Pampa-Lefors United Fund Story

Pampa Welfare Index Takes Care Of Needy

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of seven articles dealing with units receiving funds from the Pampa-Lefors United Fund, which will begin its campaign Sept. 30 to raise $68,746, the sum needed to carry through efforts of the organization for the coming year.

By ED HAYES WILSON
Daily News Staff Writer

One of the little known, but highly active organizations within the United Fund group is the Pampa Welfare Index. The unit, one of seven receiving funds from the United Fund pool of donations, will this year be in a position to make an odd request less funds than in the past. The "husky" sum requested by the organization this year is $300. "We are quite proud that we are able to cut our request 40 percent," said John Gikas, PWI chairman. "We are able to do so since Cabot Corp. has donated a building at the corner of Brown and West streets for use as a warehouse. This means we won't have to pay rental on a building, and that the funds we receive will go towards absolute necessities.

"We have no paid workers. We are a group of people representing civic and service clubs, fraternal orders, police, firemen, interested individuals, and the like. Our primary purpose is to aid families in disaster periods and in times of need.

"PWI was organized seven years ago with the idea in mind to eliminate duplication in taking care of the needy. It worked. Since then we have interchanged ideas that we believe have brought the organization to far better capacity usefulness than it was in the beginning," said Gikas.

Investigation committees are formed within the organization to study the needs of those in want. These groups check the families or persons involved and decide what should be done to help them. Duplication, as noted before, is put aside and the help is speedily given.

Last year, for instance, there were four major fires in the city. In these, one of the families included seven children, and another contained five. "Most of the youngsters were of school age. We saw that they received needed facilities to help put them back on their feet," Gikas pointed out. One of the big projects of PWI is distribution of baskets of groceries at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

"It seems that everyone in the organization receives an extra bit of enjoyment in this and they will drop everything to enter into the project," Gikas said.

High on the "must" list for the group is keeping its supply of needed materials for distribution at a certain level. This means that beds, bedding, clothing, furniture, and the like

Congo Reins To Caretaker Unit

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — (UPI)—Congoese strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu set officials of his youthful caretaker regime to formally take over government offices today, and charged the United Nations was keeping him from arresting ousted pro-Soviet Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Lumumba is in his official residence which is guarded by Ghanaian troops of the U.N. force.

Mobutu said a Ghana officer at the residence refused to recognize an arrest warrant issued by the Congoese attorney general. He did not say exactly when he tried to serve the warrant, but did say he had "made a strong protest to the United Nations."

The anti-Communist 15-member college of high commissioners took over the main administration building under protection of a platoon of infantrymen and an armored car.

In rapid succession, they closed the ministries of information and justice, and took over the national radio station. The moves were carried out peacefully. They told civil servants to return to work

Ike Sets 'Air Eye' U.N. Talk

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower worked today on the final draft of his United Nations speech in which he is expected to propose a U.N. aerial watchdog plan and a sweeping aid program to newly independent African nations.

The President scheduled a meeting with the National Security Council at which he may preview the speech he will deliver to the U.N. General Assembly in New York City Thursday.

Eisenhower had no appointments this afternoon, leaving the time free to work on the address. The White House said he was doing most of the writing of the speech, with some help from Soviet affairs expert Charles E. Bohlen and others.

High U.S. officials said Eisenhower would urge that economic and technical assistance to Africa be channeled through the United Nations to avoid an East-West conflict that could pull the new countries into the cold war.

Officials said the President would make clear that the United States stands ready to contribute both funds and commodities in liberal amounts to the program. The other main point in Eisenhower's speech was said to call for global aerial surveillance under U.N. direction to guard against any surprise attack.

Stepfather Escapes Pen To Attend Son's Funeral

EAST LOS ANGELES, Calif. — They bury 5-year-old Joseph F. Cordova today.

His stepfather, who escaped from prison to attend the funeral, will be at the graveside.

Joseph died at General Hospital last Tuesday — 18 days after he was injured in a fall at his Pomona, Calif., home. His mother, who had expected him to recover, spent all 18 nights as close to her boy as she could. Unable to afford a hotel room, she slept each night on a waiting room bench in the hospital.

Rolando R. Lopez, 27, heard of his stepson's death the next day in his cell at the California Institution for Men at Chino, 40 miles away.

Rules forbade his attending the funeral. He escaped. Local police were alerted that he might return to the Los Angeles area to attend the funeral.

Lopez, convicted of robbery in January, did return. He was arrested by police officers Tuesday in a Pomona hotel. Accompanied by two detectives, he will be allowed to attend the services. Authorities said Lopez will be returned to Chino where, at the time of his escape, he was being held as a minimum security prisoner serving a five-year-to-life term.

County CD Administrator Wants Improved Warning System Here

Sheriff Rufe F. Jordan today said he deplored the facilities this city has for civil defense alert and that he plans a meeting in the near future with Mayor Ed Myatt, Gray County Judge Bill Craig, city and county commissioners to "see what we can do to alleviate the situation."

Pampa has one siren, located atop the Hughes Building. Sheriff Jordan, Civil Defense administrator for Pampa and Gray County, said that four additional sirens are needed to properly "cover" the city.

"I don't mean to be an alarmist. I don't want the people to be disturbed. However, there is a possibility, there is danger.

"We don't expect the Russians or anyone else to dump a nuclear bomb on us. But, there again, we didn't expect Pearl Harbor, so you never know," said the sheriff.

The sheriff is more concerned with tornado possibilities than with possible bomb attacks. He pointed out that on May 5, 1957, Silverton had 20 deaths and numerous injuries when a tornado ripped the town asunder during the night.

"I was there. I know what happened. Silverton had no alarm system and the people didn't have any idea that a tornado was nearing them until it struck the city.

"One week later, the Olton-Tahoka area was struck by a twister. However, the people had been alerted and they were evacuated in time to be clear of the tornado's path. The result was one person suffered a broken arm," said Sheriff Jordan.

He wants the four additional alarm sirens to be stationed in the southwest, southeast, northwest and southwest sections of the city, since, he pointed out, "this will give everyone a chance to hear them and be prepared for any eventuality."

In line with a possible nuclear attack, Sheriff Jordan said he has files compiled by the federal government, explaining what people should do to protect against radiation created by the bomb.

"These informative pamphlets and brochures explain that residents should have bomb shelters in or near their homes. A basement is serviceable for this. People are urged to stock food, water, a radio (battery type), medical kit, tools, bedding, and the like to be prepared to remain in the shelter for two to three weeks. The government urges that these steps be taken, just in case," he informed.

The sheriff noted that the CD setup here is ample in that doctors, nurses, organizations and the Red Cross are prepared to go into a disaster plan on "a moment's notice."

He said these groups meet monthly with him and that "we feel we have much of the problem under control in the event of forced evacuation."

Soviets Claim Khrushchev Is Assassination Target

Story Rings False, But Precautions To Be Taken

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Russian security police announced they had received word of a plan to assassinate Premier Nikita Khrushchev somewhere in New York today with a gun hidden in a press camera.

Khrushchev ignored the threat and drove in a heavily guarded police motorcade from his headquarters on Park Avenue to the United Nations to maintain his perfect attendance record at the 15th annual General Assembly.

A first report by the Soviet trading corporation, Amtorg, said the attempt would be made in front of the Russian headquarters as he left for the U.N. session. A later report said the attempt could come "any place at any time — wherever there are cameras."

A high police source said the police departments holds the view that the Communist bloc "would love to see American newspapermen roughed up and every camera broken and taken apart."

"This doesn't mean that we're not going to be alert to any possibility and to the chance there may be something to it," the source said.

"We view this all as part of the same propaganda pattern that was planned even before they said they were coming here," the police spokesman said.

Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm said the Russians had tipped the State Department that "former Gestapo agents" were coming to New York disguised as press photographers.

Lt. Gen. Nikolai Zakharov, Khrushchev's chief security officer, told the State Department the tip had come from the Russian trade mission in Bern, Switzerland. The Russian said a special gun had been built in a movie camera and installed in an automobile by the "Gestapo agents."

New York police, strained by the most formidable security risk in their history — guarding 16 visiting heads of state — were edgy. Police issued a general alert to be on guard wherever Khrushchev went.

True or not, the Soviet report swept the spotlight from a series of Soviet diplomatic defeats and put the heat on New York City to defend Khrushchev in a city the Russians have criticized as hostile.

Police took extreme security precautions outside the Russian building and outside U.N. headquarters. Stephen P. Kennedy, New York police commissioner, ordered all cameras inspected at the U.N. entrance where a big press corps was covering the ar-

Nixon To Temper Criticism

Concerned About Prestige Of U.S.

By United Press International

GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon plugged today for a campaign moratorium on criticism of U.S. strength and prestige lest Communist leaders attending the United Nations think America is weak and divided.

But his Democratic opponent, Sen. John F. Kennedy, flatly rejected the proposal as "wrong and dangerous." Kennedy renewed his attack on what he considered U.S. set-backs and on any attempt merely to "out-talk or out-shout" Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Nixon's campaign timetable called for stops today in Fort Wayne, Ind., Louisville, Ky., and Springfield, Mo. Kennedy planned four appearances in Tennessee — in the Bristol-Kingsport-Johnson City area, Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis — before moving on to Sioux City, Iowa.

In a full day of stumping through Michigan Tuesday, Nixon repeatedly stated that he and Kennedy had a "special responsibility" to avoid any charges that might disparage America and thereby lead Khrushchev to believe that this country is weak.

"A great struggle was never won by a lack of belief in one's own strength and unity of purpose or by a defeatist attitude," the vice president declared at one point. "Let us not panic or search for faults in ourselves that would CHALLENGED — George Polk addresses the Harris County delegation during the credentials committee hearing at the state Democratic convention in Dallas. The 130 members of the Houston delegation were challenged on grounds that they have repudiated the national platform and ticket.

Daniel Rams 'Harmony' Down Demo Throats

By PAT CONWAY
United Press International

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Gov. Price Daniel rammed his "harmony" platform through a rowdy, five-hour state Democratic convention Tuesday with a tactical maneuver that left conservatives who wanted to swat the national party platform hamstringing on the convention floor.

Daniel warned the delegates he would have "harmony even if we have to fight for it."

His victory was complete. Instead of condemning the Democratic national platform by name, the convention adopted his "affirmative" approach and approved a state platform asserting devotion to principles of states rights.

