HAVANA (UPI) — Fidel Castro's government had to shut down the seized Esso refinery in Havana for lack of crude oil but insisted Saturday it could keep the island nation going on supplies from Russia.

May Impose Sanctions

Britain Considers Protest To Cuba

LONDON (UPI)—Britain is "actively considering action" against Fidel Castro's government for seizure of British oil holdings in Cuba and a sharp protest probably will be sent to Havana, it was disclosed Saturday.

Sources said economic reprisals were likely.

The Foreign Office said the British government was "gravely concerned" at the seizure Friday of the Shell Oil refinery which is owned by British and Dutch interests.

"We are actively considering what action to take," a spokesman said, as Britain and the United States began a series of diplomatic exchanges on how to deal with Castro's seizure of the Shell property and the Esso refinery owned by Standard Oil (New Jersey).

Sources said the government probably would send a sharp protest to Premier Castro's government.

ment expressing its "grave concern." Officials refused comment on the possibility of economic sanctions against Cuba, but sources said these were under consideration, and British officials were said to be studying the possibility of reprisals jointly with the United States.

Sources said the main British concern was that any drastic moves might drive Cuba further from the Western bloc and closer to the Communist camp.

They said Britain wanted to win support from other Latin American nations before taking any step that might increase tension in the Western Hemisphere.

Demo Convention 'Fixed' For Kennedy, Says HST

Charges Backers Of Sen. Kennedy

By DAVE OESTREICHER
United Press International

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman, in a "give 'em hell" lecture to his own party, charged Saturday that Sen. John F. Kennedy's backers have "fixed" the Democratic National Convention to guarantee him the presidential nomination.

The 76-year-old former chief executive, in high good humor but armed to the teeth with political barbs, questioned whether Kennedy is "quite ready" for the White House. He reaffirmed his own choice of Sen. Stuart Symington, a fellow Missourian, as "an experienced and courageous liberal" best suited for the nomination.

Symington, several hours later, said he was "very grateful for Mr. Truman's kind comments." He said in a statement that he is "still confident we will have an open convention and will do everything I can to see that we come out of Los Angeles with a united party for this all important election."

Truman also named nine other Democrats he considered "qualified to be president." This list headed by Sen. Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.), did not include Kennedy. Neither did it include Adlai E. Stevenson, nominated for a second time in 1956 at a convention which Truman said was a "closed" one despite his warnings.

"Let us not make the same mistake twice in a row," the former president said.

Truman said he was not accusing Kennedy personally of blocking an "open convention." He asserted that "over-zealous" backers of Kennedy were to blame. But he declined to name any of them, or to pin specific charges on Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler who already has denied "rigging" the convention.

Truman laughed and joshed his way through an eight-minute question and answer session for the 250 newsmen, photographers and invited guests jammed into the auditorium of the Truman Library here. He generally declined to simplify a 1000 word prepared statement which he read at the outset of the news conference. He insisted it "speaks for itself."

But he showed customary pepper-and-vinegar form when some one asked if there was any one thing that led him to withdraw as a delegate.

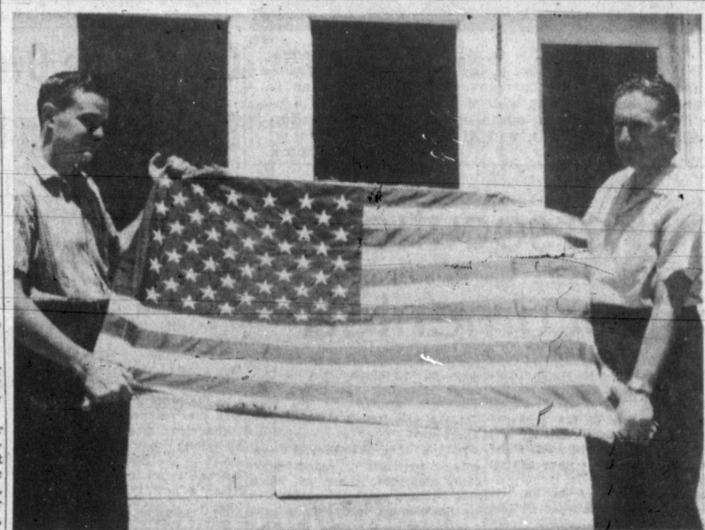

"Yes," Truman snapped, "I don't like a fixed convention."

His statements spread jubilation among Republicans but brought some sober-toned comment from (See CONVENTION, Page 3)

Alfonso Gutierrez, president of the Cuban Petroleum Institute (ICP) reported that the Esso refinery, seized from Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) had to be shut down late Friday afternoon, hours after it was taken over, because there was not enough crude oil to refine.

The companies had refused to refine Russian oil and supplies it shipped in from Venezuela were virtually exhausted.

A tanker bringing 80,000 barrels of Russian crude from government storage tanks at the port of Casilda in southern Las Villas Province originally was expected at the refinery Saturday but probably would not arrive until Sunday, Gutierrez said.

Eisenhower Is Determined To Force Sugar Curb Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A highly placed Republican source said Saturday night President Eisenhower has threatened to call Congress back into emergency session Tuesday if it recesses without action on a sugar import curb bill he could use against Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Eisenhower was described as considerably concerned by the stubborn deadlock over the legislation which developed between the House and Senate. The GOP source said the President sent word to House leaders he wanted approval of a simple, Senate-passed resolution.

It was definitely established that two White House aides and a highly-placed State Department official were on Capitol Hill conveying word from the White House.

They reportedly told House leaders of both parties that Eisenhower preferred the simpler stop-gap resolution, passed by the Senate earlier in the day and sent to the House. But, it was said, they reported he also would accept a House-passed bill extending the sugar act for one year with authority for him to cut Cuban quotas.

Democratic House leaders were angered by the President's threat which was relayed to them by a White House aide.

House leaders had notified senators the House would not accept the Senate's sugar bill.

The initial Senate approval of its bill came on an 84 to 0 voice vote.

Pace Set For 4th Carnage

Traffic Deaths Four An Hour

By United Press International

Hundreds of Americans motored off to almost certain death on the nation's highways during the Fourth of July traffic death toll to a rate of more than four an hour.

Fatality reports kept up almost a day-long pace of four an hour, and the rate during the early hours of the 78-hour holiday period promised to send the final toll soaring beyond predictions.

The National Safety Council warned that 370 persons could die on the nation's highways during the three-day weekend which began officially at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

At 6 p.m. ed, United Press International had counted 102 persons dead in traffic accidents. In addition, 10 had drowned and 8 had died in miscellaneous accidents for a holiday total of 118.

Ohio led the nation in highway deaths with 14, followed by New York State with 13. California had counted 8 dead and North Carolina 7, Colorado, 6, Georgia 5, and Illinois and Kentucky 4 each.

The Safety Council said the traffic toll was running about 10 ahead of the Memorial Day, 1960, mark when 367 were killed in a 78-hour period and was ahead of the last July 4 three-day holiday, in 1958, by the same number. The 1958 holiday took 375 lives.

"The toll itself should serve as a grim warning to every driver to slow down," the Council said.

GOP Gleeful Over Remarks Of Ex-Chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Truman's convention-rigging charges and his attack on Sen. John F. Kennedy brought quick and varied reaction Saturday from the camps of the leading candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Republicans generally were gleeful.

There was no immediate formal reply from Kennedy but a spokesman for the Massachusetts senator said he would ask for equal time on the television networks which carried Truman's news conference from Independence, Mo.

Roger Tubby, once Truman's press secretary, he did not believe the former president's remarks would hurt Kennedy who is now leading the race for the Democratic nomination.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Texas), who has not yet formally announced his bid for the nomination, was quick with reaction about Truman's bombshell statements in advance of the convention which opens a week from Monday.

Johnson agreed with Truman that any effort to control the convention would cause "bitter resentment" and weaken the party.

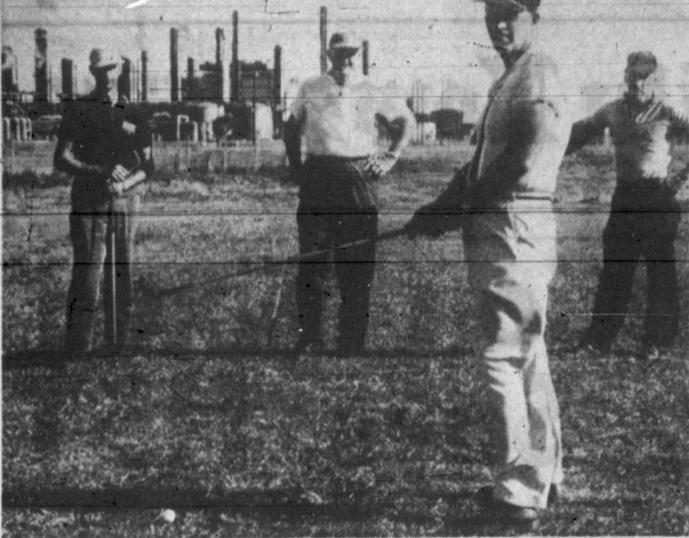

"Of course," Johnson said, "I agree with President Truman (See GOP, Page 3)

Celanese Employees Combine Ingenuity, Year Of Hard Work To Build Golf Course

FORE — Teeing off for the official opening of the new Pancel Golf Club nine-hole golf course yesterday is Bill Ellis, the man most of the club members feel was responsible for the planning and construction of the course. Daily News Staff Writer Ingenuity and many hours of hard work has led to the fulfillment of a dream of 37 employees of the Celanese Chemical plant, members of the Pancel Golf Club.

About one year ago, a plan was adopted to organize a golf club among the employees to finance and build a golf course. Yesterday, the nine-hole course was officially opened. It is located southeast of the Celanese plant.

Organization, plans, design and construction was done completely by voluntary labor of the club members. Each member worked a minimum of 30 hours on the course and others worked many more hours than that, according to Bill Ellis, president of the club.

Johnny Austin, professional golfer at Tascosa Country Club in Amarillo and former pro at Pampa Country Club, helped with the designing and gave professional advice for the construction.

Each member has given $47 to the club and monthly dues will be $3. Any employee wishing to join the club now or later must make up the back dues plus paying monthly dues.

Building of the course was done on a team-plan, according to Ellis, who is also on the construction committee and in charge of greens construction.

