Airmen Given Rousing Welcome

13 Deaths Pinned To Storm Highway Workers Fight Snow, Ice On State Roads

United Press International. Hundreds of highway workers, line troops in the war with fer, pulled on thick gloves and flared today and braved sub-zero temperatures to prepare for another onslaught of ice, snow, sleet and freezing rain even before the state staggered to its feet from the first killer storm.

At least 13 persons have died in accidents directly or indirectly blamed on the bitter cold weather that has gripped Texas in its icy fingers since Tuesday.

But another storm, expected to be as bad or worse than the one that spread a sheet of ice across the state on most roads and on all bridges and overpasses except those in the extreme south, was boiling up out of the Pacific Northwest.

Hugh Davidson, meteorologist at the U.S. Weather Bureau in Dallas, said the new storm would move well into the state by Saturday.

"I think it's going to be about like what we've had the last couple of days; maybe worse," Davidson said.

He said the low pressure system bringing the storm had already triggered thundershowers in Pampa didn't escape the wrath of the storm. Snow began to fall in the early morning hours, but had let up by noon. The temperature at 6 a.m. was 13 degrees, but it climbed slowly in the forenoon.

along the California coast and was showing inland.

Highway crews loaded up more sand and gravel, bracing for the new siege of ice and snow and continued to spread it on many roads and bridges in North Texas.

New snow fell this morning in the Panhandle, and some light freezing drizzle was reported glazing roads in the Pecos Valley. Snow was reported at Dalhart, Childress and Amarillo. Wink had freezing drizzle and fog. Brownsville had drizzle and fog, and fog was also reported at El Paso and Laredo.

Skies were clear to partly cloudy in the southeast and partly cloudy to cloudy over the rest of the state. Freezing temperatures dipped deep into the state once again during the night, ranging early this morning from 18 degrees at Dalhart and Amarillo to 40 degrees at Brownsville.

The new storm, poised to batter Texas before the state recovers from the first, was expected to strike in the Northwest part late today and spread across the rest of North Texas tonight and Saturday and in the southwestern center of Kabalo had reported earlier that Lumumbist forces were massing across the border in Kivu Province.

A U.N. spokesman said the Ethiopians in Kabalo were being reinforced, although there had been no official confirmation of the reports.

At the same time, it was reported that 500 Belgian-commanded Katanga gendarmes had moved to Kongolo to reinforce the small police post there. At least 25 Belgian officers were reported with the gendarmes, who would be in the path of any Lumumba troops trying to advance southward into Katanga.

An Ethiopian-guarded train was scheduled to leave Kabalo today to try to reopen the rail line to the port of Albertville on Lake Tanganyika. The rail line has been under constant attack for more than a month by marauding Baluba tribesmen.

Two hundred Balubs were reported moving toward Albertville Thursday, but it appeared today they probably were falling back in the face of a strong attack.

White men and women in Oriental and Kivu provinces had been warned earlier today to be ready to leave on short notice in case of further trouble with Lumumba's men, who have been mistreating whites in retaliation for the imprisonment of the ex-premier.

The sentencing hearing was expected to last most of the day with Lindsey's attorney introducing witnesses to try to show the killer is emotionally disturbed.

Defense attorney James F. Meeks called as witnesses a psychiatrist and Lindsey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Lindsey of Lubbock, Tex.

Nelson called two psychiatrists for the prosecution, including Dr. Hugh N. Brown of Terrell, Tex., who was involved in Lindsey's commitments in 1958 and 1959 to a Texas mental institution.

Lindsey, whose previous arrests include auto theft and petty theft, and his wife, Dixie, 23, kidnapped Rose Marie from the nearby Shafter farm camp by luring her in their auto with an offer of one dollar to do some house work for them.

Lindsey, who had been drinking, drove about 29 miles north and then forced his eight-month pregnant wife from the auto. Mrs. Lindsey said that when he came back there was blood on the front seat and Rose Marie was no longer with him.

The child's body was found five days later in a field. She had been raped and her head crushed by blows from a tire wrench.

THEY GONNA CLOSE SCHOOL?—That appears to be what Tommy Shipman, 736 E. Craven, the son of Mrs. McMahan Shipman, was mulling over early this morning as he sat atop a fire plug in the position of the famed painting of "The Thinker". And, with the snow steadily falling, along with the temperature, Tommy's probably not alone in his thoughts. (Daily News Photo)

Ban Clamped On Time In Prison, Condition

WASHINGTON UPI—Two American airmen flew home today to a personal welcome from President Kennedy and a joyous reunion with their wives after seven months in a Russian Prison.

An Air Force Constellation carrying the RB47 fliers, Capt. John R. McKone and Freeman Bruce Olmstead, landed at Andrews Air Force Base, where Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev first set foot on American soil in 1959. McKone and Olmstead, who were shot down by Red jets over the Barents Sea last July 1, stepped from the white-painted plane into the arms of their wives. They shook hands with the President, who had dramatically announced to a televised news conference Wednesday night that the fliers had been released by the Russians.

McKone was the first from the plane which carried them from Goose Bay, Labrador. He shook hands briefly with the President and then embraced his wife long moments.

Olmstead then came down the ramp and greeted the President, and embraced his wife and mother.

The fliers, their wives at their sides, stood talking with Kennedy for several minutes in the 22-degree weather.

A procession of Air Force cars was drawn up to take the released airmen and their families to guest apartments at the snow-air base.

A crowd of several hundred persons gathered behind a barrier at the edge of the field to witness the homecoming ceremony.

In the welcoming group with Kennedy were Air Force Secretary Eugene Zuckert and Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff.

The President, who flew to Andrews by helicopter, was clad in a dark blue overcoat. He stood bare headed throughout the ceremony, carrying a felt hat.

Kennedy's helicopter was hovering overhead as the Air Force plane landed in a swirl of snow. (See AIRMEN, Page 3)

Pre-election activity was being stepped up today by both those for and against the proposed charter. Proponents of the new charter held a coffee in Coronado Inn this morning. Opponents have scheduled. (See VOTERS, Page 3)

JFK Meets Fliers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy and his aides sought today to write a prescription for the nation's economic ills. The President invited Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon, Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg and Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee to lunch at the White House.

The President also invited the fliers and their wives to the White House at 3 p.m. for a chat over the coffee table.

Before the economic discussion, Kennedy arranged to go to nearby Andrews Air Force Base to personally welcome Capt. John R. McKone and Freeman Bruce Olmstead, RB47 crewmen released by the Russians after seven months in prison.

The announced purpose of the meeting was "to discuss the economy and possible measures to stimulate it." The outcome of the talks probably will be reflected in Kennedy's State of the Union message to Congress Monday.

The presence of Mills, whose committee is responsible for initiating tax and unemployment compensation legislation, raised the prospect that Kennedy would fully explore the use of either or both of these approaches as possible economic remedies.

A task force of advisers has recommended that Kennedy give consideration to a temporary income tax cut if the business slump should get worse. However, Kennedy was reported unwilling to go along with this proposal at this time.