The convention did not formally endorse the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, but reaffirmed a party principle set out at last June's convention to support all party nominees, local, state and national.

During a meeting of the convention's platform committee, attempts to repudiate the national platform and to endorse it in its entirety were both rejected. The controversial issues never made it to the floor for a vote, and conservatives spoiling for a fight didn't get their chance to do battle.

The chief reason for this was because the Harris County (Houston) delegation, one of the largest in the state, was all but kept out of the convention. The 295 members were primed to lead the conservative assault, but were kept off the floor until the convention was almost over by a credentials challenge.

Without the 295-vote strong Harris delegation, Dallas and Tarrant (Fort Worth) sympathizers could only stand by with jeers and demands, "We want Harris."

The Harris delegation was barred from the convention hall while a credentials committee weighed their position as loyal Democrats.

The committee finally agreed to seat all but six members of the delegation. Among those barred were presidential electors Hall Timanus of Houston and George Charlton of Tomball, Tex., who were replaced by Fred Hartman of Baytown and John H. Crooker Jr. of Houston.

Daniel also was given a new 62-member moderately conservative State Democratic Executive Committee to work with him during his next two years in office.

Fall Cleanup Progressing

Pampa's "Fall Cleanup Week" has proved successful to date, City Manager John Koontz said today, noting that huge piles of trash and debris are being hauled away by trucks of the Sanitation Department.

"We recently talked with members of the Colored Chamber of Commerce and explained that if we worked together on this we could eliminate much of the trash and clean up the alleys. They've joined 100 percent in this and their section of the city is rapidly being cleared of unwanted materials, garbage and debris," he said.

Tomorrow the trucks will tour the alleys of Ward 3, visit Ward 2, Friday and Monday, and Ward 1, Sept. 27 and 28.

Both Iceland and Greenland are in the western hemisphere.

Mosquitoes Being 'Bugged' By City

Mosquitoes, the plague of Pampa at different intervals this summer, again have swept into the city and City Manager John Koontz said today the sanitation department is doing everything possible to eliminate them.

"We are spraying breeding places throughout the city in an effort to knock them off. However, they seem to multiply faster than we can kill them off. We're doing all we can and we hope to have the pestilence under control shortly," Koontz said.

Ike Doesn't Invite Castro

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower today snubbed Cuban Premier Fidel Castro in inviting representatives of 18 Latin American countries to a special lunch after his United Nations speech Thursday.

The Dominican Republic, which the United States broke off relations last month, also was left off the list for the lunch. The gathering will be held on the 42nd floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York where the U.S. embassy to the U.N. is headquartered.

Communists Seal Off E. Berlin To Visitors

BERLIN (UPI)—The Communists today sealed off East Berlin to Western diplomats and banned them from traveling to the city without special permission.

The new restriction on Berlin traffic apparently did not apply to American, British and French diplomats who have a special occupation status under four-power agreements still recognized by the Soviets.

The Communists announced diplomats accredited to the West German government would need permission of the East German foreign ministry to enter East Germany or East Berlin.

On Sept. 8 the East Germans barred West Germans from entering East Berlin without special passes.

Today's new restriction appeared to be part of a Communist campaign that eventually could split the city for good and establish a national frontier in Berlin such as that which runs through Jerusalem.

All that remains for the Comm-

Goldwater Would Fight Castro

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Tuesday he would not be opposed to using force to depose Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro.

He added he believed the time may be "pretty well at hand" when such force must be used.

"The word I get is we would help ourselves by getting rid of the Castro government by almost any means," Goldwater said at a Town Hall meeting.

"The Cuban people should be the ones to overthrow this government and if they don't the Americans are going to have to do something about it," said Goldwater.

Goldwater said he doubted that Russia would go to war to save the Castro government.

Bear Hug And Boredom

Castro, Khrushchev Attend U.N. Session

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nikita Khrushchev stared at the ceiling and Fidel Castro nervously shuffled his feet.

Their bear hugging out of the way, the two premiers had settled down to the business at hand — heading the Soviet and Cuban delegations to the United Nations.

Both men looked a trifle bored. It was evident this pair of new-found friends, who embraced with gusto both at Castro's Harlem Hotel and before the first session of the U.N. General Assembly a short time later, became leg up with sitting in the audience the first day.

Khrushchev left after an hour of the droning night session. Castro didn't even show up.

They reached the rostrum at the same time.

Neither made a move to recognize the other. Wadsworth stepped back and permitted Khrushchev to cast the secret ballot. The premier turned on his heels and headed back to his seat.

Outside the great hall there were outbreaks of jeering pickets, scuffles, fist fights and flailing police clubs. Three persons were arrested, including one 19-year-old Ukrainian youth who was seized while setting fire to a Russian flag.

For 10 years, largely due to the efforts of the United States, Red China has been banned from membership in the United Nations. But from this day on, the United States may be fighting a rear-guard and losing action. Ironically, the new or underdeveloped nations which have the most to fear from aggressive communism probably will be the ones to open Red China's way into the world organization.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Shearson, Hammill & Co. considers the violation of the Dow Jones industrial 600 level as a basically healthy development and looks for the averages to stabilize at a "moderately lower" level. The firm advises its clients to stop worrying about the market as a whole and concentrate on the purchase of sound stocks in the electric utility, financial, entertainment, special situation fields, where many issues have been able to buck the trend of a declining market. Kaiser Aluminum's temporary profit setback, prevalent throughout the industry, forced the company's shares down to what can now be considered an extremely attractive buying level, and a constructive approach to the equity appears warranted, according to the Fifth Survey. Refinery Parts 'Not For Sale'

HOUSTON (UPI)—Ted Hansen of the Houston Better Business Bureau announced he had pieced together a story of an "almost desperate effort" by the Cuban government to buy oil refinery replacement parts in the Houston and New Orleans areas.

Nikita Has 2 Speeches For 1 Talk

NEW YORK (UPI)—Communist sources indicated today that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has two different speeches ready for his major United Nations address— one a "hard sell" and the other an appeal to sweet reason.

They said they had been told that the content and tone of the Russian leader's full-dress presentation to the General Assembly late this week would depend to a considerable extent on what President Eisenhower says when he speaks Thursday morning.

There was a feeling among many U.N. delegates that they might be sitting on a ticking time bomb as they awaited the addresses by the leaders of the two major world powers.

They acknowledged that East-West differences could erupt even more violently in the world forum in the wake of the Eisenhower and Khrushchev appearances.

Children's Drive Plans Discussed

Preliminary plans for the annual United Nations Children's Fund Drive, held annually in Pampa on Halloween Night, were discussed yesterday in a meeting in Lovett Memorial Library.

This drive, conducted by Pampa children in lieu of "Trick or Treat", netted some $1,000 last year to aid underprivileged children throughout the world.

The campaign is sponsored by the Pampa Ministerial Alliance and the United Church Women. The Rev. David Mills, pastor of Lamar Christian Church, is committee chairman.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. Carlton Nance, the Rev. Dr. Richard W. Crews, pastor of the First Christian Church; Joe Tooley, Floyd Watson, Lucian Young and the Rev. Mills.

Gikas Named RC Official

Thirty-eight persons from seven chapters attended the meeting of the Panhandle Association of Chapters of the Red Cross held Tuesday in Hereford.

John Gikas, 1322 Mary Ellen, was elected president of the association, replacing S. T. Pope.

The major part of the program consisted of discussions on the Junior Red Cross program.

Mrs. Donna Gray, Mrs. Jess Beard and Mrs. Libby Shotwell attended from Pampa.

Scouting Story Told Tuesday

An open house program was conducted Tuesday night at Sam Houston Elementary School for boys and parents interested in learning the story of scouting.

Parks Brumley, organizer for the Santa Fe District, headed the program, which was the second of ten school meetings planned.

The meetings are of value to boys 11 and older who would like to join the Boy Scout program.

Roger Farrow, committee chairman, announced that 24 boys joined the Baker P.T.A. Pack Monday evening. Five Boy Scouts were sent into neighboring troops.

Nixon

Kennedy replied in a nationwide TV speech, "I say it is wrong and dangerous for any American to keep silent about our future if he is not satisfied with what is being done to preserve that future."

He said he was not satisfied with this country's world position when President Eisenhower is insulted in Paris and Tokyo, communism is gaining a foothold in Cuba, just 90 miles off the U.S. coast, and America is second to Russia in space exploits.

Kennedy pledged that if he were elected president, he would undertake within 90 days after entering the White House programs to bolster national defense, send more help to underdeveloped nations and launch an "all-out attack on poverty" in the United States.

Nixon promised voters that if he were elected, he would seek to keep the peace, extend freedom throughout the world, build on the economic progress of the Eisenhower administration and provide responsible, qualified leadership.

The four, Andy Ward Reed, 101 S. Nelson, David Ray Carnal, 17, and two juveniles had in their possession about 40 cakes, and when interrogated at the police station admitted they had stolen them from a bread truck a few minutes earlier.

The truck, belonging to the Freshie Bakery of Amarillo, was parked in front of 909 Bernard. Its driver, A. N. Green, said the cakes had been taken while he was away from the vehicle for a few minutes.

Capt. Denny Roan said that Carnal and one of the juveniles had recently been paroled from the State Boys' School at Gatesville and that they had been sent there on the same charge that is placed against the quartet for the cake theft — burglary.

Calm prevailed in Leopoldville, with Lumumba out of sight for the time being and the commissioners moving in to take control.

At the same time, the United Nations command launched an investigation into reports of atrocities against supporters of Lumumba in the North of Katanga Province. The atrocities allegedly were committed by gendarmes loyal to secessionist-minded President Moise Tshombe of mineral-rich Katanga.

U.N. officials here said 68 Baluba tribesmen were slain in the village of Luena alone. They said the final death toll probably would be higher.

But in Elisabethville, capital of Katanga, a senior U.N. military official said "we have no news whatsoever to indicate any kind of massacre by the Katange gendarmerie in the North."

Numerous other incidents were reported around the living quarters of the Communist leaders. Eggs and vegetables pelted the car of chief Ukrainian U.N. delegate Nikolai V. Podgorny Tuesday night.

There was more than surly crowds to keep police busy. Castro's hotel was searched for a bomb after an anonymous phone call, one of several received since the Cuban angrily departed a midtown hotel and stormed up to Harlem, six miles from the U.N. building.

