Tax Filing Time Nears

Now is the time for all good men, women and children to begin thinking about preparing their 1960 income tax returns.

That's the word today from Wiley E. Davis, Internal Revenue administrative officer in Pampa.

Just as a reminder, Davis says all citizens and residents of the U.S.A., including children with gross income of $600 and more in 1960, must file tax returns on or before April 17, 1961, with their IRD district directors.

Davis said first blanks to taxpayers are in the mails.

If you were 65 years or over on the last day of 1960, Davis says, you need not file a return unless your gross income was $1,200 or more during the year.

Self-employed people must file a return if their self-employment income was $400 or more, even though their gross income was less than $600.

If your gross income for 1960 was less than $600 ($1,200 if you are 65 or over) but it was subject to withholding tax, you should file a return and get a refund of the tax withheld.

Texas community property law in most cases gives both husband and wife one-half of the total income and withholding credit each one receives.

In Texas the husband and wife must either file a joint return including all income, or each report one-half the combined community income on separate returns. If they use Forms 1040 and 1040W each may deduct one-half of the total deductions paid with community funds," David said.

Members of the Armed Forces also pay federal income taxes. They give their names, service serial numbers and permanent-home addresses on their returns.

Many tax problems can be solved by using the comprehensive instructions, that accompany tax return forms. The IRS office in the Combs-Worley Bldg. has a special taxpayer assistance day every Monday from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Telephone information is available by calling MO4-2131.

Jefferson Sheriff Admits $85,000 'Campaign Gifts'

Gambling, 'Call Girls' Are Acknowledged

BEAUMONT (UPI) — Sheriff Charles H. Meyer admitted today that there was both gambling and prostitution in Jefferson County and that he had personally received $85,000 from sources identified as "individuals and businessmen."

A member of the Texas House General Investigating Committee, before which Meyer testified, accused him of tapping the committee's telephone. This Meyer angrily denied, after first insisting that he may be a better "Christian gentleman" than any member of the committee.

Meyer makes $12,000 a year—he has been sheriff 14 years—and also gets expenses. He said he had gotten a total of $85,000 in campaign contributions in the past five years, during four of which he didn't have to campaign.

Where did the $85,000 come from?

"I never knew who the donors were but money was just left in my office," Meyer said.

Meyer was reading a prepared statement along the general line that state law enforcement agencies don't have the money to hire "high-priced" investigators and undercover men, when Rep. Lloyd Martin of Normangee, a member of the committee, interrupted with:

"What did it cost you, sheriff, to tap our telephone at the Ridge-wood Motel?"

Meyer turned red and started to reply, but Rep. Tom James of Dallas, vice chairman of the committee, broke in: "Now don't be profane, Charlie. This is going into many homes in this area."

A radio station is broadcasting the hearing directly from the room in which it is being held.

French Guard Voters

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—Moslem villagers, protected by heavily armed French soldiers against death threats from nationalist rebels, started voting today on plans to loosen Algeria's ties to France.

De Gaulle told France in a radio-TV address today the referendum was intended to provide a basis for a meeting between French and Algerian leaders "with the least possible delay."

The statement was phrased in terms that brought De Gaulle closer than ever before to an offer of political negotiations with the Arab rebels.

Hundreds of thousands of French soldiers were on the alert for possible attempts by either Moslem rebels or rightwing European settlers to disrupt the nationwide referendum with violence.

Fifteen French warships, with thousands of sailors and marines were standing by at the big naval base of Mers-el-Kebir.

The leadership of the National Liberation Front (FLN) which has been waging a six-year war against the French for independence, sent warnings through the underground that the first Moslem to vote in the referendum "will have his throat cut."

The rebels called on all Moslems to boycott the referendum as a "fraud" and wait for "final liberation."

On the other hand the $ million Moslems in this unsettled land have been told through speeches and pamphlets from the French that De Gaulle wants them to vote "yes" in the referendum so that he may bring them peace.

The French army was ordered to encourage the Moslems to go to the polls and to provide transportation for them where necessary.

The voting will be held in the Algerian countryside today and Saturday. On Sunday ballots will be cast in the big cities of Algeria, such as Algiers and Oran, and throughout mainland France.

If De Gaulle gets a "yes" vote he will have popular support for his plans to grant more home rule to the Algerians immediately and prepare for an ultimate referendum in which Algerians will be allowed to decide their own future — continued integration with France, a looser alliance or independence.

News To Have Special Austin Correspondent

The Pampa Daily News will have a special correspondent in Austin for coverage of the state legislature which convenes Tuesday.

Fletcher Robertson, former managing editor of The Daily News, is opening an office at Austin and will represent the five Texas Freedom Newspapers during the legislative session.

Robertson will cover the legislature for The Daily News from the viewpoint of readers in Pampa, Gray County and the Panhandle area.

In addition to The Daily News, Robertson will represent Freedom Newspapers in Odessa, Brownsville, Harlingen and McAllen.

Water Tax Use Asked For Planning

AUSTIN (UPI)— Gov. Price Daniel's statewide water committee wants the Texas Legislature to "consider" a water use tax to provide funds for a broad program of water planning and administration.

It was the most controversial item before the group of conservation leaders and the proposal drew considerable fire before it finally passed in a watered down form.

The committee also adopted a proposal urging legislative reorganization of the State Board of Water Engineers, including changing its name to the Texas Water Commission and elevating the chief engineer to the same status as the state highway engineer.

The committee, composed of representatives from 16 statewide and regional organizations, originally considered a proposal that the legislature enact a water use tax, but toned it down to urge the legislature to study the feasibility of water use fees.

4 College Courses Assured

Four courses have been assured for the West Texas State College extension classes starting in Pampa Junior High School at 7 p.m. Jan. 24.

James Hart, chairman of the Adult Education Committee of the chamber of commerce said today a minimum of 20 persons have been signed for classes in elementary accounting, freshman English, beginner's French and beginner's grammar, reading and conversation.

Hart said other classes nearing the required enrollment include: two in business shorthand, two in education (pre-requisite and individual testing), American national government, American history, engineering drawing and psychology.

All other classes not listed here, Hart said, have been dropped. He added that anyone interested in taking any of the listed courses should contact the chamber of commerce not later than Jan. 15 which has been set as the deadline for advance enrollment.

These extension classes, according to Hart, may be taken for college credit or for self improvement. Other members of the Adult Education Committee are Jimmy McCune, Jack Imel and George Crow.

15 Known Dead In Hotel Fire

By JOHN BARNETT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A mattress fire exploded into a general alarm blaze in a Mission District hotel early today, and Fire Chief William Murray said 15 and possibly more persons were killed.

An estimated 30 persons were injured in the blaze that swept through the four-story Thomas Hotel at Fifth and Mission streets. Most of the building's 150 occupants jumped to safety in firemen's nets. Others jumped down light wells.

Murray said the fire might have been avoided had an alarm been sounded promptly. He said the fire started in a first floor room when the occupant called a neighbor to help extinguish a mattress fire during the night.

They put out the fire and went back to sleep, according to Murray. The mattress rekindled, causing the inferno.

"They should have called us the first time it burst into flame," Murray said. "That's a standard rule for anyone."

One tenant, Ed Davis, 80, said "I heard some one yell fire as I slept in my second floor room. I went out and it was pitch black with smoke and heat, but I knew I had to get out, so I just kept going."

The fire spread to the roof and flames shot 50 feet in the air as firemen arrived at 4:45 a.m. on the first alarm. Alarm after alarm was sounded until 6 a.m. — the general alarm — first in at least eight years in the city, was sounded.

Some 200 men with 40 pieces of fire equipment battled the blaze, just one block south of Market Street. It was the worst hotel fire in San Francisco since 1944 when the New Amsterdam burned, killing 24.

Belgians Battling Policemen

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Rioting strikers fought street battles with riotmakers in the streets of Liege today, and new anti-government demonstrations broke out in Brussels.

The street-fighting in the industrial area of Liege followed reports that all efforts by King Audouin to mediate the 18-day conflict had failed.

Observers said today's flareups threatened to deepen further the rift between Premier Gaston Eyskens' conservative coalition and the Socialists who oppose his austerity program.

The Brussels demonstrations broke out in an industrial suburb where 2,000 workers marched to spot near a prison where 30 slow strikers were held on charges of "creating violence."

First reports from Liege 73 miles southeast of Brussels said several policemen and rioters were injured in the fighting, described as the worst in Belgium during the current crisis.

The disturbances followed two days of comparative calm which had led to hopes that a compromise could be found, possibly by including the opposition Socialists in a government of national unity.

3 Draw Terms For Pipe Thefts

PERRYTON (Sp.) — Four men involved in an alleged pipe-theft ring in Gray County last summer were scheduled to face Judge Max Boyer in 31st District Court here today on their charges.

The men were Leon Malone, Russell Glover, Percy S. Collier and Gerald Garrison, all of Pampa.

All four were under grand jury indictments in connection with the theft of pipe last April and May from the Gulf Oil Corp., Mobil Oil Co. and Mrs. W. D. Kelley of Pampa.

