Weather, Russ Threat Alike To W. Berliners

EDITOR'S NOTE — If the Communist noose is tightened around West Berlin during Nikita Khrushchev's pilgrimage to the U.N., it won't surprise West Berliners. Few days go by without fresh Red demands for Western withdrawal from the outpost city. Here is the story of West Berlin's precarious existence behind the Iron Curtain.

By JOSEPH FLEMING
United Press International
BERLIN (UPI) — Whenever the weather turns bad in this isolated city people have a tendency to look at the sky and say: "It's blockade weather."
That happens quite often because there's almost as much rain and fog here as in London. This way of describing the weather is an expression of the fact that Berliners accept the threat of action by the surrounding Communists as part of their daily life — just as they accept the weather.
And they should, he used to

In the long years of occupation there have been blockades, and baby blockades and creeping blockades and many other sort of blockades.
In fact, the first Soviet blockade began before the Western Allies even got into the city and it should have warned them of things to come.
On June 17, 1948, Col. Frank L. Howley was ordered to take a 500-man reconnaissance party to Berlin to make plans for Four-Power rule of the city.
When the convoy arrived at a pontoon bridge over the Elbe River, the Russians proclaimed their first blockade. They said the convoy was not crossing the Elbe.
After a seven-hour quarrel in which the Soviets displayed all their techniques of debate and evasion Howley was told he could take only 35 officers and 175 men with him to Berlin.
But the party never got to Berlin. The Russians escorted the convoy to Babelsberg, a Berlin suburb, and Russian guards were thrown around the American camping site.

The Americans finally were allowed to enter Berlin July 1.
Discussing his first meeting at the Elbe with the Russians, he said: "We learned then in seven hours just about all we were to learn about Russians in Berlin."
For 15 years West Berliners and a long line of Howley's successors as U.S. commandant here have been learning about Russians.
There have been so many agreements broken, so many treaties violated, so many treaties that it is almost impossible to enumerate them.
Military convoys have been held up or refused passage. Trains, trucks and barges halted or harassed under one pretext or another. Even aircraft have been shot at.
The latest serious threat arose Nov. 27, 1948, when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev demanded the Western Allies get out of Berlin. He gave them six months to make West Berlin what he called a "free, demilitarized city."
He later withdrew the time limit but still insisted the United States, Britain and France withdraw.
He backed up his demand by threats to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany giving East Germany control of Western Allied traffic to Berlin.

Navy Reenlistment Program Is Relaxed

Chief Vance further stated that the general relaxing of reenlistment qualifications is to bring the Navy up to strength with trained personnel due to the expanding of the Navy recruiting station in Panama. Chief Vance said that the Navy has relaxed its reenlistment policy for ex-Navy personnel who have been out of the service over 90 days. Ex-Navy men who have been out of the Navy more than 90 days, but less than 4 years, can now reenlist in the rating held at time of discharge, provided their rating is one of more than 100 critical open rates.
Ex-Navy men who have been discharged over 4 years, but less than 6 years, may now be reenlisted in one pay grade less than the rating held at time of discharge, provided their rating is one of the more than 100 critical open rates.

the Polaris Missile Submarine program.
All Ex-Navy personnel desiring more information on the Navy's relaxed reenlistment program are invited to contact either Chief Vance or Petty Officer Orman at the Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Panama.

DETROIT (UPI)—Thunderbird, once the most-exclusively designed car on the American road, will be the most-copied car on the road in 1961.

Almost every 1961 car line has at least one model that incorporates some of the styling features first popularized on the Thunderbird.

The lone exception is Studebaker-Packard Corp., which has maintained most of last year's styling in both its Lark and Hawk, partially because of lack of funds to make drastic changes and partially to maintain stability in styling.

The Thunderbird roof will be the most obvious styling feature of many of the new cars. Every car made by General Motors and Chrysler Corp. for 1961 will have at least one model with the wide "C-pillar" supporting the roof at the rear, according to industry sources.

Ford Motor Co. already has borrowed this same feature of the Thunderbird for certain models of its other car lines, such as the Ford Mustang and Mustang coupe.

American Motors will use the Thunderbird-type roof for its first major change in 10 years in the styling of the Rambler American.

The Thunderbird roof is particularly noticeable on Chevrolet's sport sedan model. On GM's higher-priced cars, like the Oldsmobile, the roof is closer to the adaptation Ford Motor made from the Thunderbird for the Lincoln.

Even the Oldsmobile emblem on the wide roof pillar is remarkably similar to the Lincoln emblem placed in the same location.

Ford's stylists, however, have known through intelligence sources for some time that other cars would adopt features of the Thunderbird styling.

"They have been working on changes in the Thunderbird aimed more curved lines.

Gas truck Explodes In State City

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex. (UPI)—A big gasoline transport truck exploded and burned during unloading Saturday, burning the driver and for a time threatening further explosions at nearby gasoline storage tanks.

Police Chief Weldon Davidson said only favorable wind direction prevented the fire from touching off another explosion at the tanks, which are located in a heavily-populated area.

The driver, Kent Brooks, 35, of Austin, suffered flash burns and minor shock. He was taken to a New Braunfels hospital.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately known, but one official said gasoline apparently was leaking from the truck at the time of the blast.

Although the classic roof-line will be maintained in the 1961 model, most of the other squarish lines will disappear. The lines of the body will be curved and the front end of the car will be "turned under" somewhat like the front end of the 1959 Ford.

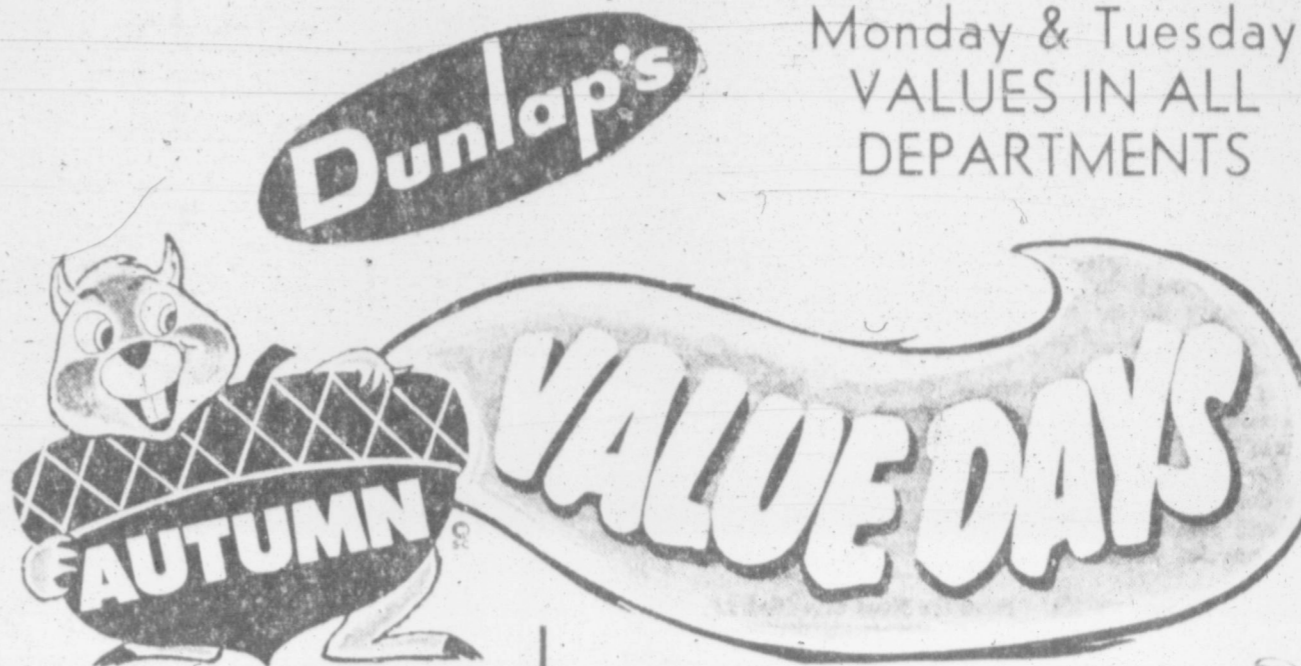

"We started the current styling trend," said Ford styling Vice President George Walker, "and we don't plan to sit on our hands while others catch up."

"We are complimented by the sincerest form of flattery—the industry is paying to us. Now we feel the styling of the future will be more flowing and more graceful—with curved and sweeping lines."

"I feel," he said, "that the rest of the industry will eventually follow us down this road, too."

First glimpses at some of the 1961 models of the other companies indicate that the whole industry is already turning toward changes in the Thunderbird aimed more curved lines.

Airliners Delayed By 'Bomber'

HOUSTON (UPI)—A false bomb report turned in by a woman Saturday disrupted all schedules at Houston International Airport and delayed a dozen flights from 1 1/2 to four hours.

Your Brain? International Airways planes, including the one scheduled to take the Houston Oilers to San Francisco for their American Football League opener with the Oakland Raiders Sunday, were snarled in a hazy Passengers and baggage also were searched. E. C. (Bud) Adams, owner of the Oilers, said authorities even looked in a toolbox that held his gold cuff links.

