Filibuster Test Vote Sought Today

'Talkathons' Boosters Set To Block Changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate leaders hoped for the first test vote today in the week-long fight over bipartisan efforts to make it easier to choke off filibusters.

City Tax Data In Mails

The city tax department is sending out letters during January to the owners of Pampa real estate which has undergone improvements, notifying them of reappraisal figures on increased valuation for tax purposes.

City Tax Assessor-Collector Aubrey Jones said today some 600 notices are being mailed advising property owners of the recent appraisal to place these properties on an equal and uniform basis with valuations carried by similar properties throughout the city.

The letters contain the new appraised value which has been recommended and asks the owners to come in and discuss the assessed value in order that any errors may be eliminated.

Bills Payment Approved By Commission

December bills totaling $36,588 were ordered paid today by the City Commission at its regular weekly session in City Hall.

City Manager John Koontz said the bills will be paid with the following amounts out of four city funds: $28,513.26 from the general fund; $3,737.17 from the water and sewer fund; $65.75 from the library fund and $4,252.10 from the water and sewer revenue bond fund.

Laotian Leader Says Viet Minh Battalions Assisting Communists

LUANG PRABANG, Laos (UPI) — The commander of the Laotian army charged today that two battalions of Viet Minh troops drove across the border from North Viet Nam last week and helped Communist Laotian soldiers capture the town of Nam Boc.

Nam Boc is situated on the Nam Phu River north of Luang Prabang. It was one of the Laotian army's main resistance points in defense of this royal capital.

Maj. Gen. Poun Coust Sanichan said the Communist Pathet Lao troops who seized the town in a surprise attack were supported by unusually heavy artillery and mortar fire.

"We know that Viet Minh manned those weapons," he said. "The attack was so swift that Poun's troops had no chance. The town fell with little resistance. A rebel 'Voice of Laos Radio' broadcast monitored in Tokyo claimed the leftist forces, under paratroop Capt. Kong Le, had captured 'vast areas' of Laotian soil and killed or captured more than 500 government troops, including 20 Americans. (U.S. State Department officials

AWAITING PLANE TRIP — Little Lida Ann Gudgel lies in her Highland General Hospital bed as her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gudgel, 717 E. Browning, stand by during preparations yesterday for Lida Ann to be flown to Baptist Hospital in Dallas for skin grafts and further treatment to severe burns she received Dec. 9 when her housecoat caught fire in her home. Cap Jolley, the local pilot who flew Lida Ann and her mother to the east Texas city, said on his return that she "slept most of the way and was calm as could be throughout the trip." Friends in Pampa arranged for the flight and her treatment. Lida Ann's only request was that her school chums write her in care of the hospital.

Kennedy Slates Tough Pre-Inaugural Schedule

NEW YORK (UPI) — President-elect John F. Kennedy set a punishing schedule for himself here and in Washington today with particular emphasis on the economically disturbing imbalance in American foreign trade which is shifting down the nation's gold position.

The President-elect arranged five conferences in New York during the morning before flying to Washington at noon for major afternoon meetings dealing with the so-called dollar gap and the outlook for space development under the new administration.

He planned to leave Washington after 6 p.m. EST for his pre-inaugural retreat in Palm Beach, Fla., where he will closet himself in the seaside estate of his family and work on his inaugural address. The date for his return to Washington was not fixed, but he will be in the nation's capital in time for one more conference with President Eisenhower on Jan. 19, the day before inauguration.

His morning in New York included an early breakfast meeting with Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, a conference with Gov. John B. Swainson of Michigan and delivery of special task force reports on health and Social Security by Prof. Wilber Cohen of the University of Michigan. Before taking off for Washington, he also planned to meet with Dennis Rhodes, former governor of Rhode Island and Joseph Keenan, secretary of the conservative coalition in the committee which blocked House action on a number of liberal bills in the last Congress.

Rayburn, as elected leader of House Democrats, has passed the word that he is determined to take personal control of the committee—if necessary by purging Calmer and replacing him with a Rayburn-approved Democrat.

Sit-Ins Stir Cross Burning On SMU Campus

DALLAS (UPI) — An eight-foot-high cross burned on the campus of Southern Methodist University late Monday night near the scene of mixed student sit-in demonstrations.

The gasoline-soaked cross, made from two-by-fours was quickly extinguished by firemen. Two Negroes and seven white students from the university tried for three hours Monday to get served at a drug store lunch counter despite efforts of the owner to drive them out with clouds of insect repellent.

The store management claimed, however, that the foggy, strong smelling repellent was being used to fumigate the place for cockroaches, although it was shortly before the noon hour.

Rayburn, Smith Deadlocked On Colmer's Purge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., and Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., of the House Rules Committee remained deadlocked today in their struggle over control of legislation.

Their failure to work out a compromise in a 45-minute conference Monday in Rayburn's office increased chances that Rayburn would launch a drive to "purge" Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., from the rules group.

Smith is leader of the conservative coalition in the committee which blocked House action on a number of liberal bills in the last Congress.

Rayburn, as elected leader of House Democrats, has passed the word that he is determined to take personal control of the committee—if necessary by purging Calmer and replacing him with a Rayburn-approved Democrat.

County Joins To Aid Widow Of Policeman

A group of community leaders met this morning and formed the Gray County Bob Potter memorial fund to accept contributions for the widow of the Tulsa law enforcement officer who was shot to death in the line of duty on Christmas day.

According to Sheriff Rufe Jordan, who is heading the drive, both the First National Bank and the Citizens Bank are accepting funds for this effort and Gray County residents are urged to make their contributions as soon as possible.

Efforts to raise funds for Mrs. Potter and her two small boys are going on throughout the Pampa area and to date over $7,000 has been contributed.

"The people of Gray County have always done their part when it comes to assisting a neighbor in distress," the sheriff said, "and I certainly hope we rise to the occasion for this worthy cause."

Commission Okays Panel Chairman

Pampa City Commission today authorized the appointment of Bob Hudson as chairman of the City Traffic Commission to succeed James Hart, resigned.

Appointment of Deck Woldt as member of the traffic commission also was approved. Woldt will succeed Terry Cully, resigned.

Cost Of Living Boosts Inmates' Food Expenses

Increased living costs are moving into the city and county jails. It's costing more to serve meals to the prisoners.

John Pitts of the Courthouse Cafe who supplies meals to inmates in Gray County and the Pampa city jails, appeared before the Pampa City Commission today and requested an increase of ten cents per meal for city prisoners. That would boost the price from 60 cents to 70 cents a meal.

Pitts told the commissioners that meals for county jail prisoners had been increased to 80 cents on Jan. 1.

The commissioners said they would ponder the question and give Pitts an answer next week.

Community Spirit, Support Needed To Draw New Industry To Areas

By TEX DEWEESE, Daily News Managing Editor. Community spirit and community support top the list of things needed to bring new industry into area, George W. Cox, assistant president of the Santa Fe Highway Co., told an audience of 150 men and women at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon in Coronado Inn today.

