Politics Charge Denied By Ike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower said emphatically today that Congress cannot take the political picture that politicking is more important than the national interest.

In other news conference comments, the President said: "He has not frozen $621 million in defense funds as charged by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson. Congress cut (See DENIED, Page 2)

Ex-President Remembers Bigotry In 1928 Election

By H. D. QUIGG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Herbert Hoover took the occasion of his 86th birthday anniversary today to voice his disgust at religious bigotry and state it would be "a dreadful idea" to inject in the presidential campaign.

Hoover in 1928 defeated the first Roman Catholic ever to run for the United States presidency, the Democratic candidate, Alfred E. Smith.

This year's Democratic candidate, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, is the second Catholic in history to seek the candidacy. His Republican opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, is, like Hoover, a member of the Society of Friends (Quaker) Church.

In a news conference held Tuesday with reporters who requested a birthday interview, Hoover was reminded of the religious sentiment against Smith in that election and asked how he felt about the issue being raised again in the present campaign.

There was fire in his voice when he replied: "I think it's just a dreadful idea. In the 1928 campaign I must have denounced it half a dozen times."

He added, however, that the 1928 campaign differed from the present one in that "in the Southern states then prohibition was an issue and also they tended to identify Smith with Tammany Hall." Smith was an anti-prohibitionist

5 U.N. Soldiers Reported Killed In Congo Battles

Lumumba Position On Belgium Changes

By GEORGE SIBERA
United Press International

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Five Tunisian soldiers of the United Nations contingent were killed in skirmishes with tribesmen in the Lulubourg area of the Kasai province three days ago, U.N. sources said today.

Headquarters of the Tunisian military force here refused to comment on the report. If confirmed, these would be the first U.N. casualties in the Congo.

The Lulua and Baluba tribes are at war in the area where the Tunisian troops have been sent, and more than 300 tribesmen have been killed there in the past week.

The report of the deaths came as Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba announced he would consider resuming immediate normal diplomatic relations with Belgium as soon as all Belgian troops are withdrawn from the Congo.

The 34-year-old African politician served notice in a radio speech Tuesday night that he intended to defy threats of armed resistance by Moïse Tshombe, president of the "seceded" province.

"The Congolese government and I are going to enter the Katanga immediately," Lumumba said.

This appeared to mean he planned to go with U.N. forces. There was no announcement on when the international troops will enter Katanga, Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld is expected back in the Congo Thursday and it was anticipated he would try to start the operation at least by the weekend.

The U.N. Security Council resolution passed Tuesday in New York called on Belgium to get its troops out of Katanga "immediately" under arrangements to be made with the secretary general. Hammarskjöld started working on these arrangements at U.N. headquarters Tuesday.

Tshombe softened his position somewhat Tuesday by declaring he was willing to have the United Nations enter his province so long as it did not interfere with his own police, made no move to enforce a certain political status on Katanga and did not provide (See SOLDIERS, Page 2)

Thailand Counters Uprising

By PRASONG WRITAYIA
United Press International

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)—Royalist troops were reported marching on the administrative capital of Vientiane in Laos today to put down a leftist pocket revolt against the pro-Western government.

The counter-attack was being mobilized from Luang Prabang, official residence of King Savang Vatthana, about 140 miles to the north of Vientiane, the reports said.

Prime Minister Tiao Somsanth was believed to be in Luang Prabang helping direct the operation, although most members of his cabinet fell into the hands of the rebels and now are under arrest.

Thus, with the chief of government still at large and the King apparently against them, it was doubtful the rebels had gained effective political control, as claimed in their first communique Tuesday.

Leader of the revolt was identified as a Capt. Vong Le or Kong Lae, commander of a paratroop battalion. One of his avowed aims was to oust American military advisory personnel from the Southeast Asian kingdom.

TYPICAL WARRIOR — This is a typical Baluba warrior of the Kabondo district in the Congo's secessionist Katanga Province. The UN Security Council has voted to send United Nations troops into Katanga and called upon Belgium to withdraw its troops.

Full Russ Play Given Powers 'Confession'

By ROBERT J. KORENGOLD
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet newspapers and radio gave full publicity treatment today to American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers' published confession of espionage.

Legal experts pointed out that Powers' plea of guilty "to the substance of the charge" of espionage — as contained in a 4,000-word indictment released Tuesday — was not binding unless he reaffirms it at his trial starting Aug. 17.

But the Russian public appeared convinced he would be unable to refute the charges against him and could only rely on the mercy of the court to escape a death sentence.

The American, shot down more than 1,000 miles inside Soviet territory last May 1, will turn 31 the day of his first appearance before the Military Collegium of the Soviet Supreme Court.

The contents of the indictment against him were broadcast by Radio Moscow and featured prominently in all newspapers across the country.

This was in line with an intense campaign which has been going on for the past several weeks to drum up a suitable pre-trial atmosphere. The public not only has been informed of every detail of the Powers case but also was being warned to stay on guard against a massive Western spy operation against their government.

Owners Of Rabid Animal Located

AUSTIN (UPI) — An Air Force family that was the object of fears that they had been exposed to rabies was scheduled to begin rabies shots today at Bergstrom Air Force Base.

Capt. E. W. Stullenberger, his wife and three children left their post in Morocco for America July 26. Their dog was found to have rabies, and a search was started for them.

Tuesday, they were located in Waco en route to Stullenberger's parents' home in Taylor. He said he did not think any of the family was bitten by the dog, but the children had played with the dog's litter of pups as early as July 20.

The airman decided he would have the family take rabies shots at Bergstrom.

Belgium Irked By West Action

By WILLIAM ANDERSON
United Press International

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI)—An angry Belgian government started reviewing its ties with the Western alliance today in view of a U.N. Security Council vote ordering Belgian troops to get out of the Congo's Katanga Province "immediately."

Government officials were upset at the fact that only Italy and France of the four NATO members on the council abstained from the vote in New York Tuesday.

The United States and Britain voted for the resolution along with Russia, Poland, Tunisia, Ceylon, Ecuador, Argentina and Nationalist China.

Belgian officials felt that this country deserved more support for its action in sending troops into the Congo to save its nationals from mutineering Congolese soldiers last month.

They said Belgium had demonstrated its good faith by withdrawing from five of the six Congo provinces—where U.N. forces had taken over—and had promised to get out of Katanga as soon as the U.N. troops went there.

Premier Gaston Eyskens made it clear to a news conference Tuesday there would be some revision in Belgium's attitude toward NATO.

He said the Kamina base in the Congo had been expanded at a cost of $70 million "within the framework of what we thought was an effort to defend the West."

"I am surprised to see that certain international organizations are not preoccupied with military investment which they continued to demand," Eyskens said.

"The problem of these relations now comes up notably with NATO. I don't mean Belgium is going to leave the organization but I do see that generous gestures do not pay. We are a small but sovereign country and we will take the necessary measures in this field."

He did not specify what measures he had in mind but it was reliably learned that Belgium already has canceled an order for 100 Starfighters which NATO asked the Belgian air force to buy for next year.

