Soviets In Cold War Blast

Geneva Rocked

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet Union rocked the 10 nation disarmament conference today with a lengthy cold war blast against the West and charged the United States was seeking controls only over those weapons in which it is inferior.

In perhaps the most blistering anti-Western outburst since the talks opened March 15, Russia's Valerian A. Zorin charged the United States and its allies do not really want to disarm but only to "talk endlessly about control measures."

Violence Resumes In Africa

I Killed, Dozens Injured Today

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Club-swinging police charged a group of marching Negro demonstrators in renewed racial violence at Durban today. Authorities said one African was killed and dozens were injured.

In Capetown, bristling with police and troops, there were widespread arrests of Negroes. Two or three patrolmen rained the city in police vans, picking up and arresting Africans.

Fire gutted an African primary school and burned out three classrooms of another school in the Negro location of KwaZakale in Port Elizabeth. Police called the burnings "a straight case of vandalism."

In Port Elizabeth's Walmer location, a police truck was stoned by a crowd of Negroes who were burning pass books as the vehicle passed by. The truck had been in the "location" — segregated Negro area. (See VIOLENCE, Page 3)

Ike To Sound Race Theme

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower is expected to sound a 1960 Republican campaign theme tonight in a major speech to the party faithful at a GOP "jumbo jamore."

The President, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Cabinet members and Republican congressional leaders were to appear at a giant box supper and rally at Uline Arena here. No live TV-radio coverage was planned.

Eisenhower's address is one of the highlights of the eighth annual Republican women's conference, which drew thousands of delegates from throughout the nation.

The 1960 GOP campaign slogan of "peace and prosperity" was reiterated by Commerce Secretary Frederick H. Mueller at a morning session.

Mass Meet Called To Discuss Sitdowns

MARSHALL, Tex. (UPI) — Hiram S. Post, Jr., confirmed today that a meeting of Marshall businessmen will be held Tuesday to discuss the recent wave of sitdown demonstrations here and to work out "ways to cope with the present situation."

But he declined to say how many merchants would attend or what exactly would be discussed. It was quiet in Marshall today.

Post, who sent out letters to a number of business and industrial leaders Saturday inviting them to the meeting, said a "wholesale drug firm" at a highway junction two miles south of Marshall.

The meeting will be held at the American Legion hall at 8 p. m. Post said he had no idea how many merchants would come and he refused to say how many letters he had sent out.

"I think it's just better to lay off the publicity until the meeting is held and the results, if any, are announced," he said. "There has been too much publicity on it."

Stray Bullet Hits Near Man On Train

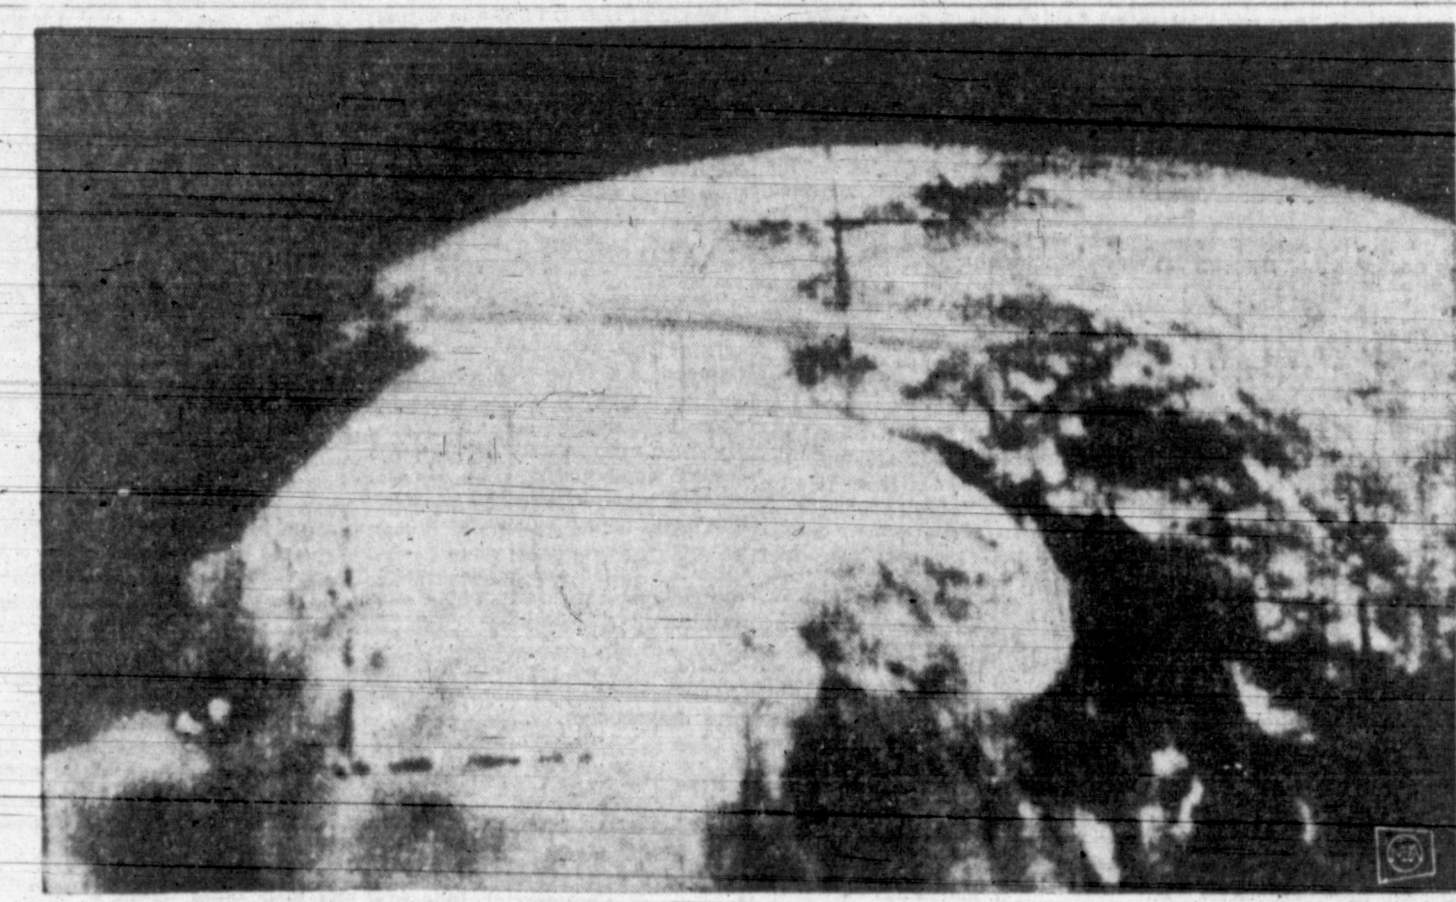

A stray bullet narrowly missed a Santa Fe Railroad employe yesterday afternoon as he sat in the caboose of a freight train.

Chief of Police Jim Connor said the bullet pierced the caboose 18 inches below the man's head. The employe was not identified. The incident happened at 4:25 p. m. east of the Starkweather crossing.

