Enraged Khrushchev Threatens U.S.

Missing Three Days

Plane Crash Kills Tanners

The bodies of a Pampa couple were found at 10:30 a.m. today in the wreckage of their light plane near Forgan, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Tanner had been missing since Sunday night when they left on a business flight from Hutchinson County Airport in Borger to Liberal, Kansas.

A search plane of the Kansas Civil Air Patrol found the wreckage this morning and it is believed that a helicopter is en route to bring the bodies out of the rough country.

Tanner owned the Tanner Drilling Company here and lived at 210 E. Francis.

The wreckage of the Piper Apache was found 25 miles southeast and off course of its destination. Forgan is eight miles north of Beaver, Okla.

Clayton Husted, Pampa contractor who took part in the search yesterday, said, "I flew right over Beaver and the area where the plane was found. I know I was within five miles of the crash site, but guess I missed seeing the plane because of bad weather."

Husted and 10 other pilots searched areas from Borger to Liberal all day yesterday. This was the first day that the CAP had conducted a plane search. The weather was extremely hazardous and, according to Husted, "We were lucky that another plane or two didn't come up missing."

Tanner was on a business trip to Liberal and left the Borger airport at 8 p.m. Sunday, but did not file a flight plan with the CAA, hence it was approximately 24 hours before a search was begun.

According to Husted, the Tanners were carrying a heavy clutch housing in the ship. He said it is possible that the couple ran into turbulent weather and that the clutch housing, rolling loose in the plane, could have been instrumen-

SERVES ULTIMATUM — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is surrounded by newsmen in front of the Soviet Embassy in Paris after handing an ultimatum to President Eisenhower and saying if its conditions were not met immediately he would leave Paris. The conditions were that the President recognize that the U.S. made a mistake when it sent intelligence planes into Russia. Khrushchev did not spell it out, but what he wanted was a public apology from the American President. U.S. sources said there was no chance that Mr. Eisenhower would apologize to Khrushchev.

Alludes To President As 'Thief Caught Red Handed'

PARIS (UPI) — Nikita Khrushchev, almost incoherent with rage at repeated booing, told a press conference today that further American spy flights over Russia would lead inevitably to war.

He compared President Eisenhower to a "thief caught redhanded in his theft."

The booing and jeering among 1,500 to 2,000 persons at Khrushchev's farewell news conference was unprecedented treatment of a head of state. Khrushchev responded with a fist pounding display of pyrotechnics in which he reminded the crowd he was head of the powerful Soviet Union.

In a rapid series of angry statements and threats, Khrushchev repeated all of his insults of Eisenhower and the United States, threatened to renew nuclear bomb tests, to end the general disarmament talks, and to reopen the Berlin crisis at a time of his own choosing.

He threatened to break off the Geneva disarmament talks and ing off the summit talks and throwing the world into a new crisis with the threat of war greater than in years.

He reached his most threatening vein today when he spoke of the U-2 incident and his decision to write a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany—a treaty that might divide Germany forever and cut off Western lifelines to West Berlin.

Russia has reached the end of its patience on Germany, he said. Then he turned to his Camp (See ENRAGED, Page 3)

Rise And Fall Of Summit

Where Do We Go From Here?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Why and how did the summit meeting fail? And where do East and West go from here? The chief of the United Press International diplomatic staff in Washington analyzes the reasons and effects in the following dispatch.)

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

PARIS (UPI) — What wrecked the summit conference? The question comes today from all parts of the world. Stripped of diplomatic verbiage, the following questions and answers tell the story.

Question: When was this summit arranged, and with what objectives?

Answer: The Western big three, President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, and French President Charles de Gaulle, decided at a meeting in Paris last December to invite Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to summit talks.

All four agreed to meet on May 18 and on a tentative agenda: disarmament, the future of divided Berlin, German reunification, and the improvement of East-West relations.

Q: What led up to the Allied invitation to Khrushchev?

A: Khrushchev's ultimatum in November, 1958, in which he demanded the Allies quit West Berlin within six months. He later removed his time limit.

Q: What were the major Allied hopes for the conference?

A: They hoped to make some progress in disarmament by getting Khrushchev to agree on some specific items, such as banning nuclear warheads in outer space and putting in an inspection system.

U.S. Defense Setup Is Due To Be Altered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Collapse of the summit negotiations brought stern warnings from key legislators today that the nation must tighten its defenses against a Russian war of nerves.

There also were indications that a thorough investigation of the U-2 spy plane incident which touched off the current crisis.

But responsible leaders in both houses of Congress felt that win international relations in a delicate state, this was no time for any headline-grabbing inquiry into U.S. intelligence and diplomacy efforts.

Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said in one of the soberest warnings from Capitol Hill: "This country should make every effort to get its de-

Nixon Discloses Recent Russ Spy Incident In U.S.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today that two Soviet spies were arrested in Massachusetts last fall at the moment Russian Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was talking peace to the United Nations in New York.

Nixon did not elaborate on that statement, made in a speech to a breakfast of the Syracuse Herald Journal and Syracuse Press Club. He said there had been other Russian spy incidents which he could not discuss because "it would expose our intelligence sources."

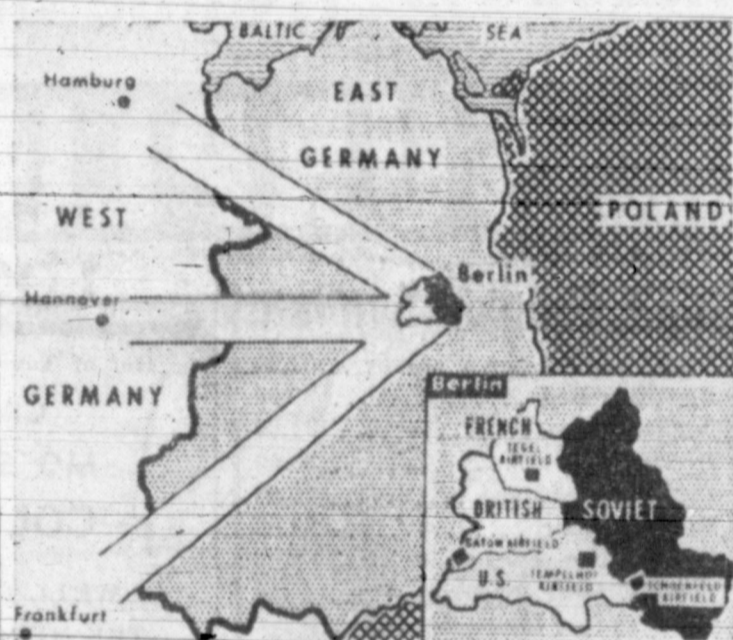

"Khrushchev could not have been surprised or horrified when he learned of the U-2," Nixon said. "There was no gap here in Soviet intelligence when he was here."

Nixon said in a reply to a question that if Russia sentences American spy plane pilot Francis G. Powers to death, the United States should "reappraise its attitude toward Soviet agents caught in the United States."

"The most recent Russian spy convicted here, Rudolph Ivanovich Abel, was sentenced to 30 years in prison. There have been suggestions that he might be exchanged for Powers. The last spies executed by the United States were Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, both American citizens, who died in the Sing Sing electric chair in 1953 for atomic espionage."

Nixon said he believed President Eisenhower followed the proper course in discontinuing the U-2 flights after Powers' capture because "once an intelligence source has been compromised it is no longer used."

Nixon said the United States "will take the whole problem of surprise attack before the United Nations so the world will see that we did what we had to do to assure a world of peace with safety."

PREPARING DRASTIC MOVES — Communist sources at the summit meeting in Paris have made it known that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is preparing drastic moves against West Berlin. Communist diplomats leaked the word that Khrushchev would fly to East Berlin and sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany. The Russian leader has said that such a treaty would end Western rights in West Berlin and that any attempt to save West Berlin by force would be met with force. This newspaper shows the air corridors from the West into Berlin. The inset shows Berlin itself and its divisions.

Kennedy Easy Victor In Maryland Primary

By MALCOLM ALLEN
United Press International

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy's easy victory in the Maryland Democratic presidential primary kept his smooth-running bandwagon rolling today and gave him 24 more delegate votes at the Democratic National Convention.

He polled 70 per cent of Tuesday's Maryland Democratic vote and ran far ahead of Sen. Wayne L. Morse of Oregon, his only major opponent.

Returns from 1,321 of 1,355 precincts gave Kennedy 193,320 votes, Morse 47,073 and an unstructured delegation to the national convention 24,683. About 11,000 votes were divided between two political unknowns.

The Maryland law requires that presidential primary voters be given a chance to vote for an unstructured delegation. If a candidate wins, however, the delegates are bound to support him on the first ballot and as long as their conscience tells them he has a chance to win the presidential nomination.

With Maryland's new votes, the United Press International count of committed and known first-ballot preferences of national-convention delegates shows Kennedy with 275½ votes. The convention majority needed to win is 741 votes.

There were no candidates entered in the Republican presidential primary in Maryland.

Radar Catches Five — Police issued five warnings and two traffic tickets while using their radar setup for two hours and 10 minutes Tuesday.

The radar was used in the 1500 block of N. Hobart where four warnings and one ticket were issued; and in the 400 block of N. Hobart for one hour where one warning and one ticket were given.

Damaging Thunderstorms Hit Hardest In Panhandle

By United Press International
Thunderstorms and showers, coming on the heels of damaging hailstorms, torrential rains and tornado funnels, drenched wide areas of Texas today.

The rains hit hardest at the Panhandle and in North Central Texas, but the Weather Bureau said thunderheads were building up in all parts of the state today. General overnight rains fell from Lubbock to Laredo.

They were heaviest in Clarendon in the Panhandle where 4.34 inches fell. Rains measuring more than one inch drenched the area between Gainesville and Sherman.

Two tornado funnels were reported Tuesday in the Fritch and Wayside areas, but both apparently touched ground in open country and no damage was done.

Winds logged at near hurricane force lashed the Panhandle as three areas of the state were put under severe weather forecasts.

Blinding rain and hail ranging from the size of marbles to quarters hit Clarendon in Donley County. Mrs. Lonnie Cornell, wife of the Donley County sheriff, said the hail ripped leaves off trees, blanketed the earth like snow and probably damaged the cotton crop.

Clarendon got 3.61 inches of rain in three hours before the storm slackened into a drizzle. The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal got reports of lashing winds and hail near Anton, about 26 miles northwest of Lubbock, and at the Halfway community about 45 miles north.

At the time the Weather Bureau issued its severe weather forecast a storm line reached from near Brownfield, 45 miles southwest of Lubbock to near (See PANHANDLE, Page 3)

Ell McCarley Killed Tuesday In Car Crash

Pampa jeweler Ell McCarley, 70, was killed instantly at 5:15 p.m. yesterday when his car collided with another driven by Paul Marshall, 29, of Childress, a motor vehicle inspector for the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The accident occurred in Donley County on U.S. Highway 257, a mile west of Hedley, during a heavy rainstorm.

The DPS inspector was traveling east and Mr. McCarley west when the collision happened.

Interment rites will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow for Mr. McCarley in Dukenick-Carrichan Funeral home with the Rev. W. W. Adcock, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating.

Mr. McCarley, who lived at 822 N. Frost, was born Dec. 23, 1889 at Blue Ridge in Collins County, Texas. He had been engaged in the jewelry business and was active in ranching and farming since he was 17.

He previously operated jewelry businesses in Dallas, Longview, Mineral Wells and Borger prior to opening his store in Pampa.