The total thefts amounted to some $3,000.

Yesterday afternoon Glover, Collier and Malone pleaded guilty before District Judge Lewis Goodrich in Pampa. Judge Goodrich sentenced the trio to not less than two years nor more than three years in the state penitentiary. Malone was sentenced on two counts and Glover and Collier on three counts. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Garrison, the fourth man to be tried, was picked up late yesterday and all four were taken to Ochiltree County for the hearing today.

District Attorney Bill Waters said Garrison would be brought back to Pampa to face charges in district court here.

Waters said practically all of the stolen pipe had been recovered except some of the pipe stolen from Mrs. Kelley.

C-C Groups Meet Monday

First 1961 meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce board directors and Board of City Development has been set for 11 a.m. Monday in the Coronado Inn, Roy Smith, chamber president, announced today.

Various committees will report activities for the past 30 days and discuss work plans for the coming year.

The directors' meeting will adjourn in time for members to attend the first C. of C. members luncheon of the year, which will be held Monday-noon in the right room of the Inn.

Smith said today some 150 persons are expected to attend luncheon which is open to the public as well as the entire chamber membership.

W. Cox, assistant to the president of the Santa Fe Railway Company, will speak at the luncheon "Industrial Development."

Laos Poser Hangs Fire In SEATO

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — The anti-Communist Southeast Asia Treaty Organization debated today whether to reconvene the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina to try to settle the crisis in Laos. It apparently reached no decision.

The SEATO council of representatives met on the Laos question for the third time this week, with the United States coming under increasing pressure to accept a political solution to the crisis. The United States has favored a strong SEATO stand in defense of the Laotian government against Communist aggression.

After an hour-long meeting, the council adjourned until next Tuesday, apparently without reaching agreement on what role SEATO should take. Alliance Secretary General Pote Sarasin said "there have been no developments which would warrant a statement."

Several of the eight pact members questioned U.S. reports that Soviet transport planes had air-dropped Communist North Vietnamese paratroopers to aid the Communist Pathet Lao troops and forces of leftist Capt. Kong Le.

The pro-Western Laotian government reported Thursday it had defeated Communist forces around Xieng Khouang and that Soviet transport planes were evacuating North Vietnamese troops from airfields near the city.

Sen. Douglas Is Pushing Huge Loan Plan To Revitalize Depressed Areas

By JOSEPH D. HUTNYAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., today requested Senate committee hearings next week to speed action on a $392 million loan-and-grant program designed to revitalize economically depressed areas.

Douglas told United Press International he made the request in a letter to Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., who is expected to be re-named chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, which handles area redevelopment legislation.

The Douglas bill—which has the support of President-elect John F. Kennedy — was the first Senate bill introduced in the 87th Congress.

It would make good on a campaign pledge by Kennedy who vigorously criticized the administration for not providing more assistance to areas hard hit by chronic unemployment. Aid to distressed areas is one of Kennedy's five priority legislative requests.

Robertson promised "prompt consideration" of the Douglas measure, even though he conceded he was opposed to it. A similar bill was approved by the committee and passed by the Senate two years ago. The House cut it and President Eisenhower vetoed it.

Robertson would not speculate on whether committee hearings could depend on when the Senate got around to appointing its standing committees.

Robertson said the hearings would be held before the full banking committee rather than before a subcommittee. This would remove one parliamentary hurdle facing the measure.

Douglas was chairman of a task force which made recommendations to Kennedy on how to help areas suffering economic depression.

Rival Republican bills introduced Thursday indicated the Douglas proposal probably would be attacked because of its size and the proposed methods for financing and administering the program.

Immediately after Douglas offered his bill, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen introduced a less comprehensive $180 million proposal which the Democrats rejected last year. Republican Sen. Hugh Scott Pa. offered a $214 million measure.

The Douglas bill proposed $300 million in loan funds for industrial redevelopment and improvement of public facilities.

It also would set up a $92 million program of grants and loans for vocational retraining, technical assistance and other steps to stimulate depressed area economies.

80 New Businesses Listed For Gray County By Dun-Bradstreet

Requests for financial statements have been mailed out to 881 businesses in Gray County, James Burnaw, manager of the Amarillo office of Dun & Bradstreet, announced today.

Burnaw said the figures, obtained from physical count of names listed in the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book for January, 1961, reflect nearly a ten per cent increase over figures for one year ago when 801 businesses were listed for Gray County.

According to Burnaw, each January business concerns in all parts of the United States are asked by Dun & Bradstreet for copies of their financial statements. This year requests are being sent to approximately three million business concerns — to the corner grocery store worth a few thousand dollars as well as to businesses worth millions.

Moving? Call 4-6887 — Bruce & Son Moving Co. and let us help you with your moving problem. Adv.

The Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book, published bi-monthly, lists manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers as well as certain service businesses who seek or grant commercial credit, but does not include service and professional businesses such as beauty and barber shops, security dealers, and real estate brokers. Therefore, the figures for total businesses in the United States would be somewhat higher than the three million quoted above.

The changes occurring in Gray County are about the same as in the rest of the country.

Back of each listing of a business in the Reference Book is a Dun & Bradstreet credit report. The report includes a history of the business, a description of what the business does, a record of how the business pays its bills, and a financial section which usually includes the latest financial statement.

Castroites Move On Catholics

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro's militia was reported today to have moved in on half a dozen Roman Catholic institutions starting what may prove to be a major offensive against the church.

Castroite militiamen closed the printing plant of the Catholic bi-weekly Quincena, the last publication in Cuba that had dared criticize the government, and posted guards at the Salesian convent that housed it.

The militia also occupied the downtown headquarters of the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic laymen's lodge, and the Catholic Workers' Association.

Reports from the provinces said militia detachments had seized seminaries at Calvario and Santiago de las Vegas. Reports that at least five priests had been arrested could not be confirmed immediately.

The militia invoked the emergency powers granted it as part of the current "invasion" scare. Castro alerted the militia over the weekend, charging that a U.S. attack on Cuba was "imminent."

Thursday, Castro forces placed howitzers and anti-tank and anti-aircraft guns along Havana's Malecon waterfront drive.

It was the second time in barely two months that Castro had started talk of an American "invasion" of Cuba.

(In Washington, Rep. Victor R. Fuqua, D-N.Y., charged Thursday night that the recent intensification of Castro's hate-America campaign, which led Tuesday to a break in U.S.-Cuban relations, was designed to cover up the installation of Russian missiles on secret launching pads in Cuba.)

Rayburn Marks 79th Birthday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Sam Rayburn observed his 79th birthday today, battling behind the scenes to defeat a challenge to his congressional power and prestige.

The challenge came from another old-timer—48th, courtly 77-year-old Rep. Howard W. Smith, a Southern gentleman of the old school who until a few years ago wore wing collars and a string tie.

Here's What To Do With Christmas Photos

KAY SHERWOOD
newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Are you wondering what to do with the fresh supply of family photographs you received for Christmas?

Small snapshots will be routed to the family album but larger portraits should rate a more impressive treatment. Standard ways of dealing with family photos — propping the folders on the piano or bedroom dresser or storing them in a drawer — are simple solutions but they do lack imagination.

Looking through the forest of faces on my dresser, I wish our family would adopt a more imaginative approach to having pictures taken. When a child is young, the parents can't get him to the photographers often enough. As soon as he starts to lose his baby teeth, they lose interest and the next picture we see is taken at high school graduation or his wedding. After that, nothing.

The result is our supply of photographs of little nieces, nephews, first, second and third cousins, smiling winsomely into the camera increases each year. But there's nothing to prove these kids ever grow up. Okay, how long has it been since you had your picture taken? (Me? Well, I guess 13 years ago at the wedding.)

I would like however to get the best of the photos off the dresser and on the wall in an arrangement that would be attractive and interesting. My "best of photos" include some from this year's crop of juveniles, baby pictures of our children, old-fashioned portraits of solemn family groups and some excellent enlargements of prized snapshots and black and white reprints of 35 mm. color slides.

In planning a wall arrangement of several pictures, care must be taken to avoid the static "rogue's gallery" lineup. I like these suggestions from two well-qualified advisers on framing and arranging.

Framing probably deserves more attention than it gets. One of our advisers, Roy Medders, works for an internationally famed picture framing concern (House of Henryk).

The purpose of framing, according to Medders is to protect the photograph and to provide it with a sympathetic setting. In his opinion the traditional white mat and narrow frame are too harsh for black and white photographs which are made up, in reality, of subtle grays. A cool complement to black and white pictures might be beveled inserts of gray linen with frames, he suggests.

Medders recommends harmonizing the framing with the tonalities of the photograph. A sepia-toned photograph would take a warm-toned mat and frame.

Frame styles don't need to be uniform in an arrangement however. Styles are dictated by the period and scale of furniture, by formality of the photograph and by the mood to be created.

Our other adviser, Raymond Toucher, national veep of the American Institute of Decorators, likes a variety of shapes and sizes of pictures in an arrangement to avoid the static quality. He also O.K.'s the use of other forms of art such as carved plaques, tapestry, sculpture in these arrangements.

