

Key Clubbers Foresee 10,000 In Church Walk Sunday

If weather conditions are right some 10,000 Pampans are expected to join Sunday night in the Pampa Key Club's walk-to-church Christmas observance.

The Pilgrimage will assemble at various get-together points throughout the city at 5 p.m. Sunday. Those who plan to walk to church are asked to meet at the assembling point nearest their home or church.

These gathering points will be: Pampa High School on the north,

Woodrow Wilson elementary school on the south, Lamar elementary school on the southwest, and Horace Mann elementary school on the west.

Those gathering at Lamar school will march only to the churches in the immediate area. All who live in southwest Pampa, but attend churches in other sections of the city, are asked to drive to the gathering point nearest their church. From the four remaining gathering points the people will march in several directions.

Those attending neighborhood churches will walk directly from the school to that church. Those who attend the downtown churches will move toward town. From Horace Mann the Pilgrims will cross Hobart to Browning and walk east. From Woodrow Wilson, those marchers will move down Browning to the west; from the Senior High School, that group will walk down Mary Ellen Cuyler; and from Baker School the Pilgrims will walk to Tyng, over to South Cuyler, through the underpass, and continue on Cuyler.

The four groups will converge at Cuyler and Browning and move into the parking area at Browning and Ballard. When all marchers have arrived, the downtown congregations will move out on direct routes for their own churches. This will be at about 8:30 p.m. Pastors of the downtown churches will be invited to lead their people from the meeting point to their sanctuaries.

So far the following churches have enrolled in the walk-to-church observance:

Highland Baptist, First Presbyterian, First Assembly of God, Calvary Baptist, Macedonia Baptist, Bethel Assembly of God, Four Square Church (Gospel), First Baptist, Church of the Brethren and First Methodist.

Church of the Nazarene, Lutheran, Central Baptist, St. Vincent's Catholic, Harrah Methodist, Temple Baptist, Lamar Christian, First Christian, St. Paul Methodist and St. Matthews Episcopal.

The Pampa Pilgrimage was instigated last year by the Key Club as part of the Christmas celebration. Some 7,000 persons took part in 1959. The idea came from Mert Cooper, a senior at Pampa High.

Robbie Robison is this year's Pilgrimage chairman for the Key Club and David Tripplehorn is chairman of the club's church relations committee. Bill Byerly is Key Club president. These three youths with their various committees have been working day and night to make this year's Pilgrimage an outstanding one.

"We urge everyone to get out and take part in this Pilgrimage Sunday," said Pilgrimage chairman Robison, "and we feel that the people will support the move and join with us and our friends and families in this Pilgrimage to start the observance of Christmas week."

"To stay youthful, stay useful."

'Human Bomb' Threatens To Kill Kennedy

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A 73-year-old mental patient who had dynamite and blasting caps in his car has been arrested for threatening to make himself a human bomb to kill President-elect John F. Kennedy, federal authorities disclosed today.

The slight, white-haired man told authorities he was a Roman Catholic and he felt Kennedy was "a hypocrite" about their religion. He mentioned a campaign speech in Texas in which Kennedy said he would honor responsibilities to the nation rather than to his church if the choice arose.

"In a way I'm glad it turned out the way it has, but I don't like the publicity," federal agents quoted him as saying.

He was identified as Richard Paul Pavlick, a former postal clerk from Belmont, N. H.

Federal agents said Pavlick denied any intention to kill the president-elect. They said the threat had been made in a letter intercepted by postal authorities on Dec. 9.

John Marshall, Miami Secret Service agent, said Pavlick "never made contact" with Kennedy. Kennedy was in Washington when Pavlick was arrested Thursday. The president-elect's wife and two children were here in the home of Kennedy's father.

Alerted by the post office, Secret Service agents had been hunting Pavlick for days. They learned he had sold all his property in Belmont and gone to Washington. They followed his trail to Palm Beach and gave local authorities the license number of his car.

Palm Beach police saw the car and stopped Pavlick on the pretense of a traffic violation.

A search of his car turned up dynamite, blasting caps, wiring and other materials that could be used for a bomb. The materials had not been fashioned into a bomb, however.

Pavlick was charged with violating a federal law which makes it a crime to threaten the president, president-elect or vice president. The penalty on conviction is a $1,000 fine or five years in prison or both.

Pavlick waived a preliminary hearing and bond was set at $100,000. He still was being questioned in the Palm Beach County jail in nearby West Palm Beach. Authorities planned to move him to Miami.

Christmas Hours Begin Tonight

Pampa stores will start remaining open tonight until 8 p.m. for the convenience of Christmas shoppers.

Frank Smith of the Merchants Activities Committee of the Chamber of Commerce said stores will remain open nights up to Saturday, Dec. 24, Christmas Eve. They will close at 5:30 p.m., the regular time, on Christmas Eve.

Pampans Urged To Give Band Huge Welcome

Pampa citizens were urged today to turn out en masse Sunday morning for a welcome home reception to be given for the Pampa High School Concert Band on its return from Chicago.

Although there was no competition and no awards were made, the band rated a standing ovation at the conclusion of its 70-minute performance before the 14th annual Midwest Band Clinic in the Sherman Hotel ballroom in Chicago Wednesday night.

Plans for the welcome home were set up at a meeting of a citizens' committee in the Chamber of Commerce offices at City Hall this morning.

Mayor Ed Myatt, Supt. Knox Kinard and other school officials will be on hand Sunday morning to give the official greeting to the returning band members.

Their train is due in Pampa at 8:55 a.m. Sunday.

The welcoming ceremony at the Santa Fe station will be brief in order not to interfere with Sunday morning church services.

"The main thing we want," Mayor Myatt said today, "is to have everybody turn out for the welcome party and show the band the entire community appreciates what Director Bill Tregoe and the band members have done for Pampa."

