Rockefeller Attack On Ike, Nixon Angers GOP

Governor Outlines Own Party Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's attacks on President Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and the GOP startled many Republicans today and angered some.

The New York governor Wednesday laid out his own program for the GOP, with Eisenhower administration's policies. He invited Nixon to do the same.

Nixon and the White House declined to comment.

Rockefeller's statement was widely interpreted by GOP leaders as an announcement of his availability for the Republican presidential nomination, although he said last December he was not an active candidate.

While admitting that anything might happen in politics, these Republicans were not disposed to abandon their belief that Nixon already had a firm grasp on the nomination.

Rockefeller himself subscribed to this forecast after a breakfast conference Wednesday with President Eisenhower.

GOP National Chairman Thruston B. Morton said Wednesday night in New York City he was "not so sure" that Nixon was certain to capture the Republican nomination after the Rockefeller attack.

But seven of eight GOP state leaders contacted by United Press International in a nationwide survey said they felt Rockefeller had no chance of getting the Republican nomination.

Rockefeller's declaration that he would accept a GOP draft raised the question of Eisenhower's role in a Rockefeller-Nixon contest.

The President endorsed Nixon as the GOP nominee in an off-the-record talk at the Gridiron Club dinner here March 12 and again publicly at his next news conference March 17.

But Eisenhower told a news conference March 30 he would not take sides publicly if another major Republican candidate challenged Nixon for the nomination.

He said his endorsement of Nixon was based on the fact that the vice president had no competition.

Rockefeller's manifesto came just a day after the final set of state presidential primaries and a day before the Republican National Committee opened a three-day meeting here to prepare for the GOP convention in Chicago next month.

Rockefeller's statement said it was unreasonable for Nixon to wait until after winning the presidential nomination before outlining his program.

The governor conceded it was unconventional to criticize his own party but said he was concerned that "those now assuming control of the Republican Party have failed to make clear where this party is heading and where it proposes to lead the nation."

He called on GOP leaders to declare themselves on a series of issues on which he outlined his own views and made clear his disagreements with some administration policies.

While praising Eisenhower, he said the "majority" of the party (See ROCKEFELLER, Page 4)

SPEAKS OUT — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is shown as he left the White House yesterday after conferring with the President. Later in the day he charged that national defenses are inadequate. Today, congressional leaders, joined by the President, challenged Rockefeller on this point.

Storm Front Strikes Terror

By United Press International

Turbulent Texas weather left its mark of terror today. A little girl screamed in vain for help as rolling waters of a flash flood swept her away. Her family, fighting for their own lives, watched in horror.

An elderly man racing to a storm cellar died of a heart attack, and five persons, unable to escape the savage fury of a tornado, were injured as the twister picked their car up off a highway and smashed it back to earth.

Hail, high winds, drenching rain and the tornadoes, at least four of them, raked the Texas Panhandle during the night, causing thousands of dollars damage.

By daybreak, only a few scattered showers remained in West Texas and skies were generally fair elsewhere. But the Weather Bureau warned more thunderstorms and showers were to be expected late this afternoon and once again tonight.

Tom Shaver, 72, collapsed and died of a heart attack in the back yard of his Paducah, Tex., home as he raced for a storm cellar to escape a storm that spawned at least one tornado and dumped up to four inches of rain, triggering the flash flood on Buck Creek that nearly swept Virginia Colene Marshall, 7, to her death.

Virginia and her parents and six brothers and sisters were en route to Chandler, Ariz., when the flood waters stalled their car on U.S. Highway 70 near Paducah.

Mrs. Lucy Marshall, 37, Virginia's mother, said the motor of the family's pickup truck stalled on a bridge, and the water rose rapidly.

"I looked back and saw the water coming up in the back of (See STORM, Page 4)

Misinformed About How To Cut Corners On Expenses

Police Chief Jim Conner had only one question to ask today — "Why?"

As he asked the question he was looking at the corners from 15 dollar bills and two five-dollar bills.

The corners, which appeared to have been torn from separate bills, were found by Mrs. Joe Lisenbee in her driveway last night.

"I'd just like to know why someone would do that," Conner said.

AWAITING TRIAL — Karl Adolf Eichmann, a former S.S. Colonel and Hitler's advisor on Jewish questions, is shown in his jail cell in Tel Aviv, Israel. Eichmann was picked up by Israeli agents in Argentina and flown to Tel Aviv for trial. He is charged with playing a leading role in planning and carrying out the killing of six million Jews.

More Rain

While tornadoes danced around parts of the Top of Texas Wednesday afternoon, Pampa received a light rain which totaled .40 inches.

No rain fell during the night and skies were only partly cloudy at noon today.

Wednesday's rainfall brought the total for the month to 2.73 inches.

Wrong-Way Glider Pilot To Be Released

COLOGNE, Germany (UPI) — The East German Communists today admitted an American team to pick up glider pilot Richard E. Schroder, who landed in the Soviet zone by accident Wednesday while competing in the world gliding championships.

It appeared the Communists were preparing to release Schroder, of Toledo, Ohio, in record time. His wife was waiting near a border post in expectation he would cross the Iron Curtain this afternoon.

An East German radio station reported that Schroder had landed his home-made glider near Grevesmuhlen, just inside the Iron Curtain and only a few miles from the spot where nine Americans were forced down recently in a C-47 transport.

The radio station said Schroder was "well" but did not say what would be done with him. Further attempts to get information from Communist authorities Wednesday night and early this morning were fruitless.

Western officials were hopeful, however, that Schroder would be returned quickly since he obviously strayed off course accidentally.

When a U.S. C-47 strayed across the East German border May 20 and was forced down by Soviet jet fighters near Grevesmuhlen, Soviet officials took charge of the case and released the plane and the nine members aboard within five days.

Merchants Asked To Submit Data

All retail merchants who plan to participate in Vacation Value Days, June 23-25, have been asked to return the cards the chamber of commerce sent them.

Merchant Activities Committee chairman Frank Smith said the replies are needed so final plans for the program can be made.

Vacation Value Days will be promoted by a special tabloid section in the Daily News June 22. An additional 6,000 copies of the section will be printed and mailed to Gray County residents.

Domestic Court Plan Offered

A women's group, headed by Mrs. A. D. Hill, will meet at the Cabot Auditorium of the Hughes Building Monday night to discuss whether Pampa and Gray County need a court of domestic relations.

Representatives from women's clubs, PTA's and other organizations are invited to attend.

The meeting will be open to the public and any resident of Gray County is invited to attend.

Argentina Demands Israel Return Adolph Eichmann

By WILLIAM L. F. HORSEY United Press International

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — An Argentine demand that Israel return ex-Nazi Adolf Eichmann within one week placed two nations on the verge of a complete break in diplomatic relations today.

Argentina already had recalled its ambassador in Israel and warned it would take the case to the United Nations if the Israelis rejected the ultimatum.

A sternly worded note handed to Israeli Ambassador Arie Levavi Wednesday night demanded not only that Eichmann be brought back here but that the "Jewish volunteers" who spirited him out of Argentina be punished.

The Argentine note was sharply critical of Israel's explanation of the incident, rejecting particularly its "gratuitous affirmation that 'numerous Nazis live in Argentina voluntarily with a group of Jewish volunteers who tracked him down without telling Israel's government.'"

Argentina said Israel in effect acknowledged responsibility for Eichmann's capture by apologizing for their actions but made no offer of reparations which are the inevitable consequence of such a recognition of responsibility.

Once Eichmann has been returned to Argentina, the note said, Israel would be free to seek his extradition in accordance with the regular procedures of international law.

At the same time, however, the note questioned Israel's refusal to consent to the trial of Eichmann — who is said to be responsible for the deaths of millions of Jews in Germany during World War II — by an international court.

"If Eichmann is accused of genocide (race extermination), the Argentine government fails to understand why Israel ignores Article 3 of the Genocide Convention, ratified by Israel, which says the accused must be tried in the country where the act was committed or by an international tribunal," the note said.

(West Germany has made no effort to extradite Eichmann from Israel. The foreign ministry in Bonn announced Wednesday that West German authorities are "fully prepared" to help Israel prepare its case against him.)

Red Heads To Roll? Khrushchev Target Of Kremlin Rumble

LONDON (UPI) — An intense policy battle is going on inside the Kremlin and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is under fire from conflicting groups in the highest councils of the Soviet Union, informed sources reported today.

The reports said his supreme leadership does not appear to be threatened immediately but he is fighting a rear-guard action in an apparent attempt to justify his policies before and after the recent summit conference.

The reports came from neutral diplomats who are in a position to know what is going on inside the high walls of the Kremlin. They refused to permit identification.

The sources said some Kremlin policy-makers have been and still are critical of Khrushchev's foreign policy and his recent furious verbal attacks on President Eisenhower.

On the other side, the diplomats said, is a group opposed to too close relations with the West. Pressure from this group was said to have been partly responsible for the stunning policy switch which torpedoed the summit in Paris last month.

The informants told United Press International the conflict does not bear the familiar markings of past power struggles within the Soviet leadership because there is no single personality who could be considered a serious threat to Khrushchev's top leadership.

The diplomats said the group that pressured Khrushchev into his new tough attitude includes the hard-core Stalinists, supporters of Red China's tough anti-West policy, some sections of the army and those who are suspicious of the West.

Rodeo Is Subject Of Planned Book

The Texas Cowboy reunion will be held July 1, 2 and 4 at Stamford. Mr. and Mrs. H. Bailey Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Tupperwein, will attend the reunion to collect data on western life.

Carroll, professor of history at the University of Texas, is director of the Texas State Historical Assn. The Tupperweins, who publish children's books at Boerne, Tex., intend to write and illustrate a book on the life of a young cowboy at a big amateur rodeo.

Machinists Break Off With Lockheed

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — The machinists union, already on strike against Convair, broke off negotiations with another missile-making firm, Lockheed, and threatened to give five-day notice Friday of contract termination.

The termination notice would allow about 10,000 International Assn. of Machinists (IAM) members to walk out on strike anytime after Wednesday at Lockheed plants in Van Nuys, Sunnyvale and Santa Cruz, Calif.

No new talks were scheduled by the union with Convair or Lockheed.

An estimated 3,000 Convair machinists remained off their jobs for the fourth straight day today at Convair installations at four key Atlas Air Force bases at Vandenberg, Calif.; Cape Canaveral, Fla.; Offutt, Neb., and Warren, Wyo.

Selected small groups of about 2,000 other Convair machinists conducted "hit-run" strikes at Convair's three plants here and at Pomona, Calif. The "hit-run" strike strategy was aimed at slowing down production at Convair plants yet still allowing most union members to remain on the job to help finance the strike of fellow union members.

