Big Federal Money Bill Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Armed Services Committee Monday prepared to enter closed sessions to tackle an $11.9 billion bill to buy new missiles, warplanes and ships.

It is the largest money authorization ever introduced in Congress. It would only authorize spending the money. Another bill would have to be passed to raise the money.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara was expected to be the first witness before the committee.

The bill, introduced by Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., would provide for 10 more Polaris nuclear missile submarines, bringing the total to 29. It does not give a breakdown on how many ships, missiles and aircraft would be built.

Other congressional news:

Security: House Republicans pushed a plan for liberalizing social security benefits, but not so much as President Kennedy's proposal. The two bills may have a showdown Wednesday. Among other things, the GOP version does not include Kennedy's proposal to allow men to retire at 62 on limited benefits.

Wage: The Senate Labor Committee meets behind closed doors to work on a compromise version of President Kennedy's proposal to boost the minimum wage bill to $1.25. Administration leaders hope to bring it to the floor this week. Kennedy's version failed in the House, and a more conservative measure went through.

Space: House Space Committee Chairman Overton Brooks, D-La., said he is "not entirely satisfied" with President Kennedy's space budget. He said he felt a number of projects needed more support, and indicated the budget should ask for $1.5 billion instead of $1.2 billion.

Satellite Capsule Stays Up

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The instrument-laden capsule from Discoverer XXIII circled the earth today in its own orbit, dashing all hope of its recovery.

The capsule separated Monday on command from the satellite. But instead of returning to earth near Hawaii where ships and planes waited to snag the 25-foot space package, it stayed in space.

The Air Force fired the satellite with the capsule aboard into orbit Saturday from this West Coast base. Scientists had hoped to keep it in orbit four days before recovery, but a malfunction in the satellite caused them to attempt a hasty recovery Monday of its capsule.

Scientists gave no specific reason for the capsule's failure to return to earth. But it appeared the satellite might have used up compressed gas necessary to point itself downward at a 60 degree angle at time of ejection.

House Sees Sales Tax Bills Shift

AUSTIN (UPI) — Rep. Charles Wilson of Trinity was back brandishing his sales tax today after the sponsors of another sales tax decided to wait awhile before putting their bill to a test.

Wilson, who wants to let the people of Texas know right away how lawmakers stand on the controversial issue, said he will press the House Revenue and Taxation Committee to send it to the floor in time for a vote next Monday.

Reps. John Allen of Longview and Forest Harding of San Angelo withdrew their measure Monday after Gov. Price Daniel issued a statement predicting its defeat and saying the sooner the better.

Allen and Harding said they would wait until Daniel could offer his compromise program before they will try again with their 2 per cent sales tax.

They said Daniel's criticism that their bill would tax poor people the most and was inspired by corporate interests was untrue.

Allen said amendments had been prepared to take food, drugs and farm machinery out of the bill.

Daniel said he favored a compromise between bills sponsored by Reps. George Hinson of Mineola and Ben Atwell of Hutchins. Both are selective sales taxes.

All three bills were estimated to raise enough money to take care of $300 million in proposed new spending.

Wilson said he had held up his sales tax because Allen had promised to run with the other bill. He said he would now press for a quick vote.

That bill was passed with enough items to bring in $43 million over the next two years, and Wilson sat tight on the sales tax amendment.

The Senate State Affairs Committee went to work on the loophole bill Monday.

Sponsored by Rep. Charles Ballman of Borger, chairman of the House Tax Committee, the bill's big money feature is the proposed two-factor franchise tax to raise $16 million and a graduate gift tax to bring in $8 million.

The Senate Jurisprudence Committee Monday sent to the floor a bill by Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo to make it a crime for theaters and television movies to show sexy movies.

Hazlewood's measure would provide fines and jail terms for exhibiting any film that hints a couple may have or had sex relations or hints that rape or incest is about to occur or has occurred.

Israel Launches History's Worst Mass Death Case

Eichmann Trial Court Assailed

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Adolph Eichmann went on trial today as history's worst mass murderer. His lawyer immediately challenged the jurisdiction of a court of three Israeli judges and demanded that they disqualify themselves.

Robert Servatius, a German lawyer from Cologne, said Eichmann should have been brought to trial before an international or neutral tribunal.

Eichmann stands trial as Adolf Hitler's "traffic officer" in the murder of 6 million Jews — the man who moved the Jews from one point to another like a chess master playing a macabre game on the white and black board of life and death.

The routes he marked out for the captive Jews almost always led to death in a gas chamber.

Before the challenge to the jurisdiction of the court Eichmann stood to hear the reading of the fifteen-count indictment against him. It felt like fifteen lashes on his back.

As Servatius began his plea that the court disqualify itself one thing became clear — Eichmann is going to be defended to the hilt, and every legal recourse is going to be exhausted in the attempt to save his life.

His lawyer is a thick set, square jawed man who looks and talks like a fighter.

During the long reading of the indictment against him Eichmann stood ramrod-stiff, hands at his side, his eyes riveted on the three judges who will decide his fate. Once or twice he swayed slightly but otherwise he was like a waxen image without a flicker of emotion.

His hair line is receding, but he was neatly groomed, freshly shaved and dressed in a dark gray suit to suit him by his wife from Argentina.

Servatius made these rapid fire allegations:

That Eichmann was illegally kidnaped from Argentina and flown to Israel.

That a special set of laws passed by the Israeli Parliament for the trial and punishment of Nazis violated international law.

That at least one of the judges, unidentified, had disqualified himself for this case because of a verdict in a similar litigation.

That all three judges might be prejudiced because members of their families might have been victims of the Nazi terror.

That a deposition Eichmann signed in Buenos Aires stating he (See ISRAEL, Page 3)

Social Security Plan Proposed By Republicans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Key House Republicans today advocated a plan for liberalizing Social Security benefits which differed sharply from President Kennedy's proposal.

The rival plans would provide benefits for different groups among the nation's aged.

Democratic leaders hoped to push through the House this week, possibly Wednesday, an administration-backed bill with most of the liberalizing provisions sought by Kennedy.

The administration bill and the GOP plan coincided on two major points. Both would raise the minimum monthly benefit to $40 from the present $33, thereby benefiting about two million persons on the rolls. Both would levy payroll tax increases ranging up to $6 a year for covered workers with employers required to match the increase.

But the Republicans rejected Kennedy's proposal that cash benefits be boosted 10 per cent for 1.5 million widows and that men be given the option women workers and widows now have of retiring at 62. Instead, the GOP plan would put two million other aged persons on the benefit rolls, by extending on a "blanket" basis Social Security benefits of $40 a month to persons 72 or older who now are ineligible.

Russians Silent On Rumor Man Sent Into Space

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet officials and scientists maintained complete silence today on widespread reports the Russians had launched a man into space.

Official confirmation which had been expected in the past 24 hours was not forthcoming.

Observers here suggested three possible explanations:

Soviet scientists were not ready to report the results of their observations.

Something went amiss.

There was a last minute change of plans.

Reports from sources which have proved reliable in the past that a launching took place were supported by solid circumstantial evidence.

The Soviet press, radio and television was alerted. Camera crews circled through the city ready to film possible reaction.

A group of scientists were at a Moscow radio studio Monday night with manuscripts in hand, ready to broadcast.

Building Code Passed By City Commission

Pampa's new mayor and city commissioners took their oaths of office this morning and bumped headon into their first problem.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell and Commissioners Lloyd Simpson, Newt Secret, Leon Holmes and L. P. Fort took over the reins of city government after being sworn in by outgoing Mayor Ed Myatt.

Their first piece of business came in the form of a request from Eugene Fleming, manager of the Safeway Store on Duncan St.

Fleming told the commission that the blocking off of Duncan St. for repairs on the Duncan St. bridge was cutting into the store's business to such an extent that it was working a hardship.

Fleming asked that he be allowed to put up a sign at the Mary Ellen St. corner of Central Park to filter traffic into Duncan St.

The commission said it would have to study the situation and give him an answer within a few days.

The old city commission completed several items of business before relinquishing the reins of government to the incoming commission. These included final passage of an ordinance setting up a new building code for Pampa, the second reading of an ordinance

West Germany's Leader Enroute To Washington

BONN (UPI) — West Germany's 85-year old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer flies to Washington today for his first meeting with President Kennedy to discuss ways to strengthen NATO against the Communist menace.

Adenauer is accompanied by Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano. The trip falls on the opening day of the trial of former Nazi S. S. Col. Adolf Eichmann in Jerusalem — a coincidence necessitated by Kennedy's crowded schedule.

The German leader is due to land at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., at 6 p.m. EST after a non-stop flight from Bonn. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other high-ranking officials planned to greet him at the airport.

Adenauer told a nationwide television audience Monday night that Nazism is dead in West Germany. He also reaffirmed the Bonn government's desire to make restitution for Nazi war crimes as far as is materially possible.

Adenauer also altered his stand on the proposal to make NATO the world's fourth nuclear power. Although he still strongly supports this, he said he agrees that the plan should be postponed until President Kennedy sounds out the Soviets on disarmament.

Civil War Group Opens Assembly

CHARLESTON, S. C. (UPI) — The fourth national assembly of the Civil War Centennial Commission began today on the eve of the Ft. Sumter centennial with a dispute over racial segregation resulting in split sessions.

The firing on Ft. Sumter by Confederate batteries on April 12, 1861, which began the bloody war, will be reenacted Wednesday night as the climax of the commemoration here.

The national commission's sessions—including meals and lodging for delegates so desiring—were scheduled at the integrated U.S. naval base due to segregation policies of downtown Charleston.

The state commission scheduled a lunch and banquet today in the Francis Marion Hotel, original site of the national meeting.

Delegates from both North and South were scheduled to attend the business sessions at the naval base presided over by Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III, grandson of the Union commander.

Former South Carolina Gov. James F. Byrnes, addressing the downtown lunch, called the Civil War "the greatest tragedy in the history of any country," and said the wounds of battle were too soon healed to commemorate the conflict without causing some new hard feelings.

Solon Raps High Court

DALLAS (UPI) — Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., Monday blasted the U.S. Supreme Court and called for impeachment of all nine justices.

Eastland, who is head of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said the court in recent years has issued more pro-Communist decisions "than any judicial tribunal outside of the Iron Curtain."

"I think all of them ought to be impeached," the Senator said.

The Mississippi Democrat was scheduled to speak at a convention of the Texas Cotton Ginner's Association.

Eastland refused to comment on the controversial John Birch Society and pointed out his committee had a hearing on that group pending.

He also refused to endorse the candidacy of interim Sen. William A. Blakley, the Texas Democrat who is embroiled in a special Senate election with Republican John Tower to fill the seat vacated by Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Commies Blamed By Accused Cuban

MIAMI (UPI) — A former Cuban senator, accused of violating U.S. neutrality laws and stripped of his refugee parole status, blames lies spread by Communists for his troubles.

Rolando Masferrer, who was closely associated with the regime of deposed President Fulgencio Batista, was indicted by a federal grand jury Monday. He was accused of sending a military invasion expedition against Fidel Castro's government last October.

UN Congo Area Funds Blocked

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI) — Katanga authorities blocked United Nations bank accounts today and were reported to have cut communications to some installations held by U. N. troops.

The moves were the latest in Provincial President Moise Tshombe's running battle with the U. N. command which he claims threatens his authority.

Two Cold Fronts Move Into State

By United Press International

Twin cold fronts bore down on Texas today as winter levelled still another belated punch at the Panhandle and South Plains areas of the state.

A northern front moved swiftly down from Colorado and Kansas, while a Pacific front swept eastward into the state from New Mexico.