In a telephone conversation this morning, Band Director Tregoe, told the Pampa Daily News that "a lot of nice things were being said about the performance of the band."

In Chicago, in addition to performing in several numbers directed by Tregoe, the band was also guest-conducted Wednesday night by Commander Thomas (See BAND, Page 4)

NYC Is Scene Of Tragedy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two big airliners, reported by police to be United and TWA planes, collided over the city today and plunged to the ground in Brooklyn and Staten Island.

Police said that more than 100 persons appeared to have been killed in the disaster.

It was the first fatal crash of a pure jet in commercial passenger service in American aviation history since they went in service in October 1958.

By grim coincidence, planes of the same airlines were previously involved in the worst commercial crash of all—the collision of TWA and United craft over the Grand Canyon in Arizona on June 30, 1956, when 128 persons were killed.

Mrs. Rose Sweeney of Brooklyn saw the United plane crash "on top of a red truck."

"There was one boy in the snow," she said. "He had just flown out of the plane. I rushed to him. His name was Stanley, he said, but he was not talking clearly."

"His mouth was bleeding, his hands were burned and cut, his clothes on fire. Oh, it was awful. His face was badly burned. The skin was peeling off. He had red curly hair. He seemed about 10 or 12 years old."

The buildings and St. Sebastian's Church were set aflame when the tail section and part of the fuselage of the UAL jet smashed into the residential area between downtown Brooklyn and Prospect Park.

Bits of the plane and parts of human bodies were scattered up and down Sterling Place for one block. Sixty-year-old Louis Vinick of Brooklyn crawled into the wreckage and carried out 11-year-old Stephen Blatz of Chicago.

The screams of panic-stricken residents filled the neighborhood. Six of the buildings with roofs afire were four-story tenements. Scores of doctors, priests and nuns knelt over victims on the slushy street.

The United DC8 was en route from O'Hare Field in Chicago to International Airport in New York. An early morning rain had (See CRASH, Page 4)

Americans Seized By Laos Reds

NONGKHAI, Thailand (UPI) — The battle for the Laotian capital of Vientiane raged into its fourth day today and Communist-supported troops were reported to have seized five Americans as hostages.

Pro-Western troops commanded by Gen. Phoumi Nosavan appeared to be holding doggedly to the heart of the city under heavy artillery attack from Communist-supported forces led by paratroop Capt. Kong Le.

The Americans were reported taken from their homes by Le's forces. They were not identified but all were said to be attached to the U.S. operations missions.

The mission is part of the International Cooperation Administration (ICA) which dispenses economic aid to underdeveloped nations.

Artillery roared in the battered capital throughout Thursday night and into the early morning hours. Several buildings in Vientiane were blazing and flames leaping high into the air were visible from Nongkhai, across the Mekong River in neighboring Thailand.

Kong Le, driven to the outskirts of Vientiane for the second time Thursday, had threatened to raze the capital with shellfire. The threat sent hundreds of refugees, including many Americans, streaming into Thailand.

An American official arriving at Nongkhai said the U.S. Embassy had been abandoned Thursday afternoon after it caught fire from a neighboring building.

Selassie's Units Said Putting Down Rebels

CAIRO, U.A.R. (UPI)—Troops loyal to Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia were reported gaining today in the battle to win back his throne.

One report reaching the British protectorate of Aden said the rebellion already had collapsed, and that loyalist forces had won the day. This could not be confirmed.

Information reaching Cairo said the regime set up by Selassie's son, Crown Prince Asfa Wossen, and dissident military officers found support only in the capital, Addis Ababa.

Elsewhere in the country the troops mainly remained loyal to the Emperor, including 10,000 infantrymen and an air force battalion in Eritrea.

Selassie himself was moving across Africa to reclaim the 3,000-year-old throne said to date back to the Queen of Sheba. He has had it for 30 years.

Battling between insurgent and loyalist forces was reported going on in Addis Ababa, the capital, in Harar 225 miles to the east and in Ethiopian-ruled Eritrea to the north.

Dispatches received in Khartoum, the Sudan, said there was a "high death toll" in the Addis Ababa fighting.

Selassie flew out of Monrovia, Liberia, Thursday night to Ft. Lamy, Chad, within a few hours flying time of his mountain-plateau country.

At Monrovia he talked to Liberian President William V. S. Tubman and the U.S. and British ambassadors.

Woman Sought After Slaying Four Relatives

DETROIT (UPI) — "Daran is my pearl. He is all that I have been living for. God gave him one of his angels."

These words, written on a 15-foot roll of shell paper, started Detroit police on a grisly trail of death which culminated in the discovery of four bodies and a statewide search for the deceased woman who apparently slew them.

Mrs. Dolores Martin, 26, disappeared after leaving the note in her home here Thursday. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Wilkes, 55, called police when she couldn't find her daughter or Mrs. Martin's 3-year-old son, Daran.

Two policemen searched through the home, but found nothing amiss and left. Mrs. Wilkes then walked to the district station and asked that the police search again.

A second squad came to the house and opened a cedar chest which Mrs. Wilkes told them "feels heavy." Inside was the body of Daran, suffocated by a pillow.

Kennedy Due To Appoint Brother As Nation's Attorney General

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today prepared to name his brother Robert as attorney general and select either World Bank President Eugene Black or Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon as treasury secretary.

Kennedy filled two major cabinet posts late Thursday when he appointed Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota as agriculture secretary and Arthur J. Goldberg, special counsel to the AFL-CIO, as labor secretary.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today named a Republican—Douglas Dillon—as his treasury secretary.

Later Kennedy named his brother, Robert, as attorney general.