Both Convair and Lockheed machinists sought seven per cent pay raises above their $2.72 hourly minimum wage, and $2.23 hourly increases above the minimum for machinists at base installations, Lockheed, which makes the Polaris missile and missiles for the Sams, Midas and Discoverer projects, has workers at Air Force bases at Vandenberg, Holloman, N.M., and Hawaii.

Anti-Castro Group Voices Plan Of Action

MIAMI (UPI) — A call for armed uprising against Premier Fidel Castro brought into the open today an underground organization which may be the strongest seeking to overthrow the Cuban revolutionary government.

The Movement of Revolutionary Recovery (MMR) charged Castro with betraying the revolution he led, and with attempting "to convert democratic, Christian Cuba into a cog in the Sino-Soviet machinery for world domination."

The MMR said it would go forward in three stages: Insurrection, provisional government, and constitutional government. With the overthrow of the Castro regime, the MMR promised free elections within 18 months and restoration of the 1940 Cuban Constitution.

It also promised to outlaw communism, "unmovable" faith in private property ownership, "total subordination of military power to civilian authority," free elections for labor unions, removal of political influence from Cuban universities.

The call to arms was made in a seven-page "manifesto" issued in San Jose, Costa Rica, and delivered to United Press International here Wednesday. It was signed by four members of its nine-man executive board of directors, all former high-placed officers in Castro's army.

Signing the manifesto were Dr. Manuel Artimo Buesa, Maj. Ricardo Lorie Valls, Maj. Antonio Michel Yabor and Maj. Higinio Diaz.

MMR is known to have been in existence about a year. It claims to have thousands of members in exile throughout Cuba and in Castro's army. This was its first public statement.

Accuse Menderes Of Murder Plot

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Turkey's ruling military junta built up its case against former Premier Adnan Menderes today with charges that his regime had planned before it was ousted to kill 1,500 military college students.

Gen. Cemal Gursel, provisional chief of state, made the charges in an address to his officers earlier this week but they were not made public until Wednesday night.

He said Menderes planned to wipe out the cadets in order to break the power of the army.

Gursel said it was not just a "rumor" but a concrete plan of which the military junta had evidence. He said former Turkish President Celal Bayar and the former governor of Ankara had discussed the proposed carnage.

"We threw out the most guilty people in history," Gursel said in reference to the May 28 coup which toppled Menderes.

The former prime minister and his cabinet are under arrest. They will be tried for violating the constitution.

In Istanbul, an estimated 300,000 citizens, students and cadets, carrying flags and placards proclaiming "we envy our martyrs"

Water Group Talk Tuesday

A. A. Meredith, former city manager of Berger and currently secretary-treasurer of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority, will conduct a question-answer session on the project at the city commission meeting Tuesday.

The meeting, which begins at 9 a.m., will be held in city hall and is open to the public. Persons attending will be able to question Meredith and city commissioners about the Canadian River project.

The Canadian River project should be of interest to the general public, especially since Brownfield city officials raised a strong objection to the price they will have to pay for water at a meeting in Plainview earlier this week.

The city commission is expected to conclude its business by 10 a.m. Tuesday, then devote the rest of the session to the water project discussion.

Rockefeller's Stock Not Enhanced Due To Outburst

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least seven Republican state leaders today discounted New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's chances of winning the GOP presidential nomination.

Only one of eight GOP state officials contacted thus far in a United Press International survey felt Rockefeller's surprise attack on Richard M. Nixon might hurt the vice president's election prospects if he is the Republican nominee.

The seven other Republicans said Rockefeller's criticism had not harmed Nixon.

Many of the Republican state chairmen and committeemen are here for a meeting of the arrangements committee for next month's GOP convention in Chicago.

Wyoming Chairman John Wold was the only state leader contacted who felt the attack put Rockefeller back in the race for the nomination and enhanced his chances of winning.

One Far West state chairman, who asked that his name not be used, said that Rockefeller's statement might hurt Nixon in a presidential campaign.

He said that any such attack by a high-ranking Republican was bound to give "aid and comfort and verbal fodder" to the Democrats.

Oregon Gov. Mark Hatfield said the Rockefeller criticism would not "negate" Nixon's chances if he were the GOP nominee.

But the governor said the statement "certainly does not enhance Vice President Nixon's candidacy. As a minority party we've got to have the support of all our party leaders."

Ohio GOP Chairman Ray C. Bliss said he could not foresee Rockefeller getting the Republican nomination unless there was some "major change" in the political picture.

Iowa Republican Chairman Verne Martin said Rockefeller might believe he is back in the race for the GOP nomination "but in this state chairman's eye he eliminated himself from the running several weeks ago and as far as I am concerned he is not back in."

Jean Toel, Colorado Republican chairman, felt the attack on Nixon put Rockefeller back in the presidential race but said he did not think Rockefeller had a chance of winning the nomination.

Oklahoma GOP Chairman Henry Bellmon commented, "I don't think Rockefeller was ever out of the race." But he also said he didn't think Rockefeller could win the nomination.

Edwin Beaman, Indiana Republican chairman, said his state expressed its choice for the nomination by giving Nixon a heavy vote in the May 2 primary there,

Houston May Be 6th Largest City

HOUSTON (UPI) — Mayor Lewis Cutrer figures Houston may become the sixth largest city in the nation.

He said U.S. Census officials told him Wednesday they have counted 925,000 persons in Houston and "there is no end to the count in sight."

Cutrer said the figure is already about 2,000 persons more than Baltimore, which was listed as the sixth largest city in the 1950 census.

Meanwhile, census takers said that Harris County, excluding Houston, totaled 302,188 persons, an increase of 92,000 over 1950 figures.

Soil Surveys Give Landowner Useful Property Information

A soil survey is a map of the land that shows the surface features, including the structure, texture, slope and erosion plus any subsurface features down to the parent material from which the surface soil was formed. The purpose of the soil survey is to assist anyone who uses the soil. Primarily it is to aid farming operations, but will also help others such as engineers, construction workers, railroad workers and the highway department.

The first soil survey made in Gray County was made on a farm early in the 1940's by a soil scientist for the purpose of planning on a demonstration farm. Since then soil surveys have been made on farms by farm by soil scientists, mostly for the cooperators of the Gray County Soil Conservation District. These were primarily to assist in farm planning or to help in solving special problems related to a particular piece of ground.

By May 1, 1958 about 25 per cent of Gray County was covered by soil surveys. Most of these were of excellent quality but some needed revising to bring them up to date; not because our soil is changing but because the field of soil science is so new that our knowledge is increasing of the soil, what it is capable of doing and what it needs to keep it in the highest continued state of production. This knowledge comes in both theoretical and experimental form, from the Agricultural colleges, the experiment stations and mostly from the farmers themselves who have tried different approaches to various problems.

In May 1958 a new type of soil survey was started in Gray County. This type is based on a nationwide system of soil classification which in turn ties in with the great soil groups of the world. Upon completion of this survey it will be published in a book form called "Soil Survey Report of Gray County." This includes not only the map, but also a written report describing each type of soil, the yields that have been received and what yields can be expected with different kinds of soil treatment.

Because of the large amount of work required to finish this job, it may be from two to four years before this report is ready for publication. At the present time the work is about half done. This project is being pushed to completion as rapidly as possible with every means available. The Soil Scientist in charge of the field operations is equipped with a power soil sampler mounted on a pickup to enable him to map the soil with more speed and greater accuracy. He will also have samples analyzed not only for the plant food available, but also for textural, mineralogical and chemical composition. He measures and records the depths to various soil "horizons" or layers that have formed throughout the soil forming processes. He will also collect information from the farmers themselves as to various treatments and yields.

If you should see the "Soils man" digging a hole in your field and getting down with his note book to describe it, he is not looking for oil or gold or uranium, he is recording what he sees of our most valuable resources, the soil.

Texas Baptists Fill Top Posts

DALLAS (UPI)—The Texas Baptist Executive Board Tuesday filled five administrative posts in the Baptist General Convention of Texas' church-affiliated agencies.

Dr. E. N. Jones, dean of instruction and graduate studies at Midwestern University, was named secretary of the Convention's Christian Education Commission.

Jones will coordinate the work of the eight Baptist colleges and universities in Texas and will oversee the activities of Baptist student unions on 45 college campuses in the state.

Dr. James Baaden, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Brownwood, will be secretary of the Human Welfare Commission, which administers the work of eight Baptist hospitals, four children's homes, two homes for the aged and an unwed mothers' home.

In other action the 191-member executive board named Dr. Jimmy Allen of Dallas as director of the Christian Life Commission; Rev. Dallas P. Lee of San Antonio as secretary of the Language Missions Department; and Bill Bumpus of Midland as secretary of the State Baptist Sunday School Department.

Kiss Bandit Due Mental Checkup

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—The man who chased the preacher's daughter for a kiss was scheduled to have a mental examination Wednesday.

Arrangements were made Tuesday by authorities for Bill Gilbreath, 24, to be given the examination.

Gilbreath has been in jail since April 8 for chasing Shirley Norville, 17, through the Central Assembly of God Church April 7, causing a commotion. Shirley is the daughter of the church's pastor, Rev. Leonard Norville.

Gilbreath also landed in jail last year for trying to kiss the preacher's daughter in church.

WHERE MISSILE EXPLODED—The charred structure, center, is where a BOMARC interceptor missile caught fire and exploded at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J. There was little panic despite false reports that an atomic warhead had exploded on the base.

GI's Alert In Missile Fire Blamed On Lack Of Training

MC GUIRE AIR FORCE BASE, N.J. (UPI)—The sergeant who touched off a civil alert in the fire and explosion in a bunker housing a nuclear-tipped Bomarc missile lacked technical training to evaluate the danger, an Air Force general said Wednesday night.

Brig. Gen. Gilbert L. Pritchard also said civil defense officials had to be contacted through the state police because there were no provisions for direct military-CD liaison.

Pritchard, commanding general of the New York Air Defense Sector, confirmed at a news conference a state police report that Sgt. Clarence Baldwin, security non-commissioned officer at the missile base, telephoned them Tuesday afternoon to report the Bomarc mishap. Police claimed that Baldwin told them a nuclear warhead had exploded and spread radiation throughout the area.

The fire that lasted 45 minutes, heavily damaged the Bomarc in its closed concrete shelter and spread a "slight" amount of radiation in a limited area of the missile site, Pritchard said there were two explosions during the fire and a small part of the nuclear warhead burned. No injuries were reported.