The woman called Braniff's cargo office about 7 a.m. and said:

"A woman came in on a flight last night. She has no use for me. She is leaving on a Braniff flight this morning and will be at the airport an hour early. You better have police there to inspect all the baggage for a bomb."

FBI agents found police in searching the Braniff planes, but they said nothing "out of the ordinary" was found. Planes searched in addition to the Oilers' chartered flight were two propeller planes scheduled for Dallas and Denver, and a jet flight to Chicago.

Air Alert Results Are Kept Secret

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—Whether this continent's air defense system was strong enough and alert enough to repulse a make-believe nuclear attack early Saturday, was kept secret from the public.

Exercise Sky Shield included a simulated nuclear attack by bombers of the U.S. Strategic Air Command on major population centers, industrial targets and military bases over 14 million square miles of United States and Canada. During the maneuvers, the skies over the entire area were cleared of commercial and private aircraft.

Boy Seeking 'Heaven' Shoots Two To Death

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (UPI)—A 14-year-old orphan who felt he didn't belong in "this world" methodically shot two boys to death so he could die in Heaven, police said Saturday.

The victims, only sons of a Memphis supermarket manager and a mechanic, were strangers the youth picked at random after plotting his mission of death.

"I didn't want to shoot anybody I knew," he told police in confessing the shotgun slaying of Douglas Naylor, 9, and James Wallace Melton, 11, Friday.

"I want to die. I do not belong in this world. I want to go to Heaven," said the juvenile, who cannot be identified under Arkansas law. "If I just killed one they might send me to the reform school again, but if I killed them both they'll send me to the chair."

The youth, who lived with foster parents after a stint in the boys industrial school at Pine Bluff, led officers to the bodies of the boys in Rattlesnake Woods near this town across the Mississippi River from Memphis, Tenn. "It's the most terrible thing I ever saw," said Police Chief H. D. Holland. "This boy talks normal and acts normal—he's just a nervous little old boy."

The officer said the youth made plans for killing somebody while his foster parents were away from home. He left the house with a .410-gauge shotgun which his foster parents had warned him not to use alone.

During the youth's aimless walk, he passed a new subdivision where he saw young Naylor and Melton playing. The boys, impressed by the gun, asked the youth where he was going. He said he was headed for Rattlesnake Woods to do some hunting and they fell right into his head-on scheme," Holland said.

The youth apparently shot at the boys several times in the woods but missed them. The boys several times in the woods but missed them. The boys several times in the woods but missed them.

20th Anniversary For Pampa Credit Bureau

A vital organization in the Pampa business community passes a milestone Tuesday when the Credit Bureau of Pampa marks the 20th year of its incorporation.

The 200-member credit bureau has made its most pronounced gains during the last two and one-half years of operation, due in part to its reorganization in 1958 and the appointment of Wynn Veale as secretary-manager.

In 1958 the credit bureau had four employees serving 108 clients. There are now nine employees, including Veale, serving almost double that number.

Have you ever wondered how Pampans, or all Americans for that matter, are able to enjoy handsome, expensive major appliances and shiny new automobiles? Veale answered that question by stating that America's standard of living is made possible through credit economy and a credit bureau's smooth functioning that keeps the "credit wheels" oiled.

"A person makes his own credit record by the way he handles his obligations," Veale remarked. "A person gets what he deserves in life, creditwise."

Veale went on to explain the reason for a credit bureau and how it functions in Pampa. The following are his observations: "If a person has paid his bills promptly in the past, he is likely to pay accordingly in the future, and therefore is a good credit risk," explained Veale. "This is the eternal credit question—can and will he pay his debts?"

To help a merchant answer that question about customers, the Pampa Credit Bureau employs nine people whose fact-finding vigilance keeps information feeding into the bureau's more than 70,000 item files. The bureau has five telephone lines, and one direct line to police headquarters and asked of that brings the many inquiries each day.

Can John Doe afford that new car? How about his other obligations? Merchants must have this information to keep people from going too far into debt. Merchants and professional people want their use, threatening or door-beating tactics. It finds kindness, persistence and a sincere desire to help the debtor out of his financial trouble is its biggest force. Again, through affiliations, the bureau can follow the debtor anywhere in the United States and Canada.

The Pampa Credit Bureau also works with the Credit Women's Club in promoting credit education. Through their efforts, a course in credit education was started as a six-week supplement in the business course in high school last year.

The board of directors are: Mrs. Elmer Pitt, Charles Cook, A. A. Schueneman, Joe Tooley, Floyd Inel and Dr. R. M. Hampton.

Employees of the Pampa Credit Bureau are: Wynn Veale, secretary-manager, Miss Faye Butcher, Miss Sharon Johns, Mrs. Bonnie Nickel, Mrs. Caroline Stroud, Miss Jerry Hodges, Mrs. Joanne Florence, Mrs. Lyda Gilchrist and Mrs. Peggy Airington.

'Naked City' Returning In Hour-Long Format

TV-OFF CAMERA

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—There were all of us television actors—putting on the animated ensembles sure-enough members of a nightclub audience, and only partially choking on the clouds of an actual nightclub—a huge Broadway joint called Jack Silverman's International.

The producers asked five or six of us newspaper types to sit in at the tables and help fill out the make-believe audience. You get an education that way. For instance, when the director says, "All right, girls, a couple of contractions, the Penguin, and continue up two or three feet out of the crowd."

They also were fixed smiles, but those were hardly necessary since the camera was filming a real view of an actual chorus line, the only view of us amateurs flanking it up as an audience will lead in sort of behind-the-scenes when this episode of "Naked City" goes on.

Indeed, as the girl dancing in front of me, hollered down: "When does this show go on the air? I'll love to see it."

Since "Naked City" returning to ABC-TV in October as an hour-long weekly show, likes to ramble around New York using the actual streets, buildings, parks, and waterfronts for its scenes, this scene was being shot in an actual nightclub—a huge Broadway joint called Jack Silverman's International.

Star 'Skates On Ice' In Role With Stooges

HOLLYWOOD
By JOE FINIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Olympic figure skater Carol Heiss has skated her way into the arms of "The Three Stooges" and risks getting a pie in the face.

The pretty, Miss Heiss caught the eye of talent scouts at 20th Century Fox who signed her to a contract after the winter Olympics in one picture she'll play part of the title role in "Snow White and the Three Stooges."

Although the movie will be four dwarfs short, Hollywood's change from the listless attitude of the past two years.

But the Lions still must overcome more tangible problems if they expect to put forth a serious challenge for the title. And the No. 1 problem is quarterback.

Ever since the departure of Bobby Layne, who spearheaded the Lions to their four championships, Detroit has been looking for a quarterback that could pass with authority, take charge of the team and move it under pressure.

The search for a talented successor to Layne has narrowed former Michigan State ace, Earl Morrill, and Jim Nipowski.

Morrill, who saw considerable action for the Lions in 1959, held the position in a state of shock over the way Texans pronounce Spanish words.

To help those who go around the booing names like "Religio," "Mexia" and "Bexar," the commission has published a compact 26-page booklet called "Say it the Spanish Way."

Authored by Dr. George I. Sanchez and Charles L. Eastlack of the University of Texas, the booklet sets the record straight on how to pronounce "Socorro," and if you've ever said "Soke-er-oh" you get three raps on the wrist.

Copies of the booklet can be obtained by writing to the Texas Good Neighbor Commission at Box 2119, Capitol Station, Austin.

The authors do not presume to revolutionize our speaking habits overnight.

In fact, they're ready to throw in the towel when it comes to the Texas tongue on words like "Amarillo" and "Llano."

It would be "latunas," they said, for Texans to ask you to say "Ah-Mah-Ree-Yoh," and "Yah-Noh."

And if you have been celebrating "San-Jay-Cin-Ter" day every year, don't worry—they aren't going to ask you to change to "San-Hab-Seen-Toh."

But you're "muy estúpido" if you say "Rio Grande River" and not just plain old "Rio Grandé," they point out.

Texans Learn Correct Way To Pronounce

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Good Neighbor Commission is out to help those of us who at one time may have been guilty of pronouncing "Vallejo" as "Valley Joe."

The commission is in a state of shock over the way Texans pronounce Spanish words.

Three Appointed To Probe Panel

AUSTIN (UPI)—House Speaker Waggoner Carl Saturday named three new members to the House general investigating committee.

Carr appointed Rep. Merton Murray of Harlingen as chairman of the committee to replace Rep. H. J. (Doc) Blanchard of Lubbock. Reps. Charles L. Ballman of Borger and Lloyd C. Martin of Normangee were named to replace Reps. Joe Burkett of Kerrville and Carl Conley of Gaymardville.

All three outgoing members of the committee did not seek reelection to the house, and Atty. Gen. Will Wilson recently ruled that lame duck members could not continue to serve on legislative committees.

Sports Slivers

By Ed Hayes Wilson

The Harvesters did hustle. They slammed into the heavier Steers with vigor, so hard, in fact, that the winners were guilty of four fumbles, two of which came when Gerald Been of the kickoff unit thundered into ball carriers to jar the ball out of their hands.

