

Gal Scribe Tries 'Golf Spy' Act On JFK But Gets Bum's Rush

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — There he stood as big as life on the first tee, the next president of the United States, and I had no idea I was doing anything wrong just looking at him until—

But I'm getting ahead of my story. It was a pleasant, sunny afternoon and news about Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy was quite scarce. Merriman Smith, our UPI White House Reporter, suggested I get out to the golf club and watch the president-elect hit a few.

(Ed's note: There is reason to believe Smith sent a girl to do a man's work.)

I got out of a cab, walked in the grounds and asked the first man I saw to direct me to the first hole. He looked at my high-heeled shoes and pointed me toward the clubhouse.

Looking back on it, I never would have gone into the club had I known I was verging on federal crime. I knew reporters never were allowed in Burning Trees back in Washington when President Eisenhower played, but I knew they watched him at Gettysburg and some other places.

I saw the president-elect slouching around the first tee. Apparently he was waiting for his brother, Bobby. He wore buff-colored slacks and a sweat shirt over a sports shirt. He was swinging his club like an angry weed-cutter. A man near him in brown pants and a bright green shirt also was swinging a club and this one I knew—William H.

Lawrence of the New York Times from Washington. If Bill was there, I didn't see how I could be in any trouble.

But then—

The Secret Service came up and said, "You're not supposed to be here." Pierre Salinger Kennedy's press secretary, came along in matching baby blue sweater and slacks to tell me virtually what the Secret Service had—that I shouldn't be there. I saw several other reporters I knew and asked about them. Sal-inger said they were "here to play golf" and not to report.

Bobby finally showed up in navy blue Bermuda shorts, a blue and tan jersey pullover, shoes and socks. He looked very young.

They started to play and the president-elect messed up his first two drives something awful. He was allowed to play a third shot from the tee. A rather pleasant but worried looking man came up about this time and introduced himself—Sam Ainslee, the manager.

He invited me into the clubhouse for coffee and cake—while he called me a cab. We chatted pleasantly. He told me how Bobby was a much better golfer than his brother, and their father, Joseph P. Kennedy, could beat both of them.

Ainslee was most pleasant, but he said he was afraid any publicity given to Kennedy's golf would stop him from coming to the course. I tried to point out that stories about the presidentelect's eating and sleeping hadn't had the same effect. But then my cab arrived and I got the idea Mr. Ainslee was waving goodbye with great sincerity.

Subsequent to, but not as a result of, Miss Thomas's on-duty visit to the club, the restrictions have been clarified by Salinger. Kennedy does not want his picture made playing golf nor does he want to be under the inspection of working reporters while he plays. He thinks he is entitled to this much personal life.

The difficult part of good temper consists in forbearance, and accommodation to the ill-humor of others. — William Emerson

Tanker Crew Fighting For Life

28 Still On Stern Of Broken Ship; 7 To 9 Believed Dead

By TED SHEPHERD

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—At least 28 seamen aboard the stern half of a storm-broken tanker appeared to be winning a battle against the sea today but, seven to nine others were missing. Helicopters from the aircraft carrier Valley Forge began pulling survivors off the stern of the tanker Pine Ridge shortly after dawn today. The Navy said eight had been rescued by 11 a.m. of a total of 288 reported to be aboard the battered ship half.

THERE'S ALWAYS A WAY — This little foreign car isn't really being propelled by a black sail. It is simply the answer to the problem of driving a six-foot Christmas tree home in San Francisco in a tiny car. The car's suntop was opened to permit the tree to stick out, thereby creating a photo that no photographer could pass up. (NEA TELEPHOTO)

Track Bids Too High, Board Says

The high cost of living caught up with the Pampa school board yesterday and its members decided unanimously it couldn't afford to go ahead with the proposed track and other improvements inside Harvester Stadium.

Three bids were submitted by local contractors in the sums of $41,453.20, $49,880 and $57,938.

The proposed work inside the stadium would have included construction of a cinder track, grading and drainage, sprinkler system, rest rooms, field events facilities and for the moving of the east grandstand and bleachers.

The board decided that the low bid of $41,453.20 was some $5,000 more than the board figured the work would cost.

The bids were rejected in a motion which also called for a new look at planning for the improvements and an effort to cut corners. (See TRACK, Page 4)

Teachers Face Dull Christmas At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Some 4,000 city teachers today seemed doomed to a payless Christmas despite a federal court ruling which all but told Louisiana's legislature its resistance to school integration was futile.

The tartly-worded three-judge opinion Wednesday knocked down the latest state attempt to end integration in two schools here and promised to do the same to any further tries.

Lawmakers responded by disclaiming their promise to meet the $1.9 million teacher payroll due Friday. They beat the drum all the louder for a proposed sales tax hike to finance further resistance.

The court called the legislature's fifth try at replacing the locally-elected school board with state-appointed segregationists "one of the legislature's less sophisticated attempts to preserve racial discrimination." It enjoined the state from enforcing the legislation.

The judges also ordered the city and four banks to unfreeze nearly $1 million in funds due the board, up at least part of the money but a city appeal promised to tie well past payday.

'Rides To Church' Gift Slated By Esquire Club

A band of young fellows from Pampa High School have come up with an idea that may prove to be a Christmas gift in itself to many Pampans who may be strapped for means to reach the church of their choosing Christmas morning.

This will be a "Take You to Church and Return" project of the Esquire Club, a social organization of the school, and the young men will be available from 8 a.m. until noon. They plan to make 13 to 17 cars available, and their services may be obtained by telephoning MO 4-4613.

Although the project will take them away from their families and the possibility that they, too, may wish to attend church, the youths feel they have a project that will grow through the years. Of this, Club President Jerry Ford, said:

"We kicked around a lot of ideas as to how the Esquires could be of benefit to the community Christmas Day. We finally arrived at this idea which we believe will aid some people, who, for one reason or another, wouldn't be able to get to their church. We sincerely ask those that need transportation to and from churches of the city to telephone us—one of the fellows will be there quickly."

Chairman of the project is Butch Crossland. He explained that, although it took some time for the club to reach a decision on the project to undertake, all of the members feel that they have reached the proper conclusion.

"We want this to be an annual project of the organization. We want to be of service to our community. And we will be honest in our efforts to aid the people who will need transportation Christmas morning," Crossland said.

Warmer Days On Way

By United Press International

Texas shivered in the icy grip of the worst cold spell of the season today, but the weatherman said it would begin warming up by the weekend.

A thin cloud cover of clouds in the Panhandle kept temperatures higher than expected overnight. Readings as low as 12 degrees in parts of the Panhandle were forecast but the thermometer dipped only as low as 19 degrees at Dalhart, Amarillo and Childress.

Freezing temperatures spread as far south today as the Rio Grande Valley. Corpus Christi had the high pre-dawn reading with 42 degrees.

The Weather Bureau said a few snow flurries might occur today in the Panhandle and South Plains but it would be light if there was any precipitation at all. There has been no rain or snow reported in other sections of the state since Tuesday.

Skies were expected to remain partly cloudy to clear over most of the northern half of the state today, and fair in southern sections.

A warming trend was expected to begin moving temperatures upward by tonight in Northwest Texas, and in North Central and Northeast Texas Friday then spread into southern sections Friday and Friday night.

High temperatures Wednesday ranged from 57 at Presidio to a maximum of 25 at Dalhart.

Panel To Study Railroads' Spat

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower appointed a 15-man commission headed by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell today to investigate the prolonged dispute between railway labor and management over work rules.

The President acted under terms of a settlement between the nation's railroads and the five operating railway brotherhoods. That agreement, reached Oct. 18, was promoted by Mitchell.

The commission, which met with the President this morning, is composed of five public members chosen by the President, five railroad management representatives nominated by the industry and five union spokesmen nominated by the unions.

Eisenhower said in a statement that the commission was "embarking upon an effort that would have far-reaching and lasting consequences for the railroad industry."

Eisenhower revealed that both sides had recommended Mitchell for the chairmanship.

The other public members were John T. Dunlop, Harvard professor of economics; Charles A. Myers, Massachusetts Institute of Technology economist; Francis J. Robertson, Washington attorney and arbitrator; and Russell A. Smith, Ann Arbor, Mich., arbitrator.

Recommendations of the commission will not be binding.

The chief complaint of the rail lines is that firemen are not required on modern diesel freight locomotives. The railroads describe the continued use of firemen as "featherbedding."

The unions argue that the firemen are necessary for safety.

Another major dispute centers around the mileage pay system.

Nominated by the railroads for the commission were Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads; Thomas A. Jerrow of the Great Northern Railway; J. E. Wolfe of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; B. B. Bryant of the Chesapeake & Ohio; and G. W. Knight of the Pennsylvania.

Holiday Rush Nears End At Post Office

Business was almost back to normal at the Pampa postoffice today so far as outgoing mail is concerned. However, Postmaster O. K. Gaylor said the battle now is with incoming Christmas mail dispatched to Pampa from points over the nation as late as Monday and Tuesday.

Postal workers will be busy receiving and delivering Christmas packages through Christmas day.

"We will make every effort to deliver all packages received," Gaylor said, "and we plan to make deliveries on Christmas Day."

The postmaster said figures have not yet been compiled on mail handled in the local post office during the current holiday season but indications are that it is as heavy or a bit heavier than last year.

Surprise Of Party

City Employees Given Five Pct. Pay Boost

Pampa city employees got a surprise Christmas gift last night when they attended their annual Christmas party in National Guard Armory. The gift from the City Commission, unwrapped by Mayor Ed Myatt in a speech to the employees, consisted of approximately a five per cent pay increase effective Jan. 1.

The pay increase will affect some 190 city workers, Department heads and administrative personnel were not included in the wage boost.

City Manager John Koonitz said today the increase will amount to approximately $24,000 a year in additional salary payments.

Employees now receiving $225 to $350 a month will get a $15 monthly increase and those receiving more than $350 a month will get a $20 a month pay boost. The last city pay increase was in 1957.

More than 500 persons attended last night's party. City Tax Assessor Aubrey Jones acted as master of ceremonies and introduced City Manager Koonitz, ex-mayors Fred Thompson, Tom Rose and Lynn Boyd and City Commissioners Leon Holmes, Jack Vaughn and James Crawford Jr.

Commissioner Hershel V. Wilks was detained by business and was unable to attend.

The 207 city employees and their families enjoyed a banquet which was followed by a short program of welcome addresses from present and past city officials, climaxed by the mayor's announcement of the pay raise Christmas present.

To wind up the evening Santa Claus made his appearance and presented each of the youngsters with a present. Tarpley Music Co. delivered an organ to the Armory and music for the affair was played by Baryl Nash.

Motion Carried

Supt. Knox Kinard and Business Manager Homer Craig had four items on the agenda when board members of the Pampa Independent School District met in Pampa Junior High School late yesterday afternoon.

The first three items pertained to school business.

