Lodge Is Nixon Preference GOP Closes Ranks On Eve Of Nomination

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI)—Battle-weary Republicans closed ranks after a four-day convention struggle today to adopt a compromise platform and nominate Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the White House.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, was expected to be named Nixon's vice presidential running mate for the 1960 presidential election. However, Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, GOP national chairman, was not yet counted out.

The way was cleared for tonight's climactic session when the platform committee reshaped planks on civil rights, defense and foreign policy to meet Nixon's demands.

The overhauled planks did not go all the way to fit the pattern set by Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in their secret negotiations last weekend. But Nixon's headquarters indicated they were satisfactory, and Southern leaders abandoned their battle against them.

Rockefeller issued an early morning statement saying he was disappointed with parts of the civil rights plank but was willing to go along with it.

President Eisenhower gave the Republicans their cues for the 1960 campaign Tuesday night in his appearance before the convention.

Gaining On Timber Fires

By United Press International

Firefighters appeared to have turned the corner today in their week-long struggle against a rash of killer fires which have scorched some 600,000 acres and taken 11 lives in the western portions of the United States and Canada.

The latest deaths occurred when the fourth fire-fighting airplane to crash during the current outbreak fell Tuesday killing its two crewmen.

Hundreds of fires still flared, but there were some signs of hope. The giant Wallowa-Whitman fire in Oregon was reported 75 per cent under control, and all but four blazes in Washington had been ringed.

In California an estimated 800 men are battling a new breakthrough on the western flank of the Los Padres National Forest fire, which has already left more than 11,000 acres charred.

A fire in Six Rivers National Forest on the Smith River was out of control in extremely rugged country southeast of Crescent City, Calif. An 1,800-acre blaze in Stanislaus National Forest was controlled Tuesday night.

Chosen Fourth Time Victory For Faubus

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—

Gov. Orval E. Faubus early today won an overwhelming victory in the Arkansas Democratic primary, assuring him an unprecedented fourth term as governor. With 2,226 of 2,227 precincts reporting, unofficial totals gave Faubus 211,152 votes. His closest opponents were Joe C. Hardin with 58,000 votes and Bruce Bennett with 52,825. H. E. Williams polled 29,218 votes and Hal Millsap Jr. 8,891.

Faubus, whose popularity in defying the federal integration order in 1957 carried him to a third term victory in 1958, combined a carryover from his integration policies with the record of his administration in securing 60 per cent of this year's vote.

Cities Agree On Water Rates

Canadian River Dam Is Virtually Assured

The Canadian River Municipal

Water Authority virtually became a reality today when six southern cities, which had violently objected to proposed water rates, agreed to accept the terms and sign a contract.

Mayor Ed Myatt learned of the decision of the six cities this morning during the city commission meeting when he received a phone call from Amarillo Mayor A. F. Madison.

"This virtually cinches the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority," Myatt told the commission meeting. A July 11 proposal, which included water rates from the proposed project, was violently objected to by the six southern most cities in the project — Slaton, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Lamesa, Levelland and Brownfield.

However, in a meeting today officials from these cities agreed to accept the July 11 proposal.

Myatt said delegations from the various cities in the project would meet at Plainview "around Sept. 10" to officially sign the contracts.

The proposal will be presented to voters in each of the cities this fall, Myatt said, probably in the form of a special election.

In other business today, the commission approved a paving program which will include work on the following streets:

The 900 block of S. Nelson; 500 S. Gillispie; 1300 and 1400 W. Bond; 300 N. Rose; 23rd Street at the Travis School; 1500 and 1600 E. Harvester; 200 N. Warren; 900 W. 18th; and 1500 E. Browning.

The cost of the paving project would not be known until bids on it are opened Aug. 23.

Two bids were received on city property at the old Reeves Air Force Base south of Pampa.

However, the commissioners decided to study the two bids before awarding one of them. No figures were announced.

Bids for the installation of new doors at the city hall also were (See CITIES, Page 3)

Gov. Rockefeller Agrees To 'Hit Trail' For Nixon

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon today got Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's agreement to campaign for Nixon from coast to coast in the forthcoming campaign.

Nixon, assured of nomination for president at the Republican national convention tonight, met with Rockefeller and the New York delegation this morning.

The vice president disclosed that Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.), a determined advocate of a strong civil rights plank, would second his nomination tonight.

Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon will nominate Nixon.

Rockefeller, wearing a big "Nixon-for-President" button, emerged from the meeting with the vice president and said he would campaign for Nixon's victory in November. Nixon interrupted to say he wanted Rockefeller's active backing not only in New York but in other states.

Nixon said he had formed "some ideas" about the party's vice presidential candidate after consultations with President Eisenhower, Rockefeller and other Republican leaders.

But he said he is withholding any final choice until he can confer with some 25 or 30 top leaders after his own nomination. He held up the possibility that the discussions on the vice presidency might delay the nomination of the second man until Thursday.

Nixon went on to face southern delegates from Alabama, Florida and Louisiana. He conceded that southern delegates may be unhappy about the revised GOP platform but told them their choice was that or letting more liberal Democrats "take over control of the country."

"If Harry Byrd can sit down with Walter Reuther, if Lyndon and Jack can sit down together

after what they said about each other—we Republicans can get together," he said.

U.S. Help In Congo Asked
By Lumumba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congo

Premier Patrice Lumumba today asked for United States help to make the Congo a "unified, strong and democratic" country.

The 35-year-old African leader made the statement when he arrived at Washington in a drizzling rain for two days of talks with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other U.S. officials on the future of his strife-torn young nation.

After receiving a 19-gun salute, Lumumba said in an airport speech: "We wish the Republic of Congo to be unified, strong and prosperous. We desire true democracy in our country."

He added he was "confident we will find in the United States the aid we desire."

Referring to the Congo disorders, now being quieted by the United Nations, Lumumba said, "The recent unhappy events which you all know about were not our fault."

Herter told him his talks here would bring "increasingly close and beneficial" U.S. ties with the Congo.

Eisenhower warned Republicans in an informal speech today to stay out of the political "gutters" of right and left.

Speaking with deep favor, Eisenhower admonished his party to fight for "middle of the road government."

The President spoke at a breakfast meeting with GOP leaders and officials at the Republican national convention prepared to adopt its 1960 platform and nominate Vice President Richard M.

Nixon for the White House.

Eisenhower breakfasted with members of the Republican National Committee, GOP senators, representatives, governors and members of his own Cabinet.

It was a farewell meeting with the party leaders before his departure with Mrs. Eisenhower for Denver. It was his last message as President to a Republican convention.

He reminded the leaders that he would be in office for another six months. He said they should take this into consideration in drafting their platform because "you can't put out a platform saying what the Republicans are going to do until there is some effort to tell what I'm going to do."

This was a good natured reference to GOP platform differences, now apparently resolved, which the President said were examples of healthy party action in forging a common policy.

He went on to say that from what he knew of the newly re-

of a jet reconnaissance plane shot down by Red planes July 1.

The vote was 9-2, with only Communist Poland supporting Russia.

By exactly the same votes, the council supported a U.S. resolution for an impartial investigation of the incident and an Italian resolution asking that International Red Cross representatives be permitted to see two survivors captured by the Russians.

But the Soviet Union killed these resolutions. "Its 'no' votes constituted vetoes, the 88th and 89th cast by Russia in the council.