Khrushchev complained there were too many policemen around him. So did Wladyslaw Gomulka, the Polish Communist leader.

One of Khrushchev's bodyguards, husky 220-pound, 6-foot-3 Gen. Nikolai Zakharov, was colored by an equally burly New York police captain after the Russian started shoving the city policemen. The policemen were trying to escort Khrushchev away from Castro's hotel following his surprise visit which caught police off guard.

September 6, 1960

Dear Folks,
It's been a long time I've written and I guess I have a lot to catch up on. The other day I got three letters from you. It was really good reading there for awhile. Yesterday when I got home from our trip, I had two letters and that was wonderful!

The picture in the paper (Pampa Daily News) was quite a surprise. How did they even know I was here.

We left on our Labor Day trip Friday about 7:30 a.m. We went by train to Tokyo and left there at 10 at night. We traveled second class. I had had straight up and down seats. The Japanese men really do travel in their undies. . . long, white baggy cotton jobs. We giggled all the time. We arrived in Nagoya about 5:30 and went to a Japanese Hotel. We had green tea and waited for breakfast. We finally ate and went to the Nishiki China Factory. It was really something to see the Japanese work with that stuff. They are so artistic and fast that it is unbelievable.

From there we went by train, bus and etc. to Gifu to see cornucopia fishing. This is an old custom started in 712 AD. The fishermen go out in boats and one man handles 12 birds on strings. A huge fire hangs on a pole from the boat to attract fish. The birds fish and swallow the small ones. They also swallow the large fish, but they have a band around their neck that prohibits them from completely swallowing the large fish. When the bird catches a few fish the fisherman brings him back and removes the catch. I'm sending you a folder on this. Be sure to read it all and look for the mistakes in English. Some are funny.

We watched the fishing operation from a boat, which are lovely things with brightly-colored lanterns hanging all over. The boat was very clean and we sat on the floor on Tatami mats and ate on small tables. We had fried shrimp, shish ka bob, beef, ham, potato salad and Japanese beer, because we were scared to drink the water. We were the only Americans aboard.

This is a big festival for the Japanese and they were all costumed in their kimonos and were singing and having the greatest time. This was all at night and we were halfway down a long line of these brightly lighted boat. The procession was headed by a barge of women dancers, which was beautiful. The whole affair was lighted by a tremendous amount of fireworks. It was really a sight.

Before we went to the festival, we stopped at a factory. All the time, we thought we were going to a rattan furniture factory and when we got there it was a lantern factory. The Japanese can't pronounce it and they say "runch for lunch. Our guide was trying to say lantern and it was coming out "ran-tan". We really had a laugh about it. I did buy a pretty lantern however, as a memento of the trip.

That night, after the festival, we went back to Nagoya by train and were all exhausted. We took a bath in the Japanese bath. You sit on tiny little stools and run water from a faucet and soap all over; then you pour water on yourself from a cute little wooden tub to rinse off. Then you climb into a tile bath about five feet square. . . full of hot water and soak. It felt wonderful and everything was so clean.

When we came back to the hotel, they had our futons (beds) all ready and clean kimonos for everyone. You wear kimonos inside the hotel to the bath and to eat. They are very comfortable and fun to wear. . . it's a good bed, except for the pillows, which are small and filled with rice.

From Nagoya, we went by train and bus to Toba to the Mikimoto pearl factory. On the train, I sat with two Japanese women and a man. The people are so curious about you. In the train station, they make a big circle around you and stare and stare. They love to talk to you, though and they are so friendly. They are shy at first, but if you say "Kanachiwa" (good day) they will talk and talk. They smile and bow and always ask how long you have been here and how you like Japan. All this is usually in very broken English. I can say a few things in Japanese and they are so flattered that you're trying to learn their language.

These people I sat with on the train were so nice. They got out their Japanese maps and showed me where we were going. One of the women offered me some chewing gum. I took one piece and she said, "dozo" meaning "please take another." So I had two pieces. Then I started to smoke a cigarette and figured to return the courtesy, I should offer them one (even though very few women smoke.) I offered first to the man (to go along with the Japanese custom) and he was thrilled to death to smoke an American cigarette. Then I offered the women one and they each took one and put it in their purse. They were being polite because to them, it's rude to refuse anything.

When we got to Toba, we went to see the wedded rocks. This is

Mrs. Charlie Tutor Honored At Party

LEFORS (Spl)—A surprise Baby Shower was given for Mrs. Charlie Tutor on Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. R. T. Jinks with Mmes. Earl Lane, W. G. Hughes, Charles Roberts, Daniel Rose, Bill Sims as assisting hostesses.

A corsage fashioned of rosebud baby sox on white lace and tied with pink and white satin ribbon was presented to the honoree.

Guests were registered in a white taffeta book shaped as a baby sacque trimmed with lace and pink ribbons.

Mrs. Lane presided at the silver service from the pink and white lace covered table, which was centered with an arrangement of pink roses. Sweet rolls were served by Mrs. Bill Sims.

Guests were Mmes. Wayne Harris Alton Flinchum, L. M. McCathern, R. C. Ogden, Joe Carlton, C. E. Fenno and Wyatt, Bob Fish, Orville Henry, Carl Wall, Harley Lewis, Ed Brook, Burl Davis, J. B. Martin, Roy Nobles, Dale Brumley, L. C. Ford, A. M. Miller, Bill Wall, J. O. Wiggins, Bob Klein, Jimmy Pennington, Gordon Robinson, John Roberts, and Ann Glover.

Approximately fifteen persons sent gifts who were unable to attend.

on the sea coast with mountains all around. You simply can't imagine how beautiful this country is. These are these two rocks out in the bay and they (the Japanese custom) have so long been faithful to one another that the people decided they should be married. . . so they tied them together with a rope of human hair. The legend is a beautiful story and the scenery is magnificent. . . quite a thrill to see it.

Then we went on to Mikimoto Pearl Island. This is really something to see. We crossed to the island by ferry. They use only three-year-old oysters to make pearls and they get these by diving. All the divers are women and they dive as much as 10 fathoms without equipment. This pearl diving has gone on for centuries and is always done by women. This is very hard life and the women don't live to be very old. They bring up three-year-old oysters and pry open the shell and with very delicate implements insert a pigment and a nucleus into the ovary of the oyster. The nucleus is made from a certain kind of oyster shell found only in the Mississippi River. Then the oysters are taken back to the bay, put in traps and left for another three years. We saw the women putting the nucleus into the oyster, sorting the pearls, drilling them and stringing them. It was absolutely fascinating to watch their speed and accuracy.

After Pearl Island we returned to Nagoya and the next day to Yokata. I was so tired and awfully glad to get back. This is my third week at teaching school. I now have 30 pupils and everyday one leaves and a new one comes in. It's really different. You all needn't worry about me at all. It's really quite safe around here. I pray every night for you and love you so very much. Love, Joan.

The concluding program on Friday concerned "Look on the Witnessing Opportunities" presented by Mmes. Pernal Scoggins, Jack Parker, J. M. Hill, J. P. Heath, Earl Dodson, R. L. McDonald and C. L. McKinney.

Cream Massage Feels Luxurious After Hot Bath

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Beauty Editor

If you're an autumn type, you're glad that it's time once more to draw the curtains and light the lamps. Back to long, luxurious evenings by the fire with a book or good talk or good records.

And back, too, to the relaxing ritual of the hot bath, scented with bath oil and followed by cream body massage. For the same hot bath which unkinks muscles and sends you off to a deep, sound, dreamless sleep can dry your skin and make it flaky.

Created to soothe, heal and turn rough skin to silk, this creamy lotion comes in six fragrances so that you can pick from the rich and spicy or the light and flowery scents.

Refreshments were served during the social hour to Mmes. Truett Fields, M. Henderson, Les Driskill, Guy Brown, Esta Byes, Verna Whately, Mrs. Corinne Wheeler was welcomed as a new member.

Officers' Banquet Held By Lodges

Rebekah and IOOF members entertained with an Officers' Banquet recently in the IOOF Hall, 210 W. Brown, with Vernon Hall as master of ceremonies. Following introduction of officers, Mr. Hall extended a welcome to members and guests attending.

Mrs. Clara Blythe, mother of T. A. Mastin, was introduced and honored on the occasion of her 82nd birthday.

Roy Kretzmeier, past grand master of Texas lodges, gave a brief talk. Carl Bear bestowed the charge to Rebekah's and IOOF officers, Mrs. Joe Stembridge, Rebekah noble grand; Mrs. H. N. Mayo, vice grand; Walt Chitwood, IOOF noble grand; A. A. Wharton, vice grand.

F. E. Matheny's String Band provided dinner music and for the dancing that followed.

Decorations featured an "Out of this World Theme" with space ships, satellite balloons, flying saucers decorating the room. The guest table was centered with a globe of the world and American flags in a styrofoam base. Tables were appointed with white cloths centered with arrangements of pink carnations and green tapers, Rebekah Lodge colors.

Mrs. W. A. York and her committee were in charge of arrangements.

Approximately 78 members and guests attended.

County Attorney HD Club Speaker

SKELLYTOWN (Spl) — Frank Dove, Carson County attorney, spoke to the women of the Skellytown Home Demonstration Club in a recent meeting in the home of Mrs. Roy Burgin. Mrs. J. H. Wedge assisted the hostess.

Mrs. Dove outlined the making of wills, homestead laws and other legal matters. An election of officers was held during the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. E. E. Crawford, president. Officers to be installed the first meeting in January were Mmes. C. E. Cummings, president; George Porter, vice-president; Leroy Snodgrass, secretary and treasurer; J. H. Wedge, assistant secretary and treasurer; Crawford, council delegate; Orville Allan, alternate delegate; Gerald Huckins, reporter; and W. H. McBe, parliamentarian.

It was announced, the members plan to tour the furniture stores in Amarillo, under the direction of Mrs. Janie Fletcher, Carson County Home Demonstration Agent.

Refreshments were served to those mentioned and Mmes. R. C. Heaton, W. S. Berry, Junior Ellis, and Wesley Russell, Mrs. Ellis was presented a gift from the club as a farewell gesture.

