up 5 per cent over the previous year, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported.

"Generally high automobile sales through the year, with the exception of the last quarter, were chiefly responsible for the magnitude of the total sales gain," the bureau said.

Christmas sales in Texas were "quite good," despite a 2 per cent drop from the 1958 holiday, the bureau said.

Retail sales during December were estimated at $1,437,300,000 by the bureau.

The percentage decline was the result of comparison with a month when many observers were startled by the sudden resurgence of consumer buying after the 1957-58 recession, the bureau said.

It is significant, the bureau said, that December sales of non-durable goods were up 1 per cent over an extremely high level a year ago.

Sales showing in the various retail subclassifications varied considerably in the comparison with November, 1959, and with December, 1959, but records were with several important exceptions much more uniform for the 12-month period, the bureau said.

In the nondurables area, December sales by apparel stores showed no change from the same month in 1958, but were up 18 per cent over November's last year. Drug store sales showed no change over a year ago, but were up 44 per cent over November.

The piano artists studied in Israel under Prof. Alfred Schroeder. They won acclaim on the American concert platform by reason of their expert collaboration, interesting programs and immediate audience appeal.

Wide experience on two continents through extensive tours under varying circumstances have given them the mature faculty of projection. They establish quick and close contact with the audience and their virtuosity generates excitement, according to Dr. Carl Lang, association president.

Eden was born in Jerusalem, educated there and graduated with honors from the Conservatory of Music. Tamir was born in Vilno, Poland, and moved to Israel after World War II. He is also an honor graduate of the New Jerusalem Conservatory.

They appeared first in America at the Aspen, Colo., Festival on a scholarship granted by the world-famous duo-piano team of Vronsky and Bahin.

In 1956, Eden and Tamir were heard for the first time in this country from coast to coast on both the Ed Sullivan and Arthur Godfrey shows. The same year the pair won the two-piano medal and title of "laureate" at the international competition at Verceil, Italy.

Last season, Eden and Tamir again won cross-country praise in the U.S. when they appeared on tour with the Ed Sullivan Cavalcade of Israel Stars show.

PLANE LOSES DOOR

EVERGREEN, Ala. (UPI)—A door from an Air Force C-130 cargo plane landed on a farm near here Friday touching off reports of a plane crash. Some of the crew's personal belongings also were blown out, but Lt. R. E. Oppenjoy brought the plane down safely at Maxwell Air Force Base, Montgomery, Ala.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

COOKEVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Ralph Anderson, 21, a student at Tennessee Tech, was arrested on murder charges Friday night in the drowning of his 30-year-old bride. Police charged Anderson drove his car into Burgess Falls Lake and shoved his wife back into the water after she had climbed out of a window.

Nun Building A Hospital With Naught But Prayer

ELM GROVE, Wis. (UPI)—A young nun who made a pact with St. Francis of Assisi is building a hospital physical therapy ward with prayers, donations and improvised equipment.

Sister Mary Theophane, a native of New York whose name was originally Dorothy Mandragos, now has four partly furnished therapy rooms in the new 100-bed hospital built for Milwaukee's School Sisters of Notre Dame.

She started with nothing more than a resolution to St. Francis, the rich man's son who became the barefoot friend of the poor.

"If St. Francis ventured to help others with no means available to him, then I, a fledgling nun, would make him my patron and beg as he had," Sister Theophane said.

And beg, and improvise, she did.

From an old cooker she improved a paraffin bath. A muscle stimulator was made from a radio battery housed in a cigar box. She found a pulley of very simple construction.

Her first physical therapy department turned out to be her bedroom. But in hardly any time she had spread out into the hospital corridor.

Then she got hold of some old piping for parallel bars by means of which crippled sisters could learn to walk again. Next she begged a mirror from a local shoe store so her patients could watch themselves practicing.

When a homemade set of exercise steps arrived her "department" was given new space in the psychiatric wing.

"Now we have two nice whirlpool baths," she said, "made out of old-time washing machines. A foot pump from an old dentist's chair gave us a leg exerciser and the pulley I use for patients with arm and shoulder injuries."

"Then, at last, several pieces of genuine physical therapy equipment were donated to the department. We have a good, if used, hand table for exercising crippled fingers. And a brand new exercise bicycle which Sister Martina, who is well over 70 and has two fractured hips, insists on taking down the road apiece nearly every morning."

Sister Theophane is still far from her original $2,000 goal. But her $1 first donation from the priest who baptized her has grown to $320.

Cotton Ginner Of Year Named

DALLAS (UPI)—Aubrey L. Lockett, farmer, banker and cotton seed breeder from Vernon, has been named Texas Cotton Ginner of the Year for 1960.

Lockett, who operates three gins near Vernon and one at Ropesville near Lubbock, will be formally recognized as this state's contender for the national title Monday at a meeting here of the directors of the Texas Cotton Ginners Assn.

Lockett's modern gin operations, his participation in many programs of the industry and his own community as well as his service to his gin customers were cited as factors in Lockett's selection.

His farm headquarters are maintained at the Wilbarger county town of Lockett, but lives in Vernon, where he is chairman of the board of the Waggoner

Crippled Airliner Down Safely After Two Hours

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A huge airliner carrying 32 persons ditched Greater Pittsburgh airport for 2½ hours with a faulty landing gear Saturday, but was brought down safely without incident.

Capt. Thomas E. Davis, experienced in bringing down crippled planes, landed the Eastern Airlines Super-C Constellation after hovering for 135 suspenseful minutes to burn up excess fuel.

The landing was smooth with no injuries.

"If anybody tells you he's an atheist, don't believe him," said Don Astrov, 27, Loraine, Ohio, one of the first passengers to alight. Davis and co-pilot Martin Gould had brought Flight 140—carrying 27 passengers and a crew of five—from Miami in on schedule at 6 a.m. E.S.T. with a warning light on the instrument panel flashed. The landing gear had failed to lock.

Davis took the plane up to 1,000 feet and began circling the field while ground crews summoned ambulances. A layer of 50,000 gallons of chemical foam was spread over the field's longest runway, already covered with an inch of snow, while Davis talked to the tower by radio.

"We tried to bring the gear down three or four times," Davis said. "We tried a number of methods to lock the gear, but they didn't work."

Davis, a veteran of 16 years with Eastern, said the gear never did lock.

"The nose gear was only partially in position, but it did hold some weight," he said. "We made a normal landing except we didn't use brakes or nose wheel steering."

The experience was not new for Davis, 43, of Miami. Eight years ago he landed safely at Jacksonville, Fla., a Martin Airliner with

Biggest Thrust Rocket Readied

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI)—The Army Saturday began assembling the booster of the Saturn, the free world's most powerful rocket capable of putting a ton of instruments on the moon.

Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, head of the Army Ordnance Missile Command, announced the start of the assembly of the 1,500,000 pound thrust rocket system which undergoes static test firing in late spring.

The tail section of eight intermediate range ballistic missiles was moved into position Friday at the fabrication and engineering laboratories of the Army ballistic missile agency here. The 70-foot long fuel tanks will be attached as part of the assembling.

