

New Vote Group Shows Power in Corpus, F-W

By The Associated Press
New municipal voters groups showed power in Fort Worth and Corpus Christi, but a similar organization in Dallas was loser in Tuesday's city elections.

Texas towns by the score chose city officials.
At Dallas, a smiling, go-getting banker-white-haired R. E. Thornton-led the Citizens Charter Association ticket to a thumping, lopsided victory. The group's eighth straight triumph.

An absentee candidate, Albert Lichtenstein, 53, department store vice-president, led the Better Government Party to a one-sided triumph in Corpus Christi voting. Lichtenstein, on a cruise in the Mediterranean during the campaign, and his friends were making their first venture in politics.

Fort Worth's Citizens Committee, winner in every city election except one in 30 years, suffered an unexpected setback. One of the committee's nine candidates was defeated and five others were forced into runoff with representatives of the Fort Worth Voter's League.

That's the way it went all over Texas. There was no set pattern. In the Dallas election, Thornton defeated radio entertainer Marvin Williams, 21,857 to 9,629. A source of water supply was the chief issue in the Dallas balloting. Where to get it? Why doesn't Dallas have a large supply after years of Charter Association leadership? These were the questions asked in the water city.

In San Antonio, pro-administration forces, strong supporters of the city's year-old council-manager government, took early leads in the counting. The margins were so slim a run off appeared certain in all nine places for city council.

Former Mayor Jack White led the opposition and was running ahead of his ticket mates and was only a few votes behind councilman Harold Keller.

Elsewhere the voting went like this:
Waco—Ralph Wolf, D. T. Hicks Jr., and Dr. H. F. Connally were elected from a field of ten to the city council. Wolf is Waco's mayor and Connally is a councilman. Hicks is a new member.

Bonham—R. L. Lawrence was re-elected to the city council. Joe Britton and Edgar Bragg were named new aldermen by 673 voters.

Bryan—Three city commissioners, R. L. Bernhardt, George Adams, and W. D. Vick, were re-elected. J. M. Daniel and Harry Dishman were new members elected. The 1,032 vote was the lowest in six years.

Eastland—George Davenport, T. Fagg and R. N. Willson were elected city commissioners.
Port Arthur—A Republican slate, first in Port Arthur history, came out fourth as the administration ticket won. Roy Gilman and M. J. Babin, incumbents, and O. D. James were the three elected.

NO DECISION TUESDAY Teacher Pay Action Is Sought In House

cause the field price of gas is too low.
Jack Porter, Republican national committee man and a gas producer, opposed Sen. Grady Hazelwood's bill as a forerunner of statewide gas price fixing.

A congressional redistricting bill to give Harris County (Houston) two congressmen was delayed two weeks by a Senate committee.

The committee heard testimony on the three bills yesterday, each requiring more tax money from one source—after Rep. Max Smith of San Marcos, committee chairman, said the rules precluded immediate action.

Beside the $600 a year bill that would cost the state 33 million dollars a year, these measures were offered.

A bill by Rep. Joe Kilgore of McAllen giving an average raise of $305 a year. His original measure, fought by the Texas State Teachers Association, would have given a $240 increase. It was regarded as a compromise.

A bill by Rep. Floyd Bradshaw of Weatherford, who proposed a $603 a year boost for beginning teachers.

Some 2,000 citizens, including many teachers swarmed the floor and galleries at yesterday's hearing.

"What can we do now?" one school principal asked after the hearing.

Probe Told Ammunition Output 'Unsatisfactory'

Vishinsky Urges Half-Way Move By West Allies

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Russia's Andrei Vishinsky urged Western Countries today to "meet the Soviet Union Half way just as the Soviet Union is endeavoring to meet them half way" in an effort to agree on disarmament.

In a brief speech to the U.N.'s 60-nation General Assembly, Vishinsky claimed that "in an effort to reach agreement the Soviet delegation deems it possible not to press for adoption of its own resolution."

That draft, which the assembly's called for immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb and a one-third across the board arms cut by all the big powers.

The General Assembly was due to consider Russian amendments to a proposed resolution continuing the work of the U. N. Disarmament Commission. The Soviets want to take out instructions for the commission to base its work on proposals previously approved — but Russian rejected — Western proposals for supervised, step-by-step arms reduction.

Some delegates viewed Vishinsky's amendments as a compromise offer because, though they threw the commission's deliberations wide open again, they did not specifically regulate the Russians' own proposals for immediate one-third arms cuts and bans on atomic and germ weapons.

The Americans, however, feared Vishinsky's efforts to knock out the proposed endorsement of the commission's previous work, if successful, might be employed later by the Soviets as a propaganda point against the Western proposals.

The Americans said they would vote against the Russian amendments. It was believed most of their Western Allies would do the same.

Though some saw in the Soviet amendments at least a softening of the usual Communist approach to the long-deadlocked disarmament question, these seemed no suggestion at this time that the Russians in their astonishing new peace offensive were ready yet to accept Western proposals which would allow complete international control and inspection.

Vishinsky told newsmen, however, he would not repeat in the Assembly at least the old Soviet demands that the Big Five reduce their conventional arms by one-third immediately and ban all atomic and germ weapons.

Russia's delegate on the disarmament commission can bring them there later—and probably will.

Should the Soviets expect a vote against the resolution continuing the disarmament group, it appears certain of endorsement by the Assembly, however, and the

Helped Rescue

Navy Chaplain Robert Brenner, a Catholic priest, from Youngstown, Ohio, (above) went with Marines into No Man's Land near Panmunjom, Korea, to rescue a wounded Marine. The Communists had bandaged the Marine's wounds, stuffed his shirt full of peace pamphlets, placed him on a stretcher in front of U. N. positions and called to the Americans to come and get him. They did. (AP Wirephoto).

Army Relieved Of Control By Lovett

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett said today there was a "definitely unsatisfactory" performance of ammunition production for the Korean War and he "took it out of the Army's control."

"My patience was completely exhausted," he declared.

Lovett told investigating senators that when he took office as deputy defense secretary in September, 1950, Secretary of Defense George Marshall ordered an investigation into the ammunition situation.

But he said the first "inkling" that he had a shortage in Korea was in September, 1951.

This was five months after Gen. James Van Fleet went to Korea in April, 1951. Van Fleet, retired commander of the Eighth Army, has testified there was a shortage the whole time he was in Korea.

Earlier, Lovett had said that last December there was two or three times more ammunition in the Far East than the Americans had in Normandy for the early phases of the invasion of Europe in June, 1944.

Lovett said, however, the handling of the ammunition situation since the start of the Korean War had been "definitely unsatisfactory."

He said he was referring to ammunition for 155 mm howitzers, 105 mm howitzers, and 60, 81 and 4.2 mm mortars.

Lovett testified before a Senate committee which pushed ahead with an inquiry into reported ammunition shortages even though there might be a negotiated end to the shooting in Korea.

Lovett said it should be remembered that at the outbreak of the Korean War in June, 1950, there were critical shortages in many things and the American defenses had been allowed to deteriorate to a point where they were "wholly inadequate to protect this country."

He said ammunition was only one of a number of "desperate shortages" that included manpower.

Also before the committee was Lovett's former assistant, W. J. McNeil.

Lovett and McNeil were asked to give their views in the Senate group's search for the persons and conditions some senators believe were responsible for a serious and sometimes critical lack of ammunition in the hands of American fighting men.

Gen. James A. Fleet, retired former U. S. Eighth Army commander, has testified he was unable to carry out even limited missions in Korea due to ammunition shortages.

Top military chiefs have said there were some shortages in ammunition reserve stocks but that Van Fleet had all he needed to carry out his mission. The full Senate Army Services Committee has sided with Van Fleet on this issue.

Lovett's name was injected into the inquiry last month when Van Fleet read into the record a letter he received last Dec. 1 from Gen. Mark W. Clark, Far Eastern Commander of United Nations forces.

In this letter, Clark said: "I have just received a personal letter from Secretary Lovett which contains the first firm indication that our ammunition supply situation is fully appreciated in Washington."

Lovett now advises the Army chief of staff, has told senators he tried to get more money for ammunition—but that his requests were cut down in the Defense Department's budget before it went to Congress.

Approval Due Today Of Emergency Powers In Event Of A War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee appeared set to stamp its approval today on a 90-day price, wage and rent freeze for use in a big war emergency.

The committee plans to finish its closed-door work today on drafting new economic controls legislation. The freeze proposal and rent controls are the only two major subjects left to be voted on.

Committee Chairman Capshaw (R-Ind.) wants to begin Senate debate on the measure next week. He thinks Congress should complete action on controls by April 30 when part of the present Defense Production Act expires.

Too Much Power Is Concentrated In US

AUSTIN (AP)—The concentrated power of the federal government must be dissolved, Texas lawmakers were told last night at a dinner given them by the Texas Manufacturing Association.

Clarence Manion of South Bend, former dean of the Notre Dame Law School, said the concentration of federal power must be sent back to the states and to the local communities to avoid corruption.

Red Swap Figure Is Disappointing

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—The Communists said today they would return 600 disabled captives—only 150 of them U. S. and other non-Koreans and but one-tenth the number the Allies are ready to send home.

Allied negotiators showed keen disappointment in the figure, expressed hopes that "we will get more" and went ahead with plans for the prisoner trade in the hope it could begin within a week or 10 days.

The Communists, questioned closely about the figures, said they had been thoroughly checked and gave no hint that any more than 600 sick and disabled would be freed from the prison stockades of North Korea.

Rear Adm. John G. Daniel told the Communists their figure was "incredibly small" and asked "that you have these figures reviewed. He said later, however, that "I have no reason to believe at the present time that they are not acting in good faith."