Kennedy had morning appointments with Edward Foley, chairman of the inaugural committee, to receive a gold inaugural medal, and Dr. James B. Fisk, president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, to discuss the disarmament task force he will head.

Kennedy held his first formal cabinet meeting Thursday. The President urged members of the cabinet to "speak their minds." He said he hoped their weekly meetings would be marked by "full and frank discussion of key issues."

Laotian King's Act Puts War End Up To Russ

LUANG PRABANG, Laos (UPI) — Laotian King Savang Vatthana's willingness to meet with the president of the International Control Commission was viewed today by diplomatic observers as a challenge to the Soviet Union to end the civil warfare in Laos.

Pro-western Deputy Prime Minister Phoumi Nosavan said Thursday the king "would be happy" to receive the commission's president in an effort to halt the fighting in this tiny landlocked kingdom and cannot legally receive the commission.

Western nations have favored reactivation of the commission, but this was opposed by the Communists who insist that former Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, now in self-imposed exile in Cambodia, still is the only man to deal with the commission.

The Communists claim Savang Vatthana is a constitutional monarch and cannot legally receive the commission.

Phoumi said it was up to the Soviet government to accept the British proposal for reaction of the commission.

The decision by the king came as a government column driving north from Vientiane captured the town of Muong Kassy from Communist rebels and neared a link-up with a twin column moving south from this royal capital.

Hijacked Ship Ignores Request By U. S. Navy

PAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — The hijacked liner Santa Maria headed steadily on its course for sea today, apparently ignoring the U. S. Navy request to disembark the 620 captive passengers at the port of Belem, Brazil.

The Navy said the last reported position it had on the Santa Maria at 3 a.m. EST put it at 5 degrees north latitude and 36 degrees 37 minutes west longitude, on a heading of 120 degrees.

This put the ship about 600 miles north of the "bulge" of Brazil, and about an equal distance between the ports of Belem and Recife. The Santa Maria was still headed in the general direction of Angola, a Portuguese possession on the west coast of Africa, hours after the Navy asked it to put in at Belem.

The Navy here said the Santa Maria has been maintaining the same course for some time and there was no indication of any sudden change.

Closeups of aerial photos taken from a Navy plane flying over the ship by UPI photographer William Sauro showed there is not much promanaging on the once-gay decks of the Santa Maria as it sails across the South Atlantic.

The photographs showed only one small group of passengers on deck despite the fact the plane was one of the ship's rare direct contacts with the rest of the world.

Large Pile Of Legislation Due Texas Lawmakers

STON (UPI) — More than 300 pieces of proposed legislation waiting for House action, but Texas lawmakers were weekend holiday unable to do much business until the chamber is organized.

The Senate Thursday, by a vote of 23-4, also took steps to give lawmakers a pension. They approved a bill by Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro that would enable self-employed legislators to be eligible for social security on their annual salaries.

In the past, the legislators received only $25 a day for their efforts, and were ineligible for social security.

The bill, which was sent to the House for concurrence, establishes lawmakers as state employees and would add $72 a year in state payments to their federal social security contributions.

As lawmakers completed their third week, many of Gov. Price Daniel's legislative recommendations had been proposed, but his tax proposals were noticeably absent.

His chief aide, George Christman, said lawmakers who will handle the governor's recommendations are waiting for the House Finance Committee to be named before introducing the tax bills.

Turman has had 18 days since he was named speaker to make his committee assignments, but so far has refused to be rushed into snap decisions.

Winter Storm Blowing Itself Out In East

By United Press International
A Texas-bred storm which spread a layer of ice across Dixie and slapped a half-foot of snow onto the nation's capital blew itself out in New England today.

Heavy snow warnings were canceled in New England and weathermen said the storm would drop two to four inches of snow there before retreating into the Atlantic during the afternoon.

High winds drifted a heavy fall which slowed traffic in the big Eastern cities from Washington to New York. The northwesterly winds pushed cold Canadian air back into the area at a 35 to 40 mile an hour clip.

Winter was on the rampage from coast to coast and from border to border. At least 136 deaths have been blamed on the weather since the onslaught of cold, ice and snow began nine days ago.

In most of the Gulf states, streets and highways re-freeze during the night and many schools remained closed.

Lumumba Followers Pose Threat To United Nations, Katanga Troops

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (UPI) — U.N. and Katanga troops regrouped today to face reported fresh threats from troops loyal to imprisoned ex-premier Patrice Lumumba.

Reports reaching here said 300 pro-Lumumba troops were poised on the northern border of "independent" Katanga Province. Ethiopian U.N. troops at the railroad center of Kabalo had reported earlier that Lumumbist forces were massing across the border in Kivu Province.

A U.N. spokesman said the Ethiopians in Kabalo were being reinforced, although there had been no official confirmation of the reports.

At the same time, it was reported that 500 Belgian-commanded Katanga gendarmes had moved to Kongolo to reinforce the small police post there. At least 25 Belgian officers were reported with the gendarmes, who would be in the path of any Lumumba troops trying to advance southward into Katanga.

Sentencing Of Girl's Slayer Due

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Just 15 days after the kidnap-rape slaying of 6-year-old Rose Marie Riddle, a Texas ex-convict goes to court today to be sentenced for the crime.

Richard Arlen Lindsey, 30, tattooed itinerant worker who first accused his pregnant wife of the killing, last week admitted bludgeoning the blue-eyed, blonde-haired girl with a tire wrench Jan. 12.

He made his confession in an effort to obtain mercy from the court, Lindsey said.

Dist. Atty. Kit Nelson said he would ask Superior Judge William F. Bradshaw to sentence Lindsey to death in the gas chamber.

The sentencing hearing was expected to last most of the day with Lindsey's attorney introducing witnesses to try to show the killer is emotionally disturbed.

Defense attorney James F. Meeks called as witnesses a psychiatrist and Lindsey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Lindsey of Lubbock, Tex.

Nelson called two psychiatrists for the prosecution, including Dr. Hugh N. Brown of Terrell, Tex., who was involved in Lindsey's commitments in 1958 and 1959 to a Texas mental institution.

Dear Abby...

Minor Adjustment Could Make Major Improvement

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I decided to write to you after reading that letter from the woman who said her husband ate like a pig. I can top her! My husband has false teeth — uppers and lowers. Now I know that can't be helped, and he wouldn't be caught dead outside without his teeth. Even when he washes the car his teeth are in, but the minute he gets in the house with me, out they come!

He sets them any place — on the table, on the sewing machine. It seems wherever I go his teeth are grinning at me until I could scream. At mealtime he gums his food until I can't stand it. Talk gets me nowhere. He says it's his home and he is king, teeth or no teeth.

DEAR TED: Your husband's dentures probably fit poorly or he wouldn't be removing them every chance he gets. Insist that he go back to the dentist who made them. A minor adjustment could make a major improvement in your life — and in his.