Western diplomats said neutralist delegates who have supported some Soviet positions in the past were upset by the vetoes. Even Ceylon and Tunisia, traditional cold war "neutralists," voted against the Soviet Union.

On top of this, Lodge spread on the record evidence of Soviet spy flights near Alaska and trawler activities off the East Coast to demonstrate the "hypocrisy" of Russia's charge that the RB-47 Arctic flight constituted "aggression."

Lodge probably would not return for more battles in the Security Council if he is nominated in Chicago to be the Republican vice presidential candidate.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov said Russia would consider requests of relatives to see 1st Lt. John R. McKone of Tonganoxie, Kan., and 1st Lt. Freeman B. Olmstead, of Elmira, N.Y., who survived the ill-fated flight. But he made no promises.

Lodge said the Russian veto of the U.S. proposal for an international investigation showed the Kremlin did not believe its own charge that the plane was over Soviet territory when it was shot down.

The United States contended the plane never came closer than 30 miles to the Soviet coast.

U.S. Help In Congo Asked By Lumumba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba today asked for United States help to make the Congo a "united, strong and democratic" country.

The 35-year-old African leader made the statement when he arrived at Washington in a drizzling rain for two days of talks with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other U.S. officials on the future of his strife-torn young nation.

After receiving a 19-gun salute, Lumumba said in an airport speech: "We wish the Republic of Congo to be unified, strong and prosperous. We desire true democracy in our country."

He added he was "confident we will find in the United States the aid we desire."

Referring to the Congo disorders, now being quieted by the United Nations, Lumumba said, "The recent unhappy events which you all know about were not our fault."

Herter told him his talks here would bring "increasingly close and beneficial" U.S. ties with the Congo.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon wants Henry Cabot Lodge as his running mate in the 1960 presidential election.

The only other man still in the running as far as Nixon is concerned is Republican Chairman Thurston B. Morton. Nixon might give Morton the nod if there were a pressing need to please disgruntled conservatives. But Morton is rated only an outside bet.

Informed sources said Nixon has decided Lodge's record as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations would make him a valuable campaign partner in an election year of international tensions.

President Eisenhower also rates Lodge tops. But he has left the choice strictly up to Nixon.

Except for Morton, every other vice presidential contender has been eliminated, for all practical purposes.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who might have had the vice presidential nomination for the asking, has taken himself out of the picture. He resisted new draft movements Tuesday and said that if his name were placed in nomination for second billing "I would rise to ask that it be withdrawn."

The GOP convention was scheduled to vote its vice presidential choice tonight, but Nixon raised the possibility that the balloting for second place on the ticket might be postponed until Thursday. This would give Nixon more time to discuss his choice with party leaders.

Some Republicans continue to balk at the selection of Lodge and are expected to urge Nixon to authorize an open fight for vice president. Gov. Harold Handley of

Victory Scored By Lodge Over Russ In RB47 Case

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge pointed for the political arena in Chicago today packing a thumping cold war moral victory over the Soviet Union in the RB-47 case.

In what may have been his last Security Council clash with Russia, Lodge Tuesday night overwhelmingly defeated a Soviet attempt to win U.N. condemnation of the United States for the flight of a jet reconnaissance plane shot down by Red planes July 1.

The vote was 9-2, with only Communist Poland supporting Russia.

By exactly the same votes, the council supported a U.S. resolution for an impartial investigation of the incident and an Italian resolution asking that International Red Cross representatives be permitted to see two survivors captured by the Russians.

But the Soviet Union killed these resolutions. "Its 'no' votes constituted vetoes, the 88th and 89th cast by Russia in the council.

Western diplomats said neutralist delegates who have supported some Soviet positions in the past were upset by the vetoes. Even Ceylon and Tunisia, traditional cold war "neutralists," voted against the Soviet Union.

On top of this, Lodge spread on the record evidence of Soviet spy flights near Alaska and trawler activities off the East Coast to demonstrate the "hypocrisy" of Russia's charge that the RB-47 Arctic flight constituted "aggression."

Lodge probably would not return for more battles in the Security Council if he is nominated in Chicago to be the Republican vice presidential candidate.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov said Russia would consider requests of relatives to see 1st Lt. John R. McKone of Tonganoxie, Kan., and 1st Lt. Freeman B. Olmstead, of Elmira, N.Y., who survived the ill-fated flight. But he made no promises.

Lodge said the Russian veto of the U.S. proposal for an international investigation showed the Kremlin did not believe its own charge that the plane was over Soviet territory when it was shot down.

The United States contended the plane never came closer than 30 miles to the Soviet coast.

Ike Admonished Republicans: 'Stick To Middle Of The Road'

CHICAGO (UPI)—President Eisenhower warned Republicans in an informal speech today to stay out of the political "gutters" of right and left.

Speaking with deep favor, Eisenhower admonished his party to fight for "middle of the road government."

The President spoke at a breakfast meeting with GOP leaders and officials as the Republican national convention prepared to adopt its 1960 platform and nominate Vice President Richard M.

Nixon for the White House.

Eisenhower breakfasted with members of the Republican National Committee, GOP senators, representatives, governors and members of his own Cabinet.

It was a farewell meeting with the party leaders before his departure with Mrs. Eisenhower for Denver. It was his last message as President to a Republican convention.

He reminded the leaders that he would be in office for another six months. He said they should take this into consideration in drafting their platform because "you can't put out a platform saying what the Republicans are going to do until there is some effort to tell what I'm going to do."

This was a good natured reference to GOP platform differences, now apparently resolved, which the President said were examples of healthy party action in forging a common policy.

He went on to say that from what he knew of the newly re-

Official Visit Today By Rotary Governor

Pampa Rotarians today were urged by District Governor Bruce M. Pember of Slaton to fully support the district conference which will be held here in March. Pember spoke at today's Rotary Club luncheon.

While here, Pember also conferred on club business with Rotary president Richard E. Batson and secretary Gene F. Groom. This was the official yearly visit to the Pampa club by Pember.

Pember, a Rotarian for 15 years, was elected district governor of Rotary International at the annual convention at Miami in June.

"Each year this world-wide service organization continues to grow in numbers and in strength," Batson said today.

During the past fiscal year, 405 new Rotary Clubs have been organized in 47 countries, bringing the total number of clubs to an all-time high of more than 10,600.

"With fellowship and service to others as its keynote, Rotary provides common ground for nearly 500,000 business and professional executives throughout the world," Pember told the Rotarians.

Potter Jury Indicts Davis

AMARILLO (UPI)—The Potter County grand jury Tuesday indicted Lester Leroy Davis, former "kingpin" of Amarillo gambling, as a principal in making a false certificate on a bill of sale.

Davis now operates a night club near Lawton, Okla. He is the fifth person to be indicted by the grand jury.

The other four, all linked with Davis in a gambling protection racket by witnesses before a House General Investigating Committee last March, have been released on $2,000 bond.

Davis' bond was also set at $2,000.

Ike Captures Convention In Challenging Soviets

INTERNATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE, Chicago (UPI)—President Eisenhower, proudly defending his years in the White House, hurled a twin challenge Tuesday night at Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and Sen. John F. Kennedy.

In a speech which brought the Republican National Convention to its emotional peak, Eisenhower challenged Khrushchev to worldwide elections under United Nations auspices to find out whether mankind wants to live under freedom or Communism.

To Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, his challenge was: Try to persuade the American people to turn against an administration record of "unprecedented prosperity... the strongest security system in the world... more Americans today employed, at higher wages and with more take-home pay than ever before in our history."

Eisenhower predicted Kennedy would lose and Khrushchev would say "no."

"The truth — the whole truth" will lead the nation to elect a Republican to succeed him, Eisenhower said, "and that will be a blessing for America."

As for "the Soviet dictator" Khrushchev, Eisenhower said "challenge him to make this test: 'Will he agree to the holding of free elections under the sponsorship of the United Nations—to permit people everywhere — in every nation and on every continent, to vote on one single, simple issue: 'That issue is: Do you want to live under a Communist regime or under a free system such as found in the United States?'"

Eisenhower answered his own challenge. "You know what the answer to that is—no," he said. (See CONVENTION, Page 3)

Youth Soaks Up Red Ideas

HAVANA (UPI)—Delegates to a Red-tinged Latin American Youth Congress gathered in Havana today to begin work on a master plan for exporting Fidel Castro's anti-U.S. revolution to their home capitals.

The "symbolic" opening of the congress came during a massive 26th of July revolutionary celebration in the Sierra Maestra Tuesday night, when Castro denounced the United States as the "sworn enemy" of all Latin people.

Young representatives from Peru, Venezuela, Argentina, Mexico and other South and Central American republics joined in denouncing U.S. "aggression."

They were gathered around a hard core of well known Communist sympathizers and "Yankee-baiters" led by Jacobo Arbenz Guzman, exiled former president of Guatemala whose pro-Red regime was overthrown in 1954.

A Curious Perspective Of The Body Politic

By DICK WEST
United Press International

INTERNATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE, Chicago (UPI)—I believe in looking at all sides of a situation, which is how I came to be an authority on Republican rear.

If you need any information on the napes of necks, shoulder blades, hip bones or Achilles tendons of GOP bigwigs, let me know. Chances are I have it in my hindpart dossier.

I collected a ream or two of such data while viewing a session of the Republican convention from the platform which juts out from one end of the stockyard auditorium.

Being on the platform gives a person, to say the least, a curious perspective of the body politic. For orientation purposes, let us think of the platform as a small ship. If thinking like that makes you seasick, you can conjure up your own simile.

The rostrum at the front of the platform represents the bow of the ship. This is the place where the convention orators stand while the trade winds are blowing. Behind it is the flying bridge, manned by program director George Murphy.

Down below in the engine room are the television prompter operators, the concealed cameramen and other technicians. My own seat was back on the poop deck.

From this vantage point, I had a forward view of the speakers as they walked along the runway to the rostrum. But after that, it changed to an uphill vista overlooking rumped rumps.

The delegates and spectators, and those watching on TV, see only the upper front part of the speakers, a prospect which takes in nothing but arm waving and finger pointing gestures.

It's a pity they can't see how some of the speakers gesticulate from behind. You can coax me into mentioning any names, but most of the orators I observed fell into three categories, which can be roughly defined as follows:

Dixie Doesn't Like It, But Can Live With It

CHICAGO (UPI)—Dixie leaders caucused early today and called an end to their civil rights fight, saying they didn't like the plank but could live with it.

Representatives of 10 southern states participated in the meeting and immediate action came from eight. The two other states, Texas and Louisiana, are expected to follow suit later today in caucuses.

The leaders are members of the Southern Association of Republican State Chairmen.

A spokesman for Vice President Richard M. Nixon issued a statement late Tuesday night that the embattled plank was acceptable to the expected presidential nominee.

Florida Chairman C. Harold Alexander said there would be no move to call for a roll call when the platform report comes to the convention floor, and there would be no floor fight.

"I don't contemplate or anticipate any next move," Alexander said.

He said the plank as it finally emerged after almost two weeks of action and days of haggling was not palatable to the South, but "it is one we can live with and campaign on."

"It leaves a lot to be desired," he added.

He said he felt the plank was more moderate than was the first draft in the subcommittee and indicated that exclusion of particular specific language was the key. George Reeve, Louisiana chairman, had said the problem

Strange Gas Fells Workers

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—Forty-eight workers at a biscuit company plant were hospitalized Tuesday night suffering dizziness and fainting spells from inhaling an unidentified gas.

Ambulances and police cars were used to rush the victims to two local hospitals. A doctor at Wesley Long Hospital theorized the gas was similar to propane or butane. He said many of the dizziness cases were the result of mass hysteria.

All but two of the victims of the mysterious gas at the Gladiola Biscuit Co., were released after treatment.

Death Toll 3 In Rhodesia

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (UPI)—European and native troops patrolled the streets of Bulawayo today in search of hoodlums who rampaged through the African settlement in a drunken orgy of looting and burning.

The official death toll of three days of bloody rioting by thousands of blacks climbed to nine and may reach as high as 15. At least 60 persons were injured and 320 natives were arrested.

The worst of the violence appeared to have subsided as supplies ran out in looted beer halls but roving gangs of Africans kept the city tense.

Five Africans were killed Tuesday by police who fired into a menacing mob in an attempt to restore order. Authorities said they were the first Africans to die at the hands of police in Southern Rhodesia since 1894.

Dulles To Brief LBJ On Secrets

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—Allen Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, was scheduled to arrive at Lyndon Johnson's ranch tonight to give the vice-presidential nominee a super-secret foreign affairs briefing.

George Reedy, secretary of the Democratic policy committee, said Dulles will fly into Johnson City from Washington, and land at Johnson's private landing strip.

He said the briefing will contain the same information Dulles passed along to presidential nominee John F. Kennedy last week. Dulles will fly back to Washington Thursday morning.

Weekdays you can't even begin to get up with the Joneses by being one of something. In order to get up, you've gotta have two. When the young Smiths are to make the last payment on their new car the Joneses buy a car and the Smiths rest easy until they are a part of the family, too.

Buying a new home doesn't mean the Smiths can feel they have won. The Joneses already have a place on the lake. One home isn't enough to be impressive anymore. You've gotta have two. A TV set in the playroom, by the way, is your living room, of course? So has everybody else. But the Joneses have two. The second in the bedroom, or in junior's room, so that he can get his dreams without conflict with his father's choices.

Meaning of going to Europe? Your first trip isn't going to impress anybody. You'll enjoy your second trip more than your first. The Joneses will tell you. The Joneses, of course, have already made their trip.

Are you happy with one vacation a year — two weeks each summer? You won't be long. Not with the Joneses talking about their cruise.

So it goes. Just you get something paid for, it's possible to have at least two. One means you only have the sabbaticals. You need two to put yourself in the class of those who are in luxury.

What happens when the Smiths get two of everything, just like the Joneses — including two phone lines, so the teenagers have their own line and don't have to share it with the adults in the family?

All, by that time the Joneses are on three — beginning with the car, or their third bathroom, their third TV set.

There's just no such thing as keeping up with the Joneses any more. They don't know when to stop.

Homemaker loads tray-server in kitchen and brings it to terrace where it rests on ball bearings in a three-legged stand.

New Party Accessories Complement Both Summer, Winter Entertaining

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

New accessories beamed to catch the homemaker's eye emphasize that outdoor entertaining is an extension of indoor gaiety.

These aids to pleasantry have no seasonal restrictions on their use. They'll be equally appropriate on a sunny terrace in summer and by the fireside in winter.

