WINNING PITCHER

WASHINGTON—Bludgeoned the third base line, Sewell grounded out, Critz to Terry, Bluge going to third. Whitehill, with the count three balls and two strikes hit a line grounded to Fitzsimmons, who attempted to catch Bluge off third base but the throw was high and Bluge was safe on third. Myer doubled into right field, scoring Bluge. Whitehill went to third. Goslin fled out to Moore in left field and Whitehill was doubled at the plate.

THIRD INNING
 New York: Buddy Myer made a leaping, one-handed catch of Ryan's drive over second base. Fitzsimmons got credit for a base hit when his hard smash bounced off Cronin's shoulder. Moore on the first ball pitched, forced Fitzsimmons at second, Cronin to Myer. A try for a double play failed. Critz singled to center field, Moore going to third. Terry grounded out to Kuhel, unassisted, retiring the side.

No runs, two hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING
 New York: Ott struck out, swinging. Davis grounded out. Myer to Kuhel. Jackson doubled to Schulte to center field, retiring the side.

No runs, one hit, no errors.
 Washington: Bluge went out.

For The Love of Eve by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XXVI
It was Charles the office boy, who had entered the room. He brought several copies of the home edition of the evening newspaper which he laid on Eve's desk.

She read the pages open hoping fervently that Mona had made no mistakes in sending out the copy. First she turned to Bixby's advertisement, studying it to see that each cut accompanied the copy it was to illustrate. Then, with more care, she read the advertisement to make sure she had not overlooked any typographical errors when she read the proof.

The next day was Saturday and the merchandise featured was a group of 100 winter coats marked down to $39.50 each. This lot included many coats that had been much higher priced originally. Barnes had written the copy himself after a consultation with Mr. Bixby and Miss Gordon, the coat buyer.

Fortunately, Eve thought, it would have been practically impossible for her to make a mistake. She read the advertisement, then, just then that Miss Gordon burst into the office with a copy of the newspaper in her hand demanding to know why the proof of the coat advertisement had not been sent to her for an O. K.

"Look at that!" the buyer almost shouted, pointing to the advertisement.

"Why, what's wrong with it?" Eve asked, frowning.

"What's wrong with it? Nothing—except a mistake of $20 in the price. The price on the copy was $39.50 as plain as anything. Look at the carbon of Mr. Barnes' copy and you'll see. And here it's $39.50. It means a loss of $2,000 on 100 coats. Just wait until Mr. Bixby hears of this! Why wasn't the proof sent to me for my O. K.?"

"But I did send it to you!" Eve protested. "I sent it by Charles the office boy."

"Well, he didn't come to me. Look up the copy and you'll see I didn't O. K. it."

Mr. Bixby entered the office at that moment. He, too, carried a copy of the same newspaper, open at the offending advertisement. His face was grim. Eve clutched at her vanishing courage. No matter who was to blame for this error, she would be held responsible because Barnes was absent.

The store owners opened the door of Barnes' office. Eve and Miss Gordon obeyed his unspoken command to enter. He followed and closed the door, for which Eve blessed him. She could not bear that Mona Allen should witness her humiliation. Mona must be at the bottom of this, of course. Eve had corrected the proofs that morning and then sent Charles to take them to the buyers whose departments were represented. Before Charles' return Eve had been called to Mr. Bixby's office—a summons she felt she must obey at once.

She had given Mona explicit directions about returning the proofs to the newspaper office. Mona had blundered in some way. Blunders purposely and maliciously, Eve was sure.

When Mr. Bixby asked for an explanation, Eve gave the details briefly and frankly, making no effort to evade the responsibility.

Charles was called in then and explained that he had been unable to find Miss Gordon though he had returned several times to the department. He had asked Miss Allen, he said, if she should take the advertisement to Mr. Bixby for an O. K. and she had replied that she would attend to the matter herself as she had another errand on the fifth floor and it would be no trouble to take the proofs.

Charles was dismissed then and Mona summoned. She came, as Eve knew she would, looking very young and innocent.

"Oh, did I do something wrong?" she exclaimed, lifting wide, appealing eyes to Mr. Bixby. "I'm terribly sorry! You see, I waited and waited for Mrs. Rader to come back she said she'd only be gone a half hour and I expected her any minute. Then when I was on the point of going up to your office, Mr. Bixby, as Charles had suggested I looked at my watch and saw that it was time for Mrs. Rader's lunch period. I knew she'd be back in time for that and would rather attend to the ad herself, so I thought it was all right for me to go to lunch."

"And of course," Ariene said when Eve related the story, "the big boss fell for all that—hook, line and sinker! The only reason she didn't grab the chance to go to Bixby's office was that some darned fool man called up and invited her to lunch. You'd think men would see through her wiles but they don't!"

