NAACP Urges No Violence

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—An NAACP official today urged Negro citizens not to attack white incidents in retaliation against kidnapping and mutilation of a gro man by four masked white men. The plea came as police warned a situation was tense but they could handle any incidents. A crude wooden cross was burned Tuesday night on the lawn of a Negro family, and dozens of grocers called police saying they received threatening telephone calls.

Francis L. Williams, a Houston attorney who is president of the local NAACP chapter, urged Negroes not to try and retaliate against whites. "We urge that the Negro citizens of Houston do not take any vindictive act of retaliation or violence, and we shall depend on the proper law enforcement agencies to apprehend the persons who committed this act, so they may be brought to justice as other persons accused of similar crimes," Williams said.

Pampa Clears Building Debt

Pampa is now sole owner of city hall, the fire station and original city square. City Secretary Ed Vickers said last payment on the two structures and paving was made last week.

Rites For Margaret In Historic Abbey

LONDON (UPI)—Princess Margaret will be married to former photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones in Westminster Abbey May 26 with the matchless pomp and pageantry Britain reserves for its royal occasions. Queen Mother Elizabeth issued date and place today from her ram-colored mansion. Clarence House and touched off what is said to be practically a life-death battle in British society the precious 2,250 seats in the Gothic church. The 28-year-old princess will be away by her brother-in-law, Prince Philip. The Archbishop of Canterbury, generally credited with blocking Margaret's marriage to Group Captain Peter Townsend—will officiate at the ceremony before the archbishop where Britain's kings have already had permission to televise the wedding and it is certain that at least part of the service inside the church will be televised. Cops Hunt For 'Cheap' Burglar Police are searching for a "cheap" burglar who broke into Baker School last night. Chief Jim Conner said the thief used a tile to break a small pane of glass in a door to gain entry. About 25 pennies were taken from a teacher's desk. Another burglary was reported to police late yesterday, that one at the home of Bill Meador, 600 S. Somerville. Meador told police someone entered his home between 7:30 p.m. Monday and 2:30 p.m. yesterday, and took two suitcases, $115 in cash, papers, clothing, 25 pairs of shoes, and an electric razor. The suitcases were valued at $160, the razor at $35.95, and the shoes at $250.

Neuberger Of Oregon Dies Of Stroke

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Sen. Richard L. Neuberger, the first Democrat elected from Oregon to the United States Senate in 40 years, died early today after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage. The 47-year-old author and politician had been resting at home for several weeks, convalescing from a series of virus attacks and a bout with the shingles when he was stricken suddenly at 4 p.m. Tuesday. He had planned to run for reelection in the May 20 Oregon primary and no major opposition was in sight. No Democrat had filed against him—and Republicans had been unable to settle on a serious candidate. His death left the contest wide open. Death came at 4:30 a.m. e.s.t. in Good Samaritan Hospital. He had lapsed into a coma shortly after his arrival there and he died without regaining consciousness. His wife and political team-mate, Maurine, remained at his bedside. Formerly a controversial, highly partisan figure, Neuberger mellowed as he gained maturity in the Senate and newspaper editors and others who had fought him bitterly in 1954, had begun to praise him. His 1958 cancer operation completed his mellowing process. In a dispatch written for United Press International last year, Neuberger said: "A brush with cancer tends to place many things in true perspective. Old antagonisms fade away. I no longer can transform political disagreements into any feelings of personal malice. When one is grateful to be alive, it is difficult to dislike a fellow human being." But he still fought for the things he believed in. They included vastly increased medical research with massive government support, public power, and his beloved Oregon. A successful magazine writer ever since his student days at the University of Oregon, Neuberger turned out scores of pieces last year which spread widely the story of Oregon's centennial year. Neuberger survived a cancer operation in August, 1958, and he would seek a second term in the Senate. He noted that he had gone "at too fast a pace" for several years but that his doctors told him there was no reason to retire. Gov. Mark Hatfield, a Republican, was notified of the senator's grave condition Tuesday night in (See NEUBERGER, Page 2)

Annual Banquet Hereford Breeders Awards Presented

Melvin Munn of Pampa was a guest speaker at last night's banquet of the Top O' Texas Hereford Breeder's Association in the Coronado Inn. Munn told his audience that "Texas began her entry into the cattle raising field many years ago with the longhorn. Since the Civil War more and more men began to concern themselves with cattle that could stand the rigors of our climate, and out of this program has come our modern day Hereford." Hereford breeders have earned the gratitude of the men and women of America, and "tonight we're very proud of two things; the Top O' Texas Hereford Breeder's Association, and the place you occupy in the sun," he said. Bill Damon of Hereford, speaking on the subject, "Let's Talk Herefords," told the audience, "As Hereford breeders we have always said Herefords are the finest breed of beef cattle in the world." But, he added, "Other breeds are making inroads into the industry. This," he said, "is caused by lethargy and complacency which usually follow several years of being on top." Damon emphasized his point with references to other products, and said "we're way ahead with Herefords, and we'll not be satisfied with a comfortable head." About 350 persons attended the banquet, held in the Starlight Room at the Inn. Awards were presented to J. P. Callihan of Conway for the champion bull, Mrs. J. P. Callihan, for the champion female and Tommy Potts of Memphis for the best pen of bulls. County Agent and Mrs. Ralph Thomas were presented with surprise awards of deep sea fishing rods and reels, "for his many years of service to the county and the show." The Vocal Chords, local barber-shop quartet, presented special music and Maxine Milliron furnished dinner music.

Groom Youth Takes Honors In FFA Judging

Jimmy Hudson of Groom won high individual scoring honors yesterday in the Top O' Texas Livestock Show's FFA judging contest. Groom took first place in team judging. Thirty-eight FFA teams competed. Awards to winners were made at the annual FFA Livestock Judging banquet in Pampa High School late yesterday afternoon. O. Burton of Canadian won second place in individual score. W. McArthur of Spur placed third. Groom won first place with a total of 1149 points, Patton Springs was second with 1108, and Clarendon took third with 1105. In beef cattle judging, J. Miller of Hedley residents, all women, were shaken up and bruised yesterday morning mid way between Alameda and McLean when the converted school bus in which they were riding overturned on the icy highway. The women work at Marie Foundations here. The accident occurred about 7 o'clock. Constable J. D. Fish reported several cars off the highway during an ice storm that hit the area Tuesday. No injuries or damage to cars was reported.

