U.S. Capsule-Catch Followed By Soviet Feat Of Retrieving Animals From Orbit

LONG TRIPS FULFILLED — Pausing in their admiration of HS Real Silver, one of the prize bulls of Hess and Wright Ranch, McLean, are "visiting firemen" Forrest B. Carter Jr., Norcatur, Kan., and Billie Traylor and Semour Irby, both of Beeville, Texas. Breeders Resume ToT Ranch Tours

By ED HAYES WILSON
Daily News Staff Writer
Some 300 persons joined in a 100-car motorcade Saturday to visit 14 ranches of members of the Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders' Association, a revival of the ranch tours that were last held in 1953. This visit to see some of the world's finest Hereford cattle will continue Monday at Hereford. Visitors from throughout Texas were attracted; three came from Beeville, (some 650 miles away) and from six other states, Oklahoma, Colorado, Idaho, New Mexico, Missouri, Kansas and old Mexico. This tour was termed the greatest ever by Wayne Maddox of Miami, association president, who gained quick concurrence from Frank M. Carter, treasurer, and E. O. Wedgeworth, secretary of the association. It also brought high praise from Henry Elder of Fort Worth, executive secretary of the Texas Hereford Association. "I've seen many tours over the country, but none has been as gratifying as this. The cattle are in excellent condition, the rains have put grazing land in the best condition in years and, when you tie these together, you get what these fellows boast — the world's finest Herefords." The tour began at the J. P. McLean ranch near Hereford. McLean, former president of the association, had nominated Kennedy and that was good enough for him. "It's the law of the Democratic party, and I'm a Democrat," Truman said. "I follow their law." In a session marked by much smiling and laughter by Kennedy and Truman, and a number of quips by the former president, Truman was asked point blank if he still felt the convention had been "fixed" by Kennedy backers. "I did not say that," Truman replied. "I said it looked to me as if the convention was already made up the way it was supposed to go, and that is what the trouble was. And it was, and I'm going to support him. What are you going to do about that?"

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman greeted Sen. John F. Kennedy like a long-lost son Saturday and vowed all out support in the presidential campaign Truman once tried to keep Kennedy out of.

Truman Greet Kennedy Kindly, With No Trace Of Old Ill Will

The 76-year-old former chief executive didn't take back any of the things he said about Kennedy July 2 at the Truman library when he said the Democratic convention had been "fixed" for Kennedy and suggested Kennedy was too young to be president. But joining the 43-year-old nominee on the same platform where he had made those statements, Truman told a news conference that the Democratic National Convention had nominated Kennedy and that was good enough for him. "I did not say that," Truman replied. "I said it looked to me as if the convention was already made up the way it was supposed to go, and that is what the trouble was. And it was, and I'm going to support him. What are you going to do about that?"

'All Cried Out' After Strain Of Trial

Powers' Wife Plans Appeal

By HENRY SHAPRIO
United Press International
MOSCOW (UPI)—Barbara Powers said Saturday night she would appeal to the president of the Soviet Union on Monday to reduce the 10-year sentence of her convicted American spy-pilot husband and "do everything in the world" to help him. But she sadly admitted her husband doubted her chances. The 25-year-old brunette from Milledgeville, Ga., who was "all cried out" after the strain and tension of the three-day trial of her husband, Francis Gary Powers, told newsmen in a trembling voice that she never would give up trying to win leniency for him. In addition to her appeal to Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, who heads the 14-member Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament), attorneys for the Powers family planned a separate desperate appeal to Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev—although by law any clemency can come only from Brezhnev. Barbara, with eyes downcast, her chin quivering with emotion, told of her tearful 75-minute reunion with her 31-year-old husband after his sentencing Friday to three years imprisonment and seven years "deprivation of liberty."

"I told him I would try to do everything in the world I could," she said in her soft drawl. "He didn't think anything would help." There were "hardly any words," when she, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers of Pound, Va., met him in an anteroom of the court Friday. "As Gary walked into the room he stretched out both arms and was crying," she said. "I went to him. Then we had a conference around a large table." She said firmly that he was "quite definitely" the husband she had known, emotionally and mentally. Her father-in-law, a shoemaker, confirmed that he was "the same old boy that I raised. He has not been brainwashed." But physically, Powers showed the effects of 108 days in solitary confinement since his U-2 plane was shot down over Sverdlovsk on May 1. He lost "quite a bit of weight," Barbara said, and was "very, very nervous." Nevertheless, he "looked very good" to her. Apparently, Powers had been kept in the dark about everything going on outside his prison cell. Barbara said he received one magazine, just last Wednesday, and he did not even know she and his parents and sister, Mrs. Jessica Hileman of Glass Manor, Md., were in Moscow until he saw them at the trial which opened Wednesday. "I had sent him a telegram when I arrived in Moscow but he said he had not received it," his wife said. She repeated that her husband "felt badly" because his court-appointed defense lawyer Mikhail

Trujillo Is Hit by OAS

By JOSEPH A. TAYLOR
United Press International
SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — Foreign ministers of the Western Hemisphere, including U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, voted 19-0 Saturday night to impose drastic sanctions against the dictatorial Dominican Republic shortly after the Dominican delegation stalked out of the conference.

The move, including an immediate diplomatic boycott and an arms embargo, is unprecedented in the hemisphere, making the action of the foreign ministers, who were meeting under the auspices of the Organization of American States, all the more bitter to the Dominican Republic.

Dominican Foreign Minister Porfirio Herrera Baez and his delegation walked out of the conference room a short while before the dramatic vote was taken, accusing the OAS of a "violation of our sovereignty."

The ministers acted on a complaint by Venezuela that Dominican dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo had backed an assassination attempt against President Romulo Betancourt and perpetrated other crimes against international law and human dignity.

Nineteen of the 21 American states — Venezuela did not take part as complaining party and the Dominican Republic was absent — voted an immediate diplomatic boycott of the Dominican regime, an arms embargo and possible "economic sanctions" in the future.

Plane Bomb Hoax Halts Texas Flight

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Two FBI agents Saturday seized James Vander Waddle, 29, an unemployed railroad worker, for making a false bomb report that caused a commercial airliner in flight to be called back to Fort Worth for a search.

Waddle, of Pine Bluff, Ark., was accused of telling an airport guard "one of those Boeing 707s is going to blow up."

The FBI whisked him away from Amon Carter Field to the Fort Worth federal courthouse, where he pleaded not guilty to the charge. Waddle said he was only trying to warn authorities about a man named "Charley."

He was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Peter Van Orden, who ordered him held in jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. Waddle was the 30th person to be arrested under a new statute making it a federal crime to turn in false bomb reports.

At his hearing, Waddle waived his right to an attorney and told a story of having been drinking in Dallas, 30 miles east of Fort Worth, before he took a bus to Little Rock, Ark. He said he met a man in the bus station at Fort Worth who said his name was "Charley." Waddle said he told Charley he was thinking about going to Amon Carter Field and stowing away on a plane. He testified that he had stowed away on another commercial plane "a couple of years ago" at (See BOMB, Page 2)

Opinions On Trial Of Powers

Francis Gary Powers, who Friday received a 10-year sentence from a Russian tribunal, has created talk and interest in his case throughout the United States and the world. First, it was sympathy for the young flier who was shot down over Siberia May 1. However, what are the feelings of the people now?

Powers admitted his guilt. He stood objectless before the court and the world; he declared he was sincerely sorry for what he had done; he hinted that, since he had revealed he was a spy for Central Intelligence Agency, he would be given a long term if he came home and that he didn't know for sure if he ever would leave the Soviet Union.

Now that he has been convicted — now that he has made these statements, how do the people of Pampa and the area feel about him?

This is the reaction gained in talks with people of all walks of life in and around Pampa: C. F. Kittoo, Pampa News Stand owner — "Powers knew the cost; he knew the possible penalty. From what I have been able to gain from news stories, Powers was not brainwashed. Yet, his throwing himself on the mercy of the court, his quick admittance of guilt only point up the old of self preservation law."

Alec Schneider, longtime Pampa hotel man — "Powers was a spy. Spies are on their own. I don't think he was brainwashed. His wife and President Eisenhower both said they didn't think he was. He gambled; the stakes were high and he lost."

A. L. Behme, chef — "He did it for money. He received $30,000 a year. He got off easier by admitting his guilt. He knew the chance he was taking and I cannot offer sympathy for him."

Mrs. W. D. Irwin, 2020 Christine St. — "My feelings are mixed. I'm sorry for him, but at the same time I feel he is fortunate to have received but a 10-year sentence. I wonder what would have happened had we caught and tried a Russian flier under the same circumstance. I expected him to receive a more severe punishment."

Joe Gordon, attorney — "This is a political, not a legal procedure. I'd have been proud of him had he, when he admitted he was spying, steered himself to face the consequence. This, apparently, Powers did not do."

Mrs. Davis Mills, wife of the Rev. David Mills, pastor of Lamar Christian Church — "I have sympathy for Powers. I believe his efforts may have saved the nation from a possibly far more embarrassing situation."

The Rev. Woodrow Adcock, pastor, First Methodist Church — "It seems to me it is the best to be expected, considering the fact he was tried before a Russian court."

SFC G. C. Ghent, U.S. Army Recruiter — "I cannot go along with the way the man conducted himself. It may be that the Russians did not brainwash Powers. However, from what I read in the newspapers, no United States doctor."

'Land Safely' Saturday On Pre-Selected Site

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet space ship satellite carrying two dogs and several other animals was retrieved from orbit and "landed safely" Saturday, the Soviets announced. They said the animals "well" in the experiment designed to help put a man into space. The space capsule was brought to earth with 6.2 miles of a pre-selected landing site which was not identified, according to the official Tass news agency announcement.

The landing from 198 miles in space was the first time that man has sent living creatures into orbit and brought them to earth safely. Previous space ships with animals have been on short flights that did not orbit the earth.

Tass said the capsule containing the animals "detached from the ship and landed safely" after 18 revolutions around earth. It said the space ship traveled 443,980 miles since its launching Friday.

The 10,143-pound space ship containing the capsule with the animals and TV cameras for observing their reactions to space living had spent about 24 hours in flight when scientists sent out the signals which detached the capsule and brought it down.

The feat followed by a day the American success in recovering in the air a Discoverer 14 rocket capsule after a space flight in orbit. There were no animals aboard the American rocket.

The Tass statement that the capsule came down about six miles from the designated target in a "pre-set area," meant Soviet scientists had scored a virtual bulls-eye with the relatively tiny capsule hurtling through space. The experiment was an avowed part of the Soviet campaign to be the first nation to send a man into space and bring him back alive. An attempt to bring back a Soviet space ship with a dummy aboard last May 15 failed.

A few hours before the announcement that the capsule had been landed, Tass reported that the dogs "Strelka" (Little Arrow) and Belka (Squirrel) as well as the other, unidentified animals, were in "satisfactory condition" (See CAPSULE, Page 2)

Passenger Due For Discoverer

Los Angeles (UPI) — The successful aerial catch of the 300-pound instrumented capsule from Discoverer XIV satellite in the from orbit, Saturday scheduled an attempt to recover a monkey from a Discoverer satellite within the next two months.

The word came as the Russians announced they had "safely" recovered two dogs and other animals from their latest animal-carrying satellite. But, Air Force spokesmen here said this probably wouldn't change U.S. plans. "We've had our plans for a long time," a spokesman said, "and we're going to proceed as scheduled, not be rushed any by what the Russians are doing." An Air Force spokesman said after recovery of the capsule from Discoverer XIII the attempt might come within a month, but others this week were more cautious in their forecasts.

The U.S. Friday made a successful recovery of the capsule from the Discoverer 13 satellite plunked into the sea off Hawaii. Friday's recovery went that far better as an Air Force C-119 flying Boxcar snatched the 300-pound Discoverer 14 capsule 8,500 feet over the Pacific Ocean as it parachuted down from space.

The pilot of the plane, Capt. Harold E. Mitchell, 35, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for "extraordinary achievement and performing a feat of great national significance." Nine other members of his crew were awarded Air Medals on their return to Hickam Field.

Bid Call On Youth Building

Directors of the Pampa Youth and Community Center met Friday afternoon and approved plans for the center as submitted by Moore and Hollar, architects and engineers. The board voted to call for bids on construction of the building. Plans may be secured from Moore and Hollar at 512 W. Kingsmill beginning Wednesday September 14 at 5 p.m. in the Pampa Chamber of Commerce office. The center will be constructed on a plot of ground located between Harvester and Kentucky, just west of the Highland General Hospital. Money for the building has been raised by public subscription and through the support of Mrs. Inez Carter, who has been the major contributor to the project.

Dr. Joe Donaldson, president of the board of directors, expressed hope that the building could be finished and ready for occupancy by March 1.

Strange, Lonely Vow Is Fulfilled

ATLANTA (UPI) — Striptease dancer Chilli Evans slammed her new car into a stone bridge abutment on an Atlanta expressway early Saturday and fulfilled a strange and lonely suicide vow made in the dim lights backstage. Two other exotic dancers and a burlesque band trumpet player tried to prevent the attractive red-haired performer from carrying out her vow. But no one in the audience at her last show knew of the dancer's despair. Her routine was daring and gay.

Liberal Lassie Is 'Wheatheart'

A Liberal, Kan., lovely walked with the "Wheatheart of the Nation" contest at Perryton Saturday night, defeating 23 girls from five states to take the coveted title.

Miss Jill Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Russell, in taking the crown earned a 13-day trip to New York, New England and Canada.

A graduate of Liberal High School, she plans to enter Kansas State college next month.

Some 1,000 persons witnessed her victory which came in a roar of applause from the enthusiastic spectators.

Third place went to Miss Gayle Peebles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Peebles of Wellington.

Miss Bonnie Glaxner, Miss Pampa of 1959, was among the entries.

One of the highlights of this contest came at intermission when a group of young Pampa dancers from Beaux Arts Dance Studio, under the direction of Mrs. Jack Edwards, received a resounding ovation at the end of their routine.

"Fairly good" crowds were reported witnessing the rodeo finals and the water show, one of the special attractions, but at about 8:30 p.m. rain began to fall and this was expected to cut the attendance later in the night.

A parade that stratched almost two miles opened the final day of activities in Perryton's 41st anniversary celebration.

POWERS

Grinev, had attacked the United States during the trial.

Grinev Saturday advised the family to make their plea to President Brezhnev in non-legal, informal language and deliver it in person to his Kremlin office.

