GASSED — President Eisenhower wipes his smarting eyes after he ran head-on into a cloud of tear gas used by police to break up a student demonstration in Montevideo, Uruguay. The President was said to have regarded the anti-U.S. demonstration as "exceedingly minor" as compared to the tumultuous enthusiasm of the flag-waving welcome given him by 400,000 persons.

Russ Rocket Data Given By Defector

LAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — A Swedish rocket expert who has told Russia's innermost rocket secrets reported to the Russians have developed atomic rocket twice as powerful as anything known in the West.

Henri Namne, editor of the German magazine Stern and organizer of the press conference, said German rocket experts who have talked to Larsson have been unable to find any flaws in his "fantastic story."

Larsson told newsmen he thought it may have been a "thermonuclear rocket" that Russia fired into the Pacific recently. He said the new missile probably is far enough advanced to be ready for such a test.

He claimed the first stage is propelled by hydrogen superheated with additional chemicals in an "afterburner," making it capable of speed not achieved by the West.

A special graphite compound "rains" the radioactive vapor trail back to earth, keeping it from sailing around the world like an atomic cloud and making it difficult for the West to get details of Soviet rocket advances, Larsson said.

Larsson said Werner von Braun, German-born chief of the U.S. development center in Huntsville, Ala., knows him "very well," although Von Braun did not reply to a letter Larsson sent him at Christmas.

Manhunt On In Miami For Killer-Bandit

MIAMI (UPI) — A 300-man force of police and detectives moved through bars, railyards and hobnob spots today in a desperate search for a red-haired killer.

The unknown bandit has shot seven service station attendants a week. Two died, and the third in critical condition.

"We hope we get him before he kills it again," a detective spokesman said.

Vacations were cancelled for 80-man metropolitan detective division, and the officers were put on 12-hour shifts. City and county former officers joined in the hunt for the man described by others as a "ruthless, dangerous one who shoots to eliminate witnesses to his robberies."

Cenneth G. Mezzarano, 21, and Arthur L. Keeler, 53, both late service station attendants, were shot to death behind a pistol. Back Beecher, 28, was shot four times before dawn Thursday. He staggered to a telephone booth, pushed his wounds and gave a partial description of the bandit. Beecher said the man was driving a blue Rambler station wagon. He said he was about 5-7, late 20s and had close-cropped red hair.

Ike Golfs At End Of Latin Tour

PUERTO RICO (UPI) — President Eisenhower relaxed today in balmy 80 degree temperatures from the rigors of his 10-day South American tour and planned a full afternoon of golf over the magnificent Dorado course.

Eisenhower flew here Thursday afternoon from Surinam (Dutch Guiana) where his big Air Force jet had landed on three engines after developing an oil leak over the Amazon jungles of Brazil. He had transferred to a second jet carrying his son, Maj. John Eisenhower, and other members of the White House staff.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter flew Thursday night to Charleston, S.C., where he landed because of the snowstorm in Washington and John's wife Barbara was flying here for a week-end in the sun with her husband.

Destroy Of Agadir To Be Swift

AGADIR, Morocco (UPI) — Crown Prince Moulay Hassan today ordered a speedup in the razing of earthquake-shattered Agadir to halt the threat of an outbreak of typhus and plague.

He ordered that the few buildings still standing be blown to bits and the rubble covered with quicklime to kill the swarms of rats that have sprung from the ruins of Agadir.

Moroccan authorities announced he had once decided to call on the U. S. Air Force to use napalm-jellied gasoline to incinerate the remains of the dead city, but changed his mind.

There was no immediate explanation, but apparently there was not enough napalm available to do the job and he feared the fight on pestilence might be slower rather than speeded.

Morocco also was using French and American bulldozers to demolish any still standing buildings, flattening Agadir into an oblivion possibly matched only by the leveling of ancient Carthage.

The Romans wiped that proud North-African city off the map and salted its earth out of vengeance. But this city will be leveled and dusted with lime.

The drastic step meant that most of the estimated 4,000 to 6,000 persons who perished in the Monday night earthquake have already found their final resting place beneath the debris.

Unconfirmed reports said the death toll may reach 10,000. Before the night of horror and destruction, Agadir was a resort boom town of 50,000 residents.

Search For Burglar

SEARCH FOR BURGLAR — Sheriff's officers are searching for a burglar who broke into the Club sometime after midnight last night.

Deputy Shirley Nichols said the burglar entered through a fourth door. No estimate of the loss is given.

Teen Idol Involved In Payola Probers May Quiz Dick Clark

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House payola investigators reported today that Dick Clark, teen-age idol and ABC television network disc jockey, formerly had an interest in 17 record and music publishing firms.

Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.), ranking GOP member of the subcommittee, said evidence showed Clark was "quite obviously involved in payola" and he should be summoned to testify as soon as possible.

Clark's name cropped up at the public hearing after the chairman of the Federal Trade Commission told the subcommittee that record companies had made payments to 255 disc jockeys and other broadcasting personnel in more than 56 cities.

Earl W. Kintner also said at least seven stations received payments. He reported the FTC has turned over this data to the Federal Communications Commission and the Internal Revenue Service.

Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) said the hearings on Clark's operations are "contemplated." But he said staff investigators have not finished laying the groundwork yet.

Kintner was asked if Clark was under FTC investigation. He confirmed that some of Clark's activities were under scrutiny and added, "We fully intend to explore all those activities."

The ABC network last year required Clark to divest himself of interests in record and music firms if he wished to continue with his television show.

Bennett began reading a list of record and music companies in which he said he understood Clark had interests ranging from 25 to 100 per cent. Bennett said he understood Clark had divested (See IDOL, Page 3)

More Of The Same

Show, snow and more snow. That's the weather picture for Pampa and vicinity for the next two days, at least.

Light snow began falling in the early morning hours today, and was still coming down lightly at 11:30.

The forecast is for light to locally heavy snow today and tomorrow.

Pampa had a low reading last night of six degrees, the high today is expected to reach 24, and the low tonight, six. The temperature in Pampa has not gone above freezing since Feb. 22.

Pampa schools, both public and parochial, are operating on a normal schedule.

Roads in the area are slick and hazardous in some isolated spots, but for the most part clear and dry.

Desi No Longer Loves Lucy

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The most phenomenal success story in television history came to a crashing end today when Desi Arnaz could no longer say, "I Love Lucy."

Lucille Ball, 45, filed a divorce suit Thursday in nearby Santa Monica Superior Court which ended the 20-year husband-wife partnership. That period saw the red-haired ex-chorus girl and the one-time Cuban bird-cage cleaner become the nation's biggest TV moguls.

"Our divorce will be completely amicable," said Arnaz who on Wednesday celebrated his 43rd birthday. "And there will be no contest. Lucy will pursue her career on television and I will continue my work as head of Desilu Productions."

It was the second divorce action filed by Lucy in her stormy marriage with Arnaz. She said it was for keeps this time because she found it "impossible to go on."

Lucy sought custody of their two children, Lucie, 9, and Desi IV, 5, in Thursday's divorce action, but she said:

"We both love them very much. Desi will be able to see them as often as he likes.