Cox, associated in industrial development with the Santa Fe for years, spoke on the topic "What Industry Expects from the Local Community."

"Not only must a community give its support and efforts in bringing in new industry," Cox said, "it must think about existing industry — industries already in the community."

"Once it locates in your area, industry wants to be appreciated. It wants to become part of your community. It expects you to be a good neighbor and be just as interested in it five years later as you were when you were trying to get it to locate."

"I believe Pampa is doing well in that respect, but every now and then leaders of any community should stop and ask themselves if they are doing as much for their existing industries as they should."

"Making your community appeal to industries seeking a location is not a one or two man job. It is a job for everyone in the community. Industrial development is a hard job and it takes a variety of persons in your community to do that job. Your chamber of commerce manager can get things started but it takes united effort of the entire community to get the desired results."

To emphasize this point, Cox told the story of a taxi driver in one city who contributed more than any other single factor to bringing an industry to his town.

"He happened to be taking one of the industry heads, screening the town as a possibility for a site location, on a trip across town in his taxicab," Cox related. "And the industrialist asked the cab driver what kind of a town it was. The cab driver immediately became enthusiastic over his town."

Chicks In Living Room, Too Mare In The Kitchen Creates Controversy

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — A man's house is his castle, reasons Kenneth Cushman, so who should complain if he keeps a pregnant mare in the kitchen and chickens in the living room.

And if three dogs, six puppies and two cats share the kitchen with Lassie, a 10-year-old mare suffering with pneumonia — it's Cushman's affair.

Mrs. Cushman shares the "be kind to animals" sentiments of her husband.

"The neighbors are always trying to make trouble for us," she said.

Neighbors have complained of the animals harbored in the Cushman home in nearby Girard during the cold spell.

The Erie County Health Department and state police have received complaints of the five-room home turned into a menagerie.

No action has been taken. Cushman, who is unemployed, devotes special attention to Lassie, who also is expecting. He administers daily injections of penicillin and doses of cough medicine. He said Lassie is recovering.

Cushman said sick animals need tender care. Recently two of his cows came down with pneumonia and he moved them into the kitchen where they recovered. He has not complained about the lack of space in his home. Living with him and his wife are their married daughter, Mrs. Charles Jordan, 21, and two other children, Lenore, 3, and Albert, 17.

Mrs. Cushman said Lassie earns her keep.

"When the fire starts going down, Lassie signals us by neighing," she said.

At Georgia U. Negroes Skip Classes Over Closing Threat

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Two Negro students admitted to the University of Georgia under a federal court order skipped their first day classes today under the governor's threat to close the school if they showed up.

However, the school was expected to be closed anyway for a holiday during which the state plans to ask Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black for a stay of the integration order. State officials also hope to persuade the legislature to repeal laws that automatically cut off funds to any integrated state university.

Eight o'clock classes began at the university on schedule this morning but absenteeism was heavy because of confusion whether the university would be open.

The two Negro students, Charvone Hunter, 18, and Hamilton Holmes, 19, remained at their homes in Atlanta this morning and said they did not plan to go to Athens.

Gov. Ernest Vandiver announced Monday night that a 1956 segregation law would go into effect the minute they showed up at the 175-year-old school, cutting off funds and stopping operation of the university. State officials said this law was interpreted to mean "not a stamp could be used" after funds are cut off.

The mood of the students was not this morning but four students were arrested during demonstrations Monday night.

Solons Convene At Austin

AUSTIN (UPI) — The 57th session of the Texas Legislature was set to be rapped into being at high noon today with lawmakers facing the gigantic problem of finding more tax dollars to pay the biggest fiscal bill in the state's history.

During the next 140 days the senators and representatives will try to find ways to pay for the $2.47 billion recommended budget. It won't be easy. Most political observers figure there will be at least one special session before the problem is solved.

Main attraction of the first day will be the election of speaker of the 150-member House of representatives, and both Rep. Wade Spillman of McAllen and James A. Turman of Gober have been claiming victory for a year.

Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey will preside in the 31-member state Senate, in his unprecedented third term, as the number two official in Texas.

Besides the big budget for the next biennium, the lawmakers also face lengthy debate in deciding redistricting, and in legislation on insurance, criminal statutes, educational expansion and other controversial issues.

The first order of business for the legislature will be to form its committees and hire employees, who have been interviewed for possible jobs this week as the capital began a frenzy of activity.

This year's lawmakers will be the best paid and the longest working, as a result of a constitutional amendment passed by voters last November.

The session's length was extended from 120 to 140 days and legislators given a pay boost from $25-a-day during regular and called sessions to $4,800 a year, plus $25-a-day for every day of called special sessions.

As the lawmakers assembled in Austin this week, State Comptroller Robert S. Calvert outlined the size of their financial problem with an estimate that $100 million in new taxes must be passed just to keep spending at its current level.

Calvert said the state had to overcome a $63 million deficit that resulted when a severance beneficiary tax on gas pipeline companies was declared unconstitutional, and when other revenues failed to meet expectations.

TIME FOR VIOLENCE

By Noel M. Loomis

XXV
"Is Old Ben's widow gone?" asked a voice from the next cell.
Bart started, then looked at Gentry. The man's eyes were hardly open, but he must have heard them.
"You should have opened your mouth earlier," Bart said, "and you could have had something to eat."
"I know you got the gun, and I'll keep my trap shut if you don't go off and leave me in here."
Bart made up his mind fast. "I won't," he promised, "if you'll tell me what you were doing there at the supply post."
"I was headed for Mobette to tell Jones that Arrington had been at the JB."
Obviously Gentry did not know that Jones himself had sent Arrington to the JB.
"And Jones turned you over to Arrington, and now he is letting you rot in jail."
"Wouldn't Jones give plenty to know what I know about that woman now?" he muttered.
"What about her?" asked Bart.
"Jones is aiming to call on her tonight at the ranch—and here she is in Mobette."
"You mean he's going to burn the place tonight," asked Bart.
Gentry stared at him, bleary-eyed. "He never intended to burn it. He was tryin' to scare her. He wants the woman!"
Bart grew cold as he thought about the implications. Whether or not Catherine had ever given Jones any reason to think she would be receptive to him—and Bart doubted that—it was plain that Jones planned to force his attentions on her. He looked again at Gentry. "Listen. When the jailer comes in next time, get him close to your door so I can go to work."

Within half an hour the jailer opened the outer door. "All right in there?"
"I'm all right," said Bart, "but this hombre next door is having fits."
Gentry put on a good act. He suddenly seized the bars and shook them with all his strength, and gave a scream that sounded like the dying gurgle of a panther.
The jailer pressed against the bars, and Bart lifted the .38 out of his shirt and pushed it against the jailer's ribs. "Drop the iron," he said softly, "and don't move fast."
The jailer thought about it for a second or two. He could not shoot at Bart from where he was, and he could not turn very fast. The pistol thudded on the dirt, and Gentry snatched it.
"The keys," Bart said. "Open up."
The jailer unlocked the doors and stepped back. "I wish you wouldn't take me 44," he said. "I paid for it myself."
Bart said, "We'll leave it in the office. Mind you don't start hollering until we get out of gunshot or we might be back."
Gentry looked at him. "What am I gonna use?"
Bart started to give him the .38 but changed his mind. If Catherine had spent her scanty funds to buy the gun for him, he would not turn it over to a man like Gentry. He didn't even want Gentry to touch it.

