Castro Embraces Red China

U.S.-Cuban Relations Near Breaking Point

HAVANA (UPI)—Cuba's relations with the United States neared the breaking point Saturday over Fidel Castro's defiance of hemisphere defense alliances and his espousal of Red China. The Nationalist Chinese Embassy began closing up and Nationalist diplomats prepared to leave the country in the wake of Castro's declaration before an estimated 300,000 Cubans Friday night at a hate-America rally that he was breaking relations with Formosa and establishing them with Communist China. Nationalist China retaliated by announcing Saturday in Taipei that it was severing diplomatic relations with Cuba.

mediate reaction. Cuba seemed to be relaxing from a frenzied week of accusations and seizures of American property by the Castro government. Most observers had expected the Castro move. Red Chinese technicians have been in Cuba for some weeks. A trade delegation from Peiping recently visited Havana while a Cuban labor group went to China. Red Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai, as well as Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, has been invited to Havana. No date has been set for the trip.

Fighting Described As 'Ferocious, Savage'

By RAY MOLONEY United Press International ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Belgian officials said Saturday the fighting between Congolese troops and Baluba tribesmen at Bakwanga has flared into a no-quarter battle of "fierce ferocity," with women and children numbered among the dead. Some 500 heavily-armed men from secessionist Katanga set out to reinforce the Balubas fighting to prevent Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba's Army from smashing the independent "mining state" set up by Albert Kalonji on the Katanga border. Casualties were reported mounting as the week-old battle spread into other areas along the Kasai-Katanga provincial frontier. Some 300 persons were reported Friday to have been massacred by the Congolese.

The Belgians denied Congolese reports that European officers were leading the 500-man reinforcement unit that set out across the Lubilash River from Katanga and headed through the jungle to Bakwanga. Other fighting was reported around the mining state towns of Luputa and Mwene - Ditu, both about 75 miles from Bakwanga. Lumumba troops were said to control both towns. Katanga President Moïse Tshombe strengthened his defenses at airfields against a threatened invasion by Lumumba forces using a new Congolese air force of Russian planes and crews. Reports in Leopoldville, Lumumba's capital, said the doubted Congolese leader, who doubles as his own defense minister, might try to invade Katanga in a matter of days now that he is going on with terrible ferocity — unprecedented even for the Congo where savagery is nothing new. They said "absolutely no quarter" was being given either by the Congolese soldiers or the Ba-

Khrush Proposes U.N. Summit Meet

By A. E. PEDERSEN United Press International HELSINKI (UPI)—Nikita S. Khrushchev cast a wet blanket over a happy birthday party for the president of Finland Saturday night with an impromptu speech attacking the West and warning that the international situation "has worsened in past months."

Khrushchev, who invited himself to Helsinki for what he said was a simple desire to help President Urho Kekkonen celebrate his 60th birthday, raised again his "spy plane" charges and proposed a summit conference at the United Nations General Assembly in New York to discuss disarmament.

Khrushchev said again Friday, as he entered Finland, that it would be "good" if President Eisenhower and other Western leaders attended the U.N. meeting opening Sept. 20. The Soviet premier has several times suggested a summit session within the framework of the U.N. to trash out disarmament.

Opening Campaign Volly Fired By Jack In Alaska

By ALVIN SPIVAK United Press International ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—Sen. John F. Kennedy, firing the opening volleys of his "New Frontiers" presidential campaign, told Alaskans Saturday that the Eisenhower administration has tried to keep their new state "a colony for certain commercial interests."

At the San Francisco airport rally, Kennedy sounded his campaign theme as "action at home to keep pace with our growing power, to meet the turbulent revolutions reshaping our globe." In speeches prepared for delivery at the two scheduled rallies in Alaska which votes for the first time for President this year, Kennedy accused the GOP administration of standing pat on development of the country's natural resources. The Massachusetts senator declared this worked not only against growing states like Alaska but against the nation as a whole.

The Western powers were reported to have rejected the idea as "totally impractical." There could be no summit in the sense all would sit down together, since Khrushchev has vowed never to "do business" with Eisenhower. But Khrushchev said he remained "an optimist."

He added that the Soviet government, which he will represent himself at the U.N. Assembly Sept. 20, wants to stress a world solution though disarmament even through "that road... will be difficult." Earlier, Khrushchev boasted that Russia will launch a 60-ton Sputnik "like a train" in its conquest of space. He did not say when. Such a space vehicle would be the largest (See NIKITA SUGGESTS, Page 3)

Soviet-Red China Rift Widening

WASHINGTON (UPI)—New evidence of a deep rift between Russia and Communist China has been received by the U.S. government from behind the Iron Curtain, officials said Saturday. They said eye-witness accounts have confirmed that more than 1,000 Soviet officials, technicians and their families were hastily shipped home last month. One official estimate, based on some unconfirmed assumptions, said one-half of Russia's "several thousand" advisers in China probably were withdrawn.

The order evidently came suddenly. Reports said many Soviet officials and their families were called off vacation trips and hustled aboard trains for Russia before they could settle personal affairs. Who ordered the Russians to go home still is not certain. But U.S. and British officials are increasingly leaning toward the belief that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev did it as a blunt reminder to the ambitious men in Peiping that they still need Soviet help.

Recognition of Red China was a direct slap at the United States which opposes the Chinese Communist regime, has refused to recognize it and has blocked its repeated bids for membership in the United Nations. No other Latin American nation recognized Red China. The decision to recognize the Peiping regime brought no immediate reaction.

All Quiet In Pampa Pampa was showing a marked contrast to what was going on across the nation at midnight last night when the sheriff's office, police department and Highland General Hospital all reported, "Everything is quiet." Traffic accidents across the United States abounded; reports showed a possibility of an all-time highway death record for the Labor Day weekend. But in this city, not one accident had been recorded, and the police and sheriff's office reports were merely "nothing going on; it's extremely quiet."

Tuesday Dollar-Day

Pampa's monthly merchants Dollar Day, which falls on the first Monday of each month, will be observed Tuesday due to the Labor Day holiday tomorrow. A majority of downtown stores will be closed Monday.

The Daily News will publish a newspaper tomorrow, however, an early afternoon closing time will be observed.

Training On As Planned At Tragedy Site

GRAFENWOHR, Germany (UPI)—The 12th Cavalry's training program went on as planned Saturday at this vast U.S. Army maneuver site where 16 soldiers were killed and 26 others wounded by a shell that fell on G's in their tents.

The tragedy occurred when a 200-pound high explosive shell from a giant 8-inch howitzer overshoot its target by 1,800 yards and smashed into a line of tents shortly after breakfast Friday morning. Fifteen men of the 3rd Armored Division's 12th cavalry were killed instantly, and a 16th died later. Most of the wounded were in the army's 20th Station Hospital at Nuerberg, 90 miles away. The gun crew of the 18th artillery that fired the fatal shell was back at training following an investigation that turned up the fact that seven bags of powder instead of five had been used with the fatal round.

Texas Tied For Second In Death Count

Highway Toll Climbs Six Killed At Lufkin

By United Press International Summer's last holiday weekend lured millions of motorists onto the nation's highways Saturday and produced a mounting toll of death in traffic accidents. A United Press International tally at 11 p.m. EDT showed that 24 persons were killed in traffic. Eighteen persons died in drownings and 14 in miscellaneous accidents for a combined total of 166.

The National Safety Council, which had estimated that 460 persons would meet death by midnight Monday, said the rate was running about the same as Labor Day, 1959, when 479 were killed over the long weekend. The safety council believed that more cars and more mileage would boost this year's toll beyond the record Labor Day slaughter of 1951 when 453 persons were killed. Six persons were killed Saturday and two others critically injured in a head-on collision in Lufkin, Texas. Three young men were killed

Saturday when their car crashed into a utility pole near Greensburg, Pa., and a similar accident killed three other young men in Hampton, Iowa. Charles Eugene Stark, 12, of Pleuger, Tex., was killed Saturday when he was bounced out of the back of his father's pickup truck on FM 1301 near Wharton. Will Marion Woodson, 7, the son of Marion Woodson of Grand Prairie, was killed when a car hit him as he crossed a driveway in Rosewood Cemetery in San Antonio Saturday afternoon. Portion of the Midwest were (See HIGHWAY TOLL, Page 3)

By United Press International Texas held the gory distinction Saturday night of providing the nation's worst traffic accident so far in the Labor Day holiday weekend. A United Press International survey showed 16 violent deaths in the state since the count began at 8 p.m., Friday, including 13 traffic fatalities. The worst road crash took six lives and critically injured a seventh person inside the Lufkin city limits Saturday when a car, trying to pass a truckload of pulpwood, met another automobile head-on at high speed.

The victims included Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cates, 82 and 70, respectively, of Kerens, Tex., who had a private nurse, Mrs. Anna Charles Rowan, 40, traveling with them. Mrs. Rowan, also of Kerens, was killed, along with P. A. Van Deger, 75, of Nederland, Tex.; his eight-year-old daughter and his wife, about 50. All died instantly except Mrs. Cates, who lived about three hours. Mrs. Gladys Curtis, 50, of Texarkana, was critically hurt. Homer Garrison, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, predicted that 29 persons would die in highway crashes in Texas before midnight Monday, when the count ends. Oscar B. Medina, 24, and Antonio A. Hidalgo, 19, were the first highway victims reported for the holiday period. Medina died in a pickup truck-car smash-up in El Paso and Hidalgo was killed in a car-truck collision south of Comanche. Ruth Bryant Morgan, 43, of Cincinnati, was killed when her car struck a tree, 2.8 miles east of Naples, Tex., on U.S. Highway 67 Saturday. Daniel Tomlinson, 24, of Mer-

Texas Business Slump Said Hard To Explain

AUSTIN (UPI)—Business activity in Texas hit its lowest ebb of the year in July, the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas said Saturday.

"The drop is hard to explain in terms of the hot weather or usual summer doldrums," the report said in pointing out that its index of 15 areas of business is seasonally adjusted.

"The day seems past," it summarized, "when Texas businessmen can expect to see all business indicators pointing upward month after month."

The index, based on a 1947-49 average, dropped from a high of 235 per cent in May to 228 per cent in June and 211 per cent in July.

July's monthly drop was approximately nine per cent, and seven per cent below July 1959, the bureau said.

Serious efforts at substantial additional industrial development are needed to assure for Texas the kind of economic growth it has enjoyed during the past 10 years," the bureau warned.

Bank debits in the 20 largest cities dropped seven per cent to the lowest reading since March 1959, while continued declines were reported in sale of durable goods (off eight per cent) and residential building permits (down nine per cent).

Six of the indicators of the health of Texas business displayed slight to substantial gains, with non-residential building permits up sharply to 63 per cent over June. But the remaining eight measurements on the index of activity registered drops of up to nine per cent from June and were down as much as 36 per cent from July 1959.

"The talk which one hears about the high level of business activity in Texas for the past few months is generally still true, but the plateau is getting a bit shaky," the Bureau of Business Research said.

It blamed weakness in the oil industry for keeping the Texas economy from gaining, and said many in the industry are "alarmed at the tendency of refiners to operate their plants far in excess of needs."

Texas employment jumped by 1,100 in July to set an all-time record high of 3,712,000 workers—an increase of eight per cent. A gain in the labor force also accounted for the fact that more than 19,700 persons were unemployed in July than at the same time last year, however.

Nixon's Aides Confident Of His Recovery

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon's aides were so confident today of his rapid recovery from a knee infection that they were working on campaign plans for him up to election day.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press chief, cautiously refused to rule out the possibility of complications in the vice president's case. But Klein said doctors anticipated none.

Nixon announced plans Thursday for a six-day, 9,000-mile campaign swing beginning Sept. 12 that will take him from Atlantic City, N.J., to Vancouver, Wash.

On the first day alone, Nixon will hit four sections of the country with a takeoff from Baltimore's Friendship Airport and stops at Indianapolis, Dallas and San Francisco.

The Nixon staff is nailing down plans for subsequent trips which will allow the GOP presidential nominee and his wife, Pat, to set up their campaign headquarters in each city. Klein said the rigorous opening week campaign "will set the pattern we intend to follow through Nov. 8."

Hurricane 'D' Heading To Caribbean

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Hurricane Donna, moving westward toward the Caribbean with 135 mile an hour winds, may have grown out of the West African storm that knocked down a French airliner at Dakar with the loss of 63 lives.

"The forerunner of this storm could have been responsible for the plane crash," said Gordon E. Dunn, chief storm forecaster at Miami. "The timing was right."

The plane crashed last Monday, killing all aboard.

At 11 a.m. (est) the hurricane was pinpointed in the South Atlantic near latitude 15.5 north, longitude 54.3 west or about 900 miles east-southeast of San Juan. It was moving west-northwest at about 17 miles per hour.

The San Juan weather bureau issued a hurricane watch for the leeward islands on the northeastern edge of the Caribbean. It ordered residents of the islands to keep in close touch for further information.

The San Juan bureau said the hurricane was about 1,900 miles east-southeast of Miami. It said it would maintain its present course and speed with a slight increase in size for at least 12 hours.

Donna was the fourth and most powerful tropical storm of the season that began June 15. The first, Abby, formed in the southern Caribbean July 10 and struck the Honduran coast on July 15, damaging fishing villages.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

The man of the week: King Hussein I of Jordan.
The Place: Amman.
The Quote: "I lost a good friend and a devoted servant in the Arab world. I assure you of one thing: Jordan itself is stronger than ever and more united after this blow. This crime brought us together."
Neither violence nor the plots and counter-plots that are a part of the Middle East were new to the 25-year-old Hussein.

He was present when an assassin's bullets killed his grandfather, the famed Emir Abdullah, in a Jerusalem mosque in 1951.

His own life came into danger when Iraqi revolutionaries assassinated his cousin, King Feisal of Iraq, in 1958.

Plots against his throne have been numerous.

This week, his premier, Hazza Al-Majali, died in the bomb-blasted rubble of the Jordanian Foreign Ministry. In Amman, there was no doubt that the bomb had been intended for Hussein.

For a while after Monday's assassination, a armored cars swarmed through Amman's dusty streets. The airport was closed. But then the image of courage which the youthful king has built for himself among his people reasserted itself. Troops were withdrawn from the city. Air travel resumed.

In less than 48 hours, Amman returned almost to normal.

It appeared that in missing their main target, the assassins had doubly failed. For in Jordan, Hussein was riding a new crest of popularity.