The general said that he talked to Baldwin for an hour Wednesday and the sergeant still was not sure what he told state police. "I don't know what he said," Pritchard said. "He was fully aware that there were nuclear elements in the shelter and he also knew the place was on fire."

Pritchard said he didn't know if Baldwin had the technical knowledge to evaluate the situation properly, but he added the sergeant had received no technical training along this line.

But, the general added, "you have to hand it to this man" for sticking to his post while he thought a serious explosion might be coming.

Baldwin called police after the second explosion and all personnel, including fire fighters, had been ordered from the area.

Pritchard ordered a board of inquiry into the accident, but added there was "no possibility" of sabotage.

Pritchard said the reliability of safety factors built into the Bomarc was proved during the fire because damage was so minimal.

Panhandle History Talk At Rotary

The history of the Spanish explorers in the Panhandle and Plains area was recounted yesterday at Pampa Rotarians by Boone McClure, director of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society of Canyon.

McClure told the club that the society had over 700 members who supported the museum in Canyon and issued an invitation for it to attend the museum which last month had over 5,000 visitors from all over the United States.

Club president Jack Edmondson reminded the membership of the annual installation banquet June 21 in the Coronado Inn.

Visitors and guests were H. R. Shepard, Don Outton, Al Leach, Wayne Clark, Aubrey Steele, and Dwight Stubblefield.

STORM

The truck where five of the children were. My husband and I were holding the two younger children in front," she said. "We got out and the water was rushing past us about waist deep as we grabbed the older children.

"I couldn't get a hold of Virginia because I had another child in my arms. It was terrible. She floated right past us. She screamed 'Mama' and then disappeared in the darkness. We couldn't do anything."

Mrs. Marshall and her husband got the other children to high ground, and then flagged a motorist who alerted F. E. Johnson of the Texas Highway Patrol. He and two volunteer firemen, Billy Mac Teel and W. P. Detweiler, began a search.

Nearly an hour later, they spotted the little girl desperately clinging to the root of a tree about 400 yards downstream from the highway. She was chilled and in shock.

"When they brought her out, all she had on were her little panties and a blouse—the water had torn off her Levi jacket, shoes and pants," Mrs. Marshall said. "I thanked God when I saw my daughter alive, because it was nothing but a miracle she was not drowned."

A tornado demolished several farm buildings, then bore down on another stalled car south of Clarendon. The five persons in it watched helplessly as the twister roared in, picked up the car and flung it to earth.

Injured were James Britton, Mahaffey, 30; Gary Howall, Mahaffey, 18; Sammy Joe Jacobs, 16; Joyce Elizabeth Gouby, 35, and Fred Wagner, 26, all of Clarendon.

Two other funnels were sighted near Turkey, Tex., and a third was spotted near Doyes Air Force Base southwest of Abilene. Hallstones as big as hen eggs smashed hundreds of windows, dented automobiles, crushed outdoor signs and damaged roofs in Sweetwater and Clarendon.

"Part of the roof on my own house is flat," Constable R. C. Hill of Clarendon said. "The twister just punched holes in it and let the rain inside. I've got water all over the house."

Every street in Clarendon was flooded, and so was U.S. Highway 287 east and west of town, Hill said.

Most of the telephones were knocked out of service by lightning and electric service was shut down for several hours.

Hill said the golf balls were stacked up five inches deep at Sweetwater, and Maj. T. L. Donohoo Jr., commander of the Sweetwater Air Force Station, said damage at the station's Avenger Housing Development would "run into the thousands of dollars."

High winds unroofed the County Coliseum at Sweetwater.

There was even fog in the area for about a half hour. Hot wind sweeping across the hill along U.S. Highway 89 caused the fog and cut visibility to about 10 feet. "It would be folly to base policy on the assumption of collapse,"

House Set To Pass Tax Break Measure For Self-Employed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chairman Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) said today his Senate Finance Committee expected to complete action by nightfall on a House-passed bill to give a tax break to self-employed persons saving for retirement.

He said the committee had to act on remaining amendments to the measure, which would change the federal income tax law before it was sent to the floor.

Several changes already have been made in the bill, it was reported. They included Treasury Department recommendations designed to make the bill at least acceptable to the administration. The Treasury originally opposed the entire measure.

An estimated six million self-employed persons would be able to qualify under the original House bill by setting up their own pension plans.

They would not have to pay income taxes on money put into the retirement fund, or on earnings of the fund itself, until the cash was withdrawn.

The bill was expected to stir up a fight when it reached the Senate floor, but sponsors still predicted passage this session.

Other congressional news:

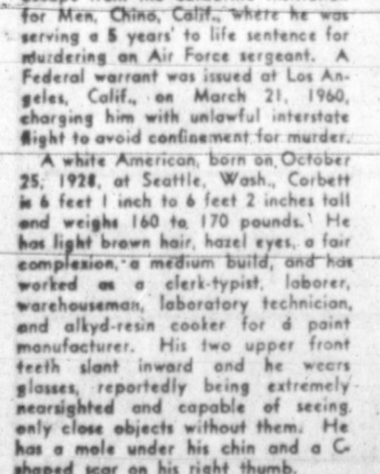

Defense: Chairman George H. Mahon (R-Iowa) of the House military-appropriations subcommittee rejected New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's proposal that three billion dollars be added to the defense budget. Mahon, who will have a key role in compromising Senate-House differences on the money bill, said he did not "know of any sentiment in the house" for the defense hike.

Medical: Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) introduced a new plan designed to provide medical care for the aged. He said under his measure persons over 65 could take out health insurance policies through private insurance firms on a voluntary basis for a maximum $6 monthly premium. The firms would receive tax credits for net losses on the policies.

Expresses: The Knight-News-Express in a copyrighted article that the House Committee on Un-American Activities paid the expenses of a witness it called to give essentially the same testimony at 10 separate hearings throughout the country. The last of a series of dispatches on alleged abuses of congressional expense account spending identified the witness as Irving Flahman, a deputy customs collector at New York.

Red China: The House foreign aid subcommittee released testimony from a top State Department official who said that discontent among Chinese peasants posed a "potential threat" to the Communist Chinese regime. Assistant Secretary of State J. Graham Parsons said, however, "It would be folly to base policy on the assumption of collapse."

WANTED BY THE FBI

JOSEPH CORBETT, JR.
Corbett, one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives," is wanted for escape from the California Institution for Men, Orange, Calif., where he was serving a 5-year life sentence for murdering an Air Force sergeant. A Federal warrant was issued at Los Angeles, Calif., on March 21, 1960, charging him with unlawful interstate flight to avoid confinement for murder.

A white American, born on October 25, 1928, at Seattle, Wash., Corbett is 6 feet 1 inch to 2 inches tall and weighs 160 to 170 pounds. He has light brown hair, hazel eyes, a fair complexion, a medium build, and has worked as a clerk-typist, laborer, warehouseman, laboratory technician, and oil-field cooler for a paint manufacturer. His two upper front teeth slant inward and he wears glasses, reportedly being extremely nearsighted and capable of seeing only close objects without them. He has a mole under his chin and a C-shaped scar on his right thumb.

Corbett, once a premedical student, is interested in scientific matters, avidly reads technical and travel books, and is intensely interested in firearms and target practice. He reportedly has a superior general intelligence and generally lives quietly and neatly but becomes erratic when drinking alcoholic beverages.

Convicted of second-degree murder, he is considered armed and dangerous. Anyone having information concerning him should immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which can be found on the first page of local telephone directories. 400-1-2700-10

Twisters Rip Plains Areas

By United Press International

The plains states reeled Wednesday night under violent storms packing tornadoes, hail, damaging winds, torrential rains and flash floods.

At least one man was killed and six persons injured.

More than six inches of rain drenched Jetmore, Kan., near Dodge City, and sparked flash flooding which washed down a highway near town and swept a car from the road.

At least four tornadoes were spotted in Texas, but only one touched ground.

The twister smashed several farm buildings near Clarendon, Tex., before picking up a stalled car carrying four young men and a woman and slamming it to the ground. All five were hurt.

Tom Shaver, 72, died of a heart attack after fleeing to his backyard storm cellar during a tornado alert at Paducah, Tex.

Two other funnel clouds were sighted near Turkey, Tex., and a third was spotted flying near Doyes Air Force Base, Abilene.

Seven-year-old Virginia Colene Marshall, of Paducah, was plucked from her parents' stalled car by a flash flood and carried 400 yards down swollen Buck Creek, where she clung to a protruding roof for 45 minutes. She suffered minor injuries.

The storm band stretched from Texas to North Dakota and over the northern Rockies, with scattered thunderstorms reported over Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

The Weather Bureau predicted more thunderstorms today along the Gulf Coast into Georgia and Florida. Elsewhere, warm, sunny weather was forecast.

Cleared At Flood Site

VALDIVIA, Chile (UPI)—Ships, planes and helicopters had joined the race today to clear residents out of low-lying areas of this earthquake-wrecked city before potentially disastrous floods strike.

By nightfall Wednesday an estimated 24,000 persons had left Valdivia to seek safety on higher ground. Hundreds more were preparing to leave.

The largest number of refugees took the highway north, traveling in trucks, in carts or on foot.

In the mountains engineers took time to provide a safe spillway for millions of tons of water backed up in the San Pedro River by landslides resulting from last month's quakes.

Experts here were privately pessimistic about their chances of success.

One technician predicted that the natural dam would break "in a day or two," sending a wall of water smashing through bottomlands in Valdivia and nearby riverside villages.

College Rodeo Finals June 16

The Annual National Intercollegiate Rodeo Finals will be held June 16, 17 and 18 at the rodeo arena on the Union County Fairgrounds, Clayton, N.M. Eight top-ranked college teams and 96 other college cowboys will compete for the world's championship and individual titles.

Points won in the finals will be added to points already compiled by teams and individuals to select the all-around cowboy, cowgirl and team.

The Rabbit Ear Roundup Assn. of Clayton and the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Assn. sponsor the event.

Newberry Medal—The John Newberry Medal is awarded for the most distinguished contribution to American literature for children during the preceding year.

criticized the administration's defense program and advocated a three billion dollar increase in defense spending.

Rockefeller said the nation must achieve a faster rate of economic growth, urged federal aid for school construction and endorsed medical aid for the aged in contrast with what he called a "basically unsound" plan of the administration.

"What's he doing, what's he doing?" asked one GOP congressional leader, shaking his head while reading Rockefeller's statement.

"Hey, Rockefeller's working for you now," was the greeting of a conservative Republican to a Democratic senator.

