Mass Murders In Close Proximity

STARVED ROCK STATE PARK, Ill. (UPI) — A man, his wife and three children were found shot to death in their home about 20 miles east of here Saturday.

Police sought a possible link with the sex slaying Monday of three Chicago area women, but they thought it a remote possibility.

Quickie Revolt

Bolivia Charges Leader Drunk

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — An army regiment revolted Saturday and battled in the heart of La Paz against superior government forces that slowly brought the uprising under control with mortars, machineguns and strafing warplanes.

The government charged the leader of the revolt was drunk.

The entrenched regiment was finally surrounded by local forces in northern La Paz and the government of President Hernan Siles Zuzazo issued an ultimatum to surrender.

Officials estimated at least 7 persons dead and 27 wounded in the battle, the fifth such outbreak in many years in turbulent Bolivia.

Siles mobilized the peasant militia and called in loyal troops from outside the capital. It announced it was conducting "mopping up" operations.

Air Force planes made passes over the rebels and intense fighting raged through the streets. Late Saturday, the rebels began raising their weapons and firing only into the air.

Communications were spotty inside the capital and at one point Saturday afternoon, cable and telephone routes were shut down. The government said there were "technical difficulties."

Siles held an emergency cabinet meeting and was reported preparing to proclaim a state of siege, pending civil liberties.

Big Thaw Seen Across Nation

By United Press International

A warm sun started the "big thaw" across the northern half of the nation Saturday on the first day of spring, 1960.

At exactly 9:45 a.m. (EST), Sunday the sun crosses the earth's equatorial equator, bringing day and night of equal length in this hemisphere for the first day of spring, and a lift to the hearts of winter-weary millions.

But the vernal equinox, for all its symbolic forecast of a fresh and happy start, also brings a threat to much of the nation's plains states, covered by 30 inches of snow. Spring frosts could be on the way.

False Alarm

Pampa Fire Department received a call last night at approximately 9:45 reporting a fire at 332 Wells. Firemen went to the address, but found no fire.

William Winders, 30, a factory worker, his wife and three children were found dead in their home at Seneca, a village of less than 1,500 persons. Police tended to discount a theory the family was wiped out in a fit of remorse over the Starved Rock murders.

However, La Salle County authorities and state police sent investigators to Seneca to delve into what apparently was a quadruple murder and suicide, while other lawmen gathered for a conference on the park murders before testifying at an inquest at nearby Ottawa, Ill., set for 8 p.m. Sat.

State Police Chief William Morris said he would question a truck driver and a resident of the park area in the slayings of three prominent women from Chicago suburbs, beaten to death and sexually attacked as they hiked through a scenic canyon Monday.

Sheriff's deputies at Seneca, called by fearful neighbors, found the bodies of Winders, 30; his wife, Patricia, 27; and their three children, Debbie, 6, Mike, 5, and Leslie, 2, in their one-story white frame home.

Deputies said Winders, who worked in the National Biscuit Company's carton factory at nearby Marseilles, apparently shot his three children as they lay in bed, blasted his wife and then killed himself.

Winders and his wife were sprawled in the living room of their home, about five blocks south of the business district of the village. A .22 caliber pistol was lying near Winders.

Mrs. Winders apparently tried to protect her children and her- (See MURDERS, Page 3)

Dinner Fete For McIlhany

State Representative Grainger McIlhany of Wheeler will be guest of honor at a dinner April 4 for his outstanding and diligent work on behalf of agriculture, according to Harold Nelson, chairman of the Texas Animal Health Council.

The dinner, sponsored by the council, will be in the Coronado Inn at 8 p.m.

Rep. McIlhany served as chairman of the House Livestock Committee during the 56th session of the Legislature last year when seven animal health bills were passed. He was author of the area brucellosis control, vesicular exanthema (a swine disease) eradication, and auction market inspection laws.

"Through his leadership and hard work, many of our most recent beneficial agricultural laws have been passed by the Legislature," Bob Lilly, Texas Farm Bureau legislative director, stated. "He can always be counted on to help preserve such valuable programs as our farm-to-market road-building program and tax refund on non-highway-used gasoline."

McIlhany represents Collingsworth, Gray and Wheeler counties.

U.S. Not 'Buying' Berlin Plebiscite

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is expected to side track West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's proposal for a plebiscite in Allied West Berlin but to challenge Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to hold a self-determination vote in Russian occupied East Germany.

This was reported Saturday by high officials. They said the feeling here is that Adenauer's suggestion for a pre-Summit plebiscite in West Berlin was ill-timed and would only prove what is already known — that West Berliners overwhelmingly reject any change in their status which might leave them at the mercy of the Communists.

A hastily arranged plebiscite just before the Summit, designed only to reemphasize the obvious, might well react against the West, officials said. It could be interpreted and propagandized by the Kremlin as a gratuitous slap at Khrushchev designed to poison the pre-Summit atmosphere and jeopardize chances of progress there.

The Allied call for a plebiscite in Soviet-ruled East Germany probably will be presented to Khrushchev when he meets with President Eisenhower and the British and French leaders in Paris, May 16, officials said. The groundwork may be laid in preparatory statements here and elsewhere calling upon the Soviet leader to practice in Europe what he preached on his recent trip to Asia—the right of self-determination for all non-sovereign peoples.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, according to authorities here, told Adenauer, during their meetings earlier this week, of the U. S. plan to challenge Khrushchev on the issue. The secretary did not mention the possibility of another plebiscite in West Berlin, where the inhabitants voted 96 per cent anti-Communist in a test election in December, 1958, just 15 months ago. Herter talked to Adenauer principally about (See BERLIN, Page 3)

Integration Enforcer Cannot Face Disgrace

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Police Chief Eugene Smith, 47, who could face 250 angry segregationists in the street but found it hard to cope with the thought of his son's being a burglar, murdered his wife Friday night and killed himself.

Mrs. R. J. Herbert Jr., who lived next door, found the bodies in the kitchen of the Smith home Saturday. The six-foot, three-inch body of Smith, in trousers and T-shirt, was on the floor.

He had shot himself once. The fully-dressed body of Mrs. Smith, 44, was slumped in a chair, with three bullet wounds in it. Her husband's .38 caliber service-pistol was lying on the floor.

Her only son, Raymond Eugene, 20, pleaded guilty in Searcy, Ark., Friday, to helping three other young men break into a drugstore and make off with watches, cameras and $200 in cash three weeks ago.

Circuit Judge Elmo Taylor fined the son $250 and sentenced him to two years in prison, but suspended the sentence. Chief Smith and his wife attended the trial and seemed greatly relieved that their son didn't have to go to prison.

They reached home about 4 p.m. and Mrs. Herbert thought she heard two shots about 9:30 p.m. It wasn't the first time that the Smith's son, married and the father of babies 15 months and three months old, has been in trouble.

He and another young man forfeited a $24 bond last winter rather than stand trial on a charge of breaking and entering a cabin on Lake Norrell, southwest of Little Rock. Their story was that they broke in to get warm.

Officials of Harding College, which the son attended at Searcy, expelled him after the last escapade. The son played on the Harding College football team last fall.

Smith was a tough but fair policeman who so impressed dozens of newsmen covering the integration of Central High School last August that most of them signed a testimonial for the way he had treated them.

HST Comments On 'Sitdowns'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman, commenting on the current wave of lunch-counter sit-downs in the South, said Saturday, "if anyone came to my store and sat down I'd throw him out."

Asked to expand on his feelings, Truman, once a partner in a haberdashery, said only that any citizen of the United States should behave himself and prove he is a good citizen.

"Private business has its own rights and can do what it wants," he said.

Those 'Liberal' Weekends May Prove Costly

Southerners in the House was Republican help. Despite word that the Eisenhower administration strongly opposed the weakening amendment Friday, more than half the Republicans present voted for it.

Rep. Edwin E. Willis (D-La.), a leader of the Southern bloc, said he would have at least three more amendments to offer Monday and that he felt he had a "substantial chance" of success. The Southerners were again pinning their hopes on Northern liberal absenteeism and substantial GOP help.

Test Ban OK Could End Arms Deadlock

GENEVA (UPI) — Russia Saturday conditionally accepted a U.S. proposal for a strictly police nuclear test ban in a surprise move that Western diplomats said could break the 15-year-old disarmament deadlock.

The Soviets agreed to a U.S. plan of Feb. 11 that the United States, Russia and Britain sign a treaty to prohibit all nuclear test explosions except small underground blasts that are hard to identify.

The Russians posed one condition — that the West agree to a moratorium of indefinite duration on the small underground explosions until scientists of East and West work out foolproof means to detect them.

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin announced the Soviet move to an unusual Saturday morning meeting on the three-power nuclear conference while the 10-nation disarmament conference took the week-end off.

Tsarapkin told newsmen late that if the West accepted the offer, a nuclear test ban treaty could be completed "in two weeks or a month provided there is good will on both sides."

The U.S. delegate to the 16-month-old nuclear talks, Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, said the Soviet announcement merits careful consideration in Washington.

Although they warned the Soviet proposal must be studied carefully, Western diplomats said a reply probably will be made quickly. The Russians expressed the hope for a "prompt answer" from the West.

On the face of it, the Soviet action meant that Moscow was now ready to permit foreign inspectors on its soil, although it still insisted that their freedom of movement be severely restricted.

Russia's refusal to permit foreign inspectors on its territory had caused the failure of every disarmament conference since the end of World War II.

Some Western diplomats, however, thought that Saturday's Soviet proposal might finally make it possible to start some degree of mutual inspection. It also raised hopes that Communist might be willing to accept some workable disarmament plan in the East-West arms talks that began here last Tuesday.

The United States had proposed last month that all nuclear testing in the air, sea and outer space be banned as well as all except small underground blasts that are difficult to distinguish from earthquakes.

The Soviets accepted this proposal Saturday with the provision to a moratorium on small underground tests below a "threshold" of about a 20-kiloton force explosion—roughly the force of the 1945 Hiroshima A-bomb.

The Soviet move came only a few days after the Atomic Energy Commission had announced in Washington that plans were being made for a small underground nuclear explosion in New Mexico next January.

Wright, a member of the special subcommittee, said the hearings would deal with cases in "some southwestern states," which he did not identify.

The Fort Worth Congressman discussed the investigation in a statement, and elaborated in an interview. He reported the subcommittee has uncovered evidence that:

—Some contractors "knowingly, deliberately, and willfully cheated the public by using inferior materials," and building roads to substandard specifications.

—Some public officials used their positions to buy condemned property "from the state they are supposed to be serving" and then sold it at enormous profits.

—Some officials tipped off friends to routes picked for new roads, allowing the friends to buy land in the highway's path at low prices and sell it back to the state at much more.

Wright said that in one case where he brought out in the hearings, a contractor deliberately used low-grade materials and state inspectors who reported this to their superior found themselves shifted to other assignments.

Graft Probe Hinted In Road Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Jim Wright said Saturday that House investigators are digging up mounting evidence of "both grand and petty graft" in the multi-billion-dollar interstate highway program.

The Texas Democrat told a reporter that "some of the really alarming stuff is going to be developed right quick" in public hearings by a House subcommittee assigned to probe the operation of the federal aid highway program.

Five Killed In Car-Truck Crash

BRYAN (UPI) — Five persons were killed Saturday in a shattering car-truck collision on a farm road 11 miles northeast of here. A sixth person was injured.

Those killed, all Negroes, were from Corpus Christi and passengers in the automobile.

One of the victims, F. W. Womack, was identified. The other four were Tennessee M. Ollison, 43; Phillip James Johnson, 27; Van Ira Johnson, 15, and Willie Shaw Johnson, 13.

The driver of the truck was Edward Popek of Bryan. He was not believed seriously injured.

French Papers Seized

Tells Of Alleged Ike Death Plot

PARIS (UPI) — The government Saturday seized copies of the Communist newspaper L'Humanite for publishing what it alleged to be a U. S. intelligence report claiming that extremist French Army officers were conspiring on possible assassination of President Eisenhower.

The official French Communist Party newspaper published excerpts of the alleged report which, it said, claimed that "certain French officers" were considering an assassination of Eisenhower or "the Russian chief of state" in order to start "a necessary war."