Nine teams of nine or ten members working under a green captain provided manpower for greens work. Each team was assigned a green and tee box to construct and care for. Greens were planted last October. About 150 trees have been planted on the course. Plans are to plant 300 next year and numerous more in the future.

Green captains are: James Mullins, green 1; Bill Cooper, green 2; Jack Davis, green 3; Foster White, green 4; Russell West, green 5; Jim Staus, green 6; Albert Kemp, green 7; Ted Knox, green 8; and Bob Karr, green 9.

Members of the construction committee for the course are: W. A. Morgan, chairman; John Genty, Melvin Watkins; Bill Ellis; and Bob Smith.

Sub-committee chairmen are: Willie Fees, piping; Gene McQuigg, electrical work; Layon Altaway, layout; Ray Barnard, grading; and the nine green captains.

The company gave the land and water and pipe for irrigation to the club and company equipment was used during the building process.

"I want to stress the wonderful cooperation, hard work, and time given by the members," said Ellis. "Several men who joined the club have never hit a golf ball in their life, and they aren't sure they ever will," he added. "Many joined simply because they thought it was a good thing. We even got some help on construction from non-members who just wanted to help."

The course is open only to members of the club and their families, and each member is allowed 82 guests per year. There is no greens fee for members of guests.

Clubhouse headquarters will be in Pancel Hall, a recreation hall given by the company to the Employees' Club of which the Golf Club is a subsidiary branch.

Burt Watkins will be the course pro, maintaining and managing the course for the club. He will run a pro shop in Pancel Hall.

The course is set up for golfers to tee off from the front of the tee boxes for the first nine holes and then turn around and tee off from the back of the tee boxes for the last nine holes making the "in" holes longer and allowing eighteen holes of golf on the nine-hole course.

The "out" holes measure 2,986 yards and the "in" holes measure 3,256 yards for a total of 6,242 yards. Measurement of individual holes are: 1 — 378 yards, 2 — 503 yards, 3 — 398 yards, 4 — 187 yards, 5 — 354 yards, 6 — 345 yards, 7 — 365 yards, 8 — 187 yards, 9 — 349 yards, 10 — 408 yards, 11 — 533 yards, 12 — 428 yards, 13 — 187 yards.

yards, 14 — 384 yards, 15 — 375 yards, 16 — 398 yards, 17 — 187 yards, and 18 — 379 yards.

Par for the course is 70 for men and 74 for women.

All U.S.G.A. rules apply on the course plus local course rules.

The opening at 8 a.m. yesterday featured a blind bogey tournament which was open to all Employees' Club members. H. V. Wilks was supposed to hit the first ball to officially open the course, but a switch was pulled as he declined to do so asking Bill Ellis to perform the honors as a token of the members' appreciation for Ellis' devoted effort and work on the project.

"Ellis was key man in subscribing members for the club and in organizing, planning and constructing the course," said a club member.

A spaghetti dinner was held at 6 p.m. with a dance at 8 p.m. in Pancel Hall to complete the opening-day celebrations.

"I have been quite happy with the interest employees took in this project," said Wilks, plant manager. "This is something we like to see. When people put out effort and money like this, the company feels willing to help. The men started with an expense of wide open prairie and turned it into what I think is a very nice golf course. And I'm sure the people who worked the hardest will probably enjoy it the most."

Good Sense Overshadowed Exuberance In Early 1960

By ELMER C. WALZER
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Industry today looked back over the first half of 1960 and concluded it was a mighty good period with common sense steadiness overtaking the first part of the golden anticipated wild exuberance of the first part of the golden sixties.

Considerable disappointment had greeted the failure of industry to hold to the roaring expansion the prophets had foreseen before the year began.

The stock market reflected this by falling from a record high of $85.47 in the Dow-Jones industrial average to 599.10 on March 8, the latter a new low since Feb. 19, 1959.

Stocks subsequently met support when it was seen that industry wasn't going to fall out of bed and that recession still seemed a long way off.

Several lines of industry suffered rather severely. When users of steel saw they could get all the metal they wanted, they began to use up their inventories which meant sharply reduced production. Later in June use of steel was running 25 per cent ahead of production.

Home building slipped because of tight money and high money rates. Also there appeared to be less general demand for new homes with vacancies rising.

With steel operations reduced, railroads and trucks suffered losses in heavy traffic.

Here were three giant industries — steel, construction, and railroads — suffering setbacks. Yet the general economy moved ahead with the gross national product — all goods and services produced — crossing the half-trillion dollar mark.

This situation was brought about by special strength in other industries, such as automobile where the liquidation of the Jews resulting in his creation of the horror camp system of deportations, death wagons, gas chambers and mass shootings.

One report advances the theory that Eichmann's hatred of the Jews stems from the fact that he, himself, has a Semitic appearance and was once commonly mistaken for a Jew.

The dossiers have been built up painstakingly over the years by press cuttings and reports from agents in a dozen different countries.

When Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy, is reported in a Latin American country, or on the streets of Cairo, an agent investigates and his report goes into Bormann's file.

"We, ourselves, believe that Bormann is dead," says Ise Wolff, who has been librarian of the Wiener collection for 20 years. "We believe that he perished in Hitler's bunker. Still, there is just a chance that he may be alive."

The Wiener Library, itself is non-political. It is not a police agency but crime investigators, among others, make use of its files.

The library was founded in Amsterdam in 1934 by Dr. Alfred Wiener, a Jewish refugee from Nazi Germany, who was a journalist and a scholar.

In 1939, the library was moved to London, where it proved invaluable to the British Ministry of Information and to Allied governments throughout the war years. It was also used extensively in preparing the Nuremberg trials of Nazi war criminals.

But the Wiener Library is not concerned exclusively with Nazi atrocities. It gives pride of place to those Germans who were anti-Nazi, and comforted and aided the Jews during their persecution.

lengthening of our prosperity are all to the good.

What we didn't produce in the first half will be produced in the second, it is anticipated. Hence, the experts estimate that the year as a whole, while not setting off any Roman candles in the way of sensational gain, will achieve a new high record for the whole economy.

The secretary of the Treasury put it this way: "The year 1960 will be a year without an inflation fed boom or economic arthritis — a year of steady progress with the gross national product reaching another record high as 1961 begins."

Conservative economists and business experts concur in this as a whole, while not setting off any Roman candles in the way of sensational gain, will achieve a new high record for the whole economy.

"We cannot present Macbeth, for example, without the scene of killing," he said.

Blood-Letting On TV Bites Dust In Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — American cowboys and their Japanese counterparts, the sword-swinging Samurai, will bite the dust beginning Monday July 4, on Japan's government-supported national television network.

They will be replaced by "heart warming" home dramas, network officials said, in a move to protect the morals of the younger generation.

The officials believe the violence seen in American Westerns, American detectives and Japanese Samurai TV series has a strong influence on the actions of the nation's youth.

"Nowadays," said Yoshinori Maeda, network program director "killing is done with such ease. Only during the past week we have had three murders in Tokyo alone. We had to question what stimulated the murderers' impulses."

"As the national broadcasting system, we felt our responsibility to the people who pay for our corporation. So we quickly decided upon the expulsion of some programs which encourage violence and started to reorganize our programming for more wholesome fare."

Maeda said the ban on violence will not extend to "artistic and classical dramas."

"We cannot present Macbeth, for example, without the scene of killing," he said.

Eichmann Persecution Of Jews Documented

By TOM A. CULLEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON (NEA) — "Our library is a chamber of horrors," the librarian warns. "Here you will find yourself wading ankle-deep in blood."

Despite the librarian's warning, one is not prepared for the nightmares he finds on the bookshelves of the Wiener Library, which was founded in Amsterdam in 1934. It is now housed in a modest gray-stone building in central London.

50,000 volumes, is Europe's chief collection of life in Hitler Germany and the early history of the Nazi party. It contains plentiful details of the unsavory career of Adolph Eichmann, the Gestapo officer who will stand trial in Israel for crimes against humanity.

Eichmann is said to be responsible for the murder of six million Jews. His recent capture by Israeli agents is still shrouded in mystery.

In a few hours' browsing among the library's archives, one finds complete dossiers not only on Eichmann, but on hundreds of other Nazi criminals who are wanted by the West German and Israeli governments. There are:

Dozens of affidavits and eye-witness accounts of concentration camp atrocities, some of which may be used against Eichmann in his forthcoming trial.

Piles of photographs of Nazi gas chambers and their victims piled like cordwood in the yards.

Chancellor Adenauer's name on a secret black list compiled by Heinrich Himmler of enemies he intended to exterminate.

Editions of Hitler's Mein Kampf printed in seventeen languages including a first edition, a Jubilee edition and a special gift edition for newlyweds.

Nazi propaganda printed in Braille for the blind and a seven children's books full of anti-Semitic propaganda in which Jews were pictured as ogres.

Ever since Eichmann's arrest, the Wiener Library has been a beehive of activity, with scholars, journalists and foreign embassy officials consulting its archives for the record on the arch-Jew-killer.

Some of the evidence collected on Eichmann goes back to 1935 when he posed in Berlin as a friend of the Jews in order to pump information from them.

Relentlessly, the dossier traces Eichmann's rise as head of the Gestapo section, charged with the liquidation of the Jews resulting in his creation of the horror camp system of deportations, death wagons, gas chambers and mass shootings.

One report advances the theory that Eichmann's hatred of the Jews stems from the fact that he, himself, has a Semitic appearance and was once commonly mistaken for a Jew.

Khrush Harps On U.S. Prestige Loss

United States," he said. "A wave of indignation has swept the world in reaction to the American policy of provocations. Never has the prestige of the United States sunk so low. "So far," he added, "Washington has never experienced such a humiliation and never has it had to pay such a price for its imprudent playing with fire." Khrushchev said "This experience" should give West German "something to think about."

"A defeat for American policy is, at the same time also his defeat," he said.

Guardsman Calls For Return To Old-Fashioned Patriotism

NORTH FORT HOOD, Tex. (UPI)—Texas and National Guardsmen everywhere must rededicate themselves as Americans to the cause of freedom, Maj. Gen. Carl L. Phinney of Dallas told members of the 36th Infantry Division at a review in his honor Saturday.

The 36th Infantry Division commander told the citizen-soldiers in a pre-July 4 address that the price of freedom is preparedness. He called for a return to old-fashioned flag-waving patriotism that has the basic principles that built America.

"The 36th Division has completed its two-week annual field training period at North Fort Hood.