This comment reflected the bitter of some Republicans that Rockefeller had provided campaign ammunition to the Democrats by his criticism of the administration.

Campaign Offices A Maze Of Confusion, Pretty Girls

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Just when I was about to run out of presidential campaign headquarters to visit, the "Citizens for Johnson committee" came along and reopened the field.

I started making the rounds the headquarters last winter, thinking it would be a form of clean, wholesome recreation that would keep me off the streets.

One of them (Rockefeller) closed before I got there, but even so I was able to find about six campaign offices to inspect, give or take a couple of Democrats.

As you may have surmised from its name, the latest group to set up shop here is dedicated to the proposition that Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas should be our next chief executive.

The headquarters opened last Friday but I waited a few days before dropping by to make certain it wasn't another false start. Last month someone put up a big Johnson-for-president sign and then took it down the same day.

It looked like he was going to have an even shorter run than Rockefeller. However it was just a case of jumping the gun. The sign is back up now and the headquarters has all the earmarks of a going concern.

One of the first persons I met there was Tom Blake, a White House press aide during the FDR administration who is now doing his bit for LBJ.

"There are two essentials to a campaign," Blake said. "Confusion and pretty girls."

I mean no slight to the pulchritude of the Johnson workers when I say that at the hour of my visit confusion seemed to have the upper hand.

Lumbermen were lumbering around with armloads of lumber, phonemen were phubbling around installing phones, and a television camera crew was crewing around with a camera.

Despite all the hurly-burly, I managed to have a few calm words with Indira Edwards, former vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee and now co-chairman of the Johnson committee.

She said the main purpose of the latter group is to provide a place for Johnson's supporters to rally around. She plans to spend most of her time doing missionary work among the 1960 convention delegates while Johnson is tending to the Senate.

As I left, I picked up some campaign literature, among which was an order blank for "LBJ pins," "LBJ ear screws," "LBJ cuff links" and "LBJ charms."

If he doesn't win the nomination, maybe they can change the headquarters into a jewelry store.

NEW YORK (UPI) — This man who in his youth worked hard to become a scientist but got diverted and became a multimillionaire, has given up something precious in order to let you know the cause of a long-felt pain.

He is pained by your passion for eye-wash. Think of it! Americans spend 6 million dollars a year for boric acid solutions in fancy bottles! And when the eye provides its own wash, in the form of tears!

But only 4 million dollars is spent annually on scientific research that could lead to new ways of preventing blindness. It is this contrast which pains Jules C. Stein and for that reason he is permitting you to know him.

He is giving up his carefully guarded obscurity (so far as the public is concerned) because if enough people get interested, blindness will never befall a high percentage of the millions who are born blind or go blind.

Even in his own world, where he is a powerful figure, he is obscure since, as he told this reporter, he dreads the limelight. But he is the founder, the principal owner, and the boss of the Arsic Corporation of America and its 30 wholly owned subsidiaries which play a dominant role in the entertainment industry, particularly television.

"I've been told that if I'm going to put this thing over, I'll have to expose myself to people like you," he said to this reporter.

"This thing" is research to Prevent Blindness, Inc. He has created it in the last few months, enlisting the help of such well-known philanthropists as Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, James S. Adams, the Wall Street Banker, and Robert E. McCormick, industrialist.

It is yet another volunteer public health organization, but quite different: It will have no local chapters and no appeals to the public for contributions. Its one interest is to prevent blindness and this it will do by picking its spots, as it were, rather than with "crash programs."

The spots it has in mind are these: Eye science is skipped over rather lightly in medical colleges which need to be encouraged to get more of it into the basic course. Young doctors interested in eye research are stymied by lack of funds. Established scientists with definite research pro-

Annual Crippled Children's Party For 3,000 June 11

LIBERTY, Tex. (UPI) — More than 3,000 handicapped, orphaned and crippled children from Texas and Louisiana will be treated to entertainment when Mr. and Mrs. Bill Daniel of Liberty host their annual, nationally-famous Crippled Children's Party, June 11. The scene of the charity event is the oldest white settlement in the state, the Daniel's historic Plantation Ranch in north Liberty County on the east bank of the Trinity River at Romayor. Guests will be all handicapped children who can attend. Already more than 2,000 acceptances have been received. A full day's program is lined up, including a variety of local and area acts. Actor Chill Willis will come from Hollywood. This is one of several annual charity functions given by the Daniel family at Plantation Ranch.

Foreign News

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor
A man who has been accused both of being a Nazi and a Communist but who still has managed to retain friendship with the United States, is returning as president of Bolivia.

He is Victor Paz Estenssoro, for 20 years a familiar figure on Bolivia's turbulent political scene, who, next August, will be returning for his second four-year term. Poverty and instability have not been rare commodities for Latin American governments. But it was left for Bolivia to be described as "the most isolated, the most forgotten and the most tragic country of the American continent . . . Bolivia is an island more completely cut off from the outside world by its mountains and deserts than if it were surrounded by oceans."

"Bolivia is an Indian country, the most Indian country of the Americas. More than half of its four million inhabitants are pure Indian . . . about 30 per cent of the population are mestizos (mixed blood). The whites form a minority group. . . The revolts of the Indians in Bolivia have been among the bloodiest in South America."

As founder and leader of Bolivia's Movimiento Nacionalista Revolucionario (MNR) political party, Paz receives much of the credit for what stability Bolivia has. Even then it is doubtful that any Bolivian regime over the last eight years could have existed without extensive financial help from the United States. That help now is well over 100 million dollars.

Bolivia has the highest illiteracy rate in Latin America and, like others among its sister republics, has suffered from its dependence on a single commodity. In this case, tin.

In his first term, Paz Estenssoro began strenuous efforts to shift the country's economic base from tin to oil and agriculture. It was hoped the country would be completely self-sufficient by 1958. In 1952, he nationalized the tin mines and undertook a program of land distribution to peasants. Nationalization of the mines did not prove particularly successful, and by the time 1954 rolled around, the country was in just as much economic trouble as before. For part of this, Russia was blamed for having dumped tin on the world market, thus depressing prices.

Like many another Latin American politician, Paz has known exile and violence. He was minister of finance in the government of Gualberto Villarroel who ended his term in office hanging from a lamppost.

He was once accused of helping Nazi schemers who wanted a Bolivian air base. Much of his political support comes from Communists.

But, so far as Paz is concerned, it generally is agreed he is neither a Nazi nor a Communist, but a Bolivian nationalist.

Police To Get Hopped-Up Car
SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — San Antonio police are going to fight hot-rodding with a hot rod. The city manager's office approved a plan Tuesday for one police car to be supercharged for fast acceleration. The car will be equipped with a one-man radar system. The patrolman will clock passing cars for speeders, then take "get in pursuit of violators."

some key areas have been told to be especially watchful.

This is one U.S. reaction to Nikita Khrushchev's torpedoing of the Summit and his threats on Berlin, II—and other defensive reactions are not being changed by Khrushchev's softer talk of delaying a Berlin showdown for six or eight months.

Among the other moves: Detailed standby plans are being made for another Berlin airlift. The key: fleets of C-124 super cargo planes, each with twice the capacity and markedly greater speed than the C-54's used successfully in the 1948 airlift.

The Pentagon is taking steps to make certain that U.S. and friendly Chinese forces in the Formosa area have the military supplies they need for an emergency.

Plans are being made for strengthening the U.S. Army divisions in South Korea.

Department of Defense strategists with new urgency are again reviewing production plans for the Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile, the Polaris missile and the Nike-Zeus anti-missile-missile to determine if new speedups are in order.

"We don't think we'll need an airlift now," said a key State Department official. We think Khrushchev is just stirring up dust."

Then he sat slowly back in his brown leather chair, wiped his face, and added flatly: "But we're not taking chances."

"We don't have what we call an official alert," said one strategically-placed Pentagon officer. "We just want units to be careful, not overlook anything, and above all not treat things right now like they're running a regular milk run and get careless."

"We're just being what you would call prudent, just prudent," said another Pentagon official smiling carefully. "Just in case."

What then of the airlift? The airlift 12 years ago used roughly 250 C-54's, each with a 10-ton payload. It kept up for 16 months. Then the Russians decided the blockade wasn't getting anywhere.

Men who know how these things in say we could put about 250 C-124's into the operation now. We could carry approximately twice the tonnage into Berlin every day that we carried in then. These military men calculate we could keep up this airlift indefinitely, keep Berlin going at about its present economic level.

A Berlin airlift would be no snap. The Russians jam radar and radio communications. They would buzz American cargo planes. They would plant decoy signals to lure the U.S. pilots off course and into forbidden East German territory where they'd be captured.

Nevertheless, the military men think they could put in one C-124—or 20 tons of cargo—into Berlin's three largest airfields every three minutes if they had to. That's 400 tons an hour.

But there are some high-placed officers in the Pentagon who figure that if anything happens soon, it will be a Red Chinese attack in the Formosa area. That's the reason for the quiet but careful provisioning. Military men calculate we have enough force in the area now. But they would need more ammunition and some additional weapons in case of a severe round of fighting.

There is considerable pressure within the Pentagon for further step up in the Atlas and Polaris missiles. And for boosts in the Nike-Zeus anti-missile system.

It isn't certain yet how far this pressure will go. But if the Atlas and Polaris continue to pan out in tests as successfully as they have in the past few months and if Khrushchev's anti-U.S. statements continue with their present vigor there's a good chance additional funds will be sought in a supplementary budget in early January.

There is considerable pressure within the Pentagon for further step up in the Atlas and Polaris missiles. And for boosts in the Nike-Zeus anti-missile system.

A FLEET OF C-124 cargo planes is the key to another Berlin airlift.

Addict Robs Drug Store For Narcotics

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Bobby Ray McDonald, 28, and his wife Shirley, 22, apparently couldn't wait for their trial Wednesday on a charge of narcotics use.

Police said McDonald and his wife were caught with the goods Tuesday night, less than 15 minutes after a lone gunman robbed the Gibson-Whitten Pharmacy of its narcotics supply. Both of them had been free on bond awaiting trial on the use charge.

According to police, McDonald entered the pharmacy a few minutes before closing time Tuesday night, closed the door behind him and began shouting for narcotics.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — John H. Lewis & Co. remains firm in the belief that we have been in a primary bear market since last summer and in a rally of secondary importance since March 8 of this year.

Following a price drift which could last until mid-July, Lewis expects the stock market to advance dramatically, if briefly and temporarily.

Over the long run, the firm thinks that the recent bullish optimism will turn out as wrong as were the optimists of last New Year's.