The Humanite's story, written by Alain Guerin, claimed that the alleged secret intelligence report had been prepared by Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, one of President Eisenhower's aides.

Police were ordered out before dawn to confiscate Saturday's edition of the Communist newspaper. The Communist newspaper said that certain French army ex-

U.S. Officials Deny Report

GETTYSBURG (UPI) — The White House Saturday dismissed as completely untrue a Communist report from Paris that American intelligence had warned of a French extremist plot to assassinate President Eisenhower.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, talking with newsmen here, said the report was "obviously deliberate Communist propaganda" and "completely phony."

The President was spending the weekend at nearby Camp David, Md. Hagerty drove up from Washington to see him briefly while the chief executive was inspecting his cattle at his farm outside Gettysburg.

Communists are "obsessed with the idea that a carefully planned political assassination would always lead to the necessary war."

"These officers," L'Humanite's story continued, "have applied themselves to studying all possible forms of an ultimate action, the result of which might be the assassination by a fanatic of the Russian or American chief of state."

The Communist newspaper quoted these other excerpts it said were taken from the alleged report:

"The officers of the Algerian activist organizations, those stationed in Algeria as well as those in the south of France, constitute a sort of very well hidden secret society."

"These officers know that in the top echelons of the high command, they have accomplices who protect them."

"These men are in the process of transforming the French army into sort of an apparatus for a coup d'etat."

The political leanings of French army officers frequently have been important factors in the fate of French governments.

Rightwing sentiment in the army was instrumental in toppling the Fourth Republic and bringing Gen. Charles de Gaulle to power in 1958.

Another 'Seizure' For Castro

HAVANA (UPI) — Fidel Castro's government Saturday seized the luxurious Havana Biltmore Yacht and Country Club on grounds it was built by Batista blood money for the idle rich while common people had to bathe in "coastal mudholes."

The revolutionary government charged that the club, built in 1927, had become a hangout for millionaires and "crooks."

Government agents took possession of the club under Castro's "intervention" law early Saturday morning without advance warning.

There was no immediate word on what Castro planned to do with the club house, its beaches and the yacht basin. Castro charged the yacht anchorage was built by ex-dictator Fulgencio Batista with $400,000 of "the people's money."

Sidwell Name Synonymous With Oil

From W. Virginia To Kansas Spells A Lifetime Of Drilling

By CHARLIE CROSS
Daily News Staff Writer

"We were a pretty rough, tough bunch in those days." So began Clarence Sidwell, 1011 N. Somerville, in recounting some of his experiences in the early days of oil drilling.

Sidwell, who admits to "getting close onto 88" years old, said "Eighty-seven years ago I was on my way from Kansas to West Virginia."

Born in Ft. Scott, he moved with his family to Beulah, W. Va., and his first job was in 1903 in the oil fields. He said, "There were no roughnecks then, but the boys who did the same job were called roustabouts."

He was given a job "watching a well," but was soon pumping the wells, a job that lasted three years. He said the men worked 12-hour shifts, and "tool-dressers drew $4 a day, and drillers made $5."

wheels," "band wheels," and a "manila cable." When told that Sidwell answered, "It was."

There were about six or seven men to a crew on the old wood rigs, and Sidwell said the first time he ever heard of Halliburton, Schlumberger or any other well servicing company was in Kansas.

After serving his apprenticeship in the West Virginia oil fields, Sidwell moved to Kentucky, then back to West Virginia, where he operated a small store for 16 years. He then moved to the Oklahoma oil fields where he stayed from 1921 to 1924, and "looked after tools and leases."

Moving from Oklahoma to Kansas, he worked in fields around Great Bend, Beloit, Lincoln Center and other Kansas towns. When asked what jobs he had held, whether he was a tool-dresser, roustabout, driller, or what, Sidwell replied laughingly, "I was a gasser."

Another near-miss he remembers is the time he had a new man come on the job, and "he wanted me to show him how to take the elevator to the top of the rig." "I took him to the top, then got off the elevator to come down the ladder on the outside of the rig. Somehow, the operator let the elevator drop, and it fell all the way to the floor of the derrick. We were pretty lucky though, because it only hit one man on the shoulder, and he was pretty beefy, so he wasn't hurt much," Sidwell said. "That's as close as I ever came to getting a man hurt on one of my jobs."

Sidwell's sons, Ralph, Gene and Bob, are connected with the oil industry in Pampa, with Gene and Bob partners in the Beacon Supply Company, and Gene and Ralph in the oil well servicing business. Answering a remark that the boys are following in his footsteps, Sidwell said, "Maybe so, but they haven't done the walking I have."

Recounting some of his experiences he said, "I was lucky, guess, never had but one or two close calls in spite of the crudeness of the rigs."

He does remember one time, though, when "one of the boys" dropped a gauge pole into an oil tank. He couldn't fish it out, he said, so got a lantern and started to climb into the tank after it. However, just after entering the tank, he began to feel the effects of the fumes, so "I got out of there in a hurry."

Another near-miss he remembers is the time he had a new man come on the job, and "he wanted me to show him how to take the elevator to the top of the rig." "I took him to the top, then got off the elevator to come down the ladder on the outside of the rig. Somehow, the operator let the elevator drop, and it fell all the way to the floor of the derrick. We were pretty lucky though, because it only hit one man on the shoulder, and he was pretty beefy, so he wasn't hurt much," Sidwell said. "That's as close as I ever came to getting a man hurt on one of my jobs."

For all his years in the "rough" oil field, Sidwell is a man of unusual gentleness and courtesy. If prompted under the right circumstances, he can quote poetry for hours at a time and it is rumored he can carry a tune with the touch of a professional.

Sidwell came to Pampa in 1946 from Kansas when he retired, and now just takes it easy around the house. He lives with his wife, Etta, in a pin-neat home at 1011 N. Somerville, where he says he is "perfectly happy."

RETIRED GASSER — Clarence Sidwell, 1011 N. Somerville, worked in the oil fields almost all his life. When asked about the jobs he held, whether he was a roustabout, roughneck, driller, etc., Sidwell replied, "I was a gasser." During his active career he worked in oil fields in West Virginia, Kentucky, Oklahoma and Kansas. Now retired, he spends his time around the house, "just taking it easy." (Daily News Photo)

Uniformity Desirable?

There is something enchanting about straight lines, harmonious colors, regular rhythms. Most of us are stirred inwardly at the sight of tall Ionic pillars, cathedral spires, the horizontal and vertical lines of buildings, curbs and highways of our urban centers.

Likewise, we are moved when we behold the exciting panoply of color set against color, when each is different, yet when each seems to blend into a universal pattern. Contrast and minor variance become an eye-appealing sympathy to delight the mind and quicken the pulse.

And when it comes to rhythm, who can resist the amazing uniformity of the Radio City Music Hall Rockettes; the regular, arm and leg swinging tempo of a military parade; the crash and cadence of a good brass band?

Why are we attracted to such things? We do not know. Perhaps it is because there is something uniquely man-made about all of these things.

Straight lines do not exist in nature; colors do not exist in nature; and man, who is a natural being, who can discipline himself to appear as something other than what he is, may not be coerced into governmentally approved conformity without great loss of all concerned.

Here is the dilemma of our zoners and planners; of our schemers and taxers; of our law passers and law enforcers. Human beings are all different. There is no real uniformity, only a spurious pretense which we can assume ourselves from time to time when it suits our fancy.

But notice this. Nature is so ordered that let coercion cease, even for a moment, and the uniformity that is brought into existence by force will cease. Let the music stop and the marchers will break step. Let the discipline be relaxed and the army becomes a formless group of individuals.

Why must we insist on treating one another like carrots, planted in a row and all destined to look and taste alike? This may be justified voluntarily and for special effects one wishes to create.

But man is more than a carrot. He is a free being. As such, he must not be coerced to occupy someone's whimsical concept of beauty, harmony or sameness.

Begin With Ourselves

If one were to attempt to sum up the reasons for today's incredible state of affairs, one could probably simplify the issues by saying that they are traceable to man's growing dependency upon government. The evidence of history and the theories of philosophy both go to establish that man does not thrive in the position of dependent.

The great gains which have been made in certain ages by human kind have been made, not by subservient vassals but by free men. Even by rebellious men.

Those who supinely bent their backs to any yoke or to any indignity became little more than beasts of burden. Those who refused such fawning and groveling, even when they risked persecution and death for daring to be different, provided the footings for newer and better things.

It should be known to us by now that there are two forces militating toward man's future state of slavery, if it comes. One of these forces is the recurrent mendacity in the minds of so many ordinary people. As someone has suggested, there is a bit of larceny in most of us. And the individual who will become a bootlicker and a fawner upon governmental authority in order to obtain some special favor, is the very individual thru whom one of these forces plays.

The other force exists within government itself. It should come as neither surprise nor shock to the American people at this late hour, that all governments seek to make their taxpayers dependent upon them. Not only are the taxpayers themselves eager to get their feet into the public trough at some juncture, but the government is forever eager to enlarge the trough to accommodate more feet.

These two forces, one official, the other ordinary, combine to bring about a universal enlargement of the government and a universal shrinking of the individual.

Is A Summit Meeting Casting Pearls To Swine?

When we think of the proposed Summit Meeting between Khrushchev and Eisenhower, we cannot help but recall Jesus' advice, Matthew 7:6: "Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you."

Now, in order to understand that, of course, we would have to understand what is "holy" and what "pearls" are. To me they are about the same thing. "Pearls" is your life that the Creator has given you, and your life is also "holy," because you're responsible for your acts, since God gave man the right to choose, realizing that was the only way that man could develop.

Now, we'd have to define what a "dog" is and what a "swine" is in order to understand this admonition of Jesus. A "dog," of course, is an animal that has no principles. It does not understand the difference between right and wrong. Neither does a swine understand the difference between right and wrong. It does not recognize that there are eternal, immutable laws that govern the universe, including human relations.

And, of course, it is a waste of time or "pearls" or that which is "holy" to be discussing things with dogs or swine or men who deny the existence of principles; who deny the existence of what is right; who deny the Commandments; who are horrified with the idea set forth in the Declaration of Independence that governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed; that all men are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights.

Swine and Khrushchev and dogs do not believe that. They believe that they are super-powers that have the right if they have enough power to rule over their fellowman. They believe that all mankind is subject to their whim or their "general will," as determined by the man who has the most power. And, of course, Khrushchev and the man who denies general principles believe it is right to promise anything in order to get more power.

Repudiate Treaties They do not believe that men should be responsible for their acts. They believe they have a perfect right to repudiate their contracts and treaties, as they are doing with Berlin. When Berlin was made an island in E. Germany, it was agreed that the city should have access to West Germany. Of course, it was a very unwise agreement to ever enter into a contract with Stalin, because they should have known that they were casting pearls to swine and that they would trample the pearls under and attempt to rend you. And that, of course, is exactly what "super men" expect to do. They want to take possession of all of Europe step by step and turn it into Godless tyranny where the man with the most power and the most guns has control of everyone else. They want to plan the education, the water, the use of land, how a man can use his energy, how he can trade what he produces, leaving him nothing but a robot subject to the will of the dogs or the swine.

Certainly no good can come from casting pearls to swine. The trouble is that most of our government bureaucrats have little conception of the order of the universe. They have little conception of the Ten Commandments, and they devote more time to escaping life by playing golf than they do to gaining understanding as to how little they really know and how incapable they are of planning the lives of other people. If they really believed in and understood the Decalogue, they wouldn't be wasting the people's energy and money. And money secured on a free market is a "pearl" because it represents life and energy by attempting to pacify men that have no more principles than do dogs or swine.

Castro Just As Dangerous It would seem to us that the best dealing with a nation that completely repudiates private property, as Russia has done and Castro is doing, should be to sever diplomatic relations. The only objection to this is that we in the United States are also failing to recognize men's rights in private property. Possibly that's the reason we hate to sever diplomatic connections with Castro and Russia.

We certainly should discontinue paying Castro a price above the world market for Cuban sugar. Sugar, like everything else, should be sold on a free market. When, however, a nation starts to disregard private property at home, it is embarrassed as it undertakes to defend private property abroad.