The President-elect, hoping to get away to his family villa at Palm Beach, Fla., late today, promised at least one other cabinet appointment before departure and possibly more. In addition to the treasury post and an attorney general, he also had to appoint a postmaster general to complete his 10-member cabinet.

Kennedy had late morning engagements with Chairman Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., of the House Appropriations Committee, and Gov. Foster Furcolo of Massachusetts who must name Kennedy's successor when the President-elect resigns his Senate seat later this month.

Kennedy hoped to wind up his cabinet appointments today so he can go to Florida tonight and stay there until early in the new year. He conceded this might not be possible and he might have to fly back to Washington for a day or two next week.

Much of official Washington virtually had assigned the treasury post to Dillon, a Republican and undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

Dillon flew back to Washington late Thursday from a European economic conference in Paris. He told reporters he still had not been offered a post in the Kennedy administration.

The widespread acceptance of Dillon as treasury secretary was jolted rudely at 9:50 p.m. when

Mass Rally Held Over Segregation

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The White Citizens Council held a mass meeting Thursday night in its battle to halt the integration of public schools in New Orleans.

The meeting was interrupted repeatedly by shouts of "kill the Niggers," "Feed 'em hay," and "Send 'em back to Africa."

One of the evening's attractions was the trouping of seven grade-school-age children on stage. Three girls and one boy wore exaggerated blackface while two boys and one girl wore no makeup.

The children hugged each other and made loud smacking noises, switching partners so that each "Negro" snooched with a white.

"Is that what you want?" council leader Dr. Emmett Erwin asked, pointing to the children. The hall became a bedlam of boos.

Colorado Group Boosts Reservoir

AUSTIN (UPI)—Representatives of the Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA) told the State Board of Water Engineers today the $21 million Columbus Bend project will bring area residents far more benefits than harm.

Opponents of the proposed project on the Lower Colorado River, near the city of Columbus, are landowners who would lose farm land to the 22,000-acre reservoir.

They argue the return they will get for the land will not equal the value of the property if they were permitted to continue farming.

Eight different railroads have the job of hauling iron ore from the mines in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan to Great Lake ports.

Financial Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—They say you can't teach an old dog new tricks.

But two of the oldest companies in food distribution and frozen processing are out to prove this saying wrong.

Seaman Brothers, New York food distributor, and Seabrook Farms, one of the largest integrated fresh food freezing operations in the country, succumbed to the merger trend late this year to meet the challenge of a dramatic revolution in eating habits—convenience foods.

Actually, Seaman Bros. acquired control of Seabrook common stock in May, 1959 as the first step in the new management headed by President John Fowler Jr.

Fowler said sales of the two firms already have shown a dramatic increase. Combined sales in the nine months ending Nov. 30 ran above $3 million, and earnings should hit approximately $1 million. An even bigger rate of increase is expected this quarter.

While the food business as a whole will increase this decade, the real expansion-prone segment is the processing and marketing of convenience foods. Fowler said there are no signs of this trend leveling off since the penetration of the potential market has not been very deep.

Recent surveys show that many families now are using two to four prepared or semi-prepared products as base ingredients for their meals. Estimates are for convenience foods to grow at twice the pace expected for the food industry as a whole in the next 10 years.

Behind this rapidly growing demand are a number of social and economic factors. The rising income of the average family and the additional business, social and community activities of the housewife have made convenience foods highly desirable.

Fowler noted that intensified interests in nutrition and increased sophistication in the variety of menus required also are significant factors.

Seaman and Seabrook represent over 150 years of business in the food business. In 1886, Seaman Brothers engaged in the warehousing, distributing and marketing of foods and other grocery items, mainly in the New York area.

Two years ago, new management took over Seaman, which until then had been family run. Today, exclusive of food chains, the company accounts for approximately 15 per cent of all the wholesale grocery business in the area.

Texaco Head Sees Good '61 For American Oil Industry

NEW YORK (SpI) — Augustus C. Long, board chairman of Texaco Inc., predicted that 1961 will be a good year for the petroleum industry.

Speaking before a dinner meeting of the New York Society of Security Analysts, he forecast that United States demand for petroleum and its products next year will rise 2 to 3 per cent and foreign demand 7 per cent.

"At the close of 1960 the industry is in better shape, both as to total inventories and as to prices, than last year," he said. "Because of this fact and because our business is more resistant to downturns in the economy, we feel that we will enter the New Year with better prospects than a year ago."

Long suggested that a system of tariffs on imported oil — taxing current volume at one level and increases at much higher levels — would be desirable. Under this proposal, the refiner receiving an import quota would be required to process the imported crude in his own refinery.

Noting efforts by oil-producing countries to find a method of rationing production, he pointed out that Iran, Iraq, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia had made tremendous gains in the past 10 years. Annual oil payments they receive have increased from $125 million to almost $1,250,000,000 — without any investment by these countries, Mr. Long observed.

Sees, of Etowah, Ark., and Alvin Table Jr., of Bridgeton, N. J., are charged with killing Angus Boatwright, of Islamorada, Fla. They are also charged with armed robbery on the high seas. Both could mean death on the gallows.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

THE STORY: Bart Wagner has agreed to help Catherine Lewis run her beauty ranch in the Panhandle. Her husband was murdered by outlaws and she has been trying to maintain the place herself.

It was still dark when he awoke. He moved to a sitting position in any easy motion, sat there for a moment, and listened. He heard nothing. He got out from under the quilt and put on his boots and hat, then his gun belt.

He reached in his vest pocket, but the tobacco sack was missing.

He looked toward the house, saw a light in the kitchen window. He went up and knocked. "Bart Wagner," he said, and added in a low voice, "Catherine."

She swung open the door and handed him the sack of tobacco. "I saved it for you."

