Kennedy Firms Up Leadership

By MERRIMAN SMITH

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy explored with Vice President Richard M. Nixon the possible appointment of at least two Republicans to Cabinet-level jobs next year, it was learned today as Kennedy continued construction of a new national administration.

AF Capsule Recovered Near Africa

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) —

The Air Force fired an Atlas missile 5,000 miles early today and recovered a data capsule in the second successful demonstration within 12 hours of its new-found ability to retrieve machinery it puts into space.

The bulky rocket, test model of a dozen nuclear-tipped Atlases already on defense duty in the western United States, hurled its dummy warhead and a half-ton of instruments into a watery target area off the west coast of Africa.

A range ship, the Timber Hitch, picked up a data capsule the Atlas carried in its nose.

The success came only hours after an Air Force plane made an aerial snatch of a capsule ejected from a Discoverer satellite over the Pacific. The Discoverer had whirled 31 times around earth and covered nearly one million miles before the capsule was triggered.

The Atlas and Discoverer recovery successes marked a major step forward in plans to send living creatures, possibly chimpanzees, into space within the next few months.

The Atlas is expected to carry a chimpanzee to the edge of space and then into orbit soon as a part of Project Mercury, the nation's top-priority program to get a human into orbit by late 1961.

Annexation Of Block On 18th Ave Discussed By City Commission

A proposal to bring a block-long strip of 18th Ave. into the city was discussed at the meeting of city commission today. It hinges on one thing—if the property owners will agree to pay their share to pave the street.

If this is agreed to the city plans to run a water and sewer line along Bank St. to bring those utilities to the area.

This was the first of two paving projects discussed, the other being the 1100 block of S. Christy.

Of this last, Mayor Ed Myatt proposed that specific steps be taken so that the matter may be

New Orleans Mixed Schools Boycotted By White Persons

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Four 6-year-old Negro girls, protected by rings of city police and federal marshals, returned through jeering crowds today to formerly all-white elementary schools. It was obvious now that a white boycott of the two integrated schools is in progress.

Fewer than two dozen white pupils attended classes today at McDonogh School No. 19, which three Negro girls went to for the first time Monday. Normal attendance at McDonogh is 476.

No more than two dozen attended William Frantz Elementary School, to which one Negro girl is assigned. Normal attendance at William Frantz is 576.

The three Negro girls assigned to McDonogh 19 school showed up moments after classes began. But at William Frantz school, federal marshals sped up to the school half an hour after classes started, blowing their car horns steadily, and let out the one girl assigned to that school.

Crowds around the schools, smaller than they were when integration began Monday, jeered lustily.

Police restrictions were tougher. A crowd of about 200 persons at McDonogh was held behind barricades across the street from the school. At William Frantz, more than 200 teen-agers who said they walked out of their high school classes, held a rally a block from the elementary school but were held away from the school by police.

At Frantz, police held all spectators away from the building.

been of valuable service to the city in the past. The board includes: Charles Cook, J. A. Poole, R. D. Wilkerson, E. J. Lewis, George Scott, B. M. Behrman, R. M. Samples, L. L. Sone, De Lea Vickers and E. E. Shellhamer.

In other action the commission approved on third and final reading an ordinance to bring into the city some 200 feet of property fronting on the Pampa Youth and Community Center which is under construction on Harvester St.; approved payment of Lovett Memorial Library bills totaling $297.07, and turned down a suggestion by Dauby Transfer and Storage Co. that the firm pave a loading zone at the city-owned warehouse now leased to the company and that the cost be attached to the monthly rental.

Texas Gains House Seat

Reapportionment Is Based On '60 Census

By SUSAN WAGNER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine states, led by California, will gain seats in the House of Representatives and 16 states will lose seats as a result of population changes in the past 10 years, it was announced today.

California, whose population soared by 5.1 million in the last 10 years, will gain eight seats. Florida will pick up four, one each will be gained by Arizona, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, Hawaii, Ohio and Texas.

Losing seats in the House will be Pennsylvania, three; New York, two; Massachusetts, two; Arkansas, two; and one each for Alabama, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Carolina and West Virginia.

The changes will be effective for the 88th Congress, which will be elected in November 1962.

The reapportionment also will result in changes in electoral votes of these states, effective with the 1964 presidential election.

Thus California's electoral vote would rise from 32 to 40 as a result of the gain in House seats while New York's would drop from 45 to 43. One electoral vote goes with each seat in House and Senate.

Hawaii, the 50th state, admitted to statehood only last year, will have two House members. Hawaii and Alaska both automatically were allotted one member when granted statehood. Alaska will continue to have only one. Hawaii's 1960 population of 632,772 ranked it 44th in the nation.

The announcement was made by Commerce Secretary Frederick R. Mueller, who also disclosed a final 1960 population count of 173,323,175 — the nation's population as of April 1, 1960. This was an increase of 23 million or 18.5 per cent over the 1950 population.

California's population growth of 5,130,981 over the decade was the largest in the nation. Florida was second, adding 2,180,255 inhabitants. Migration to both states, especially their southern portions which enjoy mild winters, has been a major factor in their rapid population growth.

Arkansas, Mississippi, West Virginia and the District of Columbia lost population.

Other states lost seats in the House because population increases elsewhere shifted the relative distribution of people among the states.

When the 88th Congress convenes two years and two months from now, New York still will have the largest House delegation, 41. California will be second with 38. California now is tied with Pennsylvania for second place with 30 seats each. Pennsylvania drops into third place.

LOCKED IN BATTLE — Newsmap spots Guatemala, Nicaragua and Costa Rica in Central America where troops were locked in battle with rebels described as Communists and "mercenaries" supported by Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro. Latest reports said loyal forces were in control in all three countries, but did not discount the possibility that reinforcements from the island of Cuba, top, might change the picture at any moment.

Uprisings Contained

By DOUG ANDERSON
United Press International

Concerted action by the armies of four nations appeared to have crippled uprisings they described as a Cuban attempt to "export revolution" to lands neighboring the strategic Panama Canal.

In Guatemala, troops armed with flame throwers and rocket-firing bazookas were moving up for what authorities expected to be a decisive attack on Puerto Barrios, a big Caribbean port seized Sunday by rebels.

President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes announced Monday night that loyal troops had recaptured Zacapa, the only other sizeable Guatemalan center taken by rebels he described as "Communists, linked to the Fidel Castro government."

In Nicaragua, official announcements indicated organized rebel resistance ceased with the surrender at Diriamba of about 14 invaders who had been holding 200 school children as hostages for safe withdrawal from the country.

Nicaraguan tanks and troops were reported hunting down remnants of the rebel forces reported trying to flee across the border to Costa Rica.

Reports from Costa Rica mentioned heavy firing on the Nicaraguan side of the border, indicating loyal troops might be battling a sizeable rebel force.

Honduras rushed troops to its Guatemalan border to block any possible rebel attempt to flee across the frontier. Border guards in Costa Rica had skirmished intermittently since Friday with rebels clad in the green fatigues of Castro's Cuba who were trying to slip into Nicaragua.

Authorities in Guatemala and Nicaragua charged Castro was trying to export his revolution to Central America to make it a safe base for "international communism."

"We have been unable to purchase sufficient Texas crude to meet requirements," Keesle said. In November, he said Humble wanted to purchase 90,000 barrels of oil but could only buy 10,000.

The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners had asked for an increase producing schedule in a lengthy brief filed with the commission Monday.

E. C. Wilson of Dallas, representing another group of independent oilmen, also requested a nine-day schedule.

Optimist Club Dinner Honors Pampa Youth

Pampa's Evening Optimist Club kicked off its local observance of Optimist International's "Youth Appreciation Week" last night by honoring two young athletes at a banquet at Pampa's Steak House.