"Well, it was my fault," admitted Eve. "I should have hurried back from Mr. Bixby's office to attend to the proofs myself. Knowing Mona as I do, I might have realized she'd make some mistake if she thought it could possibly get me into difficulties."

"Oh, well!" Ariene tried to comfort her. "The mistake was discovered in time to be corrected in the sports edition."

"Yes, but it's the home edition

that the women read and the home edition that goes to all the country towns. You can imagine what would happen in the coat department tomorrow if Miss Gordon and her saleswomen tried to explain to all those bargain hunters that the price published was a typographical error. No, Mr. Bixby tried to go ahead with the sale as advertised. And of course she feels dreadful! So does Mr. Bixby but he tried not to show it. He'll stand down there tomorrow and watch that $2,000 disappear without the flicker of an eyelash.

Eve forced herself to go down to the coat department next day, to watch the results of the error. Mr. Bixby was there, a little withdrawn from the crowd and watching them swarm about the bargain racks. It was a scene of confusion, with the sales force working as rapidly as possible, trying to serve the throng, to answer questions, and fit coats and through it all, remain pleasant voiced and courteous. The sale had attracted many avid bargain hunters who dragged garments from the racks and tried to fit themselves, crowding others from before the mirrors. It was a miracle that anyone could keep even-tempered after half an hour of that bedlam and Eve wondered at the self-control displayed by the saleswomen. Miss Gordon, brisk and efficient, seemed to be everywhere at once.

"I see that the criminal is drawn irresistibly to the scene of the murder!" a merry voice whispered in Eve's ear. She turned to face Ariene who had come up behind her.

"Couldn't resist coming down to view the slaughter myself," Ariene confessed. "Oh, my word! There's our blood playmate consoling with Mr. Bixby! You can't beat that girl for cream. She would come blithely away and leave the telephone unguarded! I'll have to get back to the office."

"I'll go with you," offered Eve. "I never want to see another bargain sale as long as I live!"

How she survived that day Eve never knew. She had felt ill with nervousness from the time the mistake in the advertisement was discovered Friday until closing hour Saturday. Over and over she tried to figure mentally how long it would take her to earn $2,000. Then she thought of how much she would

Three Depression Years Have Cut State Road Fund In Half

Good Roads Association Disapproves Diversion Funds

AUSTIN—The state highway fund, once the envy of all state treasurers because of the millions at its command, has shrunk 57 per cent in three depression years, according to the tentative budget for the next fiscal year just prepared by department statisticians.

Total state revenue, which will remain to build and maintain Texas' 19,000 miles of state highways, after the various deduction and diversions, will be $17,000,000 the department estimated. The same figure was $39,000,000 in 1931, the peak year. Neither sum includes federal aid. Maintenance of existing roads alone now costs about $10,000,000 yearly, a decrease of $1,900,000 year out since 1931.

Aside from one or two millions a year lost to the road fund through fewer automobiles and less travel, the decline of $22,000,000 a year in road money was caused by a radical change in the state government's viewpoint regarding main trunk highways, the Texas Good Roads association pointed out in connection with the official figures.

"R. S. Sterling's administration first took the position that counties no longer must use bonds and share the cost of main highways with the state," its statement said. "This 'county aid' which exceeded $11,000,000 in 1931, dropped to $1,000,000 this year and will disappear in 1934. The last year one-fourth of the state gas tax was taken to fund such county bonds already outstanding. It was not enough, but it took another $7,000,000 yearly from the road fund."

Both these steps give local aid a foremen tax relief by shifting the cost of roads past and present, completely upon the counties through the gas tax and license fees. The highway fund is so weakened that it must depend on federal aid to keep jobs for thousands of roadworkers. The plain obligation of the state, then, is to do nothing thenceforth which will imperil federal aid. Shifting of any more state road money to non-road purposes is

Figures Compiled To Estimate Possible Value Of Centennial Exposition For Texas In 1936