"Thank you," he began to make a cigarette, his eyes on his work. "The coffee's hot," she said. He finished the coffee, lifted a lid on the stove, and dropped the cigarette stub in. "Those four mules grazing behind the shed yesterday afternoon — they had harness marks."

"They're the ones," he said. He went out and found the mules grazing. He pushed them toward the open corral. They went in, and he threw them a few forksful of hay. He went back to the shed, lit the lantern, and looked over the harness. It was patched but it might hold. He had picked the biggest animals for wheel positions, and he backed them in place. He harnessed the other two and hitched them to a doubletree fastened to the end of the wagon tongue. He set the brake on the wagon and went inside.

She gave him a stack of nine cakes as big as the plate, and he poured bear oil over them. "Mighty good cakes," he said five minutes later.

"I'm glad you think so."

He reached for his hat. "Shall I charge the stuff in Clarendon?"

"I have the money," she brought a roll of somewhat worn bills of small denominations out of her apron pocket, and carefully counted out $90. "You may not need that much," she said hopefully.

He nodded. "You're a gambler — trusting me with this much of your money."

"So far," she said, "they've done most of their stealing from the big ranches — I suppose because they figure the big people won't miss them. It's only when they find unbranded stuff that they steal from the smaller spreads."

She picked up the money from the table and put it in his big hand. Then suddenly and unexpectedly she looked up at him, and he saw fear and uncertainty in her face. "I don't even know where you came from," she said.

He recognized her sudden panic and sympathized with it. "I've partly told you, I was deputy marshal in El Paso a few years ago," he said soberly. "Worked with John Selman's badge, matter of fact. Got in a gunfight with the Yager brothers in the Elephant Saloon. An old guy flashed a mirror in my eyes and they opened fire." He paused. "I killed three, but one got away."

Wide-eyed, she watched him. "The fourth one drygulled me in Socorro two weeks ago. I had to kill him — but he had a lot of friends around Socorro. It would have been worth my life to stay in that town."

"So you left — in a hurry."

He looked at her. "Not exactly in a hurry — but not slow, either. I stopped at Fort Union, and I figured to settle there. But the sheriff at Socorro had got the governor after me. They put me in jail and took my money. I escaped and headed east."

"You should have gone back to Socorro to stand trial."

He shook his head. "The Yagers had too many friends. They would hang me in 30 days."

She said slowly, "You killed four men. What did you gain?"

"Those four," he told her, "were looking for trouble. They had no respect for law, and so the law had to do what it was made to do. Most lawmen try to avoid that, but they can't always. He drew a deep breath. "The idea behind the badge is that when the law has to, it can use a strong arm. There is a time for that as well as a time for talk. Mostly a man can talk his way out of trouble, but once in a while things come up and he has to step down hard. That's the way it was when I killed the Yagers. They were all four set to draw down on me, and they had this old man flash the mirror in my eyes. Nobody knew who the old man was, either."

"Isn't it on your conscience — the killing of those four men?"

"No. It was done and done legally." He studied her thoughtfully. "By the way, how did old Ben know Jones?" he asked.

"He seemed to have known him somewhere before."

60 Nationalities Attend Texas U From Other Lands

AUSTIN, (SpI) — Sixty nationalities are represented in the University of Texas student body this year by 440 students from political subdivisions outside the continental U.S., Dr. Joe W. Neal, In-

More than 200 persons attended the annual Ladies Night Christmas party and banquet given by the Pampa Lions Club last night in Fellowship Hall of First Methodist Church.

Following the banquet guests were entertained by the Pampa High School A Capella Choir. Directed by Hugh Sanders, the choir presented "Christmas in Song '60."

Dropping Out of High School Can Be Costly Move

DALLAS (Spl) — Quitting high school can cost a young man a lot of money. His future earnings drop by thousands of dollars.

So says the U.S. Department of Labor on the basis of a detailed study, just released, of the early work experience of high school dropouts and graduates who terminated their schooling between 1952 and 1957. Four thousand youths were interviewed in seven communities across the nation.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said these were among the facts revealed: Young people who drop out of high school earn less than graduates, have to take less skilled jobs, and have higher rates of unemployment. Differences in earnings tend to become greater as years out of school increase, reflecting the better basic education and promotion potential of graduates.

When interviewed, 15 percent of the boy dropouts were earning less than $40 a week, as compared with only 3 percent of the graduates. A weekly salary of $80 or more was being earned by 31 percent of the graduates but by only 20 percent of the boys who had quit school before completing their high school studies.

A similar pattern of wage difference existed among the girls. Nearly 40 percent of the girl dropouts earned less than $40 a week, compared with 14 percent of the graduates. Nearly half the girl graduates were in the $50 to $79 wage bracket, while only 16 percent of the dropouts were in this category.

Unemployment among the boys three times greater for dropouts than for graduates, and among the girls it was four times greater. The proportion of boy graduates in skilled and semiskilled jobs was much greater than for dropouts, many of whom were employed as service or unskilled workers. The majority of girl graduates found jobs in offices, whereas girl dropouts were more likely to be employed as waitresses or in other unskilled work.

According to the study, graduates advanced at a swifter rate into more highly skilled jobs.

The local band was one of six in the nation to be invited to perform before the clinic because of outstanding performance and musical acumen. Also appearing were high school bands from Vay Village, Ohio; Helena, Ark.; Otterbein, Ind.; Edina, Minn.; and Joliet Junior High School band.

Following their performance on Wednesday evening, local band members, their adult sponsors and school officials were entertained at a banquet provided by an anonymous Pampian.

Mr. Tregoe also told the News that band members have toured the W. F. Ludwig Drum Factory, and today a 6-hour tour of the city is planned, which will include a visit to the Museum of Science and Industry and the famed Chicago Stockyards.