Snow was expected to begin falling in Northwestern Texas before nightfall.

As the dual fronts moved in on the state, heavy clouds, rain showers and warm temperatures blanketed all but the extreme southwestern portion. And there gusty winds stirred up dust which was expected to remain in the air throughout the day.

The clouds and rain ended a brief spell of mild, sunny weather which brought spring temperature to Texas Monday.

At dawn today readings ranged between a chilly 38 degrees at Dalhart and a tropical 65 at Brownsville.

Scattered showers were falling through the central portion of the state and scattered thunderstorms were expected to develop later this afternoon as the dual fronts moved in.

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicted temperatures in the state to push into the upper 70s and lower 80s in the northern half of Texas before the frontal systems hit, and into the upper 80s in the south portions.

Job And Unemployment Figures Indicate Recession About Over

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government economists said today that latest job and unemployment figures, like other recent data of the economy, suggest that the business recession has touched bottom.

"But there are still some tough spots," one expert cautioned in advance of the Labor Department report on the job picture in March being issued today (at noon EST).

One encouraging sign the department was ready to report was a March increase in the average factory workweek. Plants generally gave overtime to workers on the job before recalling laid off employees.

Another "plus" report, from the Commerce Department, said that retail sales advanced 1 per cent in March, the second rise in two months. Increased buying of new cars was chiefly responsible.

The department reported last week that unemployment dropped by 210,000 in March, a smaller decline than normal, to 5,495,000. As a result, the unemployment rate, which is seasonally adjusted, crept up to 6.9 per cent of the labor force, compared to 6.8 per cent in February.

This fractional rise was not in itself significant, officials said. But they pointed with greater concern to the fact that unemployment has exceeded 65 per cent

Paris Area Hit By Bomb Blast

PARIS (UPI) — A bomb exploded here by French extremists exploded near the presidential Elysee Palace today, only hours before President Charles de Gaulle was expected to disclose his next moves on the Algerian problem.

There were reports of bomb threats against De Gaulle himself, presumably from rightwingers who oppose his policies on Algeria.

Hope Abandoned For 212 Missing In Ship Tragedy

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (UPI) — Hope was abandoned today for 212 persons, including an elderly American couple, missing and presumed dead in a two-day fire aboard the British passenger liner Dara.

The 5,030-ton vessel, which caught fire in a storm early Saturday morning, sank Monday while being towed by three British frigates.

Dental Patient Dies In Chair

MEMPHIS (UPI) — A 22-year-old mother collapsed and died in a dentist chair Monday and doctors tried for two hours to revive her while her husband sat unknowingly in the waiting room.

Mrs. Joanna Graham collapsed after Dr. A. H. Balzen-gaye her gas and novocain and prepared to extract 10 front teeth.

Russian Speedup In Arms Aid To Laos Cause U.S. Concern

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Evidences that Russia has tripled its arms airlift to Laos caused growing concern here today that the Kremlin might be stalling on a cease fire in order to build up Communist forces there.

Reliable diplomatic sources reported that the Soviet military supply airlift to Laotian Communists has been three times its normal rate in the last day or so.

The State Department, was considering sending a strong statement on U.S. views directly to the Kremlin through U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson.

One Western diplomat said the Laos crisis seemed to be approaching "the same grim concern" which prevailed two and a half weeks ago when President Kennedy warned of its seriousness at a televised news conference.

There was speculation that Russia has been rushing in supplies in advance of the monsoon season, due in the next few weeks.

The heavy rains would hamper supply activities.

Oil Industry Warned Scientists Being Lost To 'Glamor' Fields

TULSA (UPI)—Oilmen heard a warning last week that the so-called glamor industries are luring away young scientists who will be sorely needed in the oil industry in the years ahead.

Gage Lund, vice president of Standard Oil Co., of Calif., told a group of oilmen in Tulsa that the missile, electronics, nuclear and similar industries are attracting many earth-science graduates who should be entering the petroleum field.

He predicted that the petroleum industry will face shortages of competent manpower in earth sciences unless something can be done to re-stimulate the interest of students in pursuing petroleum engineering and geology careers.

The San Francisco executive urged oilmen to restore confidence in their industry's future—a future which he believes is bright.

Lund, who is the American Petroleum Institute's vice president for production, said oil has lost its one-time reputation for outstanding growth prospects, principally because of recent conditions of over-supply. He cited three years of "austerity talk, cutbacks in industry spending and reductions in personnel as reasons new scientists are chying away from oil."

Declining undergraduate enrollments in geology and engineering are the first signs of impending shortages of scientific manpower in these fields, Lund said.

"This manpower, surely, is the most essential resource which we in exploration and production employ in our businesses," Lund observed. "Yet, seemingly, we are not doing anywhere near enough to preserve this vital resource for now or in the future."

Not only new graduates, but talented younger men already in the industry are leaving it for careers in fields which seem to have brighter outlooks, he said.

Pointing to the steady growth in demand for oil and gas predicted for the years ahead, Lund forecast that earth scientists will again be needed in force as exploration and production step up again.

"Nothing could be more shortsighted than to let ourselves be caught without the necessary personnel."

Lund's warning was sounded at a mid-continent district meeting of the API's Division of Production.

TESTS SPACE CABIN
MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union already has tested the hermetically sealed type cabin needed to protect a man in space, the Russian scientific magazine "Ogonek" said in its latest issue.

Such a cabin was orbited around the earth the first time on May 15, 1960, with a payload equal to a man's weight, according to Professor Dobronravov.

'Boy Of Year', Slum Area Product, Visits President
WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was six years ago when tragedy struck the home of 11-year-old Richard Lopez in an El Paso, Tex., slum. His father died, leaving him to help his working mother care for three younger brothers.

Richard went to the White House yesterday to meet President Kennedy and receive acclamation as the nation's finest example of juvenile decency.

The 17-year-old high school senior of Spanish and Mexican descent was chosen for the honor of "Boy of the Year" from among more than 600,000 members of the Boys' Clubs of America.

O. D. Hightower, executive director of the El Paso Boy's Club, had this to say about the outstanding young athlete, student, youth leader and public speaker: "Although Richard was born in one of the worst slums and surrounded by extremely bad social conditions, he has surmounted all these and many other obstacles to become a credit and inspiration to his family and community."

"His father died when he was 11 and Dick has since taken over supervision of his three younger brothers, disciplining and taking care of them during the absence of their working mother. He encourages their participation in church, school and boys' club activities, concerned that they may be a credit to their mother."

He was class president—as a sophomore and junior at Bowie High School, captain of the baseball, basketball and tennis teams. He once was named West Texas Sportsman of the Year, and as a vice president of the Future Farmers of America, he won two county fair ribbons.

After his graduation from high school next month, he hopes to attend college and study law. His new honor will help him obtain that ambition. If carried with it a $500 scholarship from the Reader's Digest Foundation.

Tax Money Obtained For Hero

WASHINGTON (UPI)—World War I hero Sgt. Alvin C. York of Puff-Mall, Tenn., should be out of debt to the Internal Revenue Service in about 10 days.

The $25,000 public subscription fund to pay off York's back taxes now stands at $27,000.

Rep. Joe Ewins, D-Tenn., treasurer of the fund, said negotiations will begin shortly with the IRS and a settlement is expected in about 10 days.

York, 73, and bed-ridden from a stroke at the 395-acre farm given to him by Tennessee in recognition of his war heroics, got into trouble with the IRS over royalties from selling the book and movie rights to his life. The IRS said the Medal of Honor winner owed $172,000 but recently compromised to the $25,000 figure.

Fear Voiced In West Germany As Israel Opens Eichmann Trial

BERLIN (UPI) — Germans viewed the Adolf Eichmann trial in Israel today with mixed emotions — depending on which side of the Iron Curtain they live.

West Germans feared it would reopen old wounds and heap new shame on them. The Communist East Germans claimed they had nothing to worry about, that their hands were clean.

There was apprehension in West Germany that its painfully-restored reputation would be marred, particularly in the United States, by the recounting of the horrors of Nazism in the Jerusalem court.

"Must we still wash our dirty linen before the eyes of the world," asked a young white-collar worker in Dusseldorf.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer underlined the national concern in an unusual statement last night.

"Today there is no National Socialist Nazi feeling in the body of the German people. We have become a constitutional state," the chancellor declared.

Some West Germans are annoyed that the horrible excesses of the Hitler era should be brought to world attention again. They have been re-living it for more than a year in a revival of film documentaries and radio broadcasts.

Dominating the thinking is the feeling that the crimes against the Jews were committed by a small group and that the German people as a whole were unaware until too late.

There was some fear also that the trial may trigger another series of swastika-smearings by fanatical neo-Nazis anxious to ignite emotions and by Communists seeking to smear the West German state.

Many Germans also feel that not enough emphasis has been made on the efforts to make amends. More than 2,000 Nazis have been hunted down and tried and the search continues, they point out.

In addition, they point out that West Germany already has paid out $3.25 billion to compensate Jews and other victims of the Nazi terrorism. When the restitution program, as it is called, is completed the total payment will be $6.25 billion. The Israeli government's share will amount to $862.5 million.

Communist East Germany, on the other hand, has not paid one cent.

New Suits Filed Against Six Top Electric Firms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department today filed a second round of damage suits against electrical manufacturers previously convicted of fixing prices and rigging government contract bids.

Claims were made against 11 of the 29 electrical firms fined in the historic anti-trust case.

The suits, filed in Philadelphia, covered six types of electrical equipment sold to the Tennessee Valley Authority, Defense Department and numerous government agencies by the General Electric Co., Westinghouse Electric Corp., Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co., the I-T-E Circuit Breaker Co. and other firms.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said, in announcing the action, that the department had not asked for a specific amount of damages but that they would "run into millions of dollars."

He said the government was still analyzing data on the purchases involved, which covered a period from 1956 to 1960.

The government filed its first damage suits against the electrical manufacturers on March 14 seeking to recover $12 million in damages on purchases of large circuit breakers.

The government is seeking damages under both the anti-trust laws and the false claims act.

Seven company officials served jail terms for their part in the giant conspiracy. Heavy fines were imposed on the 29 guilty manufacturers.

GE and Westinghouse were named defendants in all six complaints. Allis Chalmers was named a defendant in four suits and a co-conspirator in another. I-T-E Circuit Breakers was a defendant in three.

Burglars Take Cigaretts, Meat From Grocery

Burglars with a penchant for cigarettes and meat looted Miller's Grocery and Market, 2000 Alcock St., last night of some $325 worth of merchandise.

Police Capt. Denny Roan said today the burglary was discovered at 11:30 p.m. by David Hemphill, deliveryman for a Borger Bakery when he stopped to make deliveries at the store.

Entrance was gained by prying the lock off a rear door and breaking the glass of an inside door.

Paul Miller, store manager, told police the stolen goods consisted of 70 cartons of cigarettes, five Wright hams, two 12-lb. boxes of Nutwood bacon, and one 12-lb. box of Virginia Reel bacon.

Police said a schoolboy found four cartons of cigarettes near the store on his way to school this morning. These were recovered from the boy's home.

Captain Roan also stated that H. T. Miller, manager of the Jiffy Laundry, 721 W. Brown St., reported that thieves entered the laundry last night and managed to remove some $75 in change from the laundry's coin changer. Police said the money was taken without damaging the changer in any way.

Big Troop Toll Taken As Congo Unit Sinks Ship

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — At least 180 Katangese troops and white soldiers-of-fortune are missing in the sinking by shellfire of a riverboat during the offensive against rebel Baluba tribesmen last week, the Katanga government disclosed Monday.

It was the biggest toll yet reported by any of the rival Congolese forces in the months-long hostilities that have plagued the new African republic.