"Wherever we go, whatever we do, let us continue to instill in our citizens the importance of patriotism, Phinney told the "T" Patches.

Noting that Monday is the nation's Independence Day, he reminded his audience of the "Federal Americans who created it with supreme sacrifice."

He told a crowd of 9,000 guardsmen and hundreds of visitors that "it recalls those who preserved it for us these last 150 years."

"Against inner rebellion and against foreign invasion," they fought to keep us free. When dying became the difference, this, too, they did," he said.

Phinney said "our training here is but to prepare us—to keep us prepared to protect those freedoms long cherished—too lightly considered."

The guardsmen stood smartly at attention as their commander, who rose from private to major general in the 36th Division troop of the line.

Later they marched proudly in the review.

Three "T Patches" were decorated with the Bronze Star Medal for deeds of gallantry in combat during World War II.

Col. Jack A. Bergfeld, New Braunfels, was decorated for meritorious achievement in Central Europe in 1944 when he was a first lieutenant.

First Lt. Jimmie F. Barnett of Whitney received the Bronze Star for his action in ground operations in 1945 in the "Pacific Theatre."

Sgt. Dennis G. Perez of San Antonio was decorated for meritorious achievement in ground operations against the enemy on Luzon in 1944.

Announcer Still Hunts For Earhart Solution

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The man who outfitted Amelia Earhart's airplane for the trip on which she disappeared searched his records Saturday for data that may prove she crashed in Saipan Harbor.

Paul Mantz, Santa Ana, Calif., air service operator, said it may take him several days, however, to run down the number of the special generator he installed on her plane in 1937 before she vanished in the Pacific on a round-the-world flight.

Radio newsmen Fred Goerner of station KCBS said Friday he had corroborated the story published recently in the San Mateo, Calif., Times that the famous aviatrix crashed on Saipan July 2, 1937, and was executed by the Japanese.

Goerner, accompanied by an interpreter, spent two weeks on Saipan and recorded several hours of testimony from natives who "remember seeing the American lady crash."

Goerner also brought up from the bottom of Saipan Harbor about 500 pounds of airplane parts, which he said were identified by Navy experts as "definitely from an American-made plane of pre-world war two type."

CUBA

(Continued From Page 1) elized Wednesday and the Shell refinery taken over with Esso Friday still were operating, it was reported.

Gutierrez predicted Esso would be back in operation soon. He said the shutdown would enable the 1,000 Cuban employees to work on refinery equipment and machinery and clean it. But it was not clear whether it would be working by Monday.

The temporary Esso shutdown will not result in any shortages of oil or gasoline, he said. But Castro's government was unning into some fueling difficulties outside its borders.

A Cubana Airlines flight for Madrid Friday was cancelled for a day, when authorities learned that "Esso had refused to supply necessary fuel at Lisbon and Bermuda," according to the government newspaper El Mundo.

Gutierrez met with distribution officials of the ousted companies and drew up plans to make each refinery responsible for specific areas of the island.

Unless Mexico or Venezuela agree to ship crude oil Castro had only Russian crude to bank on. Cuba has no oil itself, to speak of.

Gutierrez expressed confidence a deal would be made with Venezuela.

Revolution, which is the organ of Castro's 26th of July revolutionary movement, devoted a banner headline to reassuring the people that the refineries will be able to refine Soviet crude which has a different chemical balance than Venezuelan crude.

Militiamen continued round-the-clock guard over the refineries to guard against sabotage.

Johnson, running second to Kennedy in a convention delegate strength, said he appreciated Truman's "generous words" about his own qualifications and agreed that any effort to rig the convention would cause "bitter resentment."

Roger Tubby, once Truman's White House press secretary and now a Kennedy aide in Los Angeles, said Truman's remarks would have no effect on Kennedy's chances. John Bailey, Connecticut state Democratic chairman and a top Kennedy lieutenant called Truman's statement "the last gasp of the stop - Kennedy movement."

Truman himself declined to characterize his remarks as a stop-Kennedy effort. When a reporter asked if he would deny this, Truman laughingly answered.

"We'll wait and see. If you make any such statement you may be in a lot of trouble."

He also said he "shall support the ticket" if Kennedy is nominated. But he said the Democratic National Committee would have to decide how much active campaigning he would do.

Before mentioning Symington, Johnson and other "good men" whom he said should be "properly sized up on the convention floor," Truman said he had this message for delegates to the nominating sessions:

"The Democrats must not make the mistake of freeing out men who by their public service and record have proved themselves unworthy of fair consideration by an unbound convention."

Guardsmen Begin Final Camp Week

FT. HOOD, Tex. (Sp)—Pampa National Guardsmen of the 36th Infantry Division will return to the hills around Ft. Hood today for another week of instruction and training in the field.

The training area has been set up about 10 miles from Fort Hood. Underbrush was cut the past week for the "pup-tent city" which is camouflaged along the tree line. Complete battleried conditions are simulated.

The men are able to come into the garrison area each night to shower and clean up, but have to return to eat and sleep in the field. The company area is completely self-sustaining, with its own mess kitchen and headquarters.

Last Wednesday, the men fired the M-1 rifle for familiarization and accuracy. Sgt. Jerry E. Lunford of Pampa recorded one of the high scores, firing 140 points out of a possible 150 on the 300-yard range.

Some 135 men from all over the Panhandle also fired on the 500-inch machine gun range under the supervision of 1st Lt. Donald Booth, M-Sgt. Lester Hawkins, Sgt. Curtis Prescott and Sgt. William T. Fraser, all of Pampa. PFC A. C. Malone held one of the high scores of the machine gun range.

While Lt. Mathews gave instructions to the weapons platoon on the 105 recoilless rifle, Sgt. James B. Lee taught a class on the automatic rifle.

After the annual Governor's tournament yesterday, there was a golf tournament held at the Gatesville Country Club in which M-Sgt. Jimmy W. Keel, Sgt. L. W. Dowdin, Sgt. Prescott and Sp. Bill Russel competed.

CRMWA Calls Meeting On Water Rates

The coordinating committee of the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority will meet July 11 in Plainview for a second attempt to come up with a workable scale of water rates for cities participating in the proposed dam and reservoir project.

A regular meeting of the board of directors will be held the same day, but authority officials expect it will start later than the original scheduled 1 p.m. time.

The meeting of the coordinating committee last week lasted longer than expected, and failed to produce a solution to the water rate problem.

A proposal of changing the water rates so that no participating city would be required to pay more than 25 cents per 1,000 gallons was strongly objected to.

If approved it would have meant altering the water rates of all cities in the project.

Grace, Rainier At Odds? No Says Monaco

MONACO (UPI)—Inhabitants of this little principality Saturday laughed off U.S. reports that "trouble" had developed to cloud the marital idyll of their rulers, Prince Rainier and Princess Grace.

Monagasques not only refused to believe the American press reports of "trouble in paradise," but also found the idea of a rift inconceivable.

All the evidence since April, 1956, when Rainier took as his bride Hollywood actress Grace Kelly, has pointed to an idyllic married life.

The New York press reports to a rift were spurred by the fact that the princess and Rainier flew back home in separate planes this week from Philadelphia, where they had gone for the funeral of Grace's father, John B. Kelly.

According to these reports the princess was angry because Rainier allegedly had ordered her to return from an earlier visit to her father's bedside and thus caused her to be absent when Kelly died.

A source close to Rainier's palace denied Saturday that he ever had asked Grace to return from her preliminary two-week visit with her ailing father in Philadelphia.

RECEIVING THE HOLY GHOST

Acts 19:2 Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed?
The parting request of Jesus Christ was that the disciples wait in Jerusalem for the promise of the father.