Texan Is Captured

Policeman, Bandit Die In Oklahoma Gun Fight

ARDMORE, Okla. (UPI)—A safecracker and fatally wounded blazing gun battle between a gang one of them. The wounded man, identified as Arnold K. Jernigan, 28, of Durant, Okla., died of head wounds in an Ardmore hospital several hours after the battle.

Patrolman Robert Nesbitt said he and Rudisell noticed suspicious activity at the Sooner Food Market this morning. He said Rudisell quietly entered the store, took about 12 steps, then was shot.

A manhunt ended with the arrest of a suspect who gave his name as Jerry Milo Brown, 24, Fort Worth, in an auto about two miles from Ardmore. Police said they found burglary tools and the handle of a drill in the car. They said the drill matching the handle had been in Jernigan's possession.

Officers at first had believed a walkie-talkie radio was used by the safecrackers. They said later the drill handle had been mistaken for a walkie-talkie unit.

When the officers arrived, the gang had forced its way about halfway through a concrete wall, trying to break into a safe.

Nesbitt fired tear gas shells into the rear of the store to flush the gunmen out. As they raced to their car, he wounded Jernigan, and put several bullet holes into the rear of the automobile as it sped away.

Police believe the gang was the same four hoodlums who have robbed a dozen groceries and small financial institutions in the North Texas and Oklahoma area in recent months.

The gang broke into the store through a second-story window, then knocked a hole through the floor to get into the store below. They left behind a large assortment of burglar and safe-cracking tools.

Funeral arrangements are pending and will be announced later by Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Mr. Nolen was born Sept. 21, 1936 in Pampa; attended schools and had lived here all of his life.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Nolen, former Pampans, who have just recently moved to Lawton, Okla.; grandmother, Mrs. H. J. Nolen of Truth Or Consequences, N. Speaking of Pets

Geriatric Senior Citizens

Thanks to better nutrition and health care, dogs, like humans, are living longer. Keeping a canine senior citizen healthy and happy needn't be a problem. A little understanding of his special needs are all it takes to add years to his enjoyment of life and to your enjoyment of him as a pet.

The greatest health menace in elderly pets is overweight. Resist the urge to pamper your dog in his dotage with fattening tidbits, says the Pet Food Institute. Nutritious pet foods, fed according to his proper weight and conformity, will give him a balanced diet with all the vitamins he needs. If his appetite demands more meals, try several small feedings instead of one large one.

Exercise is still important, but in moderation. Take him for frequent short walks. Curb his exercise if he suffers from shortness of breath. Some breeds with a strong sense of competition may actually try to do more than they are able. As a dog gets older, he cannot fight off sickness easily. Regular checkups with your veterinarian can stop many problems before they start.

Most of all, the older dog needs love and a sense of security. He likes comfort and routine. He may not be the bouncing companion he was in his younger days, but his wise and mellow attitude toward life makes him a constant source of entertainment and a valued friend.

Marking Christ's Birth Stirs Personal Queries

The Christian world again approaches the celebration of the birth of Christ. The stories of that night in Bethlehem when Christianity came into being will be told and re-told throughout all parts of the world where there are Christians and where there is freedom of religion. I suspect that these stories will be told in many of the countries where there is no freedom of religion... perhaps in secret, but told nevertheless. Our Lord and Savior will be referred to in many of these revelations as the Prince of Peace, and certainly He was the advocate of God Almighty to bring peace to the earth. In St. Luke, Chapter 2, beginning with the 8th Verse, in the story of the birth of Jesus we find the following words:

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, GLORY TO GOD IN THE HIGHEST, AND ON EARTH PEACE, GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN.

It would be well if every adult Christian on each Christmas day would stop and ask this question: "What have I done since I last celebrated the birth of Jesus Christ to carry His word and His teachings and to contribute to peace on earth and good will toward my fellow man?" I am sure most everyone could list many things, such as church attendance, contributions to charitable organizations, underwriting programs designed to promote peace, aiding underprivileged, etc. What would the answers be if the question is asked in another way, such as: "What have I done during the past year which would not have been conducive to peace on earth and good will toward men; or what have I failed to do that I would have done that would have been in contribution to peace on earth and better understanding and good will as between men?" In other words, how many times have I failed to follow the teachings of Christ, how many times have I done things big or little that were not in keeping with Christian principles; how many times have I lost my temper; have I been neglectful or discourteous; or failed to do some little thing that would have added to the comfort and convenience of others; how many times have I failed to do unto others as I would have them do unto me? Perhaps this would be a good season for us to realistically face these issues from a Christian standpoint. In so doing, we may find the cause of the trials and tribulations that have taken us further and further away from peace. We may discover why, during the last half century we have been engaged in two violent world conflicts which have destroyed unbelievable numbers of lives and amounts of property. We may discover why we have been constantly beset by small wars all over the world. We may discover why the world is now divided into two ideologies eyeing each other as strange dogs, and engaged in a cold war that hangs like a Damocles Sword over the head of Peace. We may find out why peoples throughout the world live in constant fear of a miscalculation or a misstep that could trigger a holocaust which could wipe out our civilization. We may find out why the cities of Jerusalem and Bethlehem and Jericho, the very heart of the Christian world, are not the center of a conflict between two peoples, neither of which is Christian, in a continuing conflict of deep seated hatreds between these people — hatreds that cannot be reconciled easily — hatreds nurtured by practices which are diametrically opposed to Christian principles; a conflict that has the walls manned by soldiers waiting to engage in violence at the first sign of aggression on the other side of the wall, in buildings hiding behind sandbags, are machine guns and rifles and stocks of hand grenades and other explosives to be used at the first sign of adverse action across the narrow no-man's-land strip that surrounds the wall. It is within these walls of Jerusalem that Christ carried his cross to Calvary; where the Prince of Peace was crucified to save man more than 1,900 years ago. When we look at the scorecard we find that we have either failed to do what we should have done, or we have done what we should not have done.

Youths Grilled Over Break-In

PERRYTON (Sp) — Two teenage Perryton boys were undergoing questioning today after being picked up early yesterday as suspects in the break-in of a soft-drink machine at a local automatic laundry. The pair, one 17 and the other 18, were apprehended by city policeman Art Roder who spotted them at 3:10 a.m. coming out of the laundry. An investigation showed that the soft drink machine had been tampered with and the two boys were taken into custody.

Large Wheat Yield Forecast

AUSTIN (UPI) — Exceptional growing moisture was credited Tuesday by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for the High Plains winter wheat crop that indicates the Texas 1961 crop will yield 82-270,000 bushels. The predicted 1961 figure compares with 84,645,000 produced in the state last year, but it is far above the 10-year average of 36,751,000. The USDA said last year's yield of 19.7 bushels per seeded acre was a record. This year's predicted yields should be around 19 per seeded acre, the USDA said.

Actress' Yule Gift Is Movie Contract

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Whatever other presents actress Pat Stanley gets this Christmas, none of them will compare with a gift that millions of girls would give their eye teeth to receive — a movie contract.

Miss Stanley, a bright eyed singer and dancer, was imported from New York where she appeared in the Broadway musical "Fiorello."

She came to Hollywood for a top role opposite Jerry Lewis in "The Ladies Man," her first role.

"Some men from Paramount studios saw 'Fiorello' and mentioned to Jerry that he should take a look at me," she said. "I never got the part though, too skinny I guess."

"I had a screen test for a part in 'Oklahoma' six years ago," she said. "I never got the part though, too skinny I guess."

The test was successful and Pat landed a five year contract with Paramount for one movie a year.

Many top stars came to Hollywood via the Broadway stage and never return to the great white way. But, Pat is determined not to remain in Hollywood forever.

"I don't have any great ambitions as far as Hollywood is concerned," she said. "I don't want to make a career only in films."

"Right now, it's hard for me to judge whether or not I like pictures because I haven't been here too long. I'm wondering how you feel at the end of a picture, whether you get any sense of fulfillment."

Despite the fact she's in Hollywood, Pat doesn't want to concentrate on acting alone.

"Eventually I'll want to do dramatic roles," she said. "However, I also want to keep up on my dancing and singing."

"I don't believe in cutting off all the little roses to get one big rose at the top. Everything a performer knows is being used these days and more demands are being made on them."

Not Comedy Role
Pat thought her role in Lewis' film would be a comedy part, but it didn't work out that way.

"In the picture, I'm what you'd call a loser and Jerry glamorizes

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

THE STORY: While buying supplies in Cicerone, Bart Wagner comes face to face with two rough characters.

back, his head rocking from one side to the other. A haymaker caught him on the jaw and laid him flat.

He opened his eyes. A heavy boot had landed on his ribs, and he rolled away.

"Xenophon said not to make no trouble before court," a man said.

Stud hesitated. "All right," he said sullenly. He picked up Bart with a huge hand twisted into the front of his vest. He stood him on his feet and hit him on the jaw with both fists.

Bart went down again, and heard Murphy say: "Next time you see me, you'll trade!"

When he was sure they had left him, Bart rolled over and got painfully to his feet. He knew he had a couple of broken ribs. He wiped the dirt off his face with his bandanna, and it came away bloody. He stood up, getting his balance. He found his hat and picked it up. He got his 44's, blew the dust out of the barrels, and put them in his holsters. The cylinders would have to be cleaned as soon as possible. He started for the wagon. Then he remembered the cigar, and went back and scratched in the dust until he found the broken piece. It was long enough to light. He put it in his upper left vest pocket and went back to the wagon.

The hump-shouldered storekeeper, Myers, came running out. "I heard Murphy talking. You hurt?" he asked.

Bart licked blood from his cut lip. "I feel fine. But that doctor is going to have plenty of work when he moves here."

"Keep your arms down," said the voice behind him.

Murphy came in on him, slugging him in the face and stomach at will. Bart staggered

He smelled burned wood, looked around and sniffed, saw nothing wrong. The team quivered. He tied the reins and got down as Catherine hurried out of the door.

"Bart!" she said, her eyes wide. "You've been hurt!"

He said, "It's just a scratch."

"A scratch? Your face is cut up, and I saw you get down, as if you ached all over. Oh, Bart!" She ran to him, warmth in her eyes, her arms outstretched.

He was overwhelmed by her sweetness and her obvious welcome, and he took her in his arms and kissed her on the lips.

He saw that she was as much moved as he was, and he backed away. "This kind of thing can't go on between us," he said. "It wouldn't be right."

Her eyes were on the ground. He took a deep breath. "I like you, Catherine—but that is no good excuse for carrying on with a woman like you. Maybe you've been mistreated; maybe you've been starved for love. I don't know. But don't give up to a man's arms unless you know for sure he's going to marry you—and don't take his word for it."

The smell of burned wood was strong, and he saw a board with marks burned in it, and a bridle-ring held in a pair of pincers, at one side.

Then he saw what she had burned: "Ben Lewis, Murphy."

She poured coffee, avoiding his eyes. "They—Xenophon Jones and his men—rode up and roped the other headboard and dragged it away."

He was aware that she was breathing as hard as he was. "You were in love with him?" he asked.