The Chicago visit will draw to a close at 3 p.m. tomorrow, when the band leaves for home and if train schedules are kept will arrive in Pampa at 8:55 a.m. Sunday.

Kennedy

"He wanted to talk to me about the financial situation," Black said as he left.

He refused, stolidly even to react to repeated questions as to whether he was offered the treasury job. He also declined to say whether he would accept if it was offered.

The President-elect's 35-year-old brother Robert has been a cinch for a top government job since his energetic and successful role as John Kennedy's campaign manager.

If there were reservations about his heading up the Justice Department, they lay more with Bob Kennedy than with his brother. The President-elect has felt all along that his brother is a man of high legal capability and was not only entitled to, but qualified for the post.

Evening Lions Get Lessons In Radio Activity

Evening Lions' Club members heard about the effects of radio-active fallout and how to combat it at their regular meeting in Poole's Steak House last night.

Jack Douglas of Amarillo and Jack Williams of the Pampa Soil Conservation Service presented a program on radio-active decontamination of foodstuffs. The demonstrators used a weak source of radio-active phosphorus to contaminate fruit, canned goods and packaged food.

Radio-activity was removed by peeling or washing the contaminated canned goods. Foodstuffs in packages was not contaminated. A demonstration was given to show plant tissue could not become radio-active by being exposed to a radio-active source.

Induced radiation, they said, can only be caused in the area of an actual atomic explosion.

A question and answer session followed the demonstration with questions on protection and fall-out shelters, local, state and national preparations for civil defense and other questions concerning contamination and decontamination of foods and water.

Douglas and Williams are now assisting in conducting radiological monitoring courses to instruct soil conservation service personnel at nine Panhandle locations. These are part of 3,000 federal monitoring stations located nationwide to feed information into local and regional Civil Defense centers in case of atomic attack. The had previously attended a one-week instruction course at Abilene.

The drifts of last weekend's blizzard still covered the Staten Island field area and the Coast Guard put its helicopters into service to carry out survivors.

The Brooklyn street looked like a battlefield, great clouds of smoke obscuring ambulances and fire engines lining the streets.

The main section of the airliner crashed into the roofs of four attached brownstones and the big tail section dropped to the street on top of a red Ford sedan.

Nine badly burned bodies were removed from one building. It could not be learned immediately whether they were passengers on the plane or occupants of the tenement. Hundreds of families were removed from other nearby buildings threatened by the fire.

Dear Abby...

Mattress Companies May Have Solution

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After living with this 300-pound walrus for nine years I am almost ready to call it quits. He refuses to have anything but a double bed. I mentioned twin beds to him once and he put his fist through the screen door.

His side of the bed is swayback, like a regular hammock. My side is all right, but I keep rolling over on his side. My back aches so bad in the daytime I can hardly stand it. I know it's from that broken-down mattress. A new one wouldn't help because he'd break it down in no time. How do I get twin beds without causing the first divorce in my family? It's not the money. We can afford it.

ACHING BACK DEAR ACHING: Haven't you ever heard of a king-sized bed, featuring a single headboard and two separate mattresses? Go shopping, lady. The furniture people have news for you.

DEAR ABBY: My wife has to have a cigarette in her hand every minute or she's not happy. Worse yet, she's careless and we have cigarette burns in all our furniture. She is always "missing" the ash tray. I could bring home the Grand Canyon for an ash tray and she'd miss that. When we go to visit friends, the hostess doesn't like to take her eyes off my wife for fear she'll burn the furniture. Can you say a few words in your column to let the missus know I love her and hate to nag but oh, how I wish she'd quit smoking! She's not kissable any more.

DISCOURAGED DEAR DISCOURAGED: You've said it all. See that "the missus" doesn't miss this column.

DEAR ABBY: Last week we moved into a new home and I've been working like a horse to get it in order. Yesterday I was down in the basement uncrating boxes when my doorbell rang. I couldn't have looked worse. In came five of my friends, all painted, powdered, hatted and gloved.

I was annoyed and had all I could do to hide it. I had to stop my work and fix coffee and visit with them all afternoon. When I asked why they didn't give me a little time to bathe and comb my hair, they said, "We didn't want you to go to any bother." Is it considered good manners to surprise a hostess this way or not?

SURPRISED AND ANNOYED DEAR SURPRISED: I am surprised at the number of people who "surprise" hostesses with social calls. It's very poor manners.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SO IN LOVE": He may mean it when he says he loves you, but that doesn't mean he intends to leave his wife.

Yule Season Brought Out In Murals, Christmas Music At Sam Houston

Sam Houston PTA held its December meeting on Thursday evening in the school auditorium.

In keeping with the Yule Season, the Nativity Scene, which has traditionally been placed on the Sam Houston School lawn during the holiday season, dominated one wall of the auditorium. This scene, consisting of 12 pieces, was constructed by John Woods and his fifth grade students.

The choir, composed of students from the fifth and sixth grades, presented the following selections, accompanied at the piano by Susan Patrick: "Christmas Hymn"; "Christmas Song"; "Oh, Come Be Glad And Sing"; "Beth'lem Night"; "March of Three Kings"; "Song of the Infant Jesus"; "Go Tell It On the Mountain"; "What Child Is This?"; "O, Holy Night"; "The Twelve Days of Christmas"; "On Christmas Day in the Morning"; "Sleep, Little Lord"; and "The Bell Song."

Devolational was given by the Rev. John Blue, associate pastor of the Bible Baptist Church.

Following the program, a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Joe Fischer, president, during which the secretary's and treasurer's report were given.

It was announced that a Study Course for City Council PTA will start in a six-lesson series on Jan. 19 and will continue on consecutive Thursdays through Feb. 23. All interested members were instructed to watch for further publicity.

Definition May Surprise

Advent Season Precedes Christmas

By LOUIS CASSELS United Press International On the ancient calendar of the Christian year, the four weeks preceding Christmas are known as the Advent season.