Dear Abby... Advancement Right Into Bosses' Lap

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My boss has started to call me by my first name and he's asked me to call him by his. He is married and I have a boy friend, so I don't see where this kind of familiarity is going to get us. The boss also has a dirty mind and twists everything that is said to mean something suggestive. I've worked here almost a year and I like my job. My boss says he has plans to advance me soon, so wouldn't I be foolish to quite now and look for another job? How can I keep him from getting too friendly without telling him off and getting fired?

ALL BUSINESS: If I read correctly between the lines, your boss plans to advance you to his lap. I advise you to gather your belongings and clear out of there.

DEAR ABBY: A woman named Sonia complained that her husband "slid" into restaurant booths first and she had to sit on the outside. You told her to "overlook" his bad manners. Abby, could it be that both you and Sonia "overlooked" a fine courtesy in her husband? Many women prefer to let the men get into a car or booth first because, if they "slide" in, their girdles would get turned around on their hips. I have this trouble and the "sliding in" business is not for me.

"NO SLIDER"
DEAR ABBY: I like this boy very much but I do not trust him as far as I could throw him, if you know what I mean.

I am 14 and so is he. I told him he could hold my hand in the movies but he puts his arm around the back of my chair and tries to kiss me. I broke off with him twice because of this but we went back together again because he promised he would behave. He broke his promise again last night. Should I give him another chance? TRYING TO BE GOOD
DEAR TRYING: He has had his three strikes; he's out. Let him stay on the bench until next season. Maybe by then he'll have learned to respect the rules.

DEAR ABBY: Do you want to do the Marines in Okinawa a big favor? We would like to receive some mail from girls between 18

Financial Review

NEW YORK (UPI)— Food for thought: With disposable income expected to continue its steady rise the next 10 years, the public should spend in excess of $100 billion a year for food before the end of this decade.

Factors that should promote continued growth of the food industry are the continued increase in population, improved standards of living throughout the world, increased popularity of convenience foods, and more and more emphasis on research and automation.

These are the findings of a special report published by Harris, Upham and Co., nationwide investment brokerage firm.

groes swinging broomsticks.

Johnny Frazier, a 19-year-old Greenville, Miss., Negro, told the U.S. Civil Rights Commission's advisory state committee in Mississippi that he was "beaten into a state of semi-consciousness" by sheriff's deputies last month at Winona. Frazier said he was beaten for refusing to move to the rear of a segregated bus.

It also found that the food industry is going through a dramatic revolution as far as the so-called convenience foods are concerned. Although the first canned food appeared 150 years ago, the report noted that it has been only in the past decade that sales of most other convenience foods have shown steady advances.

The growth rate for convenience foods the next decade is expected to be more than double that for the food industry as a whole.

The most popular convenience items according to the report are: The "instants"—coffee, tea and cocoa; ready-to-eat breakfast foods; prepared bakery mixes; seasoned corn and potato chips; instant puddings and desserts; condensed soups and frozen foods.

This last group has experienced many ups and downs since they were pioneered more than 30 years ago by Clarence Birdseye, Harris, Upham noted that promotion by supermarket chains of their own brands, the limited store space available for product display, and drastic price cutting to meet competition from private labels are typical problems confronted by the frozen food industry.

'Righteous' March In New Orleans

By United Press International

About 2,000 Negro men, women and children staged a "march for righteousness" Monday night in what police called the biggest anti-segregation demonstration in New Orleans history.

The New Orleans demonstration, aimed at a shopping center accused of hiring Negroes only for menial jobs, blocked traffic on a four-lane road and ended with a hymn-singing rally in the long-shoremen' union hall. The marchers were accompanied by sound trucks. There were no arrests although police tried briefly to discourage the demonstration.

At Greenville, S. C., the public library which was closed because of Negro sit-in demonstrations last spring reopened Monday for "use by all citizens who have a legitimate need for its facilities."

There were few other demonstrations in the South even though they have been almost daily occurrences since last February, but there was scattered violence.

Two white youths in Atlanta were treated at a hospital for cuts and bruises. They told police they were attacked by five Negroes.

Market Price Dip Not Seen As Alarming

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Streeters saw nothing to worry about in Monday's sharpest break in stock prices in five years, but they were divided today on when a comeback would be made.

The list had been declining in recent weeks because of the cloudy outlook for both business and the international situation, and last Friday had finished only slightly above the 1960 low point which had held in three previous tests this year.

But the trading community grew nervous over the weekend on the pending arrival of the Communist leaders and the "comeback" in the market was the subject of discussion Monday.

The initial declines dropped the Dow-Jones industrial average through its "triple bottom" of 599 and touched off a selling wave that continued unabated through the close.

Prices fell as much as $21.50 in International Business Machines in the heaviest trading since June 21. At the close the Dow-Jones industrial average stood at 586.76 off 15.42 points; the widest break since Sept. 26, 1955, after President Eisenhower's weekend heart attack.

Some of the analysts see much more weakness in certain sections of the list before the list bases out somewhere in the area between 550 and 580 in the Dow-Jones industrial average. Declines to this level, they contend, would leave the list close to an over-sold position.

The other school of thought, however, is for prices to make a comeback in a day or two and then resume the featureless pattern of recent months.

In any event, the consensus is that no sustained rally will get underway until there are definite indications of a pick-up in the economy.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

LAW GROWS

You want the law to grow to meet new challenges, but you do not want it to change completely. The law is like a boy; it must grow up to meet the changing world, but you do not want it to change overnight.

When you buy or sell a house, you want the law to stand firm. You do not want your deed upset by some new law overnight. When you make a will you would like its terms carried out long after you are gone. In short, you do not want your law to upset your plans. So you want a stable law.

Yet the law cannot foresee all the changes that are to come, and it must be able to grow and meet new circumstances. Sometimes old rules, in terms of modern life, are too harsh and should be changed. It is a good thing that our laws can change—by court decision, legislation or by constitutional amendment.

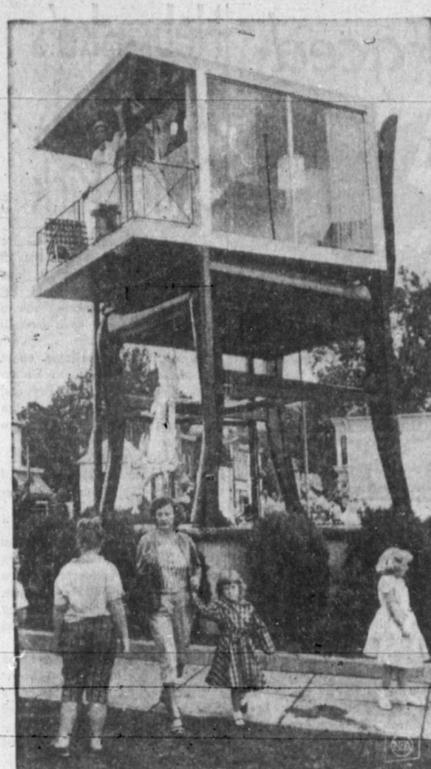

Take in interesting case: until recently a farmer believed he owned his property rights straight up as high as he wanted to claim them—to the sky even. But, meantime, the airplane flew these skies. If your ownership went to the sky you could stop anybody's flying over your property. Or you could charge him a toll. But if landowners got a toll on airplane fare, travel would soon become too costly.

How do we change a system of laws to keep the essential use of our property and yet make people enjoy airplane trade, and travel?

You could not tell briefly how this was done. But, within the past few years, we have carved out a whole new body of law by court decision and by law making. We have met the new problem without impairing unduly the older property rights of holders.

(This newfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Entire New Concept Of Politicking Contained In Instruction Booklet

By DICK WEST

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Association of Broadcasters has brought out a new booklet containing tips on how to make political speeches on television.

"Its sole purpose is to help candidates on both sides present their views convincingly by television," the NAB says. "Should it help in any way in a clearer presentation of public issues, its purpose will be served."

If it also should help bring in a little revenue, I don't suppose the NAB would object. But that is another matter.

Right on page one, the candidates are reminded that television is an "intimate medium" whose viewers "react as individuals, not as a crowd in a convention hall."

At first reading, the significance of this admonition is not apparent. But on page two, there is an explanation.

"Keep in mind," it says, "that a TV audience usually is seated close to the receiver, and the temptation to flick the dial is great the moment interest lags."

In other words, if I may interpolate, it is easier for someone to switch programs than it is to walk out of a hall.

Furthermore, the booklet adds, "Few people can hold a television audience with a talk of more than 15 minutes." And in order to keep dial flicking to a minimum, "you must create interest at the start."

The booklet does not tell how to go about creating interest, but cautions against "a highly dramatic opening unless you intend to maintain the pace throughout the program."

This, I presume, rules to such standard TV openings as a gun duel between the candidate and his opponent. Such a pace would be hard to maintain for 15 minutes unless there happened to be a lot of splinter parties in the race.

Even if the candidate thinks up a socko opening, he still is not out of the woods. "The ending of your talk is just as important as

'Phutle Phillies' Set Whiff Mark

PHILADELPHIA UPI — The Philadelphia Phils have hit a new major league high for futility. They now have struck out a record total of 996 times and still have eight games left to play. When Bob Friend of the Pittsburgh Pirates fanned Tony Taylor in the fourth inning of Tuesday night's two-night opener, the Phils broke the old season strike-out record of 989 set by the Chicago Cubs in 1957. They whiffed six more times before the twin bill was over. After two days of rest, they'll be shooting for the 1,000 mark in Friday night's game at Cincinnati.

This Fella's Not Two-Faced, He's Multi-Faced

FRACTURED STAR

Nebraska's Jennings Is Coach Pick

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — He promised four years ago that if Nebraska's long suffering fans would be patient he could lift their beloved Cornhuskers back to national prominence as a football power. He spiced the rebuilding effort with periodic upsets, giving his assurances a tone of authority and supporting his claim that the Cornhuskers were making progress. This year the tall, soft-spoken former Oklahoma star just could be ready to pay off on his promises. He is Bill Jennings, coach of the Nebraska team which for the fourth time in the last two years crossed up the experts with a major upset. The latest was fashioned Saturday night in muggy Texas heat, when Nebraska edged Texas, 14-13.

This feat earned Jennings the United Press International honor of being named college football's "Coach of the Week" — an award he won two years ago for Nebraska's upset of Penn. State, and again last year for the Huskers' come-from-behind victory over Jennings' alma mater, Oklahoma. That 25-21 win snapped the Sooners' unbeaten string of 74 games in the Big Eight.