A collapsed wing landing gear. "That one turned out just fine," he said. Today's incident "didn't turn out to be a close scrape...but it certainly had the potential to be one," he said.

Get The Bird From A Talking Crow?

Sam Gibby -- 'Speech Teacher'

By CHARLIE CROSS
Daily News Staff Writer

words carefully, and even says a few sentences. The day Shorty was "interviewed," he was more interested in what Mrs. Gibby was going to feed him than in talking, but Gibby says he can say "hot, cold, hi, hello, whatcha doin' and you don't say."

Shorty was taken from a nest on an Achille, Okla., farm, where Gibby's brother works, when just a fledgling of four weeks. He was one of a family of four that were captured. The other three met death in various ways, so only Shorty is left. Shorty roosts in a cage in the Gibby back yard most of the time, although he is allowed in the house when visitors come, because as Mrs. Gibby said, "Shorty loves company."

When "interviewed," the crow was perched on Gibby's arm, and was brought into the house so we all could talk and take a picture. He proved to be more interested in eating than talking. When full Shorty "stashed" his food in Gibby's shirt pocket, carefully closing the opening after depositing each item of food. Shorty likes most everything humans eat, such as French-fried potatoes, meat, and peanuts. He also likes dog food. Gibby tells a story about Shorty, who once had a piece of meat so large he was unable to swallow it. Gibby said Shorty walked the top of his cage trying to find a place to hide the morsel. He finally found a hole in the top of the cage, but was unable to place it there, so Gibby told him he'd "better eat it or I'll take it away from you." Gibby says Shorty very distinctly said, "There just ain't no place to put it."

Shorty and his two brothers originally were allowed to roam at will, but since the other two were killed, Shorty has had his wings clipped and has been confined to the back yard or the house. Gibby says Shorty is a notorious thief, and will steal anything he can carry. He likes to play with a dog or cat, and prefers black cats to white ones. Mrs. Gibby said "Shorty will play all day with a black cat, but will pull the fur out of a white one."

AM AND SHORTY — Sam Gibby, 858 S. Sumner, and Shorty, his talking crow, engage in some serious conversation. Shorty says words like "cold, hot, hi, hello," and phrases such as "Whatcha doing." Shorty will be four years old next April. (Daily News Photo)

He also likes to ride on trucks, and once, before the wing-clipping job, hitched a ride on an oil truck and was gone all day. Late that evening, when the truck returned Shorty flew out from under it as it turned the corner at the Gibby residence. Gibby, who went to school in Atoka County, Okla., and is a concrete contractor, says he had no crows when a child, and "almost taught one to talk then, but he was killed before he could learn much." Shorty began to speak when about one and one-half to two years old. Gibby says crows have a "speech brain" that enables them to talk and learn a language. Shorty goes to roost about sundown, or as Gibby says, "about like a chicken," but when the porch light is left on "he stays up later." After conversing with Shorty for about 45 minutes, he muttered something that sounded suspiciously like "idiotic reporters who ask too many questions."

Grand Ole Opry Troupe To Play Here January 30

LOUVIN BROTHERS

JIMMY DICKENS
... pint-size performer

JIMMY NEWMAN
... Grand Ole Opry star

Stars of the Grand Ole Opry will be in Pampa Saturday for a stage performance to be followed by a dance. The program is sponsored by American Legion Post 334.

The stage performance will be in the Pampa Junior High School auditorium starting at 7 p.m. The dance will begin at 9:30 at the National Guard Armory.

Featured stars of the world famous "Opry" from Nashville, Tenn., will be Jimmy Newman, Little Jimmy Dickens, the Louvin Brothers, Red Sovine and the Bun Wilson Band.

Admission for the show will be $1.50 for adults and $1 for those high school age and under. There will be no reservations. Admission to the dance following the concert is $1.50 per person.

The proceeds realized by the American Legion sponsors will be used in its 1960 youth program. Included in the program will be the Easter egg hunt for children, sponsorship of two Pampa youths to Boys State and Junior American Legion baseball activities.

One of the top attractions Saturday will be Little Jimmy Dickens. He has a long list of hit records, among which are "Country Boy," "Old Cold Tater," "A-Sleepin' at the Foot of the Bed," and others.

Newman is no newcomer to the country and western music field. He is a top MGM recording star. The Louisiana singer, part French, always sings "Joie Blonde" (Beautiful Blonde) at every appearance.

The Louvin Brothers are from Alabama and sell many records under the Capitol label. The boys write some of their own songs. Most of their songwriting is in the sacred field.

Sovine is a star of stage, radio and television. He is a native of West Virginia, as is Dickens. He got his start in an amateur contest and has climbed the ladder to success. Many remember his hit of a few seasons back, "16 Tons."

Chain Group Buys Cleveland Paper

CLEVELAND Ohio (UPI)—The Scripps-Howard newspapers, publishers of the Cleveland Press, Saturday bought the Cleveland News.

The suspension of the 55-year-old News leaves Cleveland with two daily newspapers of general circulation—the Cleveland Press and News in the afternoon and the Cleveland Plain Dealer in the morning. The afternoon newspaper will be published as the Cleveland Press and the Cleveland News.

Announcement of the sale was made by Sterling Graham, President of the Forest City Publishing Co., which published the News and Plain Dealer.

Graham said that rising costs had forced the discontinuance of the News which employed 827 persons. He said they would be paid dismissal and vacation pay.

The Cleveland Press, founded Nov. 2, 1878, by E. W. Scripps was the first of the present Scripps-Howard newspapers. Scripps began with an assortment of type and a used printing press. The newspaper was popular and is now Ohio's largest daily.

Scripps also founded the United Press, now United Press International, in 1907.

The purchase price of the News was not announced.

Graham expressed pride in the journalistic and community services of the News staff and regretted that economic conditions forced the newspaper to suspend publication.

"We are hopeful," Graham said, "that the features, character and purposes by which the News gained its best public attention will be preserved for Cleveland in the stronger evening newspaper."

Science Research Institute Planned

AUSTIN (UPI)—University of Texas regents Saturday authorized planning for a 15 million dollar science research institute.

University vice president H. H. Ransom said the institute will be staffed by top-ranked scientists who will be given full opportunity and major facilities for long-range programs.

The 15 million dollar price tag includes outlays for research, salaries and physical facilities, Ransom said.

An immediate start on development of the institute was assured by decision to design and install an atom smasher for use by nuclear physicists. The installation, to be completed in two years, will cost $3,000,000.

Development of the institute will extend over several years, Ransom said. University administrators said funds will come from grants by business and industry, national research agencies and the university available fund.

Letters Urge Tony Curtis To Stay 'Pure'

By RICK DU BROW UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Tony Curtis, who gets about 10,000 fan letters a month, says he'd never be able to "smoke, drink or make love" if he heeded the demands in many of them.

"If I lived the way a lot of fans want me to, I'd have to change my whole way of life," he said.

The 34-year-old actor, relaxing in his white-carpeted study in gray shorts, a white T-shirt and sneakers, said:

"I decided at the beginning of my career that I'd rather quit than make believe I was absolutely pure just to keep fans happy. No career is worth that."