In furtherance of outdoor fun, a dedicated handy man and cook-out king may build a great stone monument to the barbecue in a remote corner of the yard.

Some of us maintain that friendship, fresh air and good food can be enjoyed just as much in an attractive place convenient to the kitchen where trays of vittles need to be carried only a few feet.

Smaller, more compact charcoal broilers make outdoor cooking in limited spaces easier. Actual cooking surfaces are, however, ample.

The modern patio with an electric outdoor outlet permits the hostess to set up such aids as mosaic-patterned electric trays which, when plugged in, keep casseroles or coffee hot for second helpings.

Candle warmers for bases of casseroles and carafes are good. For keeping foods warm for limited periods of time.

Ingenious, inexpensive new tables are good examples of outdoor-indoor accessories.

These have a round, removable tray top and a folding chrome stand.

Panhellenic Schedules Amarillo Tea Sunday
A Panhellenic tea will be held Sunday at the First State Bank Building in Amarillo.

It is being held for girls planning to attend a college which doesn't allow summer rush for sororities. Girls going to West Texas State College, Canyon, are invited from 2:45 p.m.; Texas Tech, Lubbock, from 3:35 p.m.; all other schools, from 4:45 p.m.

with ball-bearing tips on the tops of the legs.

This ball-bearing arrangement permits the tray top to be rotated for Lazy Susan service.

The tray tops, in white, blue or gold, come in different designs. There are solid tops, tops with indented relish trays or cheese blocks, tops with cut-out holes for inserting matching ice buckets or punch bowls. They're made in 24- and 19-inch diameters.

Designed especially for outdoor patio suppers but with a future inside at morning coffee-hour table or a teen-age party is the latest addition to what American glass manufacturers call "snack sets."

This one couples an oval, milky white glass platter with a tall, two-cup mug. The design of the mug is said to keep coffee hot longer.

Other snack sets with conventional-size cups include some very pretty clear glass ones with modified triangular shapes for the plate.

The plates of all I've seen are large enough to use for a meat-and-salad supper.

Beauticians See New Style Trend

The Top O' Texas Unit 81 of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Assn. sent 11 members to Amarillo Sunday to see the new trend release which is fluid bangs.

The new trend was brought from the national convention of the association in Chicago by Burt Barelay and Marie Cooper.

Dear Abby... Happiness Found In Second Marriage

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A little over a year ago I wrote a letter to you and signed it "Young Widow". I told you that my first husband was hard to beat and I was afraid of a second marriage because so many people warned me that they never work out. You printed my letter asking your readers for first-hand experiences. You sent me a box that weighed twelve pounds and had 600 letters in it. They were letters from readers who were kind enough to share with me their personal experiences with a second marriage. I read every one of them, Abby. I married the man, and I want to say that I never knew I could find this much happiness again. How can I thank you and those wonderful women who wrote to me?

cause we are far from his first home. Should we tell our children about it?

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: Volunteer nothing. If it ever comes up, the truth won't hurt.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SORRY SARI: Next time a fellow asks you up to see his etchings, skip the art and look for the handwriting on the wall.

THANKFUL
DEAR THANKFUL: You already have.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 14-year-old daughter, (nearly 15) and she has the most beautiful red hair, a very pretty face — and is as stubborn as a mule. This is my problem: She insists on wearing her hair in rolls and curls, all tangled and wild-looking. She looks like a little old lady.

I try to tell her she would be so much prettier if she would fix her hair in a simple way to show its beauty. She says it's the style this way and all her friends think it looks "sharp". I realize that teenagers like to do what their friends do, but isn't there some way I can get through to her?

NOT LISTENED TO
DEAR NOT: I agree that some of the new hairdo's look like an unmade army cot, but teenagers must have what's "in" in order to be "way out". Let her fix her hair the way she wants to, (as long as she doesn't shave it or dye it). Next week it will be something else.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband was 19 he married a girl of 18. They lived together for 9 months and he was sent overseas. When he came back she told him she had fallen in love with another man and wanted a divorce. He tried with all his might to save his marriage, but it was hopeless. He gave her the divorce and she married the other man.

I met my husband a year after he was divorced. He told me his story and I found it all true. He is a fine Christian and is very active in the church, as I am. We have two daughters, 7 and 10.

We are raising them with high moral standards and have taught them that marriage is a life-long proposition. They know nothing of their father's first marriage and will probably never find out be-

The Last Angry Young Man

To anyone who has followed the career of Jimmy Piersall, the plight of the young Cleveland Indian outfielder is sad.

When the fleet Piersall first broke into the major leagues in 1952, he was troubled by a nervous condition. He always has been a high-strung player, quick to fly off the handle, and since he was a highly-promising rookie, the pressure on him was too much.

The Boston Red Sox management was unable to control Piersall, so he was shipped to Birmingham of the Southern Association.

In the Dixie Series, when Birmingham played Houston that year, Piersall's antics were unparalleled. During the games at Houston he went so far as to climb into the stands and shoot a fan with a water pistol.

After that Piersall was confined to a mental institution.

Blame Tribe Or Piersall?

Piersall had apparently settled down. But this year he has been a gigantic problem for the Cleveland management.

His most recent outburst was in a weekend series at Boston last week, and drew him a $100 fine and stern warning from American League president Joe Cronin, Piersall's former boss at Boston.

Dick Young, a New York scribe, raised a rather interesting question concerning the latest outburst by Piersall.

Who's the psycho; Piersall or the rest of the Indians.

Young says it's the rest of the team, along with manager Joe Gordon, who belong in an institution.

All-Star Broadcasts Here

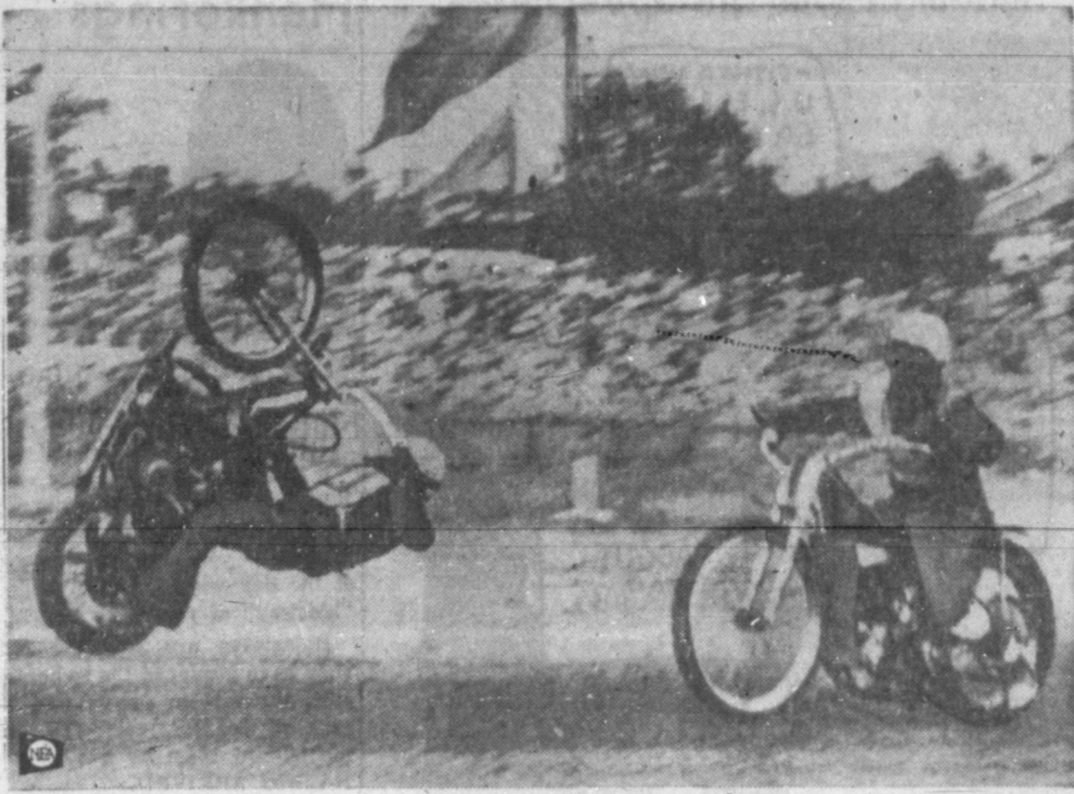

Football fans in this area who want to follow Pampa athletes in this summer's various all-star games will have the chance to do so.