The wooden river boat was carrying troops for an attack on the Baluba stronghold of Kabalo when it was hit by a mortar shell and sank, according to the Elisabethville government. It did not say whether there were any survivors.

The Katanga government said at least 13 South African and Belgian mercenaries were among the missing.

Kabalo, a rail center in northern Katanga, was captured late last week by President Moise Tshombe's white-officered army. First reports said casualties were light.

Earlier Monday, a United Nations spokesman here disclosed that U.N. Ethiopian forces were in "complete control" of Kabalo. He said the 400-man Ethiopian contingent was holding 28 white mercenaries of the Katangese force as prisoners.

Tshombe issued a statement Monday accusing the Ethiopians of "acts of aggression."

New Pigeon Club Speed Record Set

The Top O Texas Racing Pigeon Club held its second race of the season under ideal weather conditions last Saturday. About 11:30 a.m., the wind direction changed to the north, creating severe head winds for the major part of the 40 birds shipped to the race. Seven pigeons slipped out front and beat the wind to Pampa and in doing so set a new speed record for the club.

The speed record was set by a Blue Bar hen belonging to Bill Dycus, who also clocked in a Grizzle hen to take second place. Jim Cantrell's Blue Bar took third place and Buddy Eppersons Blue Check took fourth place. Walter Thoms of White Deer took fifth place with his Red Check hen.

The 200 mile flight from Waurika, Okla., was flown in a record time of 3 hours, 40 minutes and 13 seconds.

J. L. Daugherty Service Pending

Funeral services are pending for James L. Daugherty, who died at 5 a.m. today in Thurman's Convalescing Home in Amarillo, where he had been a patient for the past three years. During residence in Pampa, he had made his home with a daughter, Mrs. Noel Thompson, 420 N. Gray.

Mr. Daugherty was born Nov. 8, 1864 in Denton County and moved to Pampa in 1928 from Leesville, La. His wife, Daisy Daugherty, preceded him in death on July 7, 1940. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

In addition to Mrs. Thompson, he is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Helen Joe Smith of Fort Worth, Miss Daisy Jim Daugherty of Los Angeles, Calif.; three sons, Ben of Kansas City, Mo., Bob of Liberal, Kan., Gene of Port Lavaca; one brother, John of Oklahoma City, Okla.; several grand children and great-grandchildren.

Arrangements will be announced later by Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Mexicans Learn Nationalizing Industry Costly

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexico is finding out what happens to planning when the government consumer prices and industry planning when the government nationalizes a public utility, like electricity.

The subject is discussed in a government bank bulletin released here.

A probable result is going to be higher consumer prices instead of lower ones as many had hoped, mainly because of financing problems for an ambitious six-year expansion program and the government's apparent desire to avoid operating at a loss.

The government last year bought virtually all shares of the two remaining foreign electric power company and the Mexico City centered Mexican Light and Power Company.

New constitutional amendments prevent any future private electricity concessions.

The two firms provided a majority of the electricity supplied to Mexican consumers, purchasing much of their current from Federal Electricity Commission generating stations.

Labor throughout Mexico greeted the government purchases with enthusiasm and also called for state ownership of other "basic industries."

Private enterprise expressed cautious misgivings about the move, and concern that it would be followed by further government "encroachment" into the private capital sphere of Mexico.

Castro's Militia Forms For Fight

HAVANA (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro's militia was reported organizing for battle today against guerrillas in the mountains of western Cuba.

The Castro regime has sent several militia battalions to the Soroa area of central Pinar del Rio province, near Cuba's western strip. There was no immediate report of fighting in the area.

Organized Tree Farming Started 2 Decades Ago

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Organized "tree farming," a system which popularized the idea that trees can be grown profitably as a regular crop, will be 20 years old this summer.

Certified tree farms today cover about 54 million acres of the nation's privately-owned woodlands. For some 19,000 certified tree farmers, the operation of these lands has become a profitable business.

"Under normal conditions and with good management," a forest industry spokesman here said, "any forest property located on reasonably good land near markets for timber products will grow trees at a profit."

But although the idea of "sustained yield" tree management and the words "tree farming" themselves had been used by it was not until 1941 that anyone got around to officially designating a specific piece of property as a tree farm.

On June 12, 1941, the Weyerhaeuser Co. named an 120,000-acre tract at Montano, Wash., the "Clemons Tree Farm." The tract, with most of its virgin Douglas fir already harvested, was picked as a proving ground for growing and protecting new tree crops.

Within a year, the movement to launch a national tree farm system was underway. Leadership came from wood-using industries and American Forest Products Industries (AFPI), established in 1941 as an industry-sponsored educational agency.

The first statewide tree farm program was organized in Alabama, and in 1942 the late E. N. McCall of Brewton, Ala., became the nation's first certified tree farmer. Other state associations were formed the same year in Arkansas, California, and Oregon.

To qualify for certification as a tree farmer, a landowner must show that his harvesting practices are designed to insure repeated crops of trees, and that he is protecting the land from fire, insects, disease and destructive grazing.

Following these practices has produced a lot of new cars, homes and college tuition payments for woodlot owners in recent years.

Oil Imports Cut To Be Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interior Department has promised U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., that his request for a 100,000-barrel daily cut in oil imports would receive serious attention.

The Texas senator had urged the cutbacks because of decreasing employment and production cutbacks in the oil industry.

L. J. O'Connor Jr., administrator of the Mandatory Oil Imports Program, told Yarborough that the secretary of interior has "indicated that the Department of Interior will make a thorough review of the crude oil import control program in the near future."

Dear Abby...
Just As Long As
They Stay Out Of Alleys
AB-GAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Once a year my husband drives 75 miles to bowl. He wears his bowling clothes, but takes a change of good clothes with him. He claims he has to stay all night because he is too tired to drive home. (So what does he need his good clothes for?) He says the other men on the team want to stay all night and he would feel funny driving them home. My argument is this: It is my husband's station wagon, and if he wanted to drive home after bowling he could do it.

The other wives are blaming my husband because they don't like this staying overnight business any more than I do, and their husbands say they have to stay overnight because it's my husband's car. I would like your opinion.

DEAR WIFE: You are making quite a fuss over an outing that takes place only once a year. Driving 75 miles after a strenuous bowling tournament is neither fun nor wise. You wives should let the boys stay overnight with your blessings. And don't worry about the "good clothes." When they win they like to get dressed up and "celebrate." And when they lose they need to get dressed up to console each other.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married nine years. We have two children and one on the way. He says after 10 years a man should be entitled to trade in his wife "for a new model," just like they trade in their automobiles. What do you think?

OLD MODEL
DEAR OLD: Just because a model is "new" doesn't mean it is

Fishing's Her Hobby Safety's Her Business

JERRY BENNETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.—WASHINGTON (NEA) — Tired, overworked housewives and career girls may do well to heed the advice of Mrs. Gertrude Strope, former executive director of the District of Columbia Mental Health Association and now president of Washington's Women's League for Traffic Safety.

Her recommendation for relieving workday tensions is simply, "Go fishing." She has been following her own advice for years.

"Fishing is good for a person's mental health," she explains. "It's the most relaxing hobby that you can cultivate. I fish every chance I get."

With exception of wintertime, Mrs. Strope and her husband, a retired government transportation expert, enjoy fishing about twice a week. They go for fly fishing for mountain trout and angling for deep sea bass in nearby Chesapeake Bay and the Atlantic.

In the summertime they usually head for Florida waters. "We have been going to Florida for about 30 years; I suppose I have fished in about every place in the state," she says. Her favorite spot is along the Keys.

Mrs. Strope says she became interested in fishing while growing up in Columbus, Ohio. "I was 18 years old at the time and fished only in a creek," she explains. It was when she married Strope, an accomplished fisherman, that she graduated to rivers, lakes and the ocean.

Today Mrs. Strope considers herself the real "fisherman" of the family. "My husband isn't as enthusiastic about fishing as I am," she says. "He has to run the motorboat. But he is the one who taught me to love the sport. So whenever he gets tired of it, I always remind him of it."

Mrs. Gertrude Strope

Her biggest catch was a 30-pound bass which she hooked off the coast of Massachusetts. It turned out, however, to be her biggest disappointment.

"I was really excited," she explains, "I expected to at least have my picture taken when we docked. But the dockmaster took one look at the fish and informed me it was small compared to those usually caught in the area."

Mrs. Strope views patience as important as skill to a good fisherman. "People who lose patience are the ones who come back empty handed," she says.

After serving seven years with the Mental Health Association, she resigned last June to take charge of the local Women's League for Traffic Safety. Purpose of the organization, composed of representatives of 15 women's clubs, is to promote safe driver and pedestrian habits.

A greenhouse offers many hours of pleasure to the individual who is primarily an arm-chair gardener, to those who are physically unable to garden out-of-doors, and to those who like to carry on gardening activities the year around.

Due to pre-fabrication, home greenhouses are now within the reach of many gardeners. Some benches, watering and heating systems, priced under $200, plus tents, and accessories.

A greenhouse attached to the house has the advantage of convenience, and may use the house-heating system. It should have a south or southeastern exposure.

If a greenhouse is large enough it may be divided into two temperature zones. For a small greenhouse, where only one temperature is maintained, at a range of 55-60 degrees at night is most satisfactory for African violets, cattleya orchids, gardenias, and roses. The temperature during the day should be 10-15 degrees higher.

Some of the tropical plants are very sensitive to changes in temperature. The amateur should select the more sturdy types.

The ventilators on a greenhouse must be regulated according to outside temperature, wind, and sun. As a general rule the ventilators should be opened in the morning and closed in the afternoon to reduce the heat loss.

Many plants suffer from too little watering or too much. More water is needed when they are growing and flowering, less when resting. In general, watering should be done in the morning, at the time when the ventilators are adjusted. Some plants prefer the temperature of the water to be near the room temperature. In this group are poinsettias, gardenias, lilacs, and roses.

Generous watering when the soil becomes relatively dry produces deeper roots. Frequent, light watering usually results in a less vigorous plant. Some plants, such as azaleas, should be moist at all times. Others, such as poinsettias, need a rest period, at which time, watering should be reduced.

Humidity is an important factor in the greenhouse. Here again, plants vary in their requirements. The relative humidity should be maintained between 50 and 70 per cent. In the home greenhouse, the humidity may be raised by sprinkling the walk and the plants which have smooth foliage. A plant evaporates from its leaves. In dry air the evaporation is fast and must be replaced by its roots. Some plants cannot absorb water quickly and may wilt even in wet soil.

Forcing bloom is an interesting hobby. It may be done in some plants by using electric lights above the plants for 5 hours daily, a few weeks preceding the desired bloom. Some have been forced by using a black cloth over the plant for 4 or 5 hours, in effect, shortening the day. Plants in the first group are: Gardenia, Iris, Stock, and Violets. In the second group are: Chrysanthemum and Poinsettia.

For the full enjoyment of a greenhouse a plan and schedule should be made and followed.

Taft's Policies Could Aid GOP, Writer Believes

By LYLE WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Robert A. Taft were still alive he would have some advice for the top leaders of the Republican party.

It would be to concentrate their thinking on the vast army of absentees, the voters who played hooky on last presidential election day. One-third of the persons eligible to vote last November did not vote.

The 63.6 per cent of eligibles who did vote were divided equally between John F. Kennedy, Democrat, and Richard M. Nixon, Republican. Taft never surrendered to the registration figures and the arguments in support of the statement that the Democratic party had become the majority party in the United States.

Taft believed there was a conservative-minded majority of eligible voters. He believed that this majority could be recorded at the polls in favor of Republican candidates if the party had the courage to challenge Democratic policies honestly instead of halfheartedly copying those policies.