Locke Withdraws From Board Race

John T. Locke has withdrawn as a candidate for the Pampa Board of Education. Locke announced his withdrawal this morning in a statement to the Daily News. He said, "Because of the number of candidates whose views and beliefs parallel mine, and to consolidate this position, I have decided to remove my name from the list of candidates to be considered for election to the school board. I wish to thank all my supporters for their help, and urge them to go to the polls and vote April 2."

HIGH TEAM — The Groom F. F. A. Livestock Judging team was high-point winner in Tuesday's contest in Recreation Park. The team scored 1149 points of a possible 1500. Ike Found Friends On Pan-Am Tour

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower told the nation Tuesday night that U.S. relations with Latin America are at an "all-time high" but conceded there are some "serious misunderstandings." In a 15-minute radio-TV report on his 10-day trip to Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay, Eisenhower declared that "no other area of the world is of more vital significance to our future" than Latin America. He said "an even firmer partnership" with the nations south of the border must be the U.S. goal. Eisenhower reported that he found in South America "a vast reservoir of respect, admiration and affection for the United States of America." The Chief Executive said he assured his Latin American hosts "most earnestly" that the United States wanted them to succeed in raising their living standards. "The President said he discovered 'serious misunderstandings' in this country in Latin America. And, he said, U.S. citizens are not as well informed as they should be about their neighbors to the south. For example, he said, many do not realize the United States is committed under the 1942-Rio Treaty to consider an attack on one American republic as an attack on all. "We stand firmly by this commitment," Eisenhower declared. With this assurance, Eisenhower said some Latin American countries should be able to reduce their defense spending and use the savings "for constructive purposes." Another misunderstanding Eisenhower cited was the belief among some South Americans that the United States sometimes supports dictators. "Of course we abhor all tyrannical forms of government, whether of the left or right," he said. The President announced no dramatic new plan of economic aid to Latin America but he reiterated his faith in existing programs to fulfill the area's needs.

Eisenhower invited all the Latin American ambassadors here to a White House luncheon at 1 p.m. today. Other guests included State Department officials and officers of various inter-American agencies. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, who accompanied Eisenhower on the South American trip, was expected to give his impressions at an 11 a.m. news conference. He also was certain to be questioned about deteriorating U.S.-Cuban relations.

Rescuers Rush To 18 Trapped Miners

By CARLO J. SALZANO
United Press International

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI)—A rescue team struggled desperately today to reach 18 miners trapped deep underground since Tuesday morning. West Virginia Mines Director Crawford L. Wilson said at 9:30 a.m. that an eight-man rescue team equipped with oxygen masks may reach the trapped men "in a few hours." The team moved past the area where fire had blocked the tunnel until early today. Wilson said the men could have survived if they built a barrier of coal to protect themselves from gas and fire caused by a slate fall at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday. The rescue team entered the mine along with 40 other men and began groping through the gas and smoke-filled tunnel. The others, carrying tools and timber, began shoring up the roof and walls of the tunnel to prevent further cave-ins and attempted to extinguish the blaze. Wilson said the rescue team moved past the fire by "clearing a passageway around it." The miners were entombed 485 feet below the surface—about two miles from the pithead—in the Holden No. 22 mine. Officials first expressed optimism that the trapped men would be reached alive, then said deadly carbon monoxide gas "may have filtered through to the spot where the miners were located." Two survivors who clawed their way around the maze of flame and fallen timber for 2,500 feet to reach safety also feared for the lives of the trapped men. Willis Carter, 44, Verdunville, W. Va., who had designed the mine's ventilating system led one other man out of the pit and pleaded with the others to follow him. "I kept talking to the men to get them to come with me but they all looked like they were in shock." Carter gave the remainder of his party little hope to survive unless they joined six others 1,200 feet farther back and built a wall of coal to prevent the fire-caused (See RESCUERS, Page 3)

Plane Strifes Indonesian Chief's Home

TOKYO (UPI)—Radio Indonesia reported tonight that an Indonesian air force MIGIT strafe President Sukarno's Merdeka palace in Jakarta today. A broadcast monitored here said the attack occurred at 12:00 p.m., while Sukarno was presiding at a meeting of the Supreme Advisory Council in a building adjoining the palace. Neither Sukarno nor any of the five children who live with him in the palace was injured, the broadcast said. It made no mention of injury to any other palace resident. The broadcast indicated the attack was made by a pilot who had defected. It did not give his name but said he was a flight lieutenant "who flew off" from Kema joran at 12:13 p.m." and had not returned three hours later. "It should be added here that the lieutenant was arrested by the authorities concerned some time ago because he was involved in hoisting arms without permission," the broadcast said. It added that "security measures have been taken," but did not elaborate.

Welfare Index Meets Tuesday

A committee was named yesterday at a meeting of the Welfare Index to consider the possibility of hiring a part-time employee as coordinator of welfare work in Pampa. R. L. Schulz was appointed by John Gikas, president, to work with him in studying the possibility of the part-time worker. Gikas announced that Cabot Company has offered warehouse space for use of the Welfare Index to store furniture and clothing.

Aid Reaches Survivors Of Air Crash

GRANADA, Spain (UPI)—Spanish rescue teams were reported today to have reached 22 U.S. Navy men who survived the crash of a Navy transport plane in the rugged Sierra Nevada Mountains. Two U.S. helicopters were dispatched to help bring out the men who were huddled in fog, rain and snow at the crash site about 40 miles east of Granada. Two other survivors reported the crash after a six-hour trek to the village of Gaudix. A Navy spokesman said all but 4 of the 18 passengers and 6 crewmen were reported injured but no one was killed. The plane was a four-engine P-5D, Navy version of a DC4. It was bound from Naples, Italy, to the U.S. naval base at Rota, of Spain's Mediterranean coast. Names of those aboard the plane were not available immediately.