All but one of these is understandable and easy to forget. But when officials in any sport work the way the trio handling that contest did it's time to send them back for more schooling.

This is not to say the Harvesters got the worst of the rulings. Big Spring received some questionable decisions, too. But overall, the Harvesters had the roughest of the rulings and they didn't do it the young, prof. of Coach Babe Curfman any good.

Pampa could have won the game regardless of the officiating. They had their chances and missed. But the kids know it. In talking to them in the dressing room those who blew chances freely admitted that they made mistakes. But they are not a discouraged lot.

Thus, we'd best point out to the 24,000 odd quarterbacks and coaches in Pampa that Pampa High School's Harvesters and the coaching staff are capable of getting the job done, they have a hotshot schedule, but they'll give a number of people fits before the year is out.

Sophomores learned much in the game. They made mistakes that would make a coach pound his head on the dressing room wall, but Curfman did not, such thing. He discussed blunders, not beratingly, and told the boys, in a sense, to forget it. We'll have it again next week with Ysleta.

Possibly his reaction was brought about by the way the youths themselves discussed what they did wrong. But, regardless, Curfman deserves credit for the calmness he exhibited. Most coaches wouldn't. They'd rave and rant, point and shout, and they'd be right back where they started, on the losing end of the score.

"You cannot talk down a loss. You must work to erase the mistakes you made. We'll work towards that end in practice this week," was the way Curfman put it.

Some folk, walked to the ball yard, some rode autos, some taxis, and the like. But, Tommy Hart, sports editor of the Big Spring paper, and two friends did it the hard way, — they swapped an airplane for an auto and arrived on the scene about five minutes before game time.

Seems Tommy and his friends were flying in when they ran into bad weather at Claude and had to land on a road near the home of Delton Dye.

They talked to Dye and he decided to see that they arrived in time for the game. He handed over his car keys to a new Oldsmobile, and told them to not worry about the plane. "You get to the game around, the season's long."

Gritty Harvester's Are Given Applause By Steer's Mentor

Scouts See Ysleta As Tough Nut

Ysleta's Indians are big and rugged!

That was the way Norman Phillips, assistant coach at Pampa High School, described the El Paso team on his return from the city by the Rio Grande yesterday afternoon.

Phillips, accompanied by Deck Woldt, scouted the men of Coach Red Coats in their Friday night clash with always tough Roswell, N.M., and both came away highly impressed.

Ysleta won the struggle, 8-6. The Indians use a T-formation with floaters and flankers. They move well as a unit, and have a very fast back in Mike Sutherland, said Phillips.

The status of Sutherland for the clash here at 7:30 Friday night was fogged late Saturday after an injury forced him out of the second half of the Roswell contest.

He didn't even come on the field for the second half after his injury as the whistle blew to end the second period," said Phillips. "We didn't have a chance to talk with Coats, so we don't know how badly he was injured."

But, even if the ace Indian back doesn't get in the game, Pampa's Harvesters appear to be facing another tough assignment. They will again be outweighed, since Phillips reported the Indian front will run from 210 to 165 pounds.

They may be a little bigger than Big Spring. But, regardless, they're going to be tough for us to handle, especially if the field is wet," was the way Phillips surmised the situation facing the Harvesters.

Looking at the roster of the Parsley Sheetmetal bowling team which participates in the Petroleum League at Garden Lanes, we ran across an odd name, Jim Weatherly.

Actually, there isn't anything odd with the name Weatherly. But it appears displaced when the remainder of the roster reads Sidney, Dwan, Lonnie, Sam, Larry and R. K. Parsley.

To see the best, the Parsleys going in for bowling in a big way.

Quickly, now if we have missed some of the boys just be patient.

Ed Strickland is apt to get the starting call at one of the guard slots at Texas Tech. He's going out with two fellows, so the word from Lubbock relates.

Buddy Rawls could be the starting q-back for Abilene Christian.

As we hear from the boys, we'll add them to not worry about the plane. "You get to the game around, the season's long."

OLE DOBBIN IN A HURRY — Steve Dobbins, the Harvesters' top ground gainer in the Friday night test with Big Spring, hurries along with blockers out in front in the second period of the game for a good gain. That's Raddy Matson in the foreground, left, while the Steer in background (No. 34) is Jerry Dunlap.

DUKE BEARS DOWN — Duke Garren, (50), Harvesters' center and defensive ace, sets his sights on Big Spring's Tom Watley (11) as Ronnie Clanton (33) tries to block the Duke's path. Alf Cobb (66) and Jerry Dunlap (34) are out to spill Harvesters down the line. Duke bagged Watley after a five yard gain.

Visitors Win, 14-6 Been, Dobbin Lauded

By ED HAYES WILSON Daily News Sportswriter

A couple of blunders cost Pampa High School a victory in its opening contest Friday night, but the terrific hustle of the comparatively small hometowners won the hearts of a majority of the some 1,500 spectators and the applause of the visiting coach Emmett McKenzie.

Shortly after Big Spring had posted a 14-6 win to end a 14-game losing streak, McKenzie said, "It's a good thing for us those kids don't weigh a bit more. They'd have beaten us for sure."

Curfman had high acclaim for Steve Dobbins, who led the Harvesters attack with 68 hard won yards in 11 carries, and Gerald Been, who forced two fumbles with vicious tackles.

But the "unhappy" blunders could not be overcome. Pampa had a chance to tie the game in the second period of the game, but a fumble turned the ball over to the visitors on the 8-yard line.

The Steers couldn't do much at going anywhere when wiped out when a Don Stephens' aerial was bugged by visiting halfback Ronnie Clanton, who was a thorn the Harvesters' side all evening.

This capture of the ball on their own 38 didn't help the McKenzie-men and PHS took over on the Steer 37 when Butch Crossland flung away an aerial attempt by BG's quarterback Tom Watley. From that point the Harvesters ground out their TD.

Stephens failed to gain on a mixed-up play, but followed with a TD said sports Dobbins powered through for 4. Stephens added about 5, and Dobbins again slugged through for enough for a first down on the visitors' 16.

Then came the key play. Dobbins, apparently going nowhere, suddenly squirmed out of a pack of Steers and worked his way to the Big Spring 4. Sherill Miller then followed with two slashes at the line to put the ball on the 11-yard line, from where Dobbins drilled through to the score.

Stephens, who didn't connect with a pass all night, but who was firing the ball where his receivers were supposed to be, ran into one of the three interceptions the winners snapped up, a short time later and it brought about the first tally for Big Spring.

"It was the pitch that halfback Jack Irons snagged on the Steer 47, and from that point fullback Jerry Dunlap headlighted the steady paddy at the Harvester line until Watley bucked through from the Harvester 3 to put the score all-even. And it remained that way until tall Jerry Tucker, the Steers top passer, zoomed one down the middle to Ronnie Clanton that was good for a 54-yard touchdown in the third period. Dunlap plowed through for the two extra points and that, in essence, was the ball game, although the Harvesters mustered two threats in the latter stages of the game.

But, in the end, the mistakes told the story. The defensive backs "lost" Clanton on the TD shot when he should have been blanketed. Receivers did not make their breaks and cuts when Stephens fired his aerials, thus setting the ball for interceptions and in the end these spelled doom.

Turley Stops Detroit, 5-1

CHICAGO (UPI)—Jim Landis hammered a home run into the left field stands to give the Chicago White Sox a 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles in an 11-inning thriller Saturday.

It kept the two-game series for Chicago and knocked Baltimore out of first place in the tightening American League race.

The Orioles dropped to second place, a half game behind the Yankees. The White Sox are three games out of the lead.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The last-place Philadelphia Phillies dealt a crusher to St. Louis' pennant hopes Saturday when they beat the Cardinals 7-2, in their first game since the season opener.

Coach Abe Martin, who only Friday heaped praise on the throwing of his quarterbacks, was extremely unhappy about the Frogs' lack of passing effectiveness in Saturday's scrimmage.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—Lance Alworth scampers 75 yards for a touchdown after gathering in a pass from quarterback George McKinney and skirted end for two yards and a second score in leading the Arkansas Reds to a 12-0 victory over the "whites" in a Razorback scrimmage Saturday.

DALLAS (UPI)—Senior halfback Frank Jackson tossed a four-yard scoring pass to end Pat Neely, returned a punt 63 yards for a second touchdown and counted again on a seven-yard run to lead the Southern Methodist "Reds" to a 34-0 win over the "Whites" in the Ponies' final intra-squad scrimmage Saturday.

The Reds also scored on a 64-yard return of a pass interception by Buddy Nichols and a 20-yard pass from Lowell Phillips to Billy Murif.

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—Baylor's "Greens," sparked by the quarterbacking of Bobby Ply and Ronnie Stanley, crushed the "Whites" 53-18 Saturday in a game-condition scrimmage.

Ply directed the Greens, composed of the first two units, to five touchdowns while Stanley, who lost his first-unit quarterback post to Ply earlier in the week, showed the way for three other scores.