NEW BERLIN PLAN — One of the five U.S. divisions in West Germany would be withdrawn, and the 4,600 U.S. troops in West Berlin would be reduced by 1,000 in exchange for a Russian accord regarding that city. That's one of the plans President Eisenhower will discuss with Chancellor Adenauer during their talks here this week. Secretary Herter, Defense Secretary Gates and the Joint Chiefs of Staff favor this proposal. But how Adenauer will feel about it is a big question. . . . A revolutionary new navigation system was the main reason the Air Force wanted to make some high-level flights in the Berlin air corridor, which the President finally decided against. This new navigation system, that has been installed on all large U.S. transports, cannot be jammed by any known devices. The system, originally developed for the Air Force's cancelled NAVHO missile, is now being used in planes, submarines and missiles. The nuclear-powered NAUTILUS used this highly effective navigational system in its historic trip under the North Pole.

Reason the Kremlin has stopped clamoring for a non-stop air route between Moscow and New York is difficulty with the new giant turbo-prop TU-114. This was the plane the Reds boastfully proposed to use on such an intercontinental schedule, but it has turned out to be full of operational bugs. For example, among them have been pronounced hammering and gear-box troubles. Difficulties also have been encountered with the landing gear. . . . First thing Jordan's 20-year-old Crown Prince did when he landed in the U.S. for an extended visit of military installations, was to buy a flashy sport car. An ardent racing driver, the Crown Prince, who is a major general in the Jordan army, has a fleet of such cars.

Many of us have disorders of speech. And since we communicate with one another mostly by the spoken word, a speech disorder may be a crippling handicap in our social lives and careers. Some speech disorders may be corrected. A hairlip, cleft palate, tongue tie causing a lisp or a nose obstruction causing a twang may be remedied by skilled surgery.

Some disorders are due to paralysis of the nerve that regulates the tension of the vocal cords. These are very difficult to correct. And some are due to overuse or misuse of the delicate cords as in the case of singers, clergymen and political orators. These respond to rest and instruction in voice production often best given by a singing teacher.

But the two disturbances that worry most parents are delayed speech in the growing youngster and stammering or stuttering. Wendell Johnson of the University of Iowa, perhaps the leading student of speech disorders, recently has completed a study of 500 child stammerers and their parents. While professor Johnson insists that he is engaged primarily in the gathering of facts, there are valuable hints in his work that may be of service to stutterers and their families.

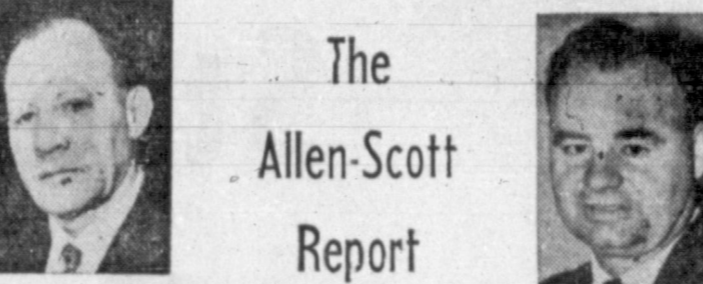

Each of us has noted that there is no set pattern for the stutterer. The block does not always occur at the same time, in the same place or with the same word or subject. This suggests that the block is mental rather than physical. And the Johnson work suggests that the cause of the block may rest not with the stutterer but with the listener, particularly a nervous and high-strung parent. This is how the trouble takes place: The child with perfectly normal speech equipment manifests the same amount of hesitation and repetitions that all children exhibit as they learn the very difficult art of talking. The dotting parent, frightened by what he or she regards as the beginning of a speech disorder, redoubles efforts to get the child to speak. Parent and child become tense and excited. Hesitations and repetitions snowball. The parent

CUBA'S ECONOMY TO BE COMPLETELY NATIONALIZED, GUEVARA REVEALS TO 'FRIENDLY' LATIN AMERICAN DIPLOMATS

WASHINGTON — Premier Fidel Castro is planning to nationalize Cuba's entire economy. High on the list to be seized in this drastic measure are major foreign-owned industries, including the $100 million Nicaraguan nickel plant and extensive ore deposits owned by the U.S. government.

Built during World War II, this huge plant can produce 50 million pounds of nickel a year, approximately one-ninth of the world's output. The plant is now operated by several U.S. companies under contract by the general Services Administration. In 1954, the Eisenhower Administration proposed selling the plant, but that was dropped in the face of strenuous congressional opposition.

Major Ernesto Guevara, one of Castro's closest lieutenants, is authority for the foreboding word that Cuba's economy is to be completely nationalized. The 30-year-old Argentine-born leftist, who as head of the National Bank of Cuba is, in effect, the economic czar of the country, has been revealing this backstage plan in talks with Latin American diplomats and others he deems "friendly."

In a report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on these conversations, the State Department quotes Guevara as saying: "Cuba's economy is to be nationalized so we will not have to depend on capitalist investments. All existing foreign investments will be taken over by the government. That will probably take us at least a year to accomplish. But we are firmly determined to go through with it. Cuba's economy will be patterned after the Soviet system."

"Businesses will be run either by the government, or under strict government control. The national Security Council, top policy agency of the government, already has determined to use force, if necessary, to retain possession of the strategically vital Guantanamo Bay Naval Base. Dulles is urging the same be done regarding Nicaragua.

In support of this view, the Intelligence chief is citing these significant factors: The U.S. is heavily dependent on foreign imports for nickel; a strategic metal that is indispensable in the production of super-sonic planes, missiles, space vehicles and other new weapons. Russia is also urgently in need of nickel. In Castro's hands, Nicaragua's large output would unquestionably be diverted to the Soviet, thus constituting a double blow to the U.S.

PALM SPRINGS — When snow and ice make it take as long to drive from one river to another across the snarled and tangled face of Manhattan as to fly by jet from New York to California, the obvious thing to do is to fly to California. Preferably to a place where the sun is so bright and so hot that a splash of zinc ointment down the length of the nose is only common sense. If Barack Eisenhower can paint her nose in Puerto Rico, I can paint mine in Palm Springs. And even then I'd be ahead: all Barbara could do was play golf. Me, I ran into Alan Bethel and had the greatest afternoon I've had since I first learned to drive an automobile. That, if you are impatiently curious, was 47 years ago and, if you have to twiddle away at your fingers to add, I was 11 years old when I learned to drive. All right, I was precocious.

Alan and his gifted associates were here in the hot sun and the lovely desert to try out for themselves and assorted friends the new Triumph Herald, which is smaller and somewhat less costly than the TR 3's and designed as such. A sedan, a coupe, a convertible, economy cars and Bethel doesn't flinch at the word. They went down, or started to go down, on the design boards in England three years ago and from Blueprint No. 1 right down to the finished product the word was always there: economy car.

You say economy car to most people and they immediately think of a soapbox racer with maybe an alarm clock mechanism in it. I saw a peeling, sunburnt British lad at Alan's local test drive and he looked likely. He was likely. He knew all about the two Herald's which were shipped to Capetown in Africa, started up and were rolled 2,654 miles to Tangier as a modest little wringing - out designed to break, fracture and bend any single part or cluster of parts. There was a corrugation in the road every two feet of 4,867 miles of this trip, which means that there were 11,900,000 rebounds and bumps. What gave way and was redesigned at the factory? One radial arm on the steering mechanism. Also, when they were toiling through 117-degree temperature they found the radiator just a mile small for that kind of rugged travel. The present radiator are larger.

Anyway, Alan and a collection of associates and executives from Triumph were out here and they had a 28-mile test route laid out through the hot desert. Hard going with curves and tricks. "Get in one," said Alan, "and take it easy."

This is like asking a dehydrated man to dip his back in to a mountain spring. I got in. If my legs were not cramped, I held at my shoulders and eased at my ankles and the little engine hummed and thumped with efficient rhythm.

Alan gave me a map and said that was the route and I could do anything I wanted to his little Herald convertible. "Slam it about, don't baby it," he said.

Why not? After all, it isn't built like an American car. Seven major sections are bolted to a chassis and if you damage any one section you unbolt it and bolt in a new one. None of that difficult hammering out, shaping up bit by bit with the Detroit jobs when you bend them. This feature alone caused British insurance firms to offer a 15% per cent rate reduction and British insurers don't give things away any more than do American firms. Also, the little job had independent suspension on all four wheels and, at 153 inches, is shorter and more compact than our small jobs. It also has 15 inches leeway in parking, you are in. I tried it between two large desert boulders. Glove fit and as easy as pie.

The long, twisted course asked for a lot from any car and got it from this one. It never swayed nor jolted nor fish-tailed. It handled like a good sports car, although it isn't a sports car. Coming back, the man told me to slam it into a wall of hay and see what happened. I did. The steering column collapsed on itself, crushing my chestbone. I learned later it had 40 hp, cruises "165, maximum at 70 and gives 40 miles to the gallon. I have news for Alan and the boys: I got 82 out of this one on a long straightaway and the front end didn't rear or buck. It held. It has a scored engine block as a result, I'm sorry; but the heat needle held fast at dead center of normal.

I was offered a car, no one gave me anything except a test run, and after 47 years of driving almost everything, I loved this little Herald.

I am inclined to believe that the mechanism of delayed speech is like that of stammering. The baby who is stammered with love and the good things of life has no great urge to speak. An amusing story illustrates the situation better than pages of scientific explanation.

A 4-year-old who's never spoken despite frantic efforts on the part of parents, family physician and consultants clearly asked his father to pass the maple syrup one morning at breakfast. When the father recovered from the shock of the spoken request he asked the youngster why he'd never talked before.

"I never wanted anything before," the child answered with disarming logic.

An Outing Becomes A Nautical Skirmish

by HENRY McLEMORE

Naturally, I jumped at the chance when a friend of mine called and asked if I would like to go fishing down the river in his new boat. Had I known then what I know now I would have jumped all right, but in the opposite direction. My friend failed to tell me that he was as new to the water as I to his boat, or that the early departure (5 a.m.) was set not in order to allow us to enjoy the sunrise, but to enable us to get the boat out of the boatyard while no one was around to testify as to the damage we did to the other craft. My first inkling that all was not well, and that my friend was not a seasoned old salt, came when we went aboard.

"Run up front, there," he said, "and get a can of beer out of the kitchen while I turn the headlights on so I can see how to drive this thing out of here."

The words "kitchen," "headlights," "front," and "drive" didn't ring true even to my uneducated ears, but as it turned out they were just about the closest he came to sea terms all day.

"Hurry up," he called to me. "You'll find the beer on the left side of the kitchen. Then come back here on the porch with me and help me find the starter button. It's not where it is on the dashboard of my car."

I was just about to ask him if he had ever been on a boat with an engine you didn't start with a rope when he unfortunately found the starter, and all 20 feet of the cruiser—came to life. The "Kay Jay," a 40-footer, was our first victim. We took enough paint off her to paint a barn. After that, for an hour we gracefully crashed our way through anchored boats. Then, finally, we cleared into the river and the skipper, with a "nothing-to-it-at-all" look, asked me to go downstairs and get his chart. Only he said "road map," not chart.

"Want to see how fast she'll go?" he asked, as we miraculously moved down the channel. "No, how slow," I answered, as I rooted around for a size 40 life jacket with 11-inch sleeves. The sun lighted the sky by this time, and the skipper became aware of the markers in the river.

"Those things help a lot," he told me. "Been reading up on 'em. The black ones have something to do with low tide and the red ones with high tide. Stay on the right or left of them and you won't get stuck."

The thought of NOT getting stuck horrified me. The last thing I wanted to do was to keep going on down the river, which implies into the sea. So I started praying for a sand bar, but my prayer was interrupted by the sight of a drawbridge.

"Get the rule book out and see what it says about drawbridges," the skipper said. "Seems to me you blow three times to get 'em to open, but there is so much as has to remember that I'm sure."

I looked it up, and sure it said to sound your horn times.

The skipper started looking the horn.

"Wonder why they don't fish in the middle of the steering like it is on a car," he was aloud as we bore down on the bridge. "Guess I'll have to fish this buggy around until I can't."