Honorees were members of the Robert E. Lee seventh grade Rebels, who had a 5-0 season this year, and four participants in the Optimists junior baseball program who received sportsmanship awards.

Melvin Jayroe, president of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, complimented the Optimists on their youth work and presented awards to George Snell, Northern Little League; Charles Hammons, Eastern Little League; Gordon Dodd, Western Little League; and Eugene Madrid, Optimist Pony League.

The quartet was selected through secret ballot by opposing coaches on the basis of good sportsmanship, whether in defeat or victory.

In another "award," Joe Perryman, victorious Lee coach, was given a gift certificate by his team. Perryman, in a brief speech, told the guests that desire and will to be champions was the main factor in Lee's undefeated mark. Steve Martin made the presentation.

Also part of the program was a film on muscular dystrophy, one of the nation's leading crippling — and killers — of young people.

Before A. J. Carubbi, chairman of the Pampa MD drive which opens next Monday night, showed the film, Tom Snow, Pampa attorney, pointed up the gruesome facts of the disease.

"Parents of children with MD don't have to worry about a job, college or athletics for their children; they have to worry about heading the child or holding its head up once the disease takes its hold," Snow said.

"While two-thirds of the victims are children, MD can strike anyone," he pointed out. "Lou Gehrig, a great ball player for the New York Yankees, contracted MD in the latter part of his life."

"In 1950, parents of MD children banded together and formed the Muscular Dystrophy Assn., which

The statement said a government investigation was under way but that the accident appeared to have been caused by "a gross violation of the basic rules of railroad traffic."

Allowable, Producing Schedule Is Increased

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Railroad Commission today ordered a nine-day oil producing schedule for December, and set the daily allowable at 2,819,379 barrels, an increase of 131,302 barrels daily over November.

The December pattern of nine days breaks a six-month string of eight-day oil production that Texas adopted in an attempt to cut crude stocks.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines had estimated Texas demand for December at 2,615,000 barrels daily, while advance purchaser nominations called for 2,616,945 barrels daily during December.

Railroad commissioners reported that Texas crude and condensate production for the week ending Nov. 4 was 2,438,500 barrels daily.

Purchasers were almost divided on eight and nine day production patterns.

Calling for eight days with estimated oil purchases were Sinclair Oil Co., 118,500 barrels, Indiana Purchasing Co., 241,600; Phillips Petroleum Co., 118,825; Gulf Oil, 209,300; Shell Oil Co., 146,200, and Continental Oil Co., 36,300.

Nine-day patterns with purchases were recommended by Texas, Inc., 183,000 barrels; Sun Oil Co., 109,498; Mobil Oil Co., 227,600; Cities Service Oil Co., 84,797 and Atlantic Oil Co., 79,465.

Standard Oil of Texas called for a 10-day production schedule and said it would need 39,200 barrels of oil.

Humble Oil Co. left its daily nomination open but said it would need 458,000 barrels.

Charles Keesle of Humble painted a picture of a tight crude oil market in the last seven months of an eight-day schedule. His firm has refrained from asking for a definite number of producing days in favor of outlining total requirements.

"We have been unable to purchase sufficient Texas crude to meet requirements," Keesle said. In November, he said Humble wanted to purchase 90,000 barrels of oil but could only buy 10,000.

The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners had asked for an increase producing schedule in a lengthy brief filed with the commission Monday.

E. C. Wilson of Dallas, representing another group of independent oilmen, also requested a nine-day schedule.

Canvass Shows 9,533 Votes Cast In County

Gray County erased all previous voting records last Nov. 8 when 9,533 votes were cast in the general election, according to Charlie Thut, county clerk.

The vote total was made official yesterday afternoon when the county commissioners canvassed the vote and certified the final tally of which 8,831 votes were cast at the polls and 702 — also a record — were absentee ballots.

In the hotly-contested presidential race, Gray County supported Vice President Richard M. Nixon almost three to one, giving the loser 6,719 to president-elect John Kennedy's total of 2,802.

Republican John Tower, although defeated in the state, carried the county, polling 4,976 to Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's 3,854 total.

Governor Price Daniel ran far ahead of his opposition, polling 5,844 votes to William B. Steger's 3,158 in Gray County.

Other official results: Lt. Governor: Ben Ramsey, 5,828; Gilbert E. Harrison, 2,975; Phillip Lee Eubank, 7; Attorney-General: Will Wilson, 5,810; Gordon Treadaway, 2,943; Muckleroy McDonold, 7; Chief Justice of the Supreme Court: Robert W. Symington Had Rather Be Senator

MIAMI (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., fresh from a study of defense reorganization needs, said Monday he feels he can be more useful as a senator than as secretary of defense.

Symington, an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, had been mentioned as a possible secretary of defense in the administration of John F. Kennedy.

"That's not for me," said Symington. "I want to stay in the Senate."

Norway's First Lady To Wed Commoner

OSLO Norway (UPI)—Princess Astrid, 28-year-old first lady of Norway, will marry a divorcee commoner early next year and lose her claim to the title of "her royal highness."

King Olav V. Sunday night announced the engagement of his eldest daughter to Johan Martin Ferner, 34, a Norwegian business man.

Although most Norwegian newspapers omitted the fact in deference to the royal family, Ferner was divorced five years from Bette Hasselberg-Meyer. They had no children and she since has remarried.

The couple will be married Jan. 12 by Bishop Arne Fjellbu, of Trondheim, who recently retired. An increasing number of clergymen in the Norwegian State Lutheran Church, of which King Olav is head, in recent years have come out against remarriage by divorced persons.

Presumably Astrid was permitted to have her choice since only males can inherit the throne. She had acted as the nation's first lady since the death of her mother in 1955 but the palace made it clear she will lose this title when she marries Ferner.

The engagement then promptly sparked fresh reports that Prince Harold, 23, who is first in line for the throne, also is about to announce his engagement. The name of Princess Sophia of Greece has been linked with Harold's recently.

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—They are saying that the electoral college flunked its 1960 test, and it surely did.

The popular vote and the states were split almost down the middle between the presidential nominees. The electoral college, however, scores the contest about like this:

John F. Kennedy, 338 votes.

Richard M. Nixon, 188 votes.

The U.S. Senate was poised four years ago to propose amendment of the Constitution to reform the electoral college. Fifty-one senators joined in sponsoring a reform resolution. Their number was close to the two-thirds majority required to initiate a constitutional amendment. Senate adoption seemed assured. The resolution did not even come to a vote. Panic hit the sponsors, and too many of them withdrew their names.

What panicked the senators? They were panicked, probably, by protests from some or all of the well organized pressure groups in U.S. politics. Two of the best organized of these are composed of Negroes and Big Labor. The electoral college reform then proposed would have shrunk the influence of racial and other large minority groups in presidential elections, perhaps put them out of business altogether.

It is a fact that under the present system a substantially united Negro vote, labor vote or religious vote—to name three—in any one of more than a dozen states can determine the presidential winner in those states in any moderately close election.

Such minorities, by bloc voting, can exercise constant or occasional balance of power influence in presidential elections. The reform proposed would cut them down to size. The present system allots each state's entire electoral vote to the candidate who wins a mere plurality of that state's popular vote, no matter how close the vote may be.

The proposed reform would have permitted each state to choose either of two methods of allotting electoral votes:

1. The state's electoral vote would be divided on a percentage basis among the three candidates receiving the most votes. Or—

2. Each congressional district would elect one elector of its own and two at-large for the states. That is, electors would be chosen just as representatives and senators now are chosen.