The Whites managed only one touchdown against the Greens, but added two more tallies to the total when the number three unit switched to the green jerseys.

RUDDOSO, N.M. (UPI)—Early Time, owned by L. H. Von Dohlen of Goliad, Tex., made a wire-towire run to capture the featured Margaret Whiting allowance at Ruddoso Downs Saturday, but shared the spotlight with some longer shots.

Rubidoux Rose, owned by Mary Ellis of Half Moon Bay, Calif., was the biggest longshot with a $47.50 return for winning the 3/2 furlong fifth race. H. F. Dial returned $39.50 for winning the 400-yard third race.

ED STRICKLAND Pampa's 'real rough' Red Raider

WD, Tigers Score Top Area Wins

White Deer continued in the unbeaten ranks Friday night when it skidded past Canadian, 14-0, on the rain-sloped Buck field. This was the battle of the area 'biggies' and it was just that although mud hampered the going for the 'seats' of both teams. Dick Hanna Bob McAllister aerials brought the Bucks their first tally, with the climax being a 11-yard strike in the first period. Tommy Lester shot the door on the frustrated visitors with a 20-yard dash around end in the final yard.

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press International ROME (UPI)—The star-studded United States basketball team romped off with America's 34th Olympic gold medal Saturday night by trouncing Brazil, 90-63, after a barefooted Ethiopian soldier who serves as Emperor Haile Selassie's personal body guard ran the fastest marathon on record in the closing track event of the games. All-America Jerry Lucas of Ohio State poured in 25 points, 19 of them on a nine-minute spurge in the first half, to lead the Yanks to their easy basketball triumph. Reaction of Cincinnati, had an off night with only 12 points but his big punch wasn't needed. Russia, scoring heavily in men's gymnastics and placing second in basketball by downing during the day when Marine gunnery Sergeant Jim Hill of Orland, Calif., placed second in 12-year-old Peter Kibike of Germany in the small bore rifle shoot and the U.S. men's saber team finished fourth behind Hungary, Poland and Italy. But Russia was the big scorer for the day winning four gold medals in gymnastics alone with Boris Shakhlin, already a gold medal winner, picking up three more for the highest total of any individual in the games.

Kiwanis Set Go-Kart Race Card Today

Go-kart racing is slated at 2 p.m. today at the Pampa Go-Kart Track. The Pampa Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the event. Special races have been established for youngsters, women and men, with age brackets for children set in six to 12 years and 13 to 16 year old sections. Minors entering the event must be accompanied by their parents, club officials announced. In case of rain the card will be raced next Sunday. Funds derived from the program will be used to promote activities of the club, officials said.

Bowlers Begin Industrial Loop

The Industrial Bowling League began play last week at Harvesters Bowl with 18 teams competing. Pampa Warriors hit a 1,000 hit single team game, while Parkers-Berbers showed 2,750 pins in a three game series. The winners, Parkers-Berbers, will play the winners of the Harvesters Bowl in a high individual single game, and Terry Gage of Parkers-Berbers recorded a three game total of 1,000 for a series high for the night.

LURBOCK (SP) —When Paming his career at Texas Tech in Ed Strickland goes into the order to help us where we need coaching ranks he won't need to help the most. Ed's unselfish attitude in someone to demonstrate trade has been an inspiration to the various line positions — he's the others. Last season the Raiders had lost heavily by graduation at end, Strickland, who was an all-district tackle for the Harvesters, went to a wing position. With the promotion this season of some sophomores to the varsity, it was possible to move Strickland back to a guard slot, where he had played his sophomore season. (He had been trained as a center, a couple of years ago, when both P. J. Holly and Bill Tarnshaw came down with an attack of hepatitis.)

Clyde Windom, shifted back to his guard position from fullback, set the stage for the first tally where he slapped down a quick kick try deep in Wheeler's territory shortly after the contest began. Shamrock's Irish, scrapping with their dander up to continue their win streak, knocked off LeFors, 34-12, to make it two in a row. Groom—unable to untrack, found Panhandle too much to cope with and fell, 6-2. Miami's Warriors, relishing the going and quickly adapting them to a guard slot, where he had played his sophomore season, (He had been trained as a center, a couple of years ago, when both P. J. Holly and Bill Tarnshaw came down with an attack of hepatitis.)

Golf 'Crazy' Youth Gives Grown-Ups Fit

It's a fact that sometimes you have to pound a fellow on the head to make him understand. It could be on and off the course. He is a likable 'boy' and of him John Scheratt of Atlas, Okla., one of the men he beat, said, "If I had not been knocked out of the tournament, I'm glad Buddy was the one to do it." Buddy, a 12-year-old golfing crackpot, started playing the game when was nine years old, but what brought him to the golfing was happened two years ago when a neighbor boy handed Buddy on the head with a mallet. Buddy was injured severely and forced to stay out of contact sports in a way—golf was pounded into his head. If that is the case, he's certainly taking advantage of knowledge gained the hard way. Earlier in the year he won the fourth flight in the Los Alamos Invitational, the Tascosa Country Club's junior title, and the second flight in the

Red China Life Is 'Nightmare,' Rogers Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Texas congressman Saturday described life in Red China as "nightmare" worse than the regimes of Stalin and Hitler.

Rep. Walter Rogers, D-Tex., said in a newsletter that Chinese Communists are "more than the physical terror of a Stalin or a Hitler." He said it is a "purge of the mind and the past, a systematic blotting out of virtually all loyalties except those to the regime."

He said China had but one trump card when the Communists took over in 1949. China's Red rules "have played that card with all their might and at every conceivable opportunity," he said. "The people were China's only natural resource and they have been refined and molded far beyond the limits of reality."

Rogers said 400 million Chinese are worked "ruthlessly" on community farms, separated from families and "brainwashed" daily with Communist doctrine.

Builder Starts New Trend In Choosing Home

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New home buyer before long should be able to shop for a house much in the way he shops for a car.

He'll visit a dealer, look over basic model homes, study available optional features, then place his order with variations to suit his taste, his needs and budget.

This is the goal of Joshua Ben-Anav, manufacturer of Seaboard Homes Inc., Hawthorne, N. Y., who says such a system of selling new homes would combine the home buyer's style advantages of a custom built home, economy of some 20 basic home styles in equal or greater than the development home, and add as business finer materials and more accurate workmanship than can be found generally in homes constructed on site.

In addition, Ben-Anav looks for Seaboard's plan to expand the possibilities of profitable, home development for smaller builders and for non-builders such as real estate brokers and land developers.

The company has developed a risk-sharing plan under which Seaboard will supply manufactured home packages to builders at actual cost price, and participate in profit-sharing. Under a second plan, it will work with builders, realtors, developers or others who have land enough for at least 10 homes and modest operating capital. Seaboard will erect a model home at cost, lend promotional and advertising assistance and find mortgage money for homebuyers with the developer paying for each home only after a sale has been made.

The firm initially is offering some 20 basic home styles in ranch, split-level and two-story houses, with innumerable design variations made possible through use of interchangeable components.

Ben-Anav says that builders using Seaboard manufactured home packages will realize from $2,000 to $3,000 savings per home in comparison with on-site construction—savings that can be passed along to the home buyer either in a lower priced home or in a better home for the money, with either likely to spur home sales.

Range Lands 'Best Ever' In Texas

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas range lands are in better condition than many old-timers can remember for this time of the year, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported Saturday.

The USDA said the range condition is 86 per cent of its highest total for September since 1949. July and August rains boosted the green range feed over most of the state.

The 10-year average condition for Texas range lands is 71 per cent.

Ranges in the Hill Country show a green color that is rare for this time of the year, the USDA said.

Cattle condition of 87 per cent equals last year, which was the highest since before the drought. Cattle are in good flesh although perhaps not quite as heavy as this time last year, the USDA said.

Sheep conditions rose 1 per cent from the 82 per cent reported in August.

FALL POEM: Now the leaves are falling, grey the autumn skies, southward geese are calling, perch countless fies! But, brother, we haven't noticed any flies perishing lately in fact everytime the dog or the children go in or out the door, three flies come in we haven't noticed any flies being kind enough to go OUT, have you? never been so many unwelcome beasts before, that we can remember, but all of us are in the same boat, and misery-loves company, and all those other trite phrases, UHG!

BUT TO GET down to work saw Libby Shotwell, downtown, flying around with her usual verve, arm in a sling, smile on her face, greeting countless friends, everywhere on the street and in stores. Curt and Will Beck are vacationing in California we heard may be back now, for all we know and speaking of a vacation. Joe Gordon took his daughter Martha, to Washington with him last week or so... he attended a meeting of the Bar Association and we suppose Martha shopped they went on to Maine and New Hampshire to see New England, and took in New York City while they were at it a good end-of-the-summer trip before Martha (and Sara) go off to college again. Bill and Alice Smith also attended the Bar Association meeting and enjoyed seeing Washington... we have heard wisps of conversation about a simply wonderful breakfast given Labor Day by Harvey and Ruth Nienstiel seems they served champagne and had wonderful rolls of several kinds and all sorts of other breakfast-type goodies the guests were simply bowled over.

