A Two Party System

This is an election year and, in consequence, across the land hundreds of hopefuls are signing in for the big race, hoping that public acclaim will get them to office. It is self-evident that some will win and some will lose.

Ideal And Fact

It would almost seem that every American wears a pair of rose-colored glasses when he looks in the general direction of Washington. Most of us, from our earliest school years, have been taught the nature of our government in Washington.

The Pampa Daily News

YOUR FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from the government. Freedom is not license. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, The Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to promoting and preserving YOUR freedom as well as our own. For only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

I told her they were not greatly tranquilizing and that my own tentative experimentation, in 1957 in the vicinity of Oaxaca, had resulted in ghastly nausea and feet, disordered dreams, or visions. I said I didn't think the visions were worth the price and all they showed, although in full color, was some totally strange vegetation plus one bizarre but small building, the like of which I'd never seen before.

If Dad Isn't Already King, Today Will Be His Alone To Reign

By VIRGINIA IRWIN
Daily News Staff Writer
There will be many "Dads" and "Dads" given to "Dads" all over town today — Fathers Day. A father is an unusual character. He is the man who tramps to work every day in order to support his family. He is the man who works to make his town, state and country a place where his children can live a prosperous, useful and comfortable life. He is the "little boy" who eagerly awaits the day he can buy his son an electric train so he can play with it himself. He is the baseball manager who is going to make a major league pitcher out of the freckle faced boy in the Little League. He is the expert who shows his family how to catch "the biggest fish in the lake." He is the world's greatest mathematician who is always willing to help "Billy" with his algebra. He is the sly banker who handles allowance finances even though he has to cope with Junior's ever sly tricks to get advances and raises. He is a one-man judge and jury, and at the same time the gentleman of the advisory council. He is mother's biggest "problem child" and the child's greatest problem solver. One could go on and on and never hit the complete cagrates of even one father, let alone all. But on Fathers Day he becomes the king of the household, resigning from his easy chair. Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Wash., started Father's Day in 1910. Later the custom spread throughout the United States. Today it is celebrated on the third Sunday of every June. In 1936 a national Father's Day committee was formed with headquarters in New York City. A "Father of the Year" is elected annually. Among men chosen have been President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Douglas MacArthur, Ralph J. Bunche and Harry S. Truman. Here are a few things famous men have said about fathers:

"One father is more than a hundred school-masters." George Herbert
"Father—to God himself we cannot give a holier name." Wordsworth
"He that has his father for a judge goes safe to trial." Cervantes
"I'll meet the raging of skies, but not an angry father." Thomas Campbell
"It is not flesh and blood but the heart that makes us fathers and sons." Schiller Alexander Pope fairly well summed up the typical father-child relationship in his "Eassy on Criticism."
"And still tomorrow's wiser than today."
"We think our fathers fools, so wise we grow."
"Our wiser sons, no doubt, will think us so."

Wheat Bill Vote In July By Farmers

AUSTIN (UPI)—The nation's farmers vote July 21 whether to continue present federal regulations on wheat, or adopt an alternate program allowing anyone to plant and market as much wheat as he wants. For the last seven years, farmers have voted for similar federal controls that this year limited national wheat production to 35 million acres and guaranteed a minimum price of 75 per cent of parity. When parity is 100 per cent, in theory the farmer would be receiving a fair price for his crop in relation to the prices he pays. Under the alternate program of allowing unlimited wheat acreage, the federal price supports would be only 50 per cent of parity. Fred O. Boecker Jr. of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said today that no matter what farmers decide, future wheat surpluses will continue to increase unless something is discovered to increase utilization. "Utilization of 1960 wheat is estimated at 860 million bushels," Boecker said, "and the predicted total national production is 1.2 billion bushels." He forecasted that by 1975 wheat production will be twice as much as can be used in this country. "There is little prospect of a

American Motors Launches Planned Obsolescence Fight

DETROIT (UPI)—American Motors Corp. will launch another attack on "planned obsolescence" in automobiles next year. The company has announced it will introduce ceramic coated mufflers as standard equipment on its 1961 models in an effort to prove that cars don't have to fall apart after three years or 70,000 miles of driving. Ever since it pioneered the American built compact car, American motors has been seeking ways to prolong the life of a car. Now its engineers have attacked automotive deterioration at its most vulnerable spot — the muffler. Surveys show muffler life on cars has been reduced by at least 50 per cent in the last 14 years. One oil company said a survey of its outlets showed the average steel muffler offered as standard equipment on most cars today can be expected to last six to 10 months. The aluminumized steel muffler offered as standard equipment on Ford cars lengthened anticipated longevity to 10 to 14 months while some premium cost mufflers offered by independent companies gave anywhere from one-and-a-half to three years of muffler life. E. W. Bernitt, American Motors vice president, said the new muffler on his company's 1961 models will give up to 90,000 miles of service on an average car. Based on the national average of 10,000 miles a year, this would mean the muffler on a 1961

Based on the national average of 10,000 miles a year, this would mean the muffler on a 1961

Rambler could be expected to last up to nine years. The average life of mufflers has been sharply reduced in recent years by higher compression ratios in modern engines, higher octane fuels, dual mufflers, more stop-and-start driving and more low-idling designs which make it necessary to fit mufflers into smaller units to cram underneath the car. The muffler companies are concerned over the trend toward improved mufflers because it could rob them of a profitable market in the sale of replacement mufflers. But, for the motorist, the outlook is promising and the American Motors announcement should be awarded a gold star for bravery.