American attorneys Alexander Parker and Frank Rodgers, advisers to the family, said such petitions usually take a month to reach the president himself, but this time "it might be handled sooner."

The lawyers said they learned that the three years in prison to which Powers was sentenced might be reduced to 18 months for good behavior.

Assuming that the seven years "deprivation of liberty" in the sentence meant a term in a penal colony, Parker said he asked whether this meant Siberia and was told "Oh, no, there are labor camps in this (Moscow) area."

Barbara has said she wants to remain in the Soviet capital, perhaps working at the U.S. Embassy, so she can be as near as possible to her husband.

Some Soviet prisons permit wives to visit husbands for as much as two days a month and wives may live with husbands at some prison farms.

Barbara said defense attorney Grinev told her that Powers could receive gifts in prison, now, according to Grinev, he was smoking Russian cigarettes and reading "Gone With the Wind" and "Moby Dick."

Barbara was expected to be permitted to see Powers again on Monday.

The flier's parents and sister planned to leave Moscow Wednesday for home. Barbara was to remain behind.

Callihans Ranch at Conway. Here the visitors were met with coffee, Coca-Cola and sweet rolls of many types. Here, too, the Callihans brought forth some of the finer Herefords for inspection. From that point the tour continued to the Johnson Ranch for a view of herds which were brought close to the fences on each side of the road for inspection.

The Clyde McGee Ranch visit also brought out some fine appearing animals as the onlookers spent 25 minutes examining the cattle. From that point the visitors sped to the F. J. Hess and Bill Wright Ranch at McLean. This brought looks of surprise from the large group, as they were greeted by a "medicine man" in full regalia and a country doctor, horse, buggy-frock-coat and all.

They were prescribing "Dr. Hereford," the cure all for cattle raisers. And they apparently got their point across, since the cattle there were outstanding.

A "Coke call" was held here, with coffee and donuts added.

A slow drive past a large band of well behaved quarter horses at the Johnson Quarter Horse Ranch preceded a trip to the Darsey Ranch and a look at some of its stock before the only unfortunate incident of the day occurred: The cattle stampeded when the motorcade arrived at the Billy B. Davis Ranch and some of the visitors failed to get a close look at the herd.

"It was a shame. Davis' are some of the finest cattle in the Panhandle," said Carter.

A visit to the Emmett Lefors Ranch followed and then the group went to Pampa's Central Park for a barbecue dinner served by some 25 members of Pampa Shriners Club.

The afternoon tour took the group to Carter's splendidly stocked ranch on Lefors Highway outside Pampa; the Maddox Ranch for a second "Coke stop," the Ellis Locke Ranch, the Raymond Nelson Ranch and on to the R. H. Holland Ranch at Perryton where a watermelon feast ended the trip.

Tax Theme Is 'Dig Deep'

Pampans men as well dig down in their pockets when tax time comes around, for the city means business with a capital B if percentage collections for the past nine years mean anything.

This came to light with the revealing of the total estimated tax levy of $620,588.15, and the hoped for collections of 97.75 per cent of the amount.

This expected collection figure — if the tax levy is approved as it compares favorably with other years shown in the booklet containing the proposed budget. But it does not head the list, for in 1957 it appears the city went all out, or the people became more "civic minded", and the result was a 98.51 per cent collection.

Now this must have set well with the city fathers, but they were in for a rude jolt the following year — folks only coughed up 95.95 per cent of the levy.

In other years, the chart shows the city gathered from 97-plus to 98-plus per cent of the taxes levied.

Pampan's Father Dies In Canton

EN E. Harrison, father of Mrs. Myron Warden of Pampa, died suddenly Friday afternoon at his home in Canton, Okla.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon 2:30 in the Christian Church with the Rev. Otto Schaufele, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Canton Cemetery.

Mr. Harrison, born Oct. 10, 1885 in Jasper, Ark., had been an employe of US Gymsum Co. in Southard, Okla. for 33 years and had retired three months ago.

He was a member and deacon of the Christian Church; member of the Masonic Lodge, Order of the Eastern Star and was 32nd degree mason. Masonic rites will be held at graveside.

Tiros I Topic At Kiwanis Meet

Tiros I, America's first weather eye in the sky, is the most important aid to meteorologists today, weatherman Don Peoples of Amarillo told the Kiwanis Club at its luncheon meeting Friday.

"This is a vital factor in our predicting the weather," the KVII-TV weather forecaster said. "And everything is based on our weather — what we wear, what we eat and what we drink."

Peoples, a veteran in the radio and television broadcasting field, illustrated his talk with a set of slides showing photographs made of the earth's surface from Tiros I. The slides included diagrams of the satellite, various pictures which have been used in long-range weather forecasting, and shots of a decoding station at Fort Monmouth, N.J.

'Stoned' Elephant Startles Texan

HOUSTON (UPI)—A resident of River Oaks Blvd. telephoned police early Saturday and said: "I know this sounds silly but there is an elephant in my front yard."

Sure enough, police found an elephant in his yard, but it was a papier mache model anchored in concrete and stolen from a restaurant.

The elephant was returned to the restaurant in a truck. It weighed 1,000 pounds.

and were bearing up well in their "space suits" inside their meticulously-sealed cabins.

The rocket that sped them into space put them into an orbit that ranged from 210 miles at its farthest point from earth to 189 miles at its nearest point. Tass said each orbit took 90.72 minutes.

Soviet scientists and technicians were rushed to the landing site by helicopter to examine the capsule and its occupants.

"All the animals undergoing the experiment, after the flight and landing, are well," Tass said.

Special loudspeaker trucks immediately set out through the streets of Moscow to announce the safe return of the space travellers.

Muscovites clustered on street corners and cheered the news.

The announcements were preceded by the playing of the Soviet national anthem, which usually is played only for the most solemn or joyous occasions.

Tass hailed the landing as "the outstanding success of Soviet science and technology" and said the animals were brought back to earth after scientists had "completed the program of research calculated to last 24 hours."

The scientists received "data on the vital functions of the animals and the normal functioning of the system (scientific equipment) on board the Sputnik," Tass said.

On Nov. 3, 1957, the Soviets put the dog Laika—the first space creature—into Sputnik II and launched her into orbit, but no attempt was made to bring Laika back. She perished within a week.

City To Get 'Tough' On Zoning Law

A "get tough" policy has been adopted by city officials on zoning violations.

City Manager John Koontz ordered a survey of businesses located and operating in residential areas, and said his office will direct the operation.

"We want to know which businesses are operating legally and those operating in violation of city ordinance 184, the zoning directive," said Koontz.

He said that this survey will serve a two-fold purpose: It will "put a stop" to those operating illegally, and it is necessary that this be done as an aid to the Comprehensive Plan survey that will be conducted here in the near future.

This survey, announced earlier, will be conducted by Koch, Fowler and Grafe, of Dallas, with funds provided equally by the City of Pampa and the Texas Health, Education and Welfare Department.

"This survey is vitally necessary to Pampa. The city is growing and the Comprehensive Plan will be a great measure of help in the future," the city manager said.

City Attorney Robert F. Gordon made it clear that businesses that were operating in their present locations when that area was a non-restricted zone are operating "legally and within the law."

Gordon also noted that certain businesses are not restricted from residential areas. Among them are doctors' offices, clinics, certain hospitals, telephone exchanges and the like.

"Certain business firms are operating in violation of the city ordinance," said Gordon. "We intend to find them and stop those operations."

Exams Are Slated

State-wide competitive examinations for Texas Highway Patrolmen will be held Oct. 4, 5, and 6 to fill 118 vacancies in the department, the Texas Department of Public Safety announced.

Men between age 21 and 35 must file application with the department at Austin on or before Tuesday.

Those interested may obtain application blanks from any state highway patrolman or field office, Maj. Harry Hutchinson, region 5 commander, said.

ROUND-THE-ROOM COMFORT

There's an imaginative new approach to room planning today—due largely to our changed pattern of living in a fast-tempo age. We are no longer ivory-tower dreamers about the use of space, allocating an entire room to each phase of living. We now insist upon having flexible furniture ingeniously arranged to give us comfortable, convenient, work-saving areas for several functions all in one room. Here the family can go about their hobbies, relax, television, enjoy cozy conversation and casual meals.

Every inch of space has been put to good use with family comfort in mind in the large combination room sketched above. Wall-to-wall rag-carpeting gives a homely look, is practical and colorful, and can take a lot of hard wear. Sturdy, solid-looking maple furniture is right at home in the green and golden yellow color scheme. Small-patterned wallpaper is unobtrusive yet imparts warmth, friendliness and a feeling of intimacy to the setting.

Note how the furniture has been arranged to give each functional group importance in its own right, to create a sense of round-the-room comfort, and how a nice feeling of balance has been maintained throughout.

Whether you're buying just one addition or replacement piece, a group or a whole houseful, we'd thoroughly enjoy helping you make satisfactory selections from our fine collection of distinctive furnishings. Remember, we offer you style, quality and value with every piece you purchase from us.

City Feels It Can Pare Tax Rate For 1960-61

By ED HAYES WILSON
Daily News Staff Writer

City Manager John Koontz painstakingly went through the proposed city budget for 1960-61 Friday and when he finished said, "And that's how we hope to save the two cents on taxes."

He was speaking of the proposed $1.50 tax rate that is attached to the proposed budget. He summed up the means of possibly bringing about the tax cut (almost unheard of in these days) by noting that the city had retired three 20-year bonds, totaling $12,000, and that assessed valuation had jumped some two million dollars.

Pampa's estimated assessed value of real and personal property is $41,157,420 over last fiscal year's $39,149,360 for an increase of $2,008,060.

"Retiring the bonds for city hall, No. 1 fire station and the brick streets issue were a big help. But the city's growth and property value rise will, naturally, bring about more tax monies. This, we feel, will permit us to pare two cents from the $1.52 tax rate of last year," Koontz pointed out.

In the overall picture of the budget there is a proposed hike of $7,780, with the total request being $1,389,850. The 1959-60 budget was $1,332,179. Estimated spending is $1,264,471.

A public hearing on this has been set for 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept.

13, in the commission room of city hall.

The Water and Sewer Department's request again topped the list. It totals $407,424, against the approved $414,432 for 1959-60. Estimated expenditure for this fiscal year is $390,211.

Second is the Street Department. This section sees a need of $190,507, against the $170,047 it last received. The department's estimated spending for 1959-60 is $168,481.

The Sanitation Department's proposed amount is third — $170,305. The department received $138,710 for the preceding fiscal year and its estimated spending is $137,658 for the period.

Next in line were the Fire Department and Police Department. The fire-fighting section's proposed funds are $152,064, with the Police Department's proposal at $144,541. Last fiscal year the fire department received $145,197, and the law enforcement section obtained $139,416.

Expenditures for 1959-60's fiscal year which will end, Sept. 30, is $141,200, for the fire unit and for the police department, $136,131.

Others proposals are:

| Department | Estimated 1959-60 Expenditures | Approved 1959-60 Budget | Proposed 1960-61 Budget |

FINANCIAL REVIEW

By HENRY J. BECHTOLD
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Despite the cries about big business getting bigger at the expense of small business, the business population

Class Slated For Swim Instructors

Hugh Burger of Borger, water safety trainer for the Red Cross, will be at the Pampa Municipal Pool at 8 p.m. Friday to conduct a water safety instructors class.

The class is for swimming instructors only. Burger will explain the correct method for using and teaching different strokes. After the class there will be a discussion on how the local water safety program, including the handicapped program, can be improved.

NAMES SUBMITTED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower has sent the Senate the following nominations for Texas postmasters: Eugene L. Mickey, Sweeny; Russell W. Smith, Floresville; Robert M. Gring, Freer; Waunita A. Lynch, Highlands; Clara J. Loesch, Industry; Lavona E. Worley, Malone; Gustave C. Cooper, Windom; Ross D. Gunn, Gilmer; and Charles Scaff, Matador.

still consists predominantly of the small firms.

This was pointed out by the Institute of Life Insurance which said a long view of the business population and its persistent growth trend indicates that the American economy still retains much of its traditional spirit of venture and individualism.

'MOON TRIP' CONTINUES

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Two Air Force pilots started their fifth day today on a 17-day simulated "trip-to-the-moon." Capt. William D. Habluetzel, 36, of Ingleside, Tex., and 1st Lt. John W. Hargreaves of Castle AFB, Merced, Calif., are making the "trip" in a space capsule.

A basic element, the institute said, is that economic expansion and the increase in population have consistently opened up new opportunities for individual enterprise and self-employment as well as providing job opportunities for a growing labor force.

Millions of Americans have had the courage and initiative to respond to this development by striking out on their own, and many have succeeded, it noted.

The number of business concerns has been moving up steadily year after year, and now is at a new high of just under 4.75 million, according to figures of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Despite the risks involved in starting a new business, more than 400,000 new establishments were launched last year in ventures ranging from gas stations to manufacturing enterprises.

The institute noted that risk, an inherent part of nearly every venture, is even bigger these days considering the added problems brought by the increase in tax burden, the impact of inflation on production and other costs of doing business, and increasing government regulation.

Thus, the institute said, it is not surprising to find business "births" accompanied by a high mortality rate. Last year 82 businesses were discontinued for every 100 started, a ratio that has shown little change over the years.

The business population figures compiled by the Commerce Department do not include agriculture and the professional services, two strongholds of individual ownership and operation. Nor do they include millions of persons in other fields of activity where the individual is essentially on his own, and where the rewards and accomplishments are primarily definitive, efforts and capacity. Many of the more than 200,000 full-time life insurance agents in this country are an example of this latter group, the institute noed. Retail stores and service establishments are by far the most numerous of all business firms with the former accounting for more than 40 per cent of the total and the latter nearly 10 per cent, the figures showed. Construction is in third place followed by finance, insurance and real estate.

Swimming Is Fun, But It Can Be Helpful, Too

By VIRGINIA IRWIN
Daily News Staff Writer

Three children, alone and helpless, drowned in Dade County, Fla., within a six hour period March 21, 1959. In light of this tragedy, what can be done to prevent it from happening again?

There appears to be only one way — to teach the children to swim. And the triple tragedy of March 21 set "Operation Splash" in motion to do just that.

The response to the program was overwhelming. Thousands of children and parents turned out either to learn or teach. Many mothers and youths volunteered their time to help. The Red Cross manual, "Teaching Johnny to Swim," came alive for thousands.

Swimming classes sprang up all over the county. By the next September, 75,000 children had taken swimming courses in Dade County. Effectiveness began to show. In the first quarter of 1959, 25 drownings occurred in Dade County, 20 in the second quarter, and 13 in the third, which is the peak swimming months.