She looked at him with an unexpected faint crease between her eyes. "Ben had his faults, maybe," she said slowly, "but he did his best—all he knew how—and he was my husband."

Quesada Stands Firm On Crash Statement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal aviation boss Elwood R. Quesada, lashing back at a growing band of critics, says his announcement of preliminary findings in the New York air disaster was necessary to protect passengers and "restore public confidence" in airliners.

Quesada wrote William A. Patterson, president of United Airlines, that he was justified in issuing the evaluation because he had an obligation to determine immediately "whether the facts call for prompt safety measures on our part to protect the public from a recurrence of such an accident."

Patterson charged Tuesday that the head of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) had implied the United pilot operated his jetliner in a careless manner when Quesada said the plane was 11 miles off course and had not followed a prescribed "holding pattern" over Jersey.

Quesada's announcement of the preliminary findings after a meeting with President Eisenhower Tuesday also drew criticism from Clarence N. Sayen, president of the Airline Pilots Association, Capt. John McDonald, veteran accident investigator and safety expert, and by inference from G. Joseph Minetti, Civil Aeronautics Board member who will head the investigation of the New York tragedy.

Patterson and the others contended Quesada had no right to speculate on the cause of the jet-

28 Killed In Philippines Plane Crash

MANILA (UPI) — A Philippines Air Lines plane crashed on takeoff at Cebu City today, killing 28 of the 37 persons aboard.

Officials of the airline and of the Philippine constabulary announced only nine persons survived. No Americans were aboard.

The crash of the DC-3 with 34 passengers and three crewmen came at 3:30 a.m. on a regularly scheduled flight from Cebu City to Davao in the southern Philippines.

Shortly afterward, the President Carlos P. Garcia suspended "until further notice" all night flights by the airline.

Winter Plaques Midwest, East; Florida Braces

By United Press International Winter's first storm sliced down the eastern half of the nation today, whipped waves 12 feet high in the Atlantic Ocean and pierced cirrus-conscious Florida.

Officially just a day old, the young season unloaded age-old misery across a wide area and sent weather-blamed deaths since the cold wave began three days ago soaring above two scores.

Wisconsin, buffeted by 25 m.p.h. Canadian winds, recorded some of the country's lowest temperatures, but brought a crack from a cab driver who said, "At least you don't have to shovel it."

Snow that lay across much of the Midwest generally bypassed the Badger State. Wisconsin readings during the night dipped to 13 degrees below zero at Grantsburg and 9 below at Park Falls. Milwaukee and Green Bay were the only above-zero areas in the state, each with a bare 1-degree reading.

In Ohio, where 21 weather-linked deaths in three days were the highest single-state toll in the nation, the mercury hovered around zero and most of the state was covered by two to eight inches of snow.

Pennsylvania shoveled out from under 7 to 10 inches and readings in the western part of the state were due to slip to 5 below zero.

Schools shut down early for the holidays in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana.

Lake Okeechobee in North Florida braced for a hard freeze and 40 m.p.h. winds and blizzard conditions were expected to accompany the southward-pushing snowy onslaught from New England along the Appalachian Mountains.

Oil Firm Names Purchases Head

Israel Admits It's Building Atomic Plant

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI) — An authorized Israeli source denied today that Israel misled the United States about the atomic reactor under construction in the Negev Desert.

The source termed "ridiculous" reports that Israel told the United States the building was that of a textile plant.

Premier David Ben-Gurion made the first official admission that an atomic reactor was being built in the Negev to the Knesset (parliament) Wednesday. His statement followed reports that Israel was building a reactor to be used to produce atomic bombs with the aid of the French.

Ben-Gurion said the reactor, which would be completed in three or four years, would be dedicated entirely to research for peaceful use of atomic energy.

He said the plant would have a capacity of 24,000 thermal kilowatts when completed "which will serve the needs of industry, agriculture, health and science."

Holiday Gifts Not Affected By Labor Law

DALLAS (SpI) — Employers and labor organizations have been assured that the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act does not prohibit traditional Christmas festivities and charitable contributions.

"Some concern was expressed last year regarding customary donations to certain charitable institutions and token gifts to union members," Area Director Oscar P. Welch of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor-Management Reports here said today. "It was thought that such donations by labor unions might be withheld because of the Act's provisions dealing with the fiduciary responsibilities of labor organizations and officers."

But, he said, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell declared that the charitable activities of any labor organization are not restricted as long as they are conducted in accordance with the organization's own constitution and by laws. The Secretary has taken the same position this year.

Step-By-Step Probe Of Ship Fire Is Begun

NEW YORK (UPI) — Flags in New York City flew at half-staff today in memory of the 49 men who died in the fire aboard the carrier Constellation which was blamed on a freak accident.

A chain reaction of banging equipment and steel that sent 500 gallons of kerosene - type fuel coursing through the ship was described as like a "carom shot in billiards."

Pipefitter Solomon Fried told a board of inquiry Wednesday that he believed a fork-truck lifting a dump bin shoved the bin against a stacked steel plate which in turn slid under the fuel tank and knocked out a valve coupling.

The fuel was believed ignited by a welder's spark. A step-by-step investigation of the $75 million fire was begun by the three-admiral board.

The board also was told that a rash of 42 small fires had broken out prior to Monday's disaster aboard the Constellation while the ship was being outfitted at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Thieves Loot CoinChangers

Thieves hit two automatic laundries in Pampa last night and were successful in breaking open the coin changer in one of them.

Patrolmen Pat Patterson and George Wallace making a routine checkup discovered that the changer at the Speed Queen Laundromat, 601 Sloan St., had been broken into and $13.80 in change stolen. Police said $2.30 was left in the machine.

The thieves failed in their attempt to break open the coin changer in the Automatic Laundry, 812 W. Kingsmill. Two youths in the act of rolling the changer were frightened away when they were seen by a woman resident of a nearby house. They ran from the building when she walked up to investigate.

Police said the thieves had a basket of blankets with them which they left in the laundry when they fled.

Perryton Folk Will Aid Burned Out Family

PERRYTON (SpI) — A flood of telephone calls offering food, shelter and clothing clogged phone lines into a local radio station here late yesterday after a family was left homeless by a fire in their trailer house early yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hall were left homeless after a stove in the Hall's kitchen exploded and started a blaze that consumed the home.

None was injured but the fire did lead to an accident by a local volunteer fireman as he rushed to the blaze.

Billy Nalley, a city employe, was involved in a collision with Ronald Brown of Perryton when Nalley made a turn in the middle of the street in hurrying to the fire.

Neither man was injured but Nalley was given a citation for an illegal u-turn.

Rotarians Hear Madrigal Group

The Pampa Rotary Club yesterday was entertained by the Madrigal singers, a group of eight local people who sing in part harmony, emphasizing counterpoint.

The members of the group are Jim Daily, Mary Wilson, Tom Adkins, Helen Conway, Louise Richardson, the Rev. David Mills, Bill Haley and Rosemary Lawlor. Music for the Christmas season made up most of the selections.

Club visitors and guests were Toby Gilbert, Eddie Chattin, Al Leach, J. L. Sands and J. Wiggame.

Cranberry Ice Cream Will Win Compliments

Do you find yourself preparing the same desserts at Holiday time year after year? Simply because they seem to come to mind first.

Now's the time to change with this new dessert idea that will be a welcome addition to your other favorite desserts. And it will make the Holiday seem just a little different than previous ones.

Your family is bound to find Cranberry Ripple truly different.

The refreshing flavor of the berries and their enchanting color team with popular vanilla ice cream to make this an ice cream ripple to win compliments.

Cranberry ice cream is not found too often in the market. With just a little ingenuity, 2 quarts vanilla ice cream and 1 cup cooked cranberries, you can scoop up a dessert that's out of the ordinary — one with a homemade touch that looks and tastes like it required much more effort to prepare.

Now, while cranberries are readily available; freeze them ahead for later use in this Ripple, or make the dessert now, doubling the recipe to have on hand in the freezer. Fill a cake pan or other utensil handy for freezing with the ripple, and wrap it tightly with freezer wrap. Then like other well-wrapped ice cream products this too may be kept in the freezer for several months.

Butter cookies are the just right accompaniment to this ripple. The delicious flavor of butter enhances cookies whether they be round and crisp, chocolate and chewy or plump and fruited.

Party, Party, Who's Giving A Party? Children Are Always Ready For One

For children, what could be nicer than a party during the Christmas holidays? Not a birthday party or special occasion party, but a plain party party. The Christmas tree will be up and the house will be looking its most festive. Maybe there will be enough turkey left to make wonderful sandwiches. And what could be more fun for the young host or hostess than to serve the guests ice cream sodas?

If your kitchen permits, you can set up a soda dispensing arrangement. Get an assortment of canned or bottled soft drinks in the handy six-pack carton, which serves as an ideal carrying device and storage unit until the drinks are needed. Get a large container of vanilla ice cream - it goes with any flavor of soda. A little milk, glasses or large paper cups, wooden spoons and straws complete the picture. The guests can line up and get their sodas made to order. Starting with carbonated drinks, it's possible to have almost any flavor and color a young person might prefer: orange, lemon, grape, cherry and so on and so on.

It's always a good idea to have planned activities at a children's party if you don't want the guests to run wild. Try a homemade version of pin the tail on the donkey - pin the star on the Christmas tree. Anybody can draw a big Christmas tree and cut out some stars. Maybe the kids in the family will enjoy coloring the paper tree with crayon decorations. Then you can bring in a tray with things that pertain to Christmas - a bit of ribbon, a scrap of wrapping paper, an ornament, a tangerine, the tip of a Christmas tree branch and so on - and ask the guest to name as many objects as they can when you take the tray away. A record of familiar Christmas carols is a pleasant idea, too; the children can join in singing the carols they know.

CRANBERRY RIPPLE
10-12 servings
1 cup fresh or frozen whole cranberries
1 1/2 cups water
2-3 cup sugar
Dash salt
1 1/2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
3 tablespoons water
2 quarts vanilla ice cream
In saucepan combine cranberries, water, sugar and salt; bring to a boil and cook until cranberries are tender. Drain berries, reserving sugar syrup; force through sieve. Dissolve gelatin in 3 tablespoons water; combine with hot syrup and berries and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Chill to jelly-like consistency. Spoon half of ice cream into freezing pan; top with half of cranberry mixture. Add remaining ice cream. Pour remaining half cranberry sauce over all. Stir lightly to ripple cranberry sauce through ice cream. Cover and freeze firm.

Christmas Cookies Begin Supreme Reign As Holiday Season Approaches

Cookies are popular at all times, but during the holiday season the Christmas cookie reigns supreme. Whether packed in fancy boxes for gift-giving or served as party fare, these holiday goodies are a welcome treat.

To add to your recipe collection, here are some Christmas cookies that you'll find appropriate for many holiday activities. The first recipe is for Danish Anise Cookies. The faintly perceptible licorice flavor and cherry center will add to the enjoyment of this baked delight. The second is Scotch Shortbread, a uniquely textured cookie of crunchy goodness. The last recipe is for Viennese Kisses, a light-as-air version of the meringue.

