

Hotel Gutted By Early Morning Fire

Guest Badly Burned, Given Slight Chance To Survive

By CHARLIE CROSS
Daily News Staff Writer

A three-alarm fire early this morning gutted the Alamo Hotel and put one man in the hospital with burns over more than 35 per cent of his body.

Highland General Hospital attendants said Bill Strange of Pampa is in poor condition as a result of his burns.

Herbert R. Edens, about 30, of Honey Grove, Tex., who had been missing since the fire began, was found about noon today by Captain Denny Roan. Roan said he saw Edens leaving a local hotel. It was feared for a while that Edens had lost his life in the blaze.

Dr. Charles Ashby, who attended Strange, said he has second and third degree burns over practically all his body and is not expected to live. He described his condition as critical.

Edens and a friend, Donald Lee Beadman of Kermit, Tex., came to Pampa about 10 days ago, looking for work. Beadman said he and Edens returned to the hotel at 12:45 a.m. from an all-night cafe across the street from the hotel and went to their adjoining rooms.

Name 3 To Tax Board

Commissioners Discuss Streets

City commissioners reapportioned two men and named a new men to the City Tax Board of Equalization at their meeting this morning in city hall.

Reappointed were E. J. Lewis, Jr., and George Scott. Appointed to a first term was Charles Cook. An organizational meeting of the board will be held in the near future.

In other business, the commission discussed highways and thoroughfares in the city with District Highway Engineer Cliff Smith. Smith discussed bases and toppings for highways in this area.

In discussing the future widening of McCullough St., Smith told the group the highway commission's standard in widening a highway through a town is that the city finance right-of-way, curb and gutter and any sidewalks that are needed and the state will widen the highway. He said the state will act as the city's agent in that they will make the plans and let the contractors on the construction.

In discussing the realignment and widening to State Hwy. 273, Smith said the project would run to about one million dollars.

Charles Spivy, representative for Koche & Fowler and Grate, appeared at this morning's meeting to discuss the long range plan now being considered by the city.

Commissioners also heard the second reading of Ordinance 528 to extend the city limits to include the Hendricks Apartments, now under construction, and paid monthly bills in the amount of $18,198.85. They paid utility bills amounting to $473.32.

In final action, City Secretary Ed Vickers was authorized to transfer $34,000 from the water and sewer improvement bonds, 1948 interest and sinking fund, to time deposit, approved an estimate of $14,276.39 to W. G. Bellamy construction Co., for sewer completed on the sanitation sewer east of town, and approved an estimate of $835.18 to Roberts, Merriman, Bowden and Isbell for engineering services.

Stevenson Looks Like A Candidate

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. — (UPI) — Adlai Stevenson, despite his denials, looked a good deal like someone running for president today.

Stevenson insisted in New York Monday he was not a candidate for the Democratic nomination, but he was not expected to get it and had a third try at the White House. He then flew here for a "non-political" visit but it was evident that Stevenson was flashing his best smile, shaking a lot of hands and preparing to take a snap at the Republicans.

West Hammers Out Summit Strategy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, arriving for the summit conference today, told reporters that the Western strategy to set Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's surprise proposal was "not a handout."

Herter, Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville begin their three-day huddle this afternoon at the State Department.

Lloyd said he hoped the summit conference would bring about a relaxation of East-West tensions and make some progress toward disarmament.

But Western officials predicted no spectacular solutions at the summit meeting of Khrushchev, President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, and French President Charles de Gaulle.

Vows To Kill A Couple Of Cops

Kill-Crazy Youth Holds Sister-In-Law Hostage

PULASKI, Va. (UPI) — A teenage mill hand, who barricaded himself in a house with his 10-year-old sister-in-law as a hostage, vowed today to "kill me a couple of cops" before surrendering.

Jack Jennings, 18, a skinny hero-worshiper of slain outlaw "Baby Face" Nelson, fired a shotgun blast at two officers who demanded that he give himself up to police surrounding the modest brick home of his father-in-law.

Tension Rises At U.S. Cuban Base

HAVANA (UPI) — The big U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo was expected today to become a focus of renewed tension as a result of Washington refusal to reinstate a Cuban union leader fired there.

U.S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal handed a stiffly-worded note to Deputy Foreign Minister Marcelo Fernandez Monday rejecting Cuban demands for his rehiring of Federico Figueras Larrazabal.

The wording of the note — and of two others — delivered simultaneously, dealing with other subjects — indicated the United States was adopting a harder line toward Premier Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime.

There was no immediate Cuban reaction.

Castro himself was not in Havana, and observers here were wondering why he had not replied to an earlier U.S. comment on his administration.

President Eisenhower's charge that he had "betrayed the Cuban revolution."

Two theories were offered to explain Castro's silence — that he was too busy trying to rout Capt. Manuel Beaton's rebels out of the Maestra Mountains or that he is moving up his answer to Eisenhower for a major May Day speech.

The government is said to have ordered university students who were preparing their own reply to Eisenhower to lay off the subject, indicating that Castro is reserving the task for himself.

The U.S. refusal to rehire Figueras amounted to a challenge of leftist Labor Minister Augusto Martinez Sanchez's March 24 declaration that local employees of the base are "Cubans working in Cuban territory and subject to the laws of this nation."