The program began to spread not only over Florida, but over the United States. The Red Cross took the story to its national convention in Kansas City and from there the idea went out to the entire country. Pampa has had a summer swimming program for seven years. It has included classes in swimming, lifesaving and instructor training. The average number receiving certificates has been 200 per year. This year the largest group ever participated with 320 learning to swim during classes at the Municipal and Pampa County Club pools.

Out of this program to attempt to teach everyone to swim came the idea of a swimming program for the handicapped. Pampa is among the few towns of this area that has such a program. There are relatively few in the United States.

The Pampa program was begun last year with Mrs. Don George and Mrs. Harold Beckham as instructors. They conducted a two week course again this year which ended Friday. Last year 12 enrolled in the classes. This year 22 people between the ages of 5 and 19 from Gray and Carson counties participated.

"We're hoping it will be least double that again next year," said Mrs. George. "There are 100 handicapped children in Gray and 30 in Carson. What we really need is an indoor pool in order to conduct the program on a weekly basis. Amarillo conducts a class for these children one day a week."

Types of handicaps found among the children in this year's program were polio, mentally retarded, cerebral palsy, amputees, deafness, paraplegics and aphasia.

The purpose of the course is to teach the children to swim or to try to swim better with what they have.

"The important thing," said Mrs. George, "is that it gives them confidence whether they learn to swim or not in being able to join in a social activity."

Mrs. George and Mrs. Beckham attended the American Red Cross National Aquatic School for the Handicapped June 8-18 at Carbondale, Ill., in preparation for this program. Instructors included Edward Slezak, swimming coach at the University of Michigan, and Eugene Keltner of Deatur, Ill., who has worked with the handicapped since 1945.

"In our classes, we simulated various conditions," said Mrs. George, "such as blindness (we movement was possible). The subject of the mentally retarded was covered and the conclusion was that by no means should they be excluded from a program. However, it was brought out that, with some exceptions, a program of recreation rather than instruction should be followed.

"Other things on the curriculum were: Instruction in boating, canoes, rowboats and motorboats; review of swimming techniques; new strokes and teaching methods; review and practice of lifesaving; seminars in camp, pool and community swimming; and movies on beginning and handicapped swimming were excellent," said Mrs. George. "Stress was put on form and endurance. A quarter-mile swim was a daily procedure. Ideas were exchanged on routines of teaching, games to be played, etc."

Mrs. George and Mrs. Beckham agreed and stressed that the greatest need to advance the program is an indoor pool.

"At the moment, we can do very little with only two weeks with which to work with the handicapped," they said. "It is to be hoped that we will soon have an indoor swimming pool, where a program can be worked out on a yearly basis and which will include adults as well as children."

Kit Kat Klub members who helped with the program this year were Janet Osborne, Linda Ryan, Nancy Borgmann, Judy Stephens, Ann Evans, Sandra Weatherly, Sue Maxey, Kay Bailey, Gloria Langford, Carol Wilson, Judy Buckingham, Linda Zmotony, Linda Brown, Judy Vanderburg, Diana Kennington and Lois Dittmeyer. Carolyn Jones, president of Kit Kats organized the aide program.

Key Club members helping were Raymond Nance, Don Sears, and John Osborne. Also assisting were Bee Southard, Peggy Gray and

INSTRUCTORS AND AIDES — Mrs. Don George and Mrs. Harold Beckham recently conducted a two-week swimming program for the handicapped. In preparation for this, they attended an Aquatic School for the Handicapped at Carbondale, Ill. Here they are shown demonstrating to some of the youths who aided in the program some of the techniques they learned to simulate the various conditions of the handicapped they would work with. The two shown are blindness (blindfold) and paraplegis (board strapped to back so that nothing but arm movement is possible). Baer, Jr. Chooses Acting

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Max Baer Jr., son of the late heavyweight champion, has chosen powder puffs to boxing gloves by signing a long-term movie-TV contract to avoid cauliflower ears.

Baer, taller and more handsome than his famed father, made the decision after his first college fight.

"I got the hell beaten out of me in my first match," he said, illustrating his point by flattening the tip of his nose.

The 22-year-old, 185-pounder newcomer is a collar ad type who faintly resembles Jim (Maverick) Garner. He's poised, self-assured and a college graduate.

"I came to town four months ago to look around at the acting situation," Max said. "But I didn't want to take advantage of people like Roy Calhoun, Red Skelton and Jimmy Durante who were close friends of my dad's. I wanted to get ahead on my own."

And get ahead he did. Through the help of actress Pamela Duncan, he talked to the casting directors at M-G-M studios and Warner Brothers.

"They both asked me to sign contracts without a screen test," Baer said. "I decided on Warner Brothers because they seemed more anxious to have me sign up."

Thus far the big guy has appeared in segments of the "Bronco," "Sugarfoot" and "Roaring 20s" TV shows to be seen this fall.

"Dad never wanted me to be a fighter," he said. "He always said one fighter in the family was enough. As a matter of fact, Dad wanted to be an actor himself — that's why he clowned around in the ring so much. He was just hamming it up."

"I loved to fight, but I was never very good. I had a terrific punch, but I had trouble landing it. After that first fight I got back in the ring three times and won all three bouts."

The fights took place at the University of Santa Clara where Max earned a Bachelor Degree in business administration.

Does Baer consider his name an asset in the entertainment business?

"I never considered changing it," he grinned. "I'm proud of my name and I will keep it."

"They say anyone with a junior after his name can never become a big star. I don't know about that. They have one Jr. right here at Warner Brothers who is doing very well. His name is Etern Zimbalist Jr."

Selby Begins Life Sentence

HUNTSVILLE (UPI) — Joseph F. Selby began a life prison sentence Saturday, resigned to just go along and "do what they want me here."

The Houston accountant, convicted of his part in the slaying of his wife, was given No. 157524 at Huntsville State Penitentiary.

Selby was brought from Travis County jail in Austin by Sheriff T. O. Lang. Lang said he had a long talk with the slayer on the drive.

"He said he was anxious to get to Huntsville and start serving his time," Lang said.

If Selby should land a bookkeeping job in the prison's construction department, it is possible he would be eligible for parole in seven years and nine months, prison officials said.

Dick Haymes Comes Back In Big Style

By DOC QUIGG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The face was boyish, the body slim and supple, the demeanor infused with vigor and snap.

Sweat glistened down Dick Haymes' lean cheeks, and concentration marked his manner in an extra rehearsal with a 14-piece band, fronted with fiddlers.

It was a night club rehearsal, and the man was not fooling around. He's been working in dedicated style. And his six-foot frame is fleshed with only 171 pounds—down from his 1952 peak of 206.

Haymes has put his anguishes—financial, marital, mental and governmental—behind him and mounted a comeback trail that has led him out of the dumps of nowhere to a rousing reception in a three-week stand just ended in a New York night club in the supposedly doldrum month of August.

He has signified his intent to work his baritone talents back into the bigtime, and he's open to television, movies, night spots and records.

Maybe you heard him this last week on ABC-TV's "Music For a Summer Night." Or earlier on the Dave Garraway morning show.

Or may be you've heard his latest album, "Richard The Lionhearted," on the Warwick label.

"This has come sort of all at once—but we've been preparing for it a long time," Haymes said. "What do I want to do? Get back in the position in which I was. And maybe put on some trimmings, such as getting into producing pictures or television."

Does he feel he's changed as a singer in this re-emergence? Haymes considered that question for a moment and then said: "Yes, I think so. Before it was strictly ballads. Now I do some swing and some new things."

Haymes has been singing professionally 22 years. He got into the big-band field when he was 17 or 18, starting with Bunny Berrigan, then going to Harry James, then Benny Goodman, then Tommy Dorsey. He followed Sinatra with both Goodman and Dorsey.

He figures his best years financially and in popularity were 1945, '46 and '47 when he was in theaters, radio, records and pictures.

Search On For Brave Persons

AUSTIN (UPI) — A search for Texans who have exhibited exceptional bravery during a crisis or disaster — is being conducted by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

The council will present three engraved plaques to the three persons considered to have shown the most heroism during 1960. Last year a single award went to a bracero, J. Manuel Corral, who was lowered into an abandoned irrigation well to rescue a three-year-old boy.

Any heroic act involving personal danger or sacrifice to aid others is eligible for consideration for one of the awards, provided the act occurred in 1960.

Nominations for the award may be made by any person or group prior to Feb. 1, 1961.

TEXAN KILLED

SOCORRO, N.M. (UPI) — Joe Blambert, 42, of Amarillo, Tex., was killed Friday when his car overturned on U.S. Highway 60, two miles west of Socorro.

That was following his stardom in the Rodgers and Hammerstein movie musical, "State Fair." His earnings were in the millions.

In the early '50s, there were troubles with numerous debtors, alimony claims from ex-wives Jo Anne Dru and Nora Eddington, taxes, a split-up with wife Rita Hayworth, a government threat to deport him to his native Argentina (he was brought here at the age of 3 months) which the courts quashed. From bankruptcy, he has fought his way back with the aid of Morty Craft, president of Warwick records.

His latest wife, singer Fran Jeffries, is in his act, and he writes the material for both of them.

"Don't forget Craft's part, his faith, money and time," Haymes said.

Phyllis Avery Takes A Third Video Hubby

Hollywood
By JOE FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Phyllis Avery must like TV's brand of wedded bliss because she's picked up her third video husband. The pretty Miss Avery, formerly the "wife" of Ray Milland and George Gobel in TV series, is now "wed" to Edward Kemmerer in a soap opera-type program called "The Clear Horizon" on CBS.

"We're trying to lift the show out of the maudlin element that soap operas are known for," she said. "We've made 25 shows and I haven't cried yet. We don't go in for too much goop." About her career as a gal who never gets left standing on the steps of TV churches, Miss Avery is rather philosophical.

"It seems that the only things I impress producers with are roles as somebody's wife," she explained. "I was Milland's wife for two years and Gobel's Mrs. for one. I loved Gobel, he's a dear little guy."

Phyllis, a divorcee and mother of two children in private life, believes that portraying the little woman on TV can be a snap.

"In the first place, there's always somebody around to share the burden when you play the wife," she said. "We can kind of lean on each other a little bit."

"In the shows where Ed is not around, I miss him. It's like toting the barge all day long. And, sometimes I can treat him like a real husband.

"For instance, when something goes wrong on the set, I just don't yell at everybody. I go to Ed with my problems just like an ordinary wife."

Being a veteran Better Half, Phyllis has some advice for would-be celluloid wives.

"You certainly have to be compatible, just like any husband and wife," she insisted. "Producers know this and cast their couples very carefully.

"Doing those type shows such a continuous routine that there isn't an affinity between the couple, it's terribly hard. An I think the audience would feel lack of something if the couple didn't get along."

Scouting Rules Abolished

No earth-shaking events came out of the 3-AAAA district football meeting at Amarillo Friday, but one decision officials made could prevent some team from getting into hot water over rules violations.

This move was the abolishing of regulations on scouting future opponents.

With the rules abolished, district teams can scout their opponents as often as they wish and with as many scouts as they wish.

In the past, an opposing team could only be scouted twice, and the schools were limited to sending scouts to only two of the opposing teams' games. To the coaches, this was affectionately known as "the four-man look."

Under the new system, any team who plays another team within two weeks of the game being scouted, as priority on the scouting facilities in the press box.

For example, if Lubbock and Pampa were scheduled to play Amarillo on the next two Friday night the scouts from these schools would have first shot at the press box facilities.

Any other schools scouting Amarillo that night would be awarded press box space if there was any left. If not, the scouts would have to sit in the stands.

Won't Affect Harvesters

The new scouting procedure won't affect Babe Curfman too much. The Harvester coach said he thinks two "looks" at an opponent is sufficient.

Curfman also thinks that two scouts at a game provide sufficient coverage, but he probably send three this year.

Harvester assistants Deck Woldt and Norman Phillips and Pampa Junior High coach Frank Craig are due to handle most of the scouting assignments.

"Sometimes a third man will see something the other two miss," Curfman said. "But you've always got films of the opponents you can look at too."

Although the rule change won't be of any great aid to Curfman, he's all for it.

"The only help it could really provide," Curfman said, "is to possibly keep some school from getting into trouble for violating the scouting rule."

Speaking of Curfman, the Harvester coach has almost decided to quit working during the summer vacations.

He hurt his back while working recently, and is still bothered by it.

The injury won't hamper his work during the grid campaign—it's just extremely painful right now.

Help! Veteran Grid Fans

Help wanted from some veteran football followers:

Being a central Texan, we're not too familiar with some of the great football players the Harvesters have had in the past, with the exception of fellows like Ed Dudley and Hal Lewis, of course.

So if you can recall any outstanding Harvester gridmen, regardless of how long ago they played here, how about letting us know who they are, and why they stand out in your mind.

Additional items from the district football meeting:

District officials have decided that the coaches around the circuit will select the official all-district football team at the end of the season.

The 1961 district grid schedule also was adopted. It will be the same lineup as this year's slate, only the game sites will be reversed.

Sodbusters Rally To Win, 13-7

AMARILLO — The Sodbusters broke a two-year drought last night as they broke a 7-7 deadlock in the fourth period to down the favored City Slickers, 7-7.

Dan Vickers of Floydada, who was voted the games' outstanding back, broke loose for 60 yards and a touchdown to win the game.

Jerry Shipley, also of Floydada, took down honors for the outstanding lineman.

Only a few hundred fans were on hand in the Price College Field stands as rains drenched the field during most of the contest.

The City Slickers took the first two decisions in the Panhandle Grid Classic, before losing last night's game.

Benny Stout of Pampa also drew some support as the outstanding lineman.

Duck Season Short

Texas hunters will have a shorter duck season this year, but the season for geese will remain the same as it was last year, the Game and Fish Commission has announced.

The commission trimmed 20 days off the duck hunting season, and set the dates as Nov. 11 to Dec. 16. The geese season will last from Oct. 28 until Jan. 8.

Pirates Trip Cincinnati, 10-7; Skinner, Hoak Lead In Attack

Grid Drills Next Week 90 Harvesters To Open

Football returns to Pampa a Saturday night.

The conference slate will begin Sept. 30 when the Harvesters meet Tascosa here.

Excluding an open date Oct. 21, Pampa also will play Monterey, Amarillo, Palo Duro, Lubbock, Plainview and Borger in district warfare.

Curfman expects approximately 95 players to be in uniform for the opening day of drills.