On such basic issues as government spending and deficits, taxes, foreign relations, centralization of government, agriculture and, especially, Big Labor, Taft believed that Republicans should not act, talk or think like Democrats.

The senator insisted that a majority of the voters were with him on that. He had one chance to prove it. That was in the 1950 Ohio senatorial election. Taft's opponent was a man of slight political stature but with a great statewide record as a vote-getter in Ohio. Organized labor ganged up on Taft and in behalf of his opponent. Taft was happy to take them on.

Car With Two Wheels Latest Dream Vehicle

By ROBERT IRVIN

DETROIT (UPI) — Some of the auto industry's dream cars might give the average motorist a nightmare.

Many of them won't start even if you push them because engineers didn't install an engine. Others were built with room for only one person — the driver. And one new dream car has only two wheels.

That's the way auto industry scientists want it. They use the experimental cars to test new ideas in styling and engineering. Thus, an engine isn't always needed. Nor are four wheels.

Only a few of the dream cars have ever gone into mass production. One of these was the Chevrolet Corvette, a plastic-bodied sports car shown as a dream car in 1953 and put on the market the next year.

Another was the Monza, Chevy's luxury sports compact that is taking 45 per cent of all Corvairs sales. It was just a dream car little more than a year ago.

But, by and large, only limited features built into dream cars ever find their way into production models. Other developments are deemed impractical for everyday use.

The industry's newest dream car is the Gyron, a delta-shaped vehicle with only two running wheels. Built by Ford Motor Co., it was unveiled this week at the International Automobile Show in New York City.

The Gyron doesn't have an engine. But Ford stylists said its shape and low silhouette suggest "the possible use of new power sources, such as fuel cells."

Fuel cells long have been a dream of automotive engineers and experiments in that direction are being conducted by several companies. A fuel cell would convert chemical energy into electrical energy within a cell similar to a battery.

In size, the Gyron is the same length as a standard Ford. But it is 10 inches lower and 6 inches wider. A plastic canopy covers the two-seat passenger compartment.

Although the car can't be driven in its present form, Ford engineers said a small gyroscope about two feet in diameter would be enough to stabilize the car on its two wheels. Hence the name "Gyron."

Two small outrigger wheels toward the rear and on each side of the car are retractable. They could be lowered automatically to balance the vehicle when the gyroscope was inactive or until it had gained enough momentum to provide stability.

The Gyron has no steering wheel. Instead, it uses a steering dial with separate rings for automatic speed and steering control. The dial is located in a console between the front seats, enabling the car to be driven from either seat. The Gyron has dual accelerator and brake pads.

Last month, Chrysler Corp. unveiled its Turbomite, a space-age creation of Virgil M. Exender, Chrysler vice president and director of styling.

Unlike the Gyron, the Turbomite can be driven on the highway. It is powered by a new 140-horsepower gas turbine engine.

Chrysler said the turbine represents a "major scientific breakthrough" because it offers rapid acceleration and for the first time in a turbine, engine braking.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
Notes from the foreign news cables:
NATO:
A message from President Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's personal visit to NATO headquarters effectively reduced European fears that the United States was preparing to cut down its direct military aid. Moreover, most of the members were relieved at indications the United States would not press an earlier proposal that NATO become a nuclear power in its own right.

Reasons for their relief were both Russian reaction and expense. Future U. S. policy is expected to be aimed at strengthening NATO's conventional armament.

The Better Life:
Communist East Germany leaders are running into increasing difficulties in delivering the "abundant life" they have been promising the East Germans for years. Two hundred thousand persons fled from the Communist zone last year. In addition, Communist authorities admit that the labor force will have decreased by 650,000 by 1965.

Forecast: A decline in the number of young people leaving school and ready to take jobs and a rise in the number of old age pensioners.

U. S. vs. Red China:
There is speculation that the projected multi-nation Laos peace Red China and the United States. Both will be represented. The 1954 Far East peace conference in Geneva was attended by Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai. Former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles also attended, although he did not sign the accord.

Agitators:
West German leaders expect the Communist underground to launch a campaign in the industrial Ruhr Valley—a leftist stronghold—to stir up labor trouble during the national election campaign late this summer. The Reds are expected to do what they can to confuse election issues, ignite voter emotions and encourage labor agitation.

Representative, Ousted By Church, Lauded By Solons

AUSTIN (UPI)—Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth, who was ousted from the Baptist Church for voting on a bill to help the Carling people establish a brewery in his district, yesterday won the house's praise for voting his "conscience and convictions."

Rev. Cal Sims of Fort Worth's Beacon Baptist Church, asked Shannon to resign after he supported a bill that would permit Carling to build a $20 million brewery in Fort Worth without fear of losing its investment if the precinct where it would be located voted dry.

Shannon, who does not drink nor smoke, was a deacon and Sunday school superintendent in the church.

He said he favored the bill because it was an economic issue not a moral issue.

His stand was defended in personal privilege speeches by Reps. Bill Healy of Paducah, Marshall Bell of San Antonio and Howard Green of Fort Worth.

Volleyball was originated in 1895 as an indoor sport for businessmen who found basketball too vigorous, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

HANDICAP NO HANDICAP—Charles E. Caniff, 40, of Wilmette, Ill., has been chosen "Handicapped American of 1960" by the President's Committee on the Employment of the Physically Handicapped. Caniff was a Marine fighter pilot, was crippled in a crash. He overcame his handicap, established an Indiana rehabilitation center, later was named director of the Conference of Rehabilitation Centers and Facilities in Evanston, Ill. With Caniff are his family: Charles Jr., 12; Michelle, 17; Lynne, 15, and wife Jean.

Hearings On Padre Island Resort Are Opened In Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Texas-sized legislative battle is expected to develop today when a Senate Interior subcommittee opens hearings on establishment of Padre Island national seashore area off the Texas Gulf Coast.

The hearings will move over to the House April 13, where Rep. J. T. Rutherford, D-Tex., will preside.

Rutherford and Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., cooperated in setting the hearings close together so witnesses from Texas would not have to make two trips to Washington.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., a leader in the fight to set up a park on the 118-mile long island, will testify before both subcommittees.

A spokesman for Yarborough predicted that Cameron County Judge Oscar Dancy would be one of the leading witnesses for the park. He also said newly elected mayor Ben McDonald of Corpus Christi would be in the forefront of those favoring the park.

The Senate subcommittee will consider Yarborough's bill, which would authorize an 88-mile preserve. This measure includes recommendations of the national park service that $5 million be spent over the next five years for seashore development. About $4 million would be used for land acquisition and the remainder for roads, headquarters buildings a ranger station and similar facilities.

But Reps. Joe Kilgore and John Young, Texas Democrats who represent districts where the island is located, want only a 65-mile park. They also want a road to be built the length of the island. Their measure would authorize expenditure of $5 million for land acquisition.

The battle will center over the length of the park and what type of road should be constructed. The congressmen believe a road the length of the island would lead to development of the entire island.

Yarborough said such a road would be a boon to private land owners. He favors access roads only.

The senator prepared a statement comparing economic benefits that would accrue to the Lower Rio Grande Valley from the park with those of the Cape Hatteras area in North Carolina.

He said the number of visitors to the cape has almost doubled in the past six years since a preserve was established. He said 467,000 persons visited the preserve last year and that one million were expected to use the facilities annually by the latter part of this decade.

"Since Padre Island will have at least as much to offer tourists as Cape Hatteras," Yarborough said, "it seems logical to surmise that tourist visits to the Corpus Christi-Brownsville area would increase substantially as they have at Cape Hatteras."

The senator quoted state statistics to show the tourist business was off $144 million in Texas last year from 1957. He said creation of the preserve would restore some of this loss.

"Properly developed, a Texas sized Padre Island national seashore recreation area will mean more money in the cash register of every store in the area," Yarborough said.

He said the Texas Gulf Coast "is destined to be built into another Miami Beach type resort area." He said a seashore preserve would hasten such development.

Anti-Cancer Agent Found In Smoking

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—A research scientist reports Sunday that cigarettes contains an agent which acts to bar cancer-producing processes. He proposed a plan to develop cigarettes that he said might end the danger of lung cancer from smoking.

Dr. Ernest L. Wynder of the Sloan-Kettering Institute, who has studied the smoking-cancer problem for 12 years, told the American Association of Cancer Research that his studies on mice have shown that cigarettes contain three agents related to cancer.

The first group is composed of "initiating carcinogens"—chemicals which act to cause cancer. The second group contained promoters which stimulate the carcinogens in producing cancer.

The third group—the new development—he called "anti-carcinogens" which bar the cancer-producing process.

Wynder proposed a program to develop a filter that would reduce the initiating carcinogens and the stimulating promoters and a production process that would add more anti-carcinogens to a cigarette.

Bed-Pushing Houston U. Group Claims To Have Set New Mark

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—The collegiate bed-pushing caper has moved deep into South Texas, but one group of fraternity boys ran into opposition over the weekend from the Texas Highway Patrol grounds they were a menace to drivers.

Ten weary University of Houston students pushed a bed-on-wheels onto the Texas A&I College campus in Kingsville Sunday after a 235-mile jaunt from Houston.

The Houston students arrived in Kingsville at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, less than 48 hours after they had left Houston on Friday, and promptly claimed a new record. Larry Edwards, acting as spokesman for the Houston students, said they had averaged 4.9 miles an hour over the 235-mile course and considered this "remarkable because the army considers a speed of 4.3 miles an hour a fast march."

At Waco, members of Texas Christian University's Delta Sigma Pi fraternity pushed a bed from Fort Worth to the Baylor University campus, arriving Saturday night in the rain after a 12-hour trip.

The fraternity's president, Gordon Barr of Grand Rapids, Mich.,

said the Highway Patrol had ruled against any more such stunts on the ground they hampered travel by motorists.

Fraternity brothers at Baylor said they hoped to get an okeh from the Highway Patrol to push the bed to Austin.

Ferguson said members of Alpha Phi Omega fraternity at A&I had accepted a challenge from the Houston group to push the bed, mounted on toy wagon wheels, 100 miles to Pan American College at Edinburg.

U.S. Declared Making Progress In Education

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The United States is making "definite progress" toward the improvement of science teaching in its high schools.

That heartening report comes from one of the nation's greatest "teaching scientists," Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg.

Dr. Seaborg recently was named chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. Prior to that, he was chancellor of the University of California at Berkeley. But he is most famous as a research chemist who won the Nobel Prize for the discovery of plutonium and other new elements heavier than uranium.

Along with many other leading scientists, Dr. Seaborg has been deeply involved in the national effort to strengthen high school science programs. He heads a committee which has produced a new high school chemistry textbook and related laboratory materials that are vastly superior to anything now available to teachers. The new chemistry course is being tested this year in some California schools, and will undergo further testing and revision next year. By 1963, it should be available for general use.

"Similar course changes are being tested in mathematics, biology and physics," Dr. Seaborg said. "The overall result should be a great strengthening of the course content of science teaching in our secondary schools."

He sees reason for cheer also in the "new emphasis on laboratory work" which is evident in high schools across the country. Most authorities agree that science cannot be taught effectively without laboratory work. But U. S. high schools in the past have been woefully lacking in laboratory equipment.

That deficiency is being remedied in a great many schools with the help of federal grants under the National Defense Education Act. More than $75 million in federal grants have been used for procurement of equipment for high school science teaching, and under the law, each dollar had to be matched with a dollar in local funds.

Finally—and most important—some headway is being made in improvement of teacher training. This problem is crucial because the finest science textbooks and the best-equipped laboratories are useless without competent teachers.