Under those laws it is illegal to fire an employe for any reason.

The ministry could choose to make a test case of Figueras who was dismissed for urging workers to spy on base activities, for saying there were indications of an imminent invasion by the United States and for anti-American agitation.

Opposition Backs Foes In S. Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The leader of the opposition United Party endorsed today the stern measures taken by the South African government to break the back of Negro resistance to white supremacy laws.

Sir De Villiers Graaff told a news conference in Cape Town that he favored the state of emergency and other measures because these were still lawlessness in African townships and locations.

Graaff, whose party also supports segregation, said he would "strongly resist" any United Nations attempt to intervene in South Africa's internal affairs.

"We must accept South Africa as a multi-racial state," he said, but the Negroes "must be regarded as citizens of Bantu (native) states yet to be formed."

S. Africa Unyielding To World Pressures

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The South African government gave no sign today of yielding to internal and worldwide pressure for easing of its racial discrimination policies.

Despite pleas for a reappraisal of the white supremacy laws, the government gave every indication it would carry on the line of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd while he is recuperating in a hospital from an assassin's bullet.

South African businessmen, clergymen, native leaders and some newspapers have called for the white government to take a new look at the way it treats the black-man.

From abroad there has been a barrage of criticism from politicians, newspapers organizations and even some governments, even within the British Commonwealth of which South Africa is a member.

But South African police, continuing the government crackdown on native unrest, raided the native township of Rand Monday, confiscating weapons and arresting scores of blacks.

Police and court officials clamped a lid of secrecy on the case of wealthy farmer David Pratt, 52, arrested in connection with the shooting of Verwoerd.

He had been expected to be arraigned in court Monday but did not appear and later detectives (See PRESSURES, Page 3)

McClellan Will Resume Racket Hearings In Fall

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John L. McClellan (D- Ark.) will resume his racket hearings during the fall of 1960, he said today. McClellan was chairman of the Senate subcommittee on labor-management relations during the last Congress.

McClellan said his government operations investigating subcommittee would resume hearings on racketeering, graft and corruption in some labor-management operations.

The racket committee expired March 31.

McClellan said his government operations investigating subcommittee now had "all the power that the select (rackets) committee had" during the last Congress. The racket committee powers, he said, would be held on a stand-by basis to police any abuses in the labor reform law passed last year by Congress.

"There are a number of areas under investigation," he said.

McClellan was chairman of the select (rackets) committee during three years of often stormy public hearings which exposed racketeering, graft and corruption in some labor-management operations.

Farmer Pledges Fight To Regain Farm Sold By U.S.

ELDRIDGE, N.D. (UPI) — Farmer Fay Heasley made plans today for a legal fight to regain his 4,500 acre wheat empire sold by the federal government for back income taxes.

Heasley bowed to a federal court order and moved his family out of the $350,000 ranch. "But I'm not done," Heasley said.

"We've got to fight for our rights," said Paul Heasley, Fay's son.

But while the Heasley family studied legal avenues, the new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Arvil Glinz of Newburg, N.D., took over the prime wheat land. They bought it from the federal government for $275,300.

Heasley, now in his 60's, started the farm "with an applebox" 41 years ago. He survived the depression and drought of the 30's only to lose a tax battle with the government.

Six years ago, the government presented him with a tax bill for $40,000. Heasley refused to pay it, and the bill got bigger every day.

When the government finally stepped in and sold the farm Heasley's bill was more than $200,000. And another $25 is added to that figure every day.

It was during the "golden" 40s that the rich land poured money into Heasley's pockets. And it was during those same years the trouble with the government began.

Heasley was charged with "grossly" understating his income for the years 1944-49. It was contended that he claimed excessive deductions with "intent to evade taxes."

In 1958, Heasley was convicted of criminal tax fraud and Federal Judge Ronald R. Davies ordered the farm sold to the highest bidder. The government then valued it at $434,000.

"We're fighting only for our God-given rights, which we're not getting," Paul Heasley said. "This is going to happen to all Americans who don't fight for rights."

But even if Heasley won an appeal, said U.S. Dist. Atty. Robert Voigt, the government would be left with a $100,000 loss.

Fabulous Storm Spied By Tiros

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Tiros TV weather satellite has photographed the largest storm ever observed, a "fabulously large" cyclone more than 2,000 miles across.

Those photographed — the storm first on April 11, the day the satellite was launched, and kept it under periodic surveillance for more than three days. Weather scientists had not realized such huge circulation patterns existed. Pictures of the giant rotary cloud pattern were screened for newsmen Monday, along with scores of others sent to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by the Kaena Point, Hawaii, tracking station.

Unemployment Report Due From U.S. Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department planned today to make public the monthly jobs report at noon, e.s.t.

Economists blamed exceptionally bad weather for last month's increase in joblessness and said it also caused a decline in employment below the February reading of 44,520,000.

Employment usually increases in March as activity picks up seasonally in trade, construction and agriculture.

But officials said bitter cold and heavy snows curtailed expansion in these lines this year and brought about the "worsening in the job picture."

The jobless increase was expected to lift the unemployment rate from February's 4.8 per cent to well over 5 per cent for March.