The U. N. Command offered to return 5,800 sick and wounded Communists—5,100 North Koreans and 700 Chinese. This is 7 per cent of the 83,000 pro-Communist prisoners held by the Allies. The Communist figure of 600 is 5 per cent of the 12,000 to 13,000 U. N. and Korean prisoners the Reds have said they hold. Both sides named lower-level staff officers to work out administrative details of the exchange. The U. N. Command appointed Col. Willard B. Carlock of Galveston, Tex., Air Force Col. Douglas Cairns of Riverside, Calif., and South Korean Col. Lee Song Yung. The Communists named North Korean Col. Lee Pyong Il and Chinese Col. Wang Ching.

The staff officers went into session immediately after the liaison groups adjourned for the day. Daniel asked the Communists for a complete revised text of the whole draft agreement on transfer of sick and wounded so the U. N. Command could consider any changes "in one package and arrive speedily to the items which are controversial." The Communists have agreed to the main points of Daniel's plan, and said they will submit their versions of the rest.

The Allied protest on the Communist offer was lifted after the night yet made in the three-day-old conference. It was the first note of discord in the otherwise smooth negotiations which Tuesday resulted in agreement in principle to exchange disabled POWs.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho told Daniel, "We have suffered the figures of sick and injured prisoners of war only after we have checked the matter in

Propeller Inspection Of Planes Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Administration has ordered a propeller inspection for most of the nation's commercial airplanes "to preclude further hazardous accidents."

The inspection order applies to aircraft using reversible propellers, as do most modern airliners. A CAA official said the order stems from the failure of this type of propeller on a military plane at Greenville, S. C., March 19. The plane managed to land safely.

Adenauer Said Seeking Special Help To Handle Refugees Flood

WASHINGTON (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was reported today seeking special American financial help in handling floods of refugees from Communist-ruled East Germany.

This problem, with other tough economic and trade issues, was up for discussion today with Secretary of State Dulles, Foreign Aid Director Stassen and other top American officials.

Adenauer was reported hopeful of U. S. financial backing for building big housing projects in West Germany, mainly to help absorb refugees.

About 1,500 men, women and children daily are slipping through the Communist Iron Curtain into Western Berlin.

line of apparent conciliation and agreed to reflect no basic change in the Soviet drive on world domination.

The German Chancellor was quoted as saying the West could best Russia's intentions by renewing proposals for free elections throughout Germany. He also reportedly asked for support in pressing for the return of some 300,000 World War II West German prisoners believed still held by the Soviet Union.

Adenauer was reported hopeful of U. S. financial backing for building big housing projects in West Germany, mainly to help absorb refugees.

said thinking had shifted in favor of a program, now accepted by the administration, which could be fitted into the U. S. economy on a long-time basis. It was argued such a military plan would be less subject to letdowns when "crisis years" passed.

The argument was made also that it was more realistic to confront the Soviets with a substantially permanent powerful military force than to strain for an immediate concentration of strength.

This new approach was reported to have been thrashed out in the National Security Council, the highest U. S. defense planning agency. Dulles was said to be planning to submit it at the North Atlantic Council meeting April 23 in Paris.

The first-day talks with Adenauer reportedly brought from him a pledge for determined effort to settle the argument with France over the coal and steel-treaty pact.

US, Belgian Troops Beat Back Reds

SEOUL (AP)—Chinese Reds slammed into Allied defenses in Western and Central Korea today, but battle-toughened American Marines and Belgian infantrymen sent the Communists reeling back.

126 bombers wiped out 130 Red trucks on North Korean highways during the night, while fighter-bombers blasted three rail bridges and a radio station at Haegu, in Western Korea, the Fifth Army said.

Chinese Reds in company strength—about 175 men—stormed up Bunker Hill on the Western Front but were blocked by a Marine combat patrol.

The attack carried some Communists into Allied lines but sharp-shooting Leathernecks stopped the Reds cold in 11 minutes of bitter, close-quarter fighting, the Eighth Army reported.

Northeast of Chorwon on the Central Front, another Red company hit the main line positions of the Belgian battalion attached to the U. S. 3rd Infantry Division.

The Belgians killed 21 Chinese and wounded 40 others in fighting which at times was hand to hand, the Eighth Army said. The battle was all over one hour and 20 minutes after the first shots were fired.

Elsewhere, Chinese troops still held a Central Front outpost called Texas Hill, which changed hands four times Tuesday. South Koreans knocked Reds off the strategic hill twice, only to lose it each time. Sporadic fighting crackled around the hill Tuesday night and early Wednesday.

Mahon Urges Caution In 'Peace Offensive'

COLORADO CITY—George Mahon, 11th District Congressman, who arrived in Colorado City Tuesday to fill an afternoon speaking engagement before the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, called for caution in dealing with the new Red peace offensive.

"I do not believe," he said, "that the Communist leaders who have been following for years a policy of infiltration and subjugation of free peoples have had a sudden change of heart. Apparently they are considering a change in strategy. We would be very foolish if we discontinued our present military buildup prior to its completion.

The congressman who spent one day in Colorado City before returning to Washington noted that Communist promises had meant little in the past and added, "and I think we'll have to follow a policy of 'wait and see.' I think that President Eisenhower handled the situation perfectly when he said that we should give the fullest consideration to any overtures for peace."

When questioned about the new administration, Mahon said that it was "doing all right and I think all of us should support the President and work together in a bipartisan way for the best interests of the country."

Mahon, though stating that he believed Ezra T. Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, "sincere and a friend to agriculture," admitted to a difference in basic philosophy with the new secretary.

"I do not agree with his philosophy to the effect that the price support program should be resorted to only as an instrument to prevent disaster, but I think it should be used to promote farm prosperity."

The congressman said that the farmer had to operate in a protected economy, and that he is entitled to consideration afforded other groups. Mahon noted that if the present economy did not contain tariffs, wage and hour laws, and other protective legislation, that the farmer should also be expected to make their own way.

"However," said Mahon, "Congress and not the Secretary will determine future farm policy, and the attitude of Congress is that we should not change the present farm program until we're sure that we have a better one."

Conservation Of Oil, Gas Is Stressed

HOUSTON (AP)—Members of both federal and state regulatory bodies have urged increased emphasis on conservation of the nation's oil and gas resources.

Nelson Smith of the Federal Power Commission and William Murray Jr., of the Texas Railroad Commission, spoke up for conservation yesterday.

Smith said the current rate of natural gas discoveries, compared with consumption, gives "no cause for complacency."

Murray said oil conservation techniques proven through field tests should be more uniformly practiced.

They spoke before a convention of the Petroleum Industry Electrical Assn. and the Petroleum Electrical Supply Assn.

The increasing consumption rate, Murray said, underlined three items:

1. An ever-increasing program of exploration and development of new domestic reserves of petroleum.

2. Discovery of methods of recovering a larger portion of the underground petroleum reserves already discovered and to be discovered.

3. Wider use of current conservation practices which have proven to be practical.

Smith said the nation's gas supply in January 1938 had an indicated remaining life of 22 years, with total reserves estimated at 66 trillion cubic feet.

Texas Score Three Wins In Piano Test

AUSTIN (AP)—Two Texas students and a North Texas State teacher were among the top winners in national piano contest results announced here yesterday.

Mary Parker of Wichita Falls was the leading student prizewinner. With her teacher, Rosina Lhevinne of New York, she received $1,500.

Jeanine Dowis of Dallas was awarded $500. Silvio Scionti, NTSC teacher, led his 38 students to second place in joint awards. He shared $2,112 with the pupils.

The competition was the final round of the 1952 national piano playing auditions.

Legislators Bring Families To Austin

AUSTIN.—This seems to be the week selected by members of the West Texas delegation to the 53rd Legislature to bring their families to Austin for a visit. For some of the families it is the first trip.

Mrs. Dorsey B. Hardeman and two sons, Mark, 6, and Bryan, 4, arrived Sunday for their first visit this session with Sen. Hardeman. They plan to return to San Angelo Wednesday.

From Big Spring Rep. Obie

Bristow returned with Mrs. Bristow and their two sons, Gordon and Keith. It is the first time for the boys. The trip to Austin for the boys was delayed by a case of mumps for Keith.

Mrs. Harley Sadler is here with Sen. Sadler and plans to remain about two weeks.

Among other wives present this week are Mrs. Hulon Brown, Midland; Mrs. Carlos Ashley, Llano; and Mrs. W. A. Stroman, San Angelo.

On a clear night about 6,000 stars are visible to the unaided eye.

New Jury To Be Picked In Trial Of Murder Here

A second start will be made Thursday morning in the trial of Francisco Flores, who is charged here with murder.

The 75-man special venire from which the jury will be chosen will meet tomorrow at 9 a.m.

Flores' first trial began Monday, but Judge Charlie Sullivan declared a mistrial on motion presented by defense attorney George Thomas.

Actual testimony had not begun in the first trial. All that had been accomplished was the selection of jurors, which had taken all day Monday.

Judge Sullivan declared the mistrial as a result of a statement he made to the jurors just before they were sequestered Monday night. He told them that they must stay together and discuss the trial with no one or a new trial would probably have to be granted.

Thomas' motion pointed out that only in the case of a man being found guilty could he have a new trial.

Flores was indicted by the grand jury on charges of murdering Francisco Alvarado. He allegedly shot Alvarado eight times in a northside tavern on Christmas Eve.

Another trial on charge of murder is also scheduled during this session of 118th District Court. It is State vs. Eloy Hernandez. Hernandez is charged with stabbing Valentino Parras to death.

Parras was found dying in the streets of Northwest Big Spring in January.

District Attorney Elton Gilliland stated that he is ready for trial in both cases. However, he will attempt to try Flores Thursday and Hernandez at a later date.

Bill Would Take Burden From State In Toll Road Issues

AUSTIN.—Sen. Dorsey Hardeman, San Angelo, today introduced a constitutional amendment that would take the burden of financial success of toll roads off the state of Texas.

"To effect this amendment will put the entire financing problem of the toll roads on the authority that builds them," Hardeman said. He added that it should discourage building roads that are not needed and that do not seem to be a good financial risk.