To the extent to which either method would encourage third or splinter group parties, the reform would be bad. To the extent to which either method would better reflect the popular vote, the reform would be good.

The 1948 popular vote was very close, as this year. The electoral vote was lop-sided: Harry S. Truman 303; Thomas E. Dewey 189; J. Strom Thurmond 39. Under the reform proposal, Truman would have had 258 (less than a majority). Dewey 221.4, the rest scattered.

The 1956 reform proposal sought to distribute the electoral vote more equitably among the major parties. The overall advantage definitely would be to the smaller of the two.

Explosion On Sun Stirs Rare Show

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A mammoth gas explosion on the sun is giving parts of North America a rare and spectacular show of the Aurora Borealis.

It also is causing some trouble—disrupting global radio communications.

Astronomers figure the red, orange and green lights will flit rough the sky through tonight as a result of the solar explosion spotted Saturday by observers near Alamogordo, N.M.

A spokesman for the Morehead Planetarium at the University of North Carolina said the show of Northern Lights was "a rare treat."

Russia

The new ruble-dollar valuation would apply only in Soviet controlled territories, where the ruble has not been convertible to gold since 1928.

Monday's announcement did not mention the Soviet plans to introduce a new "heavy" ruble Jan. 1 which would be worth 10 old rubles. Earlier Soviet announcements said this was not a devaluation but was due to increased purchasing power of the ruble.

According to the Soviet announcement, the new gold content of the ruble will be .87412 gram of pure gold. The current gold content is set at .22168 gram of pure gold.

The Soviet Union will recall all rubles now in circulation and return one new ruble for 10 of the old ones. Wages and prices will be reduced in the same ratio.

Washington officials pointed out the new Soviet rate would be 0.9 rubles (or 90 kopecks) to the dollar, compared to the present official rate of 0.4 rubles for $1. This, economists figured, is a devaluation of 56 per cent in the ruble with respect to the dollar.

Census Bureau Will Conduct Farm Survey

The 1960 Sample Survey of Agriculture will be conducted in Gray County during the next several weeks, it was announced today by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

The survey will collect information on ownership and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, livestock production and inventories. Information will be collected also on farm equipment, farm income, construction of new farm buildings, farm contracts, and farm operator debts. This survey will supplement information collected in the 1959 Census of Agriculture.

Farms in the county which will be covered in the survey were selected at random under the Census Bureau's sampling program to provide a representative cross-section of all farms in the country. Information collected locally will be combined with that collected in other areas of the country to provide national estimates.

Local interviews for the survey will be conducted by Louise B. McDaniel.

The president-elect arranged a late lunch conference with Ribicoff and the Connecticut governor planned to meet with reporters in the later afternoon.

Kennedy and Nixon covered a broad range of problems involving international affairs and quite likely the cabinet-level posts they discussed were in the international field.

has grown to 3,000 chapters over the United States. Most of the money that goes to MDA is put into research to find a cure for this baffling disease." Snow concluded.

Henry Gindorf, president of the Morning Optimist Club, emphasized that the youth of today are the men of tomorrow.

"The aim of the Optimist clubs everywhere is to offer leadership, set ideals, counsel youths, instill faith in God and country and build them physically.

"And, when you reach a adulthood, it'll be up to each of you individually to apply everything that you've learned in your young years. Have confidence in yourself," Gindorf told the young guests.

Bill Brady ended the festivities by reviewing Youth Appreciation Week and comparing youngsters to the business world.

"When a business goes bad, people don't think that all business is bad. But, let one boy do something wrong ... and all boys are considered bad."

Youth Appreciation Week was begun in 1957 along the lines that a "boys club is better for the town than a policeman's club," Brady concluded.

Also on the program was Homer Hollars, president of the Evening Club; John Conway, program chairman, and a musical trio comprised of F. E. (Humpty) Matheny, Jess Parker and Jasper Smith. Art Bruns of the Zion Lutheran Church gave the benediction.

Burglars Hit Bottling Plant

Burglars paid another of their frequent visits to the Coca-Cola plant last night, but this time it appeared they didn't gain too much money for their efforts.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan said that two of the department's deputies investigated the incident and that the only thing they could determine was missing was an undeveloped amount money from a Coca-Cola vending machine that had been pried open.

This marked the third time this year the firm had been robbed, but Sheriff Jordan said he believed that the person or persons involved had been locked in the establishment at closing time last night, since no forced entry had been discovered.

Nixon Closes Gap In California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon today pulled within 24,000 votes of taking California away from President-elect John F. Kennedy.

With about 25 per cent of California's 230,000 absentee ballots counted, Nixon clipped 11,388 votes off Kennedy's narrow lead. The absentees brought Nixon's overall total in California to 3,119,364 votes compared to 3,143,431 for Kennedy.

Nixon was getting 60 per cent of the absentee votes. He needed 57.7 per cent to overcome Kennedy's lead of 35,455 in the regular vote counting.

Widow Irked; Loses Chance To Use Bat

HAMILTON, Ont. (UPI)—Mrs. Alice Arbour, an 84-year-old widow, forgot to take her baseball bat to bed with her for the first time in four years. But she found some burglars scare just as easy with a scream.

Mrs. Arbour said she woke up early Sunday morning to find an intruder in her bedroom shining a light in her face. She reached for her trusty bat, but it wasn't there.

"So," she said, "I just let out a couple of screams and he ran like a deer."

Mrs. Arbour was perturbed at her lost chance to use the baseball bat.

"I never had a chance to use it until today," she said, "then I blew it all."

Escapes By Lion

There was a scheduled excitement when a big lion named escaped in the coliseum before the final two of the Shrine Circus. The lion, named "Escaped," was moving him to a clean preparation for the Sunday. The lion made a dash in the northeast of the coliseum annex. He was in the air and against the high windows. But he will be demonstrated today by back to the floor, and Umbaugh Aircraft Corp.

some 20 circus hands scattered. By this time, Caesar's trainer, Chet Juszyk, 30, arrived and grabbed a folding chair. Caesar stalked between the east wall of the annex and a row of trucks. Then Al Antonucci, 43, a chimpanzee trainer, picked up a chair and joined Juszyk. The two men coaxed the lion down the aisle and prodded him back into his cage. Antonucci said the chase lasted only five minutes, but added, "it seemed like an hour."

Election Tally Near Completion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy clung to a lead of 389,346 votes over Vice President Richard M. Nixon Monday as the count in last Tuesday's presidential election inched slowly toward completion. With a record high 67,718,263 votes already counted, Kennedy's numerical margin in popular votes was the smallest in any presidential election since 1892. His percentage margin — 50.29 to 49.71 — was the smallest since the election of 1884.

A tabulation by United Press International gave Kennedy 33,855,338, Nixon 33,465,992 and other candidates 396,933. The count was unofficial and still incomplete. With close to 230,000 absentee ballots still to be counted in California alone, the total vote for president seemed certain to exceed 68 million.

A complete but unofficial count of the balloting in Hawaii gave Nixon that state by a 98-vote margin. Democrats, however, may seek a recount.

Nixon was leading in states which would give him 191 electoral votes, and Kennedy had a potential 338.

TRAPPED MINERS FREED

IIZUKA, Japan (UPI)—Twenty-four miners were rescued Sunday and the bodies of two others recovered after the 26 men were trapped in a mine near Nogata on Kyushu, southernmost of Japan's four main islands.

Fast Curb, Kiss Spurs DWI Charge

HOUSTON (UPI) — Traffic officer J. R. Eaves is looking for a new method of testing suspected drunk drivers.

Eaves stopped a woman motorist Sunday after her car collided with a brick wall. The woman explained, "that curb came up too fast on me."