"We could have had a murder on our hands if that bullet had been inches higher," Connor remarked.

The police chief warned parents today to closely supervise the handling and shooting of firearms by their children. He reminded Pampans that shooting at a train is a federal offense and that there is a city ordinance prohibiting the discharge of firearms within the city limits.

Connor urged persons who noticed anyone carrying firearms in the vicinity of the shooting to notify him.

Kennedy, Humphrey Discuss The Issues

EDITOR'S NOTE — On the eve of the Wisconsin primary, which may be a political watershed for the nation, the two Democratic candidates have written for United Press International their views on the issues involved.

By JOHN F. KENNEDY
Written For UPI
With the Wisconsin campaign in its final days, I appreciate this opportunity of reviewing the issues which seem to be of most concern to the people of Wisconsin.

As I have travelled around this state for the past months meeting people in every section of the state, I find them concerned with the state of our nation's defenses, with our efforts to achieve a just and lasting peace and with the serious problems facing our farmers.

I have long said that this nation cannot afford to be second best in national defense. We must conduct a program of preparedness which will permit us to negotiate from a position of strength. This must be combined with a major effort in the field of arms control. In a world where the destructive capacity of a single thermo-nuclear bomb is equivalent to a line of World War II blockbusters stretched across the United States from San Francisco to New York we cannot afford to take chances. The arms control research institute I have proposed would eliminate those gaps in our knowledge and information which hamper current negotiations. It would undertake, coordinate, and follow through on the research, development, and policy planning needed for a workable disarmament program. But a new agency is not enough. It will need a strong leadership, imaginative thinking, and a national priority or attention and funds.

The continuing problems of Wisconsin dairy farmers have also been a source of concern wherever I have gone in the state. The dairy industry, like any other industry, must find a way to keep supply in balance with demand. When the steel companies found, two years ago, that the economy could only absorb half their capacity, they reduced production. Instead of lowering prices, they raised them. The same lesson can be applied to the dairy industry. But it will take group action. The farmers themselves should participate in the

'Big Muddy' Goes On Flood Rampage

Illinois, Missouri Levees Bolstered

By United Press International
The swollen Mississippi River rammed through sagging levees in Illinois today and sent 10 feet of water swirling over 80,000 acres of rich farmland.

Volunteers in Iowa and Missouri worked around the clock on 50 miles of other water weakened levees to hold back what could be the greatest flood in memory. The breakthrough came at Meyer, Ill., a tiny community northwest of Quincy, Ill.

The nation's mightiest river cascaded over the top of the dike and quickly inundated the best farm land in Illinois, submerged farm machinery and raced through empty houses and barns.

Thousand of valley residents already had left their homes and National Guardsmen fighting the flood escaped in the nick of time. Homeowners took whatever possessions they could gather and fled to high ground.

A stream of trucks, loaded with grain, corn and livestock, joined in a 48-hour evacuation before the levee broke.

The river stood at 24.3 feet at Quincy — far above flood stage and half a foot higher than in 1947, when a torrent of water battered through the dikes in the greatest previous flood in Central Illinois. Six thousand acres were flooded then.

The breakthrough ended a 26-hour battle for guardsmen and volunteers who were near exhaustion from stacking sandbags against the crumbling dikes.

Observers said the flood at Meyer took the river's pressure off other weak spots on the Quincy dikes. But the Mississippi was reported coaling for a strike at sagging levees at Hannibal, Mo., where the water level was 33.4 feet and still rising.

The Missouri River also veered across thousands of acres of farmland as it marched toward its merger with the Mississippi north of St. Louis.

Officials prepared to evacuate all 200 residents of Corning, Mo., and volunteers were sandbagging dikes at Lake Conroy, near St. Joseph.

Workers dynamited ice jams on the Manitowoc River in Wisconsin Sunday, easing floods which had swamped Wisconsin roads and forced thousands of northern Illinois residents from their homes.

Action Stalled On Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate waded into its eighth consecutive week of civil rights debate today with most members hoping for final action by the weekend.

However, leaders would make no predictions. There were increasing signs that Southern opponents would launch one more talkathon before letting the measure come to a final vote.

The pending issue was an amendment by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.), one of several offered by Southerners to further

Johnson Can't Be Cornered

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) sidestepped Sunday the question of whether he is campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, but added that he would serve if summoned.

The Senate majority leader told members of the Oklahoma Press Association he would not turn his back on the nomination.

He bristled at a newsman's comment that he was being coy about stating whether or not he was seeking the nomination.

"I am NOT a candidate," he declared. "I do not intend to become a candidate."

"I am not in a position to say, however, that if my country needed me that I'd turn my back. To say to you I would not serve my country is not true."

Vote May Afford A 'Foot In Door'

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Presidential aspirants John Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey haven't won custody of the White House yet, but in the final hours today of the heated Wisconsin primary each was claiming he had a foot in the door.

Kennedy started it Sunday when he told a nationwide television audience he had sent a letter to President Eisenhower that if elected in November he would continue any moratorium on underground nuclear tests negotiated in the current Geneva talks.

The Massachusetts lawmaker said he wrote the letter voluntarily so that the President "would at least have my view on it."

Humphrey didn't let Kennedy have the stage to himself so long. He said a short time later on a local TV show that he too is in correspondence with the White House, and has been for some time, on key foreign policy matters.

Furthermore, said the Minnesotan, the U. S. disarmament position at the Geneva talks is what he proposed some time ago.

The White House seekers concentrated their fire on the last day of the campaign today in the populous Milwaukee area, where one third of the vote will be cast. (See VOTE, Page 3)

May Tell More Than Who Won An Oscar

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Speculation the end of the actors' strike would be announced on tonight's Oscar show added to the annual excitement today of the star-studded Academy Awards program.

The 32nd annual Oscar derby will be televised nationally tonight as moviegoers put forth its most glamorous actresses and dashing leading men.

Suspense about the winners will be Elizabeth Taylor or Audrey Hepburn — has taken second billing to expectation that Hollywood will use its biggest star to signal the end of the Screen Actors Guild strike against the major studios.

Insiders predict master of ceremonies Bob Hope, filmtown's ambassador of goodwill, is the man likely to halt the show to make the announcement of strike's end.

Death Penalty For Selby To Be Asked

HOUSTON (UPI) — The state will demand the death penalty today for Joseph Selby and two of his three accomplices at the opening of one of the most sensational murder trials in Houston in recent years.

Defense lawyers indicated that they were ready before the trial opened, but it was learned that they will seek to have Maggie Morgan, a Negro fortune teller, tried first. She is the woman whom Selby admittedly contacted to set up a murder contract for the hire killing of his wife, Wilma.

Four persons are charged in the killing of Mrs. Selby. Selby, Mrs. Morgan, confessed triggerman Clarence (Sack) Collins, and Patra Mae Bounds. Mrs. Bounds turned state's evidence, and the district attorney indicated he would not demand the death penalty for her.