DEAR ABBY: My dad is a salesman. His customers sometimes call him at home to give him orders. Don't you think there should be a special time for these people to call him so the rest of the family can use the phone without getting their heads blown off?

The minute one of us gets on the telephone my father starts to yell, "Get off the phone! Someone might be trying to call me!" This has been the top argument in our house for a long time. Can you offer any solutions?

SALESMAN'S DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: Your father should have a private telephone for his business calls. If the family agrees to conserve on other things he can afford it. Where the happiness of an entire family is involved, he can't afford not to.

DEAR ABBY: I am planning to be married soon. My fiance was married before (about five years ago) and all his friends and relatives sent him wedding gifts for that occasion. He was divorced and his ex-wife took all their wedding presents with her.

We would like to send wedding invitations to his friends and relatives because we truly want them to attend our wedding. But we want them to know that we do not expect them to send another present. Can we write on the invitations, "No presents, please?"

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: It is improper to write a message of any sort on a wedding invitation. If they want to lend their "Presence," they'll be glad to send their "presents."

CONFIDENTIAL TO MURIEL AND FAYE: Try Alaska. The men are plentiful and the nights are long.

Weather
 section, bringing freezing rain, sleet and possibly snow.
 Temperatures warmed over the northern half of the state Thursday and melted a good part of the dangerous glaze, but much of it was still left particularly in sheltered spots and on bridges and overpasses.
 Ice was blamed for two deaths Thursday in Dallas. Mark Bright Towle, 17, was killed when his car skidded on a slick approach to a railroad crossing and slammed into a freight train.
 And Elonzo Danforth, 50, was crushed to death by a moving locomotive while refueling smudge pots in a switchyard.
 But the deadly storm brought on its lighter moments, too.
 Dale Milford, Dallas television weatherman, mentioned that the ice storm might cause a few power lines to break because of ice. His telephone immediately started ringing from persons wanting answers to special questions. He said he did fine with all of them until a timid-sounding lady mentioned the possible power failures and asked:
 "Is it safe to sleep with my husband under an electric blanket tonight?"
 And two Dallas women, Nelline Howard and Martha Koger, were in good spirits Thursday because they had chairs on their car and didn't have troubles like other drivers. Then they saw a woman in a stalled car and decided to lend a helping hand without being asked.
 They shoved the car several blocks before the woman finally succeeded in telling them she had been stuck in front of the driveway to her own home and was trying to get in there.
 All major highways in the state were open again today, and most of the schools closed because of hazardous driving conditions began opening back up. Most of the schools that closed were in rural areas.
 Safety officials warned that while most roads were clearing there were still patches of glaze in many spots and urged caution.
 The State Department of Highways had spread sand and crushed rock on bridges and overpasses in all the state but deep South Texas.
 At Midland Thursday night, a motorcycle skidded out of control and threw Kenneth Holley, 15, into an automobile. The sharp tail fin of the automobile pierced the youngster's throat and killed him.

Reed Roller Bit Nearing Merger With Dresser Co.

DALLAS (UPI)—Major hurdles of a plan for Dresser Industries, Inc. of Dallas to take over Reed Roller Bit Co. of Houston were cleared Thursday.
 The boards of directors of the two companies announced they had agreed in principle on the merger, and it would become effective upon exchange of seven shares of Dresser stock for each 10 shares of outstanding Reed stock.
 Reed Roller Bit Co. has an office located on Price Rd. in Pampa, and has been active in oil enterprises in this area for many years.
 The action is subject to approval of the stockholders of the two companies. Dresser stock is currently quoted around $25, giving the proposed issue a valuation of approximately $12 million.
 If approved, the merger would be a major expansion of Dresser Oil Tool activities, now handled by a Dallas subsidiary, Security Engineering Corp.

 Very light snow fell in parts of the lower South Plains and the Pecos Valley Thursday, particularly in the Maria-Midland area, and freezing drizzle and light rain hit scattered sections of North Central, South Central and Southwest Texas.
 Considerable cloudiness was expected through Saturday in the northern half of the state with light rain or sleet in all sections and the possibility of a few snowflurries in the northwest part. Skies were expected to be mostly cloudy along the coast and partly cloudy in the upper parts of Southwestern and South Central Texas, turning to cloudy skies by Saturday and today through Saturday in the Southwest.
 High temperatures today were expected to range from the mid 20s to the mid 30s in the Northwest, through the low 40s in North Central and Northeastern Texas, and from the high 40s into the low 60s in the southern half of the state.
 Thursday's maximum temperatures ranged from 62 degrees at Presidio to 24 at Dalhart. Amarillo had a high of 28 and Dallas-Fort Worth 33.

 snow on its 4 1/2 hour flight from Goose Bay.
 Shot down by Red jets over the Barents Sea last July 1 and released Wednesday, the airmen had to "sweat out" a 24-hour postponement of their homecoming when a snowstorm blanketed the Washington area Thursday.
 They spent the night at Goose Bay, Labrador. They were described by an escort officer as tired and too excited to eat on their Atlantic crossing but in good condition. No other news was given out.
 Their wives, Connie McKone, 26, mother of three, and Gail Olmstead, 25, mother of one and eight months pregnant, arrived here Thursday just as the snowstorm hit. They spent the night nervously awaiting the airport reunion.
 The White House banned any interviews with the two reconnaissance plane crew members and the world had to wait for their version of the incident in which they were shot down with four fellow airmen. The body of their plane commander, Maj. Wilford G. Palm, was returned by the Russians and buried in Arlington National Cemetery. The other three men were never accounted for.

Speaker Urges Pampan's To Vote in City Charter

Alvin Whitley, one of the 15 members of Pampa's Charter Commission, spoke to the Pampa Club at its regular noonday session yesterday and urged voters to go to the polls next Tuesday to vote on the proposed city charter.
 Whitley said Pampa voters should take the 15 charter commission members to draw up the new charter and that the members worked hard and with a consultant made a thorough study of the charter before it was approved.
 "We feel we have a good, up-to-date charter to replace the present 27-year-old charter form," he said.
 Whitley explained the proposed charter would do away with the present ward system of electing commissioners.
 "The charter commission," he said, "felt that the new charter would serve to give us a united government and give all voters the right to vote on all candidates."
 Whitley said yesterday's program was on Monday by Bill Didlake, mayor. The club honored the five members whose names were drawn in January.

Shortage Of Clergymen Increasing Alarmingly

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

If you've ever seen a church congregation trying to limp along without a pastor, or with one minister when it needs two or three, you know how demoralizing the experience can be.

Multiplying this situation by many thousands, and you'll understand why a chronic shortage of trained clergymen is a serious threat to the nation's religious life.

America has such a shortage today. And it is getting progressively worse all the time.

It serves an expanding population. America's churches need more ministers each year. Instead, they are getting fewer.

The United Presbyterian Church now has about 820 congregations which are searching for pastors. But enrollment in its seminaries declined this year by nearly 12 per cent.