Labor Department economists said the figure showed "no real deterioration" — but they added that it would be difficult to give the economy a clean bill of health unless there was a sharp snap back in the job situation in April and May.

W. Virginia Seen As Key For Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Predictions came from widely separated observation posts today that Sen. John F. Kennedy could wrap up the Democratic presidential nomination by winning the West Virginia primary.

The forecasts were heard from Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.), who is regarded as a supporter of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, and Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W.Va.), an announced Johnson backer.

Kennedy faces Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) in the West Virginia presidential primary May 10. He defeated Humphrey in the Wisconsin primary last week.

West Virginia poses a crucial test for Kennedy, a Catholic, on the religious issue because less than 5 per cent of its population is Catholic. A Kennedy victory there would be regarded as significant evidence that his religion is not a handicap.

En route to California Monday, Nixon told newsmen at Chicago that Kennedy would be a "shoot-in" for the Democratic nomination if the Massachusetts senator wins in West Virginia.

Back from a trip to the Northwest, Mansfield told reporters that a victory in West Virginia would give Kennedy a "runaway" lead in the Democratic race.

Byrd said he had been telling voters in his state that the primary might be their last chance (See KENNEDY, Page 3)

From the Foreign Editor's Notebook:

ADENAUER-KHRUSHCHEV: Looking for a hastily arranged meeting between Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer — possibly just before the start of the Paris-East-West summit meeting in May, Diplomats say Khrushchev is favorably inclined toward a conference with Adenauer, the only major Western leader who has not huddled with the Kremlin boss in preparation for the summit.

PHILIPPINE WEST GERMAN: West Germany is making a quiet, effective play for expanded business in the Philippines — mostly at the expense of American firms. And the outlook seems very encouraging for the Germans. The current tug-of-war is for establishment of a steel mill in the Philippines. There is little doubt that the Germans will underbid the United States. Ironically, most of the dollars to pay for it come from the United States.

DE GAULLE REMAINS FIRM: French President Charles de Gaulle can be expected to make a strong pitch against any weakening of the Western stand on Europe in general and Germany in particular during his forthcoming visit to the United States. Reports from Washington that the West might agree to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany if the East Germans vote in favor of it caused major alarm in French official circles.

PLAIN TALKING: There will be some plain talking to South Africa's Premier Hendrik Verwoerd at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London May 3-13. Verwoerd has said he is going to the meeting but indicated that he would not allow any open discussion at the full-dress conference of South Africa's internal racial conflict. He conceded the issue might be reviewed at informal bilateral talks. Macmillan intends to put another warning to Verwoerd along the lines of his earlier warning during his South African visit in February. But the fireworks are likely to come from other members of the commonwealth — notably India's Jawaharlal Nehru, Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah, and other Afro-Asian leaders.

Authorities said both were taken to the University of Texas Medical Branch hospital at Galveston.

Humble Sauerkraut Factory Now Turns Out Most Fashionable Ski Sportswear

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — A factory which once made humble sauerkraut today turns out some of the haughtiest ski apparel worn on slopes from Squaw Valley to St. Moritz.

Owners of the modern plant in the foothills of the Bavarian Alps are Maria and Willy Bogner, a husband-wife team of skiers and manufacturers credited in many sports circles with a whole revolution in recent years both in color and construction of ski wear.

In 1952, the Bogners introduced stretch pants and today "Bogners" is a generally used term for ski trousers made of a combination of wool with elasticized nylon fabric which the couple first bought from a firm in Lyons, France. Bogners cling for reasons of speed—more than sex appeal.

"The less wind resistance the better," said Willy Bogner, who was a member of the 1936 German Olympic ski team. "They need to be close-fitting for downhill where every second counts."

The Bogners went from stretch to drastic changes in color. Slopes once dotted with dark shades were brightened with some 40 hues, which they developed and had dyed to their order.

Members of the German ski team at the recent Winter Olympics in Squaw Valley wore the Bogner-designed uniform of coveralls, a skinny variation of the zip-on siren suit which Sir Winston Churchill made famous during World War II.

Willy Bogner Jr., 18, one of the couple's three children, was a member of the 1950 team. The other children are Michael, 20, correspondent for a U.S. Sports Magazine, and Rosemarie, 22, the fiancée of a San Francisco real estate man.

The Bogners, who have been making sportswear since 1936, recently took over a plant where once kraut was made and have turned it into an elegant glass and steel structure set in the countryside near Munich. It is complete with a restaurant for the 400 employees who turn out parkas, pants, after-ski wear, and—for summer—shorts and slacks for leisure hours.

Mrs. Bogner does all the designing and both test new designs. Both agreed one line criticism of female dress for skiing. Fit has gone too far. "The girls now want the pants too tight," said Bogner. "But I don't believe in making skiing a carnival."

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
At five years of age Howard regards himself as a person of boundless power.

He is convinced that he can bounce out of bed in the morning after insufficient sleep. He thinks that he can stuff himself with candy and retain his appetite for supper's vegetables. He thinks that he can kick us without becoming afraid that we will abandon him. He thinks that he can change the 50 cents in our purse into the $2.95 required to purchase the airplane hangar in the toystore window.