Republican Numerical Grip Broken

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI)

Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon both scored triumphs in New Hampshire's first in the nation presidential primary. Returns showed Kennedy shattered the GOP's 2 to 1 grip on state voting and Nixon beat President Eisenhower's 1956 vote. Kennedy, Democratic senator from neighboring Massachusetts, set a record for Democrats in the primary as he threw off the old "2 to 1" ratio of Democrats behind Republicans in state voting. Nixon, with 266 precincts of 300 reporting, polled 57,129 votes to better President Eisenhower's 1956 figure of 56,164. Kennedy, first Roman Catholic presidential candidate since Al Smith in 1928, ran substantially ahead of the usual two to one ratio. On the basis of the returns reported, he won eight votes for every 10 given Nixon. Kennedy held the record 31,701 votes received by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) four years ago. Kennedy's supporters had said that was his goal—to surpass Kefauver's vote. A total of 252 of the state's 300 precincts gave Kennedy 38,120 votes and Chicago businessman Paul C. Fisher 5,692. Sen. Stuart Symington—D-Mo.—received 330 (See NIXON, Page 2)

Cuba Blunt In Note Rejection

HAVANA (UPI)—Cuba's revolutionary regime has bluntly rejected the U.S. denial of guilt in last week's munition-ship explosion here, charging that Secretary of State Christian Herter's remarks on the subject were "insulting." Foreign Minister Raul Roa called in U.S. Charge D'Affaires Daniel Braddock late Tuesday to inform him that the revolutionary government demands "absolute respect" for its representatives abroad. Roa sharply criticized Herter's "offensive utterances" in his talk with Cuban Charge D'Affaires Enrique Patterson Monday, saying that Herter's "aggressive tone" was "degradatory to our (Cuban) national dignity." Herter told Patterson angrily that Premier Fidel Castro's implied charge that the United States was involved in the explosion of the French freighter La Coubre, which killed at least 60 persons here Friday, was "baseless, erroneous and misleading."

General Warming Trend In Texas After Severe Winter

By United Press International
Springlike temperatures were scheduled for Texas today, but with them came fog and low clouds that left trace rainfall amounts in many areas and which may have played a part in an Air Force plane crash that injured seven men. The plane, a four-engine KC135 jet tanker, crashed short of a runway at Carswell Air Force Base Tuesday night—in what weathermen described as Fort Worth's heaviest fog this year. None of the men was seriously injured, though two suffered broken ankles and four were burned. Thick fog lay across Texas from the Abilene area eastward to the Arkansas-Louisiana state line early today. Temperatures climbed into the summery 80's in the Panhandle and West Texas Tuesday and Presidio was the warmest spot in the nation with 88 degrees. The weather bureau at Fort Worth predicted similar readings for Thursday, though a slight cooling trend was expected in most of Texas tonight.

Foreign Actors Perturbed By Screen Actors' Strike

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Strongest opposition to the actors' strike against the major studios comes from foreign performers who have never had it so good.

European movies are, for the most part, produced by independent companies, many of them fly-by-night outfits with insufficient financing.

Not infrequently pictures are never completed, or shut down until additional money can be scraped up. Often the actors are not paid until after a film has been released. In some cases they are not paid at all. Sometimes producer, film and finances disappear entirely.

Thus, the giant Hollywood studios—MGM, Warner, Brothers, 20th Century-Fox, Columbia and Paramount—represent a haven for immigrant actors who come to tinsel town.

They are afraid the Screen Actors Guild strike will close the major studios and that celluloid anarchy will prevail as it does in Europe.

Attending a meeting of guild members protesting the strike this week were Germany's Maria Schell, Italy's Cesar Danova and Luciano Paluzzi, and Israel's Haya Harariet and Ziva Rodann. All were distressed.

"It is wrong that we actors are quitting work right in the middle of our pictures with the studios," Maria said in a strong German accent. "We accepted our roles in good faith, and we should keep our word."

"We are not being fair to the other people who make movies either. They do not earn as much money as we do, and they should not be made to pay for our demands."

Danova, who came to Hollywood to play the title role in "Ben-Hur," but who was replaced by Charlton Heston, sounded a warning.

"Actors in this country have no idea how badly things can go when there are no major studios," he said. "In Italy you cannot count on the people making pictures or financing them. Everything is a gamble."

"When there is no stabilized industry the money begins to go into the pockets of phonies, not into the picture."

Foreign News

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

"The United States is coming to occupy a seat in the American family and is no more the old, rich and distant uncle."

It was Chilean Foreign Minister German Vargara Donoso's summation of President Eisenhower's four-nation South American tour which turned into a tremendous personal triumph for the President and provided heartening reassurance that not all of Latin America regards the United States as a grasping nation of scoundrels.

The impact of the tour will extend all the way to next May's summit meeting in Paris.

For in promoting his campaign for hemispheric solidarity, Eisenhower also promised his Latin American hosts that their views would be carried with him when he and other Western leaders meet with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

This emergence as hemispheric spokesman provided another of the interesting parallels to develop from the barnstorming tours undertaken simultaneously, but on opposite sides of the world, by the two leaders of the Western and Communist blocs.

Khrushchev also sought to make himself a spokesman, and in this he had some measure of success.

From India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru during a "little summit" meeting in Calcutta, Khrushchev drew praise as a worker for world peace.

"Khrushchev worked a lot for his country and the world during the last few years," Nehru said. "But the biggest thing is that he is flying the flag of peace."

In Indonesia, President Sukarno also hailed Khrushchev as a man of peace and even delegated him as a spokesman for unrepresented nations at the summit conference.

But in each case Khrushchev had to share the praise for his efforts toward world peace with Eisenhower, and so, the second half of his mission — to undermine the influence of Eisenhower's Asia tour—failed.

In South America, the President had gone a long way toward assuring Latin Americans that the United States neither supports dictators nor is forgetful in the midst of world responsibilities of obligations closer to home.

But there also was agreement that the trip in partially erasing some old problems also had created new ones and that initial enthusiastic reaction could rebound unfavorably unless follow-up steps were taken.

This is true because each of the nations Eisenhower visited has its special problems.

UPI's State Department Reporter Stewart Hensley accompanied the Eisenhower tour and noted some of them.

A major sore spot in Chile is the U.S. tax on copper imports, Chile's major export. Many Chileans now believe this tax will be removed.

In Argentina, President Arturo Frondizi is political hot water because of his rigorous austerity program. The Eisenhower visit could either help or hurt him, with attendant effects on U.S.-Argentine relations.