So, he swung the buggy a and my prayer was answered: sand bar was there to grow with open arms. That was we stayed until the tide floated off. We stayed there for while mutual friends waded from the bridge.

As for fishing — well, I caught 10-pound sunburn and the something that starts with from the owner of the boat. Seems it is part of an uncode among yachtsmen to cruise about in a crowded yard.

CBS To Halt 90-Minute Live Shows

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Televiewers may see the last "live" 90-minute dramatic show in CBS history this week in a video version of "Snows of Kilimanjaro."
CBS-TV sent the word down to director John Frankenheimer that his Friday night special would be his swan song on live TV.

Demise of live TV was brought about by the development of electronic video tape, a system whereby shows can be "shot" and edited, improved and improvised before being seen by the public.
Almost everyone agrees taped shows are an improvement over the old live programs which were prone to error, miscues and outright bumbles.
One dissenter is lovely Janice Rule, who stars in "Kilimanjaro." "Taping a television show is like making a quickie movie," she explained. "The disadvantages outweigh the advantages."
"It is impossible for performers to generate the momentum and excitement of a continuous performance on tape. Subconsciously you realize you can stop and start all over again. You're not afraid of making a mistake."

"Therefore, you hold a little something in reserve, just in case. When you're on 'live' you give your all, because there is no re-take."
Blonde Janice, who cut her dramatic teeth in New York theater and live television shows, believes the element of chance should be present in TV just as it is on the stage.
"Tape erases the marvelous element of chance, which most actors find stimulating. That's why I've always preferred 'it's happening now' mediums to motion picture. I feel the same way

Lenten Devotion

By The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Irving A. DeBlanc
Director, Family Life Bureau
National Catholic Welfare Conference
Written for UPI

Lent is a time when Christians are urged to enter a 40-day retreat, a period of closeness to God, of commitment. God uses earthly instruments to draw us to himself. He especially uses our earthly fathers to give us a picture of the heavenly Father: "Be ye perfect as your heavenly Father is perfect."

Today we plead with fathers not to misrepresent the face of God but to give an authentic picture of him. Every creature reveals a message from the Almighty. The thunder over Mount Sinai taught the early Hebrews of the power of God. Stars in the heaven taught the shepherds of all ages how wonderful was the Creator. Our earthly fathers give us the most complete picture of the Father in heaven.
The main concern of the father is not to struggle day after day to fill empty stomachs. He has an even more important function. As the Father in heaven is wise, so must he be wise. As the Father in heaven is a provider, so must he provide. As the Father in heaven is the creator, so must he be a pro-creator. As the Father is merciful, understanding and loving, so must he be.

If a father shows no deceit, his children will learn to have faith in their heavenly Father. If a father responds generously to the reasonable wishes of his children, they will learn to have hope in God. If a father is warm and approachable, the children will learn charity toward God.
The father then should lead in grace before meals and in family prayers. He should help the children prepare for church services. He should hear the children's lessons. He should read good books to his children. He should lead in visiting the sick and needy. He should lead in supporting the church.

He is the leader in religion, education, economics, procreation, affection, recreation. He can only delegate authority in these matters, he cannot delegate responsibility.

PHS Opens With 18-8 Win Over Mangum; Gets 16 Hits

MANGUM, Okla. (SpI) — Pampa Harvesters opened their 1960 ball season here Friday by beating Mangum, 18-8, with a 16-hit attack.

The power-packed Harvesters led five extra-base hits and two big innings, a six-run first and nine-run sixth, as they walloped the Oklahomans in the evening contest.

Copy Williams did an excellent job of pitching for Pampa. The spaw hurler blanked Mangum only one hit during his five innings on the mound, while striking out six batters.

Mangum scored all of its eight runs off Duke Garren in the seventh inning. However, Garren allowed only three hits, and most of them off him were unearned. The game was rather loosely fielded as the Harvesters made six errors and Mangum committed four.

Firststop Wendell Ridgway, normally a light hitter, drove in Pampa's first three runs with two out in the first inning, as he swatted a loaded triple. Left fielder Stephens then doubled in an eighth run came in on an error and Williams singled to drive in number six.

Right fielder Gary Hill singled to bat in the seventh Harvesters score in the second inning.

Catcher Terry Haralson doubled to bring in two more Pampa runs in the fourth frame.

That ended most of the heavy hitting, but not the scoring. The Harvesters batted around and then some in the sixth inning, as they scored nine runs. Most of the runs were unearned, coming as the result of walks and errors. Pampa did, however, get four hits during the inning.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — George Bayer, slamming out giant tee shots, and Lionel Hebert, playing a precision iron game, both fired 66 Saturday to tie the first round lead in the off-delayed St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament.

Bayer and Hebert played in the same three some and finished late when the course had more time to dry from the recent rainstorms. Joe Campbell of New York, who finished earlier, was in second place with 67.

Ted Kroll, Sarasota, Fla., came in third with a 68. Tied at 69 were Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass.; Jack Ellis, Stillwater, Okla.; Tony Longo, Clark Summit, Pa.; and Jack Fleck, Los Angeles.

The course still was soggy in the morning but was drying out well by noon. The tournament had been scheduled to start Thursday, then Friday, but was postponed both days on account of torrential rains. The field will play 36 holes Monday to complete the $15,000, 72-hole tournament.

Bayer, of Glen Eagle, Ill., had five birdies on the front nine and two on the back. His only bogey came on the 17th hole when he hit a sand trap to the left of the green. He dropped birdie putts of 25, 20 and 15 feet.

His drives were tremendous. On 13, a 491-yard hole, he hit his tee shot out of bounds but still got a par five on the hole. He out-drove Hebert and Kroll, the third player in their group, consistently.

Hebert was a study in consistency. He had three birdies on the front nine, three on the back, and not a single bogey.

His putting was good throughout. Although Bayer's drives were longer, Hebert usually would up closer to the hole on the iron shots.

In Westex Relays

ODESSA (SpI) — Pampa's track team was lost in the shuffle here Friday and Saturday in the high school division of the West Texas Relays, dominated by Midland and Andrews.

Buddy Reels scored Pampa's only point by finishing fifth in the broad jump, with a leap of 20 feet, 1 1/2 inches. Pampa's only other qualifiers were Rawls and Charles Warren in the low hurdles. Neither placed in those events.

Midland won the meet with 40 1/2 points, but Andrews, which finished second with 25 1/2 points, stole the show by setting two meet relay records and tying another.

Panhandle teams made a good showing in the big track meet, grabbing five of the top ten places. Lubbock was third with 20 points, Palo Duro fourth with 18, Amarillo and Tascosa tied for fifth with 15 and Borger ninth with 11 1/2. Other finishers among the top ten were Big Spring seventh, 13; El Paso Burges eighth, 12; and Hobbs, N.M., fourth, 9 1/2.

In the 880-yard relay, the sensational Andrews team of Larry Shoemaker, Ted Nelson, Joe McKissick and R. E. Merritt broke its own 1959 record on successive days, running a 1:29.9 Friday and a 1:27.8 Saturday's final. The old mark was 1:30.7.

The same team tied the 440-yard relay mark of 42.6, set in 1958 by Andrews. Mark of the day, the Andrews mile relay team of Leslie Blackburn, Merritt, Shoemaker and Nelson broke Andrews' own mark of 3:21.9, by running a 3:19.5. J. B. Doyle of Midland was the high point man of the meet.

First place high school winners, with their times or distances, are as follows:

Discus — Bob Duval, Tascosa, 153 feet.

Broad Jump — Richard Yogan, Euador became the world's leading exporter of bananas in 1955, when his crop was estimated at 40,000,000,000 stems.

Vernon Nips Pampa, 3-1

VERNON (SpI) — Some strategy backfired here Saturday for the Pampa Harvesters baseball team, as it went down to defeat before Vernon, 3-1.

The Harvesters had beaten Mangum, Okla., 18-8 Friday in their season opener.

Vernon scored what proved to be the two winning runs in the fourth inning, after two men were out. Nelson was on first base as the result of a single, and Delarosa, the number seven batter, was intentionally walked to get to Baxter, the number eight man in the batting order. However, Baxter tripped, driving in both Delarosa and Nelson.

Vernon tallied another run in the fifth inning on a two-base error. Jenkins singled, then Nelson singled to right field, Pampa right fielder Gary Hill misplayed the ball, and Jenkins went all the way around to score.

Pampa scored its lone run in the seventh and final inning, as shortstop Wendell Ridgway singled with one out and third baseman Bobby Nutt drove him home with a double.

Pampa threatened seriously only one other time, in the second inning. Catcher Terry Haralson singled, and Hill doubled. Haralson tried to score on Hill's double, but was thrown out at the plate.

Tickets to the Harvester-Shocker basketball banquet are now on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office for $2.50. The banquet will be held March 31 at the Coronado Inn. Special guests at the banquet will be the Harvester and Shocker basketball teams, coaches, pep band and cheerleaders.

Polk Robinson, Texas Tech basketball coach, will be the speaker at the banquet. This season, Robinson's team had the reputation of being the "spoiler" in the Southwest Conference race, as it ruined the title chances of Texas A&M and SMU.

As a special feature of the banquet, Coach Clifton McNeely of the Harvesters will receive his Coach of the Year award for 1959.

Tot Skiing Club Organized

The high cost of losing has claimed a casualty in Golden Spread coaching ranks. Clinton Williams, football coach at Panhandle for the past two years, has resigned to enter private business. Panhandle finished in the 2-A cellar last season.

Speaking of Panhandle, a homecoming will be held in that city in conjunction with the Panhandle Relays March 26. Those desiring reservations for the homecoming should write Mrs. C. F. Hood in Panhandle.

A. L. (Arch) Smalley of Pampa, reports that a Top of Texas Ski Club was organized Friday night, with about 40 charter members.

The organizational meeting was held at the home of Dr. J. B. Yeale. Dr. Yeale was elected president, Smalley vice president, Mrs. Smalley was chosen as club secretary.

Smalley said that the purpose of the club will be to bring together people interested in skiing, provide interesting programs for them, and encourage skiing in this area. He estimated that the club will grow to 100 or more within a short time. "There are quite a few skiers in Pampa," he said.

"Membership in a ski club reduces the cost of skiing at most places," Smalley pointed out. All club members are issued membership cards and a Top of Texas ski emblem for identification.

"There might be a little good skiing left this year," Smalley said. "We had a report from Red River, N.M., that they had 10 inches of snow, and that the temperature is still below freezing. They may remain open for skiers for another week."

Anyone interested in joining the ski club should contact the secretary, Mrs. Smalley.

Trojans Romp To Win At Odessa

ODESSA, Tex. (UPI) — Mighty Southern California smashed seven meet records and won eight of 12 events as the Trojans scored 102 points to beat Baylor, Houston and Ohio State in the university division of the West Texas Relays Saturday.

The powerful Trojans, who have not lost a meet to a college team since 1945, didn't threaten any world records as expected, but they were more than a match for the others as Baylor scored 66 points, Houston 55 and Ohio State 29.

USC's Dallas Long accounted for one of the records with a shot put toss of 61 feet 8 3/4 inches, but that was far off his unofficial world mark of 63-7.

And Charlie Dumas, the Trojans' lanky high jumper, cleared 6 feet 10 inches and then disappointed the crowd of 7,000 by decimating the crowd of 7-foot mark.

Mike Larabee, former USC great now running for the Los Angeles Striders, defeated Olympic ace Glenn Davis in the special 400 meters in 48.4 seconds with a strong finishing kick after the pair had matched strides into the final turn.

McMurtry surprised East Texas State as the Indians upset the defending champion Lions to win the college division title with 90 points.

East Texas finished second in the college class with 50, followed by Howard Payne 46, Texas A&I 41, Hardin - Simmons 28, Texas Western 18 and Arlington State 7.

Midland repeated as champion in the high school division with 40 1/2 points. Andrews was second with 35 1/2 and Lubbock third in the bulky 46-foot field with 20 points.

Billy Hollis of Baylor was high point man in the university class with 11 points. Sid Garton of East Texas was high in the college class with 10 1/2 and J. B. Doyle of Midland was tops in the high school division with 11.