"I hope to do several spectaculars for Desilu and a motion picture before I move to New York to do a play in the fall."

Record Is Set In Senate Filibuster

Talkathon On Civil Rights May Move Into Next Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate set a record for around the clock sessions early today during a debate which tempers flared briefly over a proposal to gag the Southern filibuster against civil rights legislation.

After the dispute was resolved with apparent good feelings all around, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said he would like to wait at least until next week before trying to choke off the filibuster with a rarely used cloture petition.

At 1:38 a.m. e.s.t. the Senate had been in session day and night for 85 hours and 23 minutes, except for a 15-minute recess, equalling the record set during a 1954 filibuster on atomic energy. That debate was broken by a 24-minute recess.

The civil rights talkathon will set the record for a continuous session unbroken by any temporary recess if it's still going at 1:38 p.m. The old mark, 54 hours and 10 minutes, was set during a 1915 debate on President Woodrow Wilson's ship purchase act.

The gag rule flare-up started when Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) placed a cloture petition on the Senate's clerk's desk and Sen. Thurston B. Morton (R-Ky.) tore the paper to shreds and dropped it into a waste basket.

The lawmakers later shook hands and dismissed the incident with smiles.

Morse vainly sought support for his cloture petition after both Republicans and liberal Democrats gave a cold shoulder to Johnson's attempt to end the filibuster with a compromise civil rights plan.

The Morse move was viewed as having little significance. To succeed any effort to shut off the filibuster would have to win the necessary two-thirds majority.

Johnson said he viewed Morse's move as "extremely premature." He said he was "very reluctant to ever vote cloture."

Morse, a civil rights supporter, sought unanimous consent to have his petition placed on the clerk's desk where senators could write the 13 additional signatures needed to bring the matter to a vote.

CAN'T GIVE THEM THE LIE — Prosecutor Fred N. Whichello is shown holding two pictures of Mrs. Barbara Finch after he made final arguments in the Finch-Tregoff murder trial in Los Angeles. Whichello, a deputy district attorney, declared Dr. Bernard Finch and Carol Tregoff were free to say anything they wanted to about Finch's wife because "she can't rise out of the grave to give them the lie." On the table is the pistol defense lawyer Grant Cooper used in his final arguments.

Finch-Tregoff Case Goes To Jury Today

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The murder trial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff goes to the jury today.

Barring unforeseen delay, the seven women and five men should start deliberating about 7 p.m. e.s.t. whether the surgeon and the redhead murdered Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch last July 1959.

It has been a trial of melodramatics. It reached the peak Thursday with the state's accusation that Finch was a "monstrous liar," a man who invented a "second rate soap opera" account of his wife's death; Carole a surgical assistant who stood ready to pass the instruments of death to her lover.

Prosecutor Fred N. Whichello expected to end his summation by noon. Judge Walter Evans then will instruct the jury and the trial that started Dec. 8 will reach its climax.

There are five possible verdicts:

1. Guilty of first degree murder.
2. Guilty of conspiracy to murder.
- 3 and 4. Not guilty on both counts.
5. Guilty of second degree murder.

If they are found guilty of murder or conspiracy, the jury must hear a "second trial" on whether the sentence should be death or "life imprisonment." Actually, the Parole Board begins consideration of release after seven years on a life sentence.

If the verdict is second degree (unpremeditated) murder, the sentence is five years to life with parole possible after three years and seven months.

Teacher Pay Raise Favored, But Who Furnishes Money?

AUSTIN (UPI) — A spokesman for the Texas State Teachers Association said Thursday the group has polled a cross-section of the Texas Legislature on teacher pay raises, and an overwhelming majority of lawmakers favored the proposal.

But there was a hitch. Most of the legislators wanted to know where the money would come from.

Their preferences for raising money to finance the Hale-Aikin recommendations were divided.

Some hold out for a sales tax, while others are categorically opposed to such a measure.

L. P. Sturgeon, director of public relations for the TSTA, said the group has not completed its poll, but he said response to the teachers' needs are improving.

Some of the lawmakers favor pay boosts of up to $800 a year, Sturgeon said.

"There is much stronger support now for our program than we've ever had before," Sturgeon told United Press International. Gov. Price Daniel held out hope Wednesday that he still may call for a special session of the Legislature after the May 7 primary election to enact a $400-per-year raise for the teachers.

The TSTA poll showed that 71 House members would vote for the raises next week, if they knew of a sound way to finance the program. Of that number, 43, said they would vote for the entire Hale-Aikin program.

Seventeen Senate members said they would vote for the raise, with 16 in favor of passing the entire program.

Rep. Maud Isaacks of El Paso, a former schoolteacher herself, said she would consider "any reasonable tax except a general sales tax or an increase in the gasoline tax."

Another backer of the sales tax was Sen. Jep S. Fuller of Fort Arthur, who said he would vote for the program if it were financed by a "sales or other equitable tax program."

State Senate Concedes Tippling One Of The Social Graces

To Make 'Honest Lady' Of Mississippi?

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Fifty years ago the Mississippi Legislature voted to "forever ban the stigma of liquor from the state."

Today, the state Senate conceded that "some of Mississippi's best citizens" still are seen at legal gatherings where liquor is served in this, the only legally dry state in the nation.

The Senate voted 21 to 16 Thursday in favor of a local option liquor bill that Sen. William Carraway of Leland said would finally "make an honest lady of Mississippi." The bill was expected to be sent to the House today for a vote next week.

Its fate in the House is uncertain. Also, Gov. Ross Barnett, a Baptist-Sunday school teacher has refused to say if he will sign it if it passes. It touched off one of the most furious debates the Senate has seen since the subject last came to the floor of the Legislature in 1952.

"It would be just as sensible to authorize the selling of tuberculosis germs," thundered Sen. Ollie Knight of Amory, a Baptist minister and chairman of the Senate Temperance Committee.

"No man should be given the right to drink a beverage that ruins his mind and makes him lose control, any more than I should be given the right to seduce your daughters," said Sen. Ed Williams of Olive Branch.

Most supporters of the local option bill vowed that while they never touched the stuff themselves they knew many who did, and the time had come to recognize that hard liquor is sold openly in many localities. The state collects a black market tax on liquor sales, thus giving them a semblance of legality.

"Why, there are four or five bars operating within the shadow of this Capitol," Sen. Earl Evans of Canton said. "Let's remove this hypocrisy by legalizing and placing under control that which is now going on."

weather dead, including six in Pennsylvania, five in Massachusetts and four each in Texas, Ohio, Colorado and Indiana.

A foot of new snow caused an 18-mile traffic jam in Pennsylvania. Hundreds of stalled cars clogged Boston streets. New York City, the nation's mightiest metropolis, came to a standstill under 14 inches of snow.

Another 14 inches covered southern New England, Virginia reported a foot and a half, 11 inches blanketed central Illinois and Boston recorded eight inches — its heaviest of the winter.