Radio station KHHH has obtained exclusive broadcasting rights for the Coaching School All-Star basketball and football games from Dallas, and the Greenbelt Bowl football game at Childress.

A week from Thursday is the date for the basketball game and the football contest will be broadcast from the Cotton Bowl. Benny Stout is the only Pampa athlete in the football classic.

The Greenbelt Bowl game will be broadcast Aug. 12 from Childress. Stout and Buddy Rawls will be playing in this one.

The broadcast of the Coaching School game next week will be preceded by an interview with Harvester Coach Babe Curfman, who will be in Dallas for the week-long clinic and all-star games.

Gatesville Youth Leads Tournament

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Johnny Jones of Gatesville held the spotlight today as the State Junior Golf Tournament went into its second round.

Jones fired a two-under-par 69 Tuesday to whip Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur 6 and 4. Today he runs headlong into medalist George Case of San Antonio who ousted Melville Brown of Alvin 2 and 1.

The only other first round sub-par score was shot by Pat O'Brien of Artesia, N. M., who fired a 70 to beat Randy Wolff of Beaumont 3 and 2.

Johnny Garrison of Houston, runner-up medalist with a one-under-par qualifying round, was eight over par in the first round and lost to Jim Hurley of Port Arthur 1-up.

Oscar Goode Jr. of Austin failed by two strokes to qualify for the championship flight, but he won the long driving contest Tuesday with a 304 yard smack. Fleckman was runner-up with a 290 yard drive.

Other first round results in the championship flight:

Dennis Ewing, Dallas, defeated Jim Grant, San Antonio, 3 and 2.

Royce Roberts, Austin, defeated Curtis Laughlin, Eagle Lake, 2-up.

Pat Baker, Beaumont, defeated Davil Holcomb, Mission, 1-up.

William Wade, Freeport, defeated Dan Simpson, Austin, 7 and 5.

Don Custer, Corpus Christi, defeated Jay Nichols, Houston, 4 and 2.

Skyline League Faces Changes

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The Skyline Conference is dead.

Presidents of the eight universities in the mountain loop held a 10-hour wake for the conference Tuesday in Salt Lake City.

But they adjourned Tuesday night without setting a date for the funeral.

Instead, the boss men of Utah, Utah State, BYU, Denver, Colorado State, Montana, New Mexico and Wyoming universities issued an involved statement that emphasized none of the schools has withdrawn from the Skyline yet. They did admit a realignment soon is "indicated."

They added that "final consideration" of the league realignment has been deferred until the next meeting of the presidents' council. The retiring chairman, President William Morgan of Colorado State, said this was "regularly scheduled" for December. It could come earlier.

Utah, BYU and New Mexico met a few weeks ago in San Francisco with Washington State, Oregon, Oregon State, Arizona and Arizona State to outline plans for a new five-state loop. This would leave the others hanging as independents, or looking around for new athletic colleagues.

Harris Is Picked At 7-5 Odds

MONTREAL (UPI)—Texan Roy Harris is a 7-5 favorite to whip Canadian knockout artist Robert Cleroux tonight in their scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout at Dorlormier Stadium.

The fight, which will not be broadcast or televised, is expected to draw upwards of 15,000 fans and a gross gate of $45,000, according to promoter Eddie Quinn.

It will be the first big-time fight for Cleroux, who has scored 19 straight knockouts, Harris, though, was installed the favorite on the basis of his greater experience against more formidable rivals. He floyd on for 12 rounds against Floyd Patterson in their 1958 world title fight before losing on a knockout.

If Cleroux wins he will get a shot at Canadian heavyweight Champion George Chuvalo.

Other big blows for the winners were a triple by Claude Middleton and Max Stewart's double.

Dynamite Duo Spells T.N.T.

ROY SIEVERS ... Sox time bomb

Sievers, Freese Pace White Sox

By MILTON RICHMAN United Press International

Warned to quit monkeying around with fireworks, the White Sox are now using two sticks of dynamite — Roy Sievers and Gene Freese — to blast their way to a second straight American League pennant.

The White Sox received their warning last week in New York when the fire commissioner personally confiscated a carload of fireworks they planned to use to rile the Yankees.

Safely out of his jurisdiction in Boston Tuesday night, the White Sox bombed five Red Sox pitchers for 21 hits and a 16-3 victory that kept them a game in front of the pack.

Sievers and Freese led the barrage as Early Wynn breezed to his sixth victory. Sievers, who has jumped his average from .237 to .315 within the past month, drove in four runs with four hits, including his 17th homer. Freese had five hits. One was a three-run homer and two others were doubles.

Even little Nellie Fox joined in the shooting with his first homer of the year. Minnie Minoso also homered for the White Sox while Gary Geiger and Frank Malzone connected for Boston.

The Yankees beat the Indians, 6-1, the Athletics shaded the Orioles, 2-1, and the Tigers defeated the Senators, 5-3, in other AL games.

The Pirates stayed a half game ahead in the National League race with a 5-4 decision over the Cardinals while the second-place Braves beat the Giants, 3-1. The Reds downed the Dodgers, 4-1, and the Phillies broke a three-game losing streak with a 4-3 win over the Cubs.

Mickey Mantle brought the Yankees from behind in their game with the Indians by hitting his 25th homer with one on in the sixth inning. The Yanks made it one-sided with four more runs in the seventh. Art Ditmar won his eighth game with help from newly-acquired Luis Arroyo. Dick Stigman suffered the loss.

Kansas City put together four singles in the eighth off loser Milt Pappas to break a 1-1 tie and beat Baltimore. The victory went to Johnny Kucks, who contributed one of the singles during the eighth. Kucks gave up nine hits, eight of which were singles.

The Tigers overcame a three-run deficit to win but Clem La-

Nuxhall Didn't Expect Action

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—"I blew my top, but I didn't expect the fine and suspension together," was Cincinnati Reds pitcher Joe Nuxhall's comment Tuesday night regarding a $250 fine and 5-day suspension.

The punishment resulted from an argument over an umpire's decision in Chicago Monday. The fine and suspension were announced Tuesday by Warren Giles, president of the National League.

The big lefthander, here for the Dodger-Reds series, told newsmen, "the suspension hurts because I lose a pitching turn."

He said he believed George Altman of the Cubs stepped over his leg on a play at first.