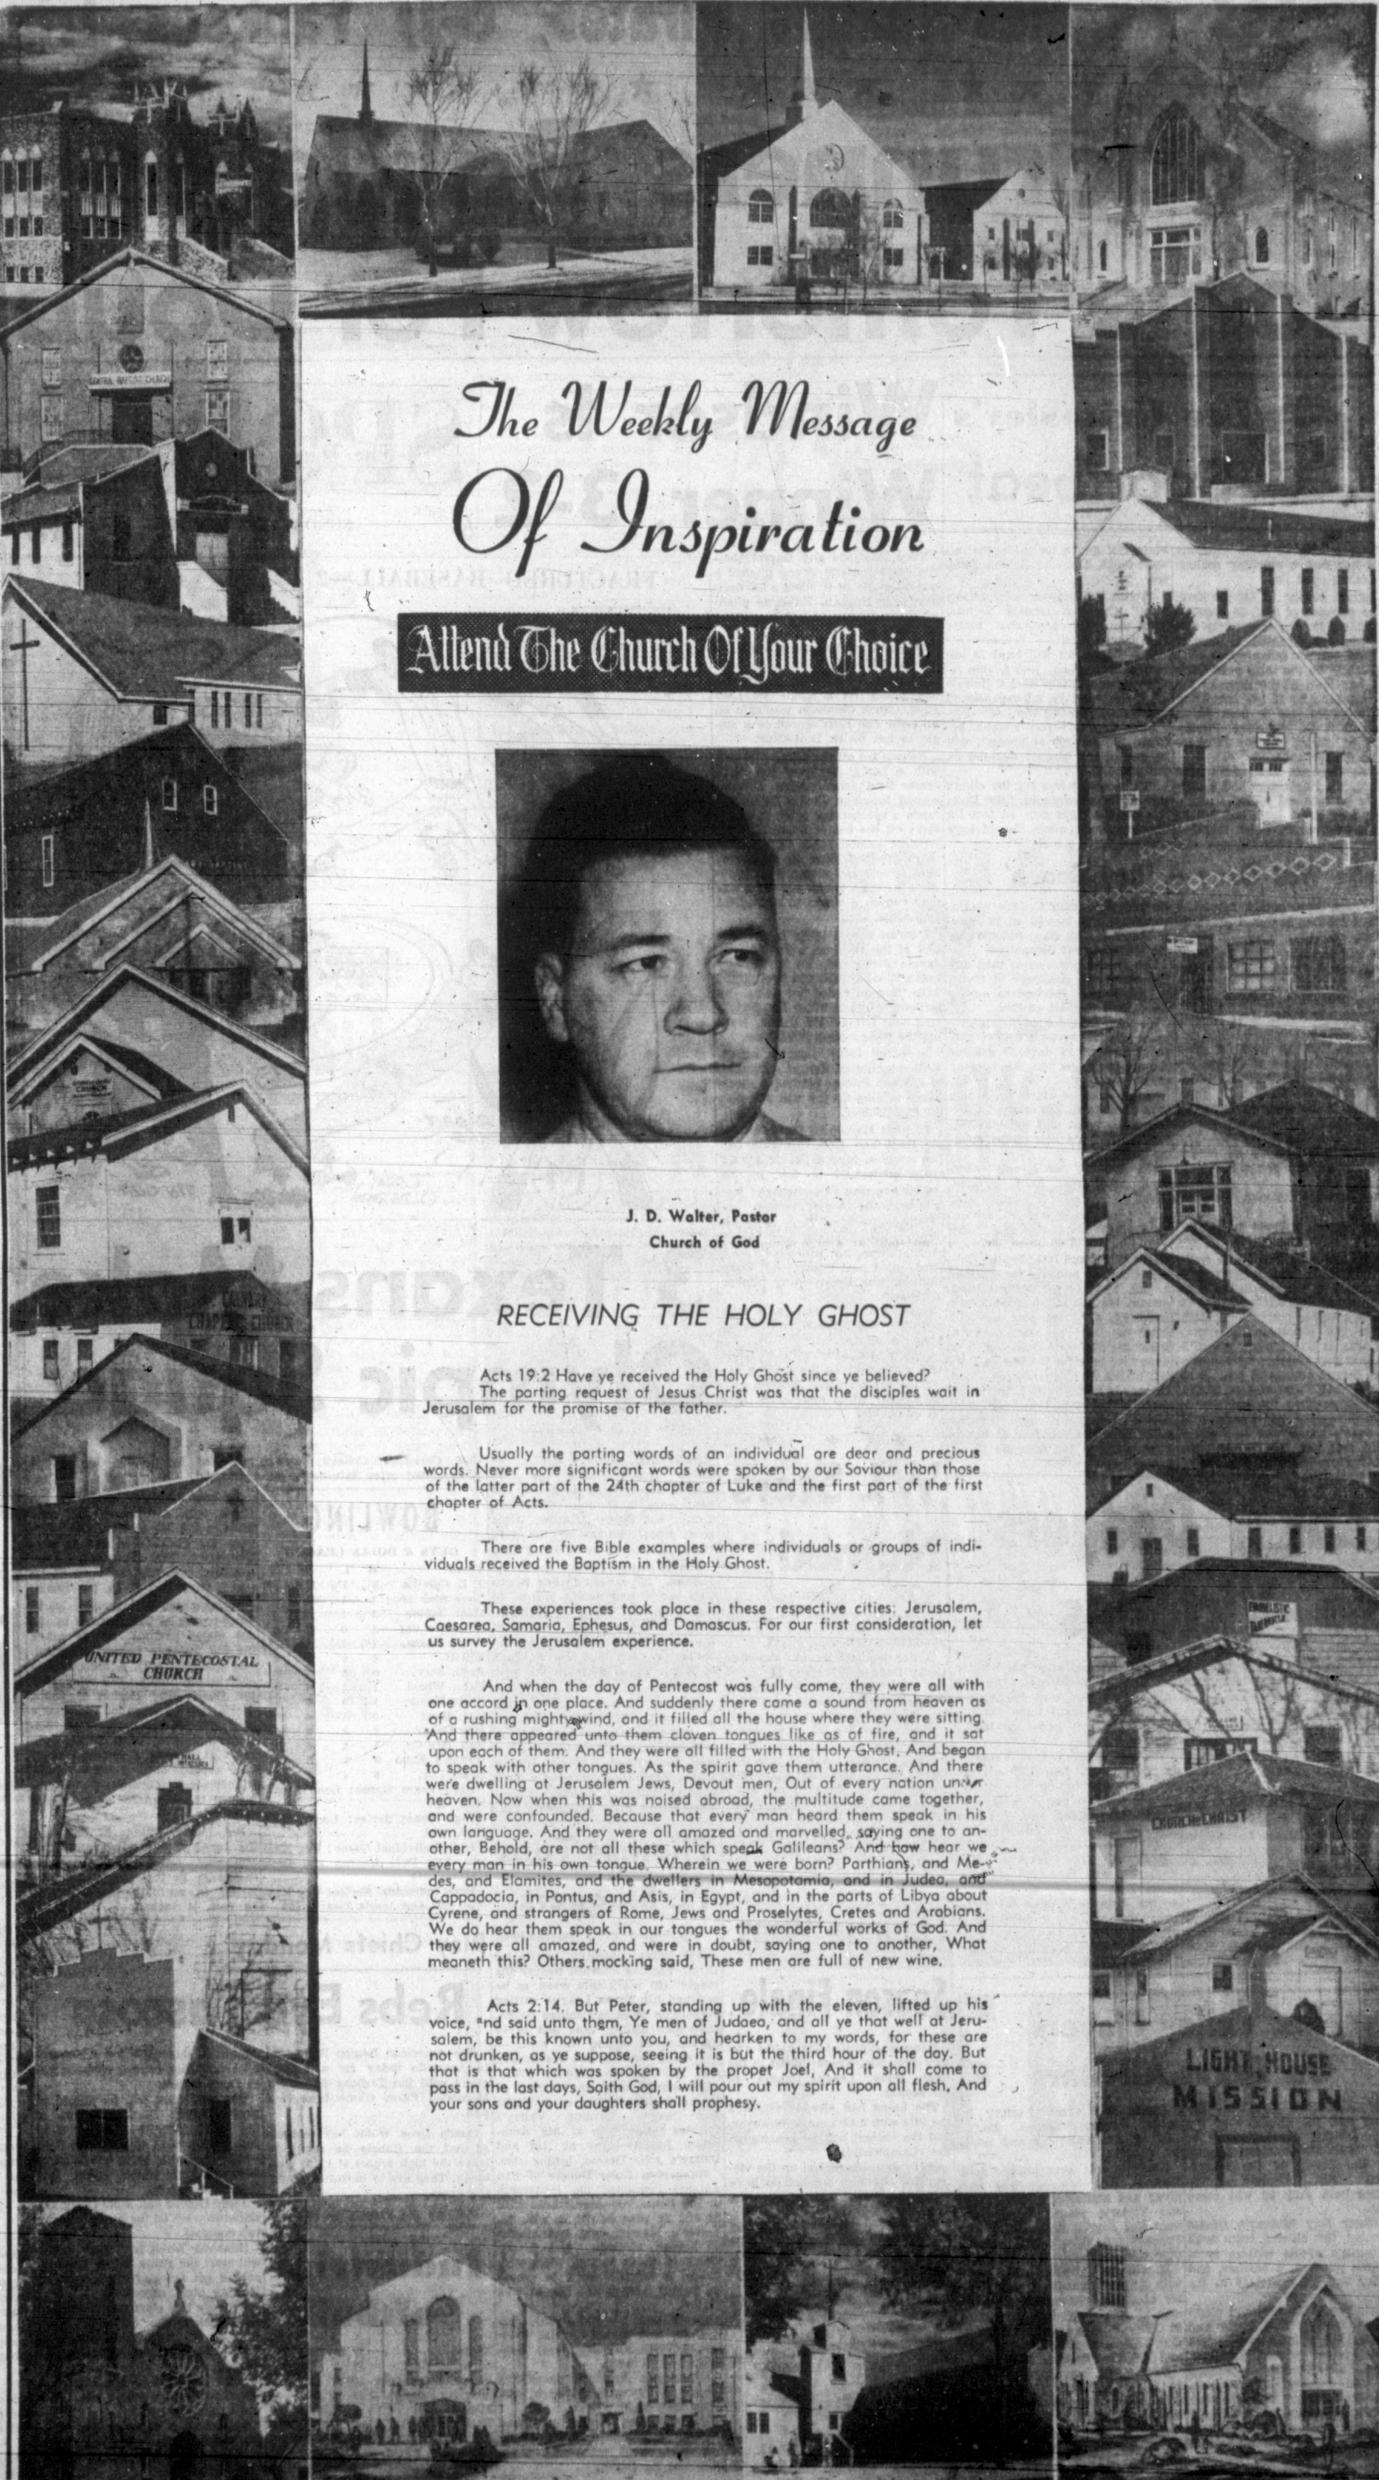

Usually the parting words of an individual are dear and precious words. Never more significant words were spoken by our Saviour than those of the latter part of the 24th chapter of Luke and the first part of the first chapter of Acts.

There are five Bible examples where individuals or groups of individuals received the Baptism in the Holy Ghost.

These experiences took place in these respective cities: Jerusalem, Caesarea, Samaria, Ephesus, and Damascus. For our first consideration, let us survey the Jerusalem experience.

And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the spirit gave them utterance. And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven. Now when this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were confounded, because that every man heard them speak in his own language. And they were all amazed and marvelled, saying one to another, Behold, are not all these which speak Galileans? And how hear we every man in his own tongue, wherein we were born? Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the dwellers in Mesopotamia, and in Judea, and Cappadocia, in Pontus, and Asia, in Egypt, and in the parts of Libya about Cyrene, and strangers of Rome, Jews and Proselytes, Cretes and Arabians. We do hear them speak in our tongues the wonderful works of God. And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, saying one to another, What meaneth this? Others, mocking said, These men are full of new wine.

Acts 2:14. But Peter, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and said unto them, Ye men of Judaea, and all ye that dwell at Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words, for these are not drunken, as ye suppose, seeing it is but the third hour of the day. But that is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel, And it shall come to pass in the last days, Saith God, I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy.