A blast of ice-cold air chilled the Midwest. Temperatures fell 10 to 23 degrees below zero at Philadelphia, and sub-zero readings were reported deep in the central plains states.

Gale warnings went up from Eastport, Maine, to the Virginias. Tides up to four feet above normal battered the Atlantic Seaboard.

Speeding Offenses Top List

Chief of Police Jim Conner said today speeding was the principal violation of motorists last month.

Conner said 50 persons were given speeding tickets, including exceeding legal speed and exceeding a safe speed.

Stop-sign violations came in second with 25 tickets being awarded for that violation. Running a red light was third with 20. Turning violations drew tickets for 4; driving on the left, 5; following too closely 4; unsafe start from a parked position 4; and changing direction of travel unsafely 1.

Chief Conner said loud and unnecessary noise violations were the lowest ever, with only two being recorded.

License violations amounted to 34, with expired license plates accounting for 8; no inspection stickers, 4; no valid operator's license, 40; driving while license suspended, 1; and driving while intoxicated 3.

Parking violations drew the most tickets, with 3,076 tickets being issued by the "meter maids." No parking violations amounted to 7, blocking a private driveway, 1; double parking, 1; parking in an alley, 1 and illegal parking, 8.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

The following item was sent to me by a reader. I would like to credit the author but I do not know who he is? Do you?

"We hear teenagers complain, 'What can we do? Where can we go?'

The answer is: Go home! Hang the storm windows, paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, shovel the walk. Wash the car, scrub some floors. Help the minister, rabbi or priest, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army. Visit the sick, the poor. Study your lessons. And when you're through, if you're not too tired, read a book.

"Your parents do not owe you entertainment. Your city doesn't owe you a recreation center. The world doesn't owe you a living. You owe it your time and energy, and your talent so that no one will be at war or in poverty or sick or lonely again.

"You're supposed to be mature enough to accept some of the responsibilities your parents have carried for years. They have nursed, protected, excused and tolerated you. They have denied themselves comforts so that you could have luxuries. This they have done gladly, for you are their greatest treasure. In heaven's name, grow up and go home!"

DEAR ABBY: What should a woman do if she is offered a light or her cigarette from both her husband and another man at the same time?

INNOCENT BYSTANDER DEAR INNOCENT: The wise woman will accept the light offered by her husband and politely refuse the other man. A woman who publicly shows her own husband's preference is unwise.

Refrigerated Drawers To Replace Bulky Refrigerators In 1970

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — The household of 1970 will have refrigerated drawers for food storage conveniently placed around the kitchen rather than one bulky refrigerator. Steel Magazine predicted today.

The magazine said the refrigerated drawers will not only make things handier for the housewife but will allow greater flexibility in interior decoration and permit various foods to be stored at different temperatures.

The compact, economical cooling units are only one of many developments promised by thermoelectricity. More than 100 companies are pouring big sums of money into thermoelectricity research.

The metalworking weekly said developments in thermoelectricity will lead to a variety of products to do three important jobs — heat, refrigerate or freeze, and generate electric power.

Steel predicted that research would lead to development of automobiles powered by a central thermoelectric generator with only a small motor in each wheel. This would solve the exhaust problem and would permit greater reliability with less service and maintenance.

The magazine also forecast development of miniature dehumidifiers for package cereals, crackers and similar foods; motorless heating and air conditioning units; and a device in a satellite which would convert the sun's heat into electricity to power radio transmitters and other equipment.

Weather Brings Temporary Halt To Sitdown Strike Acts

By United Press International
Negro college students in Alabama's capital city called a mass meeting today to plot the future course of their anti-segregation campaign. But Negro demonstrators at Nashville, Tenn., called off a "back to jail" movement.

A two-day snow and ice storm which paralyzed most of the South caused at least a momentary lull in the month-old Negro campaign against segregated eating facilities, libraries and schools.

More than 1,000 students at Alabama State College (Negro) Montgomery, Ala., vowed Wednesday night to quit school in protest against state action expelling nine students for an anti-segregation demonstration.

The students boycotted their winter examinations for a short time Thursday but returned to class in the afternoon. Marzette Watts of Montgomery, one of the nine expelled, called today's meeting to plan the next move.

The meeting was scheduled for 7 p.m. e.s.t.

At Nashville, 145 persons arrested for sitdown demonstrations at segregated lunch counters of dime, drug and department stores changed their minds about going to jail rather than paying $50 fines.

Thirty who chose to go to jail were released under appeal bonds. The rest were freed under appearance bonds to await trial.

Nashville Mayor Ben West appointed a bi-racial committee to "study the issues involved in the sitdown demonstrations" which have been carried on largely by students from predominantly Negro "Fisk University."

Florida Gov. Leroy Collins also called for an end to sitdown demonstrations which have taken place in Tampa, Tallahassee, Sarasota, Daytona Beach and St. Petersburg, Fla. Collins said the demonstrations lead to disorder, and "disorder leads to danger to the general welfare."

It was announced in New York that a committee has been formed to raise $200,000 for defense of Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., an Atlanta Negro minister indicted before March 18 if choice "B" allotment is selected.

Evelyn J. Mason, county office manager, advised cotton producers that "your history and your base will be protected if your plant as much as 75 per cent of your cotton allotment in 1960. If less than 75 per cent of the 1960 allotment is planted and the history is not preserved by soil bank or releasing, the 1961 base for your farm will be determined by averaging the 1960 allotment and the 1960 planted cotton average."

If cotton producers do not plant as much as 75 per cent of their 1960 cotton allotment and the entire farm is not in the Soil Bank conservation reserve program, it is very important that they discuss the cotton history with Miss Mason at the Department of Agriculture office as their future cotton allotment will be affected unless some method is taken to protect it.

The final date for releasing unused 1960 cotton allotment is April 22. If none of a cotton producer's land is in the soil bank, a d he does not want to plant as much as 75 per cent of his 1960 allotment, he can protect the cotton history by releasing all or part of the cotton allotment to the county committee to be re-allocated to other cotton farms in the county.

Miss Mason emphasized that the cotton allotment is not automatically preserved in 1960 as it was in 1959.

Allotments Date Chosen

The final date for cotton producers to select the choice "B" cotton farm allotment for 1960 is March 16.

No action by cotton producers is necessary if choice "A" allotment is chosen, but it is necessary that the county office of the Department of Agriculture be notified before March 18 if choice "B" allotment is selected.

Evelyn J. Mason, county office manager, advised cotton producers that "your history and your base will be protected if your plant as much as 75 per cent of your cotton allotment in 1960. If less than 75 per cent of the 1960 allotment is planted and the history is not preserved by soil bank or releasing, the 1961 base for your farm will be determined by averaging the 1960 allotment and the 1960 planted cotton average."

Weather

deepened the misery in Dixie. The ice snapped power lines, ruined trees, collapsed the roof of a school auditorium and caused more than 5 million dollars damage to Arkansas timber trees.

Schools in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys closed down by the dozen. A church auditorium roof in Anderson, Ind., collapsed under nine inches of snow. Fires left a score of families homeless in suburban cold.