And when brought up against our restriction of his boundless powers. They'll permit him to delay bedtime and then get mad at his refusal to get up for nursery school. They'll fuss at him for not eating his supper vegetables though they have allowed him to stuff himself with candy. They will wonder him to kick them and then wonder why he bursts into a passion of weeping if reprimanded. As to his demand that the 50 cents be changed into $2.95—oh, that always is very upsetting. Because such parents cannot accommodate—Howard's wish for a magic purse, they will either apologize to him or get angry with themselves for disappointing him.

In his new book Psychanalysis and Zen Buddhism, my friend Erich Fromm writes:

"The child does not accept reality as it is but as he wants it to be. If his wishes are not fulfilled he gets furious—and the function of his fury is to force the world (through the medium of his parents) to correspond to his wish."

This is a simple statement of an important truth. If we can accept it, many of the anxious and self-accusing feelings that overwhelm

RUTH MILLETT

If you would rather see your daughter grow up to become a full-time homemaker than a working wife you had better get busy teaching her homemaking skills.

A lot of wives go to work because they are more efficient as office workers than as homemakers. Not that most who go to work for that reason admit it even to themselves.

Instead, they say, "We can't get along on John's salary." Or "I went to work so that we could give the children more advantages."

They don't say "I were a more competent homemaker, I could stretch John's pay check and make it adequate. But I can't sew well enough to make the children's clothes or to make curtains and slip covers."

"And I don't know how to cut down the food bill by careful marketing and by cooking from scratch, because my cooking is based on opening cans, defrosting frozen foods, and stirring up ready mixes. And I've never learned to budget money."

Nor do these wives who go to work because they aren't competent homemakers ever admit that working gives them a ready-made excuse for not being as good housekeepers as they should be. Instead, they can always say, "If I weren't working housekeeping would be a snap."

Not all wives who work do so because they secretly feel they are inadequate homemakers or because they are not good enough home-managers to get along on a husband's income. But such wives do account for a large number of women who don't really have to work but only think they have to.

And this group of working wives is going to keep right on increasing unless mothers go back to the old-fashioned idea that every girl should be taught homemaking skills in her own home by her own mother.

Grandmother knew what she was doing when she used a foot bath of salts or baking soda. The warm water solution brings relief to tired, aching feet and also helps soften any rough spots. Keep your feet immersed for about three minutes.

Authoress Emphasizes Early Start In Books

By VIRGINIA SORESENSEN

Virginia Sorensen

PETERBOROUGH, N.H. (NEA)—"How can I help, make readers of my children?" In a world where even books have become competitors, this is a question parents everywhere are asking and asking anxiously.

What techniques experts advise I have no idea, but I can speak from simple experience.

Like the gift of love, which brings with it the power to love, it seems to me the gift of literature can hardly be given too soon. One begins to give it in arms, in the nursery, during that short shift we have and sometimes grow impatient with because it often seems longer than it really is.

We parents have a privileged time of feeling, making one might call it memory-making that leaves for a child, around certain activities, an aura of pleasure or an aura of pain.

The first reading should be in the shelter of loving arms, on the lap, against the breast and, of course, it is not reading at first, but reciting, singing, telling.

Think of the first exciting characters the child meets—his family of toes, their engaging adventures accompanied by gestures and the most delicate touching of fingertips. One little child may go to the market with mother, but one must stay at home; one eats and one goes hungry—situations of terrible importance and drama—and the poor littlest one must cry all the way home.

The important thing is how it is done, always cozy and unburied if a child would think of books gratefully all the rest of his life. From the first real books, verses and stories rise magically as incense, not in arms any longer (he is too big for that) but at the bedside, under the lamp.

As soon as he wishes, he may choose what to read, but why not a feeling of sharing something wonderful? He will often return to a story first brought to him as "one I loved when I was your age."

To know about his parents as children gives a child a feeling of friendship and common ground. And ground for confidence that indeed he will grow up in his own time and that maturity will be a very fine thing.

If he carries good stories into his dreams from the beginning, later he will choose stories himself that carry well into larger dreams—of who and what he is and may hope to be.

As he grows, books should be always abundantly there, so that he may turn pages, look, smell touch, leave and return at will. Presently he will want to take his turn at bedtime and then he will begin to read alone—if quiet time in a quiet place is provided with respect.

And he is off to school in the meantime and is introduced to the library down the street as the new home of old friends, while his parents move out into the arena of P.T.A. and Friends of the Library and all the rest, to see that things are as they should be where their children go.

Once given, the gift of reading faithfully remains. Through busy years it may seem lost, but it comes back in quiet times and quiet hours. On the inevitably long nights and empty days of every life, old friends and new ones forever freshly arriving will continue to live on the shelves and in that library down the street.

Gabette Club On Spring Outing

GROOM (Sp) — Gabette Club recently held its annual Spring Outing in Amarillo. The group went first to San Jacinto Beauty School, then to Jones Brothers for lunch; the remainder of the outing was spent shopping.

Attending were Mmes. Dan Ashford, Bill Algae, Reuben Baggerman, Jack Bivins, Bill Britten, Art Britten, Carol Brewer, Fred Brown, George H. Clark, Charles Brown, Bobby Cornett, James Dickerson, Bill Fields, Danna Howerton, Kenneth Hunt, Donald Ritter, Bob Pool and Bill Pavlovsky.