Not that he was a better insurance risk. Among Jordan's half million Palestinians there were many who would regard Hussein's violent departure as removal of the largest obstacle barring union with the United Arab Republic and eventual return of their lands taken by Israel.

In Cairo, U.A.R. President Abdel Gamal Nasser had accused him of selling out the Arab cause to the United States and Britain.

Nor did Hussein, in his nation's latest moment of crisis, do anything to improve his strained relations with the U.A.R. Instead, he accused the U.A.R. of "direct complicity" in the assassination of Maja, Amman radio said "Damascus already is harboring the murderers."

There were at least two good reasons why Nasser's revolutionary government would welcome Hussein's passing. For one, the Jordanian monarchy is an unpleasant reminder of British influence in the Mideast. For another, Hussein adamantly blocks Nasser's plan for a separate Palestinian state.

But still another factor bars any direct action against Jordan by the U.A.R. Nasser knows that a well-armed and determined Israel would not stand idly by while Jordan was dismembered.

Unusual Case Being Pressed By Conoco

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Continental Oil Co. of Houston, a natural gas producer, is pressing in the courts one of the oddest cases ever to come before the Federal Power Commission.

Defendant is United Gas Pipeline Co., Shreveport, and indirectly the FPC.

The issue is this: Can Continental force United to buy gas under an expired contract and at a new and legally higher rate while Continental has a cease-service application pending and the commission, through no fault of Continental's, has failed to act on it?

United vigorously resisted on grounds the new rate, now being collected under suspension, would activate its favored national contracts with other producers. But Continental obtained a temporary injunction in the Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals requiring United to pay the rate until it is determined whether the federal district court at Shreveport has jurisdiction in the matter.

The lower court on Aug. 5 refused Continental an injunction on grounds the dispute was an FPC jurisdictional problem.

Nub of Continental's complaint is that it wants to abandon service to United under the expired contract but that FPC rules prevent it from doing so until the commission acts on its abandonment petition. To date the commission has scheduled no hearing.

Continental contends the delay has prevented it from selling its gas elsewhere at the higher rate; that it now faces losses through drainage, and further that it may lose its leases if production is halted. It also argued that United probably has nothing to lose since eventually it would get a refund if the commission fixes a price lower than that being collected.

Change In FHA Regulations

Under a recent change in eligibility requirements for farm housing loans, a farmer who owns a farm that will annually produce at least $400 worth of commodities for sale or home use, may be able to obtain such a loan.

Previously, according to James Gouley, Farmers Home Administration supervisor for Gray County, an applicant had to own a farm that would produce a substantial amount of the operator's income.

Farm housing loans made by the Farmers Home Administration are made to construct or repair needed farm houses or farm service buildings.

Other eligibility requirements remain unchanged. These requirements are that the applicant lacks the resources needed to obtain credit elsewhere, be a citizen of the United States, and have sufficient income from farm or other sources to pay farm operating and family living expenses, and meet payments, when due, on other debts.

Applicants for this type of credit may contact Gouley at the county office of the Farmers Home Administration located in the agricultural building in Clarendon or write Farmers Home Administration located in the agricultural building in Clarendon or write Farmers Home Administration, Box 25, Clarendon.

When you choose your floor covering, there are four basic points to be considered: price, color, size and durability.

The life span of rugs and carpets, generally speaking, ranges from four to twenty years, with corresponding prices. If you prefer frequent changes, or rent and move often, you'll do better to buy in the moderate and lower price ranges, and buy often. If the opposite is true, a very expensive floor covering may suit your purpose better.

If you are starting from scratch, you will have a wider choice of color. But if you must choose a rug to blend with existing draperies, walls and furniture, then your best bet is a good blendable neutral shade without too much pattern.

The size of the room will dictate the rug size. Floor border should range from six to twelve inches all around. Wall-to-wall carpeting gives a look of luxury and greater spaciousness to a room. Remember, though, that you can not rotate wear by turning it as you can with a rug.

A tweedy pattern was chosen for the room sketched above because of its ability to take hard wear. Colors—muted green, tan, and a sprinkling of black—in with the sandalwood upholstery, and with the natural brick fireplace wall.

If you are in a quandary about how to choose the right floor coverings for your home, come in and let our experienced decorators guide you. It is always our pleasure to help you in any way that we can. Do come in real soon, won't you? We're expecting you!

Bomb Explosion On King's Route

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — A huge bomb exploded with a blinding flash on a hilltop in this tense city Saturday a few hours before King Hussein and his government leaders were to pass nearby. The blast, which caused no casualties, followed by five days the time-bombing of the Foreign Ministry Building in which Jordanian Premier Hazza Al-Majali and 10 other persons were killed Monday.

Jordanian troops rushed to the top of Jowfa Hill after the bomb, apparently touched off prematurely by accident, flashed and sent a dull boom rolling over this hilly capital city.

Hussein, whose government accused the United Arab Republic of Gamal Abdel Nasser of involvement in the assassination of Al-Majali, went ahead with his scheduled visit to the mosque at the foot of the hill. Government leaders and military chiefs accompanied him.

Troops armed with machine guns were posted inside the mosque during the Moslem services commemorating the birthday of Mohammed, the prophet.

Outside, security forces of the Arab Legion in armored cars guarded main intersections. Although there was no official complaint and no one served the expired rules until the ts abandoned the common hearing, the delay in selling its higher rate, as through that it may reduction is that United to lose since a refund is a price collected.

Phillips Acquires Canadian Stock

Phillips Petroleum Co. and Sunray Oil Co., who in July agreed to exchange all their oil and gas properties and other holdings in Canada for common shares of Pacific Petroleum Ltd. stocks were further backed in the move recently when Pacific's board of directors approved the exchange, thus leaving the final action in the hands of Pacific stockholders.

The exchange will see Phillips gaining 29 per cent of Pacific stock and Sunray holding 5.8 per cent. Fuels and asphalt from the company's refineries at Dawson Creek and Fort St. John will continue to be marketed in the Peace River area and along the Alaska Highway under the Phillips 66 brand.

Nikita

The premier, who prides himself on his knowledge of production facts and figures, rattled off a string of steel production data to Oleg Sidarov, a Russian-speaking assembly line worker.

"I suppose you need all that steel for your spunkies," said Sidarov, making conversation. "Oh, no, the spunkies don't use much steel," Khrushchev replied. "But we are going to send up a 60-ton spunkie like a train."

He did not elaborate. In the past, a spectacular Soviet space effort frequently has preceded major Soviet diplomatic maneuvers.

Just before Khrushchev's trip to the United States last September, Russia launched a "Lunik" to the moon.

The Soviet Premier is scheduled to go to New York this month to head the Soviet delegation to the United Nations and there has been speculation that Russian scientists might give him a royal send-off with a space break-through.

After visiting the Stromberg factory, Khrushchev drove past small crowds of Finns who stared curiously and silently.

Castro

(Continued From Page 1) Castro disclosed recognition of Peiping in a tirade against the "imperialist" United States which included threats to bring up, at a future date, the status of the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo.

He denounced the recent meeting of hemisphere foreign ministers at San Jose, Costa Rica, which ended with 19 nations—excluding Cuba and the Dominican Republic—signing a resolution condemning Communist penetration of the new world.

Castro said "Yankee imperialism" is the only hemispheric threat. He defended his method of government and defended his habit of putting government proposals to the voice vote of a crowd as "direct," universal and public suffrage.

State GOP Chairman To Resign

HOUSTON (UPI)—State Republican chairman Thad Hutcheson said Saturday he "will not seek nor accept" re-election to the post.

The Houston attorney made the announcement as the Republican state convention neared. It will be held in Galveston, Sept. 20.

Hutcheson said although he did not wish to continue as state chairman, he was not closing the door on the possibility of his future seeking public office. He ran for the U.S. Senate in a special election in 1957.

"This doesn't mean the end of my participation in politics," he said. "It also doesn't mean I might not run for office at some future date."

"Neither does it mean I have the slightest intention of leaving this campaign. Matter of fact, I am perfectly willing and glad to serve the Republican party and the present campaign program in any capacity which the party or the convention may desire."

"But only until the completion of the 1960 presidential campaign," Hutcheson said. He added he wished to give more time to his family and business affairs.

Circus Slated Wednesday

Sterling Bros. Circus of Alamo, will present two performances in Pampa Wednesday under the sponsorship of St. Vincent's Catholic School P.T.A.

The circus will be located on N. Hobart adjacent to the Coca-Cola plant. Show times will be 3:30 and 8 p.m.

Dolly Jacobs and her three performing elephants will highlight the performances. Miss Jacobs, of Gainesville, was formerly with the famed Gainesville Circus.

Another top attraction of the show is the Carlton Family, who present a startling acrobatic performance.

Ticket information may be obtained from Mrs. C. L. Sullins, MO 4-8819, president of the P.T.A.

Nixon's Progress Pleases Doctors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon's doctors, encouraged by his progress, decided Saturday to remove his ailing left leg from traction Saturday night for the first time since the GOP presidential nominee entered Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Nixon entered the hospital Monday. He injured his knee Aug. 17 when he hit it against a car door during a campaign appearance at Greensboro, N.C. An infection developed that required rest and treatment.

David F. Farmer, 39, was drowned near Fort Worth when he went to the aid of a woman whose pickup truck had roled into the Trinity River and who was screaming for help.

Booker Wilson Thomas, 24, a Dallas Negro, was killed with a 16 gauge shotgun and police arrested a suspect, Alice Marie Pierros of Dallas was found dead on her bathroom floor by her husband, who went out early Saturday to buy a sack of hamburger. Justice of the Peace Glenn Byrd ordered an autopsy.

Gene Hunt, 50, a Wichita Falls electronics salesman, died at a football game between New Castle and Henrietta after an apparent heart seizure.

Ironically, a Houston man and a little girl who set out on a trip to Oklahoma to escape holiday traffic were killed in a collision near Gladewater Thursday night.

Highway patrolmen who investigated the accident said the two cars that collided were the only ones on the highway within a mile of each other. The victims were Leroy Fry, 39, an employee of Sheffield Steel, and Gwendolyn Grace Sirmans, 7. Three persons were injured.

Too Many Titles For Pretty Girl

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Junior Chamber of Commerce has decided two queen titles is one too many. The young civic group fired its "Miss Houston," blonde 18-year-old Charlotte Glen.

It wasn't that the Jaycees didn't think they had a real beauty in Miss Glen. It was that she had violated her contract, so they claimed, by accepting also the title of "Miss Cinerama."

Miss Glen had retained a lawyer earlier because she charged the Jaycees didn't come through with all the prizes they promised her in the "Miss Houston" contest.

Also, Miss Glenn said some members of the Jaycees told her it was all right to be "Miss Cinerama," too.

Bishop Transfers Priest To Dumas

His duties also will include conducting services at the Catholic Church of Sunray.

Fr. Stanley, a noted historian of the Southwest, will be exchanging posts with Fr. Hancock, who will be moving to the White Deer parish for the second time in the past few years.

Fr. Stanley will say his final mass at White Deer at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and begin his duties at Dumas Thursday.

Soviet-China

Nor is there much doubt that Russia will win this contest of wills and Marxist logic and reassert Moscow's traditional dictation of the bloc's policy and party line.

The Soviet warning to China to drop its challenge to Khrushchev's leadership was made more specific in an article by Soviet Central Committee propagandist S. Titarenko which is being circulated among Communist parties abroad.

"Is it possible to imagine a successful construction of socialism under modern conditions even in such a great country as China if this country were isolated and did not depend on the cooperation and mutual aid of all socialist countries?" the article asked pointedly.

The answer from almost everywhere in the Communist world except Peiping has been a chorus of assurance that the satellites are siding with Moscow.

Officials here believe that Khrushchev has been applying his theories by laying a restraining hand on Mao's ambitions in the Formosa Straits and the Indian border regi; and by denying him modern offensive weapons.

Selective Sales Tax For Texas Will Put The Bite On Consumer

By PAT CONWAY United Press International AUSTIN (UPI)—When it comes to state taxes on the individual, Texans who "live it up" are the folks the tax collector loves.

And a survey by the Texas Commission on State and Local Tax Policy shows that if a general sales tax is adopted in Texas, a variation of personal habits could result in doubling your tax bill.

Right now the individual is faced only with a raft of selective sales taxes and highway-user taxes. The folks who smoke, drink and put a lot of miles on the car are "hit the hardest." The state is currently spending $1,250,000,000 annually, and business—mostly oil and gas—is paying for more than half of it.

The next Legislature is going to have to find ways to raise new money, and it's likely they'll turn to the consumer, probably through more selective sales taxes, as Gov. Price Daniel and many lawmakers are dead set against a general sales tax.

The average Texas family pays only $115.89 in taxes—the third lowest rate in the nation. Taxes on the individual amount to only 42 per cent of the state's income.

In terms of the amount of tax per household, the current burden imposed by Texas upon individuals ranges from $53 per house in the lowest income bracket to $214 per house in the highest income group.

For fear that a state income tax would follow a general sales tax, lawmakers have kicked around a number of new selective sales taxes including levies on soft drinks, jewelry, home appliances, and automotive parts and accessories.

The 66 per cent of all households in which the annual income is less than $5,000 per year would pay 60 per cent of a soft drinks tax, 40 per cent of a jewelry tax, 37 per cent of an automotive tax, and 50 per cent of an appliance tax.

The possibility for raising new money by boosting the existing selective sales taxes is confined to beer, liquor, gasoline and car sales. The Texas tax on cigarettes is now one of the three highest in the nation.

Lodge Starts Drive At Rally In New York

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN United Press International MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. (UPI)—Republican vice presidential nominee Henry Cabot Lodge said Saturday the United States needs "capable, wise and experienced" men at the helm to steer a safe course in "a world of danger and mystery."

He added that "in Mr. Nixon, we have such a man." Lodge spoke at a rally at a shopping plaza during a one-day swing through the Catskill Mountain resort area which opened his election campaign. He hopped from resort to resort to court the support of Labor Day weekend crowds.

The GOP leader told the rally here that Americans have the national goals, but the question is: "Are we going to carry them out? If we do we can lead the whole world along with us."

He said the GOP ticket headed by Vice President Richard M. Nixon and himself offers a strong program for America's future.

Lodge's stop here completed the swing-through the "Borscht Circuit." He and his party left Middletown Airport by air at 5:50 p. m. for New York.

Lodge, who left his post as United States ambassador to the United Nations Friday, was accompanied on the tour by his wife, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz.