He looked around the office and saw his gun belt on the wall. He buckled it on and gave one of the big six shooters to Gentry. "Drop the jailer's iron on the desk," he said.
Gentry laid it down unwillingly. "How about horses?"
"They'll be at the livery."
Bart had spotted the livery stable, and now led the way. "Have you got money?" he asked Gentry.
The man fumbled in his pocket and came up with a tarnished $5 gold piece, which he gave to Bart.
They walked inside the livery and climbed over the gate. Bart hammered on the door, and a man with uncombed hair came yawning. "Does everybody in Mobette get up at the crack of dawn?" he demanded.
"Who else has?"
"Three people—woman and a man, and another woman—young, pretty."
"What kind of horse did the young one have?"
"Big sorrel plowhorse, like."
"Where were they going?"
"Clarendon. Where you fellers headin'?"
"Tascosa—and we want our horses."
"What horses did you say?"
"A black," said Bart, "with a dog-iron brand on the lower right hip, and a bay with a JA burned on—"
"Hey, you fellers been in jail! Cap Arrington bring them horses in!"
Gentry had the .44 in his hand. "You want to argue about it?"
Within five minutes the horses were saddled, and the livery man was leading them to the gate. Bart gave him the $5 gold piece, and he counted out change in silver dollars. "It's bad business, ridin' a JA horse without a bill of sale," the man said.

Initial Speeches Presented By 4 Toastmasters

Four new members of the Toastmasters Club presented their "ice breaker" speeches in the meeting of the club last night in the Coronado Inn.

The speakers and their topics were:

David Gantz, "Who Is He?"; John Darnell, "This is My Life"; Tom Snow, "Easy Sledding"; and Lloyd Larrimore, "From 0 to 38."

These speeches are designed as basic training and to introduce the incoming members.

Following presentation of the speeches, general evaluator Walt Jordan termed Snow the top speaker of the evening.

Jim Daily was toastmaster and George Crow was determined the best individual evaluator.

Cabot Will Construct Plant In Argentina

Cabot Corp., Boston, Mass., world's largest manufacturer of carbon black, announces that it has received authorization from the Argentine government for the immediate construction of a 30 million pound per year carbon black plant in Argentina, by its subsidiary, Cabot Argentina S.A.C.

A plant site in Campana, near Buenos Aires has been purchased from Esso Argentina, the raw material suppliers, and construction has begun. The $4 million plant should be in operation by late 1961 and Cabot is posting bond to the Argentine government guaranteeing early completion.

Argentina's needs for standard carbon blacks (presently imported at a cost of over $2 million per year) will be supplied by this plant. With a readily expandable capacity, it will amply serve Argentina's growing market (now 20 million pounds per year) as well as all anticipated exports to other Latin American countries.

The 20-acre site is fifty miles from Buenos Aires on the river Parana de las Palmas and the F.C.G.B.M. railroad, thus assuring several means of rapid and efficient delivery to the market, which is concentrated nearby.

The plant will produce the complete range of Cabot oil furnace blacks and will employ about 70 to 80 Argentines. It will be completely equipped with modern analytical quality control and rubber testing laboratories, and will also utilize facilities of the parent company for basic technical assistance and for carbon black research and development work.

Carbon black is used extensively (97 per cent of world's total production) for the reinforcement of all types of rubber products, including truck, bus and passenger car tires. The oil types of furnace blacks that are manufactured at Campana will supply optimum wearing properties, particularly to synthetic rubber. Carbon blacks are also used for coloring purposes in inks, paints, plastics, and for special applications in miscellaneous other products.

As manufacturers of the world's greatest variety of carbon blacks, Cabot will produce at Campana new types of oil furnace blacks (called Regal), not available from other carbon black producers and previously available to Argentina only by importation at U.S. dollar cost from other Cabot producing plants. By a new and exclusive process, Cabot will produce both Regal 300 and Regal SRF at Campana, providing the rubber industry for the first time with low cost replacements for both gas produced channel blacks and gas produced semi-reinforcing furnace blacks. In addition, Cabot Argentina will produce HAF, high abrasion furnace black; ISAF, intermediate super abrasion furnace black; FEF, fast extruding furnace black; and GPF, general purpose furnace black.

Cabot Argentina S.A.C. construction follows closely upon the opening of Cabot's fifth overseas company, Cabot Italiana S.P.A. (October, 1960). Others are Cabot Carbon of Canada, Ltd., Cabot Carbon Ltd., Cabot France, S.A., Cabot Europe, and the jointly owned company of Australian Carbon Black Pty. Ltd. Cabot has plants throughout the U.S. and sales representatives in all principal cities of the world. U.S. branch offices are located in Akron, Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles, New Brunswick and New York. Cabot also manufactures Cab-O-Sil silica, Cab-O-Lite wollast-onite, pine tars and other chemicals for industry.

Texas Board Of Education Picks Top Three Officers

AUSTIN (UPI) — The State Board of Education Monday re-elected its top three officers and named Mrs. George H. Swinney of Abilene as its new secretary.

In addition, the board voted to invest $11 million of the permanent school fund cash balance, turned down the appeal of two San Antonio school teachers who charged they were fired because of union affiliation and accepted a textbook that had been under attack as giving a distorted picture of Texas history.

The board elected Dr. J. W. Edgar to his fourth four-year term as state commissioner of education, and renamed chairman W. W. Jackson of San Antonio and vice chairman Emerson Stone Jr. of Jacksonville.

The board adopted the Texas history textbook after textbook publishers assured the board necessary corrections were made.

The book, Lynn I. Perrigo's "Texas and Our Spanish Southwest," had been attacked by a group of ultra-conservatives led by Canyon rancher J. Evetts

Haley, on grounds it exhibited "snap judgment," bias, distortion by implication.

Board members voted in other action:

—To spend $11 million of the permanent school fund cash balance for U.S. treasury bonds maturing in 13-24 years, with yields of 3.79 to 3.90 per cent.

—To approve a legislative proposal to establish deaf schools in El Paso, Tarrant, Harris, Bexar and Dallas counties, to help reduce the enrollment load of the state school for the deaf.

—To spend $320,000 of permanent school fund cash balance for schools bonds from Lamar, Burnet, Hunt, Collin and Bexar counties, and to waive $5,260,000 in other offerings.

—Delayed action on a request by Pan American College at Edinburg for full state tax support.

Dr. Ralph Schilling, Pan American president, had asked immediate action saying, "the state has a moral obligation to make higher education available to the citizens of the Valley."

Mayor Ed Myatt has received a letter from the superintendent of an orphanage in Korea asking for help from Pampa citizens.

Byong Sun Lee, superintendent of the Ghoongang Orphanage in Kyongnam Province, Korea, told the mayor in the letter he is fighting a losing battle to give proper care to the 65 children under his care.