"When the umpire made no sign," Nuxhall explained, "I went toward Altman to tag him. The fact he tried to elude me seems to indicate he also thought he baeed. But when the umpire (Ed Vargo) ruled him safe, I just blew my cork."

Red Manager Fred Hutchinson said he "didn't know what the going rate is" in the way of penalty for such an outburst.

Nuxhall, whose suspension began Tuesday, was in uniform, limbering up, prior to Tuesday night's meeting with the Dodgers in the Coliseum.

Professional Grid Wrapup

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders are predicting a crowd of about 35,000 for next Sunday's exhibition game with the Dallas Texans at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium.

Gene Perry, publicist for the Raiders, said reports have been circulating that the stadium, which seats 60,000, had been sold out.

"We've been swamped by phone calls asking if it were true we were sold out," Perry said.

ROSWELL, N. M. (UPI)—Coach Hank Stram said today he plans to take it easy on his Dallas Texans for the next few days.

He said he plans to send the squad through light one-day workouts in preparation for Sunday's exhibition opener against the Oakland Raiders at San Francisco.

The team returned to its training camp at New Mexico Military Institute Tuesday after two intersquad exhibition games in Texas Saturday and Monday.

Stram announced that four members of the squad were cut, and two more were added, bringing the strength to 62 players.

There was quite a letdown when it was discovered that Lorz had hopped a ride on one of those new-fangled gas buggies 10 miles from the start and had ridden for the next 10 miles of the grueling 26-mile, 385-yard course.

Weather Proof Stadium Set

BOSTON (UPI)—Construction on an ultra-modern stadium development, which would make the rain check a collector's item, is expected to get underway here in November.

Plans for the $25-million privately-financed project were disclosed Tuesday by Mayor John F. Collins who said the development would be "an expression of confidence in the future of the city."

The 51,000-seat stadium with a retractable weather proof dome would be the most spectacular feature of the building complex.

African Crossroads

A few weeks ago an immense area in the African jungle roughly one-third the size of the United States formally became a sovereign republic.

In turning over the rich Belgian Congo to the new Congo Republic government, the King of Belgium warned the citizens of the world's newest nation of the dangers facing them.

King Baudouin cited the African's lack of experience in self-government, the tribal irritation rife in stirring Africa, and readiness of foreign nations to exploit the vast new nation.

Perhaps those three factors can lead to destruction of the new republic.

But perhaps the first, the African's lack of experience in government, could be a boon to it.

Congo Republic is not the first of new African nations, nor will it be the last. By the end of 1960, the map of the dark continent will have to be thrown out and a new one made with the new names of the former European colonial areas.

What would happen to those new nations if their leaders should show enough foresight to limit their governments before they start? Such a turn of events is unlikely. In the areas where millions of still primitive peoples constitute the plebeiate, almost certainly powerful men will rise to head dictatorial governments.

After all, aren't the new nations attempting to form governments patterned after ours? What lessons could the western world learn if the new nations in Africa grasped the principles in our government which, unchecked, will lead to our destruction?

Probably one of the most basic of those principles would be dispelled from the new government if they would add to their bill of rights an additional one someone forgot to give to us: "That the government shall make no law abridging the freedom of trade and shall have no power to tax the earnings of individual citizens either directly or through their property."

That humanity is admirable only as it is self-reliant should be an easy concept for the new Africa to understand.

By the nature of his existence the African has always been self-reliant. They have lived for centuries, each man dying when he failed to produce for himself.

The African continent is rich in natural resources in a scale as yet still unknown. What mighty productive nations could be forged there if the leaders would create governments whose first concern is protection of individual freedom?

But probably instead they will duplicate our intricate bureaucratic governments which loot the productive to give to the unproductive, from each according to his ability to each according to his need.

The primitive life of the African today is nothing compared to the state of primitiveness to which we will fall by following that practice.

Advice Is Dangerous

A Cleveland heart specialist, Dr. Herman K. Hellerstein, says most Americans should substitute an "exercise break" for the coffee break.

It is the opinion of Doctor Hellerstein that we have become a sedentary bunch, given to relaxation while machines perform the heavy labor. To counteract this, the doctor suggests a brisk 15-minute walk instead of the 15-minute coffee break.

We rather suspect that when the wheel was invented, some caveman predicted the race would fall apart from lack of exercise. Every generation feels the next one is "getting soft." But, say Doctor Hellerstein is right, consider the implications: This is not an era when problems have one facet. Simply telling the American people to prolong their lives by taking an exercise break is one thing; but to suggest that they eliminate the coffee break is quite another.

What will the Latin American Greater Friendship & Coffee-Growing Mutual Aid Pact Nations hold an emergency meeting.

What will happen to our "friendly" neighbors if their coffee market is plummeted into limbo by a Yanqui fetish for longevity? If the North American coffee market is shot—and the Gringo takes 15 minutes with the barbells instead of a quarter of an hour over the coffee cup—the coffee nations will be in the very depths.

They will become angry with us, possibly stoning an embassy or two or maybe even doing something to Standard Oil or a banana plantation, owned by American businessmen.

They will threaten to take their custom to the Russians, who will show up with a trade delegation offering to swap snowshoes and fur hats for their coffee. The Central Americans have no use for snowshoes or fur hats, of course, and the Russians like their soft drinks in the form of tea, served hot in glasses and sucked up with noisy gusto.

But the Central Americans will be forced to wear snowshoes and fur hats and the Russians will be drinking coffee. Both peoples will be bitter, not with each other but with the U.S. for bringing the whole thing about.

We will have to give money to the Central Americans—possibly buying the fur hats and snowshoes they got from Russia, which will bring a howl of protest from the American Fur Hat Assn. and the Snowshoe-Makers Union which will demand high import duties.

Then we will have to subsidize the domestic fur hat and snowshoe industries, possibly allowing them to put their product in government loan, like cotton, or maybe burying the stuff in caves, as we did with butter, or pouring purple dye on the hats to make them unmarketable, as we did in the case of potatoes.

As the fur hats and snowshoes pile up, we would have to construct warehouses for them. Now, here we can take two routes. Either we can build the warehouses with public funds, or we can invite private industry to build them, with the government guaranteeing rental for 10 years at 12 per cent a year.

Meanwhile, all the Americans who now take exercise breaks are living to be 116 years, mas o menos, and there is a growing problem in geriatrics. The pressure for medical care for the elderly amounts on the Congress. We must provide more rest homes, retirement facilities, and medical care for oldsters who have exercised themselves into near-impairability. Social Security goes broke even faster than anticipated. Chaos!

The milk producers begin to clamor that the extinction of the coffee break has reduced the demand for cream and half-and-half. They want a law requiring everybody to drink six ounces of milk with every exercise break. Congress holds hearings. The results are in doubt.

Cuba — oh, Lord, as if we didn't have enough trouble with those people already! Well, the Cubans discover that without a coffee break, Americans are using

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — A long time ago (eight years is a long time ago) at a party in someone's apartment in New York I met a lean young man with an earnest face and his dream was to bring Mark Twain back to life. He looked about as much like Mark Twain as a raincoat resembles a submarine, but the dream was there and when the dream is there nothing else matters much. You have something going for you. His name, he said, was Hal Holbrook. We talked for half an hour about Twain and the lad said that at some small college and in some small halls more like clothes closets than public arenas he had proved that he could bring Twain back to life, only it wasn't very helpful in the money department.