They flew from New York to Liberty aboard Rockefeller's private plane and then drove in open cars to Grossinger's, a famous Catskill Mountain hotel and the training ground for former heavyweight champions Rocky Marciano and Ingemar Johansson. Grossinger's also is the place where singer Eddie Fisher and other successful entertainers got their starts.

The visitors were escorted to a makeshift grandstand where Rockefeller introduced Lodge after praising him and Vice President Richard M. Nixon as men of experience in world affairs and having the right conception of freedom.

Lodge, whose bid for votes came as his presidential-running mate was in a Washington hospital with an infected knee, then spoke briefly.

Texas Adds 64 Oil Wells

AUSTIN (UPI)—The number of oil wells in Texas increased by 64 last week, the Railroad Commission said Saturday.

The new total of wells was 196,657, and they produced an average calendar day allowable of 2,674,081 barrels of oil—an increase of 61,763 barrels daily over the one-day longer month of August.

Five oil discoveries were reported: two in the Midland area and one each in the San Antonio, Houston and Abilene districts. There were no gas finds.

There were 27 drilling applications granted last week by the commission, to bring the total for 1960 to an even 10,500. At the same time in 1959 13,175 applications had been filed.

Many TV Shows Delayed This Fall

No New Trends Are In Sight But Situation Comedies Boom

NEW YORK (NEA) — Fall will be a little late this year as far as the new TV season is concerned. Usually, by the end of September, all new programs have had their baptisms of critical fire. But this year, only half are down for September premieres; the rest plan October or November bows.

The writers' strike earlier this year is the reason for the delays. While the dispute was going on, the TV dramatists were unable to put a word down on paper. (They may have done a little clandestine thinking, jotting down a stealthy note or two, but no scripts were written.)

As soon as the strike was settled, the typewriters were pounded, but even today the backlog of scripts is slim. So many new shows decided to hold back until they had a few more "in the can."

getaway, it's difficult to discern a trend in the coming season's programming. Or maybe it's difficult because there is no trend; at least none is apparent at the moment.

Some trends are continuing—Westerns are still big, with a few old ones riding into the TV sunset while some new ones jog over the eastern horizon; the adventure shows have their swashes buckled on tight; mysteries (with or without private eyes) are still with us in force; and situation comedies are out in droves with their laugh tracks showing.

As far as straight dramas are concerned, they are few and far between. The only regularly scheduled dramatic is the series alternating U.S. Steel Hour and Armstrong Circle Theater. The nearest approaches to new dramatic programming are "The Witness," "The Thriller" and "Family Classics."

have its own spot this year on CBS, with Eddie Albert and Dorothy Collins joining Allen Funt.

Another comedy not of interest is "The Flintstones," and ABC offering, which is an animated cartoon series for adults. It will be produced by the Hanna-Barbera team, the same outfit which has done so well with its children's shows, "Huckleberry Hound" and "Quick-Draw McGraw."

Topping the mystery list is "Checkmate," a series with Eric Ambler, the great suspense writer, as its guiding genius. This is on the CBS schedule. Others on the lists are NBC's "Dan Raven," Dante and Michael Shayne; ABC's "Surfside Six" (which attempts to do for Miami Beach what "77 Sunset Strip" and "Hawaiian Eye" did for Los Angeles and Honolulu respectively) and "Naked City" (back again in a full-hour version).

FRED MACMURRAY holds Tim Considine as he listens to William Frawley on ABC's new comedy, "My Three Sons."

Presley Emerges As 'Leader' To Anti-Red Youth

By JOSEPH FLEMING

United Press International BERLIN (UPI)—"I Like Elvis" has become the war cry of anti-communist youth in the Soviet zone of Germany.

In the western world young people clad in blue jeans who are rock and roll addicts merely are considered nuisances. But in the East German communist state they're regarded as a threat to the government.

Elvis Presley is criticized so much by the communists that some East Germans must think he is a new U.S. secretary of state.

Throughout East Germany the communist youth organization has organized forums to denounce Presley and his local followers. Almost every act of juvenile delinquency committed in the zone is blamed on his influence.

There's much more to this campaign than opposition to what the communists call "American barbarism," or even to rock and roll.

East German leaders see in the youthful aping of Presley and love of western jazz a form of resistance to the established order.

The widespread existence of "Presley Clubs" is evidence that the Reds have not succeeded too well in regimenting young people.

New Breed Of Television Announcer Typified By Friendly Rex Marshall

By DICK KLEINER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA) — A new breed of commercial announcer is slowly evolving in television. Typical of the species is Rex Marshall.

He reads The Wall Street Journal as often as he reads Variety. He spends 20 per cent of his time attending sales meetings, conventions and conferences. He plays golf with businessmen, studies financial reports, belongs to clubs.

He is, in fact, considerably more than the on-screen voice of the product he sells. He is gradually becoming a kind of junior executive, a company spokesman in many more ways than one.

Marshall has three sponsors as clients—an aluminum company, a toothpaste, a gasoline. He performs these extra-camera services for all in this way, he feels, he is helping them and that, in turn, helps yourself to both before you can get them to do anything for you." In another, he talks about the value of golf. ("It's a sport of honor.")

3. Don't make the toast too short, or they'll think you're only there to drink.

Several of his clients have asked him to sign exclusive contracts with them. Marshall has always refused. He thinks he'll continue to refuse for three reasons:

"To be valuable to a client, I must be a semi-celebrity. I can only achieve that status through many appearances; to make many appearances, I need several clients.

"Then I think that diversity is good for me, artistically. If I only sold one product, I would soon get in a rut.

"And, of course, this way I can remain independent. When you're tied to a company, you immediately lose some freedom. This way, it's like a romance; the other way, it would be like a marriage."

Norman Jewison gets his wish—he'll direct Danny Kaye's first big TV appearance this fall.

Jewison looks so young that nobody would spot him as one of TV's finest directors. He says, however, that his youthful appearance is no handicap in working with the greats of show-business. He has handled many, up to now and including Rex Harrison.

"It's more of a handicap when I deal with sponsors than with stars. The men with the money give me a funny look—I can almost hear them saying, 'What! Entrust my money to that kid?' But stars give me no trouble. Oh, maybe for a few minutes I'll get a fishy stare, but as soon as we get into it, and exchange a few ideas, it's OK."

Eli Wallach talks a lot about "the editor in the mind"—his phrase for the subconscious voice that keeps talking to you, telling you what to do. Recently, he was working with his nine-year-old son, putting together a plastic model of the human body. The boy kept looking in the box for the "editor in the mind."

There's more to toasting than meets the lips. We have some toasting tips from George Jessel, who figures his advice would be appropriate at this time, because many political figures will be honored at various affairs from now through election day and they'll be toasted. Jessel, TV's top toastmaster, raises his champagne glass and suggests:

1. Have something to say when you get up and something to say when you sit down. The middle will take care of itself.
2. Get the undivided attention of the audience by popping the champagne cork out loudly.

him be a valuable member of their corporate teams.

The companies like the arrangement. He is something of a celebrity, and when he attends a company function, the guests enjoy seeing someone they've seen on their home screens. The fact that Marshall is a particularly charming man is an added plus.

He is in demand whenever one of his clients has a sales meeting, especially near a golf course. He goes out on the course, shoots a few rounds and makes a few friends.

Because he's glib, he's usually asked to speak. He has a few set speeches—there's one in which he compares horses and humans. ("You have to know how to sell

Sports Slivers

By Ed Hayes Wilson

The weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth over Johnny Thomas finishing third, back of a couple of Russians in the Olympic high jump test in which Thomas was favored, is for what?

Gee, can't the guy be a little off for once in his life; he went seven feet, three-quarter inches. Isn't that enough? Even veteran sports writers on the scene wrote as if the roof had fallen in.

Surely Thomas tried. We can't remember how many times he's topped seven feet. And, instead of folk being chill towards the young fellow, we feel he is to be commended rather than being called a "choke up" and the like.

Pampans who watched the Harvesters in action against Perryton at Harvester Stadium last night were, we believe, pleased when they saw.

For they saw a band of scrappy kids have at it hammer and tong and, although mistakes were noted one didn't expect to see a polished club with the time element working against coaches' Dwayne Lyon, Eural Ramsey, Norman Phillips and Deck Woldt, who have been carried on in the absence of head coach Babe Curfman. But, and you may wager a bob or two on this, the boys will be ready to go come Friday night against Big Spring.

And while on the subject of Big Spring, don't count this club too short. It had a horrible 6-10 record last year, but brings back numerous letterman and starters. It also has a coach, Emmett McKenzie, who isn't used to fielding losing teams. Thus, there is no doubt he will leave no stone unturned to get back on the winning track.

Still on football. Received a release from Texas A & M that noted the coaching staff was "showing signs of optimism" over the Aggies and their early training efforts.

Now that's just dandy. We'd like to see the Aggies win their share of games. But we can't see all this beaming face business when A & M must face Louisiana State University in its opener.

LSU, we been told by guys who should know, is set to unleash no less than 39 red-shirts this season.

That is reminiscent of the quip the mayor of Natchez, Miss., tossed after a girl from his town won the Miss America title earlier in the year to make it two in a row for Natchez.

"We got 'em red-shirted down here," was his flip.

In joining the band of people around who have climbed on the Baltimore Oriole bandwagon to win the AL flag on something concerning Gene Woodling, we suppose, for our reason.

Woodling is a very likeable fellow and a gentleman of the first water. His interest in a young boy who was dying from an incurable disease struck us as constant with this fellow whom we saw in earlier years go out of his way to work in Miami, Fla.'s Sports Safari a yearly event they pull down there to raise funds for Variety Crippled Children's Hospital in Coral Gables, adjacent to Miami.

Woodling, nearing the end of a brilliant baseball trail, left the team, according to a Baltimore sportswriter, while it was on the road sometime back and rushed to a Baltimore hospital when the boy's mother called long distance to inform Woodling that her son had little time left and had requested to see Gene, his hero, for the last time.

Now, maybe any of those fellows would have done the same thing. But that's beside the point. To us it was the Woodling of old, out to do something to help the helpless.

So go get 'em Orioles!

Pin banging by local bowlers is getting away to a fast start. There are too many teams to mention here, but we believe Pampa has two able men operating the bowling alleys — Red Watson at Harvester Bowl and Gil Burgund at Garden Lanes. They deserve plaudits for their efforts to get everyone on the bowling kick.

Just drop in either of the lanes any night, and you'll find that they haven't missed too many people.

In talking to Sgt. E. G. Albers of the Highway Patrol, the other day the full session drifted to highway safety. We mentioned that United States Auto Club drivers tour the nation during the off season, visiting schools, clubs, and the like, telling youths how to control a car safely when in dire straights.

The fellows, drivers from the Indianapolis 500 and other top racing events, explain in detail many things the ordinary driver doesn't know, and it would be a fine thing if it could be arranged for one of them to visit Pampa sometime.

And in this Sgt. Albers concurred.

U. S. Cagers Slap Russia, 81-57; Trackmen Fail

By OSCAR FRALEY

Rome (UPI)—The United States won three more Olympic gold medals Saturday and whipped Russia's basketball team, 81-57, but other Americans were beaten in three of their traditional specialties.

Disaster struck in the afternoon when the U.S. lost the men's 200 meter dash, the hammer throw and the eight-oared crew classic, putting the Yanks closer to the knockout point in the unofficial team race against Russia with some of the Soviets' strongest events coming up.

But American swimmers continued their sensational surge when Lynn Burke, a Flushing, N.Y., schoolgirl, easily won the women's 100 meter backstroke and a teen-aged Yank quartet smashed the world record in winning the women's 400 meter freestyle relay. Earlier, a four-oared rowing crew from Seattle pulled off a gold medal upset at Lake Albano.

The U.S. basketball team obviously distressed by the overall Yank showing to date, turned on the power in the second half to score its sixth consecutive Olympic tournament victory. Jerry West, All-American from West Virginia, led the onslaught with 19 points and 8-foot, eight-inch Jerry Lucas of Ohio State tallied 16.

The U. S. clicked with 14 points in the first three minutes to set the stage for Russia's second loss in six games. At halftime, the Yanks held a 35-28 lead.

Miss Burke, a sturdy 17-year-old, splashed to a two-yard triumph in the women's 100 meter backstroke and the women's freestyle swim team of 17-year-old Joan Spillane of Houston, 18-year-old Shirley Stobbs of Miami, 14-year-old Carolyn Wood of Portland and 16-year-old Chris Von Saltza of Saratoga, Calif., knocked almost nine seconds off the world record by churning home in 4:08.9.

It was the 11th aquatic medal won by the U. S. as that phase of the games ended, compared to only five at Melbourne in 1956.

But Italian sprinter Livio Berruti became the first non-American in 32 years to win the men's 200 meter dash in track with a new Olympic record of 20.5 seconds; world record-holder Hall Conolly lost his hammer-throwing crown, and Germany won the eight-oared rowing event with Navy's crew fifth. It was the first American defeat in the finals since 1912.

But there was nothing wrong with the swimmers—whose credo is "swim 'til it hurts"—or the four-oared crew of Arthur Ayrault, Ted Nash, John Sayre, and Dick Waites of the Lake Washington Boat Club.

Their successes brought the U. S. gold medal total to 16, compared to Russia's 19, and left the Soviets with a 331 1-2 to 292 lead over the U. S. in the unofficial team race.

Wilma Rudolph, Tennessee State's 20-year-old speedster who won the women's 100-meter crown Friday, streaked back Saturday with a new Olympic mark of 22.2

in the 200 meters, knocking two-tenths off the old mark set by Australia's Betty Cuthbert in 1956. Lucinda Williams of Nashville, Tenn., finished second in her heat and also qualified for the next round.

Otis Davis of Los Angeles, 28-year-old former Oregon star, swept through the 400 meters in an eased-up 45.9 seconds, equaling the Olympic record held by Herb McKenley and George Rhoden, as he qualified for Monday's semi-finals along with Jack Yerman of Woodland, Calif., and Earl Young of San Fernando, Calif.

The two Pampans, vying with some of the state's top amateurs, held a one-stroke advantage over L. E. Chisum, another localite.

Malcolm Douglass and Harry Wilbur were stationed at 69 in the 72-hole affair.

Medalists Bobby Briggs of Victoria had to be content with a 70, one under par.