Brazil, Argentina and Chile all need money. Uruguay does not ask for aid but wants loans for its own development program.

Disaster Plans Talked At RC Meet

Dr. T. D. Harvey explained disaster plans for Pampa and Leas at the Red Cross Board meeting this morning in Johnson's Cafe.

Dr. Harvey showed the plan of a medical association to be used in case of natural disaster, tornado, fire, bombing or explosion. Major injuries are to be taken to Highland General or Worley hospitals. The Medical-Surgical Clinic and the Pampa Clinic are to be used for treatment of minor injuries.

V. E. Wagner, Red Cross disaster chairman for Gray County, explained the correct procedure for Red Cross assistants to follow in case of disaster. "Everyone should check their supplies to see if they have everything necessary for their work," warned Wagner. He cited an example of a person who went to a disaster area with all the lighting equipment he would need — except bulbs.

Mrs. Libby Shotwell, executive secretary, reminded the board that 14 cents of every dollar given to Red Cross goes to disaster relief. "Red Cross is responsible for family needs such as food, clothing, shelter, medical care, communication, and rehabilitation in the event of a disaster," stated Mrs. Shotwell.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When I got married eleven years ago, my husband thought I was only three years older than him. I am actually five years older than him.

to listen to such a suggestion. In some way we can get a psychiatrist to come to us and treat this person without letting him know that he is being treated for a sick mind?

DEAR ABBY: Before I explain my problem I want you to know that I am not a child. I am 24 and have always been considered very self-headed.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TRYING TO IMPROVE": In the Talmud there is this little morning prayer: "Lord, make me cleave to the good impulses that surround me and keep me from bad companions and evil influences."

DEAR ABBY: I have a close relative who is very dear to me. I see this person definitely needs a psychiatrist, but refuses to go.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Short Line

By RED GRIGGS

Despite the return of warm weather, the track and baseball teams haven't yet resumed full-scale workouts. They have, however, managed to get outside, for a change, for limited practice.

With the track team, the problem now is not the temperature, but the moisture. Melting snow has left the track muddy, and Coach Dwain Lyon says that it will be impossible to run on the PHS practice track for at least a week.

Lyon was scheduled to take his tracksters to Amarillo today for a practice meet. "It's about the only place around here where we can run," he explained. "They've had good weather there for several days."

Baseball Coach Deck Woldt is hoping to begin the baseball season on schedule Friday, despite the muddy condition of the diamond. "We'll need perfect weather until then, though," Woldt admitted.

Friday's game here with Dumas will not be a regular game, but a practice contest. "We'll go as many innings as we possibly can," Woldt said. "We may start early, since school will be out for a teachers' meeting."

Tuesday, the baseball team worked out on the front lawn of the high school, since the regular diamond was too wet. They had only a limited workout, concentrating on catching flies and throwing.

The baseball team has now been cut to 26, the number of boys who are expected to remain throughout the season. The roster is as follows:

NAIA Basketball Tournament Into Second Round Tonight

United Press International

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Defending champion Tennessee A&I and high-scoring West Virginia Wesleyan clash tonight in the feature contest of the 22nd annual NAIA basketball tournament.

Each team was impressive in Tuesday's first-round action. West Virginia Wesleyan routing Valley City (N.D.) 109-84 and Tennessee A&I trimming Midwestern (Tex.) 102-83.

Tennessee A&I, the top-seeded team in the week-long tournament presented by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, has won the title here the past three years. The Tigers displayed the same type of ball-handling and fine shooting in Tuesday's game which carried them to an unprecedented three consecutive championships.

Four Tennessee A&I players scored 20 points or better against the Texans, with guard Porter Merivether's 25 points leading the attack.

West Virginia Wesleyan was paced by James McDonald and Bill Smith. McDonald was high scorer with 24 points, while Smith hit 11 of 11 from the floor and one of one from the free throw line for 23 points.

The two century-plus scoring clubs are scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. c.s.t.

All first-round action concluded Tuesday, with third-seeded Southern Illinois, seventh-ranked Stetson (Fla.), ninth-seeded Pittsburg (Kan.) State, and 10th-seeded Christian Brothers (Tenn.) among the early favorites.

Games tonight, in addition to the West Virginia Wesleyan-Tennessee A&I contest, match Findlay (Ohio) with Wofford (S.C.) at 8:30 p.m.; and Parsons (Iowa) with William Jewell (Mo.) at 10 p.m. Day games pitted Hamilton (Minn.) against Arkansas A&M; Whittier (Calif.) against Westminster (Pa.); Oklahoma Baptist against New Mexico Highlands; Grambling (La.) against Virginia State; and Southwest Texas State against Savannah State (Ga.).

Hamilton was hard-pressed to get past its first-round opponent, Florence State (Ala.) 88-83 Tuesday. Wofford (S.C.) ended two overtime periods to kayo Oakland City (Ind.) 86-85. A slow-down offense baffled Western Washington and Arkansas A&M posted a 64-53 win. Maryland State bowed to fifth-ranked Westminster (Pa.) 64-53.

Parsons (Iowa) upset 10th-ranked Christian Brothers (Tenn.) 67-65. Ninth-seeded Pittsburg (Kan.) State was no match for Findlay (Ohio) and bowed 76-61.

ISN'T HE EVER GOING TO STOP?

Fighting Irish Still Around; Ask Moyer!

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — What with St. Patrick's Day just around the corner, if you're wondering what happened to the fighting Irish a brother of a boy named Denny Moyer can tell you in one word.

"Nothing."

Denny is well qualified to speak on the subject. He's Irish. He's a fighter who has lost only one of 25 bouts. And as a welterweight championship contender he is merely the junior member of the "fighting Moyers."

The clan includes his two uncles, Tom and Larry, both former boxers of note; his father, Harry, who won five Pacific Northwest amateur titles, and his brother, Phil, currently a middleweight contender.

Denny takes the spotlight away from the rest of the family this Friday night when he goes against flashy Emilio Griffith, the Virgin Islands champion, in the televised main event from Madison Square Garden. It's a pick'em affair but due to the proximity of the great green day the sentimentalists award the 20-year-old Dennis the edge.