At the time of death Mr. McCarley owned a stock farm in Collins County and previously had farms in Floyd County and New Mexico.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church of Pampa, the Masonic Order, Tannehill Lodge 52 in Dallas, and various Rotary clubs.

His wife, Mary Barnett, whom he married in 1918, died in 1931. Their survivors include two sons, Jack J. McCarley of Mineral Wells, and H. E. McCarley of Pampa. (See MCCARLEY, Page 3)

Skellytown Woman Killed In Crash

A grinding, two-car crash at 5 p.m. yesterday on the Borger highway took the life of one person and left another in critical condition.

Dead on arrival at Highland General Hospital was Mrs. Mattie A. Chaney, 33, of Skellytown. Still in critical condition today was Mrs. Maggie H. Rush, 42, of Borger, the occupant of the other car.

John Chaney, age unknown, and Leslie William Rush, 50, are listed as being in fair condition.

The accident occurred three miles west of Pampa on Highway 152. Chaney was traveling west in an Oldsmobile, and Rush was driving east in a Chevrolet when the collision occurred in the north lane of the highway.

Highway Patrol Sgt. E. G. Albers said Rush told investigating officers he dozed off to sleep at the wheel of the car and it strayed into the left-hand lane.

Chaney swerved to the left trying to avoid the collision, but Rush's car smashed into the right side of his Oldsmobile.

Chaney's car was demolished, but Albers said Rush's vehicle might be repaired.

Albers said the highway was a "damp" when the accident occurred. (See WRECK, Page 3)

Ex-Comrade Speaks Out Against Fidel

MIAMI (UPI) — The list of former supporters who have turned against Cuban Premier Castro includes one whose only counter-revolutionary weapon is her soft voice.

She is a slender brunette known as Pepita whom supporters of both Castro and deposed President Fulgencio Batista have threatened to kill on sight. The threats, coming daily in the mail forced her to flee from Havana to Miami May 1.

Five nights a week Pepita broadcasts news, interviews, and political commentary into Cuba by short wave radio.

Officials at Perry LeFors Field said wind gusts reached 35 mph at the peak of activity, but no damage was reported. There was no hail except in the McLean area where small, soft stones fell. Southeasterly winds reached 40 mph in velocity at McLean between 3:30 and 4 p.m. Tuesday. A total of one and a half inches fell between 3:30 and 8 p.m.

Ceremonies Set At Capri

New Movie House Opening Thursday

The plush new Capri Theater, considered to be one of the most modern movie houses in the Southwest, throws open its doors to the public at 11 a.m. Thursday.

The grand opening originally was scheduled for last Thursday, but the need to finish up some minor details necessitated the change of dates.

An open house will last from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. The first feature of "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," starring Doris Day and David Niven will begin at 7 p.m.

Paul West, city manager for Video Independent Theaters, Inc., said tickets to opening night performances would be sold during the open house to help eliminate box office lines Thursday night.

Orchids will be given to all women attending the open house, and children will receive balloons. Short subjects will be shown occasionally for the patrons, and Maxine Milliron will present a program of organ music.

The Capri will feature the most modern motion picture equipment and fixtures.

There will be approximately 900 Kroehler push-back seats which can be locked at an erect position, or pushed back for a more relaxed position.

The first three seats on each row of the left-center section will be wider than the average theater seats. The rows are spaced 36 inches apart, providing ample leg room for the tallest customers.

West said the original plans called for around 1,000 seats, but he decided to sacrifice about 100 of them to provide more space between rows.

The screen is a white plastic model, 30 by 40 feet in size. It can be used for a giant-sized picture 18 by 34 feet, or a Cinema scope 18 by 40 feet picture. The draperies around the screen (See MOVIE, Page 3)

hony Home Repair Sales Season Here

The coming of warm weather adds a number of things, not of them good," warns the Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber's Solicitors Review Board issued a warning today to agents to beware of door-to-door salesmen dealing in hoaxes and money schemes.

While pointing out that many of trades and industries these unscrupulous salesmen imitate are legitimate enterprises the chamber warns home-owners to be wary of unsolicited offers.

Chief among these are the siding salesman, pest control operators, and roofing men.

Siding salesmen who offer to remodel the exterior of a home in return for its use as a model home should be viewed with suspicion.

The roofing salesman who tells you he was just passing by and noticed your roof needs repair should also be double-checked before any business negotiations are started.

Other favorites of the home-repair racketeers are the pest control operator, who may carry his own termite and bug to convince you, the plants and shrubs huckster who tells you it is impossible to distinguish quality, and the high-pressure operator who will use a variety of slick ruses to gain entrance to your home.

The latter group includes touring magazine subscription salesmen, appliance salesmen, and itinerant handymen.

The chamber emphasizes that the majority of salesmen engaged in these pursuits represent reputable firms but advises home-owners to check with the Solicitors' Review Board when in doubt.

Most reputable business firms make home solicitations only when they have a qualified lead on the prospect. As a general rule, salesmen who cannot show evidence that you have been referred to them by legitimate sources should be checked thoroughly by the customer.

Khrushchev Critters Hit West Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—Fallout from Khrushchev-devastated summit conference settled on the streets of West Berlin today.

Residents of the free community, 310 miles inside the Iron Curtain, felt they never have been in water jeopardy since the total blockade which dictator Joseph Stalin clamped around them in 1948.

Throughout the city, small groups gathered to discuss the news of the summit failure and speculate when and how the communists would renew their assault on West Berlin independence. The atmosphere was one of quiet resignation, rather than fear or panic.

The visit of the flamboyant Soviet premier to the Eastern sector on his way home from Paris was expected by many to result in a new ultimatum for the withdrawal of U.S., British and French forces in West Berlin. One of the key issues the Paris meeting was supposed to have resolved.

Considered less imminent was Khrushchev's threat to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany, thus putting Berlin's exposed communication lifelines to the West in the hands of satellite functionaries and setting the stage for another blockade.

East German leaders themselves said Tuesday night no such treaty would be signed pending further attempts to negotiate a peace including both Germanies.

West-Berliners had not expected the summit meeting to result in any major agreements about their status, but they had hoped it would help remove them from the shadow of a Communist coup.

"Anything can happen now," was the typical reaction of workers, businessmen, cabbies and the like who were interviewed on the street.

Ike Deserves Consolation

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press International

PARIS (UPI)—If you like Ike, now is the time to tell him so. No man ever needed consolation and sympathy more than does the old soldier who dreamed of becoming the president of the United States.

Here watched his dream dissolve in the acid of Russian invective and insult.

Politics are supposed to stop at the oceans' edges, so forget for the moment about precincts and primaries. President Eisenhower is here as the representative of all the American people, young and old, right wing and left wing, Democrats and Republicans.

Back through history heads of governments have been subjected to some infuriating and humiliating treatment as they went about the business of their nations.

Hitler dished it out roughly to Neville Chamberlain in the days of appeasement and Stalin was ready to tie into any statesman at any time.

But it is the considered judgment of the American correspondents here that no President of the United States has ever had to endure what Eisenhower has taken here from Nikita Khrushchev.

They came face to face only once—at the opening session of the summit conference Tuesday and here is what happened:

Khrushchev did not offer to shake hands with Eisenhower either on arrival or departure.

He withdrew his invitation to Ike to visit Russia.

He said he would have no dealings with a nation or its president who made "treachery" the basis of its relations with the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev did not do these things in a small room with a few people. He did it before the heads of government of two other nations and their foreign ministers.

He made sure his remarks got world-wide attention by releasing his speech to the world press as fast as possible.

Back in his Army days Ike had the reputation of being a man with a fairly fast temper. Nobody has seen him lose it here in Paris.

He often has said he would go anywhere at any time in the cause of peace, and he went the full distance in the past 48 hours.

Tulla about 15 miles north of Lubbock.

This line, carrying winds up to 50 miles per hour, moved east-northeast. Lubbock got a hard rain and marble-sized hail. But the storm missed Amarillo.

Winds logged up to 65 miles per hour churned up a dust storm at Wink in West Texas Tuesday afternoon, cutting visibility to zero.

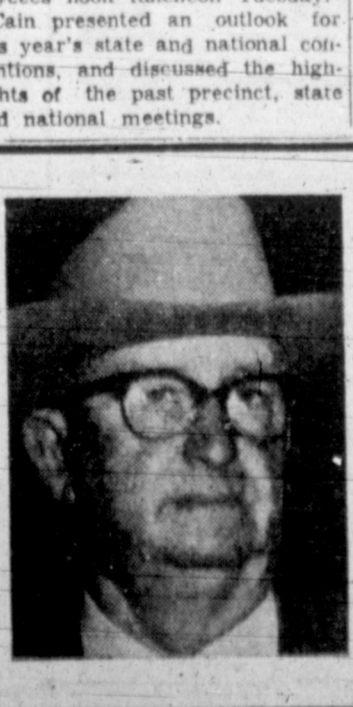

Wink was in a severe weather area ranging from 60 miles either side of a line from Pecos to San Angelo. Heavy rain hit Shamrock, Borger and Plainview where winds clocked up to 70 miles per hour lashed the city at the height of a hailstorm.

Jaycees Hear Cain's Views On Conventions

My Sincere THANKS To The Many People Who SUPPORTED ME IN THE CONSTABLE'S RACE

ENRAGED

David talks last fall with Eisenhower and said "I almost opened my mouth" to speak of U.S. intelligence flights over Russia.

"I was on the point of speaking about it but the atmosphere was so convivial with President Eisenhower telling me to call him my friend in English and using the same word to me in Russian and I thought: Why raise this matter with this friend then?"

"Then I thought there was something rather fishy about this friend of mine and it turned out I was right."

"When we caught the thief red-handed and said 'You are a thief,' the thief replied 'No, I am not a thief. I have a thief-like policy, that's all.'"

Khrushchev, in a black and raging mood, said between moments of booing: "Such flights are absolutely inadmissible. They can only bring about a war. If the flights continue, war is bound to come."

He said there are no real major disputes between the United States and Russia that should lead to war.

Earlier in the day Khrushchev snubbed Eisenhower when he paid farewell calls only on French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The boos greeting Khrushchev today were in sharp contrast to the cheers that greeted Eisenhower today when he drove through the streets of Paris to visit Notre-Dame Cathedral.

French people came up to him and urged him to be firm against the Russians.

Khrushchev launched into a savage attack on West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and West Germany, and turned the audience of 1,500 to 2,000 newsmen into a bedlam of boos. There was some scattered applause.

Communist sources in Paris already have said he was preparing to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany, a move that would precipitate a new Berlin crisis and possibly could lead to war if he made good on all his threats.

East Berlin Communist, however, denied that any precipitate moves toward a peace treaty were imminent.

Most of his vituperation was directed against Eisenhower and the United States. He rejected Eisenhower's proposal for a new "open skies" inspection program under United Nations supervision and said this would lead to "new aggression." He called it new espionage under U.N. control.

He lambasted the United States repeatedly for the spy flights and said "no one shall intimidate the Soviet Union. We will not be broken."

Khrushchev said he was not satisfied with Eisenhower's undertaking to halt spy flights "until he leaves the White House" and said this would mean only they would be suspended until next January.

He followed this with his offer to hold another summit conference once Eisenhower is out of the White House and said even this could be impossible if spy flights are resumed.

Jewelry Store Sold To Cizon's

Leon Cizon, owner of Cizon's Jewelers of Amarillo, announced today the purchase of Robert's Jewelers, 112 West Foster.