Well over 100 golfers began participation in the tournament early yesterday morning as group after group teed off in short intervals. The course was dotted throughout the day with players pacing the fairways and trudging the roughs, but the scores in the championship flight all were below 78, which points up the consistency of the 40 men who are taking part in the title round.

Seven other brackets are paired for 36 holes of match play, with the final 36 to be medal competition.

Hart Warren, PCC pro, was well pleased with the scores posted in the title flight.

"When you have a band of fellows in a contest with not a score higher than a respectable 77, you've got something," he said.

Deaton, who carded his 67 early, had a brilliant day. His card showed an excellent 31 on the front nine, with eagles on four and nine, but he slipped a little coming in and notched a 36.

Rose's card, on the other hand, noted a number of birdies on both the front and back nines to bring him his lead sharing score.

Most of the out of town players were close enough to the early leaders to make things tough when they get going today in the championship bracket. Besides Briggs there was, for one, Bill Ford, the slugger from Amarillo, who also carded a 70 and is still a distinct threat, according to observers.

In all, 11 golfers recorded scores below the regulation figure, a highly creditable record, many veteran golf fans observed.

The first tee off today will be at 8 a.m. with the seventh flight participants getting away at that time. They will be followed at 8:22 a.m. by the sixth flight, the fifth flight at 9:05 a.m., the fourth at 9:37 a.m., the third flight at 10:10 a.m. and the first flight at 11:15 a.m.

Contestants in the title flight will tee off between 12:30 and 1:50 p.m.

Rebel Cause Race Choice

RUIDOSO, N.M. (UPI)—Television cowboy Dale Robertson's Rebel Cause shaped up as a slight favorite Saturday for the running Monday of the $135,000 All-American Quarterhorse Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

But, the Yukon, Okla., cowboy's entry seems sure to be pushed at the mutual windows by race time Labor Day by both Tonto Bar Hank, owned by C. G. Whitcomb of Sterling, Colo., and Dynago Miss, owned by E. L. Gosselin of Oklahoma City.

Rebel Cause beat them both in a futurity trial heat a week ago Saturday over the same 400-yard straightaway course over which the richest quarterhorse race in the nation will be staged Monday.

Ten horses will go to the post with more than $65,000 estimated to go to the victor.

In addition to Rebel Cause, Tonto Bars Hank and Dynago Miss, others expected to be in the gate for the estimated 5:50 p.m. (MST) post time include Scharbauer of Midland, Midland Miss., owned by Clarence Scharbauer of Midland, Tex.; Niggy Bar, owned by Sidney Vail of Victorville, Calif.; Three Deep, owned by Franklin Cox of Chandler, Ariz.; Mr. Myers, owned by Vernon Pool of Purcell, Okla.; Miss Queenie, also a Scharbauer entry; Angie Miss, owned by Pool, and Cib-cob, from the Leroy Spires stable of Snyder, Tex.

Harvesters Show Vast Gains Over Last Outing

Pampa High School's Harvesters, apparently putting on an exhibition for the benefit of coach Babe Curfman, showed sparkling efforts during last night's scrimmage session with the Perryton Rangers.

It marked the first time the team showed they knew what to do and where to be at the proper time. And it was in direct contrast to their scrimmage with Dumas.

Coach Curfman, who had been unable to work with the team in early training days due to a back injury that saw him in traction for a time in Worley Hospital, had turned the reins over to his staff, who promised after the Dumas session to iron out the kinks the hard way—by hard work and long hours.

It worked, as the Harvesters showed those looking on in Harvester Stadium and bodes ill for Big Spring Friday night if the local boys continue to improve.

These opinions by observers who saw the Harvesters in action both times were just about those of the coaching staff.

The mentors agreed the players showed vast improvement and that they had come a long way since the Dumas fiasco.

The "I'll keep it 10 plays and you keep it 10 plays" test last night saw some brisk activity in line play. The visiting Rangers probably hit a bit harder than the Harvesters, but this is attributed to the fact that Perryton has been in training longer than the local eleven.

Assistant coach Eural Ramsey, who coached Shamrock last season and whose team met the Rangers said of the visitors:

"The Rangers are a vastly improved team over last year. They are going to be far tougher to handle this season than last."

The continuing good work of Sherrill Miller and Steve Dobbins and Robbie Robinson came in for coach and spectator plaudits, but the major reaction was to the improvement of the team as a whole.

Host Earl Stewart Leading Dallas Open

DALLAS (UPI)—Carrot-topped Earl Stewart Jr. had less troubles over his own course than his two weary rivals Saturday and held his Dallas Open Golf Tournament lead with a two-under-par 34-34-88 and a 36-hole total of 135.

The bespectacled home pro, who plays seldom but usually winds up in the money, made a 90-yard eagle wedge shot and birdie putts of 10 and 20 feet good for a one-stroke lead over the field as he continued his bid to become one of the rare host pros to win a PGA-sponsored tournament.

Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., came rolling home with the shadows with a 32-34-86 that sent him soaring into second place at 336, just a stroke back of the leader.

The 38-year-old former national collegiate champion, who has been in the money in only five tournaments in which he has competed this year, started the second round tied with Tommy Bolt of Crystal River, Fla., with three-under-par 67s.

Bolt had the same sort of putting troubles that bothered Stewart, but he couldn't match the long-driving host from tee to green and slid to a one-over-par 34-37-71. That put him at 138 along with Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., who fought off heat sickness for a 35-33-68 Saturday.

No one in the PGA official family here could remember a "club pro" winning on his own course.

Sam Snead has won his own Greenbriar Invitation, a non-PGA event, several times, but it has been against a small field.

Pott, a 24-year-old Missouri making only his third swing around the tour, was on the 18th green and trying to stroke home a 20-foot birdie putt that would have tied for the lead before Stewart had an inking his lead was threatened.

The field was closely bunched behind Stewart, Pott, Bolt and Sanders.

Bartzen Upset In National Tennis Meet

FOREST HILLS N.Y. (UPI)—Tall, blond Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., achieved the first major upset of the 1960 national tennis championships Saturday when he turned the tables on fifth-seeded Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas, 1-6, 8-6, 6-4, 2-6, 6-1, in a first-round match.

Bartzen, who beat Crawford in the fourth round of this tournament last year, was eliminated by Crawford's speedy passing shots. Bartzen became the first of the 16 seeded men's and women's players in the national tennis championships at the West Side Club to be eliminated in two days of first-round play.

American Grid League To Open Play Saturday

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—The American Football League, little more than a dream 13 months ago, starts competing with the mighty National Football League for the pro football fans dollar next week end.

Direct competition will come on only four fronts—New York, Dallas, Los Angeles and San Francisco-Oakland, where each league has an entry—but the two circuits will be scrapping for the television ratings with competing games each Sunday.

The fledgling American loop actually starts Friday night in Boston when the Patriots entertain the Denver Broncos in expanded Boston University Stadium, but by Sunday afternoon all eight teams will have swung into play from coast to coast.

Saturday night at Los Angeles, the Dallas Texans tackle the home town Chargers in Memorial Coliseum, and then on Sunday, the Houston Oilers play Oakland in Kezar Stadium and Buffalo tangles with the New York Titans in the Polo Grounds at New York.

The two Sunday games will be televised (ABC) with the Titan-Bills game in New York (2 p.m. EDT) being beamed into sections observing Eastern Standard and daylight time and Central Daylight Time, and the Houston-Oakland game (4:30 EDT) to Central, Mountain and Pacific time zones.

The league, brainchild of and organized by Dallas millionaire Lamar Hunt, will have a full national television schedule, just like its more established rival with 32 games scheduled on 16 dates.

Hunt's own club, the Texans, the Los Angeles Chargers, owned by hotelman Barron Hilton, and the Houston Oilers, owned by oilman Bud Adams, shape up as the top title contenders for the opening season.

Boston and Buffalo, which along with Houston and New York make up the league's eastern division, also are expected to develop into major title threats, as may possibly Oakland in the West. New York in the East and Denver in the West seem destined for their respective cellars.

Picket Line, Grid Choice Test, Slated

It's time to form the picket line.

Thursday we're beginning the yearly Daily News football picket line, that tantalizing test that sees Daily News employees pitting their skill against the "expert."

The first two to try their luck will be Doris Wilson, our society editor, and Jim Lacy, our managing editor.

We'll use high school games galore, and college and professional contests throughout the season, with the selections being aired in Thursday's paper, and results being published in Monday editions.

Entries will come from daily news employees, members of high school coaching staffs of the area and, maybe we'll ring in a politician or two. — E. H. W.

Frenchmen Fete Bronze Medal With Wine At Olympics

ROME (UPI)—Fearless Fraley's facts and figures from the Olympic Games:

The most celebrated medal in the entire games is a third place bronze medal won by a Frenchman. It happened this way.

The French brought cases of champagne to celebrate their gold medal victories. They've won only the one third place bronze. But cases of champagne are as safe with Frenchmen as a head of lettuce in a rabbit warren—so they've been celebrating that medal every night.

It has, of course, put the French minister of sport in hot water along with the iced bubbly. His name is Maurice Herzog, a celebrated alpinist who lost his fingers while climbing the second highest peak in the Himalayas. "It is," he moans, "easier to climb mountains than to win gold medals."

Excited? Who's excited? Well, the answer is the Dutch swimmer who was getting ready to go off in the medley relay just as the royal Dutch family entered the swimming stadium. Got so excited he went off too quick and was disqualified. And whether you believe it or not, his name was actually "Posthumus." The kid could have lived up to his name from embarrassment.

Primo Pedrazzini, the starter for the track events, is known as for "two gun man" from Milan.

He has one pistol to start 'em and one to recall 'em in case of a false start and he has more wiring than a cowboy sound stage what with being hooked up to the clock and the electronic camera.

Primo was on the spot like Gary Cooper in "High Noon" before the 100 meter dash. He felt his honor was at stake to keep Germany's quick-starting Argmin Hary from jumping the gun.

When he recalled Hary once and then got them away perfectly he walked into the officials' tunnel like the Lone Ranger riding off into the distance and was enthusiastically bussed by his mates.

"A private survey shows that most of the athletes in the Olympic Village are putting on weight at a tremendous pace. The food is good, solid and plentiful. One basketball player added three pounds in 10 days despite the heat of competition. Small wonder. Old Fearless saw one weight lifter eat three whopping lunches—and he usually only eats two.

The bouncy Baltimore Orioles, led by Jack Fisher's seven-bit pitching and the slugging of Brooks Robinson, took over first place in the American League Saturday by handing the New York Yankees their third straight shutout defeat, 2-0.

The victory was the sixth in a row and the 10th in the last 11 games for the Orioles, who took a full-game advantage over the stumbling Yankees. New York has not scored a run now in 29 consecutive innings.

Fisher, another 21-year old member of manager Paul Richards' "Kiddie Korps," was complete master of the Yankees. All the New York hits were singles, and Fisher did not permit more than one in any inning until the ninth when Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron singled in succession with one out.

However, Fisher calmly retired Yogi Berra on an infield grounder and got Elston Howard on a routine fly.

The Chicago White Sox kept pace with Baltimore by whipping the Detroit Tigers, 4-1, behind the seven-bit pitching of Early Wynn.

The White Sox, who are three games behind the Orioles, scored all their runs in the first inning with the big blow being a two-run triple by Minnie Minoso. Wynn is now 11-9 while Frank Lary, who went all the way for Detroit, took his 14th loss against 11 victories.

Vic Wertz hit a three-run homer and Frank Malzone a solo blast as Tom Brewer and the Boston Red Sox defeated Washington, 5-3. Brewer gave up 10 hits, including a home run to Dan Dobek, but went all the way for his ninth victory against 11 defeats.

Truman Clevenger took the loss for the Senators and is now 5-10. Cleveland played at Kansas City in a night game.

Rookie right hander Art Mahaffey sustained his perfect major league pitching record with his fifth triumph when the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-2. Tony Taylor led the Phils' attack with four singles, driving in one run and scoring another. Vernon Law, bidding to become the first 20-game winner in the majors this season, was tagged with his sixth defeat.

Low Burdette's four-inning scoreless relief stint, after Milwaukee had squandered a seven-run lead, enabled the Braves to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 10-9, in 12 innings Saturday and move within 5½ games of league-leading Pittsburgh.

Burdette, who won his 16th game of the season, came on in the ninth inning after Milwaukee had scored a run to tie the game at 9-9 and blanked the Reds the rest of the way on only one hit.

Joe Adock's pop fly single to center field, his fourth hit of the game, scored Del Crandall with the winning run in the 12th inning and tagged Red southpaw Joe Nuxhall with his eighth loss.

Milwaukee, winning its fourth straight, collected 16 hits off five Cincinnati pitchers. Hank Aaron worked Red-hurlers for five of the 10 walks issued.

Felipe Alou's seventh home run and Mike McCormick's six-hit pitching performance gave the San Francisco Giants a 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Chicago was at St. Louis for a night game.

A new bowling league has been established at Garden Lanes which should create much interest among top bowlers of the area.

The Nite Owl League, a three-member loop will have $1,000 added prize money. Gil Burgund, Garden Lanes manager, said. He expects this league to attract the ace bowlers around Pampa and to create much spectator interest.

This 10-team circuit will begin play Thursday night, immediately following action in the Thursday Night Women's League.

A high school league has been formed at Garden Lanes. This league is to be composed of eight or 10 teams and will compete at 1 p.m. each Saturday.

Another Saturday period has been established for junior boy keglers. This will be an instructional league with free tutoring slated for beginners.

This program will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday with free Cokes on tap for those on hand.

The Civic League elected officers last week. Monroe Moore, was elected president; John Keatts, vice-president, and Bill Brady, secretary.

The Rotary Club team of this loop announced its members yesterday. Included are: Roy Sparkman, Stu Kines, Forrest Hill, James Gallamore and Ort Keatts. Alternates are Bill Dycus, Jeff Truly and Dale Thut.

Kyle's Shoes team members of the Garden Lanes Women's League are: Pat Treadway, Bobby Shumate, Alice Ledbetter, Jane Reece and Maxine Ragland, captain.

Coca-Cola No. 2 of the Lone Star League at Harvester Bowl, which participates at 6:15 p.m. each Thursday, listed its members yesterday. They are:

Alexia Childers, Ira Jenkins, Elise Gerlick, Ruth Wassell and Betty Wallace, captain.

Four teams in the Harvester Bowl Mixed League posted four-game sweeps in opening loop competition last week.

