U.S. Maps Strategy For Security Council Hearing

Herter Sets Reply To Russian Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's strategy against Russian charges of aggression before the United Nations was worked out Saturday and U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said it will show the fallacy of the Soviet accusations.

The U. S. answer, to be delivered by Lodge in the U. N. Security Council Monday, was completed by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Central Intelligence Chief Allen W. Dulles, Lodge and other top officials in an extraordinary Saturday conference.

It carried the full approval of President Eisenhower who was spending a weekend of rest on his Gettysburg farm.

Herter called the officials together almost immediately after he arrived here Saturday from the Paris summit conference which was wrecked by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's insults to Eisenhower and his violent charges and demands over the U. S. spy plane incident.

The Monday showdown in the United Nations was forced by Soviet demands that the U. N. take "necessary measures" to halt U. S. surveillance flights over Soviet territory. Khrushchev charged the U-2 flight was an act of "aggression" which threatened world peace.

Emerging from the special two-hour conference, Lodge told reporters: "You will see my statement when I make it and I hope you are going to like it." Then, he added:

"I am confident that the U. S. position can be put in such a way as to show the refutability of the Soviet charge."

Lodge declined to give any detail but among other things officials expected him to cite chapter and verse of wholesale Soviet espionage in this country.

Such an accounting had been prepared for the President before he flew to the Big Four meeting which collapsed under Khrushchev's rage.

The ambassador indicated that the President's plan for U. N. aerial reconnaissance — already brusquely rejected by Khrushchev — would be placed before the U. N. Security Council but not during Monday's session. He said the United States wants to make this proposal "in a calm, cool atmosphere," and not "as a tactical device" immediately following the opening statement of the Russians.

Under the proposal, the United Nations would conduct aerial reconnaissance of major countries, including the United States and Russia, to monitor against danger of surprise attack. The President had been prepared to suggest at Paris that the United States turn its U-2 planes over to the world organization for such purposes.

Political Free-For-All Erupts Over Summit Flop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A discordant political free-for-all erupted Saturday over the collapse of the summit conference and the explosive U-2 spy plane incident which preceded it.

NOT WHAT IT SEEMS—Passing motorists in Blytheville, Ark., apparently thinking a hapless mechanic had met his doom by being sucked into the car engine, turn hurriedly into Charles West's service station to check up only to find that West employs the dummy "crazy legs" to entice them into spending their money in his station.

Pampa Hotel Sold

Sale of the Pampa Hotel was announced Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vermillion, who left Pampa late Saturday afternoon for their ranch near Gunnison, Colo.

The new owner is John Weiwork of Oroville, Washington, who is engaged in the apple orchard business there. Bill Riggs of Pampa will act as agent for Weiwork until he arrives about June 1 to take over operation of the hotel and announce future plans.

The Vermillions bought the Pampa Hotel less than two years ago. Prior to coming to Pampa they were ranchers.

Capture Three Dope Smugglers

LAREDO (UPI) — Federal agents Saturday held three suspects on charges of smuggling and transporting heroin.

U. S. Commissioner Frank Y. Hill remanded the three men to county jail Friday after they failed to post bonds at a preliminary hearing. The suspects are James Francis Anderwald and Pete Ochoa, both of Galveston, and Juan Garcia Guzman of Dallas.

Shirts Stolen From Auto

Five new shirts were stolen from the car of Mrs. R. C. Barnard, 605 Dean Dr., Friday while her car was parked in the downtown area. She had purchased the shirts and left them in her unlocked car in the 100 block of E. Kingmill.

The jarring controversy was triggered by Adlai E. Stevenson's barbed criticism of President Eisenhower's handling of the situation. The twice unsuccessful Democratic presidential candidate charged in a speech Thursday night that "incredible blunders" by Eisenhower had given Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "the crowbar and the sledge hammer to wreck the summit meeting."

The Republican National Committee lashed back Saturday that Stevenson had fallen "like a ton of bricks" for the "Khrushchev line." In its publication, "Battle Line," the committee accused him of making a "reckless speech" that injected the summit development into this year's presidential campaign arena.

"Compare Stevenson's wishy-washy 'Let's not anger the Russians' position with that expressed by President Eisenhower and supported by reasonable men everywhere," the publication said.

The Democratic Advisory Committee met in a closed session and agreed to issue a statement on the summit repercussions Sunday. Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler termed the attack on Stevenson as "typical of the Eisenhower-Nixon administration."

Butler said it meant that anyone who tried to discuss national issues was accused by Vice President Richard M. Nixon or his lieutenants of damaging national unity.

He said Eisenhower had handled himself well in the face of Khrushchev's "rude conduct" at Paris. Butler said he believed administration foreign policy failures were becoming apparent and would get increased attention during the campaign.

Former Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley who opposed Stevenson's nomination in two previous Democratic conventions, issued a statement in New York calling on his party for unanimous condemnation and repudiation of Stevenson's statement.

Republican National Chairman Thurston B. Morton personally denounced Stevenson in a speech before a GOP rally at Denton, Md.

Morton said Stevenson was "playing with political fire" because "Loyal Americans will not take kindly to any politician willing to run down the President for the sake of personal political advantage."

Morton called Stevenson's speech a "shabby, partisan response to Nixon's ringing assertion that Russia's Premier Khrushchev was mistaken if he thought, one American political faction would bow to his brow."

beating more than another."

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination, defended Stevenson's speech. He said it "makes sense to me." He added that "this whole U-2 business is but further proof of the lack of organization now characteristic of the operations of this administration."

'Surprisingly Co-operative'

U.S. Demands Reds Return 9 Airmen

BERLIN (UPI) — U. S. authorities Saturday demanded from surprisingly cooperative Soviet officials the return of eight men and a woman whose unarmed Air Force transport was forced down in East Germany by Russian jet fighters.

Heartened by relatively friendly early responses from the Soviets, the American authorities predicted the release of the plane's occupants within a day or two. They saw no signs that the Soviets might try to build up the strayed plane into an international "spy plane" incident.

Col. Gen. I. Jacobowski, Soviet armed forces commander in Germany, said the twin-engine C-47 "was landed safely" Friday. All aboard were unharmed and being held at a regional Soviet headquarters.

The plane went off course on a flight from Copenhagen, Denmark to Hamburg, West Germany.

The Soviet attitude was in sharp contrast to Russian conduct during previous strays plane incidents. Then, the Soviets customarily washed their hands of the planes and insisted that all negotiations be conducted with the East German government.

East Germany has tried to blackmail the United States into dicker with it for hostages because such negotiations would imply recognition of the East German government. The United States has refused.

FIRED — Winston McDaniel, a 32-year-old San Antonio high school teacher, has been fired for allegedly praising Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to his class.

Virginia Demos Endorse Johnson

VIRGINIA BRANCH, Va. (UPI) — The Virginia Democrats endorsed Lyndon B. Johnson for presidency Saturday, voting to send the delegation to the national convention to cast the state's 33 votes for the Texas senator.

It was the first time since 1932 the Old Dominion when it backed U. S. Sen. Harry F. Byrd as its favorite son, had endorsed a candidate in advance of the national convention.

Party sources said the vote for Johnson was a move to help him regain ground against front-running Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts prior to the Los Angeles convention in July.

A spirited floor fight at the state convention to send the delegation to Los Angeles uninstruced was beaten by a vote of 1,042 to 521.

A cheer went up from the crowd when the results were announced at the end of a long day of maneuvering to put the state on record for Johnson, who has the support of Gov. J. Lindsay Almond, Byrd, and other top leaders in the state.

Almond, however, opposed the resolution to instruct the delegation when it came before the committee on rules, of which he was chairman. The committee sent it to the floor with a 22-5 vote.

Congressman Pat Jennings of Marion, a staunch booster of Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, led the futile floor fight to keep the Virginia delegation uninstructed.

Thou Shalt Not Eat Thy Brethern

WEWAK, New Guinea (UPI) —

An Australian Supreme Court Justice looked down at the 15 cannibals dozing or idly scratching themselves before him Saturday and sentenced them all to death for including three of their neighbors on the menu at a feast last year.

None seemed to care, even when Justice Mann said he was sentencing them according to law, but hoped they would be spared and sent to jail where they might be taught to change their diet and their customs.

The judge soundly lectured the cannibals.

"Some people eat people because they are pigs who don't care what they eat," he said. "Man should be something better than a pig."

Those of the defendants who were awake, scratched at what itched and stared calmly at him. His words did not awaken those asleep on the floor.

The 16 natives had spent most of their week-long trial sleeping. It was in Wewak that a Japanese army noted up in 1943-44 and eventually was decimated by air attack and by the U. S. 32nd Infantry (Red Arrow) Division on the banks of the Drinlorum River.

The litter of war still remains in the jungle rotted and overgrown.

But this passing of civilization through the dense forests had not changed the cannibals.

As unfolded in court testimony, those brought to Wewak for trial had raided the Suwanna hamlet, killing three Suwanna warriors. Their victims were consigned to the cannibal cookpot.

When the raiders left they kidnaped eight Suwanna women.

Judge Mann held this not to be the heinous crime it would be in the Western world.

It was a "social and economic raid," he said, designed to provide the raiders with wives as well as food.

It was their choice of food that brought the full wrath of the law on them.

The judge even commended the teamwork and generalship displayed by the raiders in attacking the village.

Winners In CofC Drive Announced

A team composed of John Gikas, J. C. Roberts and Jerald Sims, won first prize in the annual Chamber of Commerce membership round-up which ended Friday.

The total number of new members signed during the campaign will not be known until an official count is made Monday.

Members of the winning team will each receive a Polaroid Land Camera outfit.

Norman Henry, Horace Prince and Jimmy Wilkerson comprised the second-place team. They will receive 35 mm camera outfits.

The third place team, composed of Newt Secret, Jack Imel and Dick Stowers, will receive Brownie Flash 20 kits.

New Fashion Shop Planned

Wright Fashions of Pampa, a new women's clothing store owned by John W. and R. E. Wright, is scheduled for a mid-July opening at the corner of Francis and N. Cuyler.