Cizon, who has been connected with the jewelry business in the Panhandle for many years, in announcing the purchase stated, "I have always had my eye on Pampa as a progressive, growing community and have looked forward to the day I might serve the many friends I made here over the years."

The parent Cizon store is located in Amarillo and the organization recently acquired an outlet in Big Spring.

The local store will continue under the management of Charles Roberts and he will be assisted by Gordon Cizon, the owner's son, Ray Vess, the organization's vice-president, will be supervisor.

In the near future, redecorating and remodeling of the store will take place and the formal opening is planned for the first part of June.

Chamber Drive Making Progress

Chamber of Commerce Manager E. O. Wedgeworth said the membership campaign drive was progressing smoothly, although no figures on the number of new establishments which have been signed are available.

The 21 team leaders met in the chamber office this morning for their first check-in coffee.

Wedgeworth reminded the leaders that there are only two days remaining in the drive.

tem to guard against surprise attack. They also thought it possible to sign a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests.

Q: What, so far, as is known, did the Soviets hope to achieve at the time the conference was arranged?

A: Eisenhower and the other Western leaders believed that Khrushchev wanted to make some progress on disarmament, principally to reduce his nation's economic burden. They also thought he wanted to get a nuclear test ban.

They knew, too, that he would like to pressure them into negotiating separate treaties with East and West Berlin and pulling Western forces out of West Berlin. But the allies had no intention of giving in on those points.

Khrushchev, at the time of the summit preparations, acted as though he honestly wanted better relations with the West.

Q: What was the major reason for the conference collapse?

A: The immediate reason was Khrushchev's refusal to meet with Eisenhower unless the president apologized for the spy plane incident promised to punish those responsible for it, and pledged never to send another military intelligence craft over the Soviet Union.

Q: What were Khrushchev's real reasons for wrecking the conference?

A: They are believed to include various internal problems such as the fact that important elements in the Soviet army and party leadership were increasingly discontented with his softer policy toward the West. So were the Chinese Communists, who opposed the summit from the start.

Q: What efforts did the West make to meet Khrushchev's conditions?

A: Eisenhower announced that the spy flights had been suspended and would not be resumed as long as he was president. He offered to submit a new and broader "open skies" plan for international air inspection under United Nations control. He said such a system would eliminate the need for aerial espionage.

Q: What efforts did the Soviet Union make to meet the West half-way?

A: None, at least publicly.

Q: What are the most serious effects of the summit failure?

A: The most serious immediate effect probably is that it has restored all the bitterness of the cold war, has increased tensions, and has heightened the chances of "war by misadventure."

It poses the threat of armed conflict if Russia goes through with its promise to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany and cut off Allied access to West Berlin.

Q: Where, briefly, does the West go from here?

A: It plans to keep trying at Geneva to get agreement on a nuclear test ban and some sort of arms reduction. It must prepare for a resumption of the cold war, and look to its defenses.

Mr. Khrushchev, or his successor, is ready to talk in moderate terms.

Q: What, in the Western view, is Russia likely to do?

A: First, it will step up its propaganda. It already has resumed jamming American and British broadcasts. Khrushchev may sign a separate peace treaty with his East German Communist regime. Communist infiltration and subversion in the Middle East, Southeast Asia and Latin America probably will increase.

Royal Yacht Lies At Royal Anchor

SCARBOROUGH, Tobago (UPI)—Princess Margaret's honeymoon yacht was anchored off Tobago's Pigeon Point today, protected from the curious by a cordon of police.

Margaret and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, were expected to remain in seclusion for the next day or so. West Indian Gov. Gen. Lord Hailes indicated Tuesday, however, they may drive through Scarborough and nearby Plymouth during their stay here.

The royal yacht Britannia arrived in Tobago Tuesday. Two launch loads of officials, headed by Hailes, came from nearby Trinidad to pay their respects.

Margaret appealed through Hailes to the people of Tobago to regard her sojourn here with her husband as "an ordinary visit by a honeymoon couple."

Police cordoned off Pigeon Point to safeguard their privacy.

The huge yacht lies off the northwest tip of Robinson Crusoe's Island, identified by local tradition as the spot where Daniel Defoe's fictional hero lived his castaway existence.

Rogers Discusses Summit Tragedy

Representative Walter Rogers discussed the mutual security program and the tragic ending of the summit conference at the chamber of commerce's legislative committee breakfast at Coronado Inn this morning.

Approximately 70 persons were at the breakfast, the largest crowd it has ever drawn, chamber manager E. O. Wedgeworth said.

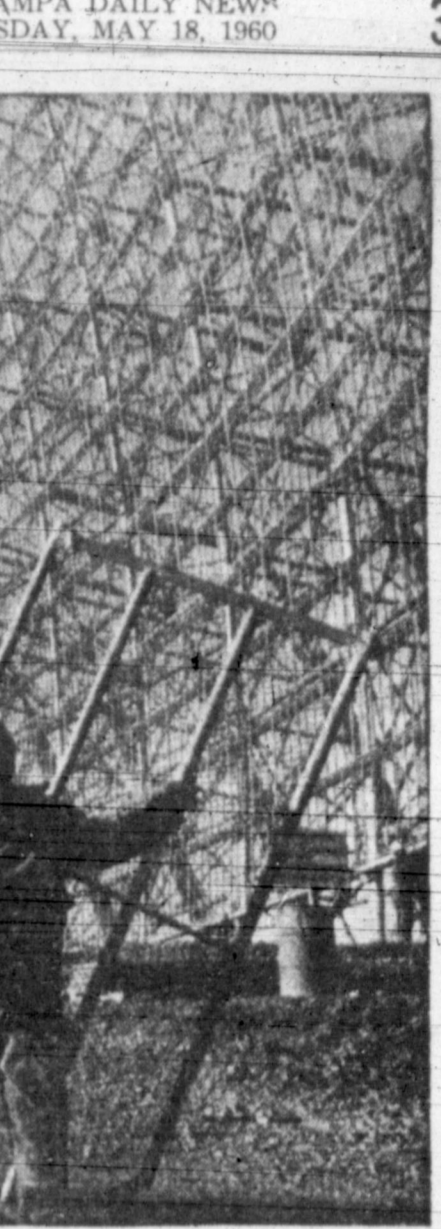

The mutual security program is the main topic before Congress at this time, Rogers pointed out during his address.

THINGS WILL IMPROVE—When covered with snow, these seats at Skelly Stadium in Tulsa, O'la., provide a provocative pattern. It must have all blown from one direction as there seems to be very little snow on the stands at right.

CLOTHES HORSE—Really suited to his name, thoroughbred colt "Have Tux" travels in style after being "doiled" up by Renon Cartright in Arcadia, Calif. This horseplay took place at the Santa Anita Race Track as part of a retailers and clothers convention in nearby Los Angeles.

MATING CALL—A miss with shipshapely topography, Suzie Bowden is getting the message with some aid from a ship-to-shore radiotelephone in San Francisco. She's tuning in on a transitorized RCA Cruisephone, which was among the marine electronic equipment on display at the Sports and Boat Show. Susie made a nice display, too.

THIS IS THE LIFE—As he wears a business suit and carries a brief case, Don Ibsen proves that freeways and trains are not the only means of getting to work in San Francisco. Ibsen, the originator of water-skiing, did this on the Golden Gate for the National Sports and Boat Show.

Mrs. E. A. McLennan Entertains WW Executive Board At Luncheon Meet

Mrs. E. A. McLennan, president of Woodrow Wilson PTA was hostess for a salad luncheon in her home Tuesday for the executive committee board and the incoming officers and chairmen. After lunch a brief business meeting was held with Mrs. McLennan presiding. Delegates, who attended the Spring PTA Conference, in Berger reported on highlights of the workshops attended. The success of other units that have all night meetings with both parents attending was discussed. These units have several fathers who hold the elected offices it was brought out. The committee chairmen were urged to train a successor. Mrs. McLennan reported on the impressive joint installation of officers of the Pampa units sponsored by City Council PTA. She said that Mrs. Jack Foster would give the charge of office to Woodrow Wilson's officers at the regular meeting held Thursday. The project chairman, Mrs. Burl Graham Jr., stated that the portrait of H. A. Yoder was completed and would be presented to the school at the Thursday meeting. To show appreciation of the executive board committee, Mrs. Jack Graham, presented Mrs. McLennan with a gold flower bowl. Mrs. John Brewer read the unit's 1959-60 history that will be presented for approval to the general meeting. It was reported that all holders of the beginners Red Cross First Aid cards can renew them by taking a six hour refresher course. This course will count on the twelve hours needed for the PTA study club courses, it was announced. Members were given material from the Spring Conference to aid them in work for next year. Present were: Floyd Smith, school principal and incoming president, Mrs. Sam Goodlett, Mrs. C. Rowden Bus Benton, Lonnie Tisdale, John Brewer, George Neef Jr., Bill Oler, Billy J. # Merten Club Has Topic On Banking

Merten Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. A. M. Nash, 721 N. West. Mrs. Bob Brandon conducted a brief business meeting open to all with roll call. "Do you and your husband have a joint bank account?" Mrs. Brandon presented the program on banking and advised "when writing a check be sure the name of the payee is near the pay to, so that nothing can be altered. Always start the amount of the check near the edge so no more can be added." She said "Never erase or write over anything on a check. If a check has been lost, let the bank know at once, so payment can be stopped."

During the recreation hour, a prize was won by Mrs. Brandon. Following adjournment, members toured the iris garden of Mrs. Nash. Refreshments were served during the social hour to Mrs. Vard Smith, T. G. Groves, Jack Howard, Walter Pumphrey, Jack Howard and to a guest, Mrs. J. A. Carlson. It was announced that the next meeting will be in the Court House annex on May 17 at 1:30 p.m., when the Merten club will hostess to all home demonstration clubs in the county. A film on Alaska is to be shown.

Manners Makes Friends

When little boys and girls first show themselves fascinated by matches and gas jets, let us tell them the Greek myth of Prometheus. A small child's feeling for fire is important. Psychologists know this. They know that sometimes people grow up to become so fascinated by the destructive aspect of fire's power that they never see its beneficial power. We call such people " arsonists."

I can think of no better way to insure a small child's respect for the goodness of fire than by telling him the story of the king giant who brought it to man from heaven. He gave us the power to keep ourselves warm against cold, to cook our food, to shape metal into plows, cooking pots, into sleds, skates and toys.

When we come on a little boy or girl playing with matches or gas flame, we tend to speak angrily out of our frightened awareness of fire's destructive power. If we are very angry, we suggest that fire is something that can destroy us. When our small one gets mad enough at us to want to punish us, he may recall fire as the weapon to use against us. Just as a precaution against his making this destructive connection, we introduce him to fire with the story of Prometheus.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a wonderful man and have a happy marriage, with the exception of one thing. My husband's first wife is dead and he has the habit of referring to her as "my wife". I wonder what he thinks I am? Now, I realize that he was married to her for more than 23 years and she is bound to come up in his conversation, but shouldn't he refer to her as "my former wife" or use her name? HIS WIFE (LIVING) DEAR WIFE: Don't sit there and stew. When he refers to his deceased wife as "my wife", remind him ever so gently that YOU are his wife. You shouldn't do this any more than 20 or 30 times before his changes the needle.