While talking to Babe Curfman the other day a startling realization came upon us. Football season is almost here. The morning of Aug. 28 about 95 candidates for the Harvesters and Shockers are expected to answer the first call for fall practice. This will be the third year Curfman has been at the helm of the Harvesters. And if his rebuilding program continues to improve as much as it did last year, Pampa could be among the top finishers in the district race. When Curfman first came here in 1965, the Harvesters had a miserable 1-9 won-lost record. But they came back last fall to post a 4-5 record, which included conference wins over Lubbock and

Babe Was Once A 'Boy Coach'

Curfman is a highly respected football teacher in Texas coaching circles. He has as good, if not better, a background as most coaches in the state. Babe began his coaching career at Barkdale Field, La., during World War II. Then in 1946 he went to New Mexico A&M where at 29 he was the youngest head college football coach in the nation. In 1948 Babe went to Idaho as an end coach, and worked up to the head coaching job in 1950. For the next four seasons he fought ulcer row as the school's No. 1 coach. Then in 1955 Curfman went to

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe DeMaestri's ninth-inning single, his first hit of the year, climaxed a three-run rally that gave the first place New York Yankees a 7-6 victory over the Detroit Tigers Saturday and ran their winning streak to four games. Detroit went into the bottom of the ninth with a 6-4 lead and manager Jimmy Dykes nominated ex-Dodger Clem Labine to hold it. Labine disposed of the first two batters easily enough, but then was tagged for Bill Skowron's 11th homer of the year. Windsor Is Winner, 3-2

Troy Edwards and Darrel Henson combined efforts and pitched a one-hit game in Windsor's 3-2 decision over Duncan. Edwards pitched three innings and was relieved by Henson. Henson also slammed a home run for the winners. Windsor scored once in the second inning on a single by Lion Ellis. Chuck Cauthorn was safe on an error and Ellis scored on a single to left by H. D. LaRue. Henson led off the Windsor fourth with a home run over the right center field fence. After Duncan second baseman Jackie Strickland made a spectacular catch of a line drive off the bat of Lolan Ellis, Windsor second sacker Chuck Cauthorn reached first on an error, stole second and scored what proved to be the winning run on a single run on a single to right field by LaRue. Duncan scored twice in the last half of the sixth on a double, by Jackie Strickland, an error by Lolan Ellis, a walk and two passed balls. Henson ended the game by striking out pinch-hitter Don Strickland and left fielder Burns, leaving the tying run on third base. In other Little League action, B&B slaughtered Kempa - Humble, 25-4. 3 Texans Make Olympic Squad

SANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Three Texans made the 1960 United States Olympic track and field team in Olympic trials Saturday, but Bobby Morrow, triple gold medal winner of the 1956 games, failed to make the grade. The Olympic Texans are Stone Johnson, 19-year-old Dallas Negro who set a new world record in the 200-meter dash in preliminaries Saturday; Earl Young of Abilene Christian College in the 400 meter dash and Dave Clark of North Texas State in the pole vault. Morrow finished fourth in the 200 meters and will be listed as an alternate on the Olympic team. Morrow, the former San Benito, Tex., High School flash who compiled a brilliant record as a sprinter at Abilene, was disappointed after Saturday's failure. High Individual Games: Peg Kastein, 220; Dale Haynes and Dick Kastein, 212. High Individual Series: Peg Kastein, 625; and Jessie Smartt, 569.

Thomas Tops TL Sluggers

By United Press International. Amarillo's slugging outfielder Leroy Thomas climbed nearer the magic 400 mark this week as he widened his Texas League batting leadership to 46 percentage points. Thomas clouted nine hits in 17 appearances during the week — in games through last Wednesday — to raise his average to .395. He moved well out in front of teammate Joe Miller of Amarillo and league leader Valley's Charles Hiller, both at .349. Amarillo's Joe Arenivar at .346 and Valley's John Orsino, hitting .340. Dangerous Duke Ducote of San Antonio continued his leadership in the home run department with 24 and in runs batted in with 66. Valley's Manuel Jota had knocked across 64 runs, and Harry Watts of Tulsa ranked third with 62 — on a terrific week in which he batted across 12 runs in five games. Watts has 19 home runs, Orsino 15, and Victoria's Jim Fridley and San Antonio's Jesse Rogers have 13 each. Hiller and Arenivar paced the league in hits with 101 each, and Mota has 94. Valley's Ron Herbel continued to set the standard in the pitching department with nine victories and no losses.

Newt Seerest, coach and sometimes relief pitcher of the Roadrunners, will be hoping for an impressive victory at Spearman today. Then another large crowd will virtually be assured when the Roadrunners return home for a July 4 day-night twinbill with their old nemesis, the Liberal, Kan., Blue-jays.

The Pampa club broke its losing ways Friday night when it trounced Elk City, Okla., 16-1, before another large gathering.

At present fans who attend the Roadrunner games have to either sit in their cars or stand behind the backstop. But Seerest has promised that stands, which will accommodate 1,100 people will be here either Tuesday night or Wednesday morning. Righthander James Walker, who was tagged with the loss in the last game with Liberal, will be on the mound today at Spearman. For the July 4 twinbill, Gary Heiskell will get the call in the afternoon contest and Kippy Williams will be on the mound for the nightcap. The second game of the day against Liberal will begin at 8:15 p.m. Prior to that a gigantic fireworks display will be held at the rodeo grounds. There should be sufficient time for fans to view both events. The Roadrunners were never in trouble Friday night when they belted out that 16-1 victory over Elk City. Ivan Wooten pitched a neat three-hitter at Elk City and recorded 14 strike outs while walking only three batters. The lone run off Wooten came in the fourth frame when third baseman Jack Bonny unloaded a solo home run with two out. Bonny and Norris Newberry each collected a single, the only other blows off Wooten. Newberry's hit came in the seventh, while Berry got his in the ninth. Bobby Stephens unloaded a homer for the Roadrunners. His blast came in the sixth inning. Ruben Strickland was the big gun for the Roadrunners. He collected a pair of doubles and two singles in five trips to the plate. Terry Joe Haralson got two hits, a single and a double, while Bobby Seitz, Dave Marlar, Travis Taylor, Stephens, Bobby Nutt, Gary Hill and Wooten got one apiece. The box score:

Quinn Turning Phillies Into Whiz Kids Again

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise

PHILADELPHIA (NEA) — When owner Bob Carpenter hired John Quinn 18 months ago and told him to rebuild the Phillies, he wasn't kidding. Neither was Quinn, the man who built the Braves' empire. Robin Roberts is the only one of the old Philadelphia party left and the 33-year-old right-hander looks a new lease on pitching life with a new deal in Whiz Kids who give the Phillies a future for the first time in more than a decade.

General Manager Quinn came to the banks of the Schuylkill with the minor league touch and the men who scouted for the Braves in Boston and Milwaukee. The quick result in an exciting young club which has rekindled interest. Before even a Philadelphia fan could say scuffle, Quinn had four of the finest young outfielders the foxiest of baseball foragers ever saw. Their names are Ken Walters, Tony Gonzalez, Tony Curry and Johnny Callison.

The first chance he got, which was on the second day of the season, Quinn brought in Gene Mauch, the progressive manager from Atlanta.

"These outfielders and Tony Taylor at second base give me my kind of a ball club," says Mauch, paraphrasing Leo Durocher, then of the New York Giants. "They have arms and legs and, together with Pancho Herrera at first base, know how to handle a bat. You can do more things with players like that."

The last time I looked the Phillies had two hitters in the National League's top ten — Walters and Curry.

Of the four young fliers, only Curry, a line-drive hitting-former cricket player from the Bahamas, came out of the Philadelphia chains. The others were obtained in trades, as was Taylor, who plugged the hole at second base that has been there longer than the oldest inhabitant can remember.

Gonzalez, 23, started off hitting .380 for the Reds and Quinn had to wait until he cooled off before he could talk Gabe Paul into taking the seasoned performer. Wallily Post and Harry Anderson, and Fred Hopke, in exchange for the Cubanola, and Lee Walls.

Walters contends he was kept buried in the Detroit chain. Mauch, who as the Minneapolis manager saw a great deal of the bespectacled Californian with Fort Worth last season, calls him the complete ball-player. If Callison comes back on two young knees, he could be the slickest of the lot.

Pancho Herrera, six-three, 216 and constructed like a heavyweight prize fighter, led the International League in home runs and runs batted-in. He opened the campaign at second base, but switched to first when Ed Bouchee went to the Cubs in the Taylor deal.

The Phils have excellent young pitchers in home-grown Chris Short and Dallas Green and Johnny Bushardt, the latter obtained from the Cubs. They possess two promising catchers, Clay Dalrymple, picked up in the draft, and Jimmie Coker.

The Phillies even have highly regarded kids to trade. First Baseman Fred Hopke, a stickout in the Eastern League last year, went to Cincinnati in the Gonzalez transaction. Every other major league club would like to land Art Mahafey, a right-hand pitcher the Phils are developing in Buffalo.

John Quinn, the old pro in the front office, will show young Bob Carpenter what to do with all that bonus money.

Thomson Inked By Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Bob Thomson, who hit the most dramatic home run in baseball history, was signed today by the Baltimore Orioles as a free agent. Thomson, released by the Boston Red Sox on Monday, is expected to join Baltimore early next week. The Orioles, who are at the 25-player limit, will decide over the weekend which player to release to make room for Thomson.

Thomson will be playing for his fifth major league club. The Red Sox acquired the 28-year-old outfielder from the Chicago Cubs last December in a trade for pitcher Al Schroll. Thomson broke into the majors with the Giants in 1946 and was a hero in the 1951 pennant drive when his home run beat the Dodgers in a playoff series. He was traded to Milwaukee for Johnny Antonelli in 1954.

Yanking A Pitcher Is 'Rough' Says Sox Pilot

By JACK CUDDY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — What's a big league manager's toughest job? Yanking a pitcher at the proper moment, making up the line-up before each game, or puzzling some way to snap a club out of a batting slump?

"They're all rough to do," says White Sox manager Al Lopez, "but by far the most difficult job any manager has is telling one of his players that he has to go back to the minors."

It's amazing how many pilots agree with Lopez. Even such a veteran at managing as Casey Stengel of the Yankees reveals that he too feels the pang every time he is forced to send one of his players down and Paul Richards of the Orioles also confesses, "It's no easy job and I don't care who the manager is."

Chuck Dressen of the Braves, a disciple of the rough-tough old school of baseball, had to do exactly that job Friday when he was obliged to notify first baseman Frank Torre that he was being sent down to Louisville of the American Association.

Picture how Torre felt after being with the Braves for five seasons and having participated in World Series play with them. Naturally the big Brooklyn-born first baseman took it hard. But Dressen had no easy time telling him, either.

Lopez says things have changed a great deal in the matter of sending players down since he was engaged in active competition.

"In my day," declares the White Sox skipper, "when a manager told you, 'you're going to the minors,' there were no 'ifs,' and he told me that Marion considered him one of the best players on the club. What could I do? I merely said that I was still sorry but I was the manager now, not Marion."