New York City's worst snow storm in 11 years stranded thousands of commuters, cut visibility to 300 feet, blocked the Holland Tunnel to New Jersey and led the Red Cross to set up shelter stations in Brooklyn.

Eight inches of snow stranded congressmen in their Washington homes, but most senators were more concerned with the storm of words in the marathon civil rights debate.

The snow hamstrung Detroit, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Boston and Philadelphia with traffic-smalting drifts. Schools closed in all the cities except Detroit. Airports shut down from New York to West Virginia.

Mayor Speaks To Kiwanians

Mayor Ed Myatt was the guest speaker at this week's meeting of the Top O' Texas Kiwanis Club.

Myatt briefed the group on information received at the recent Altrude for Congressional Action meeting in Fort Worth. He emphasized the seriousness of inflation and the major role that federal spending will play in it. He called for everyone to take an active part in local politics and for the people of Pampa not to hesitate in writing their senator or congressman on political issues.

Ben Gollehon, Pampa Junior High musical director, entertained the group with two ballads, accompanied by Maxine Milliron at the piano.

Lucy

temperamental stars built the largest empire in Hollywood's history. They own 35 sound stages—more than any movie company ever had—and produced more than 20 per cent of the filmed-TV shows seen in U.S. homes.

Ken Morgan, Miss Ball's brother-in-law, said, "as individuals they will not alter their business association."

Their success was built on the most popular show ever produced by television—"I Love Lucy"—in which they became America's favorite happy couple. They made 38 weekly segments of the show for nine years, ending in the spring of 1958.

But in private, their arguments were a far cry from the smiling front they put on for the nation. In recent years, as Deal took more and more complete charge of their studio's business operation, they would bark angrily at each other during the filming of shows.

Their marriage in Nov. 30, 1940 in Greenwich, Conn., was as sudden as their divorce action Thursday. Lucy had met Deal when they co-starred in a movie called "Too Many Girls."

Not long afterward, they met again at a New York cocktail lounge. He proposed over cocktails and away they sped to Greenwich and marriage.

Nine years later they were remarried in a Roman Catholic church in San Fernando Valley.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration Come to Church