Airport Hotels Coming Of Age In Era Of Far-Out Airports

By LEROY POPE
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Running hotels at airports not only is big business, it's a new and different business, says hotelman William B. Rasor. Rasor is vice president of Knott Hotels, the nation's oldest chain which runs the big International Hotel at New York's Idlewild airport. It is one of seven new airport hotels that serve the 15-million passengers who use Idlewild and LaGuardia airports yearly. "At Idlewild, we also are near two huge racetracks," Rasor said, "which complicates the operation. As a result, the International Hotel is the strangest phenomenon in our company's 71 years of existence. Anything can happen at the International and does. Soon after we opened, for example, 125 on us in one night. Then we discovered we only had 60 double beds." Rasor said the activity at the International which has only 320 rooms with another 200 to be added as soon as possible, is fully equal to that of a downtown hotel of 1,000 rooms. Rasor soon discovered after the International opened that 100 per cent occupancy didn't mean a thing. In the course of any 24 hours, the hotel was liable to be 110 or 120 per cent occupied. That forced something hitherto almost unheard of in hotel practice — part-time rates. People stopping at Idlewild can rent a room for overnight or for six hours or for 10 hours during the daytime at varying prices. Virtually the entire airport hotel business now has adopted this idea. The airport hotel is not just a bedroom hotel, though. It has all the community and recreational facilities of the downtown hotel. Knott even is adding a 500-seat ballroom to the International, as quick as it can be built, for conventions. Rasor warned against overbuilding of airport hotels, but the boom in them is in full swing. Vice President Spear Ellison of Hilton Hotels said not long ago Hilton plans a string of 20 large airport hotels. Hilton has airport units now in New Orleans and San Francisco and will put its next three in Seattle, Atlanta and El Paso. Los Angeles already has seven airport hotels. And many others are in the drawing board and sit negotiation stage across the country waiting to be announced. The airport hotel is primarily a product of the jet age. Cities do not want close-in airports any longer. They don't want the noise of jet planes and fear crashes of jet liners on take-offs and arrivals. A trip into the heart of the city from the new far-out airports nearly always exceeds an hour. From O'Hare Airport in Chicago to the Loop is at least 80 minutes. Toronto's airport is at least as far out.

Malta Wants Independence From Britain

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's outside burden of colonial headaches is being stepped up by new independence demands from tiny but strategic Malta. The fortress island colony, which until the nuclear rocket age held the defense key to the central Mediterranean, is clamoring again to join the swelling ranks of former British possessions which have become independent nations. But Britain, which has ruled the island for 146 years and which decorated it with the coveted George Cross for standing up to Hitler's dive bombers throughout World War II thinks differently. The British government sees no future as an independent nation for Malta's 350,000 population crammed into an area of less than 100 square miles. Eighteen months ago Britain suspended Malta's constitution and withdrew limited internal self-government because the island's politicians refused to cooperate with her. Since then the island has been run by the British governor. Next month Lord Perth, minister of state in the British colonial office, is scheduled to visit Malta to seek agreement with Maltese political leaders that would make internal self-government possible again. But Dom Mintoff, fiery, 44-year-old, Oxford-educated leader of the Maltese Labor Party and the island's most prominent politician, has replied that he will be satisfied with nothing short of total independence.

Drillers Discover 7 Oil Locations

AUSTIN (UPI)—Drillers made seven oil discoveries and three gas finds during the past week, the Railroad Commission reported Saturday. The commission said double oil strikes were made in the Corpus Christi, Abilene and San Angelo districts. A single oil find was made in the Refugio District. Two gas discoveries were made in the Corpus Christi District and one in the Midland District. There were 192 oil well completions during the week to boost the total for the year to 4,997 compared with 5,578 a year ago. Gas completions numbered 42 for a yearly mark of 880 compared with 938. There were 81 dry holes during the week to bring the total for the year to 2,531 compared with 2,993. The commission reported the daily allowable increased 9,000 barrels to 2,643,857 during the week. Total number of wells jumped 261 to 126,643.

The man-of-the-week: Premier David Ben-Gurion of Israel.
The place: Tel Aviv.
The quote: "I am certain that only a very few persons in the world will fail to understand the profound motivation and supreme moral justification of this act."
"This act" was the apprehension of ex-Nazi and accused Jewish-mass-killer Adolf Eichmann by Israeli agents in Argentina last month.
One of the world's great cloak-and-dagger stories was thrust before the world then with Eichmann's run to ground in Buenos Aires after 15 years of flight.
Its details still are vague, and may never be known. But its after-effects will be felt before the United Nations next week.
In brief, Eichmann was trapped in Argentina and returned to Israel, where the plan is to try him for complicity in the mass murder of six million Jews during World War II.
There are few who would quarrel with that. But the manner of his capture has become an international issue between Israel and Argentina.
Israel maintains Eichmann was tracked down by Jewish "volunteers" and returned to Israel "voluntarily." Argentina maintains Israel infringed on its sovereignty and kidnaped Eichmann. Argentina wants him back, and then will let Israel negotiate for his extradition. Israel has refused and Argentina has taken its case to the U.N. Security Council.
But Ben-Gurion has been seeking a friendly settlement. He made his plea for understanding of "this act" in a personal letter to Argentine President Arturo Frondizi in which he asked that Frondizi and the Argentine people "join all the friends of justice in the world," and let Israel try Nothing solid has developed from any of these reports, though many still hope the issue can be settled before it reaches the U.N.

Rozelle Scoffs At League's Lawsuit

PETE ROZELLE
... AFL suit doomed

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The commissioner of the National Football League says he does not think the American Football League's suit charging the older league with trying to monopolize professional football will get very far.

Pete Rozelle, here for the Billy Cannon suit brought by the Rams, said charges that the NFL used various means to maintain its hold on professional football are useless.

"If the AFL, after failing to make a case for its charges with the Department of Justice, wants to try out its allegations in a private suit—that is all right with the NFL."

"The filing of the suit comes as no surprise as the other league has been making public statements for several months that it intended to take such action."

He added the AFL's charges were not true, but declined to counter them point by point because "the NFL doesn't want to try the case in the news media."

BILLY CANNON
... No. 1 controversy

Today's Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press International
DENVER (UPI)—From the bottom of a mine shaft, like a voice from a tomb, Fearless Fraley must proclaim today in sepulchral tones that Floyd Patterson on Monday night will become the first man in history to recapture the world heavyweight title.