The Episcopal Church discovered in a national survey five years ago that it was 806 clergymen short of its "minimum" requirements. Since that time, its membership has increased 8 per cent — and seminary enrollment has dropped 10 per cent.

The Southern Baptist Convention ordained nearly 2,000 ministers in 1951. In 1959, with a far larger membership, it ordained only 840. During the past year, enrollment in its seminaries declined from 5,000 to 4,809.

The Methodist Church needs 1,200 new clergymen annually just to replace those lost by death or retirement. To serve an expanding membership, it needs at least 2,000. Its seminaries will turn out fewer than 700 this year.

The United Lutheran Church has a current shortage of 450 ministers, and needs at least 150 additional each year to fill vacancies. Its seminaries are graduating about 150 a year.

The membership of the Roman Catholic Church has increased by more than 40 per cent in the past 10 years, but the number of priests has grown by less than 20 per cent.

Similar figures could be cited for virtually every other major religious body in the nation.

Different reasons have been advanced for the downturn in seminary enrollments. Some church leaders blame the pervasive materialism of American society, which, they say, causes young people to view a potential career primarily in terms of the financial rewards it offers.

The ministry is unquestionably an underpaid profession. But doctors are the most highly-paid professional group in the nation, and there is also a shortage of medical students. So it seems doubtful that today's youth are altogether money-minded in their choice of a career.

Another theory is that the ministry (like the medical profession) is suffering from "image" trouble. Young people don't know enough about the clergyman's job to be attracted to it. They've heard about the low pay and long hours, and they may have an exaggerated notion of the limitations on a clergyman's private life. But they haven't been made aware of the opportunities for leadership and service and the tremendous satisfactions that a good pastor finds in his work.

The theme of the assembly is "Be Taught by Jehovah."

Chairman and featured speaker on the program appearing daily will be R. L. Anderson from Jehovah's Witnesses' world headquarters at Brooklyn, N.Y. He directs the activities of 10,000 ministers.

The new building joins the brick building added to the church in 1959 in which the Beginner, Primary, and Junior Departments have their classrooms.

A coffee will be held in the dining hall, following the ceremonies.

Sparkman, J. M. Boucher, O. W. Nowlin and David Robinson. W. S. Presley, E. D. Nolan and Fred Browning compose the purchasing committee.

God As Love To Be Noted By Scientists

Continuous benefits are available to all through a fuller comprehension of God as love. This idea will be enlarged upon at Christian Science services Sunday in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Love."

Readings from the Bible will include this selection from 1 John (4:9): "In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him."

The closing citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states (6:17-18): "God is Love. More than this we cannot ask, higher we cannot look, farther we cannot go."

The Golden Text is from Jeremiah (9:24): "Let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lord which exercises loving kindness, judgement, and righteousness, in the earth."

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

RONALD E. HUBBARD
PASTOR
FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

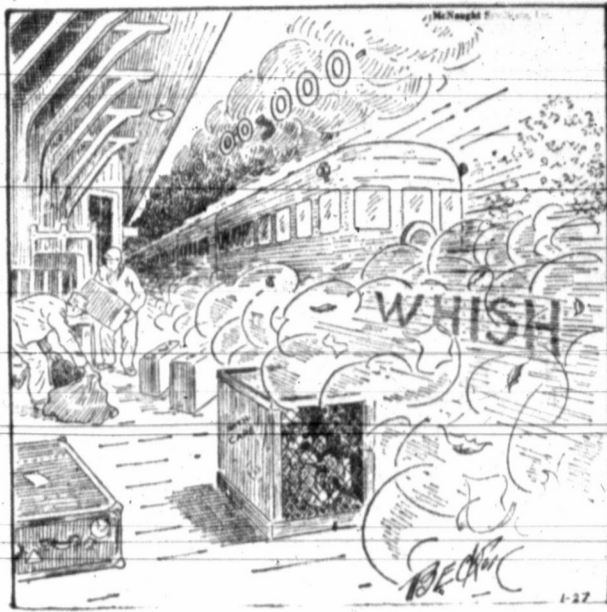

If I would have read the New Testament as if never having read it before, I would be surprised to find that Jesus seems to be against religion. He certainly called people to a real relationship with the living God, but he condemned with scathing words those who stopped short of God. Those who worshipped their church, their moral code, their pious practices, or their own reputation in the eyes of men were called hypocrites—whited sepulchres—blind guides—fools—serpents—generation of vipers. He asked them, "How can ye escape the damnation of hell?" In the eyes of their neighbors these to whom Jesus spoke so boldly were respected, honored, righteous, and good people.

If my neighbors think well of me, could I still be open to this invective hurled by Jesus? Could it be to me that He is saying, "How can ye escape the damnation of Hell? Could I be so proper, yet so lacking in love and grace, that while calling upon the name of Christ, I crucify Him?"

Our Lord's first words were "Repent, for the Kingdom of God is at hand." He spoke this not primarily to those who were immoral and outcast, but to those who were religious and accepted. He tried to awaken them to the fact that though they were accepted by their neighbors, they were not good in the sight of God.

How shall I measure my goodness in God's sight? It could be that I should read with fresh insight Matthew, chapters 5, 6, and 7 and I Corinthians, chapter 13. Knowing that I do not measure up to those descriptions of a good man, I might confess with a repentant and broken heart that I can not "escape the damnation of hell," but can only depend on the forgiveness, the grace, and the salvation of God through Jesus Christ.

District 3-4A basketball, which has been dominated by Pampa and Borger since its rebirth from 1-4A in 1956, could suddenly have a new face emerge as the 1961 flag winner. After a muddled opening two weeks in which teams in and out of first place like a jumping jack, the battle is to be shaping into a four-team affair and anyone of four — Palo Duro, Borger, Amarillo and Monterey — are very much in the race as the teams head into the second half of play tonight.

Presently, Palo Duro rests uneasily atop the standings with a 6-1 mark, its lone loss coming at the hands of Pampa Jan. 3. However, it is the feeling here and elsewhere among coaches and sportswriters that the Dons won't be around when the district trophy is handed out.

The Dons, enjoying one of their best years since they won the 1956 state 3A championship with Gene Arrington, Echols, et al, have more or less enjoyed the underdog to date. Predicted to finish fourth, Palo Duro now has other teams shooting at them and the pressure down the stretch may be too much.

Schedule Big Factor

Their remaining schedule is ticketed for the bottom in the present season poll, must play Amarillo in Amarillo tonight but then they catch Palo Duro and Borger in Lubbock. Monterey beat the Sandies, 42-40, in their first meeting but a sweep seems a little far-fetched.

As for Borger, it must play Amarillo, Monterey and Palo Duro — the big three — away from Bulldog Gym, something that probably gives Borger "Coach of the Year" Tex Hanna hives.