DANISH ANISE COOKIES
3 eggs
1 cup sugar, sifted
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 1/2 tablespoons crushed anise seeds
Beat eggs until light. Add sugar gradually. Beat until creamy. Add lemon juice. Sift together flour, baking powder and crushed anise seeds. Add to first mixture. Beat batter very well. Drop from spoon, or from cookie press, on greased tins. Allow batter to dry 10 hours. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Yield: Approximately 30 2 inch cookies

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD
1 cup butter or margarine
3/4 cup confectioners' sugar
2 cups sifted flour
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Cream butter or margarine. Add sugar and mix well. Sift together flour and nutmeg. Add to first mixture and stir well. Stir in lemon juice. Roll the dough to a thickness of 1-3 inches. Cut into stars or other fancy shape. Bake on ungreased sheet in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 20-25 minutes. Note: The tops may be brushed with a mixture of 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 2 tablespoons sugar before baking.

VIENNESE KISSES
2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 teaspoon orange juice
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
Whip egg whites and salt, with wire whisk or rotary egg beater, until stiff but not dry. Add sugar slowly, beating constantly. Fold in remaining ingredients. Drop from spoon onto lightly greased tin. Bake in slow oven (225 degrees F.) 45 minutes to 1 hour until partly dry. Remove while hot. Yield: 2-1/2 dozen.

Lemon Honey Chiffon Pie Rates As "Just Like Mother Used To Make"

FANCY, SATISFYING, AND TEMPTING "JUST LIKE MOTHER USED TO MAKE" is more of a compliment than is sometimes acknowledged by the bride. Some way memories are magnified when childhood recollections come to mind. Holidays demand that these oft recalled specialties be featured, so bringing out tried and true recipes delights the family and that never-to-be-forgotten choice may be passed on from one generation to another.

There are newer methods for some cooks. There are fast and fancy desserts and up-to-the-mixtures that please the palate, but who can compare procedures when a big, beautiful LEMON HONEY CHIFFON PIE is brought in to top the dinner, be it festive for company, or the climax of the family dinner.

Lemons and Honey are a unique combination welcomed by every member of the family. The tang of the lemon compliments the sweetness of Honey. Watch eyes grow bright and listen to the shouts of delight when a pie piled high with snowy, swirling honey meringue is served. It is a pie that is fancy, satisfying, and tempting.

LEMON HONEY CHIFFON PIE
1 tablespoon gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
4 eggs, separated
3/4 cup honey
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 cup heavy cream
Soften gelatin in the cold water. Combine the slightly beaten egg yolks, 1/4 cup of the honey, salt, lemon juice, and grated lemon peel in the top part of a double boiler. Place over boiling water and cook until of custard consistency, stirring constantly. Add softened gelatin and stir to dissolve. Remove from heat and cool until mixture begins to thicken. Beat three of the egg whites un-

Stuffed Peppers Are Economical Taste Tempters

Virtually any kind of leftover cooked meat can be used in stuffing green peppers. But when you have no leftovers, yet want to serve an economical main dish for dinner some chilly evening, don't overlook fresh luncheon meats for this purpose.

Many of these make wonderfully flavorful fillings for pepper cases. As evidence of the versatility of these simple sandwich meats consider this stuffed pepper recipe. It calls for a can of Snack, a delectably flavored combination of pork and beef, which is mixed with quick cooking rice to make a delightfully seasoned filling.

Easy Stuffed Peppers
(Six servings)
4 green peppers
1 cup cooked rice
3 cups canned Snack, finely chopped
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons finely minced onion
1/4 teaspoon chili powder
1 egg beaten
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/4 cup grated sharp cheese
Slice tops from green peppers and remove seeds. Cook pepper cases about 5 minutes in boiling, salted water. Remove peppers and drain thoroughly. Combine rice, meat, seasonings, egg and 1/2 can soup. Blend well. Fill peppers with stuffing. Set upright in shallow baking pan and bake at 375 degrees about 25 to 30 minutes. Remove from oven and pour rest of soup over peppers. Top with grated cheese. Continue baking about 10 minutes longer.

Touch of Luxury
You can turn your routine nightly bath into a relaxing luxury by dropping in a handful of perfumed bath salts and a few drops of bath oil.

Financial Review

By HENRY J. BECHTOLD
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Messenger services are continually fulfilling unusual requests for their customers but their talents are really taxed around the Christmas holidays.

Mercury Service Systems, Inc., has had a fair share of these unconventional orders, and proudly notes that it accomplished them all.

Several firms each year ask Mercury to deliver business gifts with the messengers garbed in Santa Claus suits. In an out-of-season switch, one firm last year had the Mercury messenger dressed in a rabbit costume to promote his upcoming line of Easter clothes.

A national magazine once asked Mercury to deliver Christmas gifts to advertising agency space buyers with messengers outfitted in space suits.

Probably the most unusual order came from a wealthy dowager who requested a Mercury messenger dressed as Santa Claus to walk her two ribboned Pompanians down Fifth Avenue in New York to give them "a touch of the Christmas spirit."

Of course this is only the lighter side of a very profitable business that started 22 years ago as a one man operation. The one man was the president, Anton J. Roper.

Mercury is one of 90 messenger services in New York, but Roper said it is the largest in the world. It now has 300 foot messengers, affiliates throughout this and other countries and operates a fleet of small trucks for immediate trucking.

The company grossed about $1.5 million this year, 7 per cent more than 1959, but Roper said this was one of the smallest year-to-year increases on the company's books. It usually runs about 12 per cent, and he blamed the slow down in the economy for the dip.

He explained that an adjustment or recession period that the business world has been going through brings about much cost-cutting in most firms, and messenger service sometimes is included in these cuts.

Piano Students Share Christmas Gifts With Other Children

The two student groups in the piano classes of Mrs. Fidelia Yoder observed Christmas in their recent meetings.

The Junior Melody Makers, elementary school-age group, met for a Christmas Party Saturday evening in the home of Miss Jean Prock, 2319 Mary Ellen with Mrs. Ralph Prock and Mrs. Therman Upshaw as hostesses.

Miss Prock, president, presided the meeting which opened with the club prayer and pledge reading by the group. The secretary's report was made by Miss Lynda Gunn.

For the musical portion of the party, each student played a Christmas song, while the group sang, providing an opportunity for experience in accompanying.

Gifts were exchanged and were given to underprivileged children in Pampa.

Guests in this group of students are Linda Chase, Joyce Fischer, Eth Gage, Diane and Sylvia Graham, Peggy Griffith, Lynda Gunn, Jean Prock, Prudence Skelton, Chuck Wade, Steve Walls, Gail Wilson and Kay Upshaw.

Parents attending included Mrs. J. L. Chase, Jack Graham, E. Gunn, E. J. Griffin, Michael Wilson, Charles Wade.

Christmas punch and cookies were served during the social hour.

Mrs. Vernon Langley and Mrs. Mes Baird were hostesses for the Youth Melody Makers in the home of Mrs. Yoder, 1216 Williston, Thursday evening.

The meeting opened with the singing of "Texas Our Texas", accompanied by Miss Janie Prock at the piano. Miss Beverly Langley played the hymn of the month "White Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night," as the group sang.

Misses Jo Hubbard, Joretta Baird, Cynthia Plaster and Loretta Baird, also presented piano solos after which refreshments of punch and Christmas cookies were served by the hostesses.

Gifts were brought to be given to underprivileged children.

Club Entertains With Yule Dinner

LEFORS (Spl) — The Lefors Art Civic Club entertained with a Christmas dinner on Saturday evening in Civic Center with members' husbands as guests.

The dining tables were appointed with ice blue runners alternated with arrangements of ice-blue Christmas ornaments and pine trees.

Following dinner and a gift exchange, games of Bridge and "42" were played.

Guests were Messrs. and Mmes. McBee and Bill Teel. Members attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Earl Atkinson, R. H. Barnard, Fred Blackwell, Ray Chastain, and Cumberledge, C. H. Gustin, the Hall, Mrs. Mary Hines, Jerry Jacobs, Miss Mickey Sue Johnson, Raymond Jordan, C. C. Muller, L. R. Spence, Alex Sween, J. Thacker and Paul Walden.

Lovely Lass Gets Paid For Hobby

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marie Prendergast, a lovely lass of 23, is getting used to jokes about being "water logged" and "going off the deep end."

Teasing is to be expected if you're pursuing an unusual job-and-hobby combination, said the black-haired, blue-eyed Miss Prendergast.

Marie Prendergast is an expert skin diver, and one of the few women in the country teaching adults and children how to handle snorkel, mask, fins, a "wet suit" which is a skin-tight coverall to protect the diver, and the "lung" which straps to the diver's back and enables him to explore below as long as his supply of compressed air holds out.

She started skin diving as a hobby, she said in an interview. But now, in addition to her daytime clerical job with a company making business machines, she is part of a three-member staff giving regular lessons and staging diving exhibitions.

The other two are John Cronin, 22, a diver for eight years and manager of the Aqua-Lung Center in mid-Manhattan, and Jim McNamara, 24, a former underwater reconnaissance man with the Marine Corps and now with the center.

The center is a source for diving equipment and offers free information on the whole sport.

"John taught me most of what I know," said Marie. "But I got fascinated with divers the first time I saw them working. . . . It was eight years ago and I was visiting my grandparents in Ireland. The divers were measuring the size of a giant rock causeway."

Such people are dangerous to children because children sometimes come to trust their judgments of "right" and "wrong."

Like your little boy, they may lose touch with the innocent fact that they've thrown a mug on the floor to see what will happen to it, and begin instead to imagine themselves guilty of "wrong."

Thus, their ability to make real judgments between right and wrong can be crippled.

Progressive Party Held By Youth

GROOM (Spl) — The Methodist Youth Fellowship held a progressive dinner party recently with the group meeting first in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Copeland for appetizers. The main course was served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack West followed by the dessert course served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Lamberson. The evening was climaxed by attending a movie in Pampa.

Attending were Shirley and Alice West, Evelyn Burgin, Carolyn and Bobby Brooks, Loretta and Nancy Copeland, Donna Pharr, Kit Littlefield, Louis and Billy Bob Rutland, Larry Lamberson, Brad Major, Jimmy, Tomas and Carl Hudson, Keith Black, James Cooper, the Rev. and Mrs. Copeland, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Lamberson, Mrs. Jim Littlefield, Mrs. Jack West and family.

Santa Pays Visit To Auxiliary Fete

Southwestern Bell Auxiliary members entertained their husbands and children with a Christmas party Saturday night in the City Club Room.

Dinner was served from a table appointed with a Christmas centerpiece flanked with tapers.

As the children sang Christmas carols, a surprise visit was paid by Santa Claus, who had a gift and a candy-filled stocking for each child. Each child then had his picture made with the North Pole guest.

A gift of appreciation was presented to Mrs. B. J. Stephens, who has served the auxiliary as president for the past year.