"We are faced with a difficult situation in taking care of these war orphans who are the victims of Communist aggression some ten years ago," the superintendent wrote.

Mayor Myatt said the only thing he knew to do was to tell the story to Pampans and advise them to send any donations of clothing or give any other assistance they wish.

city. He told the industrialist, not knowing who he was or what his mission was, that this was the best town with the best people in the area. It so impressed the industrialist that the final decision to move there was made because of the cab driver's enthusiasm for the city in which he lived."

Cox pointed out that everyone from the filling station operator, the barber, the grocery man to the taxi driver can be a walking chamber of commerce for his home town.

The speaker said industry expects a multiplicity of things from the local community.

Among these things he listed were labor, water, power, gas, recreational facilities, good schools, a reasonable tax rate and particularly labor productivity.

Cox outlined what a new industry, employing 100 persons, mean to a community. He said, on the average, it adds 296 people to the population count, 112 more houses, 51 school children, 174 employees in other service activities, 107 automobiles, $370,000 a year in additional income, $270,000 a year in bank deposits and $360,000 in added retail sales plus the investment of $1,328,000 in the community by the industry employing these 100 persons.

Yesterday's luncheon, which was the first monthly chamber-meeting of the year, was presided over by E. Roy Smith, who introduced J. H. Blake, assistant general manager of the Santa Fe at Amarillo. Blake presented the speaker. Invocation was given by Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Luncheon music was played by organist Maxine Milliron.

Santa Fe officials from the Amarillo division, in addition to Blake, who attended the luncheon included: R. H. Deitker, general freight agent; E. Kancher, division freight and passenger agent; J. E. Langley, traveling freight and passenger agent; J. M. Patterson, traveling freight and passenger agent; Ralph Ater, special representative public relations department; Ben F. Funeral services for Mrs. Lillie Bell Yoder will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow in Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home with the Rev. Woodrow W. Adcock, pastor of First Methodist Church, officiating.

Mrs. Yoder, who resided west of the city died at 12 noon yesterday in Highland General Hospital. She was born Jan. 12, 1880 in Hickory, N. C., and moved to Pampa in 1928 from Roswell, N. M.

She was a member of the first Methodist Church and of the Woodman Circle Lodge.

Survivors are one daughter, Mrs. W. H. Fisher of Borger; four sisters, Mrs. Guy Yoder, Mrs. Katie Settlemyre, Mrs. Leonard Campbell, all of Hickory N. C., Mrs. Robinson Lutz of Newton, N. C.; one brother, Loy Miller of Hickory; two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Mrs. M. H. Wilks Service Pending

Funeral services are pending for Mrs. Moro Hughey Wilks, 86, 1711 Mary Ellen, prominent Pampa pioneer, who died at 11:35 last night in Highland General Hospital following an extended illness.

She was born Nov. 13, 1874 in Grayson County and had lived in Pampa since 1903.

Mrs. Wilks was a member of the First Christian Church, where she taught Sunday School for many years.

On Dec. 16, 1906 in Pampa, she was married to Will Wilks, who survives her.

Other survivors are one brother, A. A. Hughey of Clovis, N. M.; two sisters, Mrs. George McGowan of Vega, Dr. Elgin Hughey of Las Vegas, Nev.; several nephews and nieces one of whom is Mrs. Johnny Hines of Pampa.

Interment rites will be announced later by Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

Now a "They are excellent," he said, with sudden warmth. "This ma- chine — I showed them how to use it only five days ago. Now I don't even have to watch them."

The man from Stalingrad has been here nine months. He had spent a fierce Aswan summer in the granite mountains. "It was hot," he said, "but bearable."

The Soviets have overcome language difficulty by bringing Russian interpreters along to the work site. Almost every Russian engi- neer or technician has a Russian interpreter by his side. A Soviet engineer who deals with Egyptian workers has an interpreter who translates Russian into colloquial Arabic. A Soviet engineer dealing with Egyptian engineers has an interpreter who translates Russian into English.

Alexei Boldyrev, 28, a clean-shaven graduate of the Energy College in Moscow, was talking with a group of Egyptian workers over a whirring machine.

"I am taking Arabic lessons at Aswan," he said. "I can read, write and speak Arabic — a little."

Boldyrev said the machine had been brought from Russia 15 days before, and that his Egyptian workers already knew how to operate it.

Mikhail Zarif, 48, an Egyptian driller from Aswan, said, "We understand everything the Russians have to tell us."

On the site, the Russian engineers and technicians dealt directly with Egyptian workers.

Along the top edge of the canal wall an old man wearing a colonial hat moved with a walking stick. He was Dr. Hassan Zaki, the Egyptian cabinet minister in charge of the construction of the dam. He walked alone, surveying the work site.

Present work on the Aswan High Dam is confined to blasting the mile-long diversion canal through the granite mountain. The canal work has been going on for a year and it will need another two years to complete.

Casual Flip Of Finger Winds Up $1.5 Million Deal For Texas Ranch

By PAT CONWAY
SAN DIEGO, Tex. (UPI) — With the casual wiggle of a bandaged finger, 73-year-old J. O. Walker of Laredo, Tex., bought himself a $1,575,000 South Texas ranch.

He made the deal at an auction, in a financial battle of nerves that outstrips any frontier game of show down poker.

His prize was the legendary Dobbie Ranch — a 5,711-acre kingdom known for mesquite and mahem, mavericks and mystery.

Friendly men now roam its wide ranges — mending fence, making repairs and getting the rich spread ready for its first herd of cattle in more than a decade.

Few Texans ever heard of Walker before he beat down a handful of the "big rich" for the Dobbie prize.

The bidding started at $1,015,000. Steadily it climbed. Gus Wortham, Houston insurance millionaire said $1,111,000. P. H. Welder of Victoria pushed it to $1,250,000.

Each time, Walker was there with a "stab" more.

Henry Grace of Wichita Falls, Tex., bid in at $1,500,000 and asked auctioneer George Clower what was for lunch, hamburgers or steaks.

"Neither in the terms of the contract," Clower replied.

Steady and serene, Walker made it $1,550,000. Grace added another $5,000.

"Who'll go $1,575,000?" asked Clower.

Walker, his spectacled eyes shaded under a wide-brimmed Texas hat, wiggled his bandaged right forefinger.

"All right," he said, and it was over.

Nerveless J. O. Walker had bought the Dobbie Ranch. The last owner was South Texas political boss George Parr, who borrowed up to the hilt on the property and lost it when a new political regime foreclosed.

The Dobbie Ranch, was founded in 1900 by J. M. Dobbie, uncle of the noted western author, J. Frank Dobbie. It became the eighth — and by far the largest spread — owned by Walker.

Its 87 sections sprawl through the Nueces River country of Duval, Webb and LaSalle Counties. One entire section, 640 acres, is enclosed by a 10-foot fence and is reported to be one of Texas' best hunting preserves.

But who is J. O. Walker, the new "top hand" of the Dobbie? It's hard to say. The soft-spoken Walker shuns publicity.