DEAR ABBY: As funeral directors we had the sad duty of caring for a beautiful little 16-month-old girl this week. She had swallowed dishwashing detergent. The ordinary powder type used in automatic dishwashers. After treating her for two days, the doctors lost the battle to save her life. The alarming fact about all this is that the doctor checked the supermarkets personally and found seven such powers on display. Only one carried a warning to the user and none suggested an antidote. You have millions of readers, Abby. Won't you warn mothers to keep detergents out of their children's reach? If printed, this could save many tears. The kind I saw this morning. Thank you. MRS. W. S.

Changes In African Life Depicted In Film Shown Sharp Group Meeting

"African Rhythm" was the topic for the Monday evening meeting of the Sharp Group of First Christian Church held in the Quila and Priscilla classroom. Mrs. Lloyd Laramore showed a film "African Rhythm" which gave the changes in life in Africa; also the changes in African music and dances. The devotional, "Go Forth, O Child of God" was given by Mrs. Burl Graham Jr. followed by a piano solo, "In Christ There Is No East Or West" played by Mrs. John Gill. During the business session, Mrs. Bob Swanson, chairman, announced that the Sharp Group will give a coffee on Thursday morning, June 9 for Mrs. Ruth Musgrave, missionary from Africa, who will be a guest of the church during the School of Missions, June 5-10.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MUREL LAWRENCE. Once, when the earth was young, there were two giants - brothers. One of them was commissioned to give all living creatures some special life-preserving gift. In great excitement he arranged eight "hobnobs" - a snake, a pig, their kind; to bear and their kind he gave swiftness and to other animals claws, fangs, venom and a scaly armor. Indeed, he was so lavish with his protective equipment that when man's turn came he had none left. So his brother, the giant whom the old Greeks called Prometheus, rescued him from his dilemma. Ascending to heaven, Prometheus lit a torch at the chariot of the sun which he returned to earth - and gave man the self-preserving gift of fire.

When little boys and girls first show themselves fascinated by matches and gas jets, let us tell them the Greek myth of Prometheus. A small child's feeling for fire is important. Psychologists know this. They know that sometimes people grow up to become so fascinated by the destructive aspect of fire's power that they never see its beneficial power. # Miss Mary Reeve Receives Special Recognition At Horace Mann Meet

"The Story of Our First Year of School" was presented by pupils of Mrs. A. E. Berry, Mrs. Roy Whisenand and Miss Yvonne Goss, auditor, at the Horace Mann PTA meeting held Thursday in the school auditorium. A surprise presentation of a PTA Texas life membership was made by Sam Begert, school principal, to Miss Mary Reeve, whose teaching tenure of 25 years at Horace Mann is the longest record in the school. "It is a pleasure to work with such a dedicated and deserving person as Miss Reeve," Mrs. Begert said in his presentation speech.

Mrs. John Holt Jr., outgoing president, was presented with a past president's pin by Mr. Begert, who expressed appreciation to Mrs. Holt for her work in PTA during the past year. Mr. Begert spoke to pre-school mothers concerning enrollment procedures for the coming year. A final treasurer's report was given by Mrs. H. L. Meers. Historian's report was given by Mrs. C. A. Huff.

Mrs. Holt introduced the following officers, who will be in charge of PTA activities next year: Mrs. Edwin Southard, president; Paul Turner, vice president; Wilburn West, recording secretary; Harry Gordon, corresponding secretary; James Reeves, treasurer; Ralph Collingsworth, historian; John Holt Jr., parliamentarian; Camara Carruth and Jack Tabor, City Council representatives.

Committee chairmen for next year are Mrs. Holt, budget and finance; Leon Daugherty, hospitality; James Futch, membership.

Hostesses at the registration tables were Mrs. W. H. Copenhaver, Leon Daugherty and Canara Carruth.

Brownie Troop Participates In Flag Ceremony

SKELLYTOWN - Brownie Troop 88 recently conducted the flag ceremony at Rebekah Lodge meeting held in IOOF Hall. Participating in the ceremony were Jackie Gamble color bearer, Billie Woodward and Kathy Luther, color guards; Donna Hucksins, Lynda Stephenson, Marcia Atkins, Brenda Lemons and LaDonna Russell. Miss Emily Hucksins, immediate leader, led the troop in Brownie Scout Promise and songs. During troop meetings, scouts are practicing for the outdoor flag ceremony to be presented at Day Camp; several troop meetings have been spent making embroidered-lea towels for gifts to mothers; and the troop plans to plant flowers in Lions' Club Park. Other troop members are Char-lotte Allen, Angie Fields, Brenda Bellows, Karen Lockwood, Linda Nelson and Vickie Ogle.

Meeting closed with prayer led by Mr. Begert. During the social hour, punch and cookies were served by Misses Dale Gibson, Wilburn West and W. H. Self. Hostesses at the registration tables were Mrs. W. H. Copenhaver, Leon Daugherty and Canara Carruth.

How long has it been since... You took a critical look at yourself and decided to get rid of a fault or to develop a latent talent? You have, through your own initiative, turned a new acquaintance into a friend? You have arranged your days so there is always something to look forward to when you awaken in the morning? You have put your mind to learning a new skill? You have given a party, not because you were supposed to, but simply because you wanted to gather your friends around your hearth for a pleasant evening? You have answered "I'll do my best" instead of "I couldn't possibly" when asked to do a difficult job? You have "wasted" a whole day, spending it doing only things you really wanted to do, and got so much enjoyment out of the day you knew it wasn't really wasted but was a day well spent? You have found real satisfaction in being helpful to someone else? You have made a list of the things you had been putting off doing for months and began at the top and worked through the whole list, leaving your mind free of all those nagging demands? You have done something about your looks, drastic enough to provoke comment from your friends - like getting a completely different hairdo, losing a noticeable amount of weight, taking the pains to get together a really becoming costume? You have made time for reading by spending less sitting like a lump before a TV set? If your honest answer to most of the questions is, "a long, long, long time" chances are you are bored without even knowing why.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a wonderful man and have a happy marriage, with the exception of one thing. My husband's first wife is dead and he has the habit of referring to her as "my wife". I wonder what he thinks I am? Now, I realize that he was married to her for more than 23 years and she is bound to come up in his conversation, but shouldn't he refer to her as "my former wife" or use her name? HIS WIFE (LIVING) DEAR WIFE: Don't sit there and stew. When he refers to his deceased wife as "my wife", remind him ever so gently that YOU are his wife. You shouldn't do this any more than 20 or 30 times before his changes the needle.

DEAR ABBY: As funeral directors we had the sad duty of caring for a beautiful little 16-month-old girl this week. She had swallowed dishwashing detergent. The ordinary powder type used in automatic dishwashers. After treating her for two days, the doctors lost the battle to save her life. The alarming fact about all this is that the doctor checked the supermarkets personally and found seven such powers on display. Only one carried a warning to the user and none suggested an antidote. You have millions of readers, Abby. Won't you warn mothers to keep detergents out of their children's reach? If printed, this could save many tears. The kind I saw this morning. Thank you. MRS. W. S.

Primary Elections Becoming More Important Each Year

The news these days is filled with reports of primary elections, which are commanding the attention of people in various states all over the country. These elections have assumed an even greater importance in this presidential year, and are certain to offer a demonstration of the vigor of our democracy can work.

Our own great state held its primary this past week, and I want to say how grateful and proud I am for the confidence and friendship expressed in me by the people of the Panhandle. In addition to an earnest word of thanks for this expression, I want to say that I will do all within my power to justify the confidence in my efforts to uphold the best possible government.

Our government functions at its best with the cooperation and liaison between the representative and the represented. I would like to reassert that I solicit and ever welcome the expression and views of every single person in every one of the 28 counties in the 18th Congressional District of Texas in order to more effectively discharge my duties and responsibilities as your congressman. I trust I may continue to receive them by mail, telephone, verbally, or in any other manner.

The process of selecting a democratic government is always a tremendously exciting experience. No matter what the views one may hold, the right to express those views in a free election, as was done in the Texas primary, seems so highly, I am deeply honored to have so many friends and supporters among the fine people of the 18th District, and I want you all to know that I shall continue to work for the Panhandle of Texas to the best of my ability within the Congress of the United States.

Groom Personals

Mrs. Rocio Hall of Groom has been elected vice president of the Student Wives Auxiliary at the Kirkville College of Osteopathy at Kirkville, Mo.

Mr. Hall is a sophomore there. Mrs. Hall received her BS degree in speech education at Sul Ross College.

Mr. and Mrs. George Britten, whose baby has been in the hospital since its birth March 11, has now gone home. He weighs 5 pounds, 2 ounces.

Members of the Church of Christ had a fellowship meeting and supper at the community club house Monday night. Hostesses were Mrs. Allen Knorr, Mrs. John London and Mrs. Leroy Littlefield.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Farley were their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Campbell of Finney, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Farley and Miss Hattie Farley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson of Pampa, Mrs. Wilma Miller and Helen Hickox of Amarillo, and Mrs. Maude Wilson were the Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Hickox of Lark.

Mrs. Rae Davis of Pampa visited Mr. and Mrs. Benton Morman Monday.

Ann Kendrick was home from Texas Tech to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Kendrick last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Danny Asafy visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Ponder of Clarendon Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Honn were supper guests of their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Eakins near White Deer Sunday.

Mrs. Horace Williams of White Deer and Mrs. Frank Koetting were shopping in Pampa Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Blackwell

Nineteen "language centers have been established at leading colleges and universities to teach foreign languages such as Arabic, Chinese, Hindi-Urdu, Japanese, Portuguese and Russian. These languages, spoken by nearly half the world's population, have rarely been taught in America before. Graduates of the new centers will become teachers, hence multiplying the effect of their training. Others will enter government service where linguists are desperately needed.

About $4,600,000 has been allocated to finance 150 research studies on new educational methods—classroom use of television, so-called "teaching machines," and development of new materials in various courses.

More than 150,000 students have received specialized training in such fields as electronics, electrical technology, mechanical drafting, chemistry, instrumentation and electronic data processing under a new vocational training program.

we might also be expressing a friendly wish that on some day in the not-too-distant future the same opportunity can be extended to men and women everywhere so that all may experience the far-reaching possibilities of free government.

Elections have become increasingly important in the most recent history of our country, when responsible, active, and intelligent leadership has become so vital to our future. The United States, whether we like it or not, has become the free world's pivot. The features of our domestic life have grown so complex that it is virtually impossible to have a thorough working knowledge of our world today.

So, in government as in just about everything else we find ourselves coming to depend upon the good efforts of many other people. There are, of course, good and bad aspects of this process our nation is undergoing. I think we may at least be proud of the fact that people everywhere have a greatly increased opportunity to play an ever larger role in forging the type of country and world that is believed best.

But as the opportunities for our people increase, so do the dangers. The threats to our national security are pressing from both within and without. The responsibility of meeting these threats is indeed a grave and sobering one, but I shall continue to work toward that end and preserve the form of government which we all cherish so highly. I am deeply honored to have so many friends and supporters among the fine people of the 18th District, and I want you all to know that I shall continue to work for the Panhandle of Texas to the best of my ability within the Congress of the United States.

Russ Boast Of An Early Man In Space

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet scientists have issued confident predictions of an early manned satellite launching on the basis of data collected by the huge Russian "space ship" which was put into orbit Sunday.

The nearly 10,000 pound space vehicle, complete with a separate pilot's compartment and dummy astronaut, was visible to the naked eye — weather permitting — over a number of cities across the world.

Prof. V. I. Siforov, a well known astronautical expert, disclosed Monday that the big satellite was communicating to Soviet listening stations through a "telephonic installation," as well as by radio, its performance on its south-north orbit some 500 miles above the earth was described as perfect.