Dear Polly: I'm re-doging the bathroom and thus far, have light blue tile, rose fixtures and black floor. What color should I use for the walls above the tile? What color, please, for curtains and shower curtain?—Mrs. C. A. K.

Dear Mrs. C. A. K.: You need, first of all, to correct a couple of those "rose" colors—match—paint for the walls and ceiling to the tile color exactly. Cover that black floor with washable blue cotton carpeting. Curtains and shower curtains should be striped rose, blue and white.

Dear Polly: The piece de resistance of my living room is an Oriental rug with deep blue background and flowers of dark red, yellow, light blue and beige. What shall I choose for wall color, draperies and furniture—Mrs. J. A. T. Jr.

Dear Mrs. J. A. T. Jr.: Your color scheme is right before you in that rug. Start with soft blue walls, woodwork and curtains. (Curtains could be banded in a deeper blue.) Have sofa in deep blue and pair of easy chairs in golden yellow. Stripes in deep red and gold would be smart for an extra chair.

Dear Confused: Shop around for a gas-butlerly print on a white ground. It should feature lots of yellow, blue and green. Cover the ceiling with this print (pasted on like wallpaper) and repeat it in curtains and bedspreads. A rug in spring green will look like grass underfoot. As for the couch, use a whisk broom or a vacuum cleaner brush.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: One of my aunts sent us a jar of dill pickles for a wedding gift. My father says aunt has always been crazy as a loon and we should thank her for the pickles and throw them away. My mother, who is my aunt's sister, says she is not crazy and we should put the pickles out with the rest of the gifts. Dad says if we put the pickles out on the table with my other wedding gifts, people will think for sure our whole family is nuts.

The aunt who sent the pickles is not coming here for the wedding so she will never know the difference. I think Daddy is right, but my mother wants her way. What should I do?

GETTING MARRIED

DEAR GETTING: Thank your aunt for the pickles and put them away. I have heard of "pickled guests" but not "pickled gifts."

DEAR ABBY: I come from a large and friendly family. We are all married and drop in at each other's houses in the evening. It is customary to stay until about midnight.

On several occasions my brother-in-law told us to go home because he had to get up early for work the next morning. I was greatly insulted. Another brother-in-law said it was a man's prerogative to tell his guests when to go home. I say it's an insult. What do you say?

INSULTED

DEAR INSULTED: Only a very ill-bred host would tell his guests to go home. He should have explained his plight, said goodnight and gone to bed.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think this is too stupid to answer. I am 16 and I go on dates, but nothing steady. I would like to invite a certain boy into my house after a date so we can talk and get better acquainted. But what do you use as an excuse to get him in the house?

I can't ask him to "listen to records and dance" because we'll wake up my family. Also I don't want him to think I am hinting that I want to make out. Have you any ideas?

SWEET 16

DEAR SWEET: Ask him if he'd like to come in for cake and milk, or cookies and hot chocolate. Many little romances have been cooked up in the kitchen! Good luck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WILLING TO WAIT": You might have a longer wait than you planned on. The second-oldest time in the world is, "My wife won't give me a divorce." The oldest is "I want to show you my etchings." Get wise, Sister.

You'll feel cooler and therefore look cooler if you replace your full-length slips with half-slips in summer weather. Have them in dark colors as well as white.

Polly's Quiz

By POLLY CRAMER

Dear Polly: I have white walls and light gray bedroom set. How can I add some color to my bedroom? Is there some product that will keep lint off a navy blue couch?—Confused.

Dear Confused: Shop around for a gas-butlerly print on a white ground. It should feature lots of yellow, blue and green. Cover the ceiling with this print (pasted on like wallpaper) and repeat it in curtains and bedspreads. A rug in spring green will look like grass underfoot. As for the couch, use a whisk broom or a vacuum cleaner brush.

Resume Guessing Over Cmdr. Crabb

By GREGORY JENSEN, United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — Four years ago this Tuesday two men checked out of a seedy waterfront hotel in Portsmouth, England. One has never been identified. The other touched off one of the greatest international mysteries of the postwar era.

There are some who insist yet today that the mystery is still unsolved. They are certain Cmdr. Lionel "Buster" Crabb, the greatest frogman hero of World War II, is alive.

"There is no doubt about it," says Neville Armstrong of the publishing firm of Neville Spearman Ltd. "Crabb is alive and working in Russia."

Armstrong's firm this week published a book documenting that claim. "Frogman Extraordinary" by Bernard Hilton is said to be based on a secret Russian dossier, smuggled across the Iron Curtain, which "concerns Crabb's dive to examine a Russian cruiser, his capture by the Russians and what happened to him after that."

But there are others who claim that the mystery of Buster Crabb has been solved — so far as Crabb himself is concerned. They believe his headless, handless corpse lies in an unmarked grave at Portsmouth, where he died on a still-secret mission.

Whatever the ending, the known elements of the Crabb case are still mysterious enough to outdo

Early February, 1960: Armstrong made disclosures about the new book on Crabb.