"Ever since I bought the ranch people have been calling me at all hours of the day and night wanting me to buy things and give them money," he said, explaining his stand.

"They think that just because I could buy the ranch, I have the money to make fabulous donations," Walker added.

How much money does Walker have? That too is hard to tell. "He got in the sudden-death auction with $100,000 'earnest money,'" he'll have to pay the rest after the legal procedures are complete. Maybe it's in his pocket. Maybe it'll be a loan. Walker isn't saying.

No one in Laredo seems to know how Walker made his money.

One acquaintance said, "He's a director of the Union National Bank, and he has found oil on some of his property. He runs a lot of cattle. I hear he owns several thousand acres of Bebb County property."

"He's a plain man," said a waitress who often serves him a mid-morning cup of coffee. "He never throws his money away. He hates chiselers."

Pampans Extend 'Happy Wishes' Today To Uncle Billy Frost

On the banks of the Allegheny River in a town called Tynesty, Pennsylvania, just two years short of a century ago, Mary Francis and Avery Frost welcomed the first of their seven sons, William Banks, who today is being honored by friends on the occasion of his 98th birthday with an Open House in his home, 1105 Charles. From that little town in Pennsylvania, down through the years that were concerned with work in the oil fields of Pennsylvania and Texas; a marriage to Effie Jane and the subsequent births of two sons and two daughters; the passing of his parents; his wife in 1949; five of his brothers and three of his children, the gentleman, who is celebrating his birthday today, has evolved this philosophy: "Laughter is one of the finest things in the world. When you try to make other people happy, you will be happy yourself." Last year friends were unable to give a party for Uncle Billy, as he likes to be called, for he went traipsing off to Coney, Kansas, to attend the Golden Wedding Anniversary of his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Frost. But friends are making up for it today and before the day is finished over 200 guests have been expected to attend. High on Uncle Billy's guest list are all of his friends at Senior Center, with whom he visits every Thursday afternoon in Lovett Memorial Library.

LET'S TALK IT OVER—Uncle Billy sees eye to eye with his constant companions a pair of cats, who are brothers, Snowball and Strawberry. It all began, you might say, with Trixie, the cats' mother, a once-pretty bit of fluffy white fur, who was Uncle Billy's first feline and who, subsequently "mothered" 20 kittens over a period of time. One day, when the house became too full of her offspring, Trixie had a spat with Uncle Billy, and fickle cat that she was she just walked out of the house and down the street to make her home with a friend of Uncle Billy's, Jerry Torvie, where things were not quite so crowded. In the picture above, Snowball was all for having his picture made, but Strawberry proved to be camera-shy and would not permit a photograph.

SATORIAL SPLENDOR—One of the things that Uncle Billy is most particular about is his appearance. When he "steps out" to the many functions he attends, such as elementary school family dinners around town, to the Chamber of Commerce functions; basket-ball games (but he doesn't go to these too much any more), he is always neatly dressed; shoes shined, as he is doing in the picture, shown above, clean shaven (and he does this himself, too); suit neatly-pressed with a tie chosen with care to complement his shirt. When he is about his chores, his "roustabout" clothes are good enough for the wedding that he does in his yard, mowing the lawn; and climbing up a ladder to prune the shade trees. He doesn't attend the church of his preference, The First Christian Church, as often as he would like because he has a little difficulty hearing. But on a recent Sunday, Uncle Billy found a spot in the church where the speakers join together and where he was able to hear his pastor, the Rev. Richard Crews, clearer. One of the highlights of Uncle Billy's month is when a friend brings a tape recording of the month's devotions to him at home. A new devotional is taped each month and is furnished by the church for its shut-ins. Uncle Billy was the life of the party at the Altrusa Club Senior Center Party in December, as he circulated among friends wishing each a Merry Christmas. At one point, he laid aside his cane to whirl the party chairman through a Gay Nineties Waltz. Uncle Billy doesn't exactly use the cane (his wooden leg as he calls it) because he has to, but every now and then his trick knee gives out on him and he has to resort to its use.

THANKS FOR THE RIDE—Uncle Billy enjoys nothing more than a spin about town as he is pictured here being returned home after a ride with a friend, Miss Elsie Mundy of Los Angeles, Calif., who is visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mundy. Just prior to keeping his appointment with the press, Miss Mundy had dropped by, as so often Uncle Billy's friends do, and took him for a drive in her new car. It is suspected that it is Uncle Billy and his friends that often add to the traffic around the well-known "teen-age" drag downtown. He, too, likes to conclude each "drag" with a soft drink at a drive-in. It is an established fact that today's birthday honoree is an avid sports fan. In other years, he was one of the Oklahoma Soothers most enthusiastic fans. When asked what he thinks of the team this season, he almost sadly replied "By golly, they just don't have one this year, but they couldn't always be good. I've sort of exchanged them for the Baltimore Colts, but they're getting beaten now, too." Uncle Billy came to Pampa in 1929 to make his home and until his retirement in September, 1940, he was employed by Dunigan Brothers, oil and gas producers. His only brother, Bert Frost, lives in Toledo, Ohio. Uncle Billy's fading eyesight prevents him from reading the newspaper or watching television, but he does derive much enjoyment from listening to the radio. Another of Uncle Billy's charms is that he never feels sorry for himself. "If we didn't laugh once in a while, we would be in an awful shape," and to your reporter he added a sage bit of advice that might be his clue to longevity. "Try hard to be happy and wise and not so hard to be wealthy."

GOOD CHEF — Uncle Billy is pictured here at the stove in the kitchen of his neatly-kept, five-room bungalow on Charles Street. Since his wife's death 11 years ago, Uncle Billy has been doing his own cooking, that is, when he is not invited out to dinner in the homes of his friends. He says that he can "get up the biggest meal without cooking a thing!" Often included in his favorite menu are hot-cakes and crisp bacon. And throughout the day, there are many, many "coffee breaks" in the Frost household.

DISH-PAN HANDS — Uncle Billy's housekeeping is the marvel of most housewives around town, who have been thinking of sending their husbands down to his home for a few suggestions on how he does it. He gives a little thought here to "dish-pan" hands as he tackles a batch of coffee cups and luncheon dishes. Now and then, it must be admitted, like for instance a day before a party, Uncle Billy accepts the help of friends like Mrs. H. C. Groninger, 633 N. Banks, to make the house shine with a thorough dusting and vacuuming. But on ordinary days, Uncle Billy's housekeeping would match that of the most fastidious housewife!

Dear Abby... Being Second Fiddle Strikes Sour Note!

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 55 and am engaged to a man, 60, who can give me security and interesting companionship. Here is my heartache: Six years ago he was engaged to a woman who told him she wouldn't allow him even an occasional cocktail. He broke the engagement and asked her to return the beautiful two-carat diamond he had given her. Now he wants to adorn my finger with the same ring. Should I tell him I want a new ring? I don't want to play—

SECOND FIDDLE

DEAR SECOND: Why don't you suggest that he have the diamond reset in a new mounting? It takes a lot of lettuce to replace two carats.