Siforov said the pressurized passenger compartment, which has kept livable temperatures throughout the flight, is the "cabin of the future" which Soviet space men will be using not before long.

Levine Sales Jump 15%

A favorable report on the 1959 fiscal year and a strong beginning first fiscal quarter for 1960 was reported by executives of Levine's, Inc. at its annual meeting Tuesday, May 10.

Morris Levine, President of the department store chain, reported an increase of 15 percent in 1959 sales and a 27 percent increase in profits for the same period. Earnings amounted to $1.25 per share.

Mr. Levine announced that four new stores had been opened during 1959, bringing the chain's operating units to seventy. At least five more stores are expected to be activated during 1960 to bring the total number of stores to seventy-five.

William Levine, Chairman of the Board, reported that 1960's first quarter sales were 11.7 percent ahead of last year. Profits were within 1 percent of the same 1959 period.

He reported that the company has almost 1000 stockholders, with a wide geographical distribution. Reporting on dividend distributions, Mr. Levine pointed to the unbroken quarterly dividend record of 10 cents per share since the company became publicly owned, plus the 4 percent stock dividend issued in April, 1960.

The designation of the plane brought down by the Russians, the U-2, could have been the expression of Khrushchev, when he pointed to the Russian satellite in the country. It would certainly be appropriate, because the Russians have been doing the same thing for a long time and have been caught at it in this country and Canada. Although their activities have not yet involved aerial reconnaissance, so far as we know, I feel sure that some must have gone on. We would certainly be naive to think otherwise.

The big scream from Russia is based upon what they claim is a violation of international law. That is, the unapproved violation of their territorial boundaries. Since a boundary line is fixed on land and water, extends downward to the center of the earth and upward to the heavens, it would probably be in order to call attention to the fact that Russia, by her own admission, violated the territorial sovereignty of this country when she placed Sputnik in orbit. She openly claimed that this object passed immediately over the United States. So far as I know, there has not been any separation of outer space insofar as territorial boundaries are concerned. Perhaps Russia is operating on the theory that the difference between violation or non-violation of territorial boundaries in the air space above a country depends upon whether or not you are able to shoot down the object in such a space. This has not, to my knowledge, been adopted as a rule of international law, and I doubt that it will be, but Russia has never been known to be hesitant in making rules that fit her own conduct, favorably.

Mercury Outboard Motor Sets Record

SEATTLE, Wash. — A new world speed record for outboards was set yesterday when a custom-built hydroplane powered by a production 60 cubic inch Mercury outboard motor ran twice through a one kilometer course on Seattle's Lake Washington averaging 115.547 miles per hour.

Driver Burt Ross, Jr., Spokane salesman, went faster than any previous outboard in history, eclipsing by almost eight m.p.h. the old internationally recognized world record of 107.9 m.p.h. set by Hu Entrop with a similar engine. Ross' run establishes a new Union of International Motorboating (UIM) Class X outboard speed record.

The fourteen foot hydroplane Ross used was built by Ted Jones, famed designer of Gold Cup speedboats. It is of a streamlined three-point cab-over design with the pilot placed well forward in the hull. At full speed the entire hull rides out of water with just the lower half of the propellers biting below the waterline.

Ross also bettered the National Outboard Association's speed mark of 114.6 mph set recently by specially modified 90 cubic inch engine, which had 50 per cent greater displacement than the 60 cubic inch Mercury. The NOA unlimited class speed mark, not recognized internationally, allow engines of any size, while the official UIM international rule limit displacement of 61 cubic inches. Ross' record also exceeds all but three of the largest inboard motorboat speed records as well engines at least 400 per cent larger than Ross'.

The new official international record was timed and observed by American Power Boat Association officials under the supervision of Jim Spinner of Seattle, acting for the UIM. Following the run, and in accordance with UIM and APBA rules, the engine was inspected by APBA officials. Bill Rankin and found to be a stock Mark 75H.

The family outboard version of the same basic six-cylinder design which set yesterday's record also holds the world's outboard endurance record for completing 50,000 miles of continuous running in 68 days. Mercury outboard motors are sold locally by Kissee Ford Co., at 701 West Brown.

ROACH INVASION BEGINS — All housewives in this area are being warned against the annual arrival of swarms of cockroaches, poised to descend en masse on local kitchens and pantries. Recent years have seen the development of the so-called "resistant-variety" roach which defies most conventional methods of roach control. But now scientists have discovered a roach control formula that is: (a) Effective against all crawling insects, including the new resistant roaches, (b) Easy to use, (c) Safe to use around children and pets, (d) Stays effective for months with only one application. It's called Johnston's No-Roach. When you use No-Roach, there's no need to move dishes, or to breathe harmful sprays. Just brush this colorless liquid liberally on cabinets, baseboards, windowsills, doorsteps, cracks, drainpipes — wherever roaches and ants may enter. To be quite sure, re-apply No-Roach after 4 to 6 weeks. It dries quickly to form an invisible "Death Zone" for all crawling insects. They walk across it . . . and die within minutes! It stays effective 24 hours a day for months. No-Roach works against roaches, ants, waterbugs, silverfish, all crawling insects. Get No-Roach in the pint size for an all-season supply, 8 oz. bottle only 89c; pint $1.69. Available at Furr Foods, Buddy's, Ideal's, Fite's, Cretney's, Perkin's, and your local food or drug store.

Education Aid For 18 Months

Education U.S.A. By LOUIS CASSELS, United Press International. During the past 18 months, the federal government has spent about 250 million dollars under the National Defense Education Act.

By federal spending standards, one quarter of a billion dollars is not a lot of money. It is only one-fourth as much as the Sam ladles out each year on farm programs and veterans benefits.

But a dollar properly aimed can sometimes do more good than 50 dollars scattered broadcast. The relatively modest sums expended under the misnamed Defense Education Program have been used to strengthen America's school system at certain strategic points where it has been notoriously weak.

Here are some of the things that have been accomplished under the act, which still has 2 1/2 years to run: Nearly 90,000 able but needy college students have received long-term, low-interest loans to enable them to continue their education.

More than a third of them have indicated they intend to go into the teaching profession. If they do become public school teachers, and remain at the job for at least five years, half of their loans will be marked paid. So far, 62 million dollars in federal funds has been made available for student loans. Participating colleges have contributed 71,000,000 in matching funds. The demand for loans substantially exceeds available funds, and pending further congressional appropriations it has been necessary to hold the average loan to $500 a year and to turn down some eligible applicants.

Most public schools were woefully deficient in laboratories required for effective teaching of science, mathematics and foreign languages. More than 90 million dollars in federal grants has been made available for acquisition of equipment, minor remodeling of facilities, and the provision of expert state supervisors to show smaller school systems how to set up good teaching programs in these areas. Non-profit private schools also can obtain federal loans for these purposes.

Some 2,500 government-financed fellowships have been awarded to graduate students who are working toward advanced degrees in preparation for college teaching jobs. This program is designed to relieve the acute shortage of qualified faculty members in higher education.

More than 2,500 experienced teachers have received special training at government expense, to serve as guidance officers or counselors in high schools. About 4,000 more counselors will be trained during the next 12 months.

Nineteen "language centers have been established at leading colleges and universities to teach foreign languages such as Arabic, Chinese, Hindi-Urdu, Japanese, Portuguese and Russian. Graduates of the new centers will become teachers, hence multiplying the effect of their training. Others will enter government service where linguists are desperately needed.

The fourteen foot hydroplane Ross used was built by Ted Jones, famed designer of Gold Cup speedboats. It is of a streamlined three-point cab-over design with the pilot placed well forward in the hull. At full speed the entire hull rides out of water with just the lower half of the propellers biting below the waterline.

Ross also bettered the National Outboard Association's speed mark of 114.6 mph set recently by specially modified 90 cubic inch engine, which had 50 per cent greater displacement than the 60 cubic inch Mercury. The NOA unlimited class speed mark, not recognized internationally, allow engines of any size, while the official UIM international rule limit displacement of 61 cubic inches. Ross' record also exceeds all but three of the largest inboard motorboat speed records as well engines at least 400 per cent larger than Ross'.

The new official international record was timed and observed by American Power Boat Association officials under the supervision of Jim Spinner of Seattle, acting for the UIM. Following the run, and in accordance with UIM and APBA rules, the engine was inspected by APBA officials. Bill Rankin and found to be a stock Mark 75H.

The family outboard version of the same basic six-cylinder design which set yesterday's record also holds the world's outboard endurance record for completing 50,000 miles of continuous running in 68 days. Mercury outboard motors are sold locally by Kissee Ford Co., at 701 West Brown.

SEATTLE, Wash. — A new world speed record for outboards was set yesterday when a custom-built hydroplane powered by a production 60 cubic inch Mercury outboard motor ran twice through a one kilometer course on Seattle's Lake Washington averaging 115.547 miles per hour.

Driver Burt Ross, Jr., Spokane salesman, went faster than any previous outboard in history, eclipsing by almost eight m.p.h. the old internationally recognized world record of 107.9 m.p.h. set by Hu Entrop with a similar engine. Ross' run establishes a new Union of International Motorboating (UIM) Class X outboard speed record.

New Capri In Planning Soon After Fire Destroyed Top City Theater

Manager Of Theaters Here Is A Veteran

Paul West, the manager of all the city theaters, first started in the movie business back in 1937.

At that time he was a student at Pampa High School, and took a part time job as an usher, at the LaNora Theater.

After he finished high school, West left Pampa, but returned in January of 1949. He's been connected with the movies here ever since.

Only one mishap at the new Capri Theater will have more years experience than West.

He is assistant manager Ollie Wilhelm, who also is in charge of the drive-ins.

Wilhelm is starting his 26th year in the movie business — the last 13 of which have been spent in Pampa. Prior to that he has worked in Wink, Tex., and Clinton, Okla.

Besides Wilhelm, the Capri will have two other assistant managers. They are Fred Washington and Don Cates.

Washington, who came here April 22, has been with the Video company for four and one-half years. Prior to moving to Pampa he worked at the Yale Theater in Claremore, Okla.

Cates, who is now 20-years-old, started with the chain when he was 13, and since then has spent four years working in the projection booth. He has been an assistant manager for seven months.

Mrs. Margaret Arthur will be the head concessioner. She will have been with the company for five years in July, having worked at the LaNora and LaVista. She started as a relief concessioner at the Pampa Drive-In.

Mrs. Kathleen Dulaney is a relative newcomer to the theater group. She started in January of 1959. She will have an office at the Capri, and will serve as secretary of all Pampa theaters.

The last wisp of smoke had barely cleared from the ruins of the LaNora Theater when officials from the Video chain began making plans for the new Capri which opens Thursday.

Manager Paul West said that within a month the site of the Capri at the corner of N. Cuyler and Francis had been purchased.

That was in March of 1959. By late July the plans had been completed and bids for construction were being accepted. Last August actual construction began.

The LaNora, it will be recalled, was completely gutted by fire on the morning of March 23, 1959.

"That is one day I'll never forget," West said. "And the LaNora is one theater I'll never forget either."

"It was a queen," he said. "A real beauty. But of course it couldn't compare with the Capri. The LaNora had a 50-foot balcony and a wide screen ratio. But the maximum screen we could use there was a 28-foot one."

Ironically, 30 years before the fire at the LaNora, in 1929, the old Crescent Theater here also burned. So West is probably hoping for a better future for the new Capri.