Ranked number five in the welterweight division, Denny is quite naturally shooting to get back for another crack at the title. He had one, last July, and dropped the decision to champion Don Jordan.

"I was a year away," he says bashfully. "But time is on my side."

It is, indeed, because had he beaten Jordan last year he would have been the youngest champion the ring has had in 60 years. The last was another Irishman, the ill-fated terrible Terry McGovern, who became the only 19-year-old world champion when he won the bantamweight title in 1895.

Ohio Upsets ND In NCAA Tourney

United Press International

Notre Dame is the first major casualty of the NCAA major-college basketball tournament, but last year's finalists California and West Virginia today led all other favorites into second round berths.

Ohio University, after trailing by 11 points at halftime, stunned Notre Dame with a second-half surge and beat the Irish, 74-66, at Lexington, Ky., in one of six first-round games played Tuesday night.

Also scoring first-round wins were New York U., Duke, and Western Kentucky. All qualified for second-round berths in four regional tournaments opening Friday night.

The last two second-round berths will be filled tonight when New Mexico State and Oregon clash in a first-round at Corvallis, Ore., and Kansas and Kansas State play off for the Big Eight championship at Manhattan, Kans.

Here's how the field now lines up for the four regional tourneys:

At Charlotte, N.C. — Duke (15-10) vs. St. Joseph's (19-5); West Virginia (25-4) vs. NYU (20-3).

At Louisville, Ky. — Ohio Univ. (17-6) vs. Georgia Tech (21-5); Western Kentucky (20-6) vs. Ohio State (21-3).

At Manhattan, Kans. — Texas (18-6) vs. Kansas or Kansas State; De Paul (16-6) vs. Cincinnati (25-1).

At Seattle, Wash. — California (25-1) vs. Santa Clara (21-9); Utah (24-3) vs. New Mexico State or Oregon.

Notre Dame walked off the court at halftime with a 32-21 lead over Ohio University, but the Irish were blitzed in the opening minutes of the second half as Ohio ran off to a 44-34 lead.

In the other first-rounders, California crushed Idaho State, 71-44, at San Francisco; West Virginia downed Navy, 94-86, NYU defeated Connecticut, 78-59, and Duke trounced Princeton, 84-40, at New York; and Western Kentucky missed the tourney scoring record by only one point in blasting Miami (Fla.), 107-84, at Lexington, Ky.

Clarence Mabry, balding and genial tennis coach at Trinity University here, is faced with a dilemma.

How do you go about telling your star doubles team — a combo that won 14 of 16 matches last season — that "it's no longer" the No. 1 unit on the squad? It makes it doubly difficult when the two boys are seniors and rank No. 5 nationally in NCAA ratings.

But, that is precisely what Mabry has had to do with his doubles team of John Newman and Jimmy Moses. What else can you do when you've picked up another doubles tandem composed of Chuck McKinley and Rod Susman?

Trinity, a small Presbyterian-affiliated school of some 1,400 students, is the budding new tennis power of the Southwest. And, the development traces back to the day five years ago when Mabry took over.

A couple of unsteady years followed as Mabry built up his recruiting program, based mostly on San Antonio youngsters at the outset. Then, anchored by sophomores Newman and Moses, Trinity's fortunes soared.

In 1957, the team won 16, lost two and tied one match. Two years ago, Trinity fashioned a 15-1-1 record and followed up with a 15-1-2 last year. So Mabry has at a 46-4-4 slate to show for his last three years.

Many of these victories came over Southwest Conference teams, six or seven of which Mabry managed to work into his schedule each season.

Trinity started the 1960 season with a bang, blanking Southwest Conference foes Texas and Texas A&M on consecutive days last weekend.

Despite his success, Mabry is forced to smile when he looks over his 1960 squad.

In McKinley, the chunky little freshman from St. Louis, Trinity has perhaps the hottest piece of college talent in the country. Recently, he has knocked off such talented stars as Vic Seixas, Barry MacKay and Ron Holmgren of the United States and Ulf Schmidt of Sweden.

Susman, the only lad on the team saddled with the temperamental attributed to amateur tennis stars, is ranked 37th nationally compared to McKinley's 13th-place rating.

Susman, like McKinley, hails from St. Louis. He transferred to Trinity in his freshman year after the University of Houston had to cut down on its athletic scholarship program for minor sports.

Trinity will get an opportunity to find out how good its tennis squad really is March 14-15 when it plays UCLA and Southern Cal-

Fitts Named To All-Border Team

EL PASO (UPI) — Sharpshooting George Knighton, a New Mexico State sophomore, and Arizona State University's Ernie McCray, the league's leading scorer, head the all-Border Conference basketball team for 1959-60.

Dr. Emil Larson, Border Conference commissioner, today reported that Knighton and McCray were unanimously selected for the honorary club in a poll of Border Conference coaches.

Other first team selections were Mill Fitts, West Texas State, Vince Knight, New Mexico State, and Paul Howard of Arizona State University. Howard, who stands only 5-10, is the smallest man on the team.

Larson said the second team is made up of Al Nealey, Arizona State; Joe Arden, Hardin-Simmons; Al Tolon, Texas Western; Jon Conner, Arizona University, and Keith Blair of West Texas State. Don Burgess of Texas Western, and Mill Martin of Hardin-Simmons were also named to the second team roster.

"The coaches' first team was identical to the UPI All-America picked in a poll of 338 newspaper writers and radio-TV broadcasters."

In the contention for places on the first team, Stith beat out Tony Jackson of St. John's (N.Y.) by a margin of 79 points. Jackson headed the coaches' second team, which also was made up of two Bradley players, Bobby Johnson and Chester Walker.

Roger Kaiser of Georgia and Terry Duschinger of Purdue completed the second team.

A third team was comprised: Ron Johnson of Minnesota, Larese of North Carolina, McGill of Utah, Jim Darrow, Bowling Green and Tom Meschery of St. Mary's (Calif.).

Crazy Goings-On In Spring Training

By FRED DOWN

United Press International

Yogi Berra is on third base, Sammy Esposito is hitting .750 and Cookie Lavagetto is talking like the Washington Senators are pennant contenders.

It's spring, all right, and if you still don't think the whispering palms tell managers strange things, then how about Paul Richards saying big league pitchers should take a tip from "Iron Mike," the Baltimore Orioles' mechanical pitching monster?