DEAR ABBY: Do you realize that because you printed the letter signed "Jay L." you could be indirectly responsible for restoring vision to hundreds of sightless people?

But, Abby, please correct a popular misconception about the legal "willing" of eyes. Cornea Transplants must take place 48 hours after decease. Prospective donors must make prior arrangements by writing to EYE BANK, 219 East 40th Street, N.Y.C. A card is sent to the donor, which he carries in his wallet, authorizing the removal of his cornea immediately after death. There is definitely NO personal disfigurement and no cost to the donor. In my opinion, the act of sight is one of the finest humanitarian acts a person can perform. Gratefully,
F. J. M.D.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle an argument by reprinting a letter you had in your column two years ago. My husband doesn't believe you wrote it, but I know you did because it struck so close to home I cut it out and memorized it. Here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: Why does a man who has a lady for a wife pick up a tramp and treat her like a lady. Then he will turn around and treat his wife like a tramp?"

LYDIA
DEAR LYDIA: A man picks up a tramp because he wants a female companion who is no better than he is. In her company he doesn't feel inferior. He rewards her by treating her like a lady.

He treats his wife like a tramp because he thinks by degrading her he will bring her down to his level. Then he feels guilty. So in order to get even with his wife for making him feel guilty, he keeps right on punishing her."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FLUNK-ING OUT": Some students drink deeply at the fountain of knowledge—others just gargle. Quit gargling and start drinking.

"Who pays for what?" Send 50c to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., for Abby's pamphlet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding."

To tuck into a handbag or take on a trip, there's this petite perfume which holds an exotic fragrance.

Women Of Moose In Business Meet

Women of the Moose No. 1163 met in the Moose Home recently with Mrs. Charley Webb, Senior Regent, presiding.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Webb expressed appreciation to members for their help in serving the Halliburton employes' Christmas dinner.

Mrs. Driggers thanked members for the floral remembrance at the time of the death of her brother. Mrs. Ralph West was reported to be ill in Highland General Hospital. Lodge was concluded with the Endowment Fund pledge and the remainder of the meeting was spent taking down Christmas decorations.

Mrs. Bichsel Has Hobby Club Meet

PERRYTON (Spc)—The Hobby Club met Wednesday night in the home of Mrs. Bonnie Bichsel. After a short business meeting, members drew names for Secret Pals for 1961. The remainder of the evening was spent painting.

Mrs. Bichsel served refreshments during the social hour. Members present were Mrs. Sue Fleming, Barbara Dewees, June Chandler, Raye Trapp, Lucille Ross, Mary Lee Brooks, Effie Horn and the hostess. It was announced that the next meeting of the club will be in the home of Mrs. Dewees.

It isn't good manners to ask a person how he voted. It's his own private business.

'Safe' And 'Calm' Spring Fashion Picture

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW-YORK (UPI)—Women's fashions for spring 1961 play it safe.

Extremes are dead. Outrageous silhouettes are missing. "Safe" clothes are in. "Calm" is the way one veteran fashion observer summed up the entire spring ready-to-wear picture. Women's Wear Daily, the trade publication, called the basic silhouette of 1961 "the big nothing—straight, easy on the figure, sleeveless more often than not, and allowing the waistline to wander gently downwards.

Oh, there are some changes. Colors never were brasher, and it looks like 1961 will be a pink year. Skirts haven't been so short since flapper days, and mannequins on Seventh Avenue heart of the New York garment district, show most of the kneecaps. This exposure, despite the fact that Paris designers dropped headlines on daytime clothes in their winter collections.

There is a new posture—the slouch, demonstrated by mannequins who managed to list 30 degrees or so.

The waistline is set low, or is unbelted to revive the princess silhouette—just barely skimming the figure. Or the waist is marked or half-marked with loose sashes of leather or fabric.

New York designers follow Paris in showing a symmetrical closings on dresses, suits and coats.

tion than a silhouette." "Spring 1961 is the sum of litha slenderness," said the group's "watch for" roundup for the new season.

First Bond Payment Level Reached As Rambler Sales Increase

34,324

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS ARE ON THE WAY TO DECEMBER RAMBLER BUYERS

39th Straight Record-Breaking Month Means Bonds for December Buyers of Ramblers and 'Mets'.

Now January Buyers Can Share, Too. Bonds are already on the way to the 34,324 customers who took delivery of new Ramblers in December (the 39th straight month in which Rambler sales set an all-time high over corresponding previous months). Metropolitan buyers also receive bonds. Both can share in future bond payments up to a cumulative total of $125 (maturity value), as sales increase.

January Buyers Can Receive Bonds, Too. American Motors' Customer Program Sharing Program is retroactive and cumulative. If you take delivery of a new Rambler or Metropolitan this month, you can receive U.S. Savings Bonds, Series E, with maturity value of $25 to $125, as Rambler sales reach pre-set goals.

Join us in putting the spotlight on the necessity for sharing progress with ALL consumers if the whole nation is to prosper. Ask your neighbor about his Rambler. Then see your Rambler dealer for the best car buy and full details on how you can share Rambler's success.

Champion-Studded Golden Gloves Opens Here Tomorrow

presenting the cream of the boxing crop, crack boxers from the Texas Panhandle... expected to start weighing in tomorrow for the Golden Gloves District Three tournament which opens at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Optimist Boys Building.

Three crammed nights of boxing will be carded, with opening rounds tomorrow, second round and some finals on Friday and finals on Friday night.

Optimist champions to retain their Borger pee wee titles will be Jimmy Watson, who defeated fellow Optimist H. D. LaRue for the 80-pound crown; Donald Dunn, 95-pound champ, and Warren Pettit, who stopped Bob Rice, another Optimist standard bearer, in the 90-pound title scrap.

Charles Moore, 128-pound; Joe White, Borger champ. Liberal, Kan., will add a small state flavor when it brings a small squad spearheaded by Jerry Cline and Sonny Walker, Walker is a defending state champ in the 135-pound weight while Cline was a runnerup.

Borger Battlers Early Team Choice

Charles Snider of Pampa Tri City in the 160-pound finals when Snider recorded a knockout at 1:33 of the second round; and Harold Hugg, heavyweight finalist who lost a decision to hard-punching George Fike of Perryton in the Borger melee.

Borger, AHS Battle In 3-4A Headliner

The already-muddled District 3-4A basketball picture stands a good chance of becoming even more clouded tonight when all four teams go back into action with the spotlight centered on Borger where Amarillo and the Bulldogs tangle.

Moore OK's Return Bout

PARIS (UPI) — Davey Moore, the world featherweight champion indicated today he was willing to give France's Gracieux Lamperti a title shot later this year — either in France or the United States.

Leo Joins LA Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Leo Durocher, who first joined the Dodgers 23 years ago, was back with the same club today as a coach — a job he asked for after charging major league owners had blacklisted him.

Ironmonger Advances In Hereford

HEREFORD — Johnny Ironmonger of Pampa will be the only Tri City boxer in tonight's final round of the Hereford district Golden Gloves tournament after he won a default decision over Ray Garcia of Levelland.