Brooks Robinson, trying to duck away from a pitch, accidentally blooped a single which drove in the Orioles' winning run against the Red Sox. Dick Gernert, Lou Berberet and Al Kaline hit home runs to ease the route to Frank Lary's 14th victory for the Tigers against the Indians.

The St. Louis Cardinals gained a game in their quest for second place in the NL by edging the Los Angeles Dodgers, 3-2. Jay Hook of the Cincinnati Reds pitched a two-hitter to beat the Milwaukee Braves, 9-0, and the San Francisco Giants beat the Chicago Cubs, 5-2 in the only afternoon game.

For the Pirates, Bob Friend pitched a seven-hitter for his 17th victory in the opener and then Hal Smith's eighth-inning homer off Philadelphia's Jim Owens climaxed a come-from-behind victory in the nightcap. Dick Schofield's double and Bob Skinner's two-out single had tied the score in the seventh.

Labine, who is beginning to look once again like the pitcher who helped the old Brooklyn Dodgers win pennants, relieved starter Harvey Haddix in the seventh to gain his third victory against one defeat.

Pinch-hitting rookie Charley James of the Cards blooped a broken bat single with two out in the ninth to drive home two runs that earned reliever Lindy McDaniel his 12th victory. Larry Sherry was the Los Angeles victim.

Hook permitted only four men to reach base, none reaching second, as the Reds shelled Lew Burdette of the Braves in the seventh, and Sam Jones pitched a five-hitter for his 17th triumph in the Giants' win over the Cubs.

Sports Slivers

By Ed Hayes Wilson

Darrell Royal, head coach of the Texas Longhorns, has no peer as a blues singer. He'd put some of the nation's top musical entertainers to shame, and he should be in his best form this week following the Horns jolt by Nebraska last Saturday night.

Of course, his backing chorus of mentors of the Southwest Conference should be able to blend their blue notes well as a background for his solo, since those who bumped into Big Eight foes felt the lash of the long maligned "also rans" to Oklahoma, the long dominant, haughty boss of the loop.

Too, there's Jim Myers, the Aggie boss. Word was he was grinning from ear-to-ear about a couple of pile driving fullbacks. But the boys must have forgotten to "pile drive" against Louisiana State's Tigers; this band of Tigers is, in the majority, sophomores, but they've been red-shirted so long their shirts have faded to a pale pink from more than a year of wearing and sending to the laundry.

One of the bass voices joining the Royal support chorus this week will be that of Baylor Bear mentor Johnny Bridgers.

Bridgers' big, bad Bears will take on Colorado Saturday at Waco. Of his team Bridgers said, "We should be improved over last year. And "we'd" better be, since Colorado sports one of the nation's top passers, Gale Weidner, a junior, who set the Big Eight on fire last season with his aerial blasts.

Weidner, in fact, pitched for 1,200 yards last year to break the B-8 one-year mark, and if he edges past 800 yards via air this year he'll have accomplished something that former greats such as Missouri's Paul Christian and Kansas' Ray Evans couldn't.

So the Bears, as well as most of the other SWC teams combatting outside the SWC arena, figure to have their hands full this week.

Reckon Darrell and the Boys will be vocalizing on "Mood Indigo," since there's a line in the Duke Ellington song that notes "You ain't been blue..."

Hirsh Jacobs, long one of the nation's outstanding race horse trainers, has had one ambition for years: to saddle a Kentucky Derby winner. This year he felt, and with good reason, he had a splendid chance to achieve his goal. But fates were against him, and he'll probably not even make the trip to Louisville next May.

Hail to Reason, a strapping two-year-old, that had won nine of 18 starts and almost $400,000 this year, broke both seasomoid bones in his left foreleg in a training mishap at Aqueduct (New York) Race Course Sunday and will never race again.

Hail to Reason was the early Winter Book favorite for the three-year-old classic.

Sherrill Miller averaged 4.6 yards per carry against Ysleta, earning 46 yards in 10 attempts—the four yard "crawl play" included—while Steve Dobbins ground out 34 yards in 15 tries.

Roy Don (Wrong Route) Stephens also had a better than average night when he romped for that 36-yard TD that came when he went the opposite way on a play that was due to head to the right.

And Billy Cooper? Shucks, that boy'll get his share of the yardage in almost every tilt.

Baytown Tops Class 4-A Teams

By United Press International Baytown personally wrestled Class AAAA's No. 1 spot away from Port Arthur and Sweetwater dropped into a first-place tie with Kilgore in Class AAA in the United Press International coaches board schoolboy football ratings this week.

The Ganders knocked off Port Arthur 21-0 to move up from second to first in Class AAAA, while Sweetwater's 20-6 loss to AAAA Abilene soured the Mustangs' undisputed leadership in AAA.

Wichita Falls, which blasted Breckenridge out of AAA's Top 10 with a 47-6 walloping, moved into a strong No. 2 role behind Baytown, while Abilene jumped from sixth to third for its Sweetwater showing.

Dethroned Port Arthur skidded to No. 7, while Odessa eased down a notch to make room for the Jackets.

In AAA, the defeats of the one-two tandem of Sweetwater and Cleburne seemed to shake up things in general and eight different teams got votes for first place and 33 teams in all were nominated.

Strung out behind the co-leaders were Brownwood, Bay City, Carrollton, Cleburne, Andrews, El Campo, Phillips and Henderson with Andrews and Henderson making their first appearances in the Top 10.

In AAAA, Baytown got 12 first-place votes, Wichita Falls three and Highland Park one.

On the basis of 10 points for first place, nine for second, etc., Baytown and Wichita Falls dominated the AAAA balloting with 158 and 141 points, respectively, to Abilene's 92.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mississippi, an easy winner in its opening game, and Syracuse, which hasn't flexed its muscles yet, are heavy favorites in a pair of key college football games Saturday.

The powerful Rebels were picked to defeat Kentucky by at least 17 points in a night game at Memphis, Tenn. Mississippi opened its season last weekend with a 42-9 triumph over Houston while Kentucky bowed to Georgia Tech, 23-13.

SWC Clubs Drilling For Tough Foes

By United Press International

The tough task Texas faces tangle with Maryland this weekend in Terp territory looks like it's getting tougher.

The Steers may have to rely on a sophomore quarterback to lead the assault. Senior Mike Cotten is on the sidelines again and Coach Darrell Royal would rather keep him out of action Saturday rather than sacrifice him before the Southwest Conference wars.

Russell Coffee, Texas assistant, scouted the Maryland-West Virginia game.

"Maryland has two good passers and four real fine receivers," he said. "They run everything there is to run... they move the ball real well... and they shut down in the second half against West Virginia."

Rain forced Arkansas to wind up its practice indoors and cut short work on pass defense aimed at containing Jerry Keeling, Tulsa's ace quarterback.

Texas Tech worked for an hour at full speed against Texas A&M's offense and defense patterns, and Coach DeWitt Weaver said he was pleased with the overall showing.

Casey To Retire; Houk Due Post

By MILTON RICHMAN United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Casey Stengel will retire shortly after the World Series and Ralph Houk will succeed him as manager of the New York Yankees, United Press International has learned on the best possible authority.

Stengel made up his mind to quit at the end of this season, even before it started, and has spoken about it to this writer, offhandedly now and then during the past few weeks.

Casey's retirement has always been a sore point with him — and it is understandable for a man of 70 who has been in baseball 50 years — but he has faced up to the fact that it is far better to leave as a winner rather than a loser.

"I don't blame them for asking me all these questions about my leaving," he said to this writer before Tuesday night's game with Washington.

"They've got a right to ask," he went on. "But I still feel it's my own business and I told 'em all I'd give 'em my answer in October. That's soon enough, isn't it?"

Notre Dame, although minus a seasoned quarterback, is a 15-point choice for its season debut against California, and Ohio State is a 13-point pick for its opener against Southern Methodist.

Here are the odds on other big games: East: Columbia 7 over Brown, Army 13 over Boston College, Cornell 13 over Colgate, Harvard 2 over Holy Cross. South: North Carolina 7 over North Carolina St., Auburn 3 over Tennessee, Mississippi State 6 over Houston.

Canadian On Hot Spot Again; Takes On Stinnett

Canadian can't get off the hot seat.

Since the start of the young football season this Wildcat unit has been the team most critical observers have kept their eyes on. The 'Cats received the dubious honor of being named the team to beat in their District, but to date they haven't lived up to their press notices.

The men of Coach Grady Burnett have been dropped, and hard by White Deer and Shamrock, and this week they must have a go with wild and woolly Stinnett.

Stinnett, a 2-A outfit that probably could hang a KO on a vast majority of Class 3-A and some 4-A clubs, hasn't been extended in its outings to date. Dalhart last felt the blast of the Stinnett Dynamiters, and Canadian must pick up where Dalhart left off.

Coach Burnett is in low spirits about this one. He doesn't think his club can take the high flying visitors, but says, "We have a game to play. We'll give them a go for the 'money,' anyway."

Shamrock, tasting the fine wine of victory in all its outings this season has, at last, become as mean as the Irish can get when you mention England. This Irish band smeared Canadian, 24-0, its last out, and has the shillelaghs ready to bash Wheeler the big lick come Friday night.

Wheeler, figured better than it has shown in its 1960 starts, must shake off a 54-8 belting by Erick, Okla., in this one to do business on the black side of the ledger. The Mustangs have nothing to lose, and it's a safe bet they'll pull out the plugs to flush the Irish from their high horses.

Third on the list of "eyed" games is the clash between Perryton and Dalhart. Perryton, flushed with an easy win over Canyon, will be seeking its second victory without defeat, while Dalhart, limping from the Stinnett lambasting, will be out to post an underdog victory.

The Rangers feature big Ray McGarraugh, a plunging fullback, and an agile supporting unit in the backfield. They gave Canyon a lesson in the art of point making, and loom a serious opponent for the visiting Dalhart eleven.

White Deer, great big and growing in prestige with three victories and no defeats, receives a visit Friday night from an again, off again McLean.

The Bucks have broke out one of the brilliant pass combinations in this area. Dickie Hanna, the Buck quarterback, has found in Halfback Joe Grange a target of extreme ability, and the duo has worked so well in the first Buck tests that they have offset anything the opposition could pose in the way of a scoring threat.