AUSTIN, (UP)—An adequate Texas centennial exposition would bring to this state $572,950,000, according to estimates of the committee named by the forty-second legislature. It is to report to the forty-third legislature on advisability of such an exposition in 1936. "Any exposition patterned after that of any previous one would be foredoomed to failure," said the report. "The public demands change. Rightly combined, expositions and anniversary celebrations marking outstanding periods have the greatest popular appeal." Past large scale centennials have differed so greatly in methods and financing that it is impossible to draw direct conclusions, the legislature was advised. There is the added warning that "1936 may laugh at old-fogy ideas of 1933." The committee's general conclusions gathered from a study of past American and European expositions follow: That expositions do not pay in dollars and cents at the gate for the expenditure, but they leave permanent buildings which more than offset the difference. That daily paid attendance averages nine and one-half per cent of the population of the centennial city and between five and six per cent of the population of the territory in a 50-mile radius. (Here the committee points out increasing automobile and airplane use and improved rail transportation is increasing attendance. Past expositions have had attendance 20 times the population of the exposition city. This ratio has been regardless of length of the exposition). Considered from the boxoffice standpoint, the committee says, centennial celebrations seldom have paid. They have had a gross outlay of $1,371 1-2 for each 60 cents collected at the gate. But excluding the outlay for buildings and grounds, paid admissions have left a profit of 151 1-2 per cent. They have been highly beneficial in increasing business and causing improvements in the centennial cities. The Philadelphia Centennial (1876) took in $8,004,000 in paid admissions; it expended $8,980,000 of which $6,165,000 was for permanent buildings. The Chicago World's Fair (1893) took in $21,480,000 and spent $27,282,000 of which $18,670,000 was for permanent buildings. The Louisiana Purchase Exposition (St. Louis, 1904) took in $12,504,000 and spent $26,564,000 with going to Colorado, gasoline tax alone will amount to $25,000,000 they say. The average stay of a visitor is 30 days and the average expenditure $4.86 a day. No recommendation is made on the type of celebration. A single central exposition, a central exposition with allied expositions at historical points and several expositions at various places all have their respective advantages. For the several expositions, greater local support and greater distribution of tourist funds about the state are suggested as probable advantages.

Hilliard Set For Hard Work At Nebraska

Texas Longhorne Offense In Saturday Game Depends Upon Him

AUSTIN—On the broad shoulders of Bohn Hilliard rests the burden of the University of Texas offense in Lincoln, Neb., Saturday when Clyde Littlefield's Longhorns tackle Dana Bible's championship Cornhuskers. The Steers are doped to lose by three touchdowns, but no indications of that knowledge are present in the Longhorn corral. The squad went through snappy workouts this week and showed no signs of nervousness or inferiority. The team, 27 strong, left Austin Thursday morning via the Katy. They will work out in Kansas City Friday morning and will arrive in Lincoln late Friday afternoon. Business Manager Ed Ott announced that the squad would stay at the Lincoln Hotel. If the team can strike a cooper-

Oil Recovery Chief Topic For Meeting Of API In Ft. Worth

DALLAS (UP)—Oil recovery experts will speak at the annual fall meeting here October 6 and 7 of the midcontinent section of the petroleum division of the American Institute of Metallurgical Engineers. Reservoir pressures in East Texas, acid treatment of wells, and other technical topics will be considered. V. H. Wilhelm of the Texas company will speak on characteristics of edgewater encroachment in California oil fields. Results of acid treatment of wells for increased recovery is the subject assigned M. E. Chapman of the Gypsy Oil company. Several will talk on effects of gas withdrawal upon reservoir fluids. Physico-chemical relationships of hydrocarbon gas-liquid mixtures at high pressures will be discussed by Prof. W. K. Lewis, head of the department of chemical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. President F. M. Becket and Secretary A. B. Parsons will address the organization at a smoker Friday evening. W. E. Wrather, Dallas, is chairman of the executive committee and in charge of arranging for the meeting.

Boxing And Wrestling Act Nets State Ten Thousand First Month In Effect

AUSTIN (UP)—The state boxing and wrestling act enriched the state coffers approximately $10,000 in its first month, a report made by Boxing Commissioner Jack Flynn shows. In the first month 237 boxers licenses were issued; 85 wrestlers licenses; 21 managers licenses; 34 boxing promoter licenses and 22 wrestling promoter licenses. Licenses brought in $8,325 and the state's share of gate receipts was $1,255.

Thousands Of Dollars
Forgotten In Houston
Banks During Lean Years

HOUSTON, (UP)—Despite three years of depression, Houston banks contain thousands of dollars belonging to hundreds of persons who apparently have forgotten the money. What's more startling, the banks are quite anxious for the owners to claim the treasure, which amounts to about $50,000.

Money that has forgotten in the vaults is a nuisance to the banker. The essence of his business is order, and it does not seem orderly—or natural, at any rate—for these dollars to be knocking about loose in the world with nobody to love them.

Every bank in the city is a repository for a certain number of these orphan dollars—"dormant accounts" they are called—and the older the bank, the more it will have on hand. In some cases the owners have taken no visible interest in their money for more than 50 years and this is little less of a puzzle to the banker than it is to the man outside.

Accounts are declared dormant in most banks if no deposits or withdrawals are made for 12 months. Most bankers say the average citizen's faulty arithmetic causes most dormant accounts.