Texas' Senators Alike

Senators from the same state, even when they belong to different parties, turned to stand together on roll-call votes. In 1960, they voted together 64 per cent of the time, about the same "togetherness" as in previous years.

In a special voting analysis, Congressional Quarterly studied all of the 207 roll-call votes in the Senate in 1960.

The study shows that Texas' Senators, Lyndon Johnson and Ralph Yarborough agreed 88 per cent of the time in 1960.

This percentage compares with an average 86 per cent agreement among one-party delegations, 64 per cent for two-party delegations, and 73 per cent for all delegations, one-and two-party. In the past, the overall agreement percentages were 78 per cent for the 85th Congress, 80 per cent for the 84th and 77 per cent for the 83rd.

The highest agreement score among individual delegations in 1960 was 96 per cent, registered by the Democratic teams from Alabama (Lester Hill and John J. Sparkman), Michigan (Philip A. Hart and Pat McNamara), Minnesota (Hubert H. Humphrey and Eugene J. McCarthy) and Mississippi (James O. Eastland and John Stennis). On the Republican side, Sens. Carl T. Curtis and Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska voted together 95 per cent of the time.

The least agreement on voting among one-party delegations was in Ohio where Democrats Stephen M. Young and Frank J. Lausche voted alike 70 per cent of the time. Among two-party delegations, Illinois' Republican Everett McKinley Dirksen and Democrat Paul H. Douglas were at loggerheads just over half the time with a disagreement percentage of 41 per cent.

The remarkable thing about the Johnson-Yarborough "togetherness" story is that Yarborough is an extreme liberal financier largely by Walter Reuther, and Johnson pretends to be a "moderate," whatever that may be.

If Johnson is conservative, then so is Yarborough — 88 per cent of the time. Conversely, if Yarborough is liberal, then Johnson must be — 88 per cent of the time.

The trouble with voting records is they can be damned embarrassing.

The American Way

THE NEW YEAR
By WILLIS E. STONE

The headlines recently told us of our national troubles which caused some of our top government department heads to travel about Europe asking the beneficiaries of our "foreign aid" to give us a helping hand by not taking away our gold.

This is surprising because our administrators have freely been giving our resources to foreign socialist and communistic countries under the pretense that our resources were endless, and that this was the way to gain friends. Now these countries can transfer the resources we have given them into gold — our gold — and draw upon it as they wish. We hear that these countries now have, at our gifts, about $24 billion in claims against our $18 billion gold reserve — and we are now face-to-face with our folly.

Despite this disastrous result of "foreign aid," our bureaucrats are busy promoting more of it. At the same time it is proposed to restrict American travel in foreign countries as a means for preventing the flow of American dollars to these countries.

To further complicate our national finances, the bureaucrats now advocate a further devaluation of gold, which is the basis for our currency. From past experience we know this political expedient will do much to price American production out of world markets and create more inflation.

Speaking of foreign trade, it will come as a shock to most of us that less than 10 per cent of our foreign trade now travels in American ships, particularly since the Maritime Administration has spent billions of our tax dollars under the pretense of "building up" our shipping industry. Way back when private enterprise ran our shipping industry, before subsidies and political controls, most of our foreign trade traveled in American ships. Today only two passenger ships in the North Atlantic fly the American flag. We are no longer a maritime nation.

These, and a multitude of similar problems must be faced in 1961. The indications are strong that these factors will contribute tremendously to more taxes and more inflation during the new year.

However, Americans are resourceful. Seeing the coming dangers, a project is already afoot which can eliminate the causes of most of these problems and prevent their recurrence. This project is known as the "Proposed 23rd Amendment."

The proposal will outlaw the practice through which the federal bureaucrats use taxpayers' money to set up businesses in direct competition to the taxpayers. At present these federal business activities, which operate without constitutional authority, number more than 700. They have taken over 40 per cent of the land area and 20 per cent of the industrial capacity of the nation, and require more than half of the total federal revenue to keep them running despite the fact that they operate interest free, dividend free, rent free and tax free.

By restoring Constitutional protection to private property and private enterprise, the "Proposed 23rd Amendment" will abolish communistic and socialistic practices. It will remove the major cause of inflation.

It will cut the costs of the federal government in half.

It will reestablish the historic principle of State Sovereignty.

It will end political competition of the most ruthless nature.

It will put all business under equal and identical legal controls.

It will eliminate most of the causes of strikes and labor disputes by restoring to labor its full earning power — WITHOUT HOLDING TAXES.

It will prevent the folly of attempting to "buy" friends.

It will restore equitable foreign trade and protect our resources from foreign raids.

It will do these things, and more, by restoring the original Constitution and giving it new force and effect. The proposal, pending in Congress as H. J. Res. 23, has already been approved by the states of Wyoming, Texas, Nevada, and Louisiana.

To avert the disasters which threaten America as the result of years of political folly, public support should rally behind the "Proposed 23rd Amendment." Its enactment would indeed make 1961 a Happy Year, not only for America but for all the world. For full details, write National Committee for Economic Freedom, 6413 Franklin Ave., Los Angeles 28, California.

Allen - Scott Reports:
Nixon Weighing Offer by Backers Of Roving GOP Political Job

ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON — Vice President Nixon is pondering a most unusual proposal that would enable him to continue active in politics and prominent in the public eye.

A group of close admirers are offering to raise $100,000 for his salary and expenses to tour the country assisting state and local Republican leaders in organizational matters and making addresses on national issues.

The proffered fund would be for one year and only a starter. Additional money would be raised if Nixon should decide to carry on this party activity.

Foremost among those behind this plan are three former GOP National Chairmen — Leonard Hall, N.Y., Nixon's personal campaign manager last year, Senator Hugh Scott, Pa., member of his inner strategy board; and Meade Alcorn, who recently quit as Connecticut State Chairman for business reasons.

Another is Treasury Under Secretary Fred C. Scribner, Jr., Nixon's top campaign fund raiser and his choice to succeed National Chairman Thurston Morton, who is stepping out by spring to prepare for his own tough re-election fight in 1962.

Under the unique proposal, Nixon would have no official connection with the National Committee. But he would work closely with it. President Eisenhower has been consulted on this plan. That was the main purpose of his luncheon conference with Nixon last week. The latter also discussed business offers he has been considering, particularly one involving law practice in Los Angeles.

Nixon is also sounding out other party leaders. While their opinion is divided, he is indicating to associates that a majority are favorable.

Unlike ex-presidents, vice presidents do not get pensions. Nixon's predecessor, the late Alben Barkley, after leaving office, lectured and managed his Kentucky farm until 1954 when he was re-elected to the Senate.

BUM STEERS — There are three new additions to the numerous congressional critics of U.S. Intelligence. The effectiveness and reliability of intelligence have long been under fire on Capitol Hill, and never more so than currently by three influential senators on the basis of jolting personal experiences.