Harold's Iron Works, Team No. 2, J. L. Colville and Gray County Feed each gained four victories, with the last named getting its wins by forfeit from Team No. 2.

Harvester Bowl Coffee Shop picked up both single and three game laurels, by posting 638 and 1,844 totals.

High individual games were bowled by E. Parker, who had a 225, and Jewell Wade with a 175. High three game scores were tallied by Parker, a 380, and Marge

U.S. Plans 'Hard,' 'Soft' Landings On Moon, Looks At Venus, Mars

U.S. Space
Plans For
The 1960s

SPACECRAFT FOR RANGER AND MARINER SERIES

'Hard' landing on the Moon (Fig. 1).

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The U.S. plans a fantastic series of space craft for its try at catching the Reds in the planetary races of the 1960s.

Item — "Ranger-Mariner" space craft. This odd National Aeronautics and Space Administration vehicle will look something like the Wright Brothers' first airplane (Fig. 1).

It is designed — for Project Ranger — to "hard" land the first U.S. scientific instruments on the moon sometime in late 1961. These instruments will measure "moonquakes." They'll gather information about the consistency, structure and temperature of the surface of the moon.

This outlandish craft is also expected to be used on the first U.S. reconnaissance missions to Mars and Venus sometime in 1964 as a part of Project Mariner.

This "Ranger-Mariner" craft is scheduled to "fly" away from the earth into space with antenna fixed on earth and with its solar panels fixed on the sun for stability. If it gets off course, it can be brought back on the track by commands from scientists on earth.

On its way "down" to the surface of the moon, it will take and transmit television pictures. Retro-rockets will slow it down for a rough landing on the moon. That means it will hit the moon while probably traveling between 250 and 350 miles an hour.

The main space craft, of course, is expected to be destroyed by the hard impact. But the "payload" of scientific instruments presumably will land unscathed.

Item — "Surveyor A" space craft. Looking like a mammoth tripod, this craft will land gently on the moon with a 100 to 300-pound payload (Fig. 2).

Included will be a television camera and a variety of other scientific instruments that will examine the magnetic and gravitational fields of the moon, the composition of the moon's "atmosphere," its surface and its subsurface.

It is hoped that at least one of the instruments carried will be able to chemically analyze the soil and send back reports on what it finds.

The decision on which company will build "Surveyor A" is to be made early in 1961. "Surveyor A," itself, is expected to be ready for its moon trip and its "soft" landing on the moon sometime in 1963.

Item — "Prospector" space craft. When the mammoth Saturn rocket is available, it will pave the way for much larger and even more ingenious space craft. By 1966 or 1967, the "Prospector" is expected to be ready with a variety of alternate payloads.

Top-priority payload for "Prospector" will be a self-propelled "Roving Vehicle" controlled by command from earth. It will be designed to range over a 50-mile radius, or 7,000 square miles of moon area with giant wheels designed to carry it over most obstacles. (Fig. 3).

The "Roving Vehicle" will carry its own television, its own scientific instruments for analyzing the moon's surface and atmosphere, and digging under the surface. It will be aimed at detailed exploration in preparation for manned lunar landings in the early 1970s.

Item — "Voyager" space craft. The mighty Saturn rocket will make it possible, too, to send out the "Voyager" series of space craft designed to orbit Mars and/or Venus sometime between 1965 and 1967 (Fig. 4).

A "Voyager" space craft — while circling Mars or Venus — would send out a capsule packed with scientific instruments to enter the atmosphere of the planet and collect information. Later models would have capsules aimed at landing on Venus and Mars. Next missions after Mars and Venus: probably Mercury and Jupiter. Sketches of the space craft for these missions aren't yet available.

stockholders invested in 1959. "The comparable figure for General Motors, Ford and Chrysler was just about $4 each."

Another way of putting it, Chapin said, was that American Motors earned 87 cents for every dollar invested in property, plants and equipment in 1959.

General Motors and Ford each earned about 30 cents on the same basis and Chrysler earned less than one cent, Chapin said.

"In other words, we are getting more out of our facilities than our major competitors," he said. Chapin also gave credit to American Motors' employees and the use of these employees.

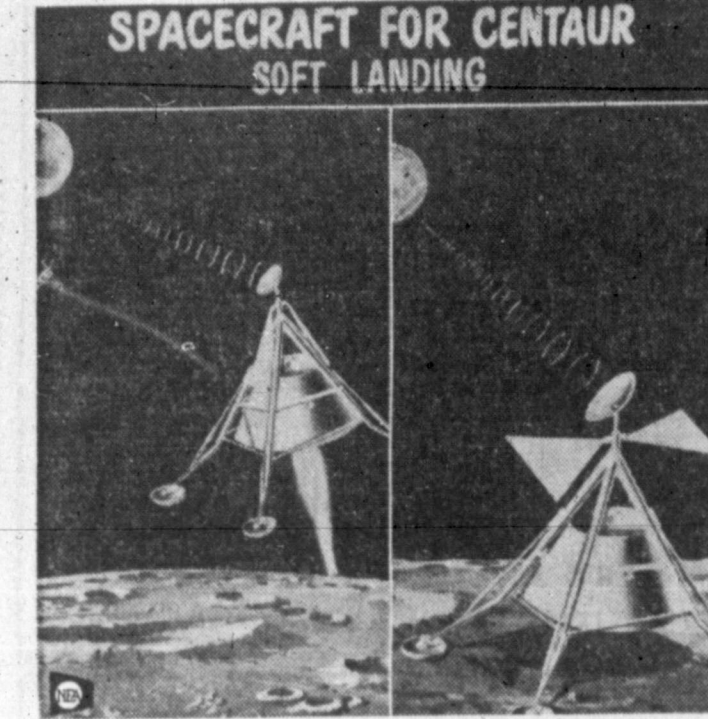

"We produced more than three times as many cars in 1959 as we did in 1956—and this was with an increase of only 59 per cent in the number of hourly employees and an actual decrease of 21 per cent in the number of salaried people," he said.

'Big Three' Can't Put Skids Under Rambler

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors officials claim they are able to compete effectively in the expanded compact car market because they use what they've got more effectively.

When word first leaked out that the industry's "big three" were planning to enter the compact car field, skeptics felt American Motors had finally met its doom.

They chuckled that energetic AM President George Romney had gone too far in egging the big car makers with remarks decried for those remarks, they said, when the big companies entered into direct competition in the compact car field.

But their forebodings have not been borne out by nearly a full year of competition.

Instead of fading away in the face of direct competition from the big producers, American Motors increased its percentage of the market from 6.7 to 7.3 at the end of July.

This left many auto industry spectators dumbfounded.

How could it be done? No one had ever been able to successfully challenge the giants of the industry before.

Roy D. Chapin Jr., American Motors vice president, has a rather simple explanation for it.

"In terms of dollar sales per dollar investment in property, plants and equipment," he said, "American Motors got $16 worth of sales for every dollar our

NEW HOPE FOR HARD OF HEARING

Boston, Mass., Aug. 15, 1960 — Something new has just been announced. It is an electronic development designed for those who hear but who do not understand words. There is nothing in either ear. No dangling cords. No tubes. The sound vibrations are conducted right through the bones of the head to the inner ear, and right to your center of understanding. We have termed this process "Vibratory Sensory Conduction"—truly secret hearing.

The manufacturer has been able to produce a hearing device so small that many who wear it report "No one knows I have a hearing deficiency." It is said to be very reasonably priced.

Stock Market Advance Stopped Last Week

By HARRY J. BECHTOLD
UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market ended a string of three consecutive advances this week. With a few exceptions trading was rather routine. Brokers saw the decline as nothing more than a correction of the substantial rise of the three previous weeks.

Wide price swings in Telautograph and Comptometer held the spotlight. These two stocks, involved in the handwriting-by-telephone excitement, were suspended during the week because of accumulations of buy orders (early in the week), and sell orders (late in the week).

Telautograph reached as high as 24½ before settling back to close at 18½ off two on the week. The late selling was attributed to the company's disclosure Wednesday that it will probably operate in the red this year, and figures released Thursday that showed company officials had sold their stock in the firm recently.

Comptometer backed down nine points from its high for the week but managed to finish with a gain of 1½ at 21. Selling hit this stock when the firm reported that its electrowriter unlikely would make any contribution to its profits in the near future.

The flurry of activity in the two stocks lifted them into the second and third position in the most active list behind Studebaker-Packard. Studebaker, which unveiled its new cars to the press and also announced the election of a new chief executive officer, had sales of $43,000 shares.

The auto industry still is faced with a big inventory problem—more than 800,000 1960 models still in the hands of dealers. Failure to bring these inventories down to manageable proportions could well inhibit the buildup of 1961-model stocks. Electricity and crude oil production improved this week but bank clearings declined.

The Dow-Jones averages at Friday's close showed 30 industrials at 625.22 off 10.91 points on the week; 20 rails 136.15 off 3.77; 15 utilities 96.10 up 0.08; 65 stocks 207.37 off 3.18.

The bleak steel picture dropped Jones & Laughlin 3½, U.S. Steel 3½, Republic 2½ and Bethlehem 1. Easing in the copper price structure pushed Magma down 3¼, Kennecott and Phelps Dodge 3¼ each and Anaconda 2½.

Autos, with the exception of the Studebaker issues and American Motors, up ½, were easier. The decline in the rail average mainly reflected losses of around two each in Baltimore & Ohio and Ohio. The Pennsylvania Railroad, shut down completely by a strike, finished unchanged after setting a new low for the year earlier in the week.

Unkind Words Exchanged By Curtis, Susskind

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Tony Curtis hauled off with a flurry of haymakers at producer David Susskind today, saying he'd punch Susskind in the nose the first time he sees the TV bigwig.

Since Susskind arrived in Hollywood to make a new movie he has been needling and criticizing everything in sight.

His particular targets have been Curtis, Jerry Lewis and Rock Hudson. In interviews and on his "Open End" video show Susskind has gone out of his way to knock Curtis.

Tony has had enough. "I've never met Mr. Susskind," Curtis said through clenched teeth "and when I do I'm going to punch him right in the nose."

"He's blasted me for having no talent and no taste. I don't know why he's picking on me. Maybe it's because I refused to go on his TV show. Why should I? He wasn't going to pay me anything."

Tony quickly switched from a defensive position to throw a little verbal leather of his own.

"The tragedy of Mr. Susskind is that he has no talent. He specializes in making TV shows from great motion pictures. There's no trick to making a good program out of a top movie. But it takes a special lack of talent to turn a good picture into a lousy TV show."

"Maybe Susskind blasts me hoping I will prove him wrong by working in a movie for him. But even a no-talent guy like me has some standards."

Tony, currently starring in "The Sixth Man" for Universal-International, slammed his right fist into the palm of his left hand.

"Nobody has to tell me how bad an actor I am. I know my strong points and my weak points. Better men than Susskind have told me I'm lousy. His criticism isn't even original."

"The difference between Susskind and me is that I am a professional actor. I'm a pro at my job. He's an amateur producer, making his first movie out here."

No Violence Is Predicted As Mixed Southern Schools Open

By AL KUETTNER
United Press International

ATLANTA (UPI) — There appears to be a good chance the loudest noise at school openings in the South this fall will be the voices of children recounting vacation experiences.

If there is an absence of serious desegregation strife—as it now appears—the reason will not be that the problem is over but that it has simply been moved forward on the calendar in the hottest spots of racial tempers in Dixie.

Many schools already have opened. The others follow during the coming week.

Houston, Tex., could provide some tension should a federal court insist on the desegregation of schools there next Wednesday. But Houston Police Chief Carl Shuptrine says of such a prospect that "I think it will go smoothly."

Elsewhere in the South this seventh autumn since the Supreme Court ruled out compulsory segregation, this was the picture:

New Orleans, at first ordered to desegregate public schools Sept. 7, was given 65 days extension to the opening of the Nov. 14 winter quarter. The last-minute "reprieve" was granted by the same time threw out all of U.S. Supreme Court which at the same time threw out all of Louisiana's school Segregation laws and legally tied Gov. Jimmie Davis' hands against interference with desegregation in New Orleans.

Fourteen school districts in Arkansas, Delaware, Oklahoma, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia are scheduled to start school for the first time on non-segregation policy.

Desegregation of Atlanta's schools was postponed a full year until the fall of 1961.

Thus, the five Deep South segregation holdout states of Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina will be in the school business once more with racial barriers still in place.

All other states have made at least a token start toward lowering the bars.

Nashville's stair-step program, to be copied in New Orleans and Houston later, reached the fourth grade with 65 Negroes listed by school authorities in various white schools. One of them, the Hatfield Cotton School, was wrecked by explosives when the first integration attempt was made in 1957.

white Fairfax County, Va., schools Three Negroes entered two early—They were not expected until the coming week. Fourteen others will enter Pulaski High, two at Chandler Junior High in Richmond, eight in Grason County and nine in Roanoke. This gives Virginia five new integrated districts and all are expected to make the transition with no ripple of an incident.

Mrs. LaVada Naylor, Thomas Conway Take Vows In Double-Ring Service

In a double-ring ceremony performed August 27 in First Baptist Church, Miss LaVada Naylor and Thomas Michael Conway were united in marriage by Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Roberta Wood, 908 E. Francis. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Conway, 616 Deane Dr.

The bride was attended by Miss Melba Phillips of Borger, who wore a bouffant blue silk dress with matching head piece.

George Olds of Pampa was best man.

Miss Eloise Lane, organist, played traditional wedding music and accompanied Misses Jo. and Sara Naylor, sisters of the bride, as they sang "Because" and "O, Perfect Love." Miss Clo Ann Johnson sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Altar baskets held arrangements of white gladioli with lighted tapers forming the background.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her uncle, Travis C. Lively, the bride wore a formal gown of white ruffled nylon tulle over silk taffeta styled with a colonial overskirt.

For the traditional "something borrowed", she wore an imported Brussels lace veil worn by Mrs. J. Brent Perry, nee Linda Steele, at her recent wedding.

The bride carried a white leather Bible, treasured since childhood, arranged with gardenias and stephanotis.

The bride was attended by Miss Melba Phillips of Borger, who wore a bouffant blue silk dress with matching head piece.

For the wedding trip, the bride traveled in an autumn brown ensemble with black accessories. She wore a gardenia corsage from her bouquet.

