MAKING A SPLASH -Posing on a poolside ladder, eight-year-old Angela Sullivan relaxes in London, England. She had just won a one-mile backstroke event to add another medal to her collection of swimming trophies. The tot splashed her newest way to victory in 32 minutes. 17.8 seconds.

ROUGH GOING-And no wonder, for four-year-old Bruce McPheeters has his hands full in Minneapolis, Minn. THE APE-BALL - And behind it, acting kind of batty, is "Chatter," a chimpanzee. It seems that he just can't wait for the baseball season to begin in Chicago. He got himself all togged out in a miniature White Sox uniform to show off batting stance.

GUYS WITH PUSH-Trying a different game, Yankee pitcher Ed "Whitey" Ford played shuffleboard with his six-yearold son, Ed Jr., at a hotel in St. Petersburg, Fla. Whitey won't have much time for anything but baseball, now that he's busy with spring training.

PAPER WORK-Dotting the frigid wastes near Boulder Junction, Wis., these strange shapes are four-man huts made of paperboard, a new idea for ice-fishing comfort. The huts can be left up all winter, then tucked away flat for another season. They are modeled after the portable shelters that are made for the Army's use in the Arctic.

Stroud, the Harvester first baseman, hit a popup about a hundred feet into the air, and about 45 feet down the first base line. The Elk City pitcher, catcher and third baseman pulled an Arphonse-Gaston act, each waiting for the other to take it. The catcher finally made a lunge and fell down, but didn't touch the ball as it dropped to the ground.

Stroud raced into second and two runners scored. Since the catcher didn't touch the ball. Stroud had to be credited with a two-base hit, and two runs-batted-in. It was undoubtedly one of the shortest extra base hits in baseball history. Actually, though, it just evened things up, because Stroud hit what should have been a clean single into centerfield a few innings earlier, but couldn't be credited with a hit because Bobby Stephens held up at first waiting for the ball to drop, and was forced at second.

Tuesday's game was filled with crazy incidents like those. It will probably be a long time before there's another game here like it.

Rawls, Stout On All-Star Teams

Two Pampa football players have been invited to play in allstar games. All-state tackle Benny Stout has been invited to play on both the North squad for the annual coaching school game in Dallas, and for the West team in the Greenbelt Bowl game in Childress. Quarterback Buddy Rawls has also been invited to play on the Greenbelt Bowl's West squad.

Stout, a 200-pounder who played offensive tackle and defensive end for the Harvesters, was the only District 3-4A player to make the UPI all-state team. (This was a remarkable showing, since Pampa finished in fifth place and Stout was a lineman instead of a

HUMPHREY

As it must to all politicans, election time has come for some of the biggest names in U.S. politics. The 24 leaders of the Senate pictured above are campaigning in their home states shaded) for return in November to the seats they now hold. A total of 34 Senates seats are at stake, but among those shown above are epresented the greatest massed political power in the body. They are committee chairmen and members and party spokesmen whose every word, now, makes reporters' pencils skitter. Included is the Senate's only woman member. Other states electing, with less critical contests, are Alaska, Colorado, New Mexico, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Virginia, Wyoming, Alabama, Oregon and West Virginia. Experts do not anticipate a change in Democratic control of the Senate. But if there are upsets in the contests of those shown, there could be a shift in the balance of power now held by a coalition of southern Democrats and conservative Republicans.

And the best way to do that is to return the education into the hands of the parents who, course, will make mistakes, but their power is limited and they will not make as many mistakes as the government makes when it has the power of a tax pistol to enforce its mistakes. Will those who do not believe that wars start in local communities name one nation that had control of the education of the youth of the land as did Hitler and the various governments in U. S. have, that did not end up in war?

Wars start in the minds of men. And minds of men are local, owned by local persons.

But Murphy is running into a lot of Democratic opposition for appointment to the Interstate Comnerce Commission.

The White House has been takng soundings on that, and they have been hotly negative so far as the Democrats are concerned. Particularly irking them is that the former VFW commander would be named to a Democratic vacancy, although he is a close friend of Vice President Nixon and seconded his nomination at the 1956 convention in San Francisco.

It is proposed to name Murphy to the five-year vacancy resulting from the resignation of Commisioner Anthony Arpaia. The Con necticut Democrat has been under quiet scrutiny for some time by the House investigating committee, headed by Representative