During a brief business meeting, it was announced that the auxiliary will meet the third Thursday of each month during the coming year.

Games of "42" comprised the remainder of the evening's entertainment.

Attending were Messrs. and Mmes. E. B. Jackson, E. J. Stephens, J. E. McCann, Ralph Day, R. C. Yeager, C. L. Hollaway, J. A. Turner, R. E. French, W. E. Durham, F. W. Martin, Clarence Pierce and children of each family.

Baptist Ladies Entertain At Party For Community's Senior Citizens

LEFORS (Spl) — The Senior Citizens party for all senior citizens in the Lefors community was staged Wednesday in the civic center. Ladies of the Baptist church, sponsors of the event, furnished transportation for elderly guests and introduced them following the welcome address by L. M. Berry, pastor.

Mrs. B. J. Spradlin opened with prayer. Each guest was presented a gift and sack of candy from the Christmas tree. Cookies, cocoa and coffee was served.

The nativity was presented by a group of children from the Baptist Church. Singing was led by Mrs. Joe Archer. A Christmas reading was given by Mrs. H. L. Teel.

Guests were Mom Strong, Mrs. H. M. Guthrie, Mrs. J. H. Johnson, Mrs. Jessie Hailey, Mrs. Bessie Michael, Mrs. Annie Fenno, Mrs. Grace Darnell, Mrs. EMILY Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. The Mature Parent Baby's Antics Neither Right Nor Wrong

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

Should a child of 14 months know right from wrong? When my little boy gets into things or throws them on the floor, my husband's parents say that his hands should be slapped until he cries.

My mother-in-law says that if he doesn't learn the difference between right and wrong now, he may become a juvenile delinquent. Though this is an adopted child, I love him and do not like to slap him. . . .

ANSWER: Do not slap the baby's hands. When he gets into grandma's pocketbook or throws his plastic mug on the floor, remove them from him. Remove them gently, happily without any fear whatever that you are committing that gives us the trouble of pickiness and your tenderness for him.

Do not trust your mother-in-law. It is dangerous to trust her because her moral perception is retarded. It is neither "wrong" nor "right" for your little boy to throw his mug on the floor. We can't apply the heavy moral artillery of these words to his action. It is merely inconvenient — an action that gives us the trouble of picking up his mug and placing it into the sink for washing.

By declaring it "wrong," your mother-in-law tells us that she confused morality with her convenience — and disqualifies herself as a judge of "right" and "wrong."

People like this cause much sorrow in this world.

Self-centered as they are, they hate being inconvenienced. So they intensely present a little child's curiosity about what's in their pocketbooks, or what's happened to that mug just thrown on the floor. To justify their wish to

For those modern-day daredevils of the sporting world, perhaps there is no other activity in which the competitor's are more liable to "freeze up" than in water skiing—in January and in the Panhandle, yet.

Such a group of hardy souls will gather at Lake McClellan on New Years Day. While the rest of the athletically-inclined will be lazily declined on a soft sofa watching the fine fare of big bowl games, the Panhandle Boat and Ski Club will be having its first annual "Eskimo Ski Event," at Lake McClellan, near Clarendon.

This conceivably could be one of those first—and last—annual events if the temperature is anywhere near its normal freezing mark.

'Bravery Certificate'

Richard Gardner, publicity director for the event and marathon boat race which will precede the "perilous" skiing show, states with a straight face that those attempting to ski will receive a "certificate of bravery" for their efforts.

We would like to suggest that each "athlete" also receive a gold-embossed ice pick to chip away the McClellan waters after he or she goes down.

As one who gets goose bumps when accidentally getting into a tub of even lukewarm water, we'll pass on this one and try to console ourselves in front of a warm fire and hot football game.

In all seriousness, however, the boat race should prove to be interesting for those boating enthusiasts who are in the area.

The competition will be open to three classes of boats: single engine pleasure craft with 50 cubic inches displacement or under; single engine pleasure craft of between 50 and 90 cubic inches and unlimited, meaning engines or dual engines of 90 cubic inches or more.

The race will be 50 laps and invitations have been sent to boating clubs in Lubbock, Amarillo, Oklahoma City and all other towns in the Panhandle.

Oh yes, one of the rules says that the race will be called off if there is more than an inch of ice on the lake; wonder if that pertains to the water skiing too?

Tourney-Tested Wildcats Claw Illini, 83 To 78

By DICK JOYCE 2 United Press International

The tournament-tested Kentucky Wildcats, boasting the best tourney record in the country, again have come up with the right man at the right time.

Ole Miss Strong As '60 Team

The following is the fourth of 10 dispatches on the teams appearing in the major bowl games—the Rose, Cotton, Sugar, Orange and Gator.

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—Mississippi's rugged Rebels will greet Rice in the Sugar Bowl with a team possibly as strong as the Ole Miss crew which inflicted a 21-0 punishment upon LSU in last January's New Orleans classic.

The unbeaten Rebs are big, fast and well-touted. There is not much talent throughout the squad that veteran coach John Vaught frequently has third-stringers playing aside starters, even in the few instances when the going is tough.

Only once this year was Mississippi's record marred. Rival LSU, intent on avenging its Sugar Bowl drubbing, caught the Rebels when they were nursing more injuries than in any other weekend in recent years. Three starters were benched and four other first-teamers, including All-America quarterback Jake Gibbs, were operating at well less than full speed. Vaught figures he was lucky to get out with a 6-6 tie.

Rice can't expect to find Ole Miss in such a vulnerable position Jan. 2. The Rebels closed their regular season with top-sided wins over Tennessee and Mississippi State and should be in continued good form against the owls. The Old Miss defense turned in what the NCAA Service Bureau called the best performance of the total offense. But most Rebel followers consider Ole Miss better on offense.

This time Baron Adolph Rupp has found his sparkplug in Roger Newman, simultaneously playing his first and final varsity college basketball season. The 6-4 Newman donned spectacles for the first time on the court Wednesday night and scored 24 points in leading the Wildcats into the final round of the Kentucky Invitational Tournament against the rugged St. Louis Billikens tonight.

Kentucky defeated Illinois, 83-78, and Bob Nordmann led St. Louis to a 54-53 triumph over California in first round action. In the Aluminum Bowl, Texas and Arkansas advanced into tonight's final round. The Longhorns defeated Tennessee, 77-73, and the Razorbacks beat Alabama, 83-76.

Newman, who was ineligible after his freshman year for playing outside ball, doubled his average output in the Kentucky triumph. He was aided by Larry Pursiful with 21 points and Bill Lickert with 14 as the Wildcats try to better their record of winning 132 games and losing only 35 in the tournaments which they have appeared since 1921.

Reserve Jim McDonald's key play, however broke the Illini's late rally. With Illinois trailing by two points with 54 seconds left, McDonald stole the ball and scored on a three-pointer to insure the victory.

The 6-40, 270-pound Nordmann scored 19 points, including two decisive free throws in the closing seconds of the overtime session, to knock off the California Bears, who closed with a rush tie the game 49-all at the end of regulation time.

In other top games, ninth-ranked Louisville won its ninth consecutive game in downing Louisiana State, 72-53; Duke also remained unbeaten in stopping Florida, 83-64; Vanderbilt made it nine for nine in beating New Mexico, 86-59; Kansas State rolled to its fifth success in a row by defeating Colorado State, and North Carolina State dropped La. Salle, 71-68.

Revengeful PHS Awaits Second Shot At Quanah

By ARTHUR MAYHEW Daily News Sports Editor

Pampa, which Tuesday night polished off one team that holds a 1960 win over them, takes aim tomorrow night on the quintet that ruined the Harvester's opening game — Quanah — in a non-conference battle at Harvester Gym at 8 p.m.

Quanah's Indians, which downed Pampa, 60-57, three weeks ago on their home reservation may find the Harvester as friendly as a cornered rattlesnake in Pampa's own confines.

The Green and Gold, which lumbered through its first seven games in hot and cold fashion, have won two straight, the sweetest coming Tuesday when Pampa "upset" Dumas, 40-39.

Not only did the Harvester's average an earlier 41-31 defeat at the hands of the Demons, but they also stopped a team that had beaten Borger, Amarillo, Tascosa and Palo Duro in prior games.

The Harvester's recent upsurge can be hinged on several factors, the presence of 6-5 Randy Matson in the lineup; the now-deadly shooting of Pat Carter; the new aggressiveness of 6-3 Allen Wise on the boards; and the overall team play that has been exhibited since the Birdville series.

Matson, for an example, has pulled down 38 rebounds in the last three games, 16 coming in the Dumas contest, not a bad start for a sophomore.

Carter's wing punch cannot be overlooked either. The jump-shooting 5-10 senior has peppered the basket for 75 points in the last three games to bring his season's point total to 153, a nifty 17

State Champions Dot Roster Clovis Battlers Invade Pampa

In what promises to be the top fights of the year, Pampa's Optimist Club boxers will square off against teams from Clovis, Hereford, Borger and Lefors in a full card of boxing tonight at the Optimist Club boys building at 7:30.

The focal point, needless to say, will be the matches between the hard-hitting pugilists from Clovis and Pampa's boxers.

Two of the top matches scheduled should be the welterweight battle between Theo Nance of Clovis, three-time New Mexico champ, and Pampa's Glen Ward, one of the Optimist Club's top battlers.

However, it is possible that Gary Wilhelm, second team boxing All American at Wisconsin last year, will meet Nance in the feature match, depending on how many boxers Clovis brings.

Another potential good leather-slinger will be between Pampa's Dickie Wills and Clovis' Wade Stephens.

Stephens carried potent credentials, being a two-time welterweight champion from New Mexico. Wills, who got off to a slow start after a football injury, may finally be rarin' to go and tonight's test should be a good one for both boys.

Optimist Coach Ollie Wilhelm said today that Clovis would bring from 12 to 15 fighters that have thus far this year won the Littlefield and Levelland Golden Gloves tournaments.

Hereford will bring at least three battlers two of whom will face rugged competition from Pampa.

Wilhelm will pit Pampa heavy-weight Harold Hugg, seeing his first action since injuring his hand several weeks ago, against Roy Rogers of Hereford.

Pampa's James Webb, who has been very impressive in his first two starts, recording two TKOs in the second round, will meet an undetermined Hereford lad and his name may remain anonymous if Webb connects with one of his deadly rights.

The night's program will be kicked off with a full schedule of pee wee fights, at least one matching an undefeated Clovis bantam with a Pampa pee wee scrapper.

3-4A Teams Start Slow

District 3-4A, once the powerhouse of Texas schoolboy cage circles seems to be having its share of troubles winning after the first three weeks of play.

With a league non-conference record of 35 wins and 34 losses, the rest of the district's teams take brief rest this week with Pampa the only team on the firing line. The Harvester's (3-6) nee Quanah in Pampa on Friday night.

Borger still leads the pack with a 7-3 record, the trio of losses coming within four days as Dumas, Odessa and Midland downed the Bulldogs and return them to mortal standing.