The couple will be at home in Arlington, where they will continue studies at Arlington State College. Social courtesies extended to the bride were a Pottery Shower in the home of Miss Clo Ann Johnson with Miss Virginia Jones and Miss Melba Phillips of Borger as assisting hostesses; a Recipe and Kitchen Gadget Shower with Mrs. Aubrey Steele as hostess; a spinster dinner with Mrs. Travis C. Lively Jr. as hostess.

Also, a miscellaneous shower given in the parlor of the First Baptist Church with hostesses, Mmes. G. R. Riggs, L. V. Hopp, E. L. Anderson, Gus Greene, Ed Railsback, L. J. Zachry, J. B. ## Morning Unit Has Arrangement Show

The Morning Unit of Pampa Garden Club met Monday morning in the home of Mrs. Milo Carlson, 2211 Charles at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Coy Palmer, in conducting the business meeting, urged members to attend the Northern Zone meeting of Garden Clubs, which will be held in the Coronado Inn Oct. 18.

Mrs. Hazel Phillips presented a program on "Flower Arrangements To Please Our Families." She demonstrated the arranging of garden flowers in household containers that are common in homes; such as, coffee pot, cookie jar, sugar bowl, ash trays, vases, toothpick holders; wicker basket, demitasse cups, child's boat, and driftwood. The use of floral clay, needle-point holders chicken wire and plumbers' lead as holders were used in the demonstration.

RECEPTION

Following the change of vows, a reception was held in the church Fellowship Hall. A pink and white color theme was repeated in the reception decorations. Miss Vickie Taylor presided at the punch service and Mrs. Emil Wilson, bridegroom's cousin served the wedding cake. Miss Sandra Cannon was guest registrar.

For a wedding to points of interest in Colorado, the bride traveled in a spice suit with moss green (See NUPTIALS, Page 10)

Seven O'clock Nuptials Unite Ratliff-Wilson

Miss Paula Ratliff became the bride of Don Wilson with double-ring vows repeated last night at seven o'clock in Central Baptist Church with Dr. E. Douglas Carver, First Baptist Church pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ratliff, 1944 N. Banks. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wilson, 401 N. Somerville.

The wedding service was performed amid a setting of white gladioli, greenery and candelabra with pews of honor marked with white satin bows.

Miss Nanette Flynt, organist, provided the pre-nuptial music and traditional wedding marches. Miss Jean Skidmore, vocalist, sang "I Love You Truly," "Always," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I a vowal", the bride was gowned in Chantilly lace over white slipper satin fashioned with a scalloped neckline with tiny, covered buttons closing the back running past the waistline. Long, tapered sleeves came to petal points over the hands and were closed with tiny buttons from elbow to wrist.

Her floor-length bouffant skirt featured back interest of tiers of lace extending to the hemline. She wore brocade satin slippers. Her finger-tip veil of imported Illusion draped away from a Queen's Crown of seed pearls and iridescent sequins.

The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids atop a white Bible. Her only jewelry was a pearl-drop necklace, a gift of the bridegroom. To carry out the tradition of something old, borrowed and blue, she carried a blue silk and lace handkerchief belonging to a close friend, Mrs. Jerry Nelson.

Miss Joyce Holtman, intimate friend of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina-length dress of rose silk taffeta fashioned with rounded neckline, and cap sleeves.

Serving as bridesmaids were Pamela Duff of Amarillo, bride's cousin and Loeva Long of Lubbock, a friend of the bridal pair. The feminine attendants wore dresses fashioned as the maid of honors, only in lighter shades of pink. Each wore bandeaus fashioned from matching lace medallions and carried identical nosegays of pink carnations.

Don Riddle served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Tommy Folmar-Norman McElreath, Phillip Dittberner and Bobby Ratliff.

Patricia Duff of Amarillo and Tommy Dittberner of White Deer, cousins of the bride, lighted the candles at the altar.

The betrothal rings were carried to the altar by Terry Dittberner on a white satin, lace trimmed pillow.

Tammy Wilson, bridegroom's cousin and Rhonda Callahan attended as flower girls wearing frocks of light pink silk taffeta fashioned with full skirts and puff sleeves. They carried white lace baskets containing pink rose petals.

Mrs. Ratliff, bride's mother, chose a sheath of reemboirder cotton lace over tones of honey, and beige with beige and Bone accessories. Her corsage was of pink Garnett roses. Mrs. Wilson, bridegroom's mother, selected a dress of mauve Machle lace with matching featherhat and gray accessories. She also wore a corsage of pink Garnett roses.

Miss Collins, G. K. Mason Say Double-Ring Vows

Wedding vows repeated at 8:30 p.m. last evening solemnized the nuptials of Miss Georgia Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Collins, 312 N. Ward, and Gene Kelly Mason of Borger, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Troy L. Mason of Denver City.

Dr. E. Douglas Carver was officiant for double-ring vows said in pink gladioli setting in First Baptist Church.

Shane Wilbanks, pianist, provided the traditional wedding music and was accompanied by Mrs. Merle Terrell, vocalist, as she sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

BRIDE

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage with the "her mother and I a vowal", the bride was gowned in white satin fashioned with long sleeves ending in bridal points over the hands and a fitted bodice with a lace yoke styled with a Sabrina neckline and studded with pearls and sequins. The voluminous, gathered satin skirt swept to a chapel train. Her finger-tip veil of Illusion was escalloped around the edges and cascaded from a half hat of lace trimmed with pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of two dozen red roses.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Sue Collins, bride's sister, served as maid of honor wearing a floor-length gown of pink nylon organza over pink taffeta fashioned cap sleeves and a bustle to form back interest. A lace fan fashioned from pink nylon organza accented with white carnations was carried as a bouquet.

Miss Norma Collins, Mrs. Ted Hanson, and Mrs. Duarel Seitz, bride's sisters, attended as bridesmaids. In dresses fashioned as the maid of honors, Miss Collins wore a waltz-length yellow net over yellow taffeta and carried a yellow net fan arranged with white carnations; Mrs. Hanson wore aqua net over aqua taffeta complemented with an aqua net fan and white carnations; Mrs. Seitz wore pink net over pink taffeta and carried a fan of matching material arranged with white carnations.

T. L. Mason, bridegroom's brother, was best man. Groomsmen were Bruce Mason, bridegroom's brother. Seating the wedding guests were Jim Montgomery and Mike Montgomery. Robert Jeffers served as ringbearer.

Miss Evelyn Haynes, dressed in street-length blue satin and Miss Theresa Marak, dressed in street-length pink satin, lighted the altar candles.

Miss Elaine Seitz, bride's niece and Miss Terri Willingham, bridegroom's niece were flower girls wearing pink organza frocks and white bonnets trimmed with pink flowers across the crown. They carried pink petal baskets.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Collins, wore beige lace with beige accessories. The bridegroom's mother Mrs. Mason chose rose beige with beige accessories. Both mothers' corsages were fashioned from pink carnations.

A reception was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. Miss Helen Brock assisted by Miss Gisela Roeper presided at the punch service. Miss Monica Marak served cake. Mrs. Tom Lindsay was guest registrar.

For a wedding trip to Red River, N.M., the bride traveled in a navy blue silk suit with Royal Blue accessories and wore a red roses corsage from the center of her bride's bouquet.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School and has been employed by Motor Inn Supply Co., Pampa. The bridegroom was graduated from Borger High School; attended Frank Phillips Junior College and Texas Technological College, Lubbock. He is employed by Motor Inn Auto Supply in Borger, where the couple will make their home.

Miss Womack Bride Of Robert Waddell

Miss Joy Womack became the bride of Robert Whitney Waddell with vows solemnized August 27 at seven o'clock in St. Cecilia's Catholic Church in Dallas. The Rev. Fr. William J. Stack, CM, was officiant for single-ring vows repeated in a nuptial setting of Grecian Urns filled with white mums shaded into frothy blue colors with imported foliage. End of pews were marked with small foliaged banks in design to complement the arrangements and centered with large satin bows. The bridal aisle was carpeted with white and roped with opera cord.

Miss Womack is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Womack of Dallas. Mr. Waddell's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hampton W. Waddell, 1227 Christine.

Mrs. Winifred Bedford of Dallas, organist, played Lohengrin's professional and Wagner's Recessional. Miss Ruth Sewell of Jacksboro sang "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer."

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in full-length silk organza and Chantilly lace over taffeta fashioned with a Sabrina neckline edged with sequins and seed pearls; brief, lace sleeves and a bouffant skirt ending in a chapel train, which featured an over-sized organza bow applied with lace to form back interest. Her elbow-length veil of silk Illusion cascaded from a crystal tiara.

She carried a golden-throated orchid atop a cascade design of stephanotis, white butterfly rosebuds, fleur d'amour and polished garland Ivy leaves.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Stephanie Cargile served as flower girl wearing an exact duplicate of the bride's gown.

Mrs. J. Vance Jones of Dallas was matron of honor wearing light blue net over taffeta complemented with a bandeau of matching material accented with seed pearls and a circular nose veil. She carried a crescent design of white glamelias with garlands of polished Ivy leaves.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ernest Wilkinson of Pampa, Miss Mary Ellen Colbaugh of Houston and Miss Patricia Hart of Dallas. They were dressed as the matron of honor and carried identical bouquets. William B. Herr Jr. of Billings, Mont. served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Stephen Burdette of Lubbock, Dale R. Fannon of Norman, Okla. and Ernest B. Wilkinson of Pampa. Seating wedding guests were John Allen Pokorny of Odessa and J. Vance Jones of Dallas.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Womack chose imported silk lace and taffeta in a mauve sheath with matching mauve accessories and a pink orchid corsage. Mrs. Waddell, bridegroom's mother, selected an aqua peu de soie sheath with matching accessories and a bronze orchid.

RECEPTION

A reception was held following the ceremony in the garden of the bride's parents' home, 1510 Trice Ridge Dr., Dallas. The receiving line was decorated with a wedding arch as the background for the bride and bridegroom with banks of foliage spilling from the arch. Hurricane lamps filled the flowering beds and lined the walks and walls of the garden.

The bride's table was skirted with satin and tulle in shades of white shading into frothy blue with overdrapes of blue in large swirls of tulle. Epergnes held flowering arrangements to complement the setting. Table appointments were in all-silver.

The tiered wedding cake was placed in a seraphicup epergne holding tiny bridal flowers and Ivy leaves to grace the bridal tier.

Mrs. Stephen Burdette of Lubbock, Miss Mary Elizabeth Critz of Fort Worth, Miss Karla Knott of Dallas, Mrs. John Pokorny of Odessa assisted with the reception serving. Miss Sharon Harrison of Houston.

For a wedding trip to Colorado, the bride traveled in a costume of blue and plum with plum accessories and wore the orchid from the center of her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Waddell is a senior at Texas Technological College, Lubbock, where she is member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority. Mr. Waddell was graduated from Price College and St. Louis University, St. Louis, Mo. with a BS degree. He is associated with his father in an oil field supply business.

The couple will be at home to friends at 2400 Rosewood, Pampa.

On the evening preceding the nuptials, the bridegroom's parents were hosts for a rehearsal dinner (See WOMACK, Page 12)

Summer Highlights Of Music Camp Recalled

By DORIS E. WILSON
Women's Page Editor

There's a pretty spot in Michigan that will always have a special niche in the memory of Miss Linda Meech, Pampa High School junior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meech, 926 Mary Ellen, National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich. (you won't find it on a map, Linda tells us, but it is located near Travis City) is where Linda spent eight weeks of her summer vacation studying oboe with a large group of other Fine Arts students. "It is strictly a summer camp now," Linda said, "but there are plans in the making to establish a winter academy there, too."

The camp is located between two lakes, Lake Wabekness on the boy's side and Lake Wabekness on the girls side and is guarded by towering pine and oak trees.

Linda made preparations for her summer "vacation" last Spring, when she was auditioned and interviewed by Dr. Joseph Maddy, president of the music camp, which was established 33 years ago. Following the try-out, she was awarded a summer scholarship.

She had a busy schedule, which began with a 7 a.m. reveille. Following breakfast and cabin capers, orchestra practice started at 8:20 and continued until 9:50 with a 10-minute break; then back to the oboe from 10 a.m. to 10:50 a.m. During the first four weeks, Linda delayed her lunch hour because she wanted to take canoeing lessons on the beautiful lake that speaks," Linda said. "We had morning classes, but in the afternoons, we had "co-rec", which was climaxed by a dance in the evening for highschool students."

Always interested in the feminine angle of "what did you wear?" Linda told us that all of the girls wore dark-blue corduroy knickers which were furnished by the camp, with light-blue blouses "and an insignia inscribed with your name, division, and where you were from." Light-blue socks denoted the high school division.

"During concerts, we wore long blue hose with the knickers. Boys wore navy blue corduroy pants with light blue shirts."

The summer camp session was climaxed by a presentation of "Les Preludes" (Liszt) played by the intermediate and senior orchestra and band students augmented by the appearance of the choir and ballet dancers. "The concert began at 7:30 p.m.," Linda reminisced "but people came as early as 4 p.m. to get good seats."

"In eight weeks you get attached to people you've worked and played with," Linda concluded a bit wistfully, "and there were a lot of tears shed at the end of the concert."

Harrah Circles To Begin New Study

Buckner and Gary Circles of Harrah Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service met Tuesday evening in Fellowship Hall of the Church for an introduction to the new study course by Mrs. W. B. Neel on "Foreign Missions", which will begin with the next meeting.

Panel discussion was held on "Into All the World Together" presented by Mmes. John Pierce, Raymond Shannon, Wesley Matlock and Tom Price.

The meeting opened with hymn "In Christ There Is No East Nor West" led by Mrs. J. A. Mills. Mrs. D. S. Buckner gave the devotional topic.

A special song was sung by Susan Partick and Coreta Mills. Benediction was offered by Mrs. Mills. Mrs. Raymond Shannon and Mrs. W. J. Duncan were hostess for the social hour which followed the meeting.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held Sept. 8 for beginning study of the new topic.

Attending in addition to those mentioned above were Mmes. Bud Mouser, Vernon Willard, L. H. Johnson, Bob Chase, Ray Akers, C. W. Kennemer, Ed Mossely, M. C. Watson, Gary Mills, Joe Skinner and Lela P. Reed.

Dr. N. J. Ellis To Make Stage Debut In Musical Comedy 'The Boy Friend'

The roaring 20's will return to Amarillo Sept. 14 when Amarillo Little Theatre, Inc. opens in a musical-comedy production of "The Boy Friend."