Eaves, unconvinced, asked her if he could smell her breath. As he put his face closer to hers, she responded with a big kiss.

Eaves, after regaining his composure, took Gladys Rogers Dunahoe, 60, before Justice of the Peace Dave Thompson and charged her with driving while intoxicated and driving without a license.

Mamie Celebrates 64th Birthday

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—President Eisenhower, pronounced in "great" health at the age of 70, helped his wife celebrate her 64th birthday Monday.

Mrs. Eisenhower flew here Sunday from Washington to join her husband on an extended vacation at the Augusta National Golf Club quarters known as "Mamie's Cabin."

A private dinner party, complete with birthday cake, was planned in honor of the First Lady.

Both she and the President appeared to be feeling fit and in high good humor when he greeted her at the airport with a kiss and a hug. Eisenhower was tan from the five rounds of golf he has played since he arrived last Wednesday afternoon. "He looks great," said Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the President's personal physician.

HIS OWN MEN

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Police Sgt. O.L. Wilkerson, investigating a report that burglars were trying to break through the roof of a printing company next door to the police station, spotted two men on the roof Monday night.

Closer investigation revealed them to be two off-duty policemen who had climbed to the roof to gather pecans from a large tree.

Dear Abby...

It's All In A Day's Work To "Doc"

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a very happily married woman with a family I really love my husband but I can't help this schoolgirl crush I have on my doctor. Recently I had a little surgery. When I was coming out of the anesthetic I talked too much and, when I realized what I was saying, I could have bitten my tongue off. Naturally the doctor heard it all and now he knows how I feel about him.

I can hardly look him in the face. There is no other doctor I want to go to because this one knows my history and is very competent. Can you give me any suggestions on how to handle the situation? I am so mixed up and ashamed I don't know what to do.

TALKED TOO MUCH
DEAR TALKED: Forget it. Your doctor probably has.

DEAR ABBY: My husband cuts all his meat up into small pieces before he starts to eat. It is embarrassing to go out to eat with him. His plate looks like it is ready to serve to a small child or dog. I mentioned it to him once and he laughed and said it was just an "old habit." Is this poor manner, and have you any suggestions?

ELAINE
DEAR ELAINE: It is improper. Mention it again and tell him nicely that he can change "old habits" for new if he tries.

DEAR ABBY: Don't give me a sermon, just a straight answer. I've always wanted a career, but I fell in love and got married. I never wanted a child, but one came along anyway. It was miserable enough being tied down with one child, but I just learned that I am going to have another one, and my first baby is only seven months old. I still love my husband and I want to stay with him, but I would like to put both these babies out for adoption. Is this legal, since we are married, and how does one go about it?

WANTING MY FREEDOM
DEAR WANTING: Does your husband know how you feel? If not — tell him. If he agrees with you, a lawyer should handle the matter through an adoption agency. But don't be surprised if he suggests that you both have your heads examined.

DEAR ABBY: Just a note to inform the girl who "loves nursing": There are scholarships and long-term loans awaiting interested young girls at most Schools of Nursing. I know. That's how I became a nurse.

Respectfully, "LANSING"

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamp, self-addressed envelope. She answers ALL letters.

RUTH MILLETT
"I never saw so many lone women in my life," said a husband who recently returned from a trip to Europe with his wife. "I kept thinking how glad I was that my wife and I were enjoying our trip together."

A few days after hearing that remark I picked up a small volume of short essays by J. P. McEvoy, "Charlie Would Have Loved This" — the title coming from the first article in the collection.

It's just a little story about an elderly widow trying to be a good on the beach at Waikiki — a place she and Charlie (who was her husband) used to talk about visiting "someday."

But somehow they never got around to making the trip. Whenever Charlie got a little money ahead he bought a few more acres to add to his farm. And then one day Charlie was gone and his lonely widow set out to take the trip the two of them were always planning to take together — someday.

"Charlie would have loved this" the little old lady, seeing the sights alone, would say wistfully every now and then. And that's about all there was to the story.

Exercise Never A Bore If You Remember It Saves Fashion Money

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise
Beauty Editor

If the very thought of exercise is a bore to you, start giving the matter a real thought. Figure problems can cost you money.

A good example can be found in the common figure fault of American women: large hips. Even a size eight or ten can be hippy. So the top of a dress will fill perfectly. And the skirt? It has to be altered, let out to the last stitch.

This cross. And sometimes the alteration is satisfactory and sometimes not. That excess flesh could be exercised off.

Another example is the heavy upper arm, all too often seen in women of all ages. This should be covered by a little sleeve, daytime and evening. How much simpler to give the muscles in that upper arm enough exercise to smooth out the arm and make it pretty again!

Exercise is never a bore if you bear in mind the fact that it can have very tangible results.

Large pores and blackheads can make any skin, however fine, look something less than beautiful. And women who live in large cities, where dirt whips through the air, find that blackheads form only too easily.

But something can be done about them, aside from squeezing them. This won't really solve the problem and it may do permanent injury to your skin. It's far safer and more satisfactory to dry up blackheads and reduce the size of pores at the same time.

One of the easiest ways to do this is by frequent use of an astringent. Blackheads are dirt and fat which plug the pores. If you soak a cotton ball in astringent five or six times daily, and go over the offending area, you'll find that the blackheads tend to dry up and the large pores grow noticeably smaller.

You can never let up on this program, of course, but it's an easy one to follow. It takes only seconds.

When you cream your face at night, be sure to apply it with light, upward strokes. If you pull downward as you cream, you're drawing facial muscles down and doing the very purpose for which you're using the cream.

If you're uncertain about method, have a professional just once and watch each step will provide you with clues.

A little water softener to soapy water is a great in cleaning white gloves. Dip float over it you soak gloves 20 minutes.

Earth, Stars and Man (17) Ape Men or Man Apes?

by Don Oakley and John Lane

"Where is the missing link?" men had cried in challenge to Darwin's theory of evolution. Darwin, in his Descent of Man, published in 1871, had pointed to South Africa as the most likely birthplace of man. But the discovery of the Java ape man in 1891 had focussed attention on Asia.

Then in 1924, Australian-born anatomist Raymond A. Dart in South Africa came across the fossil skull of a creature about six years old that strangely combined both ape and human features. He gave it the awesome name of Australopithecus africanus—Southern Ape of Africa. This was perhaps unfortunate because he immediately perceived that it was closer to being human than ape. In fact, if there were such a thing as the "missing link," this was as close as men would ever come to finding it. "Dart's baby," as it was nicknamed, was received coolly by anthropologists. Perhaps thinking had not yet been prepared by the discoveries in Java and China. Today, however, mainly through the efforts of Dart and the late Scottish paleontologist Robert Broom, the "southern ape" has become one of the most important episodes in the search for man.

Broom, in 1936 and 1938, found other skulls which he placed under a new generic name of "near-men." War then stopped work. In the late 1940s, more fragments were found, including a pelvis which proved that these ape men walked on two legs.

Dart believes there is evidence of another age long before the Stone, Bronze and Iron Age. This is the Bone Age, when "men" used the readily available bones, teeth and horns of animals as tools. Some estimates place these finds as far back as one million years, though the lack of stratified rock in the area makes dating difficult.

The appearance of the southern apes and near-men has to be imagined as far as body hair goes, as it does with all fossil men. Their general structure, except for the head, was well along the human path. But their faces were quite monkeylike and their brains were not much larger than a gorilla's.

Work in Africa today centers on finding out just what place these creatures hold in the long, long story of man.