R. E. Wright will move to Pampa this week to assume duties as general manager of the store.

The location of the fashion center is being completely remodeled. A new front already has been completed, and work on new fixtures will begin this week. The building also will have year-round air conditioning.

Wright Fashions of Pampa will feature a complete line of juniors and ladies size clothes in a complete ready-to-wear department. Coats, suits, dresses, fur, sportswear, robes, cosmetics and accessories will be featured.

John Wright spent last week at the Los Angeles fashion market, buying for the new Pampa store. He also plans to attend markets in Dallas, New York and Chicago.

The Wrights also plan to maintain a permanent fashion representative in New York. It will be Norman's of New York, which formerly was associated with Neiman Marcus of Dallas.

At least 10 employees will be hired in staff Wright Fashions of Pampa.

Mrs. Dorothy Freeman already has been named office and credit manager. Other hiring will be done by R. E. Wright.

Plans for a formal opening are still in the formative stage, but it is expected to be held around Aug. 1.

The Wrights currently operate two fashion shops in Amarillo.

Western Diplomats Say:

Despite K's Threat On Berlin, There Won't Be A 'Hot' War

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PARIS (NEA) — There won't be a hot war in the foreseeable future, despite Premier Nikita Khrushchev's threat to conclude a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

This is the consensus of Western experts on communism who have been studying every word uttered by Khrushchev since he torpedoed the Summit Conference.

Hark to a leading Western diplomat who lives and works in Russia and is familiar with every zig-zag of Soviet policy:

"It is now clear that Khrushchev has lost control of Soviet policy. Other tougher men like Mikhail Suslov, now have the deciding voice."

"However, in any event, the unregenerated Stalinists in the Communist Party and the Red Army are aware of the facts of modern warfare. Though they rant and threaten they realize fully that the atomic balance of terror between the United States and Russia remains unchanged."

Failure of the Summit will, of course, intensify the Cold War, the diplomat said, adding:

"It was only in the minds of Britain's Macmillan and some hopeful U. S. commentators that the Cold War was ever relaxed."

No doubt, he said, Moscow will intensify pressure on West Berlin and outlying NATO states like Turkey, Greece and Norway.

However, the Russians are not expected to cross the bridge that might lead to war by concluding a separate peace treaty with East Germany that would place West Berlin under Communist domination, for these two reasons:

1. Moscow has said repeatedly that a separate treaty with Red Germany would end the rights of the Allies to station troops in West Berlin. The Allies have made it clear they intend to stay. In the conflict of wills the Russians see the danger of war.

2. There are dissensions over Germany in the Red Camp. Poland and Czechoslovakia who still fear Germany, Communist or Capitalist, are fighting hard within the Warsaw Treaty Organization to prevent the signing of a separate Soviet-Germany peace treaty. This I am told by one of Poland's leading journalists who came to Paris for the Summit.

Why then did Khrushchev schedule his trip to East Berlin after leaving Paris? As this Pole sees it, it was "to instruct his puppet, (See DESPITE, Page 3)

Allowable Up During Week

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas oil allowable increased 12,495 barrels daily during the past week, the Railroad Commission reported Saturday.
The commission said the allowable climbed to 2,608,903 barrels. Six oil discoveries were made during the week.
Three finds were made in the Wichita Falls district and one each in the Kilgore, Abilene, and San Angelo districts.
There were no gas discoveries during the week.
The commission said there were 194 oil well completions during the week to bring the total for the year to 3,829 compared with 4,640 for the same period last year. There were 49 gas well completions for a total of 716,799 last year. Drillers hit 111 dusters for a total of 2,076 dry holes compared to 2,433.
The commission reported 195,470 producing wells in Texas, an increase of 191 over last week.

Compact Car Sales Affect Total Selling Prices In State

AUSTIN (UPI)—Automobile sales in Texas dropped 15 percent last month, and the Texas Bureau of Business Research blamed it partly on the lower selling prices of compact cars.
"There is also a body of evidence that 1960 models were a disappointment to prospective new-car purchasers," said Robert H. Drenner, research associate at the University of Texas Bureau.
He also attributed the slump in auto sales to "the poor showing of used car sales."
"Used car dealers have been hard hit by the market success of the compacts, which have been driving down prices sharply on used automobiles," Drenner said in an article in the Texas Business Review.
On the brighter side, total retail sales in April rose 4 percent above the March level, according to research statistics.
The bureau measured a 9 percent gain in non-durables volume, which represents more than two-thirds of total monthly dollar retail sales.
The non-durable rise more than offset a 10 percent drop in sales of durables, which usually fall about 6 percent from March to April.
Factors which the Bureau of Business Research credited with the rise in sales included the normal Easter buying season, better weather, and a trend away from consumer caution.
April sales rose to a high enough level to wipe out a cumulative deficit in consumer spending for the year, compared with 1959, the bureau said.
Total sales for 1960 are now on the same level as for 1959, Drenner said, although the first quarter was down 3 percent.
Apart from auto sales in April, the bureau reported "more encouraging news concerning durables sales came from the lumber, furniture, and household appliance dealers."
"Spring weather and the resumption of building schedules; April sales suggest, will do much to pump strength into durables sales," the report continued.

Registration Deadline May 25

Wednesday will be the deadline for registering for Girl-Scout day camps which will be held throughout the Quivira Council, beginning June 6.
The camps will be held at Pampa, Borger, Skellytown, Canadian, Memphis and Shamrock.
The day camps are open to any Girl Scout and Brownie. Those attending will be divided into units during the week-long camp.

Free Top Soil At City Lake

Anyone wanting good, rich top soil can have it for the digging at the City Lake.
Denny Roan, lake supervisor, said there was plenty of top soil at the south end of the lake where the water has receded.
Although Roan was diluted with tree limbs last week for the fish refuge he is building, he still says he needs more.
Roan also pointed out that the lake is open to the public for fishing, but that motor boats or seins can't be used.

Sporty Thief Takes 'Go Kart'

Pampa police are puzzled as to what terminology to use when referring to a particular culprit — he may be a car thief, but again he may not be.
Friday night someone stole a Go-Kart from Bobby Bounds, 1413 N. Russell.
The Go-Kart was taken from the trunk of his car which was parked in the driveway.
The vehicle is blue and is powered by two 10 h.p. motors. It is valued at $459.

Damage Suit For $20,000

Mrs. Sharon Jonas, acting in behalf of her son Kevin, Friday charged Dave Cathey with gross negligence and filed a $20,000 damage suit against him.
Cathey was the driver of a car which overturned March 24, fatally injuring Mrs. Joas' husband, Robert.
Gordon, Gordon and Buzzard, attorneys at law, will represent Mrs. Jonas and her son when the case comes to trial.

$300 Donated To Child Class

A $300 reserve fund was given to the public schools exceptional students class last week by the Exceptional Child Association in its meeting.
It was also reported that the club's annual Bible school will be held at the First Methodist Church, July 25-29.

Story Hour To End With Party

Pre-School Story Hour will conclude its current sessions with a party Thursday 9 a.m. until 10 in the Lovett Memorial Library.
The Story Hour has been conducted weekly, each Thursday, from nine until 10 in the library with stories designed for the interest of pre-school children.
During the fall and winter months, the group met in 24 sessions for stories told by Miss Lynn Talum, Miss Helen Gould, Mrs. Gordon Crinklaw and Mrs. Lillian Snow.
At the party on Thursday, Debbie Gray will be a honor guest because of her perfect attendance at all 24 sessions.

Earthquake, Fires Ravage Chilean City Of Concepcion

By MARTIN LEGUIZAMON United Press International

SANTIAGO CHILE (UPI)—A violent earthquake and fires ravaged Concepcion, Chile's third largest city, Saturday. Damage extended over a 200-mile square area and casualties were heavy. At noon, six hours after the great sharp shock, the government announced 41 known dead and said at least 150 had been injured. The damage was centered in Concepcion, an industrial center where some 400 houses collapsed in one section. The city was without gas and light. Police reestablished military control as ambulances raced through the streets looking for victims. An Army jet pilot who flew over Concepcion at noon estimated that 90 per cent of the houses had been destroyed in the city of 200,000 population. He could not find and advised that motorized help be sent from Santiago, 330 miles distant.

Concepcion was isolated from the rest of Chile except for one telephone line that was taken over by the military. The government prohibited the broadcast of any information on the earthquake and fires other than that in official bulletins. The first severe earthquake rocked Concepcion at 4:35 a.m.

Man Held In Accidental Stabbing

Henry McGregor, a Negro, is being held by police for the accidental stabbing of Mrs. Birdell Davis, a 45-year-old Negro who lives at 716 S. Somerville Friday night. The stabbing occurred when Mrs. Davis tried to stop a fight between McGregor and another Negro man at the Hickory Pit. Both Mrs. Davis and McGregor said the stabbing was accidental. Police Capt. Denny Ross said McGregor was booked on charges of disturbing the peace, and would be held until Mrs. Davis' condition was improved. Highland General Hospital officials listed her as being in good condition Saturday.