The flapper era, with short skirts, long strands of beads and the Charleston, will crowd the stage of Amarillo Little Theatre, Wolfen Village, as Dr. N. J. Ellis of Pampa and Renee Sheranian Goates of Amarillo appear in the romantic leads of the musical, which ran on Broadway for over a year and off-Broadway for 761 performances.

The presentation opens the 1960-61 Little Theatre season in Amarillo with performances Sept. 14 (Wednesday) through Tuesday, Sept. 20. Friday, September, 16 has been set as Pampa Night with the center section of the auditorium reserved for Pampa residents. Reservations may be made here with Mrs. N. J. Ellis by Sept. 9.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. nightly with no performance scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 18.

General admission tickets are priced at $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students and enlisted men.

A parody of musical comedy in the flapper age, "The Boy Friend" was written (words and music) by an Englishman, Sandy Wilson, who knows of the era by hearsay only. The plot is chiefly concerned with a wistful heiress in a board-

Initial Appearance Of Madrigal Group To Highlight Treble Clef Club Meet

Treble Clef Club of Pampa will hold its first meeting of the new year Tuesday 7:45 p.m. in City Club Room.

The club has among its objectives, the encouragement, appreciation and understanding of music of Pampa. In accordance with these ideals, they are sponsoring a Madrigal group, which will make its first appearance on the program at this meeting.

The Madrigal Group is composed of the following members: Mrs. Louise Richardson, soprano, who is soloist at First Baptist Church, A Capella Choir director in Pampa Junior High School and immediate past president of Treble Clef Club; Mrs. Mary Wilson, soprano, First Methodist Church soloist and guest soloist in other churches. She is business manager of the Medical Surgical Clinic.

Taking contralto parts will be Mrs. Helen Conway, elementary school teacher, guest soloist, former choir director of St. Paul's Methodist Church and Treble Clef Club vice president; Miss Rosemary Lawlor, voice teacher and professional singer, director of First Christian Church choir and member of Treble Clef Club board of directors.

Tenor parts will be contributed by James Dailey, St. Matthews Episcopal Church soloist, guest soloist and engaged in the real estate and oil business here; the Rev. David Mills, pastor of LaMar Christian Church; has appeared on musical and radio programs as violinist accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Doris Mills, who is Treble Clef Club secretary.

Supplying bass tones will be Tom Atkin, minister of music for First Methodist Church, a teacher of piano and organ, Dean of Pampa Chapter of American Guild of Organists; and Bill Haley, choir director for St. Vincent dePaul Catholic Church, director of Barber Shop choral group, and teacher of piano, organ and theory.

Accompanist will be Mrs. E. B. Alleman, Treble Clef Club president, Music Teachers' Ass'n treasurer; teacher of piano; and board member of the Community Concerts Ass'n.

To be included on the Tuesday evening program will be a short history of Madrigals discussed by Mr. Atkin.

"Blow Thy Wintery Wind" will be sung by Mrs. Leroy Thornburg, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Lois Fagan; selections "Corrente" and "Gagliarda" by Mrs. David Mills; "The Echo Song" presented by The Madrigal Singers.

Hostess for the social hour Tuesday evening will be Mmes. Alleman, Conway, Mills and Ruth Riehart.

WMU Circles In Combined Study

LEFORS (Spl) — Circle of Women's Missionary Union of Baptist Church met in the church for combined mission study program and business meeting on Tuesday.

"Careth Thou Not," was the program topic, with Mrs. J. V. Guthrie in charge. Dealing with the mission work in Japan, the interest center was a Japanese dish garden—displayed with Japanese dolls, vases and lanterns. Having parts on the program were Mmes. Tom Florence, Frank Cookey, C. H. Earhart, R. N. Cypert, and W. B. Minter.

"Send the Light," was the opening song, followed by prayer led by Mrs. Luther Berry. "Sweet Peace, the gift of Gods Love," was sung with heads bowed to close the program.

Visitors were Mrs. Spencer Presley, and Mrs. Laura Cain. Members present other than those mentioned were Mmes. O. C. Mills, A. L. Michael, Ira Rogers, James Lanscaster, J. F. Morris, J. D. Haley, W. ## 'Sham Of Law And Order'

Some time ago, an acquaintance who persists in believing the libertarian philosophy is totally invalid, challenged us on the grounds of our incompetence.

Having noted our citation of a number of historic incidents to illustrate certain points in the philosophy, the acquaintance, a man thoroughly conversant with history and holding a degree of competence in this field, suggested that we were wholly out of our depth in support of the libertarian position.

Indeed, this estimable gentleman went so far as to suggest that unless we had read Thucydides, the great Greek historian who covered the history of the Peloponnesian war, we were surely ignorant of the facts of Greek history and, indeed, appallingly ignorant of the whole field of history.

Such a challenge had to be met. The writer of this editorial had NOT read Thucydides at the time the challenge was made. And in consequence, the eight volumes (published in four books in the William Heinemann edition and printed in Great Britain) were secured and carefully perused.

It is no light task to take on so precise and so unspiced an historian as Thucydides. This particular author made what appears to be a conscious effort to attain a uniform dullness. In the process, however, he succeeds in convincing his readers of his accuracy. And we have no reason to disagree with the preponderance of criticism which has tended to place this ancient Greek in the front ranks of the historians of his time.

We are sorry to report to our friend that his suppositions concerning the disproving of the libertarian argument do not hold up. Thucydides again and again provides tangible evidence that truth is truth and the arguments which tend to demean freedom, or to make it appear that everything can be solved by force or by political action, have no sound basis.

The lengthy recitation of the Peloponnesian war, which dragged its weary way thru twenty-eight years of time and which so weakened Greece that she fell prey to the growing might of Rome, is more of the human record which demonstrates conclusively that when men depend upon the market place, enter into world trade, refuse to trust their political or their military leaders, they can work things out fairly well.

When, however, they begin to trust their political and military leaders, and when they abandon world trade and production in favor of treaties, deals and stratagems, they come to grief which, in fine, can wreck a nation or even a civilization.

This is the story told by Thucydides.

We can find no finer excerpt from all of the eight volumes than that sentence in Book VIII, LXIV, to prove our point.

At this juncture, the author is describing the efforts which were finally brought to fruition within Athens to overthrow the democracy and to replace it with an oligarchy. The democracy had proved to be rotten. The oligarchy was to prove very swiftly to be as bad or worse. In explaining what was happening, Thucydides includes this sentence:

"In Thasos, then, the result was the opposite of what the Athenians who were establishing the oligarchy there desired, and it was the same, as it seems to me, in many others of the subject states; for the cities, having acquired sobriety of spirit and immunity in carrying out their designs, aimed at downright freedom, caring nothing for the hollow sham of law and order ordered by the Athenians."

Thru twenty-eight years of war, painstakingly told by this honored Greek historian, human beings struggled to put down oppression, tyranny and political malfeasance. Mistakenly, they trusted first one political head and then another. Nor did any victory obtained by either side bring a successful conclusion. An act of reprisal led always to another act of reprisal. And the twilight of the Greeks began.

Surely with this record available, we ought to be able to glimpse the validity of the libertarian argument which rests firmly upon these facts and thousands more of similar calibre taken from history, and even from man's record etched into the rocks and artifacts of a time-preceding history.

Government Betrayal

Probably there is no more grievous distortion in our human record than the generally stylized version of the "red man" as portrayed in scores of books and moving pictures and in what may be by now, thousands of television shows.

And we must hasten to add, there has been an equally sad and grievous distortion among those who have claimed to be the friend of the American Indian and who, in process of this friendship, try to show the Indian as a creature of such sterling virtue that no vices can be discerned.

Such gilding of the native Americans is usually portrayed against a background of white-man savagery which is so vicious and so warped as to make most people wonder why the white race was ever permitted to survive.

We realize our position will be challenged on all sides, but nonetheless we believe we are right. We believe the American Indians were human and that they behaved as human beings, having much virtue, some vice, were careless and cruel — careful and gentle — just as other people are.

The early American natives were human in the same sense any homo sapien is human. Their economy was a stone age economy. So far as their concepts of right and wrong were concerned, they were neither better nor worse, in the main, than the concepts of right and wrong held by the predominantly Christian settlers who moved into the territory and ended up with the red man's lands in their possession.

Nor were the whites a bunch of scheming, double-dealing renegades out to take advantage of the Indians at every turn. As a matter of fact, most of the early pioneers were fine, high-type people, of strong will and strong character, surviving because they dealt straight and honestly with each other and with the Indians who had preceded them.

But the white economy was a stronger economy than the stone age processes of the natives. The whites were better equipped, understood productive processes better than the Indians. It was the white man's government which provided the sad chapters of corruption, betrayal, murder and fraud which our early history is stained.

We are indebted to Michael Ansara, a television star who has done some research in this field, for the three speeches which follow, and which in themselves tell much of the story.

—Ma-Quizz-Bem of the Penobscot tribe welcoming the white man in 1610—

"My people have watched you come from your big canoe. We welcome you. We take your hand in ours. Your faces are covered with hair and the hair is in different colors, and your eyes are unlike ours and the blocks of wood you have planted here in the form of a cross are strange to us, but we welcome you. You have given us food from your big canoe. We have given you food. It will be that way as long as there

The Thought Of Judo Brings on Aches, Pains

When I read that judo had been added to the roster of Olympic sports and would be a part of the Games in Tokyo in 1964, I suddenly developed aches and pains I hadn't felt since 1942.

My mind — as well as other parts of my anatomy — went back to Camp Wheeler, a well-known institution for the teaching of infantry basic tactics.

Judo was introduced to us recruits after about six weeks of training, only it wasn't called judo. It was called dirty fighting, and was supposed to enable us to beat the tar out of any German or Jap we happened to meet face to face, no matter how big or ferocious the enemy was.

We practiced our judo on an open field as bare of grass as a landing strip, and twice as hard. The surface was red Georgia clay, a substance as unyielding as the back end of a shooting gallery.

The theory behind judo is that a man's size means nothing — given proficiency in judo, he can beat a two-ton truck — and the theory is mad. Nothing is ever said about what a big man full of judo can do to a smaller one.

Nothing needs to be said about that, in fact. It was made plain the first day we practiced dirty fighting. I drew Stu Love to beat, all six feet, 220 pounds of him. I couldn't have beaten him if he had been chained to a post.

"Get him, McLemore!" the instructor yelled. "He's a Kraut sentry."

I charged, and what Love did to me made me swear to myself never to be caught alone with a German sentry.

He flipped me over his shoulder, a good ten feet in the air, and then ran and jumped on me while I was still bouncing off the red clay. He choked me, twisted my neck, shook me as if I were dice, and then threw me on top of a pile of other small and medium-sized men who had been overmatched and overwhelmed.

When I came to, the instructor said it was my turn to be on defense — that I would act as a Jap on patrol, and Love, would attack me.

Same thing all over again, and any chance of judo giving me confidence in hand-to-hand combat was gone. Later, in the South Pacific, I was to see many Japs but, thank goodness, I always had a rifle and so did they, and we could shoot at one another and not risk our lives wrestling.

Just how judo fits into the spirit of the Olympic Games I don't know. Maybe peacetime judo is different from wartime judo, and the contestants fight it out on something softer than red clay, and the ones with short breath and little jaw windows are matched against rivals equally endowed.

I hate to think of what would have happened to David had he tried to use judo, instead of a sling-shot, against Goliath.

is light in the stars."

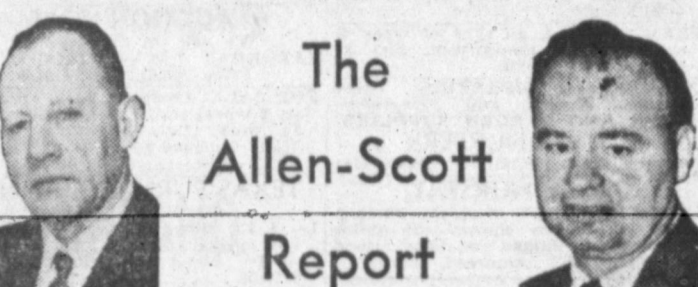

—Chief John Ross of the Cherokees, when they were forced to march from their homes in Georgia to a reservation in Oklahoma, in violation of an agreement—

"We are walking down a trail of tears. But we do not cry for pity. Our anguish is not because we have lost our homes. Nor is it for the dead who will know no new home. Nor is it because we have to walk under the shadow of your guns. My people have been your friends. We have been peaceful. We are not children of thunder. We have learned your ways and have embraced your God. That is why we weep. It is for your souls."

—Sitting Bull, after the battle of the Little Big Horn—

"What treaty that the whites have kept has the red man broken? Not one. What treaty that the whites ever made with us have they kept? Not one. When I was a boy the Sioux owned the world. The sun rose and set in their lands. They sent ten thousand warriors to battle. Where are the warriors today? Who slew them? Where are our lands? Who owns them? Is it wicked in me because I am a Sioux, because I was born where my father lived, because I would die for my people and my country? We have fought hard. We did not know Custer. There were not as many Indians as the white man said. There were not more than two thousand. I did not want to kill any more men. I did not like that kind of work. I only defended my camp."

DEFECTION OF TWO CODE-BREAKING EXPERTS LINKED TO ACCESS TO U-2, OTHER RECONNAISSANCE DATA

WASHINGTON — The House Un-American Activities Committee is going to investigate the mystery-shrouded defection of those two experts in Russian code-breaking of the super-secret National Security Agency.

Representative Francis Walter (D., Pa.), chairman, has decided to do that at the urgent request of House Majority Leader John McCormack, Mass.

A major reason this still-unnamed probe is being undertaken is new intelligence disclosures linking the jolting defection with both the loss of Francis Powers' U-2 plane over Russia, and the subsequent shooting down of that RB47 reconnaissance bomber over the open Barents Sea by Soviet jet interceptors.

Representative McCormack and Walter have been authoritatively informed that:

The two missing NSA code breakers handled the decoding and evaluation of Russian communications dealing with U-2 plane and other highly important reconnaissance flights.

Both defectors had the highest security ratings, and full access to data and reports relating to such missions.

One of them, prior to Powers' ill-fated flights, asked for and received a "need to know" basis, vital information concerning it.

Following Powers' crash, the Central Intelligence Agency launched an investigation of NSA's foreign code breaking division, in which the two defectors were employed. CIA initiated this probe after receiving reports from agents abroad that the Soviet had advanced word about Powers.

This was the second time in several years that this crucial NSA Agency had been subjected to a special security scrutiny — because of misgivings of leaks to Red sources.