Although Cubic Corp. has been a spectacular performer in recent months and earnings are moving progressively higher, Reynolds & Co. finds it difficult to make out a case for this issue at current levels. It recommends selling the stock.

There's nothing dramatic about it, but the character of the market seems to be changing, according to W. E. Hutton & Co. There is less interest in some of the recent high flyers and more buying in conventional stocks which have been under pressure for some time.

The average American drinks slightly more than two cups of coffee daily.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife often gets involved in neighborhood tiffs. It's usually over the children. None of these disagreements are very serious or lasting, but there is plenty of commotion at the time. Most of the time I think my wife is right, but then I hear only her side of it.

The trouble is she expects me to keep track of whom she is currently mad at and I am supposed to be mad at that woman and her whole family. My wife says a husband should be "loyal" to his wife and back her up.

I am by nature a friendly guy and I don't like being mad at people who haven't done me any harm. This is a sore point between us, Abby, and I'd like your opinion.

FRIENDLY

DEAR FRIENDLY: A man who "gets mad" at a whole family simply because of a quarrel between wives, shows his stupidity, not his loyalty. Let your wife fight her own battles and don't get involved in the neighborhood squabbles.

DEAR ABBY: My husband plays poker with a group of men every Saturday night. For one time or another no one else wants to have the game at his house, so it winds up here almost every time.

As in every crowd, there is always someone who wants to play "one more hand" to recoup his losses. As a result they play until dawn. I don't have to stay up to wait on them, but I can't sleep with those poker chips clinking all night.

Am I being unreasonable to ask them to have the game somewhere else once in a while?

MRS. CHIPS

DEAR MRS. CHIPS: If you want to keep the home fires burning, take the chip off your shoulder and throw it, on the logs. Many "poker widows" would love to have your problem. At least you know where your husband is every Saturday night.

DEAR ABBY: Eleven years ago I married a man whose parents were European-born. His family think he has a halo over his head and I have horns growing out of mine. They all speak very good English, but when I'm around they start talking an old country language which they know I can't understand. They claim they don't speak English because they don't want the children to understand what they are saying. Yet they use the most vulgar words in the English language when the children are present. I don't get it. Don't tell me to complain to my husband. His parents can do no wrong. How does a good wife who loves her husband cope with a problem like this?

NEEDING ADVICE

DEAR NEEDING: Ask your husband to teach you a few words of that foreign language. Then learn a few phrases. Next time his family congregates, toss out a phrase or two in their native tongue. Look wise and chime in occasionally. They'll assume you know more than you do, and soon they'll figure they might as well speak English, or learn another language.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BERGIE": True confession may be good for the soul — but it's usually bad for the heel. Don't brag.

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Abby's best-selling book, "Dear Teen-Ager", is on sale at all bookstores.

DON'T REMOVE FEEL

Do not remove the "feel" that paperlike covering, from leg of lamb. The leg roasts in less time, holds its shape better and is juicier when the feel is left on.

WMU Plans Picnic In Park

Calvary Baptist Missionary Society met Wednesday in the church for its monthly business meeting and Royal Service program.

Mrs. Floyd Haught conducted the business meeting during which a report was given by Mrs. Travis Winegeart, secretary. A report was given by the extension chairman.

It was decided to hold the next meeting in the park on July 6. Business by Mrs. Jack Robertson.

The program entitled, "Unto the Children's Children" opened with group singing of the hymn "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." Mrs. Ennis Hill gave the program introduction of Baptist work in Brazil and of the Baptist World Alliance Congress to be held in Rio de Janeiro in July. Devotional was given by Mrs. Robertson.

The remainder of the program consisted of reading letters from Belem by Mrs. Haught; one from Salvador by Mrs. Winegeart; and another letter from Rio de Janeiro by Mrs. Bob Clett.

Mrs. C. E. Humphries offered closing prayer.

Following adjournment, the Rev. and Mrs. Ennis Hill were honored with a surprise linen shower on the occasion of their wedding anniversary.

Teachers Present Pupils In Recital

JACOBS (Sp) — Mrs. JERRY Jacobs and Mrs. Josephine Oehschlager presented piano students in Spring Recital in the Civic Center.

Participating were Walter Todd, Susan Cain, Delena Priest, Terry Dunn, Sandra Cain, Dennis Dunn, Linda Willis, Leahwana Nowlin, Mary Duncan, Glenna Gee, Pat Prescott, Sharlette Jacobs, Shirley Vicent, Marsha Geyer, Sharon Hopkins, Rebecca Spradlin, Hopkins, Janice Harrington, Hopkins, Frances Clarke, Charis Gustin, and Linda Crabtree.

Mrs. Oehschlager presented awards to Susan Cain, Sandra Cain, and Terry Dunn, beginners for time spent practicing, and to Sharon Harrington, Rebecca Spradlin, and Marsha Geyer in the advanced group.

The sun sets the theme for a kitchen shower. It's a gay, colorful way to honor a youthful bride-to-be with useful gifts.

"Sunshine" Kitchen Shower For June Brides Makes Pretty Summer Party

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Bridal showers never go out of style, nor does any season claim the major number of them. With many of the sweet girl graduates planning late summer and fall weddings, however, summer showers will be strong on the social scene.

Showers should be gay and fun, and not a burden on anyone's budget. Gifts should be planned to help the young couple set up housekeeping. They can be imaginatively presented.

A "sunshine" kitchen shower has the makings for a successful summer party.

I was amused by the blind-bid "sunshine girl" which serves as the centerpiece for a simple luncheon or supper, and I think you will be, too. The decoration is easy to assemble.

Her sunburst face is a 10-inch cardboard circle cut into points and painted or covered in bright yellow paper.

Face is attached to the bottom of a small-size frying pan (one of the gifts), with masking tape, which peels off later. Nose and mouth are cut from plastic tape or painted on.

Two wooden mixing spoons (another gift) become sunglasses with the addition of harlequin-shaped lenses of green plastic tape and a tape bridge across the nose. Use rubber cement to attach spoons at the correct angle.

The body is a rectangular box covered with pink paper.

The bikini is made from two strips of gingham, pinned or taped at the back of the box. Four pink drinking straws or pipe cleaners poked into holes on either side of the box form arms. Legs are drawn on box front.

Fill box with twisted strips of newspaper. Make a slit in the top. Wedge handle of frying pan into paper. Secure with strips of transparent tape.

You might like to send invitations on yellow note paper or paint a sunburst on regular note paper. Suggest that gifts be wrapped in yellow paper — any shade — from pale yellow to deep orange.

Suitable gifts are almost innumerable. They may be varied or they may be all of a kind — different sizes of knives, spices in matching containers, measuring devices, from small spoons to cups. Smaller gifts make a splashy effect when wrapped individually and gathered into a salad bowl.

You can hang a sun over the gift if you can find a white or blue child's parasol. Cut a yellow sun from stiff paper, attach to the center on top and let narrow yellow "rays" radiate down the ribs of the parasol. Suspend it from a light fixture or shelf.

For the table, shiny yellow shelf paper cut into sunburst place mats may be placed on top a blue-and-white gingham tablecloth.

Plan a menu to carry the theme, too. A sunshine salad of orange and grapefruit around cottage cheese, for example, might be teamed with deviled eggs, and a cake with lemon icing.

Small yellow daisy nosegays for each guest could decorate each place.

Mrs. Stephenson Entertains Club

PERRYTON (Sp) — Mrs. Frank Stephenson entertained Bridge Club in her home Thursday afternoon.

Members attending were Misses C. E. Butler, Clyde Ragdale, George Saled, T. E. Osborne and Lewis Saled.

Guests were Messrs. Chris Vines, H. C. Gerlach, and Jim Skelton. Mrs. Ragdale won high for members, with Mrs. Butler winning second high, Mrs. Gerlach won high for guests.

Women who find themselves breathless or with tiny aches and pains after wearing a girdle may take comfort from a man. The gentleman thought he was a victim of heart disease. After visiting a doctor he learned his trousers were too tight around the waist.

Major Family Has Reunion

GROOM (Sp) — The Major Family held a family reunion Monday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Major of White Deer. During the occasion, Mrs. O. R. Major was honored with a surprise birthday party.

Preceding dinner, Mrs. Major was presented with a tiered cake baked and decorated by her daughter, Mrs. Ivan Fredkerson. The group sang "Happy Birthday, Mother."

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Fredkerson, Teddy, Bruce, Gary and Paul of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Ted Major, Bradley, Kyle, Jett and Del; Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Major of Groom; J. S. Tidwell of White Deer; Judy and Ronnie Major of White Deer.

Invited guests were Tommie Kay Kelley of White Deer; Tam Edwards, Mary Pando and Jean McCullough, all of Amarillo.

Bridge-Supper At The Shaffers

PERRYTON (Sp) — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shaffer entertained with a supper bridge club Thursday evening in their home.

Members attending were Messrs. and Mrs. Josh Hopkins, Jack Dyer, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison.

Guests included Messrs. and Mrs. Ernest Kendrick; Harold Hudson. Mrs. Dyer won high for members and Mrs. Hudson won high for guests.

The club will meet next month in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dyer.

PICTURE NEWS

AROUND THE WORLD

CATCH AS CATCH-CAN—There's very little room for the fish as men, nets and floats jam into the water during the fishing festival in Argungu, Northern Nigeria. Sometimes a fish half the size of a man is landed during this week-long affair. The biggest catch is always presented to the Emir of Argungu.

EASY TO HANDLE—Weaving in and out of traffic is easy for this midget racer, on the go in Frankfurt, Germany. With a chassis built chiefly of hollow pipes, the tiny vehicle has a wheelbase of just over four feet, allowing for extreme maneuverability. It's powered by two 100-cc motors.

SAFE!—Umpire Stan Landes is calling San Francisco's Don Blasingame safe in the first inning of a baseball game against the Chicago Cubs in San Francisco. Cubs' Don Zimmer is taking the throw from Richie Ashburn too late.

RECORD HOLDER—Lynn Burke, new record holder in the 100-yard backstroke with the time of 2:16.7, is shown at Bartlesville, Okla., with George Haines, women's Olympic coach. Lynn is from Santa Clara, Calif.

SKID ROW—There's room at the top, but getting there is a tough task for these lads who are trying to shinny up a greased pole in Winoski Park, Vt. All students at St. Michael's Junior College, the youths scrambled over each other during their attempts to reach their goal.

THE FINISH—Dave Sime (right), pre-medical student at Duke University, races across the finish line as the winner in a 100-meter heat in preliminaries of the Quantico, Va., relays. Sime's time of 10.4 seconds equalled the qualifying time for the 1960 Roman Olympic Games in August. Second is Walt Fillman (left), of Quantico.