Any wall arrangement should be worked out to the decimal point on paper on the floor, say the experts. Use brown wrapping paper or sheets of newspaper taped together. Lay out the arrangement, outline on the paper. Indicate on this paper pattern where the nails will go. Tape the pattern on the wall and drive in the nails.

Ask The Designer

By GAILE DUGAN

Dear Gaile: Every time I look at pictures of the fashion models in newspapers, I get discouraged. They always look so smooth and "put-together" and I never do, even though I try to shop carefully. I love prints, like colored shoes, own lots of costume jewelry and somehow, everything always ends up wrong. What's the matter with my clothes?—Mrs. N.D.

Dear Mrs. N.D.: Offhand, I'd say it's a bit too much of everything. But let's ask one of New York's top designers, Oleg Cassini, how to handle this problem. Here's what he says:

"The 'put-together' look which you describe is always achieved by planning. Always build around a basic color. That is, choose dress or suit first, then pick accessories.

"This DOES rule out impulse buying and it certainly eliminates clashing colors. Everything need not be monotone but it should harmonize. If you shop this way, you'll find you've achieved the look you want."

Dear Gaile: The newspapers say that everyone is going to be wearing fashions of the 1930s this fall. It has reminded me that I have saved some beaded evening gowns from the 30s. Is there any reason why I can't wear them again?—Mrs. J.K.

Dear Mrs. J.K.: Indeed there is a reason why you can't wear those old dresses. But let designer Ceil Chapman explain it to you. She creates some of the most beautiful evening gowns in this country. She says this:

"No matter how carefully you've preserved those 1930 gowns, they're just curiosities now. For what we have in 1960 is the lovely nostalgia of the 1930s, not the true line. For one thing, evening gowns today are fully lined. The gowns that Jean Hawlow, Carole Lombard and Marlene Dietrich wore were not.

"Too, the cut is totally different. We no longer use the true bias cut. And women today wear waist cinches, girdles and uplift bras. This wasn't true in the 30s. If you want to see how different your old gowns look today, just try them on!"

Dear Gaile: I'm a bit worried about getting myself into those new pleated skirts. My problem is that I'm hippy. It seems to me that all of those pleats are just going to emphasize that hippiness. Shouldn't I just stick with the same old straight skirt I've been wearing?—Miss R.G.

Dear Miss R.G.: First, you should try on one of the new dresses with a pleated skirt and have a long look at yourself in the fitting room mirror. You'll get a surprise. Mollie Parnis, who designs many of Mrs. Eisenhower's dresses, tells you why:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am petrified of Widow. It works every time. my mother-in-law. My husband says she likes me fine, but she is not the demonstrative type. She is always saying nice things about her own daughter, but when it comes to me, a compliment sticks in her throat.

I shake like a leaf when I see her coming because her visits are like "inspection tours." She doesn't criticize me but I can tell the way she looks around that she is disgusted. Although I try hard, I am not a very good housekeeper, but with two babies 13 months apart and no help it's not easy.

How can I get over this awful feeling of inferiority where she is concerned? I feel equal to everyone else but her.

DEAR DAUGHTER-IN-LAW: Do your best and quit worrying about what your mother-in-law may or may not be thinking. If you are caught with the beds unmade, dishes in the sink and a pile of clothes to be ironed — and you catch her "looking disgusted," ask her to give you a hand. He slipped and fractured his ankle in four places and the doctor told him it wouldn't heal unless he lost some weight. He is still having three corned beef sandwiches and four bottles of beer for lunch every day. Don't you think it is time he is "ready" and how do I convince him?

I am almost 13 years old and am being treated like I was one. Do you think she is being fair?

A closet should be as pretty and bright as any room in the house. Start with the guest coat closet and go full steam ahead until all of your closets are "decorated." Splurge on wallpaper for the hall closet even though you may use paint in a gay color for your other closets. Consider a white ground paper with "Welcome" lettered over it in bold script letters. For baseboard, coat rod, hangers and inside of door, use paint in jonquil yellow, jade green or Chinese red. If there is no mirror in the hall, fasten one to the inside of the closet door. Every woman likes a mirror for the last peek of assurance.

Dear Polly: I'd like to repaint my living room so that it looks bright. I must keep a gray tweed rug, black sectional couch, white leather chair and another with a gray slip cover. I have a white cocktail table and black-and-white lamps. What colors, please, for walls and drapes? — Mrs. W. G.

Dear Mrs. W. G.: Daffodil yellow walls and ceiling with white woodwork would make your room lighter and brighter. Use plain white draw curtains and pep up that black sofa with some yellow, jade green and white cushions.

Dear Polly: I like pink because it gives me a lift. I have painted my small living room pink. The carpet is light beige and the drapes have an ivory background with a print of avocado, brown and petal pink of the walls. I intend to buy new furniture so please suggest colors for couch and two chairs. Yours in the pink. — L. M.

Dear L. M.: Even your stationery proves your love for pink. A milk chocolate brown sofa will help hold things down in that pink room. Then choose a plaid in brown, avocado green and off-white for the two easy chairs.

Dear Polly: Our sectional sofa is bright rose. Summer slip covers are shades of blue and green with beige. Have one gray chair and one powder blue. What color walls and rug will go with both? — Mrs. W. H.

Dear Mrs. W. H.: You made one basic mistake — summer slip covers with no relation to the colors of the permanent upholstery. You'd be wiser to decide on one good scheme rather than two that are straining to hold things together.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

XXII

They reached the L.J. before sundown. Tom Harding met them at the front door and invited them in. He was a nice-looking man, Harding, with his long brown sideburns pretty near to his jawbones. He led for Clarendon?" he asked.

"Mobeetie," said Arrington. "Mobeetie?" Harding stared at Bart. "You?" He looked back at Arrington. "What for?" he asked.

Arrington sensed the impatience in Harding's voice, and was puzzled by it, but he explained.

Harding looked at Bart thoughtfully, then back at Arrington. "We're a little short on beds," he said. "We hired some extra hands to cut poles to ship to Fort Elliott, but we got plenty of room in the hayloft and plenty of buffalo robes and blankets."

They went to supper with the hands, and Arrington pitched in and ate beefsteak and hot biscuits as if he were starved.

"For a little man," Harding observed, "you eat a heap, Captain."

They finished in 15 minutes and went back to the end of the front room, where Harding poured more drinks.

"I haven't seen Stella tonight," said Arrington.

Harding answered lightly. "Oh, she's out riding."

But Bart, puzzled, saw the attempt at lightness fade as Harding looked through the narrow window toward the road that led to the gate.

He realized that Harding was worried, and he recalled that Stella had waylaid him several times out on the prairie, seemingly with no fear of danger from the outlaws. He thought about it for a moment, and wondered if there was any significance to her riding alone. He realized too that her father was wondering the same thing.

It was dark when they walked outside. The night was still for a moment, and the stars overhead seemed to be almost within their touch. A horse squealed in one of the corrals, and for a moment there was thudding as two of the night horses carried on an exploratory flight.

There was enough light from the stars to make their beds, and Bart got his blankets spread and took off his boots in silence.

"What beats me," said Arrington, "is where Stella went to. I think Tom's worried about it too—but why didn't he say so?"

"She's in the wrong country, out here," said Bart.

"She would fit better in Mobeetie or Tascosa, but she can't without alienating her father—because she is his sole heir."

"She's led on Hector Johnson," Arrington snorted. "The way she's teased that poor devil would make a Mexican mule breeder blush for shame."

Bart began to understand a number of things. He tried to go to sleep but could not. He heard Arrington breathing hard, and crawled slowly to the window to look out.

He was about to go back to his blanket when he heard the soft thudding of a horse trotting through grass. In a moment, another horse loped out

Production Cutbacks And Layoffs Announced Today In Auto Industry

DETROIT (UPI) — The paradox of the auto industry was spelled out today in big headlines in the Detroit newspapers.

Side-by-side front page columns proclaimed record auto sales for many lines in 1960 and also announced production cutbacks on 1961 models and lay offs of more than 31,000 auto workers.

American Motors Corp. paced the industry on both counts.

The AMC plants in Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis., were closed today following a fire in the final paint room Thursday. About 20,000 workers are affected.

AMC officials said operations would not resume until Jan. 16, but a company spokesman added that resumption of work would depend on how quickly repairs are made.

American President George Romney also announced that AMC sales in December jumped 13.8 per cent over December 1959, and that the firm will pay rebates to 34,324 customers.

Rambler's rebate plan, announced Dec. 15, called for payment of U.S. Savings bonds related to sales increases in the four-month period ending March 31. The National Bank of Detroit will send $843,575 in 525 bonds to the December Rambler buyers.

Cuba Invasion Charge Buried In UN Files

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro's charge that the United States planned an imminent invasion of Cuba was buried in United Nations files today after his regime failed to produce any supporting evidence.

The 11-member Security Council declined Thursday night even to vote on a mild resolution expressing hope that the United States and Cuba would settle their differences in a friendly manner.

Chile and Ecuador, which sponsored the measure, did not press for a vote on it. The council needed U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth who said the "midnight brew" invasion charge should not be dignified by any action.