The United States still is in an extremely weak position in this regard. The National Science Foundation reports that of the 22,000 new math and science teachers hired by U. S. high schools annually, only 6,000 are fully accredited with a college major in the field they are to teach.

The National Science Foundation, the Atomic Energy Commission and other public and private agencies are sponsoring a wide variety of summer institutes, in-service training programs and other courses through which high school science teachers may strengthen their qualifications.

Dr. Seaborg does not underestimate the vast amount of work still to be done in improving high school science teaching. But he believes that if the nation will "continue and accelerate its present momentum" toward that goal, it can achieve a "virtual revolution" in science teaching by the end of the 1960's.

Full Slate Kicks Off 1961 Major League Play

By NORMAN MILLERE
United Press International

"This may be a 'new frontier' season for baseball, but the champion Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees start play today with the same old lineups that were good enough to win them pennants in 1960.

The new era of expansion, launched Monday when the new Washington Senators made a 4-3 losing debut against the Chicago White Sox in the nation's capital, gets into full swing today when the 16 other clubs open their 1961 season.

For the most part, the opening-day pitching assignments were entrusted to such old hands as Roberts, Warren Spahn, Whitey Ford and Bob Feller.

But the inaugural day lineups also will include approximately 16 rookies eager to live up to the impressive showing made Monday in Washington by a presidential rookie named John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

President Kennedy made one of the longest ceremonial tosses on record to start the new season, and then sat back among the crowd of 26,725 to watch manager Mickey Vernon and his novice ball club take on the White Sox.

The Senators promptly showed the President and fellow fans a giveaway program that Congress never would have dared to pass.

The Washington club made four errors to lose the game, and become the first club ever to occupy 10th place in the American League standings.

Washington led 3-2 after six innings only to have first baseman Dale Long make a throwing error in the seventh and catcher Pete Daley follow suit in the eighth to present the White Sox with the runs that won the game. Reiever Frank Baumann received credit for the Chicago victory while Dick Donovan was the loser.

Back to the Pirates and Yankees: Both clubs will stand pat with last season's lineups, at least for a while.

The Pirates, who oddly are receiving only lukewarm support to repeat as NL pennant winners, open against the San Francisco Giants on the West Coast. Bob Friend, 18-12 last season, is due to start for the Pirates.

Sam Jones (18-14) gets the call for the Giants, who launch the season with four new faces. These are manager Al Dark; third baseman Harvey Kuenn, obtained in a winter trade with Cleveland; and rookies Charlie Hiller at second and Tom Haller behind the plate.

The Yankees start a new regime under Ralph Houk, who replaces the eminently successful Casey Stengel. Ole Case guided the club to 10 pennants and 7 world championships during the past 12 seasons.

The Los Angeles Angels, the other of the new clubs in the expanded 10-team AL, take wing against the Orioles at Baltimore. In other AL games, the Detroit Tigers host the Cleveland Indians, and the Boston Red Sox entertain the Kansas City A's, Washington and Chicago are idle.

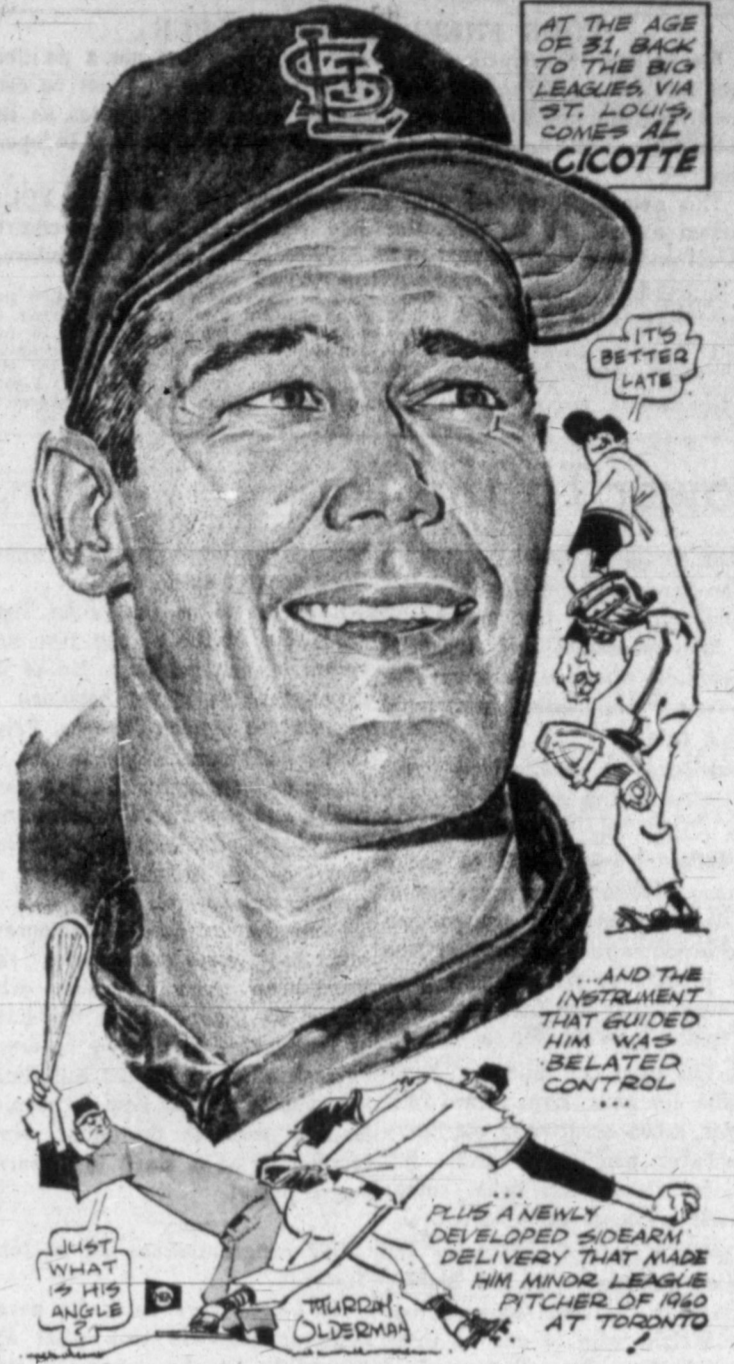

The Los Angeles Dodgers, picked by many to win the NL pennant, are expected to draw the largest home crowd when they take on the Philadelphia Phillies in Tuesday's only night game. A crowd of about 50,000 should be on hand when Don Drysdale (15-14) opposes the veteran Robin Roberts (12-16).

In other NL games, the Milwaukee Braves entertain the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs, under "head coach" Vedic Himsal, meet the Reds at Cincinnati. The Braves-Cards game pits last season's only two 21 game winners, Spahn starting for Milwaukee and Ernie Broglio for St. Louis.

Machen Eyes Floyd After DeJohn Win

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Edie Machen, a calm man turned tiger, waited today for a call from promoters and a crack at Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight crown.

Machen, the number two challenger, made a punching bag out of sixth-ranked Mike DeJohn Monday night as he pounded his way to a bloody and unanimous 10-round decision.

"I fought an aggressive fight because I wanted to make a good showing," said Machen after the battle. "I'm ready for Patterson now."

"The champ says I'm in line for a shot. I'm waiting for the call."

DeJohn never was in contention in the big heavyweight battle before 9,000 fans at the Cow Palace. He started bleeding from the nose in the fifth round and by the end of the night the gore covered him, Machen and referee Matt Zidich and a goodly portion of the ring-side crowd.

"I never saw so much blood before," said Eddie in the dressing room as his handlers swabbed him clean. "But it ain't so bad when it's not yours."

Judge Johnny Lotsey had it 8-1. Judge Jack Silver, 8-2, and referee Zidich 6-3, all for Machen. The UPI had it 6-2 for Machen.

There were no knockdowns in the bout and the vaunted blockbuster that DeJohn was supposed to carry never got off.

PHS Plays Dogs Here

Pampa's Harvesters, smarting from a 1-0 defeat at the hands of the unbeaten Lubbock Westerner last Friday, took on another undefeated District 3-4A squad at 4 p.m. today when Borger's Bulldogs (2-0) came to Harvester Park.

The Bulldogs, who have had a worse luck than the Harvesters in getting in their games, have played only three games all year long, losing to Dumas, 10-2, in a non-conference opener. Since then, Borger has defeated Plainview, 11-9 and Amarillo, 2-1, but has had four other 3-4A games canceled by bad weather.

Two of the four cancellations came last weekend when crucial games with Monterey (4-0) and Lubbock were postponed due to rain and cold weather.

Last weekend's weather also affected Pampa as Saturday's Monterey-PhS tilt was called after a noon rain pelted Harvester Park.

In the only games played Saturday, Tascosa broke the cellar logjam by topping Palo Duro, 2-1, in a game called at the end of 4 1/2 innings because of cold weather, and Amarillo surprised Plainview, 10-6, for the Sandies first conference victory of the campaign.

Pampa carried a 2-2 district mark into today's fray, holding wins over Amarillo, 6-1, and Palo Duro, 3-1, while losing to Plainview, 1-0, and Lubbock.

Coach Deck Wolft indicated that Mike Clark, the husky junior who has yet to lose in two decisions, would probably start on the mound today for Pampa while Borger probably would use Bob Connelly who fired a one-hitter at Amarillo last week.

In other games today, the big contest looms in Lubbock where the Westerners and Monterey come together in a game that could determine the favorite for the 3-4A title, while Amarillo (1-4) plays Palo Duro (0-4) and Plainview (1-4) and Tascosa (1-2) meet in games that will have no effect on the district's first division.

GARY PLAYER... new Masters champ

Palmer Falters On Last Hole To Lose

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Little Gary Player of South Africa is the new Masters champion only because Arnold Palmer is human after all.

The new king of golf is only five feet, seven inches tall and weighs "about 152 pounds soaking wet," but he has the touch of Midas on the greens.

The golden touch would not have been enough to win Monday, however; had not human finishes, faltered on when it looked like he had

Hawks Face Uphill Battle

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Celtics will be out to wind up the 1960-61 basketball season tonight—a few hours after Boston's 1961 baseball season opens.

The Celtics could make it three straight National Basketball championships and four or five with a win over the St. Louis Hawks at the Garden.

The Red Sox opened their season this afternoon, entertaining the Kansas City Athletics.

Boston leads the Hawks, three games to one, in the best of seven series. Should a sixth game be needed, it would be at St. Louis Thursday night. The seventh game would be played here Saturday night.

However, Boston vows that neither the sixth nor seventh game will take place. Most of the players are anxious to wrap things up, collect their money and scatter to their homes.

The Celtics, it's generally agreed, have the horses to do just this tonight. Though not counting St. Louis out, the Celtics are supremely confident of their own abilities. After battling back to take the fourth game at St. Louis Sunday, they figure to shell the Hawks out of the playoffs on their home court.

The Garden was completely sold out before Monday noon. It will be the second straight 13,909 capacity crowd in Boston, the second game also selling out.

Thus far, a practically unknown Boston rookie, 5-6 Tom (Satch) Sanders, has been the big surprise and one of the keys in the series. Coach Paul Seymour of St. Louis credits him with enabling the Celtics to win the all-important fourth game.

Chicago Nears Hockey Crown

CHICAGO (UPI)—The explosive Chicago Black Hawks were halfway to hockey's most prized trophy, the Stanley Cup, today and new hard-hitting tactics might be enough to carry them the rest of the way.

The Black Hawks blasted three goals in six minutes and 23 seconds to trip the Detroit Red Wings, 3-1, and take a 2-to-1 lead in games in their best-of-seven series.