However, he said that figure should rise to more than 100 candidates when school starts the following week.

The Harvesters will return 17 of their 35 lettersmen from last season. The monogram winners will form the nucleus of this year's squad, which some experts believe will be one of the best Pampa teams in recent years.

Curfman's charges will be facing a rugged schedule again this year. They will open the season with Big Spring here Sept. 9. On successive week-ends, the Harvesters will meet Ysleta here and Arlington Heights at Fort Worth.

The contest with Arlington Heights will be unreeled Sept. 24.

US Athletes Taper Off As Olympic Test Nears

ROME (UPI) — Some U.S. athletes, fearful of reaching their peak too fast, tapered off their training today for the opening of the Olympic Games next week.

There was no slow-down in the "back room politics."

Gus Stager, coach of the U.S. men's swimming squad, said his athletes may have been working too hard in training.

"I look at the Russians, who have been working out when we have, and they seem to be loafing most of the time," Stager declared. "I'm going to slow it down for a few days."

There was only luke-warm enthusiasm also for a pre-Olympic track and field meet which will pit American athletes against Polish and British competitors at Bern, Switzerland, today and Sunday.

Harold Connolly, world champion hammer thrower from Santa Monica, Calif., already has blasted the two-day meet as "a silly sight-seeing tour" for officials who merely wanted to see the Alps, and Ralph Boston, who broke Jesse Owens' 25-year-old broad jump record eight days ago, said the Bern meet was almost too much after a tiring journey.

"I can not say whether I will be in perfect physical shape for it," Boston said.

Behind the scenes, though, there was plenty of activity and it included:

—A battle by Avery Brundage to retain the presidency of the International Olympic Committee in the face of a strong bid by Lord Burghley, marquis of Exeter.

—A spirited campaign by the U.S. against the proposed holding of the Olympic Games in late May and early June of 1964 at Tokyo.

—A Russian proposal to reorganize the games, which Brundage called a threat to the "independence" of the IOC.

—Demands for a more "workable" definition of an amateur as against professionals.

—Nationalist China's attempt to cast aside its designation as Taiwan.

—An attempt to reduce the size and cost of the games in some manner.

The U.S. delegation to the IOC was firmly opposed to the proposed dates for the 1964 games, claiming it would cost students an entire semester of schooling to compete. The U.S. delegation also argued the dates would work against "sensible selection" of the track and swimming teams.

Italian Leader Sees 'New Hope' In Games

ROME (UPI)—Italian President Giovanni Gronchi Saturday night formally welcomed the Olympics to Rome and predicted that the 85-nation games will "install new hope and faith in the higher destiny of man."

Although the actual opening of the games still was five days away, Olympic pageantry got underway with a glittering reception of Olympic uniforms and flags at the exposition grounds Congress Hall, marking the formal opening of the International Olympic Committee Congress.

"It is my sincere hope that these Olympic games will install new hope and faith in the higher destiny of man," Gronchi said. "May these young athletes be the

Martin Leads In PGA; Warren Quits With 150

LUBBOCK (UPI) — Steady shooting Iverson Martin of El Paso leads the Texas PGA today at the half way mark with a 36-hole score of 136. He fired two straight 68's.

Don January of Dallas was a stroke behind with a 137 total after firing a 66 in the second round.

San Angelo's Dick Turner, who shared the lead with Martin after the first round, faded to 10th place with a one-over-par 73 for the second round of the 6,902 yard Hillcrest Country Club course.

Hart Warren, pro at the Pampa Country Club, dropped out of the tournament at the 36-hole mark Friday after he posted his second straight 4-over 75 round.

This gave him a two-day total of 150 strokes, six above par for that distance, and placed him well down the list of contestants.

Veteran Dick Metz, world senior's champion equaled January's 68 for the best round of the day. Metz was in third place tie with Don Dunkelberger of Dallas and

Jackson Seeks 8th Comeback Victory

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson, pronounced fit by a board of medical examiners, will see his eighth straight comeback victory Sunday when he meets sturdy Howard King in a 10-round heavyweight fight.

Jackson was handed a medical suspension by the National Boxing Association in 1957 after knockouts by Floyd Patterson and Eddie Machen. The suspension was lifted June 10.

Jackson's last win was a knockout over Jim McDonald. He expects to enter the ring at 204 pounds, about 10 pounds heavier than King.

King suffered a disputed TKO at the hands of Jackson at Boise, Idaho, last year.

Outburst In Second Aids Bucs

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates scored six runs in the second inning Saturday and then staved off the rallying in Cincinnati Reds to gain a 10-7 victory.

Roy Face, last of the three Pirates hurlers, picked up the victory after starter Tom Cheney filed to go the necessary five innings.

Ten batters went to the plate in the second inning as the Pirates picked up six runs while sending 20-year-old Jim Maloney to the showers. All but one of the six runs came after two were out. Bob Skinner's double, which drove home the final two, was the only extra base hit of the inning.

A walk to Don Hoak and a triple by Bill Mazeroski made it 7-0 in the third inning. The Pirates added an eighth run in the fourth inning on singles by Dick Groat and Dick Stuart and Roberto Clemente's sacrifice fly.

Hoak's 11th homer of the season accounted for one of two Pirate runs in the fifth inning during which Joe Nuxhall was replaced Claude Osteen.

Osteen, Bill Henry and Marshall Bridges teamed up to blank the Pirates from the sixth through the ninth.

Cheney held the Reds scoreless until rookie Gordon Coleman unloaded a three-run homer in the fourth inning. He departed in the fifth as the Red added three more runs, two of them coming on a homer by Gus Bell.

The Reds punched three singles for their final run in the seventh. Face replaced Clem Labine and shut out the Reds the remainder of the game while yielding only one hit.

TEMPLE, Tex. (UPI) — A. B. Clements, retired superintendent of the Gulf Division of Santa Fe Railroad, died of a heart attack Saturday. He was 71.

A native of Eldorado, Kan., Clements served with Santa Fe from 1908 until January, 1957. He was superintendent, with offices in Temple, from 1938 until his retirement.

Clements formerly was stationed with Santa Fe at Alvin, Galveston, Beaumont and Brownwood, Tex.

Funeral services are scheduled in Temple at 10 a. m. Monday. Survivors include his widow and two daughters.

Brewer Back Under Knife

CHICAGO (UPI) — A second operation has been performed on Chicago Cubs pitcher Jim Brewer, injured when he was punched by Cincinnati Reds infielder Billy Martin Aug. 4, the Cubs revealed today.

The second operation, performed Thursday, was to alleviate a fracture of the lower rim of the right eye socket. The fracture was not discovered until after the swelling around the eye had subsided.

Dr. B. Harold Griffith, who performed the operation, said it was successful.

The earlier operation was to correct a depression of the orbit bone under the right eye.

Martin was fined $500 and suspended for five days as a result of the incident.

BOSTON (UPI) — Ageless Ted Williams, only 11 days shy of his 42nd birthday, solved a Baltimore hex over Boston this season by smacking a pair of three-run homers for an 8-6 Red Sox win over the Orioles Saturday in the first half of a day-night double-header.

The home runs were the 514th and 515th of Ted's career and brought his season's total to 23. The first was a 400-foot poke into the Red Sox bullpen to give Boston a 4-3 lead in the fourth inning. The second carried some 430 feet into the center field bleachers in the sixth inning and pushed Boston in front again, 7-6.

Women's USGA Play To Start Tomorrow

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—The 60th annual USGA Women's Amateur golf tournament opens here Monday with 102 of the continent's top women golfers ready to tee off for the six-day grind and the quest for the big golf crown.

A Tulsa woman who has been a contender for Oklahoma tourney honors but who has never won a major match drew the honor to oppose U.S. and British Amateurist Barbara McIntire of Lake Park, Fla., in Monday's opening round.

The tournament will be played over the 6,150-yard, par 71 gently rolling Tulsa Country Club course. Monday's first round will be followed by a single round on Tuesday, a double round on Wednesday, quarter finals on Thursday, semi-finals on Friday and a 36-hole championship match on Saturday.

Besides Miss McIntire, the nation's top-ranked woman amateur, an array of glittering golf talent will be chasing after par and the title, including second U.S.G.A. ranked Anne Quast of Marysville, Wash., and six other members of the USGA Curtis Cup team. They are Judy Bell of Wichita, Kan., Judy Eller, Old Hickory, Tenn., Joanne Gunderson, Kirkland, Wash., Mrs. Les Johnstone, Mason City, Iowa, Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., and Mrs. Helen Sigel Wilson, Gladwyn, Pa.

Also competing will be the winner of this week's USGA Junior Girls' tourney at Tulsa, Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis.

Miss Quast and Miss Gunderson are former holders of the SUGA amateur championship. And Miss Gunderson, Miss Eller and Judy Rand of Aurora, Ohio, are former USGA girls' junior champions. Miss Rand was eliminated in an early round of the 1960 junior girls' title chase this year.

Four Players Awarded College Scholarships

Four Pampa Roadrunners were named to the all-state semi-pro baseball team, and four more, including one all-stater, were awarded scholarships by Northwestern State College at Alva, Okla., yesterday.

Catcher Ray Dean, shortstop Bobby Nutt, and outfielders Bobby Stephens and Bobby Seitz were named to the 16-man all-state semi-pro team. The team was selected by major league scouts who attended the state tournament at Lubbock.

The scholarships went to Stephens, pitchers Kippy Williams and James Walker, and second baseman Ruben Strickland.

"These are working scholarships," Secret explained. "The boys will work as well as play baseball, and the scholarships will take care of everything except the entrance fee."

Secret and Henry Stephens took the players to Northwestern State Friday to talk with baseball coach Dick Highfill.

"He said he certainly wanted them to play baseball for him," Secret said. "And he also told them he was interested in them getting an education first—that baseball was second."

All four of the scholarship recipients are 18-years-old.

Secret said the professional scouts, who represented a majority of the major league baseball teams, were high in their praise of the four Pampa players.

"The scouts talked favorably of all the boys," Nutt said. "And some of them indicated they would be willing to sign them if they didn't plan to attend college—that they'd be able to play some place next summer. "But they particularly praised the boys for their hustle and ability."

Stephens and Nutt are each 18-years-old, among the youngest on the all-state team, Dean and Seitz are both 28.

The seven athletes all played key roles in the Roadrunners' climb to a 26-13 record.

Seitz played part of the season at third base, in addition to his outfield assignment, Secret recalled.

Since the Pampa team was eliminated from the state tournament, and thereby lost a bid to the national meet at Wichita, Kan., the season for the Roadrunners is virtually over.

However, Secret plans to attempt to schedule a few more games this month.

He was trying to arrange a game with Woodward, Okla., at the Optimist Club park today, but last night's rain prevented it.

Aggame scheduled with Sentinal, Okla., was on tap for last night, but rain washed it out before play could begin.

The contest with Woodward probably will be scheduled sometime this week.

With Unitas' Passing Arm Oiled, Colts Will Be As Tough As Ever

By JOE SARGIS
United Press International
Johnny Unitas and the Baltimore Colts are going to be as tough as ever.

Unitas, who guided the Colts to two straight National Football League championships, steered the herd to a last-minute, 14-10, victory Friday night, the Colts' second in exhibition play, over the new Dallas Cowboys. The Colts beat the College All-Stars, 32-7, last week.

With a crowd of 40,000 looking on in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Unitas connected on a 62-yard pass to Lenny Moore in the final minute of play to pull out the victory. Unitas and Moore also combined for Baltimore's first score—a 46-yard play as the first quarter ended.

Dallas, made up of picks from the other 12 NFL teams, scored on a 16-yard field goal by Fred

Cone and a one-yard plunge by Eddie LeBaron. LeBaron set up the Dallas score on a 65-yard pass-run play with Fred Dugan.

In other games Friday night, the Los Angeles Rams squeaked past the Washington Redskins 26-21, before a crowd of 57,025 in the Los Angeles Coliseum and veteran full-back Howie Ferguson plowed for two TD's to lead the Los Angeles charges to a 24-17 victory over the Oakland Raiders (1-2) before a crowd of only 6,521 in Kezar Stadium, San Francisco.

Two AFL games and one NFL game are on tap today. In these, the unbeaten Dallas Texans meet the New York Titans (0-2) at Abilene, Tex., the Denver Broncos (0-2) are at Houston against the Oilers (0-2) and the St. Louis Cardinals (1-0) play the Detroit Lions (0-1) at Toledo, Ohio. All are night games.

Buchholz Nips Holmberg; To Meet Laver In Finals

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—Young Earl Buchholz of St. Louis overcame a two-set deficit Saturday to beat second-seeded Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, N.Y., and move a step closer toward upsetting Australian Rod Laver's mastery of Eastern grass court competition.

Laver, aiming at an unprecedented fourth major grass court title, had eliminated England's Bobby Wilson, 6-4, 6-0, 3-6, 8-6. Earlier Saturday, Laver and the 19-year-old Buchholz will compete Sunday in the singles finale of the 79th Newport Invitational tennis tournament.

Third-seeded at the Casino, Buchholz took the first set, 8-7, but dropped the next two, 3-8 and 5-7. It appeared to the socialite-studded gallery after the third set that Holmberg had the finesse to eliminate Buchholz, the No. 2 singles player of America's Davis Cup squad.

But a 10-minute intermission apparently renewed Buchholz' drive and in a steady but deadly game, he upset Holmberg, 7-5, 6-3, to move into the finals.

Aggies Better, Myers Says

COLLEGE STATION — The Aggies have a sound of their own, and goes something like this: "Hula-baloo, ka-check, ka-check; Hula-baloo, ka-check, ka-check." Such standouts as Borger's George Hogan, a 220-pound mauler, and Ronnie Brice, former all-state quarterback from Andrews; and Sam Byer, a bull-like runner who weighs 215 pounds and plays fullback, indicate a bright future for the Aggies.

Bar, Roy Northrup, Carter Franklin, and Wayne Freiling. Each will tip the scales at slightly more than 200 pounds.

In fact, most of the Aggies' interior linemen will weigh in the 200-pound bracket, but Myers hasn't been able to come up with the giant-sized player to keep up with some of the 250-pounders on other rosters around the league.

Myers, the 38-year-old veteran who earned his grid stripes under the tutelage of Gen. Bob Neyland at Tennessee, faces a schedule which could end in a big case of ulcers.

Research Against Screw Worm May Boost Texas Deer Hunting

United Press International
New research in the battle against the screwworm may mean improved deer hunting in Texas. Dr. R. G. Garrett, executive director of the Texas Animal Health Commission, says if the screwworm is eradicated in the southwest, "the deer would cease to be a sporting thing and would become a nuisance to the production of beef, unless bag limits and seasons were loosened."