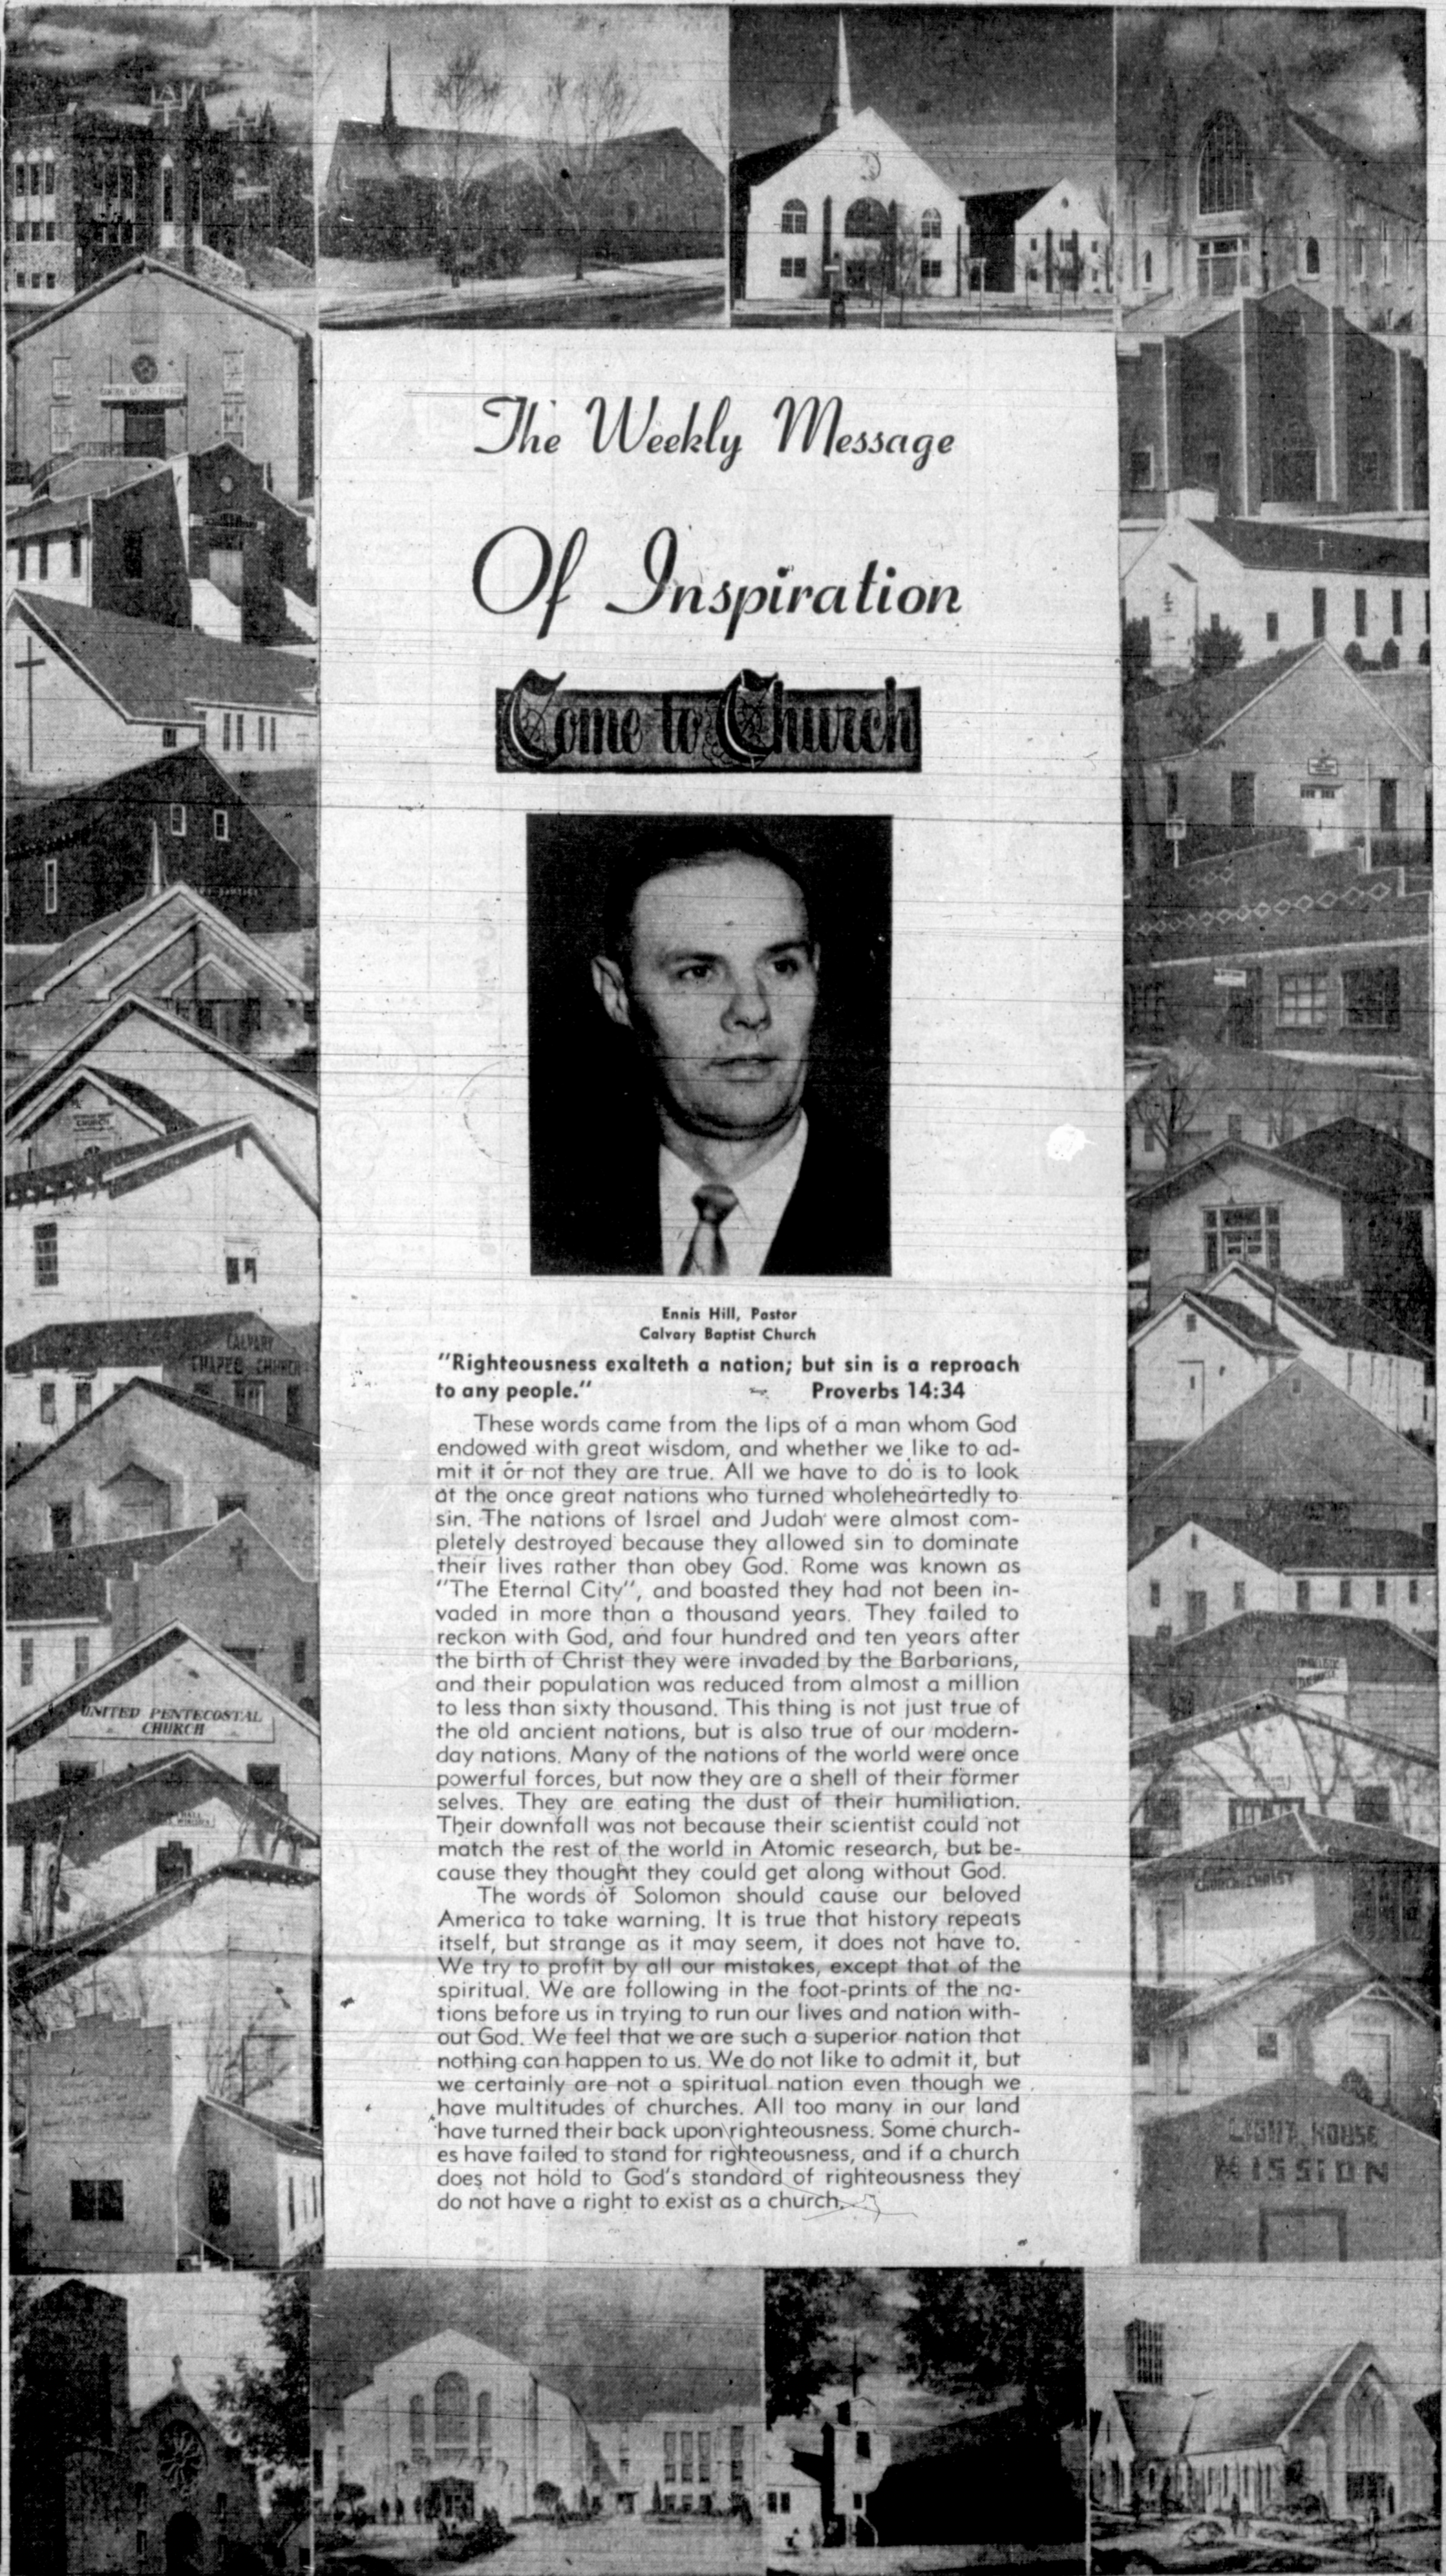

Ennis Hill, Pastor
Calvary Baptist Church

"Righteousness exalteth a nation; but sin is a reproach to any people."
Proverbs 14:34

These words came from the lips of a man whom God endowed with great wisdom, and whether we like to admit it or not they are true. All we have to do is to look at the once great nations who turned wholeheartedly to sin. The nations of Israel and Judah were almost completely destroyed because they allowed sin to dominate their lives rather than obey God. Rome was known as "The Eternal City", and boasted they had not been invaded in more than a thousand years. They failed to reckon with God, and four hundred and ten years after the birth of Christ they were invaded by the Barbarians, and their population was reduced from almost a million to less than sixty thousand. This thing is not just true of the old ancient nations, but is also true of our modern-day nations. Many of the nations of the world were once powerful forces, but now they are a shell of their former selves. They are eating the dust of their humiliation. Their downfall was not because their scientist could not match the rest of the world in Atomic research, but because they thought they could get along without God.