About two years ago, again in a small hall down some long stairs in West 41st Street, Holbrook did the exhumation act and, this time, the whole array of Manhattan drama critics was there. Some 22 of them. And when he had finished, all 22 went out and inside 24 hours their words of unchecked praise had ringed the world. He had cables from London, Paris, Stockholm, a Berlin drama festival and theaters from Maine to California. He also began to have interviews for magazines and in time a book was put together. All about—Hal Holbrook was Mark Twain to the last wrinkle, white whisker and flick of cigar ash. To the inch.

We met again the other day. Holbrook now has a bank that looks on him with approval, more bookings than he can handle, has lost no earnestness or modesty and seems to feel that nothing remarkable has happened.

"It's just that dreams come true," he said. "If you have them — they do."

"We sat down and he said that what few people, except dedicated Twainians, knew was that things Sam Clemens said years and years ago fit today's events and crises like 25 gloves. Perfectly. "Give me six," I asked.

"All right. Let's start: 'To my knowledge I have no race, color or creed prejudices. I can stand any society. All I care to know is that a man is a human being. That's good enough for me. He can't be any worse.' Or 'Tracing is everything. The peach was once a bitter almond. Cauliflower is nothing but cabbage with a college education.' Fits our present drive for education, you see. I like also: 'If you tell the truth you don't have to remember anything. Some international leaders could absorb that one with benefit to all concerned.'"

"A thought for this year, with the campaigns on for president, is: 'Whenever you find yourself on the side of the majority, it is time to pause and reflect.' A commentary on today's ethics: 'If you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you. This is the principal difference between a dog and a man.' Also for home consumption: 'It is by the goodness of God that in our country we have these three unspeaking precious things: freedom of speech and freedom of conscience and the prudence never to practice either of them.' The one with real bite in it and one we ought to reflect upon often goes this way: 'I have no special regard for Satan; but I can at least claim that I have no prejudice against him. A person who has, for untold centuries, maintained the imposing position of spiritual head of four-fifths of the human race and political head of the whole of it, must be granted the possession of executive abilities of the loftiest order.'"

Will Rogers often uttered short and witty commentaries on Congress, the political scene and politicians of note. So did Twain. Their sentiments sometimes almost matched. Twain, said Holbrook, once said: "It could probably be shown by facts and figures less sugar, and they take this to be an anti-Castro counter-revolution by Yankee imperialists."

The Russians go about spreading word that Americans are too poor to drink coffee, whereas the Russians—just look!—have coffee coming out of their ears. What a triumph for the Communist economy over the decadent free enterprise system, comrades. Secretary of State Christian Herter and Cloak & Dagger Chief Dulles appear before closed meetings of the Senate Foreign Affairs and Preparedness Committees and you know what that means: more money for our foreign propaganda efforts to counteract the Red coup.

Tom Kuchel issues a statement: "Now is the time for statesmanship. I am for statesmanship, first and always. Columbia the Gem of the Ocean. We must not swerve, deter, undermine or assuage. But in moderation, and with statesmanship, I thank you."

Well, as you can clearly see, in this day and time a man cannot lightly accept advice like "take an exercise break." A thing like this could drive us into international complications and even into a very hot war.

It's all very well for doctors to worry about the state of our glands, but they ought to clear with the State Department before they pop off with dangerous stuff like this.

RADAR WITNESSED RB-47 SHOT DOWN BY 5 MIGS THAT FAILED TO FIRST FORCE IT OVER USSR TERRITORY

WASHINGTON — That RB-47 reconnaissance bomber was blasted out of the air by five of Russia's fastest and most powerful interceptors.

Using air-to-air rockets, the Red jets sent the 600-mph RB-47 down in flames in the Barents Sea, 12 to 20 miles east of Svyatol-Nos Cape, a 10-mile thumb extending from Russia's Kola Peninsula, adjoining northeastern Finland.

This indisputable evidence was obtained by a powerful radar station in Norway and a U.S. submarine in the area at the time of the murderous attack.

Following is the tragic story as recorded by these irrefutable sources:

The RB-47 was intercepted by the five MIGs over the Barents Sea some 40 miles off the Kola Peninsula. The big stratojet, equipped with new infra-red radar cameras capable of taking detailed photographs 500 miles distant, was returning from a reconnaissance flight that had taken it within 50 miles of the Soviet's huge missile base at Novaya Zemlya.

An island some 500 miles directly opposite the Kola Peninsula, Novaya Zemlya is known as Russia's "Arctic Cape Canaveral." In recent months, intelligence has reported much missile activity there, and it has become one of the most massively guarded areas in Russia.

The Red interceptors formed a U around the stratojet and by diving attacks sought to force it from the open sea to the Kola Peninsula. Captain Willard Palm, the 38-year-old Oak-Ridge, Tenn., pilot, tried desperately to break out of the deadly Red envelopment. But his 600-mph stratojet was unable to outrun the speedier MIGs.

Palm was under orders not to engage in combat, or to fire back if attacked.

Finally, unable to force Palm over Russian territory, the attacking interceptors riddle his reconnaissance bomber with rockets and 20-mm shells, and it crashed in the Barents Sea, 12 to 20 miles east of the projecting Svyatol Nos Cape.

WHAT IT WAS AFTER — That joint State Department-Air Force statement that the RB-47 was making an "electromagnetic survey to study deviations and anomalies in magnetism near the North Pole" is correct — as far as it goes.

This was part of the stratojet's mission — but only a minor part. The reconnaissance bomber, whose flight was labeled "Course X-Ray," had three far more important missions:

formation indicated this base was used in the Soviet's latest series of long-range ICBM tests in the Pacific.

To photograph certain Russian coastal areas to check on whether new missile bases are being built there.

To obtain data on the strength of Soviet radar and anti-jamming stations in this strategic northern region.

No time during the RB-47's reconnaissance did it fly over Russian territory.

Captain Palm's orders were to avoid that and he did. The closest he came to Soviet terrain was when his stratojet was shot down in flames over the open Barents Sea, 12 to 20 miles east of the projecting Svyatol Nos Cape off the Kola Peninsula.

He fulfilled his orders up to the moment of his heroic death.

MYSTERIOUS SILENCE — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge is still sputtering over the handling of the tragic RB-47 incident.

The UN diplomat is at loss as to why the U.S. didn't first announce it.

Lodge, who receives the daily top secret report of the Central Intelligence Agency, learned of the stratojet's loss several days after the Russians shot it down. He immediately called Secretary of State Herter and Defense Secretary Gates and urged the U.S. take the offensive by making this latest outrage known.

Gates told Lodge the matter was in the hands of the State Department. Herter, in turn, stated it was before President Eisenhower.

Later, Lodge was informed the President had decided to say nothing "for the present."

That was the last Lodge heard about the affair — until Radio Moscow proclaimed it to the world the day the Democratic convention opened in Los Angeles.

CASTRO-ITES — The Cuban Ministry of Commerce claims the butter supply there "has become normal again" as the result of a 350,000 lb. shipment of butter from satellite Poland. . . . Cuban students in Mexico and other Latin American countries have been notified they must immediately register with Cuban authorities "or suffer the consequences." . . . In other words, if the Cuban students don't register, their remittances from home will be cut off. . . . Representative Daniel Flood (D., Pa.), member of the House Military Appropriations Committee, states he has positive evidence that "the Castro government is controlled by international Reds. Havana is crawling with Czechs, Poles, Rumanians, Bulgarians, Russians and Red Chinese. The Castro regime is not a government of the Cuban people. It is a Soviet satellite."