Garrett says the new research is made possible by a $200,000 appropriation approved recently by Congress.

The screwworm costs the livestock industry some $20 million annually in death losses, injury and poor weight gains. It also takes a heavy toll of deer, attacking fawns and adult deer alike.

The screwworm fly lays eggs in clusters on open wounds, from barbwire cuts or birth wounds. The eggs hatch into the larvae stage which is the real culprit in damage to deer. The worms bore their way into the deer's flesh, causing shock, fever, infections and weakening.

The research is attempting to technique of screwworm-fly eradication. The "sterile-fly" technique of screwworm-fly eradication. Scientists hope to find a cheap way to raise populations of male flies, sterilize them, then release them in clouds on an unsuspecting female fly population.

Some 20 Million Days Spent Fishing In Ponds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interior Department estimates that in 1959 at least five million persons enjoyed more than 20 million man-days of recreational fishing in farm ponds stocked by the fish and wildlife service.

A survey by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife indicates that 25 per cent of all persons fishing in fresh water in 1959 fished at least once in a pond that had been stocked by the bureau.

Between 30,000 and 40,000 ponds are stocked annually with fish produced at the national fish hatcheries.

Large mouth bass, bluegills and sunfish were the primary species used in the stocking program.

Sunfish were stocked in combination with the bluegills in the southeastern states and channel catfish were stocked in 155 ponds in the Southwest.

The survey covered 1,000 ponds in a 25-state area. Pond owners said in personal interviews that 958 of the ponds provided some fishing in 1959.

The survey indicated that fishing in farm ponds was unusually good among the 958 ponds that had fishing, the average catch of large mouth bass was 46 fish per acre in 1959. Since the bass were stocked as fingerlings and at rates varying from 50 to 10 fish per acre, this average showed a very high return.

Girl Scouts Honor Founders

1,903 Scouts 629 Workers In Council

By VIRGINIA IRWIN
Daily News Staff Writer

The largest girls' organization in the free world was started with a phone call, when Juliette Gordon Low returned from England to her home in Savannah and called a friend. She said, "I've got something for the girls of Savannah, and all America, and all the world, and we're going to start it tonight."

With these words she founded Girl Scouting in the United States. This year, 1,031 Girl Scout councils are celebrating the 100th anniversary of her birth, Oct. 31, 1860.

She got the scouting idea in England from Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the scouting movement there.

He said, "The ideal of Girl Scouts is unity; to break down in the coming generation prevailing differences between classes, creeds and countries, and to bring about in their place peace and brotherhood."

Mrs. Low was a fashionable society woman who traded a life of leisure for the strenuous job of organizing a national movement. She even sold her pearls to help finance it.

She organized the first troop with 12 members in 1912 in Savannah. Membership has grown at an impressive rate since then. It now numbers close to 3 1/2 million, including 800,000 adults. Today, one out of every seven girls between the ages of 7 and 17 in the United States is a Girl Scout.

Mrs. Low's conception of Girl Scouting was a broad and far-reaching one. Her interest in the early developments of aviation led to the establishment of the Wing Scouts. She was responsible for producing in 1918 a documentary film on Girl Scouting, which was one of the first public service motion pictures. Today girls can find such interests as homemaking, painting, sculpting, dramatics, first aid or home nursing, sailing and camping.

Mrs. Low had the conviction that scouting is a tie that links girls from different countries in friendship and mutual appreciation. Today Girl Scouts all over America contribute each year to a fund that bears her name, and the money is used for world-wide events with girls from various nations participating.

She wanted an organization open to all girls. Today any girl may belong to the organization. Of course, Mrs. Low could never have built the organization to its present stature without the help of thousands of other women; so the Girl Scouts are honoring all Girl Scout founders.

The first incorporated council in Pampa began in 1940. Troops had flourished over the area before this time. The first council included Pampa troops only and originally had five troops. The charter for the organization was signed by Mrs. F. M. Culbertson, first commissioner; Mrs. Mel Davis, vice commissioner; Mrs. J. N. Turner, treasurer; and Mrs. Fred Thompson, secretary. The first paid executive for the local group was Sally Cahill.

The present Quivera Council which includes nine counties in Texas and one in Oklahoma was incorporated in March of this year. There are 136 troops in the council numbering 1,903 girls and 629 adult workers.

Mrs. Marian Osborne became executive director of the council when it was incorporated. She began Scout work in 1946 as a troop leader.

The local council is planning a senior-intermediate conference for Sept. 9, 10, and 11 at Camp Mel Davis, six miles east of Lefors. All intermediate and senior scouts may attend the meet which will keep with the founders day theme, "Yesterday, Foundation for Tomorrow."

The program will include films, talks and discussion groups devised to help the girls understand various troop programs and the services which can be given their communities. Hikes, campfires and recreation will be included on the program.

Special speakers will be: Mrs. Marian Osborne, executive director of the council; Miss Kay Howell district director; Miss Martha Skelly, district director; Mrs. John Holt Jr., council president; Mrs. Joe Wells, senior troop leader; Mrs. Marge Moore, intermediate leader; and Misses Sondra Sullins and Marilyn Wells, associate Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Fred Wall will be business manager for the conference and Miss Marlene Bourroughs, will be the nurse.

Foreign Exhibits At State Fair

DALLAS (UPI) — Some 25 foreign countries will present exhibits at the third annual Texas International Trade Fair during the State Fair of Texas, Oct. 8-23.

Kenneth W. Erickson, Trade Fair manager, said approximately 27 foreign countries would be represented in the International Bazaar, an adjunct to the Trade Fair.

Countries that have completed negotiations for exhibits in the Fair include France, Italy, Korea, Sweden, Israel, Belgium, Great Britain, India, the United Arab Republic and Japan, Erickson said.

Also expected to exhibit are China, Yugoslavia, the Philippines and the Netherlands.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hughes left Friday for a week at Lake Kemp, where they will join Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Martin, and two of their daughters, Sue and Darlene.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fish, and sons, Joe and Lynn, began a week vacation Sunday, they are going to fish and visit friends at Texas points.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Tutor and children, returned Thursday from a tour of Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Johnson and Sandra spent the weekend visiting with his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wall and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Fenno. Daniel J. Johnson and family of Pampa, also visited the Johnsons, who were en route to California to visit a brand new grandson.

The Case of The Bulging Zipper

Do you have trouble pulling the zipper over the bulges? Why not get rid of ugly fat, quickly, easily and without starvation diet?

Just ask any Texas druggist for four ounces of Barcontrate. Follow directions on label and watch the fat just seem to melt away.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to reduce, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Mrs. C. J. Warner, 1211 Van Ness St., San Antonio 8, Texas, states that she lost 30 pounds taking Barcontrate and not only found it to be a permanent reducer, but also an excellent tonic.

PRETTIEST SIGHT we've seen this week was the Balloon Satellite sailing overhead... the prettiest sound we heard was the choir singing at the Youth Rally held Sunday evening last in Harvester Field stadium. Both were inspirational. If you were downtown at any time during "Little Sir Echo's" passing, it was amusing to see everyone standing on the streets craning their neck heavenward... and it was much more comforting to see this satellite than it was the Russian one in 1957. Can you imagine, Little Sir Echo, tall as a 10-story building, whizzing 15,000 miles an hour 1200 miles up, is covered with a plastic as thin as that you receive your clothes in from the cleaners? ...and, here, we can't even make it out of a Dime store with a twenty-five cent balloon without bursting it.

GATHER AROUND for we have news of import to report... Amarillo Little Theatre has set Friday, September 16th, as PAMPA NIGHT for local residents to go over and see Dr. N. J. Ellis in the leading role of "The Boy Friend"... the entire center section of the theater, which is in Wolflin Village, has been reserved for Pampa residents... Betty Ellis is taking reservations now for the production, which will run Sept. 14 through Sept. 20... and she will be taking reservations until Sept. 9 for the convenience of local theater-lovers... after that date, tickets will be returned to Amarillo... quite a few reservations have already been made for ALL's first production... and there are four more scheduled during the season... hope Pampans will fill that entire section on Friday night, September 16... should make for a pleasant evening with friends both on the stage and off!

Happiness makes up in height for what it lacks in length. — Robert Frost.

WHAT'S ON ALL the college-bound girls' minds these days it's not boys, silly... it's what clothes to take back to campus with them... while we are not an authority on what will be worn on and off campus, we have put our mind to it... and after thumbing through slick magazines and strolling up and down Cuyler Street with our nose pressed to the shop windows, we've formed the opinion that the brightest color wave in many a year will dominate the campus scene... for example, a shocking pink shirt-topping, an orange skirt with a green belt will not be unusual at all... Kelly Blue seems to be a predominate color for Fall... and the Fun Look this year is knickers... we love the fur trim on winter coats... nothing is more feminine-looking than a smartly-coiffed head snuggled in a collar of deep fur... this certainly will be the season for being a woman and liking it!

Happiness is a perishable fruit, which must be used each day, for it will not keep. — E. L. Benedict

CLOUD NINE OF HAPPINESS could be the only mode of transportation that enabled attractive Jiggy Qualls to arrive home from Houston on Wednesday... be gay at round of parties given for her on Thursday... attend to last-minute details on Friday for her wedding on Saturday at High Noon to William Seals in First Presbyterian Church... that was the cleverest shower that Louise Dunn and her pretty niece, Carol Herzberg of Enid, Oklahoma gave for those two pretty Carols, Carol Henry and Carol Hughes... it was a breakfast in the home of Ann Heskew... guests wore kitchen gadgets, which were later given to the brides-elect... one gift was a pair of chore-girl scouring pads worn as earrings... another clever idea was three attractive tea towels basted together to form a shawl... Carol Henry said her vows on Saturday evening in the First Methodist Church with James Wendyl Pool and they're off now on a wedding trip to Raton, N. M... Carol Hughes will walk down First Methodist aisle on the arm of her father this Wednesday evening... her fiance's name, James Anthony Jones, has striking resemblance to Princess Margaret's husband, Anthony Armstrong Jones... don't you think?... oh, speaking of names before we forget... an opps emitting from last week's column, it's Tony Welker, not Tony Welcher, who is becoming a wicked chess opponent for those who sit down opposite him in that grand old game... and we thought for sure that we had sprayed our typewriter good with anti-typographical spray before we started writing that day!... we did get an additional chess item from the little mix-up though... Wilson Neal is one fellow from here who plans to attend the chess tournament in Lubbock in September.

QUIP-OF-THE-WEEK... Small Car Driver, plagued all day in traffic by Big Car Drivers, finally lost his patience and called out to a BCD, when one cut in front of him too closely... "the next time you do that, I'm going home and get my Big Brother's truck."

ALL ABOUT PAMPANS... Eloise Braly, who is a Bright Spot in Chamber of Commerce office, is off vacationing... she flew to British Columbia for a two-day visit with relatives and friends... then down into Oregon and finally will wind-up her two week's idyll with a deep-sea fishing trip in California... Don and Ruth Hutchens report on an adequate string of trout which made their vacation in Colorado very worthwhile... strictly a man's man is Master Eddie Wiley, who has a fervid love of motors... he is never happier than when he is watching his dad, Paul, or a neighborhood man-of-the-house run his power-mower... and the neighbor's wife is never happier than when Eddie is watching the man-of-the-house run the mower... we hear Rosemary Lawlor is to take over duties as director of First Christian Church choir, when Lavinia Webb relinquishes those duties and moves to Dallas to teach in Highland Park Junior this year... this item is not about Pampa, but about its bushes... we remember from reading Indian Folklore that the number of berries on a bush foretold the type of winter coming up... if bushes were loaded with berries, that meant an intense cold one, for birds would need a lot of berries to feast upon during the cold weather... if the bushes were barren, it meant a mild winter... so from what we can see of the pyrocantha bushes around town, it's going to be a long, hard, cold winter... Before we set our hearts too much upon anything, see how happy those are who already possess it. — La Rochefoucauld

POSTSCRIPT... hear that Betty Boynton Frandsen of Denver, Colo. is visiting with her parents, the H. H. Boyntons... nice to have her here adding a pretty note to the summer scene... saw Eleanor Waggoner this week scurrying in and out of stores with a sheaf of papers under her arm... she must have been about important business... here is a talented gal... and about that Camera Club that used to flourish in dear old Pampa... it was first organized by Joe Tooley... they met regularly, set up a darkroom, and studied the intricate techniques of capturing images for posterity... then after concentrated study they learned as much as they needed to know for a non-commercial hobby and disbanded... they just got too smart, that's all... and a note from the teen-age scene informs us that Peggy Grimes is awfully anxious to get a Paul Anka Fan Club started... if you "dig" Paul, you might let Peggy know... in addition to adoring the teen-age singer, the club will engage in worthwhile community projects... that's all for now.

Carol Ann Henry Becomes Bride Of James W. Poole

Miss Carol Ann Henry became the bride of James Wendyl Pool with wedding vows exchanged on August 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of First Methodist Church. Miss Henry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Henry, 1310 Christine. Mrs. Pool's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Pool of Madill, Okla.

Double-ring vows were read by the Rev. Woodrow W. Adcock amid a setting of greenery. Huckleberry hedge entwined the choir and communion rails with Jade Palms enclosing the background and white spiral and tree candelabra softly lighting the scene with candlelight. The altar was adorned with a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli.

For pre-nuptial selections, Tom Atkin, at the organ, played "Aloes," "I Love You Truly," Schubert's "Serenade," "Clair de Lune," "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," and "I Love Thee." The traditional wedding procession and recessional accompanied the bridal party.

Fall's Fashions Readied In Veil Of Secrecy

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

PARIS (NEA) — The clothes which Paris hopes America will copy and you will wear some time this fall are now being readied in great secrecy.

The curtain will go up on the showings on July 25 and then we'll see what Parisian designers have whipped up for approval of women everywhere.

Already, there are rumors of dropped waistlines (now being shown in America), longer skirt lengths, enormous collars framing small, sleek heads and two marked influences: the Asian and the Charleston era.

Asking a top designer just what he plans to unveil is about as useful as asking the chef at the Toer d'Argent for his pressed duck recipe. But whispers do circulate around Paris and, at present, this is the way the designers line up:

Nina Ricci: Crahay has made the waistline moveable, which probably means that both the high and low waistlines will be shown. He has juggled hemlines and is using contrasting colors in reversible woolens.