Dist. Atty. Dan Walton has indicated he would like to try Selby first, and a long legal wrangle over this point was expected to take up most of today's court action.

Veteran Criminal Dist. Judge Langston G. King will preside. An hour before court opened today, the courtroom was filled with spectators.

When the body of Mrs. Selby was found in her fashionable Afton Oaks home the night of Nov. 16, it first was believed she had been shot down by a burglar she surprised when she returned from a trip downtown.

Texas Flooded With Sunshine
By United Press International
Balmey spring temperatures and bright sunshine flooded all of Texas today, and five-day forecasts called for continued good weather.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said a high pressure system that spread over Texas last weekend drove clouds from the state and ushered in the mild temperatures. A few high clouds remained in Southeast Texas, but they were not rainclouds.

Recognition Honor For First Lady Of Pampa

CERTIFICATE OF RECOGNITION Mrs. Dona Cornutt was presented a Certificate of Recognition by Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of First Baptist Church and long-time friend of the family, designating her as Pampa's Woman of the Year of a tea held yesterday afternoon in City Club Room.

By Doris E. Wilson

Several hundred friends and relatives gathered in the City Club Room yesterday afternoon at three o'clock to pay honor to Mrs. Dona Cornutt, who, because of her outstanding service to the community during the past year, had been named Beta Sigma Phi Sorority's Woman of the Year for 1960.

Dressed in beautiful, dark champagne lace tea gown, caught at the hemline with a large, lace cabbage rose and wearing a yellow carnation corsage, Mrs. Cornutt greeted friends at the door with Mrs. Wiley Davis, president of the hostess chapter. Upsilon, her daughter, Molly; sons, Doc and Jimmy; her mother, Mrs. C. P. Pursey, and Mrs. C. E. Jeffries Jr., BSP City Council president.

Guests were served punch, finger sandwiches, petit fours from a table appointed with a cut-work cloth centered with a silver epergne filled with acacia and daisies surrounding yellow tapers. Mrs. Dot Francis, Exemplar Chapter president, presided at the punch service.

Miss Juanita Haynes of Miami played background music as the guests were served.

Invocation and benediction was given by Jay Channell, minister of Harvester and Mary Ellen Church. Vocal selections, "Let My Song

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a cashier at a local moving picture theatre. Naturally I am on display at all times. I have been told that I am very good looking.

Two weeks ago I received a dozen beautiful roses. The card enclosed read, "You are far more beautiful than these roses." There were only initials on the card.

A week later I received another dozen roses with the message, "I think of you night and day," signed with the same initials. I couldn't begin to name my unknown admirer, so I telephoned the florist who delivered the flowers and asked him who sent them. He said he couldn't tell me, but I'm sure he knows. I would like your help, Dear Abby, in finding out.

BLONDIE: Be patient. Your "unknown admirer" will present himself sooner or later. But I warn you - don't expect too much. A handsome young Romeo rarely operates this way. He doesn't have to.

DEAR ABBY: What do you tell a child who was born six months after his parents were married, when he is old enough to start counting it up? Isn't there some little "white lie" that would sound convincing? I would like to hear from other parents who have had to face this problem. Has anyone come up with a foolproof solution?

JUMPED THE GUN: The most popular explanation is that the baby was "premature." Then, too, the parents can select a nice "white lie" and celebrate it. Or they can predate their actual wedding date by one year and stick to it.

MATURE PARENT

Rebekah Degree, Conferred At Meet

He's not a lawyer, salesman, bank vice president. A steam fitter by trade, he works with his hands. When he comes home at night, they're still grimed with grease.

But he supports his family by their labor. He also keeps his neighbors' stoves, furnaces and other essential equipment functioning.

However, his teen-age boy despises his dad's work as "dirty." He has expressed his contempt by delinquencies that have brought him to the attention of Dr. Martin S. Haskell, president of our local American Society of Psychotherapy and Psychodrama.

Said Dr. Haskell to me: "It is no coincidence that virtually every boy I have worked with looks down on his father's occupation."

Said the steam fitter-father to Dr. Haskell: "Who has taught my son to be ashamed of my work?"

The sad answer probably is "You, sir. If your son looks down on your work, it must be because you've let people make you so ashamed of it that you've stopped using your brains to appreciate its purpose."

I can't imagine Abe Lincoln feeling shame at the dirt on his hands after a day of log splitting. Or ink-grimed Ben Franklin blushing at the snubs of elegant Tory ladies passing his little print shop.

But then Abe and Ben used their brains as they worked with their hands to appreciate their purpose. Abe saw the cabins his logs would construct for his neighbors and Ben the inspiration that the message his assembled-type would bring to his disheartened fellow colonists.

There'll always be people around to despise the work hands do. Today, instead of snobbish Tory ladies, we have ads that despise "dishpan hands" and otherwise suggest that working hands are socially inferior. But we are given brains to reject this nonsense. As our greasy hands repair the steam-pipes that will keep our neighbors' houses warm and their stoves cooking, our brains should be as busy as our hands at appreciating our purpose.

It is not the steam fitter's dirty hands that this boy despises but his failure to use his brain to appreciate them.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are submitting our problem to you for arbitration. I am a respectable bachelor living in a furnished apartment. There are other bachelors who have apartments in this building.

Our landlady is a "watcher." She is permanently stationed high up in her picture window from which vantage point she keeps an eye on all visitors day and night. She says she wants to keep a "respectable apartment." We are all over 21 and we call it no-nonsense. She has gone into our apartments (when we are out) and rummaged through our belongings. She says since it is her furniture she has a right to "check on its condition."

Last year three tenants moved out en masse because they couldn't take her prying. Are we wrong or is she? Can you say something to her?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "RICE PADDY DADDY IN KOREA": Your letter was beautiful. No wonder your wife back in the States is red, white and blue.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Red China Shooting High In Claiming Loftiest Peak

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — Communist China has laid claim to Mt. Everest, highest mountain in the world, the Nepalese government disclosed today.

Premier B. P. Koirala said the Chinese claim to the 29,002-foot Himalayan peak was formally presented during his recent visit to Peking.

Paperboys Win Trip To Chicago

Three Pampa boys won all-expense-paid round-trip to Chicago in a recent carrier boy contest sponsored by the Daily Oklahoman.

The circulation increase contest was held during the month of March.

Winners of the contest were Gary Rasco, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rasco of 2238 Chestnut, Tommy Kendrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kendrick of 2207 Hamilton, and Jimmy King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim King, west of town.

One of the highlights of the trip was the Chicago Cubs and San Francisco Giants ball game.

VOTE

The persistent subjects of religion and campaign expenses dogged the candidates during extensive appearances on TV Sunday.

Roman Catholic Kennedy and Protestant Humphrey proclaimed religious tolerance. Humphrey said "nothing would make me sicker than to have this campaign injected with religious issues."

Kennedy said, "I hope that people will vote for a candidate on the candidate's competence."

Both Humphrey and Kennedy emphasized their showings. Tuesday will have a great effect on their chances for the nomination at Los Angeles in July.