The little birds have told Casey Stengel that one of his problems with the New York Yankees this year is to get Berra and Elston Howard into the lineup at the same time — despite the fact there is room on the field for only one catcher. So Casey announced that he's going to experiment with the ever-agreeable Yogi and see what the 35-year-old slugger can do at third.

Esposito, a .187 hitter in 69 games for the White Sox last season, went 3-for-4 for the second straight intra-squad game Tuesday and has made three extra base hits in two days compared to two all last season. He had a double and two singles Tuesday to lead a brisk assault against 18-game winner Bob Shaw.

Lavagetto was emphatic about the Senators' improvement this year but insisted on keeping the bad news from the fellows he thinks will finish below Washington this year.

"I'm not saying who we'll beat out, but it'll be somebody," he said.

The Senators have finished eighth the last three years but Lavagetto is encouraged by a bumper crop of Washington rookies who he feels can win behind power generated by Harmon Killebrew, Roy Seiver, Jim Lemon, etc.

"Richards' sermon to his pitchers came after the Orioles had managed just 43 hits and 10 earned runs in 54 innings of batting against the Baltimore pitching machine. The machine throws nothing but straight fast balls — but almost all of them go over the plate.

"I guess this upsets a lot of

Decline In Stock Market Follows Pattern Of '57

FINANCIAL REVIEW
By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—This stock market so far this year has followed a pattern set in the period July 12 to Oct. 22, 1957.

In those 71 days, the industrial average fell 100.54 points as the market discounted the recession of 1957-58.

This year in 42 sessions since the industrial average hit its highest level for all time on Jan. 3, there has been a decline to the low on Friday (intra-day figures used) of 86.78 points or 12.6 percent. Ralls fell by 13.3 percent in the same period.

In relative points lost the decline of 1960 is smaller than the one in 1957, but percentage-wise it is larger.

Only a few of the experts classed the 1957 break as a bear market. Those who did said it was the shortest bear market in history.

After Oct. 22, 1957, the market set out on a rise as business continued to decline. That rise was discounting a business recovery that began after the production index hit its recession low in April of 1958 at 132 percent of the 1947-49 average.

Wall Street isn't convinced the current market is discounting a business setback or merely suffering from over-optimistic predictions made late in 1959 on the 1960 outlook.

Bear markets have come and gone over the years. We've had 13 of them since 1899, according to Ralph A. Rotnem, analyst for Harris, Upham and Co.

Rotnem has plotted these bear markets and noted in each how much of a decline and the period of the decline occurred before a bear market signal was given by the averages.

This signal was said to have been given last week when the ralls fell to a 16-month low and confirmed the decline in industri-

There was a decline of more than 12 percent in 42 sessions before the signal was given. In other bear markets, the signal has lagged by as much as nine months and the loss before it was given has reached 21 percent.

That long interval came in the bear market of 1916-17 and it lasted only three and a half months longer with prices falling another 28 1/2 percent.

The longest bear market we have had was the one that ran from 1929 to 1932. In that one it took one and one-half months for the bear signal to be given during which time prices eroded 19 percent. After the signal the bear movement ran for another 32 1/2 months with prices falling 86 1/2 percent.

By all the figures available the bull market that was said to have ended last week was the longest in history, having started in 1949. The longest previous one was the bull movement of 1924-29, the one so many remember for the general public wallowing and the subsequent regulations that have been with us ever since.

One thing sure—even if we can't measure exactly when they come—bear-markets always follow bull markets, and thus uphold the old adage of the bears—"what goes up, must come down."

Nixon Alters Tactics On Campaign Eve

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon's disavowal of tactics of his New Hampshire campaign chief indicated today he wants the GOP to turn away from the "soft on Communism" attacks he has used himself against Democrats in past campaigns.

Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire, state chairman of the Nixon campaign, leveled such a charge at Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) on the eve of Tuesday's presidential primary.

Kennedy replied by accusing Powell of a "smear." He said in effect that the governor did not know what he was talking about. He expressed confidence that Nixon would repudiate Powell.

Although his method was about as gentle as possible, Nixon did disavow Powell's tactics.

He might have ignored the incident, but instead he authorized his press secretary to say that both Nixon and Kennedy were "in complete agreement in their unalterable opposition to Communism."

Nixon made much use of the "soft on Communism" charges against Democrats in his 1946 and 1950 California campaign, first as a candidate for the House, and then for the Senate.

He did the same as the Republican vice presidential nominee in 1952 and as the most active national campaigner for GOP congressional candidates in 1954.

In more recent campaigns, however, he has made little use of the issue.

Powell's reaction indicated that all Republicans may not share Nixon's apparent disinterest in the issue now.

After Kennedy suggested he resign from the campaign post because of Nixon's "repudiation," Powell dispatched a telegram—the vice president saying he reiterated the charge.

Powell told Nixon "The senator you defend now has stood silent on the Communist issue... and if you and the Republican Party expect to win, you must be on the attack."

Ike Tour Proves To Latin Americans We're Partners

EDITOR'S NOTE — In the following dispatch, the South American news editor for United Press International analyzes the results of President Eisenhower's recent hemisphere tour.

By WILLIAM L. F. HORSEY
United Press International

Buenos Aires (UPI)—President Eisenhower's whirlwind tour of four South American countries did much to remove from Latin minds the suspicion that the United States is too deeply preoccupied with Europe and Asia to bother with them.

Eisenhower is the first U. S. president who has taken time out for talks with the chief executives of Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay on their home grounds. Official circles said the four South American presidents were "unusually frank" with their distinguished guest.

This fruitful on-the-ground exchange of views was strengthened by Secretary of State Christian Herter's talks with foreign ministers Horacio Lafer of Brazil, Diogenes Taboada of Argentina, German Vergara of Chile and Homero Martinez of Uruguay.

The President's brother Milton and other members of the six-man National Advisory Council on Inter-American Affairs also talked with leaders of the countries covered by the Eisenhower tour.

Each of the countries on Eisenhower's itinerary got something from his visit.

Eisenhower went out of his way to point out America's currently adverse balance of trade, but promised in principle to keep U. S. aid flowing to Latin America.