RIGHT FOR SWIMMING—Models Adrienne Bourbeau (left) and Dorothy Wilson are holding mink stoles tightly as they cavort in the foaming surf at Miami Beach. They had taken part in a fur fashion show at a local hotel, and this is to show they're just kidding.

FILLING THE BILL—Coming up for air with a healthy appetite after a long-distance swim, French frogman Louis Lourmais is treated to a huge piece of sausage and a king-size goblet of wine in Mainz, Germany. He was trying to swim from Schaffhausen, Switzerland, to the Rhine delta in Rotterdam, The Netherlands, and had reached the halfway point.

LIONS' SHARE—Nonchalant about it, German singing star Freddy Quinn watches two girls play shuffleboard with his gold and silver lion trophies aboard the liner United States in the English Channel. Quinn was presented with the "lions," awarded annually by Radio Luxembourg to a popular singer, in a ceremony aboard ship.

NEED A LIFT?—In case you didn't know, pretty Diane Medina is calling attention to the fact that this is National Ladder Month. Diane, who was Miss Europe of 1959, is dancing at one of the hotels in Las Vegas, Nev., adding glamour to the scenery that is already rather impressive by day as well as by night.

GAY BLADES—Demonstrating some nifty piggy-back swordsmanship, native dancers cut up in spectacular style during a celebration in New Delhi, India. These very active performers are from Rajpunta in central India, and were among other dancers who put on a spectacular performance.

HEAVY FAVORITES—They're off!—just about—in the Jumbo Handicap staged as a special event at Gulfstream Park race track in Hallandale, Fla. Lumbering out of the starting gate are two of the elephants who are following one that jumped the gun.

Doctors Order Rest For Billy Jurges After Near Breakdown

BOSTON (UPI) — Billy Jurges, completely exhausted from trying to cope with the last place Boston Red Sox, was in seclusion today after being ordered by his physicians to take a rest.

And the 52-year-old Jurges may have given a hint himself recently that he may never be back as manager. Jurges was quoted as telling two friends, a baseball writer and Red Sox publicist Jack Maloney several weeks ago that "no job is worth it if it's going to ruin your health. My health is more important than the job."

Jurges, in his first full year of managing a major league club, made the statement in separate talks while the Red Sox were in the midst of a 10-game losing streak. Team owner Tom Yawkey and General Manager Bucky Harris scattered rumors that outfielder Ted Williams would replace Jurges at the helm by publicly backing the former Chicago Cubs shortstop nine days ago. Since then, Boston has lost eight of nine games, including a two-night doubleheader to Cleveland Wednesday night.

Half a game out of first place less than a month ago, the Red Sox have been able to win only 4 of 27 games since then.

"He's completely exhausted," said Dr. Richard H. Wright, a specialist in internal medicine called in by the team. "The man has worn himself out trying to cope with a fruitless task. I told him he should stay away from the game until he himself feels he is ready to return to action. He's very conscientious — a man who doesn't like to see things go wrong — and this is wearing him down."

Jurges said Wednesday night he and his wife, Mary, were taking a three-week vacation and that he would decide about his future upon his return.

Veteran Del Baker, a Red Sox coach since 1953 and in his 50th year of organized baseball, took over the managerial reins on an "interim" basis. The Red Sox said in a statement late Wednesday that "at the present time, the club does not know how long this interim will be, nor has it any definite manager in mind."

The statement made no mention of holding Jurges' job for him.

Colt League Meets Tonight

The Optimist Club meeting for Colt League managers and players will be held tonight at 7 p.m. in the Optimist Building.

Officials say this meeting will be the last attempt to form a Colt League. Only 25 boys have indicated a desire to play, but at least 70 are needed to stock four teams.

Boys 15-16 years old are eligible to play in the league. At least eight adult managers are also needed.

Unpopular Verdict Goes To Machen

CHICAGO (UPI) — Heavyweight Eddie Machen and his manager, Sid Flaherty, figured today they were "two or three fights" away from a shot at the world championship.

Machen declined trial horse Alonzo Johnson in 10 rounds Wednesday night, outspeeding his foe for an unpopular and loudly booed unanimous decision.

But it was his 34th win in 37 pro bouts, and it left him with a potential elimination match against Sonny Liston, rated the No. 1 heavyweight contender.

"It depends on how the (Ingemar) Johansson-(Floyd) Patterson fight comes out," Flaherty said. "If Johansson wins, then I think we can make the fight. If Patterson wins, well, he'd never fight us before and it's my understanding he won't fight us now." Meanwhile, Flaherty said, a match with Liston had been half-way promised to him, and if it can be made, he'll be happy to accept. If not, he has an offer for Machen to fight in London, and he'll take that.

'Black Sox' Scandal Hits Little League

HAMTRACCK, Mich. (UPI) — The Hamtramck team which won the Little League World Series last year has turned out to be the "Black Sox" of kid baseball, it was learned Wednesday night.

Word leaked out that the Hamtramck Little League has been barred from national tournament competition this year because of illegal use of non-resident players in 1969.

The practices were brought to light by Ace Minne, manager of the Harper Woods, Mich., Little League team, who spearheaded an investigation of the Hamtramck team.

Harper Woods lost to Hamtramck in the state playoffs last year.

Minne said that a tip from John Orlovski, a former Hamtramck manager, touched off an eight-month probe that was climaxed by a full-scale investigation at the Little League national meeting in Chicago last March.

At that time, Minne — along with other Harper Woods Little League officials — presented what Minne called "documents of proof" that unveiled Hamtramck's use of non-resident players.

Pete McGovern, national Little League president, then ruled to bar the Hamtramck team from the national tournament competition during 1969, said Minne.

"But it was decided at the meeting," added Minne, "to hush the thing up because it was believed the scandal would have put an unnecessary smear on Little League baseball."

And the story remained a carefully-guarded secret until Wednesday night.

Summer Camp Plans
MONTICELLO, N.Y. (UPI) — Six veteran St. Louis Hawks players and nine newcomers will attend a summer camp in the Catskill Mountains, June 12 through 19, General Manager Ed Macauley said.

Pirates Name Pilot
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — James V. Gibbons, former pitcher in Philadelphia Phillies' farm system, has been named manager of the Kingsport (Tenn.) club, a Pittsburgh affiliate in the Appalachian Rookie League.

Indians Capture AL Leadership

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press International

Could be that trader Frank Lane got the bargain basement buy of the season in Johnny Klippstein.

For "slightly more than" the $20,000 waiver price, Lane bought the Cleveland Indians the type of relief pitcher who is indispensable to a pennant drive.

Compared to some of Fran Franke's more flamboyant big-name player trades, the Klippstein deal didn't attract much notice this spring. But the way he's been pitching, the 32-year-old right-hander has done a lot to maintain Lane's reputation as a shrewd flesh-peddler.

Klippstein, who knocked around the National League for 10 years before Lane bought him from the Los Angeles Dodgers, turned in another glittering relief job Wednesday as the Indians swept a double-header from the Boston Red Sox, 8-7 and 5-2, and took over first place in the American League.

Summoned from the bullpen for the 12th time this season when young Jim Perry faltered in the first game, Klippstein retired nine men in a row to protect the one-run lead. He now has allowed only two earned runs in his last 19 1-3 relief innings.

The double triumph, which ruined Del Baker's full-in managerial debut for the Red Sox, put the Indians in first place by 10 percentage points ahead of the Baltimore Orioles, who lost to the Detroit Tigers, 2-0.

In other American League night games, the New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox, 6-0, and the Washington Senators beat the Kansas City Athletics, 8-6.

In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates maintained a one-game lead with a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs while the second-place San Francisco Giants edged the Cincinnati Reds, 2-1, on Eddie Bressoud's ninth-inning two-run single. Both were day games.

At night, Duke Snider hit the 361st home run of his career to help the Dodgers rally for a 4-1 victory over the Milwaukee Braves and the Philadelphia Phillies topped the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-4, on rookie Tony Curry's pinch eighth-inning, bases-loaded double. Charley Maxwell's two-run ninth-inning single broke up what had been a scoreless pitching duel between Frank Lary of Detroit and Jack Fisher of Baltimore. Each pitcher allowed only three hits.

Mickey Mante hit two home runs and Bob Turley yielded only three hits in the Yankees' victory over the White Sox.

Julio Becquer's two-run single was the key hit in Washington's three-run eighth-inning rally. Bob Allison drove in three Senators runs with a homer and a double.

In the National, Elroy Face stroled in from the bullpen and retired Ernie Banks and Ed Bouchee with the bases loaded to help Pittsburgh break a three-game losing streak and remain in first place. Bob Skinner and Dick Stuart hit home runs to stake Vinegar-Bend Mizell to an early 5-0 lead.

Bressoud's game-winning hit for San Francisco with two out in the ninth ruined a three-hitter by young Jim O'Rourke of the Reds.

Giants starter Mike McCormick pitched a no-hitter for 7 1-3 innings. Sam Jones was the winner in relief.

Snider's homer tied him with Joe DiMaggio for eighth place on the all-time homer-hitting list. Wally Moon had hit a two-run homer off reliever Don McMahon earlier in that same eighth inning to put the Dodgers ahead. Stan Williams, who pitched a three-hitter before he was lifted in the eighth, boosted his record to 14-0.

Curry's double off the Cards' Lindy McDaniel followed singles by Ken Walters and Al Dark and an intentional walk that loaded the bases. John Buzhardt pitched a seven-hitter for the win.

Last Comiskey Leaves Chisox
CHICAGO (UPI) — The name Comiskey was absent from the Chicago White Sox today and still another era in sports had ended. Charles Comiskey resigned as White Sox vice president Wednesday, thus moving his family name from the ball club for the first time since it was founded by his grandfather in 1901 at the creation of the American League.

Valley Pads TL Lead; Sox Win

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Two Pennsylvanians, Arnold Palmer and Art Wall Jr., drew the most attention in a field of top-flight golfers competing in the $30,000 Oklahoma City Open, which began today at Twin Hills Country Club.

Palmer, of Latrobe, Pa., was a strong contender to defend his title in the four-day event, last stop on the road to the National Open at Denver next week. Besides the Masters title, the 29-year-old shot-maker holds four other current tour titles, and is the biggest money winner in the PGA standings so far this year.

Wall captured the spotlight with a record-breaking 125, 14 strokes under par, in Tuesday's qualifying rounds for the National Open. His second-round of 63 was a new record for the 6,400-yard, par 71 course. A kidney ailment prevented the Pocono Manor, Pa., player from defending the Masters title he won last year, and he hasn't been among the top 25 money-winners in recent weeks. A bad knee has sidelined Wall for several tournaments during the current tour.