Feb. 17, 1960: Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, under pressure in Parliament, said "I have no reason to think there is any truth in the suggestion that the coroner (who ruled that the headless body was Crabb's) was wrong." He said no new information about Crabb had been received.

Those are the known facts. They leave a lot of questions unanswered including this one:—

Is the body buried in Portsmouth one planted by Russian submarines — to cover up capture and removal of Crabb to Russia?

Social Stock Of Britain's Royalty Dips

LONDON (UPI) — The blue chip social stock of Britain's royal family took a tumble today because of the poor response of European nobility to Princess Margaret's marriage next month.

To many Britons, the blow to national prestige recalled the rough-and-tumble days when King Edward VIII was courting the American divorcee, Wally Simpson.

With only 24 days left before the marriage of Princess Margaret to Antony Armstrong-Jones—a "commoner" with a record of divorce in his family—it already was clear the bulk of continental nobility preferred to stay away.

The Queen and all those close to her steadfastly refused any comment on the situation and went ahead with plans to make the princess's wedding in West-

Large Order For Education Over Next Three Years

By LOUIS CASSELS, United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans were challenged today to accept as their "national goals" in education a 50 per cent boost in teachers' salaries by 1968, and a $5-billion dollar school building program over the next decade.

These admittedly "drastic" goals were proposed in a staff study prepared by the U.S. Office of Education for discussion at a conference attended by leaders of 100 educational organizations.

The conference was called by Arthur S. Flemming, secretary of health, education and welfare. Flemming emphasized to reporters that the Office of Education minister Abbey May 6 a truly memorable event.

The press and public, however, did not attempt to hide increasing indignation over what they considered a monumental "snub" by Scandinavian and other royal houses — directly attributable to Margaret's choice of a marriage partner.

Mixed with the indignation was some uneasiness, too, such as any recognized society leader would feel should he decide to invite all his admirers to a huge party, only to have no-one show up when the big day arrived.

No Deal With Finch: Attorney

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson Monday denied reports he had offered to let Dr. H. Bernard Finch plead guilty to a lesser charge at his second murder trial.

Finch's attorney, Grant Cooper, also denied he had attempted to get a lesser plea for his client. Finch and his mistress, Carole Tregoff, are accused of killing Finch's wife. The first trial ended in a mistrial.

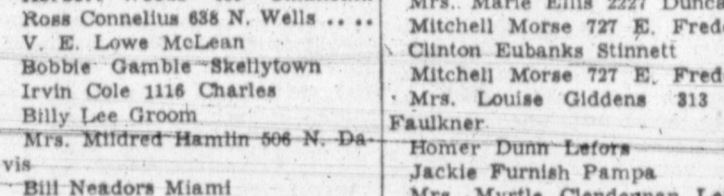

"We're still prosecuting him for murder and if anyone wants to plead guilty to a charge it would have to be first degree murder," McKesson said.

PLEDGES WOMAN'S DORM

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — The Massachusetts Institute of Technology has received a pledge of $1,500,000 to provide MIT with a women's dormitory.

The donor expressed a desire to remain anonymous.

Cowboy Hall Of Fame Fund Drive Started In Texas

FORT WORTH (Sp) — All over the broad breadth of Texas the fund raising campaign for the $5 million Western Heritage Center Museum and National Cowboy Hall of Fame was launched this week.

Texas and 14 other western states have joined together to create, build and maintain a memorial to the great cattlemen, industrialists and others who pioneered the West which now is being built on Perstimon Hill, seven miles east of Oklahoma City, where the Turner Turnpike converges on U.S. highways 66 and 77, and Interstate 35, 40 and 44.

As former Oklahoma governor Roy J. Turner put it: "Here is one of the truly natural crossroads of America — and a veritable gateway to the West." In August this year the first $1 million unit of the memorial is scheduled for completion, as the first stage of its expansion design.

Here at last the whole West is to have its own combined historic and cultural center and memorial. The caliber of men of the West who are behind the movement will insure its success. The governor of each of the 17 states is a trustee and serves as such. All State trustees are men of stature.

Texas Governor Price Daniel is one of five Texas trustees. The others are Robert J. Kleberg Jr., president and general manager of King ranch, Kingsville, national vice chairman A. M. G. Swenson of the SMS Ranch, Stamford; Amos G. Carter, Jr., president of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; author and rancher, J. Evetts Haley of Canyon.