'Very Good' Attendance At Revival

Third Day Of 7-Day Event

Attendance at the Pampa Revival, which began Monday, has been "very good," said Melvin Munn, adult advisor for the youth-sponsored project. About 350 were present Monday night with about 450 Tuesday.

"The majority of those attending have been youth," said Munn. "We would like to stress that although the young people of 13 participating churches are sponsoring the revival, all age groups are urged to attend."

Meetings will be held at 8 p.m. in the First Methodist Church through Saturday with the final rally scheduled for Sunday in Harvest Stadium.

The Rev. Lewis N. Stuckey Jr., pastor of the Methodist Church of St. Jo, Tex., is evangelist. Jim Bateman, Presbyterian ministerial student of Plainview, is directing music. Accompanists are Nanette Flynt, organist, and Marilyn Smith and Jerry Baxter, pianists. Munn also mentioned that (See ATTENDANCE, Page 2)

Texas Cool Front Brings On Rainfall

By United Press International

Thunderstorms and thundershowers boomed across areas of Texas today, dumping deluges of rain and kicking up winds.

A weak cool front reaching as far south as the Dallas-Fort Worth area touched off the thundershowers in northern portions of the state.

The front brought an end to boiling temperatures for half of the state.

Meanwhile, scattered thundershowers continued to pelt the lower half of the state, especially along the coast.

Police at Mesquite, near Dallas, estimated 2 or 3 inches of rain had fallen there by dawn today. The Dallas-Fort Worth area seemed to be in the center of the storm activity. Unofficial rainfall reports from Seagoville totaled more than two inches.

Early today, the cool front extended from the northeast corner of Texas, south of the Dallas-Fort Worth area and south of Abilene and Midland. The U.S. Weather Bureau said it would remain stationary.

State forecasts called for scattered rainfall through tomorrow for the entire state. Temperatures were expected to be cooler for all but extreme southern points.

Five-day forecasts called for temperatures near normal in extreme South Texas but 2 to 4 degrees below normal elsewhere in

Almost An Inch

A slow, localized rain, which began falling at 6 a.m. had dumped .72 inches of rain in the Daily News' rain gauge at noon today.

Reports filtering into the Gray County Sheriff's office and Highway Patrol office today placed the rain activity in an area just east of Borger and west of Miami.

A violent thunder storm was reported at Borger about 4 a.m. today, knocking the police department radio off the air for nearly an hour and a half.

East and Central Texas. Moderate to heavy rain was forecast for the five-day period.

The long-range forecasts called for temperatures 2 to 4 degrees below normal in the Panhandle (See RELIEF, Page 2)

Russians Expel U.S. Air Attache Charged With Taking Pictures

MOSCOW (UPI)—The U.S. air attache to Russia has been asked to leave the country, the official Tass news agency said today.

Tass identified the attache as M. Kerton.

It alleged he recently was "apprehended while photographing military objects during his trip to Kurgan."

Tass said Kerton was "apprehended" with his assistant, I. T. McDonald.

"Competent Soviet organizations have established that Kerton had been engaged in activities which are incompatible with the status of a member of the diplomatic staff," Tass said.

"McDonald has been warned by the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Foreign Affairs."

"Recently, Kerton with his assistant I. T. McDonald traveled by train to Kurgan," Tass said. "Kerton and McDonald were detained while photographing military objectives."

"A photofilm with pictures of aircraft and military-industrial objectives and several notebooks with intelligence data were confiscated from them."

Capital Shift By Alaskans Appears Out

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — With well over half the votes counted in the Alaska primary election, residents of the 49th state appeared to have voted in favor of retaining the state capital in the colorful gold mining town of Juneau.

United Press International tabulations complete from 40 key areas revealed that Alaskans voted down an initiative to move the capital by more than 4,000 votes. Partial results from Point Barrow to Ketchikan showed 14,341 votes against moving as opposed to 9,981 in favor.

The initiative on the ballot in Alaska's first election since statehood, would have moved the capital from where it has been located for the past 54 years, to some 570 miles northwest in the vicinity of Anchorage.

Shutdown Of Catholic Churches In Cuba Threatened By Bishop

By MATTHEW T. KENNY
United Press International

HAVANA (UPI) — President Osvaldo Dorticos charged early today some Cubans inspired by "base, egoistic sentiments" are using the church as a sounding board for attacks on Premier Fidel Castro's government.

Dorticos' charge appeared to refer to Sunday's Roman Catholic denunciation of the spread of Communism in Cuba and to Tuesday's reported warning that Catholic churches throughout the island will close down unless the Castro regime guarantees freedom of worship.

Havana's Archbishop Coadjutor Evelio Diaz, the second-ranking Catholic prelate in Cuba, requested an interview with Dorticos today, presumably to repeat the warning of a possible church shutdown which Catholic sources say he delivered to the president's secretary Tuesday.

Dorticos refused to see the archbishop Tuesday, and there was no assurance that his request for a talk today would be granted.

In a pre-dawn speech to unionized shopworkers, Dorticos also—Revived the charge that all religious creeds without exception will be respected," he said. "It will not alter this despite provocations."

"It doesn't matter" that some want to convert the practice of one faith into a platform (for attacks) against the revolution and against the fatherland."

U.S. Champs At The Bit To Resume Tests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower hinted today the United States may be reaching the end of its patience in refraining from nuclear tests.

But Eisenhower said this country under no circumstances would conduct nuclear tests in the atmosphere which might cause people of the world to fear for their lives.

The President told his news conference that when disarmament and nuclear test ban negotiations with Russia reach a point, where no progress seems possible, this country will have to take care of itself.

He said the negotiations are already very discouraging. The Soviet Union and four satellites walked out of the 10-nation disarmament talks in Geneva June 27. Separate talks between the United States, Britain and Russia on a nuclear test ban have been limping along in Geneva for a year and half.

The President said in effect he thinks Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is making a propaganda bluff in offering personally to attend U.N. General Assembly talks on disarmament Sept. 15 in New York.

Eisenhower said he thought the possibility of Khrushchev actually showing up is remote. He said he hasn't given much consideration to whether he would attend the U.N. meeting himself or invite the Soviet leader to Washington.

He said he would meet with Khrushchev if this seemed useful—but he hasn't given it much thought.

Byrd Being Pressed To Support Kennedy

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) was reported under heavy pressure today to make a public declaration in support of the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

He has refused to yield so far, although most of the other top drawer Democratic leaders in Virginia have endorsed the national ticket headed by Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Before the Democratic National Convention last month, Byrd had endorsed Kennedy's running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, for the presidential nomination. Byrd was vacationing in Switzerland at the time of the nomination.

When he returned to Washington Monday, Byrd said only that he had "no comment at this time on the coming election."

As the chief spokesman for the conservative wing of his party, Byrd has told friends that he is dissatisfied with nearly all of the ultra-liberal platform adopted by the Democratic convention. He also found no comfort in the Republican platform.

Along with the Southern Democrats' distaste for the civil rights plank in both platforms, Byrd was reported to regard the Democratic labor plank as offensive. It contains a declaration against state right-to-work laws and against the Taft-Hartley provision permitting those laws. Virginia is one of the states with a right-to-work law.

