EASTER TRAYS - Patients in Highland General Hospital were greeted Sunday with pretty, perky tray favors made during the meetings of Girl Scout Troop 38. Boby chicks standing beside vari-colored egg shells filled with bits of cotton and mustard seeds were placed on cards reading "Watch the mustard seeds grow.

Greetings from Troop 38!" The tray favors, made under the direction of Mrs. Mae Anderson, troop arts and craft chairman, were presented to the hospital patients on behalf of the troop by Girl Scouts Pamela King, Marion Neslage and Betty Jane Taylor, left to right, Troop leaders are Mrs. H. Should religious leaders speak out on public issues such as segregation, slum clearance, nuclear testing and population control? That question lies at the heart of an increasingly bitter controversy between conservative and liberal elements within U.S. Protestant churches.

The conservatives believe that the church's mission is to save individual souls, not to reform so They contend that ministers should stick to "preaching the Gospel" and avoid "meddling" in political, social and economic problems.

The liberals - who include the leaders of most major Protestant denominations - hold that the church is concerned with the redemption of society as well as of They say that ministers have a the evangelist for the revival that

Ward 2, May 3-4-5 Ward 1, May 6-9-10

The City of Pampa Sanitation Department wishes to say THANKS to the Citizens of Pampa for the fine co-operation they have given us in our past Clean-Up Campaigns. We strive to make each and every one just a little bit better than the last. With your continued help we can accomplish this with ease.

With these drives will go the hopes that the habits of Fixing-Up, Painting Up, Cleaning-Up and the General Pride stirred-up enough that it will be a permanent part of every Citizens personality.

Clean-Up campaigns positively result in tangible savings to the community. We save in fewer and less costly fires, and less disease. Perhaps we cannot compute savings in Citizen Morale resulting from their viewing a City that's cleaner, but it is money well spent, and it is money used in a way that can be seen and the need under-

Sanitation is a way of life. It is the quality of living that is expressed in a clean home, a clean farm, a clean business and industry. Being a way of life, it must come from within the people; it is nourished by knowledge and grows as an obligation and an ideal in human relations.

Again we want to say THANKS and with the following of a few simple suggestions this campaign will be the best one we have ever had in Pampa.

1. The City will furnish men and equipment to pick up all trash and debris placed in the alleys.

2. The City will not houl heavy items that cannot be man handled, or debris from construction jobs.

3. PLEASE if you have anything in the alleys NOW, that you don't want hauled off get it moved back on your own property.

4. The City crews will clean up vacant lots with the written permission from

5. Please tell your neighbors about the clean-up dates, have your trash in the alley to be picked up when the trucks go by. With your help we will try to make Pampa the cleanest and safest City in the Southwest in which to live. A City we can all be proud of.

I think we could lears a lot as to why France got in the trouble it did if we would study what it did to bring it on. Palvi pretty well summarizes it in his last chapter, under the above subhead:

"Several aspects of the French monetary and fiscal reform are open to criticism, especially the rate of 17.5 per cent at which the franc was devalued. Devaluation was necessary, allegedly, in order to give French exporters an initial opportunity in the Common Market because the fact that their wage rates and social security burdens are higher than in the other five member countries and because 60 billion francs of export subsidies have been eliminated from the budget. Their burden has been shifted, in effect, from the shoulders of the French taxpayer onto those of France's commercial competitors. And huge profits were thrown into the laps of the speculators who had sold the franc short. "The significant thing is the abandonment of managed money. Even though the full automatisra of the gold standard - the goal of Minister Pinay and his top economist, Dr. Jacques Rueff has not yet been restored, a vicious inflationary automatism, the escalators, has been jettisoned. In effect, real wages are cut by 5 per cent or more in the private sector; to a lesser extent also in the public sector. This is a real blow to the concept of the Welfare State, accompanied as it is by some unemployment and a good measure of short hours. But the workers are not the only class that 'pays' by months of austerity for the years of prodigality. Virtually all classes of French society have to accept some measure of 'punishment' in er-run benefit and security. "The overhauling of the French. economy is well under way. With costs held within reasonable bounds and the competitive incentives unleashed, business enterprise should gain a sound impetus. Most important is the fact that confidence in the currency be restored. Since January 1, 1959, the country's gold and foreign exchange reserve has been increasing. Presently, for the first time in years, these reserves outstrip the government's foreign obligations. By late May, 1959, the surplus of reserve was $200 million as against a $650 million excess of liabilities barely five months earlier. There is no more ratissage (window dressing) in the central bank reports. A spectacular improvement of the trade balance and, most significantly, of the flow of funds into the sayings institutions goes hand in

rate of 'repatriation' of hidden

the interests of their own long-wealth. "All of these manifestations are the auspicious opening up of a reform rather than the final reform itself. The shotgun-wed? ding of Sound Money with the Welfare State was a compromise -apparently the best the De Gaulle regime considered enforceable without recourse to violence. Its hopes are set on the regenerating power of the liberalized market economy; the return of flight capital, the influx of foreign funds (German funds in particular), the rehabilitation of the French saving propensity, the budgetary 'discipline' and austerity established by a stable monetary standard, the development of the vast oil-gas resources of metropolitan France and the Sahara and last but not least, the stimulus of the European Common Market - perhaps a stepping stone toward freer trade in.

What Kind of Stocks In the Appendix, Palvi lists quotations from the Paris Bourse. which is the financial market, from 1938 to 1958, with 1938 as 100. All of them started, of course, in 1938 as 100. By the end of 1958 the investments that increased the most were oil and gas. They went from 100 to 16,-823. I presume that was largely because of the discovery of gasduring that period in Algiers. The average for all domestic stocks

The stocks that made the poorest showing were food manufacturing and marketing. Next to oils, metallurgy stocks showed the greatest gain, ending at 5. 235. Insurance stocks faired well. They ended with 4,079. Department stores had a fairly good showing, being about the average.

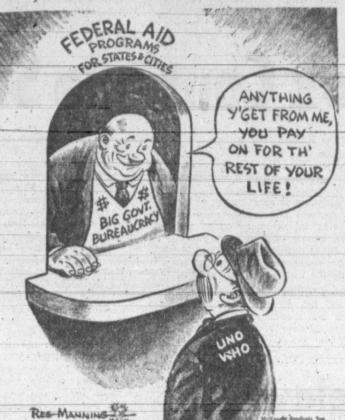

But, as reported in a former article, the commodities increased faster during the time from 1914 to 1958 than stocks or gold or bonds.

Inflation, of course, hurts everyone in the long run, because in a free market the loss of one is the loss of all.