For all three divisions, there were 17 new records and two ties

Bradley Cops NIT

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mack Herndon and Mike Owens led Bradley on a spectacular late spur that wiped out a 12-point deficit and beat scrappy Providence College, 88-72, Saturday for the National Invitation Basketball Tournament championship.

A crowd of 16,421 in Madison Square Garden and a national television audience (N.B.C.) watched the Braves from Peoria, Ill., stage their spectacular comeback in the last 10 minutes of play to win the N.I.T. for the second time in four years. Bradley won the tournament in 1957 and was beaten in last season's final by St. John's.

The six-foot, six-inch Herndon scored 25 points, 14 of them in the second half, and Owens contributed five clutch field goals during Bradley's late rally that made a rout of what had been a 12-point deficit.

"It seems Dallas is becoming big league in baseball as well as in football," Cowboy general manager Tex Schramm said, "and since both Rangers will be around here a long time and since the baseball club had the name first, we're changing ours."

Lewis May Play In Exes Game

Blackie Sherrod of the Dallas Times Herald and Kern Tipton of radio station KPRC in Houston have been named the outstanding sportswriter and sportscaster of the year for Texas.

They were elected by votes of sports writers and sportscasters in all 50 states.

Tipton is well known as a broadcaster of Southwest Conference football games.

Harold Lewis, Baltimore Colts back from Pampa, is expected to be among those playing for the alumni in the University of Houston's varsity-alumni game March 28 in Houston.

Lewis starred for the University of Houston football team during his college days.

Other pros and former pros expected to see action in the game Buckner, Jackson State (Miss.), are Don Brown, St. Louis Cardinals; and Zelmo Beaty, Prairie View also; J. D. Kimmel, Washington A&M (Tex.).

Coaches are Milton Jowers, coach of the NAIA champion Southwest Texas State and NAIA coach of the year for 1960 and Bob Davis, Georgetown, Ky., the 1959 NAIA coach of the year.

Among those named to the team are Jack Moreland and Ray Germany, Louisiana Tech; Charles Sharp and Rudy Davlos, Southwest Texas State; Cleveland West, Jackson State (Miss.); and Jerry Schoffield, Cornell Greed added 26.

Utah State trailed by nine points, 27-18, midway in the first half but surged back to lead St. Bonaventure at halftime, 34-30, and then ran away with the game in the closing minutes.

All-American Tom Mulla scored 29 points and his brother Gene added 19 for a total of 48, just below their season-long combined scoring average. But the Bonnies failed to display the same spark they had shown in earlier rounds.

Weaver Tops 'Big 3' At San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (UPI)—Little Jimmy Weaver, the unheralded former North Texas State sprinter, beat the "world's fastest human" Saturday—not once, but twice.

Weaver claimed a grand slam victory over three Texas speed kings who have their sights set on the Olympics—one of them Bobby Morrow, who won three gold medals in the last Olympic games, and has been billed as the fastest man alive.

A crowd of more than 4,000 watched Weaver glide to triumphs over Morrow and Bill Woodhouse, both former Abilene Christian College runners, and Eddie Southern, former Texas dash man, in two special races at the second annual San Angelo Relays.

Weaver captured the 100 meter race in 10.5 seconds, and had a 21 flat clocking in the 200 meters around a curve. He had Morrow by a full yard at 75 yards in the 100 meters and finished smoothly ahead of Morrow's desperate lunge. In the 200, Weaver took even a wider lead, but Morrow closed enough at the end to stay within a yard.

Contrary to West Texas weather, the wind was almost negligible as the University of Texas successfully defended its championship. A total of 11 records, seven of them in the university division, fell.

Ray Cunningham claimed both hurdles events to lead Texas to its second crown with a total of 69 2-3 points. ACC finished second with 57 1-3, followed by North Texas with 29 1-3, Texas Tech 24½, Southern Methodist 11 1-3, and Texas Christian with two points.

A dead heat was declared in the final event of the day, a record-breaking mile relay. Officials said both Texas and ACC went the distance in 3:12.2, knocking 1.7 seconds off of the mark set by Texas last year.

Peg O' Pampa

THIS WEEK, we've had the most terrific case of wanderlust... an intense longing to take out on the open highway and let a ribbon of miles roll under us as we head for an un-determined destination... this week, just the rustle and rattle of road-maps showing highway mileages sets our pulse quickening... but since we can't just take off, it's nice to hear of people who can... people like, for instance, Bob and Jim Tripplehorn's sister and her husband, Dr. and Mrs. Everett Aulton of Fort Smith, Ark... who stopped off here for a weekend on their way back from a skiing trip in Colorado... the Tripplehorn's, en masse, Jim and Anna Mae, Bob and the libertine entertained with a gay party for them on Saturday evening in the Country Club... so that all of their friends could meet the attractive visitors... and later in the evening at the API Dance held in the Coronado Inn, there was a lot of "table-hopping" going on... Loyal and Leone Davies were greeting friends around the ballroom... as were Bill and Eleanore Waggoner... Gus and Gris Rogers (he's the PI prey, you know)... Bill and Nancy Gabelmann... Ray Wilson and Cecil Tedrow... the crowd overflowed out into the entrance hall and into the Emerald Room, too... we heard that an irreplaceable earring was lost during the evening among several hundred waiting and cha-chaing feet... its loss was reported to Rhea Williams at the clerk's desk... and within 12 hours it was returned in perfect condition to its owner... uncrushed and unscathed... that's really something when we think of all the earrings and gloves we have lost and never found.

ALL WE NEEDED THIS WEEK to make our case of wanderlust cute was to hear Allegro's guest speaker, Mrs. John Lewis Borger, describe her adventures aboard an Italian freighter... the only passenger and naturally the only woman aboard... and of her unguided tour of Italy, France and Switzerland... this would be a bit too adventuresome for our froil spirit... but just something along the travel line would wash away our winter weariness and bring a bloom to our face... filled with TV-pollor... spied so many people there that afternoon in the coziness of the Library in spite of the wild, wild weather-going on outside... Evelyn Nace... Frances Hoff... Beverly Lang... Jean Roots... Johnny Donaldson... and the attractive newcomer from Borger, Lois Ann Knox... Angela Sanford... Peg Hasse... Johnnie Syper... Mrs. Vendrell... Nancy Gabelmann, very fetching in a red wool Spring bonnet... Lenore Sloan... Ruth and Helene Huff... Vi Stanfield... Icie Harrah... to name just a few.

WE SIMPLY MUST SHAKE OFF "what cannot be" and get with "what is" several of our local clubwomen will be attending the district meeting of Federated Clubs in Lubbock on Tuesday... among them "Mac" Hubbard, president of Twentieth Century, Dot Stowers, and Icie Harrah, president of Twentieth Century... Mrs. Emmett Osborne from Civic Culture... and Jan Caffey from Twentieth Century Cotillion... Jan is entering a dream of a costume for the district sewing contest, which is being sponsored by Vogue Patterns in connection with the Federated Clubs' meeting... we understand, she has created a basic dress that becomes very versatile with the change to a jacket or stole... it's a wool blend of a Geranium hue... we wish her the very best of success with her entry... she plans to wear it for the first time to appear at Twentieth Century Cotillion's First-Day-Of-Spring Fashion Show in Coronado Inn, which, by the by, is another "out-out" won't attending Monday's show be a wonderful way to celebrate our first step into Spring?... there is still a waiting list for tickets for April and May fashion shows, but tickets that are still available will be on sale Monday at the "pcheon"... Tuesday in Lubbock may get to seem like "old-time" weeks before the day is over... for we have just learned that there is to be a District One Garden Club meeting there at the same time the Federated Women's Clubs are meeting... so if everyone from here runs into each other here, it will seem like a Pampa reunion... we hear via the radio vine that Mrs. Walton Moore, president-elect of Pampa Garden Club, Mrs. Coy Palmer, Mrs. V. N. Osborn and Mrs. Thelma Bray, all of the Pampa Garden Club, are making plans to go.

WE FELT A TUG OF NOSTALGIA this week when we came on the old Doucette home on house rollers being pulled by a large truck as it turned the corner at Hobart and Kentucky... the relationship we felt toward it was the same we feel toward "old homes" filled with pleasant memories, which have known... the Doucettes' old home was being hauled away to make room for the new Citizens Bank and Trust Co., which will soon be built on the corner of Kingsmill and Frost... with just a little research we learned that the house had been built in 1915 and the Doucettes had moved into it in May, 1918, and had lived in it for 41 years... "takes a heap of time to make a house a home," as one writer once said, and our house strikes us as a "home"... there is a bright side our rather sad story of passing landmarks... the Doucettes have a lovely new home on the corner of Gray and Brown... and their old home-site will soon be a brand-new bank... we hear that Mrs. E. E. Gething is getting all settled in a home she has just bought at 1304 Mary Ellen... she's been resident in the Panhandle for a long, long time... the home she bought is the one formerly owned by the Gris Rogers, who are now awaiting the completion of their new home at the 1900 Block on Fir Street... so sorry to hear that the Metz's are leaving Pampa after residing here for six or seven years... Al will soon be leaving for a new Zola's store the east, but Jean will be around until their nice sons, Steve and Jimmy, are out of school the latter part of May.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY... the Spring Parties are already beginning, we notice... the first of a series were given this week by Zee Holloway, Lois Shelhamer, Loretta Wilkinson, Dorothy Chase and Polly Sidwell on Thursday and Friday in the Starlight Room in the Inn, when they entertained with two Bridge Parties... the first of such "private" parties to be given there... and next week, for those friends of the pva hostesses who don't play bridge, have been bid to dine in the home of Polly Sidwell... and this coming Saturday, Mmes. Don Cain, Jack Miller, Jimmy Thompson, and Al Waters are inviting friends to a Book Review in the Inn to be given by Evelyn Nace, who, we think, will do "Pioneer, Home."

TOO TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY... saw Norma Briden the other afternoon proudly showing off her engagement ring to a group of friends... the lucky fella, we believe, is an Amador TV newscaster... Adrienne Foster is proudly telling and showing friends the orchids which are now in bloom in her home... we think we'll bust if Spring doesn't come soon... Alpha Kappa Gamma Sorority will soon be announcing April 11 the date of the book review, which they had to postpone in January... at that time, Mrs. Edith Deen of Fort Worth, wife of the ex-mayor of that city, president of Knife and Fork here and last but not in the least, the least, authoress, will be in our city to review her latest book, "Great Women of Christian Faith"... and talk about luck, Ruth Huff has won a valuable painting created by Elaine de Koonig of New York City... it seems that the opportunity to own the painting is offered to all of Dord Fitz students in this area... and with walked off with it... a valuable one, if $450 seems as much money to you as it does to us... add the commercial price to the craftsmanship and it becomes priceless.

Just dash now... down to the corner service station and pick up a new road map to add to our collection.

Love, Peg

Mrs. Edward D. Chisum (Photo, Call's Studio)

Mozart Music Club With Miss Warner

Mozart Music Club held its March meeting Sunday afternoon in the home of the vice president Miss Sherry Warner, 1617 N. Duncan.

The program opened with the McDowell Ritual led by Miss Lynda Colville, president, followed by the singing of "Texas, Our Texas" accompanied by Donna Rae Flynn. Tracy D. Cary, club counselor, led a discussion of the origins and customs of St. Patrick's Day and told of "how St. Patrick's life was saved when he pointed out to the pagan Druids, that their sacred emblem the shamrock was shaped like a cross, the emblem of the true religion." A biographical sketch of the life of Johann Sebastian Bach followed.

Musical selections were performed by Betha Lee Stubbe who played "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," and by Lynda and Juanita Colville who played a duet, "Bicycle Built For Two."

The program was climaxed with the awarding of certificates to those members who performed in the Sonatina Festival sponsored by the Pampa Piano Teachers Association recently.

Refreshments were served to the group from a table laid with a green linen cloth centered with a large urn arrangement of fruit, pine cones, and winter foliage. Two majolica mailards flanked the centerpiece. Miss Warner presided at the crystal punch service assisted by Mrs. Carl Warner, Mrs. Leon Daugherty, and Mrs. Bill Self, hostess-mothers for the month.