Other pre-convention Johnson partisans have pressed Byrd to make a public endorsement of the Kennedy-Johnson ticket. And one of his callers Tuesday was William Battle, Kennedy campaign manager in Virginia and son of former Gov. John S. Battle.

Pressure on Byrd no doubt reflects memories of what happened in Virginia in 1952 and 1956, when President Eisenhower carried the normally Democratic state with an assist from Byrd.

The Virginia senator did not endorse Eisenhower but said in an October, 1952, speech that he could not support the Democratic ticket headed by Adlai E. Stevenson. In 1956 with Stevenson again the presidential nominee, Byrd said "only that his position was unchanged."

During the business meeting, Bill McKeown, chairman of the club's Go Kart project, said a race has been set for Sept. 11 at a site yet to be decided. Entry fee is $1.50.

Two officers were elected to the board of directors: Al Wagner and H. J. Johnson.

An inter-club delegation from the Pampa Downtown Kiwanis Club and three other members of the Downtown Amarillo Kiwanis Club, Zed Dotier, Fred Gray and Jack Vick, were guests at the meeting.

Even With Rhee Forced Out South Korea Is Still Unstable

SEOUL (UPI)—If South Korea's National Assembly elections proved anything it was that political stability still is a long way off in the young anti-Communist republic.

The violence that accompanied the elections showed that the rule of law—which broke down during the "revolution"—that ousted strongman Syngman Rhee from power three months ago—still has not been reestablished firmly.

Too many people in South Korea still have the idea that they can accomplish their aims by demonstrations. This idea prevails because of the success of the demonstrations against the corrupt Rhee regime.

The police still are demoralized as a result of the public uprisings and show little ability to handle determined demonstrators. Officials are reluctant to use army troops again to maintain order except in isolated cases and only if absolutely necessary.

Beyond this is the fact that the military itself is in a state of disorder, as a result of "mutinies" by junior officers against superiors whom the young officers claim were involved in the Rhee corruption.

Some of the cream of the army brass has been pushed aside and more will follow. Army unrest is likely to continue for some time.

To add to the confusion caused by the election violence, police authorities raised the possibility—just as the Rhee regime did at the outset of the "revolution"—that the demonstrations were Communist-inspired.

If this was not true before—and most agree that it was not—then it's unlikely to be true in the latest incidents. While there may have been some Red agitators there are few persons on the scene in Korea who really believe any major demonstrations have been instigated by Communists.

Just as disturbing as the continuing violence is the bitter fighting within the nation's only real political party. The fight is for the spoils of the Rhee regime. A showdown battle now is being waged between the two factions in the party and there is a very strong possibility that it may result in a split.

Leading the fight are the two major candidates for the premiership in the new government to be formed this month. Former Vice President John M. Chang and his "new faction of the party holds a slight edge over the "old guard" faction headed by Yoon Bo Sun.

There are many people who think that a real party split might be the healthiest development for Korean parliamentary democracy, there is no other significant party around after the collapse of Rhee's once powerful Liberal Party.

How About That, Uncle Sam?

Bermuda Achieves Rarity: No Debts And Balanced Budget

By HENRY J. BECHTOLD
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—A balanced budget, no national debt, and a huge dollar reserve.

This may be the goal of all nations, but Bermuda already has reached it.

And reach it, it has despite the absence of the normal tax levies found in most countries. This tiny island with a permanent population of only 45,000 showed an overall profit of $129,372,471 from the end of World War II until June 30, 1959.

Tourism, of course, is Bermuda's bread and butter business, accounting for 70 per cent of its national income. However, there is a healthy trend there toward a more diversified economy with the island's tax benefits the big drawing card.

Bermuda does not have any income tax, business tax, capital gains tax, sales tax, excess profits tax, dividend or estate tax. And this tax immunity is available to all—Bermudians and non-residents.

This is quite an attraction to residents.

This is quite an attraction to the U. S. companies seeking new methods and techniques to maintain and develop international business to meet the serious competition of the common market and other regional trading areas being formed in Europe and South America.

Prentice-Hall, Inc. noted in a recent tax ideas report that American firms now are finding Bermuda a most favorable overall base for foreign operations and private investment.

Until recently, it said, many Americans by-passed Bermuda as a base because the island does not advertise its tax freedom and hence it was erroneously assumed that Americans and American business were not wanted. They also were under the impression that exchange control and currency restrictions might prevent or hamper base or investment operations.

They now have discovered, however, that Bermuda welcomes corporations and persons of standing and integrity; several of its laws are particularly patterned for base operations and foreign trusts; and liberalization of exchange control and currency restrictions now insure that Americans and American firms may freely use their dollars, as an external company or account.

Another attraction for American export manufacturing and trans-businessmen is Bermuda's freeport manufacturing and trans-shipment area.

While most of Bermuda's newly registered firms are administrative and financial in character, the island's four-year old freeport industrial area, where, by law, the government guarantees a tax-free operation for a 30-year period, is attracting more and more light manufacturing, packaging and distributing operations.

Bermuda's economic firmness also is strongly propped by increased U. S. military spending. Income to Bermuda from U. S. armed forces and their families, stationed on the island, together with dollars being spent locally for increased construction of facilities, topped $12 million in 1959.

The government of Bermuda is supported primarily by import duties, and to a lesser degree by departmental receipts such as vehicle licenses, postage stamps, stamp duties, air terminal fees, pilotages, etc.

Dear Abby...
Grandparents Are A Family's Blessing
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The woman who called herself "IMPOSED UPON" every right to complain because her parents and her husband's parents pestered them with surprise visits with the excuse they are dying to see the grandchildren.

You were wrong to have told her husband that they were slipping, Abby. That gal is slyer than you are. We informed her sets of parents that we wouldn't drop in on them and we didn't want them dropping in on us. It worked fine.

NOT IMPOSED UPON

DEAR ABBY: This is for "IMPOSED UPON": You should have raised in the orphanage I was in and I should have had my own parents. They could visit me often as they wished and would welcome to stay as long as they cared to. My children have their own loving grandparents and I never will because my husband's parents are both deceased. I have never known mine. I am sending Abby my name and dress with permission to invite my parents and in-laws to come to visit me.

MOTHER OF THREE

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and quite mature for my age. My little sister is 12 and she is even more mature than I am. We are both considered cute by the boys.

On Saturday afternoon we go to the movies. Last Saturday some boys sat behind us and started fooling around. One boy asked my sister to come back and sit with him, so she did. Abby, she made out with him and didn't even know his name. She was a disgrace; She is always giving boys she never saw before her telephone number, too.

I have tried to tell her it was wrong, but she won't listen to me. I hate to be a tattletale, but don't you think my mother ought to hear about this?

BIG SISTER

DEAR BIG SISTER: Your sister needs to have many things explained to her, and your mother should do it. You will do your sister (and mother) a tremendous favor by telling your mother. If your tell her immediately, there is still time to head off serious trouble which usually starts this way.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BETTY:

The only woman who looks good carrying a torch is the Statue of Liberty. Date others and forget him.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers ALL letters.

Timely Beauty Tips

To get the most out of your skin lotion, freshener and astringent on hot summer days, keep them in the refrigerator. They'll be pleasantly cooling when you are ready to use them.