BEAUTY THROUGH SIMPLICITY

BEAUTY THROUGH SIMPLICITY As a nation we are beauty conscious—particularly when it comes to our home decor and furnishings. We have come to realize that the furniture of each period has a characteristic beauty all its own, even when there is marked evidence of the influence of the preceding period. The style of the furniture of every period is bound up with history and with peoples. The general style, the materials used, the individual design of every piece of furniture—all varied with the life of the people for whom it was made. Perhaps this fact is the root of our continuing affection for Early American furniture. The Colonists who left England to found a new land brought little with them of material goods but a wealth of simple courage and determination. These qualities are expressed in the simplicity and humble beauty of their furniture. While they knew well the styles of their forbears, they were not content to copy. They were inventing thousands fleeing into the streets in panic, many of them in night clothes. A series of smaller tremors followed until 11 a.m. Because a similar earthquake in 1926 killed 30,000 persons in the same general area, the government took extraordinary relief measures. Concepcion was largely rebuilt after the 1926 quake and authorities said that new and modern concrete-based structures cut down Saturday's death toll. Most property damage was registered in the old area. The quake area from Concepcion ran north toward Talca, about 70 miles distant. The quake force was registered at grade on a maximum scale of nine. (The destructive quake which hit San Francisco, Calif., in 1906 was measured at 8.25. In Buenos Aires observatory officials said the se-

Driver License Test Hours Are Listed

Applicants for Texas driver licenses will be given written tests between the hours 8 a.m. and 9:30 and 1 p.m. and 2:30 only on the days the Highway Patrol office in the court house is open. Patrolman Otis Elmore, who is in charge of giving the tests, said that applicants must observe these hours to speed up the process of the operation. Driving tests will then be given between 9:30 a.m. and noon, and from 2:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. This will enable applicants to complete the test in either one morning or afternoon. The office will be closed each Wednesday and Thursday, and on Saturday afternoons. Elmore also gives driving tests in McLean the first and third Thursdays of each month; Higgins, first and third Wednesdays; Wheeler, second and fourth Wednesdays; Canadian, second and fourth Thursdays; and Miami on the third Wednesday.

verity of the Concepcion quake knocked the recording needle of the inscriber roll. Police said 15 persons were reported dead in the town of Coronel Dos, in Angol. At least 50 per cent of the houses in the hamlet were reported destroyed. Damage also was reported in the city of Chillan, 65 miles from Concepcion, which also suffered great loss in the 1926 quake. Early reports said there were only two known dead. The bridge over the BioBio River collapsed isolating Chillan from Concepcion by road as well as phone. Ten casualties were reported at the mining center of Lota, near Concepcion. The naval base at Talcahuano, 15 miles from Concepcion was isolated.

Finch Trial May Receive Court Delay

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Possible California Supreme Court action threatened Saturday to delay the scheduled start of the second murder trial for Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his mistress, Carole Tregoff.

The opinion was on an appeal filed by Miss Tregoff's attorneys to have Superior Judge LeRoy Dawson disqualified from hearing the second trial which is scheduled for Monday. The first trial, three months of sensational testimony, ended in a hung jury. Rexford Egan and Don Bringgold, two of three lawyers for the attractive 23-year-old former model, said they expected an answer from the high court on their appeal before court convenes at 9:30 a.m. p.d.

Storm Threatens Stranded Climbers

TALKEETNA, Alaska (UPI)—A storm front moving toward 20,320-foot Mt. McKinley Saturday threatened more danger to three injured mountain climbers awaiting rescue.

Fear that the storm would strike North America's tallest peak late Saturday caused rescue parties to advise the three men saddled in a makeshift camp at the 18,000-foot level to make an effort to descend to the 14,500-foot level.

Two climbers were rescued from the glacial slopes of the mountain Friday, but a bush pilot and an Army sergeant died when their light plane crashed against the peak at 18,000 feet. The pilot was identified as Bill Stevenson, 23, of Spangard, Alaska, a community adjacent to Anchorage. Military authorities withheld the

Free Gold Market

When people begin to lose their faith in paper currency, their interest in gold revives. And presently there is an expanding interest in gold.

The gold question has been one of great interest to human beings throughout the long years of our history. Nor could we take any particular period of time, set it aside, and declare that between such and such years, the gold question had been suitably solved for all concerned.

We can point out that insofar as the United States is concerned, the gold question has surged to the fore and then drifted to the rear in various decades depending upon the faith the people had in other things besides gold. When they begin to lose faith in their government or in whatever it is that their government is using for money at the time, then interest in having gold and using it, and especially in hoarding it, revives.

There is an interesting development respecting gold which was recently reported in the California Mining Journal. This magazine, like many of its kind, is interested in getting the nation back on a gold standard or, at least in getting it back to a free market in gold. But standing squarely across the highway in that direction is the series of emergency orders executed in 1933 by Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the Gold Reserve Act of 1934.

This latter enactment declared that gold coins were no longer to be minted by the government, that in gold coins was specifically prohibited, and ownership of gold coins was forbidden the citizens of the nation. But many have assumed that this prohibition also applied to gold in other forms than coin.

A current case in the federal court bears directly on this subject. It concerns possession of gold bullion by a man in the State of Washington. The federal court charged him with a criminal act. He was arrested, tried, found guilty and put in jail.

He appealed the case and the appellate court sent the case back to the original court for corrective action and dismissal. The criminal charge of possession of

SOLOMON AND CHEOPS?
(Christian Economics)

EDWARD P. COLESON, Ph.D.
Professor of Economics, Taylor University, Upland, Indiana

Our medieval ancestors who were, mostly malnourished, woefully unhealthy, ragged, illiterate and superstitious, used to like to gather about in the evening on occasion and hear a wandering minstrel tell tales of wonder and magic. There was the "cinder" girl who became queen, thanks to her fairy godmother; the magic porridge pot which supplied food for the poor widow and her daughter but threatened to drown them in "surplus" when it got out of hand; the wonderful tablecloth which would furnish its possessor with a full meal of the richest dainties; and the little dwarf who came in through the windows and spun a whole roomful of straw into gold.

Perhaps such flights into fancy served these peasants some useful purpose, too, in the short run. If you were cold and hungry and destitute you could dream, could you not? Nor were the intellectual fruits of that time much ahead of the humber folk; they busied themselves trying to figure out ways of changing the baser metals into gold. Indeed, it is my contention that modern versions of the same old delusions, quite as fantastic and incredible as the ancient variety, are the root of most of our troubles today.

Governments in our generation have become the new alchemists; they need only touch scraps of paper with their official ink to transform them into wealth, and there's never anything wrong with the economy which can not be cured by a flood of such fiat money or its equivalent, credit. Then, of course, unions have the mystic power which will enable us to work less and have more, not to mention the never ending round of magic schemes whereby this pressure group or that hopes to get something for doing absolutely nothing — or even dumping or plowing under what has been produced. But it might be well to remind ourselves at this point that the economic definition of a thief is simply one who takes without giving in return. Perhaps such remarks only reveal the writer as being a hopeless reactionary, unacquainted with the "bold, new thinking" and an enemy of social progress. Just to keep the record straight, let us perform an old task in the new way and see what happens.

Nearly five thousand years ago Egyptian builders learned to use quarried blocks of stone in constructing edifices which were intended to last for all time, that is, pyramids which had to endure to preserve the pharaoh's mummy and as a residence for the royal spirit. Building pyramids became quite the fashion, until the kings overdid it so thoroughly that the Egyptian people became fed up with the business. Although the remains have been studied carefully for many years now, we can only surmise the actual process of building. However, it is commonly conceded that although the work was done with precision, it was brute force, hundreds or even thousands of human beings tugging sweating and dying, which pulled the huge stones into place. No mechanical aids assisted work, for man except the inclined plane, a ramp of earth which was later removed.

Although John Maynard Keynes back in the depression period told us that it was a vast WPA project, it certainly never resembled any you or I ever saw. Probably I never occurred to old Cheops, the builder of the mightiest of the lot, that he was socially enlightened. It was a colossal task, he wanted it done and enslaved the people to do it. A hundred thousand of them for twenty years, according to Herodotus who visited Egypt two thousand years later — no bond drives, high wages or propaganda just "blood, sweat and tears" and the crack of the overseer's whip as the men struggled upward with another block of stone to build a huge monument to one man's vanity, or at least such has been the verdict of history. Indeed, given the task, how else could he or anyone else have done it, then or now?

Now we do have more detail about the activities of another of the world's great builders and how he "financed" his public works projects. Solomon called forth his people by the tens of thousands to cut timber in the Lebanon Mountains, hew stones, and fetch and carry. That was forced labor or slavery. If you want to call it that. His Phoenician labor he had to pay for with wheat and oil, which he first took from the Jewish farmers. Thus the people bent their backs and carried the load for seven years while the temple was in building and on through the various building projects which occupied Solomon's later reign. Always the king wanted more, so they tightened their belts and had less, until he died and most of the country rose against Rehoboam, his son, because of their heavy burdens. Now how else could he have managed, given the task?

The writer was very much struck with the loose economic

The Doctor Says:

DR. HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN

Four reasons why you should report details of your allergy investigations to your doctor:

He'll be able to recommend measure to relieve the allergic reaction.

He may be able to desensitize you to the substance or allergen that's responsible for your troubles.

He'll probably discover you have other sensitivities because, like rotten apples in a barrel, there are always more than one, and

He'll be warned against pre-ergens that frequently provoke allergic reactions.

Such substances as serums, sulfa drugs, penicillin, pain killers, headache and cold remedies, tranquilizers, sedatives, sleeping medicines, blood pressure depressants, iodides and anti-epileptics.

Here, in greater detail, are some of the measures he may take:

Provide you with an antihistamine preparation to use locally or swallow. This, you'll recognize from what you learned previously in this discussion, is for temporary relief. No antihistamine is curative.

Prescribe or administer a pituitary hormone preparation or one that acts like adrenalin (epinephrine). These, too, give only symptomatic relief.

But you'll be grateful for them nonetheless if they relieve an attack of itching hives (urticaria), a itchy giant hives (angioneurotic edema) to tongue or throat that's shutting off your windpipe, or swollen constricting bronchial muscles during an asthmatic seizure.

Get rid of the offending allergen by killing off streptococci if you're suffering from rheumatic fever, rheumatic valvular disease of the heart or certain types of kidney trouble (nephritis or nephrosis).

Get rid of the tubercle bacillus if your trouble is a combination of tuberculous infection and of hypersensitivity to the villain that causes the White Plague.

Desensitize you with tablets (Aqua Ivy) or injections if you've had poison ivy.

Desensitize you with injections if you have hay fever.

A Simple Wish For War Chest Donation

by HENRY McLEMORE

If I were a heavy contributor to the war chests of the Democratic and Republican parties, my payment would be a simple one.

Allow me to have my say in writing the platforms. That would be all. No ambassadorship, no chairmanship of any agency, no steady invitations to White House state dinners.

I wouldn't even ask to write the main planks of the platform—just the splinters. In outlining their broad aims, both the Republicans and Democrats overlook the small but very important, to most of us, items.

For example, one or both of the parties this year could make a host of friends by including in their platforms a promise to identify by name BRAND X.