"I remember one player here with the White Sox who I had to send back to the minors shortly after I took over the club from Marty Marion. I told this fellow I was sorry but I had to send him back. He sure raised a fuss.

He told me that Marion considered him one of the best players on the club. What could I do? I merely said that I was still sorry but I was the manager now, not Marion."

Williams Due All-Star Bid

TED WILLIAMS

BOSTON (UPI)—Ted Williams, "washed up" a year ago at 40, is a pretty good bet to make the 1960 American League All Star team at the age of 41.

A few weeks ago that statement would have drawn howls of scorn. Ted wasn't even playing. His neck was about normal again but his leg was giving him trouble again. He seemed a poor risk to hit the 300 home run mark he longed so for.

But at the moment the volatile Boston Red Sox outfielder is about the hottest property in the league. He's long since passed the 500 plateau, has his sights set on Mel Ott's 511 mark and could even overtake Jimmy Fox's 534 homers—second behind Babe Ruth's 714. Williams also is batting .323.

Ted, who turns 42 before the season ends, belted 11 home runs last month, a personal mark topped only in June of 1950 when he hit 15 (at the age of 31). He has 505 during his career that began back before World War II started and owns 13 for the current season.

That figure is deceptive. Williams has started only 25 games after appearing as a hobbled pinch hitter in 17 other games earlier in the year.

Survey Begins To Show

Sound Best Lure

By BILL CLAYTON
United Press International

What kind of sounds make a fish think a fishhook is his supper—or his girl friend?

That's a question as old as fishing itself, but when sex enters into it, interest grows for all concerned.

Enough fishermen think sounds attract or repel fish to provide a market for sound lures, but only a few are on the market.

Research is being conducted by the Game and Fish Commission to determine what effects the sounds have or what sounds are best.

University of Texas graduate researcher E. A. Delco Jr., of Houston, thinks female fish have love calls that bring the males a-runnin'. And he says the call also keeps a male fish from making eyes at some female or another species not suited for him. Delco says fish develop a Texas drawl of their own in a way. They have regional accents which differ in various areas among the same species, he maintains. The graduate student carried out experiments with the "red horse" shiners, a species of carp, and found definite reactions to reproductions of the female love call.

John Tilton, aquatic biologist with the State Game and Fish Commission, said a report on sonic research with fish is about to be completed.

"I'm sure probably all fish are alerted to dangers by sound," Tilton said. "The sounds are important in the life of the fish. If you could find the right way to use sound, you might make it pretty productive for fishermen," Tilton added.

Rock 'n Roll Hasn't Slowed Down Yet Because Of Payola Scandals

William B. Williams

By DICK KLEINER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA) — If you've been expecting the payola scandals to mean the end of rock 'n roll, you've been so wrong.

It's been more than six months since the exposures of artificially hyped records came along and the big revolution hasn't happened. Pop music, at least that part of it on single records, is basically the same as it was before payola.

You can prove this to yourself in several ways. Listen to your local radio station. Look at the lists of best-selling single records. The music is virtually the same kind of stuff that was played and listed a year ago when payola flourished like some energetic weed.

There are several reasons for this according to leading music jockeys, radio station music heads and recording officials.

First, payola was over-rated. It existed, all right, but it didn't have a notable effect on pop music. It did not, for example, create rock 'n roll and it seldom, if ever, made a hit record.

"Payola," says Mark Olds, program director of New York's leading music - and - news station, WNEW, "was spent to promote the fair-selling records. Companies never wasted money to promote a poor record, and they didn't have to spend it on the big records."

"But the difference between selling 2,000 records and 20,000 records would often mean the difference between profit and loss to a small recording company. So they would spend a little to buy a few air plays. That meant the record sold 20,000 and they made money."

"That was where the majority of payola came from. And that kind of thing didn't have any noticeable effect on the mainstream of pop music."

That kind of payola has stopped, but since it amounted to little or nothing as far as basic trends of music were concerned, the stopping meant little or nothing.

Another reason why the end of payola has had little effect on pop music is that "hyping" of records is continuing. "Cold," has cash may not be involved any more, but other forms of influence still exist.

"With recordings, as with any other product," says Olds, "the manufacturers try the hard sell. It's just like two car salesmen trying to peddle cars. They both pull out all stops. And record promotion people do the same they'll try to convince you that their records should be played."

Yet, there have been some gradual changes in pop music. But these started long before Congressman Oren Harris and his merry payola investigators took over in Washington. Many leading disc jockeys, such as WNEW's William B. Williams, who operates the Make Believe Ballroom, have long since accented songs from albums, rather than singles. This is to capitalize on the long-lasting trend of record companies to put their highest quality products in albums.

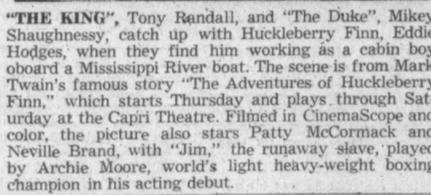

"Nowadays," Williams says, "I'll program somewhere around 75 to 80 per cent of my show from the albums."

To Williams and others who feel as he does, pop music is really two separate fields today. There is the single market, dictated by the tastes of what Williams calls "the lollipop set," kids in their early teens. Then, from around 16 or so up, there are the people who want more music and better lyrics. These people buy albums.

Williams says this growing-up process was brought home to him dramatically when a 16-year-old met him and thanked him for "introducing" him to Frank Sinatra's music.

"It's funny," the youngster said, "but, since I got to be 16, Sinatra seems to be singing better."

A clincher - built boat is one where the edges of the bottom's planks overlap each other.

"THE KING", Tony Randall, and "The Duke", Mikey Shaughnessy, catch up with Huckleberry Finn, Eddie Hodges, when they find him working as a cabin boy aboard a Mississippi River boat. The scene is from Mark Twain's famous story "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," which starts Thursday and plays through Saturday at the Capri Theatre. Filmed in CinemaScope and color, the picture also stars Patty McCormack and Neville Brand, with "Jim," the runaway slave, played by Archie Moore, world's light heavy-weight boxing champion in his acting debut.

'Alley Oop' Holds Top Tune Spot

CHICAGO (UPI) — "Alley Oop," the novelty tune about a prehistoric comic strip character, remained in first place in United Press International's top 30 tunes list Saturday for the second week.

In second was Duane's Eddy's "Because They're Young" and in the third spot was "I'm Sorry" by Brenda Lee. Connie Francis' recording of "Everybody's Fool" held down the fourth spot.

"Mule Skinner Blues" was in fifth and the Safaris recording of "Image of a Girl" found itself in the sixth position.

The Everly Brothers' recording of "Cathy's Clown" was in seventh. Paul Anka's hit "My Home Town" was in eighth and "When Will I Be Loved," by the Everly Brothers was ninth.

In the tenth spot was Roy Orbison's "Only the Lonely."

Retail Group In First Meeting

McLEAN (Sp1) — Mrs. Betty Norwood, secretary-manager of the Retail Merchants Assn. of McLean, announced to the first quarterly membership meeting Wednesday that the charter had been amended a collection department. This department is now ready to serve the membership.

Also, the directors were requested to work with the city council in adopting an ordinance covering itinerant peddlers and to inform the membership that all solicitations would be investigated and the results made available to the members.

Mrs. Norwood also pointed out that the association charter provided for them to assist with civic programs and activities, much as a chamber of commerce would function.

Membership meetings are to be held quarterly to receive a report of progress.

Peg O' Pampa

JUST-THOUGHT WE would begin this Fourth of July weekend column with a note of welcome for the new residents in Pampa that we read about according to the report by new families have moved here the month of June. The one-hundred and forty people, one family from Germany, we don't know who they are, but we're sure they will welcome and will make their mark on our civic life, one way or another!

AND SPEAKING OF THE FOURTH we can just hardly wait for the fireworks and so forth (or so fourth!) planned for presentation at the rodeo arena. Dale Thur is chairman of the ushery committee and Jiggs Cook has the most fun and games as chairman of the fireworks committee. He hopes that none of the things are duds. John Koontz has all the headaches, we bet, as chairman of the parking committee. They can park 15,000 cars, what a mess naturally enough, Floyd Imel and A. A. Schuneman are the finance committee. And don't forget the really important aspect of the celebration, the official adoption of the fifty-star flag and speaking of stars, here's one:

THE WHEAT HARVEST must be over, or nearly so, by now. The children enjoyed being taken out at night to watch the harvesting going on by eerie light of floodlight headlamps. The monstrous machines were something to watch at night let us tell you. And made quite an impression on the kiddoes. Say, are any of you interested in some fancy swimming, do you remember seeing the Aqua-Cade held year-before last at the Tri-State Fair? All that beautiful synchronized swimming? A class of the same sort of thing is going to be organized this summer with Marian George in charge. She points out that you don't have to be a superb swimmer and it is a lot of fun. It will be July 11 to July 22 at the Coronado Inn pool, we understand. Call Marian at 4-8347. She'll be delighted to shell out information.

VISITORS Mrs. E. R. Irwin and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Laslo and Jim are visiting Wayne and Thelma Irwin. Wayne's mother and sister they are from Maryland. We have really shown them some hot weather, haven't we. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Threatt have had Mrs. Bill Jolly and Suzanne, Rebecca, and Jennifer Marguerite visiting. They are from New Mexico. The house has resounded with laughter there. Kay Howell and Marion Osborne are helping direct the Girl Scout day camp activities. Kay is conducting the Shamrock camp, and Marian the Canadian camp. Pampa girls have been going to day camp for a couple of weeks. Have you ever been at the Little House when the bus loads returned from the day's trip. The girls singing camp songs at the tops of their voices. Hot and tired and happy after a day's fun and work. Makes all the effort put out by parents and leaders worth while just to hear them.

PREVIEWERS invited to the first preview movie party at the Copri enjoyed a very fine movie which you should watch for. "The Story of Ruth" saw Frances Ogden and Ronald Hubbard. And Johnnie Donaldson among the many many there. And speaking of the movies, we must congratulate Paul West for booking into Pampa a marvelous short called THE GOLDEN FISH. Those who went to see "THE MOUNTAIN ROAD" were lucky, lucky for "THE GOLDEN FISH" was a prize-winning short feature in color telling without dialogue, but with music and beautiful photography, the story of a small boy and a gold fish and the villain-turned-hero black cat. The glow of joy at seeing this small gem of the film art has lasted and will last with us for some time to come. Paul, let's have more. And thank you for this one.