The name is derived from the Latin word (adventus) which means "coming." According to the Encyclopedia of Religion, advent is "intended to remind Christians of the first coming of Christ as savior, and of His second coming as judge of the world."

This definition may surprise some church members. The modern Advent observance tends to focus almost entirely on the first coming of Christ, as a baby born in Bethlehem nearly 2,000 years ago. Relatively little stress is laid on the equally basic article of the Nicene Creed which asserts that: "He shall come again, with glory, to judge both the quick and the dead."

Why has it become unfashionable to talk about the second coming of Christ?

One obvious reason is that the subject has been appropriated by fanatics who insist on trying to predict when and how it will occur.

Intelligent Christians do not wish to have their faith identified with such easy targets of ridicule. And if they have read the Bible they know that Jesus explicitly condemned all attempts to forecast the time of His return. He simply told his disciples to live as though he would be returning at any moment.

There is another reason why the first coming of Christ is a more popular topic for Advent sermons than His second coming. The incarnation was God's supreme revelation of Himself as a loving and merciful father who is prepared to go to incredible lengths to achieve a reconciliation with the human creatures who have disobeyed and defied Him. It is comforting for men to be reminded that God is like that.

It is not so comforting to be reminded that He is also a just and righteous God who will some day call men to account for their lives.

Yet the concept of a last judgment, however uncongenial it may be to modern minds, cannot be excised from Christianity. It is found in all of the historic creeds, at many places in the Bible, and in the teachings of Christ Himself.

There are some lurid apocalyptic passages in the New Testament which many Biblical scholars attribute to the fervent imagination of the primitive church rather than to the teachings of Jesus.

But there is at least one description of the Last Judgment which unmistakably radiates the authentic spirit of Jesus.

It is found in the 25th chapter of the Gospel according to St. Matthew.

Included in a collection of Jesus parables, it contains the kind of poetic imagery that He often used in describing the Kingdom of God:

"When the Son of Man shall come in His glory, and all the holy angels with Him, then shall He sit upon the throne of His glory.

"And before Him shall be gathered all nations; and He shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divides his sheep from the goats.

"And He shall set the sheep on

"Then shall the King say unto them on His right hand, come, you blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.

"For I was hungry and you gave Me meat; I was thirsty, and you gave Me drink; I was a stranger and you took Me in; "Naked, and you clothed Me; I was sick and you visited Me; I was in prison, and you came unto Me.

"Then shall the righteous answer Him, saying, Lord, when did we see You hungry and feed You? Or thirsty, and gave You drink?

"When did we see You a stranger and take You in? Or naked, and clothed You? Or when did we see You sick or in prison, and came to You?

"And the King shall answer and say unto them, verily I say unto you, inasmuch as you have done it unto the least of these My brethren, you have done it unto Me."

Christmas Eve Midnight Mass At St. Vincent's

St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church, 2300 North Hobart St., will begin the solemn observance of the Feast of the Holy Nativity of Jesus Christ with the celebration of the annual Christmas Midnight Mass, Saturday, Dec. 24. In the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Fr. Edward Cashman, C. M. who is recovering from recent surgery in St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau, Mo., is the celebrant of the High Mass which will be the Rev. Fr. Ronald Ramson, C. M., assistant pastor of St. Vincent's. Assisting will be the Rev. Fr. Dimond Ryan, C. M.

Beginning at 11:30 p.m., the adult choir of the church under the direction of Tracy D. Cary will sing well known carols "The Snow Lay On The Ground," by Leo Sowerby and "Jesu Bambino" by Pietro Yon.

Immediately preceding the mass and during the singing of "Silent Night, Holy Night," a procession of vested altar boys and girls from St. Vincent's children's choir robed as angels will accompany a Representative of the C.Y.O. dressed as the Virgin Mary to the manger where she will place the figure of the Infant Jesus in the crib. The blessing of the crèche will follow, and the mass will begin at midnight with the singing of the "Asperges Me" arranged by William J. Marsh.

Music for the liturgy will be "Mass in Honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus" by Strubel. The setting of the Nicene Creed will be the "Credo from the Mass in A" by James A. Korman. During the distribution of Holy Communion the choir will sing Novello's festival arrangement of "Adeste Fideles." Soloists will be Miss Verena Hunter, soprano; Miss Sheila Chisholm, contralto; Tracy D. Cary, tenor; and J. D. Edwards, baritone, Mrs.

J. D. Edwards will be at the organ for the mass, and Cary for the Prelude and postlude.

Services for Christmas Day will include masses at 6, 8, 9:30, and 11 a.m. At the 8 a.m. mass the children's choir from St. Vincent's Parochial School made up of 6th, 7th, and 8th grade pupils will sing hymns and carols under the direction of Sister Aquina, C.C.V.I., with Marion Neslage as organist. Music for the 9:30 a.m. mass will be provided by the 3rd, 4th, and 5th grade choir with Carol Akst at the organ, and the adult choir will present the music for the 11 a.m. mass.

Scientists Set Lesson-Sermon

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon at Christian Science church services Sunday.

Scriptural selections will include Christ Jesus' striking response to his disciples' call for help during the tempest at sea: "And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, saying, Lord, save us: we perish. And he saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then he arose, and rebuked the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm" (Matthew 8:25, 26).

A correlative citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "The belief that the universe, including man, is governed in general by material laws, but that occasionally Spirit sets aside these laws, — this belief belittles omnipotent wisdom, and gives to matter the precedence over Spirit" (83:16).

Ministers Week Will Attract Local Pastors

Leaders in the Methodist, Baptist and Christian (Disciples of Christ) churches will be guest lecturers during the annual Ministers Week on the campus of Texas Christian University early next year. The speakers were announced last July by TCU Chancellor M. E. Sadler.