Pampa Girls Aid MOD

SPORTS IN SPURTS — The Pampa Skating Club collected $33.00 last week for the March of Dimes with sale of pocket combs. The girls participating in the open-air skating were Tonya Jayroe, Susan Kelly, Linda Nelson, Erma Nelson, Kristie Kemp, Freddy Thurman and Jay Followell.

A 20-game winning streak, his Bucks have lost two one-point decisions in as many games. The Bucks play Stratford in White Deer tonight and hope to atone for the 67-66 and 47-46 losses to Gruver and Stinnett, respectively.

Collegiate Cage Slate Warms Up

The college basketball program, hit hard by mid-year examinations, steps up a bit tonight with fifth-ranked St. John's shooting to snap the seven-game jinx held over them by the St. Louis Billikens.

After winning the first meeting between the two schools in 1953, the Redmen have failed to defeat St. Louis since then. St. John's also has not won on the Billiken home court where they play tonight.

St. Louis, which started like a house afire this season, capturing seven of its first eight games, including the Kentucky Invitational Tournament, went into a slump after losing 6-10 center, Bob (Bevo) Nordmann, who suffered an injury.

Coach John Bennington's cagers, who play in the tough Missouri Valley Conference, carry a 10-5 record against the Redmen, who have won 10 of 12 starts.

Other top games tonight include: Temple-LaSalle, Denver-UCLA; Air Force-Southern California; Utah State-Brigham Young; Oklahoma City-Southern Methodist; Washington-Oregon, and The Citadel-Richmond.

In Thursday night's games, Jerry Carlson's 15 points led Arkansas to a 66-58 victory over Tulsa; Morehead St. edged Marshall, 70-68; Miami (Fla.) downed Centenary, 86-74; Eastern-Kentucky dumped Middle Tennessee St., 67-57; and Tampa defeated St. Peter's (N.J.), 74-73.

Frank Burgess, bidding for the national scoring crown, poured in 52 points in leading Gonzaga to a 123-79 triumph over the California Aggies. Burgess entered the game one-hundredth of a percentage point behind East Tennessee State's Tom Chilton, and Charley Sifford, world's greatest Negro shotmaker from Los Angeles, were tied for the lead with six-under-par 65.

But in close contention were: veteran Stan Leonard, Vancouver, Canada, with a 66—which tied him with five others, including National Open and Masters champion Arnold Palmer; Tadashi Kimura of Japan, with a 69; Chen Ching-po of Formosa with a 70; Gary Player, South Africa, with a 70; Roberto de Vicenzo of Mexico City with a 71 and Ben Arda of the Philippines with a 72.

But Sifford and Bayer played the course Thursday as though they owned it. On mushy greens they rolled in putts from 15, 20 and 25 feet with such monotonous ease that the 7,500 fans who toured the course thought it must be easy.

George Bayer, world's longest hitter from South Pasadena, Calif., and Charley Sifford, world's greatest Negro shotmaker from Los Angeles, were tied for the lead with six-under-par 65.

Bayer, Sifford Share Rain-Soaked Golf Lead

Hogs Still Hurricane With Last-Half Rally

Southern Methodist swings back into action tonight trying to shake off the cobwebs of nearly two weeks of idleness and with a chance to avenge its season-opening loss to the Oklahoma City Chiefs.

Arkansas stormed back to war Thursday night and out-weathered Tulsa's Hurricane 66-56 with a balanced attack paced by Jerry Carlton's 15 points. Ronnie Garner tossed in 12 and Clyde Rhoden and Pat Foster scored 10 each.

Tulsa, which tripped the Razorbacks 64-59 earlier this season in Oklahoma, trailed 36-23 at halftime and could never pull in front despite a four-minute Porker cold spell mid-way through the period.

John Jones led the Hurricane attack with 13 points.

Texas Tech plays at Lubbock Saturday night against the Phillips Oilers of the semi-professional Industrial Basketball League. The other conference clubs, idled by mid-year examinations, go back into the second half of the league race next week.

San Francisco (UPI)—Arnold Palmer, the Sam Snead of the sixties, is wearing a worried look. He's paying off the price of being a celebrity.

The National Open, Masters and money-winning champion is the current "man on the go" and he can't spare a moment to sharpen up his golf game.

"I'm putting like I'm tired," he said as he sloshed through the mud in the first round of the $50,000 Lucky International golf tournament.

He has reason to be. After he finished playing in the Crosby tournament at Pebble Beach, Calif., last Sunday night, he hopped a plane for a 3,000 mile flight to Rochester, N.Y., to receive the Hickok award. The next night he was in New York City to get the Gold Tee award.

The same night, he grabbed a plane for San Francisco to be here in time to play in the pro-amateur Wednesday morning. After boarding the plane, he was informed it wouldn't be able to go to San Francisco—but must head for Los Angeles. He transferred there and took a plane into the rain and fog of this city, reaching the Harding Park course in time to tee off in a downpour.

Pampa Eyes Repeat Of Earlier 3-4A Win

By ARTHUR MAYHEW Daily News Sports Editor

AMARILLO — Pampa probably will be about as welcome as ants at a school picnic here at 8 tonight when it meets Amarillo Palo Duro in the Don's gym in an important — for Palo Duro — District 3-4A basketball game.

The reason: Pampa holds the only district win over the Dons, that being a 57-46 triumph in the opening game in Pampa. Because of that loss — its lone defeat in 3-4A play — Palo Duro (6-1) has a slim one-game lead over three other teams: Monterey, Amarillo and Borger, all 5-2 in district.

Men's Keg Tournament Sets Start

The 19th annual Men's Assn. Bowling Tournament, with 108 teams and 228 doubles and singles players ready to roll, opens a two-front, two weekend tournament tomorrow at Garden Lanes and Harvester Bowl.

Team events will begin at Harvester Bowl at 4 p.m. tomorrow and doubles and singles action will be unveiled at Garden Lanes, beginning at 3 p.m.

Following two rounds tomorrow in all three divisions, play will resume Sunday in doubles and singles only at Garden Lanes. On Feb. 3, teams will go back into action and conclude the following night, Feb. 4.

For the first time in history, the tournament will have two divisions: A and B. In the team event, teams with 800 average or below will participate in the B class, while teams of 801 and up will be in the A division.

In doubles, B division will be composed of combos under 220, while 321 and above will be in the A bracket. In singles, individuals with a 160 average and under will be in the B class and those with 161 or above will roll in the A division.

Joe Wells, tournament director, said today that all schedules for the four-day tournament have been posted in both alleys along with the trophies which will be given to the winners in each of the divisions.

Houston and Austin continued their one-two scramble for the fifth grade lead in the Kiwanis-Optimist Pee Wee, basketball league yesterday with convincing victories.

Houston defeated Wilson, 31-14, as Cornutt starred and Austin, behind Bailey's 15 points, downed Lamar, 34-4. In the other fifth grade game, Travis decided Baker, 19-7.

Tomorrow's sixth grade schedule calls for Travis at Austin, Lamar at Wilson and Mann at Baker. For the fifth grade, it will be Austin at Travis, Wilson at Lamar and Baker at Mann.