Every day in newspaper and magazine ads, and particularly all the time in TV commercials, we are shown Brand X, and are tantalized by it.

Brand X is the product that always loses in comparison tests — but just by a whisker. Its rival never whips it by very much. This has led a lot of us to want to know its name so we can buy it.

For three reasons:

First, it must be cheaper. Second, it must be pretty good, for in many of the comparison tests there isn't enough difference between Brand X and its conqueror to make any appreciable difference. Who would quibble over a car that got 47 and 48 miles to a gallon if there was a difference in price?

And clothes that are as white as driven snow are just as good as those as white as super-driven snow.

Reason No. 3 involves sportsmanship. Americans love the underdog. They root for him, and hope that someday he will knock the champ for a loop.

Brand X is the all-time underdog. A great many Americans would love to chip in and see if he could be improved in price? And then Brand X has taken it on the chin long enough.

Another splinter I would add to the platforms would be a clear-cut declaration of what "NEEDS LITTLE IRONING" means when used in describing drip-dry shirts.

What is a "little ironing"? Ironing done by a small child or an incompetent maid? Is it ironing done without plugging in the iron? And what will the shirt look like if

A SPACE ACADEMY

(Omaha World-Herald)

Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the hard-running non-candidate for President, has a yen to establish schools of higher education at Federal expense. A few months ago he proposed an international university, an idea which failed to cause much splash. Last week he declared it is "mandatory" that the United States establish a national space academy on the order of the Army, Navy and Air Force Academies.

What is "mandatory" beyond question is unified control of the various civilian and military space exploration projects. The dis-united armed services are fighting tooth and nail to prevent this. Under it is achieved, however, it won't make sense to have a space academy, which would simply be one more uncoordinated piece of the space agency jumble.

WRONG GOAL, MR. FROST

(N.Y. Daily News)

The venerable New England poet Robert Frost appeared before a Senate subcommittee to plead for a bill which would set up a National Academy of Culture. Lifetime memberships in this institution would be handed out as rewards for notable work in the arts.

"I want our poets," said Mr. Frost, "to be equal to what shall I say—the scientists? No, to big business."

Mr. Frost is shooting at the wrong goal. Make our poets equal to big business, and we'll make them subject to crushing taxes, abuse by all the phony "liberals" in the land, crazy and time-wasting regulations and restrictions by powerful bureaucrats and exorbitant of various kinds by power-mad labor leaders.

What the big gentleman should ask for his fellow poets is that they be made equal to such genuine big shots as Jimmy Hoffa, W. P. Reuther, David J. McDonald and W. V. Bradley. Then, folks, the poets would really have it made.

Only living quintuplets are the Diligent children of Argentina.

Freedom For Others

In the end all of us must seek the greatest ideal is that of course of action most compatible with natural law. An idea that is not so compatible would be contrary to nature, hence, not achievable.

An ideal that could not be achieved would be foolishness, and hence not ideal. Whether the ideal is difficult to achieve or whether it can be achieved in one lifetime is beside the point.

Each of our young people thru his formative years comes face to face with a whole series of conflicting beliefs. What he will ultimately believe, is a matter of choice. Only he can determine the ultimate direction of his convictions. But during his maturing years he will be besieged on every hand to adopt first one view and then another.

Probably the greatest pressure will come from large groups. It is always difficult for a person to pursue an individualist course when scores of persons seem to go in an opposite direction. Today, this fact is ever more apparent.

All of us wish approval. Few seem to learn enough of the intrinsic value of things to be able to judge on the basis of merit. We like to find out what others think, then adopt our point of view to the direction of the greatest number.

The trend is dangerous and destructive of ideals. Ideals have a way of eroding under the pressure of multitudes. What seems important to us and gives us joy in living and hope in the future becomes, at times, a source of ridicule if we reveal our treasures to the unthinking.

It is better to hold an ideal tight in our breast and labor unceasingly to win it than to let it go as a result of premature exposure. Perhaps this is what the ancients meant when they advised "Cast not your pearls before swine."

The trouble with most of us is that we are too easily discouraged. And, after the multitude gets self-control, we are too cynical and conclude that nothing can be done. But the rare individual is who perseveres, in spite of adversity and adversities. The man who can dream his dream in silence until he is able to bring it into existence in fact, is a rare person.

But the fact of the matter is that all ideals which are worthy of our attention are achievable. And this is one of the reasons why the idea and the ideal of freedom. The no group of human beings ever, so far as we can learn, have enjoyed perfect freedom on this planet, this in no way means that the attainment of such a desirable condition is either impossible or hopelessly difficult. Let us concede that it will take enormous effort. But let us remind ourselves that freedom is gained by individuals, not by groups.

The evidence exists all about us that progress toward freedom has been made from time to time. There is also evidence to show that the more freedom we have, the more practical rewards we achieve in the nature of higher standards of living, more opportunities for happiness and well being. In short, the evidence abounds that freedom is both an ideal and an enormously practical direction for us to pursue.

Because to some the concept of freedom seems frightening, is no reason for us to be frightened. We well know, deep within our hearts, that freedom FOR US is mandatory. We know that we must be free to choose, free to create, free to buy, to sell, to save money, to invest. We must be free to help others; to be kind and gentle. All of these freedoms we must have.

Why is it that we are so prone to believe that others should not be free at the same time we are convinced that freedom is essential for ourselves?

If freedom is ever grasped as an ideal it is and the practical begin as we first consider the freedom of the other fellow, as well as ourselves.

But this ideal can be achieved not thru the process of reforming and conclude that nothing can be

WE STILL LEAD RUSSIA IN STEEL PRODUCTION

According to "Steel Facts," the official organ of the American Iron and Steel Institute, the world outlay for steel expansion during 1960 will total between $4.5 billion and $5 billion.

Approximately $1.2 billion, or about one-third of the world outlay, is scheduled to be spent by companies in the United States.

Russia, second largest steel-making nation, which produced about 20 per cent of the world's steel last year, against our 29 per cent, it is estimated will spend about $1 billion for new iron and steel facilities this year.

"Statistics, we realize, are never too glamorous, but we pass these on to the readers of this column to let them know that we are keeping well ahead of the Russians in current steel production and in preparation for maintaining that advantage."

A less encouraging note is that steel in large degree to the 116-day steel strike, during 1959 for the first time in 56 years, our American imports of steel exceeded our exports. Our exports were at the lowest level since 1936 — some 1,397,930 tons (twice the previous high set in 1951 during the Korean War).

Mrs. Perle Mesta, famed "hostess with the mostest," is an ardent booster of Senator Lyndon Johnson. So are Mrs. Alben Barkley, widow of the "Veep" and Mrs. Fred Vinson, wife of the late Chief Justice. Former Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman is chairman of a $25-a-plate luncheon that is being held in the Capital next month to raise campaign funds for Mrs. Richard Neuberger, who is seeking her late husband's Senate seat. Harry Golden, best-selling North Carolina author and philosopher, will be the main speaker.

Wisconsin's Governor Gaylord Nelson will be keynoter at the Los Angeles convention, and Senator Albert Gore, Tenn., the Permanent Chairman. That's the inside word from intimates of National Chairman Paul Butler. Nominally, the Convention Arrangements Committee, due to meet in New York May 23-24, makes these selections. But actually Butler is doing the picking, as the Committee is merely a front for him.

California oil millionaire Edwin Pauley is at bitter logger-heads with party leaders over his balking at raising funds for the Los Angeles convention. This backstage row is not doing Senator Symington any good, as Pauley is one of his strong supporters.

Pampa Missionaries Find Lifetime Work Among Savage African Tribe

By LEE GRIMSLEY
Daily News Staff Writer

For three years Rev. and Mrs. Harris have been carrying on a battle with spirits.

Rev. Harris, the former Ruth Phillips, who was born and raised here, and her husband hope the final outcome will be victory in the spread of Christianity in the Njombe region of Tanganyika, province of British East Africa.

An African map Njombe is centered by seven black dots, which means 70 Europeans live in the region. The rest of the estimated 370,000 people who live there are native Africans.

Rev. Harris and Mrs. Harris have done missionary work for the past three years.

"We're responsible for about 400,000 people," Rev. Harris said. "Of that number about 100,000 have accepted Christianity. But that's not a conservative number at all — that is giving them the benefit of every doubt."

Although such large numbers of Africans have accepted Christianity, many of them still believe in spirits or African tribal gods, Rev. Harris said.

"Last year," Rev. Harris said, "there were 22 witch doctors caught by the government in Njombe. They still practice the art of human sacrifice."

"A girl who had been chosen as the sacrificial offering escaped and told government officials about it. The witch doctors were captured but the girl was afraid to testify against them — she was actually fearful of them.

"All the government could do then was to warn them," Rev. Harris said. "They sent them to different parts of the country and kept all of their sacrifice material. But they're still free to practice the art of witch doctoring."

Another example of the Africans' belief in spirits would be a burial ceremony Rev. Harris had the opportunity to watch.

"When a person who lives in the area of Rungwe Mountain dies," Rev. Harris said, "he is buried with his head pointing toward the mountain.

"This is a tremendous mountain, and can be seen for a distance of about 50 miles.

"The natives call the mountain heaven, because this is where their god lives.

"At the burial," he said, "they will lead a cow or a bull to the open grave and slaughter it so that its blood will either flow directly into the grave or onto the ground that will be used to fill the grave.

"This gives the dead man something to carry to their god as an offering — he doesn't have to approach heaven empty-handed.

"Then they eat every edible part of the cow," Rev. Harris said. "The hooves; skin—everything except the bones.

"If they didn't do this, the dead man would have nothing to carry to their god as an offering. If this would be forcing to wander through the valleys for eternity."

Mrs. Harris recalled another incident with a house boy she had.

"He had a deathly fear of a woman who lived next door to us," Mrs. Harris said. "He was always coming and telling me to look at what the woman was doing. She might just be dumping water on the ground, but he believed she was doing it to cast some sort of spell on him."

Despite this strong inbred belief in the supernatural, Rev. Harris feels the Africans are very susceptible to religion.

"I've never seen an African who didn't believe in a god," he said. "Of course it may be many gods, but he always believes in something."