Bunched behind the Bulldogs are Tascosa and Amarillo with 6-4 marks; Amarillo — the pre-season 3-4A championship pick — is fourth with a 4-3 tally; Lubbock and Monterey are tied fifth with 4-6 marks; and Pampa and Plainview rest on the bottom with 3-6 totals.

Next action for Lubbock, Monterey will be the second annual ABC tournament in Lubbock Dec. 26-28. Midland, the defending champion, will be back to try again.

Plainview will enter its tourney this year on Dec. 29 when they go to the Howard P. tournament in Brownwood. Bulldogs reached the finals of the own tournament, but lost to games in the El Paso tournament last weekend.

Arkansas, Texas Triumph In Aluminum Cage Play

Vols Fall To Steers

By United Press International
Arkansas and Texas, top contenders for the Southwest Conference crown, kicked up their heels and swept opening round games in the first Aluminum Bowl basketball Classic at Little Rock from Tennessee and Alabama, Southeast Conference clubs.

Texas, with Albert Almanza showing the way, came from behind to stop Tennessee 77-73, while Arkansas had an easy time of it in whipping Alabama 83-76. The Centenary Gentlemen poured on the coal in the final three minutes to whip Texas Christian 81-71 at Shreveport, La., in the only other game involving a league team.

Texas and Arkansas switch opponents for tonight. The Aluminum Bowl is not a tournament in the sense that winners are not playing winners because coaches didn't want to chance meeting a team that will be faced later in conference games.

Texas, which came from behind with a tenacious man-to-man defense in the second half, gave the Vols, considered one of the SEC powers, their third straight loss. Tennessee opened its season taking four straight.

The victory over Alabama gave Arkansas a 5-2 record, best in the SWC. Alabama is now 1-5. The only other game on tap tonight involving a conference team is at Norman, Okla., where Texas Tech tangles with the University of Oklahoma Sooners.

Arkansas, never behind, built up a 12 point lead in the second half and substituted freely. Jerry Carlton, with a 17.3 average, dumped in 29 points and Pat Foster added 22 more. Henry Hoskins and Larry Pennington had 22 and 21, respectively, for Alabama.

Almanza led the Texas rally with 10 points, topped both teams with 18 points for the game, and spearheaded the Longhorn sweep off the backboards which helped nullify Tennessee's edge in speed.

The Vols led throughout the first half and were on top 41-38 at intermission. But with 14:49 left, Donnie Lasiter hit a jump shot that shoved the Steers in front 50-48, and the Longhorns led the rest of the way.

In NFL Title Game Air, Ground Attacks To Be Fully Tested

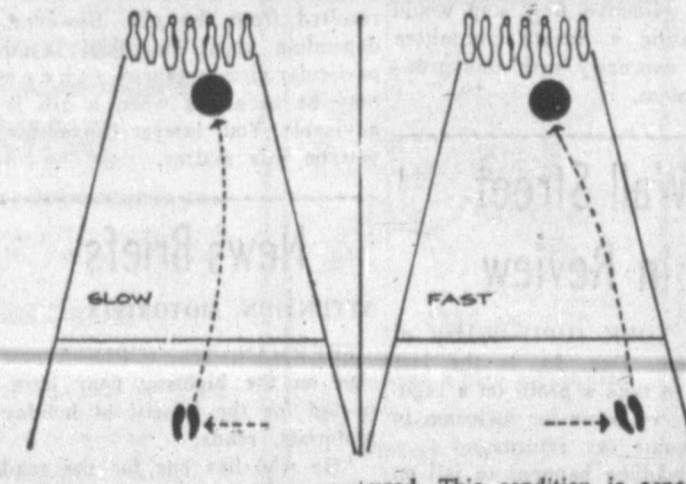

NEW YORK (UPI)—It'll be the Philadelphia Eagles' passing against the Green Bay Packers crunching ground offense in next Monday's National Football League title game.

Official team statistics released today by the NFL reveal that the Eagles had the second best passing offense in the circuit while the Packers had the second best rushing attack. The Eagles were runners-up to the Baltimore Colts in passing, 2,956 yards to 2,816 and the Packers were second to the St. Louis Cardinals in rushing, 2,356 yards to 2,150.

The Colts, for the third straight year, won the overall offense title with 4,245 yards. The Cardinals were second with 4,167 and the Pittsburgh Steelers third with 4,045.

The Cleveland Browns led the league in scoring with 362 points with the Packers second with 332 and the Eagles third with 321. The San Francisco Forty-Niners yielded only 205 points for the lead in that department.

BOWLING Fault Finder

By PAT McBRIDE
1959 WIBC All-Events Champ
The single characteristic that makes a bowler a pro is his or her ability to adjust to, or play, different lanes — and adjust quickly.

As you know, some lanes are slicker and smoother — faster in bowling parlance — than others, depending on how much dressing is used. This condition is especially prevalent on the tournament circuit, where it seems the lanes are constantly changing. Should you fail to find your line in a hurry, you'll be left at the starting post.

On slow lanes where your normal ball will have a wide break, move to the left on the approach and roll the ball a trifle harder. On fast lanes, move to the right to give the ball more angle. Roll it somewhat slower to allow its hooking action to take.

Gun Warning Again Issued

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Fish and Game Commission urges parents who intend to buy Christmas guns for their children to provide them with safety rules, also.

E. M. Sprott, commission law enforcement director, said "the important thing to remember is that he's (the youngster) a novice when it comes to handling firearms."

Warriors, Celts Win

By United Press International
All that talk about Bob Cousy slowing down turns out to be just a lot of dribble.

Apparently as good as ever at 32, Cousy is one of the main reasons the Boston Celtics lead the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association today.

The brilliant Celtic backcourt ace put on one of his customary performances Wednesday night when he teamed up with Sam Jones to lead Boston to a 120-108 victory over St. Louis, the Western Division leader.

Cousy scored 25 points and contributed 21 assists, only seven shy of his own league record of 28. Jones was high man for the Celtics with 28 points, while Bob Pettit of the Hawks was individual high scorer with 37 points.

The Philadelphia Warriors defeated the New York Knickerbockers, 122-117, in the opening game of a Boston Garden doubleheader. Wilt Chamberlain not only controlled the backboards for the winners but also led all scorers with 33 points. Willie Naulls paced the Knicks with 31 points. The victory kept the Warriors a half game behind the Celtics.

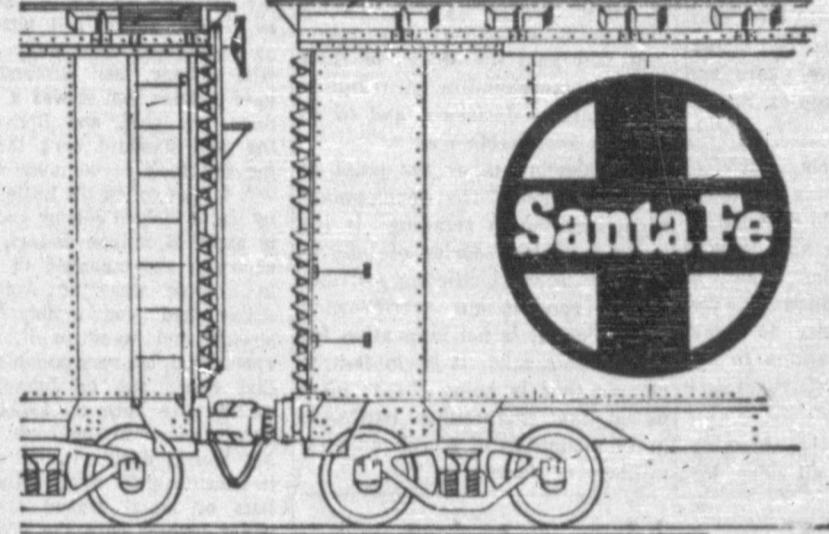

Cold Weather Hampers Packer Drills

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—With no break in Wisconsin's cold wave expected before Saturday, The Green Bay Packers are resigned to working out on frozen turf until they leave for Philadelphia and the National Football League title game against the Eagles.

The Packers worked out for an hour Wednesday while the temperature stood at 9 degrees.

Coach Vince Lombardi said the workout was "just an ordinary practice," and said he couldn't speculate on whether the weather conditions would hurt his team's title chances Monday.

Automation

TO the uninitiated, retailing may seem a fairly simple business. Basically, it could be reasoned, all you have to do is buy a stock of goods, rent a location, place an ad or two, and then wait for the customers to come flocking in.

Retailers would be happy and trouble-free if this were the case, but it isn't. Retailing, like most other basic enterprises, has changed enormously in late years and become far more complex than it used to be.

For instance, recent issue of Chain Store Age devotes an editorial by S. O. Kaylin, to automation in retailing. Not long ago, leading retailers were skeptical about it. Such innovations as electronics and computers, they tended to think, had little or no relations to the day-to-day problem of running a store.

Now the attitude is changing. There is evidence on all sides, Mr.

Kaylin reports, that electronics will be used in chain-store operations at an increasing rate. As an example, automation is being applied by chains to frozen-food warehouses, apparel warehouses, point-of-sale recording, inventory control many accounting records and merchandise analysis. The objectives are to obtain greater speed and accuracy in obtaining information that will help the stores in their buying, merchandise distribution and financial decisions, and to do so at a reasonable cost.

Mr. Kaylin makes the point in his conclusion: "The development of automation in retailing is the latest in a long series of innovations resulting in efficient distribution of goods to our ever-growing population. It is not innovation for innovation's sake. It is, in fact, a change that is being thrust upon us in the competitive battle to move mountains of merchandise to millions of consumers."

Progress From Uncertainty

Most of us prefer certainties. But sometimes the certainty is barren. In such instances, risk is preferable, and from this willingness to risk, all progress grows.

Why Bad Laws Remain

A friend of the writer remarked that all bad laws are kept on the statute books because they have exceptions that exclude some certain people from being subjected to these bad laws.

If there were no exceptions to a bad law and everybody was subjected to it, as they are to every good law, most of the bad laws we have on the statutes would be removed.

Let's mention a few of the bad laws we have on the statutes that exempt certain people:

If all income tax laws applied equally to everyone in proportion to their income and did not charge certain people higher rates than others, there would be such a protest against income tax laws and inheritance tax laws that they would not last very long. It is only because the law partially exempts the great majority of people that the income tax law continues on the books.

If the law charged each individual in proportion to his or her net income, even the washerwoman if she pays only $20 or $30 a year income tax, would be just as much interested in government economy as the man who pays $100,000 or $1 million a year income tax.

Minimum wage laws exempt the efficient from having the government establish the wage that they should receive. If the federal government established all wages by law, there would be such a protest that we would realize that it is unfair to make a law that makes it difficult for the young and the old and the inefficient to produce enough to earn the legal wage. Therefore the less productive are out of jobs thus necessitating the rest of the producers being taxed to support them since they are out of work through no fault of their own.

The laws that permit the federal government to attempt to establish interest rates and print irredeemable paper money would not stay on the statute books if every individual or group were permitted to issue irredeemable notes that people would accept.