This, assuredly, is going to make old Fearless persona non grata with an old nightclub pal named Ingemar Johansson. He may not even go cha-cha-ing with me anymore, which is going to make a lot of gals happy, anyhow.

But, after 13 rounds come Monday evening, my pal Ingo is going to be cut up like a smorgasbord and the referee will have to stop the festivities before the borscht gets too thick.

In all due modesty, I must admit that last year old Fearless pulled one out of the left field by picking Ingo to beat Floyd. It made me a celebrity of the calibre of Broadway Sam Haskins, Hanrahan, One-Eyed Connolly and the thinking man's butcher who is a surgeon in his spare time.

That and 15 cents, of course, and you can ride the subway.

There were, then and now, however, a great many sterling reasons for my absolutely amazing and downright lucky selection. Just to take you back to the first time around, I had studied the Swede's style with a critical and analytical eye.

He was great at the rhumba. He waltzed with elegant grace. His cha-cha was, if not superb, sprightly.

His right hand, as he held on to the waist of his pretty fiancée, Birgit, showed amazing power.

His left, as he stowed away mama's Scandinavian cookery, was lightning fast.

His endurance, considering the number of strokes he took on the golf course, was superb.

His thinking, the way he played the angles in every contract he signed, was unparalleled.

This, I decided, was a man

How To Get Into Baseball

by HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA)—Bill Skiff, veteran supervisor of New York scouts, brought the big, good-looking guy into the press room in the catacombs of Yankee Stadium.

"You know Johnny Johnson," he said. The name was unfamiliar to the writer who believed he was acquainted with everyone of any importance associated with the Yankees. So the first chance he got he asked Skiff who Johnson was.

You could have knocked him over with a sledge hammer when he said, "He's the boss, the director of Yankee farms."

Now did you ever hear of Johnny Johnson? Not one fan in a million has. Yet here he is running the far-flung chain of baseball's proudest organization. That's real way out, man, positive proof that anonymity is no bar to success.

And in a selective business long considered to be only for the more knowledgeable who played the game and learned it from the ground up.

And how did John Harold Johnson, 38, an even six feet and 210 pounds, crash the Yankee empire? Certainly he must have shown early genius to attract the attention of that master baseball manipulator, George Martin Weiss. And to ultimately fill the same job for which Col. Jacob Ruppert brought in the present general manager in the late 1920's.

"I answered a want ad," explained Johnny Johnson. "I remember it word for word."

"Wanted: A stenographer for the vice president of a sporting organization."

This is what might be called landing the job from left field. It is the antithesis of the lucky bloke marrying the boss' daughter.

Had Johnson, who now flies across the country watching over eight branch stores, 24 fulltime scouts and countless bird dogs, ever played baseball?

"No more than any other kid,"

Dry Weather Is Menacing State Wildlife

AUSTIN (UPI)—Dry, hot weather is menacing wildlife over a wide stretch of Central, West and South Texas, Cecil Reid, executive secretary of the Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas, reported today.

Reid said six weeks of record drought in some places has changed the lush prospects of late spring into a dismal outlook. "The next few days may well tell the tale in some of the dry areas," he said.

Paul Hickie, of Stephenville, chairman of SCOT's technical committee, said "when environmental conditions deteriorate as they have in many Texas areas during the last month, the wildlife mortality rate increases, particularly among young game birds."

SCOT officials also a greed that a contributing factor to the negative mid-June status for the animal kingdom was the overgrazing of range lands dating back to the most producing years of 1958 and 1959.

Lake Texoma Tops For Water Lovers

By WM. TAYLOR MCKEOWN
Editor, Popular Boating
Where is America's most popular pleasure boating waterway? In 1959 it was the wide waters where the Red River Valley broadens out into Lake Texoma between Texas and Oklahoma.

Once sea-coast boatmen liked to believe they had a monopoly. But the 5,738,000 visitors to Texoma last year know that inland boating is bigger still. Recent figures from the Army Corps of Engineers place the 223 square-mile expanse of water ahead of all others where attendance records are kept.

Lake Texoma is the man-made result of Denison Dam, one of the many reservoirs and navigable waterways constructed by the Army Engineers. Usually the Corps' projects are planned primarily for flood control, navigation, water supply and power generation, but some outstanding recreational waters are also a result.

Who goes to Texoma? Boatmen from communities around its 580 miles of shore line, who keep a craft of all sizes from small skiffs up to $100,000 cabin cruisers there. Trailer-boat families drive in from Dallas, Tulsa, Fort Worth and Oklahoma City. Launching ramps also show license plates from throughout the country.

Landlocked no more, a cowboy may be found swapping chaps for water-ski and riding on waters that were part of Indian Territory 50 years ago.

Fishing, camping, racing and cruising are among activities that swell the attendance total into the millions who have found this 15-year-old lake to be a mid-America sea coast.

Texasoma is no inland exception. Last year 31 other waterways topped the million-visitor mark.

Second place goes to the 26 pools of the Mississippi River Channel Project in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and Missouri. A total of 6,656,300 addicts were counted there.

SCOT To Stage Safety Program

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas will hold a statewide boat and water safety conference here Aug. 19. SCOT President Henry LeBlanc of Port Arthur said today.

State Rep. Ben Atwell, sponsor of the boat registration law, will moderate the conference, LeBlanc said.

Meanwhile, D. T. Harbinger, chief registrar for the boat act, said closing of schools and stricter law enforcement has boosted about 400 to 600. However, Harbinger added that the present total of 132,000 boats is far below the estimated number of boats in Texas that require registration. All boats powered by motors of more than 10 horsepower must be registered.