The prizes are 31 delegates' votes and national prestige. State chairmen replying to a UPI questionnaire indicated some doubt about the outcome, more so than a month ago, but leaned to Kennedy by a slight margin.

The Newman Club, through a certificate testified appreciation and extended congratulations. He spent the past weekend at home, southwest of town, with his parents and sister, Myrna. Harry is a graduate of Pampa High School and a second year pre-law student at the university.

WINDUP

Ervin's proposal would require that federal court rules of civil procedure apply to proceedings before federal tribunals on appointment of voting referees in areas where the attorney general finds a "pattern of discrimination" against Negro voters.

Presumably, this would mean that local voting officials and their attorneys could take part as defendants in such cases.

Even if the Senate could finish action on the bill this week, the civil rights measure still would face an uncertain road.

The Senate already has made major changes in the original five-point House bill and more may be coming. The House either must go along with the revisions or seek to send the measure to a House-Senate conference committee to iron out differences.

Although this means going through the conservative-dominated House Rules Committee, Senate Republicans' Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) and other civil rights backers say no major difficulty in getting the bill sent to conference.

Southern senators renewed their assault on the bill today. In a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate, Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.) termed the voting referee plan "patently unconstitutional."

"There is no provision in the Constitution of the United States which authorizes the federal government to qualify and to register voters in state and local elections," he said.

'Sitdown' Movement Shows No Sign Of Weakening

By United Press International The sitdown movement by Negroes seeking to end segregation at lunch counters in the South showed no signs of weakening today despite legal roadblocks set up by harassed city and state officials.

The passive resistance movement, which has spread across the nation, started inconspicuously nine weeks ago in Greensboro, N. C., when four Negro college students were refused service at an all-white lunch counter.

This seemingly insignificant maneuver touched off a campaign which has resulted in the arrest of more than 1,200 Negroes and incited outbursts of violence.

Sitdown demonstrations have occurred in more than 60 cities in nine Southern states — Virginia, Louisiana and Texas. Only Mississippi has not been affected by sitdowns.

In addition, sympathy demonstrations have been staged from coast-to-coast by Negroes and whites to show support for Southern Negroes. Most of the sympathizers have been college students and the demonstrations took the form of picketing of five-and-ten-cent stores.

The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), one of the main moving forces behind the sitdown movement, called for picketing of the giant Woolworth dime store chain Saturday in support of Southern lunch counter demonstrations.

Pickets marched before red and gold Woolworth store fronts in cities from New York and Washington to Los Angeles and Portland, Oregon.

The sitdown campaign picked up momentum in mid-February after the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who led the successful boycott of segregated city buses at Montgomery, Ala., urged Negroes to "fill the jailhouses of the South" if necessary to bring about complete integration.

ISSUES

(Continued From Page 1) to decide which candidate has a record best exemplifying what we want — the Democratic Party to stand for — and which has a record, and the ability to support it, from which we can best challenge the Republican contender in November.

As an American, I have felt that the obligation of all candidates is to make clear what they believe, what they stand for, what they want to do for the country, and why they believe they are qualified to lead their party so that the voters are given a choice that is meaningful.

More important than who wins is what we win for. I have thoroughly enjoyed these weeks of campaigning in Wisconsin, and I look forward with confidence to the result of the election. I deeply respect the judgment of Wisconsin's citizenry. As we have become better acquainted, I have found a re-assuring sharing of my deep convictions about the struggle for peace with justice, about the wisdom of using our abundance to feed the hungry; people have learned to know the depth of my convictions about human rights and human dignity being a God-given inherent right of mankind, and of my determination to dedicate my life and talents to the furtherance of economic justice and human welfare for all our citizens.

To me politics is not a "game," or a social pastime; it is the serious business of making democracy function. All of us engaged in it have a sobering responsibility to keep uppermost in our minds and hearts a constructive purpose for the people we want to serve, rather than for self-advancement or self-gratification.

This I have endeavored to do, to the best of my ability. Whatever the outcome may be, I shall always treasure the new friendships, and the opportunity to further improve my understanding of the problems of Wisconsin and the aspirations of its people. Whatever the outcome may be, I shall always feel that by discussing the issues, and seeking to force others to do so, I have contributed to a better understanding of those issues — and helped

Services Pend For Mrs. Boles

Funeral services are pending for Mrs. Essie Dora Boles, who died this morning 5 a.m. in Highland General Hospital.

Mrs. Boles, born May 28, 1887 in Nashville, Tenn., made her home with a daughter Mrs. Henry Stephens, 120 S. Nelson for the past 10 years. She was a member of Church of Christ.

In addition to the daughter in Pampa, she is survived by three other daughters, Mrs. Zearl Canale of Hereford, Mrs. Keevey Warren of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Henry Colton of Oregon City, Ore.; two brothers, George Pennington of Mesa, Ariz., Crouch of Los Angeles; and nine grandchildren.

Arrangements will be announced later by Duenkel Carmichael Funeral Home.

Mrs. Callahan Rites Tuesday

Funeral services for Mrs. Mattie Callahan will be held 2 p.m. tomorrow in Progressive Baptist Church with the Rev. L. B. Davis, pastor of the church officiating.

Mrs. Callahan, born April 3, 1900 in Navasota, died 2:30 a.m. Sunday in Highland General Hospital, where she had been a patient since January.

Survivors include husband, Wash Callahan; two nieces, Alberta and Ernestine Bookman, both of Lawton; two great-nieces, Quilla and R. J. Banks, both of Lawton.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Sentenced For DWI

William H. Jones, 810 Octavia, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail in Gray County Court today after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Jones was arrested at 5:15 p.m. yesterday five miles south of Pampa on state highway 70 by Texas highway patrolmen.

Invalid Aids Available At RC

The Pampa Chapter of the American Red Cross has available invalid equipment for anyone having need of such equipment.

Mrs. Libby Shotwell, chapter executive, stated that there are two wheelchairs and one invalid walker in the Red Cross office.

The invalid walker is a gift of the Friendship Class of the First Methodist Church.

Anyone needing these items should contact the Red Cross office in the basement of the city hall.

RAMPAGE

The runoff reached the upper Mississippi late last week with such force that huge chunks of ice smashed gates on some of the river's flood control dams.

The Mississippi was expected to gather new force at St. Louis where it joins the Missouri and at Cairo, Ill., where it meets the Ohio River.

The Memphis, Tenn., Weather Bureau last week warned residents along the lower Mississippi to prepare for serious floods.

The Red Cross said the floods in the Middle West already had driven 16,000 from their homes and affected in some fashion another 12,000 persons.

VIOLENCE

Several white policemen suffered minor injuries in the Durban clash that occurred when Africans marched out of the Clairmont location in the coast city. Police soon announced the situation was under control.

Authorities brought army reinforcements backed by armored cars into Durban to meet expected further violence after hundreds of Negroes filtered into the city.

Military authorities in Capetown declined to explain the numerous arrests or the presence of increased troops and police there.

The incidents were the latest of a series of skirmishes that have plagued riot-ridden South Africa since March 21, when more than 70 Africans were killed by police gunfire in Sharpeville near Johannesburg.