"What they can't see scares them. They believe that spirits roam at night — they've been taught this for centuries.

"And as a result," he said, "you will see very few natives out at night. When they do go out at night, they are required by law to carry a lantern with them. This really cuts down on juvenile delinquency."

Rev. Harris also has the distinct advantage of being the only white man ever permitted to witness a marriage ceremony in the Wahena tribe.

"The father always picks the girl for his son," he said. "Then he pays something like 10 cows, five goats and some money for her. It would amount to about $2,500."

The wedding feast and ceremony lasts about three days, and there's plenty of beer for everyone to drink. About all it is a big drunk.

"They make their own beer, you know," he said. "They use a cassava (a root of the tapioca plant) which looks like a sweet potato. They say it really has a kick."

"A tribal dance starts on the first day. Then about two o'clock in the afternoon the father of the groom brings the cows and goats.

"He never pays for the bride until the day of the wedding. He may make a downpayment, but he always waits until the ceremony to make the final payment.

"Then comes the most amusing part," Rev. Harris said. "The father and mother of the bride and

Karloff Observes 50 Years In 'Show Biz'

By DICK KLEINER Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA) — Until this writer did a little quick arithmetic, Boris Karloff hadn't realized that 1960 was a big year for him.

KARLOFF: 50 years a pro.

Her native tongue is Xosa, full of strange sounds like clocks and ticks. But she learned English in school, picked up Afrikaans on the street, and can sing in Zulu, Sotho, and Shangaan, all African languages.

When Miriam was a youngster in Johannesburg, many of her friends earned pennies by walking to the white neighborhoods, singing and playing the penny whistle.

"I miss samp," she says, explaining that samp is something made from corn and served "with big white beans." And she can't drink American coffee or tea — the coffee is too strong, the tea too weak.

MIRIAM: No one sings Xosa.

Playboy Found Guilty On Tax Evasion Count

HOUSTON (UPI) — A federal court jury Thursday night found contractor Ray C. Ballantyne, former cafe society figure, guilty of two counts of income tax evasion.

The verdict climaxed a day of blistering debate between Ballantyne's attorney, Joseph Cash, and U.S. attorneys in final arguments.

Another prosecutor, Randolph Whelsh, pointed up testimony that Ballantyne, 54, had manipulated between three companies to cover up his unreported income in a "cloud of deception."

Cash, who rested the defense Wednesday afternoon without calling a single witness, contended that the balding contractor had no intent to defraud.

Fading TV Season Produced Another Star In Art Carney

By VERNON SCOTT UPI Hollywood Correspondent HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If the fading television season has produced a new star, it is Art Carney, Jackie Gleason's old sidekick.

And if there is anyone who looks and behaves unlike a star, it is Carney.

He could pass unnoticed in a crowd — or even in uncrowded circumstances. During his years with Gleason, Art happily escaped the limelight by hiding behind the fat comedian's considerable bulk.

Now, however, he is a reluctant top banana himself and determined not to share the same fate that killed off his ex-boss-over-expire.

He has refused all offers to appear in a weekly show whether it be dramatic, comedy or variety.

Typically, Art got to add that he was wounded in action and received the Purple Heart. It is his modesty and unwillingness to discuss his talents that distinguishes Carney from other TV top-notchers.

That was in 1910," he said. "A little rapid trigonometry brought out the fact that 1960, then, was Karloff's golden anniversary as a professional actor."

He paused a moment (evidently checking the figures).

"By George," he said, "that's right. I never realized that, I'd have to celebrate."

And he ordered another cup of coffee.

Karloff says he considers himself an "astonishingly lucky actor." He's always had more work than he can handle.

"I operate on an unusual theory," he says. "I believe that I don't know which parts I can do best, but the public does. So I generally take parts that I know the public will accept me in."

"Of course, that can be carried too far. If I hadn't put my foot down, I'd still be a monster."

Another example of now TV insults the intelligence of the viewers: On The Texan, one week Rory (alcohol will ride into town and all the bad me will hide in the corners, saying "Watch out, that's Bill Longley, The Texan."

The next week, he'll ride into town and nobody will recognize him. Same guy, same show — only it's the plot better if he isn't known.

Futures Bow To Exes In Spring Grid Finale 22-18

Miller, Haralson, Urbanczyk Shine

By BOB DUNBAR (Daily News Sports Editor)

The Futures outrushed, outpassed, and outplayed the Exes Friday night at Harvester Stadium but lost the game at the three-yard stripe.

Coach Babe Curfman's 1960 varsity matched the senior squad touchdown for touchdown but couldn't convert any of its three extra point attempts, losing 22-18 as the Exes counted twice on two-point conversions.

A disappointing crowd of less than 1,500 turned out under perfect weather conditions to watch what must be rated one of the hardest played games ever staged in the stadium.

Exes started a drive toward the Futures goal but were stalled when a clipping penalty at the Futures 29 set them back to the 44.

Exes quarterback Bobby Stephens was stopped hard on the one-yard line by Jimmie Storms as he attempted to sweep and for the two-point conversion.

Miller might have gone all the way on his run after bucking through the left side of the Exes line but for a wrong decision by one of his downfield blockers.

The Exes notched a first down on Bobby Stephens 13-yard jaunt on a keeper before the quarter ended.

The seniors maintained their momentum and pushed their way to the Futures 35 before two successive 15-yard penalties set them back to their own 35.

Miller picked up 18 on a sweep and a personal foul cost the Exes another 15. They got this back on a play later when the Futures were detected clipping.

Hutch Crossland entered the game on offense and missed connections on two long bombs as Curfman tried for the quick TD.

Haralson was hit hard going into the line and Billy Cooper covered the fumble for the Futures on the Exes 24.

Miller ripped off nine yards on a sweep after taking a pitchout from Stephens. With second and one on the 15, the Futures crossed up the Exes defense, Stephens hitting the middle on the five, the husky wingback bulging his way into the

Bucs Now Lead By Only One-Half Game

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — San Francisco southpaw Johnny Antonelli needed relief help in the ninth inning Saturday to sustain his mastery over Pittsburgh with a 3-1 victory, cutting the Pirates' National League lead to a half game over the giants.

Antonelli had a four-hit shutout going into the ninth when Bob Skinner led off with a double, advanced to third on Dick Groat's single and scored when Roberto Clemente died out to center. Bud Elyerly replaced Antonelli after Groat's single and got Clemente on the flyout and Dick Stuart on a game-ending double play.

NEW RECORD — Boston University's sophomore with the pogo legs, John Thomas is caught by the camera as he soars over the high bar at 7 feet 1 1/2 inches Saturday afternoon at Briggs Field in Cambridge, Mass., during the New England Intercollegiate track and field championships. Thomas failed in three tries to clear 7 feet 2 1/2 inches.

Ho Hum! Thomas Breaks High Jump Mark Again

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — John Thomas, America's answer to the Soviet spaceship, soared to a new world high jump record Saturday with a leap of 7 feet, 1 1/2 inches.

The 19-year-old Boston University sophomore failed three times in his bid to add one full inch to the world jump record he set during the Penn Relays just three weeks ago when he clipped the crossbar with his trailing leg at the 7 feet, 2 1/2 inch mark.

The Negro youth, whose bus driver father and family live only a few blocks from the Briggs Field scene of his latest triumph, was easy winner in his event of the New England intercollegiate track and field championships.

Thomas, leading U.S. hope in the Olympics at Rome this summer, said his timing was responsible for his latest record, but blamed a light breeze for his failure to orbit even higher.

He said the breeze which blew at about 18 miles an hour throughout the sunny afternoon sprang up twice after he had begun his long, graceful strides toward the jumping pit on the final attempts.

Wright missed the strikeout record he set last season by only one man, and was working on a no-hitter when 4-2 Larry Filippio single in the fifth, his second hit of the season.

Meet officials assumed that Thomas was simply trying to match his three-week-old Penn record when he set the new mark. Thomas had asked, and meet officials agreed, to set the crossbar at 7 feet, 1 1/2 inches, the peak which broke Russian Yuri Stepanov's outdoor record set in 1957.

But official measurement by a referee Larry Johnson, who also is a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee, showed the bar a quarter inch higher.

He drove in four runs with four hits in five trips to the plate, and stole home for the third time this season. One of his hits was a two-run homer in the seventh.

On the mound Lollar worked three and one-third innings, allowed five runs and four hits, and struck out six.

Jim Arthur finished the game for the Lions, giving but one hit. Ricky Stewart was the leading hitter for Kist, getting three salutes in four trips to the plate.

For all practical purposes, the inter bowling leagues are over. A fresh summer league is taking their place.

The Strike-A-Liters league made debut at Garden Lanes Tuesday night, and other groups are expected to follow suit shortly.

The Easy Marks got off to a ski-like start in the new league, winning their first four games. And a team called the Rufn & Tuf shoved its way into second place by winning three of four evening games.

The Fire Balls, who broke even in their first four had the high game, a 625. Rufn & Tuf 725 Bins was the high series.

The high men and women's individual games were rolled by Syd Henson (233) and LaVerne Henson (160).

Gil Burgund had the high men's series, a 553; and Mary Parker led the high women's series, 452.

C&C Package won the championship of the Nite Owl league, which ended Thursday, with a 78-50 record. Miller Plumbing was second, nine games back with a 69 - 59 record.

Texas Tech Sets Banquet Tuesday

LUBBOCK -- The annual Kick-off Dinner honoring all Texas Tech athletes for 1959-60 will be held in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum May 24 with former Notre Dame football coach Ed McKeever as guest speaker.

Appearing with the ex-Red Raider, who is now general manager of the Boston Patriots in the new American Football League, will be honor guest Joe Foss, commissioner of the new pro league.

The banquet is limited to get under way at 6:30 p.m., with tickets $2.50 a copy.

WATER MAID -- Mrs. Bill Sargent, of 1000 Schmieder St., Pampa, will be featured in the annual Blessing of the Boats and Ski Show at Thibodaux, Louisiana, June 1. Mrs. Sargent will give an exhibition of water skiing which will include the very difficult art of barefoot skiing, in her role as guest water skier at the shows.