The Boston Celtics are a team with everything—even the greatest substitute in basketball history.

He's Sam Jones, a 6-foot, 4-inch blur who is Bob Cousy's substitute but who manages to out-play the "master" on certain nights.

Jones had one of those nights Thursday night and sparked the Celtics to a 129-121 victory over the Philadelphia Warriors that boosted their lead in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association to 4½ games.

Cousy was kept pretty much under control with only three field goals and 13 points but Jones whipped in 11 field goals and added four free throws for 26 points.

He sparked a third-period drive that gave the Celtics a 92-91 lead going into the final period and then tossed in the key baskets as Boston pulled away from a 113-113 tie to clinch the contest.

Coach Dean Evans probably will start Larkin Miller, Darrell Doss, Bob Neilage, C. E. Cantrell and Wayne Kreis against the Dons' 'B'.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prof football men are betting the Minnesota Vikings have a better team next season than the Dallas Cowboys of 1960.

The obvious gag, of course, is that the Vikings wouldn't have to be much better to surpass the Cowboys' record of 11 defeats and one tie.

However, considering the first 30 experienced players the Vikings selected Thursday from 10 other National Football League teams to complement their 22 college-drafted and quarterback George Shaw, football men attending the league meetings this week feel Minnesota should win a few games next season.

The Vikings' selections from the last two teams — the Chicago Bears and Pittsburgh Steelers — were due to be announced today.

Disclosure of the names was delayed until their players first could be notified of their transfers.

Bert Rose, general manager of the Vikings, announced the players picked from eight teams during the day. The identity of the San Francisco Forty-Niners and Los Angeles Rams players "leaked out" around midnight.

Hugh McElhenny, once one of the NFL's outstanding running halfbacks, was one of the San Francisco players picked. The others were linebacker Clancy Osborne and center Karl Rubke.

McElhenny has been in the league nine seasons.

The Los Angeles selectees all were first-year men. They were linebacker Jerry Stalcup, defensive back Don Ellerstick and offensive guard Charles Janerette.

Reapers Spill McLean, 48-45

Pampa Junior High's Reapers ran their win streak to nine in a row yesterday with a 48-45 victory over McLean 'B' in a non-conference game in McLean but Robert E. Lee was less successful as it lost a 30-29 decision to Borger Austin in a district game.

For Pampa, now 11-1 on the year, it took a four-minute stall at the end of the fourth quarter to preserve the win after it has jumped off to a 22-9 first quarter lead and led by 41-24 going into the last period.

Kenny Hebert was high for Pampa with 21 points and Guy Cloud had 10. Pampa's Gary Davis contributed some clutch rebounds to spark the Pampa win and added 7 points to the attack. Welch had 19 for McLean 'B'.

In dropping its third conference game and second by one point, Lee all-but removed itself from the title picture but could spoil Pampa's district hopes when the two meet Tuesday in Lee's Gym.

Gary Sikes and Rickey Stewart paced the Rebel offensive with 11 and 7 points, respectively, while Conner had 11 for Borger Austin.

Lee Eighth kept its unblemished record intact (7-0) with a 28-22 victory over Austin Eighth. Robert Howard had 11 for Lee and Smith had 11 for Borger.

Roberts Receives Pay Cut

By MILTON RICHMAN United Press International

Some get raises, like Elston Howard, and some take cuts, like Robin Roberts, and some, like Whitey Ford, figure they wind up better in the long run with the same money year after year.

Ford, still the southpaw ace of the New York Yankees' pitching staff, signed his third straight contract for $34,000 Thursday.

"I'm happy," said the soft-spoken 32-year-old left-hander. "I didn't ask for a raise and I didn't get one. But I didn't take a cut, either."

Here's the way that works: Whitey was given his first $35,000 contract in 1959 off his 14-7 show-

Price Of Fame Keeps Palmer On The Move

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Arnold Palmer, the Sam Snead of the sixties, is wearing a worried look. He's paying off the price of being a celebrity.

The National Open, Masters and money-winning champion is the current "man on the go" and he can't spare a moment to sharpen up his golf game.

"I'm putting like I'm tired," he said as he sloshed through the mud in the first round of the $50,000 Lucky International golf tournament.

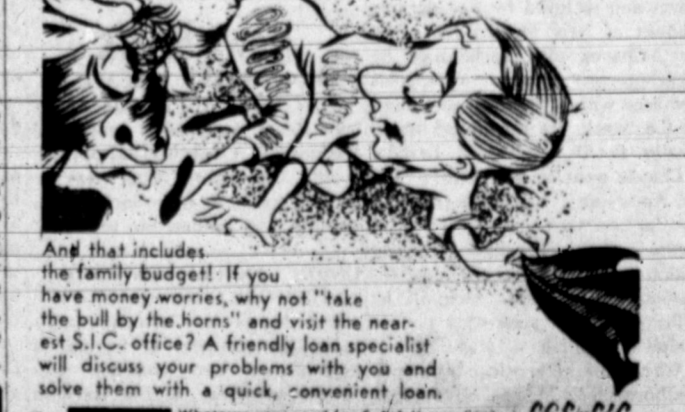

He has reason to be. After he finished playing in the Crosby tournament at Pebble Beach, Calif., last Sunday night, he hopped a plane for a 3,000 mile flight to Rochester, N.Y., to receive the Hickok award. The next night he was in New York City to get the Gold Tee award.

The same night, he grabbed a plane for San Francisco to be here in time to play in the pro-amateur Wednesday morning. After boarding the plane, he was informed it wouldn't be able to go to San Francisco—but must head for Los Angeles. He transferred there and took a plane into the rain and fog of this city, reaching the Harding Park course in time to tee off in a downpour.

Generally reporters and photographers are on hand when Roberts signs but he negotiated his business only with club President Bob Carpenter and General Manager John Quinn and then quickly took off for his home. He had a 12-16 record last season and leads the National League's active pitchers with a total of 233 victories.

The Elliott Plan

The name of Thomas E. Elliott should become a household word if his present plan goes properly into effect. Mr. Elliott is an unemployed steel worker in an area the federal government has designated as a "depressed" area.

Mr. Elliott's idea is firmly anchored on the bedrock of economic fact. And to the amazement of union bosses, government "experts" and others, it looks as though he has a strong following. Actually, Mr. Elliott's proposal is quite simple. He says, in effect, that he and those who are looking to him for leadership would rather work at reduced wages than not work at all. This idea, which is now widely accepted at the Wheeling Steel Corporation, is called "Save-a-Plant Plan."

Here's how the steelworker puts it: "Some jobs are priced out of line today. Some men who have been getting $3 an hour in the steel mills will have to be satisfied with $1.85 or $2 an hour. Steel wages are too high today. The union has gotten them up too far. Men who have been in the steel mills but now are unemployed will have to get used to working for less than those wages in other types of industry. Other industries don't pay the kind of money the steel mills do.