James W. Barco, deputy chief of the U.S. delegation who sat in for Wadsworth Thursday night, told the council its wisest course of action would have been to declare that Cuba's charge was not substantiated.

Chrysler announced that 2,700 workers in Los Angeles, Newark, Del., and St. Louis will not be recalled when the plants reopen Monday. Ford announced that 4,000 to 5,000 workers would be laid off before Jan. 15.

Mississippi Delays 'Secession' Don't Have Uniforms!

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Mississippi had planned to secede from the Union on Monday, but the uniforms won't be ready on time.

On Jan. 9, 1861, Mississippi became the second state of the Confederacy to secede. Great plans were afoot for celebrating the 100th anniversary of this event in the same building in which it originally occurred.

But the old Capitol building, being renovated for the centennial, is not ready. Costumes and uniforms for the actors who will portray the delegates to the secession convention are far from ready.

Miller Service Set Saturday

Funeral services for Dr. Glenn Purden Miller, 66, will be held at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Duemel-Carmichael Funeral Chapel with Flaudie F. Gallman and Mrs. Ed Grever conducting the rites.

Dr. Miller, long-time chiropractor, who resided at 610 N. Nelson, died 7:45 yesterday morning in Highland General Hospital.

In addition to his widow, Mrs. Ruby Miller, he is survived by a cousin, D. V. Buron of Pampa. Pallbearers will be Wilford McLeod, Sam Holding, W. E. Ulrich, Gus Hunter, Jimmy Gilham, and Kenneth Banks.

Interment will be in Hardesty, Okla.

Daniel Calls Vote To Fill Senate Seat

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Price Daniel has called a special election for April 4 to fill the U.S. Senate seat vacated by Lyndon B. Johnson, but with the large list of candidates it may be summer before a successor is picked.

Nine candidates are already in the race, and from all indications there will be several more. It means that a runoff election will probably have to be held.

Daniel set the date, just one day short of the 90 days he is permitted to allow for campaigning, in special elections, to coincide with city elections in more than 100 cities.

He said this will help keep down election costs in many counties, and also give county tax assessor-collectors as much time as possible to prepare poll tax lists.

During the interim period, William A. Baskley of Dallas will serve as senator. He is also one of the candidates in the special election.

Others who have already announced include U.S. Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth, State Sen. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio, Republican John Tower of Wichita Falls, former state Rep. Maury Maverick of San Antonio, Hugh O. Lea of Orange, Van T. George of San Antonio, Bobbie Thorne of Wortham and W. P. Holland, a Houston contractor.

Lefors School Principal's Mother Dies

LEFORS (SpI) — Funeral services for Mrs. Etta B. Mounger, 82, of Owassa, Okla., the mother of G. N. Mounger, principal of Lefors High School, will be conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday in a Tulsa, Okla., funeral chapel.

Interment will be in a Cherryvale, Kan., cemetery.

The late Mrs. Mounger died Wednesday in a Tulsa hospital following an illness of one week.

She was the widow of the late N. R. Mounger, a pioneer lumberman and hardware implement dealer in Owassa.

The Moungers moved to Owassa from Cherryvale in 1899 and were members of the First Christian Church of Owassa.

A native of Ohio, Mrs. Mounger also is survived by one other son, a brother and one grandchild.

Gray County Joins Drive

Funds To Be Raised For Slain Officer

Pampa and Gray County law enforcement officers today joined with police and sheriff departments and others in Potter, Moore, Hutchinson, and Randall counties to raise money for the Robert Potter Memorial Fund.

Potter, the assistant police chief at Tulsa, was killed Christmas night by one of three men whom he surprised in the act of burglarizing a safe in a Tulsa cafe.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan said today he and Pampa police chief Jim Gomer are calling a meeting of interested persons in the Chamber of Commerce offices next Tuesday morning to work out plans to raise money in Gray County for Potter's widow and two children.

The memorial fund was started by Tulsa citizens last week with the First National Bank of Tulsa acting as trustee for the fund.

Dallas Police Chief Frank Hudson said a benefit movie performance will be held there tomorrow night proceeds of ticket sales going to the fund for the slain law officer's family.

Details of the fund-raising plan in Gray County are to be worked out at the meeting Tuesday.

Garage Burns In Gasoline Fire

Fire destroyed a garage late yesterday afternoon at the home of Wayne Worley on the Southern Petroleum Exploration lease three miles west of Pampa.

Pampa firemen answered the call. They said the fire was started when gasoline, being used to clean machinery parts, ignited from a gas heater in the garage. The building and contents were a total loss.

Pampa firemen also answered a call at 4:30 p.m. yesterday to extinguish fire in trash barrels at the rear of 1068 Varnon.

Christians Can Learn From Reds, Says Hoover

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pres. Eisenhower's belief that Christians "can learn from the Communists" is a provocative view in a series of articles written for Christianity Today, a bi-weekly Protestant magazine published here.

He said communism "has the power to stimulate intense, fanatical and sustained effort" by its adherents, whereas many professing Christians are "casual" about their faith, relatively ignorant of its teachings and unwilling to make any great personal sacrifices for it.

Appealing for "Christian redemption" as the alternative to "Communist domination" of the world, Hoover said:

"Let us see what we can learn from the Communists by noting the way in which they inspire their members."

For example, he said, "note the Communist's emphasis on returning to the original source of their beliefs to secure inspiration for their members." The faithful Communist reads Marx and Lenin "constantly" on a daily or weekly schedule.

"How many Christians set aside time each day or week for reading the Bible or other religious literature?" he asked. "The Bible gives inspiration, zeal and guidance for life. To neglect it is to reduce our national vitality and strength."

The FBI director, who has been for many years an elder of the National Presbyterian Church, here, also pointed out that "the Communists have no use for a mere ceremonial avowal of Marxism."

They "expect from their members a deep sense of personal sacrifice and dedication."

By contrast, Hoover asked, "How many church members today are merely members in name, not knowing or even caring what membership in the church of God really means and entails?"

He said history has proved that "the Christian church has the power to capture men and lead them to divine levels."

"If it is not doing so today, he said, the reason may be that 'we have contented ourselves with caring to man's mediocrity, rather than attempting to bring out the noblest and deepest strands of his character.'"

"The Communists have discovered that a demand for the very best actually brings forth the very best from the individual," he said.

"If the Communists can create such responses on the basis of a cold, cynical materialism, just think of the accomplishments which can be wrought by Christians with the power of the Holy Spirit!"

FAREWELL TO SENATORS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower said farewell Thursday night to Republican members of the Senate.

The President and Vice President Richard M. Nixon were guests of honor at a reception and buffet dinner given for Republican senators and their wives by Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen and Chairman Styles Bridges of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Heller & Meyer says it seems likely that the present minor recession will run its course within the first four months of the year, and that thereafter steady improvement will take place.

The improvement, the firm says, will be most marked in industries which have been recently depressed, including steel, paper, chemicals, machinery and transportation, especially highway transportation.

Walter K. Gutman of Stearns & Co. doesn't see much risk in holding Chance Vought Aircraft to see if some merger will develop, but he says he has removed it from his list of possible "big plays." Rumors of merger with Long-Temco Electronics Inc. denied by both companies—have stirred up activity in the stock recently.

L. C. Hoppers of W. E. Hutton & Co. says Stone & Webster has captured his fancy as an excellent value at around 34 with profit possibilities as the construction business improves. The company estimates earnings of $3.55 a share in 1960 against $4.44 in 1959 and pays $3.

Fr. Stanley Has Another 'Western' Out

Fr. Stanley is at it again. The former pastor of the White Deer Catholic Church, a prolific writer of the history of the Southwest, has a new booklet — he calls it a pamphlet — on Dave Rudolph, ill-famed gunman of the early west, in the market, and has a number of "irons in the fire."

Earlier, it was reported in The Daily News that Fr. Stanley, now assigned to a Dumas church, would have a spanking new book ready for publication just prior to Christmas. However, the Catholic pastor explained:

"I was all set to turn the copy loose for publication, but I came upon some added important information, so I halted the book's release. Guess I'll have to make a number of major changes."

The book is entitled "The Kiowa Comanche Barrier."

Not one to permit grass to grow beneath his feet, the multi-lingual Fr. Stanley (his pen name) also has in the preparation stages "Fort Bascom" and "For Carig," plus "The Clayton (N.M.) Story."

Rev. Mills Sets Sermon Topic

The Rev. David Mills, pastor of Lamar Christian Church, will use as his sermon topic for the 10:40 a.m. service Sunday "Baptism of Decipleship." His subject for the 7 p.m. service was not determined at press time.

Sunday School begins at 9:40 a.m.

Rev. Adcock Announces Two Subjects

"Growing Old Gracefully" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Woodrow Adcock, pastor of the First Methodist Church, for the 8:30 and 10:55 a.m. services in the church Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Adcock will speak on "The Bible for Today" during the 7:30 p.m. service.

Special music for the three services will be provided by the choirs of the church.

Sunday evening fellowship will begin at 6 p.m. during which time the pastor will continue the adult study of the Bible.