The amendment reads: "The Legislature shall have no power or authority in any manner to lend the credit of the state or government any public money to, or assume any indebtedness, present or future, bonded or otherwise, of any individual person, firm, partnership, association, corporation, public corporation, public agency or political subdivision of the state or anyone else, which is now or hereafter authorized to construct, maintain or operate toll roads and turnpikes within this state."

ROBERTS was the only opponent heard today before the committee day on the submerged lands controversy. Majority Leader Taft (R-Ohio) said he hoped to bring the bill to a vote "some time next week."

Advocates of federal administration of all tidelands have not yet been heard. Daniel was to reply to proposals that Congress surrender any federal claim to lands beneath the Great Lakes and inland navigable waters but retain federal jurisdiction over the coastal belt.

Such action he said, would be "highly discriminatory" because the rule of law applying to inland waters stems from the rule applied to the marginal sea prior to the 1947 pronouncement of the Supreme Court in the California tidelands case.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Daniel (D-Tex.) takes up the fight in the Senate today for legislation to establish state control of offshore lands within state boundaries.

Daniel told reporters his prepared speech is about as long as that of Sen. Holland (D-Fla.), who occupied the Senate floor for 4 1/2 hours yesterday.

Much of his time was spent answering questions. As the Senate went into its fourth day on the submerged lands controversy, Majority Leader Taft (R-Ohio) said he hoped to bring the bill to a vote "some time next week."

Advocates of federal administration of all tidelands have not yet been heard. Daniel was to reply to proposals that Congress surrender any federal claim to lands beneath the Great Lakes and inland navigable waters but retain federal jurisdiction over the coastal belt.

Such action he said, would be "highly discriminatory" because the rule of law applying to inland waters stems from the rule applied to the marginal sea prior to the 1947 pronouncement of the Supreme Court in the California tidelands case.

The federal government had paramount rights over the marginal lands. Daniel contended further the Supreme Court has ruled several times that the waters of the Great Lakes are "open sea."

Surrender of federal claims, if any, to the beds of the Great Lakes and inland navigable streams, he said, would be releasing a far greater area than is involved in the off-shore belt within state boundaries.

Daniel also stressed the Texas claim to a boundary extending three leagues (about 10 1/2 miles) from shore.

A little guy who thought he might slip between the bars of a city jail wound up without any clothes when he couldn't make it.

He had thrown the clothing out the window before making the attempt, apparently thinking the attire wouldn't hamper his efforts. He also broke glass out of the window.

Police returned the clothing in time for the man to appear in Corporation Court where he was assessed a $25 fine for drunkenness. A woman arrested with the man last night was fined $20 on the same charge.

Both were still in jail at noon—clothing and all.

BERLIN (AP)—Allied and Russian representatives announced today that four-power talks on air safety over Germany would continue soon in the American sector of West Berlin.

The conferences, which began at Soviet headquarters in the East zone last night, marked the first four-power get-together since the 1949 postlockdown period.

A four-power communique issued at daybreak said the Russians had submitted "a series of proposals concerning flights in air corridors between Berlin and West Germany, safety of flight and prevention of air accidents."

No details of the Russian proposals were given.

Group To Check If Gulf Once Was Dry Land

NEW YORK (AP)—A Columbia University geology group begins a two-month expedition tomorrow to investigate the ocean bottom and determine whether the Gulf of Mexico ever was dry land.

Prof. Maurice Ewing, director of Columbia's Lamont Geological Observatory, said today the expedition will depart aboard the three-masted schooner "Vema."

The schooner, with 12 scientists and technicians aboard, is to sail to Puerto Rico, then to Cuba, followed by a jump to Yucatan and a broad sweep of the western border of the Gulf.

The geologists expect to be in Galveston May 22. They will continue the sea survey on the trip back to New York from Galveston.

Ewing said projects the geologists will investigate include: The possibility of an underwater canyon in the mid-Atlantic, mouth of a similar canyon discovered by Columbia geologists last summer.

Exploration of the six-mile deep Puerto Rico trench, the deepest part of the Atlantic Ocean.

A check of sediments from the bottom of the Gulf to determine whether the bottom was ever above water.

Ewing said underwater cameras, explosive charges, various depth-sounding instruments, and special gear for collecting sediment samples will be the main tools of the geologists.

Funeral Rites Held For Ex-King Carol

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—The body of ex-King Carol II of Romania lay entombed today in the Pantheon of St. Vincent's Roman Catholic Church here; traditional resting place of Portuguese royalty.

An Anglican chaplain conducted the burial service yesterday for the former monarch, who died of a heart attack Saturday at 59.

Carol had been reared in the Greek Orthodox faith but no Orthodox priest was available here. The Roman Catholic church refused to perform the ceremony because Carol divorced his first two wives.

The exiled monarch's third wife, the former Mme. Elena Lupescu, and a handful of European royalty were on hand for the service. Carol's son, ex-King Mihail, remained in Switzerland but sent a wreath.

Testimony Against Hike In Price Of Gas In Panhandle

AUSTIN (AP)—An increase in the price of gas in the Panhandle could result in halting the operations of an Amarillo Smelting Co., a Senate committee was told today.

C. J. Roberts, representing American Smelting and Refining Co., said a minimum price of 10 cents per thousand cubic feet would increase his company's gas bill $233,000 per year.

Ford Joins GM In Wage Slash Of 1c An Hour

DETROIT (AP)—A penny-an-hour cost-of-living pay cut was extended today to more than half a million auto workers.

Ford, following the lead of General Motors, made the pay cut for its 120,000 production employees.

The pay cut, effective April 13, are in line with the industry's five-year contracts with the CIO United Auto Workers which are tied to the government's cost of living index.

Ford said its proportional pay cut for salaried workers would be $5.25 quarterly.

Within a couple weeks, possibly a million or more auto workers will take the cut under cost-of-living wage contracts.

General Motors, biggest of the car producers, announced yesterday that it was knocking 1 cent off the wages of its 377,000 hourly rated employees.

About 86,000 non-union salaried employees will be given a proportionate pay reduction.

The C. E. M. action was taken under its five-year contract with the CIO United Auto Workers, a pact that set the pattern in 1950 for virtually the entire industry.

The cut was based on the cost of living as of Jan. 15 as computed by the government's Bureau of Labor Statistics under the so-called "old-style" index.

The International Harvester Company in Chicago also announced a 1-cent pay decrease based on the "old style" cost-of-living index.

The decrease, to be effective Monday, covers 25,000 Harvester employees at 15 plants in Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee and Ohio.

Highway Group Is Against Toll Roads

HOUSTON (AP)—The Highway Commission wants no toll roads in Texas, an engineer in the Highway Department asserts.

Tom Collier, assistant state highway engineer, told the Houston Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee yesterday the history of toll roads in other states indicates a prestige loss by the State Highway Department.

Collier also said the proposed toll road program now before the Legislature offers nothing approaching a solution to the state's highway problems.

Should a toll program be developed, Collier said, the Highway Department would be the operating agency.

Harris County Judge Bob Casey told the committee the rapid growth of Houston may eventually force toll roads.

Rehearing Denied In Angelo Murder

AUSTIN (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals denied a rehearing today for Charles Clark of San Angelo, under death sentence for the fatal shooting of his wife on the day of their divorce.

Mrs. Laverne Clark was shot at her San Angelo home March 25, 1952.

Clark's lawyers contended she was temporarily insane because of his domestic trouble and that his claim had not been accepted.

Clark also argued that the question of whether a witness, Tomas Melchana, was an accomplice was not submitted to the jury.

The appeals court held that Clark's rights had been handled properly.

Another NY Central Train Derailed, But No Injuries Reported

CONNEAUT, O.—Wrecking crews today were clearing the New York Central Railroad's east-west tracks of the second cluster of derailed cars here in 10 days.

Just four miles west of the spot where three of the train's 21 cars collided March 27 and killed 21 persons, a New York-to-Chicago express mail and baggage train derailed last night.

A brakeman, D. S. Eppler of Erie, Pa., the only casualty was treated for a minor back injury.

Last Rehearsals Set For Lions Minstrel

Lions minstrel players pointed today toward final dress rehearsal Thursday.

This will put the finishing touches on the big show, the club's sixth annual minstrel, which goes on Friday and Saturday evenings at the city auditorium.

Members of the cast probably will get some practice in black-face application as well as costuming. The Thursday run will be on schedule with the idea of compressing the show into two hours—including the traditional candy sales at intermission.

The chorus, under direction of Harry Lee Plumley, has completed its preparations along with the end men who work under Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, the Mr. Interlocutor. There are a large number of other variety and musical numbers for both acts.

This year's production is being staged completely without professional help.

All the net proceeds go toward the club's civic and welfare projects.

Tickets ($1.20 and 60 cents) are on sale by Lions members, or they may be secured at the door Friday and Saturday evenings.

Airman Injured In Road Mishap

Airman Gerold H. Eroh of Webb Air Force Base was injured in a truck-car collision on West Highway 80 early this morning.

The accident occurred about 10 miles out on the highway at 12:45 a. m. A Walley ambulance took Eroh to the Webb AFB hospital.

He suffered a fractured jaw bone, lacerations of the lip and eye lid, and multiple abrasions on the face and hands.

He was transferred to Sheppard Air Force Base hospital about 8:30 a. m. for further treatment.

Eroh was driving a 1951 Ford and was going east on the highway. The asphalt truck with which he collided was traveling west.

A local wrecking company representative reported that the car was an Air Force vehicle and was saved in on the left side.

Highway Patrolman Jack Taylor investigated the mishap.

Ex-Resident Is Found Dead In Hotel Room

Frank Pike, 37, former Big Spring resident, was found dead in bed at his hotel room in Wichita, Kans. Tuesday.