"I'm not kidding when I say some letters tell me how to conduct my love life. Some say I shouldn't drink or smoke. One guy wrote that if he saw me eating meat in a still photograph, he'd stay away from my pictures."

Curtis said he and his wife, Janet Leigh, get about 15,000 fan letters a month between them.

"But fan mail is really no criterion by which to judge a star," he said. "A lot of performers get mail but couldn't get into a movie unless they bought a ticket."

Curtis, currently appearing in "Operation Petticoat," said he is much more comfortable now that he's a recognized actor than he was as a teen-age idol.

Legislation May Make It Easier To Buy New Home

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The budget President Eisenhower sent Congress this week proposed a revenue surplus that may make it easier and cheaper for home buyers to get loans.
 The President's spending plan for fiscal 1961, which starts next July 1, envisioned an excess of revenue over spending of $4,200,000,000.
 Eisenhower said all of this sum should be used to pay off an equal amount of the national debt.
 Reducing the debt invariably eases money market conditions, putting downward pressure on interest rates and making it easier for borrowers to get credit.
 Debt liquidation channels tax revenue — collected from all of us — into the hands of bond holders. (When they first loaned money to the government it probably was widely disbursed in federal spending.) Since idle money earns nothing, lenders will look about for new investment outlets. One such outlet is home loans.
 Officials pointed out, however, that the economic effects of the surplus are not likely to be felt until much later this year.
 Various factors could trim the surplus far below the projected level.
 The only other bright spot in the new budget for home buyers was a proposal to let the Federal Housing Administration expand its staff when necessary to keep up with a heavy volume of applications for FHA mortgage insurance.
 One Eisenhower housing proposal that seemed likely to be ignored by Congress was to let the GI direct and guaranteed loan program expire as scheduled on July 25, 1960. The House Veterans Committee voted last year to extend the program. Millions of World War II servicemen still have not exercised their rights to get a direct or guaranteed home loan. In an election year especially, Congress is not likely to let these rights expire.
 The scheduled end of the program would affect only World War II veterans, but not Korean servicemen.

 Eisenhower also said Congress should not replenish funds for direct college housing loans. He proposed a new program of guarantees and grants for construction of college facilities of various kinds.
 Public housing and slum clearance programs should be continued under present authorizations without expansion, the President said. He estimated this would mean public housing subsidy payments to local authorities of $133,066,000 in the current fiscal year and $150,848,000 in 1961, and slum clearance commitments of $385,000,000 this year and $300,000,000 next year.
 By June 30, 1961 some 497,000 federally-aided low-rent housing units will have been completed, the President forecast.
 He laid emphasis on speeding up completion of urban renewal projects under way and allocating public housing funds — to projects which will be constructed in the near future."

EIGHT LEFT HOMELESS
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Robert Thompson, 9, thought he saw his cap-gun under a bed, so he lighted a match to make sure. Firemen said the discarded match started a fire which left Robert, his six brothers and sisters and his mother, a divorcee on welfare aid, homeless.
TO SPONSOR CRUSADE
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Protestant Council of the city of New York announced Friday its evangelism department will sponsor a Spanish language sidewalk crusade by Billy Graham. The crusade, to run Nov. 6 through 13, will be aimed at the large Spanish-American population of New York City.

Veteran census officials foresee no relief in the trouble that's about age. It's especially unpopular among women.
 So far, no one who has balked at answering it has been convicted. Bureau policy prohibits a census taker from arguing with anyone, especially a woman, who refuses to answer a question. Instead, he is supposed to tip his hat, say "Thank you, ma'am," and turn her name over to his supervisor.
 The supervisors, who are usually pretty adept at public relations, either phone or visit disgruntled women to explain the error of their ways. Census officials say that most gals then usually utter the secret statistic.
 Occasionally, though, some will make a last stubborn stand. One tactic is to insist on mailing the supervisor their age instead of telling it to him in person. This procedure is considered acceptable.
 The usual argument employed to gain cooperation is that answers to all questions are kept in the strictest confidence. Census takers must swear a special secrecy oath. Any who break it can be fined as much as $1,000 and sentenced to two years in jail.
 Despite their best cajoling, census takers and their supervisors can never be certain that the age answers they finally get are accurate. One census taker was startled when a woman he had just interviewed raced after him as he walked away from her house.

"I lied to you about my age," she confessed. "It was because my husband was in the room. He thinks that I'm six years younger than I really am."
 Census officials say that women who don't correct their fibs may end-up causing themselves a lot of trouble. This is because a census record is legally recognized as a substitute for a birth certificate. There are approximately three million Americans whose birth records are missing. Any of these persons who have consistently lied to census takers may have a lot of trouble proving their eligibility to cash in on old age benefits such as social security.
 Census officials have developed a new nose counting system for those that may help age-conscious gals overcome their embarrassment. Everybody is going to receive a copy of the questions ahead of time.
 The questions will be mailed to homes late in March. Residents are supposed to write the answers and have them ready for census takers when they call during the first two weeks in April.
 Thus, for the first time in census history, sensitive women don't have to dread answering that awful question out loud.

Baritone Was Once Garment Cart Pusher
NEW YORK (UPI) — The million-record success of singer-composer Brook Benton threatens the start of a new fad among aspiring singers—pushing a hand cart in the New York garment district.
 Benton's baritone voice sounded loud and clear in the Seventh Avenue canyons during his learning days of a decade ago, but went unnoticed except by traffic cops, cab drivers and a few startled pedestrians.
 "I would hire any kids that showed up and have them help me unload," Benton said, recalling the days when he was 17 fresh from Camden, S.C., and discovering New York was over-saturated with song-writers and singers.
 "The best spot for writing for me in New York was 24th Street and 9th Avenue. Somehow I always felt more inspired there."

Airline Tragedies Alarm Officials

EDITOR'S NOTE: Sen. Vance Hartke (D-Ind.) has proposed that the government consider grounding all commercial airliners for a thorough safety check "for a few days." The following dispatch discusses the practicality and need for such drastic action.

By ROBERT J. SERLING
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Industry and government aviation officials agree that grounding the nation's 2,000-plane commercial air fleet would do little or nothing to improve safety.

They offer these reasons: —All airliners already undergo daily inspections and necessary overhauls at regular intervals under strict Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) maintenance rules. —Mechanical difficulties constitute only a small proportion of fatal-crash causes; inspecting all aircraft would not solve other problems as pilot error, weather, visibility and runway approach conditions.

—Even thorough inspection would be no guarantee that a vital part would not fall on the very next flight; there is no way to predict some kinds of engine failure.

The airlines already are operating under the most rigid maintenance rules in history — both their own strict procedures and new ones recommended by the FAA. The government agency has just completed a 30-day inspection program not only of maintenance but all pilot training and flight operations of every schedule airline.

The airlines conduct what they term "cycle maintenance" on an aircraft in continuous perfect condition. This consists of: —Visual inspection after every landing, with particular attention paid to any complaints by crews on unusual handling or performance.