The words of Solomon should cause our beloved America to take warning. It is true that history repeats itself, but strange as it may seem, it does not have to. We try to profit by all our mistakes, except that of the spiritual. We are following in the foot-prints of the nations before us in trying to run our lives and nation without God. We feel that we are such a superior nation that nothing can happen to us. We do not like to admit it, but we certainly are not a spiritual nation even though we have multitudes of churches. All too many in our land have turned their back upon righteousness. Some churches have failed to stand for righteousness, and if a church does not hold to God's standard of righteousness they do not have a right to exist as a church.

Cindermen At Graham Meet; Linksters Entered At WF

Weather permitting, Pampa High School's golf and track teams will open their seasons today and Saturday. Dwaine Lyon's track squad is scheduled to run in the Possum Kingdom Relays at Graham Saturday and Weldon (Bird Dog) Trice's golfers are entered in the Wichita Falls Invitational high school golf tournament.

There will be two divisions in the Possum Kingdom Relays, one for class 4A and 3A schools, the other for schools of other classes. About 200 individual entries are expected in the 3A-4A division.

Both coaches admit that their squads are going to the meet mostly for practice. Neither squad has had any real workouts in recent weeks, because of the weather, and neither is expected to make much of a showing at either meet.

Registration Starts Today

Today is the first day of registration for players in the Optimist Club's summer baseball program. Registration begins at the Optimist Boys Club at 8 p.m., and continues until 8 p.m. Saturday from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., and will be held next weekend at the following times: Friday from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m.; Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Sunday from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

All boys are urged to register on these dates. All teams must be picked by April 1, and no players will be added after April 8. Little, Pony, Pony Grad and Farm League games will begin April 19 this year.

Jay Arnette Leads SWC All-Star Basketball Team

By ED FITZ
 United Press International
 DALLAS (UPI)—Jay Arnette, peppy long-shot artist who paced the Texas Longhorns to their first undisputed title since 1947, was the only unanimous choice on the 600 United Press International All-Southwest Conference basketball team.

Arnette, who led the circuit in all season scoring with a 19.1-point average, was one of three seniors named to the mythical team by the UPI with the aid of college sports publicity directors. Honored along with the 6-2, 175-pound Arnette were seniors Carroll Dawson of Baylor and Max Williams of Southern Methodist. Junior Clyde Rhoden of Arkansas and sophomore Carroll Broussard of Texas A&M.

TCU Frogs Upset Texas Longhorns

By United Press International
 Another Southwest Conference basketball season is over, and the University of Texas is probably dead of it.

The second team had ample height with Texas' Albert Almanza, who came along after mid-term to give Texas the needed spark in a cellar-to-top drive, towers at 6-8, while teammate Brenton Hughes was at 6-4; Kim Nash of SMU at 6-2 and Little Del Ray Mounts of Texas Tech at 5-10.

Another game like Thursday night's and the Steers perhaps wouldn't have been able to keep their scheduled date against the Big Eight champion at Manhattan, Kan., a week from today.

Next to Arnette, Broussard, who was the heart and soul of the Texas A&M attack, received the most support. He was named on all but one first-team ballot, while Williams made all but two.

Lowly Texas Christian, which finished only one cut above cellar-dwelling Rice, rendered the Steers virtually helpless and came away with an 81-75 victory.

All the finals in the state high school basketball tournament will be broadcast Saturday. The class 4A final will be televised, beginning at 3:45 p.m. KGNC in Amarillo will carry the broadcast. It's not yet known which area stations, if any, will carry the telecast.

The Raider sophomore who hit 4 points against the Owls, giving him 284 for the season. Clyde Rhoden of Arkansas, who finished for the Steers with 32 and Tommy Meacham, the loop's top rebounder, got 19 points and 19 rebounds in a 18-point effort against SMU.

None of the first-teamers was a repeat from the 1959 UPI team since the only junior on that team, Bobby James of SMU, died in a fire at his Ruston, La. home shortly after the close of last season. Williams and Rhoden were second-team choices a year ago.

The Raider sophomore who hit 4 points against the Owls, giving him 284 for the season. Clyde Rhoden of Arkansas, who finished for the Steers with 32 and Tommy Meacham, the loop's top rebounder, got 19 points and 19 rebounds in a 18-point effort against SMU.

The balloting was so definite on the top 16 men that there was a drop from 22 points to nine between the second team and the leading candidate among the honorable mentions.

The Short Line

By RED GRIGGS
 Pampa's spring sports coaches forgot something when they ordered equipment — snowshoes and skis.

Because of this unfortunate oversight, the track, golf and baseball teams haven't been able to do much lately.

However, the golf, track and baseball players in Pampa don't have it rough, compared to some football players and coaches.

It seems some schools have already started spring football training. And once they start, they have only 21 consecutive days to finish, according to Interscholastic League rules. They can't postpone their workouts, as the golfers, tracksters, and baseball players can.

So they have to either get out in the snow, or miss a day's work that can never be replaced. You can bet Pampa's coaches are patting themselves on the back for having spring training in May, instead of March.

All the finals in the state high school basketball tournament will be broadcast Saturday. The class 4A final will be televised, beginning at 3:45 p.m. KGNC in Amarillo will carry the broadcast. It's not yet known which area stations, if any, will carry the telecast.

Milt Fitts of West Texas has received an offer from the St. Louis Hawks, in the National Basketball Association. Fitts, who was recently named the outstanding Panhandle basketball player of 1959, is also considering offers from the semi-pro National Industrial Basketball League.

Metz LaFollette, West Texas basketball coach, thinks Fitts will make it in the pro ranks. "Because of his size, he'll probably have to play outside," LaFollette said, "but he has all the equipment to play any position."

Craig Winborn of Pampa has been named the outstanding opposition player by almost every coach in District 3-A. He's already been named to the first all-state team, and is a lead-pipe cinch for the all-district squad, which will be announced Sunday.

Del Ray Mounts, Texas Tech sophomore from Perryton, must be wondering what a man has to do to get a little recognition for his efforts. Mounts was the leading scorer in Southwest Conference basketball play, yet was named only to the second All-Southwest Conference team. Six men whom he outscored ranked ahead of him in the voting.