IT SEEMS that Pampons are becoming more roller-skating conscious of late. This interest is being fostered by Celanese Corporation, who picks up the tab for employees who wish to get some good fun and exercise on Friday nights. And you'd be surprised how this sport is a family one, with the children having fun with their parents. J. T. Crawford and his daughter, Diane, were out at the rink. Ellen has promised to learn to skate by next year. Wilson Puryear came in with the children. Understand Irma was "under the weather" and couldn't come that evening. Saw Arnold Hale watching. He and his wife and the boys skated a lot last year. And the boys were having fun this time. And speaking of skating, two mother-and-daughter combinations fun to see are Jean Dorley and daughter Susan. And Betty Kemp and her daughter, Christy. They are the trimmest and cutest in their skating costumes. Black full skirts, and sweaters. Jean swears by the sport as a good way to keep a trim figure. And the four of them are living proof of some. And Marcella Hudson and Nan, Mark, Lon and Lee occasionally take to the wheels along with everybody else. Yes, sir, you'd be surprised how many adults are invading the realms of the roller skate.

THIS AND THAT Terry Ann Culley was to have had a birthday party at the park last Friday. A cute little eight-year-old. And another cute little girl we know, with a bouncy pony tail hair-do and flashing eyes is Georgia Kreis. Daughter of Les and June Kreis. If you haven't heard Wade and June Gilbert are the parents of a boy. Born last Thursday. We couldn't ascertain the name in time to tell you this time. Have you seen the display of red posies in the parkstrip of Francis and George Cree's house. And the reflecting urns of petunias at the J. A. Thurmond's. And their orange lilies on the north side of the house.

AS GAY AS any New Year's Eve was the gala Fiesta Party given in the Pampa Country Club hosted by the Bob Currys, the Dr. Frank Kelleys and Tom Bralys. Alleith's talented hand could be seen as the creator of the fiesta decoration, but she had the smiling approval and moral support of the other hosts. A thoroughly fiesta atmosphere prevailed from the moment guests stepped through the blue paneled door. (Created no less with apple cartons sprayed blue). Strung on one side with colorful gourds. Into the gaily decorated foyer with red and white awnings marking the entranceway to the lounge and ballroom. Adding the just-right-gay-touch to the evening were the strunged combo, Tony Edmonston. Dale Cox. Charles Fant, who played "south-of-the-border" music for the guests' enjoyment. They wore wide-brimmed somberos, white shirts with black string ties and black cummerbunds. And, oh yes, long side-burns and debonair moustaches (the removable-with-water kind). The affair was attended by approximately 200 guests. Just about everyone who could navigate at all attended. The Howard Threatt's had as their guest, Mrs. Threatt's daughter, Mrs. Bill Jolly of Grants, N.M., who is visiting in the Threatt home with her children, as we mentioned above. Other attractive guests were the Walter Mertens of Clay City, who were with the Skeets Roberts. And Clarice Bonell (Mrs. J. L.) of New Orleans, La., who was visiting with her brother and family, the Damaris Holts. She didn't tell us but we heard that she is an excellent bridge player and several sessions were held while she was here. She's had the pleasure (and the ability, we might add) to play with Jacoby, the Bridge Expert and plans to enter a tournament in Fort Worth in July. For those who tally, she has over 1200 Master Points to her credit. It was a gay, memorable evening to those who enjoy fine fun, fellowship and excellent food. See you at the fireworks tomorrow night and have a safe and sound, pleasant Fourth of July.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Are there no social graces when it comes to paying a condolence call?

Recently we lost a loved one. For weeks our home was filled with people who, I am sure, meant well. But there was conversation of every sort going on, and a kitchen full of laughing women. Do you think this showed the proper respect for the one whose memory we cherished?

MOURNER

DEAR MOURNER: When well-bred friends make a condolence call they simple enter, express their sorrow and then leave. Those who feel that it is their duty to distract or entertain the mourners undoubtedly "mean well," but I don't know better. You might call it ignorance with a halo.

DEAR ABBY: I don't have a problem: I have a complaint: Why is it that when people ask a clergyman to officiate at a wedding, christening or even at a funeral service, they always say, "Please make it short and sweet?"

Most folks are in such a big hurry nowadays they don't even want to take the time required to make a ceremony official. No name please. I have to live in this community.

DISGUSTED

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to know if the nurse or secretary (or whatever those nosy women who work for doctors call themselves) have any business asking questions when someone calls for an appointment.

When I call, she says, "What do you want to see Doctor about?" I tell her it is private and she says, "What seems to be your trouble?" Twice I told her it was none of her business and hung up on her. Now I have to see the doctor. How do I get an appointment without telling that woman everything?

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: In all probability the nurse wants to know the nature of your complaint so she will know how much time to set aside for your appointment.

(A) Tell the nurse (or secretary) that your business with the doctor is personal and you'd rather not disclose it on the telephone. (B) Leave your number and ask the doctor to call you. (C) Write the doctor a personal note.

IMPRESSIVE

Federal 'Aid'

There's something mighty questionable about this so-called federal aid to states. The trend is in the direction of more and more of it and it's high time we took a good close look at the concept. The origin of the federal aid to states for various and sundry reasons actually got started in this country way back in 1834. At that time business was good because the government was small. It had been so good, in fact, that the federal government ended the year with a $28 million surplus and didn't know what to do with the money.

So, in an effort which was as misguided and well-intentioned as anyone could imagine, the Potomac crowd divided up the $28 million with the state governments of the then 24 states. If it had simply declared a moratorium on taxes or had refunded the taxes to the taxpayers, that action might have set a precedent which would have reflected in far greater solvency today.

But, instead, the federal government sent money to the state governments.

Nothing much was heard about the idea of a regular program of "aid" to states until 1862, when the Morrill Act of that year was passed. Morrill was a senator from Pennsylvania whose tariff law inacted previously had closed southern ports and triggered the Civil War. Now, in 1862, his act gave government land to states for the "endowment, support and maintenance" of land grant colleges. This was, at once, the first instance of federal aid to education and federal aid to states.

In 1890 another act inspired by Senator Morrill made it a condition for the receipt of federal funds that certain federal standards would have to exist before the states would get the money. Thus, in a very large way, the draining away of state sovereignty began in 1890, thru the processes of erosion which ensue under what could be termed political bribery.

The Weeks Act of 1911 provided "aid" for protection of "forested watersheds of navigable streams." Then came the Smith-Lever Act of 1914 which inaugurated the long hallowed custom of "matching."

JIBES AT PARTYGOERS
LONDON (UPI)—A Daily Mirror columnist said today there are two types of people at parties—those who want to stay, and those who want to go home. Both types are married.

Birds of A Feather

It's a curious thing. Leaders of thought, politicians, conservatives, liberals, all kinds of people with all kinds of views respecting the role of government in human life, seem to unite on one point. Every man or woman has the RIGHT TO WORK.

What concerns us now is the almost universal acceptance of the fact in many circles, which otherwise are at variance, of the common denominator of the right of each adult to make his own living in the way he chooses.

Nearly everyone outside of organized labor unions is in concurrence. Yes, the labor union movement is so powerful that we have actually passed several major pieces of legislation and hundreds of minor pieces, all of which impair the right of a man to work or not to work when and where he pleases at the highest wages he can privately bargain for himself.

To illustrate the universality of the view of the RIGHT TO WORK, (outside of the labor boss camp) we have a number of telling quotations: "The government of the United States will not order, nor will Congress pass legislation ordering a so-called closed shop. That would be too much like the Hitler methods toward labor."

THE DANGER IS WITHIN

The Soviets have bragged much in recent months that they are progressing faster than we are and in the not too distant future will surpass us. Mr. Khrushchev, on his recent trip to this country, gloatingly predicted that communism would eventually replace capitalism in the world. Many of us seem to be greatly worried that these things may be so.

Any such attitude on our part is both unrealistic and cowardly. For one thing, the standard of living in the Soviet Union is so far below ours that there is hardly any comparison. For another thing, communism or socialism, both hardly distinguishable types of dictatorship, have been tried time and again throughout history and have always failed.

The Soviet leaders talk as if their system were something new, formed in fact it is as old as the hills. It is simply one of the forms of dictating the lives of the people from a central government. Russia can, of course, ignore the welfare of the people and devote its national resources to some spectacular technological achievement, but that is not real progress.

Slavery has never yet achieved more than freedom. It is the history of mankind, and human nature for that matter, that once you stifle individual initiative, incentive and ambition, you stop progress in its tracks.

The only way the Soviets can surpass us is by adopting our free enterprise methods while we abandon them in favor of socialist methods. If the latter should happen, then they will no longer have a communist government, and there should be no cause for worry. It is the latter that is the real danger to this nation, because by now it should be quite clear to anyone that this very thing has been happening and is continuing to happen in this nation. The basic principles of our way of life as founded for us by our forefathers are individual freedom and local self-government. More and more in recent years these principles have been violated. More and more, individuals have come to depend upon their central government to take care of them instead of their own self-reliance. More and more, local governments look to the central government for aid instead of taking care of their own people.

Some illustrations are in order: As late as 25 years ago there was only one federal-aid program of any consequence extended to the states, namely, the highway program costing $250 million per year. Now grants by the federal government to state and local governments total about $5 billion per year under 62 different programs of federal aid.

As late as 1953 the federal budget contained only $6.9 billion to take care of the whole broad program of welfare state projects that have now been assumed by the federal government, while the budget for 1961 provides $20.3 billion for this purpose.

Cities, among other things, are asking for tremendously increased federal appropriations for urban redevelopment, a fancy name for slum clearance. How can any sensible reason be advanced why the people of one that of individual workers in deciding whether a union's services are of value to the worker. The union's demonstrated ability to collect five, ten or more dollars, from every member per week, or it may be a promise to refrain from committing a specific act, like knocking out the member's teeth or throwing acid in his face.

This great unanimity of view is opposed by labor bosses, and at the moment even by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who is certainly not of the mind of her former husband at the time he made the statement quoted above. Recently, Mrs. Roosevelt commented respecting Right to Work laws as follows:

"I am opposed to it because the campaign to enact 'right to work' laws is based on dishonesty and deception. I am opposed because it would upset the present balance between labor and management that has become a basic guarantee of a prosperous national economy."