Learn to sit down gracefully. It can be one of the most attractive motions or one of the most awkward. One way to give the impression that you're a lot older and stiffer than you actually are, is to sink heavily into a chair instead of lowering yourself gracefully to the seat.

If you've had an especially fatiguing day, try running your bath water hotter than you usually do. Take a glass of water before getting into the tub to encourage perspiration. Stay in the bath for about 15 minutes, then scrub with soap and finish with a cool shower. You'll feel completely relaxed.

One way to be certain your comb and brush are really clean is to wash them thoroughly in a solution of one quart of water, and two tablespoons of baking soda.

When wearing stark white, the utmost care should be taken in applying make-up for white points up the smallest of application flaws. Avoid using vivid shades of make-up. Pastels will impart to your features a subtle softness against the bright white of your costume.

To minimize freckles for evening dates, try veiling them with cake make-up in a shade darker than your natural skin tone. Emphasize your eyes with shadow, eye liner and mascara and use a bright shade of lipstick. Highlighting your eyes and mouth will detract attention from your freckles.

Summertime is the ideal time to diet. Appetites are usually at low ebb and this makes the shedding of five pounds far easier. But it doesn't mean that you can subsist on salads and iced drinks and feel well or vigorous. You need a carefully-planned protein diet, just as you do in the winter months. This young housewife (left) supplements her low-calorie diet with an envelope of unflavored gelatine taken in a glass of orange juice. The gelatine adds protein to her diet. On a hot summer night, she serves a chicken-and-celery loaf molded in gelatine (center), tomato juice and a crisp, green salad. This is a high-protein, low-calorie dinner and a delicious one, too. She is careful to do her stretching exercises (right) regularly while she is dieting. These tone up muscles and keep her feeling vibrantly alive.

Summertime Is Ideal For Reducing Diet But Select Food With High Protein

By GAILE DUGAS
Newspaper Enterprise Women's Editor

Whether you are young or mature, excess weight presents a real problem.

The overweight teen-ager of ten suffers a lack of popularity while her slimmer sisters enjoy the social whirl—that's part of growing up.

The older woman who carries around too many pounds courts ill health. She must also resort to wearing clothes that are too large to look smart.

The time to start reducing is the day you realize you've gained five pounds. It's easy to diet for the length of time it takes to lose that much. Additional pounds lengthen the reducing time so that many dieters become discouraged and give up.

The first step in reducing is, of course, to cut down on food intake. But it must be done wisely so that the important daily nutrients needed by the body (proteins, vitamins and minerals) are provided.

One food that can play an important role in any diet is unflavored gelatin. Not only does it supply the extra energy needed when your caloric intake is smaller, but it is also an all-protein food. Three envelopes of this gelatin, taken daily in fruit juice, water, skim milk or bouillon will supplement the protein needs of the day without adding fat to the dietary intake.

Delicious and attractive low-caloried main dishes can be made, too, with unflavored gelatin, such as jellied meat loaf, molded salads and seafood molds. It's not difficult to stay on a diet if the foods you can eat are pretty and appetizing.

You get an extra beauty bonus, too, for gelatin helps considerably to improve the condition of your nails and hair.

Regular exercise should be an integral part of your reducing program. It will help you to lose the required amount of weight in the spots where you need it most while it tones your muscles and makes you feel alert and vibrant.

Don't adopt a defeatist attitude if you've gained weight. Dieting need not be a dreadful chore. Have tasty and satisfying meals. Add a few mild daily exercises, and you'll whittle down your figure before you know it—with no discomfort at all.

Attention teeners: Leave those exotic perfumes to mature women. Stick to the florals.

USE OUR EASY CAR FINANCING PLAN

There are too many people piloting mortgaged cars over bond-financed highways with gas obtained on credit cards.

Manners Makes Friends

If you are a poor golfer, for example, don't ask an expert to play. Try to find someone who plays about the same game.

If you want to have wall-to-wall carpeting in your bathroom, try cutting it in washer-sized pieces and taping it together on the backing. This will make cleaning much easier.

Those gals who take a late summer vacation have the best of it in many ways. They return to office or home with the welcome prospect of autumn just ahead. And thus the rest which vacation provides isn't promptly dissipated in heat and humidity.

By late summer, the sea which was icy in June has warmed to the point where it's like the water in your own bathtub. Swimming is pleasant and so is sunning.

When you go swimming, wear your usual make-up, blotting lipstick carefully with a cleansing tissue in order to set it. Have a pretty (and efficient) swim cap so that your hair retains its curl. You should look just as pretty after a swim as you did before you went in.

A great aid to any gal at the beach is the new waterproof liquid eyeliner which won't smear and won't smudge. It comes in eight beautiful colors. Do be bold; try the emerald royal, turquoise or violet. Match it or contrast it with your mascara.

This liquid eyeliner comes in a tapered bottle and should be applied with the red sable brush which was made for it. You'll soon get the knack; it isn't difficult. Apply it to a dry upper lid and close to the lashes.

Duke Garren Did It Again

A few gray hairs were added to the head of Harvester football coach Babe Curfman yesterday afternoon.

Curfman attempted to call his prize linebacker, Duke Garren, only to learn he was in the hospital.

A frantic call to the hospital, however, revealed that Duke had already been dismissed and was at home.

It seems that Garren had slipped on his wet front porch during the rain night before last, and hurt his head.

The injury wasn't serious, but the course of events this summer have been enough to be a big worry for Babe.

Garren has injured a knee, fallen off a horse and now injured his head.

"What's Duke trying to do?" Babe asked, "kill himself?"

Curfman and part of his coaching staff met at the high school yesterday to start getting ready for fall practice which begins at the end of this month.

And, Curfman said, if there are any new families in town with prospective high school football players, he'd be glad to receive a phone call from them. The number is MO 4-2766.

Ramsey Back With Harvesters

Eural Ramsey, backfield coach for the Harvesters in the 1957 and 1958 campaigns, will be back on the Pampa High School coaching staff this fall.

Ramsey took over the head coaching job at Shamrock last season, but decided to return to the Harvesters as backfield coach again this fall.

He signed his contract July 20.

Ramsey was a halfback on the Texas Tech football team in 1949 and 1950, then went into the service for four years.

He went to Tech in 1955 and '56 to complete work on his degree, and assisted in the coaching of the P-d Raiders' freshman football team.

He came to Pampa in the fall of 1957 for his first high school coaching assignment.

Ramsey is married and has two children - Robbie, age 7, and

EURAL RAMSEY

Wayne, age 6.

Ramsey and assistant coach Deck Woldt are now busy helping Curfman get prospective players lined up for the opening of fall practice.

About Merlie And Butch

Merlie Kenemer is almost a permanent fixture at the Top O' Texas Sportsmen Club on Monday nights.

But it's not so much that she's an avid wrestling fan.

"By the time I close my cafe at night, that's about the only place to go," Merlie explained.

She and her husband, Raymond became acquainted with a well-known wrestler in this area, Dory Funk, and eventually became interested in the sport.

"We met Dory about 10 years ago," Merlie said. "Or it must have been around 12 years ago."

"But anyway he was athletic director at the Boys Ranch in Amarillo at the time."