The first great gift we can bestow on others is a good example. —Thomas Morell

NICE SIGHT THESE DAYS all the little kiddoes going to school in new jeans and fresh shirts and the little girls' dresses still brand new... none of the school clothes have had time to be washed yet and get the look of well-wornness they have by the end of the school year, with patches on jeans knees and so forth and shoes are still brightly shining and speaking of shining we have noticed the Harvester Band playing with its shining instruments on the practice field reckon they are getting ready to make the trip to Chicago in December where the band has been invited to attend a National Music Clinic... tis quite an honor for the band, as this Clinic is by invitation only, to outstanding bands around the nation there are so many cars with mothers and little-pre-schoolers watching the practice session, too it is such fun to hear the band on a crisp Fall morning beats getting at that ironing piled up in the basket.

One example is worth a thousand arguments. —William Gladstone

SCHOOL LET out early last week for the circus held over on Hobart street and we drove by and saw the elephants standing in their gray grandeur, one of them with its front legs crossed nonchalantly and children potting their trunks and the Tri-State Fair is coming up in just two weeks, too... probably we will see people we know there, usually do... if so, you can depend on us to say so!

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUBS are getting ready to begin their fall meetings with that wonderful annual affair, the President's Coffee, wherein the club presidents are honored and this year the program committee is headed by Aleith Curry and they have rounded up a fine speaker for the occasion, Dr. F. W. Maddox, president of Lubbock Christian College to speak on a "timely" subject and the "Timely" mentioned goes into decorations with the political scene important now, the Starlight room will be Campaign Headquarters for the five clubs, and each club will meet at its "precinct" table for "delegates" name pins and so forth bunting will decorate the Coronado Inn as for a Convention... it all sounds so clever and interesting we can hardly wait for the time to come we intend to wear our new hat, by golly Loretta Wilkinson is general chairman of the affair, as Twentieth Century Forum is hostess Club this year Margaret Steele is the chairman of the decoration committee the committee are made up of members from the other Twentieth Century Clubs, of course the coffee will be held September 22nd, and after that you may consider the fall season opened!

Nothing preaches better than the ant, and it says nothing. —Samuel Smiles

BUZZING AROUND town items Dord Fitz is beginning fall painting classes tomorrow, Monday, that is, in Sam Houston school as last year and he was talking about teaching some drawing, also classes to begin at 9 a.m. you can find out more by talking with him tomorrow if you are interested and speaking of paintings, have you seen the Ed Eller oils hanging in Caldwell's Buffeteria now they have a change of paintings now and then just as the lobby at the Coronado Inn and speaking of paintings still and yet again Dr. Frank Kelley has a nice contemporary one hanging in his office waiting room which is now in pretty pinks greys and whites perhaps, did Christine Schneider's good taste and clever ideas have something to do with the nice effect anyhow it is a nice setting for her to work in.

MORE BUZZING around town out of the carrier of our eye we saw a pretty sight last week a mauve automobile drove up to a stop sign and stopped and inside was Eunice Pierson with a blue wind-bonnet and a blue dress that made the prettiest picture in color a well chosen combination of colors the Robert E. Lee P.T.A. is planning some fun for their first meeting parents will have a chance to go back to school that is, they will follow their offsprings' schedule of classes, with bells ringing and everything, so they will know what it is like and some of them will have to go on a dead run to make a class in the opposite end of the building but they will come away from the "meeting" knowing what Johnnie or Sue does with time all day long, and in the process meet the teachers.

Consistency is seen in example more than in precept. —Mary Baker Eddy

BIT BY-BIT we go down the column we adore Doris Wilson's charming, new short, hair style so pretty news you will be interested in Twentieth Century Cotillion is beginning their fashion luncheons again on the nineteenth with, of course, fall fashions highlighted we'd like to see a men's fashion show sometime fun to see a mother-daughter pair dressed alike Jannis Roberts, and her mother, Mrs. Charles Roberts and little toddler Jannis matching mommy-in-a-perky white and black outfit and a white bow in little Jannis's hair Bobby Altmiller is helping at Lallypop kindergarten this year she is a specialist in speech and phonics and has fun with the children Bobby Andis will be going to Gulf Park College in Gulfport, Mississippi this fall no better time of life than college days, in some respects fun learning and just enough responsibility for one's own conduct and affairs if we don't watch out we'll get sticky sentimental but ter sign off, and say goodbye until next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas H. Luedecke, nee Sami Sue Cook

Sami-Sue Cook, Douglas H. Luedecke Repeat Nuptial Vows In Chapel Rites

Miss Sami Sue Cook repeated white dress. Their corsages were wedding vows with Douglas H. Luedecke on Sept. 4 in a three o'clock service performed in First Methodist Chapel by the Rev. First church pastor immediately following the ceremony. The bride's bouquet was used as the centerpiece for the table, which was appointed with silver service. Mrs. E. M. Gunn presided at the punch service. Mrs. D. M. Willhite served from the tiered wedding cake. Miss Sue Ann Thompson was guest registrar.

For a brief wedding trip to Amarillo, the bride wore a brown and black cotton tulle suit complemented with a brown and green orchid corsage. Mrs. Luedecke attended Pampa High School; Mrs. Luedecke was graduated from Pampa High School in 1939 and is employed by Southeastern Bell Telephone Co. They will make their home at 109 S. Wynne. A post-nuptial courtesy was extended the bride on Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. R. Campbell, 1209 Mary Ellen with Mrs. Carlisle Nance, Hugh Shotwell, Frank Shotwell, Chet Henry, Chester Thompson and J. M. Fitzgerald as assisting shower hostesses.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, F. M. Gunn of Arlington, chose for her wedding a lavender wool jersey fashioned with a rounded neckline, brief sleeves and a full, gathered skirt. She carried a bouquet of gardenias arranged with stephanotis and showered with white satin streamers tied in lovers' knots. ATTENDANTS Miss Diane Gunn served the bride as maid of honor wearing a navy tulle dress with a white carnation corsage. Larry Holmes was best man. C. W. Henry seated the wedding guests. For her daughters wedding, Mrs. Cook wore a black sheer wool dress. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Luedecke chose a black and

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: "Should a parent apologize to children for every little mistake? My sister-in-law will beg her 14 year-old girl to forgive her for forgetting to deliver an unimportant telephone message. She'll first accuse herself of carelessness to the child and then start excusing it. I feel that these constant apologies annoy the child more than her mistakes. They do not accept them in a good spirit but use them to make big deals of their grievances.

Answer: Any parent who cannot apologize briefly to a youngster for some injustice or unkindness should want to know why he can't. Usually we make big forgiveness-seeking dramas of our mistakes with children for self-glorifying reasons. Like the sister-in-law of my correspondent, we can't stand being reproached for carelessness with a telephone message. We can't tolerate the fact that we've been at fault. By exaggerating the fault we hope that our daughter will say:

"Oh, forget it Mother, it was nothing at all." Our insistent apology is our insistence that we are irreproachable.

Children seldom fall for this trick. As my correspondent suggests, they resent it as irresponsible. The daughter we have offended knows that we are not genuinely interested in the inconvincence we have caused her but in compelling her to regard us as faultless.

So, instead of giving us the forgiveness we seek, she will complain about our carelessness toward the telephone call, not because she is mean but because she feels that it has not been really registered and at any time may be repeated.

MATURE PARENT

Mr. Bossert didn't go to college. The idea of higher education bored him.

Mrs. Ingram is the granddaughter of Mrs. Orphan York of Panhandle the late Dr. York and Mrs. Viola Harrell of Groom. She was a participant in her senior class in Groom High School, a member of Groom 4H Club. She has been attending University of Texas, Austin, where she was majoring in foods in the home economics department. She will enroll this fall at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, where she will be a sophomore student.

He enjoyed his work and used every opportunity to expand it. Today he's the president of his community's most respected real estate firm.

Mr. Ingram has been attending Texas A&M, College Station, where he was majoring in industrial technology. He will also enroll in SMU this fall.

But he's so disappointed by his son's disinterest in high education that he hasn't spoken to him in three days. This summer young Bob returned from his first year of college with barely passing marks.

Plans are made for a nursery and films for children who accompany their parents to school.

"What do you want to be—nothing? You'll finish school, young man, or get out of this house!"

It was also announced that, ta-

For Bossert's an American parent. Without knowing it, he shares the national view that children must somehow always improve on their parents' social and educational status whether they are equipped to do so or not.

Attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Glen D. Hodges, Eddie and Glenda, Loy Seitz, Duncan and Betty, Curtis Lancaster, Fayette Seitz, Bob Galmore, Mrs. Hallie Seitz, all of Moebette.

That he characterized his own sturdy, life's labor as "nothing" did not occur to Bossert. It never has.

Messrs. and Mmes. Boh Burgess and Minnie Pearl, W. A. Burgess and Dorothy, Glenn Burgess, Bevil Lovday, Gary and Linda, all of Amarillo.

Which is a pity. For what this ambition engenders for both us and the children is disrespect for us—a corrosive and unconscious belittling of what we are, and what we have accomplished in the world.