Scientists Due 'True Meaning Of Eucharist'

Importance of understanding the spiritual meaning of the Eucharist and of truly commemorating the Life of Christ Jesus will be emphasized at the semi-annual communion service at Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Highlighting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament" is the Golden Text from I Corinthians (5:8): "Let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth."

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following: "The baptism of Spirit, washing the body of all the impurities of flesh, signifies that the pure in heart see God and are approaching spiritual life and its demonstration" (241:27).

Also included in the Lesson-Sermon is this passage: "The cup of blessing, which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ?" (I Corinthians 10:16).

Ministers, Pastors Urged To Submit Weekly Programs

The Daily News again urges ministers and pastors of all faiths of the city and the surrounding area to submit weekly sermon topics and special events to the newspaper by Thursday noon for publication in the weekly church page each Friday.

The information may be written in news form or prepared in rough draft. The staff of The Daily News will be most happy to prepare the copy for those who do not have the time to ready news matter for publication.

In the event a minister or pastor is overly busy and does not have the time to prepare his information, he is urged to telephone the copy desk of The Daily News and give a reporter the information from which a story will be prepared.

There is but one stipulation: due to the time element, all information must be received by Thursday noon. E. H. W.

The flag ceremony was presented by Den 6 and a skit was given by Den 1. The attendance and honor awards were won by Den 7. The next pack meeting will be Feb. 7 when the Pinewood Derby is scheduled.

New 4-H Club Is Organized

A 4-H club called, The Busy Bee's, has been organized by Mrs. Cecil Regier, south of Pampa. Mrs. Regier will act as adult-advisor for the meetings which will be held on the first and third Wednesday of each month.

Officers are: Lodema Cole, president; Angela Cunningham, vice-president; Gennifer Cunningham, secretary, and Becky Buck, reporter.

Rev. Woodrow Adcock
Minister First Methodist Church

A NEW YEAR WITH GOD

"Therefore, if any one is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold, the new has come." 2 Corinthians 5:17. A new year has come to us. God in his goodness has given us more time to live and serve him. The world does not present a very encouraging picture for the new year. The leaders of the communist world destroyed the Summit Conference and cancelled Mr. Eisenhower's trip to Russia and Japan during the past year. Cuba has become a threat to Peace in the Western World. Laos has led the world to the brink of war. Mr. K. has tried to destroy the United Nations because it stands in his way. With the stock piles of atomic and hydrogen bombs in Russia and the United States, some one could make a careless move and all life on earth could be destroyed in World War III. But this must not happen. The only power that can keep it from happening is God working in human hearts and minds. Very quickly man must develop character and responsibility equal to the scientific power which he already possesses. He must very quickly learn how to solve the human problems of the earth before he destroys himself. The only hope for us and our world is to turn to God for wisdom and leadership. If we will, the new year may be the turning point toward a better day and a better world. Man must become a new creation in Christ with attitudes of love, justice, freedom, responsibility, and righteousness if he is to survive. The 700 million Christians of the world must live this truth and proclaim it to all the world. 1961 is a great time to live and serve God.

PHS, Tascosa Battle For District 3-4A Lead

Pampans Win In Borger Tourney

GG Finals At 8 P.M. Tomorrow

BOXING — Borger and Pampa's Optimist Club boxers seem headed for a two-team battle for the team championship at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the final rounds of the Borger District Golden Gloves tournament at the Sports Arena here.

The two leaders each won five fights on last night's card that was highlighted by six TKOs, two by Lefors-pee wees, and one each by Borger, Perryton, Tri City of Pampa and the Pampa Optimists.

Charles Snider of Pampa Tri-City recorded one of the most impressive victories of the night with a TKO in 1:20 of the second round over a scrapping Perryton 100-pounder, Wayne Martin.

Snider opened fast and Martin was unable to defense. Snider's booming right and the fight was called.

Another local boxer, Norman Rexroat of the Pampa Optimist Club, lost hard-luck TKO decision to Borger's Don Box in the 147-pound open division. Rexroat was in full command of the fight but suffered a cut eye near the end of the round and the fight was called — and the decision given to Box — before the second round started.

Lefors' TKO pair were recorded by David White over Junior Garcia of Borger in the third round of their 50-pound bout and Terry Saunders over Johnny Thomas of Perryton with only 20 seconds gone in the initial round.

In another pee wee battle, Billy Taylor of Perryton bombed Danny Adams of Lefors in a TKO decision in a 55-pound scrap. Taylor started last, scoring several stinging punches before the fight was called with 32 seconds gone in first round.

Tri City boxers who marked up decisions were Danny Boyd who downed Gary Howell of Pampa Optimist, 45-pounds, and Don Bennett won a default decision over Ed Halpin of Perryton, 75 pounds.

South Stars Favored In Senior Bowl Tilt

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — The South is a five-point favorite to lick the invading Yankees Saturday in the 12th annual Senior Bowl game.

The oddsmakers gave the Rebs, coached by Weeb Ewbank of the Baltimore Colts, the slight edge after heavy workouts Thursday.

North Coach Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants was pleased with the point spread. Last year his invaders were 3½-point underdogs and licked the Southerners 26 - 7 behind the passing of Cincinnati's Jack Lee. Both starting quarterbacks — Dick Norman of Stanford for the North and Norman Snead of Wake Forest for the South — worked on their aerial attacks during the lengthy practice.

Snead was hitting consistently on the long pass while Norman worked on the short bullet over center and into the flats.

The Bonnie co-captain, averaging 31.4 per game, poured in 24 points in the second half. Belmont Abbey led 40-38 early in the second half before Stith went to work. Danny Doyle paced the losers with 19 points.

Against Unranked '5s' Braves, Bonnies Scrap For Wins

By DICK JOYCE
There's nothing like playing basketball in your own backyard as far as undefeated Bradley and once-beaten St. Bonaventure are concerned — but somebody forgot to tell Wichita and Belmont Abbey Thursday night.

The second-ranked Bradley Braves, determined to better their long-time runnerup role in the Missouri Valley Conference, scored their 12th victory of the season in edging Wichita, 64-61, while All-America Tom Stith's 35 points led the Bonnies over All-McGuire's scrappy Belmont Abbey team, 75-63.

It was the 44th straight home court triumph for the Peoria, Ill., cagers and the 96th victory in a row for the Bonnies at the Olean (N.Y.) Armory, dating back to 1948.

Bradley, which played second fiddle to Cincinnati for the last three years and St. Louis for one season in the MVC, had a tough time in handling the Wheatstreakers their first loss in conference play.

Wichita took a 37-34 halftime lead and held the advantage until Bradley tied the score 46-46. The game was deadlocked six more times until Mack Herndon put the Braves ahead 60-58 with seven minutes left.

Stith, 6-5, native of Brooklyn, N.Y., who displaced Gonzaga's Frank Burgess as the nation's No. 1 scorer, turned in a brilliant second half performance to help third-ranked St. Bonaventure to its 10th success of the campaign.

The Bonnie co-captain, averaging 31.4 per game, poured in 24 points in the second half. Belmont Abbey led 40-38 early in the second half before Stith went to work. Danny Doyle paced the losers with 19 points.

In addition to Bradley, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Drake won their Missouri Valley Conference games Thursday night.

Tom Kieffer and Bill Nordmann hit for 15 points apiece as the Billikens of St. Louis defeated Tulsa, 54-47, for their second straight win in conference play. All five of the Cincinnati starters scored double figures as the Bearcats nipped Houston, 74-71, in overtime and power-packed Drake routed North Texas State, 108-73.

LLOYD BALCH, a 6-1 junior and one of Pampa's top reserves, may see some action tonight when the Harvesters meet Tascosa in an important 3-4A battle.

Harvester '5' Seeks Eighth Straight Win

By ARTHUR MAYHEW
Daily News Sports Editor
AMARILLO — Pampa and Amarillo Tascosa, ranked sixth and seventh, respectively, in the pre-season District 3-4A coaches' poll, collide at 8 p.m. today in Tascosa's Gym in a conference headliner that will decide one of the two first place teams in 3-4A.

The Harvesters (8-6) and Tascosa (8-2) are tied with Borger (10-3) and Lubbock Monterey (6-7) for first with 1-0 district records but Borger meets the Plainsmen in another top game tonight that will remove one from the list of conference unbeaten.

Tonight's Pampa-Tascosa game rates a tossup, although the Rebels may hold a slight margin because of their home court advantage. However, the Rebs narrow 46-43 last-gasp win over supposedly weak Lubbock last Tuesday clouds tonight's picture.

Lannie McCrary, 6-1, who was the Robert E. Lee of the Rebel attack against Lubbock with 22 points — two of which came in the last second of play — again will be the man to stop tonight if Coach Terry Culley's Green and Gold crew is to mark up their eighth straight victory and remain in the 3-4A scramble.

Rebel Coach Ace Parker probably will flank McCrary with three other lads over 6-0: Dick Renke, 6-5; Bill DeFee, 6-0; and Dickie Peek, 6-2. The fifth starter probably will be Cliff Winburn, a 5-10 guard.