Depreciation

Ever since the federal government became so greedy as to begin taxing us in our incomes, some gross evils have arisen which are sadly hampering our industrial economy.

One of the major evils with which business and industry is plagued relates to what is called the "depreciation allowance."

We have come so far away from a realistic position in this respect that it is difficult for many people to actually think through the problem. First of all, we would have to remind ourselves that the income of an individual or a firm is a PRIVATE affair. No one should know what any of us earn or are capable of earning.

When a man's earnings are his own affair and his only, he is always able to hold up his head as an equal among all men. When his earnings, via government rulings, become public property, then he is forced into grudging comparisons with others and the highest discrepancy between his pay check and that of another worker becomes an indictment for complaint, union activity and ultimately legislation.

But in addition to this, a loss of personal pride and moral fibre ensues. The man is no longer an individual, but a member of his pay-scale class. The classless reality of the American ideal is replaced by a class society related to earnings.

In so far as an industry is concerned, the results of this invasion of privacy may not be so readily apparent. None the less, they are there. Each firm is in the market place, faced with keen and unrelenting competition. To be compelled to reveal costs of operation and income is a handicap that inhibits efficiency and progress. And when public disclosures of these things are demanded; plus the active prohibition respecting the replacement of tools in an inflationary spiral, the evil has gone full circle.

All industries are compelled by the laws of competition to keep their tools in top efficiency. But depreciation allowances are so low, that only the most successful firms can manage. It is now an accepted rule of procedure that an industry may set aside, that is, it may make a tax deduction over a specified period of years, sufficient money to replace a tool AT THE ORIGINAL PRICE OF THE TOOL.

But, in a period of inflation, which is brought on by government greed and the pumping into our economic stream of great stacks of fiat dollars, the cost of a tool purchased ten years ago, will be only a fraction of the cost of that same tool purchased today. Thus, the firm wishing to comply with the market rules of competition is placed under a great handicap. And the more costly its tools, the more these tools tend to wear out, the greater the handicap.

Take the trucking business. A huge behemoth of the highway, ten years ago might have cost as much as $8,000. The government will permit a deduction from income taxes of this amount. But to replace the truck at today's prices, the firm may have to lay out as much as $18,000 to $25,000 for much the same vehicle. Any earnings the firm may make over and above the original $8,000 outlay will be taxed as though it were profit. So, in order to set aside $18,000, the trucking management must earn $22,000 over the $8,000 deductible amount. It will pay taxes in the amount of $12,000 (approximately) and then be able to set the other $10,000 into its replacement account.

There are many evils which arise out of our income tax law and the depreciation allowance is only one of them. But we will never truly get back to freedom until this law is repealed in its entirety.

Lyndon's Chances

Because a Texan has at least one paper, an opportunity to be nominated on the Democratic ticket for President, we here offer with a nationally syndicated analysis by Peter Edson of Newsweek Enterprises Association. Here is the Edson appraisal.

Politicians here have only two real questions about Texas Sen. Lyndon Baines Johnson, the Democratic majority leader, as a presidential candidate: 1. Can he be nominated? 2. If he wins the nomination, can he beat Nixon?

Johnson's supporters and opponents, have their own ready answers to both, but only time will tell who's right. Since Johnson doesn't have a campaign manager as yet—though his running like 90—the expected thing has to come from other sources.

senator doesn't make the grade. This could work the other way—Sydney getting Johnson's strength if the Texan doesn't make it.

Still another alliance that has been speculated on here is a combination of Johnson forces with those of either Sen. John F. Kennedy or Sen. Hubert Humphrey. Kennedy has said he will not accept a vice-presidential nomination. Humphrey hasn't said.

But a ticket of this kind would be in the tradition of the Johnson method of operation: That is, to compromise and deal in the name of party unity to get results. As to whether Johnson could be elected president if he gets the nomination, nobody really knows that, either.

Johnson was chosen to answer the Republican record, early in the Eisenhower administration. In that nationwide broadcast, Johnson didn't make too good a TV showing, though the trouble may have been technical. In his New York and Washington, D.C., $100-plate dinner speeches with other Democratic presidential possibilities this year, Johnson was not generally rated best.

Better Jobs

by R. C. HOLLES

On Contentment I was so impressed with Plutarch's "Selected Essays" on love, family, friendship, marriage, brotherly love and contentment that I ordered 16 copies of it.

Now I want to quote a few statements Plutarch had on contentment that I think are very germane.

"And what but reason can train and habituate us promptly to arrest the irrational and passionate part of the soul as often as it rebels and not suffer it to overflow and be swept away because of a momentary situation?"

"The majority do indeed pass by what is potable and good in their own circumstances and rush towards what is troublesome and vexatious. Not so Aristippus, he put the resources he had on the scale, like a good man, and so lightened his load. He had lost a fine estate, but when a sham friend offered sympathy and condolence he asked the man, 'I have three farms left, and you only a plot of ground, I believe?' When his interlocutor agreed, he said, 'Then should I not rather condole with you?'

"Differences in our emotions make it plain that each man holds the cells of contentment and discontent within himself, the joys of good things and bad are not deposited on 'Zeus' threshold' but in the soul. The foolish overlook and neglect the good things that are there because their imagination is always straining towards the future, but the wise make even things of the past vividly present by recalling them. The present offers itself to our touch for only an instant of time, and then eludes the senses; fools think that it is no longer ours, that it no longer pertains to us."

"At birth we receive the seeds of each of these traits in a mixture which produces marked unevenness. A sensible man prays for the better but anticipates the other as well, and avoiding extremes, makes use of both. Epicurus remarks that 'the man least dependent upon the morrow goes to meet the morrow most cheerfully, just so do wealth and reputation and power and preference give the greatest satisfaction to those least apprehensive of their opposites. A vehement desire for these things begets a vehement fear of their not lasting, and this makes the enjoyment of them unstable, like a flickering flame. But if Reason has equipped a man to say to Fortune, 'Very nice, if you bring me something, no harm if you do not,' his stoutheartedness, the fact that he does not fear that loss would be intolerable, enables him to enjoy his present blessings with the greatest satisfaction."

"We know that the corruptible and unresisting part of man which is vulnerable to Fortune is small, whereas when we ourselves are masters of the better part in which are firmly fixed the greatest of our goods—right opinions and knowledge and reasoning whose consumption is virtue—which can neither be alienated nor destroyed. Undimmed and with hearty courage we face what is to be and say to Fortune what Socrates said to his judges when he was audaciously speaking to his accusers: 'Anytus and Meletus can kill me, they cannot harm me.' Fortune can infect a man with sickness, take his money away, malign him to his countrymen or a tyrant; but she cannot make a good and virile and high-spirited man a pollitron or mean-spirited or ignoble or envious, nor can she rob us of the serenity whose permanent availability is more useful for facing life than a pilot is for facing the sea."

"This I shall not do: I shall not lie, nor cheat, nor defraud, nor conspire." This lies within our power, and it is no slight contribution to contentment but a very great one.