The President also challenged the Latin idea that the United States wants weak economies south of the Rio Grande in order to enrich itself.

He pointed to the resources available to Latin American countries through the World Bank, the U. S. Export-Import Bank and the new Inter-American Bank — each of which the United States is the major contributor.

On the political front, the President took pains to scotch the story current in Latin America that the United States prefers to do business with dictators.

"The idea is ridiculous," he said. "No nation in the world loves liberty more than the United States."

"We repudiate dictatorships in any form. Our action in the United Nations and the Organization of American States in two world wars and Korea stands like a lighthouse for all those who love freedom."

Bit Parts: Warner Brothers has secured screen rights to "Semi-Detached," which is scheduled to open on Broadway later this month. James Arness, cowboy hero of TV's "Gunsmoke," has purchased a 1,500-acre ranch in the San Fernando Valley, and was recently visited there by his estranged wife, Virginia and their three children. Lilli Palmer has been set for a starring role in "Night Without End," with William Holden and Debbie Reynolds which is scheduled to roll in Europe next year.

Ohio Vs. The U.S.

Only a short while ago a fellow named Stangland got himself into some serious difficulties back in Indiana because he planted 16 acres of wheat more than the government said he could.

But some sort of a record has now been established in Ohio. It turns out that the whole State of Ohio is in trouble with the Agriculture Department and for the same reason.

It seems that eight state institutions planted more wheat than the federal agency permitted. Seven of these institutions were State mental hospitals and the eighth was a prison.

This excess of wheat in Ohio occurred back in 1950, but the affair was kept under wraps for 10 years while the legal eagles in Ohio and in Washington, D.C. battled out the fine points.

But there are loads of political overtones to this one. The Triple A was organized by Roosevelt and Wallace back in the early days of the Democratic New Deal.

The state's legal department is threatening to fight the battle right up to the Supreme Court. It is willing to settle out of court.

Curiously, the state is bringing precisely the same stance in the matter that any number of wheat farmers have taken when they got themselves into private difficulties for the same offense.

These are the same points which any number of wheat rebels have taken into court only to lose out. There will be a very interesting development in Ohio, whatever happens.

Best Of Care

One of the finest arguments we have seen in a long time relative to mass medication has come to our attention. The author is a prominent medical man whose name has been withheld.

The argument takes the form of a communication between the doctor and a patient of his. The name of the patient is unknown. The doctor is most certainly in favor of doing whatever he can to immunize a patient who might be likely to contract the disease.

When you or any of my other patients come into my office and ask my advice about a polio shot, my answer is likely to come rather quickly and probably will be "Yes, I think it is a protection you should have."

The letter is lengthy and we cannot reproduce it here in its entirety. But we are charmed to see this physician coming forward with the answers to my questions, even my judgement of your skin color and general body build, all combine with the training I have had to develop a special professional opinion for you as an individual patient.

When one considers the kind of care we get individually from skilled members of the medical profession, as opposed to the slipshod treatment in line for us under any program of forced or massive medication, the odds in favor of mass medication, the odds in favor of the American individualistic approach loom very large.

Better Jobs

by R. C. HOILES

"Are Economics And Morality In Conflict?"

"The American Economic Foundation" issues a tract on moral and economic subjects. The latest one I have received is under the heading "Are Economics And Morality In Conflict?"

"Those who have thoughtfully read the Ten Pillars of Economic Wisdom, and the twelve Natural Laws of Man's Economic Life" must have arrived at the conclusion that only by conforming to Nature's law of distribution can the highest possible productivity of a nation and, therefore, the highest possible aggregate wealth of its people be attained.

"They must also have resolved that whatever wealth is thus produced and attained will benefit all according to each one's contribution to society. While poverty will exist even amidst the greatest accumulations of material wealth, this is because some individuals are mentally and physically unable to adjust themselves to any position where they can work to advantage in the social organism in which they find themselves.

"It is here that the victims of slanted textbooks and welfare state propaganda give forth and must yield to the moral law, as though there were a conflict between the two.

"Their argument runs, in effect: If, in taking wealth from one who has earned it but does not absolutely need it, and giving it to one who has not earned it but does need it, we violate Nature's law of distribution and to that extent diminish the speed of production, it is nevertheless our moral duty to do so.

"Here it becomes important to examine that document to find any justification for taking what belongs to one and giving it to another. It will be noted that the Decalogue is very specific in demanding respect for private property. No rapid distinction is there found between "property rights" and "human rights".

"But today the social doctors and "righteous" reformers, even among the clergy, consider these commandments to be antiquated and believe that they should yield to an interpretation sufficiently liberal to nullify them. On that theory they justify confiscation of property by taxation.

"To illustrate the inseparability of economics and morality, take the case of the Joneses. They once had an income of $25,000 a year. It was earned by the enrichment of the public by that much or more. The tax gatherer reduced this by $10,000. This meant that they paid out that much less each year to others for services. They discharged one maid, dispensed with the chauffeur, but the gardener on half-time services and reduced their contributions to churches and needy relatives.

"Several families were helped by the $10,000 spent by the family before the new tax was levied. After the government took the money, some $9,000 of it went to needy families. The $1,000 went to excess of contribution. But what happened to the maid, the chauffeur, the gardener and the needy relatives, not to mention the churches, the art museum and the symphony orchestra? Here we have several good, industrious, decent people deprived of their daily bread.

"Further, should Kennedy lose the Sixth District (in central Wisconsin) and still have an imposing majority of 55 percent to Humphrey's 43 percent of the total popular vote, Kennedy could wind up with an actual minority of the delegates — 12 1/2 to 17 1/2 for Humphrey.

"The analysis also makes clear that Kennedy is counting heavily on big majorities in the two Milwaukee districts to pile up a decisive total vote.

"Whether he can carry the key Milwaukee districts by such margins is conjectural. Following is a district-by-district estimate of the voting as Kennedy's pollsters figure it:

laborers in some field or other. What will happen to the latter when they lose their income, you cannot know because you cannot trace the whole chain of interrupted transactions to its end. What you do know is that those who are thus robbed of their incomes are probably more efficient, reliable and industrious than those whom you find in want. Your charity will thus serve to help the less worthy at the expense of the more worthy.

of the American individualistic approach loom very large. We believe this physician has clearly and sharply defined what continues to be a lively issue in this nation. Sure, we all want the best of medical care. Let's keep in mind that the "best" only comes individually and never in wholesale societal lots.