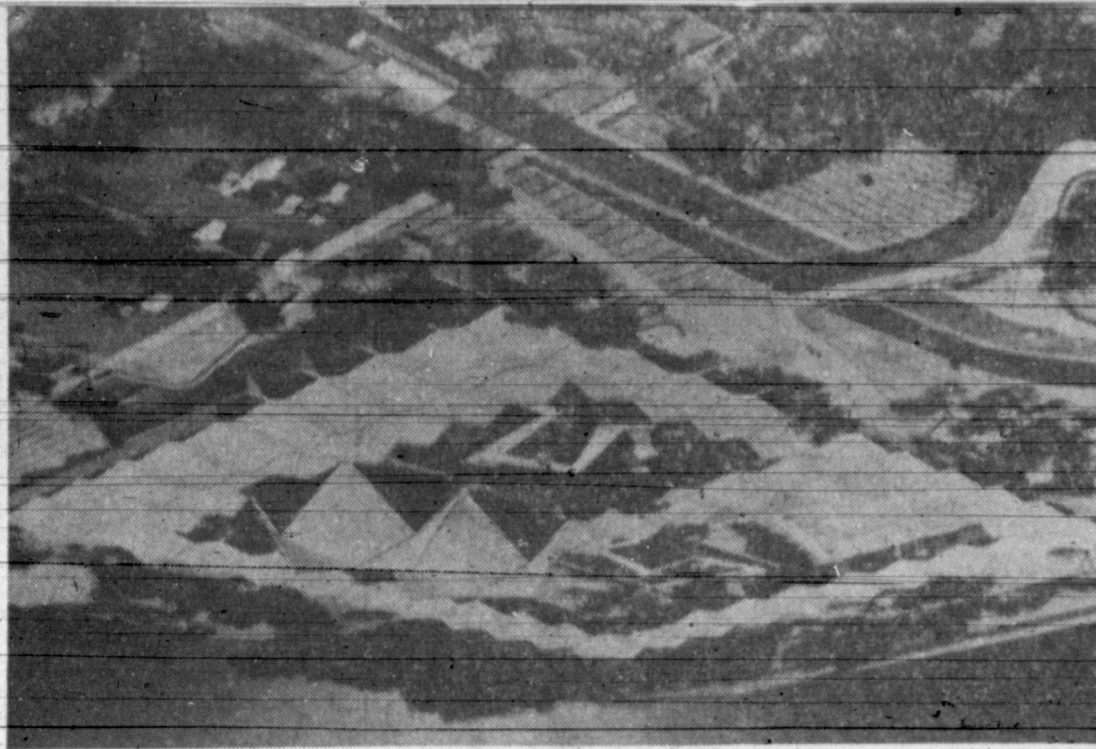

Last month Trustee Carter called an organizational meeting in Fort Worth. To the meeting came national officers and trustees headed by Albert K. Mitchell of New Mexico, chairman of the board for the national organization; executive vice chairman Glenn W. Faris of Oklahoma; Swenson's counterpart as vice chairman, Fred Dressler of Nevada, who had just been elected president of the American National Cattlemen's Association; Fred Porter Jr. of Arizona, national secretary, R. J. Hofmann of Wyoming, national treasurer and many of the other national trustees.

With Carter presiding as temporary chairman, the organizational meeting and banquet at Shady Oaks Country Club was attended by 360 officers, directors and their wives. At a meeting of the executive committee, Ralph A. Johnston of Houston was elected state chairman of the Texas Association of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame.

Braun has told Congress. Von Braun told a House appropriations subcommittee in testimony published today that the rocket, the first combining conventional and nuclear engines — would be flight tested in eight or nine years. He said the rocket could gently land a 14,800-pound payload on the moon or boost a 36-ton instrument package into orbit 200 miles above the earth.

Planned Obsolescence Saps Strength Of Our Economy

By LEROY POPE
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — America needs to learn the difference between the "new and the good," a New York economist warned today.

Prof. Robert Lekachman of Barnard College warned that if we don't learn the difference, wasteful "planned obsolescence" in our durable consumer goods production will sap the strength of our economy and society and let the Communists overtake us.

The professor's idea is hardly new — it goes back to Thorstein Veblen's "conspicuous waste" of the city of half a century ago and to the "ending is better than mending" slogan of Aldous Huxley's stunning 1932 novel "Brave New World" laid in the distant future.

Lekachman says one of the worst parts of making a national habit of buying things just because they're new is that it makes technological progress our master instead of our servant.

And, he says, planned obsolescence doesn't always work out the way the auto designers and the Madison Avenue bucketers hope it will — as witness "the tail-fin recession" that accompanied the debacle of the 1955 auto models.

"Planned obsolescence increases business hazards," Lekachman told United Press International, "because it attaches big risks to consumer wants that aren't really pressing."

It is quite natural, he said, for Americans to have a greater faith in innovation than peoples of other lands because innovation has done so much more in this land to make life better than it had been permitted to accomplish in other countries. But, he insisted,

Senate Told Drug Testing At Minimum

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate drug price investigators were told today that some companies have conducted only minimum clinical tests on certain medicines before selling them to the public at a big profit.

The Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), heard the charge as it reopened its inquiry into allegations of excessive profits by drug manufacturers.

Dr. William Bean of Iowa State University's Medical School said in prepared testimony that he was deeply concerned about firms which he felt did not use "scrupulous caution" in releasing new drugs.

He said he knew of drugs which had been extensively tested in laboratories but were given only minimum clinical trials before being rushed to drug stores.

The professor charged that some medical journals refused to publish articles criticizing particular drugs for fear they would lose the manufacturer's advertising.

Bean also said drug companies staged lavish cocktail parties and dinners at medical conventions.

The affairs, he said, "are supported by increasing the cost which our patients pay for drugs."

Other congressional news:

Aged: Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) urged Congress to enact a plan to help old folks pay their medical bills without waiting for recommendations from what he termed the "republican no-show, not-now, veto administration." He interrupted his presidential campaigning in West Virginia to make the plea to a Senate subcommittee considering various medical care proposals.