—After 150 hours of flight time, or more frequently if necessary, opening engine nacelles, changing spark plugs and checking for oil leaks, wiring, tire condition etc.

—After 800 hours (longer for jet powered planes) pulling engines out for overhaul, replacing them with new or completely overhauled engines.

—Block overhauls at approximately 2,400 hours, each consisting of major inspection and/or overhaul of key parts including engines, frame, wings, electrical systems, control cables and instruments; after four block overhauls, an airliner literally is rebuilt from nose to tail.

Civil Aeronautics Board records show that mechanical failure has been dwindling as a major cause of accidents. Of the nine fatal crashes during 1959, seven involved NO engine failures. The remaining two still are under investigation.

Airline officials feel that if Congress had voted the necessary funds for improved traffic control and airport facilities when they were first requested years ago, there would be little or no safety problem now.

Today is Sunday, Jan. 24, the 24th day of the year, with 342 more days to follow in 1960.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Venus.

On this day in history: In 1566 830,000 persons were killed by an earthquake in Shensi, China.

In 1848, gold was discovered at Sutter's Mill, Calif.

In 1907, Carrie Nation made the first raid on saloons in Kansas.

In 1955, President Eisenhower sent the Formosa declaration to Congress, saying the U.S. would fight if necessary to defend Formosa and the Pescadore Islands.

A thought for today: Aristotle said: "A man may wrong his enemies, because that is pleasant. He may equally wrong his friends because that is easy."

A Night In The Inn...

with the Jerry Torvies

Honored houseguests at the auspicious opening of Coronado Inn on Tuesday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Torvie, 1029 Charles. The hospitality of the Inn and the honor of being its first registered guests were accorded Mrs. Torvie and her husband because of her winning entry in the hotel-naming contest sponsored late last Spring by the Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Torvie's prize-winning name "The Coronado" won for her and her husband a memorable evening in the Inn. Pictures on this page illustrate a portion of the evening with The Torvies.

WELCOMED — Genial Coronado Inn manager, Stu Kines, greets Mr. and Mrs. Torvie at the door upon their arrival at the Inn to attend the opening dinner-dance in the Starlight Room and to stay overnight.

REGISTERING — First to be registered at the desk by Mrs. Jack Crites, registrar clerk, The Torvie's bags are immediately whisked off to their guest room by bellhop, Noah Harris.

PHONING FRIENDS — As soon as she was unpacked and comfortably settled in an attractively appointed and spacious room, Mrs. Torvie phones to friends that she has arrived.

"COFFEE BREAK" — "Coffee in the morning, coffee in the evening, coffee at anytime" . . . The Torvies find the "dining-out" facilities in the coffee shop most pleasant as they pause for a "coffee-break" before dressing for dinner and dancing. Their attractive waitress is Mrs. Avis Price.

BEAUTY TOUCH — Taking advantage of the facilities in the ultra-modern beauty salon within the Inn, Mrs. Torvie receives a last-minute nail-buffing from Mrs. Gladys Scott, co-owner of Coronado Inn Beauty Shop in preparation for the evening's festivities ahead.

Peg O' Pampa

SPRING IS JUST AROUND THE CORNER and as proof-positive, one of our very best friends told us that she saw a cheery-red, chubby-breasted robin light on a bush just outside her window the other morning and he was so fat he had to try out several icy branches before he found one that would support his weight. We will be glad when we reach the Spring corner for about this time each year it can't arrive too soon for us. It's so difficult to get up on these dark, cold, winter mornings.

THE MOST EXCITING event this week and for many moons for that matter was the glamorous opening of Coronado Inn. Flowers, flowers everywhere from local well-wishers as well as from all over the Top o' Texas area. The smiles and friendliness almost made you think of Christmas Eve so warm was the spirit that prevailed. We loved the ultra, ultra atmosphere of the opening night what with the long, shiny automobiles cruising up to the Inn entrance and magnificently-gowned and gay ladies stepping from their cars into the sumptuous lobby with its German-imported, crystal chandelier. The feminine guests waiting at the door for their handsome escorts, who were dressed in black tuxedos or white coats with black ties and trousers, to park their cars and come to escort them into the Starlight Room for an evening of dinner and dancing. Never at any social function in Pampa have we seen the men so handsomely groomed. They made perfect foils for the colorful gowns of their ladies. We could hardly believe our eyes. All the glamour and luxury that was right here in our own community hotel which is destined to be enjoyed by all. One would never have guessed from the cold and bleakness outside that such warmth and gaiety prevailed on the inside. It was truly a memorable evening. Coming in from places around Pampa to make Big Night of it were many guests from Borger, Amarillo and surrounding towns. We spied the Bakers and the George-Fingers of Borger. Of course, they were "bushed" after an hour's journey over the icy, snowy highway. A jaunt that usually takes much less time.

ONE COULD NOT attend the opening without noticing in particular some of the important guests who did so much to make the night possible. Russ and Margaret Allen of Boston, representing Cabot. Our own loveable Inez Carter, wearing the most gorgeous pink diamond ring and bracelet. Especially brought to her by Jeweler Girard of Dallas to wear on the occasion. M. K. Brown was still dancing with the lovely ladies when we last saw him at 2 a.m. We particularly loved his gesture of the worker's dinner when he stepped to the microphone and asked the male contingent to recognize the work of the ladies present by serenading them with "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." He stole the show on almost every occasion with his wit. What is his secret for youth? Could it be his intense interest in other people and in giving wholeheartedly of himself and his possessions to community projects. This MUST be his and Inez's key to retained youthfulness.

IT WOULD BE ALMOST as easy to name the people who were there as to start out on a list of people we did see. So we'll just hit the high-spots. The Gene Greens and the Buck Millers made up one gay foursome. Though everyone was mixing and mingling it was difficult to determine who was with whom. Mrs. Green was wearing a particularly chic black lace gown and Mrs. Miller looked lovely in pale-blue, beaded peau de soie. Frances Cree was a dream, delicate and lovely, in a bouffant, polish-orange satin dress. And on each scheduled event of the Inn she looked like a different dream in a different costume. Sylvie Conley was magnificent in a pale green satin gown. It was nice to see so many favorite people having a wonderful evening. Minerva Hobart and Nell Kelley made a gay twosome and they looked like fashion-plates. Also spied the Lynn Boyds, the Huff sisters, Ruth and Helene. The Frank Smith, Dana Cornutt, Dora Thomassop and ad infinitum. And may we recommend the ballroom floor as particularly wonderful for dancing? Everyone was reluctant to leave at the scheduled "Goodnight Ladies" hour. So the orchestra played on until 2 a.m.

WE SIMPLY MUST mention the wonderful mood set by Bill Tregoe's high school pep band, when they played for the ribbon-cutting ceremony and dedication of the Inn on Monday. Each musician looked so polished and professional. And we heard so many people remark about their playing and how much they added to the success of that day.

JANUARY 18th seems to be a traditionally important date for Pampa dedications. For we recall that it was just five years ago, on January 18, 1955, that Lovett Memorial Library was opened and dedicated, too. The Inn and the Library have both added inches to Pampa's community stature.