Attending the events of Ministers Week from this area will be Dr. Richard W. Crews, Minister of the First Christian Church, Pampa; Rev. Waly L. Gibson, Minister of Christian Education of the First Christian Church, Pampa; Rev. David E. Mills, Minister of Lamar Christian Church, Pampa; Rev. Howard Grant Jr., Minister of the First Christian Church of Miami.

Dr. Ernest Cadman Colwell, president of the Southern California School of Theology at Claremont, has accepted an invitation to deliver the three Oregon E. Scott lectures during the event.

A leading Methodist educator, Dr. Colwell is former president of the University of Chicago and vice-president of Emory University. He was on the TCU campus in May as a guest speaker before the university faculty.

The Wells Lectures will be presented by Dr. Carlyle Marney, minister of Myers Park Baptist Church in Charlotte, N. C., and former pastor of the First Baptist Church in Austin.

The McFadin Lectures, third of the series given during Ministers Week, will be delivered by Dr. Jack Suggs, professor of New Testament in TCU's Brite College of the Bible. Prior to joining the TCU faculty in 1952, Dr. Suggs served as minister of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) in Wendell, N. C., Gladewater and Austin.

Dates for Ministers Week are Jan. 16-19.

"These outstanding religious leaders will make the 1961 event a most significant one," said Dr. Noel Keith, chairman of the committee in charge.

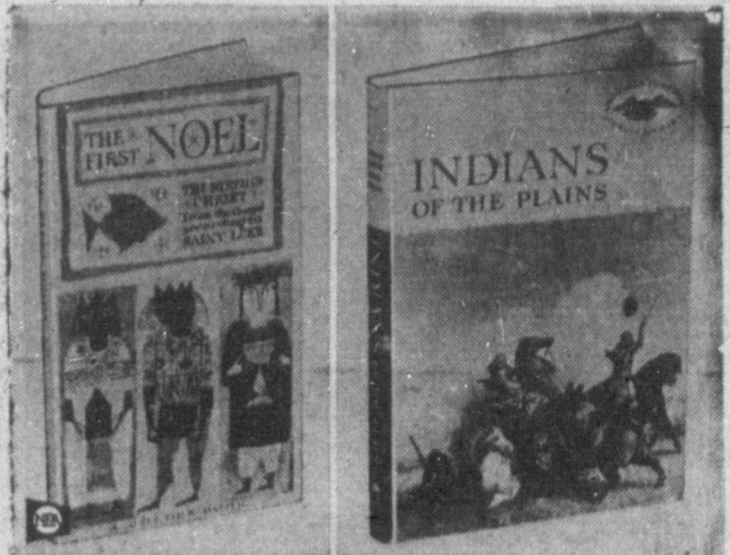

Other members of the committee include associate chairman James A. Farrar, director of religious activities at TCU; Dr. Sadler; TCU Pres. D. Ray Lindley; Dean Elmer D. Henson of Brite College; Dr. Granville T. Walker, minister of University Christian Church in Fort Worth, and Dr. W. A. Welsh and Dr. Kenneth M. Hay, both of Dallas.

Candle Lighting Service Listed At St. Paul

St. Paul Methodist church, has announced a service of carols and candle lighting ceremonies will be held in the church beginning at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The minister has prepared a sermon topic entitled "Jesus Has Not Yet Come to Town," for the 8 a.m. service, and during the 11 a.m. service the anthem "Jesu Bambino," by Pietro Yon, will be presented.

Church School begins at 9:45 a.m.

BOOKS ON religion and history are favorite fall topics.

Religion, History Lead Book Sales

By GABE KAIMOWITZ Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK — (NEA) — The Boy Scouts should love this holiday season. "God and Country"-type book titles peer out from the shelves of book stores in the hope of attracting the gift giver's eye.

Religion and history, particularly Americana, are favorite topics for publishers releasing new books in the fall.

The ideal title, encompassing both categories in one breath, probably is "The Story of America's Religions," by Hartzell Spence.

The name of Christ, of course, and Christianity are used in many titles. "The Day Christ Was Born," by Jim Bishop, "The Last Temptation of Christ," a novel by Nikos Kazantzakis, "The Kingdom of Christ" by Peter Bamm and "The Christian Philosophy of St. Augustine" by Etienne Gilson will be given prominence at your local dealer.

"The First Noel," the story of the birth of Christ illustrated by Alice Martin Provensen, is something for the children. The Bible as a whole, the Old and New Testaments, and specific Christmas tracts are dressed up in a variety of new editions. To help you along, there's "The Bible Companion," a reference and guide to the Bible edited by William Neil;

Special Topic For Sermon At First Methodist

A majority of the Sunday School classes of the First Baptist Church will conduct Christmas programs Sunday morning, the Rev. Dr. Douglas Carver, pastor, announced.

For the morning worship service the Rev. Mr. Carver will speak on "Man's Greatest Discovery," and for the evening service he has prepared a timely topic to link to the church's participation in the Pampa Pilgrimage.

The church organist, Miss Eloise Lane, will play "Christmas Bells" and "Christmas in Sicily" for the morning and evening operettas.

Allen Greer of Phillips will be guest music director for the morning program.

As a part of the special programs being presented in the churches participating in the Pampa Pilgrimage, the choirs of the church will offer a Christmas musical prior to the 7:30 p.m. worship service. Joe Whitten, director of music, will be in charge of this special event.

Training Union will follow the worship service.

Rev. West To Tell Junior EYC Why We Mark Yule

The Episcopal youth group will hear the Rev. William E. West, rector of St. Matthews Episcopal Church, on the topic "Why We Do Celebrate Christmas?" during services Sunday in the church.