Protective tariffs that protect certain commodities from competition from foreign markets would not remain on the statute books if all foreign commodities were subject to punitive tariffs. In other words, if we protected everybody from competition, our economy would be so impeded and stifled that people would waken to the harm that comes from the government protecting certain groups at the cost of those who have to pay for the protected product.

Even the prohibition law, as unpopular as it was, stayed on the statute books as long as it did because the man who had a doctor who would issue him prescriptions for alcoholic beverages wasn't particularly interested in having the law repealed. Besides, the bootleggers were making a profit because of the law. But even at that it was so unpopular and so interlarded with men's rights to life, liberty and property that it sooner or later was repealed from a federal standpoint, although it exists yet in certain communities.

Any law that injures anybody at the benefit of another is a bad law. All laws, in order to be just, must apply equally to every individual, not only in the United States, but throughout the world.

Our enemy is the laws made by man which conflict with the Decalogue.

Hankering

By HENRY McEMORE

ROME, ITALY — As one who sometimes wears of minorities, even when in full sympathy with them, I welcome an occasional squawk from majorities.

Thus I was gladdened by the report that short basketball players — meaning any player under 6 feet 2 — have demanded a separate championship for themselves at the next Olympic Games.

Led by the Asian countries, whose men are scarcely taller than the trophies for which they compete, a campaign is being waged for two distinct gold medals in Tokyo in 1964.

One would be for the glandular giants who dominate the game now — the men who score points by dropping the ball downward into the basket instead of throwing it up to the basket.

Gold medal No. 2 would be awarded to the winning team made up of average-sized or under men — the men who are in a vast majority in the world.

I am all in favor of such a change in the rules. Majorities, just as much as minorities, have the right to be protected. It is patently unfair to match men on the basketball court when one of them barely comes up to the other's knees.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — Having saluted Meredith Wilson as the brass-bound composer of the score for "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," I counted it as some sort of inevitability that 40 minutes later I should run into Richard Morris, the TV and movie-writer young fellow who fell in love with a story and turned it into a musical show. The facts are these: he was talking to some people originally from Denver and they mentioned Molly Brown as she was (the WAS either Maggie Tobin Brown or Mrs. J. J. Brown, whichever you choose) and the detail was so colorful and pungent that he grabbed the first airplane bound for Denver. There he found some of Molly's contemporaries still alive and talking. He found the files of the Denver Post, he found the Brown Mansion, now a boardinghouse for men on Pennsylvania Ave., the street that used to be in fashion. He also found some things not in the show and a peculiarity of Denver of its time—$20,000,000 wasn't much of a fortune.

Mr. Morris and I repaired to Sardi's, hard by, and over nothing more tangled-footed than a jug of espresso coffee, as hot as Hades' parlor and bitter as gall, we talked about Molly. Leadville Johnny, her husband, did have a mine, but it was a silver mine, not gold, and Denver on the gold standard back there in the 80's look a cool view of silver. It was called the Little Johnny and it yielded Johnny and Molly about 20 million dollars, most of which she managed to spend in a time when an American dollar had considerably more stretch and wear in it. It is apocryphal, but very possibly true, that either she or Johnny did accidentally burn up $300,000 in paper money in the cook stove, but Morris doubts it. His doubts it because gold dust, bullion or bars or metal money and not paper money were the order of that day in and around Leadville. However, it provides legend and the musical with a romantic line: "I can get more money anywhere, Molly, but there's only one you," or variations of that gallant statement in the immediate face of $300,000 in hot ashes.

The failure of the brass, some what ignorant mining camp girl to pierce Denver society, although she was loaded with money, is on record. Her charming of European nobility and bringing some of it to Denver in the teeth of society also is true. It is true that she boarded a Titanic lifeboat equipped with a nightgown, a fur coat and a .38 revolver, with which she cowed recalcitrant crew members of that ill-fated liner. It is also true that Molly became a national heroine and that when the news penetrated to Denver, a week or so later, the society columns thereafter in recording major social events, listed all the guests but, at the end, always in a separate paragraph, they had this: "The guest list included Mrs. J. J. Brown."

Mr. Morris became so fascinated that he wrote more than 200 pages of just notes.

"Had I written it all out," he said, "it would have run 1,900 pages of explicit prose. And you can't very well put 1,900 pages on a stage for one evening's entertainment. So we cut and pruned and erased and shortened until the musical became what it is now. It has no pretensions. It has the wish to entertain, to make a show. I think it does want to salute human courage."

I couldn't agree more.

honed for being the Most Mediocore, there will be a coveted award for the Fattest Jockey of the Year, a national golf championship will be held for players unable to drive more than 150 yards, and also for tennis players unable to develop a backhand or handle a lob.

No matter a man's lack of skill, or his physical limitations he will have an opportunity to call himself Champion.

Once established in sports, discrimination against men and women in other fields of life will come to an end. A writer will be honored in Stockholm for the Worst Literature of the Year, presidents of companies which fail to pay dividends will receive plaques, Atlantic City will host a Miss Homely Contest, and the restaurateur whose joint produces the heaviest meat balls will be given a flag of honor to fly above his place of business.

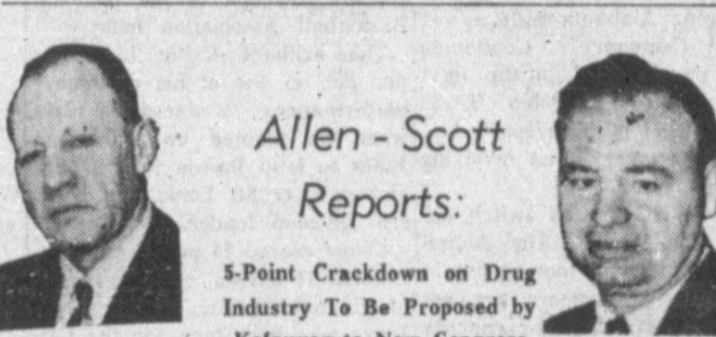

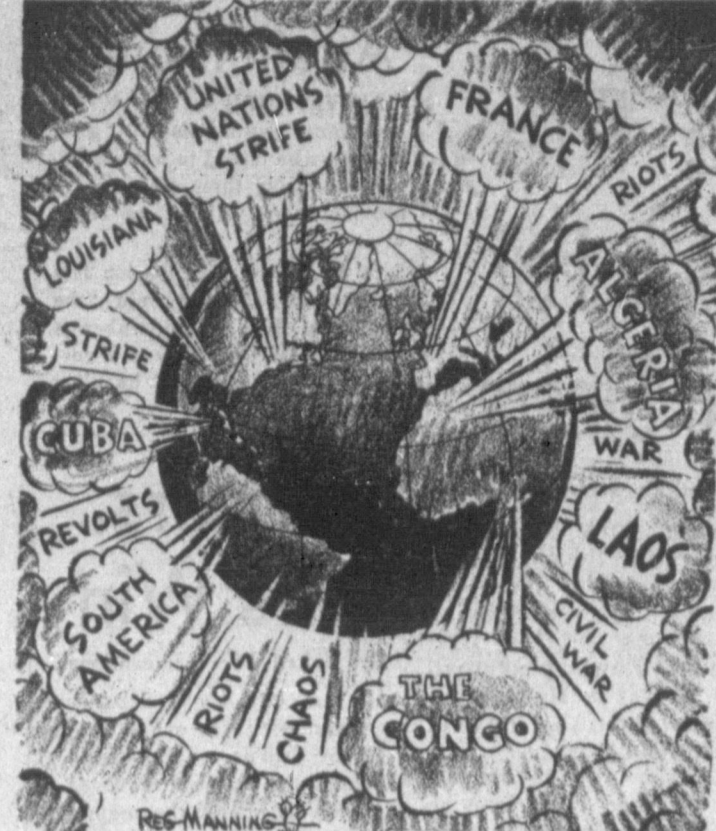

No one will be able to go about saying he is the best in his line: only the best for his weight, age, skill, height, opportunities, and ambition.

Such a situation will increase incentive. Knowing that if he only barely lifts a finger he will be provided with some sort of honor, a man will see to it that he barely lifts a finger. And, as everyone knows, a barely lifted finger is better than a no-lifted finger.

5-Point Crackdown on Drug Industry To Be Proposed by Kefauver to New Congress

WASHINGTON — Senator Estes Kefauver has a jolting Christmas gift for the drug industry — which he has been vigorously investigating for several years.

On the basis of his censorious findings, the Tennessee chairman of the Senate Anti-Trust Subcommittee will offer the following five-point "crackdown" legislation in the new Congress:

— Mandatory federal licensing of all drug manufacturers by the Department of Health, Education & Welfare.

— Food & Drug Administration to be given more authority to determine the "efficiency" of medicinal as well as their purity.

— Empower the Federal Trade Commission to ban "false and misleading advertising" regarding drugs to both doctors and the general public.

— Limit patents on drugs for one year, instead of seven as now.

— Require all federal agencies to buy drugs by generic instead of brand names.

It is Kefauver's plan to offer these far-reaching "reform" measures at the start of the new session, and to follow that up with committee hearings within a few weeks.

His admitted purpose is to press this legislation "as forcefully as possible while our disclosures about profiteering on drug and other improper practices are still fresh in the public's mind."

This strategy, according to Kefauver, has the approval of President-elect Kennedy.

They discussed the five-point "crackdown" legislation at a meeting in Kennedy's Georgetown home. He expressed particular interest in it as in line with the proposal he contemplates submitting to Congress for medical care for the aged under the social security system.

"The two go hand in hand as I see it," said Kennedy. "We must have effective medical care for old people, and we also must have good and reasonably priced drugs for everybody."

HELPING HAND — President Eisenhower will give Kefauver's drastic program an indirect boost by urging Congress, in his final State of the Union message, to enact stronger laws to "protect the public and the medical profession from false and misleading claims about drugs."

Secretary Arthur Flemming, of the Department of Health, Education & Welfare, already has sent such legislation to the White House for submission to Congress.

Under it the Federal Trade Commission would be empowered to "require proof" of the efficiency of drugs as well as their safety; to require all information about drugs supplied to physicians be both accurate and complete; to establish tighter restrictions on pharmaceutical advertising.

Flemming's measure is based on recommendations in a report prepared at his request by Dr. Detlev Bronk, head of the National Academy of Sciences.

The American Medical Association heartily favors Flemming's proposals.

That's what he has informed the President in a memorandum accompanying them. Flemming asserts the AMA is prepared to ask Congress to enact this legislation.

Kefauver has told members of his Anti-Trust Committee that federal licensing of drug manufacturers "is necessary to eliminate fly-by-nights and other fringe operators who are producing drugs that are downright injurious and discrediting the entire industry."

He also contends that requiring federal agencies to buy drugs by generic instead of brand names "will materially reduce prices for both individuals and the government."

A detailed report being prepared by Kefauver's staff claims the government has made large savings by buying drugs in this manner.