Check Pappas' Arm -- He will be examined by Dr. George Bennett, one of the county's leading orthopedic surgeons. Surgery is a possibility.

For the past two weeks, Pappas has been complaining of soreness in the elbow of his throwing arm.

Little LEAGUER

Sparkling pitching performances by Milliron's Kent Ragland and Dixie Parts' Bobby Everson highlighted last weekend's Little League baseball action.

Ragland pitched a four-hitter as Milliron plastered Kempa Humble, 14-2, and Dixie Parts trounced Windsor, 11-4, behind Everson's three-hitter.

In other Little League action, Rotary beat Utility Oil, 5-1, and C. R. Hoover clipped Kissee, 4-2. Milliron backed Ragland with a 16-hit attack in its win over Kempa-Humble. The victors scored five times in the first inning, added a pair in the second and scored three times in the third and again in the fourth. Their final run came in the fifth.

Kempa came across with one tally in the second and got to Ragland for another in the fourth. Kenneth McWilliams and Roy Herper each collected three hits in Dixie Parts' romp over Windsor. Everson, the winning pitcher, struck out 10 and walked only three going the distance.

Windsor got all its runs in the first frame, scoring four times before Everson could get the side out. The losers held a 4-1 lead going into the third when Dixie Parts erupted for eight tallies.

Bobby Holt went the distance for Rotary, but was plagued by wildness en route to victory over Utility Oil. He struck out five and isued 10 free passes.

Jerry Spence hammered out a single and a double to lead Hoover past Kissee. Kissee's Marlan Fecce took hitting honors, though, with a double and triple.

Hoover's Randy Holmes pitched five-hit ball over the route to pick up the win.

END OF THE LINE? — Quarterback Roy Don Stephens appears to be headed for trouble as Terry Rexroad (62) and Bobby Stephens move in to stop him while Buddy Rawls pursues him from the rear. But the shifty Futures back slammed on the brakes and reversed his field to pick up another 17 yards before he was finally hauled down. (Daily News Photo)

FUTURES

Exes 43 before he was hauled down. Crossland relieved Stephens at quarterback and showed the fans the Harvesters are going to be well-fixed at the vital position next season.

After gaining slight yardage on two Crossland keepers Futures picked up another 15-yard penalty gain when an over exuberant Ex piled on Crossland after he was tackled.

With first down at the 14 Crossland faded to pass but found all his receivers covered. He tucked the ball under his arm and twisted through the Exes to the five on the clutch play.

On the next play Crossland hit Lucky Dunham with a quick pitch and Dunham gave it the extra effort, carrying two Exes with him into the end zone. The pass for the extra points from Crossland to Randy Matson in the deep corner of the end zone was broken down by Rawls and the score read 14-12, Exes at 11:35 of the third quarter.

It took the seniors 10 seconds to match that one when Urbanczyk streaked straight down the middle behind an opening wedge and raced 80 yards with the kickoff to pay-dirt. When Urbanczyk got his opening at the Exes 40 it was clear to everybody he was going all the way. Stephens again rolled around his own right end on a keeper to wind up the Exes scoring at 22 points.

The Futures showed they have the drive to come back after a let-down, taking just 3:50 to drive 84 yards from their 16 where Stephens fielded Harold Stokes kick-off.

Miller took over the responsibility for moving the ball when he carried seven times in the drive which needed only 12 plays. The dazzling halfback personally accounted for 52 yards in the drive.

With third down and one to go for the TD, Stephens called on The Futures hard-nosed fullback, Dobbins, who blasted over right guard behind a powerful block by Bryan Speck to notch the score. The Futures rallied once more on the attempted conversion when a Stephens to Dobbins pass missed the mark.

After holding the Exes for downs again, the Futures started another drive and looked like they might make the grade.

Moving from their own 17 where Crossland took a Smith punt and raced it back for a 20 yard return to the 37, the Futures moved on the ground to the Exes 27. With the third and six to go at the Exes 27, the Futures went to the air and broke up the drive. Robie Robison ripped off tackle on fourth down, but was stopped one yard short of the 21 where the precious first down awaited. The ball changed hands once more but the Exes tasted victory and put out with their last big effort to stop the Futures cold.

GUESS YOU have been to see the new theater... which has opened just in time for the summer trade... sometimes we get nostalgic for the old fashioned size screen, small size... for sometimes the photographers have a hard time composing the pictures for such long and narrow space as is allowed on the new screens... if you are among the few souls who think of the movies in terms not only of entertainment, but of an art-form, things like that worry you... we noticed that Paul West referred to, as FAMILY-TYPE pictures, some of the big "Biblical" pictures which have been made recently... it occurs to us to comment, that we certainly would not pass some of these with the type of movie our small children could see, because there is usually more carnage... cruelty... murder and war... and sex in the average motion picture which is supposed to be based on the Bible... think about it for a moment and see if you don't agree... naturally, to clarify this, we do not include ALL... we merely said MOST... "Biblical" movies... and we will say it until our jaws ache, that the motion picture industry is wrong to feel that the only way to compete with television is to make huge, paying spectacle-type pictures... the way to compete is to give the movies better STORIES... there, we have raved enough!

WHERE WE GO FROM HERE is anybody's guess... this is the season when you can smell charcoal fires burning, cooking steaks and hamburgers... the Qualls, out on Aspen, looked out one of the beautiful quiet, warm evenings of late... all the first graders in Stephen F. Austin school gave a play for pre-schoolers and their mothers on Thursday last week... it was the type of play in which everyone could have a part... a circus... and Indians whooped it up in a dance, and ballerinas, among them Pam Ward... gave a dance... and members of the trained "monkey" group rode tricycles around... and so on... the play was directed by first-grade teacher Mrs. Hickman... and was a huge success... perhaps the children who are coming to school next year, who were invited to see the play and then spend an hour in "school" will feel they have everything to gain and nothing to lose by leaving the nursery school set and getting in with the "big kids."

SEEMS LIKE everywhere we look in the sports field lately, we hear about Terry Haralson... he is quite a sportsman... maybe he will turn out to be one of the best coaches someday, if that is what he wants to do... Maynette Loftus, student at Texas Christian University in the school of fine arts, appeared in a ballet production in Fort Worth in the Ed Landreth auditorium last week... in a production of "The Seasons" ballet... and speaking of ballet... petite Jeanne Willingham is working the heels and toes off her pupils, readying them for the big event of the season for them, the Spring Dance Recital... to be held May 31st... and repercussions of this preparation are felt by mothers and grandmothers and seamstresses in general all over the city, as they pry the needle through layers of nylon net and satin and taffeta, making all the costumes required for the display of dancing abilities... there will be nearly 200 performers, so you can see how much netting is involved!

WONDER IF... all the local Volkswagen owners got their club organized?... they are getting really fancy when they have clubs of car-owners... let's all form a "beat-up-but-runs" car-owners club, for those of us who have, to put it tactfully, elderly autos.

HAVE YOU HEARD... Opal Cree attended the Golden wedding anniversary celebration of her brother, in Perce, Kansas, last week... and had a wonderful time... Pinky and Edna Branson have recently established a trailer "cabin-on-wheels" on the shores of Lake Conchos... and they sort of commute to the lake for fishing these days... and they are planning a wonderful vacation for themselves and their thirteen-year-old grandson from Tulsa, when they take him, as a kind of birthday present, on a tour of the northern lakes in Michigan and Wisconsin, and so on... a birthday present deluxe.

IT'S TIME TO TALK about... flowers, for one thing... Mrs. H. H. Boynton and Mrs. Jack Compton were named sweepstakes winners at the Pampa Garden Club's annual Spring flower show... Mrs. Compton won in the artistic division, Mrs. Boynton in the horticulture division... and speaking of flowers... there is a newcomer to Pampa who knows all the garden lingo and can grow anything and everything... Bertie McCullough, otherwise known as Mrs. Jack McCulloch... Jack is the new superintendent of the production department of Skelly Oil Company here... they are from Tulsa... and we hope Bertie doesn't become too discouraged about growing flowers here... it is different from Tulsa, let us tell you... and another love, besides flowers, of Bertie's is antique dolls... she has a fabulous collection... exquisitely dressed in old fabrics and laces, some of the clothes she made herself... she has them in all sizes... but prefers the smaller ones... and the collection includes German... French, and so on... some hand-made entirely... there seems to be quite a fraternity of doll collectors throughout the country, and they know each other, correspond, and visit back and forth... so if any of you are also antique doll enthusiasts, Bertie would love to hear about you and your collection, we are sure.

HERE AND THERE... the many friends of Sidney Haslam have welcomed her after many years absence... Sidney is here for a visit and to see her granddaughter, Janet Haslam, graduate... Sidney is staying with her daughter-in-law, Es ther Haslam, while in Pampa... noticed that Joe Bourland placed second at the National Science Fair in Indianapolis a week or so ago... we think that is wonderful... and speaking of school... which we were in a roundabout way... there is an important election, so far overlooked, that of handsome Hank Henry as "Mayor" of Lee Junior High School... elected by the student body in the mayor's election recently... it has been quoted about that in the heat of the campaign, Hank is reported to have said these immortal words... which any candidate can well say and mean... "if you all will vote for me, I'll be elected"... so he was, so you must have.

LAST BUT NOT LEAST... the Country Club was the scene for a lovely coffee last week... Kathryn Steele reviewed two or three brief books... one of them on Groucho Marx... Julia McKernan and Edwina Boyd served at a table decorated with pink shasta daisies... other decorations were huge bouquets of peonies which were absolutely gorgeous... hostesses for the coffee were Gladys Forsha... Elinor Pung... Norma Hrdlicka... Beulah Merchant... and Ethel Clay... a lavish and pretty party... guess that is about all for this week... see you next Sunday.