In the crowded trophy case in Pampa High School's foyer reposes a now-deflated football, covered with a 10-year tenure in its place of honor. Inscribed on it are the names of the Pampa Harvesters who won the 1950 district championship. Also in gold letters, score of the final game with Berger stands out among other glittering momentos. The score was 71-6, the first a Pampa team has ever beaten Berger in the 30 years accurate records have been kept. As it serves as a happy memory of past grid heroics, it also stands as a reminder to the 1960 Harvesters that they will return the dubious honor of a sound thrashing Saturday if given half a chance.

Story To Repeat?

Berger waxed Pampa, 66-13, in its way to a district championship and this year's game have many of the same circumstances surrounding it. Berger won the 3-4A title in 1958 and looks like the winner again year—unless Pampa beats it. Pampa had a 1-18 record into the game in 1958 and carry a 0-9 mark this time. '58 whipping was in Berger, will be Saturday's game, and Saturday will face Wichita Falls in strict as it did two years ago. Berger's big, fast Bulldogs are having let Lubbock Monterey up on them two weeks ago. They are rated anywhere third to fifth in the Class state grid rankings and have eyes set on a state champion.

Any thoughts that Berger "will take it easy" on Pampa should be quickly forgotten. People, especially football fans, have long memories when it comes to rivalries like Pampa-Berger. They haven't forgotten 1950 and Pampa shouldn't forget 1958. Berger mentor Gene Mayfield was a press box occupant Saturday afternoon at the Pampa-Plainview game. With his scouts deployed at one end of the box, he was doing extra-curricular work on his last stumbling block to a district championship. After the game was over, someone asked Mayfield to "please don't be too rough on us (Pampa) next Saturday." To this, Mayfield answered: "You're kidding. We'll have to play all out to beat Pampa." That little statement comes about as close to a promise of all-out warfare as one can get. Should Pampa throw open the door with fumbles, errant passes and half-hearted defense, it can be sure that Berger will have a football of its own to put in Berger High School's trophy case.

Quarterbacks Meet Tonight

The Harvester Quarterback Club, hoping for a big turnout as Pampa gears for its annual tussle with Berger Saturday, will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the high school cafeteria. Sharon Haralson, Quarterback president, reminded all boosters today to turn in either the bumper stickers and unsold membership cards or the money from their sale at tonight's meeting. Also on tap will be a scouting report on Berger and game movies of the Pampa-Plainview game last Saturday which Plainview won, 13-4, in the last two minutes.

Missouri (9-0) Ranked First In National Grid Poll

Arkansas Takes Over Eighth Place Honors

By JOHN GRIFFIN

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Missouri, needing only a win this Saturday to complete a perfect season, seized the No. 1 spot in the weekly major college football ratings by the United Press International Board of Coaches today as the field went into the homestretch.

Coach Dan Devine's Tigers ran their record to 9-0 last Saturday by crushing Oklahoma, 41-19, and thus were in position to grab the top ranking when it slipped from the hands of Minnesota — a 23-14 loser to Purdue.

Missouri now needs only to beat Kansas this Saturday to finish its perfect season, clinch the Big Eight championship and earn a trip to the Orange Bowl for the second straight year. Missouri, unbeaten but tied once in nine games, moved up to take over the No. 2 spot vacated by Mississippi while Iowa, which sank from first to sixth last week after its loss to Minnesota, rebounded back as far as No. 3 this week. Ohio State, third last week, took a 35-12 beating from Iowa and that set the stage for a general advance by other teams. Minnesota dropped from first to fourth and Washington held steady at No. 5, but after that Duke took sixth, Navy seventh, and Arkansas eighth in advances. Ohio State fell to No. 9 and Auburn crashed into the elite group at No. 10.

missed by Missouri, Mississippi bagged five, Iowa four, Minnesota two, and Duke and Navy one each.

UCLA advanced to the "second 10" in the No. 11 slot, followed by Michigan State, Kansas, Rice, and Baylor. Utah State and Alabama were tied for 16th, Florida and Yale tied for 18th, and Pittsburgh and New Mexico State tied for 20th. Missouri must hold onto the No. 1 berth for two more weeks in order to gain the national championship.

Grid Stars Warned

NEW YORK (UPI)— Hoping to bar any incidents such as occurred last year, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has issued a strong reminder to college football players that they wait until the end of the season before signing a professional contract. The NCAA, in a special report to member colleges and universities, reminded athletic directors and faculty representatives of their obligation to rule ineligible any student-athlete who signs an "open" or "secret" pact with a professional team. Last year several college players were charged with signing secret contracts before appearing in bowl games. The report explained that this obligation exists "if a young man signs an 'open' contract which is to be postdated or signs a contract which is considered by the signer and the professional team to be 'secret' until such a time as the professional team files it in the league's headquarters."

Trans-Way is a living testimonial to the miracle of medical science. Three years ago as a weanling, Trans-Way suffered a jaundice attack and 17 blood transfusions were required to keep him alive.

Today, the dark brown colt is a winning horse on the New York circuit. Trans-Way, who didn't begin his racing career until early October of this year, won the North River Handicap at Aqueduct Monday to record his fourth victory in six starts. He has been out of the money only once.

Jockey Jim Combest had to restrain the colt from running his heart out in the mile event as he eased Trans-Way from his 6½ length lead in mid-stretch to a 2½ length margin over Ho Dew at the finish.

At the opening of Pimlico Brandy Sea gamely hung on to a half-length lead over the last half-mile to beat Hunter's Rock in the Pimlico Breeders' Stakes. Jockey Bill Hartack handled Brandy Sea, moving his mount from fifth place to the lead within a span of a quarter-mile. They traveled the 1-1/16 miles in 1:47 1-5, with the winner paying $3-40.

WILT CHAMBERLAIN moves up fast

Wilt Goes For Crown

NEW YORK (UPI)—It hasn't taken Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia very long to notify the National Basketball Association that he's aiming for a second straight scoring title. The Philadelphia flipper skyrocketed from eighth to second place in two weeks and his 353 points are just shy of the 355 amassed by league-leading Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles. Chamberlain has the best average in the circuit with 35.3 points per game. As was the situation last year, the only thing holding him back from making an early runaway of the race is the inability to hit from the free throw line. Chamberlain has made only 45 of 113 foul shots for an anemic 398 percentage. The Philadelphia skyscraper succeeded in overtaking Baylor as rebound leader by snaring 28/arcrons for a 28.7 average. Baylor has 238 and a 21.6 mark. Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati continued to pace the league in assists, although his production dwindled to an 8.81 average.

Deer Season Set To Open

Deer hunting season in the Panhandle starts Wednesday to run through Nov. 29. The bag limit will be one buck deer which must have hardened antlers protruding through the skin.

Turkey season runs concurrently with deer season with a limit of one gobbler. All deer hunters must have a hunting license. The Texas general deer and turkey season is Nov. 16-Dec. 31.

Bi-District Ducats On Sale

Tickets for the Lefors-Stinnett bi-district game Friday night in Pampa went on sale today in the Pampa Chamber of Commerce office, according to Red Wedgeworth, chamber manager. The tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students. All ducats are general admission and will be sold at the office until near game time Friday night. The game will be played at Harvester Park at 7:30 p.m. Stinnett will represent District 1-A and Lefors will carry the banners of District 2-A.

U.S. Falls In Tennis

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, scored a quarter final win in the New South Wales Tennis championships today to remain the only surviving American. Earl Buchholz and Chuck McKinley, both of St. Louis, lost. MacKay, relying on sound ground shots, and steady service, defeated Roy Emerson, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, in a marathon contest. Buchholz bowed to Bob Hewitt, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, 5-7, 6-4, in another long drawn out affair at the White City courts. McKinley was no match for the more experienced and superior Neale Fraser and lost, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3, in his first big match in Australia.