Attending were Linda Garrett, Paula Daugherty, Eddie Brewer, Susan Patrick, Darlene Self, and Betty Stinson, in addition to those already named.

Work In Missionary Field Discussed By Minister Of Christian Education

An informative program on missionary work was presented by Wally L. Gibson, minister of Christian Education of First Christian Church to members of Christian Women's Fellowship on Wednesday morning.

During his discussion, he asked the group three questions on missionary work and offered answers. His questions were: "What standards guide us in our missionary work? We base our standards on the righteousness of God. What is the purpose of our missionary work? To help God bring balance to the world. Where do you find a mission field? Where there is a need, there is a mission field."

He stated, "We need to pause and look at our work. Christians need to help God keep the world in balance."

The Rev. Richard Crews, church pastor, concluded the discussion with prayer.

Mrs. John P. Lewis of Phillips knows and shared her experiences with members and guests of Twentieth Century Allegro at a Guest Day Tea held Tuesday afternoon in Lovett Memorial Library.

Just a year ago this month, Mrs. Lewis embarked from the port at Brownsville, Texas; sailed out of the Gulf of Mexico, into the Atlantic Ocean and disembarked at a port in the Mediterranean. The freighter was a non-glamorous ship manned by an Italian-speaking crew, who taught her enough Italian to traipse on an unguided tour around Italian islands. At the start of her 8½ month trip abroad, Mrs. Lewis described herself as "Christophena Columbus off to discover Italy."

In an ensuing 45-minute, the guest speaker told of the adventures and oft-times hilarious events, which dotted her off-beaten paths in Italy, France and Switzerland.

She told of discovering and island in Italy, 2,000 miles up, where, though cloud-covered and cold, she could look down through a hole in the clouds to bathers sunning themselves below; of buying a red sports-car in Paris and attempting to drive a strange car in Paris traffic; of becoming ill and spending a portion of her tour in a Swiss hospital; and finally of returning home aboard a luxury liner that "made the ocean seem far-away," because of the restrictions of not being able to visit the bridge as she had done aboard the freighter.

Preceding the program, Mrs. John Gentry, Allegro president, extended welcome to guests and introduced Mrs. Don George, who presented the afternoon's speaker.

Mrs. George introduced Mrs. Lewis as a "patroness of the ages." She was graduated from the University of Nebraska. In Borger and Phillips, she is quite active in the music and art circles and in Adult Education Great Books Foundation.

During the social hour, guests were served from a table appointed with a pastel blue cloth centered with a silver epergne arranged with yellow tapers, white stock, jonquils and acacia. Mrs. David Price, president-elect presided at the silver coffee service.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jack O. Miller, A. D. Prichard, W. G. Waggoner, John Lee Bell, W. J. Chambliss and Don George.

Also, Mrs. S. B. Syper, Felix Vendrell, J. R. Reeve, B. G. Prichard, C. A. Strozier, W. J. Derrington, Wiley Davis, LeRoy Ogden, W. L. Gabelmann, William P. Bridges, E. M. NICE TO COME HOME TO

What makes a good meal better? Happy conversation and pleasant surroundings. Most of us are perfectly content to have breakfast, lunch and in-between snacks served in the kitchen — or any place that's handy. But we like our evening meal, the most important meal of the day, to be a more gracious occasion. This has become a tradition in our land, and this is as it should be.

With many busy families this is the only time of day when all the members can get together, and there is no better way that we can think of to strengthen family relationships than that of making this high point of each day as festive and enjoyable as possible.

An attractive room setting adds immeasurably to mealtime enjoyment.

The traditional dining room sketched above is a room that's nice to come home to. Pinky-beige carpet and draperies, and aqua-

'Politics Is For People' Timely Topic For Club

Mrs. Lorene Locke, public affairs chairman, presented a program on "Politics Is For People" at the Altruza Club luncheon meeting held Monday in Pampa Hotel. She was assisted by Mrs. Eloise Braly.

In discussing voting, Mrs. Locke said, "Many clubs this year will take part in public affairs and will help to shape the destiny of America. And the destiny of America must, of course, reflect itself in the life of every community and every family in America."

"There are," she said, "three million more women voters than men. Women have the right, as individuals and organizations, to concern themselves with and be a part of government. Don't hesitate to ask questions of your representatives. They want and need your questions, just as you need to ask them."

Mrs. Locke suggested a "Shoppers' Guide" for "spending your vote" such as the ones offered for "fashion shopping." "Survey experts tell us that political candidate preferences are often family habits, handed down like old clothes from father to son, mother to daughter. . . . No one wishes to be a fashion 'rut', and certainly no one wishes to be in a political 'rut' so why be satisfied with 'hand-me-downs'?"

"As a voter's guide, why not check these questions for answers on your list? 1) Does candidate's platform take up not only the 'headline' issues but also the long range problems? 2) What is the background of your candidate? Has he fulfilled past promises? Who is he looking for a "name" for himself?"

"After you have spent your vote, see how your candidate works out, follow his career. Will he be your candidate the next election? Be a smart shopper," Mrs. Locke advised, "spend your vote wisely."

Mrs. Locke went on to discuss the responsibilities of a voter; the importance of casting a vote; and briefly the framework of local politics and national politics. She cited the fact that "at precinct conventions to be held locally on May 7, is a good time for local citizens to air their opinions as to candidates and issues."

Mrs. Braly discussed "What Are We Doing In Politics?" "Citizenship is something which requires practice," she said. "If more women are to be politically effective they should become a part of the machinery which determines the candidates and issues, namely, the two major political party organizations."

"It is clear," she said, "that there are three essential steps we must take if we are to become 'Citizens At Work.' We must be interested, be informed and be active. It behooves all of us to be interested in politics, and we hope that this program today has encouraged many of you to focus your attention on political activity and learn how it affects your day-to-day activities."

"Being informed is a difficult and continuous process, but there are many sources of excellent information available to us; all we need to do is ask for material and then study it."

"Almost 40 years," she continued, "have passed since the 1848 was turned in the door of political opportunity for women. If we women wish to preserve good government and maintain our American standard of living, we must start working for the nomination of men and women who are sympathetic to policies in which we believe. Policies which will create a better political climate for ourselves and our families. As women and as active citizens, we should watch over the welfare of our government, just as we watch over the welfare of our families. This should be our constant purpose . . . all of the time, all of our lives. Politics is not a public chore to be got over with. It is a way of life. And so it is also for the women of America who as citizens at work must prove once again that Politics is for People."

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Mark Heath, president, new officers for 1960-61 were elected as follows: Mrs. Clyde Vanderburg, president; L. L. Harkins, vice president; D. B. Hutchen recording secretary; Jay Flanagan, corresponding secretary; Jess Clay, treasurer; directors, Mrs. Irl Smith and Roy Kay.

Miss Merlin Attaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Attaway, was named Altruza Girl for March and was introduced by the February Girl, Miss Vicki Garcia.

It was announced that the next meeting, March 28, will be Guest Night. Altruzaans are invited to ask friends to a dinner meeting in Coronado Inn to hear Dr. Francis Davis of Amarillo, psychiatrist, who will be the guest speaker. Reservations for the dinner should be made with Mrs. Hutchens.

High Fashion Career Began Lowly With Creations Of Shopping Bags

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lauralou Bates, an attractive young matron of Philadelphia, began her high fashion career the lowly way. Her first creations were shopping bags.

Today, however, Mrs. Bates is designing for some of America's wealthiest females, who pay as high as $325 to $350 for an afternoon or evening dress from this couturier, who is still in her 30's.

The Bates spring and summer collection, shown here recently to fashion reporters, stressed one-of-a-kind fabrics, many of them imported, dyed and decorated to the designer's specifications.

Typical of the Bates touch is a group of "mirrors" dresses, with tiny circles or squares of reflective glass used as a border motif on the bodice and reversible bolero of short formal. These gowns are of linen-textured cottons imported from India.

The designer also used what she called the rainbow technique of combining colors — putting several layers of gossamer fabric in varying shades together to create one tone. Shades of blue, violet and white, for instance, created a lilac tone.

One group of double-duty cocktail dresses were sheaths of black silk with white chiffon apron overskirts. Overskirts detached to double as shoulder covers.

Mrs. Bates said her design career began informally when as a teenager she altered many of her own clothes. Her formal training was at the Drexel Institute, where she first was graduated with a bachelor's degree, but stayed on to teach art and costume design and get her master's.

Her thesis on "High Fashion in Packaging" landed her a job with a package design firm, where she pioneered shopping bags keyed to the character of individual stores. She dreamed up the violet-spattered bags for New York's Bonwit Teller, the brown brush-stroke ones for Saks Fifth Avenue, the bright blue for Wanamaker's in Philadelphia, and a series of four keyed to the four seasons for K. H. Stearns, Boston.

Mrs. Bates said that a remark she made three years ago to her husband, as he helped with the dishes, led to the establishment of her fashion business. She commented, as she looked out the window at an old carriage house half a lot away, "I wish we could make that into a workroom and I could be a designer on my own."

"All right," said her husband, "we'll do it."

The Bates family and neighbors did most of the reconstruction and refinishing of the old stone building, headquarters today for a business supplying fashion — appropriately enough — to the carriage trade.

To be included in the convention program will be a discussion of the association's legislative program, which centers around strengthening licensing law for registered nurses in Texas. Ike S. Kampmann Jr. of San Antonio, attorney for TGNIA will be the speaker and will point out that a strong law assures the public that only qualified nurses may be licensed in the state. Other programs will feature a talk by Dr. Robert Sutherland, director of the Hogg Foundation, on mental health today; discussions on nursing care of patients who have had heart surgery and the use of the latest types of equipment in care of patients.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in school and so is Clyde. We've been steady for five months. I tried out for the senior class and got the lead. His leading is a very stacked girl. He is to kiss her in the last act. He has to, but my friends that Clyde has been going to this girl's house every night practice the last act.

CLYDE'S STEADY: I'm five feet ten and very thin. She is married to my brother who is six feet three. Do you think she will look even with him? I think she is not don't you think he is?

KEEPING QUIET: I'm five feet ten and very thin. Do you think she will look even with him? I think she is not don't you think he is?

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago I picked up some woman's handbags at the bus station. She talked him into a locker. She then she was a nurse, married a doctor, but she was on a boat on her. Like a dope she swallowed her story.

BELET-PINAFORE: I have a pinafore with detachable collar for the young miss! It's a outfit and features adorable motifs in easy embroidery.

NO. 5235 has tissue - 3, 4 inclusive; hot-iron color chart, full direct.

Send 25 cents in coin for ANNE CABOT, Pampa News, 372 W. Quincy St., 4, Ill. First-class mailing add 10 each pattern. Print name, with zone and Pattern No. The '60 Album contains lovely designs and free. Only 25 cents a copy!

Then she talked him into checking her into a hotel room. Somehow or other she got into his wallet and all he knows is that it was empty when he got home. He had over $200 in it. Is there any way he can catch up with her? He doesn't even know her last name.

HIS WIFE: DEAR WIFE:~Since your husband is so easily "talked into" things why don't you talk him into going to the police station? He might be able to identify her from pictures they have on file of women who have been booked for this sort of thing. Without the police, it would be pretty futile.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SIDE DISH": You will never get away with it. The sins we do two by two we pay for one by one.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Every Teen-Ager Wants To Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

Flour Adds Just Right Touch To De Luxe Soup

Professional chefs and many homemakers use potato flour as a thickener for hearty soup - because they like both the flavor and texture. Now, you may already have on your pantry shelf the new instant potato flakes for making mashed potatoes in a hurry. These flakes also make an excellent thickener for a main course soup such as this Lenten Soup. You could serve it with a green salad and with a loaf of French or Italian bread garlic buttered, wrapped securely in aluminum foil and heated in the oven.