Guy Laroche: Easy, supple lines predominate here. The trend is definitely 1930 brought up-to-date. The Asian influence is stressed. This means lots of lacquer red, black, and both Oriental-type brocades and ames for evening.

House of Dior: Silence reigns here but the word is out that boy wonder Yves Saint Laurent has been told to get busy with less sophisticated, extreme clothes.

Pierre Balmain: This house recently completed a wardrobe for the beautiful young Queen Sirikit of Thailand. So nobody is going to be surprised if Balmain's coming collection shows an Oriental influence.

Jacques Hyeim: This designer going in heavily for rich fur trimmings (just as American designers have done for fall). He is also using deep colors ranging from deep red to greens, yellows and browns.

Jean Patou: Here, the line is slender and clinging. There will be shoulder-wide necklaces and collars.

Jean Desses: This Greek-born designer will show new versions of his beautiful, draped chiffon evening gowns. He favors the ankle-length gown for evening wear.

Pierre Cardin: This avant-garde fashion creator has worked out clean-cut, casual silhouette. Shoulders and waistline are well defined. He uses soft, lightweight clinging fabrics. His colors stream off - shades of green, brown, purple, red and blue.

The secret of looking always well-groomed is constant attention to your clothes. This may sound tiresome but it's essential. You can't look neat with a slip that's hanging down, run-over heels and a ripped hem. Take care of minor repairs as they're needed.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Quite often I met people in their teens who promptly begin to idealize me.

They want to spend as much time with me as possible. They listen reverently to anything I say, whether it's about a delayed grocery order or the plays of Tennessee Williams.

My political gripes, my religious views, my distaste for cooking on hot summer nights always strike them as the most fresh and original opinions ever held by anyone. They seek my approval with an eagerness that would astound their parents.

I am not flattered by this adoration. My idealizing young friends endow me with ultimate wisdom because they want me to use it in their behalf.

If I am the most trustworthy adult in the world they can justify their dependence upon my advice and protection. Thus, their idealization of me is the mechanism by which they can avoid trusting themselves, their own opinions and feelings.

This is the mechanism that underlies much adolescent hero worship of adults other than their parents.

As growth forces your Harry or Gwen to renounce their unquestioning trust of your judgment he or she will transfer it to an adult neighbor, relative or friend as part of the process of developing independence, much as a man who has broken his leg discards his cast for crutches.

When this idealization is fixed on another adult we dislike, parents get upset. We are hurt by Gwen's rejection of our wisdom and fear the "bad influence" of her idealized friend.

If we understand the mechanism behind the idealization, we can reduce our anxiety. To see that Gwen idealizes the loud, assured, flashily dressed divorcee down the street because she does not trust her own sex appeal is to see Gwen's real problem.

We can move past our hurt and fear to start building her sexual confidence. We can begin to make her more conscious of her physical assets by becoming more aware of them ourselves.

We can suggest dancing lessons. Open our home to more entertainment of her friends. But if we attack the subject of her idealization, we will force Gwen to increase it.

The adolescent's idealized friend is always what psychoanalyst Erich Fromm calls the "magic helper." He is the person our family-detaching child endows with superhuman strength, charm and wisdom because he still fears to trust himself and stand alone.

RUTH MILLETT

A hostess with the mostest offers the following down-to-earth rules for giving a good party.

One. Never entertain a small group of friends without bringing in some "new blood." If you do, you'll find the little group talking about the same things they talked about last week at someone else's party and becoming bored.

Two. Never confuse having a party with repaying social obligations. A hostess has to do both, but she ought to keep the occasions separate.

Three. If you see that the men are beginning to drift off and leave the women, do something quickly to bring them back.

Get someone at the piano who can play popular songs (men love to sing) or get everybody playing a game.

But whatever you do, don't just stand and make wifely sounding comments like, "Did you ever know it to fail? Jim has all the men watching the fights."

Four. Keep your meats and vegetables separate if you want the men to enjoy the meal. Women love so-called "one-dish meals" with everything junked in a casserole, but men like to cut their meat with a knife.

Five. Don't expect anyone to eat from his lap and be happy while doing it. If you are serving buffet, at least have enough tray tables for each person to have a place to set his plate.

Six. Don't hurry, bustle, or look worried no matter what goes wrong. A relaxed, a-easing hostess makes her guests feel relaxed, while a nervous hostess makes them wonder when they can decently get away.

Let your guests go when they want to go instead of making them feel apologetic for leaving.

Just following those few rules Ruth will turn you into a happy hostess, instead of a harried one, this woman claims.

Next time you give a party you might want to give them a try—unless, of course, you have been

D. L. Parker, local florist, was introduced by Mrs. Dorothy Francis as the morning's guest speaker. Mr. Parker spoke to the group informatively on the topic, "Annuals."

"Use fresh seed for vigorous plants and do not plant them too deep," the speaker said. "Most of the fine, tiny seeds, such as poppy and petunia seed, can be pressed into the soil."

"Some annuals which are easy to grow for an edging or border are: lobelia, pansies, verbena, sweet alyssum, ageratum, portulaca and petunias. These grow about four to 12 inches tall," Mr. Parker

RUTH MILLETT

Today's educated young men want wives who are their equals in intellect and education. But the educated gals have a different idea. They want husbands who will dominate them. This all came out in a recent survey of college students.
So who'll have their way? The men, naturally. When they say they want wives who are their equal they are saying they don't want the responsibility for being the big, strong, he-man who are heads of their houses.
They want wives who can make decisions, balance budgets, handle the children without bothering the papas, help the men get ahead by being social assets, and, if necessary, manage jobs with one hand and a home with the other.
Today's young men don't want to be boss because they don't want that much responsibility. Why marry clinging vines when they can marry girls who can be depended on to carry at least half of the load and maybe more?
The girls are going to be disappointed, all right, if they really think they are going to find husbands who will dominate them.
The modern woman is often accused of being too domineering for the good of the family. She is blamed for the fact that at home she rules the roost.
But the truth is that the modern woman has become head of the house because the modern American male doesn't want to be head of the house.

Same Old Face Can Be Improved With Little Thoughtful Grooming

By the time they reach their middle thirties, a good many women know themselves far too well. That is, they have become so accustomed to the way they look that they never really give it a thought.
The face in the mirror is, after all, the same old face; what's new about it? And it never seems to occur to them that this sameness may not, to friends and family, be a sparkling thing. Right about here, it's time to examine your habits with regard to your appearance.
Did you long ago form the habit of buying the same kind of shirtwaist dress year after year because it's comfortable? Or wearing blue because it used to be your favorite color? Or doing your hair the same way because it's easy enough though it's no longer very becoming? Are you satisfied with calling a dab of powder and a dash of lipstick "make-up"?
If this sounds like you, then you're not being fair to yourself. For never have women lived in a time which has brought them so many aids to good looks. You can change and improve your appearance literally overnight.
But there's just one little catch in this. In order to do it, you really have to want to improve!
Youth has, suddenly, become a definite issue in the coming presidential campaign. And in another way, so has appearance. For Americans seem intrigued by the notion of a young and pretty first lady whether Pat Nixon or Jacqueline Kennedy.
Of course, no mature and thinking American is going to allow this to influence voting one whit. But meantime, the people seem to be enjoying the idea that no matter which way the elections go, we are bound to have an attractive First Lady in the White House.
Both Pat Nixon and Jacqueline Kennedy are trim, chic and attractive. Both know how to get a maximum of good grooming when they travel with their out of a minimum of luggage when they travel with their husbands. Pat Nixon is obviously more experienced on this score and always emerges looking cool, pretty and ladylike even in the midst of shoving crowds. But Jacqueline Kennedy is learning, it's reported, that it isn't so much the amount of luggage that counts as it is the selection of clothes.
So, either way, this country is bound to have the prettiest first lady since Dolley Madison.
When you are at a bridge party, don't tell your partner how she should have made a play. Your "advice" is bound to be resented.

Dear Abby... Just One Time, Abby Gives Counterfeit Advice

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Not all nickels without mint marks are counterfeit. All nickels minted in Philadelphia with the exception of the years 1942 through 1945 bear no mint mark. The others are marked "D" for Denver and "S" for San Francisco.

E. R. (Old coin collector)

DEAR E. R.: You are indeed correct and I was in error. My source was counterfeit.

DEAR ABBY: Your advise to "STRAIGHT UP AND DOWN" got me sore. How can you advise women to pad themselves up deliberately to deceive men about their figures? Any man who would forgive a woman for cheating that way must be nuts.

women are naturally round, firm and fully packed. And a man who would turn down a girl just because she wasn't "all there" isn't all there himself.

DEAR ABBY: Can you let me know how many people have been killed or crippled by dogs and how many have been saved by them? I was a salesman, and as far as I am concerned the only good dogs are dead ones. "Man's best friend" scratched up $1,000 worth of plants for me in three days. The owner just laughed.

BLAINE

DEAR BLAINE: The owner could have laughed himself all the way to court. Why didn't you see a lawyer?

France Rewards Girl's Service Against Nazis

By ROSETTE HARGROVE, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Lydia de Lipski

PARIS (NEA) — It's hard to pick out Lydia Lova, 34, among the 45 dancers at the Folies Bergere. But France has called her front and center more than once to take a special bow. She has been presented with the Croix de Guerre with bronze palm and more than a half dozen other war decorations.

You see, there's much more to Lydia than meets the eye. There's a story of heroism performed by a teen-age girl in the face of Gestapo torture and concentration camp life. That story cannot be seen under the lights at the Folies Bergere.

Lydia de Lipski, 15, returned to France from Poland in 1939 at the outbreak of World War II. Her mother and younger brother having been trapped in Warsaw. She never saw them again.

Her father organized a resistance group. Lydia was secretary.

Lydia, who acted as courier for her father, took the Resistance name of "Cipienka" (little chicken) in Polish. She and her father were betrayed in 1941 by a Mathilde Carre, who eventually became known as "The Cat."

Lydia was tortured for several months but remained silent, never revealing the names of Resistance group members of their activities.

Britain's Royal Air Force. They "shared" a photograph Lydia had given them, splitting six pieces to be matched up after the war. Four of those pieces will not be fitted.

Although the war has been over for more than 15 years, France, too, still remembers the courageous teen-ager, a descendant of a great Polish family which can trace its ancestry back to the kings of Hungary in the 12th century. Lydia Lipski, now Lova, recently was made a Knight of the Legion of Honor. She's the only dancer who can claim that distinction.

Timely Tips For Making Make-up Smoother

If you feel that your make-up looks smoother and more glamorous after a mid-day touch-up than it did when you applied the original make-up, then you are not applying enough make-up in the beginning, according to beauty authority Max Factor.

Many women believe that, in order to create a natural-looking make-up, their beauty requisites must be applied sparingly and therefore they fail to apply enough for true beautification. For results that are both natural-looking and glamorous, it is important that you give your complexion full foundation make-up coverage. Cover every blemish and blend the make-up to an even tone. Take enough time to apply your eye make-up correctly, and shape your brows carefully for an attractive expression. Your lipstick, as well, should be applied with care and artistry, using enough color to give your lips a smooth, full contour.

Matter Of Competitive Athletics For Children Under Twelve Is Debatable

NEW YORK (UPI)—Educators generally agree that athletic programs for children of all ages are a necessary part of their education and recreation.

But the matter of competitive athletics for children under 12 is controversial.

To aid parents and others involved in the subject, the Committee on School Health of the American Academy of Pediatrics has arrived at certain conclusions after a study of competitive athletics.

"We are concerned in this statement with the question of competitive athletics for children 12 years of age and under," the committee reported.

Emotional Pressures

For children in the young age group, the committee said that athletics become highly competitive and undesirable WHEN the main emphasis is placed on winning, when emotional pressures are applied by teachers and when parents express great concern over winning or losing.

"Developmental needs of elementary school children are best met if physical activities are informal and not highly competitive," the committee said.

"Athletic competition should be gradually introduced with simple games involving few participants; five small groups are better than one large one.

"This plan will allow the child to develop early a sense of belonging as well as giving him the experience of pride in his accomplishment."

The pediatricians said that children under 12 are particularly susceptible to bone and joint injury because growing ends of the long bones have not yet calcified and the children do not possess the same bone structure.

"Such injury," the committee said, "may result in interference with normal bone growth. For this reason, body-contact sports, particularly wrestling, tackle football and boxing should be avoided in the sports program."

"Baseball, a good game in itself, often becomes highly competitive, a tendency that must be guarded against in this age group."

The committee said that it is vital to remember that boys and girls are children—and not "little men" and "little women."

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

The whale is a warm-blooded creature. Yet his way of life requires him to make his way through the oceans' freezing depths and the killing chill of polar seas.

He has learned the lesson of adaptation to this cold pressure. He insulates himself by developing a blanket of fat — a thick layer of "blubber" which puts distance between his warm inner life and the seas' numbing cold.

Without this protective buffer of fat, he could not resist it. It would reach him and freeze him to death.

Once I resorted to the whale's method of adaptation. I found myself living among some critical and overbearing people. Almost at once I began to gain weight.

Like the whale, I was caught in an environment I couldn't get away from and, again like him, put distance between me and its pressures by accumulating fat.

Finally I stopped being afraid of my anger at the pressures. I blew up at the shoving people who promptly retreated, withdrawing the pressures. As quickly as I had gained the weight, I began to lose it. With the reduction of pressures I reduced.

This whale adaptation might be considered by the Mrs. W who writes:

"Our 18-year-old girl is overweight. But though I do everything I can to make her diet, the moment my back is turned she's sneaking candy and other fattening foods..."

As weight gain can be a child's way of shoving back against pressures we put on him, we can rarely reduce him by pressing him to diet.

The wiser way is usually to let him retain the protecting buffer of fat and concentrate on reducing the sense of pressure which may have developed it.

If we can get him to confide his feeling to us, encouraging him to express it without fear when we seem to be shoving him, we may be amazed at the anger he releases and at what this open resistance does to his secretly resisting fat.

It will be silly for us to get all upset at the idea that our pressure may have some bearing on a child's overweight. We're pushed, too; and until we become aware that we may be transferring the pressures that push us to the child, we can't help pushing.

But if we do become conscious of it, we may not only be able to resist the pressures that shove us but also can release the child from them, so that he begins to lose his need for fat to resist.

Sharp Group Makes Stuffed Toys To Be Sent To Children Of Congo

Sharp Group of First Christian Church held a workshop meeting recently in Fellowship Hall of the church with Mrs. C. N. Gage as hostess. The Group cut, sewed and stuffed animal toys to be sent to Christian Missionary children in the Congo. Members also brought school supplies for children in the Congo.