Trial Begins In Bribe Case

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—New Yorker Aaron Wagman went on trial today on a charge of bribing a Florida fullback to shave points in a September football game. A former Florida University student accused with Wagman pleaded guilty Monday in the alleged attempted fix. Philip Silber, 19, of New York, changed his plea from innocent to guilty less than 24 hours before he and Wagman were slated to go on trial in Circuit Court. Wagman, 27, maintained his plea of innocence. The two were accused of offering fullback Jon MacBeth $1,500 to see that Florida defeated Florida State Sept. 24 by less than the 12-point odds quoted by bookmakers.

Gibson Leave OU For ACC

ABILENE (UPI)—Jerry Gibson, all-state schoolboy quarterback at Breckenridge, has withdrawn from the University of Oklahoma and plans to enroll at Abilene Christian College at midterm so he can become a minister in the Church of Christ. Gibson quarterbacked Breckenridge to the Class AAA state title in 1959 and into a share of the crown last season. He will be eligible for four years competition at ACC because he dropped out of school before the first Oklahoma freshman football game.

Area Playoffs Begin

Area football teams in eight divisions, AAA and A get down to business of determining bi-district champions this weekend and Pampa will have a chance to see maps the next Class A crown in action here Friday night. Stinnett (10-0) is rated the best in the A division and will represent District 1-A against LeFors (6-4), champs of 2-A, at Harvester Park. Lefors lost to Stinnett's Rattlers, 23-0, earlier in the year, but has improved greatly since that time. How much it has improved will be known Friday night. The game should be a good game, nevertheless, and one with a lot of scoring. Stinnett's two Anderson brothers, Larry and Donnie, are perhaps the best brother tandem to ever come out Class A football, but Lefors may come up with a few surprises of its own. At Miami Friday night, the Warriors (10-0) will meet Gail (10-0) to decide the regional eight-man entrant. Gail has won 43 of its last outings with one tie while Miami has a 20-3 record over three years. And, at Childress, Perryton, 5-AA champ, meets Anson, winner of the 6-AA crown. Anson stopped Stamford's long winning streak earlier in the season, which gives a good indication of its football prowess.

Tech Last Stumbling Block

They're even putting on weight. Just before the Southern Methodist game, the Hogs climbed aboard the scales to check their weights against the figures compiled four weeks earlier—before those top-notch opponents at Texas, O' Miss, Texas A&M and Rice. The first team line average was boosted from 191 to 194 pounds, and the first team backfield increased from 178 to 180. Now, only Texas Tech stands in the way to a host spot in the Cotton Bowl and no less than a share in the conference title for the second straight year. And it looks like the Hogs are going to be in just about the best physical shape for their league finale that they have been all season. Except for Joe Paul Alberty, the hard-luck fullback. Bill Ferrell, Arkansas trainer, said the third injury of the season for Alberty may keep him on the sidelines against Tech. In the Southern Methodist game, he was hit from the side, and it tore ligaments in his knee. "Joe Paul had a left foot injury," Ferrell said. "Now he has a right knee hurt to go with it. I don't know if he can play or not. He's crippled pretty good." Alberty was held out of the first three games because he suffered several broken bones in his face during pre-season practice. Broyles ran the Razorbacks through a brief 30 minute kicking and passing drill, then retired the squad to watch movies of the SMU game. At Lubbock, Tech set up defenses against the Porkers' winged-T offense, then also watched films of Arkansas games for more information on how to stop the Razorbacks. Texas and Texas A&M, which are idle this weekend and play on Thanksgiving Day, had a holiday. Southern Methodist went through a light workout preparing for Baylor, and Coach Bill Meek said barring practice this week, the Ponies will be in their best shape of the season. Three veterans who saw only limited action against Arkansas because of injuries, were running full speed for the first time in weeks. They are halfback Glynn Gregory, fullback Gene Sherman and end Pat Neill. A University of Minnesota survey indicates the finance is the principal reason for drop-outs from colleges.

Cross Country Champ Runs For Olympics

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 1964 Olympic Games may seem long way off for most people, but Bobby Lowe of Brown University already is pointing toward Tokyo. The 22-year-old senior from Englewood, N.J., who missed the tryouts for this year's Olympic team because of mononucleosis, added another determined effort to make the next trip by winning the NCAA cross-country championship Monday over the five-mile course at Van Cortlandt Park. Love defeated Larrie Sweet of Alfred by 60 yards with a clocking of 25 minutes, 40.4 seconds. Gerald Young of Michigan State was third, Bill Bachrach of Yale was fourth and Bill Reynolds of Michigan State ran fifth. Rounding out the top 10 in the original field of 250 starters were Bobby Mack of Yale, Lynn Bender of Army and three Penn State runners — Herman Weber, Gerald Norman and Steve Moorhead. The Nittany Lions breezed to the team championship with a low total of 70 points to end the four-year reign of Michigan State. Other Penn State harriers who helped their team to victory were Howie Deadorff (19th) and Lionel Bassett (28th). Army finished second with 119 points, Michigan State was third with 130, followed by Manhattan, 138, and Yale, 231, to lead the field of 24 teams.

Texas Captures Cross Country

AUSTIN (UPI)—The University of Texas upset favored Arkansas Monday to win the 39th annual southwest Conference cross country championship, a crown worn by the Razorbacks for the past four years. The Steers showed surprising strength to capture the title with a low team score of 39 points, while Arkansas had to settle for second-place tie with Texas A&M, 111 points back. Texas Tech was fourth. Jack Nelson of Arkansas nailed down the individual championship, however, with a 15:02 timing over a three-mile course. E. L. Ener of Texas A&M placed second with 1:13, and John Eschle of Texas was third with 15:32.

Don't Gag The Press

There is a school of thought which argues that a newspaper should never accept a story from a person whose reputation may be less than gilt-edged in certain quarters. We beg to differ.

It is the newspaper's job to report the facts. Many facts which are unpleasant to someone. But it is not the newspaper which makes the facts, it is the newspaper which reports them.

In ancient times it was customary for tyrants to slay the bearer of bad news. Apparently there exists in modern times a barbarous tendency on the part of certain persons in high office to want to punish a newspaper because the facts it reports are unpleasant to the holder of public office.

Were newspapers to be gagged and restrained from printing the unpleasant truths which do exist, the public would be kept in the dark on many matters of vital concern to them.

We are reminded of an exchange of views which occurred back in 1887 when Lord Creighton argued with Lord Acton that the benefit of the doubt should always be granted persons in power. It was Creighton's position that persons in positions of power, such as pope and kings, and presumably judges and governors, should be judged in a less harsh manner than was reserved for the rabble. If, for example an instance of evil doing could be traced to a high dignitary in church or state, it would be wise and prudent to overlook the evil if it were performed by such personage.

Lord Acton took the opposite view, and we very much share Lord Acton's opinion. In a letter to Creighton, among other things he said:

"I cannot accept your canon that we are to judge pope and king unlike other men, with a favorable presumption that they did no wrong. If there is any presumption it is the other way against holders of power, increasing as the power increases. . . Power tends to corrupt and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

It is a matter of history that persons in positions of power have facilities at their disposal to stifle both inquiry and complaint. Indeed, the growth of tyranny is always in an inverse ratio to the growth of an uncontrolled and free press.

It may have been this thought which at one time prompted Abraham Lincoln to say:

"If there is anything that is the duty of the whole people never to entrust to any hands but their own, that thing is the preservation and perpetuity of their own liberties and institutions. I fear you do not fully comprehend the danger of abridging the liberties of the people. A government had better go to the very extreme of toleration than to do aught that could be construed into an interference with or to jeopardize in any degree the common rights of the citizen."