POINT FOR PAMPA. Twentieth Century Club members are so proud of Icie Harrah. She has just completed a portrait of Mrs. Ben Boyd of Denton, who is state president of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. The portrait is to be presented to the seventh district in honor of the federated women's clubs in Pampa and will hang in the Texas Federation Headquarters in Austin.

CHRISTMAS ECHO. Just before Christmas we mentioned that Cabot Shop employees were pooling their Christmas card money to purchase needed equipment for Exceptional Children's classrooms. Just recently, using the money from the Christmas cards they didn't send to each other (about $400 worth) they purchased two stereophonic tape recorders and 12 rolls of tape. The recorders and tape were presented to the exceptional children's classroom at Sam Houston and Travis schools. This seems most worthwhile to us. Most of our Christmas cards have been tossed away or stored away in a box. But this usable and needed gift from Cabot Shop employees will be of untold value for these children all year long.

AWAY AT COLLEGE. Our own, very beautiful Judy Wells was in the line-up and spotlight at McMurry College just recently. She was chosen one of the eight most beautiful girls on the campus in the annual Totem Beauty contest. She will also be featured in the college annual in full page pictures. Judges for the contest were members of Abilene Bachelors Club and Heidi Schneider at Texas University has been elected rush captain for her sorority, Gamma Phi Beta. Which means that she will have a pretty interesting and exciting summer filled with travel around the state. Acquainting future coeds with her sorority. And Gamma Phi Beta couldn't have selected a prettier or more poised ambassadress.

ANOTHER CHARM. Pauline Brandt can add another charm to her Grandmother's bracelet now. For just before Christmas she and Stanley welcomed a grandson, Tadd Randall. There was already one charm in the family, Gine, who lives with her new brother and parents, the Kenneth D'wain Ross's in Bakersfield, Calif.

CIRCLE YOUR CALENDAR for the book review which Delta Kappa Gamma is sponsoring on February 4 in Lee Junior High School. They have invited Mrs. Edith Deen of Fort Worth to appear here in a review of her book "Great Women of Christian Faith." It should make a memorable and inspiring evening.

Miss Jo Ann McMillan.

Overton, Jr., north of the city. Wedding vows will be repeated on April 30 in St. Luke's Methodist Church, Austin. Project Goal Set By Travis PTA

Odell Strickland, president, presented a report on the work of the goal committee was given by Mrs. Brantley Hudson Jr., committee chairman. It was suggested by Mrs. Hudson and Mr. Alt Miller that the PTA purchase two record players and a film strip projector with slide changer as the goal for the school PTA. The suggestion met with the approval of the board. It was also approved that the date of the March meeting be changed because of the change in Texas Education Week. The date was changed from Mar. 10 to MAR. 3. An invitation was read from Pampa Classroom Teacher's Ass'n inviting members to attend a program to be presented by D. E. Scott of Wellington, author of "Crossroads Report". The meeting will be held in Robert E. Lee Junior high auditorium Feb. 28-29, 7:30 p.m. April 28-29 were given as the dates for the PTA Spring conference and workshop to be held in Borger. Often, it's shown with dropped shoulder and bell-shaped, short sleeves.

Beautiful Homes Tour Planned By Parent Ed

Preliminary plans were made for a Tour of Beautiful Homes in Pampa at the Parent Education Club meeting held Tuesday in the home of Mrs. H. C. Federer, 2211 Aspen. This tour is being planned for Saturday, May 7, with proceeds from the sale of tickets to go to the educational program for exceptional children in Pampa. Mrs. Donald T. Beaman has been named general chairman for the project with Mrs. H. D. Federer, Julian Key, Rex H. McAnelly and E. R. Sidwell serving on the committee. The tour will be similar to the one conducted by the club in May, 1957. During the business meeting, officers for the coming year were elected with Mrs. William Arrington as incoming president; Mrs. Patrick O'Connor, vice president; Mrs. Donald Beaman, secretary; Mrs. Joe Reid, treasurer; Mrs. H. C. Federer, reporter and Mrs. L. L. Garren, parliamentarian. Mrs. O'Connor read a letter from Mrs. Birdie Turner thanking the club for its Christmas gift to the special education class at Sam Houston school. The program, "Creative Thinking" was given by Mrs. R. K. Swanson and Mrs. Wiley Reynolds Jr. Mrs. Swanson discussed "Art in the Home," stressing creativeness from an adult viewpoint as well as from that of the pre-school child. "Art," Mrs. Swanson said, "is a way of doing things which tend to make everyday living more satisfying or pleasing. Every person has an instinctive urge for self-expression." "Modern educators," she continued, "have adopted the attitude that every child should be encouraged to express himself through some creative medium. This self-expression can be a valuable outlet for emotions as well as a means of broadening learning experiences. Artistic endeavor involving the whole family can bring about a satisfying, enriching relationship," she concluded. Mrs. Reynolds discussed "Art in the Home." She defined art as doing anything that needs to be done in the most beautiful way it can be done. "Art is the creative power of the human spirit," she said. She stressed that true art is never imitative. "Each child must be encouraged to portray things as he sees them, emphasizing what appeals most to him as an individual. Spontaneous self-expression by means of art materials is natural and fundamentally interesting to all young children, but," she continued, "they cannot approach art activities as adults do; nor should they have adult art forms imposed on them by parents or teachers." Every child has a right to enjoy varied, creative art experiences as a part of his school life," she emphasized. "The creative life must be fed by rich experiences and new materials to stimulate the thinking and feeling in the child, which will form the backbone of expression and the awareness to the beauty about him." An interesting display of original art work ranging from pre-school to junior high school level was discussed by the speakers. Refreshments were served to 17 members. It was announced that the next

YOU and YOUR HOME by Jack Foster. REVISED SETTING. Few of us feel that we can re-furnish our homes at will — starting from scratch and getting everything brand new. Often we must depend for room change and up-lift on revising the background colors, introducing new and novel decorative touches, and finding a few new pieces of furniture that will blend compatibly with our older belongings and at the same time give our rooms an up-dated feeling. Forward-looking designers have long sensed this need for styling that had a kinship with the familiar forms of the past and yet was new in concept and design. The living room sketched has been up-dated by painting the walls a soft heaver shade that exactly matches the wall-to-wall carpet. Wall interest has been kept to minimum to emphasize the planter which extends the entire width of the mantel. A new chest, an end table and a coffee table — all trim and uncluttered — were mixed with the older pieces. The result is an up-dated, comfortable room that is a joy to live in. Looking for additions and replacements that are versatile, un-aggressive in styling and design that will enhance your existing furniture, yet introduce a new note of beauty? See our new group of interchangeable pieces for every room in your home. You'll be delighted, we're sure.