Status Seekers Now Need A 'Hideaway'

If you are a status-seeker — and I have been one ever since — I switched from Gray to red sleeveholders — you must be dreaming of the day when you will have a "hideaway" of your very own.

Hideaways are now the rage. They have displaced the swimming pool, the foreign sports car, the pack of beagles, color TV, and the billiard room as a symbol of HAVING ARRIVED.

Owning a string of polo ponies is no longer enough. Neither is a grouse box in Scotland, a box at the opera, or an invitation to a Buckingham levee.

One must have a Hideaway. Hideaways have been considered moderately plush ever since Hernando sang so joyously about his, but it was not until the national conventions of this month that they became downright essential to true status-seekers.

Senator John Kennedy was the first to place his official stamp on the correctness of the Hideaway. Anyone who watched the Democratic convention on TV knows that the Senator's Hideaway received almost as much attention as the convention hall:

"The Senator is in his Hideaway," Mr. Huntley would say. "Kennedy cannot be reached at the moment — he is in his Hideaway," Mr. Cronkite would announce. "Senator Kennedy is conferring with his aides in his Hideaway," Mr. Daly would tell his listeners.

Not to be outdone by his then rival, Senator Lyndon Johnson had his Hideaway, to which he would retire at the drop of a seconding speech. And it may be assumed that Senator Symington had one, also.

It soon became quite evident anyone who amounted to anything at the Convention had a Hideaway.

The Republicans wasted little or no time in preparing Hideaways of their own.

Governor Rockefeller went the Democratic candidates one better — he announced in advance that he would have a Hideaway in Chicago, and then went on to give its location.

Not only its location, but its price—one hundred smackers a day.

Mr. Nixon has a Hideaway, but at the moment of going to press, has not revealed where it was, or what it was setting him back.

Since many of us who fell compelled to have a Hideaway of our own will not be able to afford one that costs what Mr. Rockefeller's does, and what Mr. Kennedy's must have, it is to be hoped that someone comes up with a Do-It-Yourself Hideaway Kit.

I have a nice place in my backyard for a Hideaway, provided I can find plans for a simple one. Say one about the size of a pup tent, into which I could retreat when pressures become too great, and take a snooze.

Quotes In The News

By United Press International

CHICAGO—President Eisenhower, acknowledging an eight-minute ovation at the Republican National Convention:

"There is no individual who has been in political life for five minutes who hasn't felt at times discouragement and disappointment. But such a demonstration as you have given my wife and I — is indeed a tribute that warms our hearts."

CHICAGO—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, telling delegates that his schedule for being photographed with every delegate at the GOP convention called for a photo every four to six seconds:

"If you don't believe it, just watch that assembly line when it starts."

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, presenting photographs to back up his charge that Soviet planes and vessels carry out espionage missions within five miles of U.S. territory:

"We shoot their planes with cameras. They shoot with rockets."

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Police Chief Darwin Covert, expressing confidence that crowds at a forthcoming jazz festival could be handled despite the disturbances that forced cancellation of the Newport, R.—, festival earlier this summer:

"We think we can handle jazz fans as easily as we handle basketball fans."

Walter Rogers Reports

Comments On August Session Of Congress

REFLECTION AND VISION
 With Congress in recess next month, national attention has shifted from legislative activity to the Democrat and Republican National Conventions being held this month in Los Angeles and Chicago. Nevertheless, when the Senate convenes on August 8 and the one week later, some of the most important bills of the session will demand a decision.

The leadership has indicated that among these measures will be the controversial proposals to increase and extend the minimum wage, to provide some medical care plan for the aged, to offer federal aid for school construction, and to encourage housing assistance and urban renewal. Several appropriation bills, including foreign aid and public works, also remain to be dealt with and it is likely that another farm bill will be introduced.

The Helium Bill, which is of particular importance to the people of the Panhandle, has been reported from committee in the Senate, and will presumably come before that body during the coming deliberations. The bill, of course, passed in the House of Representatives last May. It will prevent much of the present waste of a most vital resource. Although the number of bills is quite large, I am glad that the tions have been intensified by a less active demand for consumer goods. "As a result, confidence in the usual seasonal rebound in the economy has waned."

It is difficult to conceive of a recession severe enough to deal a serious blow to Kimberly-Clark, says Arthur Wiesenberger & Co. When things get rough, many people may make their car last another year, the firm notes.

"But in the kind of mild recession we are experiencing, it would be hard to picture him (or her) going without Kleenex or other disposable tissue papers in which Kimberly-Clark specializes."

We not only cannot afford a tranquilizer in the White House, but we also cannot indulge in any self-conscious hoopla or reckless experimentalism.

Our purposes seem clear. We must place a man in our highest office who will find traditionally American solutions to some very untraditional problems. He must be one who does not feel awkward when speaking of vision, determination, or imagination. He must understand that much of our economics thwarts the laws of supply and demand, that our present military strategy has largely been grafted onto World War II concepts, and that too often our diplomatic lives in the faded dream world of an atomic monopoly we no longer possess.

So I think that whether we are actively working in the Congress or waiting to participate in the forthcoming campaign, we all have the opportunity to think over the future's demands. Tough mindedness, obviously, will have its usual and important place. But we owe it to ourselves and to our children not to get stampeded into positions that are merely comfortable or viewpoints that merely stuffy. Our high and unchanging principles of government have stood with us through good times and bad, and they have certainly demonstrated that we need not fear enthusiasm or be intolerant of fresh air. Our lives and our position in the world today demonstrate the same thing.

Here is an easy hand that apparently crept into "Spotlight on Card Play." It is straightforward but it does illustrate an important point of play, which is that when your opponents attack a suit in which you hold the ace and no other high card and you must lose a trick in that suit some time it frequently pays to lose it right away.

West opens the kind of hearts against your nice normal four-spade contract and as the authors point out if you take the ace right away you will have lost the hand. If you lead the heart back your unking opponents will simply play two rounds of spades and dummy's trumps will be gone. You will probably try a desperation diamond finesse and wind up down two.

If you duck the heart as you should the opponents will be helpless. If they knock out dummy's ace of hearts you simply enter your hand with a club, ruff a heart and go after the trumps. You will lose one spade, one heart and one club.

If they try to kill off a ruff by leading ace and another trump you will draw the rest of the trumps and go after the diamond suit. If you guess where the king is you will make five odd; in any event you will make your contract.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — If your profit margins have been thinning recently, you have plenty of company, says Prentice-Hall in its weekly report on business.

Increasingly rough competition is keeping most prices in line, squeezing margins and shaving profits, the firm adds. "Initial second quarter reports suggest that pretax corporate earnings are likely to run about $1 billion below the $48 billion annual rate of the first three months of 1960," it says.

Richard T. Leahy of J. W. Sparks & Co. suggests traders look into the upside potential of Martin Co., a stock which recently recorded a new high in the face of a declining market. "It appears that Martin may well be seeking the higher levels indicated by recent technical studies."

Experienced observers are forecasting one of the bitterest election campaigns in decades that may distract attention from customary business plans, reports Hornblower & Weeks. Meanwhile, the firm points out, industrial activity has been slowing down and cutbacks in manufacturing opera-