Tascosa specializes in a ball control offense and a full court press defense and they rarely score more than 50 points in a game. In fact, in three years since the school opened, only twice has it hit a high of 57 points.

Pampa, on the other hand, will carry a senior-sophomore team into the important game that is averaging 34.5 points in 14 contests and is riding a top a seven-game winning streak, longest in the district.

Carrying Pampa's aspirations for at least a first — place tie will be Pat Carter, 5-10, the Harvesters' leading scorer with 241 points who possesses one of the best jump shots anywhere.

Backing up Carter will be Bill Neslage, 5-11 senior; Gordon Balch, 6-0 sophomore; Allen Wise, 6-3 senior, and Randy Matson, 6-5 sophomore.

With Wise and Matson on the boards, Pampa has not been out rebounded since the Dumas game of Dec. 13, a significant fact in the Harvesters' present win string.

Fullmer, Sugar Agree To Fourth Title Bout

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Sugar Ray Robinson and middleweight champion Gene Fullmer today agreed to a fourth bout here on Feb. 25 before a national television audience, local promoters predicted today.

The two boxers signed for the fight Thursday in New York. But promoters called for a conference here today to determine whether the bout would be held in the 8,200-seat Las Vegas Convention Hall — as tentatively planned — or moved to another site, such as Los Angeles, Miami Beach, Chicago or Salt Lake City, Utah.

Local promoters Jack Doyle and Mel Greb conferred here today with Norman Rothschild, Syracuse, N.Y., who flew here from New York City after officiating over the contract signing. Doyle indicated he was sure of support from big Strip hotels, and that the resorts would be represented at the conference.

Terms of the contract signed by Robinson before he agreed to try an unprecedented eighth time for the middleweight crown called for $50,000 of the $150,000 television money and 25 per cent of the net gate. This should net him based on a Las Vegas fight — about $90,000 to $100,000.

For Fullmer, the bushy-browed West Jordan, Utah, champion, the rematch is worth 40 per cent of the TV fee — $80,000 — as well as 40 per cent of the net gate. This should bring him $125,000 to $135,000.

Warriors Slap Nats

By United Press International
It's obvious Dr. James Naismith didn't visualize a Wilt Chamberlain when he launched the game of basketball many years ago or he would have moved his peach baskets about 15 feet higher — or maybe given up the whole idea.

The rafter-grazing Chamberlain scored 58 points for the second time in four days Thursday night as his Philadelphia Warriors beat Syracuse, 139-127, in Philadelphia and stayed right on the heels of the Eastern Division-leading Boston Celtics.

In other National Basketball Association games, Boston beat the Cincinnati Royals, 125-107, despite Oscar Robertson's 38 points for the losers, New York defeated Detroit, 104-102, at the Philadelphia doubleheader and Los Angeles downed the St. Louis Hawks, 110-96, in Los Angeles.

Babe Denies Resignation

Babe Curfman, head football coach at Pampa High School for three years, today squelched persistent rumors that he was going to resign to accept a business proposition in Arizona.

"The only plans I have are for workouts and winning some games next fall," Curfman said this morning. "There is nothing to the rumor as far as I know."

Two months ago it was rumored in the press that DeWitt Weaver would resign as head coach at Texas Tech to accept a job with an oil company in Alabama and that Curfman would take a similar position in Arizona. Three days after the story, Weaver resigned and accepted the job in Mobile.

Curfman, who has compiled a 5-24-1 win-loss-tied record since coming to Pampa in 1955, maintains that he has not been contacted for a position with an oil firm in Arizona nor does he know anything about it.

Junior High Cagers Win

Pampa Reapers' won their fourth straight game and third in a row in district play yesterday afternoon to cap off city junior high cage action that saw local schools win three of four games.

Pampa Junior High, experiencing its worst game of the year, was outscored in the last half and had to hold on to a 33-27 victory over Perryton Junior High.

Twin heroes of the Reaper victory were Charles Price who canned 12 clutch points and Gary Davis, who contributed 12 points and 10 important rebounds. Ivy was high man for Perryton with 10, while Baker had 8 for the losers.

Kenny Hebert, the leading scorer in the city, was held to a slim seven points by the rigged Perryton crew.

For Robert E. Lee's Rebels, it was the one-two punch of Gary Sikes and Ricky Stewart that downed Dumas, 48-30, in another Panhandle Junior High School Conference game.

87th Congress' Program

A long, tough, and expensive agenda awaits the 87th Congress. It is expected to convene Jan. 3.

Details of the legislative program to be proposed by President-elect John F. Kennedy will be known until after his inauguration Jan. 20. But there is ample evidence that it will keep his fellow Democrats on Capitol Hill busy for the next six months or more.

With controlling margins of 65-35 in the Senate and 262-175 in the House, Democrats are expected to respond quickly to the next President's anticipated request for a batch of socialistic measures. Ample controversy is assured, however, by a number of other proposals more or less likely to arise in 1961.

Here, in capsule form, is the outlook for major items on the upcoming legislative agenda:

Pump-priming. The new President is expected to recommend a variety of spending and credit-encouragement steps, including the enactment of five measures stymied in 1960: grants for school construction and teachers' salaries, medical care benefits for the aged under social security, grants and loans for economically depressed areas, increased mortgage purchase authority and a lower FHA interest rate and a minimum hourly wage of $1.25 plus extended coverage. All are subjects of controversy over details, but the odds favor their enactment in one form or another.

National Security. Having campaigned on a pledge to strengthen the armed forces, the President

Greatest Kindness

The question is never: Should a man be kind and help his neighbor? Rather, it always is: Should a man be free NOT to help his neighbor. If in his judgement, and for any reasons, he does not wish to do so? Sometimes the greatest kindness is the rejection of a plea.

Suppose We Had A Gun

Let us suppose we had a gun. Let us suppose we believed the moon was made of green cheese. Let us suppose we felt that our belief about the moon was important.

Let us suppose we took our gun and went into the neighborhood and collected money from everyone by holding them up, so that we could use that money to promote our point of view about the moon and green cheese.

Now, let us suppose that you do not believe the moon is made of green cheese.

And let us further suppose that you believe it important to educate people into understanding that the moon is not made of green cheese.

In consequence, you would always be willing to do what you could, including spending your own money for that purpose, so you could assist in telling others that the moon is not made of green cheese.

Thus we would have two schools of thought about the moon and about green cheese. And both of us could agree that it is right for each of us to believe as each of us sees fit. No one should use force or coercion to prevent any one from believing what he will about the moon or about green cheese.

But is the competition between the two points of view honest and fair? We have a gun. You do not have a gun.

When we go to you we can force you to contribute money to support our view about the moon. But when you come to us and ask us to VOLUNTEER to support your view, we can laugh in your face.

You don't have a gun. So we don't have to put any money into your ideas about the moon. But you do have to put money into our ideas because we have a gun and can make you do it.

And this is the problem we face with government schools.

Government schools teach and practice that it is all right to use a gun to get the money to advance whatever beliefs the government wishes to have promoted. But we are at a great disadvantage with them. For we are forced by the guns of government to contribute money to this belief which to us is as abhorrent as insistence on

The Nation's Press

GRAY TEXTBOOKS (Christian Economics)

At last the battle of the textbooks is coming into the open. Dr. Albert Alexander, textbook analyst for the New York City Board of Education, has examined hundreds of high school textbooks and is not happy with what he finds. He says the history books have "a gray flannel cover."

Dr. Alexander describes these books as "strangely dull, lifeless and bearing striking resemblances to each other in the seeming uniformity and standardization of the treatment of American history."

The books are said to give so much space to contemporary details that "the past must be telescoped, resulting in 'misleading' and often false equating of values, personages and events."

A factual presentation of history has apparently given place to a common denominator treatment.

Foreign Aid. The Kennedy Administration may well ask for long-term and increased financing for the Development Loan Fund, to step up U. S. assistance to "underdeveloped" areas. But it is probably too late to undertake any basic revision of the catch-all Mutual Security Program in 1961, and a critical Congress is no less likely to cut the requests of a Democratic President than those of his Republican predecessor.

Trade Policy. With the Sugar Act due to expire March 31, along with the President's authority to cut Cuba out of the U. S. sugar market, quick action is anticipated to extend the law, at least through 1961. The Senate will be asked to ratify U. S. membership in the new Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, but the ticklish problem of extending the President's authority to cut tariffs under reciprocal trade agreements won't arise until 1962.

Taxes. Whether taxes will be increased, revised or simply extended in 1961 is an open question. Tax reduction, although favored as an "anti-recession" measure, appears least likely in the light of prospective revenue needs. But the recession itself all but rules out any across-the-board increase. Best bet: some revisions, possibly including higher depreciation allowances to spur new investment, offset by the closing of such Democratic-labeled "loopholes" as the 4 per cent tax credit on dividend income.

Highways. Congress will almost certainly be asked to rescue the federal highway program from collapse in 1961, if only because a one-cent increase in the gas tax imposed in 1959 is due to expire on June 30. It's not likely that the program will be cut back. That means Congress will have to find the money to cover the deficit in the Highway Trust Fund, either by raising user taxes (like the gas tax) or absorbing the added costs in a deficit-budget program.