Another favorite of the Kenemer's is Bob Geigel, the Amarillo wrestler who is highly popular with fans here.

"We've known Bob for five or six years now," Merlie said, "and he comes to see us every time he's over here."

Another avid wrestling fan is 12-year-old Butch Robbins.

Butch probably won't have much time for wrestling after this month, though.

He plans to concentrate on playing on football at Pampa Junior High School.

Rozelle Boosts Idea

NFL Hall In Making

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — This city is making an all-out effort to sell the National Football League on the idea of establishing a professional football "Hall of Fame."

To prove its sincerity it recently held a contest for architects to submit designs for such a structure. It picked the winning design last Saturday.

Bob Forsythe, a member of the winning architectural firm and the Hall of Fame steering committee, said the city will make its proposal to the NFL at its meeting in January.

Canton's bid for the shrine has received a boost from new NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

He told a delegation last month that he leans toward the community for such a site because of its historic link with football.

The first professional football league was organized here Sept.

17, 1920. The late Jim Thorpe was the first president of the league.

The shrine, with a dome which resembles a football, would be located on a 14-acre site near Fawcett Stadium and just off the city's expressway system. It would be in view of fans in the stadium and motorists using the highway.

Fine Sticks On Martin

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—Second baseman Billy Martin of the Cincinnati Reds had his "day in court" Tuesday, but his $500 fine and five-day suspension for slugging Chicago Cubs rookie hurler Jim Brewer last Thursday still stands.

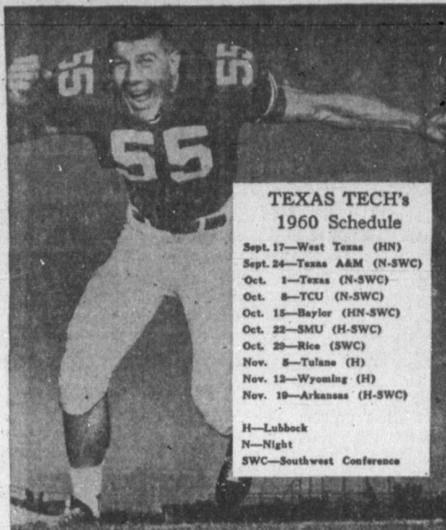

Martin said his principal objective was reached during a one and three-quarter hour meeting Tuesday with National League President Warren Giles here.

He said he wanted to get on record that he did not take a surprise punch at Brewer. Now that he has, Martin said, the matter is closed as far as he is concerned.

Giles emerged from the meeting and said the fine and suspension would stand. Martin said he would abide by the decision. He could have appealed to baseball commissioner Ford Frick.

Wins Net Title

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI)—Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy won the men's singles title in the German international tennis tournament when he defeated Jan Eric Lundquist of Sweden, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2. The women's title went to South Africa's Sandra Reynolds when she upset Wimbledon champion Maria Bueno of Brazil, 7-5, 8-6.

Matadors Face Tough Battles

LUBBOCK — Although Texas Tech is making its Southwest Conference football debut this fall, there's little chance the Red Raiders will overlook their non-league contests.

All three non-SWC foes — West Texas State, Tulane, and Wyoming — have given Texas Tech ample reason to respect them this fall.

West Texas State, whose Buffaloes meet the Raiders in the season opener here Sept. 17 at night, has beaten Tech two of the last three meetings. Tech's 32-7 victory over West Texas in their last engagement two years ago snapped a two-game Buff winning streak—34-14 in 1956 and 19-0 in 1957.

Adding spice to the contest is the fact that two of the West Texas coaches—head man Joe Kerbel and aid Joe Moss—were members

Sports Briefs

DALLAS (UPI)—Although the 28th annual Texas Coaching School set new attendance records in Dallas last week, the two all-star schoolboy games drew disappointing crowds.

L. W. McConachie, executive vice president of the Texas High School Coaches Association, released official figures Tuesday. A crowd of 11,731 attended the Friday night football game and 5,324 watched the Thursday night basketball game.

Pre-game estimates had been 15,000 and 5,600.

The basketball crowd was the third best in history, however, surpassed only by 5,936 in Lubbock in 1956 and 5,430 in Dallas in 1957.

The football game was only the seventh best gate. The record of 20,405 was set in 1958 at Houston.

The coaching school itself registered 3,993 coaches as compared with the 1959 record of 3,001 at Fort Worth.

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Karl Young All-Stars nailed down a berth in the National Pony League Baseball Championships Tuesday night by whipping Monterrey, Mexico, by a score of 22-4.

Kelly Scott led the Houston attack with five for five including two homers, a double and a pair of singles. Bob Moehring got a homer and three singles.

The Houston club went undefeated in the Southwest regional double-elimination tournament and will represent the region in the national championships which start Aug. 22 at Washington, Pa.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russian Olympic athletes are expected by their leaders to win medals in 13 sports at Rome.

That was the estimate put forth Tuesday by Nikolai Romanov, president of the Soviet Central Council of Sports Societies, at a press conference extolling the USSR's Olympic prospects.

"A keen and interesting struggle will certainly unfold in Rome," Romanov told the assembly of Soviet and foreign newspapermen.

Orioles Still Thick In Pennant Battle

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

They say there's no sentiment in baseball but who can deny a tip of the old chapeau today to vets like Ted Williams, Stan Musial, Curt Simmons and Luis Arroyo?

All four were considered just about washed up when the season started but now Williams has reached another home run mile-stone, Musial and Simmons are playing major roles in the St. Louis Cardinals' astonishing rise to pennant contention, and Arroyo is the lifesaver of the New York Yankee bullpen.

Here's how the four of pros showed the young 'uns how to do it in Tuesday night's major league action.

—Williams, 41, tied Mott for third place in the time home run race when he hit the 511th of his brilliant career in the Boston Red Sox' 6-3 loss to the Cleveland Indians.

—Musial, 39, figured in three runs with two doubles and a sacrifice fly in the first game at Detroit. Simmons, 31, pitched a five-hitter as the Cardinals whipped the Phillies, 5-4 and 6-0, to move into second place in the National League.

—Arroyo, 33, turned in his six straight fine relief job to gain credit for the Yankees' 7-4, eight-inning triumph over the Chicago White Sox. The win boosted the Yankees' American League lead to 1½ games.

The Baltimore Orioles beat the Detroit Tigers, 3-0, and the Kansas City Athletics beat the Washington Senators, 8-3 after a 3-12th inning loss, in other American League games, while the Pittsburgh Pirates topped the Chicago Cubs, 7-1, and the Los Angeles Dodgers shaded the Milwaukee Braves, 3-2, in other National League action. San Francisco at Cincinnati was rained out.

Williams hit his 19th homer of this season off Jim Perry, who went on to win his 14th game from the Indians. The blow by Williams, who is hitting .305 this year, sailed far over the 380-foot mark in Cleveland Stadium and produced a 3-3 tie in the fourth inning. Only Babe Ruth, with 714 and Jimmy Foxx, with 534, hit more homers than Williams whose heroics were negated by a two-run homer and a run-producing double by Vic Power.