"In order to get companies to bring other kinds of industry into Wheeling, we've got to get the men used to working for lower wages than they've had.

"In the steel mills, when there isn't any incentive plan, the men don't do a real day's work. My group will promise any company coming in that at a fair wage, we'll expect that, if the plant makes a profit at the end of the year, the men will share in that profit. That way everybody will be getting for the good of the company and for his own good.

"We'd like to show the older men work harder. We have many experienced in skill. Yours kinds."

There's a lot more stuff in Elliott's persuasive position. He and "his group" guarantee that they won't go out on strike. They'll settle down and play along. If the firm wins, they want to be included. If the firm has a tough time, they expect to go along cheerfully and accept the bumps with the investors and the management.

Thus far, organized labor rackets have been slow to publicize their opposition. But it can be signaled in advance that this sort of talk isn't much to the liking of the men who have been at the forefront of pushing up the wages to a place where competitively steel and other basic industries are truly hurting.

Union bosses subsist on the economic ignorance of their dupes. If enough men like Elliott ever get their hands on union machinery, the professional agitator will be booted far out of sight of any union contract.

The truth is, and we've tried to show it before, that the market place, including all phases of it, must be flexible. Wage rates are no more sacred than any other price rates that flow in and out of the market stream.

The great depression of the 30's could perhaps have been whipped at an early stage if businessmen had been permitted to cut wages. But even then, labor bosses and politicians were in league to prevent wage cuts. In consequence, men were forced out of work.

It is an economic rule that high wages which cannot be justified by both high rates of production, high quality and high consumption, lead to unemployment.

Probably the greatest force in providing unemployment in this nation for years has been the organized labor movement.

A close second would, of course, be the federal minimum wage act. If men are free to work for the best wage their skills in the market can command; if they can do so on an individual basis, if their skills are thus related to the ebb and flow of supply and demand; unemployment can be reduced to the irreducible minimum.

We are greatly impressed with Elliott and the men who have backed him.

Here is a bit of common sense coming at an uncommonly crucial time.

Wrong Protection

We tend to try to "protect" others from truths which are unpleasant for them to know. The result of this folly is to assist in peopling the world with fools.

Texans Share Patronage

With the whoop-de-do of the inauguration hardly past, the more practical business of handing out patronage has begun. The Kennedy forces have about 6,000 federal jobs at their disposal, representing a potential payroll of $54,000,000 annually.

Two of the top ones in Texas will be the federal judgeship and the collector of customs position — the former paying $22,500 and the latter with a top potential of $13,000.

A judge is appointed for life and a collector of customs for four years, but the judge may be removed only for cause, whereas a collector of customs serves at the pleasure of the President, and his resignation may be requested at any time.

The little embarrassment who serves as senior senator from Texas, Ralph Yarborough, was set down and lectured by Sen. Dennis Chavez of New Mexico the other day. Chavez told Yarborough he (Yarborough) ought to appoint someone with a "Spanish surname."

The American Way

WHAT IS OUR POLICY?

By Willis E. Stone

Our policy governing foreign and domestic affairs has become highly bewildering.

The flight of gold from America constitutes a vivid example of the reversal of our historic and constitutional policy. Our open-handed and empty headed gifts of American wealth in an asserted attempt to buy friends among the socialistic and communistic nations of the world has proved disastrous. It has seriously curtailed American productivity and created widespread unemployment. Some of our "gifts" became credits; the redemption of which required an actual transfer of our gold reserves to foreign countries.

In an apparent reversal of this suicidal policy, our political leaders pointed out that we must stop this drain to prevent the tragedy of unbridled inflation. Our top department heads rushed to Europe to plead with the recipients of our dollars this coming year to keep "Uncle Santa" alive. West Germany, the only free enterprise country of Europe, and consequently the only country with a strong economy, extended this help.

Officially we hate communism, and are justly at odds with Cuba because Castro has made it communistic. On the other hand, as 1960 closed, we had a shocking reversal of this policy. Headlines told us that 10 million American tax dollars were being given to Communist Tito, the dictator of Communist Yugoslavia.

Yes, we hate communism, defined by the dictionary as the use of political force to abolish private property and private enterprise. We deplore the use of political force to strip people of their homes and enterprises. Unfortunately the very politicians who protest such villainy in foreign lands, advocate it here.

Attacks upon our private enterprises by bureaucratic appointees who prate about freedom is an amazing contradiction. Tax supported federal bureaucrats who have captured the machinery of government, have long engaged in the piece-meal destruction of our private enterprise system. They justify their attacks upon our private property with a sugar-coated jargon usual to the communist regimes in other lands. They speak of the "more abundant life" while they undermine our ability to produce and consume. They assert that their interest free, rent free, tax free bureaucratic empires constitute a "yardstick" for tightly-controlled and heavily tax-burdened private competitors. They do this with an arrogant disregard for costs and charge their fantastic losses back to the gullible taxpayer.

We are told we are the richest people on earth. Then we find our national debt exceeds the combined national debt of all other nations of the world. Our annual tax bill exceeds the total volume of taxes paid by all the rest of the people on earth.

We are told we are so rich we must submit to this political attack upon our earnings and production to prevent inflation. Then we are told we are so poor we cannot care for ourselves, and that only federal bureaucrats are to be trusted with our personal concerns.

Surely we can not — at one and the same time — believe this drift toward communism is benevolent here when we know of the mortal agony it has brought to the people in other lands.

Pegler Says:

Yankee Generosity Earns Latin-American Ill-Will

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

North American Yanquis have been brought into existence. We earned ill-will in the Latin-American republics by our superior skill and intelligence and generosity, nicely admixed with self-interest and the profit motive. But the United States did provide the moral and political initiative that enabled the smaller states to make use of their natural resources, though only to a very small extent thus far, and aroused in them a belligerence like that of snarling pickets at a strike on factory. The pickets know that the police or National Guard are forbidden to tear into them and draw blood as they easily could. So also, with the Latins.

President Eisenhower was deterred from curbing the Castro Communist venture by an exaggerated respect, and fear, of the opinions of mankind, which are often idiotic, cowardly and ignorant. We had permitted Castro's people to conspire in restaurants in Ybor City, in Tampa, for years before the victory over Batista. Our FBI knew this plot was hatching against the peace of a neighboring sovereignty, with inevitable agony to innocent Cubans. But the cant of "democracy" has weakened our character. We are afraid that we will resemble Stalin and Hitler in muscling into the affairs of incoherent, childish rabble in jungle when honesty, courage and strong national character plainly require that we take responsibility for the general good of the world.

Cuba never has been capable of competent self-government. The Cuban national personality is crooked, bloodthirsty and utterly untrustworthy.

To my delight I have found in the adventures of a fascinating young American musician, Phillipa Duke Schuyler, the best light comment on all this that I have ever read. Miss Schuyler is the daughter of George Schuyler, the great Negro journalist. In her book, called "Adventures in Black and White", under the chapter heading, "Thieves and Plots in Cuba", she wrote: "Cleanliness would be resplendent in the front rooms of a store or apartment. The contrast would be appalling in the bathroom. The elevator of my hotel broke down between floors. The operator sang to me all the time we waited to be rescued."