Thousands of Negroes had assembled at the police station there to protest the law that requires they carry identity passes at all times.

Oil company officials in Capetown denied reports that African nationalists were planning a major sabotage attempt on their installations.

JUNIOR HIGH GOLFERS — These junior high golfers are working out regularly at Pampa Country Club, under the direction of club professional Hart Warren. Warren says that this is one of the best groups of young golfers he has ever seen, and predicts that within three years some of them will go to the state meet. Nearly all of these golfers are either seventh or eighth graders. On

'One-Hit' Williams To Pitch Contest

AMARILLO — The Pampa Harvester baseball team, in third place in District 3-4A at the end of the first week of play, meet the Palo Duro Dons Tuesday at 4 p.m., on the Palo Duro baseball field.

Left-hander Kippy Williams (3-0) has been named as the Harvesters' starting pitcher by Pampa Coach Deck Woldt. Williams threw a near-flawless one-hitter against Plainview Friday, allowing only five men to reach first base and allowing only four batters to hit the ball out of the infield.

Yanks Happy To See Cards Leave Florida

United Press International
The St. Louis Cardinals had a ball in Florida and no team is happier to see them leave than Casey Stengel's bedraggled New York Yankees.

St. Louis ended the Florida section of its exhibition schedule Sunday by whipping New York, 4-3. It was the National League club's fifth triumph over the Yankees in six games and left Stengel's side with one of the poorest records in big league exhibition play, 7-15.

The Cardinals (13-7) boasted the top exhibition record among the left Florida Monday by plane for Arizona to tackle the four big league clubs training in the Southwest.

Ron Kline, the right-hander the Cardinals obtained from the Pittsburgh Pirates, pitched his second complete game of the exhibition competition and the fifth by a St. Louis pitcher when he scattered 10 hits against New York Sunday.

The Cardinals now will test their pitchers against some of the game's best long-ball hitters. They'll face the home-happy San Francisco Giants Tuesday at Phoenix.

The Giants reeled off one of their typical games Sunday when Eddie Bressoud hit two triples and drove in five runs during a nine-run sixth inning to spark a 14-9 major league team during a 14-9 triumph over the Chicago Cubs. White Mays hit his eighth homer and Orlando Cepeda his sixth of the exhibition season for the Giants. Frank Thomas hit two for the Cubs, another gang of homer hitters who play the Cards next weekend.

In other Sunday action, Bob Zuhl went all the way and allowed only four hits in pitching the Milwaukee Braves to a 3-2 triumph over the Washington Senators; and in a game halted by rain after six innings, Hank Aguirre of the Detroit Tigers limited the Pirates to a single by Danny Kravitz while winning, 1-0. It was the sixth consecutive loss for Pittsburgh.

Purple Green's single in the 10th inning gave the Boston Red Sox a 5-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians; the Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds were tied at 4-4 when rain halted play after eight innings; the Baltimore Orioles ended the Kansas City Athletics 5-2; and the Chicago White Sox defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2, in a night game at San Juan, P.R.

Masters Will Open Thursday

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, the hard core of goldfom's "old guard," were among the early arrivals getting in their practice ticks today for the 24th renewal of the Masters tournament which opens Thursday.

The 47-year-old Snead, a three-time Masters winner, looked trim and still flushed from his victory in the DeSoto Lakes tourney last week at Bradenton, Fla. It was the 104th triumph of his professional career.

Hogan, also 47, has been boning up for the Masters by practicing in Florida for the past month.

Mike Souchak of Groesinger, N. Y., another early arrival, caused the biggest stir during the weekend by shooting a four-under-par 68 in his first practice round over the picturesque Augusta National course.

Olympic Cagers Picked

DENVER (UPI) — Oscar Robertson, Jerry West and five other collegiate stars dominate the team which will attempt to maintain U.S. basketball supremacy in the Olympic Games in Rome this summer.

The team, which also includes four National Industrial Basketball League players and one member of the Armed Forces All-Stars was named early Sunday, following the wrapup of the three-day Olympic trials at the Denver Coliseum.

Six of the college stars selected by the Olympic committee paced the NCAA University All-Stars to a 124-97 victory over the Peoria Cats Saturday to win first place in the trials.

Pete Newell of California, who coached the All-Stars, will coach the Olympic team which will try to extend the string of U.S. victories which began in 1932 when basketball became an Olympic sport.

Collegians on the team include six members of the trials champions: Robertson of Cincinnati, West of West Virginia, Darrell Imhoff of California, Terry Disinger of Purdue, Jay Arnette of Texas, and Walt Bellamy of Indiana.

The seventh is Jerry Lucas of Ohio State, a member of the NCAA champions team that beat Philadelphia Oilers, the NIBL title holder, 87-77, Saturday night to take fifth place in the trials.

NIBL members on the squad are Bob Boozer and Allen Kelley of the Peoria Cats, Burdell Halderson of Phillips, and Lester Lane of the Wichita Vickers who played with the Oilers in the trials.

The 12th member is Adrian Smith of Army, a member of the Armed Forces All-Stars who whipped the NCAA College All-Stars, 95-85, Saturday for seventh place in this trials.

Hawks Even NBA Series

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The riddle of "what's happening to Bob Cousy?" held all the attention today in the National Basketball Association championship playoff between the St. Louis Hawks and Cousy's Boston Celtics.

The Hawks evened the best-of-seven series at 3-2 Sunday, dropping Boston 106-96 at St. Louis while holding the usually high-scoring Cousy to but one basket in 13 tries.

The series now is scheduled to move to Boston for the crucial fifth game Tuesday, then return to St. Louis for a sixth game on Thursday. A seventh game, if necessary, would be played in Boston on Saturday.

The Hawks had jumped to an early lead over the Celtics Sunday, outscoring Boston 14-4 in the first four minutes of the first period to take a 28-14 edge at the quarter. By the half, St. Louis had built its edge to 50-29, after earlier leading by 12 points, 40-28. Boston fought back in the third period and twice managed to come within one point. St. Louis, however, pulled in front once again in the period's final moments and led, 81-63, at the end of the third quarter. In the final period, the Celtics never could come closer than nine points.

Boston did try a last minute drive, however, but was severely hurt when Frank Ramsey fouled out with four minutes left and still later, Dom Heinsohn had to be helped from the floor with a cut eyebrow suffered during action under the backboards.

Key men in the Hawks attack were Bob Pettit and Cliff Hagan. Pettit wound up the game's top scorer, with 32, and Hagan added 25 before a national television audience and a crowd of 10,612.

High for Boston were Bill Sharman and Ramsey, each of whom scored 20.

St. Louis wound up scoring 42 of its 91 field goal attempts for a .462 percentage mark, compared with Boston's 33 of 92 for .359. In rebounds, the Hawks claimed 67 to Boston's 64.

Azalea Open Win Wasn't Quite Enough

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI) — Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N.Y., who led from start to finish in the Azalea open golf tournament, failed to qualify for the Masters tournament next weekend despite his two-stroke victory.