RAMBLER AMERICAN CUSTOM WINS OVER ALL COMPACTS WITH 28.35 M.P.G.

FOR AMERICA'S LOWEST-PRICED, MOST ECONOMICAL CARS, SEE CLYDE JONAS MOTOR CO. 119. N. WARD

Rambler wins again! Under official USAC supervision, a Rambler American Custom scored best gas mileage of all cars — 28.35 M.P.G. — in the 17th running of the Mobilgas Economy Run. All cars were equipped with automatic transmission — and were chosen at random by USAC officials from dealer showrooms or factory assembly lines.

No car owner should expect to match in every-day driving the mileage achieved in this test by Rambler or any of the other cars. However, this test provides additional proof that Rambler delivers best gas mileage wherever you drive.

Texas's Body Hunted — Police said the driver of the car was not charged.

TRIBUTE TO FDR — Radio has paid tribute to the memory of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who died 15 years ago today.

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German news service reported Monday that all farms in 12 of East Germany's 14 administrative districts now are collectivized.

ARMORY FUNDS NEEDED — Construction of National Guard armories in Texas may be halted if the next Legislature does not appropriate more matching funds, the commander of the 36th Infantry Division said Sunday. Maj. Gen. Carl Phinney told an organizational meeting of the Texas National Guard Association that the state need provide just one fourth of the cost of each armory. The federal government pays for three-fourths of such costs.

Pedestrian Killed — WACO (UPI) — Pete Adams, 51, of Waco was struck by a car and killed as he walked down an East Waco Street Sunday night.

CARDINAL IMPROVES — ROME (UPI) — Doctors for Laurian Cardinal Rugamba, the first Negro primate of the church in modern times, said Monday night he should be well enough to leave the hospital a few days after Easter. The cardinal was confined to bed a week ago by fatigue and after effects of malaria.

BED FOR DE GAULLE — SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Carpenters at the Mark Hopkins Hotel have completed an 8-foot-long bed for French President Charles de Gaulle.

The 6-foot, 4-inch French chief of state will visit San Francisco April 27.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — After having been almost forgotten for ten years, the Dow theory is now receiving more publicity than it has had for a long time, appealing more to the emotions than to cold logic.

Harris, Upham & Co. points out the theory, as in the past, has been widely condemned after giving an unfavorable signal and widely acclaimed when it indicates a bullish trend.

It's about time investors were getting less emotional in their actions and decisions, the firm implies, particularly now that there are many more valuable statistics on which to base sound judgment than there have been in the past.

It seems we still haven't conquered our emotions enough to justify complete disregard for the theory which even the Securities & Exchange Commission admitted was the largest single influence in the 1946 decline, Harris, Upham notes.

Fire and Casualty Company Underwriting, in the black last year for the first time since 1955, is running well ahead of the 1959 first quarter and there are good signs of a continuing profitable trend, according to Century Shares Trust. It says the recent rate increases granted these companies should contribute substantially to earnings over an extended period.

Must Be Bald Headed Thieves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Marcel Cadeaux's hair has been snatched again.

It was only his black and dark brown hair this time. Not his multi-colored hair.

For the second time since December, thieves broke into Cadeaux's hair-stylist shop and made off with a collection of expensive wigs and toupees.

One of the missing toupees belongs to a customer who has been staying home weekends so it could be repaired.

"I don't know what I'm going to tell him," Cadeaux moaned.

The look in the latest hair snatching was valued at $1,000. Cadeaux said the thieves ignored a shipment of fancy multi-colored wigs and took only four black and two dark brown hair pieces.

Some $2,500 worth of false tops were taken in the previous robbery, including the toupee of a prospective bridegroom. The wedding was postponed.

"That man still isn't married," Cadeaux reported.

Ladd's Son Wants To Be A Chip Off The Old Heart Throb

VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—David Ladd, 13-year-old actor of screen hero Alan, is playing kid parts now but he hopes someday to be "chip off the old heart throb."

"When I grow up I'd like to play handsome leading men, like Dad, but I'll have to wait and see what I look like," David said.

He was asked to clarify and expand this thought.

"The way I look at it, in about two years I won't be able to play little boys anymore. I probably won't be appearing in anything for four or five years because I'll be in the in-between ages."

Phenomena Repeat Each Year

KONNERSREUTH, Ger. (UPI)—Theresa Neumann will go through her Good Friday agony in solitude this year because she is too weak to stand the strain of a crowd, it was reported today.

For the past 34 of her 62 years, Miss Neumann has suffered what is known as the stigmata on Good Friday—bleeding from wounds in her hands and feet corresponding to the wounds Christ suffered in the crucifixion.

Thousands of persons have been permitted to file past her bed in past years during the agony but this year the village priest, the Rev. Josef Naber, has banned visitors from the door.

The Vatican has never officially recognized Miss Neumann's stigmata. At the same time it has not condemned her.

She is said to have had no nourishment for the past 34 years but Holy Communion and plain water.

While in her Good Friday trance, Miss Neumann—who has never been outside Germany—speaks and understands Greek and Aramaic. During the rest of the year she is unable to explain these phenomena.