A Cuban "friend" asked her to autograph several pieces of white paper and later wrote her father that Phillipa owed him $200. A lawyer told her of a client whom a Cuban sued for $800. In court the Cuban produced seven false witnesses to swear they had seen him give the American the money. The lawyer told Phillipa he brought in 14 witnesses to swear they had seen the American give it back. The American won.

It may be that President Machado was just a trustee or receiver for New York banks that had heavy investments in Cuba. But Machado was poor if not destitute when he holed up with his wife and daughter in a dingy old hotel on the Albany Post Road in Poughkeepsie, soon after he was deposed, to beg for a few words with F. D. Roosevelt at Hyde Park. I had known Machado in better days in Cuba. If he had squandered away millions he never would have degraded himself and his family by living in such shabby conditions.

Be that as it may, American money, the earnings of American labor and ingenuity, had been put to work in Cuba building factories, roads and hotels and digging mines which otherwise would not have

LICENSING AD AGENCIES (Editor & Publisher)

A West Coast advertising agency executive has proposed state or federal licensing of all agencies and says he will place such a recommendation before the California legislature this year or next.

We believe this proposal is fraught with danger for the entire advertising industry and should be sidetracked before some politicians see in it a new source of tax revenue.

Our objection to it, however is not based on the cost of the proposed license but because of the dangers inherent in any licensing system.

The power to grant a license carries with it the power to deny a license. If any branch of government assumes the authority to grant or deny a license to do business, it also has the power to assess a tax on that business for the privilege granted. Here is the foot in the door, the camel's nose under the tent, leading to a special tax on advertising. So far, attempts to impose such a tax directly have met with defeat.

Let's go a step further. Government authority to grant a license naturally requires that certain conditions must be met in order to qualify. Granted that almost everyone in the advertising business is interested in maintaining the high

Prairie Dogs Get Town To Prevent Extinction

By BILL CLAYTON

LUBBOCK (UPI) — One of the country's strongest towns is a tiny but bustling village that looks something like a vast bed of baby volcanoes.

The town is only seven-and-a-half acres in area, and has a current population of 600.

It is "Prairie Dog Town, U.S.A.," situated at Lubbock, Tex., where the West Texas plains lay a flatland carpet to the Panhandle.

The chubbier, best-cared-for prairie dogs imaginable live in the town, pampered from visitors' handouts and protected by a fence from outside invasions.

The prairie dogs didn't always have it so good. They were about to be erased from the West Texas countryside until nature lovers stepped in to save the little members of the squirrel family.

The naturalists helped create the town out of part of MacKenzie State Park.

The prairie dog population of 600 at the village is small compared with the estimated 400 million of the little dogs that used to romp the area a half-century ago.

Widespread use of poisoned grain to clear ranch and farming land of prairie dog burrows decimated their herds.

The small animals, which get their name from their similarity to cuddly little pups, are considered rare now in parts of the Texas range.

Kennedy M. Clapp of Lubbock, a former member of the State Parks Board, was their earliest champion.

"Why get rid of them?" Clapp asked. "Why not keep them in their own village?"

So the prairie dogs were given the tract ringed by a stone fence maze of prairie dog burrows one could find.

The dogs sink their homes about 12 to 20 feet underground and the tunnel runs about 5 to 15 feet horizontally below the earth. The loose dirt is used to form a dike around the burrow entrance, giving a volcano-like appearance to the home. The dike wards off flash flooding of the home.

The prairie dogs attract a couple of million visitors each year, and the Sultan of Morocco became so fascinated with the little animals after seeing them in a movie that he asked for several as pets. They also are sent to parks and zoos that agree to pamper them.

Citizens of the village enjoy immunity from hunters. A $500 fine awaits anyone who molests them. Along with the protective dikes they have a civil defense system all their own.

The prairie dogs don't allow vegetation to grow taller than six inches within 100 feet of a burrow. This permits them to keep a lookout for intruders. If an intruder approaches, the dogs chatter a warning to the town. They all freeze until the intruder gets too close, then a final warning sends them scurrying under ground. When danger is past, the residents bark an all-clear and the prairie dogs resume their solemn posts at the entrances to the burrows.

Trade Mark Infringing By Japs Hit

By LLOYD NORTARD

Detroit (UPI) — There is growing concern among U.S. auto makers over the practice by some Japanese firms of "latching on to the coat-tails" of well-known American trademarks.

The Japanese don't come right out and steal trademarks.

But Ford officials, for example, think one company in Japan is stretching the point by exporting of auto parts is big business, mark of "FuMoCo." Ford has long used the tag "FuMoCo."

To make matters even worse, the Japanese firm also uses packages identical in size and color to Ford parts packages.

Ford plans to start legal action in Japan to put "FuMoCo" out of business as a trademark.

Pirating of U.S. auto trademarks is chiefly a foreign practice.

But an equally annoying practice — counterfeiting of auto parts — takes place both in the U.S. and overseas.

A Ford spokesman said parts counterfeiting has dried up considerably in the U.S. in recent years because of stepped-up campaigns by auto companies and major replacement parts suppliers to track down and prosecute the guilty.

Evidence indicates counterfeiting is on the increase overseas with parts coming from the U.S., Japan and a few other countries.

Counterfeit U.S. parts peddled domestically are purchased at a cheap price from small parts companies by individuals or small groups, stamped with the Ford name, packaged in counterfeit Ford containers and sold, sometimes even to Ford dealers, at prices 40 to 60 per cent below the list price for the parts.

The duped customer thinks he is getting genuine, high-quality replacement parts and blames the auto manufacturer when the cheap substitute wears out quickly.

Finding counterfeit parts is no major problem. The big task is finding the origin of the counterfeit parts. Lab tests of materials used in the parts often lead to the source.

Sunday Sales Bring Fines

HOUSTON (UPI) — Six persons have been found guilty in the first court tests of Houston's controversial Sunday "Blue Laws." Each was fined $20.

Lawyers for all of the defendants indicated today they would appeal the verdicts.

A jury of five men and one woman found Houston lumber dealer N. Elmer White, 31, guilty about an hour after Justice W. C. Ragan found four automobile salesmen guilty on the same count. Charged with White was Oral Shockey, 44, one of White's employees. After the jury verdict Shockey pleaded "nolo contendere," and was assessed the same $20 fine.

Ragan explained that such an appeal would allow White and Shockey to appeal their fines simultaneously.

Mayor Lewis Cutrer was the principal witness in the trial of White. He testified that he had never issued a written directive to Police Chief Carl Shuptrine to enforce the Sunday closing laws, but said, "I have discussed it with the chief on several occasions."

The four automobile salesmen tried earlier without a jury, all are employees of Mike Persia Chevrolet.