POTATO SOUP DE LUXE
1 qt. rich milk
1 can (3 oz.) sliced or chopped broiled mushrooms
1 teaspoon onion flakes
2 teaspoons salt
1 package (8 oz.) quick-frozen raw shrimp
1 package (10 oz.) carrots and peas
1 envelope (2 1/2 oz.) instant potato flakes
Heat milk, mushrooms including broth, onion flakes and salt together. Add shrimp partially thawed and cut into 3 or 4 pieces, and the carrots and peas cooked according to package directions. Cook over low heat until the shrimp turn pink. Remove from heat, and stir in potato flakes. Allow to stand for 3 minutes and serve immediately.

MAKES: 4 large or 6 medium servings.
VARIATIONS: Instead of frozen shrimp, you can vary this recipe by using shredded cooked ham, cooked fish flakes or diced raw fish fillets. South African rock lobster or just a variety of colorful cooked vegetables.

ORIENTATION (Continued from Page 15) ter from the world about the the the Psalmists concerned themselves with the testimony rather than the presence of God in nature. Nature to the Psalmists is not an end to be enjoyed in itself, but a means of insight and understanding to the nature of God." The speaker said. Mrs. Dwaine Lyons brought the program to a close with a study of the second chapter of "Consider the Church," the mission study. The home of Mrs. W. B. Colwell, 1315 Hamilton, will be the meeting place on Wednesday, April 20.

The dramatic cone-shaped hairdo known as the "beehive" is one you'll be wearing and seeing this spring. For gala occasions, have it done by a hairdresser. And with a little practice, you can manage it yourself the balance of the week. This girl starts (left) with medium and jumbo-sized rollers which will give the hair just the right amount of body and curl. She brushes out her hair vigorously, using a few drops of light lubricant to add highlights and make the hair easier to manage. Here is the finished hairdo (right) in one of the many versions of the beehive. It can be done with center part or no part. A light touch of hair spray will help hold the finished hairdo in place.

Dramatic Cone-Shaped 'Beehive' Can Be Handled At Home With Know-How

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Beauty Editor

If you haven't been following the latest beauty and fashion news, a beehive to you is just something you'd prefer not to run into accidentally. But if you have, you know it's the newest rage in hairdos.

Although the dramatic, dome-shaped beehive hairdos are rather difficult to manage, they are not impossible to create at home, according to Eddie Senz, the well-known New York hair stylist. He believes that for special occasions, however, the beehive should be created by a professional.

Anyone with at least 12 inches of hair and a little patience can arrange her own beehive by following these step-by-step instructions offered by the hair stylist:

Use five or six medium-sized rollers for the front and start above the left eye. Turn the hair to the right and end these curls at the right ear.

Set three forward pin curls, close to the hairline on the left side, and directly behind these, set one medium-sized roller, placed vertically, with the hair curled toward the face.

For the crown and top, use four jumbo rollers and turn the hair toward the face. Then set the remainder of the hair on medium-sized rollers and turn the rollers diagonally toward the left.

To comb out your beehive, first brush your hair vigorously using a few drops of a light lubricant to make it manageable and add high-lights.

Section off the front and sides of the hair and pin them to keep them out of your way.

When you come to the back, leave about one and one-half inches of hair free, then brush up the rest to form a "miniature mushroom cloud." Roll this hair forward loosely to form a large knot, tucking the ends under and pinning them.

Now brush the remaining back hair to the right and secure it a little off center, leaving the ends free. Fold the ends to cover the bobby pins and secure them. Comb the left side back off the face and pin ends. Comb right side back and pin it.

Brush the front hair to the left, dipping it slightly to form the bang and blend ends smoothly into hair and pin them. With a tail comb or large hairpin, coax the knot higher and gently spread the hair to cover any lines of demarcation left from sectioning off front and sides.

Remember, before you decide to try it that a young, smooth face looks best under the beehive hairstyle. It is severe enough to age the more angular face, and there's no point in wearing something that's new if it doesn't make you look your best.

Fellowship Class Hears Tour Talk

Mrs. Laura Belle Cornelius opened the meeting with a poem and prayer.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Corinne Bell, president, it was decided to send an Easter outfit to the classes' adopted daughter at Juliette Fowler Home in Dallas.

Miss Spough showed slides of her recent summer trip to points in Washington, D.C., New York, Boston, Cambridge, up the coast of Maine, Nova Scotia; into Canada and to Niagara Falls.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Attending, in addition to those mentioned above were Meses. D. V. Burton, Gladys Harvey, Lillian Snow, Teresa Humphreys, W. R. Bonnell, A. DeGrace, W. R. Harlin and guests, Mrs. J. C. McWilliams and Mrs. Alma Gibbens.

Keeping Records Topic For Merten

Merten Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday morning at 9:30 in the home of Mrs. Jack Howard for a program on "Keeping Records" presented by Miss Lou Ella Patterson, Gray County Home Demonstration Agent.

Miss Patterson advised the group that all insurance policies, receipts, instructions for appliances, and papers of any value should be kept together, either in a box or a file box. "One should make a list of everything of value in the house; in case anything is stolen then a complete description can be given to the police. If you keep valuables in a bank box, a list of its contents should be kept on file at home."

A husband and a wife, as well as one of the children should have a key to the bank box.

Mrs. Bob Brandson, president, conducted a brief business meeting. Refreshments were served during the social hour to Meses. Bob Brandson, A. M. Nash, Walter Murphy, T. G. Groves, Jack Prather, Miss Patterson and Sherill Brandson.

Future Of Labor Movement At Stake

Union Drives For White Collar Workers Fail

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The big union drives for white collar workers during the past two years have failed.

That's now shown by Department of Labor research.

Around a third of the nation's non-farm labor force is now composed of salaried white collar workers. But less than an eighth of union members are white collar men. In the two years from 1958 to 1960, white collar workers in unions apparently declined markedly.

This bodes no good for longtime future influence of labor unions. White collar workers are becoming a larger and larger share of the labor market. In manufacturing, the percentage of white collar workers has almost doubled in the last 15 years.

In some fields this will gradually mean a lessening of union power. Take one example: the last strikes by long-distance telephone workers haven't worked well. The lines are now so mechanized that supervisors and other non-union men have been able to carry on essential services during the strikes.

In aircraft manufacture, the number of blue collar workers — standby of the unions — has declined from almost 80 per cent of the total employment to around 60 per cent.

Growing shifts from blue-collar to white collar work in industry has been paralleled by declines in the membership of such lusty unions as the auto workers, steel workers and mine workers.

In the last recession, these three groups lost three-fourths of a million members. Much of that was probably recession caused, and will be recovered in the boom, Labor Department men predict. But they expect the net in the long run to be a decline.

Unions started growing vigorously in the 30s. Back in 1933, only five per cent of the labor force belonged to unions. By 1946, that membership was up to 23.5 per cent.

But in the last 14 years, unions have done little more than hold their own overall. Even before the last recession, unions had begun to go backward a little. Though membership was growing, their strength was moving down slightly as a share of the total labor force.

Significantly, this non-recession decline apparently is primarily among the white collar workers.

As the missile-electronic-atomic age grows, the number of engineers, scientists, architects and draftsmen grows by leaps and bounds.

But of approximately 850 thousand men in these fields in private industry, fewer than 60 thousand are organized.

Only one-seventh of the 4.3 million clerical employees outside the government are union members. And not more than 20 per cent of federal white collar workers belong to employ organizations.

Fewer than a tenth of the five million employees of state and local governments are organized.

Unionism has been negligible in banking, insurance, real estate.

The union men have not been completely unsuccessful. They've scored marked success with musicians, actors, newspapermen and writers. They've organized most postal employees. They've brought in a lot of white collar workers in railway and communications unions.

But the overall showing is not great.

Research men in the Department of Labor have sought to find out why. They're not certain yet, but they report these theories:

—The white collar worker is closer to management. He tends to think of his own aims and the company's as being the same.

—Unions usually are dominated by blue collar workers. The white collar man often wants to think of himself as different, on a higher level.

—Many white collar workers think they have a better chance of getting ahead on individual merit than by collective bargaining.

—A good many engineers, chemists and other scientific men see a conflict between union membership and the confidential relationship between a professional man and his employer.

So far the unions haven't given up. They're in the process right now of organizing new drives for the white collar workers. They're worried about the future of unions if they don't succeed.

The Labor Department researchers see some signs ahead of greater union success. But privately some union men say they're no closer to the answer than they were several years ago.

TOP GOLD BUYER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Great Britain was the big purchaser of U.S. gold last year. She spent 250 million dollars on U.S. gold bullion while France was second, buying $265,700,000 worth of gold and Japan was third, buying $157,400,000 worth.

First opera to be written for television was "Amahl and the Night Visitors" by Gian-Carlo Menotti.

PERCENTAGE OF UNION MEMBERS in work force, left, began leveling off at about the time employment in service industries grew larger than that in production industries, right. Service industries generally employ more white collar workers.

SAFARI FOR SOULS
WITH BILLY GRAHAM IN AFRICA
By TOM McMAHAN, Religion Editor, The State, Columbia, S. C.

(Special to the Daily News)
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — American diplomats from all over Africa rolled out a red carpet as Billy Graham's "Safari for Souls" passed their way.

The V.I.P. treatment accorded the evangelist was particularly noticeable in this capital of a strategic country which is leaning slightly toward neutralism.

High officials here said that the state department generally views Graham's overseas tour as one of America's best cultural exports.

Graham's meetings reflect the religious side of American life, thus helping to counteract the charge that Uncle Sam is a money grabbing militarist, they indicated.

The United States Information Service also publicized the Addis Ababa visit of the famous jazz band which followed Graham in across Africa and finally caught up with him here.

Also in town was a cultural curtain from behind the Bamboo Curtain — a team of acrobats from Peking. The Red Chinese group stayed at the same hotel as the Graham team.

Executive Suite Analyzed

The Old Army Game At Work — Passing The Buck

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — In these expert times of management consultants and executive training programs, it turns out that nobody really knows what management is any more, or what executives do nowadays, or why.

Things are so bad, in fact, that a casual observer in business expertland is in constant jeopardy from toppling images and exploding theories. To wit:

1. Executives make decisions. Who says so, asks Alan Harrington, author of the latest analysis of the modern corporation. "I'm in the Crystal Palace." "I often find the executives are busy dividing the responsibility so that nobody will be caught making a decision. Eventually something is done, but usually too late."
2. Management makes policy. "Not if they can help it," says Dr. Robert McMurphy who has been a management consultant since 1923 and has just published a summary of his career entitled "McMurphy's Management Clinic."
- "It was the depression," he said. "I couldn't get a job. So I became a consultant. Very convenient for management, we consultants. We determine the policy and we get blamed if it doesn't work."
3. Executives have power and can hire and fire.

It may be power but it doesn't feel like power, says the Industrial Relations News, journal for personnel officers. A recent IRN survey finds that most hirers feel their jobs are unimportant, dead ends or merely stepping stones to "really important" management posts.

Even on the executive level, hiring is being turned over more and more to outside agents. Take one example: the Executive Manpower Corp. which started four years ago and now employs 17 experts who spend their time searching for $15,000 to $125,000-a-year executives for needy firms.

"When you come right down to it," says Executive Manpower chief Bill Herten, "most openings in top management could be filled by any of 50 or 60 qualified men."

"We take this heavy responsibility of selecting our management's shoulders and present no more than two contenders for final hiring."

4. The executive suite is a rat race and only the fit survive.

No, says critic Harrington from inside the Crystal Palace. Psychological testing and standardized interviews allow only sameness and mediocrity to enter. Super-organization allows advancement only by the numbers.

Agreed, says executive-finder Herten. Modern management science makes many highly-qualified men phony up backgrounds they think are necessary, but the lying backfires and disqualifies them.

And executive training programs, says clinician McMurphy from his file of case histories, tend to make yes-men out of the trainees—men who never make constructive criticisms but wait for somebody else's plan to falter.

5. Management has the trappings of higher status.

Not always, says Vance Packard, author of "The Status Seekers." You can't always tell by a man's clothes or car what job he has. . . .

Nor by his taste in books, music, art or diversion, says George S. Odiorne, Director of the University of Michigan Bureau of Industrial Relations.