Officials of the church, one of the many participating in the Pampa Pilgrimage, plan to take the Junior EYC members to the gathering place for the walk to church, Woodrow Wilson School, 301 E. Browning street, following the meeting of the group at 5 p.m. in the parish house.

Evening services will begin at 6 o'clock and will be dismissed at 7 o'clock, the Rev. Mr. West said.

Members of St. Matthews Episcopal Church are urged to bring gifts of canned vegetables or meat to the morning or evening services Sunday or, in lieu of these items, toys. These gifts will be presented to the Negro Day Nursery, the Rev. Mr. West said.

Marco Chagall's "Drawings for the Bible" and "The Biblical View of Sex and Marriage" by Otto A. Piper.

Even the religious freethinkers are not overlooked during this season. "Science Ponders Religion" by Harlow Shapley, "The Gods of Prehistoric Man" covering every-Prehistoric Man" by Johannes Maringer and "Religion and the Rise of Skepticism" by Franklin L. Baummer could easily make their way to the skeptics' shelves.

Flipping to history, you'll turn right to the "American Heritage." You can't escape it this year. The editors of the hardbound magazine offer "Treasury of American Heritage Library Series," six volumes ($3.50 each) for junior covering every- "War" ($19.95).

The other books on the Civil War are just too numerous to mention here. So turn the page to something like "The Past We Share," an illustrated history of the British and American people, by Peter Quennell and Alan Hodges or "The Good Old Days," a panorama of life on the farms throughout the country, edited by Ralph J. McGinnis.

But to bring you up to date this century in America gets particular attention. There's the "Album of American History," a pictorial history covering 1917 to 1957.

For the cultural events of the century (1851-1959) reported by contemporary observers of the New York Times, see "To America's Taste." Or try "The Good Housekeeping Treasury," (1885-1959) and "Vanity Fair," a cavalcade of the 1914-1936 material is that now extinct magazine.

But if you must know what's happening right now, anywhere in the country, read "Our Fifty United States," by Eugene and Catherine Rachliff. It's only $1.50.

God's Nearness Basis Of Topic At 1st Methodist

The topic for the two morning worship services in First Methodist Church Sunday at 8:30 and 10:55 o'clock will be "God Draw Near," the Rev. Woodrow Adcock pastor, announced.

Special music for the ear service will be presented by the Carol and Wesley choirs and the Bell Choir. The Sanctuary Singers will also offer the noted "Christmas Day," by Holsts. Soloists for this collection of carols will be Mrs. Betty McCarley, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Juenger and Jim Edmister.

For the 11 a.m. service the Sanctuary Singers will present "I Carol of the Drums.

Sunday night, the Rev. Mr. Adcock will preach on "Christ in the Home." A special sermon prepared to point up the Pampa Pilgrimage, which will take place Sunday evening.

Church Of Brethren Services Announced

Pastor Russell G. West Sr., the Church of the Brethren announces the following services Sunday. The morning sermon, "The Holy Family." On Sunday evening the church will participate in the Pampa Pilgrimage. The local program will feature activities a exercises by the children, and the pastor will bring an illustrated message entitled "Thirty-six Great Paintings on the Birth of Christ

HOW TO KEEP CHRIST IN CHRISTMAS Will be the general theme of five radio Christmas messages Monday through Friday next week over station KHHH by the Rev. Russell Greene West of the Church of the Brethren. The time is 2:00 P.M. MONDAY By being a "Good Samaritan" among the unfortunate: the sick, the poor, the aged, the discouraged, the lost, the oppressed, the bereaved, the misunderstood, the brokenhearted, the defeated! TUESDAY By being thoughtful and considerate of those who minister to our needs: the doctor, nurse, hospital attendant, the clerk in the store, the policeman on his beat, milkman, mailman, newsboy, teacher, the collector of trash and garbage! WEDNESDAY By building "bridges of good will" across the chasms which divide us: ignorance, prejudice, ill-will, selfish greed, narrowness, bigotry, racial antagonism, unbrotherliness, narrow nationalism, stupidity! THURSDAY By loving everybody, forgiving everybody, and praying for those who misunderstand, misrepresent, and mistreat us, seeking forever to overcome evil with good. By being "peacemakers" in the name of Christ. FRIDAY By lifting up our voices to God in intercessory prayer for all leaders and rulers of the world — local, state, national, international — that in these days of tension and turmoil, they may rely upon the grace and power and wisdom of God. TO KEEP CHRIST IN CHRISTMAS WE MUST KEEP HIM IN OUR HEARTS

Rev. West To Tell Junior EYC Why We Mark Yule The Episcopal youth group will hear the Rev. William E. These public spirited firms are making these weekly messages possible — and join with the ministers of Pampa in hoping that each message will be an inspiration to everyone.

Why I Want To Be A Pilgrim . . .

"The Pampa Pilgrimage is a challenge to me, just like football. It gives me the opportunity to show my religious freedom. Just like our forefathers broke away from the old church to show their freedom to worship as they please, we are breaking away from the everyday trend of hap-hazard worship and showing that we are willing to get out and walk to church. Everyone talks about how moral standards are falling down in this country. Many of us speak back and say that this isn't right. Well, now, through the Pilgrimage, I, as a citizen of this country and Pampa, have a chance to show the world that I do believe in God and religious freedom for all people . . . of all faiths and beliefs. Another thing that I hope the Pilgrimage will do is make Christmas a Holy Season again and not so much a commercial mad-house. I like all the decorations and parties but I'm afraid that we forget the real meaning of Christmas. Yes, The Pilgrimage is a challenge to me, and I'm going to live up to the motto Sunday: YOU GO TO YOUR CHURCH AND I'LL GO TO MINE, BUT LET'S ALL WALK ALONG TOGETHER."