All-Stars Clip Roadrunners, 7-5

The Pampa Roadrunners were knocked out of a berth in the national semi-pro baseball tournament last night as the Irrigation League All-Stars turned them back, 7-5.

Starting pitcher Ivan Wooten was tagged with the loss.

Had the Roadrunners won, they would have nailed down a berth in the national tournament at Wichita, Kan., later this month.

However, it isn't certain that the Roadrunners are through for the summer.

"I'm not sure, but we may have two or three more games," manager Newt Secrest said this morning.

The young of the shrimp pass through 10 larval stages.

Ingo Flees As Floyd Arrives

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI)—Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson let it be known today he doesn't intend to wait forever for Ingemar Johansson to make up his mind about a third bout.

Patterson arrived here Tuesday for an exhibition boxing tour and was surprised to hear Johansson had flown to Switzerland the same day.

"I'm ready to fight Ingemar this week or next year or any time," said Patterson.

"It all depends when he wants to fight me," the champion added. "But I don't want to wait too long for the next match, and absolutely not for a year like the last time."

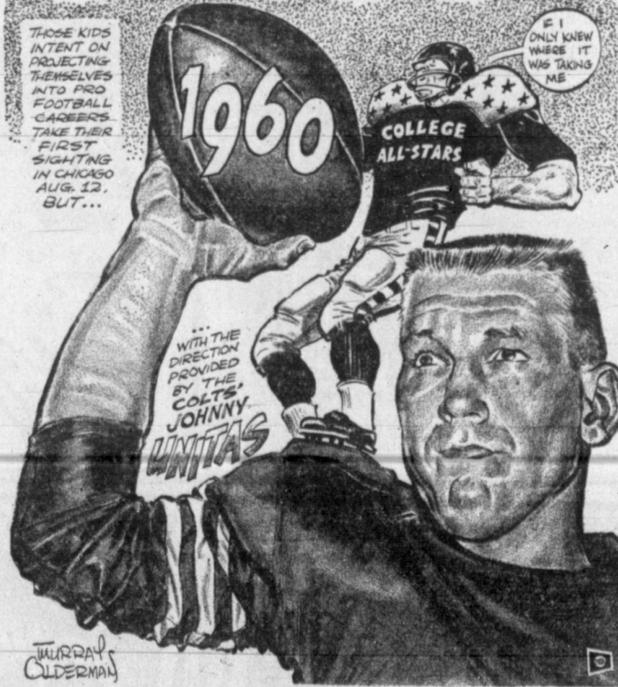

Mobbed by 2,000 cheering well-wishers at the airport upon his arrival, Patterson smilingly said he had received so many letters from Sweden "that I could not wait to arrive."

Patterson is scheduled to open his boxing tour at the "Groena Lund" amusement park today.

Human Sacrifice

Meet the new whipping boy. It is the advertising exec. The man who has the know-how and the contacts to acquire the American people with the devices and labor-saving tools which have made an Aladdin's dream out of the American way of life is to be the new villain in the political cauldron.

Both Democratic and Republican thinking is geared to this concept. We are going to have a more austere life, we are told. We must prepare ourselves for blood, sweat and tears. We will shed them all. We must get ready to experience a decline in our standards of living. Human sacrifice is the cry.

By abandoning the achievements we have made and the new devices we can and should produce, we can move in the direction of the brave, new, politically-dominated world. We must sacrifice our freedom so that we can find some freedom that is better and more demanding of us than our own liberty.

This is the hog-wash being ladled out from every direction following the two major indications of our political degeneracy at Los Angeles and Chicago. But, most of all, we must get used to the idea that it is the advertising man who has done the damage.

He is that nasty old fellow in the grey suit who has brought you the information about washing machines, refrigerators and compact cars at great profit to himself. He must be made to feel the brunt of your displeasure.

He is the one who has "forced you" (the term is not ours) to spend more than you could afford. You were so weak-willed that when he showed you how you could enjoy yourself more, work fewer hours, have greater comfort and experience a host of new satisfactions, you simply couldn't say "no."

So you ran right down to the lending agency and got yourself in debt. You are living beyond your means. Your standards of living, thanks to this advertising fellow, have gone terribly high.

And think of those poor people in the rest of the world who can't even get enough to eat. And here you are eating three squares a day without a twinge of conscience. So, your political masters are about to straighten you out. And the big thing for you to realize is that it is going to be done for your own good. Like in Russia.

In the Soviet Union you know, emphasis is upon rockets and guns and standing armies. Not that the reds have much except inert masses in these areas. But they've put the emphasis there and that means few advantages for the man on the Moscow street corner.

We are now to compete in this strange, illogical area on direct terms. Advertisers and their agents have duped you. They've turned you into the best dressed, the best housed, the best clothed, the most entertained race of people on earth. Shame on them.

Now they will be pointed out as the reason for your high state and you are supposed to be made to feel that your high state is a matter of shame and chagrin. How can you permit yourself to drive a car when you know there are thousands of Chinese who have never even seen a car? Don't you think your taxes should be increased so those unlucky people the world over who have never had the chance to be bewitched by advertising execs can find out what life is like at your expense?

How can you fail to be moved when you see how large is your estate and how impoverished that of other peoples? Surely, the idea of merging our plenty with world poverty is constructive, isn't it? The trend is all too clear. The politicians want to accustom you

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — The people of New York being mainly on vacation (and what a pleasure to walk our yawning, empty streets) and the lively children of theater being comatose until September wakes them to their task of make-believe, I have had the good fortune to get around among the singers of all nations and ways these warm nights of July, Odella, Saturday, was one. Today's is Regina Ben-Amity, an Israeli mezzo-soprano who has just recorded "Exodus" with Lionel Hampton and his orchestra. Her American debut, his total disc as a singer.

Lionel said: "We met in Israel. I had the orchestra there. I heard this lady sing. I would have recorded with her anywhere in the desert, in a supper room, in front of a fire house. The voice is sheerest velvet. But the facilities weren't there as we need them. So all I could say was: 'When you come to the United States, and you will, please give me the privilege of recording with you.'"

She arrived in New York three weeks ago, called Hampton — and they made "Exodus". The song was written by Samuel Ferkko, maestro at the Sabra Cafe here. The visit is not her first. She received some of her early musical training here at Julliard, then went on to Europe. Polish by birth, she shifted around Europe during World War II as the tides of that era of violence dictated. Now married to an Israeli attorney, she sings often in Europe and Israel. When the war ended she toured the DP camps throughout Europe trying to sing some hope and courage into the unhappy, forlorn inmates of the camps. Most of these had passed through savage, bitter experiences before reaching the camps in which they had to wait their turn for the trip to Israel and a new life. Or death.

"Molly Picon," she said, "did the same thing and I remember reading — you did the piece which was reprinted in Israel — that she felt an odd combination of being exalted and bruised at the same time. She told you of an old man coming to her in tears at the end of one of her concerts and saying: 'Molly you made me smile for the first time in seven years.' First things like that happened to me, too. I would stand there on a rude platform facing a sea of dispirited, desperately unhappy faces and at a point, at a flight of melody, those faces would come up slowly into the light and something, the human spirit perhaps, would flash there. It is a wracking experience, and a lovely one. You feel at the moment that in some tiny way you have helped a human fellow to see the sun again."