Mrs. Benard D. McNamara

Miss Bednorz Bride Of Bernard D. McNamara

Miss Clara Bednorz became the bride of Bernard D. McNamara with vows repeated Saturday morning at nine o'clock in Sacred Heart Cathedral, Amarillo, with the Rev. Mgr. John A. Steinlage, P.A. VG, as officiant.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Bednorz of Pampa. The bridegroom's parents are Mrs. A. D. McNamara, 1012 N. Somerville and the late Mr. McNamara.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bednorz chose a turquoise blue dress with white accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. McNamara, selected a dress of pink cotton-eyelash embroidery with white accessories. Both mothers' bouquets were fashioned from white carnations.

Double-ring vows were repeated before an altar banked with white stock and blue daisies. Mrs. Roy Bourg, organist, played Ave Verum Corpus (Mozart) and Rossini's professional and recessional. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Baker, soloists, presented "Ave Maria" (Franz Abt), "Pans Angelicus" (Wambillote), "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother" (Lambillote).

A. J. McNamara served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were James McNamara and Douglas Bednorz.

STEELE-PERRY BETROTHAL

Miss Linda Kay Steele

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey L. Steele, 1800 Grape, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Kay, to Jarrel Brent Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack B. Perry, Dallas. Wedding vows will be solemnized August 6 in First Methodist Church with the Rev. W. W. Adcock performing the service. Miss Steele was graduated from Pampa High School, she attended Christian College, Columbia, Mo., and Texas Technological College, Lubbock, where she was affiliated with Delta Delta Delta social sorority. Her fiancé was graduated from Pampa High School, also, and is a business major at Texas Technological College.

Two Performances Planned By Pupils Of Bill Haley

Students of Bill Haley will perform in two piano recitals on Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p.m. in St. Matthews Episcopal Parish Hall.

Interesting new works by Handel, Albinetti, Perichetti and Franko will be heard in both solo and duet arrangements. Older and better known works from the modern repertoire such as the Rondo No. 1 by Bartok, Rustic Dance by Creston and the Andalusia by Lecuona will be performed. In addition to the above program numbers, the program will include several works by Beethoven, Chopin, Schubert and Schumann. Of the latter group, four selections from the Schumann Suite Papillons will be played by Pat Berry of Lefors.

Playing on Tuesday evening will be Don Cain, Janice Tarpley, Clifford Braly, Jill Donaldson, Dick Donaldson, Tommy Rose, Debbie Veale, Nancy Ousley, Joanne Hickman, Papa Shelhamer, Tommy Smalley, Arthur Smalley, Gail Donaldson, Sara Beth Hahn, Pat Ludeman, Pam Ludeman, Ann Donaldson, Jo Ann Craig, Dianne Phillips, David McDaniel, Maurine Hickman, Robin Vail, Jodi Vail, Jimmy Kay Mack, Pat Berry and Gene Shelhamer.

Performing on Wednesday evening will be Paul Homer, Greg Gunter, Susan Maguire, Ronnie Meers, Helen Kvesich, Marilyn Peterson, Howard Jones, Vicki Martin, Johnny Kuhn, Barbara Smith, Jimmie Goodwin, Mary Goodwin, Doug Hinton, Patrick Homer, Mike Phillips, Frank Keeley, Patry Lou Holloway, John Paul Bowers, Dianne Phillips, Paulette Hinton, Patricia Collette, Billy Kuhn, Shelia Line, Patty White, Diana Edminster, Jesse Jones, Marilyn Brown, Price Dozier, and Raynita Walker.

Closing the program each evening will be "The Scarlet Cape" by Federer played by a group of eight pianists at four pianos.

Hymn Session Held In Center

Hymn singing led by Miss Rosemary Lawlor accompanied by Mrs. Lee Harris was a portion of the entertainment provided at Seneca Center on Thursday afternoon in Lovett Memorial Library when Treble Clef Club was hostess to the group.

Included on the program was a solo by James Dailey, tenor, "By Bandemere's Stream" and "Rose of Tralee." Miss Lawlor, contralto, sang "Passed By Your Window," "Old Doctor McGinn" and "The Lord's Prayer." C. E. Sidwell, Senior guest, also sang a religious number.

Mrs. E. B. Allemen, pianist, played selections from "Mother Goose Suite" by Gulon. Hostesses representing Treble Clef were Mrs. Allemen, Miss Lawlor, Mrs. Bruce Riehart and Mrs. A.L. Patrick Jr. Refreshments of cookies, sandwiches and coffee were served from a table appointed with an arrangement of garden flowers. Each guest was presented with a small rose.

Altruists assisting with hostess duties were Mmes. V. L. Hobbs, Louise Sewell, Jay Flanagan, and W. A. York. Gray Ladies providing transportation of guests were Mmes. Jess Beard, Stanley Brandt, K. I. Dunn and O. F. Kriemeyer.

LATE AUGUST NUPTIALS

Miss Carol Hughes

Mr. and Mrs. Richard George Hughes, 400 Harvester, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol, to James Archibald Jones III, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Archibald Jones of Richmond, Va. Miss Hughes was graduated from Mt. Vernon Seminary in Washington, D. C. She attended Southern Methodist University, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Miss Hughes will receive her Bachelor of Arts degree in June from Hollins College, Virginia. Mr. Jones was graduated from Davidson College, North Carolina, where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is now attending Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va. A late August wedding is planned.

"The Ugly American" Is Reviewed For First Christian Church CWF

A review of the book "The Ugly American" by W. J. Lederer and Eugene Burdick was given by Mrs. Bab Rasmussen to members of Christian Women's Fellowship, First Christian Church, on Wednesday morning in the church. In a dramatic commentary of the book, Mrs. Rasmussen gave a vivid portrayal of six of the 20 characters in the book. The program opened with prayer by Mrs. Vernon Hall. Mrs. Lester Mason, vice president, presided during the business meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. John Gill who is convalescing from an illness in Highland General Hospital. The business meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. H. C. Groninger. Mrs. Groninger also announced that the district Christian Women's Fellowship workshop will be held in First Christian Church, Canyon, May 20 from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. Mrs. Shelby Gantz, district secretary, will preside.

Mrs. Groninger will conduct a workshop on workshop. Mrs. Mason reminded members of the School of Missions to be held in the church June 5-10 with Mrs. Ruth Musgrave, missionary from Africa here as a guest of the church. She will speak each evening in the church. "There will be a luncheon in the church on June 8 with Mrs. Musgrave as honored guest." Mrs. Mason stated. "Mrs. Herman Gantz will be in charge of the luncheon arrangements." Wally Gibson, minister of Christian education, reported if he is able to obtain 16 temporary teachers from the CWF, there will be mission classes held four evenings during mission week for the young people of the church; first grade through the fifth grade. Mrs. Mason appointed Mmes. Groninger, R. K. Parsley, and Helen Kessinger as a committee of three to obtain teachers. The Sharp Group was reminded that they are to have the Home and Prayer Group in June. Meeting closed with the CWF benediction repeated in union. Refreshments of coffee and fruit breads were served by members of the Brummett Group with Mrs. Stella Bastin at the silver coffee service. The yellow cloth-covered table was centered with an arrangement of lavender-iris in a crystal bowl.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

A baby is a very concrete person. If he's hungry, you can't quiet his howls by showing him the bottle you are warming.

If he's wet, the sight of a fresh diaper does not satisfy him.

If he's got a gas pain, he can't use you assurance that it's not a serious affliction.

What he wants is milk, warm, dryness, relief from the gas pain. He will settle for no substitutes.

At 3 years of age, your Jody still retains much of his babyhood's concreteness.

Which is why he pays no heed to the sound of your voice calling from the kitchen:

"Are you in my sewing basket again? Close it and leave it alone, there's a good boy."

The sound of your voice is not "you" to Jody. Just as the sight of his milk bottle or diaper are not milk and dry warmth to the baby, the sound of your voice is an unacceptable substitute for you.

He is still too much of a baby to be able to respond to a voice without a concrete body around it. Gradually he'll learn to. But at 3 years of age—or even 4, your physical presence is a necessity in the discipline of Jody.

So, if you want him to stop playing with your sewing basket, you have to leave the kitchen, go to him and become concrete flesh and blood as well as a voice to make real your prohibition.

As we see that it is not mysterious wickedness in Jody that ignores our vocal prohibition but the baby in him that can't use sound as a substitute for mother, our discipline of him becomes much easier on us both.

A great deal of our irritation with what seems to be "disobedient" little children is our refusal to speak "body language."

We grownups are so used to thinking of words as the only language, but we speak with our bodies constantly.

We sit down beside a person we like and leave empty the chair beside one we don't. Our shoulders droop when we are discouraged; our hands rush out to greet a

Top Designer Trades Heritage Of Silver Spoon For Brass Thimble

By GAY FAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thirty years ago, Jane Derby traded the silver spoon of her heritage for a thimble.

Today, the designer, born a Virginia blueblood, heads one of the most successful dress manufacturing firms on Seventh Avenue, heart of the nation's garment industry.

Today also, she adds another award to a long list of honors she has copied for her flattering, timeless fashions. Mrs. Derby is the winner of the 1960 Cotton Fashion Award, presented yearly by the cotton industry for distinguished designs in the fabric.

In an interview, Mrs. Derby said that she long had "loved and used" cotton and "I don't

RUTH MILLETT

It's a good thing we rarely get an honest answer when we make such statements as:

"I hope I'm not boring you but it's so nice to find someone who is sympathetic."

The honest answer usually would be:

"You are boring me. As a matter of fact I've been trying for the last half hour to figure out how to get away."

"I know it's none of my business but I think you are making a big mistake..."

The honest report likely would be:

"No, it isn't any of your business and if I had wanted your advice I would have asked for it."

"You sound sleepy; I hope my telephone call didn't wake you."

Most people would love to say:

"You did wake me and I don't know why you thought you wouldn't at this time of night."

"I really should be going..."

"You should and why don't you?" would probably be a more honest reaction than the one usually shown the guest who stays and keeps saying he ought to be leaving.

"I hate to put you to so much trouble" or "I hate to take up so much of your time when I know you're busy."

"Then why do it?" would be the honest rejoinder to these remarks, but the gracious answer generally is, "It's no trouble at all."

"You don't mind if I kibitz, do you?"

Most bridge players trying to make a contract, doubled and redoubled, would probably like to and probably should answer with one word:

"Yes."