His body was discovered at 8:30 a. m. Cause of death was not immediately fixed. Mr. Pike, the son of E. W. Pike, 1504 Nolan, had been in Wichita for the past two years with an aircraft company.

He was a graduate of Big Spring High School and a veteran of World War II.

Besides the father, survivors include two half-brothers, George Pike and E. W. Pike Jr., Long Beach, Calif.; two half-sisters, Wallace Pike and Sarah Pike, Big Spring; and his grandfather, Walter Pike, Big Spring.

The Eberley-River Funeral Home has sent a coach to Wichita to return the remains here. Arrangements are pending.

Petty Thievery Is Reported To Police

Three instances of petty thievery were noted Tuesday.

Bob McCarty, 435 Dallas, reported theft of hubcaps from his 1946 Ford while the car was parked near Big Spring High School during the afternoon.

Bertha Ocho lost a billfold and trousers from a hotel at 305 Gregg, police were informed. Sayre at Hastings, 400 NW 24th, reported theft of a wrist watch from her room during the day.

Routine Meeting Set

Routine road matters will be discussed this afternoon at a called meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee. The session is set for 5:15 p. m. in the Chamber conference room, with George White, chairman, presiding.

detail. Accordingly, I cannot find any reason why the figures are incredibly small.

Daniel told newsmen the figure is "controversial."

"It depends on what category you put them in," he said. "In other words, how sick is a man?"

Of the 600 allied prisoners the Communists offered to return, 450 would be South Koreans. The rest would be Americans, British, French, or other U. N. soldiers.

U. N. sources said possible reasons for the relatively few prisoners the Reds will return include:

1. The Communists are not as liberal in defining sick and wounded prisoners—a reason suggested by Daniel.

2. The Reds may claim some of the Allied troops they hold have embraced communism and decline repatriation.

3. A final, and more dismaying explanation, may be found in the Reds' policy of "liberating" captured soldiers at the front. The Communists have captured many more U. N. troops than they admit.

Some Allied estimates place the total at 65,000.

More than a year ago, at Panmunjon, the Reds explained the discrepancy by saying large numbers of captured U. N. troops—presumably South Koreans—were released at the front.

Allied officers believe most of these men were drafted into the North Korean Army.

Since any disabled captives would hardly be drafted for war service, the U. N. might reasonably expect to find a higher proportion of sick and injured in the Red camps than would be normal if the Reds had interned all their prisoners.

If the Reds actually captured 50,000 more Allied troops than they have ever accounted for, the United Nations—applying the Reds' own proportion of 5 per cent—might expect to find about 2,500 more disabled Allied soldiers than was admitted by the Reds.

The talks Wednesday lasted slightly more than an hour. They resume Thursday at 11 a. m.

Weak Cold Front Moves Into Texas

A feeble cold front slid into the Panhandle and South Plains early Wednesday, but a forecaster said it looks like it will die there it is.

The Weather Bureau said the collapse of the cold front meant Texas probably wouldn't get thunder showers that had been predicted for Wednesday night or early Thursday.

Another cold front pushed through Nevada toward Arizona, and the bureau said it should reach Thursday night or early Friday, setting up another change for rain.

Temperatures at dawn across Texas ranged from Dalhart's chilly 40 to 73 at Alice, Brownsville and Corpus Christi.

At 6 a. m. Wednesday no rain had been reported in the state in 36 hours.

Bees Kept As Hobby Cause Woman's Death

SOMERVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The bees that Mrs. Elise C. Piper kept as a hobby caused her death.

Mrs. Piper, a 66-year-old widow, collapsed and died yesterday soon after being stung by a swarm of bees as she and a neighbor worked among her hives.

Dr. J. L. Armstrong said the cause of death was an acute allergic reaction to the stings.

Woman Alderman Is Elected In Illinois

PEORIA, Ill.—Peoria elected a woman alderman for the first time in history in a municipal election yesterday—and she led the field of 16 candidates.

Mrs. Myrna J. Harms, 33, an attractive mother of three children, polled more than 15,000 votes to top the vote for City Council candidate.

President To Decide Mobilization Issues

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson's reported proposals to spend less on the expansion of munitions plants and to emphasize production of weapons, which looked like a sure thing controversy, smoothed out today into scarcely a ripple.

Officials of the Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM)—which favors building a broad industrial "base" for swift mobilization, including standby plants and equipment—said other administration aides said privately:

1. President Eisenhower intends to make personally the final decisions on both mobilization policy and military spending. This rules out any civilian-versus-military contest of power.

2. ODM people favor some of Wilson's ideas, admit that some of ODM's original plans were over-ambitious, and profess to see no reason why Wilson's views cannot be reconciled with theirs.

They yield not an inch, however, in the position that adequate arms plant capacity, ready to produce on short notice, is a "must" for national security and does not exist today. All parties are content, it was indicated, to let the President shape the military programs to suit the developing international situation as he sees it, and the country's strategic plans.

Eisenhower told a news conference last week that he, not Wilson, will fix the level of the country's combat strength. Administration sources say the President feels also that he cannot delegate to someone else the responsibility for deciding the size of the defense budget or the kind of defense program it buys.

Wilson's reported views about narrowing the mobilization base seemed to cause general surprise in the capital. And so far as could be learned the surprise included some Pentagon circles usually aware of new policy plans when they are in the making.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Democrats lightened their grip on the City Hall here today by an unprecedented vote plurality in the nation's first major city election since the Republican presidential victory last November.

Their candidate for mayor, Raymond R. Tucker, swamped Republican Carl G. Stifel yesterday. He ran up an all-time margin of 61,433 votes in a St. Louis mayoral election. A Republican in 1945 was elected mayor by a 54,000-vote edge.

Unofficial returns from all of the 795 precincts in St. Louis gave Tucker 143,840 votes to $2,207 for Stifel.

St. Louis has 393,235 registered voters.

Tucker, a 56-year-old engineering professor on leave from Washington University here, was seeking his first elective office after 20 years in civic jobs. He had attracted national attention as anti-smoke director here and was far better known than Stifel, a real estate man.

Both major political parties had attached national significance to the election by sending top figures here.

Democrat Adlai Stevenson polled a 90,000 majority here last fall but his plurality fell short of Tucker's percentage. Tucker received 63.6 per cent of the vote, compared with Stevenson's 62 per cent.

Riding the landslide with Tucker yesterday were incumbent City Comptroller Milton Carpenter and 11 of the 14 Democratic candidates for alderman. That gave the Democrats a gain of three seats on the Aldermanic Board and allowed them to retain control.

New Management For Grill In Garden City

Mr. McLendon has been working as a driller in the Spraberry field. His wife and four of their five children have moved to Garden City.

McKay Told Canadian Dam Project In Texas A 'Must'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The proposed Canadian River dam in Texas is a "must" to meet needs of an area of a half-million people, three Texans have told Secretary of Interior McKay.

The three men from Amarillo—T. E. Johnson, editor of the Amarillo Globe-Times; Joe Jenkin, president of the Chamber of Commerce; and Rex Baxter, general manager of the Chamber of Commerce—spoke yesterday in behalf of 12 towns which would use water from the project.

McKay said "it is an interesting project" but withheld other comment.

Fred Aandahl, assistant secretary in charge of water and power activities of the project, told McKay "so far as I can see the project looks OK."

The Texans said the Truman budget now before Congress includes $350,000 planning money for the project.

That figure possibly "will be reduced some in the revision under way," Aandahl said.

Congress authorized the project in 1950. Baxter said it has reached the point where the final plans must be prepared by the Reclamation Bureau and that the bureau is ready to finish that phase if the money is voted.

McKay asked a bureau official if the $350,000 would be enough to complete the planning. He was told it would be except for the plans which are not prepared until construction bids are sought.

Baxter said the project is estimated to cost $5 million dollars with the cities to repay 65 per cent over 50 years.

He said the area's irrigation wells now are pumping from 150 to 250 feet. McKay asked if the water table was dropping. Baxter said it was; that some of the wells formerly only 80 or 90 feet deep had been lowered four or five times.

Demos May Fight Ag Reorganization

WASHINGTON (AP)—Indications that Senate Democrats will fight President Eisenhower's plan for reorganizing the Agriculture Department drew cries of "politics" today from some Republicans.

"I certainly hope the Democratic leadership has not singled out agriculture as a political football," said Chairman Alben Barkley of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), also in an interview, said, "We can expect that, because they hope to make some votes out of agricultural problems."

Both referred to an announcement yesterday by Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee that Democrats want full hearings on the Eisenhower plan.

2 Underground Water District Plans Approved

AUSTIN (AP)—Two underground water district plans were approved by a House committee yesterday.

Fifteen square miles in the northern outskirts of Houston would comprise a district under one approved bill. It could issue bonds but could not collect taxes.

A bill letting the 530 residents of D'Hanis, near Hondo, form a district to dig a deeper municipal well got quick approval of the House Conservation and Reclamation Committee.

The group also recommended to the House a plan to set up a port and navigation district in Orange. Rep. Ellis Carter of Orange said it was patterned like some water districts.

A bill setting up a surface water district to supply ten northeast Texas towns ran into a delay. Among objections was a clause in the bill providing for park facilities.

Recalling the controversy over privately-built hotels on state land, the group decided to postpone action on the bill.

FORT WORTH (AP)—Sheet metal workers here have accepted a 12½-cent hourly wage increase. The new contract yesterday apparently ended strikes which have been occurring here since March 21.

Man Who Cruised During Campaign Is Corpus Mayor

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—A Texan who cruised the Mediterranean while his friends put on a frenzied political campaign for him is mayor of this Gulf Coast city today.

Albert Lichtenstein, 43, and four other Corpus Christi businessmen were swept into office as the mayor and City Commission yesterday by a vote of almost 2-1.

As the returns came in, Lichtenstein and his wife Annie, received the news in a New York hotel. They arrived back in this country from their 59-day cruise only Monday.