During recent trips abroad on official business, Senators Frank Church (D., Idaho), Gale McGee (D., Wyo.) and Frank Moss (D., Utah) were given information by U.S. intelligence authorities that in each instance proved 100 per cent inaccurate. Following are the details of this remarkable record:

McGee, member of the powerful Appropriations Committee, consulted Air Force Intelligence about conditions in strife-torn Congo, particularly transportation facilities. He was flatly told the Belgian airline had suspended flights to Leopoldville, and the Brazzaville ferry had been burned. Despite this gloomy report, McGee took off — and very rightly so.

In Europe, he found the Belgian airline operating smoothly and efficiently to Leopoldville. And in Brazzaville, the ferry was undamaged and functioning as usual. McGee made three crossings on it.

Air Force Intelligence still hasn't explained its wholly erroneous information. Senators Church and Moss, of the Foreign Relations and Insular Affairs Committees, had a similar experience.

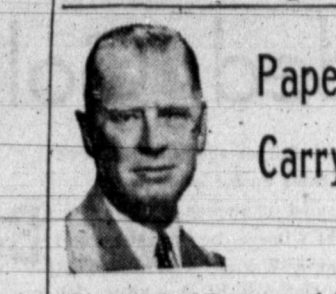

In Addis Ababa, they were glowingly assured by State Department officials that Ethiopia was the "most stable country in Africa. There are no signs of discontent, and the government is as secure as the Rock of Gibraltar."

Several days after they left, the short-lived but bloody revolt against Emperor Haile Selassie erupted.

POLITICALS — President Eisenhower is heartily assuring Republican leaders that he intends to stay active in party politics and will be available to campaign in 1962 for any GOP candidate "who wants my help." The President is saying he is very eager to see the Republicans recapture Congress this year. They had control of Congress only the first two of his eight years in the White House. . . . Governor Michael DeSalle is telling national Democratic leaders he intends to have a "hard look" at GOP campaign expenditures in Ohio last year. He points out the GOP have filed official reports showing they spent $2,099,521 there, as against $135,332 reported by the Democrats. Nixon carried Ohio by a big majority, much to the surprise of President-elect Kennedy.

MORE MORE M. M. Governor Edmund Brown will definitely be a candidate for re-election next year, and will be vigorously backed by President-elect Kennedy. The Californian has already been assured of that in several personal talks. Brown backed Kennedy for the nomination, against stormy State opposition, and Kennedy intends to reciprocate. He has told Brown: "You can count on my doing everything I can to ensure you the second term you so richly deserve on the basis of your outstanding record as governor." . . . Brigadier General Andrew Goodpastor, staff secretary to President Eisenhower, has been asked by the incoming Democratic administration to stay on for a while to assist in getting settled into office. He has agreed to do that. . . . Former Air Force Secretary Thomas Finletter, under President Truman, is a strong likelihood as the next Ambassador to NATO.

Paper Booms Lady Bird To Carry Banner For Equality

The Austin Mirror, an influential Texas weekly by and for Negroes, has nominated Mrs. Lyndon (Lady Bird) Johnson to be "the nation's next Eleanor Roosevelt and carry the banner for equality."

This honor was paid Mrs. Johnson in an account of a historic occasion, an "integrated" tea party in the Austin Municipal Auditorium last May 3. This was before Senator Johnson was nominated to run for vice president under Senator John Kennedy.

Mrs. Johnson comes from a small town in East Texas, known as the Pine Woods country, where the Negro population exceeds the white and where the white social and financial aristocracy has been exhausting its ingenuity and funds trying to withdraw public swimming pools, and other recreation facilities from public ownership and deliver them to white societies or clubs.

The city council of Austin, the state capital, about 250 miles southwest of Marshall, had proclaimed May 3 "Lady Bird Day" and the most important party of the day was the "tea." At the time, however, Senator Johnson's chances of nomination to either place on the Democratic ticket were doubtful. He had not committed himself to "integration" but had veered away from segregation by advocating "civil rights."

And, though he did not renounce Texas, a move that would have aroused tumults from all manner of Texans, he did strive to identify himself as a "Southwesterner."

This diluted his Texas patrimony with the new temperance which is now combined in the old and new populations of West Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, southern California and Utah.

Many alert Texans realized what Johnson was up to and this evoked the cry of "turn coat." However, Johnson ultimately won and it seems that the old pride, not to say bombast, of Texas definitely has been humbled. The Texans of that style are scattered. They have no leadership and when they turn to the Republican party they find themselves with Senator Javits of New York.

Barry Goldwater offers no hope. His most ferocious expression on "integration" is that he thinks it is a question for the states, not the Supreme Court or Congress. Actually, Goldwater's Arizona is not segregated except that the southwestern Indians hold aloof from the caucasians.

The old-style Texans have turned old Sam Rayburn's picture toward the wall because he saw the writing on that wall. He made a wordless surrender two or three years ago. It is impossible to determine from anything Rayburn has said whether he had any principle or even any policy as to "integration." His policy always has been to elect the Democratic ticket and, incidentally, himself. Like Mr. and Mrs. Johnson as of today, he probably would not oppose the nomination of a Negro, as a Negro, for President.

The great civic "tea" for Lady Bird was a local matter at the Editor: The Freedom Newspapers serve warm thanks and congratulations for launching a search even one book that asserts or vocates a single standard of soundness in the government bureaucracies that call themselves "schools."

In spite of the melancholy of such a search, the Freedom Newspapers did a wonderful in suggesting it. The discovery even one book being actually by just one bureaucracy (or district) would be inspiring worthy of the front page of newspaper in America.

The search is hopeless because these bureaucracies, engaged they are in the continuous pro of grand theft, could not use of a book that asserts the existence of fixed moral standards. Just the CONCEPT of moral standards (such as "shalt not steal") is fraught danger and terror to any group or engaged in theft (or under the guise of education).

But the challenge inheres in the inquiry of the Freedom papers leaves these bureaucrats caught on the horns of the verbal dilemma. If they do respond to the inquiry, the lence is a categorical admission that they really exist for the equally emphatic denial of own claims to the virtue of viding education.

While if they do respond inquiry, they face the bleak spect of helping to expose their own philosophical bankruptcy even to the dustiest mind in employ or custody.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 10, the 10th day of the year with 355 more in 1961.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

On this day in history: In 1737, revolutionary hero Ethan Allen was born. In 1776, Thomas Paine published his pamphlet "Common Sense", setting forth the proposition that the colonies should separate from Great Britain and establish their own independent government.

In 1861, Florida seceded from the Union. In 1870, John Rockefeller incorporated the Standard Oil Company in Cleveland, Ohio. In 1901, the great Texas oil boom began when oil was struck in Beaumont, Texas.

The Hilarious Inside

Story of those Wild Spring Vacations!

Where the Boys Are

STARTS THURSDAY

OLDEST - Konrad Adenauer, for 11 years West German Chancellor, celebrated his 83rd birthday Jan. 5 in Bonn, West Germany. The oldest head of government in the world. Despite his age, Adenauer appears to be determined to beat Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, who will challenge him for the chancellorship in next Fall's general election, and rule Germany until 1965, when he will be 89.