Hanna, deadily while running right or left, hit Grange for five TD passes last week. This cooperation between the pair is expected to prove more than the Tigers can cope with, and if this is true the Bucks will trudge from the field with their fourth victory.

In other games-slated for Friday night, Miami's Warriors, easy winners of their first three eight-man tests, will have at it with Morse on the first named field, Wellington will visit Lefors, and Groom, 6-2, winner over McLean last week will troop to Clarendon in hopes of posting a second victory in this 1961 season. — E.H.W.

Davis Elec. In New Location

The answer to your electrical wiring problem is simple. Consult with the friendly experts at Davis Electric Co. at its new location, 124 S. Frost, but north of the railroad tracks.

One of the most common causes for house fires this year has been faulty electrical wiring; wiring that is inadequate to carry the electrical load, required by most modern day appliances.

Davis Electric has courteous and experienced wiring experts to help you in the rewiring of your home.

Davis Electric uses only top-quality materials on each job, no matter how large or how small.

Each job is done to meet specifications of the National Electrical Code and the Pampa building code.

So you can be certain that you will receive the best in each rewiring job done by Davis Electric personnel.

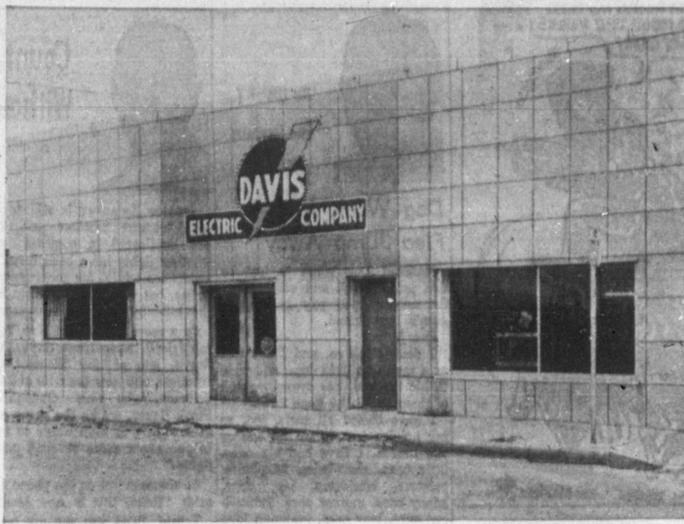

Davis Electric also offers oil field maintenance, and complete appliance repairs.

For everything electrical, be sure to see Davis Electric, whether its for repair work of any sort of new lighting fixtures.

Owned by Robert and Don Burns, Davis Electric has been doing business in Pampa since 1927. Recently the firm moved into new, more modern headquarters at 124 S. Frost.

Although the firm is on S. Frost, it is located north of the railroad tracks.

And there's plenty of free parking for customers.

NEW QUARTERS — Davis Electric Company's new location is shown above at 124 S. Frost. The recent move into larger, more modern quarters enables them to serve their customers better and more efficiently. They use only top quality materials in all rewiring jobs.

Rough And Tumble Is Order Of Day In Current International Politics

EDITORS NOTE: UPI's State Department correspondent offers some impressions of the new rough and tumble school of diplomacy which he gained in 100,000 miles of jet travel to 30 countries during the past year. Among his assignments were Khrushchev's 1949 tour of the United States, President Eisenhower's global "Peace Crusades," the ill-fated summit conference and other international meetings.

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — The bizarre has become commonplace in international diplomacy. The incredible seems almost taken for granted. Protocol officers are in less demand than police.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev deserves a large share of the credit — or blame — for stripping the striped pants off international manners. But he's had help.

Looking back over the past 12 months there have been moments of high comedy and times of spine-chilling tragedy.

High Holy Days Begin At Sundown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The most sacred period of the Jewish religious calendar begins at sundown tonight with the observance of Rosh Hashana, the Jewish new year.

Rosh Hashana, a Hebrew term which literally means "head of the year," opens a 10-day period of repentance and rededication which ends with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

During this period, commonly called the "high-holy days," devout Jews engage in sober introspection and spiritual stock-taking. They review their conduct in the year gone by, repent their shortcomings and resolve to live up to high ethical principles in the year ahead.

Tonight's ceremonies will inaugurate the year 5721 on the Jewish lunar calendar.

Orthodox and conservative branches of Judaism observe Rosh Hashana for two days. Reform Jews have a one-day observance.

Unlike the celebration of the Passover, which centers in the home, Rosh Hashana is primarily an occasion for corporate worship in the synagogue.

The religious service begins with sonorous blasts of a "shofar" or ram's horn, the traditional call to conscience.

In many Jewish homes, the dinner meal on Rosh Hashana includes a morsel of bread dipped in honey—the symbol of hope for a sweet year.

Yom Kippur, which begins at sundown Friday, Sept. 30, is the culmination of the sacred period and is regarded as the holiest day of the Jewish calendar. Many Jews observe it with total abstinence from food and drink.

Positions Open In DPS Ranks

The Texas Department of Public Safety announced today applications will be received until October 1 to fill 120 openings in the DPS field services.

Field service examinations will be given October 4 in Tyler, Houston, Harlingen, Midland, El Paso, Lubbock and Waco; October 5 in Dallas, Lufkin, Corpus Christi, Abilene, Amarillo and Austin; and October 6 in Fort Worth, Beaumont, San Antonio, San Angelo and Wichita Falls.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., department director, urged young men between the ages of 21 and 35 to "take this opportunity to serve your state and at the same time begin a life-time career of prestige and security as a patrolman."

He said application forms and full information can be obtained at any Texas Department of Public Safety field office, or by writing to department headquarters, P. O. Box 4087, Austin.

"Successful applicants will undergo a strenuous but rewarding 16-weeks training period with pay at the department's Law Enforcement Academy at Austin which will put them in tip-top physical and mental condition," Garrison said.

"Upon completion of training, they will become commissioned officers and will be issued uniforms and other equipment. Then they will go into field service under the supervision of veteran officers."

Basic qualifications call for a high school education or the equivalent, height not under five feet, eight inches nor over six feet, four inches, and weight not less than two pounds per inch of height nor more than three pounds per inch of height.

Garrison said there are many personal benefits for state patrolmen, including job security, a good retirement system, annual vacations, sick leave and advancement opportunities.

Top Beverages For Particular People Stocked At H And M Cut Rate Liquors

Quality beverages at bargain prices.

That's the business philosophy of Herb Lotz and Myron Dorman owners of H&M Cut Rate Liquors, 866 W. Foster.

When H and M had its grand opening, Herb and Myron promised Pampa they would sell only quality products. Since then they've done just that and at big savings to their customers.

H and M features a complete line of beverages — beer, whiskey, bourbon, wine and vodka, at big savings to its customers.

It is Herb and Myron's desire to bring outstanding beverages to the people of Pampa at a price they can afford to pay.

Instead of large mark ups on their stock everything is priced realistically at a price any customer can afford to pay.

And the idea of service to the customers hasn't been forgotten either.

All of the stock at H and M is displayed in such a manner that you can find what you want, when you want it, with no fuss and bother.

Remember too their drive in service window with a dutch door and a sliding door to better serve you.

So when you think of beverages, think first of H and M Cut Rate Liquors, 866 W. Foster, where you always get high quality merchandise at a price you can afford to pay.

Marriage Not For Pat Ward

MIAMI (UPI)—Circuit Judge Grady L. Crawford granted former New York call girl Pat Ward a divorce Tuesday from her second husband, Miami osteopath Julian Charles Savarese.

Miss Ward, married to Savarese Nov. 11, 1947, charged extreme cruelty.

The settlement included $75 a week to Miss Ward for 100 weeks; $25 weekly support for their only child, Julian Jr., 16 months; and plane fare to New York, where Miss Ward indicated she planned to live with her family in Brooklyn.

Miss Ward became nationally known during the 1953 vice trial of oleomargarine heir Minot (Mickey) Jelke. She testified she received $100 a night as one of Jelke's call girls.

Military Obligation Explained

M-Sgt. Wesley L. Langham, administrative technician for the Pampa National Guard, discussed military obligations with young men who visited the armory Monday night to watch regular drill operations.

He pointed out that every young man reaching the age of 18 has a military service obligation of eight years, as established by existing law.

A young man who joins the National Guard while between the ages of 17 and 18½ would be exempt from the draft and could satisfy the active part of his military obligation in just three and one-half years. This would include six months of active duty and three years of attending weekly drills with a National Guard unit.

After this time, the man could transfer to the standby reserve, and would not be required to participate further unless in the event of a national emergency. If the individual waits until after he is 18½ to join the National Guard, then, he must perform six months active duty, and five and one-half years of National Guard service before he is eligible to transfer to the standby reserve.

If a high school senior enlists in the National Guard he will be deferred from his six months active duty requirement until he graduates from high school. If he decides to attend college upon his return, his National Guard membership can be transferred to the unit located in his college town, and his studies will not be interrupted. If he decides to participate in a college R.O.T.C. program, he can still retain his National Guard status and participate in both programs at the same time.

The Pampa National Guard unit

Governor Bows Out Of Race

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Gov. James T. Blair Jr. withdrew Tuesday night as a candidate for U.S. senator and Lt. Gov. Edward V. Long was being boosted for the post held by the late Thomas C. Hennings Jr.

Blair, in a special press conference at the executive mansion, said "the contest being waged in the Democratic state committee to nominate a Democratic senator from Missouri has been increasingly bitter and is causing much strife and dissension in the Democratic ranks."

What Became Of Courage?

Can't we please find some brave minds?

Lots of folks we know make boasts about how rugged they are in the face of physical danger. Young men charge into various sports activities almost totally in disregard of possible broken bones, knocked out teeth, gouged out eyes, bruises and concussions. Fine. This is supposedly an important phase of American good sportsmanship. Excellent.

But these same heroes of rugged constitution and courageous mein, if asked to take a firm stand, ideologically, suddenly show doe's eyes. They are brave enough, physically. But—in the realm of ideas their legs turn to jelly.

Right now, we are faced with what has been accurately described as a war of ideas. Communism, a set of ideas relating to economics and politics, is confronted with capitalism, another set of ideas, relating to economics and politics.