And most assuredly, this thought must have been upper most in the great mind of Thomas Jefferson when he wrote:

"The basis of our governments being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

But at this unhappy juncture we find government in the position of seeking to stifle and control the press, to force it into either secrecy or silence, and failing so to do, to hold its reporters in contempt. A newspaper's job, in the interest of freedom of the press, is to report the truth. It does not seek to turn down tips because it finds the tipster unlisted in the Blue Book. It must act freely and without fear even in the face of hostile administrations and hostile judges.

This newspaper will continue to publish the truth wherever it can find it.

The march of the human mind is always largo and never allegro.

Is Socialism Inevitable?

There appears to be a widely spread feeling that socialism is inevitable.

We can thank Karl Marx for this feeling.

Marx, who posed as a scientist, was actually a mystic. And it was in one of his incredible mental seances in which he viewed the world thru red-colored glasses that he opined the "inevitability" of the warfare between the "classes" with the equally "inevitable" final victor.

The scientific mind can be appalled at this gibberish. But, unfortunately, they have been enough fellow travelers and dupes of Marzian nonsense to have infected a considerable number of teachers and pseudo intellectuals.

These men and women serve as transmission points to extend and pass on the Marxian fallacies. And today we find the man in the street fully believing that socialism is as inescapable as death and hence that we had better learn to adjust to that which is sure to occur.

To cut open this Gordian knot of stupidity, a key loop in the tangle should be found. And we suspect that a least one such key could be found in a firm recognition of the difference between compulsion and cooperation.

It is true, manifestly so, that man cannot live alone. He does not have enough energy, nor has he enough tools nor enough skills nor knowledge to be able to obtain from nature all of the things he wants and must have in order to make life endure and endurable. To live at all, and then to get the pleasures and satisfactions which make life worth while man MUST have others of his kind to work with him.

Many people confuse this economic fact with socialism. It has nothing to do with socialism. The individualist, opposed to socialism, sees in man's economic interdependence the obvious necessity for cooperation. Man is driven by his desires and his aspirations to work with others for his own personal gain. This is natural and proper. Man must join hands in order for him to win out in his endless struggle against the various forces which would kill him or cripple him on this earth.

But the socialist, seeing man's interdependence, presumes that no one but the socialist grasps this fact. And therefore, rather than trusting man's own desire and his own hopes for profit and well-being, the socialist wishes to drive men by force into some kind of unified action.

This is the major difference between socialism and individualism. The socialist does NOT believe that men will, voluntarily, do what they should do. He feels he must FORCE all men to his will.

Here is the giant conceit of all socialists. Only the socialist (the socialist believes) is wise enough to know what is best for everyone. Therefore, he feels he can plan for everyone, regulate everyone, rob from everyone, give to everyone, and that this will provide for the ultimate good of all according to his own personal concept of what is good for all.

The individualist is not so conceited as to presume to know what is best for everyone, granting that men must join hands in order to obtain their needs and wants, he is unwilling to see a single "master plan" substituted for the genius and the planning of millions of individuals.

Admitting that some of these individuals may have less mentality than others, he is not willing to take this as an excuse for enslaving them to what might, indeed, be a superior plan. A plan which has to be forced upon peo-

Reds Acknowledge 'Peaceful Means'

The recent Communist conference in Bucharest, Rumania, frankly acknowledged "the possibility of the working class gaining a victory for the Socialist Revolution by non-peaceful means." This highlights the fact that Khrushchev's oft-repeated demand for "peaceful coexistence" is a mere tactic by which he hopes to gain advantage over the West by allaying our fears and reducing our will to resist.

The greatest obstacle to our winning of the cold war is the failure to recognize that the communists are playing for keeps. All their maneuvering, pleas for co-existence, Summit Conferences, disarmament agreements and all the rest are merely the tactics they employ in their effort to destroy us.

Until the American people come to a clear realization that their only hope of survival as a free people is to win the cold war we shall continue to lose ground. Every subject of discussion between the Communists and ourselves relates to some compromise by which we give up something. The guiding principle of the Communists is to give up nothing and take as much as they can. We, apparently, are still guided by the thought that by giving up something or making some compromise we can win peace. That is a fundamental error which has dominated Western policy. We are insulted, demeaned, abused, imposed upon, our property seized and our citizens held in prison camps; yet we do no more than make a pious protest and consider some further concession in the hope that the enemy will then be satisfied and willing to live in peace with us.

No one can win every defensive action; therefore, defensive strategy lead eventually to defeat. If we do not win victory in the cold war, we shall lose our independent existence. An aggressive enemy proceeds against us on all fronts until he encounters solid resistance. Then he stops—out comes the glad hand and he speaks of peace and friendship. When we relax in the hope that stability has at last been achieved the enemy again becomes aggressive and advances as far as our soft appeasement policy will allow. When he encounters resistance he again stops and proclaims his peaceful intentions until we are again lulled to sleep and he feels he can impose further aggression upon us before we are again aroused to the point of resistance.

This step by step process has gone on in many ways on many fronts. It has cost us much treasure, millions of lives and vast territories in Eastern Europe, Asia, Africa and even in the Western hemisphere. We have but to continue the same policy a little longer and the curtain will be rung down on Western civilization, ushering in another long period of tyranny, cruelty and suffering.

But this need not be—we are far stronger than we think and the enemy is far weaker than we think. If we would once face up to the fact that freedom and righteousness, independence and national honor are more important than peace, we could preserve both. By vacillation, weakness, irresolution, appeasement and compromise we shall never attain peace but only ready ourselves for the kill.

is obviously not superior in the first place. The wise man, in reviewing these facts, must come up against a recognition of something the socialist cannot see. For the wise man will see that to the degree that the individual is forced, to that degree will he resent and react against the force. Thus, he will conclude that those things obtained by duress will always contain within themselves a built-in booby trap which will be the resentment of those who were forced. This will ALWAYS react ultimately against those who wield force.

The only bit of inevitability to be observed here, we suspect, is that socialism will ALWAYS FAIL. Men do not want to be forced. Cooperation, a necessity, is not the same thing as coercion. Lasting progress can occur when men voluntarily join hands to work together.

When men are compelled thru violent means (such as government) to join hands, they will always rebel. And in the end they will overthrow their oppressors and ever more work in the direction of the voluntary way and human freedom.

IDENTICAL ROCK SALT BIDS TO CITIES, STATES PROBED BY JUSTICE DEPT. TRUSTBUSTERS

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department is conducting a nationwide antitrust investigation of identical bids for state and municipal purchases of rock salt used on snow and ice-covered highways. The trustbusters, headed by Assistant Attorney General Robert A. Bicks, are sifting through bids for rock salt submitted to 360 cities and 30 state governments during the past three years.

New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago, Boston, St. Louis, and Pittsburgh are among the major cities that have complained to the Justice Department about the rock salt pricing practices.

A federal grand jury, quietly impaneled in Springfield, Illinois, last month, is now studying these and other complaints to determine if the pricing practices violate the Sherman Antitrust law.

Assistant Attorney General Bicks calls the investigation "one of the most sweeping ever undertaken" by the Justice Department's Antitrust division that he heads.

In a letter to Senator Estes Kefauver's Antitrust subcommittee, Bicks reveals that questionnaires have been sent "to more than 360 cities and 30 state purchasing departments asking for full reports on any 'rigging' of rock salt bids."

First returns from the questionnaire survey indicates a pattern of identical bids and identical prices where bids have not been sought for rock salt.

For instance, a highway superintendent from a New England City reports that he no longer seeks bids for his salt purchases because the prices are always identical.