Attending from Pampa were Messrs. and Mmes. Gerald Seright, Mmes. Glen Newman, Bobby, Betty Scott, Brenda and Rickey, Rod Dager, Wayne Phillips, Bobby and Ricky, Alvin Dauer and Ronnie, James Lancaster and Jimmy, Willie Johnson, W. B. Burgess and Harold, Misses Jeanette and Carlin Smith.

I bring it up because I have received so many letters from readers hailing my recent columns on the American parent's relinquishment of self-respect.

Attending from Hereford were Messrs. and Mmes. Bob Burgess and Dorothy, Glenn Burgess, Bevil Lovday, Gary and Linda, all of Amarillo.

In a community where children are commissioned to always improve upon their parents' economic and social position, it is almost impossible for parents to respect that position or to win the young's appreciation of it.

Attending from Groves were Messrs. and Mmes. Earl Flinchum, Charle Tutor, Earl Flinchum, and helpers, was held in the back yard of the Tutor home on Friday night.

So I suggest that we remember that we are an immigrant people. We are still bemused in the immigrant's dream of boundless progress and unlimited opportunity. It's a dream, we have to be aware of it. It is what accounts for our unlimited ambition for children—and by shutting our eyes to the actual value of our own achievements makes us susceptible to youthful disrespect. It sustains our hidden self-dissatisfaction.

Games of horseshoe pitching and sitting was enjoyed throughout the evening.

The big news for 1960 is knits, and they wear the look of suits, and basic dresses. The types vary in texture, snape and color, but the news is still the same!

BENTLEY'S has a knit for you in their JOURNAL OF ITALY designed as a smart, simple sheath of fine Italian wool. What's more, there are stunning knit coats, fine and tailored, to match the dresses. I think the colors are so beautiful this year: pegan, black, royal blue, and the most alive red I have seen. Size range in knits is news, too: 8 to 18, 7 to 15, and 12 1/2 to 20 1/2. Carolyn Jones, Kit Kat prey is on hand after school and Saturdays to help you girls find styles that are "just right". I just can't stop before I mention the two-piece knit suit by Koldin that has edging on collar and pockets that seems hand crocheted. The surprise here is that these lovely things are in HALF SIZES. The one I saw was in toast color, but there is also elegant charcoal. For everyone, fashion-right knits are at BENTLEY'S, 101 N. Cuyler.

TARPLEY-MUSIC COMPANY has the answer to that: "Playing in the band is more than a sparkling brass instrument and a cheering crowd. It is rehearsal and hard work. Taking an 'active' part in music teaches children to be creative, to work actively towards a goal, to work together. It gives them a sense of belonging and teaches self-confidence. It does more: it gives your child an understanding of and interest in music that will mean pleasure, relaxation throughout life. Band students generally get better grades, too. And if your child has special talent it may lead to a professional or a vocational music career. These are sound reasons why you should encourage your child to play in the band. For famous brands in cornets, clarinets, trombones and saxophones see TARPLEY MUSIC CO. Their "rental-purchase" plan assures you and your child the right instrument before you buy. 115 N. Cuyler, MO 44251.

Dorothy Klotz ready to talk about cosmetics. She showed me a box labeled "Dory Beauty Masque" by DuBarry. This is "beauty" treatment you can use at home, a new kind of facial mask incorporating alginates derived from marine algae, a basic form of cellular life rich in vitamins, minerals, and salts. The Dory Beauty Masque takes fifteen minutes. Vogue Magazine commends its speed of mixing and applying. Its two-way action is a cleansing heat treatment that opens pores with gentle relaxing warmth then a cooling action that helps stimulate circulation. The mask lifts easily off, leaving skin refreshed, glowing $1.50. Six complete treatments, $7.50. Dorothy has a complete line of "Ogilvie Sisters" products. Luxury and high fashion are combined in these fur coats which offer beautiful shape and wrap. The coats shown here are designed to fall short of a dress hemline and thus give the wearer added slenderness and height. A classic coat of great elegance is this one in three-quarter length (left) in baby fawn color. The line, from shoulder to hem, is perfectly straight. Natural seal in golden fawn color is used (center) for a coat handled with great simplicity. It is cut with a barrel silhouette, is double-breasted and has a large notched collar. Sleek coat in baby leopard (right) shows the Oriental influence. It is slit on either side up to the knee and is cut with a mandarin collar. All coats shown here are Leo Ritter designs.

Many Styles Show In Sleek Fashion Furs

NEW YORK (NEA) — The woman who is shopping for a fur coat this year can expect to be offered the coat which is just exactly right for her. She will not be told that there's just one "look" which she must accept even if it's unbecoming.

This great variety in silhouettes includes the princess line and the cape effect, the straight coat in three-quarter length, the coat with width at the shoulder and the one that falls in a pronounced flare from a natural shoulder line.

In some instances, a cape effect is gained by using shaped fronts and real sleeves against flaring cape backs and sides.

There will be more color in furs this year, too. This doesn't mean pink mink or red rabbit. It does mean seal skin in its natural golden fawn color, charcoal gray for nutria, beaver and sheared raccoon, new, radiant black for mink and fox, beige and oyster white for the sheared furs.

Leopard is used sometimes in combination with other furs—black Alaska fur seal or golden beaver.

Even the straight coats show a bit more body width than they did last year. But it's a width that is deftly handled so that it gives the wearer a hint of bulkiness.

There are many fur coats with button closings this year, chiefly those for daytime or country wear.

The elegance of the wrap coat of the straight, buttonless coat is reserved for late day and evening.

Fisher joins the luxury furs—mink, sable and chinchilla—this year. At least one top designer has used it for a three-quarter length coat. Others have worked it into little capes, jackets and sequined stoles.

Leopard print blouse with bateau neckline is a hot fashion for fall. It's done in washable matte jersey.

One of the newest necklaces of autumn is made up of marble beads and small glass cubes. Different and striking.

One out of every four homemakers in the United States is now employed outside the home, the Texas Beef Council has learned. Recent surveys indicate employed wives serve their families' meals which are as nutritionally well balanced as their housewife neighbors.

Sam Houston School Host For Initial Meet Of PTA City Council

PTA City Council held its first meeting of the new school year Tuesday 9:30 a. m. in Sam Houston School with Mrs. Joe Fisher, unit-president and L. C. Davis, school principal, as hosts.

Mrs. Carlton Nance, council president, presided as reports were given by Mrs. C. N. Gage Jr., secretary, and Mrs. Paul Turner, treasurer.

Mrs. Donald Haynes, recreation chairman, reported that the summer recreation program was successful due to the efforts of Mrs. Frank Shotwell, executive Red Cross secretary and Clifton McNeeley.

Mrs. R. A. Mack, hospitality chairman, told the group that the "Teachers' Get Acquainted" reception was fairly well organized and that hospitality chairmen from each school would assist with the affair.

A total of 38 radio programs to be presented by the PTA units have been planned for this year, according to Mrs. Warren Hasse, radio chairman. "These programs will be given on Friday mornings at 9:15 a. m. over radio station KPDN. Each school will be responsible for four programs during the year," Mrs. Hasse outlined.

Mrs. E. E. Sheehan, study course chairman, reported that a study course has been set up for Tuesday, Oct. 11, and urged each member that had not taken the course to do so.

It was announced that there will be a workshop meeting in Wheeler on Oct. 11 beginning at 9:30 a. m. and dismissing at 2:30 p. m. Ined as a guest of the meeting. Forty-three board members attended the council meeting.

Space Agency Tosses Greek Names Around

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — You have to know your ABC's and be able to go along with a mid-gauge and then to keep up with NASA space projects.

A slight familiarity with Greek mythology may also help you to remember such things as Mercury, Apollo, Atlas, Centaur, and Saturn.

At a recent industry briefing here NASA—known to people not in a hurry as the National Aeronautics & Space Administration—tossed letters around with alphabetical abandon.

It discussed plans to launch OGO (also known as S-16), OAO, and NERV, not to mention a desirable satellite named Stretecar. OGO will be an Orbiting Solar Observatory, OAO an Orbiting Astronomical Observatory, and NERV a Nuclear Emulsion Recovery Vehicle.

The Stretecar satellite also is known as OGO and, depending on its orbit, EGO and POGO. OGO means Orbiting Geophysical Observatory. If it's launched into an eccentric or wide-swinging orbit it's EGO. If it's put into a polar orbit it's POGO.

The nickname "Stretecar" apparently was thought up by Wilfred E. Scull, project manager for OGO. The idea is that the basic satellite will be so designed that it can accommodate many different kinds of instrumental payload, depending on the experiments to be performed.

If you are a geophysical scientist with a specific experiment in mind, you needn't worry if a Stretecar satellite goes off without your instruments aboard.

Just wait awhile and another Stretecar will come by which may have space for you.

NASA doesn't mind and even seems pleased by such small sayings at humor. But officials were not amused when someone asked: "OGO, EGO, or POGO blows up, will you call it NOGO?"

You could have heard a brick drop.

Kefauver Has 'Evidence' In Drug Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., claims his Senate investigators have "persuasive evidence" that several major drug companies are exercising monopolistic control over the prices of antibiotic "wonder drugs."