RUTH MILLETT

You're being less than fair to papa if——You ignore his likes and dislike when you furnish your home. After all, he has to live in it, too.
—You are quick to entertain the persons you like but never get around to entertaining the people he likes that you aren't fond of.
—You buy things you don't really need or can't afford, on impulse or because you can charge them or pay for them on time, and then resent it when papa protests about your extravagance.
—You can't resist telling your closest friends things your husband tells you in confidence and trusts you not to repeat to anyone.
—You don't hesitate to discuss with "The girls" what you consider your husband's faults.
—You are more concerned with pleasing your parents than you are with doing things the way your husband wants them done.
—You make amusing stories out of your husband's blunders and get a laugh out of repeating them whenever you have an audience.
—You can't leave a party without making it seem that papa is dragging you home, making him look like a wit blanket, even though you know he has to get his sleep if he is going to be any good on the job next day.
—If you have money of your own you never let anyone forget it—especially papa. You regard what he earns as "our money" but regard your money as your own.
—You make a practice of saying, "my house," "my children" and "I have decided" instead of "our house," "our children," and "we have decided."

This year's study will be on Psalms and the first chapter discussed this month was "Why the Psalms?" Hostess for February will be Mrs. Paul Wiley, 2144 Beech.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 14 years and never had any children, all we wanted some.

Years ago we got word from the children's sister who lives out there that they would be glad to let their 7-year-old boy couldn't get along with his and brothers. We thought we could straighten him out let him come.

We enrolled him in a parochial school. He hased the sisters and trouble on the bus so they us to take him out. We tried public school. He "F's" but the teacher promised him to be sure she have him in her room. They suggested an X-ray for ad. We found nothing. The 9, and refuses to learn or What do we do next?

ed his parents for not giving him a good swift kick in the pants and making him go on with his music. Tell him to move over. I didn't have brains enough to take advantage of the piano lessons my folks tried to force on me either. I finally got them to let me quit. I thought I won. But 25 years later I realize I lost.

ALSO MISSED THE BOAT
DEAR ALSO: Boats leave every day. Anyone who wants to learn to play the piano can learn. Age doesn't mean a thing. A "Ruth S." wrote from Bethesda, Md., that at 82, her father taught himself to play the piano with a self-help book. Bravo!

CONFIDENTIAL TO BESSIE: Don't marry him if you question his ability to make rational decisions. Maybe his children are trying to line up a babysitter for his second childhood.

PTA City Council Study Course
Develops Child Behavior Topic

PTA City Council opened its second study course Thursday morning with Mrs. G. M. Walls presiding as moderator. She introduced as her panel Mrs. John Myers, housewife; Mrs. Henry McLane, teacher and Dr. Ed Williams.

Mrs. John Myers developed the idea that children should have good working habits at home and should receive satisfaction from their duties. "Home is the place to develop good habits and the church follows through."

In developing the thought of "Child Behavior," Mrs. Walls suggested that work habits should be worth having, and the word "work" should be recognized. "The children should have careful encouragement, praise for worthwhile efforts, not for achievement."

She quoted from the book "Client-Centered Therapy" by Carl Rogers that "Behavior is caused" by acceptance, by ignoring of

Examination Taken By Credit Women

Pampa Credit Women's Club met Friday in City Club Room with Mrs. Virginia Wiegand, president, presiding at the business session. Reports were given by Mrs. Leona Woods, secretary and Mrs. Vena Riley, treasurer.

Following the business meeting, members took examination on the 1960 study manual, "Preparing for Progress."

A complete list of those successfully completing examinations and eligible for certificates and seal will be sent to Central Office. In idea that a healthy environment was the keynote to a child's behavior. He outlined the following:

1) Children need to be loved; 2) Children need to be respected; 3) Children should not be overprotected; 4) Children should not be overpraised; 5) Children need to learn certain fears; 6) Children need to learn certain limits of behavior. Following the coffee break, a group discussion of questions relative to child behavior was held with Mrs. Walls as moderator. Forty PTA members and principals participated in this study course.

Planning To Disarm

We suppose it was bound to come. Somebody suggested to the National Planning Association that it ought to get out a long range plan on what to do if our government ever stopped arming to the teeth and began to disarm. So, to please the customers, the NPA went into a ponder and came up with some really interesting ideas.

First off, the NPA wants it understood that no nation can just disarm, even if there is no cause to arm. Such a reversal of policy would have to be considered from all angles. Think of the people being thrown out of work in armament industries! Unforgivable! If the U.S.A. ever does get around to disarm, it is only going to be able to bring it off with the help and concurrence of the NPA, which wants to supervise the procedure.

Of course, no one says anything about cutting the taxes after eliminating the armament spending. Even the NPA can't visualize anything as drastic as that. It is assumed that the spending will go right on but in other areas of the economy. And of course, we're talking about government areas. To presume that individual people who earn the money might also like to spend a little of it on their own way, is to go too far.

The NPA assumes that the wage earners and the individuals who pay the taxes are going to keep right on earning and paying the taxes. So the big problem is, what is the government going to do with the money? In a year or so, for example, the federal government will be spending about $50 billion a year on armaments. Now, along comes disarmament. But there's that $50 billion waiting to be spent.

Clearly, says the NPA, what has to happen is that the government can finally get on with the task of taking care of any number of local and domestic problems which have long been deferred. And with $50 billion to play with, just one end of the problem is imagined. In fact, it would be a good thing, if we understood the Planning people correctly, if America had even more problems than it has. Because when it comes to getting rid of $50 billion a year, that takes a lot of doing, even for a government.

We frequently hear the charge that "prices are too high." Indeed, they are not low nor are they in process of descending. But there is always the assumption that the last man in line, the retail merchant, is responsible for high prices. Frequently, he is the villain of the piece in the mind of the average shopper. So, perhaps we'd better take a moment or two to explore this business of pricing and find out what it is all about.

First of all, prices operate in the same way that a flag operates. It indicates that something is for sale and it tells you how much of your money you will have to exchange for it. In other words, it is an attention-getter. And like a flag, the farther up the pole it goes, the more people will be apt to see it.

So, the merchant wishing to attract lots of attention will run his price flag up high. That is, he will price his merchandise low. The lower it is, the higher it appears on the pricing pole.

Better Jobs

by R. C. HOILES The Principles of Sound Money

I never realized so clearly that it is impossible for the government to keep interest rates down and preserve sound money until I had read "The Theory of Money and Credit" by Ludwig von Mises.

He points out that as men who have money to loan begin to realize that it will buy less later on, they will demand a higher rate of interest to make up for this loss. Eisenhower is rather foolish to think we can solve our problems by getting Congress to give them the power to pay more than 4% per cent — the legal limit for long-time loans. He will find that they cannot borrow money for long periods when the dollar is depreciating without paying a higher and higher rate the longer the note or bond runs.

But it must be remembered, and of course the NPA is right about this, that politicians don't really enjoy a people who can solve their own problems. For a politician to be happy and prosperous, he's got to be elected to power in a country where the people are stupid and filled with problems. Then he can stand over them with the proper stance and let them know just how lucky they are that he is around.

Now, if a politician gets elected in a country where the people are independent, solve their own problems, and are so stiff-necked that they expect to spend their own money — well, you can see where it places the politician. He might just as well resign his office and go get himself a worthwhile job. It could even pay him to become productive instead of political.

But, in spite of the wonderful plans the NPA is drawing up for the shift of governmental spending over to other areas outside of the armament race just on the chance that we would really get disarmament, the chances are pretty good that no such shift will ever occur. At least we don't expect it in the foreseeable future.