Instead of learning the techniques of mental argument, of ideological warfare our answer seems to be: "If we can't out-think them let's kill 'em."

With the same disregard for facts which characterized the barbarian invasion of Rome, we translate an ideological problem into a physical act of retaliation. We don't want to discuss and to learn and to come up triumphant with a winning idea. We want to prove how strong we are militarily speaking.

This may be just great. The only trouble is that after we have proved how big we are and how tough, and how we are wholly unconcerned about losses of life and property, we still haven't confronted the idea which made us start shooting in the first place.

If ever this nation needed courage, it is now. And the courage it needs isn't of the physical variety. We ought to have thousands of fine young men and women who are willing and able to express ideas of liberty succinctly and accurately and who have the mental daring and the moral tenacity to state the case and to stand by oral and written gowns.

We are of the opinion that real courage isn't a related particularly to physical risk. The use of physical force is actually a use of one of

A Mater Of Width

A person of narrow mind will frequently try to offset this handicap by making unusually broad statements.

Must Learning Be Forbidden?

Melody Workshop in Berkeley, California, is in pretty serious difficulties. Our latest information is that unless something pretty important turns up, the pre-school-age school is going to remain closed because of some intractable welfare officials in the Northern California city.

This free enterprise type of establishment, run by Lisa Joralemon, 35, got itself into difficulties with the welfare department simply because the teacher and proprietor refuses to follow the "free play" theories of the welfare-farists.

Mrs. Joralemon, who happens to be the daughter of a Los Angeles public school superintendent, has fought for years against excessive permissiveness in education. Her theory is that nursery enrollees, are capable of more than "mindless play" and she devotes herself tirelessly to seeing that her charges, aged 3½-5, learn the alphabet, a smattering of French, good table manners, and scores of other valuable tiny tot lessons.

Mrs. Joralemon is the wife of a geologist and she devotes every moment of the brief, 2½ hour school day in which she has her enrollees, to keeping them both mentally and physically active.

Parents of the children entrusted to Melody Workshop are enthusiastic... even enthralled. "It's not druggery or boredom to them," said one delighted mother.

But the State Department of Social Welfare thinks otherwise. In California, the Department of Social Welfare handles nursery schools and not until kindergarten.

the least effective tools we have ever employed. It's a savage and barbaric tool which may impress hordes of pagans. But surely, reliance upon it makes the judicious, and the civilized mind recoil in horror. Not for itself. But because it fundamentally reveals a lack of courage.

The timid man relies on force. The brave man stands forward, clean and fine, and offers truth as his weapon. It is a better weapon, but its proper use rests upon attributes of character which are not readily found among barbarians. It takes a better person to rest his case on reason rather than on rifles.

Applying this same observation to the local scene, we are constantly appalled to learn that fine men and women in this region fear to take a stand along ideological lines. If it's been said to us once, it's been said a hundred times: "We agree with what you say in the great majority of cases. But don't let anyone know we said so. We are afraid of what might happen to us if others knew we agreed with what you have written or said."

Well, what would happen? Would those who differ use physical force as a kind of punishment? We don't think so. In fact, if our ideological opponents would resort to force against us it is possible that our allies would find a new courage to resist them. They seem to understand physical bravery and physical cowardice. But they seem unable to elevate courage to a higher and more useful level.

Why shouldn't you say, and say publicly, that which you truly believe? What is wrong with free speech? If you oppose a tax, why not say so? If you don't think a political candidate will accomplish much good, why not say that? Why not become brave in the realm of ideas? This is where bravery really counts.

Have you grown so timid and so uncertain of your convictions that you would prefer to nod your head like a store window dummy rather than to say something just once which would mark you apart from the common herd?

Funny isn't it? Yet, such as these are the very persons who talk most about their courage.

ten does the equally obtuse school board intervene.

The trouble started last winter during the busy nursery school days. A lady welfare worker, charged with bureaucratic righteousness, invaded the Melody Workshop and to her horror learned that the children were actually learning something.

The theory in California is that no child may learn anything in a nursery school. This is strictly forbidden. Nursery schools are a "play" schools and the employment, or even the engagement of the child's mind, is bound to be harmful. At least, this is the theory.

Yet, here in the Berkeley hills, Mrs. Joralemon was actually imparting knowledge and perhaps even tiny doses of wisdom to her charges. Agghast, the welfare worker turned in a report which emphasized such things as "regimentation," "inadequate play space," "illegal shortage of toys"... and other equally nonsensical welfare garbage.

Mrs. Joralemon measured her play space and found it more than adequate to meet the law's, minimum requirement. She also found adequate supplies of "loose dirt for mud pies"; "tubs for water play" and "soft, cuddly dolls, boy and girl" as the law specifies.

One parent even busies himself carving some wooden blocks and donating them to the workshop in an effort to meet another ridiculous legal requirement.

But to no avail. The Department of Social Welfare is adamant on the matter. If it doesn't stick to its guns, the school board may move in and decide that nursery

NEW YORK. — Some of my best friends write books. This habitually moves me into the Can't Win field of human effort. If I don't like a friend's book and say so in public print, he is likely to turn sensitive and churlish about it. If I do like it, he will be among the first to say, "Look, just because we're friends you didn't have to perjure yourself. Actually, it isn't one of my good books." Today, the fates being the unpredictable creatures they are, is Daily Double Day. Two friends have written two books and I like both books and there we are: Can't Win.

James Kirkwood Jr. is a tall, lean, able young man who has until now been an actor, in theater, movies, TV and that most crushing of arenas: the night club floor. His mother is Lila Lee, who was a star in silent films, then a star in sound films and is still an actress. His father is James Kirkwood, also a film star. James Jr., forsaking the performing arts, sat down and wrote 110,000 words under the embracing title, "There Must Be A Pony!" Little Brown, in Boston, bought the book and helped James reduce it to about 90,000 words. Among the things he would not let them reduce are several themes and epithets beloved of adolescent boys and, since his book is about an adolescent boy, he was right to fight for what he had.

The time came for a dust jacket to be made for the book, James let his beard grow for a day and a half before posing for the picture, in a desire to look less terribly young and vulnerable, and persuaded his publishers to by-line him: Jim Kirkwood. We all have known him for years as Jimmy, but that would have been a touch too cozy, perhaps.

Jim Kirkwood has written a taut, disciplined, sensitive, hilariously amusing (at times and in the right places) novel about a 16-year-old son of a fading movie star who threads his way through a jam into which his mother is precipitated when her latest lover commits suicide. He has combined a fine clutch of melodrama with a rare understanding of how to write about 16-year-old, precocious boys. If you don't think that is rare, try to recall how many books on the subject you can name. One will pop up: "The Catcher in the Rye." The fact that that and that only is the answer proves the rarity. Jim's book is not just another "Catcher." It is its own book, on its own two feet and legs and I was fascinated by every page of it. It switches between Beverly Hills, a California ranch and an Ohio city. Since Lila Lee and Jim do on occasion reside in Elyria, Ohio, I have no choice but to think that Elyria is meant. It is true, in all candor, that Jim Kirkwood is a friend of mine. It is equally true that "There Must Be A Pony!" is a good book, an interesting book and a beautifully written book. I would no more back away from the one truth than the other.

The second book is "The End Of The Night," the first hardcover book by John D. MacDonald, the ever-glowing font of suspense, savagery, crime and crisis, in some time. It is not a long book, but it is a walloping book. He has thrown together four horrors: a San Francisco Beatnik of high intelligence and low morals, a Pithead Mexican who somehow seems to have survived into 1960, a girl of grotesque morals who knifes victims with the enthusiasm of a kid at her first prom, and an odd-ball college senior who finds himself a member of the Wolf Pack in a curious, nightmare kind of compulsive gesture as a Jeimer. Mr. MacDonald takes this dreary quartet through two deliberate murders — nay, three — and one sort of didn't-mean-to-murder. His story is their own drives and mores in their own words plus commentary from a sad-sacked criminal lawyer, the architect of one of our victims and professional law officers. Mr. MacDonald, as often demonstrated, is a master at creating the miasma of human evil, making suspense rise like a vapor that engulfs you, of using a typewriter as a scalpel to peel down deep into human behavior under all circumstances. A dedicated MacDonald aficionado, I loved the evocation of violence and the construction and writing — with one small dissatisfaction: I ended still not knowing exactly what motivated the college boy. Pure cussedness, probably, but I suspect the reason isn't that easy. Like all MacDonald books, this one reads like a streak.

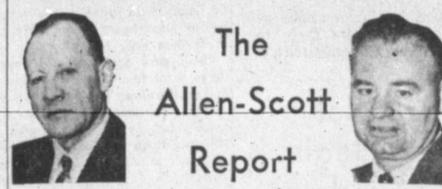

Both of these books, by friends, are suggested to you without a trace of self-consciousness on my part.

schools come properly under the domain of school boards and not under social welfare.

And this might mean a shift in bureaucratic employment with various heads and sub-heads of the social welfare agency relegated to less important branches of government employment.

Such a contingency is too dreadful for any politician to consider; hence, whatever happens to Melody Workshop or its knowl-

Equipment reported turning in Cuba via Europe. WASHINGTON — Castro's Pro-Cuban government is purchasing large amounts of surplus U.S. military equipment in Europe and the U.S. to arm his newly organized citizen's militia.

Military purchases by Castro agents include surplus U.S. jeeps, weapon carriers, trucks, small arms, automotive parts, and military clothing.

The surplus military vehicles are being purchased in Europe and routed to the U.S. for reconditioning before being shipped to Cuba as "agricultural equipment."

That's the startling report that staff probes of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee have made to Senator James O. Eastland (D. Miss.), chairman, who ordered the investigation after receiving information that large quantities of U.S. arms were turning up in Cuba.

The staff investigators reported that the military vehicles were moving through New Orleans, Miami, and other U.S. ports under general export licensing authority last week, when the Commerce Department ordered further shipments barred until its officials could review the entire matter.

One staff report submitted to Senator Eastland with photographs and other documentations revealed that approximately 100 surplus U.S. Army vehicles had gone to Cuba via New Orleans. It stated:

"Confidential informant T-1, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advises that approximately 100 weapons carriers, jeeps, and trucks have been shipped to the Cuban government through New Orleans in the past few months. This equipment is invoiced through the Port of New Orleans as agricultural equipment."