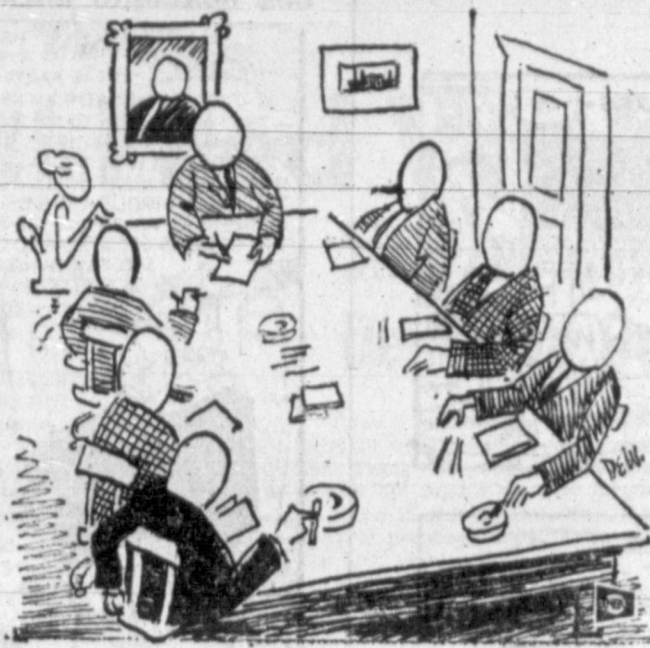

You can't always tell by his salary, either.

In fact, Odiorne says, too many management people don't have e-enough status symbols to keep them bucking for promotion. And they need the symbols because they can't enjoy the substance.

After all, they don't have time, energy, patience or leisure to use more pay, more elegant offices, more exclusive clubs, better and bigger houses.

But we'd better offer them anyway. As Odiorne sees the problem, we're not in danger of creating a status elite, but instead we're not attracting enough people to the executive ranks.

EXPERT SAYS executives are busy dividing the responsibilities so that nobody will be caught making a decision.

NO MONEY, NO BRIDE
LONDON (UPI) — Ex-King Simeon of Bulgaria, 22, Friday labelled himself "the poorest ex-king in Europe" and said he believes he has been given up as a suitor for Europe's bevy of unmarried princesses.

He said "nobody tried to marry me off" to any of the eligible princesses at the recent princesses ball he attended here.

RADIO FOR BIRDS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission has authorized the use of tiny radio transmitters mounted on game birds to trace their movements. The announcement Friday was headed "radio has really become something for the birds."

Quotes In The News

LONDON — Pelping Radio on the prison sentences of a bishop and other Roman Catholics on charges of spying and counter-revolutionary activities:

"Their collusion with the imperialists and treason against the motherland under the cloak of religion constituted serious crimes of high treason."

WASHINGTON — I. Lee Potter, Republican Southern director, in a memorandum to the South on Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler:

"Butler... is pressing a drive to control the Democrat convention for a platform written by the radical Democratic Advisory Council, with Eleanor Roosevelt contributing her biased views on civil rights."

—Will the general level of prices and costs in the economy continue to rise and, if so, by how much?

Weed Control Needed, Says County Agent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The farm-retail spread for the farm food "market basket" averaged $441 in 1959, about 1 per cent higher than in 1958.

The Agriculture Department reports this was one of the smallest increases since 1947 in the annual average spread—the charges for assembling, processing, and distributing the farm foods in the market basket. During the 1947-59 period, these charges increased by an average of 3 per cent, compounded annually, and declined only once.

The increase became so regular during the 50s that the consuming public became familiar with this headline: "Marketing costs up from a year ago; further increases in prospect for next year."

But what about the new decade? What are the prospects for 1960?

Department economists already have answered the first question. They have made an educated guess on the second.

"Again this year," they said, "further increases in food marketing costs are entirely probable. However, the amount of increase is likely to be smaller than in several years of the 50s."

During the past decade, the spread between what consumers paid for their food products and what farmers got increased each year. At the beginning of the period, it cost an annual rate of $488 to move a typical annual market basket of food products from farms to urban consumers. By the close of the decade, this had risen to $641, an increase of about one-third.

(The annual market basket is a yardstick used by the department to denote the average supply of

Rise In Food Marketing Costs During Decade Seen

"Half of the wheat fields in Gray County are heavily infested with winter weeds to need control measures," County Agent Ralph Thomas stated after inspecting fields in the High Plains area recently.

Thomas said that the three principal winter weeds infesting Gray County wheat are tancy mustard, pepper grass and poverty weed. These weeds are in the form of a mat from one to three inches in diameter and they look harmless enough at the present time," Thomas said, "but if not controlled they can mean the loss of many bushels of wheat at harvest time."

The weeds are easily controlled by spraying with ester of 2, 4-D acid equivalent of one-fourth to one-third pound per acre, if applied while the weeds are small," advised Thomas. Good results may be obtained by applying the spray with either an airplane or ground equipment. If ground equipment is used, Thomas cautioned farmers to be sure that the sprayer is correctly calibrated, as effective control cannot be expected with less than one-fourth pound of 2, 4-D and more than one-third pound per acre may damage the wheat.

Thomas said that anyone needing assistance in calibrating sprayers should contact his office in the courthouse annex.

"Spraying should be done as soon as possible for best results," advised Thomas. "Fields should be sprayed when day time temperature is around 50 degrees or higher, and wind velocity not more than 10 miles per hour." For better results two pounds of detergent per hundred gallons of spray should be used with ground equipment.

Big Texas Is Getting Even Bigger

AUSTIN (UPI)—"Big D" got even bigger and El Paso, Lubbock and Odessa have swelled at the seams during the past decade, the Texas Municipal League reported Saturday.

The population of Dallas climbed 102 per cent during the past 10 years, the league reported, while El Paso's population jumped 119 per cent, Lubbock 108 and Odessa 184.

Based on current estimates, the league said, Texas cities with more than 10,000 population in 1950 have averaged 64 per cent increase during the decade.

Among the other major cities of the state, Houston had a 68 per cent growth, San Antonio up 38 per cent, Fort Worth 40, Austin 51, Corpus Christi 62, Amarillo 99, Beaumont 30, Waco 42, Midland 150 and Wichita Falls 44 per cent.

Also Galveston 8 per cent, Abilene 53, Port Arthur 12, San Angelo 31, Laredo 32, Tyler 45, Victoria 172, Temple 50 and Lufkin 40 per cent.

Fifteen other cities more than doubled their population during the period. They were Pasadena, up 168 per cent, Arlington 524, Irving 1,617, Garland 254, Grand Prairie 160, Killean 267, Mesquite 1,323, Haltom City 127, Bellaire 114, Westaco 117, Brownfield 103, Richardson 864, Farmers Branch 1,211, Andrews 219, and Lake Jackson 245 per cent.

The league estimated that 115 cities now have more than 10,000 population. In 1950 there were only 71.

The 1960 census, the league predicted, will show nearly 70 per cent of the Texas population resides in the 155 leading cities. Rio Grande Valley cities also showed marked growth, the league reported. Brownsville's population increased 25 per cent, Harlingen 59, McAllen 60, Edinburg 50, San Benito 22, Mission 29, Mercedes 28 and Raymondville 20, Pharr 21 per cent.

20 Intentions To Drill Filed With TRRC

IPAA District Meet To Be Here

More than 150 members of the Independent Petroleum Association of America and guests are expected to attend a district meeting Thursday in the Coronado. The event will start at 8 p.m. and gas producers from throughout the Panhandle have been invited.

Alvin C. Hope, IPAA president of San Antonio, and L. Dan Washington, D.C., legal counsel of the national oil trade association, will be principal speakers.

Plans for the meeting were announced by George B. Cree, Jr., president of IPAA for the Panhandle, and E. L. Green, Jr., member of its 25-man national executive committee.

Cree and Green have sent letters to oil and gas producing contractors, suppliers, bankers and leaders in related fields throughout the Pan-

... hosts to district IPAA meeting. However, they stressed that the meeting will be open to "all" concerned with maintaining a healthy petroleum industry in the United States.

Hope, who has participated in a series of "grass roots" IPAA meetings in areas throughout Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, will discuss industry projects in which the organization is involved, including a new "Ways and Means committee" being organized to study the many factors contributing to industry ills.

Jones, one of the petroleum industry's better known Washington representatives, will outline the nature and scope of current congressional activities of interest to oil and gas producers. He will discuss chances for a gas bill to remove gas production from federal utility regulation.

The meeting also will feature an open discussion in which producers will have adequate time to question the IPAA officers, and to make suggestions as to industry problems and the association's efforts, said Cree and Green.

"We hope all producers will attend the meeting," they said, "and come prepared to discuss the issues facing our industry."

52nd Year THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS SUNDAY, MARCH 20, 1960 21

NOW THERE ARE TWO — Construction has been completed on a second TCC catalytic cracking plant, left, at the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corp. McKee Plant near Dumas. The new installation is operating at near capacity. The design capacity is expected to be reached in the new unit in about a week. At peak capacity, 8,000 barrels of fresh gas oil and 7,000 barrels of recycle feed will pass through the installation daily, with the gas oils processed to 88 per cent conversion. The added operation at the Shamrock plant will enable the company to double its cracking output. It will also allow Shamrock to increase its refinery capacity to about 26,000 barrels daily.

Technology Hasn't Spared The Oil Industry

LSA, Okla. (UPI) — Technical unemployment, brought by automation, has not spared the oil industry.

Tulsa firm which recently that problem managed to the sting out of it.

Service Pipe Line Co. last year razed its pipe line trunk in Texas by installing automatic equipment. This threw 43 pipelayers out of work — but not for long.

Service had no more use for the men but it didn't forget them. Instead, the company set up a placement office under the supervision of Gene Baker, of the industrial relations department.

"One of the steps in the plan was to provide a monetary allowance to assist men in relocating," Baker said. "Another was to determine the size of the anticipated reduction far enough in advance to give those affected considerable time to seek employment — much more than the usual two or three weeks."

The company studied the employment opportunities throughout Texas and kept the men informed. The firm also broke the news to the men to be released gradually and through personal contact.

When the union who represented the pipelayers — the Oil, Chem-

The district meeting of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, scheduled here Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Coronado Inn, just didn't happen, I understand. It is the result of some pretty fancy footwork, legwork and fast talking by George Cree Jr., and E. L. Green, Jr. A meeting of this sort will go a long way in getting the word throughout the Panhandle that Pampa is becoming the top convention city of the Top O' Texas. It all boils down to what we offer — a friendliness and facilities. See the story with full details elsewhere on this page.

Spring is here today, and with it we all hope will come increased production and drilling activity. According to figures of the American Ass'n. of Oilwell Drilling Contractors, 154 rotary rigs were in operation this time last year. The report shows that as of last week, March 14, only 98 were operating. A week ago, 97 were drilling, and one month ago, a mere 84 were active.

For a fee, and you might interpret this as plugola, Interstate Development Maps of Amarillo now has available a new geological pay formation map covering Southwestern Kansas. This is the only map yet drafted on the area, the firms claims. It shows all wells, both producers and failures in their true location. Operator and fee is shown on all producers and field names are printed adjacent to the actual producing area described. Previous maps have been drafted on the northeast Texas Panhandle and the Oklahoma Panhandle. All three maps are available with posting current to Jan. 1.

Wonder how many know that the world's deepest well, 25,340 feet, drilled in Pecos County, was abandoned as a dry hole in 1959. Phillips Petroleum Co. was the loser on this five-mile "trip."

morale and spirit," said one new employee.

From his efforts, Baker reaped a harvest of personal thanks from the pipelayers whose transition from one job to another had been as smooth as oil through a pipeline.

Deep Wells and Well in West Year

LLAS (UPI)—Oil and gas operators in seven states pay sands" on 82 new wells produce oil or gas from three miles below the earth's surface in 1959, the Petroleum Age reported last week.

The survey showed Louisiana leads the nation in the total of deep wells with 759. Texas was second with 122.

Other "deep well" states included California 50; Oklahoma 34; Mississippi 21; New Mexico 16; Wyoming 10; Colorado and Alabama three each; Florida two; and North Dakota one.

The magazine said America has 1,021 deep wells drilled from 15,000 to 25,340 feet. It cost operators about 700 million dollars to drill them. "But the average cost of wells below 15,000 feet was $650,000."