Announcement Of Coming
Marriage Of Miss Eddy
Made At Charming Party

Mmes. W. D. McDonald And E. D. Merrill Entertain Friends Of The Prospective Bride At Mrs. McClesky's Home

The engagement of Miss Mable Eddy to Mr. Don Wallace of Colorado was announced at a charming bridge party given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. W. D. McDonald and Mrs. E. D. Merrill, intimate friends of the bride-to-be and her mother.

The party was held at the beautiful home of Mrs. N. W. McClesky on Hillside Drive. A pink and white color scheme was used in all the bridge accessories. Floral decorations were roses in varying shades of pink. The announcement of the engagement came at the refreshment hour when the guests were passed plates containing a dessert course. On each plate was a long-stemmed rosebud to which was tied a pink heart by a pink ribbon. On one side of the heart was written "Say It With Flowers" and on the other "Don and Mable, October 21st."

Texans Urged To Observe Columbus
Day, October 12th

Columbus Day, October 12, commemorating the landing of Christopher Columbus on the North American continent in 1492 has been designated a legal holiday in Texas and Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has called upon the citizenship to observe the day in a fitting manner. The first of Columbus' 4 voyages was made in 70 days from Palos, Spain, to the Gulf of Mexico. He sailed August 3 and ended the voyage October 12. A movement to arrange a suitable observance of the day is under way in Big Spring. It was reported Thursday.

Mary Frances Robinson Gives Birthday Party

Mrs. W. Homer Robinson entertained with a birthday party for her daughter, Mary Frances, Wednesday evening. The guests arrived at 7 o'clock and were greeted by the honoree. The house was artistically decorated in cosmos, pot plants and flowers.

After the gifts were opened, games and contests were the order of the evening and much merriment was manifested.

At the refreshment hour the guests were served slices of the lovely birthday cake, which with its glowing candles, was a present to the honoree from Mrs. C. M. Tate, Mrs. Killingsworth, and Mrs. Tate assisted Mrs. Robinson in the serving.

Favorable Report Is Given Malt Tax Bill

AUSTIN (UP)—Favorable report was given a house bill to tax malt extract five cents a pound to help retire state relief bonds by the house liquor traffic committee.

The bill, which sponsors said will make home brewers pay several thousand dollars a year, calls for three-fourths of the income to go to retire bonds and a fourth to schools.

It will not affect 3.2 beer brewers, the committee was told, because such brewers manufacture their own malt.

The invitation is extended by J. Culbertson Deal, chairman of the San Angelo NRA committee, in a letter to The Herald.

R. E. Thomason of El Paso, congressman representing this district, will appear on the program and introduce Senator Connally.

During the afternoon the guests played contract bridge. Miss Black made high score, for which she was given two card table covers. Miss Stewart cut for high and received a set of silhouette ash trays. Both presented the honoree with their gifts.

Miss Eddy was the recipient of a lovely linen luncheon set from the two hostesses.

In addition to Mrs. L. E. Eddy, mother of the prospective bride, and Mrs. J. B. Hodges, Sr., a friend, there were present the following members of the younger set who spent the afternoon at bridge:

Mmes. Alfred Collins, Glen D. Guikley, Bill Tate, Roy Lamb, Clarence Wear, Allen Hodges, D. M. McKinney, Sidney House, Joe Clare, Henry Edwards, Larson Lloyd, P. E. McClannahan, R. W. Henry, Randall Pickle, Herbert Whitney, Lloyd Wasson, Obie Bristol, Henry Covert, Tom Jordan, Jr., Werner Neese; Misses Elizabeth Northington, Lucille Rix, Margaret Bettie, Lola Belle Stewart, Lennah Rose Black, Veda Robinson, Nell Davis and Mary Alice Wilke.

Two Parties
Enjoyed By Ideal Club

The Crofts Entertain For Husbands; Mrs. Stephens Entertains

The Ideal Bridge Club members had two parties in close succession this week. They met Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Croft for an evening party and Wednesday afternoon in regular session at the home of Mrs. Fred Stephens.

At the night party Mrs. Clare and Mr. Fiewellen were the highest scorers. There were no guests.

Members attending were: Messrs. and Mmes. Steve Ford, W. B. Clare, A. E. Service, M. M. Edwards, Ebb Hatch, George Wilke, Buck Richardson and W. W. Inkman and Mrs. J. D. Biles.

At the afternoon party Mrs. Stephens' home was beautifully decorated with pink roses and pink dahlias from her garden.

Mrs. Victor Martin and Mrs. Seth H. Parsons were the guests, Mrs. Parsons making high score.

A delicious salad plate was passed to the guests and following members: Mmes. W. W. Inkman, Buck Richardson, George Wilke, Ebb Hatch, M. M. Edwards, A. E. Service, L. W. Croft, V. H. Fiewellen, W. B. Clare and Steve Ford.

Mrs. Biles will be the next hostess.