"According to an export declaration examined by the staff the most recent shipment included six reconditioned U.S. Army jeeps. A photograph was obtained showing the jeeps on the wharf just before they were loaded aboard the S.S. Aenos on August 14, 1960.

"Our investigation showed that the jeeps were brought into New Orleans from England after the vehicles were sold by the U.S. Army as surplus. The jeeps were all reconditioned in the U.S. before being shipped to Cuba."

According to the investigators report, the State Department had given its approval to some of the surplus arms shipments.

"When these vehicles first started coming through the port," the report stated "custom officials reported that they were greatly concerned and the political hucksters are not to be employed."

To bolster their position the welfare people stated that premature teaching of the alphabet may lead to "acne and personality problems in adolescence."

We are in Mrs. Joralemon's corner. It strikes us that this nonsense about pre-school children being compelled to occupy their time in mindless pursuits may be at the root of many of the problems of our adolescents. Not that we think the school board would do a better job.

What we'd like to see would be a free market in schools where Mrs. Joralemon and other talented people could run schools of their own devising without the butnicks coming along to make things difficult for everyone.

Dog Week Just Flea Jump Away

National Dog Week is just a flea jump away, and once more the country will pay tribute to man's best friend.

But is he? I don't think so, and I say this as a man who likes dogs, and who, in his lifetime, has owned enough of them to fill the Rose Bowl.

I have owned all sorts, too, so my opinion isn't based on one or two breeds. I have had big ones, little ones, short-hairs, long-hairs, pointers, retrievers, lap dogs, happy ones, morose ones, industrious ones, lazy ones, mailman lovers, mailman biters, and one, named Major, that could roller skate a bit.

I intend to have quite a few more before my wife gets too old to take care of them, but my affection for dogs does not keep me from refusing them first place in the best friend rankings.

Consider the chicken. What about first place for it? Every day millions of chickens lay down their drumsticks and thighs, breasts and wings, so that man may be happier. And before making the supreme sacrifice they provide the makings for omelets, sunny-side-ups, soft-scrambled, and picnic-dressed.

True, chickens don't lick your face and jump up on you when you come back from a trip, but they probably would if given the chance. I feel sure that a setting hen, say, would love to cuddle in its master's lap just as much as any dog once it knew it was wanted. And who knows that a rooster wouldn't fetch the morning paper if given a little training?

Dogs can be pretty demanding. I never have had one that didn't demand the best part of the sofa for his lounging, wasn't persnickety about his food, didn't take long and unannounced hikes and make me worry about his absence, and had more ailments than a hypochondriac.

I rate both the lion and the elephant ahead of the dog as man's best friend.

With his strength, speed and cunning the lion, if he wanted to, could eat two or three people for every meal, and maul a couple for a snack before going to bed. But the lion doesn't, which shows that he is a true friend.

If elephants didn't think so much of man they would band together, lower their heads, and knock down everything man tried to build as soon as man got the first floor laid.

True, neither the lion nor the elephant insists upon sleeping on or under his master's bed, but then again that shows friendship. Somehow, an elephant seems to know that if he were to sleep at the foot of a bed, his master would be uncomfortable. The same goes for a lion.

This never enters a dog's head. Most of the dogs I have owned not only slept at the foot of the bed, but growled when I moved my feet.

Naturally, I am going to celebrate National Dog Week. Dogs expect it, and in these days and times it is wise to stay on the good side of everybody.

Count To Ten, World Without End, Amen

Senator Kefauver is still trying to determine whether gangsters are implicated in pugilism and whether fights have been fixed. It seems too trivial for congressional notice, but where in the world is this hill-billy been all these years?

On a recent Sunday in New York my friend, Miss Irene Hayes, the florist, late of the Ziegfeld attractions and now the wife of Jack Solomon, who runs Gallagher's Steak House, got on the phone and said: "Here is man wants to talk to you about some old-time prize-fights."

So the man got on the phone and said: "Hello, this is Abe Attell."

I said, "Did you see my piece about the time you fought that Irish altar boy on a Friday night in Jack McGuigan's club in Philadelphia and they made you promise not to mess him up so he would not have a blinker serving Sunday mass?"

Abe said, "Yes, you had it right. I got $600 and I figured to take him out in two or three, so I bet my end on this boy to stay. I got a pretty good price because he had no business in there with me."

Abe had a hard time holding the altar boy upright the first five rounds, but in the sixth he locked his gloves in his armpits and waltzed him softly for about two minutes.

Then an astonishing thing happened. "I saw something white sailing through the air," Abe said, "and at first I thought it was a dove of peace. Then it flopped down on the canvas and it was the towel. The bums in his corner had thrown in the towel on me. The dirty bums had covered my $600 and so they threw in the towel. So I let go and stooped down to pick it up and the altar boy dropped like an anvil and I could not get him up. So the referee had to count him out and I lost my $600. But that's the way it goes. That is life for you."

"But," Abe said, "I have got another one. McGuigan hired me for $500 to box a little colored boy. So I was leaving my dressing room and Jack said: 'Abe, if you make this boy look good tonight I will put you back with him for ten rounds for $1500 two weeks from now.' I said, 'It is a deal.'"

"So I got into the ring and I walked over to this fellow, and I said, 'Boy, relax. I am not going to hurt you.' The boy said, 'Honest, Abe?' And the sport writers did not hear what I said, but they heard him say, 'Honest, Abe.' Anything for a laugh."

"It was a very satisfactory exhibition of skill and physical fitness and two weeks later we boxed the encore."

"In the first, I cut him up pretty bad to show him I was boss. So in the second, I said 'Listen, Kid, what is the sense of you getting hurt? Name the round and take one like a good boy because it is a shame to hurt a nice boy like you.' The kid said, 'All right, make it the next round.' So in the third he put his chin out and I hit him nice and clean. It was a real good knockout."

"Well, we used to have lots of fun in the old days, didn't we?" We certainly did.

I recalled Primo Carnera's first fight in the Garden. I think the other boy's name was Johnny Nobody.

Primo had been shipped in from Italy for Jack Curley, the wrestling promoter, but Owney Madden, Bill Duffy and Big Curley, the boot-leggers, told Curley they were moving in, so Curley discreetly moved out.

Curley told me afterward that Johnny Nobody's manager was detained in a room at the Forrest Hotel nearby under armed guard until the fight ended.

It did not last long. Primo was clumsy but fast and with all my alert cynicism I often could not decide for sure whether his victim took a plunge.

On another night Ernie Schaff went down from a mere poke on the nose from Primo and was counted out in a scene so unconvincing that many of those present yelled "mockery." But they took him across the street to the polyclinic where he died of concussion.

Bill Corum, the sport writer, was the gentlest judge of men and motives, rarely pointing the finger of suspicion. But this time he joined in the roar of the mob.

In his memoirs, entitled "Off and Running," published after his death, Bill made this amend: "Once I called a boy a faker, a dishonest fighter, a fraud, in black type that cannot be called back or erased. I labelled him that while he lay in a hospital unable to fight even for his life. Please excuse me if I don't care to risk those hours again."

How many of Primo's fights were on the level I can't say.

McSween Wins Job After All

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI)—Rep. Harold B. McSween, whose seat in Congress Earl K. Long won just before the three-time governor died early this month, had a new lease on the post today.

The 8th District Democratic Executive Committee Monday night named the lame duck incumbent to replace Long as the party's nominee, which is equivalent to election.

McSween lost to Long by 6,000 votes in a runoff election last month after having led the colorful ex-governor by 4,000 in the first primary. To date no other party has entered a candidate for the office in the Nov. 8 general election.

"I still regret very much the situation that was created by the death of the late Earl K. Long," McSween said after the committee announced he was its choice.

Way Clear For Dual Candidacy

DALLAS (UPI)—The way appeared clear for the Texas Democratic convention to certify Lyndon Johnson today as a candidate for U. S. senator in addition to his race for the vice presidency of the United States.

Dist. Judge F. B. Davenport Monday refused to grant an injunction to prevent Johnson's name from going on the November ballot as a senatorial candidate.

The judge said he was inclined to agree with Atty. Gen. Will Wilson's argument that Texas voters won't actually vote for the same man twice, because in the case of the vice presidency, they really vote for electors.

He and most other politicians in the district favored a special primary to pick Long's successor. After various futile tries, the committee found it couldn't raise the $95,000 needed to finance another election.

Minor Groups Draw Votes Away From Major Parties

NEW YORK (UPI)—About a dozen minor parties are contesting the presidential campaign with Nixon and Kennedy, either on the ballots or with write-in campaigns in about half the 50 states.

Aside from the old pros of the third party game—the Prohibition, Socialist Party, which is supporting the Democratic ticket, the biggest showing is expected from a handful of States' rights and conservative parties seeking a bargaining-power vote in at least six Southern states.

States rightsers are running Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas for president and retired Adm. John C. Stennis of Alabama for vice president in Alabama and Florida, and slates of independent electors in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas. Faubus declined the nomination and made it stick in his home state.

In Virginia, the Conservative party, whose first nominations were declined by Sens. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., and Barry S. Goldwater, R-Ariz., have named V. Benton Cainer and Edward M. Silverman, both of Virginia, in their places.

One of Mississippi's independent electors, Charles L. Sullivan of Clarksdale, is running for president in Texas under the banner of the Constitution Party, which apparently is not aligned primarily with the states' rights groups.

The dissident Southerners would like to draw sufficient votes from the major candidates to throw the election to the House of Representatives where they could bargain concessions from the eventual winner. Barring that, they hope to acquire something of the same bargaining power in the electoral college.

Minor party candidates polled about half a million of the nearly 62-million votes cast in 1956.

Filing and certifications dates in some states are still ahead, but the third party lineup today also includes:

Socialist Labor: For president Eric Hass, 55, editor of the party's newspaper, of New York; for vice president Mrs. Georgia Cozzini, 45 of Milwaukee. The party would set up an industrial democracy with all industry and land collectively owned.

Socialist Workers: for president Farrell Dobbs, 53, of New York; for vice president Myra Tanner Weiss, 43, of Salt Lake City. It would abolish all taxes on incomes under $7,500 a year and confiscate all above $25,000.

Prohibition: For president Dr. Rutherford L. Decker, 56, Kansas City, Mo.; for vice president E. Harold Munn, 56, assistant dean at Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Mich.