Some 25 big-name touring pros led a field of 147 into the opening 18-hole rebound today. Scattered showers were forecast, but players who participated in a pro-amateur event Wednesday found the course in perfect condition. Last year's tourney was marred by bad weather.

Two other Masters champions, Doug Ford and Jack Burke, joined Wall and Palmer. Three former National Open titleholders were entered — Tommy Bolt, Julius Boros and Lloyd Mangrum.

West All Stars Top East In HS Basketball Classic

HOUSTON (UPI) — Towering West all-stars, led by lanky Mel Counts, a 6-11 sharp shooter from Coos Bay, Ore., made the difference in the second half. He was held to three points in the first half, but came back after the midway intermission and poured in 23 points to take individual honors.

The West shifted into high gear in the second half of the opening game Wednesday night and whipped the East 82-67. If a third game is necessary, it will be played tonight also.

Counts, a 6-11 sharp shooter from Coos Bay, Ore., made the difference in the second half. He was held to three points in the first half, but came back after the midway intermission and poured in 23 points to take individual honors.

The West has a two-inch-perman height advantage. Bill Vincent of Omaha, Neb., and Mike Marsh of Midland, Tex., are both 6-8. The tallest Easterner is Stan Payton of Rapid City, S. D., who in the eighth, then tucked away stands 6-9.

Amarillo took over the lead, 3-2, with a pair in the third and broke a deadlock with another pair in the fifth after the Rosebuds scored one in the fourth. Stan Jerry Neal gave up one more run in the eighth, then tucked away stands 6-9.

Lower Tax Mileage

The law of diminishing returns was never passed by Congress, but it is there, and it enforces itself. Tax rates pushed higher and higher don't go on producing more and more revenue, as the government is discovering.

Now the Highway Transportation Congress, meeting in Washington, reports growing popularity of the compact cars will pay more than half a billion dollars from gasoline tax receipts of state and Federal governments by 1964, and thus imperil the whole ambitious new highway program.

One of the main reasons for the popularity of the compact cars, first the foreign and now the domestic, is that while refiners struggled successfully to keep the cost of gasoline down, the Federal and state governments made it constantly more costly by increasing the taxes.

Families, unlike most politicians, are constantly on the watch for ways in which to make their dollars last longer. If little cars will do the work of big cars and help preserve the solvency of the family, pop and mom buy a little car. A couple of decades ago, American and European cars were about the same size. As gasoline and other auto taxes went up in Europe, the size of the car came down. We have only a few years in which to laugh at their pip squeak cars before the same cars began to produce the same effect here.

But not only the governments and the highway program will suffer. Smaller cars use less steel, rubber, oil, aluminum, cloth and other materials. Jobs and profits in all related industries will be affected — and tax revenues will be affected again as payrolls and profits shrink.

Of course, economy isn't the only reason for the success of the small car. They have virtues of styling, convenience and handling, and many buyers who formerly owned one car now are able to own two. But their rise does illustrate how the decisions of our massive governments drastically affect our way of life and our livelihoods.

Small Business Aid

There's one area of business operation which seems to have the sympathy of most of the American people. This is the "small" business. Now, just what is meant by a "small" business has never been defined.

American Motors and Studebaker are "small" businesses if we compare them to General Motors, Ford or Chrysler. A barber shop employing 12 men would be huge. A cotton mill employing 12 men would be hopelessly understaffed.

In any case, due no doubt to the famous American sporting blood, most people in this country have ready sympathy for the "under dog." And the theory seems to be that "something should be done" to help the under dog so that in competitive business life, the opportunities for success will be more evenly distributed.

So, in response to this sporting spirit, our government has been getting into the business of supporting small business, and doing so largely at the expense of big business. Alas, the statistics available indicate that here is a splendid example of love's labor lost. The millions upon millions spent, the aid given, the moratoriums declared, the employment services, all of these things seem not to have changed the final result one whit.

Dun and Bradstreet figures still total up much the same way as before. About every 12 months, some 400,000 "small" businesses get started. Within that same period of time some 350,000 of these and previously started small businesses will fold up. Only about one in every five businesses getting started succeeds. And this ratio hasn't changed much in the past six years, give or take a few odds to cover depression or booms in local areas.

We all believe in the right of anyone who wishes to do so, to start his own business and to succeed or fail on the strength of his own genius or lack of genius. But it ought to be time for us to stop taxing big business which has grown big because of efficiency, in an effort to help little business to compete favorably, when the final result of all the effort adds up to no result except larger government intervention and a larger federal debt.

George S. Odiorne, a professor at the University of Michigan's School of Business, has an article in Harper's Magazine for April which fairly well underlines these conditions. The professor, in discussing the reasons why small business in business to fail, points out that most of the new businesses start out on borrowed capital, which is obtained from friends, from bank, or in these days, from government. Then the professor goes on to say: "What he can't borrow is the ability to run a business successfully. Typically, the small businessman stretches his limited capital too far, overextends credit in order to get customers, overloads himself with slow-moving stock, has no knowledge of the market or of his competitors, doesn't know how to raise money when he needs it, doesn't know the principles of good management and wouldn't use them if he did."

Foreign Goods Compete In U.S.

American markets are being flooded with a wide variety of merchandise from abroad. Domestic producers are being undersold by foreign competitors in many lines in which we have heretofore excelled. Some of these are shoes, clothing, automobiles, typewriters, sewing machines, cameras, business machines, cement, machine tools, brass sheets and tubing, oil pipe, barbed wire and steel.

The basic reason for this is the wage price spiral which has far more than offset the gains from increasing efficiency. A further rise in wages and prices will bring a new flood of goods from Europe, Japan, Hong Kong and other countries. This of course, will bring unemployment upon us.

It will also bring pressure for higher tariffs which will in turn reduce our export markets and cause further unemployment. This result might be avoided temporarily by devaluation of the dollar or more inflation but this would increase rather than diminish our troubles. We cannot continue to price ourselves out of the market and remain prosperous.

The only answer is to refrain from further wage and price increases except those that can be justified by increased man-hour output. Even this will not suffice to rescue us from our precarious position but we must have in addition, less footdragging, less featherbedding and more cooperation all around to retain our competitive position in the world.

It does not help to remind ourselves that we have brought this situation upon ourselves by the flood of dollars we have sent abroad to equip many foreign producers with more modern machines than many of our own manufacturers are using. We have done that but we cannot undo it and we will have to meet the competition which we have financed. We can do it but we must stop waste and work harder than we have ever worked before.

A concomitant of this situation is our growing dollar obligations to foreigners. These now exceed $19 billion, a sum approximately equal to our gold reserves. In the event of some crisis, a run on our dollars by foreign individuals and governments seeking to withdraw their balances, would be most embarrassing.

The situation can be met by increasing our exports and decreasing our imports but we cannot do either unless the wage price spiral is stabilized. Two other procedures, cutting foreign aid and restricting American travel abroad would swing the pendulum in the right direction but large numbers of our people regard foreign aid, both economic and military, as essential and many Americans would consider it a great hardship to be restricted in their foreign travel. Nevertheless this problem must be solved if we are to retain our commercial standing, our high standard of living and our ability to be helpful to the people of other countries. We believe the solution lies in some workable combination of the above suggestions.

Two hours, fifty-one minutes. That means I am eight minutes less healthy than I was a year ago. Naturally, I am worried — and not without cause. The test proved that within one year I have slipped a full eight minutes in my ability to work out the rings, circles, corridors, stairwells, ramps and floor of the Pentagon's hundreds of acres of space.

Worse still, I cheated a bit this year. Yes, plain, cheated on the rules. I asked a major for directions. It was somewhere in Ring 3, Corridor 6, Floor 2, that I flouted the rules. "Major," I said, "Could you tell me how to get to Room 2 E 641?" "What does it smell like?" he asked. "I said I didn't understand — what did he mean by how did it smell?" "It's the only way I can get around in this place," the major said. "On smell and smell alone. I know how the wing that leads to my corridor smells, and how the corridor smells, and how it smells just outside my office. You have to be part bird dog to work in the Pentagon."

I took time to ask him what he did on days when he had a cold. "Stay at home," he said. "I am not the only Pentagon worker who relies on familiar smells to guide him. Sometimes in winter, when colds are prevalent, this place is a madhouse. Everybody is lost."

After I had finished my test I visited the information booth and asked for directions to Room 2 E 641. The lady attendant kindly gave me a chart, with my route traced in red pencil. It was of no help. The chart resembles, I am sure, Dr. Harvey's original drawing showing the circulation of the blood. Incidentally, the information desk people keep a chart showing where they are at all times. More than once an information clerk has wandered off and been unable to find his way back. They say it is a sad and heart-tugging sight.

U.S. TRADE WITH UAR FOR DOLLARS POSSIBLE SOON UNDER POLICY FOR CLOSER TIES. WASHINGTON — U.S. businessmen will soon be able to sell goods to the United Arab Republic for dollars — put up by the International Cooperation Administration.

That will be done by this agency, which has charge of foreign economic aid, by "guaranteeing the convertibility of UAR pounds into U.S. dollars." Official rate of these pounds is approximately 44 cents.

The State Department, which has direct jurisdiction over ICA and is preparing to announce this significant new policy, already has discussed it with a number of businessmen at a series of briefings. They were strongly urged to expand trade with the UAR further establishing closer ties with that country.

Actually, this move is the latest of a number that have been underway for this purpose for more than a year. Foremost among them are: $75 million loan negotiated by Eugene R. Black, head of the World Bank, to widen and deepen the Suez Canal.

UAR atomic scientists to be trained in the U.S. Two are arriving in August, to spend a year at U.S. nuclear installations. Egypt now has two atomic plants; a power plant being constructed by Russia and slated to go into operation later this year; a plant, built by West Germany, that makes isotopes.

A proposal by President Gamal Nasser that 20 million UAR pounds, on deposit in a Cairo bank for the purchase of U.S. surplus farm commodities at bargain prices, be used by him to buy U.S. machinery, equipment and other heavy goods. This is still under discussion with every likelihood it will be approved.

An unannounced State Department plan for Nasser to get $50 million in economic aid under the new budget that goes into effect July 1.

Recent trip to Cairo of Senator J. William Fulbright (D., Ark.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, for talks with Nasser. During these discussions, Fulbright invited Nasser to visit the U.S.

WHAT'S BEHIND IT — Senator Fulbright's exceptional meeting with Nasser was arranged by the State Department and World Bank president Eugene Black.