Homebuilder Must Offer Buyer Texas Press Association Makes Awards Other Attractions In 'Colony'

By HENRY J. RECHTOLD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today's homebuilder is being forced to diversify by the increasing competition in the home-buying market. These builders now are including bowling alleys, super markets, schools and numerous other extra residential facilities in their home colonies to attract the ever-increasing number of potential home owners.

In the past, home purchasers frequently had to travel miles to find such facilities or wait several years until commercial exploitation of the area caught up with residential construction.

Families looking for homes no longer are satisfied with a dwelling place only—no matter how substantial or gracious the construction. Thus residential builders are finding themselves investing heavily in non-residential construction with their projects.

Builders also are installing extras in many instances to beautify their developments or make things more convenient for the home owner. Trees are being added along roadways, sidewalks constructed and storm sewers put in.

At least one builder has gone so far as to erect schools at his development without waiting for federal or local aid. In a colony of 2,000 homes, three schools have been put up by the builders at a cost of more than $750,000, and donated to the community.

And there are some builders who have taken it upon themselves to make sure their development isn't plagued by a problem that long has troubled many suburban communities—sewage disposal. They have built sewage disposal plants which make it possible to eliminate septic tanks, usually troublesome and relatively expensive to maintain.

House & Home, professional magazine of the house industry, says the outlook for new house sales in 1960 has been brightened by the easing availability of mortgage money.

Builders in many cities are reporting an increase in sales although houses started during the first four months of 1960 still are 18.5 per cent below the 1959 level.

Norman P. Mason, housing and home finance administrator, predicts America will produce more housing units in the last six months of this year than in the like 1959 period.

He cautions, however, that the housing market in the second half will be pretty evenly balanced between buyers and sellers.

Smith To Head Texas Press Assn.

HOUSTON (UPI)—L. B. Smith, publisher of the Brady Standard-Herald, today was elected to succeed Brenham Banner-Press publisher Tom Whitehead Sr., as president of the Texas Press Association.

Forrest Weimhold, publisher of the Levelland Sun-News, was elected vice-president. Bob Baldrige, publisher of the weekly newspaper at Clifton, was named secretary.

Convention delegates selected Dallas as the site for the 1961 TPA meeting. They also decided to hold their annual mid-winter meeting at San Antonio.

Balance Of Trade Is Running Higher

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — America's balance of trade in the first four months of 1960 ran 122 million dollars higher than the balance for all of 1959.

And if the rate of trade gains continue, the year will see a big reduction in our balance of payments deficit which last year set a record high at $3,700,000,000.

This deficit which has been growing steadily for years has been a thorn in the side of the economy. It represents the difference in what we buy abroad, foreign aid, military costs abroad, services, and spending of American tourists, and the amount we take in the way of exports, foreign visitors here, and services for foreigners.

Experts, examining the prospects for reducing the deficit, have concluded that the best way to bring it down is through increased foreign trade. Hence a drive on the part of the government and industry to promote our exports.

At the same time we are benefiting through a smaller rise in imports. These were swollen last year by steel imports during the strike. This year also the shipments of foreign automobiles have been at a reduced rate of increase because of the competition with our own compact cars.

Our exports for the first four months of the year are mounted to $6,307,000,000, up 22 per cent from 1959. At the same time our imports increased only 6 per cent to $5,088,000,000. This left a favorable trade balance of $1,249,000,000, against a balance of 399 million dollars in the corresponding period last year, and one of $1,127,000,000 for all of 1959.

What's Cooking... Today, Pop?

In other times, Father brought home the bacon and let Mom fry it. . . but in these more modern times, he has changed to beef steaks and cooks them himself. . . out in the backyard, where he reigns supreme as King of the Grill.

UPPER RIGHT PHOTO — Very casual about his talent for cooking, whether indoors or out, is L. R. Miller, 1700 N. Russell. Typical of excellent cooks, he uses only "a pinch of this and a dash of that" to prepare dishes that rate the raves of the most discerning gourmet. A favorite recipe of Mexican origin is one that calls for an economical cut of meat; preferably a three pound 1 1/2 inch cut of chuck roast. In a cast-iron skillet, which Mr. Miller insists is the only proper utensil for frying or baking, mix one-fourth cup of olive oil; cube one half orange and a whole lemon; one button of garlic (mashed); just a pinch of Rosemary and a small piece of Bay Leaf, if desired. Sauté in frying pan until fruit rinds begin to brown; remove from heat; pour over well-peppered meat and let marinate at room temperature for two hours; brush mixture off; put on hot grill and cook until desired doneness. Lucky are the Miller Clan: wife, Burnice, daughters, Pat Lively, Greta Arrington and their husbands; grandchildren, "Bucky" and Melanie Arrington, when Mr. Miller dons his chef apron and heads for the kitchen.

B&PW Members Report On State Convention

Business and Professional Club members, Mrs. Hattie Harmon, Neil Tinnin, Helen Knox and Jewel Lewis, reported on the state convention of B&PW Clubs at the Tuesday evening meeting of the club in the City Club Room. Delegates reported that two national officers and 987 B&PW members registered for the state meeting held in Houston.

club won first place on its financial report compiled by Mrs. Harmon. Announcement was also made that the 1961 convention will be held in Abilene. Installation of new state officers was conducted by Mrs. Pearl Smith of Lubbock.

For the evening's program, Mrs. Ruby Harvey introduced Mrs. Myrtle Lee Leigh who spoke on programs and attendance from the national B&PW viewpoint. Members are asked to make reservations now for the banquet and installation of new officers which will be held June 28 at 7:30 p.m. in City Club Room.

Club Announces Park Dedication

LEFORS (Sp1) - Twenty-Three Club met in the civic center Friday night for a salad supper.

A short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Joe Archer, president, in which she announced the dedication of the Park on Aug. 13. A final work-day, in which the swings will be painted and a new gym set installed, will be held Tuesday. The club decided not to have formal meetings during the summer, but instead hold cook-outs, picnics, and have called meetings if the need arises.

Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Nance Attend PTA Conference Workshop At University

Mrs. James E. Lewis, president of Texas, and Mrs. Lucile Martin of 19th district PTA and Mrs. Carleton Nance, Pampa City Council PTA president, returned home Friday from attending a three-day leadership training conference, sponsored by Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers at Kinslow dormitory on the campus of the University of Texas, Austin.

Some 200 persons from over the state participated. These included the executive committee, district presidents, council presidents, district and state chairmen, as well as consultants and resource persons.

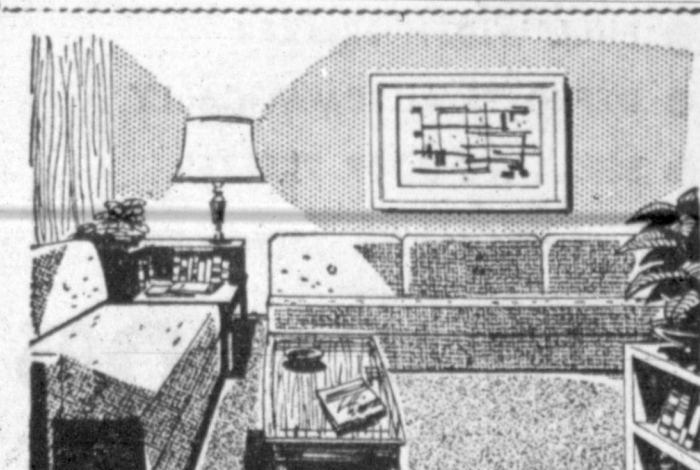

The theme, "Education for Family Living," was developed through talks, panels, films, general and group meetings.

Mrs. T. W. Whaley of Koss, state president, opened the conference with a talk on "Why We Are Here." Dr. C. H. Dent of Austin, state chairman of workshops, and associate professor of curriculum and instruction of the University of San Antonio, state chairman of education for family living, were co-chairmen of the planning committee. Other members of the committee included Mrs. Whaley, Mrs. W. J. Danforth of Fort Worth, first state vice president; Mrs. L. D. Frederick of Waco, state chairman of budget and finance; Mrs. Clyde Harden of Dallas, state chairman of preschool service; Mrs. L. L. Ledger of Copperas Cove, state vice president; O. W. Marcom, superintendent of Levelland public schools and state chairman of youth protection; Tom J. Frather of Austin, director of state office.

Some of the purposes of the conference were as follows: to learn factors affecting American families today; to explore present day concerns for family life; to identify family and community problems needing concerted action; to demonstrate the interrelatedness of the efforts of PTA chairmen in a total program; to show the role of the PTA.

LIGHTING COMFORT

After five, or whatever hour day light fades, you'll find that comfort is literally doubled in rooms that are properly lighted.

While proper lighting always takes the decorative aspect of the room into consideration, it is well to remember that there's more to good lighting schemes than just pretty lamps — important as they are to the overall plan. Light comfort is a matter of major emphasis. The amount of light, its distribution throughout the room, and its quality are important factors in lighting comfort.

The amount of light varies with each individual, and with the type of activity and its duration. Close work such as sewing or reading requires local or direct illumination, while the area as a whole needs general or indirect lighting. To avoid eye-strain while engaged in specific close-work activities be sure there is not too great a disparity between the amounts of direct and general illumination. The background of the room should be

Patricia McDowell Bride Of G. E. Nolan With Vows Repeated In Home Ceremony

Miss Patricia Carol McDowell became the bride of George Emmitt Nolan with vows repeated on Saturday morning at ten in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. McDowell, who reside southeast of Pampa.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Nolan of Lefors.

The Rev. Luther Berry, pastor of Lefors Baptist Church, officiated for the double-ring ceremony. An arrangement of Blue Daisies and white stock appointed the plans, while Miss Pat Berry played selections during the reception which followed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I" avowal, the bride wore a shirtdress of blue organza over cotton-satin fashioned with full, three-quarter length sleeves and a full, gathered skirt. The bodice of the dress was appliqued with satin floral motifs. Her brief veil was attached to a matching blue organza bandeau. Crystal earrings and necklace complemented her

Mrs. George Emmitt Nolan dress and she wore a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held in the bride's home immediately following the wedding. The table was covered with a white lace cloth over blue with a centerpiece arrangement of white carnations. Miss Sharon Hines presided at the punch service. The bride's sister, Miss Barbara McDowell, served from the two tiered cake, which was decorated with blue scrolls and topped with a bridal couple stand-

Club Adjourns Until Autumn

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Skelly Schafer Club members met recently in the club house for a business meeting conducted by Mrs. Bill Truitt, president. Hostesses were Mmes. Leroy Allan and Henry Gentry.

It was announced that there will be no club meetings in July and August. The Sept. 13 meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. V. C. Moore.

The couple plan to live in Lefors until this fall, when the bridegroom will continue with his studies at Panhandle A&M.

Queen Of Hearts Tarts

This recipe is a joy and delight for the small fry. Not only do they enjoy the taste of this "not too sweet" confection, but they delight in applying the decorating jelly. Mother had better make the basic confection recipe, but the children can help with both the cutting out and the decorating. This recipe received its name when a sprightly six-year old girl took one look at the pretty confections on the counter of another six-year old's "store" and said "Give me some Queen of Hearts Tarts." Thus Queen of Hearts Tarts became the name of this recipe. In addition to being such a pleasing confection, it is also a very wholesome one. The use of the ready-to-eat oat cereal as an ingredient adds protein, important B vitamins, essential minerals, and food energy.

Queen Of Hearts Tarts
1/2 cup butter or margarine 8 cups ready-to-eat oat cereal
1 10 1/2-ounce bag (6 cups) small marshmallows 1 1/2 cups small spiced gum drop candies
1/2 teaspoon salt
Combine butter or margarine, marshmallows, and salt in large fry pan. Place over low heat and allow marshmallows to melt, stirring until mixture is smooth. Remove from heat and stir in cereal and candies. Press mixture into an even layer into 2 lightly buttered square pans, 9 1/2 x 9 1/2 inches. Allow to cool and "set." Cut into squares, hearts, or diamonds. Serve plain or top with decorating jelly. Yield: Approximately 6 dozen tarts.