"If you don't mind my asking, how much did you have to pay for that?"

Mothers Honored By 20-30 Club

LEFORS (Sp) — A garden theme was carried out at the recently held 20-30 Club annual Mother-Daughter Banquet in civic center.

White hoses and rakes tied with big bows, trellises with climbing roses; and a scarecrow provided a gardening atmosphere. The banquet tables were covered with white cloths with blue ribbon streamers down the center and arrangements of garden flowers placed alternately along the streamers. Programs were shaped as radishes.

Invocation was given by Mrs. Leonard Cain. Mrs. Joe Archer welcomed mothers with response given by her mother, Mrs. B. D. Vaughn.

Introduction of guests, "Meet Mom" was conducted by Mrs. Archer.

Included on the program was a poem, "The Watcher" by Mrs. E. L. Foshee and "Musings of a Good Mother On a Bad Day" given by Mrs. Ray Dickerson.

Mrs. Edward Lehnick offered closing prayer.

Approximately 24 guests attended.

Oriental Theme For Charity Ball

PERRYTON (Sp) — Over one hundred dollars was made for the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation at Epsilon-Sigma Alpha Charity Ball held Friday night in VFW Memorial Building.

An Oriental motif was used with Chinese lanterns arched over the entrance. Flower-laden screens marked off the dance floor, which circled a 12-foot high imitation Ming tree. An Oriental mural, painted by Mrs. Sammy McLain, completed the decorations.

"The Swingin' Sargeants", an 18-piece dance band from a Marillo Air Force Base, donated their time and talents for the cause.

Spring Concerts Planned By Pupils Of Mrs. L. Fagan

Two Spring concerts by piano students of Mrs. Lois Fagan will be presented on Monday and Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Church of the Brethren, 600 N. Frost.

Numbers of special interest will be the Zepp-Montague Musical Kindergarten Class, composed of students four to six years of age, who will present two rhythm band numbers and two musical pantomimes. Appearing will be Ricky Wyman conductor, Terrie Baker, Cindy Gill, Kristie Langham, Richard Kelly, Kimberly Cooper, Becky Mills and Guyia James.

Beginners, Intermediates and advance students will play compositions of Master Composers of classic, romantic and modern periods for both performances.

Also, Jemma Dean, Margaret Dean, Rita Spence, Mary Lois

Smith, all of Skellytown; Sherry Baxter, Jean Holman, J'Ron Urbanczyk, all of White Deer.

Students, who played in the Sonatina Festival, National Federation of Music Clubs, and the National Guild of Piano Playing will be given pins and certificates at the close of the recitals.

THE HAWAIIAN TOUCH

Here's a suggestion for frankfurter and pineapple kabobs, which will make a hit at a party for teenagers, or any others. Cut frankfurters into thirds. Thread the meat and pineapple chunks on skewers and weave bacon slices in between. Allow 4 frankfurter pieces, 3 pineapple chunks and 1 slice of bacon for each skewer.

Place kabobs on broiler rack and broil about 2 inches from heat. Broil until bacon is lightly browned, about 5 minutes. Turn, broil second side until done, — about 2 minutes.

BROWN IT FIRST

The first step in cooking pot roast is to brown the meat well on all sides. If the cut is dredged with flour before browning, a little fat should be added to the pan.

Entering Grade School And Leaving Form Topics For Wilson PTA Meet

Mrs. W. L. Veale, school nurse, spoke to mothers, who will have children entering first grade next year, at Woodrow Wilson's PTA meeting held Thursday in the school. She emphasized the importance of a health checkup and vaccinations before school begins next fall.

"Begin now," she said, "to read to them so that they will have an appreciation of books and also learn to sit still and listen before starting to school."

"Beginning school life is a transition from babyhood to childhood and it can be a 'happy journey.' Parents can help on this journey by taking an active part in school, visiting the schoolroom, conferring with the teacher, and attending PTA meetings. When your child starts to school in September, see that he has plenty of sleep; a good breakfast; and is bid farewell at home with a happy smile from mother."

In a separate session, Jack Nichols, Robert E. Lee Junior High principal, spoke to parents of sixth grade students, who will be entering junior high in the fall. "Junior high school is a separate and distinct segment of our public school system," Mr. Nichols said. "Children used to drop out of school at this age at an alarming rate. This difficult age was of great concern to educators. The first junior highs were started in Berkeley, Calif. and Columbus, O., in 1909 and 1910. It was found that junior high schools as separate campuses could better attain a gradual transition from elementary school to high school. The idea of junior high schools grew very rapidly."

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. E. A. McLennan, a portrait of the late H. A. Yoder, Woodrow Wilson principal for many years, was presented to the school from the PTA. Mrs. Fiddia Yoder was a special guest during the meeting.

Mrs. Jack P. Foster, District 19 PTA, parliamentarian and special guest spoke briefly to members. "A PTA unit is comparable to a play," she said. "The cast is made up of the officers, committee chairmen and the audience is all of you." She went on to say that there is no such thing as a passive audience, so "give the cast your support, do not handicap them. Even though the cast is vitally important, they must have your support and attendance. The new first grade mothers will supply a lot of new ideas and enthusiasm for your unit." She closed by asking the audience to give their loyalty and support to the new officers. The audience responded with, "I Will."

Mrs. McLennan introduced Mrs. Sam Goodlett as the incoming president and presented her with the president's pin. Mrs. Goodlett, on behalf of the unit, presented Mrs. McLennan with a gold charm bracelet with a past president's charm on it for her two-year term as president.

During the social hour, Mrs. Norman Sublett and Mrs. Larry Parsley, hospitality chairmen, served from a table, appointed with antique cloths over orchid-centered with an arrangement of orchid chrysanthemums.

Miss Glenda Finkelstein

High School Senior To Be Featured In Ballet Sequence Of Dance Recital

Traditionally graduating seniors of the Beaux Arts Dance Studio are featured in a ballet sequence during the annual recital performance. This year that honor is accorded Miss Glenda Finkelstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Finkelstein, 1901 N. Russell and Pampa High School graduating senior, who began her studies with Miss Jeanne Willingham in April, 1948 and this year is completing her 12th year of uninterrupted study.

In the 1960 production of Miss Willingham's Dance Recital, to be presented May 31 at 7:30 p. m. in Pampa Junior High School under the auspices of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, Miss Finkelstein will be featured in the "The Dream Fairy Ballet" in a sequence entitled "Miss Glenda's School of Dance."

During her 12 years of dance instruction, Miss Finkelstein has studied ballet, toe character, tap, acrobatic, modern jazz and ballroom dancing. She has had the opportunity to study with famous guest teachers at the studio, including Harjis Pucis, former ballet master of the Royal Ballet School, London, England; Marina

Syrtova, concert ballerina and Paul Draper, concert tap artist. She has also studied during the summer of 1952 at the DeRea School of Dance, Los Angeles, Calif.

She has performed for many local shows including the annual Texas Company picnic, the Lion's Minstrel, and the Pampa Youth Talent Show and has appeared on television.

In addition to dancing, she has other hobbies and interests. She has studied music and has done some modeling. She was a member of the Girls Scouts for several years; past worthy advisor of the Order of the Rainbow for Girls having received the Grand Cross of Colors, which is one of the highest awards in Rainbow. She is a member of Kit Kat Club, the National Honor Society, and the Theatopian Society. She appeared in the sophomore and junior Children's Theater and contest plays. She also belonged to the Junior Classical League; a Latin organization and served as historian for the Student Council.

Miss Finkelstein plans to attend Texas University next fall and major in speech therapy.

Drilling Activity Picks Up; 40 Intents Filed At TRRC

The number of intentions to drill oil and gas wells in the Top O' Texas jumped last week to an eight-month high, with 40 intentions filed with the Pampa office of the Texas Railroad Commission...

Of the 40 intents, eight are deep intents. The commission also reported nine wells completed and three plugged, two of which are dry holes.

The commission report: INTENTIONS TO DRILL Gray County (East Panhandle) Texaco Inc. — McLarty & Lester "B" No. 13 — 1090 f S & 1160 f W lines of Sec. 2, 2, 4, B&B, PD 2450, Amended.

MISSIONARIES

(Continued from Page 5) the stock is young." Rev. Harris also said it is the wife who supports the husband in East Africa.

"If they are married after the garden making period, chances are the wife already has prepared one. If not, she makes one soon after the ceremony."

While the wife works, the husband usually whittles away the hour by carving.

The Harris has brought back many examples of this — including a huge hand-carved chest which they purchased in Africa for $50. Here it is valued at more than $1,000.

Rev. and Mrs. Harris have become big game enthusiasts, and go on numerous hunting expeditions.

"We can go on a trip for $50 where it costs other Americans thousands of dollars to come over and go on safari," Rev. Harris said.

Most of the big game hunters who go to Africa travel in elegance. They bring generators for their refrigerators and lights, and also beds and huge tents.

Rev. Harris said, "Sometimes there are as many as two or three loaded trucks for each hunter."

The trophies Rev. Harris has indicates his excellence as a big game hunter. They include the horns of a water buffalo, zebra, skins and the skin of a 13-foot water python.

"The water buffalo is probably the most dangerous animal to kill," Rev. Harris said. "You have to kill him with the first shot or he charges you."

"The largest of the two water buffalos Rev. Harris shot was about four and one-half feet tall and weighed in the neighborhood of 2,800 pounds."

"He was in a herd of about 50," Rev. Harris recalled. "I killed him with the first shot, and the rest of the herd turned and looked like they were going to charge me."

"But I was behind a tree and they couldn't find me." The topography of Africa is much the same as in America, Rev. Harris said, complete with valleys, hills and plains as well as jungle areas.

"But the living conditions on the two continents have no similarity. The only newspaper in Tanganyika is printed in the native language in the city of Dar-Salaam."

"But two-thirds of the people can neither read or write, so it doesn't serve much purpose," Rev. Harris said.

One wireless radio system provides entertainment, but television is unheard of.

"But again," Rev. Harris said, "not more than five per cent of the African population has radios. The stations operate between 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. Most of the programs are entertaining or political, and occasionally you will hear a religious broadcast."