The little-known golfer won his first tournament of the year on the PGA tour Sunday but didn't have enough points to receive a bid for the Augusta, Ga., competition.

Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who tied for third place in the 12th annual $15,000 event here will play in the Masters.

Nieporte, playing his fourth season on the PGA circuit, fired a one-over-par 78 for a total of 277 to win the $2,000 first place money.

Gay Brewer of Crystal River, Fla., carved out a 70 Sunday for 1,500 which went to the second place golfer.

Brewer was pushed from second place at the end of the first round by Finsterwald who moved ahead of him and threatened to overtake Nieporte. Brewer entered the final round two strokes back of Finsterwald but claimed the second spot when Finsterwald fired a two-over-par 74 for a total of 281, to 279 for Brewer.

Also tied for third place and collecting $1,000 was Don Whitt, who fired a last round 67 to match Finsterwald's score.

R. C. Powell of Wilmington, N.C., who tied at 301 with Bill Harvey of Greensboro, N.C., won the amateur division on the third hole of a sudden-death playoff.

Both amateurs halved the first two holes of the playoff but on the third hole, Harvey took a bogey when he hit into a sandtrap and had to take an extra stroke to get out. Powell parred the hole.

over Amarillo, as they batted in three of their four runs to back up Jimmy Walker's four-hit pitching.

Pampa's fielding was excellent in both Tuesday's 4-1 win over Amarillo and in the victory over Plainview, but two errors after two were made in the final inning Saturday allowed Tasoca to stay alive and go on to take its 6-5 victory.

Despite Pampa's light hitting over the weekend, seven of the nine players in Tuesday's starting lineup have batting averages of .290 or more, and two — shortstop Wendell Ridgway and third baseman Bobby Nutt, are still well above the .400 mark.

The batting order for the Harvesters, with batting averages, will be Ruben Strickland (.231), second base; Bobby Stephens (.304), center field; Larry Stroud (.355), first base; Nutt (.474), third base; Gary Hill (.176), right field; Ridgway (.444) shortstop; Terry Haralson (.292), catcher; Roy Stephens (.318), left field, and Williams (.300), pitcher.

The Harvesters, after playing Palo Duro Tuesday, will meet Lubbock Friday in Pampa, then play Monterey Saturday in Pampa.

Toronto In Cup Finals

DETROIT (UPI) — It was on to Montreal for the Toronto Maple Leafs today for an all-Canada final in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The Leafs, powered by Frank Mahovlich and Bob Pulford, rallied in the final period Sunday night to turn back the Detroit Red Wings, 4-2, and advance to the finals against the National Hockey League and defending cup champion Canadiens.

"I'd sure like to get three more winners against Montreal," said Mahovlich after sweeping the puck into the Detroit net at 2:40 of the third period for what proved to be the winning goal.

Mahovlich blinked the red light only three times during the six-game series with the Wings, but each time his effort netted a winning goal.

Toronto, which was runner-up to Montreal during the regular season, will oppose the Canadiens at Montreal in a best-of-seven-game series starting Thursday for the coveted playoff trophy.

White Sox Get Seivers

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox today obtained Roy Seivers, slugger Washington Senators outfielder, for two players and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Bill Veeck of the Sox said the deal, which had been forecast during the fall and winter trading season, could be regarded as giving the Sox, last year's American League pennant winners, "valuable insurance" at the two positions Seivers can play, first base and left field.

To get Seivers, the Sox gave up catcher Earl Battey and rookie infielder Don Mincher.

Everyone in baseball remembers how well Drensen did when he had "my kind of ball players" as a manager in Brooklyn.

Everyone also recalls what a flop Charlie was at Washington when he couldn't maneuver because of the lack of talent.

Now with the Braves, Drensen has hitters like Hank Aaron, Ed Mathews and Joe Adcock, along with pitchers like Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl.

In addition, he apparently has a sound Red Schoendienst back at second base. No wonder the cocky little Milwaukee pilot is rubbing his hands in anticipation of the start of the pennant race.

"I think we have a better team than Los Angeles," he says, "and even though the Giants may be tough, I feel we can beat them."

Although Drensen is convinced that Schoendienst, who was out last season with tuberculosis, will be able to put in a full season,

Svare Becomes Giant Coach

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harland Svare, whose linebacking helped the New York Giants field one of the National Football League's best defensive units in recent seasons, has been signed to replace Tom Landry as the club's defensive coach.

Landry, rated one of football's finest defensive strategists, left the Giants immediately after last year's championship game to become head coach of the league's new Dallas team.

Soph's Win Over 'Big Three' A Feature Of Texas Relays

AUSTIN (UPI) — "I heard all of those feet pounding behind me — all I could do was run."

That's Colorado sophomore Ted Woods' explanation for his startling 200-meter victory over Bobby Morrow, Jimmy Weaver and Eddie Southern in the Texas Relays Saturday.

"There just wasn't time to be scared," said the 19-year-old Pittsburgh, Pa., youth.

Woods led the field all the way to the tape, although "I thought they were going to catch me after the curve." His time was 21 seconds flat.

"It was the first time I'd ever run the 200 meters — I'm a 400-yard dash man," he said. "The cooler weather probably gave me an advantage."

Weaver was second in 21.4 and Morrow third in 21.5.

"I got almost as much satisfaction as if I'd won when one certain young man (Morrow) was behind me," Weaver said. A night earlier, Morrow edged Weaver in the 100 meters. Weaver had nothing personal against Morrow, it's just that "for 21 or 22 seconds out there on the track, it's every man for himself," Weaver said.

Morrow wasn't surprised to see "an unknown win this early in the season."

Southern was too happy over his new relay record in the 400-meter hurdles to be upset about his defeat in the 200-meter. Running the race for the first time since he won the event in the 1956 Olympics, he finished in 51 flat.

The Relays gave Bill Nieder of Kansas a chance for world recognition. The Olympics veteran hurled the shot 65 feet, 7 inches for a pending world record.

Several other performers put in bids for tickets on the boat to Rome for the Olympics.

J. D. Martin of Oklahoma soared 14 feet, 10 1/2 inches to set

Milwaukee Brave Players

Pizarro (6-2) and Carlton Willey (5-9) more work.

"That way I'll be able to give Burdette and Spahn a little more rest," Drensen explains.

Both Burdette and Spahn won 21 games last season while Buhl won 15.

For relief there's fast-balling Don McMahon (4-3) and the veteran Bob Rush (5-6). Rush also may be spotted as a starter if Jay, Pizarro and Willey do not come through as well as Drensen expects.

Bob Giggie, who was in only 13 games last season with the Braves and had a 1-0 record, and rookie Ron Piche, an eight-game winner at Louisville, may stick with the club. Another hurling possibility is Bob Hartman, also a Louisville graduate. He won 10 games there last season.

Three spots in the infield are set — Schoendienst at second, Johnny Logan at short and Mathews at third. Adcock and Frank Torre probably will split the first base job. For infield reserves there are Felix Mantilla, Mel Roach and Chuck Cottier.