The department store vice president agreed to run as the majority candidate of the "Better Government party" last January. He had failed in efforts to induce to run other persons he thought qualified.

"So," he said after his victory, "I stuck my own neck out."

Soon after he was picked to run, Lichtenstein and his wife left for their European vacation. Behind him left a group of hard-working friends and some tape-recorded speeches used for radio addresses in his absence.

That was enough. An hour after the polls closed last night his opponent, Frank Williamson, conceded defeat with 30 of 37 boxes, or about 11,000 votes, counted.

When Lichtenstein's phone in New York's Essex House rang a few minutes later, it was his 12-year-old son, Albert Jr., calling from Corpus Christi.

"Congratulations," said the youngster. "We're the mayor now."

It was the first venture into politics for the new mayor and his gaming mates.

Lawyers Wind Up Arguments In TC Suits

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court called on attorneys to finish arguments today in the 200 million dollar damage suits filed against the government after the 1947 Texas City disaster.

Explosions rocked the Texas City harbor area when a French ship being loaded with fertilizer grade ammonium nitrate caught fire and blew up, killing 560 persons and injuring 3,000.

Assistants to the attorney general told the tribunal yesterday the government was immune, under the circumstances involved, from suits which might be successfully lodged against a private company.

The fertilizer, made at surplus Army munition plants, was being exported to war-ravaged countries faced with starvation.

In answer to charges of attorneys for the claimants that the government had failed to give a proper warning to all persons handling the fertilizer, the government lawyers commented that the Interstate Commerce Commission rules prevented the material being labelled as explosive.

The Supreme Court was asked by the government lawyers to uphold a decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans which in turn had overruled a decision of Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly of Houston. Kennerly had blamed the government for "blunders, mistakes and acts of negligence" in the disaster.

Toll Road Bill Gets Group OK

AUSTIN (AP)—A state-wide toll road bill, as suggested by Gov. Shivers, won Senate committee approval yesterday.

A proposed Dallas-Fort Worth turnpike project would have top priority.

Sen. Otis Lock of Lufkin sponsored the revised plan. He said it would allow construction of toll roads on an orderly basis.

Two bills providing for non-profit private corporations to finance such projects were approved by the committee. Existing corporations planning toll roads from near Irving through Waco and Austin to San Antonio and from Houston to Dallas were given priority on those routes.

Kenneth McCalla of the Texas Railroad Association opposed the state-wide authority bill. He said a tax-exemption feature in the private corporation bill posed an unwarranted threat of competition to railroads.

Sentence Given For Plot In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Sultan Hamid II of West Borneo, a cabinet minister in a former Indonesian administration, was sentenced today to 10 years in jail for masterminding an attempted armed overthrow of the government.

He was charged with ordering Capt. R. P. P. (Turk) Westerling, a Dutch guerrilla leader, to attack a cabinet meeting Jan. 24, 1950, and kill three top Indonesian leaders. The attack never came off, however.

Further Development Of Red Science Urged

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda said today the Soviet Union spent 47.2 billion rubles on science in the period of 1946-51. It called for further development of Soviet science and said new measures have been taken to expand scientific personnel.

There is no normal exchange between the ruble and the dollar. The Russians have given the rubles an arbitrary value of 25 cents.

Bowron Trails In LA Voting; Runoff Is Set

LOS ANGELES (U-P) Fletcher Bowron, moon-faced mayor of the nation's fourth largest city, trailed Republican Rep. Norris Poulson today in complete returns from yesterday's election.

The two will battle it out in the final election May 26 for the tough job of running the city for another four years. Bowron has been mayor since 1938.

Poulson had a lead of nearly 33,000 out of 480,080 votes cast. The count.

Poulson 211,247, Bowron 178,362. Three other candidates were eliminated.

Bowron, mayor for 15 years, apparently will go into a runoff battle with Poulson in the May 26 general election, since it would require a majority of all votes cast for the office to win election in the primary.

The three other candidates were far back.

Bowron, nationally known for his many years of activity with the league of municipalities and other municipal organizations, battled Poulson in the primary campaign on issues such as public housing, which Bowron supported, although voters in a referendum last year went against a 110 million dollar public housing program for which the city originally contracted with the federal government.

Korea War Casualties In Big Rise

WASHINGTON (U-P)—The Defense Department reported today 1,038 more battle casualties in Korea, the largest weekly rise since Nov. 12.

The toll, reflecting the recent bitter battles for Western Front hilltops, raised the war toll of American killed, wounded and missing to 132,867.

The 1st Marine Division reported 354 of the week's casualties, including 95 of the 183 who were killed or died of wounds.

The Army's share of the increase was 440, largely borne by the Seventh Division fight for "Old Baldy" and its supporting heights.

The Marine action was largely centered in the Bunker Hill area, where all but one of the hills taken in Red onslaughts was eventually recaptured.

Accident Is Reported

U. S. Shaping Plans To Secure Permanent Peace In Far East

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (U-P) — Plans to make a permanent peace for war-torn Korea and perhaps negotiate with the Communists on other critical Far Eastern issues are beginning to shape up here as true prospects brighten.

One idea receiving official consideration, it was understood today, is that any long-term peace arrangements should provide for a north-south dividing line at the narrow waist of the peninsula about 80 miles north of the present battle lines.

Under provisions already worked out, an armistice would become effective along this present line. However, some authorities here believe this would not make a workable division of the country over a long period.

The battle line is generally already north of Parallel 38, which divided North and South Korea before the Red attack. The Communists presumably would object to any northward shift.

The belief is that the South Korean government would accept a border at the Korean waist since this would give it control over approximately 85 per cent of the country. Such an arrangement would reduce the North Korean position to a minimum, just short of extinction. It would, however, leave a buffer zone between South Korea and major Red Chinese and Soviet interests in Manchuria and Siberia. Hence there is some feeling that the Red governments of China and Russia—if not North Korea—might be willing to move the permanent peace line north.

No one here has any idea what kind of compensation they might bargain for.

This and a host of other questions are becoming of considerable importance because of the Soviet peace offensive and the steps taken by the Reds toward agreeing on an acceptable truce in Korea.

Among the provisions of an armistice worked out prior to the deadlock over prisoner of war repatriation was one stating that the military negotiators should recommend to the countries concerned a "political conference" to settle "the questions of the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea, the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc."

President Eisenhower said in a talk yesterday that American troops would have to remain in the region of Korea for a long time. This could include Japan, however, and would not necessarily mean indefinite manning of a truce line.

Negotiation on withdrawal of United Nations and Chinese forces from Korea will unquestionably be one of the problems of the political conference.

What authorities here are uncertain about is the implication of that "etc." Under this heading the Reds may seek to bring up a series of issues with which they would hope to confuse and divide the Allies. And the Eisenhower administration, hoping to get peace throughout the Far East rather than in Korea alone, may feel it

Solons Told To Shun 'Military Lobbyists'

By JACK BELL.
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is reported to have advised members of Congress to ignore "military lobbyists," because he intends to cut armed services spending to the lowest level at which he feels the nation will be safe.

A senator reported Eisenhower's advice after Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey agreed in testimony before a Senate committee yesterday that defense outlays would have to take a four billion dollar cut if the new budget were to be balanced.

Eisenhower was described by the senator, who asked not to be quoted by name, as being convinced that pressure is being exerted on Congress by military men to prevent slashes in the 46 billion dollar spending program outlined by former President Truman for the armed forces for the year beginning July 1.

The President has said he will make the final decision on the level of combat strength to be maintained.

Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), who heads the Senate Appropriations Military Subcommittee, said in an interview he already has felt "military lobbying."

"It doesn't come from the generals or the military leaders themselves—it is all done indirectly," he said. "The pressure comes from defense contractors and industrialists who say that there will be unemployment and disarrangement of the economy if military spending is cut."

Ferguson joined Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the full appropriations committee in predicting military outlays will be cut.

But Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said he and some other members of the Democratic Policy Committee are "apprehensive" lest a possible truce in Korea be used "to materially weaken our defenses." He said Democrats had not been consulted either about proposed military cuts or the negotiations under way in Korea.

Sen. Robertson (D-Va.) said he didn't believe the new budget could be balanced without cutting four billion off military outlays and that taxes could not be reduced without defense cuts of six to seven billion.

Men In Service

A-2C Wallace G. Cantrell, son of Mrs. J. J. Cormas, 302 E. Kingsmill Pampa, has been assigned as a draftsman to the 341st Bombardment Squadron at Biggs AFB, Texas. He is a member of the 97th Bombardment Wing, part of the strategic air command's 8th Air Force. Prior to his entry into the Air Force, Airman Cantrell attended Howard County Junior College.

Pvt. Don Kelley, whose wife, Wanda Lee, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Kelley, live in Stanton, recently arrived in Korea. He is with the 25th Infantry Division. This unit has been in Korea longer than any other, having entered the fighting in July 1950 shortly after the Communist attack on South Korea. Pvt. Kelley is a cannoneer with Battery B, 8th Field Artillery. He entered the Army in 1952 and after completing basic training at Camp Chaffee, Ark., was stationed at Camp Polk, La. before going overseas.

Senator Asks Names Of Commie Authors

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) asked Secretary of State Dulles yesterday to name persons responsible for placing books by Communist authors in overseas libraries operated by the U. S. government in the cold war effort.

McCarthy's investigations subcommittee, investigating the overseas libraries, has heard testimony they contain books by more than 70 Communists.

City Corrects Water Pressure In Some Areas

Several low water pressure bottlenecks have been corrected in various parts of the city and arrangements are being made to correct others prior to the summer's peak water demand period, city officials reported today.

A portion of the Washington Place area north of the boulevard has better water pressure due to installation of a new four-inch distribution line, City Manager H. W. Whitney said. Also, new line has been installed down the alley east of Dixie Street and a "loop" has been made to improve pressures in the 800, 900 and 1,000 blocks of Scurry.

Similar improvements will be made further south in the original townsite.