"Limiting patents on drugs to one year," Kefauver said, "will open the way for other manufacturers to produce them. And that will mean cheaper prices for all consumers, individuals, institutions and government."

WHO'S GETTING IT — Rand Dixon, chief counsel of Senator Kefauver's headline-making Anti-trust Investigating Committee, is slated to replace Federal Trade Commission Chairman Earl Kinnear, whose term expired last September, but the Senate refused to confirm his reappointment. Dixon will definitely be named to the Commission, but President-elect Kennedy is still undecided about the chairmanship. He may designate someone else. Dixon drafted the five-point "crackdown" legislation Kefauver plans to push in the new Congress for tighter regulation of the drug industry.

Senator Vance Hartke (D., Ind.) will propose setting up a permanent Senate committee on "trade adjustment problems" arising from foreign competition. Hartke contemplates aiding industries and communities adversely affected by foreign competition with such measures as federal loans, tax relief, defense contracts and the retaining of workers. He has discussed that with President-elect Kennedy who promised to do something about this situation in his campaign, but did not spell out what he has in mind. Hartke points out that an effective first step would be creating a Senate committee dealing expressly with this growing problem.

AN example will show the application of the rules. Suppose a farmer acquired his land in the early days at a cost of $10,000. This property is now worth $50,000. The farmer wishes to retire and to escape estate taxes, so he gives the farm to his daughter.

Although he may pay federal gift taxes totaling several thousand dollars, when the daughter decides to sell the farm for its $50,000 value, she still has to pay income tax on $40,000 profit (difference between the sales price and her father's cost of $10,000).

On the other hand, if the farmer had not given the farm to the daughter, but had left it to her under his will, he would have saved the gift tax. The daughter would have taken the property at a cost basis of $50,000, so upon the sale she would not have had to pay any income tax.

Of course, there would have been some estate tax and administration expenses in the father's estate, but that would have been much less than the taxes which resulted from the gift. However, depending upon individual and particular circumstances, there may be occasions when a gift is advisable. Your lawyer can advise you on this matter.

It may be advisable to "look a gift horse in the mouth" for the gift may cost the one who receives the gift in income taxes as well as the giver in gift taxes.

For income tax purposes the cost basis of property received by the giver is the cost to the giver regardless of the fact that the giver may have paid a gift tax on the gift. The other rule is that in case of property received by inheritance, the cost basis is the fair market value at the date of the decedent's death.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Friday of this week, Dec. 23, is the last chance to take a profit on a regular delivery basis for inclusion in 1960 income tax returns.

The deadline happens to fall on Dec. 23, because in the case of a profit, the delivery date is the determining factor—not the date of trade. The normal delivery date, of course, is four trading days after the date of sale.

The final date for profit-taking comes unusually early this year because Monday, Dec. 26, will be a stock market holiday (Christmas). Also, Dec. 31 falls on a Saturday, and Friday, Dec. 30 will stand as the last business day of 1960.

Losses, however, can be put into the 1960 tax return right up to the end of business on Dec. 30. The Internal Revenue Service says that you take a loss when you make a sales contract, but that you do not take a profit till you get your money.

Writes On Pros And Cons About Winston Churchill

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Passing his 88th birthday, feeble in mind and body, Winston Churchill stumbles down the setting sun, bed of millions of Britons and Americans. But his own people repudiated him politically soon after the war. In the same vein of thought, I speculate whether the Americans would have turned out Roosevelt if he had lived and the betrayals of Yalta and Potsdam had confronted him. These and his frightful folly in tossing off as a mere phrase at lunch in Casablanca, "unconditional surrender." These words guaranteed chaos and anarchy in Germany and pronounced the doom of God knows how many American soldiers and other blameless human beings.

Churchill's manliness as a young cavalry lieutenant commands the admiration of those who envy battle-bravery. But he was unfit for any useful occupation and his mind always was flippant.

The British have a knack of hopping from one regiment to another, hopping into the service and out, and he held commissions in a half-dozen outfits, including the Grenadier Guards. In the first war as First Lord of the Admiralty he landed and left a rabble of scared naval reserves, at Antwerp. There Lord French promised him a brigade.

Douglas Haig, who soon relieved French, reduced the brigade to a battalion and Churchill reappeared in London playing politics.

Emory Hughes, an English journalist and occasional M.P., wrote in a restrained biography, "Other men did not succeed in getting away from the front so easily."

Soon, honest historians must begin telling the truth about Churchill — and Roosevelt. The British had known Churchill a long time. They did not try to expunge his family's sordid history as we ignored the story of the Delanos. They had observed his cheapness, his vulgarity and his indifference to principle so they never were swept to the heights which we reached in our raptures. Churchill had been Tory and Liberal. He had praised Hitler and Mussolini as lavishly as he came to damn them. He spoke with a lisp. And the Duke of Windsor was to say that, with all the wealth of his ancestry and his own accumulation, he was an inveterate guest but less often a host, and often in company beneath his station.

His two greatest oratorical coups are smudged. Robert Emmett had said that he would fight on the beaches and in the streets and that his last stand would be his grave. Emmett said this in the dock under sentence to an English gibbet. And Churchill's classical declaration that he had nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat was a paraphrase of numerous historic passages which were flung into his teeth in the press of England at the time.

Jack Kennedy cut a splinter off the same stick in his acceptance at Los Angeles.

Churchill wrote in ecstasy of the final commitment of the United States to war. But Elliott Roosevelt wrote that at Casablanca "Pop" told him, "I've tried to make it clear to Winston that they must never get the idea that we're in it just to help them hang onto their archaic, medieval empire ideas."

And later Churchill growled that he had not become his majesty's First Minister to preside over the dissolution of the empire. So he rejoiced over an ally who frustrated his devotion to the empire. Then how great was Churchill? How shrewd? Was he a statesman or a showman? His countrymen won a war but he then lost it.

General George Patton was practically cashiered for declaring that Nazis were the only Germans competent to make an interim government. He was trying to dilute "unconditional surrender." Chaos had to be the starting point.

Churchill's great reputation among us baffles Englishmen, some hero-worship was inevitable but it was exaggerated by idolatrous prattle of knee-sprung American journalists who pinched themselves in wonderment to realize that they were in his presence. He let them call him "Winnie" whereas Roosevelt treated them as grooms.

Roosevelt is bigger than God among us but the New York Times recently told of a floor show comedian of the "Sick School" who cracks jokes about Jesus Christ. In most night clubs it would be dangerous to express the same irreverence toward Roosevelt or his widow.

Churchill's theatrical oratory pumped up the spirits of British and Americans out of our very boots. As a writer, he was a good hack but hardly as bad as Malcolm Muggeridge, a former editor of "Punch," recently said he was. He said Churchill's prose was "The worst ever penned by man."

Muggeridge foretold that indictment long ago.

The New York Herald Tribune, owned by Jack Whitney, our ambassador to London, exclaimed on Churchill's birthday: "Sharing an era with Sir Winston has been one of the privileges of living in the Twentieth Century."

So you see what we have got to unlearn.

'Support' Quip Stirs Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Marilyn Maxwell said she laughed the day after her marriage when her husband told her that now she could help support him.

"I found out he wasn't kidding," testified the blonde actress Wednesday in Superior Court where she was awarded a divorce from producer Jerry Davis, 43.

"I used to consult him about job offers and he'd say, 'take it, take it,'" testified Miss Maxwell, 38. "Then when the job required me to go out of town he would needle me by saying 'What kind of a wife and mother are you?'"

Miss Maxwell was awarded $500 monthly alimony plus $150 monthly support for their child Matthew, 4. The couple wed in 1954.

'Man In Street' Picks Election Of Kennedy

NEW YORK (UPI)—The "man in the street" in the United States believes the Kennedy election victory was 1960's biggest news story, closely followed by the U2 incident and the summit collapse.

That was indicated today in results of a poll taken by United Press International in which a cross section of citizens in six metropolitan areas across the country was asked to name the "ten biggest stories of 1960."

Those polled included waitresses, salesmen, grocers, elevator operators, cab drivers, executives, a stock and bond analyst, parking lot attendants, merchants, store managers, policemen, steelworkers, social workers, librarians, maintenance men—as varied a list as possible.

The "man in street" vote totals — from Boston, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Chicago, and Dallas — produced a 10-biggest list that differed with that voted by UPI subscribing editors last week. It left out four stories selected by the editors—the Congo's troubles, the heads-of-state United Nations General Assembly, Hurricane Donna, and the Pittsburgh Pirate World Series win.

The man in the street poll selected three stories the editors left out: U.S. submarine Triton's voyage around the world, Nazi executioner Eichmann's capture and the Polaris missile.

It divided the editors' No. 2-U2 and aftermath — into two stories. The poll was made before the New York air collision of last weekend. Here are the two lists:

- Man-In-Street
1. Kennedy's election
 2. U2 incident
 3. Khrushchev summit break-up
 4. Ike-Japan trip canceled
 5. Chessman executed
 6. Negro sit-ins
 7. (Tie) Cuba; Triton
 8. Eichmann
 9. Polaris

3. (Tie) U.N.; Congo

5. Ike-Japan

10. Pirates win.

After the airliner collision in New York, the UPI revised its original editors' list to insert the United-TWA collision as No. 9, push the hurricane down to No. 10, and drop the Pirates.

T-Men Enter Beaumont Vice Quiz

BEAUMONT (UPI)—Rep. Tom James, vice-chairman of the legislative Crime Committee, revealed Wednesday night the U.S. Treasury Department has stepped into the group's investigation of vice and the breakdown of law enforcement in Jefferson County.

James made the disclosure shortly after he reported that a number of Jefferson County law enforcement officials who appeared before the committee had agreed to turn over their income tax fills for the past five years to the committee's auditing staff.

James said the Treasury Department contacted him a few days after Texas Rangers and state undercover agents raided six clubs in downtown Beaumont and another club between Beaumont and Port Arthur. That was on Dec. 3.

Wednesday afternoon, a man who identified himself as Hugh W. Lowenthal, an intelligence agent for the Treasury Department, appeared at the motel where the committee was winding up two-days of closed-door hearings and talked briefly with a member of the committee staff.

A newsmen asked if the Treasury Department was stepping into the investigation.

"We are interested," Lowenthal replied.

Plane Loses Engine But Lands Safely

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI)—U.S. Air Force officials today credited the skill and nerve of two pilots for the safe landing of a radar plane that dropped a flaming engine into the sea.

Lt. Joseph T. Long Jr. of Houston and Joseph Haber of Newburgh, N.Y., brought the crippled Constellation and 13 other crewmen safely to the U.S. airbase here. The hard-luck plane blew a tire on landing, but the pilots kept control.

Long and Haber were glad they did not have to crash land in the sea.

"The ditching didn't worry us," Long said. "We were confident of being found, but with Christmas so near we didn't want to go into the water."

The four-engine plane was on a radar-picket flight from Otis Field, Mass., when its right in-board engine caught fire. Long, fearing the plane might lose a wing, radioed an SOS to his base and prepared to ditch.