The very best and safest way for any government to spend money and to become big and powerful is for it to keep up a big armaments race. And if we didn't have one with Russia right now, we'd have to get another one, or the politicians wouldn't be happy at all.

So, we suspect that the NPA has had all that work for nothing. Of course, if we had our way we would simply contradict all of their findings and declare that the way to proceed would be for the government to stop taxing and spending and to let the individual do as he pleases with his own money. That's about as radical a suggestion as any moral idea ever can be.

The Allen-Scott Report

ROBERT S. ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

DARING U. S. 'OPERATION ICE FLOW' FLIGHTS, COULD GAIN YEAR IN ANTARCTIC RESEARCH WASHINGTON. — The U.S. is about to make important new scientific history on the vast frozen Antarctic Plateau.

Seven of the Air Force's giant C-130 "Hercules" transports will undertake to land hundreds of tons of food, fuel, building and other supplies at the Navy-commanded exploration stations at the South Pole and Marie Byrd Land.

For this record-setting mission, designated "Operation Ice Flow," the four-engine turboprops will be equipped with special skis to land on snow strips, and JATO (jet assist take-off units) to get them airborne. Each plane will have eight 1,000-lb thrust JATOs attached to rear brackets.

Successful, the principal immediate gains from this dramatic experiment will be to speed up this country's scientific and exploration program in Antarctica by at least one year — urgently important because Russia is considerably expanding its activities there.

Save a lot of money in the handling and delivery of supplies to these remote polar stations. An estimated $1 million in damaged and lost parachutes alone will be saved annually by eliminating air drops.

Accelerating the far-reaching Antarctica program by a year will be made possible because the ski and JATO-equipped C-130 transports will extend the period for delivering supplies to as much as eight months. The maximum has been two months annually.

Looking Sideways

by WHITNEY BOLZON

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The longer I live the more I know that nothing is ever lost. A child always held in rapture by the macabre, I used to wonder what ever happened to the brass tub in which Jean-Paul Marat was slain by Charlotte Corday in the French Revolution.

Alexander King is not a person. He is a rowel, a larrup and a burdock. Slight of frame, penetrating eye, a man across whom adventure has rolled as a river courses its bed, he delights in folding up into a small, obnoxious knot and stabbing at the world. Rightly so. This is no self-appointed bastinado of modern mankind, whaling the daylight out of complacent and conforming people just to hear himself make noise. He has few complaints lacking the gravel of justice. And he never pierces anyone or anything merely because he has heard of him or it. He makes life hideous only for people and things against which he personally has been rasped. Examples: TV, the Federal narcotics hospital at Lexington, Ky., posturers in art, fakers in cultivation, creators of art, fakers in cultivation, creators of art, fakers in cultivation, creators of art.

As for the labor leaders, they are not looking behind the ends of their noses. It is going to do them no good to obtain high wage rates for jobs that are non-existent. Foreign steel mills have now become in many cases just wage rates are from three to seven times theirs. As a result, the net increase in steel imports to this country over the past two years has cost 52,000 steel workers their jobs.

Naturally, the leader of the steel union and the members of the union were exuberant at the terms of the settlement. They got just about all they asked for, perhaps all they ever hoped to get in the first place, and gave up without a fight. I do not blame them for their clamor if they want to be short-sighted about it and have no regard for the welfare of the people as a whole.

Neither am I particularly sympathetic with the steel companies. They gave in with an inflationary settlement every time the labor contract came up following the Second World War, and passed their increased cost on to the public. But they knew the welfare of the nation demanded an end to this practice, and if it ever was to be ended, now was the time. They should have been in Baltimore.

Records were obtained of nearly a hundred persons who had been bitten so severely by rats that they had to receive hospital treatment. This same report recorded statistics which suggested that rats relish human blood and that the reason they bite people is that they are hungry.

The amount of injury which rats do and their burden on our economy is almost past belief — a few years ago, it was calculated that the annual damage done by rats in Washington and Baltimore alone was between $400,000 and $700,000 respectively. This represents an average loss of $1.27 a year per person. This would come to about $216 million for the United States alone. It is probably more since damage is undoubtedly greater in the country than in the cities.

Passing Of GP Not Mourned By Henry

by HENRY McLEMORE

When I read tearful, nostalgic pieces on the passing of the general practitioner, or family doctor, it's all I can do to keep from laughing. He isn't passing from the scene at all. There are thousands and thousands of family doctors, ready to answer a call at any hour, to diagnose any ailment, and willing to sit by the bedside all night if necessary.

I am one. So is almost every other father of a baby. We may not have beards, or carry black scotchels or have gruff voices and twinkling eyes, but we do the job nonetheless. I didn't know much about medicine when Megan arrived seventeen months ago, but since that time I made more examinations and more diagnoses and recommended more cures than many a graduate of Johns Hopkins.

With doctors being as busy as they are, and charging what they do, a father must practice medicine whether he likes it or not, and in open defiance of the American Medical Association. Anyone who has ever called doctor in the middle of the night to report that his baby has a red spot behind his ear and asked for advice, knows just what I mean.

I have gone through fifteen medical books since I took up medicine, at home and have yet to look at a rash and be able to diagnose it. Rashes mean anything and everything. They indicate measles, mumps, whooping cough, chicken pox, swollen glands, malnutrition, pink, scarlet fever, hives through shingles, poison ivy, one of 10,000 allergies, or just plain contraindication. But they must be diagnosed. The father-doctor can't sleep until he is satisfied he has hit on the right ailment. I find it is wise to choose the mildest one. So far I have diagnosed Megan's rashes as chicken pox no fewer than 20 times. And 20 times she has completely recovered by morning.