The Capri, however, will take up where the LaNora left off. The last feature at the LaNora was "The Mating Game," one of the funniest comedies of the year. The first feature at the Capri will be "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," which has been termed the life riot of 1960.

PATRIOTS SIGN SHONTA
BASTON (UPI) — Charles (Chuck) Shonta, 22, an end from Eastern Michigan College, has signed a 1960 contract with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League.

Only one mishap at the new Capri Theater will have more years experience than West.

He is assistant manager Ollie Wilhelm, who also is in charge of the drive-ins.

Aly Khan Held Women Of International Set Spellbound

EDITORS NOTE: Prince Aly Khan, killed in a car crash in Paris, was one of the most colorful figures of his time — international playboy, diplomat, one of the world's top race-horse owners and sportsman.

In this story, concluding a two-part series, UPI staff writer Robert Musel tells the story of this fascinating personality.

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — The eyes of every beautiful woman in the bar of the Carlton Hotel at Cannes seemed to be fixed in my direction. Pink tongues moistened red lips. Above the bejeweled cleavages, there was open invitation.

But I was cautious. Something like this had happened to me once before. Then, at the Hotel de Paris in Monte Carlo, as I beamed at what seemed like belated recognition, I realized there was someone behind me.

The burning glances were all for Portofino Rubirosa, playboy and diplomat.

So at Cannes I looked over my shoulder first to make sure it was I who was the cynosure of those glittering, eager eyes.

And there stood Prince Aly Khan, playboy and diplomat, accepting the tribute of rapt attention, casually — almost insolently — inspecting the talent for he had, as I was later informed, become slightly bored with his own company at his nearby Chateau l'Horizon.

"The most fascinating man on earth," film actress Gene Tierney called him during their blazing courtship.

"Only death could have been unimpressed by his charm and gaiety," said a friend when he heard Aly had been killed in a car crash in Paris Thursday.

Certainly the incident at the Carlton convinced me that Aly had an extraordinary magnetism for the ladies, even taking into account the fact that, publicly linking a man with many lovely partners seems to provoke a prurient and reckless curiosity among other women.

Prince Aly always took full advantage of this well-known phenomenon. Now that he is dead, the remembering is beginning and all over the continent which was his playground there is general regret that he did not live long enough to fulfill his promise as a diplomat.

His father, the late Aga Khan, also started his career as a playboy but in his mellow middle-age he became an international elder statesman frequently consulted by diplomats of many countries.

Aly had the innate ability to follow his father. He had served with distinction for the past two years as Pakistan's permanent delegate to the United Nations.

He was soon to take up an appointment as Pakistan's ambassador to Argentina. He appeared almost ready to settle down with the model Bettina, who was slightly injured in his fatal crash.

For five years this tall, handsome woman of 34 — born Simone Bodin, daughter of a railwayman — had been the most constant of his companions. She was his last earthly thought — "How is Bettina?" were his last words. Some friends thought they might climax their five year friendship in marriage.

His father died in 1957 and passed over him for the succession as Aga Khan, spiritual leader of millions of Ismail Moslems, in favor of his son, Karim. This seeming rebuke for his light-hearted past shook Aly more than he ever admitted.

From then on the playboy phase of his life began to recede and he pledged himself to public service and his horses.

Aly was perhaps the biggest owner of Thoroughbred bloodstock in the world. His stud farms are estimated to be worth more than $ million dollars.

Aly bet heavily — but not always successfully — on his stable. "My luck may be running out this season," he told a racing friend after losing a big bet.

That remark was made only four days before he was killed. Aly and his son were never really very close when he was alive. But as he left the house where his father lay in state the 23-year-old Aga paid him the ultimate tribute of a son — his tears.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Recent tendency of stocks to be more responsive to favorable news, and the more active bidding for quality issues denotes a change for the better in the technical character and psychology of the market, according to Thomson & McKinnon.

The firm thinks that a pattern is taking shape that augurs well for the near term trend of prices.

As far as selection goes, T&M says—those stocks and groups that led the "pre-correction" and best held up under selling pressure will set the pace for the immediate recovery move.

Drugs, it says, are the popular choice for the number one position, followed by electronics, business machines, food products, tobacco, aluminum and textiles.

The stock market has had good reason to sell off in the past week but instead has done just the opposite, W. E. Hutton & Co. notes.

The ability of leading issues to stand up in the face of international uncertainty indicates that stocks have passed to stronger hands and less emotional traders, Hutton says.

General Technical Survey lists five lower priced speculative issues with attractive potentials are the longer term: American Zinc, Elgin National Watch, Ever-sharp, American Electronics, and Denver, Rio Grande.

WHY "UP" POSTAGE? — Charted, above, is one reason the Post Office Department cites for its request to up postal rates. For 13 successive years—1947 through 1959—the postal service has incurred deficits ranging from more than 200 million dollars, to nearly 900 million annually. The total represents almost 50 per cent of the increase in the national debt during that time. Data from a Post Office Department survey of postal rates.

'Jonah' Keeps Investors Informed

By ELMER C. WALZER
 UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jonah Jones, in one of his rare statements today indicated that the glowing predictions for the "soaring sixties" still are valid despite recent stock market declines.

Jonah is a mythical character invented by Hugh W. Long and Co. He is an instrument through which the firm talks in everyday language easily understood by the layman on the value of investing.

Naturally, the Long firm which underwrites three investment funds valued at more than a half billion dollars, backs Jonah up.

Jonah discusses the future with an equally and thus far unnamed mythical friend.

"You know," says Jonah, "that our country's population is due to grow by about 18 per cent in the next 10 years, and that technical advances are expected to be enormous."

"Do you know where our economy will be in 1970, if it merely keeps growing at the same average rate as in the past? Just listen to this:

"Gross national product, $80 billion, up $17 billion; disposable income (income after taxes), $525 billion, up $235 billion; and personal consumption expenditures, $525 billion, up $208 billion."

Don't you suppose, Jonah then asks, "that if our economy keeps growing, the prices of sound common stocks will reflect that they always have in the past?"

growth over the long term—as they always have in the past."

Of course, warns Jonah, there will be ups and downs and in the market just as there were in the "fabulous fifties."

He listed four declines in the fifties: June-July 1950, 13.5 per cent; Jan.-Sept. 1953, 13 per cent; July-Oct. 1957, 19.4 per cent and Jan.-March, 1960, 12.6 per cent.

In spite of these deviations, he adds, common stocks advanced in value over the full 10-year period.

Business had its deviations too during the fifties.

And in the fifties, the forecasters had their troubles too.

"From 1950 to 1959," Jonah says, "there were the usual short-term forecasts. Some were right, some were wrong, and none was right year after year."

"What's more, none was important to the long-term investor because deviations from the trend aren't as significant as the growth trend itself."

"Jonah, his friend inquires, "tell me how to invest so that I can participate in that growth when and if it comes."

"That was just the question Jonah was waiting for."

He beams a big smile and fairly shouts: "Invest in fundamental investors, a diversified common stock fund."

He had said anything else, "I would have treated him on the spot because that's one of the Long sponsored investment companies."

The Long firm says it likes Jonah for his faith in the economy and his quaint way of telling the world about it.

As a mark of appreciation, the Long firm has promoted Jonah from his cartoon status by commissioning an artist to paint him in oil. That portrait hangs in the firm's Elizabeth, N. J. offices.

He may be fictitious but his utterances carry the authority of a giant investment firm which still talks of the "Golden Sixties" and a bull market.

Jonah always leaves a few easily remembered thoughts in his utterances. This one stresses the unimportance of short-term predictions.

As evidence of the validity of long-term projections, Jonah cites a prediction made by the national planning association in 1951.

That one placed gross national product at the beginning of 1960 at $450.1 billion. The actual figure was $482.5 billion. It set disposable income at $347.9 billion and the actual was $340.5 billion; and personal consumption expenditures, $339.2 billion against the actual of $317 billion.

Of course, Jonah admits, all long-term forecasts aren't as accurate as that one. Also, even when the economy grows as expected there are ups and downs.

How Theater Was Named

What's in a name? When the Video theater group planned to build the new Capri Theater, they asked various managers in the chain to submit names.

Pampa Manager Paul West and four other executives submitted the name "Capri," and it eventually was chosen by the home office.

Answers To SS Questions

Amarillo Social Security Office

Dan Jollie, Field Representative.

Q: I was fully supported by my son when he died last year. Can I get social security benefits?

A: If he was insured, yes. You have two years from the date of his death to file the proof of support that you must file.

Q: I have taken care of my grandchild since he was ten months old. Should I adopt him and can I get benefits?

A: We cannot advise you on whether or not you should adopt your grandchild, but if you do by all means see a social security representative.

Q: I have a woman to help me clean my house. She doesn't want the social security taxes deducted though I pay her $8.00 per week. What can I do about this?

A: I don't know what to tell you. Under the law each of you is required to pay an equal share of the tax which must be paid. I guess you'll have to pay all the tax if this woman means that much to you.

Q: Can a baptismal record serve as proof of age?

A: In many cases it is excellent proof of age.

Q: I work in a restaurant. Do my meals count toward social security?

A: The value of the meals plus actual cash wages paid do count toward social security credit.

Q: My husband died in 1946. I think I am entitled to social security benefits. What should I do?

A: See a social security representative immediately.

Highway Dept. Has Own Real Estate Agent

By CARLETON F. WILSON
 United Press International

AUSTIN (UPI)— Bill Holcomb, an employee of the Texas Highway Department, is in the real estate business for the state, dealing in everything from "fine homes to outhouses."

It's Holcomb's job to dispose of the houses, buildings, barns and other improvements located on land the state buys for highway right of way. Last year he made 1,736 sales and collected $56,922 for the state.

"The improvements range from fine homes to outhouses," the 33-year-old Holcomb said. "And we have to sell them so highways can be built in their place."

Sales made just this week ranged from $1,000 to a nickel. The highest price came for a Houston man for a fine home in Bellaire, while the nickel bid was by a Dallas man for a garage at 4831 Garland Avenue.

Holcomb, a veteran of 12 years as an accountant with the Highway Department, uses pictures in advertising the buildings by mail and in newspapers. But sometimes no one is interested—as in the case of 11 palm trees 40 feet high on U. S. 83 near Harlingen.

When no one wants to buy the buildings on the highway site, the state either salvages them or leaves it to the highway contractor.

"Things really get complicated when the state buys only the part of a house on the highway right of way—it has to be cut away or the whole structure moved."

"Now we are using display ads in newspapers to sell some of the better property," Holcomb explained. He exhibited a Houston newspaper with a 3-column ad listing 16 houses for sale in Bellaire. It makes room for a new expressway.

"Nine of these were sold after the first newspaper advertising," he said proudly.

"We welcome new bidders, and anyone can get on our mailing list," he said.

"Our 26 district offices each handle the property in their own area, and do most of the work for us," Holcomb said.

Workers Must Have SS Card

Happy days are here again! Soon the youngsters will bolt from the door for the last time at the sound of the bell, the vacation bell.

Amarillo Social Security district manager Hal Geldon said today, "Hundreds of young men and ladies all over the Panhandle have already made contacts with prospective employers for summer vacation work. Hundreds more will do so as the leaves of the textbooks are joyfully turned by them to the last pages."

Geldon pointed out that many of these youngsters will be working for the very first time. He cautioned each of them to contact their local post office to obtain an application for a social security card. "It is important," he said, "that these young men and women show the social security card to the new employer immediately upon getting the job. This will help insure the accuracy of their social security insurance accounts and will mean full payments to them and their families in the future."