Drensen has been giving Roach a shot in the outfield as well as third base.

Although Drensen is convinced that Schoendienst, who was out last season with tuberculosis, will be able to put in a full season,

PANHANDLE — Jack Meredith has been named as football coach at Panhandle, succeeding Clinton Williams, who resigned this spring. Meredith has coached the last four years at Crosbyton, where his teams won 23 games, lost 15 and tied two. Before that he was at Happy, where he also was a successful coach.

White Sox Get Seivers

Drensen Has The 'Horses'

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

BRADENTON, Fla. (UPI) — Charlie Drensen, the chipper little Milwaukee skipper who has wined a long time to get the specific kind of "horses" he always wanted, finally has 'em now and he's convinced he can lead them into the winner's circle come October.

Everyone in baseball remembers how well Drensen did when he had "my kind of ball players" as a manager in Brooklyn.

Everyone also recalls what a flop Charlie was at Washington when he couldn't maneuver because of the lack of talent.

Now with the Braves, Drensen has hitters like Hank Aaron, Ed Mathews and Joe Adcock, along with pitchers like Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl.

In addition, he apparently has a sound Red Schoendienst back at second base. No wonder the cocky little Milwaukee pilot is rubbing his hands in anticipation of the start of the pennant race.

"I think we have a better team than Los Angeles," he says, "and even though the Giants may be tough, I feel we can beat them."

Although Drensen is convinced that Schoendienst, who was out last season with tuberculosis, will be able to put in a full season,

Blind Spot

One of the most dangerous blind spots in this country exists in what we must believe to be the general public opinion regarding labor unions...

Let the Hungarian Freedom Fighters face open hostility from governmentally backed hoodlums; let the Cuban people suffer under the posturings and prosecutions of Castro; let any kind of riot or insurrection ensue anywhere in the world, and the American people will join ranks in favor of the persecuted and in opposition to the oppressors.

But, let labor bosses employ hoodlums to wreck businesses; let the working people be thrown out of work, hounded and oppressed; let almost any kind of lawless act ensue anywhere in the United States; if the act of violence carries a union label, it is almost as though the public generally was willing to laugh it off and assume that "boys will be boys."

Agency For Supermen

There is so much of real value in the article by John Kenneth Galbraith in the March 30th Saturday Evening Post that we are dreadfully annoyed with him. If his comments have been all bad, we could have avoided them with ease. As it is, he makes a number of the most profound and useful statements, then falls flat on his face as he tries to discover a way out of the problems his thought processes disclose.

Actually, this is not an unusual condition in this day and age. Many an individual has astutely and accurately analyzed what is wrong with us. Few, if any, come up with solutions which are not at least as bad as the malady against which they decry. So is it with Galbraith.

The mark of whom we speak is the fifty-one-year-old professor of economics at Harvard, which in itself neither praises nor condemns him. And like a number of economic professors, Galbraith begins with the classic divisions of wealth production, i.e., land, labor and capital. But he provides some thoughts which are at once unusual and useful.

Reinhold Neibuhr's Social Gospel

Frederick Nyemeyer describes what one of the leading Protestants, Neibuhr, is advocating in the form of social gospel. He writes in his February issue of "First Principles in Morality and Economics" as follows:

"The doctrine that has dominated every other in the Protestant churches in the United States in the last quarter century is the Social Gospel.

"That, of course, is not 'the gospel,' because if it were, then it would not be necessary to preface the word 'social' in the term. But the prefix is added, and that is conclusive evidence that it is different from the historic gospel of salvation in a life to come.

IDEOLOGY AND THE SOCIOLOGY OF KNOWLEDGE

"But more was wanted than eschatological utopianism, and to designate what 'more' was, the term 'social gospel' was coined. The social gospel is not eschatological utopianism plus voluntary aims, hospitals, schools, and the like. The social gospel is the doctrine that eschatological utopianism plus voluntary charity and uplift is inadequate, and that it is founded on a rotten base, namely, that those who have the means to exercise voluntary charity did not acquire those means under an equitable, or just, or Biblical, or Christian system for ordering society. The system which enabled some to engage in this voluntary charity is alleged, or implied, to be honeycombed with iniquity in the form of 'power' exercised by those people who possess ownership of property. Free markets, individual effort, personal thrift, pursuit of own welfare — and the consequences of those factors — are inadequate to secure justice, according to the social gospel.

"The best way we can think to advance a remedy is for honest people to refrain from patronizing the slave labor of labor boss controlled businesses and industries. It might take awhile. But if people begin to shun the union label, whether displayed on goods or discernible in open violence, we believe a change will soon occur.

One Thing I Found Out—

The Allen-Scott Report

ROBERT S. ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

STILL UNDISCLOSED FLEMING MEDICAL CARE PLAN WOULD OFFER HEALTH INSURANCE FOR ALL

WASHINGTON — That closely guarded medical care plan Secretary Arthur Flemming still hopes to submit to Congress contemplates a system of federal and state subsidies for health insurance for everyone, regardless of whether they are under social security.

Federal funds for this purpose would come from the Treasury, and not by increasing social security taxes. The head of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare disclosed this during his stormy meeting with the House Ways and Means Committee, when he was subjected to the bluntest grilling he has faced on Capitol Hill.

"That doctrine is a fundamental one. It says that there is really no objective truth in regard to economic and political matters; a man's ideas are responses to his circumstances; his circumstances control his principles; in order to know what he will think it is necessary to know his circumstances; his ideas are effects and not causes. How good or bad a man is does not depend on him but on his environment.

"This fundamental attack on the potential utility of free, on a man's mind being free, is known today as the Sociology of Knowledge. The term probably was coined by some sociologist who had in mind that his description of a man's environment would provide an understanding of what the man would think, and would permit the sociologist to forecast the man's reaction to events. In short, men are not really free in their thinking; instead their environment controls their thinking. Men are irresponsible for their thoughts, because their thoughts are controlled by natural law. Human thought is only one dependent link in the same chain.

"The sociology of knowledge is the so-called 'scientific' explanation of ideology. Ideology is your subjective, biased slant on life, particularly on economic matters. If a man is a bourgeois (that is, somebody other than a proletarian) his ideology is a product of his favored economic position. Anything and everything he thinks is supposed to be prejudiced in his own favor because of that. You can, therefore, have no real sense of justice to you fellows; your ideology has made you irrational despite any efforts you make at honesty.

"The social gospel has exposed this interesting irrationalism. That there is a not-to-be-doubted existence of 'ideology' is a prominent part of Neibuhr's thinking. "These ideas on ideology and sociology of knowledge stem from Karl Marx. Probably the single doctrine of Marx which has registered on Neibuhr's mind more than any other is this positivistic doctrine of ideology and sociology of knowledge.

"If the doctrine, as Marx propounded it, is true, then religion is a hallucination, because then that which we think is not an independent activity in our life, but is determined by irresistible causes antecedent to any act of our presumed will. If the sociology of knowledge is a correct hypothesis, then there is no real freedom of the mind, and consequently there can be no soul, and if there is no soul, religion is a grand hoax."