Plans also are in the mill for extension of the four-inch line north of Washington Boulevard from Jefferson to Mt. Vernon, but obstructions on the utilities easement thus far have prevented the work. The city manager said fences, walls and a few trees have encroached on the easement and will have to be removed before line can be extended.

The new four-inch line already is in place from a point near the Washington Place entrance to Jefferson.

9 Witnesses Won't Talk To Probers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nine more witnesses have refused to tell a House Un-American Activities Subcommittee whether they ever were members of the Communist party.

The subcommittee, at a session yesterday primarily for witnesses who objected to being televised during a series of hearings here last month, heard from:

A semio-operative former State Department attaché, a plumber with a Master's degree from Harvard, a drama critic, a building contractor, a musician and four educators.

Charles Albert Page, 54, testified he worked for the State Department from 1927 to 1933 and from 1941 to 1946, serving in Cuba, Ecuador, Guatemala, Uruguay and most recently as cultural relations attaché in Paris.

He denied Communist affiliation during his 11 years of government service, answering questions about those years willingly, but refused to discuss Communist connections, if any, from 1934 to 1941.

He told the subcommittee, comprised of Chairman Donald L. Jackson (R-Calif.) and Clyde Doyle (D-Calif.), he was assistant to then Lt. Gov. Ellis Patterson of California from January, 1939, to December, 1940.

W. E. Oliver, drama critic for the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express, accused the committee "of union busting." Jackson replied that the committee "has the support of labor."

Woman Fined $2,950 For Parking Tickets

NEW YORK (AP)—Chief Magistrate John M. Murtagh imposed a $2,950 fine—or 118 days—in on a woman for ignoring 39 parking summons in three years.

Weeping, Mrs. Lee Maggio, 29, a dress company partner, said she could not pay. Murtagh set her free in $1,000 bail because she has a small child and gave her until April 24 to raise the money or go to jail.

May Be Freedom Road For Allied Prisoners

This road, leading south from Kaseong to the truce site at Panmunjom village (1) in South Korea may be the highway down which Allied prisoners may be escorted by the Communist captors if current negotiations for prisoner exchange become effective. The truce tent (2) has been joined by permanent buildings since this picture was made. A group of tents for service personnel at the truce site are in the center background (3). A corporal assigned to the truce camp for the past eight months told newsmen, "It will be worth it all if we can see just one exchange prisoner coming down that road." (AP Wirephoto)

Local Industry Is Honored At Tuesday Affair

Opportunities and shortcomings of Big Spring's position industrially were discussed at length by a group of business people assembled Tuesday night at the Settles for an Industrial Conference.

The affair was sponsored by the industrial division of the Chamber of Commerce, in recognition of Texas Industry Week, and emphasis was placed on the industrial contribution to the local economy.

Cecil McDonald, chairman of the C-C Industrial Division, presided and urged that plans be made early enough for a larger industrial observance next year. There is much in the city's industrial might, he said, to be displayed and publicized.

R. B. G. Cowper, C-C president voiced optimism for continued growth of Big Spring, and said that the factors of faith, initiative and industry still hold good for success in this country. He felt that progress had been made chiefly in a water supply, which should be to the community's future advantage.

A note of caution was sounded by R. L. Tollett, president of Corden Petroleum Corporation, who said that prospective industries will scrutinize closely such things as tax rates, transportation facilities, utility availabilities and costs, and dependable and cheap water supply. Big Spring, must watch these factors, he said, and be prepared to offer concessions to likely firms that should be interested in locating here.

About 35 attended the meeting, heard several songs from an SPEBSQSA quartet—the Sand Pipers (Chaplain John Little, Dwight Jones, Ed Johnson and Dan Conley)—and mixed informally over coffee, cold drinks and smokes.

Jaycees Hold Safety Drive

Jaycees Monday "taped" more area autos in their continuing "Late-A-Bumper" safety campaign.

The group set up a taping station at the corner of Sixth and Main. Nearly 100 autos and trucks were reflectorized with red Scotch-lite tape.

The tape, applied to rear bumpers, is a safety device to better protect drivers during night driving. Auto headlights catch the reflection of the tape on parked or moving vehicles and thus warn oncoming drivers. The tape is more easily spotted than rear car lights, according to tests.

Although the Jaycees have no plans for another taping station, cars may continue to be reflectorized through the facilities of three local service stations which are aiding the Jaycee-sponsored drive. Cost of taping remains the same.

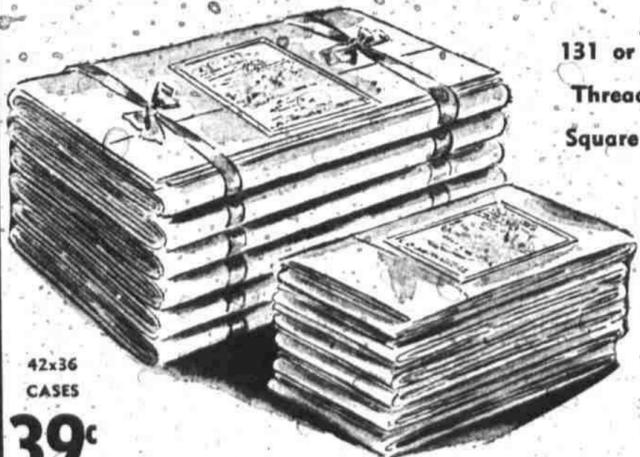

The tape may be secured from Corden Station 5, State and 11th Place, Corden Station 7, Fourth and Gregg, or Roy Bruce Service Station, 300 East Third.

At its regular luncheon meeting Monday, Jaycees conducted routine business and then got a preview of the Lions Club Minstrel Show.

Harry Lee Plumbly, who is directing the show, acted as master of ceremonies and also sang a number, "Glory Road." Fran Jones sang "Lazybones," accompanied by Mrs. Margie Rainwater on the piano. Sgt. John Engle, from Webb Air Force Base, presented a variety of number and then rendered some selections on his ukelele.

Plans were also discussed for the club's installation barbecue supper honoring new officers. The fete is scheduled for April 16.

Taft Predicts Ike To Run Again Despite Any One-Term Rumors

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) predicted today that President Eisenhower will run again in 1956 and be re-elected. Persistent, although unverified, reports have circulated in Washington that Eisenhower wants only one term. He told a news conference Feb. 25 he had probably made as many facetious remarks on the subject as his friends could bear and wasn't ready for a serious declaration.

Taft, the Senate majority leader, said in an interview he never had heard any one-term suggestion from the President or his intimates. Taft said that in any event he firmly believes Eisenhower will be re-elected.

"It will be inevitable that the pressure will build up on him from within the party," Taft said. "When the party has a man in the White House the pressure always builds up to keep him there."

"When the time comes, the President will be told that only by running again can he prevent a split in the party and make sure of its success at the polls."

Taft's comment came after he had agreed, evidently somewhat reluctantly, to the choice of former Rep. Leonard W. Hall of New York as Republican national chairman—a selection expected to be ratified by the national committee here Friday.

It is an open secret among the Ohio senator's intimates that Taft would have preferred a chairman less closely identified than Hall as with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the 1944 and 1948 GOP presidential nominee.

Taft apparently based his acceptance on a belief that Eisenhower is going to continue to dominate party policy for the next eight years.

Suit To Clear Title Is Filed With Court

Albert and Emmett Grantham filed a suit to clear title to their land in 118th District Court today. The suit was filed against J. W. Meek of Marlin County and Bill Green of Midland County.

According to their petition, Meek and Green have "illegally" taken possession of the west half, section 1, block 35, township 1-south, T&P survey. As a result of the trespass, they wish the suit to be tried. John Coffee is the Grantham attorney.

Boundaries Involved In Tides Dispute May Be Left To Court

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Those in favor of giving the states the submerged lands off their shores say: "Give it to them out to their historic boundaries." But those who want the government to keep those lands ask: "Out to what historic boundaries? What are they and where are they?"

It would be a smart man who could convince everyone he had the answer. Because the legislation, which Congress is now preparing to pass, is so vague on that question the Supreme Court may have to solve the problem, perhaps years from now, thus piling legal snarls on all those that have gone before.

Yet the answer is worth billions of dollars because the submerged lands off California, Texas and Louisiana are rich with oil. President Eisenhower's attorney general, Herbert Brownell, asked Congress before it approved the measure it is now considering to draw a line showing what the boundaries are. That might be the solution to the endless question about boundaries, he said, and "if Congress didn't do it, there might be a long fight ending up in the Supreme Court. But Congress ignored him on this. Now Congress is getting ready to pass a bill which, in effect, says this:

All states will own the submerged lands seaward from their shores for three miles and any lands beyond that if they can prove they have a just claim to them. What would be a just claim? What this may mean in future revenue, for the states or the federal government, can be seen from this: The estimated oil potential off California is two billion barrels, with more than half of it within the three miles. California has far less to gain than Louisiana and Texas by fighting to claim lands beyond three miles.

The potential oil reserve off Louisiana has been estimated at four billion barrels, with only 250 million inside the three-mile limit and 3 1/2 billion barrels beyond that point. But the estimated potential for Texas is nine billion barrels, with 400 million within the three-mile limit, 800 million more between 3 and 10 1/2 miles, and 7,800,000,000 beyond 10 1/2 miles.

While it was still a republic, before entering the Union in 1945, Texas claimed a seaward boundary of 10 1/2 miles. But in 1947 the State Legislature claimed ownership of all the submerged lands off Texas out to the edge of the continental shelf, a distance of perhaps 135 miles.

Louisiana's Legislature in 1938 decided the State's seaward boundary was 27 1/2 miles. But was that 27 1/2 miles from the shoreline of the land mass of Louisiana or 27 1/2 miles from the state's outermost island in the Gulf of Mexico, 10 1/2 miles from shore?