Representative Walter had indicated his investigation will seek particularly to get answers to a number of glaring questions: How and why the two defectors were able to obtain full NSA security clearance; when, where and how they were contacted by Russian agents; the background of these two close bachelor friends, one of whom was rated a "mathematical genius," and the other "more dominant."

As previously reported in this column, Senator Richard Russell (D., Ga.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, who demanded a report on this extraordinary affair, has been advised by the Pentagon that:

The two vanished NSA code specialists are "now deemed certain to be behind the Iron Curtain." Soviet agents definitely contacted them in Mexico last December, when plans for their defection were discussed.

The FBI had no connection with this case — until the two men disappeared. FBI assistance was then sought by Defense and Intelligence authorities.

The National Security Agency does its own checking of employees. This scrutiny is supposed to be exhaustive and continuous, including lie detector tests. The two defectors took such tests and passed them with flying colors. Apparently there is something very wrong with this security system.

The cryptographic work of the two men did not relate to U.S. codes. They were experts in breaking Russian codes. They know a great deal about the machinery and procedures for doing that, and their knowledge and experience would be highly valuable to the Reds.

MORE INVESTIGATING — The House Government Operations Committee is investigating the Battle Creek, Mich., Office of Civil Defense on charges it is circulating Republican campaign literature. According to complaints received by the Committee, this agency is circulating a statement by a Glenview, Ill., student that one reason the construction of bomb shelters is being urged is because of fear a Democrat will be elected President. This assertion, as published in Civil Defense's Information Bulletin No. 230, is, "I'd rather have a bomb shelter than a swimming pool. There's a probability that the Democrats are going to get in November. With their appeasement policies I think we're going to need bomb shelters. Their record always has been war, and Chicago would be a prime target."

Voice of America officials admit having difficulty beaming broadcasts to Cuba, to counter the frequent and violent radio-TV tirades against the U.S. VOA reasons for this are "technical difficulties and international treaties." Considered for a time was using a Coast Guard vessel, equipped with a powerful transmitter, to broadcast to Cuba. But the Federal Communications Commission blocked that on the ground it would "violate the spirit of international broadcasting agreements." Also, Cuban retaliation in the form of jamming broadcasts in the southern portion of the U.S. would be possible. Meanwhile, Castro and his leftist henchmen are having clear sailing in defaming and castigating the U.S.

On the other hand, some argue that the result would have been different if there had not been a Republican President.

This time the Democratic standard bearer, Sen. John F. Kennedy is taking his economic counsel from a wing of Harvard savants, including Professor Harris Galbraith and Schlesinger, who lean toward the Keynesian, free-spending, inflationary philosophy. This approach has become somewhat outmoded by the post-war success in West Germany, Japan, Hong Kong and other parts of the free world, which expanded on the basis of (a) prudent money and (b) the competitive market economy.

Irrespective of the outcome of the election, it is rash to assume that "pump priming" schemes actually will make the economy grow faster, and hence make stocks more valuable.

Everybody's Money

By MERYLE STANLEY RUYKESER

The effect of the drumfire on the public mind by those with something to sell and by politicians in the quest of votes is depicted in the current grassroots mail from readers. Even those who have made their way against the hazards of wars, inflation, and the tendency to overspend are concerned about what current trends and prospects may do to their savings.

For example, a 60-year-old physician in western New York, with a successful practice, writes asking what to do with $75,000 now in savings deposits. In addition, he owns a sumptuous home and office free and clear, has $55,000 in stocks and mutual funds, and $33,000 in bonds.

He is dissatisfied with his large savings deposits in part because he says Uncle Sam is taking away about 40 per cent of the $2,500 annual interest earnings in taxes. He raises the question of avoiding this tax burden by shifting to tax-exempt municipal and state bonds. As an alternative, he asks about putting it in stocks.

The doctor seems confused about the effect of inflation on bonds and shares. Inflation, a rise in the cost of living, tends to cut the buying power of the dollar. At best, high grade bonds are a claim on a fixed number of dollars, and constitute no hedge against inflation, unless they are acquired at a substantial price discount. On the other hand, it is fallacious to assume that any shares automatically provide protection against inflation. In theory, shares, being a claim on real property, are not as rigidly tied to the dollar, and the basic assets, which a corporation owns and on which the stock is a junior claim, may be expected to rise in value if the general price stocks are aided by inflation in the final analysis only if changing conditions increase the dividend-paying capacity of the company.

These fundamentals are restated because in his letter the doctor wrongly associated shares with assuming "the inherent risk of my money going inflationary". The physician, further entering a field of abstruse economics outside his own area of special training, asks: "Should I wait till the fall when we all will be better able to decide the trend of the times? The Democrats will be free spenders, and this will be good for those investing in stocks. With the Republicans you will be safe with bonds maturing in the near future."

Unfortunately, investment is not as simple as that. Other factors, including new style foreign competition from low wage countries, the prospects of war and peace, and a variety of other influences must be measured. Similar assumptions right after the Democratic sweep in Congress in 1958 led to wrong conclusions. President Eisenhower's vetoes and threats of vetoes, plus middle-of-the-road leadership from Lyndon Johnson, Democratic leader in the Senate, and from Rep. Sam Rayburn in the House, kept spending within bounds, and there was a surplus in the last fiscal year.

On the other hand, some argue that the result would have been different if there had not been a Republican President.

This time the Democratic standard bearer, Sen. John F. Kennedy is taking his economic counsel from a wing of Harvard savants, including Professor Harris Galbraith and Schlesinger, who lean toward the Keynesian, free-spending, inflationary philosophy. This approach has become somewhat outmoded by the post-war success in West Germany, Japan, Hong Kong and other parts of the free world, which expanded on the basis of (a) prudent money and (b) the competitive market economy.

Fair Enough

Actors Parts In The Big Game Of Politics

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — No crusader for Truth and the Right has howled more mournfully than I have against the idiotic American belief that actors should be consulted or even heard in grave political and social problems. This is not the worst of our politico-civic errors, but it is currently more obstreperous than usual because the Kennedy ticket's team of ruff-raff under Frank Sinatra has been met with an equally informal and embarrassing roster of highly qualified impostors under the title of "celebrities for Nixon." These include the proper and rather mousy Miss Helen Hayes, who admitted in The Herald Tribune that "It must make everybody pretty sore: All these make-believe characters telling people how to vote."

And according to the published lineup, the celebrities include Miss Mary Pickford, whose latest foray into controversy was a baffling babble in favor of her old business partner, Charlie Chaplin, the exile, some six years ago. On that occasion, which occurred about cocktail time in Peacock Alley of the Waldorf-Astoria, Miss Pickford went up in her lines and at some points seemed to have a mouthful of little white onion. I thought, perhaps unreasonably, that most of the time she was blowing her breath into her gloves.

However, the "interview" was a straight business exploit of the strictly professional him-and-her act known as Tex and Jinx and I thought they were taking advantage of an old lady at that time of day and in that atmosphere to poke her up to attack me for reasons which I can surmise if not prove.

I had, for a fact, adduced some data concerning Mary's friend, Chaplin, and his reputation in re: Communism and this may have impaired the financial interest of some Tex-and-Jinx client in the mysterious art of public relations. I probably did not enhance Chaplin's equities in United Artists, and America's sweetheart of the era before World War I may have felt a pang in the region of her own sensitive pocketbook nerve. At any rate, they all had at me with shrill fury and Charlie came out of it rather well.

Well, so now we find Miss Hayes, the widow of my old exuberant friend, Charlie MacArthur, back in political publicity again after a long lapse since some awkward steps in the New Deal days into unpleasant propinquity to the Soldiers and Peasants Party without the faintest awareness of her part. She probably thought they were simple agrarians.

Doctor, your problem is one of adjusting to the satisfaction of a successful career.

(Mr. Ruykeser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with stamped, self-addressed envelopes should be sent in care of this newspaper. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

I agree with Miss Hayes' dictum that "It must make everybody pretty sore: All those make-believe characters telling people how to vote." and submit this comment as the wisest ever heard from any denizen of the world of make-believe.

As I have reported here before, I spotted a quite substantial and weatherbeaten lady aboard Mr. Nixon's plane for Moscow last year and later, two or three times, at the "briefings" in the Lazar House for the American press called the Ukraine. This was Miss Jinx Falkenberg. Having no knowledge of her implication in any legitimate phase of journalism, I had to suspect that she was actually on a mission for her husband's publicity firm for the 1960 campaign. This was prescience, for the lady is now conspicuous in the little occasions when a "celebrity" with self-possession, not to say gall, is required to put the commonality at ease. This she did at a straggling reunion of the missionaries to Moscow at the Hilton in Chicago after the convention closed. And if there is a payroll, I assume that Tex and Jinx will be on it from now until November, with a chance to land some succulent public relations accounts from shrewd conservatives of big business thereafter.

Inasmuch as the husband of the act, Tex McCrary, an ascended tabloid rewrite man, took credit to himself for the wiles which derailed Robert Taft and nominated Ike in 1952, their presence in the Nixon staff will hardly arouse love among numerous republicans who admired Taft and are willing to forget, but not if anybody tries to rub it in. To one of my own sensibilities, this is rubbing it in.

But in rejecting the political counsel of actors and radio hecklers, even of dirty-word novelists and playwrights, I put myself in an awkward position, too. It is true that there never has been an intellectual actor for the insurmountable reason that no intellectual person could be induced to utter the degrading trash which actors are hired to recite with minute directions as to posture, position, gesture and tone. It is a strange calling. But when I say that, I confront myself with the undeniable fact that they are no more idiotic and vain than my brethren of the printed word who nevertheless refer to a long lapse since some awkward steps in the New Deal days into unpleasant propinquity to the Soldiers and Peasants Party without the faintest awareness of her part. She probably thought they were simple agrarians.

If Pegler is a sage, why not Sinatra? Why not Jinx?

CHICAGO IS OPTIMISTIC
CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Transit Authority has announced that elevated-subway facilities near Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox, will be expanded and "ready for the fans on the first home game of the World Series." Chicago is four games out of first place.

Kennedy Hits Trail Pledging Pay Bill Fight

By ALVIN SPIVAK
United Press International

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy set out on an advance presidential campaign tour in his native New England today with a pledge to fight back next year from his congressional defeat on minimum wage expansion.

"The raising of the minimum wage and its extension to cover millions of unprotected American workers must be one of the first items on the agenda of the next administration," Kennedy said.

The Democratic White House made his statement in a speech at an airport rally in Manchester, N.H., first stop in a one day swing through traditionally Republican Maine and New Hampshire.

Kennedy's remarks were made public as he attended a breakfast with about 130 New England businessmen who paid $1,000 a plate for a fund-raising luncheon with him Monday. Kennedy bowed out of the Monday affair to fly back to Washington from his vacation home at Hyannis Port, Mass., to vote on legislation for medical care for the aged.

Kennedy, as chairman of the Senate labor subcommittee, pushed for extension of the present $1-an-hour minimum wage to $1.25 with a broad extension of coverage to more than four million additional workers. He won much of his point in the Senate but wound up in a deadlock with Republicans and southern Democrats in a conference on conflicting House and Senate bills.

24-Intentions To Drill Filed With TRRC

Ten oil and gas well completions were reported to the Texas Railroad Commission's District 10 headquarters in Pampa last week.

The oil and gas division newsletter, for the week ending Sept. 1 showed the Texaco, Inc., J. B. Rice Unit No. 1 potentialed out at 3,700 MCFD. The well was perforated at 2881-2925 feet and plugged back from 3095 to 2950 feet. The well is in the West Panhandle field, Carson County.

Kerr-McGee Oil's Johnson-Federal No. 1 in the Gray County Panhandle Field showed a potential of 288 BOPD in tests following completion August 16. The plug-back depth of the well is 2828 feet.

There were 24 applications to drill filed with the TRRC last week. Ten of the intentions are for depths of more than 8,100 feet.

The deep intents are: Ochiltree County — Shamrock Oil and Gas, Ellis Ranch Area, 9,900 ft.; Shamrock, Northrup Area, 9,800 ft.; Nafco Oil and Gas Company's Smith 22-6A and 7A in the Morrow Area, both 8,100 ft.; Pan Am's 9,790 ft. intent in the Buler Area; Pan Am, Morrow Area, 8,550, and Horizon Oil and Gas Co., Lower Morrow, 8,350 ft.

Hansford County — Horizon Oil and Gas, Lower Morrow, 8,300 ft. Hutchinson County — Pan Am, Morrow Area, 9,000 ft. Swisher County — Frankfort, Wildcat, 8,500 ft.

There were no plugged wells reported during the week.

Petroleum Products Retailers Increase Sales With Cleanliness

By MAC SEBREE

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—American oil companies, which are constantly at work trying to improve their product, are learning more and more that the little things count the most, sometimes.

For example, the best gasoline in the world may not sell at the corner filling station if the rest room is dirty.

One company, The Phillips Petroleum Co. of Bartlesville, Okla., has been stressing service station appearance and cleanliness in its relations with dealers.

Phillips recently changed its color scheme from red-orange to orange and white in an effort to make the stations sparkle. Two other firms, DX-Sunray Oil Co. and Sinclair Oil Co., have dressed up and simplified their sign trademarks to catch the eye of the cruising motorist.

Motorists often give dirty rest rooms as their chief annoyance, Phillips says. Even though some dealers may report they've "never had a complaint" about rest rooms, this doesn't mean there's no room for improvement.

Many motorists simply register their "complaint" by trading at a rival station, Phillips feels.

Other companies make studies to see what in a station appeals most to special groups. Women, for example, might like to see garden plots at stations and dealers are encouraged to plant shrubs and flowers to spruce up their lots.

An Oklahoma service station operator, Bill Philpot of Sallisaw, says a broom is almost as vital piece of equipment as a gas pump.

Phillips and other companies insist that service station driveway attendants wear smart, clean uniforms at all times.

Most companies, in addition, make formal and informal inspections of the stations selling their product. Some even have "mystery motorists" who present bonuses to attendants making an outstanding impression.

SKILLED LABOR + REDDY POWER = PROGRESS

Labor Day in 1960 and Labor Day 50 years ago... there's a big difference. Today, labor's craftsmen make use of electric power tools from hand-held portable saws to huge, electrically-operated production lines. As a result, the American worker produces more, buys more and enjoys the highest standard of living the world has ever known. His know-how and the power tools at his command make it all possible.