Was it not true that she had captured Israel hearts when she braved enemy fire to entertain troops often during Israel's war for independence? "All women went to the front," she said simply. "Some carried guns, some carried bandages, some carried voices. It is nothing singular."

I told her of the wife of a celebrated Israeli mime who suffered a shattered leg while at the front. "I know her," she said. "A brave, brave woman who lost a knee but gained a pride. She cannot walk even across a small room without knowledge that she did something for Israel. It is pride like a flame."

How many languages did she sing in? "Seven," she said. "But, of course, two were my own: Polish and Hebrew. Russian, for that matter, English, French, Italian and German came along later. Most singers have a language repertoire. It is necessary. The songs I love best and that re-instilled hope into a beaten people, though, were the Chassidic songs, the ancient, beyond liturgical. Scholars have helped me enormously by translating some of the great arias of opera into Hebrew and these, too, were useful. My people had not heard the great works of opera in their own language."

She laughed suddenly. "I look at TV here, Westerns to find out how things are going. The Senator polls wide places in the road, hamlets, villages, towns, cities, states and entire areas. I have heard it said that with Kennedy taking polls the way he is, there isn't any reason on earth why any man with two legs, and who can ask questions, should be out of work between now and November.

Some people even object to the Senator's family vacationing on the French Riviera this summer. Not I. If I owned a villa in France, or anywhere else for that matter, I'd be in it. This business of always having to move about the house to find a breeze is maddening. Besides, those palm leaf fans are trying to use.

I don't care how much the Senator spends now, if he will only stop spending it when and if he gets to the White House. He'll be in charge of our money then, and that makes a lot of difference.

ECONOMIC AID TO LATIN AMERICA THORNY PROBLEM TO NIXON AS CANDIDATE AND AS VP IN DIVIDED ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON — Vice Presidential nominee has been the Administration's economic aid program for Latin America.

This politics-charges issue, both at home and abroad, graphically illustrates the backstage complexities facing the GOP standard bearer on major policy decisions.

As the Administration's candidate, he is directly involved in these controversial decisions. He has to defend and support them, with his vote in the event of a Senate tie. At the same time, he does not have the final voice in making these decisions, and has to tread a wary course in the White House deliberations on them.

That's why the Latin American economic aid program has been such a tough problem for Nixon. For behind this recommendation that President Eisenhower is making to the resumed session of Congress, is a wide variance of view among three influential groups in his inner councils:

Secretary Christian Herter and his State Department advisers, who strongly favor asking $500 million for this purpose. They contend a comprehensive specific proposal is particularly urgent before the convening of the American foreign ministers conference in San Jose, Costa Rica, next week.

Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson and Budget Director Maurice Stans; militant champions of a balanced budget, who are vigorously opposed to seeking any new foreign aid funds at this time. Instead, they advocate a general authorization bill that would permit loans and other assistance for Latin America but provide no immediate money for this.

Economy-minded Republican leaders of Congress, who balked at going even this far. Bluntly warning of a "Bipartisan revolt against more foreign aid spending," they urged merely a joint resolution endorsing the principle of helping friendly Latin American countries.

Foremost among those favoring this are Senators Styles Bridges, N.H., chairman of the Republican Policy Committee; Karl Mundt, S.D.; Andrew Schoeppel, Kansas, all up for election this year; and Representatives John Taber, N.Y., member of the House Appropriations Committee; H. R. Gross, Iowa, and Clare Hoffman, Mich., veteran battles for economizing.

They claim potent support from such leading Democratic foes of large-scale foreign spending as Representatives Clarence Cannon, Mo., chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee in charge of the foreign aid bill; and Senator Harry Byrd, Va.

A point stressed by Vice President Nixon, in the White House discussions, is that specific Democratic proposals are certain.

Both Senators John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson favor that

They have already talked this over with Senator Carl Hayden, Ariz., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, who goes along with them on seeking a large fund for economic aid for Latin America.

DIPLOMATIC CORPS — In the course of the next 12 months, at least 10 new foreign embassies will be opened in Washington from newly-independent African countries. They include Ghana, Cameroon, Togo, the Federation of Mali, Malagasy, Dahomey, Upper Volta, Niger, the Republic of Chad, and the Congo. . . The Prime Minister of Malaya has accepted an invitation to visit Washington in October, just before the presidential election, which he is eager to witness. His name is Tunku Abdul Rahman Putra Al Haj. . . Brazil is seeking markets behind the Iron Curtain for its big coffee surplus. The Brazilian Coffee Institute has sent an exhibit to Warsaw to "educate Poles in the use of Brazilian coffee."

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Although you may find it difficult to believe, the weight of public opinion may be the determining factor in the control—or lack of control—of an infectious disease.

In this column, I'll tell you how an aroused public opinion has resulted in the near-eradication of a dread infection for which medical science has neither a protective vaccine nor a curative drug.

Public fear of leprosy has resulted in the near-eradication of this disease that cannot be prevented by vaccine nor cured by drugs.

Since Biblical times, leprosy has been associated in the public mind with defacement, deformity, crippling, filth, moral delinquency and the "curse of God" (Leviticus 13; Numbers 12). And since Biblical times, it has been treated with isolation and/or banishment (Leviticus 14).

The facts that the leper "is not a moral delinquent and the curse of God is not upon him" (America Leprosy Mission), that the disease is unrelated to filth and that it is very slightly contagious appear to have made little impression on public reaction to the affliction.

Missionaries and physicians who tend the leprosy rarely contract disease although they seem to take few precautions.

Wives and children of lepers who remain in leper colonies with their husbands and/or fathers do not often suffer infection. And it was more than 16 years before the saintly Father Damien addressed his parishioners as "we lepers."

Yet there is no community in our midst that would give sanctuary to a leper even though his infection might have been effectively controlled by treatment with the newer drugs.

So persuasive is what is called the "mythology" of the affliction that efforts are being presently made to refer to the infection as Hansen's disease (Hansen discovered the causative bacillus).

With attention focused on the Republican convention Wall Street speculators and others are trying to figure out how to make a fast buck through anticipating the outcome of the election.

Fundamentally, the problem is finding out critical points of difference, if any, between the two major parties.

The determination is complicated by intraparty differences. Thus philosophically, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York is farther apart from the wing of his party headed by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona than he is from Sen. Kennedy, the Democratic standard-bearer. Likewise, Kennedy in his party has significant ideological differences with his running mate Lyndon Johnson, and Kennedy differs even more with such Democrats as Sen. Byrd of Virginia and certainly Sen. Eastland of Mississippi.

Irrespective of these variances, the imprimatur which the Eisenhower administration places on the Republican Party makes it a little more enthusiastic perhaps for a private enterprise system than the New Deal wing of the Democratic Party, which exalts expansion of federal government activity under the banner of a wing of the Democratic Party, however, which is a minority, is as devoted to the voluntary economic system as nearly any Republican.