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee, said the evidence was in the form of production cost and sales data provided to his investigators on a "confidential" basis by the drug companies themselves.

Kefauver indicated the material would be revealed at open hearings this week even though the drug firms claim this would force them to publicly disclose "business secrets" which would help competitors.

Kefauver said the documents were "the most persuasive evidence we have yet uncovered showing monopolistic control and the exercise of that control through the charging of unreasonable and excessive prices."

He said the companies involved include Lederle Laboratories of American Cyanamid Co., New York, N. Y.; Bristol Laboratories, New York, N. Y.; and Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit.

Kefauver's threat to reveal the information set off a "flash" between him and three Republican senators on the subcommittee who generally defended the position of the drug companies.

The firms have balked at furnishing some documents on costs and prices, but they were subpoenaed. The companies claimed that disclosure of some things would place them at a "competitive disadvantage."

Kefauver agreed to consider each such request on its own merits but refused to give the drug firms blanket permission to keep the wraps on all records they want to withhold from public view.

Tower For U.S. Senate

John G. Tower, candidate for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Lyndon Johnson, was in Pampa Thursday and we think that all those who had an opportunity to have a serious discussion with Mr. Tower found him to be a man of uncommon ability and integrity, with an intense dedication to the cause of minimal government.

Tower, a former professor of political science at Midwestern University, is certainly an unusual sight in present day politics, not only because of his articulate conversation, but also because he holds to a philosophy of government so seldom blossoming in this day and age, from the ivory towers of the academic establishment. Except for such men as E. Merrill Root, Russell Kirk, Willmore Kendall and a few others, the halloved bulwarks of higher learning have produced a plethora of liberals (socialists) who have managed to render the youth of the land, to a very great extent, intellectual emphysemas. To encounter a man like Tower, considering his environment for the past several years, is a real treat.

Tower, during his visit, pointed out that Lyndon Johnson is a consummate political opportunist whose sole goal is personal political enrichment. On the whole, Johnson has been an unambitious left-winger, even though he has endeavored to maintain the image of a conservative. Few men in the political life of our country can grow in federal domination over their lives.

No Need For Evil

There is enough evil in the world so that we do not have to look to our political leaders to multiply it. Free men, agreeing to use government on their own behalf, produce a race of slaves and mendicants. Most ideas of major significance can be expressed in very simple terms. For example: It is better to be free than always to be safe.

Our Stand On Public Schools

We doubt whether we have, too often, made clear why we take the stand we do on tax-paid schools. Briefly, it is because tax-supported schools are based on an attempt to have two standards of rightness — one for the individual and a different one for the group. It is our belief that if it is wrong for an individual to do a thing, it is still wrong for a group to do it. If it is wrong for a group to do a thing, it is wrong for an individual to do it.

Now, let's test this out. Would any believer in tax-supported schools go to his neighbor, as an individual, and tell him that he was going to force him to help pay for the schools, to which he would want to send his children? Besides that, if said neighbor did not want to send his children to the same school, he could not send them to any other school without the permission from the authorities at the head of the first school? We do not know of anybody when we are turning over to who would do anything like that as an individual. And if it is wrong for an individual to do a thing, it is wrong for a group to do it.

Therefore, advocates of tax-supported schools have one standard for the individual and another standard for the group or the agents of the group. And the standard for the agents of the group is not a fixed standard but changes with the will of the majority of the group. Thus the teachers in these tax-paid schools are doing something that they would not think of doing as individuals — forcing people to pay for their services.

Young people form habits by doing what they see others do, especially older people who are called educators and are undoubtedly sincere and conscientious people. Thus the teachers cannot teach, by example, that the state or group should use the same standard of justice and rightness as is used by each individual who does not covet anything that is his neighbor's. And neighbor in this case means every person.

Remember, Albert Schweitzer said there are three ways to influence opinion and action: "reason, persuasion, and example." And the greatest of these is example. Certainly we are not following Schweitzer's beliefs. Tax-paid schools cannot use the example method of teaching righteousness.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — A young man (all right, to ME he's young) of the film business whisked in and out of New York recently on a sort of fly-by-night and work-by-day schedule which had to do with his profession of producing front-rank films. His name is Jerry Wald and we've known each other a long time, and so far as I know and can tell he is easily to be classed among the First Five producers of motion pictures in the American branch of this demanding art form.

No one ever has successfully indicted Mr. Wald for being inarticulate and in consequence, he can usually be depended upon to say something. It is of note that he rarely speaks foolishly. At the moment, he was concerned with extensions into the film business of certain remarks put down by Justice Frankfurter. "What makes so many men timid evaluators?" and gave this answer: "Because people want to avoid unpleasantness — to be asked 'Is dinner' at certain houses — to run for offices — and perhaps they are timid as Billie Graham said, because they would rather be liked than right. Dozens of reasons suggest themselves. To become aggressive or adventurous it may be necessary to lead and leadership draws responsibility, something hardly anybody these days seems to want. Timidity may offer the promise of untroubled obscurity or a feeling of false security — a feeling of security (if one means freedom from danger, risk, care, apprehension or doubt) does not exist and a reading of history suggests it never did."

Mr. Wald is concerned that this kind of timidity and lack of adventurousness is being seen in the film industry like a well-tucked-in blanket. He sees precious few producers of films willing to accept danger, risk, care, apprehension and doubt. He sees producers, stars, writers, distributors and exhibitors all faced with demands of "guarantees." Producers want the guarantee of a top star in their films, stars want a participation percentage guarantee and are unwilling to risk any loss a film may suffer. Distributors want guaranteed pay dates and, quoting Max Youngstein, "exhibitors seem to think that they are the beneficiaries of an insurance policy on which the premiums are to be paid by producers and distributors."

Mr. Wald longs for the days when, like any other show business, the film business was a world of risk and adventure, when a man went into it knowing that he could sink or swim with almost equal ease and that if he swam it was because he was a little more daring and chance-taking than the next fellow. Fortunes were made and fortunes were lost, but a vivid, vigorous, healthy industry was created in the process.

"An inability to face chance," he said, "is the first sign pointing to extinction. From dinosaurs to vaudeville, failure to adapt to change was the killer, the death kiss. This same kind of death can come to motion pictures if we do not adapt to our times and our problems — but with courage and determination. We now hear that we are in danger of losing our supremacy — not that any other film making center is laying claim to the title — because thoughtful and carefully made films from other parts of the world have been winning the acclaim and attention of the public."

What was a missing factor in Hollywood? "The third man at the table," he said. "Summit Conferences have become a monstrous show of big egos, each man representing himself. There is no need of a third man at the table, the little fellow with brains to say something. The guy who stands in line at the exit office, his is the voice we need now to hear. Other industries call him in for consultation, advice and help. They solicit the consumer's opinions. There is still time for us to modernize."

Mr. Wald has just produced a distinguished film, "Somebody Loves Me." He is having no directing troubles, the public loves it, critics admire it. But his triumphs do not blind him to previous needs within the film industry.

Take Me To Your Leader

Fair Enough

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — A man phoned me the other day from Jersey City and said, "You are usually dead right in your facts so I want to set you straight about Sinatra being a fighter. Frank never answered the gong in his life."

I said, "Who are you?" He said, "I am his cousin. My name is Frank Garivanti and my mother and Frankie's father are sister and brother. I grew up with Sinatra and I knew him all the way. We boxed a little in a gym where a lot of fighters trained in Weehawken, but Frank never had a fight. He is excitable and he gets loaded and then he thinks he can fight, but he couldn't knock your hat off with a ball bat. I am surprised how he gets away with it because a slap in the mouth would lay him dead."

I said, "But his old man was a fighter, and the way I got my facts from some old timers on the Jersey waterfront, Sinatra fought plenty of fights." He said, "Well, I work for Holland-America in Hoboken and I know a lot of the longhairs and I remembered the time you went into that courtroom in New York when poor old Joe Ryan was on trial there, sitting all alone and all the guys who used to hang around him had run out and you walked up in the recess and shook hands and wrote a writeup how they all ratted on him."

I said, "Joe wasn't so bad. But you can have that George Meany, Joe Ryan taught Meany all he knows and George knew all about Joe for years, but he never opened his trap. Ryan made him president of the New York State Federation. So then when Mrs. Ryan was dying of cancer, all Joe's dear old friends like Meany hollered copper, but do you remember her funeral? How the funeral went down the West Side and up the East Side and every 'Longie' on both rivers came outside and stood backheaded. That's what they thought of Joe. They still do."

And that lump on the side of the head that doesn't show up for a day or two is a deep bruise (cephalohematoma). It doesn't trouble you either, though it may take a couple of weeks before it, too, disappears like any other black-and-blue spot.

Maybe you'll also be puzzled, if it's your first, about two dark, round-shaped, soft spots on the top of the head that bulge when the baby cries.

They're called fontanelles or "little fountains" for some reason. I've never been able to figure out the larger in front is the anterior fontanelle. The smaller, in back, the posterior fontanelle.

Don't be afraid to touch them gently with the tips of your fingers.