Farm Policy. Despite campaign pledges to restore farm income and cut the wheat surplus by instituting a new farm program, there is a good chance that neither the Kennedy Administration nor Congress will attempt to write a major law in 1961.

City-Problems. A cabinet-level Department of Urban Affairs is a major goal of big-city Democrats who want a bigger voice in Washington and are in a good position to get it from the President-elect. Three programs of special concern to cities — federal grants for urban renewal, airport construction and water pollution control — come up for certain extension and probable expansion in 1961. Another good bet: federal loans to cities to develop commuter services and mass transportation systems.

Jobless Benefits. As a long-time advocate of minimum federal standards for unemployment compensation benefits, the President-elect is likely to ask for such a bill in 1961, either in place of or as a supplement to any anti-recession proposal for a temporary extension of current state benefits. Action might be deferred until 1962, however, in the interests of speeding approval of more pressing measures.

Debt Ceiling. Nothing is more certain in the coming session than another increase in the ceiling on the public debt, which reverts from $293-billion-$288 billion on June 30. The only question concerns the size of the increase. With deficit spending in store for fiscal 1961 and possibly 1962, the Treasury might call for at least a temporary increase to $300 billion.

Beware Of Kidnappers

ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower will be faced with a unique personal problem when he leaves the White House Jan. 20. He must take a special examination in order to obtain his first driver's license.

There is no other alternative for the President, because of his age. Aides, after making inquiry in Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, have told the President that driver's license applicants over 65-years-old must take a special examination. President Eisenhower is 70.

The driver's license problem came to light recently when the President, chatting with his staff, said that he planned to purchase a car and drive it himself when he leaves office.

"Do you have a driver's license?" one of the President's aides inquired. "By golly, no," replied the President. "I forgot about that detail. I've never owned a license. Maybe, you can tell me how I go about obtaining one."

When the aide said he would make inquiry, the President said: "Maybe I'm too old."

The President, like other applicants over 65, will take the special examination — sometime late next month.

Attractive Offers — Immediately after the Kennedy inauguration President Eisenhower plans to fly to Palm Springs, Calif. for rest and golf.

After a four to six weeks vacation, the President will return to Washington, where he plans to rent an apartment. He will make the Capitol and his Gettysburg, Pa., farm his home bases.

President Eisenhower is considering writing memoirs and observations of various kinds as well as doing some world traveling after he leaves the White House.

Already, he has received two very attractive writing offers. One proposal comes from a nationally known magazine. It offers $300,000 for his memoirs during the eight years he spent in the White House.

The other offer is from a news syndicate. It calls for the President to write a monthly article similar to that turned out by former President Truman.

The President won't suffer from lack of funds if he doesn't accept either proposal. He will have income (estimated at $25,000 a year) from an irrevocable trust, as well as a $25,000 presidential pension plus expense money which could run up to $50,000.

In addition, there is a move in Congress to restore his five-star general rank, which would give him another $25,000. The President resigned his commission when he was elected President, saying it was one of the most regretted acts of his life.

If the five-star rank were restored, the President also would have an office in the Pentagon and a small staff. He could then be subject to call for special duties.

Everybody's Money

By MERYLE STANLEY RUKESYER

As the Kennedy administration takes over on Jan. 20, there is continuing deterioration on the domestic scene in management-union relations.

The change is more than emotional and is a phase of the end of the abnormal post-war period of making up shortages. For a long part of the post-war era, the United States was almost alone in ability to turn out goods in enormous quantities, but of late our competitors in the free world — in West Germany, Japan and elsewhere — have come into full fruition, with industrial equipment as modern, if not more modern, than our own.

Accordingly, we no longer have the unique technological ability to convert high hourly rates into low unit costs of production.

During the earlier abnormal days, inflationary forces were at work, and management could reply affirmatively to union demands and readily pass along the higher labor costs in advanced selling prices.

On top of the shifting economics, which necessitates closer vigilance in managing the cost sheet, the climate for the unions was worsened by the revelations of racketeering in some labor organizations by the McClellan Committee. As a result, new legislation for regulating unions was passed by the last Congress — the Landrum-Griffin Act.

Thus, as Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel, United Steelworkers of America and special counsel, AFL-CIO, prepares to become secretary of labor in the Kennedy administration, the labor leader purports to hold out the olive branch to management.

In a recent speech in New York at the Congress at American Industry sponsored by the National Assn. of Manufacturers, Mr. Goldberg, who is regarded as the chief strategist and "brains" in the steel union, proposed new machinery for achieving industrial peace.

On the constructive side, Mr. Goldberg put himself on the philosophic side of the Philadelphia economist of the 19th century. Henry C. Carey, who preached of "the harmony of the interests" of all groups in opposition to Karl Marx's destructive recipe of internal class warfare. The prospective secretary of labor declared: "What is obviously called for is a greater recognition between management and labor in America of mutuality of interest."

Contending that the series of high-level talks between management and the unions, initiated by President Eisenhower, "have lagged and made little or no progress," Mr. Goldberg proposes still another federal agency. He advocates the setting up of a National Council of Labor-Management to advise the President — similar to the existing Business Advisory Council in the Department of Commerce.

The Goldberg Council would give equal representation to unions, management and the public, and would include the secretary of commerce, and the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers as ex-officio members.

What hope there might be in this proposal is minimized by the proposed agenda. Instead of getting to the heart of the economic situation, with declining profit margins resulting from the cost-price squeeze and from growing competition from foreign countries with lower labor standards, Mr. Goldberg proposes bombastic generalities. He says: "The council, out of their experience, should seek to recommend bold and imaginative programs to encourage the nation's economic growth and health, and to advance both our business enterprises and our labor movement. It should seek to develop programs for reconciling the great benefits to be derived from automation and the great burdens in human terms which develop from the impact of automation. It should seek to define the role of Government and of management and of labor in implementing our national goal of achieving full production and full employment."

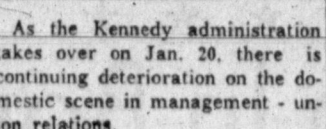

While the free discussions and continuous interchange of ideas will be superior in results to slugging out issue in strikes, the Goldberg suggestions don't go to the heart of the matter. In order to provide more jobs for a rapidly growing work force, it is necessary to supplement existing goods and services, in which pent-up demand has been satisfied, with innovations. These cannot be expected from jawbone sessions at Washington, but require creative discipline in research laboratories and in constructive new product development.

In order to develop a climate conducive to such creative venturesomeness, we need to strengthen, not weaken, the profit motive, with accent on incentives and rewards.

Intelligent union officials should communicate to the rank and file that an adequate profit margin is socially desirable and that it is a

Brundage Would Find Animals Pure Amateurs

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME, ITALY — In considering any proposal by Avery Brundage — his latest is that Olympic gold medalists be barred from defending their championships — it helps to remember that Brundage is a nut.

A nut about amateurism, that is. On all other subjects he is as sane as anyone, but when it comes to athletes performing without pay, or without outside financial aid of any sort he is as one-sided as a mirror, as unyielding as granite to a feather duster, and as single-tracked as a one-legged skier.

Brundage's beau ideal of an athlete would be one who: 1. Fashioned his own equipment (vaulting poles, skates, hockey sticks, etc.) with his own hands. 2. Taught himself without the aid of coaches.

3. Walked to the scene of competition, refusing even a lift by a passing motorist. 4. Living in his own tent while at a meet, grew his own food, cooked it himself, washed his own dishes, treated his own aches and pains and, if he happened to win a medal, promptly melted it down and gave the proceeds of the gold, silver, or bronze to a worthy charity.

Brundage would call such an athlete blessed, as well he might. He would be a true brother of Brundage's — and just as much of a nut.

Brundage's tireless campaign for purity in amateur athletics — it's been going on for half a century or more — would have long ago been successful but for one factor — human beings. For that's what athletes are, as hard as it is to believe sometimes when watching a wrestling match or a rope climb.

Human beings like glory, like money, and like easy living. Athletic prowess often brings a man all three, and this is not at all in keeping with Brundage's Spartan and Galahad ideas.

The main purpose of his essay on Brundage is to suggest that, after all these years, he abandon human athletes as impossible to reform, and turn to animals. Race horses, for example. A champion thoroughbred never gets a penny. No one ever slips him an extra buck for traveling expenses or appearance money. Others make money off him, a lot of it, but not the horse. He begins and ends his days a true amateur. Even the blanket of roses he wins soon without another federal agency. He advocates the setting up of a National Council of Labor-Management to advise the President — similar to the existing Business Advisory Council in the Department of Commerce.

The Goldberg Council would give equal representation to unions, management and the public, and would include the secretary of commerce, and the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers as ex-officio members.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Two extreme attitudes may be assumed toward accidents and illnesses. The first is that of identification, best illustrated by the saying attributed to John Bradford who remarked in the mid-18th century: "There, but for the grace of God, go I" as he watched a criminal walk to the gallows.