Conversation As An Art, Or Anything Else, Dead

As long as fifteen years ago I read dismal accounts of how conversation as an art was dead in the United States.

I doubted it, for at the time I, for one, was talking a mile a minute, and I thought, quite brightly, And so were lots of my friends, and acquaintances.

Now I believe conversation is dead — not only as an art, but as anything else. It is stretched out, and all the pulmotors in the world couldn't make it breathe again.

Why? Only one answer to that. The weather we have had this winter.

Nine out of every ten words spoken by Americans since January 1, 1960 have been about the weather, and how terrible it was. Citizens of all 50 states were involved, for no state has escaped unusual weather.

No conversation based on the weather can be amusing, bright, piercing, illuminating, or provocative. When ALL conversation is based on this subject, even recognized bores walk away.

My conclusion is not based on hearsay. In each state I paid an operator to walk the streets, enter front doors, and wander through offices, and listen to what was said. Without fail, each operative had the same report. Snow. Ice. Wind. Rain. Cold. New records for low temperatures. Impossible driving conditions. New costs for heat.

These were the things people talked about all the time. Even people who, up until this winter, were bright talkers.

Example: Charles E. Fleetwing, mural painter. Three degrees from three schools. Up until this winter he had held a salon in his studio in Paterson, N. J., each Thursday night. Subjects discussed ranged from Balfour's failure as a Prime Minister to the crossbreeding of a chicken with a peach tree to develop a broiler with fuzz but no feathers.

Our operative reported that Fleetwing this winter called off his saton and spent his time looking at the thermometer, telling his wife the New Jersey record for snowfall had been busted wide open, that he did not dare paint without gloves for fear of losing his fingers, and asking if she would check to see if Ohio (where Fleetwing was born) was having the same sort of winter.

Authors forgot all about their typewriters to talk of wind and hail and stranded motorists and buses broken down in mountain passes.

My own conversation went to pot. The first thing I looked at in the morning was the weather map. The temperature in Salt Lake, Seattle, Des Moines, and New Orleans, and then talked for hours on how lucky we were to have the drifts only knee-high.

Mary was as bad as I was. "Blizzard," and "mean average snowfall," and "cut off from regular supplies." I would look out of the window and say, "It's terrible." Mary would look out the window and say "We are on the verge of breaking the record for cold set in 1833 on January tenth."

Pegler Impressed With Arizona House Building

PHOENIX, Ariz. — In my virtuous effort to lure families from the equator, hatred and personal danger of New York and Washington, I have unintentionally restricted my enticements to Phoenix and Tucson. That has been a mere technical failure as the afflines sweetly describe the loss of a roller-skate from an inter-continental jet. My endorsement applies also to many tadpole towns where the "social" requirements are little more than conventional decency.

Most of the new settlers come from the Midwest and are indomitable neighbors or "folks" as they put it. If someone dies the neighbors rally with hams and pies and keep the coffee perking not in the yawning spirit of the alcoholic wake, but in a desire to help and console. I would call them hoosiers and let it go at that.

Phoenix and Tucson are a much more pretentious expensive. Casa Grande, for example, is an old settlement but the center of a large area which now produces fine cotton and vast crops of sturt for vegetable soup. Casa Grande is jumping with excitement because Charles Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants, now totally estranged from New York, is setting up a training plant for the athletes.

The Doctor Says

So great is the fad for suntanning that it is difficult to get ardent sun bathers to realize some of the risks they run.

Long ago, tuberculosis specialists called attention to worsening of an infection following excessive exposure to the "healing rays" of the sun.

Skin specialists have noted a relationship between skin cancers and occupational exposure to the sun among sailors and farmers. And the body may react to an acute sunburn just as it does to a burn from heat or fire with high fever, delirium and evidences of intense kidney irritation.

The combination of the suntanning fad and the fear of reactions has provided great opportunities for the exploitation of preparations to prevent sunburn and others to hasten the process of skin tanning. Neither type of product can be recommended without qualification.

Many persons react unfavorably to sun tan lotions and ointments. And the tablet that hastens and intensifies tanning when swallowed (Methoxsalen) has not been tested for a sufficient length of time to justify its use for purely cosmetic purposes.

Under these circumstances, the vacationer especially acts wisely if he or she limits the length of the first sun bath to perhaps five minutes and then increases the time of exposure sufficiently to obtain a gradual tanning and later flaking of the skin. Artificial aids are neither needed nor entirely safe.

Under the most offensive advertising campaigns, at least to me, are directed at body odor and honest sweat. One gains the impression that Pomona is repulsed by the smell of the normal skin and its complement of sweat and oil glands, that love flies in as soon as perfume and antiperspirant are applied.

At risk of adverse comments from psychoanalysts, amateur and professional, I must include myself in the ranks of those who take greatest delight in the odor of the freshly bathed skin, especially that of an infant. And there is something indescribably pleasant in the fresh odor of a boy or girl returning excitedly from vigorous play.

Contrariwise, I look with suspicion on the highly perfumed man or woman just as I have my doubts about a meat course that's served with a heavy covering of highly spiced sauce.

However, if you are one who feels the need of toiletries, I suggest you try a sample of each new product on some hidden area before you apply it to your face or armpits.

A fair proportion of the office population of most dermatologists is made up of patients who've developed rashes from cosmetics of one type or another (shaving lotion, lip stick, wave-

You can rely on Ford's men to give you a fast tow or to get your car back in shape for the road. Ford's men are specialists and get daily opportunities to prove their worth.

Besides owner Coyle Ford, you can count on Robert McCall, shop foreman; Joe Autry, "Red" Golden-Ray Schults, Clint Hill and Bill Barrett, body men, and "Razzy" Johnson and "Tiny" Riley, painters.

History Of Coveted 'Oscars'

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Thirty-one years ago the infant Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences gave out its first Oscars to Emil Jannings and Janet Gaynor.

In those easy-going days the winners won their awards for more than a single performance. Miss Gaynor claimed the golden statuette for her work in "Seven Years in Heaven," "Street Angel" and "Sunrise." Jannings was honored for "The Way of All Flesh" and "Sunrise."

Supporting performance Oscars weren't awarded until 1935, but among the 12 awards given at the first banquet back on May 16, 1929, in the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel was "The Best Title Writer."

This Oscar was given Joseph Farnham, and was the only one of its kind ever presented. It was for writing captions for silent pictures. The award was dropped in 1930.

Motion pictures were struggling out of the silent era into sound. The first picture to win an Oscar was "Wings," a picture started as a "silent" but completed as a "talkie."

Factory Hiring Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department reported Sunday that factory hirings fell off more than usual in February, mostly due to tapering off of the heavy recalls of workers laid off as a result of the steel strike.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Monday, April 4, the 95th day of the year, with 271 more days in 1960.

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn.

On this day in history: In 1841, President William Harrison died in the White House.

In 1914, theater-goers saw the first showing of the moving picture serial, "The Perils of Pauline."

In 1932, after five years of research, Professor C. G. King of the University of Pittsburgh isolated vitamin C.