First Methodist Circles Begin New UN Study

Circle of Woman's Society of Christian Service of First Methodist Church met Wednesday 9:30 a.m. in the chapel for the beginning of new study, "Contemporary Man and the United Nations."

The Rev. Woodrow W. Adcock, pastor, introduced the study with the history, which preceded the organization of United Nations. He stated that "we had teamwork to win the war and we should have teamwork to maintain peace. The United Nations has survived for fifteen years, so there must be good in it."

"There has been a lot of good done in preventing a future war," he continued, "as we look at the part the United Nations look in the Iranian situation, Berlin Airlift, Palestine uprising, when it made a new state of Israel, and many others instances of this kind."

"The great objectives of the United Nations are to stop aggression and to create peace," he said. Discussion followed the introduction.

Mrs. Kermit Lawson, WSCS president, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Joe Shelton read scripture from Isaiah and Psalms. Mrs. Clarence Lutes led in prayer.

It was announced that the next meeting of WSCS will be on June 22 in the chapel for continued study of the United Nations. All members and guests are invited. Approximately 50 members attended the initial study meeting.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

"She's reading a comic in her bedroom when her mother calls: 'Shirley, come down and set the supper table!'" Shirley doesn't move. She just lies very still on her bed, waiting for what she knows will happen. It happens. To the departing neighbor at the front door, she hears her mother say:

"That child of mine never hears a thing I say. It's because she concentrates so hard on anything she's doing."

She relaxes, reaches for her comic and placidly resumes her reading.

At 11 years of age, life is wonderfully easy for Shirley. Not only does her mother accept disobedience but also provides the excuses for it.

A modern parent, Shirley's mother is wonderfully efficient in sabotaging her own authority.

It is to this pass that we have been brought by child guidance experts' demand that we understand the causes of children's misbehavior.

Because we lack the professional skills to diagnose these causes, we can't understand them. But we try to analyze Shirley's disobedience anyway.

What happens is that our unskilled attempt to explain it results, not in an accurate analysis of its dynamics but in an inaccurate excuse for it. It gives us a momentary feeling of security. It also leaves Shirley free to misbehave whenever she feels like it, content in the knowledge that we'll come up with some sort of scientific-sounding excuse for anything she takes it into her head to do.

In view of the epidemic emotional disturbances in American children, I suggest that parents stop trying to "understand" them and bestir themselves to acquire some self-understanding.

Because to understand ourselves is to immediately become aware of our own needs for attention, respect, freedom of feeling and expression — those human essentials which the experts have so destructively monopolized for children.

When we can honor these needs in ourselves again, light will break over this confused, child-centered, child-bewildering nation.

Instead of sabotaging our authority with the amateur psychology of self-effacing, bungling "excuses for everything" Shirley does, we'll be able to act like adults again and go upstairs-to her and say:

"What is the matter with you? Why didn't you answer when I called you?"

STEAKS FOR BREAKFAST

Have you ever served "minute" beef steaks as a breakfast dish? Try them some Sunday morning.

Brown the steaks on both sides in lard. Season and cook slowly until done, turning occasionally. Allow 4 to 6 minutes for each side.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Triple Burgers Threat To Outdoor Appetites

Who said there's nothing new under the sun? Here is something new for this year's picnic time — the delicious trio. It's the triple burger, a threefold threat to all hearty appetites, and as new as a spring bonnet.

Summertime brings us lots of easy, outdoor living — and lots of self-styled cookout champions too (male of course). Well, even they can cook up a storm with this easy recipe. Here's how:

Take one pound of ground beef, add salt and pepper, then sprinkle with Ac-cent to highlight the rich lean beef taste. You'll find it makes a most appetizing accompaniment to a flavor boost you'll long remember. And Ac-cent can't be overdone so start with a teaspoon per pound of beef and work up to desired intensity.

Shape meat into thin patties and freeze in heavy-duty aluminum foil. They'll thaw out as the picnic area looms into view. Or, if you're broiling in the yard, transfer them straight from refrigerator to grill without thawing.

To prepare a zesty garnish combine chopped green pepper, olives and onion with chili sauce and mustard. Easily stored in a plastic container you won't have to count or coddle jars when packing the picnic hamper.

Serving is simple. One burger on a buttered bun, spread with a layer of sauce, then add another burger and so on till you have three burgers spiced with a layer of gusty garnish between each one. Radishes or celery sticks for taste comparison, lots of canned sodas and you have a summer treat the whole family will enjoy.

TRIPLE BURGERS
1 pound ground beef
1 teaspoon Ac-cent
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 green pepper, finely chopped
2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives
2 tablespoons chopped onion
¼ cup chili sauce
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
4 hamburger buns
Butter
Lettuce

Break up meat with fork in mixing bowl. Sprinkle Ac-cent, salt and pepper over entire surface of tributed ingredients. Shape into 12 meat. Toss gently with fork to dis-thin patties. Place on square of heavy-duty foil or double thickness of regular foil; separate burgers with small square of foil. Seal with double fold over top and sides. Freeze until firm. Combine green pepper, olives, onion, chili sauce and mustard in a jar or plastic container; blend. Pack prepared sauce and frozen burgers in insulated bag or picnic basket; burgers will be thawed on arrival at picnic area. Panbroil, broil or grill to desired doneness. Butter ½ hamburger bun and cover with lettuce. Top with 3 hamburger patties and part of the sauce in between; cover with remaining ½ bun. Repeat for each serving. Serve with radishes and celery sticks.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Iced Tea Quenches Excited Fourth Of July Thirsts

By GAYNOR MADDON, Newspaper Enterprise Food and Markets Editor

Firecrackers-hot weather-ga-ging-of course, lots of thirst — on a good old-fashioned 4th of July. Makes you think of picnics, maybe even large jugs of iced tea on hand all day, doesn't it? It's a perfect summer beverage, calorie free, except for what one puts into it.