The second attitude is the less humble and more dangerous one summed up in the phrase: "It can't happen to me."

There are at least two practical advantages to the attitude of identification. The first is humanitarian in that it helps the speaker to appreciate and understand the suffering of the afflicted.

Perhaps it was not until the saintly Father Damien addressed his congregation with the words "we lepers" that he became one with members of the colony.

The second advantage of identification is the stimulus it provides for adoption of preventive measures.

The sight of a traffic casualty may make us drive with greater care and consideration. The sight of a crippled child may lead us to check on our own youngsters' polo shots.

But identification becomes a menace when the "Calamity Johns and James" register every complaint that comes to their attention. They fancy they're about to come down with every disease suffered by anyone in their circle of friends or acquaintances. They die each day after reading the obituary column. And, worst of all, they try the patience and fray the nerves of intimates who can't escape their daily recitals of upcoming misery and oncoming woe.

Despite these occasional disadvantages, identification is more often helpful than harmful. Not so with the attitude of "It can't happen to me."

It is the nonidentifiers who issue an open invitation to disaster. They think they're too expert in head traffic precautions observed by identifiers. They regard themselves as special wards of providence and hence in no need of check-up examinations, cancer surveys or immunization. They seem unable to learn or profit from the unhappy experiences of others. And, when it's too late, they inquire of the high heavens, "Oh why, oh why, did it have to happen to me?"

I don't doubt that identifiers needlessly pick up other people's troubles at times. Like a worried suit-picks up lint. But other people's troubles and lint can be brushed off without too great effort or loss. The greater danger faced by non-identifiers is that of Humpty Dumpty who, after his fall, couldn't be put together again, by all the king's horses and men.

World's first surgery in which ether was used as an anesthetic was performed by Dr. Crawford Long, in 1842, at Jefferson, Ga.

"SNOW NEWS IS GOOD NEWS" — L. P. Fort, 129 S. Faulkner, keeps a ready ear to his office inter-com after hearing a report Wednesday that snow was covering the ground although Pampa was enjoying a clear, sunny day. It's not the first time Fort has picked up outside calls and he's anxious for more.

Odd-Ball 'Sass' Box Pampa's Inter-Com Cutting Shenanigans

By ARTHUR MAYHEW
Daily News Staff Writer
Don't get L. P. Fort, 129 S. Faulkner, wrong; he's not complaining, but he would like to know why his "sass box" continues to spew forth information from the western part of the United States.
The "sass box," as Fort's monument stone maker and Baptist pastor who has lived in Pampa 13 years, has nicknamed his shop-to-house inter-com system, one-sided conversation by a Tulsa, Okla., amateur radio "ham" transmitted voices from the shop to est. outburst to date.
"I was working in my shop when all of a sudden my 'sass box' on the 'outside' calls," said, "We've got snow on the ground and it's still snowing."
After Fort quickly looked out to see and saw the sun shining, he checked his house to see if someone was playing a trick on him. Finding no one in the house, he called the Pampa Daily News to find out where the nearest snow was to Pampa.
A spot check showed the closest snow point was somewhere in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado, although there also was snow on the ground around the Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., area.
Fort has had his "informative" inter-com installed for two years, but it wasn't until late October that he began to pick up outside conversations, including those of neighbor Jim King, 129 S. Faulkner, a "ham" operator.
"I can sit right there (pointing to a stool near the bench where the radio rests) and listen to everything Jim is saying," Fort said, "although I can never hear the other side of the conversation," a note of disappointment entering Fort's voice.
King, who doesn't mind the up-to-date version of the old party line "sounds" performs.

Basically, King feels, Fort's inter-com may be picking up sound waves unintentionally on a certain frequency because of the amplifier found in all radios — may be acting like a rectifier or detector — the coil in a radio that turns electrical impulses into sound impulses that all can hear. Detectors are not part of the usual inter-com systems, but then Fort doesn't seem to have a "usual" inter-com. King adds that the wire which transmits voices from the shop to the house could also be acting as an antenna and, thus, bringing in the "outside" calls.
However, King's possible theories are beyond Fort — he's content to sit back and listen.
The present situation reminds Fort of another time when sound waves hit the wrong target, this time in 1938 in a Dallas church called the Pampa Daily News to find out where the nearest snow was to Pampa.
"We were sitting in church when we found out where the nearest snow was to Pampa," said the pastor, "as the pastor paused to speak — as the PA system came out into the square dance hall miles away from the church and the emcee used young pastor had to laugh with ground around the Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., area.
The rest of Fort's inter-com antics, out again with faraway conversations. He'll continue his but it wasn't until late October that he began to pick up outside conversations, including those of neighbor Jim King, 129 S. Faulkner, a "ham" operator.
"I can sit right there (pointing to a stool near the bench where the radio rests) and listen to everything Jim is saying," Fort said, "although I can never hear the other side of the conversation," a note of disappointment entering Fort's voice.

Communist Party U.S.A. Getting Ready To Enter Candidates In City Elections

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — On Nov. 22, immediately after the presidential election, the American Communist party sent a secret letter to all Communist districts in the United States.

It asked for detailed technical information on how to go about running candidates in local city elections — the requirements for getting on the ballot, the dates when signatures must be collected for putting names on the ballot, whether the elections are partisan or non-partisan.

That information was requested in time for the national committee meeting of the Communist party U.S.A., in New York City in January, probably sometime around the 21st.

Communist districts without representatives at the national meeting are to have their information in by mail or courier.

The letter carries the typed "signature" of Phil Bart, National Organizational Secretary of the Communist party, U.S.A. Under Gus Hall, Bart is the Communist party's national executive assistant — the party's man for making certain that decisions are carried out.

Communist letters frequently carry a typed name. The letter is a first step in the Communist party U.S.A. election drive for 1961. Strategy and tactics will be decided at the New York meeting.

Three proposals will be presented:

1. That the Communist party U.S.A. put its major political drive for 1961 into infiltrating local school boards and the local governments which control school boards.

This proposal reportedly has wide popular support among Communist leaders. It fits in closely with Gus Hall's thesis that to gain in power, the party must make a drive on youth.

Hall has been cracking the whip on party workers, insisting that more youth groups be organized, getting Communists to approach their young friends and relatives, pushing Red speakers before college and university groups. A Red magazine, "New Horizons for Youth," was started in October. It is edited by Daniel Rubin, national youth director of the Communist party U.S.A.

2. That the Communist party U.S.A. openly run candidates publicly wearing the Communist label in some local elections.

This is more controversial. For some time there have been strong complaints among lower-level Communist leaders in some of the big cities — New York, Detroit, Cleveland, San Francisco, Los Angeles — that the Communist party U.S.A. must get out in the open and run its own men. This formerly was done on occasion in New York and on the West Coast, for example. So far as is known, it hasn't been done recently.

The local Communist leaders in the forefront of this movement have reported to Communist national headquarters that if the Communist national leaders want them to grow, they must build around publicly-known figures. This means open public candidates.

Some high Red leaders, however, figure the time isn't ripe. They believe if they continue to stay in the background, they favor another proposal:

3. That the Communist party U.S.A. vigorously encourage "sympathetic" candidates to run for the local offices, whether these men are Communists or not. And that the party vigorously step up organization of local Communist units to make this drive effective in as many places as possible.

In some areas there will likely be encouragement for local Communists to infiltrate the Democratic and Republican local organizations, in an attempt to influence the nomination of "favorable" candidates. In some areas there is pressure for joint fronts.

Stimulating Business

MOUNT ORAB, Ohio (UPI) — Merchants in this Brown County village of 728 have decided to pay all parking meter fees in an effort to stimulate business.

The Chamber of Commerce said the village council approved a plan under which co-operating businessmen will pay $1.50 weekly for each of the 150 parking meters to allow shoppers to park free for two hours.

Rabbits are said to be one of the oldest living mammals on the North American continent.

Financial Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — We all know 1960 was a fizzle as far as stock prices go. But how did the other market statistics fare?

The New York Stock Exchange answers this question in an eight-page statistical summary which covers everything from sales to short interest to number of trading days.

In case anyone is interested there were 252 trading days in 1960, one less than the year before. And on one of those days, Dec. 12, the opening was delayed one hour because of a severe snow storm in New York — the first such delay since Feb. 20, 1934.

While the number of issues listed on the "big board" rose from 1,599 on Jan. 1 to 1,525 on Dec. 1, and the number of shares from 5,547,269,552 to 6,397,888,001, the market value of the total listings fell from $307,707,698,159 at the start of the year to $292,991,130,927 at the beginning of December.

The average market price of all listed shares dropped from $52.62 to $45.79 in the 11-month span, the summary showed. The low for the year, however, was $44.07 reached on Nov. 1.

Stock volume for the year amounted to 766,693,818 shares or an average of 3,042,436 shares per day, compared with 820,296,279 shares or a daily average of 3,242,278 shares in 1959. The record for any one year still is held by 1929 when a whopping 1,124,800,410 shares changed hands.

December, thanks to the busiest final trading session of the year on record, was the most active month with volume of 77,354,585 shares, and July was the quietest with 33,870,465 shares.