It wasn't as much the scoring outbursts as the way the team played that brought cheers from coach Rudy Plouffe and General Manager Tommy Ivan.

"We played the way we're capable of playing," Plouffe said, "and the way they like to play. I think the speed of (Bobby) Hull, (Red) Hay and (Murray) Balfour will offset Detroit's speed in (Alex) Delvecchio, (Vic) Stasiuk and (Gordie) Howe."

"We've had a complex worrying about Howe. Now let Howe worry about Hull. We've waited for the day Hull started passing off and making assists instead of firing goals, and now he's a mature two-way National Hockey League player."

'Winonly' Captures Woodhaven Purse

By United Press International

Fred W. Hooper's Winonly, making a strong bid for sprint honors in 1961, showed good speed in the stretch Monday to capture the $10,000 Woodhaven Handicap at Aqueduct.

It was the fifth victory in eight starts this year for Winonly, including a recent decision over the Florida sprint champion, April Skies, in Gulfstream Park's Armed Handicap.

Johnny Rotz, aboard the bay son of Olympia, allowed favored Brush Fire to set the pace for most of the seven furlongs in the Woodhaven. With less than a furlong remaining, Rotz turned his mount loose and Winonly responded to score by a length and one-half over Vaessa's Boy with Brush Fire fading to third.

Winonly, clocked in 1:25 2-5, returned $9.30, $4.70 and $2.20.

Vir - Marie equalled the track record for seven furlongs at Laurel with a clocking of 1:24 2-5 while winning the $5,000 feature. Vir - Marie led virtually all the way and crossed the wire three lengths ahead of Cherry Flip, with Vanajress another head back in third place. Ridden by Art Chambers, Vir - Marie paid $11.20, $4.80 and $3.40.

Big Steve rallied from third place in the stretch to nose out Red Cent in the feature at Gulfstream and return $5.50, $3.70 and $3.00.

Former Bowling Star Sparks Team's Rise With 614 Series

DETROIT (UPI)—Joe Wilman, a member of bowling's hall of fame, made his annual token appearance at the American Bowling Congress tournament here Monday night and helped his team gain seventh place with a 614 series.

Wilman, 55, now limited to only three games per ABC tournament since suffering a severe heart attack while preparing to bowl in the 1955 tourney in Syracuse, N.Y., starred for the Beryyn Funeral Home Club of Chicago in regular team competition.

Wilman's team totaled 2989. Wilman had games of 169, 246 and 199. Robert Howley, son of Pete Howley, Chicago bowling immortal and one of the original members of the game's hall of fame, led the team with a 686. Howley had games of 182, 258 and 246.

The Albert Pick hotels of Chicago took fourth place in Classic team standings with a 5901 six game total. The Pick club had 2958 Monday night after an opening 2943 block.

In District Track Meet Saturday In Amarillo

Tascosa Is 3-4A Choice

Tascosa's well-rounded Rebels, runaway winners of the wind swept, near-record devoid Amarillo Relays last weekend, are the odds on picks to win the 1961 District 3-4A track meet Saturday at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

The Rebels, winning first places in seven events last weekend, amassed 56 1/2 points, 20 more than runnerup Palo Duro to make a shambles of the meet that saw only one record set in two days, that coming on Friday when Tascosa's Robert Hodges threw the shot 55' 4 3/8."

In only two events—the broad jump and the mile run—was Tascosa shut out, placing at least one boy in every other class.

Tascosa has two good relay teams in the 440 and mile with Tim Elkins, John Ralston, Eddie Whiddon and Mark Yarborough making up the former and Arvil Flippin, Chuck Frawley, Whiddon and Ralston composing the mile relay quartet.

The Rebels fastest time in the mile relay this year was a non-winning 3:20.1 unreeled at the West Texas Relays in Odessa March 18. The Rebs were beaten by Andrews and Abilene at Odessa, with Andrews running a 3:18.1, the fastest time in the state this year.

Tascosa likewise is strong in the hurdles with its double-duty performer Gary Wood. Wood won both the 120-yard highs and the 180 yard lows at Amarillo with a 15.1 and a 20.4, respectively. However, he has turned in a 14.9 in the highs and a 19.6 in the lows, both marks coming in the Irving Invitational meet at El Paso on March 4.

Flippin, Frawley and Yarborough also ply their trade in the dash business too, with Flippin and Frawley placing 1-2 in the 880-yard dash at Amarillo, Flippin's winning time being 2:03.9. Frawley, however, has the best time in the state with a 1:54.9 run at the Mustang Relays in Andrews on March 31.

Yarborough won the 220 at Amarillo with a 22.3, but was aided by the fact that Monterey's speedy Lynn Livesay—who has the state's best time with 21.1—was absent due to an injury. However, Livesay is expected to be here Saturday and should give Yarborough a run for his money.

Other schools standing a chance of sending entrants to the Region 1 meet in Odessa on April 22—the first two places in each event qualify for regional—are Floyd Burke, the flashy Palo Duro sophomore in the 100-yard dash; Lynn Saunders, Palo Duro, 440-yard dash; Tom Middleton, Lubbock, broad jump; George Osman, Borger, pole vault; Twink Terry, Tascosa, high jump, and Richard Palmer, Monterey, mile run.

Monterey also one of the top 440-yard relay teams in West Texas, despite their third-place showing at Amarillo last weekend. The Plainsmen quartet has run a 42.6 this season in winning the event at the Possum Kingdom Relays.

Amarillo, which might pick up a few points in the weight events before falling by the wayside.

Pampa's strongest threats will be Cooper, Steve Dobbin in the 220 and 100, and possibly Billy Hughes in the 880 and Bill Martin in the high jump. Hughes missed the Amarillo Relays while the other three advanced into the finals before falling by the wayside.

Tower To The Top

How to figure Texas voters? They endorsed the New Frontier in November and, five months later, they nominate two senatorial candidates whose enthusiasm for the New Frontier runs from tepid to ice cold!

Did Texas reject the New Frontier even before it got going? Of course, the answer is that in November Texas voted to make Lyndon Johnson vice president of the United States. In the present senatorial campaign, neither the vice presidency nor religion were involved as issues: Texans went to the polls to vote for a man.

In this case, the man who headed the list was Republican John Tower, a conservative of the Barry Goldwater persuasion, and Bill Blakley, incumbent, who counts himself a conservative too.

Tower was far and away the leading candidate. He led Blakley 322,531 to 187,064. Congressman Jim Wright who is one of those whangdoodles who call themselves "moderates," ran third and Will Wilson, another one, was a poor fourth. The two liberals Maverick and Gonzalez, ran fifth and sixth respectively. Maverick not only endorsed the New Frontier, he put on rather an embarrassing display of public affection for it. The AFL-CIO endorsed Maverick, but that's about all. Apparently the unions don't control Texas yet. Or, more accurately, union leaders don't control Texas yet. Or, more accurately, union leaders don't control the votes of their members.

Whichever of the two contenders wins the runoff in June, Texas will have good representation in its junior senator. But with Yarborough up there, we need something special extra.

It seems to us that John Tower is the better of the two survivors of the primary. He is independent. He is not beholden in any way to Lyndon Johnson, Price Daniel or Sam Rayburn. He is young and energetic. He has good health and sound basic understanding of the fundamental problem of our nation: individual liberty or government control.

Even the courthouse Democrats must have some respect for the Republican school teacher who bested 63 Democrats in the state of Texas. Now they have the dreary task of lining up for Bill Blakley, who isn't their kind of people. Neither respects the other. How terrible to be a slave to a party — any party!

Our congratulations go to John Tower. He fought very hard; he never compromised. He took what appeared to be the unpopular side of the political fence. He said, frankly, that he had "no influence whatever with Johnson or Rayburn." He said he would do whatever he could to halt the march of the socialistic New Frontier. He has denied Lyndon Johnson twice.

There is something to be said for such a man. We hope he will continue to campaign even harder. He is going to have to overcome the whole group of Democrats who have been abusing Blakley for the past month ("part-time Democrat") and now face the unpleasant task of being good soldiers and voting for a label instead of a man.

The Magic Lamp

The grand illusion of the age appears to be that one can vote himself, security and peace.

Capitalistic 'System'

Many economists, among them some of good reputation, take pains in their writings and pronouncements to explain that while capitalism can probably be justified under certain circumstances, there are flaws in the system which government must remedy.

We hear it over and over again, as we also listen to charges that capitalism is outmoded, that it is all right for the days of Adam Smith but these are modern times, and so on.

These observations, whether they come from professional economists or not, are actually inimical to the concepts of private ownership and stem, in fact, from an ignorance of the nature of capitalism.

What is assumed is that capitalism is some kind of a system which men have dismissed and, therefore, the system has the same kind of flaws in it that men admittedly have.

But this is not true. Capitalism is not a system. Nor have men devised it. Capitalism, of the private ownership variety, is simply nature in action. It is not a man-made system and hence subject to the flaws of human beings, as a system. It is the natural way men have of exchanging what they have for what they want and in the process finding incentives to produce more, to save more and to invest in future savings and future production.

Admittedly, capitalism is acted out by men who, in themselves, are fallible. But this is not to say that the system is fallible, but only that men are fallible.

Socialism, which is in fact the economic opposite of capitalism, is a man-made system. It does not work naturally. For it to work at all over any period of time, some men must force other men to obey artificial rules and regulations.

If men rely on socialism to work automatically, as capitalism does, they will find themselves at an impasse in short order.

Take any socialized community you care to name and examine its record. There are hundreds to select from, for human beings have striven for years to try to improve on nature in the field of production and exchange.

plete, reveals one invariable rule. Ideological socialists, even when motivated by deep religious convictions and thus who are amenable to discipline and self-sacrifice, cannot live for long under a socialized system unless or until force is applied.

Men make socialism. Capitalism is nature's answer to man's failure with socialist scheme.

When capitalism is invoked, production and progress ensue. When socialism is invoked, even for deep religious feelings and convictions, stagnation, violence and frustration follow.

We should learn by the record of history that capitalism — private ownership of property, including the means of production and distribution — is nature's way of granting to human kind an abundance of all good things.

We should learn from the same source that socialization of these things is man's way of trying to get something for nothing by robbing the productive (always legally and usually by taxation) so that the non-productive will have "equality."

It is sometimes said that capitalism is not better than the men who practice it. This is not true. Men are men and are subject to all types of human error. But capitalism, as it must function in the market place, invokes automatic checks and balances which cause the entrepreneur to discipline himself. It is not that the man in the market place necessarily wishes to discipline himself. It is, rather, that he wants the rewards which can only be found in the market place. To get them at all, and to get them abundantly, self-discipline is mandatory.

Strictly on the record let us inquire: Is it safer and more prudent to trust in a man-made system invoked by men, acted out by men and enforced, sometimes viciously, by men, when we know that men are subject to error; or is it safer and more prudent to trust in a natural system, which in its own operation tends to reward the thrifty and productive and penalizes the miser-do-well and the non-productive?

How About Middle Aged Peace Corps?

ROME Italy —Should President Kennedy's Peace Corps be limited to the young?

How about a middle-age Corps? To start with, the inclusion of middle-agers would work wonders for the health of the United States. As outlined, the Peace Corps members will be paid practically nothing, and will have to live on the sparse rations of the country in which they serve.

What a blessing the new diet would be for the middle-aged businessman! In a few months he is young and energetic. He has good health and sound basic understanding of the fundamental problem of our nation: individual liberty or government control.

On his return, he'd make up in the cost of his food the money he had sacrificed by going abroad with the Middle-Aged Peace Corps. He'd no longer want ham and eggs and hot cakes and sausages for breakfast, but would grab himself a handful of cold rice as he ran — without drawing a deep breath, either — for the 8:15 to town.