Wonder Why?

The Allen-Scott Report

ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

KENNEDY WARNED WISCONSIN PRIMARY MAJORITY MAY WIN HIM LESS THAN HALF OF DELEGATES

WASHINGTON — Senator John Kennedy faces the strong possibility of winding up in the disappointing role of being both a winner and a loser in Wisconsin's crucial April 5 presidential primary.

In a detailed staff study, Kennedy is warned that while the outlook favors his winning a popular majority, he may still come out on the short end in actual delegates.

Based on a series of private polls by a well-known specialist, the analysis foresees Kennedy's total Wisconsin vote as definitely being much higher than Senator Hubert Humphrey's — perhaps as much as 57 to 43 percent. Yet despite these bright prospects, the study is gloomy about Kennedy garnering a majority of the State's 31 delegates.

He may get no more than half of them, and conceivably even less. An unexpected change in the delegate distribution formula, made after Kennedy threw his hat into the Wisconsin ring, is the reason for this paradox.

The staff study sums up this intriguing backstage situation as follows: "If the present trend continues, the polls indicate the vote will be divided 57 percent for Kennedy, 43 percent for Humphrey. This would be a sweep equal to Senator Proxmire's landslide victory in 1958. The indications are there will be a turn-out in the April 5 primary of 565,000 voters. That would give Kennedy 323,000 to 242,000 for Humphrey.

"Under the delegate distribution formula which had been traditionally followed in Wisconsin (two delegates for each of the 10 districts, and ten at large), Kennedy's victory would win him 18 delegates and Humphrey 12. (The other delegate vote is split between the National Committeewoman and the National Committeeman.)

"But under the new delegate distribution formula, a Kennedy landslide would not even give him a majority of the delegates. For example: Our polls indicate that Humphrey will win six districts and 15 delegates, and Kennedy will win four districts and 10 delegates, plus five others at large, for a total of 15 to 25 delegates.

"Further, should Kennedy lose the Sixth District (in central Wisconsin) and still have an imposing majority of 55 percent to Humphrey's 43 percent of the total popular vote, Kennedy could wind up with an actual minority of the delegates — 12 1/2 to 17 1/2 for Humphrey.

"The analysis also makes clear that Kennedy is counting heavily on big majorities in the two Milwaukee districts to pile up a decisive total vote. Whether he can carry the key Milwaukee districts by such margins is conjectural. Following is a district-by-district estimate of the voting as Kennedy's pollsters figure it:

laborers in some field or other. What will happen to the latter when they lose their income, you cannot know because you cannot trace the whole chain of interrupted transactions to its end. What you do know is that those who are thus robbed of their incomes are probably more efficient, reliable and industrious than those whom you find in want. Your charity will thus serve to help the less worthy at the expense of the more worthy. In other words, you have reversed Nature's method of natural selection. The result is, as we have seen, economic and moral loss. It seems certain, therefore, that Nature is more merciful and wiser than the Reformers. "Morality" may well be defined as conformity with the laws of Nature and immorality as disregard of those laws.

Looking Sideways

by WHITNEY BOLTON

N.W. YORK — He stands six feet four inches tall and his clothes hang on him. They are good clothes, tailored with care, but they look as though a mechanical baseball pitching machine had thrown them at him and they had stuck. He has a smashed-down mustache, more fringed on the right side than on the left, and his lean fingers are constantly in motion.

He makes it plain, arched up there on the top floor of a vast Manhattan hotel, with a window as big as a ballpark overlooking everything that is good to the eye in Manhattan, that he respects and admires Big Business but has no apologies to make for it. It is often enough his castigations for it. He even makes speeches about it here and there and tells his executive branches where they are erring and how they are going wrong. He has a right: he has written three novels about Big Business. "Executive Suite," "Cash McCall" and the current "The Lincoln Lords". Each has a different point of view, but it comes to a summation. He belongs to that school of professional writing that has a quick recognition quotient: they know straight off whether a writing man is writing or just naveling the air. He knows it about others and about himself.

"I work hard," says Cameron Hawley. "I don't have time for posturing or taking stances. I don't look on 20 to 30 revisions, start to finish, as a burden."

Sometimes, if you can, write a novel, a whole one—and then revise it, a part of it, trim it, improve it — 20 to 30 times. This is known in careful areas as perfectionism. Hawley would probably gag at the pretty word and say that, simply, he wants it right when it is finished.

A point was made that his books do not lack adult attention to sex, but never dwell on it, cozen it or dirty it up. "Well, now, as to that," he says, "I'm writing an awesome length of humanity from a too small sofa, 'grown people indulge themselves in this and we all know it and I am not Elsie Dinmore. But I have a kind of respect and, I hope, a cleanliness about it. In 'The Lincoln Lords,' since it was a story—a story—about a business executive in terms of his married life and its contribution to what he is, sex had to come in. I wrote 47 pages about it the first time. Not flagrantly or leeringly. Just 47 pages because what I wanted to say about the man and his wife took in that much area. Well, next time around, it dropped to 32 pages and said just as much and in the end, as printed, it comes to exactly two sentences—and says in effect what 47 pages said. I don't believe we need to dwell on the subject in adult books although I seem to be engulfed in a minority opinion. I just haven't got to a point where I think I'll sell a whole lot of books by deliberately studding them with sex in reiterated detail, page after nauseating page. Some do. That's their department."

You can talk to a man and know when he is a story-teller. Not that lacy refinement known as a "writer" or an artist or a sensitive. Just a story-teller. Even the case-dwellers had story-tellers there in the reek of the fire and the cool of the evening. Story-tellers last longer than self-conscious writers.

"I went to South Dakota State," he says, "and early had to earn a buck. I quit after two years and did newspapering in Chicago. Then I went with Armstrong Cork in advertising and exploitation and I have to say I sailed through in the depression. Then I started selling stories in earnest, but kept on with the cork people. I wrote and made industrial movies, then Hollywood-type movies. I wrote I don't know how many radio and then TV shows, and cast most of them and directed a lot of them. Then the novels started.