The representative that Louisiana sent up here to explain his state's case to the Senate, Atty. Gen. Fred S. Lebban, was helpless on the boundary question. He said he couldn't say what it was and that if the current legislation is approved by Congress the Supreme Court may have to decide.

Texas' former attorney general, Sen. Daniel, told the Senate last week that Texas' legal claim to submerged lands is really only 10 1/2 miles. That doesn't mean Congress couldn't later extend such a boundary. After listening to the statement of Daniel, Sen. Douglas, Ill. inois Democrat and an opponent of giving the submerged lands to the states, tackled Sen. Cordon, Oregon Republican, one of the supporters of the idea.

Douglas asked Cordon "if he agreed with Daniel, that Texas' boundary should be only 10 1/2 miles, Cordon said he wouldn't agree or disagree. When Douglas then pressed him to explain just what Texas' legal boundary is, Cordon said Douglas would have to get the answer from the Supreme Court.

Before this country became a nation some of the colonies claimed jurisdiction over vast tracts of the sea. Virginia claimed it for 1,000 miles out from shore, New Hampshire for 100 miles. It was Thomas Jefferson, when he was secretary of state in 1793, who proclaimed U. S. government jurisdiction over the sea out to a three-mile limit. He did this long before oil was thought of and for dealing with other nations.

Merger Talkers Name Union Group To Halt Raiding In Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—The AFL and CIO, talking merger again, have started out by trying to eliminate a source of friction between them. Leaders of the two big labor organizations yesterday named a six-man group to try to work out an agreement against "raiding." This is the attempt by one union to replace another as bargaining representative in an already organized plant or industry.

Both AFL President George Meany and CIO President Walter Reuther told newsmen they knew such practices were going on and that they ought to stop.

100 Pair Of Coyote Ears Being Sought

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—North Texas peace officers were on the alert today for 100 pairs of coyote ears.

The ears were stolen last week from Santa Rosa Ranch near Vernon.

Wilbarger County Sheriff Ed Luttrell said that whoever stole the ears probably would try to collect bounty on them.

Bounties for killing coyotes range from 50 cents to $5 in various Texas counties. The ears are usually required as proof in collecting the bounty.

Even After An Armistice, Road To Peace Is Long And Tricky

U. S. News & World Report this week points out that the road to peace is long and tricky. Even complete agreement on exchange of prisoners, discussion of which is now under way at Panmunjom, would be only a starter. Making peace in Korea is something else again. At Panmunjom earlier, the magazine points out, the negotiators had reached agreement on three major ingredients of a truce: a buffer zone, how to police the truce, and the need for more talk about Korea. The goal now is a truce. Granting that this is achieved, the magazine envisions these future steps: "American troops will remain in Korea; opposing forces will back away from front line, dig in for long stay; fighting may flare up again if truce terms are violated; Communists will be free to build new airfields and bases; truce will be just a shaky ceasefire, not real peace."

final peace terms may take months — and if the talks break down, shooting may start again. And Korea is just one of the major points of difference between the east and the West — and perhaps not the stickiest one, at that. The Austrian peace treaty needs only signing by the Communists, but the German peace treaty will be infinitely more difficult to work out. There remains the working out of agreements under which the West and the East can resume normal trade relations, after all these other points have been settled. And the biggest of all is this: can the program to put Western Europe in a posture of defense against Russian aggression be pushed through to successful completion? As long as that proposition hangs fire, there will always be the threat of global war. Until that plan is working, until Western Europe can defend herself, we will have to continue some form of aid to our Allies there, and we will have to maintain at least a minimum of U. S. forces in Britain and on the continent.

Russian Policy May Be Basically Same, But Gears Are Shifted

In his regular radio talk to the people of Texas Sunday evening, U. S. Senator Lyndon Johnson remarked: "It does seem certain that developments since the death of Stalin have gone beyond the propaganda stage. Russia probably has not changed vehicles — but there is ample evidence that she has changed gears." The senator pointed out that the U. S. and its Allies have been trying to effectuate peace in Korea for nearly two years, but the Reds have blocked every move until now. "One thing needs to be made very clear," the senator said, "about all these fast-moving developments. This is that, when examined closely, they are seen to amount to steps toward acceptance of proposals the United States has been pushing a long time."

This latter is the most insidious and dangerous trap into which the United States might fall as a result of Communist blandishments. Everybody would like to see taxes cut, and Congress with an election coming up next year seeped bent and determined to cut appropriations even before the Russians started sweet-talking us. If there is an armistice in Korea, there will be shouts "bring the boys" home, and this will be hard to resist. Verily, the Communists shift gears, but they're still driving the same old juggernaut. Their one aim in life is to force tactics should be changed when necessary to achieve a larger strategic advantage. They have said so, publicly, for all the world to hear, time after time, most recently at the all-Soviet Congress in Moscow only a few months ago. In reaching for peace we must be certain not to neglect our only chance for maintaining it — a powerful military establishment.

Washington Calling — Marquis Childs

The Show In The Big Tent Must Replace The Regime's Sideshow

WASHINGTON — C. D. Jackson, who has been described as President Eisenhower's grand panjandrum of psychological warfare, on a recent visit to Capitol Hill discussed some of his problems with friendly senators. Moving from psychological warfare abroad to psychological warfare at home, he put this question: "What can we do about Joe McCarthy?" One of the answers he received is worthy of note since it puts as neatly as possible what seems to be the current situation in this capital. "The truth is," said the reflective senator, "that the sideshow is open and doing a lot of business. But the show in the big tent hasn't opened up yet."

to do and they want to get on with it has as little fuss from press and public as possible. But in politics and public life this is not enough. It is not just a board of directors, or a group of stockholders or even a segment of the buying public who must be placated and pleased. The American people as a whole look to their public officials, and especially to the President, for an accounting of their stewardship. Their demands are often capricious and unreasonable. But nevertheless they are as real as the dome on the capitol building. One of Franklin Roosevelt's great political assets was his ability to seem to talk to each individual citizen. That was in the quietest day of Radio. What he would have done with television beggars the imagination. Using a different technique Senator McCarthy convinces many Americans that he has their interest as his first concern. One may call this demagoguery, as many people have done both in relation to FDR and Joe McCarthy. But on another level it is called the art of politics, which is more nearly an art rather than a business, a technique. In his long career of public service, President Eisenhower has never had to resort to any such method of treating with people in the mass.

Maybe We Older Folks Can Take A Lesson In Settling Arguments

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note. "Go observe the ant that sluggard, consider her ways and be wise." The writer of Proverbs could have told us to observe children at play and learn a thing or two. While adults sulk or have to be begged into participation and then fall out completely and permanently over some trivial issue, children have a way of handling these things. They have more sense than to butt their heads into situations that can be avoided satisfactorily. The other day I listened to the boys in the neighborhood cook up an old favorite — a battle between the settlers and the Redskins and the outlaws. They had erected a tent in the back yard and the settlers took refuge in this. The Redskins began snaking through weeds they should have been cutting. A gun barrel protruded cautiously from under the tent flap. "Bing," came the report, "Bing, Bing." The Indian raised up to toss something at the tent. "Hey," said the indignant Settler. You can't do that; you're dead." "I ain't either," disputed the Redskin. "You pushed me." "Like fun I did. You're out in the open. I couldn't miss." This embryo argument was interrupted by a series of "click," "click" and "clinks." Another befuddled Settler turned to fire into the midst of a couple of enterprising Scouts. They were armed with little kodaks. "We already got you," they announced. "We've been shooting all over the place."

Gallantry Takes Startling Toll From The Male Population, Wilbur Asserts

HOMETOWN, U.S.A. — Trellis Mae Peeble was preparing a lecture for her club the Minerva Gin Rummy and Current Events Society. At their monthly session these literary ladies usually devoted 15 minutes to a lecture—and three hours to card playing. "Wilbur, I'm stuck for ideas," appealed Trellis Mae. "Won't you help me?" Well, no wonder he drops dead at 35. In 50 years he has worn himself out opening maybe 100,000 doors for women, tipping his hat 200,000 times, lighting 300,000 cigarettes for them, and picking up 500,000 things they have dropped—and maybe running to catch 25,000 taxis for 'em."

What About Cancer? Cancer's Early Detection, Surgery Can Save Lives. called for. While pills may stop the signs for trouble, the cancer—if one is present—is given time to grow. More important, however, than recognition of these symptoms or signs is a periodic X-ray examination by specialists of all people past 40—the age after which stomach cancer most often strikes. By the time a stomach cancer is diagnosed on the basis of symptoms, it probably has been present for two years. This long silent interval and the frequent occurrence of stomach cancer, definitely suggests that the most effective way of early detection is by periodic X-ray examination. People without symptoms who are found by X-ray to be harboring a silent cancer show a far higher cure rate after operations than those where the cancer has been detected because of symptoms. In a generation, stomach cancer—once regarded as almost hopeless—has become amenable to surgical treatment. It is now curable. The problem is to detect its presence in time. The major dread—as in all cancer—should be the fear of neglect.

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP. The admission of Louisiana as a state of the Union on this day in 1812, had more than casual impress upon the Texas story. In the first place, Louisiana became a haven for schemers and empire builders looking toward Texas with covetous eyes. Gutierrez, Magee, James Long and other early leaders of "revolutions" had headquarters there. Second, there was the boundary between Louisiana and Texas. Almost immediately that was in dispute and if some Louisiana statesmen had their way, it still would be. Under the terms of the Louisiana purchase the west bank of the Sabine was the boundary of Louisiana. Shortly after Texas was annexed into the Union, a special act was passed by Congress extending the Texas boundary to the middle of the Sabine, and so it is now.