At lunch a morsel of pickled fish, or a few berries would carry him nicely through the afternoon, and he'd go home ready for a substantial dinner of a banana boiled in buffalo milk and some more pickled fish.

The middle-aged Peace Corps member would, I believe, enter more into the spirit of a new country than a youthful corpsman. This is especially true where native costumes and native dances are concerned. It has been my observation that the middle-aged American man no sooner puts foot on a foreign shore than he heads for a haberdashery, or what serves for one, and decks himself in splashing finery as fast as possible. By nightfall he is indistinguishable from the village chief or the leading alderman.

The middle-aged woman is always an eager learner of native dances. I have seen them taking lessons in Fiji with all the earnestness of ballet students swirling, stomping—and spinning in time, or nearly in time, to drums, gongs, and one-stringed banjos.

The middle-aged woman and men would dance their way into the hearts of their new country faster than youngsters ever would. Middle-aged Corps members would be more relaxing than youngsters. They might not start out with as much fiery zeal, but over the long pull would have more staying power. Years bring patience and understanding, and it is going to require both to teach a native of the Congo shorthand, pressure cooking and permanent waving. Or instruct a rural Malayan in the art of bed-making, chicken hatching, and interior decoration.

My only worry about the Peace Corps, young or middle-aged, is that we'll teach crafts to people all over the world, and our exports, already a matter of grave concern, will suffer. The people will build what they need and not have to buy it from us or anyone else.

Let's not forget the Japanese. We broke our necks to teach them, and now they undersell us everywhere on the globe.

and tranquilizers. As a matter of fact, the tremors produced by tranquilizers may be accompanied by other manifestations of shaking palsy (Parkinson's disease).

Black and blue spots (purpura), not due to injury, to aulfa drugs taken internally or applied externally, to gold injections and to certain pain killers.

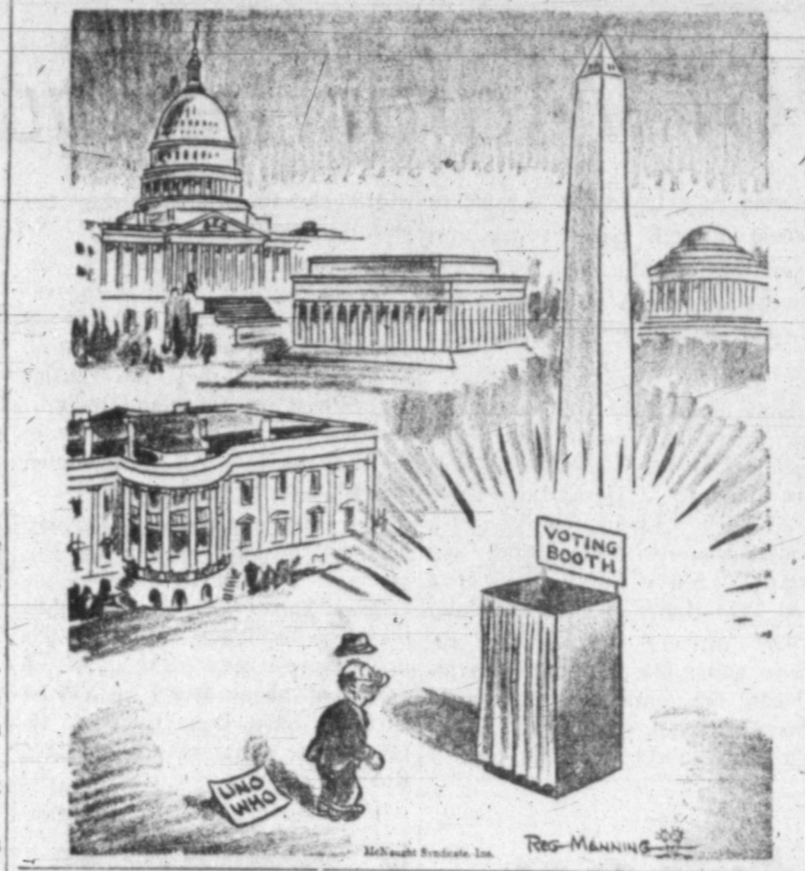

Growth of hair on a woman's face (hirsutism), to male sex hormones, perhaps given for the relief of menstrual disorders, or to cortical steroids, used in certain types of arthritis.

Sleeplessness (insomnia), to appetite depressants especially if taken in conjunction with thyroid extract or to nasal-decongestants, especially if taken by inhalation before retiring.

Sleepiness during waking hours, to tranquilizers, anti-histamines, sedatives and sleeping medicines taken the previous night.

Perhaps these examples are sufficient to make the point that properly selected, useful drugs occasionally scatter their effects beyond the target area. You can shed light on this possibility for your doctor by discontinuing medication for a few days and noting the effects on these side reactions. Then, it's up to him to decide whether to reduce your dose, substitute another product of similar action, or to continue to bombard the target and ignore the scattering effects.

New Monument For Washington, D.C.

Allen - Scott Report: Why Was Indictment of High-Official of Electrical Firm Quashed?—Kefauver To Ask

WASHINGTON — A potentially sensational bombshell is behind the investigation Senator Estes Kefauver is opening later this week of exactly how prices were rigged by the 29 electrical equipment companies recently convicted and fined on such charges.

Kefauver has authoritative information the indictment of a high official of one of these firms was mysteriously quashed without explanation or announcement.

Who and what was responsible for this extraordinary backstage action is still unknown. But Kefauver has conclusive evidence that the indictment was secretly quashed, and he proposes to dig into it thoroughly.

Witnesses already have been subpoenaed to testify about this in public hearings. Further, the Tennessee anti-monopoly crusader isn't the only one interested in the mystery.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy also is looking into it. At his orders, the matter has been laid before a Philadelphia grand jury for full airing and report.

It was a Philadelphia grand jury that originally indicted the electric company officials, 14 of whom were fined and sentenced to jail after pleading guilty to numerous charges of price-fixing.

For Kefauver's probe, including the secretly quashed indictment, he is seeking the proceedings of the original grand jury.

Whether he gets them depends in a large measure on a forthcoming ruling by a federal district judge in Philadelphia on similar requests by California and Minnesota. The two states want these records to press multi-million dollar claims against the convicted corporations.

In a letter to Attorney General Kennedy, Kefauver explained: "Access to the subpoena list of the jaguar is the largest and most powerful cat in the Americas. Sometimes — but very rarely — it is as big as a tiger."

As Soviet Ambassador to Canada, he was deeply implicated in an atomic spy ring following World War II, and was expelled. Subsequently, wherever he has served, he has been closely watched as a spy leader.

In Cuba, other foreign diplomats consider him chiefly in that role. That view is corroborated by Kudriatsev's frequent trips to Mexico City, which intelligence has long charged is a focal point of Red spies.

ANOTHER RED GRAB — The Castro regime is preparing another "revolutionary" shakedown of Cubans. It is going to impose a new currency that will do away with the traditional peso. Purpose of this scheme is a large-scale currency devaluation at the people's expense in an effort to offset increasing financial straits.

Red China wants no U.S. surplus commodities to feed its hungry millions. George McGovern, director of the food-for-peace program, has told congressional leaders that Chinese Red Cross officials have sent word through neutral diplomatic channels that, "We can take care of ourselves and don't want any help from the U.S." For this reason, the Kennedy Administration has decided to make no offer of surplus crops to the Peiping regime.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — There is a new kind of doctor around these days and I have to say I like the guy. He is young, forthright, blunt, knows just about all there is to know, doesn't flinch from turning you over to an osteopath for a little bone knocking, and takes a quiet view of long trips as essential both for mind and body. He is about as far from the old-fashioned, watch-chain-around-the-lunny-family-physician as we are from the cave man.

Having suffered two bouts with flu, near pneumonia and a few other assorted ailments — this vicious winter, I confided in a friend of mine who makes his buck writing novels and this friend said: "I have a doctor. You'll either hate him or embrace him, but he'll fix you. What you need is a good fixer, not a theorist. Go see him." So I made the appointment and I scarcely got to open my mouth.

"I have the bad news from Tom," said young Dr. Kildare, 1961 model. "Two wrestles to the mat with flu, a night when it looked like pneumonia. All right, I'll make the tests and do the mungo-jumbo bit so you feel impressed, but I can tell you now: you live like a maven. You bring up these things on yourself and one of the first things I want you to do is to go see a bone manipulator and have him twist your skeleton around until you yell. I know we're not supposed to hobnob with them, but they have their uses, they certainly do. I'll check with him."

Lapse of time, during which my spine is pretzled by the osteopath and my post-nasal drips dry up, I feel healthy and my blood seems to be moving through my veins again. The osteopath is also young and vigorous — and says only: "If you'd done this a few times long ago instead of being handcuffed to legend you'd be better off. Spine needs a little going over, young man, then."

Back to young, young Dr. Kildare. He isn't impressed. "Better look in your eye, I must say," he growls. "You've lost that searching for the undertaker, hand-to-hand, about time. Now then, this thing of going to sleep at 4 in the morning and getting up at 8 and then trying to make it up with two long nights of 10 hours each of sleep is for idiots. It's silly. I don't care if you sleep only three hours every night, but be consistent. Don't be a wilder, your system. It's a creature of habit. Doesn't much matter what the habit is, so long as you stick along regularly with it. If four hours is enough, good. Make it four. If you need eight, use eight. Also, Colonel, you aren't young any more. Not that young. Stop punishing yourself. Time is having its way with you. Settle down to it. So you miss seeing someone. Heck, I know people who miss seeing someone every day. They don't die of it. Suppose you don't meet that new soprano from London. She'll survive and so will you. Cool off, Colonel. You can't know everyone in the world. Now about a trip. Where do you want to go: Africa, Ceylon, Palm Beach or Helsinki? It doesn't much matter what you need is the trip part, the change. What you find when you get there is incidental. The preparation, the packing, the airplane, the ride, those count. They tonic you, bub. Deep and good. You begin to feel excitement."

I said I might go to West Berlin late in April for a variety of reasons.

"Fine," he said. "You don't have to have a reason. Just go. It's raining when you get there? So what? It rains on a lot of people a lot of places every 24 hours. They don't die of that, either. They just grumble. Grumbling helps. Clears the mind. Now get out of here and put some order in your life and stop eating sandwiches on the run and go see some place you've never seen before. I don't want to see you until September. Oh by the way, your lungs, heart and blood pressure are okay — if you think it's important. Be seeing you. Nice to have met you."

UNDER SCRUTINY — U.S. authorities are watching closely the frequent trips to New York by Sergei Kudriatsev, Soviet Ambassador to Cuba.

The Red diplomat has been commuting between Havana and New York via Mexico City. His most recent trip was late last month, when he spent a week pow-wowing with Russian Foreign Minister Gromyko at the United Nations. Since the first of the year, Kudriatsev has made at least five visits to New York, all by way of Mexico City.

Kudriatsev is noted for espionage operations. As Soviet Ambassador to Canada, he was deeply implicated in an atomic spy ring following World War II, and was expelled. Subsequently, wherever he has served, he has been closely watched as a spy leader.

In Cuba, other foreign diplomats consider him chiefly in that role. That view is corroborated by Kudriatsev's frequent trips to Mexico City, which intelligence has long charged is a focal point of Red spies.

ANOTHER RED GRAB — The Castro regime is preparing another "revolutionary" shakedown of Cubans. It is going to impose a new currency that will do away with the traditional peso. Purpose of this scheme is a large-scale currency devaluation at the people's expense in an effort to offset increasing financial straits.