It followed the Arkansas senator's vigorous but unavailing efforts to kill a provision in the new foreign aid bill empowering the President "to withhold funds from any nation that violates an agreement pertaining to international waterways."

Intent of this unusual declaration is to condemn Nasser's refusal to permit the Suez Canal to be used by vessels dealing with Israel.

The Administration strongly opposed this amendment when it was voted by the House. In the Senate, Fulbright sought to delete it, but was turned down. He then offered a substitute of his own to take the sting out of the House provision, but was decisively defeated on that.

The ICA's forthcoming guarantee to convert UAR pounds into dollars is the only condition on which Nasser would expand trade with this country.

Committee. He reported Nasser stated the U-2 "overflights" are viewed throughout the Middle East as "highly damaging indication of Russian military weakness." Also that this is the opinion of Marshal Tito, Communist ruler of Yugoslavia.

According to Nasser, Tito considers "particularly significant the fact that these planes made flights over Russia for four years without anything being done to them, until one developed engine trouble. Only then were the Russians able to shoot it down, if that actually did happen."

TAKING NO CHANCES — The Army is quietly increasing its forces in the Panama Canal Zone. Representative Daniel Flood (D., Pa.), member of the House Military Appropriations Committee, has been informed this is being done as a precaution against "hit-and-run sabotage attacks" by Communists based in Cuba.

Participating in these threatened subversive activities are known United Arab Republic agents, who are also based in Cuba. Last winter, Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa visited Cairo and other Arab capitals, and Major Ernesto Guevara, henchman of Premier Fidel Castro and economic czar of his regime, made a trip to Cairo and Moscow.

Sweden and Red China are exchanging visits by military missions. The Swedish group is now in China, and the Communists will go to Sweden in the fall.

This is the first time since the Korean War that Peking has invited a military visit from a non-Communist country.

The General Accounting Office has sent a report to the House Government Operating Committee disclosing that Army procurement policies in 1951 were predicated on the belief the U.S. and Russia were on the verge of war. That is the reason Army authorities gave GAO for immense purchases of weapons, equipment and other supplies that year. The Korean War was still in progress, although negotiations for a cease fire were underway.

By United Press-International Today is Thursday, June 9, the 161st day of the year, with 205 more in 1960.

The moon is full. The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mercury. On this day in history: In 1791, John Howard Payne, author of the ballad "Home, Sweet Home" was born.

In 1892, Cole Porter, famous American composer, was born at Peru, Indiana. In 1899, James Jeffries knocked out Bob Fitzsimmons in the 11th round to win the heavyweight boxing championship.

In 1943, Congress passed an act providing for "pay-as-you-go" income tax deductions. In 1948, President Harry S. Truman stirred up a controversy when he said the 80th Congress was "the worst we have ever had."

Thought for today: English psychologist and philosopher William James said: "There is no more miserable human being than one in whom nothing is habitual but indecision."

Looking Sideways

NEW YORK — It never seemed to me, when I used to see her performing, that Jorie Livingston would ever have major tragedy in her life — or major triumph. She was a good performer, never a great performer. There are few great performers, and too few good ones. She was a genuinely good one. She was dropped out of sight, which is nothing rare or even unusual in the theatre. Scores drop out each year, new scores come in.

Recently, attending a dinner, I watched a steel executive as he spoke. I watched him because I had heard him before and he had been a wretched speaker. Now he was smooth, at ease, interesting. It was an astonishing change and, obviously, had been taught him. Later, I found out: Jorie had done it. Why had Jorie done it? Because Jorie became gravely ill and had no intention of sitting up feeling sorry for herself until her serious ailment reached definition — and end. She had watched executives herself, and felt that they destroyed themselves in public with any number of disconcerting little habits. Disconcerting to their listeners, that is.

So she started a school called Productive Communications, Inc. She opened the school with two clients and a notebook of suggestions. She wrought such poised wonder with these two that they told others, and now she has a fat list of clients. What does she do when executives come seeking help? First, she studies the man as he looks to others. One man needed nothing more drastic than to be persuaded to trim his over-shaggy brows. No, it wasn't John Lewis, beloved man of the coal miners. Lewis couldn't be hog-tied by Jorie or anyone else into trimming those fierce, dramatic brows.

One of the major problems is finding executives a fund a stance for themselves. Two may stand up to speak, fold their hands primly over their paunches and never move them. Jorie teaches them that hands can move during speech, can be used for emphasis and color and to stand like a thing with folded hands is to lose the audience before one is fairly started.

Another man, she noticed, kept patting the back of his head. She deduced either a trauma of deep-seated psychiatric origin or something as simple as a barber in which the executive had no confidence. Fortunately, it was the latter, the more simple problem. She told him to discard his hair, his habits and go find another barber, any other barber. He did, decided the man knew what he was doing and hasn't patted the back of his head since.

One man kept fiddling with a handkerchief in his breast pocket. She simply removed the handkerchief and made him promise never to put one there again. Another was a spectacle frame chaser. He was doing fine in a speech, exciting speech and then started biting on one of the boxes, which made him sound as though he were choking.

Do you wear suspenders? It's best. One executive used to make fine speeches but would keep hitching at his trousers. He was convinced that his abdomen and not a belt was holding up his trousers. She took the belt away, put suspenders on him and told him his trousers could not fall. He believed her and doesn't hitch at his trousers any more.

She has cured nervous blinks, nasal flaring, self-consciousness about broad A's and similar minor defects, what she strives for, while correcting mannerisms, is a natural, unaffected way of speaking.

"No man's speech should stand out and be noticed any more than his clothes are noticed," she says. "A good executive wears good but inconspicuous

IS THIS A COMING CANDIDATE? (The American Statesman) By VAN NEFF

Frank Matula is a felon, convicted for perjury. He lied under oath to a Legislative Committee investigating a rubbish-collection scandal in California. His sentence was six months in jail and a $2,500 fine, with probation of five years. The State Supreme Court confirmed the sentence.

Then, two days before the sentence was confirmed, Frank Matula received a great honor: The president of the Teamsters, Mr. James Hoffa, appointed Frank Matula one of the three International Teamsters Trustees — one of the highest posts in union leadership!

Shortly after this appointment, Frank Matula went to jail to serve his sentence. Frank Matula's new appointment is a clear-cut example of a growing union-leader trend. Criminal conviction, or trouble with the law, seems almost to commend union henchmen to their superiors as proof of sterling qualifications for union leadership. And from the evidence, Frank Matula's character made a good impression in other quarters.

During his jail term, the International Union Executives met in Washington, D.C. Frank Matula received a three-week vacation from jail to attend this meeting. This indulgence of a convicted felon lay within the power of the judge who had sentenced him. The reason given for freeing him temporarily was, that unless he could attend the Washington meeting, Frank Matula might lose his job as an International Teamsters Trustee! (This was at a time when a mother, in jail for a bad check conviction, was refused permission to attend the funeral of her murdered ten-year-old daughter!)

The facts of Frank Matula's jail sentence, and his trip to Washington as a union dignitary, present a disgraceful symbol of the rising union-leader-rot. But the approval of such goons by top union leaders raises two questions of far-reaching importance: First, how long will the honest, hard-working rank-and-file union members, who are the vast majority, be satisfied with being represented by corrupt and criminal leaders? Second, does this approval on the part of top union leaders have a future political significance for every American, in or out of unions?

Because the top union leaders of today make no bones about their interest in the national political scene, Mr. Hoffa himself has a marked no less than 56 Congressmen for replacement. High-powered "educational" programs have been set in motion, to educate union members in the use of their political strength. This movement toward organizing political strength, on the part of today's union leaders, is a short step from seeking to run a candidate for public office. And Mr. Hoffa, President of the Teamsters, is just that.

Does the rise of Frank Matula mean that American citizens can look forward to labor sponsored jailbirds as Congressmen? Is America ready to think of the Presidency as an office for the union?

Louisiana Outlaws Multi-Pool Oil Tap

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—An order by the Louisiana Conservation Commission which could sharply curtail development of undersea oil pools in the Gulf of Mexico went into effect Wednesday. The order forbids producers under its jurisdiction from tapping several oil pools with a single well—a practice the oil industry has hailed as a cost-cutting salvation of offshore drilling operations.

Bear Market Is Becoming More Bullish

By ELMER C. WAEZEL
NEW YORK (UPI)—Some of the market men who on March 4 classified the market as a bear market now believe the bear market is over. They hold that while it lasted it was a short, fierce bear market and it hurt many of the old-line basic stocks most. Several leading market commentators are taking up the case for a market rise too. They look for the traditional summer rally in the market. The month of June usually is a standoff for the market as it prepares for its summer rise in July and August. This brings up the problem of whether the "summer" rise may be misplaced in the late spring. And if it is, the market men wonder if there'll be enough steam to keep it going in the summer. L. O. Hooper, analyst for W. E. Hutton & Co., notes there is quite a convincing precedent for a mid-summer rise. In the past 41 years, he notes, there has been a mid-summer rise in the Dow-Jones Industrials (average 13.3 per cent) in 37 years, and in the Dow-Jones Rails (average 18 per cent) in 39 years. "The subsequent high," he says, "has come as early as June 30 and as late as Sept. 30 but it has averaged Aug. 6 in the rails and Aug. 11 in the industrials. "In view of the indifferent behavior of the averages in recent months, the probability of a mid-summer and autumn. Secondly, he says the government is likely to ease business activity. He believes easier money will aid residential building and other lines of activity that were hurt by tight money. Standard and Poor's injects a word of caution. Noting that the action of the stock list has been commendable in its persistent refusal to decline, it adds that "sustained aggressive action may await signs of a business upturn."

New Pension Law Rules Available
Full information concerning the new pension law that goes into effect July 1 may be obtained by veterans and their families at any office of the Veterans Administration, according to Robert W. Sisson, regional VA manager for the Lubbock area. All veterans and dependents on the pension rolls under the present law may choose instead to come over and their families at any of the provisions of the new pension law. A pamphlet comparing the two laws has already been sent to these pension recipients. However, should any question remain, Sisson said the staff of the VA office in Lubbock is prepared to explain any part of either bill. Selection of the new pension law provisions may be made at any time. However, the choice is final and the pension recipient can never return to the provisions of the present pension law. While VA officials will be glad to furnish information, Sisson pointed out that the final decision has to be made by the pensioner. For this reason, he urges that pensioners obtain all the information necessary for their decision.

NAMED PRESIDENT—Arthur W. Eckman of Cambridge, Mass., was named President of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., at the June 6 Annual Meeting.