"It is true that unions have become powerful over the years. But we should not forget that the power of the unions is puny compared to the power that goes with the enormous wealth of Big Business and business had power first."

It is difficult to realize that all of the persons quoted above are citizens of the same nation, and conceivable interested in justice and truth.

To our way of thinking, Mrs. Roosevelt and her labor boss friends are committed to violence, prejudicial action, socialist sharing, non-economic thinking and a world of force in which those who produce shall be plundered so that those who do not produce shall benefit.

Mob Action No Stranger To Unionism In America

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

Complaint and indignation about Japanese mob action, directed by a minority, comes awkwardly from a nation whose very government at all levels from Washington to a thousand country cross-roads patronized and protected the wildest program of mob fury ever indicted in a civilized land. By contrast to the situation in Japan, the American uproars which gave being to the AFL-CIO were subsidized commotions, fomented by the Roosevelt regime for many ulterior purposes but always with a mocking pretense that Roosevelt deplored them. He was, nevertheless, the funder of this hateful repudiation of human rights, the Constitution, and even Indiana law. At whose instigation we do not know for sure but certainly with the whooping approval of the communist enemy, he put over the Wagner Act, whose authors included Lee Pressman, a confessed communist.

Roosevelt loaded the first Labor Relations Board and its staff with implacable bolsheviks and the droll "purpose" of the act, to abate unrest in labor relations, was comparable to Khrushchev's occasional ironic appeals to God to verify his flippancies. There ensued as soon as the act was law the most alarming public tumult that this country has seen except only the brief and local New York civil war draft riots.

They scourged the country from Park Avenue, where the porcine mountebank, Heywood Broun, led a mass of reds from the Waldorf to the Ritz Tower and back in a fake protest against working conditions at the Waldorf, to San Francisco, where Harry Bridges closed and permanently crippled the port and degraded the status of a romantic city. They terrorized Detroit, Flint and other cities in Michigan and Roosevelt's approval was no more plainly expressed than by the spurious honors which he hung on the portraiture of Frank Murphy, to be sure, Murphy, in politics had tossed odd bits of throw-money at Mrs. Roosevelt's alcoholic brother, Hall, but the service for which our leader made him governor-general of the Philippines, attorney general and justice of the supreme court, was his cowering failure to order the national guard to put down John L. Lewis's insurrection.

city should ask the people of all the other cities to help them clean up their slums, something for which the other cities are in no way responsible? That is what asking federal aid for urban redevelopment means.

Or take the farmers, once the most conservative and independent of our citizens. They will receive about $6 billion in federal aid this year. Starting as an emergency war measure, this narcotic subsidy has been handed over since, and as a result the farmers in effect are controlled by and take their orders from the federal government.

And when it comes to individuals, just consider that nearly 40 million individual citizens will receive direct payments from the federal treasury this year, while many others will receive indirect payments.

Many other illustrations could be cited—all of them leading straight down the road to a socialist nation. Thus by placing all our reliance upon the central government do we destroy our constitutional republican form of government and throw our freedoms away, because it must be remembered that a centralized government is always a totalitarian government of some sort—whether socialist or communist or dictator.

The danger to our nation and to our way of life very clearly lies within.

The CIO then was called the Committee for Industrial Organization and it was as red as a slit throat although Lewis was not a member of the Communist Party. It spread terror down Ohio and Pennsylvania, and even Indiana, buffeted by the first wave of her industrial development, felt the pain of assault and heard the crash of glass. In Flint, Mich., the national guard stood futile and pathetic, forbidden to move against a violent insurrection whose leaders afterward admitted that they would have quit and run if Murphy had taken the hobbles off the soldiers. Lewis raged at and even Indiana governor's office and the coward defaulted his sworn duty to put down revolution. By this criminal failure he established the United Auto Workers, whose present dictator, Walter Reuther, has his arm over the shoulder of the leading candidate for the next Democratic nomination.

All this was organized, systematic, fomented by a minority, holds that communists or ordinary predators of the typical American trade-union were guilty in any given case. There was no popular outcry for collective bargaining and the main purpose of the Roosevelt machine was to loot the wages of millions of workers for political funds. That is still the most appetizing consideration in both parties.

In Japan the government and the communist mob were mutually hostile. In our country, the government from top to bottom, with few exceptions, was accomplice and protector of mobs and communists.

By intimidation of the press, Americans have been persuaded that picket mobs are good mobs even though they kill, maim and blast—by contrast with a toothsome husband-and-brother who destroy a degenerate who has ravished a virtuous woman caught alone on a country road.

CONSTITUTIONAL ACTION
"My generation is squandering its legacy. We were bequeathed, by our political forefathers, an unearned heritage—the greatest citadel of freedom and opportunity the world has ever seen. We have failed to strengthen that heritage, or even to preserve it."

These searching, searing words are from a recent speech by Admiral Ben Moreell, head of Americans for Constitutional Action. He goes on to say:

"We have permitted its structure to be eroded and its foundations weakened to the point where we are in grave danger of losing the entire edifice. Our retreat along the road back to serfdom has accelerated to a point where those noble words 'The land of the free and the home of the brave' were drained of meaning."

He quotes Edith Hamilton, famous authority on ancient Greece and Rome: "We are giving up the study of how the Greek and Roman... triumph ended... In the end, more than they wanted freedom, they wanted security, a comfortable life, and they lost all—security and comfort and freedom."

There is more—enough to stir a sleeping, drifting people. For the full text of Moreell's speech, write Americans for Constitutional Action, 20 E. Street N.W., Washington, D. C. Next week—the last of our "Pauses" until September—we shall suggest also some Christian action.

Looking Sideways

by WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK—There doesn't seem to be much point in using his name. It's enough to say that he is New Yorker of some economic substance and has had four marriages. He is, also, now 54 years old. We were idling things away in a gentlemen's club the other dusk and I asked him how it was that he had required four marriages to achieve happiness.

"It is, I think, because I am so pure," he said, simply and without jest or affectation. "I could no more live an irregular arrangement—then, well, jump-over Niagara Falls in a bikini. I was brought up by a man who went to work when he was 13 years old for 30 cents a week. He married when he was 21 years old earning three dollars a week. He never bemoaned his lot or had other than respect for women. My mother, his first and only wife, he adored. He was nearly 60 years old and she 57 before he was able to give her anything she wanted. He tried bringing home jewels and she sent them back. He tried furs and even an imported car and she scoffed at him. They had a remarkable relationship, the main ingredient of which was honesty. Between them under any circumstance: honesty. When I was old enough to learn anything—he began the task of teaching me this concept. A favored quote of his came out of some magazine printed about the time of the Civil War. It said: 'He that marries for beauty is like a buyer of cheap furniture: the varnish that caught the eye will not endure the fire-side blaze.' The answer to me, I know certainly is that I didn't listen."

"You went for the varnish?"
"Yes. There is no law that says a beauty must be imperfect as a person. But mostly it seems to work that way. I married a beauty and the varnish did not endure the fire-side blaze. She was so busy being beautiful she had no time to be a woman. This is the only one I truly blame. The next two I contributed to when wreckage time came. Dismayed at my first marriage, I met and fell in love with a girl of society. Neither a beauty nor vastly wealthy. Comfortably fixed, let's say, although I'm a worn and sinewy old brute. I may be a more unpleasant thing, but I am not a liar. I told my wife about my love for this girl and the roof fell in. My wife did not actually love me any longer, but wanted everything I had and, in court, got it. Most of it I went to my second marriage almost broke but able and willing to earn my way up again. I never got the chance. I had committed the unpardonable: marrying for money. In a sense, perhaps. Not consciously. But that ended that. I shan't describe the third one. It was a psychological thing with me. By then I had to prove I was suitable as a husband. Two divorces had damaged my self-confidence. Never marry, never, because you feel there is a necessity to prove you are all right and a victim of misfortune."

"I know about your third."
"Well, then, the next divorce. By then I was a mess, to myself. That picket mobs are good mobs is ridiculous. You are ridiculous. I took ladies to dinner or theater, sometimes to the races or golf. I did not once make a romantic gesture or feel the slightest flutter. I was free, happy and no longer chasing. I must say that at times certain suggestions were made and I knew what they meant and I didn't follow through. I was still addicted to the concept that marriage is the proper estate even though I seemed a poor candidate for it. Traveling in Mexico—your old ground, by the way—I met a teacher. A good teacher, who respected her profession. She was neither lovely nor plain, stupid nor brilliant. She was, I suppose, average. There was no coquetry in her. We danced, attended fiestas, did the tourist bit, behaved toward each other with circumspection at all times. When we parted in the fall, we said goodbye without musical comedy heartbreak. We passed perhaps three letters in a year. At Christmas, Easter, that kind of thing. But she persisted in my memory. I went to see her in her town. In time, as you know, we married. We are both mature people, sensible but not glamorous people. Our marriage is sane and balanced. I like it. I pray it will endure."

"I wish, somehow, I could persuade young people, who seem to be marrying with such haste these days, that ancient ground rules still operate and that marriage is a deadly serious consideration. I wish, too, I had listened more earnestly to my father. He tried his best to make it good for me and I tried my best to make it good for him. It has taken me half a century and certainly two-thirds of my life to make sense."

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—A highly favorable technical indication was provided last week when, for the first time this year, odd-lot sales exceeded odd-lot purchases. The records tell us that the odd-lot public has been notoriously wrong in predicting the course of the market. Usually, the shift toward odd-lot selling has preceded a boom in prices. In 1958, for example, one of the most dramatic advances in stock market history followed just such a situation.

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. thinks that Standard Oil (N.J.) may be one of the more interesting oils because of the large discoveries the company has made in Libya. These discoveries are not "small," he says, even in relation to Jersey's huge size.

Walston & Co. notes that the doubling by Union Oil of Calif. of its quarterly dividend to 50 cents was good news for Phillips Petroleum which recently bought over 1 million shares of Union Oil.

Goodbody & Co. recommends an "off-beat switch" out of Alcoa and into American Metal Climax. The investor would thereby obtain about four times as much earnings, if allowance is made that one share of Alcoa equals only slightly less than four shares of American Metal Climax plus a considerably higher dividend outlay. There is an important element of dependable growth in Climax, Goodbody says.

ANNOUNCE NEW VACCINE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Veterinarians will receive in a few days an anti-distemper vaccine for dogs which is produced by the same basic method used in making Salk polio vaccine, Pitman-Moore Co. announced today.