One way to keep plenty on hand all day long is to make it in quantity with this easy open saucepan method. To make 10 to 12 servings, bring 1 quart of cold water to a boil in the heat and immediately add 1 1/2 cup loose tea (or 15 teabags) all at one time. Brew 4 minutes. Stir and strain the tea into a pitcher. Holding an additional quart of cold water, do not refrigerate. When ready to serve, pour tea into ice filled glasses and serve with lemon and sugar to taste.

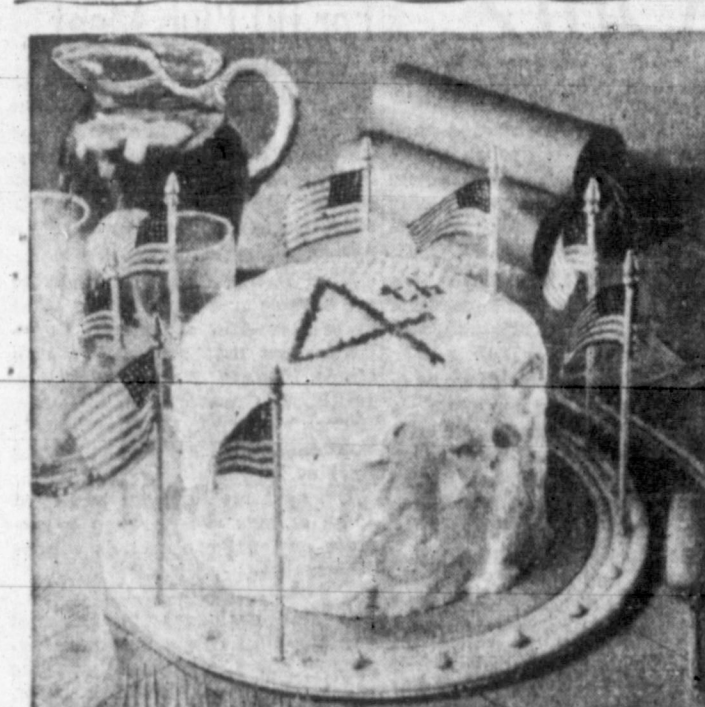

Here's another cool low-calorie suggestion for the 4th — a colorful fruit bowl with cultivated fresh blueberries nestled among chilled cantaloupe and other melon balls, slices of peaches, bananas, orange and grapefruit. A little grenadine and flavored flaked coconut adds a festive touch to the fruit.

To color and flavor a single cup of flaked coconut combine any of the following ingredients and toss lightly with fork until color and extract have been absorbed by the coconut flakes:

Lemon — 1 teaspoon lemon extract with 2 to 3 drops yellow vegetable coloring.
Orange — 1 teaspoon orange extract with 2 to 3 drops orange vegetable coloring (red and yellow).

CHRONIC DEEP-SEATED PAIN GIVEN FASTER-LONGER RELIEF... RICHARD DRUG Joe Tooley — Pampa's Synonym for Drugs 111 N. Cuyler MO 5-5747

STANDING tall and proud, Patriotic Cake will go over with a bang among family or guests celebrating Independence Day.

Celebrate The "4th" With A Red, White And Blue Cake

How about a cake with firecracker excitement—a bang-up novelty for the 4th of July. The 4-inch, 3-layer cake is white; the bottom and middle layer is thickly spread with fresh blueberry filling, the top and sides with sweetened whipped cream. Bright red raspberries form the "4th" on top (or raspberry flavored gelatin can be used).

Two and three-quarters cups sifted cake flour, 4 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 4 egg whites, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 1/2 cup butter or other shortening, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 teaspoon-almond extract, blueberry filling, whipped cream topping.

Measure sifted flour, add baking powder and salt, and mix together 3 times. Beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually add 1/2 cup of the sugar and continue beating until meringue will stand in stiff peaks. Cream butter, gradually add remaining 1 cup sugar, and cream together until light and fluffy. Alternately add flour and milk, a small amount at a time.

How about a cake with firecracker excitement—a bang-up novelty for the 4th of July. The 4-inch, 3-layer cake is white; the bottom and middle layer is thickly spread with fresh blueberry filling, the top and sides with sweetened whipped cream. Bright red raspberries form the "4th" on top (or raspberry flavored gelatin can be used).

Spread blueberry filling on the tops of 2 cooled cakelayers. Spread whipped cream topping over top and sides of cake. Garnish top with fresh raspberries or carefully sprinkle cherry-flavored gelatin to make a "4th".

Blueberry Filling: Combine 1 1/2 cup cake flour, 1 cup sugar and 1/2 teaspoon salt in a small saucepan. Add 1/2 cup water and bring to a boil. Then add 1 pint fresh blueberries and again bring to a boil. Boil 2 minutes. Then remove from heat and stir in 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Cool. This makes about 2 cups filling.

Whipped Cream Topping: Place 1 1/2 cups whipping cream, 1 tablespoon granulated sugar and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla in a chilled bowl. Beat until cream holds its shape (do not overbeat). This makes 3 cups.

4th Of July Backyard Dinner: Grilled hamburgers and frankfurters; corn on cob, spicy cole slaw, fresh sliced tomatoes, buttered rolls, red, white and blue cake, iced tea, iced coffee, milk.

Delicious Baked Bean Recipe Won't Leave Mother With Kitchen Cleanup

Does your home seem to be the meeting place of the gang? If so, I'm sure you often wonder what to feed these hungry teenagers. Baked beans make a good one-dish meal for hearty eaters and served with brown bread — delicious.