In another case, a Midwest city purchasing agent reports that all bids this year for rock salt either in the 100-pound bags or in the per ton carload lots were identical.

Assistant Attorney General Bicks reports that the rock salt probe is a key part of the Department's intensified antitrust attack on identical bidding a pricing practices in a number of industries. In addition to rock salt, these industries include cement and electrical equipment.

Senator Kefauver is also preparing his own report on identical bids submitted by federal agencies, including the Defense Department, General Services Administration, and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Scheduled for publication in December, the Kefauver report shows a pattern of identical bids for such products as steel, cement, and chemicals.

NEW DRUG CONTROLS — The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare will ask Congress in January for new and stringent laws "to protect the public and doctors from false and misleading claims about new drugs."

In a report to the Budget Bureau, HEW Secretary Arthur S. Flemming reveals that he plans to ask for new legislation that:

• Gives the Food and Drug Administration Statutory power to require proof of the efficacy as well as safety of all new drugs; • Requires that information given to physicians concerning drugs will be not only accurate but complete; • Tightens regulations of advertising of pharmaceuticals. Basis of Flemming's legislative recommendations is a special report prepared by Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, president of the National Academy of Sciences, at the request of HEW. The American Medical Association is solidly behind the new legislative proposals, according to Secretary Flemming's report to the Budget Bureau.

PAY-TV COMING — After nearly 10-years of debate, and deliberation, the Federal Communication Commission will grant its first over-the-air license for pay-TV shortly after the first of the year. The license will be issued to Zenith Radio Corporation and RKO General Inc. The testing station will be WHCT in Hartford, Conn. The proposed programming, according to FCC Chairman Frederick Ford, satisfies criteria laid down by Congress last year: (1) Testing will be confined to a single geographic area, (2) it will take place in a region where at least three other broadcasting stations can offer competitive free TV, and (3) it will run for three years, after which the FCC will recommend to Congress rules for future licensing. Rates are expected to range from 25 cents for an educational show to about $3.00 for a major sports event or a Broadway show.

The Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Administrative Practice and Procedure is considering a general revision of administrative procedures for the independent federal regulatory agencies. Senator Clair Engle (D, Calif.), one of the committee's members, plans to introduce legislation to abandon the multi-member commissions in favor of a single executive for each agency.

Rome Provides New Shopping Adventures

ROME, ITALY — Rome has more supermarkets than any other city in the world.

They're not a new invention either. They have been here since before Caesar's time.

And when I say super I mean SUPER. Some are so large that a distance of ten blocks may separate the pork chops from the dressings, and a man can walk as far as from centerfield to home plate getting from mustard to potatoes. Rome's supermarkets differ from those at home in that their goods are not under one roof. Indeed, more often than not they are not even on the same street.

Rome's supermarkets are made up of scores of individual shops, some of which are no bigger than a broom closet, and are darker than two feet up a chimney.

There is a law against any storekeeper selling too many varieties of goods. For example, you never find salt anywhere near pepper. The sale of salt is the right of tobacco shops. It takes quite awhile for an American husband shopping for his wife to get used to walking into a tobaccoist and saying, "Two Have-A-Tampas and a box of salt."

When looking for a pork roast, just don't drop into any butcher shop you see. One type of butcher shop carries lamb, veal, and beef, but no pork. Pork and its products are in another store.

In Rome supermarkets, flour and potatoes are bosom enemies and never share the same roof. We buy potatoes in a hole-in-the-wall along with grapes, garlic, and sweet crackers.

Olive oil is purchased in a liquor store, and as for vinegar — well, we haven't located any of the stuff. It must be stashed somewhere out on the Appian Way, along with ink, another staple that has so far eluded our search.

Flour is not easy to lay your hands on. We spent a good hour yesterday looking for a package of Flor di Farina, as flour is known here, and finally located it in a shop that at first appeared to have nothing but olives and persimmons for sale.

It's a wonder that the average Italian housewife leans toward plumpness, as she does, what with the walking required to buy the ingredients for one meal. I'd say that she walks a good half mile to get the stuff for a dinner.

On Taxes, Schools In Tucson Paradise

TUCSON — After twenty years of living here intermittently, I have made so bold as to recommend southern Arizona as a very pleasant place in which to put down stakes and go local.

The southern slice of our state from New Mexico to California is the scene of the enticements I have praised with good conscience, having no land for sale but, on the contrary, an appetite for more. The warm winter climate, the vegetation, the clear, dry mountain atmosphere of the desert, and new homes with as many as five bedrooms at a "move-in" price of $200 on a total of $10,000 to $12,000 in a region where a boom is jumping, have been my theme. The goods are still as advertised.

However, I am having pangs because no place that I have ever seen, including Bermuda, has been quite heavenly so I here present some rebuttal matter, starting with the ensuing vox pop from our local press:

"I purchased a lot in the east end (the swanky part) of Tucson to erect a home with a small swimming pool and patio fence in the rear. After spending some time in the tax assessor's office and checking with various realty officials, I was told that the tax (on an investment of 32,000) would be about $900 a year."

"I cannot see what Tucson has to offer worth such a tax since the city has no sidewalks, few sewers, street lights, etc., and only half the streets are improved. "Due to the unreasonable tax rate, I have had several of my friends move to Phoenix and I am doing likewise."

"M. Babbish, 109 W. Prince Road. In general, Mr. Babbish is right, but the most outrageous outrage is the school system, which he did not mention at all. It has a predatory charter from the legislature to buy $2,000 concert grand pianos and to build bull-tight, close-wee wire fences up to eight feet high entirely around the schools which are so close together that some school zones overlap. About 20 years ago a driver blacked out passing a school, jumped the curb and caused the death of a little girl. On that excuse all the schools have been enclosed in miles and miles of fencing, which now costs from $1.25 to $1.75 a running foot. There are actually fences within fences and luxurious turf for baseball and football and many great clusters of lights on tall steel towers for practice and games after dark. The equipment includes grandstands, exquisite drainage, dressing rooms and showers. The kids are lousy players but strong on heroics. The generation who are now in their fifties and upward rode ponies to school instead of buses, or walked. They played on fields of 'doby lay or caliche, which is something like Florida coral. Grass is so rare in these parts that many of us have been simulating grass lawns with gravel sprayed green."

But the kiddies, ranging up to 18 years and 190 pounds, are too delicate so the wear and tear is transferred to people who come here for their health or to retire on savings and pensions, including social security. It is not a wealthy population at all so the extravagance for schools is an important factor in a rising discontent."

Many of those fences run across the sides and in back of school where there are no roads even trails, but most of the times are strangers in a new land and there is no organization to up a fight. Anyway, the children aren't fenced when school lets and they go home and I have served New York public schools with the sidewalk lines which then extend to the curbs of streets where enormous motor bus car thundering by at 30 miles an hour with hardly any casualties.

There is a speed limit of miles in school zones even when classes are running, and the road is a traffic drag all day long say, half the area of the city suburbs.

The regular real estate prices are very high, too, not only the city, which is constantly annexing square miles of a c a e prairie and gullies, but out in wilds where Pima County has jurisdiction. In a typical case of acre patch of naked desert land a trail but not a road is for $200 a year.

Mr. Babbish errs where he says there are "no" sidewalks in Tucson. There are miles of sidewalks but usually property owners have to pay for them by assessment and that is why we have more. People don't use sidewalks for walking and don't like pay assessments for concrete scooter tracks for the neighbors.

The public transportation is full. It is a bus service that drives most people far from their homes many of them lame from arthritis or their years.

Otherwise, life is just dandy. I think I ought to warn any on my word, are in the act of throwing their duffel into the and hitting the road for Tucson