Man Found Dead At Bottom Of Hot Pool. HOUSTON (AP)—Andrew Jackson Nelson, about 75, was found dead yesterday at the bottom of a hot pool at Hot Wells, a bathing resort 26 miles northwest of here. The hot pool is a tank of hot mineral water several feet deep. Justice of the Peace V. P. Davis said Nelson had a gash above his left eye when an attendant at the resort found him. The justice withheld his verdict pending an autopsy. Davis said he wanted to determine whether Nelson drowned or died from a heart attack or a head injury. Nelson was bathing in the hot pool in an effort to help his arthritis, friends said. Nelson's wife was visiting a daughter in Fort Worth when the tragedy occurred. Another daughter lives in Odessa. Air Raid Test Held. TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—This Chinese Nationalist island, ever wary of Communist air attack, staged its most extensive air raid test today, highlighted by a simulated attack by 300 parachutists.

Technique Used By A Communist Teacher On Students Is Revealed

When one goes among professors these days, it is startling to find that so many of them are jittery over the prospects of being called as witnesses before Congressional committees. Few are ever called. Not all are unfriendly witnesses; for instance, Dr. Harry D. Gideonse, President of Brooklyn College, Dr. William Jansen, Superintendent of Schools in New York City, Dr. Bella Dodd, former Communist, and Dr. William H. Withers, who had taught at Lehigh University, Teachers College of Columbia University, and Queens College, were friendly witnesses, aiding the Congressional Committees with their expert knowledge. Only those who have something to hide need fear these investigations. Professor Withers testified that at one stage of his life, he was actually groomed to be a member of the Communist party. He was then at New College, an institution for the education of teachers in which political activity was encouraged. He had joined the Teachers Union, he thinks, in 1935. He testified that "The Teachers Union was under Communist control at that time." Dr. Withers was an active member of Local 537 of the Teachers Union situated at Teachers College. He testified before the Jenner Committee: "After 1937 I began to realize that the control of Local 537 was definitely Communist, and in 1939 a group of us who were non-Communists in Local 537 organized what we called an Independent caucus, in which we attempted to defeat Communist propositions in the plenary sessions of the union."

Even in southern Alaska there are high parts which never have warm summer weather. The last statement includes the mountains of the Panhandle. About half a hundred tall peaks line the border of the Panhandle and British Columbia. This area has a big glacial field. Taking Alaska as a whole, we find that the year-around fields of snow and ice, including the glaciers, cover about 18,000 square miles. This amounts to only three per cent of the total area, but snow, alone, makes a poor index to weather. Alaska has vast sections where the ground stays frozen all the time, to depths of several feet. The snow may melt at the surface, but there is little thawing of the soil. Elsewhere the ground thaws far enough down for crops of grain and vegetables to be grown. The Muir Glacier and the Malaspina are the most famous in Alaska. The front of the Malaspina Glacier stretches out about 50 miles along the seaward side. Any glacier which rests on sloping ground tends to move. If it is in a valley, a glacier may move down to the sea, and the end of it may break off there. The Gulf of Alaska gets many chunks of ice from glaciers, and some of these are large enough to be called icebergs. In general, however, the icebergs of Alaska are smaller than those which come from the coast of Greenland. Another attraction of Alaska is the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, which is near the base of the Alaska Peninsula. This valley was the scene of a mighty volcanic eruption 41 years ago. A "dead" volcano, Mt. Katmai, existed in the valley. Suddenly it became very much alive, and blew its top off. After the fierce eruption was past, thousands of openings were observed in the area, and from these poured steam or smoke. This led people to name the place the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes. Within a few years, the American government made the area a national monument. For TRAVEL section of your scrapbook. Tomorrow: Cross in Central Alaska. Riding THE GRUB LINE

With Franklin Reynolds

Looking at it from one tradition, the drought may be broken. Some oldtimers have always said that if it rains on Easter Sunday it will also rain the next six consecutive Sundays. That much rain if heavy enough each time will pretty near be a drought breaker.

"Time will tell and we'll wait and see."

Ray Hastings, Martin County agricultural agent, calls attention to the fact that this is the season when stockmen should be well on the lookout for those plants that are poisonous to range animals. Death losses can be prevented, Hastings reminds them, if they will follow good range management practices.

The first job is to determine whether or not poisonous plants are growing on the range and if they are found there, Hastings says, the livestock should be moved from the area until the danger is past.

The buds, leaves and tender shoots of all trees of the oak family contain poisonous substances which cause severe sickness in cattle, sheep, goats and horses. This condition occurs from the time the buds begin to swell until the leaves become dark green. The low-growing oaks, commonly called shinny oaks, usually cause the most trouble because livestock can so easily get to them. Cattle are most commonly affected here, says Hastings.

The county agent explains that oak poisoning is more common following drought periods because the livestock are hunting for green feed at a time when other green forage is scarce. Death losses from oak bud poisoning runs high, Hastings recalls, and cattle should be kept away from areas where the oaks are growing during the bud period. The cattle should either be moved to an oak-free pasture or put up in lots and fed, Hastings advises.

At the same time Hastings joins with the Soil Conservation Service technicians in calling attention to the fact that the infestation of bitweed is unusually heavy and unusually widespread this spring. They say this condition is due mainly to the fact that poor grass cover has made the ranges ripe for the bitweed invasion.

This plant is especially dangerous to sheep and is a cumulative poison. One to two pounds of the dry plants, says Hastings, will kill a grown ewe. Deferred and rotation grazing are recommended control practices for this plant, he adds.

Good range management, explains Hastings, is the key to poisonous plant control. He advises that stockmen keep feeding hay or other forage until the good forage have had time to develop on their ranges. He points out that livestock prefer other forage above the poisonous plants and that ordinarily stock will not graze these poisonous plants if other forage is available to them.

Ten new employees of the Soil Conservation Service who have been receiving their basic training here will complete this primary course April 17 and have received their assignments to permanent units. It has been announced by Marion Everhart, work unit conservator.

The trainees, their homes address and the units to which they have been assigned are Luther C. Geiger of Indianola, Okla., assigned to Childress; Joe Kenneth Harris of Rockdale, Texas, assigned to Milesburg; Hinds A. McGowan Jr., of Snyder, assigned to Abilene; Cleatis Hyatt of Blackwell, Texas, assigned to Stanton; William M. Koss of Meeker, Okla., assigned to Vernon; Hervey L. Perkins Jr., of Houston, assigned to Haskell; Mack G. Keathley of Dustin, Okla., assigned to Floydada; Olen H. Mitchell of Yancey, Texas, assigned to Dimmitt; Robert L. McGuyer of Belton, assigned to Lubbock; and J. C. Steger Jr., of Linden, Texas, assigned to Tyler.

These trainees have been given their basic instruction by members of the local staff of the SCS, assisted by other SCS technicians and specialists who have come here for instructive purposes. Much of the course has consisted of field work but there has also been a great deal of classroom work which has been done at Howard County Junior College.

This class entered training here on Feb. 16. The local SCS unit is regarded by the service as one of the best training units in the Southwest. Everhart says this is greatly due to the facilities made available to the SCS by H.C.J.C. He also says more older men and more A&M college graduates are entering the service than ever before.

Authorities in Spain are doing something about the complaints of bullfight fans that the bulls are too small and that the sharp tips have been sawed off the horns.

The matter has been discussed at a high-level government cabinet meeting and a new edict has been ordered into force. Hereafter the fighting bulls must be at least four years old; they must weigh at least 1,034 pounds, and the horns must not be artificially rendered less dangerous than they would naturally be.

"Each year for the last 10 years or so, the fans complained, smaller and smaller bulls have been used. The fans say not only have the bulls been gradually smaller but that they have been thinner and weaker and less vicious. The matter of sawing the sharp tips off the horns had become a very common practice in Spain.

Bruce Frazier Sr., in charge of the Veterans Vocational Agriculture Education program in Martin County recently had a field day for his classes on his Mustang Draw Ranch.

The program included the installation of a pump and testing of the well; the taking of soil samples to go to Texas A&M College for analysis; and the machine grubbing of mesquite by Lucas Whitehead.

Among those assisting in the program were Cal Boykin Jr., and Martin Vavra of the Soil Conservation Service. Frazier is one of

Redistricting Proposals Cause Speculation Around Washington

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON, (AP)—When Texas in Washington talk politics these spring days, most speculation centers on the fate of congressional redistricting proposals before the Legislature. They potentially affect the political well-being of each of the 22 representatives.

There is also much talk about the race building up for governor when Allan Shivers steps out.

While names mentioned include those in state jobs which often serve as stepping stones to the governor's mansion, there's special interest here in reports from Austin that Rep. Lloyd Bentsen of McAllen may be the one to whom Shivers would like to pass his baton.

The tall, handsome Rio Grande Valley congressman had combat experience as a bombing squadron commander in the war, served a year as county judge of Hidalgo County and now is in his fifth year in Congress. The congressman waves off inquiries about gubernatorial prospects.

"You know I'm representing the job to the best of my ability," he adds with a smile. "I am trying to justify the confidence of the people who sent me here by doing the job."

But, here are some of the facts surrounding the suggestion that Bentsen may toss his hat in the ring when the proper time comes:

He is a personal friend of Shivers, who has extensive interests in the Rio Grande Valley through his wife's estate.

He also is a personal friend of those instructors who believe in giving his students as many demonstrations and as much practical experience as possible. He has seen a great many Martin County veterans go through the course under his supervision.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson. It is no secret that both Shivers and Johnson hold Bentsen in high esteem, although the governor and senator took opposite stands in the election last November.

Bentsen said during the heated presidential election that he could not actively campaign for Stevenson because of the Democratic nominee's anti-state stand on the submerged lands ownership issue. It is pretty generally understood he stuck with the Democratic ticket when it came to casting his individual vote. He never said:

Friends of Bentsen say it almost certainly would take the support of Shivers and Johnson to put him across in the face of the formidable opposition that would arise if the contestants included those whose names are mentioned in speculation. Those most often named are:

Land Commissioner B. F. S. O. M. Giles, Attorney General John Ben Shepperd, Lieut. Gov. Ben Ramsey, Ralph Yarborough, Ely Thorn-