And this baked bean recipe won't leave mother with the kitchen cleanup. Serve it in the back yard on paper plates and offer a fruited lemonade in paper cups and you'll have only one dish to wash after the feast is over. If your guests are extra hungry and what teenager isn't, add to your menu a dozen regular sized hot dogs and a dozen frankfurter rolls — and let them "roast their own" over a charcoal grill. And for dessert — watermelon will certainly be welcome. Instead of the six small cans, you may find oven baked beans or New England style baked beans in Jumbo cans that hold 3 cups — you'll only need 4 of these.

1/2 cup onion, minced
1 teaspoon powdered mustard
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/4 cup molasses
4 teaspoons kitchen bouquet
1 jar (6 oz.) cocktail style frankfurters

Place beans in 3 1/2 quart casserole. Cook bacon in frying pan over moderate heat until crisp. Remove bacon from pan and place on absorbent paper. Pour oil but two tablespoons fat from pan, and add minced onion. Let cook about 2 minutes, stirring frequently. Stir cooked onion and bacon into beans. Blend together mustard, ginger, molasses, and 1 tablespoon kitchen bouquet and stir into beans. Drain cocktail frankfurters and cut spirals around each. Place in a bowl and sprinkle with 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet. Toss gently with fork to coat evenly and place on top of beans pressing down gently. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven until frankfurters puff and spirals open and beans are bubbly hot about 45 minutes. Makes 12 generous servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Pork Blade Steak.
Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?
A. It comes from the upper half of the shoulder or the Boston butt and contains a portion of the blade bone.
Q. How is it prepared?
A. Usually it is braised but may also be pan-fried. To braise: the steak is browned on both sides in its own or a small amount of fat, the drippings are poured off, the meat is covered and cooked slowly until well done, about 45 minutes for steaks cut 3/4 to 1 inch thick. To pan-fry: the steak is browned on both sides in a small amount of fat, then cooked slowly, turning occasionally, until cooked well done. This will require 35 to 45 minutes for steaks cut 3/4 to 1 inch thick.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear ABBY: Please give some advice to two families, a 15-year-old girl "in trouble" and her boyfriend (17) before everyone goes mad. The girl is expecting in September. She can't turn to her mother for help because the mother is in the state hospital for the mentally ill. His mother is past 40 and in very poor health and couldn't care for a baby if she wanted to. In addition to which the families oppose the marriage because they are of different religions.

The teen-agers want to marry and want to keep the baby. The boy wants to quit school and enlist in the service so he can have money for the baby's support. But I am wondering what kind of mother this 15-year-old child will make, and what chance will this couple have for happiness. Also, is it fair to the baby. What, in your opinion, should be done.

FRIEND OF BOTH FAMILIES
 DEAR FRIEND: The emotional maturity of a couple, not their age, should determine their readiness for marriage. In this case they seem far from it. I suggest the girl go to a home for unwed mothers and find a foster home for her child. When she reaches 18 and the baby's father can provide for a family, they can marry (in most states) if they still want to. A hurry-up marriage now would only complicate matters.

RUTH MILLETT

We talk about taking vacations to "get away from it all." But one of the best things about a vacation is "coming back to it all."

—Getting back to the old routines that give stability and purpose to living.
 —Getting back to friends, eager to share our vacation experiences with those who are fond enough to listen with real interest to all we are eager to tell.

—Getting back to our own town, the place where we never feel like strangers.

—Getting back to our plans and dreams and ambitions, left behind when we started out so eagerly to "get away from it all."
 —Getting back to unsolved problems, which don't seem quite so big any more and which we are now ready to tackle anew, feeling strong with the thought that we are equal to them.

—Getting back to the responsibilities that make us feel important and needed.

—Getting back to all the unfinished business of our lives, the jobs left waiting until we returned.
 —Getting back to habits and comforts and conveniences with a new appreciation for what they mean to us.

—Getting back to our homes which never looked so inviting, so downright homelike as after a spell of being in strange places.

So there are really two reasons for a vacation and one is just as important as the other, "getting away from it all" and "getting back to it all."

If you don't relish getting away, then there is something more seriously wrong with your lives than any vacation could cure.

MATURE PARENT

By the terms of Mrs. T's divorce, her two children spend their summers with their remarried father. She writes:

"My younger one likes his stepmother but my daughter can't stand her and resents these visits with her. Yet her father and the lawyer say she has to spend the summer again with this woman. I am sick over it. Why should I have to force these visits on my child?"

Because the law demands it, Mrs. T, you cannot change it. Like your choices in the past and the present attitude of your ex-husband, these are things you cannot change. One is this legal demand. So you are helpless, Mrs. T.

Does the idea upset you? Let it. If you let your helplessness overwhelm you, you will emerge from it feeling much better.

Many of us remain "sick" over unchangeable circumstances because we fear to feel our helplessness. We avoid feeling it by fighting the circumstances.

Like you, we rage at the people who seem to have created them because we cannot make them see our suffering and rescue us from it. But all the time what's really making us sick is our frustrated power to change them and make them into the kind of people we think they ought to be.

But when we can let our helplessness happen to us, the sick feeling goes. In the place of rage at your ex-husband you for example, would begin to feel appreciation for yourself—for the steady, unshaken support you have made to be a good mother to the children.

Your inflamed fear of what your daughter's stepmother may do to her would give way to trust of what you have done for her. But this new, quieting self appreciation cannot come to any of us so long as we measure our achievements against superhuman power to change reality and perform other impossibilities.

Actually, the experience of helplessness is a spiritual one, Mrs. T, making the discrimination between what we can do and what God can do.

If you let it overwhelm you, your child will know it. She will feel the end of strain and tension in you and instead of resentfully demanding that her summer circumstances be made different, be freed to consider doing what is possible with them.

It could be a most valuable experience for her.

White spots on our nails are supposed to mark each little white line we tell. Actually, the spots are due to air between the layers. Rough manicuring, which may injure the nails, can cause the condition.