Most of these young persons will be high-school students, but if the work they do is covered by social security they will receive credit regardless of their age. The credits and wages paid will remain on their social security records for the rest of their lives, and of course, over the years they will add to them as do other, older, workers.

Garren's Recovery Good News

The Pampa Harvesters put the finishing touches on their spring grid-drills last night before the rains came, and will taper off with signal drills as they prepare to face the Exes in Friday night's scrap under the lights.

The best news to come from a head coach Babe Curfman's way has been the rapid recovery of Duke Garren who was sidelined with an injured knee last week.

The swollen knee was drained and the husky center appears to be back to normal. Curfman still hasn't decided whether he will use him Friday night, however.

Garren with his knee, which was operated on for the removal of cartilages on both sides last January, poses two alternatives for the coaches.

They may decide to use him to learn just how fragile the knee is, or they may decide to sideline him to find out how the Harvesters hold up without him. Either way, they are faced with a question which will have to be answered before Pampa tackles Big Spring in the season opener Sept. 9.

When spring practice first started there weren't too many people around who thought the Exes would be able to take the graduating Exes into camp, but two weeks have changed a lot of minds.

Futures Can Take Exes If . . .

I'm going to go out on the limb and pick the Harvesters to win in a close one. That doesn't mean they have the stuff to go out and push the Exes around with ordinary effort. It means they will have to put out with everything they

Benny Got Rolled

One of the peculiar things about the football is the part reputation plays in the game. A player who has a reputation as a really good one has a psychological edge over his opponents.

A second string lineman proved that theory the other night in a scrimmage session better than a whole text book on the subject could.

Benny Stout, who has a reputation as a great player and a well-earned one at that, was suited up for practice with the Exes. During a scrimmage session between the green team and a mixture of the first and third units, Benny slipped into the defensive tackle position unannounced.

Baseball Returns To Pampa

Pampa's newly organized semi-pro baseball team, the Roadrunners, would provide local fans with some top-drawer baseball this season. ## Chisox Reclaim First Place In American League

BY FRED DOWN
United Press International

They call Frank Howard the Dodger of tomorrow, but today he's their man of the hour.

One home run doesn't make a "rookie of the year," of course, but the mighty 450-foot drive the 6-foot, 7-inch, 245-pounder unfurled Tuesday night went a long way toward convincing the Dodgers he'll supply the punch they've needed so badly this season.

That one awesome swat with the bases filled in the eighth inning not only ended a week-long run-famine but gave the Dodgers a 5-4 victory over the Milwaukee Braves that snapped Bob Buhl's five-year mastery over them at County Stadium.

Buhl had whipped the Dodgers nine straight times in Milwaukee and seemed well on his way toward making it 10 when he carried a 4-1 lead into the eighth.

But the Dodgers filled the bases on singles by Wally Moon and Norm Larker and an error by first-baseman Joe Adcock. Then Howard, recalled last Friday from Spokane in the Pacific Coast League, delivered his tape-measure homer into a clump of pine trees behind the center field fence.

The San Francisco Giants retained their one-game hold on first place with a 9-3 win over the Cincinnati Reds and the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs, 11-4, in the other National League games.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox reclaimed first place when they beat the Boston Red Sox, 11-6, and the Kansas City Athletics downed the Baltimore Orioles, 4-2. The Cleveland Indians nipped the New York Yankees, 7-6, and the Detroit Tigers defeated the Washington Senators, 3-1.

Howard now has played three games since rejoining the Dodgers and collected five hits for a .500 average. Larry Sherry followed Howard's homer with one of his own and picked up his fifth win for holding the Braves to four hits and one run over the last three innings. Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews homered for Milwaukee.

Jack Sanford pitched a six-hitter and won his fourth game with the support of a San Francisco attack that included homers

Big League Brass Nixes Legislation

BY ED SAINSBURY
United Press International

Major league baseball owners were arrayed in a solid front today both for and against legislation to regulate the game proposed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

Owners of the 16 National and American league clubs, in a super secret session Tuesday, approved unanimously the "two or three page" statement expressing their position.

The statement will be presented by Commissioner Ford Frick later this week in hearings on the Kefauver bill.

Spokesmen for the meeting, John Galbreath of Pittsburgh, Phil Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs, and Dan Topping of New York, agreed that the owners found some good in the legislation, although some of them earlier had gone on record as opposed to some portions of the proposal.

"We are agreed on what is too good and what isn't too good about the bill. We don't want to make any statement about our position because it would not be fair to the committee or to our commissioner."

Galbreath said the owners covered "all the problems, everything that has to do with the structure of baseball," in their meeting of nearly five hours. For most of the final two hours, Frick, National League President Warren Giles and American League President Joe Cronin, also attended.

Frick, it was presumed, read to the owners the statement he has prepared to present to the Kefauver committee. Neither Giles nor Cronin have been invited to appear and the only other baseball figures will be George Trautman, head of the minor leagues, and Branch Rickey, representing the Continental League.

Haralson, Stroud Win PHS Awards

Catcher Terry Joe Haralson and first baseman Larry Stroud captured the annual awards for the 1960 Pampa High School baseball team at an assembly held this morning.

Haralson was named the Most Valuable Player while Stroud took the batting championship trophy.

This marks the second year for the awards and for Stroud it gives him sole possession of the trophy he shared last year with Gary Hill.

The lanky first sacker finished the season with a .404 batting average, rapping off 19 hits in 47 appearances at the plate. He led the team in home-runs with six and was tops in the RBI department with 18.

Only a junior, Stroud will have one more year under Coach Deck Woldt. He has been named to the All-District 3-AAAA team in both his sophomore and junior years.

Haralson was the unanimous choice of the selection committee for the MVP trophy. The senior catcher, who will enter Arizona University next fall on a football scholarship, was chosen as the player who met the six qualifications set up for the MVP.

The committee considered the player's value to the team, leadership, character, hustle, co-operation with coach and teammates, and performance, not only during games but on the practice field as well.

Haralson rated tops in all these departments with the committee.

Last year's award, the first to be presented, went to Keith Yager. The MVP award in baseball was set up to provide a trophy similar to football's Fighting Heart and basketball's Rustling Harvesters.

The selection committee consisted of Coach Woldt, Warren Hasse, Station KPDM, Hank Huntley, Station KHHH, and Carol (Red) Griggs, former sports editor of the Daily News.

Furillo Released

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Carl Furillo, veteran Los Angeles Dodger outfielder, today traded his bat for a fishing pole.

Given an unconditional release from the youth-conscious world champions Tuesday, the sometimes unsung hero of the great Dodger teams of the 1950s said he would relax but still attempt to continue his baseball career.

"I still feel I can help some club. I think I have another year or two left," the 38-year-old outfielder said. "But right now I have no offers. I think I'll just go fishing and keep myself in shape."

Furillo promptly declared legal war on the Dodgers following his release Tuesday after E. J. (Bud) Bavasi, general manager and vice president of the Dodgers, said no team in either major league would claim Furillo and that he was being released "because he can no longer do the job."

Bavasi said Furillo turned down a chance to play for Spokane in the Pacific Coast League at the same $30,000 salary he received as a Dodger.

Furillo, whose lifetime batting average with the Dodgers is .30 has been troubled since a spinal training by a muscle injury to his right leg. He was chopped from the roster to make room for Frank Howard, $100,000 rookie called up from Spokane.

A big source of irritation to Furillo was the fact the Dodgers did not give him the release which he could have caught on with another club.

He said he refused the Spokane offer because it would interfere with his major league pension.

Ruidoso Down Opens Season

RUIDOSO, N. M. (UPI)—Ruidoso Downs opens its summer season of weekend racing Friday with Pinch Bar and Outrider, a pair of quarterhorses that won twice each last year, assigned top weight in the featured Ruidoso Jockey Club Purse.

Both of the sprinters won more than $4,000 last season. They will carry 119 pounds for the 400-yard graded allowance which has attracted a field of eight.

Mr. Quick, a three-time winner last year, and Flight Deck will miss will pack 116 pounds, and each carry 117 pounds. Molly Miss will pack 116 pounds, and Bob Ace and Sierra Hot Shot will each carry 115 pounds. Rang's Catch Me, a Sumland Park winner last season, drew 109 pounds.

Friday's program, first of three racing days this weekend, will open a summer-long season of weekend races at the track, located in the 7,000-foot high mountains of southern New Mexico.

Mauch Fined $100 In Brawl

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Manager Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phillies has been fined $100 for his role in Sunday's free-for-all with the Cincinnati Reds at Cincinnati.

Mauch, who touched off the brawl by charging at Cincinnati pitcher Raul Sanchez in the eighth inning of the first game of a doubleheader, was notified of the fine by league President Warren Giles Tuesday night. Mauch said he was "protecting my players" because Sanchez had hit three men with pitched balls during the inning.

Cowboys Sign OU's Wahoo

DALLAS (UPI)—Oklahoma's colorful end, Wahoo McDaniel, has signed a contract to play football with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

For two years, McDaniel was top punter for the Sooners. In his junior year, he booted a 91-yard kick against Iowa State.

As a senior, he averaged 36.9 yards per punt. He started out as a fullback, but switched to end for his last two seasons at Oklahoma.

G-Sox Edge Veracruz 4-3; Victoria In 2nd

By United Press International
 Victoria's rampagings Rosebuds climbed into second place in the Texas League Tuesday night with a blistering 17-3 rout of Mexico City's Red Devils.

Jim Fridley started things rolling with a three-run homer in the first, his third of the season. It sparked a five-run opening margin for Horace Smallwood, who went the distance for Victoria, giving up eight hits.

By the time the Red Devils managed to shove across a score in the third, the Rosebuds had added two more in the second, and four in the top of the third. Victoria wrapped it up with six runs in the eighth.

San Antonio dropped into third place a half game behind Victoria, and two and a half games off league leading Valley's pace, losing a 3-1 decision to Poza Rica.

In other games, Valley tripped Puebla's 7-3, Mexico City's Tigers topped Tulsa 10-4, Amarillo edged Veracruz 4-3 and Monterrey whipped Austin 9-4 in 11 innings. Austin outdid the Sultans 13-12, but couldn't contain the overtime outburst; that bombarded relief hurler Bill Hamilton. Monterrey tied it up in the eighth on Woody Huylke's solo homer, one of three Sultans four-base blasts of the night.

The five-run 11th inning that put the game on ice came on a pair of singles, two doubles and an error. With two runs already in, Huylke swatted a stinging double to center with the bases loaded. It was bobbled by centerfielder Walt O'Neil and three more runs scored.

Puebla's Roberto Vea liked the second pitch of the half game at Harlingen and banged a homer, followed by a single and another homer by Oscar Rodriguez.

Dick Pawlow and Al Steglitz swatted solo homers for Valley in the first and second innings, and the Giants tied it up in the sixth. A walk, two doubles and a triple produced three runs in the seventh, and a triple and a single shored across the final score for Valley in the eighth.

Ray Daviault, who took over on the mound in the seventh, got credit for the win, holding Puebla to nine hits with the help of Vic Davis and Gaylor Perry. Tony Dicochea, the loser, and Marte de Alejandro gave up 15 hits.

Hal Stove won his fourth game for Amarillo as the Gold Sox scored twice in the bottom of the eighth to pull from behind. He got in trouble giving up a pair of singles in the ninth, but tight infield play got him out of trouble.

Bobby Avila, former American League batting champion, drove in three runs on two hits in two trips to lead the Tigers' attack at Tulsa.