Fair Enough

Cast Of Characters Remains Unchanged

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

At the height of the mawkish orgy over the retirement of John L. Lewis, I consulted the life story of Tom Girdler, a tough capitalist who ran Republic Steel at the time of murderous riots kicked up by Communists to drive unwilling American workers into the compounds of the CIO's Steel Workers Organizing Committee in 1937.

Girdler always was willing, ready and able to go to the floor with Lewis in person, but the fight never came off. Lewis owned an imposing but empty record of conversational conquests over captains of industry who had gone soft 'mid pleasures and palaces. Girdler, however, was built on the same lines as Lewis and he was equally effective at belittling rude expressions, the form of attack which put down most of Lewis's opponents whether in the bargaining rooms or union conventions.

"Lewis beat Girdler after the Memorial Day slaughter at Republic Steel at Hammond, Ind. Ten rioters were killed and about 80 rioters, cops and innocent faces were broken up. Lewis had Roosevelt in his corner, with even the Army and Postoffice Department cheating in favor of the union. Nevertheless, the affray at Hammond proved to be the decisive stand of law and order.

After that battle, a tumult of propaganda ensued—so dishonest that Senator (young) Bob La Follette later killed himself. La Follette was chairman of a Senate committee which created the myth that the rioters were ill-used employees of Republic peacefully picketing for the right to join Lewis's union.

La Follette was a cunning demagogue who made a fool of himself and was beginning to be exposed. There was only one employee of Republic among the ten dead; the proportion of employees among 114 wounded was a little smaller, and there were only 14 employees among 67 prisoners taken by the police under Captain James Moon.

Mooney's victory broke the terror and Chicago has had no union riots since. One cop's command, "heads up," and "coming through" still means that 6,000 Chicago policemen are ready to reinforce Girdler. Girdler is retired now to a farm near Easton, Md., remembered by the few who do remember him as a warrior for a doomed standard of American liberty. There were only 400 Republic men outside the Hammond works that day. About 1,400 held the fort inside, armed with bolts, metal bars and bombs made of acid in soft drink bottles. They never got into the action against Lewis's mob.

Looking Sideways

by WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — I don't suppose that one of you, out there, ever knew this man. There must be millions right here in New York who never knew he even existed. His world was small: his job, the beach, a bar, a race track; a gin game, his home. Every now and then some man with an eye on space in the papers would stuff an airplane with writers and editors and twice that I know of my friend got in on the junkets. Both times to Florida. I honestly think that out of 50 American States he never set foot in 48 of them.

He had put leather to ground in New York and in Florida, the latter by dispensation of a junket or two.

Of the world, vast and shimmering that lies beyond New York he knew more than most people realized. He had shipped out, in a younger time, on a freighter and had seen Caracas and Rio, Singapore and Marseilles, Port Said and Wilmington, Delaware, not that Wilmington holds any candle to these other places. He did come to think about it, he set foot in Cuba at that time, he liked Havana. It had action—and he liked to be where the action was. But when the ship was tied up at Wilmington he kept himself aloof. He never set foot in Delaware. The other places he looked at briefly and held, mostly, in scorn. They never romantically even touched his ear. You know you are at a party and you say Marseilles or Port Said and people get a romantic surge. The places sound terrific. He looked upon them when his years were still green and said they were for the birds.

If ever I knew a man who didn't grow-up, he was the man. He liked toys, not toy store toys, but his kind of toys. New ideas in cigarette lighters, new ideas in ballpoint pens. If he saw a transistor radio advertised that was as much as a quarter of an inch smaller than any transistor radio had ever been before, he'd get a fierce hunger to own it. He was, to be blunt about it, a gadgeteer. Show him a cigarette lighter he didn't have and you could see acquisition light up in his eyes. It was like showing a kid a new toy fire engine.

There is small use, if any, in deceiving you. Here was a man who liked to bend his elbow. He wasn't vicious about it or depraved about it or psychotic. He had about as much need for Alcoholics Anonymous as most people have for broken glass. He was no alcoholic. He simply liked to stand up there at the bar and sling a line for the evening. It wasn't difficult, it didn't take much, to knock him giddy. Take him to a party and he'd gravitate to the potables and never take a second look at the best-looking dame on hand. He had a wife and he had two sons and that was enough in the boy-girl department of his life.

He liked, frankly and openly, to bet on horses and bet on cards. This was singularly. Thousands were addicted to both and many of the more desperately than he ever felt the compulsion. He just liked the risk and moment of suspense. He lost with grace and won with charm. He was neither arrogant nor smug, a whiner nor a braggart.

In the office I work in, he is the fourth in less than four years to come to the end of his time. One of a somewhat sudden illness and one of a dreadful malignancy. They were nice fellows then. But this boy I speak of, of the one who loved to risk money and "bait" a bottle, this man without a vicious bone in his body, this warm-hearted, this sentimental, this sometimes childish but never detected man, is the one who will not leave the major gap. One feels sorrow when a friend goes, it is a part of the pattern of friendship. One feels so much more than sorrow when a man like this vanishes into the mist.

An associate said it best: "I don't intend to build any halos but intend of a progressive adjustment, the obligation to care for unfortunate in the family is accepted with grace by the vast majority. And in most instances the good offices of kindness are accepted gratefully by the handicapped, who no doubt would act with equal generosity if the tables of fate were reversed. Unfortunately, there are exceptions where an incurable patient 'takes out' the frustrations of his disability on the healthy good Samaritan. Sometimes the Samaritan's children are the target. Or again, an embittered invalid or semi-invalid sometimes accepts sacrifices with such poor grace that the unselfish donor is driven into saying something unkind in a moment of exasperation. Here are some of the examples I've seen:

By What Name Will Our Day And Age Be Known?

by HENRY McLEMORE

What is your guess as to what tag future historians will put on this day and age of ours?

The Atomic Age? The Era of Rock 'n' Roll? The Missile Years? Maybe it will be one of these, but I don't think so. I believe our time will be known to posterity as the Age of Free Advice.

By my figures—and they could be on the short side by many thousands—some 2,423,211 Americans make or supplement their livings by giving free advice to other Americans.

If you doubt me, just pick up the nearest magazine or newspaper for proof. No matter what your problem is, the chances are very good that you will find an article offering a solution, or advising the best way to find a solution.

And this is just the beginning. If you spot with your wife, a marriage counselor will step in via the printed page and advise you on how to make things dandy again. If you long to become a beatnik, a ready hand is there to tell you how to change your home into a pad.

There is no end to free advice, and advisors are increasing by what is known in Wall Street as leaps and bounds. The day is foreseeable when every other American will be a counselor, giving every citizen one of his very own.

I depend on these free advice givers completely. When I get up in the morning I make a list of my problems and worries, and then go through the magazines and morning papers to which we subscribe, for answers. I am never let down.

Take this morning. My biggest worry was our player piano. It is our pride and joy, and for a week we haven't been able to use it. The rolls wouldn't turn. That's a pretty tough problem, but I found the answer in a six-month-old copy of a national magazine.

"Take the rolls," it said, "and grease them lightly, and then bake for five minutes in a deep oven. Allow seven minutes for marches."
