Nativity Scenes Lighting Slated

Arrangements were being made today by the City Parks Department and the Pampa Chamber of Commerce to light the city's traditional Nativity Scenes in Central Park for the Christmas holiday

E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the Pampa chamber, said the lights will be turned on at 7 o'clock

Thursday night, Dec. 15. The display is made up of seven life-sized oil paintings depicting the story of the Nativity.

The scenes, painted by Pampa artists, have been traditional for the past 12 years and each year attract hundreds of persons to Pampa during the holidays.