Mexico City tagged twirlers Gordon Richardson, Fred Walker and Von McDaniel for nine hits, and principal stockholder of the club, announced the ban in a letter to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the tournament. Benjamin also invited the Jaycees to hold the tournament somewhere else, even though the present contract has two years to run.

Benjamin declined to say why Bessellink was banned.

Pitching Moves Buffs Into First

By United Press International
 The Houston Buffs, owner of some of the finest pitching in the American Association, reaped a one-hit shutout from Joe Schaffernoth and a neat seven-hitter from Al Lary Tuesday night to recapture the league lead.

The Buffs swept a doubleheader from St. Paul, 3-0 and 9-5, to take a half-game lead over Denver, which nipped Minneapolis, 7-4, in 30 innings, and Louisville, which clubbed Dallas-Fort Worth, 5-1.

Last place Indianapolis won a second division match from Charleston, 4-3, in 10 innings.

Lary went all the way for Houston in the seven-inning opener as his mates garnered 13 hits, including a two-run homer by Sam Drake. Then Schaffernoth came on to twirl one of the season's finest games behind a nine-hit Buff attack.

Denver erased a 6-4 deficit in the eighth with two runs, and added the clincher in the 10th, although the Millers took hitting honors, 14-13. Five Bear pitchers shared mound duties, with the win going to Harry Perkowski. George Alusk's two-run homer in the sixth paced Denver's plate activity.

Louisville scored all five runs in the fifth inning after the Rangers took a 1-0 lead in the second.

Indianapolis also had to go 10 innings to nip Charleston, despite Dale Emery's two-run home run in the sixth for the Indians.

In tonight's games, Indianapolis will be at Charleston, Louisville at Dallas-Fort Worth, Minneapolis at Denver and St. Paul at Houston.

Snead Barred At Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—Sammy Snead, who called the course "Jobby," and Al Bessellink were barred today from competing in future Greater Greensboro Open golf tournaments if the tourney is held at the present site.

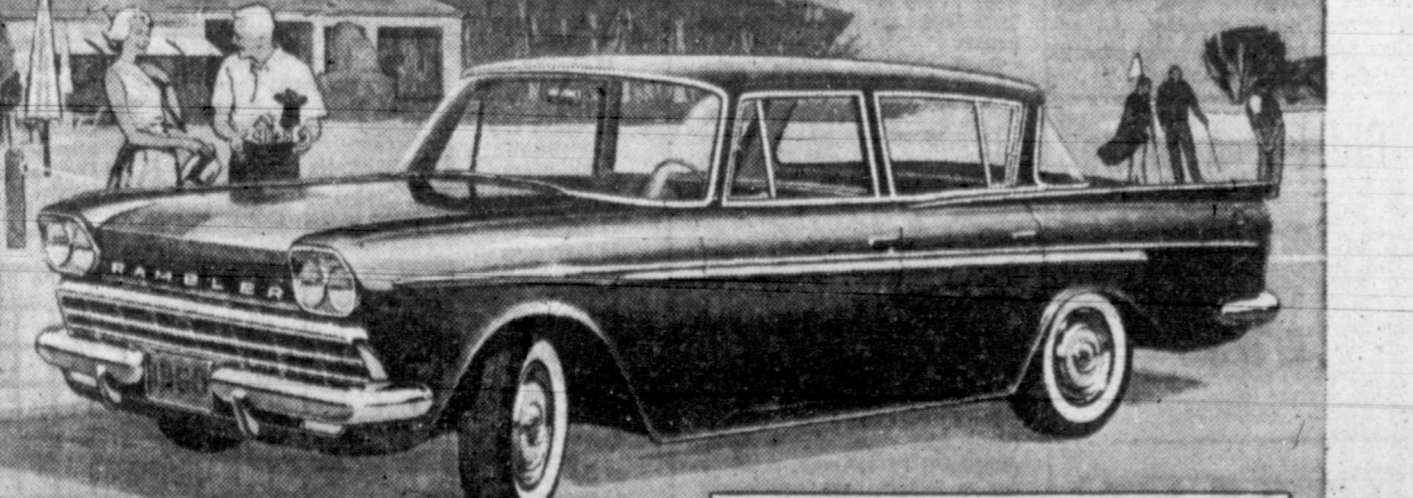

The action came one month after Snead's seventh victory in the GPO and his remarks bitterly criticizing the Starmount-Forest Country Club course, where the tourney was held.

Everybody's Money

By MERVILE STANLEY RUKYSER

If the high hopes of investors in so-called growth stocks are to be fulfilled, there must be intelligent cooperation and harmony among the various segments of the population.

Specifically, one type of business baiting persists in modern dress. Anti-business spokesmen continue to carry on a propaganda battle against profits.

By a curious confusion of thought, the business critics rant and rave against accumulation of capital by corporate saving in the form of retained earnings.

They naively charge that such capital by corporate savings in denying the customer with high selling prices. They correctly point out that the customer pays for the cost of capital.

LOCATION OF SOVIET ANTI-AIRCRAFT DEFENSES U-2 TARGET - BASIC TO U-2 DEFENSES, AFFIRMS DULLES

WASHINGTON - Hundreds of massive rocket and missile anti-aircraft centers are being built by Russia to counter the nuclear-armed jet bombers of the U.S. Strategic Air Command.

Still undetermined is whether these large and numerous anti-aircraft defenses are being equipped with the SA-6 - an anti-missile missile the Soviet is known to have in production.

Good management takes a balanced view, and walks in the middle of the road between excessive retention of profit and excessive distribution as dividends.

Looking Sideways

by WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK - Being only a taxpayer, coming across with my small share of whatever it came to, I have no way of knowing what it cost us to build and set in operation that gadget at Green Bank, West Virginia, or whatever it is, that is supposed to cup a sensitive ear on space and hear radio messages.

Whatever it cost, I'm not kicking. If we didn't spend the money on that we would have spent it on something else.

The Doctor Says:

DR. HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN

When we were kids, the medical examination began (and too often ended) with a display of the tongue.

Whether the examiner was your mother or the family doctor, you'd get "a cleaning out" with castor oil or salts or calomel and salts or sulfur and molasses if the tongue was coated.

Bid For A Smile

Chem Proof - Come come give me the answer please! I can't say it but it's on the tip of my tongue.

Candidates Comment On Summit Crisis

WASHINGTON (PI) - Here is what the major presidential contenders say about the summit conference crisis over the U-2 plans incident.

REPUBLICANS Vice President Richard M. Nixon: No comment

DEMOCRATS Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.): "We can hope that the voices of moderation and mutual self-interest in preserving world peace can prevail..."

Sen. Stuart Symington (Mo.): "All Americans had looked forward to this summit conference with hope and the news is most distressing..."

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.): "Khrushchev's apparent price for negotiating at the summit 'is one that is obviously unacceptable to the United States.'"

Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.): "I think the boss would throw him out there."

Dr. O. Struve, director of the gadget which has confessed to science writers that he is regretful, but the cold fact is we haven't raised a friendly voice anywhere in the universe.

To begin with, even if, among those billions of planets in our own relatively small galaxy, there are other inhabited ones, we have no proof whatsoever that they know what radio is or, perhaps, are so far ahead of us that they look upon radio as we here might look upon a child's stuffed teddy bear.

It is true that our atmosphere teems with the sounds of sun-made radio pulsations coming from areas far beyond our own solar system.

A friend back from a scientific conference of eminent high domes had a joke in his brief case instead of data.

There are almost certainly creatures of some kind, but that they are bending over their best to send us, a grain of sand on a beach billions of miles long and wide, a message seems unlikely.

And if it wasn't coated but nice and pink and moist, you'd get the "cleaning out" to PREVENT coating.

Either way there was the chance that the "cleaning out" meant a day-home from school and a documented "excuse" signed by parent or physician.

Sometimes, as on the opening days of baseball, fishing or hunting seasons or on suspicion of an upset, "written exam" the game was worth the candle.

Nowadays, since much of the art of medical diagnosis has been surrendered to gadgeteers and blood chemists, the tongue seems to have slipped behind a denial curtain.

Some parents or even physicians bother to look at it although it seems to function actively especially during the weeks preceding a national election.

Here is a partial list of a few hints you might derive from a good look at the outstretched tongue:

Brown Furring. Maybe "auto-intoxication," particularly if eliminated by a good "cleaning out."

Dryness and Shrinkage. Dehydration due to insufficient fluid intake or excessive fluid loss through kidneys, intestines or sweat glands.

Beefy Redness. Vitamin B deficiency especially if associated with soreness.

Central Area of Darkness. Prolonged irritation often due to over use of mouth washes containing sodium borate.

Wandering Areas of Sealing (Geographic Tongue). If accompanied by soreness, probably due to irritant food, condiments or tobacco smoke.

Bruises. Cuts or Scars at edges. Probably bites from epileptic convulsions.

How about taking a squint every now and then? And if you don't like what you see or you notice the development of a sore spot that refuses to heal in a few days, better arrange to see your doctor.

New Uses For Oil Products Being Tested

By HENRY J. RECHTOLD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The heating season is over but you would never know it by the activity in the research departments of the major oil companies.

The researchers are constantly working on new developments for oil which promise to lead to box-sized heaters, nearly instant hot water heaters, air conditioners, incinerators, modern kitchen ranges, probably clothes dryers, and possibly direct, oil-generated electricity to U.S. households.

Some new products already are on the market, some are being readied for manufacture, and others of unusual interest are in late laboratory stages, according to the National Fuel Oil Council.

These technical developments are accompanied by the recent modernization of heating oil, which now is a chemically constructed product, like gasoline, with any impurities largely removed by super-refining, and additives injected for easy flowing.

Among the products already on sale is a gun-type hot water heater which supplies a flow of hot water for the family faster than it can be used — every 15 minutes it will make 30 gallons of water hotter by 100 degrees.

Also on the market is one of several new developments in oil burners which can function without the traditional chimney. This spruce of the Iron Fireman Manufacturing Co. sucks air directly into the combustion chamber instead of using conventional blowers with major savings claimed in fuel.

Esso Standard Oil Co., in a switch from a trend towards inexpensive burners, is in late testing stages with a new "quality" burner doing away with the starting switch. It is for the home owner who wants to invest in high efficiency, clean operation and absolute minimum service.

Extreme miniaturization of oil burning equipment has been carried on by Socony Mobil Oil Co., Inc., with its Mobil Micro Test Burner. This tiny burner's combustion chamber measures 1 1/2 inches by 9 inches on the inside, and its fuel tank is about the size of a large sausage. A special precision pump holds fuel to a carefully metered rate and allows the burner to run for 100 hours on one gallon of heating oil.

Shell Oil Co. has come up with a new combustion process for small domestic oil burners. Fuel, atomized by the primary air, is vaporized in suspension in a stainless steel vaporizing tube.

Gulf Oil Corp. is working on a principle which can eliminate combustion chamber, fuel pump and combustion head — three primary parts of present burners.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Wednesday, May 18, the 138th day of the year, with 227 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1852, Massachusetts became the first state in the Union to pass a state-making school attendance compulsory for all children between eight and 14.

In 1860, Abraham Lincoln was nominated for President by the Republicans meeting in Chicago.

In 1892, Ezio Pinza, opera singer and star of South Pacific, was born.

In 1910, Halley's Comet passed over the sun, frightening many who thought it marked the end of the world.

In 1933, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Tennessee Valley Authority into law.

A thought for today: Abraham Lincoln said: "Towering genius disdains a beaten path. It seeks regions hitherto unexplored."