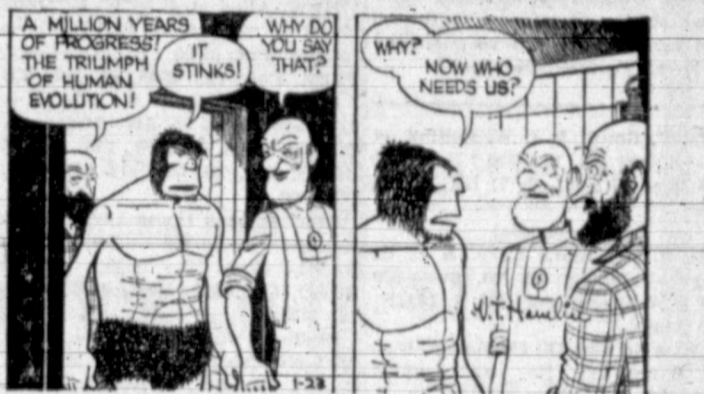

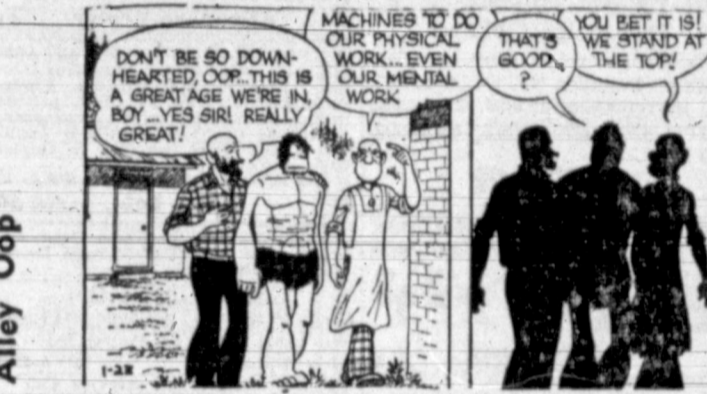

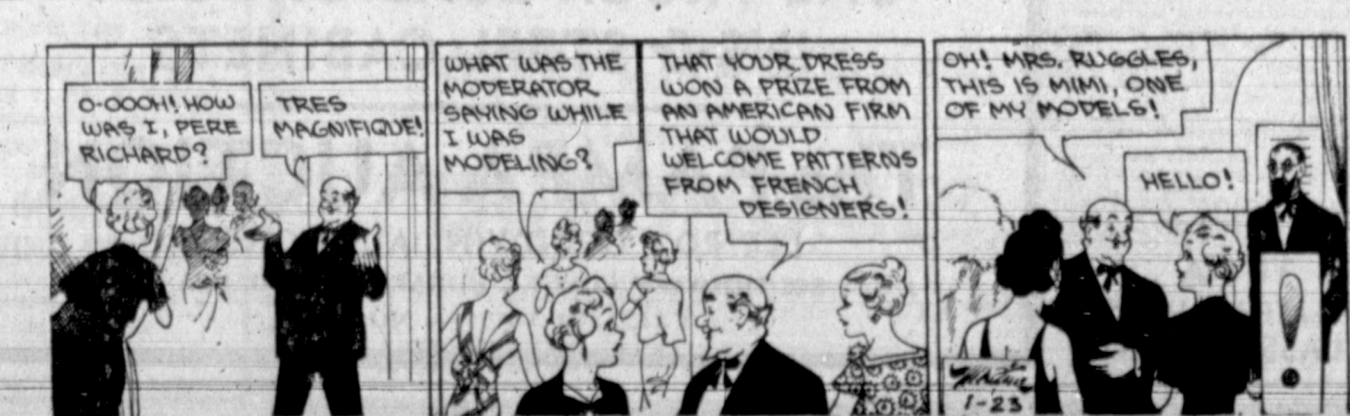

Another tough one to diagnose is upset stomach. It, too, can be caused by everything under the sun — too much milk, too much sitting on a tricycle, too much sun, too little sun, a wad of newspaper, a big bite of pencil eraser, a swallowed rubber band, appendicitis, teething, or, as in the case of rashes, plain contraindication. I have found that rocking is the best remedy for this, especially if it's a cold night and the father-doctor shivers and shakes while he rocks.

Fever is another trial to the home-grown baby doctor. I have used up a dozen thermometers on Megan and the end (a very appropriate word) is nowhere in sight. Medical books don't make it very clear about a baby's fever. One held out this time, regardless of the pressure. I believe Congress and the people generally would have supported them in their efforts to avoid further inflation.

And I have no patience at all with the Administration, which now, like its opposition party, has arrogated unto itself the power — whether or not it has the right — to determine both wages and prices. The administration in good conscience cannot object to a price increase which it has brought on itself. It is compulsory arbitration — which has no place among a free people.

Motor Inns Gain Popularity; Tipping Kept To Minimum

NEW SKYLINE motel in New York is attracting guests. Rooms are booked well into September.

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA) — Watch closely, folks. The outstretched hand is quicker than the eye, bigger than the pocketbook.

American hotels sold 250 million guest rooms last year. About 80 per cent of the guests arrived by car. In rapid order they: tipped the doorman (25 cents) for taking the car, tipped the bellhop (25 cents) for taking their bags to the desk, tipped another bellhop (25 cents) for taking their bags to their rooms.

They also tipped (25 cents) each time they used their cars. And they paid in addition ($1 to $5 per day) for garage charges.

These statistics come from the American Hotel Association, the American Automobile Association, the New York Visitors Bureau and a fellow named Harold Steinberg, who is cashing in on the whole mess.

His invention is called the Skyline Motor Inn, New York City's new, first motel — but not the last by a longshot. Things are so good that he's going to open two more across the street. And better (or worse), six competitors are building motels in the same neighborhood. The reasons:

A week after it opened, Skyline was filled to capacity while competitive motels were running at their normal 70 per cent.

One advertisement in a dozen eastern newspapers brought 20,000 answers. He has bookings well into September.

The rates ($14 to $18 per night) are equal to same-size accommodations in plush midtown hotels, and there is no parking charge and nobody to tip.

For the island of Manhattan, and in another part of the forest, the rush toward in-city motels is on by — oddly — the hotel owners themselves.

Veteran hotel watchers felt that the Knott, Fields, Sheraton is an enormous consideration. A square foot of midtown sells for at least $200. An average resting auto occupies $11,000 worth of land while a sleeping man occupies only $3,600 — proving, as Detroit has claimed for years, that cars are worth more than people.

Consequently, the New York Hotel Association smiles blandly on Steinberg's motel and the others soon to spring up.

"This is no threat to us," an Association spokesman said. "We are not worried at all. Hotel business is better than ever."

But meanwhile, in one of those little mix-ups in signals, the American Hotel Association is saying:

"Tough situation, those New York hotels. Maybe they can convert them into geriatric clinics. Or tear out the hallrooms and lobbies and put in parking lots. They'd better do something."

And in another part of the forest, the rush toward in-city motels is on by — oddly — the hotel owners themselves.

Durante Wants His Life Filmed

By JOE FINNIGAN
EPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jimmy Durante — he of the mischievous nose — is anxiously waiting for Hollywood to start filming his life story.

"Yesiree," Jimmy rasped. "I'm waitin' for that check."

For years, various movie executives have been bitten by the Durante bug but not until 1959 were plans formed up to film the little laughter's life story.

Sitting in the living room of his cozy Beverly Hills home, "Schnozzola" — as he's known the world over to connoisseurs of fine beaks — cited past history of attempts at filming a Durante history.

"About six or seven years ago, some studios got hot about the idea but it fell through," he said. "Then the idea got hot again at a few years back but never came off."

"Now, I think it's finally going to be done, Frank Capra, the director, has an office over at Columbia Studios getting things ready. Dean Martin will play me, Frank Sinatra is going to be Lou Clayton and Bing Crosby portrays Eddie Jackson. The music is being handled by Jimmy Van Heusen and Sammy Kalm."

With that kind of a talent lineup, the story of Jimmy's life should make a fine motion picture.

Durante, who has two NBC-TV shows scheduled for this year 12 weeks of nightclub appearances hasn't made a movie in nine years and wants to go before the cameras again.

"I'd like to do a great one," Jimmy said longingly.

The affable Jimmy, one of Hollywood's all-time "nice guys" showed how he got that reputation when a small group of people gathered on his front porch. "Excuse me," he said, heading outside.