And if you outline home plate and the three bases every few weeks or so, you'll observe how they close over with good firm bone. The posterior, after a few months. The anterior, after eight to 15 months.

The purpose of these fontanelles, as you might have guessed, is to act like the webbing in a corset. They give the structure underneath, in this case the brain, a chance to expand.

By the time your baby is six years old, its head will have grown to almost adult size. And during these few formative years, the amazing structure it houses will have learned to see, hear, smell, talk, remember and think among other accomplishments.

Here's a home-grown miracle you can witness and wonder at, every day in your life.

THE FOREIGN POLICY ISSUE

The campaign for the presidency will be fought out at home while overseas the most momentous events take place. How the candidates react to these events, plus what they propose to do about them will be indicative of the quality of their Americanism.

Revolutionary struggles now taking place in the Congo and Cuba are the lost cases. As soon as the presidential campaign gets into full swing and the political debate sharpens, the Democratic and Republican candidates will be unable to speak in vague generalities regarding foreign affairs. If and when new political explosions take place in Africa and the Caribbean, the candidates will have to be specific as to the kind of U.S. action they want to specifics, the U.S. public will be able to grasp what kind of president each man would make. The "liberal" line on foreign affairs has been that the United States must hasten the revolutionary process everywhere in the world. The desire to promote "agrarian reform" led "liberals" in the State Department to support both Chinese communists and Cuban Marxists. Only now is the country beginning to realize the terrible danger of letting bureaucrats place the alleged interests of other lands ahead of the interests of the United States.

What American conservatives would like to see from one of the candidates is recognition that America must be placed first and that the American way should be vigorously asserted. By the American way, I mean the private enterprise way. The United States should under no circumstances help foreign governments that are socialist — Spain, Sweden, former American ambassador to Cuba, who saw the Castro threat from the start, rightly says that socialism is but the "prep school for communism."

In dealing with Castro and other leftist dictators in Latin America, the United States should seek to avoid helping rebels, who are supposedly "mild" left-wingers. The only kind of youth revolutionary worth aiding is a conservative counter-revolutionary, one who respects the rights of private property, that the U.S. respects.

In dealing with the African situation, the same basic rule should apply. The U.S. interest is to stick with people who share the same philosophy as the American people — the capitalist philosophy, the private enterprise philosophy. Tragically, this nation turned its back on its Belgian friends in the Congo and took up the cause of savage rebels. Now the United States is paying the bill for the United Nations as it tries to straighten out the mess that has resulted. With 24 African nations in the U.N. — and a total of 31 soon to come — the United States will be outvoted time and again in the years ahead. These are paper nations, legal fictions — many of them dictatorships ruled by African bosses.

Conservatives must look in the candidates' speeches for some sign that they recognize the basic error of attempting to strengthen American security through an organization where Red enemies outnumber free capitalist nations. It is futile to effect conservative reforms in labor and economic matters at home if the nation is to spend vast sums supporting U.N. projects abroad — projects that the U.S. cannot control. The result of supporting the U.N. will be to transfer the economic strength of the free world to the grasping nations of the so-called "underdeveloped countries."

Unless the United States is alert in defending its own interests, it may spend itself into weakness, into becoming a second-class power. Rumor can be prevented only by electing the candidate who gives the strongest support to the principles of capitalism, the principles that made this nation strong in the first place.

Hankerings

By HENRY McELMORE

The more I read books on child psychology and child training, the more I realize that it is only a matter of time until I am named "Worst Father Of The Year" by Parents Magazine or some similar publication.

A father (the books say) is a key figure in discipline. Just as a catcher backs up the first baseman, the father must back up the mother. Just the child-run wild around the house, when sternness is called for, the father must be as unyielding as a topknot.

This lets me out. I have never liked bullies, having had my fill, and for one to throw my weight (181) around against Megan (28) with a pinfold on it is bullism at its very worst. How much more dignified, how much more manly, to let her have her way.

Who's earthly satisfaction could possibly come from disciplining a 10-year-old girl and making her cry? The notion that I don't want to let Megan cry is a lollipop from her tiny hand. The fact that it was her sixth lollipop in three hours adds no fuel to my achievement.

A father, at certain times, is supposed to listen to a child, who is crying as if her heart will break, and pay no more attention than if he were listening to a cat purring.

A father must be able to watch tears flow as calmly as he watches water flow from a tap.

He must be able to shut a door and keep it that, though he can and hear a pleading voice call to him for help.

I can do none of these things. I tried leaving Megan alone in a room until she had finished a pot of paint, and managed to last until she wanted a snack.

The science got me: Had the strain of having rendered her unconscious? In her anger had she somehow managed to break through the screen, open the window and fall head-on to the ground? A thousand possibilities of disaster flashed through my mind.

So I ran to get her and the sight of her well and healthy, and all smiles, so gaddened my heart that I promised never to shut her out of my sight again.

How wise, and what a pity that such a belief is not popular today. And how wonderful for fathers.

What a pleasure it must have been in those days when the man's hellion boy baby was the more you could look in public approval. Honor surely would have come to me in those days. I would have been asked to lecture on how to increase mischief patterns.

Plow-up Date For Cotton Is Extended

AUSTIN (UPI)—State Agriculture Commissioner John White Saturday extended the cotton plow-up deadline in four Lower Rio Grande Valley counties to Sept. 17.

The deadline for plow-ups had been set for 12:01 a.m. Sunday. The program is for pink bollworm control.

White said rains in the area have kept cotton farmers from meeting the deadline. He granted a 10-day extension of the deadline earlier.

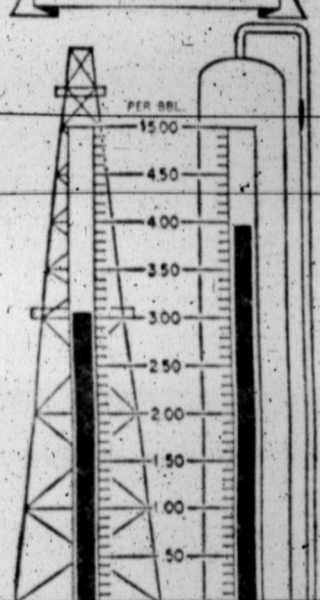

Counties affected are Willacy, Cameron, Hidalgo and part of Starr.

"This will give us a week to look over the situation and see what to do," White said.

'Bellwether' Natural Gas Pricing Case Stalled In FPC Committee

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE, United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Power Commission continues to sit on the biggest interstate natural gas pricing case of all—that of the Phillips Petroleum Co., Bartlesville, Okla.

This is the so-called bellwether case from which is supposed to emerge a fair and simple cost-of-service pricing formula for industrywide regulation of independent producers.

The formula would have two objectives: To guarantee producers a fair return on their investment and to safeguard consumers from price gouging.

Though hearings ended in December, 1957, and FPC Examiner Joseph Zwerdling recommended a disputed formula in April, 1959, word at the commission is that no early action is certain.

"All I can say," a spokesman told UPI, "is that the case is before the commission."

A Phillips spokesman said that "up to now we have received no word on the case or any phase of it, nor do we have a hint as to when action may come."

The commission's first order of business when action begins will be to consider a Phillips' challenge of Zwerdling's findings, plus a compromise settlement offer Phillips made last April 8 in which both sides would "give and take."

The task is monumental and the final decision may defy industrywide application. The commission must take 188 separate Phillips rate schedules, balance them against what it deems a fair companywide cost of service, give Phillips a fair rate of return while at the same time protecting consumers, and out of it all find the much-sought blanket pricing formula.

This undoubtedly accounts for the commission's delay.

On the sidelines waiting are 83 interveners — pipeline companies, state agencies and municipal bodies whose customers or citizens will be affected.

Major issue in dispute is what is a true cost of service. Zwerdling asserted it was 11.7 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas, as against the company's claim of 18.8 cents. On that basis he recommended Phillips be denied $35 million of the $49 million rate increase it seeks and that it refund the difference under the suspension rule.

Phillips protested that Zwerdling had arbitrarily denied it legal tax allowances and a fair allocation of joint costs to gas and other products. It declared that all studies—by FPC staff, Phillips, the interveners and Zwerdling — showed company revenues for interstate gas sales were well below cost of service.

Zwerdling fixed the company's cost of service at $57.2 million for the test year 1954, the year the Supreme Court in his famous Phillips decision, ordered the commission to regulate interstate gas prices. Phillips put the cost at $92.3 million and refused, with threats of court action, to recede.

It said that Zwerdling, "from this one hearing, undertakes to make a case for use of cost of service to all producers" whereas Phillips must have rates reflecting "a realistic cost of service."

"The mere fact that this one proceeding has taken more than three years, with no end in sight," it told the commission, "indicates the problem of the commission in applying cost of service one by one to each of the thousands of producers or even to each of the 200 to 300 fairly large producers."

The case stalled at this point until last April when the company offered its compromise with the declaration that it does not recede from its own cost figures as the amount it is entitled to recover but that it was willing to make sacrifices to end confusion and delay.

The next move must come from the commission. Officials said there was no exact precedent for the compromise offer.