The devotional, "Keep Your Windows Open To God" was given by Mrs. John Gill, who also conducted a quiz session on "Is Your Church A Place of Worship For All People?"

During the business session, conducted by Mrs. Gill in the absence of the Group leader, Mrs. Bob Swanson, members were reminded that they are to visit shut-ins this month and to remember the shut-ins' birthdays.

It was announced that the Sharp Group will be hostess for a Coffee on Sept. 21 in the church for all women of the church.

Mrs. Gill also reported that an executive board meeting of Christian Women's Fellowship will be held Aug. 24 at 9:15 a.m. in the church.

Mrs. K. L. Green read a letter from Juliette Fowler Children's Home in Dallas expressing appreciation for the box of toys sent to the home.

Mrs. Charles Beard reported on the Husbands' Night to be held in September. A hay-ride and weiner roast has been planned and reservations should be made by Sept. 12.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Attending were Mmes. John Gill, K. L. Green, Charles Beard, Cecil Deist, C. N. Gage, Burl Graham Jr., Lloyd Laramore, O. H. Odom, Leon Howell, Walton Bailey and Walyn Gibson.

It was announced that the next Group meeting will be held Sept. 12 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Walyn Gibson, 1105 Huff Road.

Instrument Of Socialization

One of the best articles we have ever seen on the nature and the dangers of the Federal Reserve System is one that appeared in "American Opinion" back in April of 1958.

Just 112 years ago, Karl Marx set forth in his "Communist Manifesto" the idea of centralized control of the money and credit system of a nation. Marx wished to do away with private ownership of property.

In order to achieve his end, he called for (Point 5): "Centralization of credit in the hands of the state, by means of a national bank with state capital and an exclusive monopoly."

This was listed as one of the important things to be done in the more "advanced" countries as a necessary step in their communizing, socializing, or nationalizing.

Hans Sennholz, the author of the article to which reference is made, undertook in a few brief paragraphs to explain what the Federal Reserve System was and is, and what is wrong with it. We'll quote from his observations:

"An appraisal of the good points and bad points of the Federal Reserve System depends on the political and economic philosophy of the appraiser. If you favor government control over our economy you will regard the Federal Reserve most favorably, for it actually holds absolute power over the people's money and credit. And despite its technical ownership by the member banks, it necessarily operates as a government agency, an agency which regulates the money and credit supplied along lines dictated by political considerations."

"If you are convinced of the beneficial nature of a capitalist economy, you will unconditionally reject the Federal Reserve System. You will condemn it as the controlling body of a socialized industry. You will blame it for having shattered the American dollar; for having caused booms, busts, recessions, and depressions; and for having given the forty-four years of its existence the period's fundamental characteristic, an unprecedented economic instability."

"In the opinion of this writer this instability then fostered the growth of ideologies that are hostile to individual liberty. The Federal Reserve, through its policies of 'boom and bust,' helped to usher in the New Deal. And it now acts as midwife to ever more extensive government controls."

All of the above is fairly strong, but so far as we can tell, not one whit too strong. For the men in the Federal Reserve System who sit at the top of its operation have financial power probably second to no other group of men in the world.

These men, ostensibly private persons, yet nonetheless doing the bidding of their government when the chips are down, have it within their ability to change the content of every deferred payment. That is, they can inflate the money you use thus making it possible for you to pay back what you have borrowed with money of less purchasing power than that which you borrowed.

They can increase or decrease the real value of every mortgage, every bond, every insurance policy or every other instrument of debt. They actually hold in their hands supreme power over prices, wages, profits and even over employment or unemployment.

The centralization of power is quite properly looked upon as a socialization of power. We do not favor the idea that a few men either should or can control our lives. But following the Marxian idea, we have set up a centralized device for controlling all money and credit in this nation and the end results are the very thing we abhor and fear. To quote Sennholz again:

"The board of governors of the Federal Reserve System have the real power, through the political results of their economic controls, to make this a socialist nation. President Eisenhower, in many remarks about inflation since his second inauguration, has indicated the complete regimentation of our lives by the federal government which is in store for us. And the road from inflation to socialism is inevitable."

The prospect is not a pleasant one, insofar as the stability of the dollar is concerned. And it is certainly apparent that the November elections in the offing will not change the nation's reliance upon the Federal Reserve System, regardless of which party attains the victory.

Socialism In Saskatchewan

The Association of American Physicians and Surgeons has brought to light a story of governmental intrusion in the field of medicine from our neighbor on the north.

The information bulletin from this highly-respected organization on July 26 tells us what happened in Saskatchewan when the Canadian politicians moved in against the medical profession in a manner so similar to what is happening in the U.S.A. that one could almost write the story and use names of persons involved on an interchangeable basis.

Of course, there is one place where the medical men have opened the doorway to governmental intrusion and this doorway was opened long ago. This was when medical men first went to the government to obtain the force of guns and bayonets to back up the licensing of physicians, surgeons and other practicing the various healing arts.

In point of fact, the medical men could have and should have policed their own ranks without calling on the government. But this was something they didn't know and it is something that most of them still have to learn.

Perhaps the physicians and surgeons on both sides of the Canadian border will learn as a result of the mammoth steps being taken in both countries that socialized medicine is something that is obtained gradually and that the first step in that direction occurs at the first moment in which the medical men call on the government for any kind of cooperative effort.

Back in 1959, the premier of Saskatchewan, a man named Douglas, introduced a plan for medical care to be administered by the department of Public Health and to be compulsory in character. The Saskatchewan medical profession, according to the bulletin, protested and offered its finest men to discuss the issue or to debate the separate points.

Premier Douglas adopted the normal dodge of any politician at this juncture. He set up a "committee" to which the medical profession sent representation in the hopes that reason and sound judgment would carry the day.

Then, to the apparent amazement of the medical profession, it belatedly learned that ever since 1944, when the government of Saskatchewan had turned a definite hue of pink a strong program had been pushed and implemented toward a complete socialized medical program in the province.

Step by step from 1944 up until 1959, the socialist persuaders and organizers had advanced. The program began tangibly in 1945 with a plan for Old Age Pension Medical Care, supported by tax funds. The doctors shared in the cost of the program by furnishing services at less than their normal fees. Then, in 1946, came a regional "health plan" also administered at the top and costing taxpayers and doctors in the region. Then, in 1947, public hospitalization came to Saskatchewan.

The cost of the Department of Public Health, originally budgeted at $5 million, has now climbed to $32 million per year. A report on the activities of socialized medicine in Saskatchewan includes the following:

"There are of course many other intrusions of government into medical care, some justified - some not so justified. Let me indicate some by name: workmen's compensation board cases; high way accident cases; poliomyelitis, venereal disease treatment, rheumatic fever control. In 1952 a New Health Planning Commission was formed following the Health Survey Report as a consequence of the introduction of the National Health Program of Federal Grants."

Apparently, although it must have come as a shock to certain members of the medical profession, students of politics would know that a politician north of the border would be the same kind of person as his counterpart south of the border. Politicians are human and want good jobs at fat incomes. They will do almost anything to justify continued paychecks coming from the government.

The medical profession in Canada and elsewhere is suffering from a reliance upon political methods and devices.

There is no possible way of stopping socialized medicine saving only in avoiding ALL ties between medicine and politics.

On Inability To Compete

There is much agitation for increased tariff, especially on textiles. It is said that the Japanese are able to sell a blouse in our country for $1.00 in every way comparable to a blouse made in our country that sells for $2.00.

If the Japanese blouses are allowed to come in, we are told, the American blouse makers cannot compete and many persons will lose their employment.

Let us examine this situation carefully. Suppose A buys a Japanese-manufactured blouse for $1.00, instead of paying $2.00 for an American made blouse. She now has $1.00 left and uses it to buy a hat. She has benefitted and now has both a blouse and a hat, whereas, under the increased tariff schedule, she would have only a blouse. She can now enjoy, let us say, twice as much goods as formerly.

The purchase of the hat furnishes employment for hatmakers. The manufacturers of the Japanese blouse use the dollar paid for it to purchase shoes for importation into Japan. Just as much American labor is required for the making of the blouse. The difference is that the consumer in our country has twice as much goods for her money, and there are more jobs and more consumption of goods in Japan.

The only disadvantage is that American employers and employees who formerly made blouses must transfer to the making of hats and shoes. This causes a certain amount of temporary dislocation, but these dislocated people are also consumers and it must be remembered that under the tariff reduction or abolition policy in question they would also be able to buy far more goods than under the tariff regime. That which serves the consumer is beneficial to all of us. It means we have more. Any tariff means that consumers have less. The way for all of us to have greater quantity of goods is under a free trade regime in which the people of all countries would devote themselves to making that which they can produce the cheapest and most efficiently. We need not fear that idleness would result in our country because merchandise from other countries would undersell ours, for no country could sell merchandise to our people unless it likewise bought the equivalent thereof from our own industries. No nation would sell us goods for which we did not pay, and in the long run the only means we would have to pay would be to sell our own goods in return for what we purchased.

The net result of free trade would mean vastly more goods for the people of all countries engaged therein. A certain amount of inconvenience would be encountered in making the adjustment but the gain would be manifold - a vast advance in the standard of living everywhere.

WASTE, MISHANDLING COSTING TAXPAYERS BILLIONS CHARGED IN HANDLING SURPLUS FARM COMMODITIES

WASHINGTON — Juicy "windfall" profits are still being pocketed in the storing and exporting of those huge stocks of surplus farm products that are costing taxpayers billions of dollars.

Despite repeated jolting disclosures by House and Senate investigators of such boondoggling and waste, it continues unchecked.

That's what's behind the new series of public hearings contemplated by the House Government Operations Investigating Subcommittee headed by Representative L. H. Fountain (D., N.C.), under his forceful probing in the past several years, scores of instances of lucrative profiteering and outright illegalities have been uncovered.

Chiefly involved in this long scandal-scared record are the Agriculture Department and the International Cooperation Administration, in charge of foreign economic aid.

Both will figure prominently in the new sensational exposés.

Significantly indicative of their nature are the findings of a report Representative Fountain's committee is preparing for publication. It cites a long list of costly waste, incompetence and misdeeds in the handling and disposal of the government's multi-billion hoard of surplus farm commodities.

Highlights of this shocking record are:

"An extremely high percentage of foreign aid funds are being paid to a small number of very large firms. During a 3-1/2 year period, the Continental Grain Company, N.Y., and two of its subsidiaries, received more than $166 million in these funds. Six firms received a total of more than $518 million, and 20 firms received more than $88 million."

"Although ICA described these and other firms receiving such funds as 'U.S. firms' many of them are actually owned or controlled by foreign interests. ICA officials admitted that its test for a 'U.S. firm' (whether or not the firm has an office in the U.S.) is a definition broad enough to take in almost anyone, including the official Russian Government Trading Agency."

"ICA pays out dollars to the exporters, and the importer pays foreign currency at an agreed exchange rate. These agreed exchange rates have often been unrealistic and much more favorable than the free market exchange rate. . . . This opens the way for substantial profits through converting foreign currency into dollars at ICA's expense."

"ICA has given banks authority to pay out millions of dollars on its behalf, but has absolved the banks from responsibility, in some cases even where payments were made on the basis of incomplete or irregular documents. ICA usually does not examine a transaction until months after payments are made."

"Many transactions were never given any price review, and there is little evidence that an adequate sampling procedure was used to select transactions that were analyzed. Although ICA spends an average of well over $100 million a year to finance agricultural commodity transactions, it had only one person assigned full-time to carry out price reviews."

Singled out as a graphic example of this negligence is an ICA-financed exportation of thousands of tons of rice to French West Africa. "ICA paid for this rice at around $38 a ton, even though it had been purchased from the Commodity Credit Corporation (an agency of the Agriculture Department) for only $38 a ton. . . . Liaison between ICA and CCC appears inadequate to inform ICA on particular transactions, whether the finance commodities come from CCC stocks and, if so, the price at which sold by CCC.

"The declared policy of ICA is to obtain a refund from the exporter in the event of overpricing; and to require a refund by the country concerned only where ICA cannot collect from the exporter. However, it appears that in a number of instances ICA has made no attempt to collect from the exporter and has reprogrammed funds recovered from countries, with the result that ICA has spent the same amount of dollars, the transaction is wiped off ICA books, and the exporter retains his illegal profits."

MORE OF THE SAME — The Commodity Credit Corporation, which spends billions annually for farm surpluses, is also blasted on a number of charges.

It, too, is assailed for waste, incompetence and other failings running into hundreds of millions of taxpayers' money. Representative Fountain bluntly declared that the "basic weakness is the apparent failure of responsible officials of the Agriculture Department to appreciate the value of a dollar and to take ordinary common sense precautions in spending the federal funds."

Spelling out this scathing indictment, the plain-talking North Carolinian cites the following:

"Our investigation revealed that dry milk sold by CCC for less than 10 cents a pound was resold to the Army for 34 cents a pound. The documents provided to CCC as proof of export showed clearly that the milk was being resold to another government agency at more than triple the CCC sale price. Yet no CCC official questioned these transactions until after our committee's investigation."

"In another instance, the Agriculture Department 'bought' cheese and butter and immediately resold it to the same companies at a lower price without ever moving these products, sending these firms checks for the difference in prices totaling more than $2 million. Our committee concluded these weird transactions were not in accordance with the law."

"Our conclusions were supported by the Comptroller General, the Attorney General, and the decisions of every federal judge who ruled on the resulting court cases. But to the best of my knowledge, the Agriculture Department still maintains it had a perfect right to do what it did."

"The Agriculture Department has financed the exportation of more than 3 million bales of cotton at a cost of over $500 million. However, unless it was specifically requested by the importer, none of this cotton was inspected by the Department to make sure it was quality represented to be. The committee has found a number of instances where cotton purchased from the CCC was resold at a much higher quality."

"In one case, the Comptroller General traced 206 bales of cotton sold to an exporter for about $95 a bale. The exporter claimed the cotton was a lower grade than represented by the CCC, and received an average refund of around $20 per bale, making the cost per bale to the exporter approximately $75. This same cotton was then sold at a much higher grade, and the CCC financed this transaction at a price of $124 a bale, a gross mar-

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — A lady with brains and harassments has at long last, dear friends, made it possible for you to come to New York with your children and not be tempted to throw them out of the hotel windows. Now you and Charlie can come to New York on a sort of second honeymoon and be certain that it is exactly what it will be instead of a desperate struggle between your wishes and your children's nerve-racking opportunities. Yours don't? Oh, come off it, honey, they all do.