Second, the New Deal wing of the Democratic Party, which is interpreted by Sen. Kennedy, seems a bit more disposed toward cheap money and Keynesian economics than the Eisenhower Republican administration. President Eisenhower has made gestures toward slowing up governmental expansion and inflation, and has advocated relieving the federal government of those burdens which the states, the localities and private companies are able and willing to bear. This doctrine is especially articulated by Ike in his partnership concept for public and private power.

In addition, the Republicans have veered in the direction of permitting the Federal Reserve to continue its independent authority and to let interest rates rise, when necessary, as a counter-inflationary device. The Democrats have attacked tight money as a cause of recession and as an unnecessary burden on the Federal budget for interest charges. Sen. Kennedy on his "Meet the Press" interview prior to his nomination, while not willing specifically to advocate a change in the independent status of the Federal Reserve, nevertheless indicated that the President should have enough influence to affect the direction of monetary policy.

As a result, there is speculative talk about the possible impact of lower interest rates of a Democratic victory in November. Some also think that a Democratic victory might, to some degree, worsen the prospects of the so-called investor-owned taxpaying electric utility companies.

In addition, the character of the Keynesian economic advisers of Sen. Kennedy and his linking of up to $3 billion of additional defense expenditures for national defense with anti-recession potency raises anew the spectacle of New Deal revival of pump priming activities.

Be this as it may, there are some impartial economic analysts who regard the Democratic program, to some degree, as more inflationary than the Republican stance. Even on the great debate as to whether the rate of growth of economic activity in the United States is high enough, Gov. Rockefeller, who speaks for the wing of the Republican Party devoted to this concept, differentiates his mode of implementation from that proposed by the Democratic New Dealers. The Democrats lean in the direction of suggesting economic stimulus through stepping up governmental spending, whereas Rockefeller stresses removal of some of the existing obstacles to growth, such as unscientific tax policy, with special reference to depreciation allowances and to featherbedding.

While up to this writing, Kennedy has moved gingerly along lines that might alienate his union labor support, the senator proper health authorities of any state, territory, or the District of Columbia" (1920).

With this act of Congress, that never could have been passed or enforced without solid public support, leprosy ceased to become a threat to our citizenry. Approximately 50 patients are admitted yearly to the Leprosarium whose population numbers few native-born Americans.

Thus the accomplishment of an enlightened public.

NEW YORK — The mayor of New York, Mr. Wagner, is acclaimed as a public benefactor for his work to bring a ball-team of the National League into the city under conditions amounting to a public subsidy. The owners of the Yankees, of the American League, as tax-payers object to any subsidy for a rival business house unless they receive some equal favor. The newspapers, in a broad-and-circus mood, approve the return of the National League to the social scene with an implied endorsement of the idea of a subsidy.

The public, however, does not want a National League team. This was shown by its prolonged, emphatic apathy toward two National League teams which had played here on their own private premises for many years, the Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers. They were over the long very good ball-teams but the public plainly did not like their work as either sport or entertainment well enough to pay the price of admission and to endure the risk, effort and difficulty of patronizing them.

The public could have retained the Giants and Dodgers if it had wanted to keep them simply by attending their games as paying customers. The risk referred to lay in activities of rat-packs which haunted the neighborhoods of the Polo Grounds and Ebbets Field. They stole property out of parked automobiles, operated parking rackets and held up or assaulted customers after ball-games played under flood-lights far into the night. The public transportation was so bad that the two baseball firms could not attract pay-loads without the attendance which came in their own cars or by taxi. Late at night, taxis often were scarce.

The Yankees' continued success has been due to a variety of reasons. Their business management has been much better; their performance under Casey Stengel has been the best in baseball history with the possible exception of the Giants' record under John McGraw long ago; and their location from Massachusetts by no means accepts the entire trade union ideological line. By way of illustration, Kennedy is on record as opposed to a shorter work week, although this goal is high on labor's agenda.

In summary, while the differences between the two parties are minor and are those of degree largely, there are important points of similarity. When the chips are down, the incoming administration is likely to find itself in competition with inexorable events at home and abroad, rather than in competition with the opposition party. Thus Khrushchev maneuvers will go far toward setting U. S. budgetary policy, and the course of events will limit the incoming President.

However, no political pap should give citizens a false sense of security. It would be folly, for example, to assume that political manipulation will assure a non-stop economic boom, with no interludes of hesitation, recession and back stepping.

Does New York Really Want National League?

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

was fortunately insulated from infested areas so that their clients were less exposed to theft and molestation after late night games.

If I could speak as a baseball fan, I probably would say that I would rejoice at the installation of another New York team of the National League in 1961 or 1962. But I am estopped because since I quit writing sports in 1933, I have not paid my way into major league ball-yards more than half a dozen times. This is the attendance record of the vast majority. I am usually otherwise engaged and moreover, I like minor league ball.

Finding myself in Nashville one evening, I went out to Sulphur Dell, the local ball-yard and halcyon ground by reason of the fact that Grantland Rice wrote some of his earliest baseball pieces there. Nashville played Little Rock and the performance was almost as good as most games in the major leagues. I was told that Sulphur Dell was named for a small sulphur spring in right field which until long after the Civil War was a water hole for deer and other wild life.

In Arizona I saw games in Tucson, Bisbee and Nogales, Mexico. This was an old league which had many names and a precarious life. It is now extinct. Cananea, a Mexican copper town in the hills eastward of Nogales, was the best baseball town per unit of enthusiasm that ever was. One year the miners voted for a check-off against their pay for tickets to all the home games. The ball-players travelled by their own jalopies or broken-down omnibuses; they lived on hot dogs, chili beans, candy bars and salted peanuts and they shacked in cabins or rolled up in blankets under the stars. Many of them were Mexicans without fastidious standards. The itinerary included El Paso, Douglas, Bisbee, Canana, Nogales, Tucson, Globe — Miami, Mexicali and Yuma where the temperature hits 115 in summer.

Tucson and Bisbee were supported by slot machines until the wowers put the machines out of business. Thereafter, local laundries, beer distributors and other business firms got no worthwhile return from teams. The gate receipts were the publicity created by their public spirit in subsidizing the teams. The gate receipts were petty.

The proposition that the public loves major-league clubs and is affected in its emotions by their fortunes is a sentimental myth. The public does not give a damn except in brief seizures of excitement. So in San Francisco, after a momentary devotion to the Giants, the public has turned its back on them. For all the public cares the Giants can go broke. The magnates all know this and usually treat the public accordingly.

Meet the new whipping boy. It is the advertising exec. The man who has the know-how and the contacts to acquire the American people with the devices and labor-saving tools which have made an Aladdin's dream out of the American way of life is to be the new villain in the political cauldron.

Both Democratic and Republican thinking is geared to this concept. We are going to have a more austere life, we are told. We must prepare ourselves for blood, sweat and tears. We will shed them all. We must get ready to experience a decline in our standards of living. Human sacrifice is the cry.

By abandoning the achievements we have made and the new devices we can and should produce, we can move in the direction of the brave, new, politically-dominated world. We must sacrifice our freedom so that we can find some freedom that is better and more demanding of us than our own liberty.

This is the hog-wash being ladled out from every direction following the two major indications of our political degeneracy at Los Angeles and Chicago. But, most of all, we must get used to the idea that it is the advertising man who has done the damage.