Red China wants no U.S. surplus commodities to feed its hungry millions. George McGovern, director of the food-for-peace program, has told congressional leaders that Chinese Red Cross officials have sent word through neutral diplomatic channels that, "We can take care of ourselves and don't want any help from the U.S." For this reason, the Kennedy Administration has decided to make no offer of surplus crops to the Peiping regime.

The American Way

THE ART OF DECEIT
By Willis E. Stone

Divide and conquer is a technique long and successfully used by the Washington bureaucracy to build their empires at the expense of the American people. These empires now consist of 40 per cent of the land area and 20 per cent of the industrial capacity of the United States and absorb more than half of the total revenue of the Federal Government.

So long as public resentment remained scattered, the Federal corporate activities flourished and expanded with little hindrance. Now, however, the "Proposed 23rd Amendment" pending in Congress as H. J. Res. 23 threatens the very existence of these unconstitutional operations. The American people are consolidating behind the "Proposed 23rd Amendment." Four States, Wyoming, Texas, Nevada and Louisiana, have formally approved it. As this is written, the Amendment is pending before the Legislatures in 21 States.

To head off action on the "Proposed 23rd Amendment" which will prove fatal to bureaucracy's dream of total domination, bureaucracy has used its access to the Congress to produce Senate Document No. 5 an instrument of deceit and subterfuge.

This document, supported by a letter of unrivaled misinformation by North Dakota's Senator Young, caused the North Dakota Senate to table the Resolution for the "Proposed 23rd Amendment." Congressman Don Short of North Dakota wrote Congressman James B. Utt, author of H. J. Res. 23, asking for clarification. On February 25, 1961, Mr. Utt replied:

"There are several misstatements in Senator Young's letter. I assume they are unintentional as apparently he has made no study of the 'Proposed 23rd Amendment.' 'Apparently the Senate believes that corporation taxes would be repealed. He should know better than this.' The Supreme Court held that corporation taxes were an excise tax and would therefore not be affected by repeal of the 16th Amendment.

"The resolution does not include every business operation but only those businessmen not permitted by the Constitution anyway. Therefore, the post offices, national parks (purchases with the consent of the States), federal buildings, etc., are not included.

"The Senator's statement that these yards (navy yards which are already provided for in the Constitution) construct most of our aircraft carriers, atomic submarines, etc., is misleading and untrue. Most of the submarines are built by private contractors such as General Dynamics and others. The Newport Shipbuilding Corp., the largest and most economical shipbuilder, contracts to build many of our navy ships.

"The federal Building in Bismarck would not be disturbed in any way. The suggestion that President Kennedy's family would escape taxes on their scotch whiskey monopoly is absurd as excise taxes on whiskey are not included (in the amendment) nor are the corporate taxes on their corporate holdings.

"The Senator is wrong when he states that income taxes make up 75 per cent of the total revenue. The Senator does not realize that selling government owned industrial facilities would reduce the national debt $64 billion or more, thus reducing interest on the national debt more than $2 billion annually. He does not take into account that subsidy costs of these government operations amount to nearly $20 billion a year, or one-half of the total of personal income taxes.

"He (Senator Young) is throwing a scare of a federal sales tax of 20 per cent or 30 per cent. This he picks up from Senate Document No. 5 by the staff of the Joint Committee on Economics, which document has been thoroughly discounted as not being factual."

Congressman Utt's letter illustrates that the struggle for economic freedom goes on. It should inspire us to redoubled effort to gain action on the "proposed 23rd Amendment" which is not designed to change the original Constitution but will give it full force and effect. It provides that:

"Sec. 1. The Government of the United States shall not engage in any business, professional, commercial, financial or industrial enterprise except as specified in the Constitution.

"Sec. 4. Congress shall not levy taxes on personal incomes estates and/or gifts."

The Nation's Press

TAKE HEART FROM WOODLAND

Marysville Appeal-Democrat Woodland took action to rid itself of a charlatan this week.

Born of a union of the federal and municipal governments, with the state acting as a cynical midwife, the imposter's name was Urban Renewal.

Short though his career was, it took $50,000 in public funds to keep him alive. Even so, the expense was nothing compared to what it could have been if the project had survived to maturity.

Demise of the city's Redevelopment Agency follows by little more than a year the similar fate of a Yolo County program by the same name. In the latter instance, $30,000 went down the drain. But again it was cheap and good riddance considering the potential cost in not only funds — that really is the least of it — but in the loss of rights of property owners and the example it would have set for future similar programs.

Opponents of the plan who brought about the promise of its cancellation by the city authorities this week, summed up their opposition in two words: It's socialistic.

Some of the city authorities blamed failure of the program on the master planner. He was, undoubtedly, from one of the big cities, where people have become accustomed to being told what to do, and so he set about laying down the law for Woodland.

Except in Woodland enough people still cling to traditional American concepts that they won't be shoved around without a fight. "I believe (the master planner) was responsible for 80 per cent of the redevelopment failure," said one of the city councilmen.

Professional planners are high-priced talent. It is a strange notion, indeed, that local people can't make decisions about such things as where the city ought to plant trees and what kind.

Pretty soon — unless there's more action such as in Woodland and Yolo County — people will have become so accustomed to looking to their government to provide for them the things that they are providing for themselves that they will have brought complete regimentation into their lives.

If that happens, they'll begin to kick about their loss of independence, but it will be too late. They'll begin to complain about loss of freedom, and they'll declare, once again, "It's a free country, but it won't be."

It'll be a socialistic country, with the government officials making the decisions, because private citizens will have surrendered their rights to the central authority.

Marysville is just before setting sail under the Urban Renewal flag. Is it too much to hope that the city authorities will cancel the trip before they do their bit to destroy another of our vanishing American traditions?

Chevrolet Mobile Workshop Due In City April 11

Chevrolet's "Glamour Wagon," a modern automotive beauty shop on wheels is coming to town.

The traveling unit, specially outfitted with the latest equipment and materials for sprucing up used cars and trucks, will visit Culberson Chevrolet Inc. from April 11 to April 15.

This unique mobile workshop is one of a fleet of 14 now touring the 10 Chevrolet sales regions across the country. Each traveling workshop is staffed with a specially trained instructor who conducts the dealership clinics on the most modern methods of quality used car and truck reconditioning. Mr. Henry Cowan, Southwest Regional Instructor, will direct the clinic at Culberson Chevrolet Inc.

The compact cargo of about 1,000 pounds of materials carried in the Clinic station wagon includes many materials just recently developed in Chevrolet laboratories.

Among them are rust removers and cleaners for chrome brightwork, a process for applying a synthetic brightwork to give a new look to damaged chrome, engine shampoos and enamels, upholstery paints and cleaners, fiber glass and plastic solder kits for auto and truck sheet metal repair, compressors, spray guns, vacuum, polishing wheels, paints, polishes and other tailor-made products.

The new materials, equipment and methods enable dealership mechanics to do a more efficient job of appearance reconditioning of used vehicles.

News Briefs

PLANS NEW SYSTEM

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army plans to put a new officer rating system, giving more importance to current performance than to future potential, into effect Sep. 30. Previously, performance and potential have been given equal weight. The Army said Monday experience has shown that a determination of performance is more reliable than an estimate of potential.

TEST MORATORIUM

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States can't be absolutely sure Russia is observing the unofficial nuclear test moratorium, according to a top disarmament official. Edmund A. Gullion, deputy director of the U.S. Disarmament Administration, said however, that the Kennedy administration has not accused Russia of testing. He said the United States would continue seeking a test ban "patiently and with stubborn hope."

GETS BROKEN ARM

EXPRESSES SATISFACTION

KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI) — Premier Sardar Mohammed Daud expressed satisfaction Monday night over his trip to Russia. "All my contacts with the Soviet Premier (Nikita Khrushchev) and other Soviet leaders proved once again that relations between our two countries are based on mutual understanding and good will," he said. The premier returned home Monday.

Solon, Declaring Reds Duped Him, Stoutly Defends John Birch Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John H. Rousselot, R-Calif., solemnly raised his right hand as if taking an oath.

"I've been a Communist dupe," he declared.

"Yes, you can quote me," he added. "I'm willing to stand up before the American people and say I've been deceived by the Communists."

Rousselot, a member of the controversial John Birch Society, made the statement today during an interview. He stoutly defended the society and its leader, Robert Welch, as having fought communism by "informing the American people as to the true nature of the Communist conspiracy."

The young California congressman went on to give examples of how he had been "duped by the Communists."

"When I was in college, I was told by my professors, by my textbooks and by the press that

Welch Speaks In Amarillo Saturday

Robert Welch, founder and leader of the John Birch Society, will be in Amarillo, Saturday, April 15, to speak at the Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. Admission will be $1 and tickets will be sold at the door.

The John Birch Society was founded in 1958 and has as its objectives, "less government, more individual responsibility and a better world." Members are recruited from all portions of society interested in fighting for these objectives and the only requirements are interest and willingness to work. According to the Birch Society, no member is forced to participate in any of the Society's projects against his conscience but arguments about the Society's objectives will not be permitted as they would hamper its operations and destroy its effectiveness. Members are urged to read at least one recommended book a month and to write letters on specific issues to their representatives and other persons. The Society is not secret but no membership list is published. It has tried to avoid publicity but since so much of an issue has been raised lately, Mr. Welch will be in Amarillo to give the true answers to questions and accusations.

His address will specifically concern the menace of the Communist conspiracy and how to fight it. All persons who wish to learn more about Communism and how to combat it are invited to attend.

Rancher Bares Added Perils Faced By Airmen Saved In Plane Accident

SAN MATEO, N.M. (UPI) — The airmen who parachuted down on the 250,000-acre Lee Ranch from a crashing B52 bomber Friday missed a hazard they didn't know existed — 1,500 cyanide traps.

The ranch's professional hunter set the traps for coyotes, wolves and wildcats who prey on sheep. The traps fire a cyanide pellet into anything that touches them.

That was one reason why Floyd W. Lee forbade reporters to tramp about in his mountains Sunday after the last two survivors of the crash were found.

Friday's accident was the fourth plane crash on his ranch in the last 31 years.

"The first one was on Labor Day, 1939," Mrs. Lee said Sunday. "It was the City of San Francisco, an airliner belonging to Transcontinental Air Transport — a forerunner of Trans World Airlines."

The plane struck the top of Mount Taylor, a 11,389-foot peak in the same vicinity as the B52 crash during a storm. It took five days to find all of the 12 bodies in that crash and bring them down by pack mule.

The Lees said an Air Force bomber — they couldn't remember the type — crashed near the peak in December, 1946. Twelve or 14 persons were aboard. All were killed.

A military jet spun out of control in the summer of 1949 and buried itself in the mountainside.

Lee said Sunday he maintains 20 or so line camps on the ranch. One of these was the cabin in which Sgt. Manuel Mieras found shelter during a blizzard after he parachuted from his falling plane.

Lee, a husky, white-haired man, first went to work on the huge ranch breaking horses after World War I.

RETURNS TOO EARLY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Demos Pappas' trouble was that he returned to the scene of the crime today before it happened.

Pappas, owner of the Satellite restaurant, closed at about midnight, but felt uneasy and went back at about 2 a.m. to see if everything were all right. After he opened the door, two gunmen appeared, made him open his safe and fled with $3,000.

NOTHING TO IT

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Catching a burglar is as easy as boarding a streetcar for Patrolman John McMahon.

McMahon got a tip Sunday from a passerby that a man with a bundle of stolen clothes from a nearby store had just got on a trolley.

McMahon ran to the next trolley stop, boarded the streetcar, and arrested Joseph Hutchison, 33, who was carrying merchandise from the clothing store.