Seena Hamilton is a travel writer. Her job takes her to odd and colorful places at a moment's notice, which means often enough that her 5-year-old son must go along, too. There is no time to arrange sensibly for his care while she is away. This last winter she had suddenly to go to Miami on a job and once there was driven right to conclusions because the hotel had no real, lasting facilities for watching over her boy while she worked. Her desperation ignited her mind and forthwith she invented Gulliver's Trails. When she returned to New York she put the idea to work.

Gulliver's Trails is, simply put, a day-tour idea — with trimmings and flourishes. Mrs. Hamilton started off with the notion that to pick youngsters up in a station wagon was practical but not exciting. Hence, she bought a Rolls-Royce. If you turn your child over to her for the day the little fiend is picked up in the morning at your hotel (any one of 15 hotels which have happily subscribed to her plan) and driven grandly away in a Rolls, polished and chauffeured.

While you sleep late, breakfast at elegant leisure, plan safely for a long, unbrused lunch, attend a matinee and have time for unburied cocktails after, your child is seeing Freedland, the Zoo, taking a water circle tour of Manhattan, hansom cab riding in Central Park, bus tours of the city and so on, complete with shiny souvenirs, snacks and, if it is an all-day contract, a good lunch. The service is available to suburban mothers who face a full day of Manhattan shopping and don't want fretful kids pulling at their skirts and even Manhattan mothers can call up and arrange for their young to be picked up at apartment houses.

The men and women in charge of these travels are mostly school-teachers inured to coping with children.

"One facet has cropped up that we did not foresee," said Mrs. Hamilton. "Some mothers, with a low resistance threshold, have told us that it is cheaper to hire us than to take a youngster shopping and give in to the constant 'gimmies' to prevent a public scene. You'd be amazed how many women will buy their children anything just to keep them quiet. In the course of a day such random buying can add up to a hefty penny. The Rolls-Royce thing was an inspiration, but the children have at times agitated the drivers who are used to more sedate passengers with less sticky fingers. One chauffeur was at a total non-plus until one of our trained counselors extricated him from the problem. A little boy, it seems, hearing that other children ask just to keep their quiet, he wanted to see the other children. He was persuaded to accept a less costly item. We put straw hats on the kids in summer and occasionally, we get a rugged individualist who won't wear one. An American flag usually placates him or her, particularly when he or she is told that this permits the flag-carrier to lead the parade."

So there it is, friends. Your problems are over. Just come to New York, call Gulliver's Trails, and you're in.

The head of the New Orleans Commodity Office told the committee that he had recommended that CCC inspect all cotton financed by CCC but that the cotton trade opposed this and his recommendation was not adopted.

Other firms that receive large payments from the ICA in the 3-1/2 year period are:

World Conditions In A Few Short Cliches

By HENRY McLEMORE

I don't know about you, but I have stopped trying to keep up with revolutions, revolts, riots, rebellions, and uprisings throughout the world.

The same goes for secessions, coups, insurrections, mutinies, upheavals, overthrows, and all the rest.

There's a new one of some sort every day.

I tried keeping on top of the revolutions, and managed to do so for a while. But I had to give up everything else. There was no time for bowling, gardening, playing with the baby, TV, or social evenings with friends.

Often I labored far into the night just trying to locate on the map the countries that were in upheaval. And finding them was only the beginning. Which end of the country was in revolt? The north? The south? The middle?

When this was determined, I had to go to work remembering which section, if any, was pro-Western.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Convincing evidence of a turn in the economy may be lacking but the underlying behavior of the stock market suggests that a change for the better is expected, according to L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co.

He notes that more stocks have advanced on the NYSE than have declined for 10 consecutive sessions; that there has been a consistent plurality of new highs over new lows; and that individual stocks are responding more easily to good news than to bad.

After Labor Day attitudes could be influenced considerably by the tone of the stock market during the next two weeks, Hooper says.

Goodbody & Co. continues to recommend General Instrument as an attractive long-term speculation in the electronics field. Goodbody projects GI earnings this year at $1.70 a share and at $2.00 in 1961.

Dean Witter & Co. has a report on City National Bank of Beverly Hills which indicates the bank could double in size over the next several years. Net operating earnings this year may amount to about $900,000 or $2.25 a share, up from $559,000 in 1959 and $264,000 in 1958, the report says. The stock, now selling at about 29 times earnings, will split 3-for-1 in November of this year.

wait until the Rolls whisks your child or children away for long, blessed hours, and then you, Pa set out and have yourself a time—the way it should be.

Costs, of course, but it may be as the lady said: not as much as though the kids were begging at you all the time.

SHORT EXPOSURE — Little League baseballers have their own "little league" photographer to cover the action at Concord, N. H. Young Doug Finney is snapping a play at the plate. In on the play at home are catcher George Kallechey, umpire Paul Messier, and sliding runner Andy Michael, who's doing most of the work.

AFFECTION IN THE DEEP — A clinging-vine type, Barbara Arwood is proving that she knows how to hold a man, come high or low water down in Cypress Gardens, Fla. She's latched on to diver Jack Helseth and smiling happily at the camera as she does some underwater hitch-hiking.

CROWN FOR THE CHAMP — World heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson is trying on a crown presented to him by his manager, Cus D'Amato at a testimonial dinner in New York's Savoy-Hilton Hotel. Worth $35,000, the crown has 375 diamonds, rubies, sapphires and pearls. Floyd won't wear it often.

SKIRTING THE ISSUE — "To bare or not to bare," that is the question under this summer's sun. The problem is solved for the wearer by the addition of a button-front skirt to her strapless print swimsuit. Done in a gay Egyptian print cotton, the suit is finished with comfortable "tomboy" pants. The outfit is especially designed for wear at a beach or for comfortable lounging.

GOING DOWN IN — Britain's often controversial Lady Norah Docker is shown whizzing over the Mediterranean at Villefranche on the French Riviera. Shortly after this photo was made, she fell into the water and had to call for help from the yacht in the background.

TALLY HO! — They're off on a fox hunt near Wexford, Ireland. Riders and hounds are preparing to chase the elusive animal that will lead them up hill and down dale.

THEY'LL BE THERE — These three men will represent the U.S. in Rome in the 1960 Olympic games. Shown in Stanford, Calif., they are (left to right): Hal Connolly, Al Hall and Ed Bagdonas. Hall and Connolly are repeaters from the 1956 Olympic team. Hall, of the N. Y. Athletic Club, won the hammer event with a throw of 214-feet-7-inches.

HEADING FOR THE OLYMPICS — Michael Hiltner, 19 (center) and Lars Zebroksi (right), teammates from California, finished first and second in the Olympic bicycle trials in New York's Central Park. They earned themselves a ticket to the Olympic Games in Rome.

LOOKEE — A little girl seems to have made a pretty good haul from Clear Lake, near Peterboro, Ont., Canada. Of course, she didn't really catch that whopper; her daddy was contributing his skill as the tot firmly believed she was handling rod and reel.

COLD COMFORT — Proving their Russian hardihood, these Red sailors seem to be trying to turn blue as they do some "snowbathing" somewhere in the Arctic. They're crew members of the Soviet atomic icebreaker "Lenin," shown in the background.

OUT AT SECOND — Al Smith of the Chicago White Sox is out at second in a double play in the seventh inning of a New York-Chicago game in New York. Umpire Joe Paparella is calling the play as Bobby Richardson, of the Yankees, makes the out. Double play came after Chicago's Eugene Freese grounded to Yankee Gil McDougald. Yanks won, 6-3.

SHAKE! — Robert Duncan, 17 (right), accepted the congratulations of New Jersey Boys State director Harold A. Eaton in New Brunswick after being elected governor of Boys State at Rutgers University. Duncan attends high school in Westfield, and won the mock political exercise that teaches practical application of politics. He won from opponent George La Sure, 16, of Newark.

OUT OF THE DEEP — The aquadagio team of Bobby and Barbara Knapp are doing their stuff in the Aquarama, the water and stage spectacle at Flushing Meadows Amphitheatre, N. Y. It's on the site of the projected World's Fair for 1964.

Shell To Drill Hobart Wildcat To 14,700 Feet

Twenty-three applications to drill were filed last week with the Pampa office of the Texas Railroad Commission. Three of the intentions to drill are for depths of more than 8,900 feet. The deepest prospective well is the Shell Oil Co. wildcat in Lipscomb County, the Fred Hobart Ranch No. 1, which is to be drilled to a depth of 14,700 feet.

The commission report listed 12 wells as being completed for the week ending August 18.

Offshore Oil Rigs Costly, Important

By MAC SEBREE
United Press International
TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Offshore oil rigs and wells — common in such states as Louisiana and California — are becoming increasingly important to oilmen. And their costs keep going higher, too.

One company figures the cost of maintaining an offshore well is about 60 per cent greater than for an onshore well.

The Shell Oil Co., in a recent issue of its magazine, notes that the company's production from wells off the coast of Louisiana is about six times greater today than it was in 1953, although state regulatory agencies have cut the allowable production for each well by about two-thirds during the last seven years.

In fact, in 1959, about 15 per cent of Shell's production came from Louisiana offshore wells.

Maintenance costs are only a small part of offshore expenses. Exploration and drilling costs also are higher. For example, to complete a well between 10,000 and 11,000 feet deep in 65 feet of water costs an average of $750,000.

In deeper water, costs rise rapidly with depth of water and well, and capital outlays of $1 million for a single well are common. By contrast, the average cost of all wells in the U. S. is about $50,000.

Lease acquisition costs also add substantially to offshore operation expenses. In August of 1959 Shell paid a bonus of more than $26 million or about $10,000 an acre, for a lease off Louisiana. This year the company has already invested $36 million in Gulf offshore leases.

The "incidental" expenses can be costly. The annual rental of one crew boat is about $35,000. The cost of navigation lights and a fog horn for one production platform runs as high as $10,000.

Offshore oil operations require heavier equipment than that generally used on land. In addition, special installations are necessary, such as steel well jackets to protect well heads from floating objects and to provide landings for boats.

Working conditions on an offshore platform are unique. Employees generally work seven days, then are off seven days. Many offshore workers commute long distances to work — one man coming to Louisiana from as far away as San Antonio, Texas.

The seven-day work-week is divided into 12-hour shifts, such as from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. This means that a company needs to hire 160 men to have 40 at work at any one time. Half of the 160 are home on leave, and half of the remaining 80 are off duty.

But working conditions at an offshore rig are pleasant. Workers' air-conditioned buildings generally have a recreation room, mess hall and sleeping quarters.

"If we had received it while the meat was still white," he said, "we would have eaten it."

DAVISVILLE, R.I. (FHTNC) — Robert O. Cobb, construction electrician's mate second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Cobb of 629 N. Nelson St., and husband of the former Miss Lucy G. Hernandez of 11213 W. Ripley St., returned to Davisville, R.I., in early August with Naval Mobile Construction Battalion Seven.

The Battalion was engaged in construction work at Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico. It is slated to undergo six weeks Marine Amphibious training at Camp Lejeune, N.C., in October and November.

Russ May Put Atom Plane In Air In '62

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Russians reportedly will be able to put up an atom-powered airplane by 1962, perhaps sooner.

Information based on Soviet research indicates that the first atom plane would be a "slow" craft, possibly hitting around 300 miles an hour.

Analysis of the Soviet information reveals that the Reds may be able to build a practical military atom-powered plane by 1964 with a speed of 600 miles an hour.

In contrast, the first U.S. atom plane may be in the air around 1965, flying around 700 miles an hour. By 1966, it could probably be modified for some types of military missions. It is expected to be abetter all-around plane than the 1965 Soviet version.

A few years ago the Soviets were well behind the U.S. in atom plane development. But they have pushed steadily forward. The U.S. program meanwhile has gone ahead with fits and starts, changing its course so often that atomic scientists estimate that we've lost two to three precious years.

The overall consensus here: the Reds may be ahead of the U.S. in high-temperature metallurgy crucial for making atom engines of the highest efficiency.

We're probably ahead of the Soviets in advanced atom-engine design and in the design and construction of large planes.

The first Soviet planes will probably be atomic turbo jets. They will use chemical fuels when super speeds are needed — in takeoffs, on bombing runs and in evasion of "enemy" fighters. They'll use atom fuels for the long pull. Eventually, they'll be able to stay in the air for weeks at a time.

The Soviets plan to use their first atom-powered aircraft as long-range reconnaissance planes and bombers. The atom bombers would be able to stand off the coast of the U.S. and fire ballistic missiles several hundred miles inland. The spy planes would be able to photograph large coastal areas of the U.S. at will.

The Reds are also looking into the possibility of using the atom planes as flying tankers for the in-flight refueling of conventional jet planes.

They also foresee the day when atom-powered planes will be able to fly long-distance fighters or bombers a good portion of the way to the target. This would conserve their fuel, make it practical for the Soviets to use fast, relatively short-range airplanes for inter-continental attacks.

The Soviets also talk of using atom-powered planes as troop transports.

So far as is known, the Soviets have not yet flight tested a model atom plane. Reports of such testing in the past two years have turned out to be only the testing of radical new types of conventional planes.

Wildcatters Discover 10

AUSTIN (UPI) — Wildcatters made 10 oil discoveries in Texas during the past week, the Railroad Commission reported Saturday.

Three finds were made in the Kilgore district, and double strikes were made in the Houston, Abilene and Midland districts. A single discovery was made in the Corpus Christi district. One gas discovery was made in the Midland district.

There were 186 oil well completions during the week to bring the total for the year to 5,309 compared with 7,583 last year. Forty gas wells were completed for an annual total of 1,233 compared with 1,257. There were 110 dry holes during the week.

The commission said the allowable increased 8,344 barrels daily during the week to 2,606,498 barrels, and the total number of wells was 196,534.

Biblical Tale Setting Found Right At Home

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Producer-director George Stevens spent two months searching location sites in the Near East for "The Greatest Story Ever Told" before deciding to shoot the picture in the United States.

Stevens, a painstaking perfectionist, found the original landmarks unfit for a Biblical backdrop.

He traveled Lebanon, Syria, Israel, Jordan and Turkey, tracing the life of Christ, researching his multi-million-dollar religious epic.

"The land has been eroded by men and goats," he said.

"In Biblical times the Holy Land was a lush, rich area with forests and fertile farm land. Now it is barren and burned out. Shooting a picture in that part of the world about the life of Jesus Christ is equivalent to making a 49-er gold rush film in modern San Francisco."
