

Claims Record For 67-Day Submersion

Polaris-Armed Sub George Washington Ends 'Peace Jaunt'

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UPI)—The George Washington, pioneering Polaris missile-firing nuclear submarine, ended its historic first "mission of peace" Atlantic patrol Saturday claiming a 67-day record for continuous submersion.

The 380-foot grey killer submarine had been prowling the Atlantic since Nov. 15 with a full load of 16 Polaris missiles "docked and in a state of readiness" at all times. The vessel fired its first Polaris last July.

"Well done on the successful completion of the first and historic fleet ballistic missile watch at sea," Vice Adm. Fitzhugh Lee, acting commander in chief of the Atlantic Command, messaged the crew. "In the history of sea power, no ship ever completed a more significant mission than this, and no iron men in wooden ships ever displayed greater dedication, intelligence and competence than the crew of the George Washington."

The previous submersion record was set by the nuclear submarine Sea Wolf, which remained under water 63 days. The George Washington arrived in below-freezing temperatures to the cheers of wives and children of the 100-odd crew members. The families lined the railing of the atomic submarine tender Proteus and were reunited with the underwater sailors, who had spent both Christmas and New Year's underwater. Cmdr. James B. Osborn, of Stockton, Mo., captain of the submarine, praised the ship and the crew. "Both performed above my expectations," he said.

Two young Pampans were injured in a car-truck crash on Highway 60 in front of the Fleetwood Truck Stop at approximately 11:40 p.m. last night. The injured, Miss Shirley Kidwell, 18, and Gerald McCoy, 20, were taken to the emergency room at Highland General Hospital where they were under treatment at press time. The extent of their injuries were unknown.

'Equal' To Lincoln's Second Inaugural Talk

LONDON (UPI) — Europe Saturday hailed President Kennedy's inaugural address as one of the greatest of modern times and there were indications in Moscow it had already begun to thaw the cold war. London newspapers likened the Kennedy speech to President Lincoln's second inaugural address. The Paris newspaper La Croix compared it to those of Pericles who led ancient Greece to greatness.

Georgia U. Students Warm Up To Negroes

ATLANTA (UPI) — Two Negro students who became the first members of their race to attend the 175-year-old University of Georgia said Saturday that fellow students "warmed up" considerably during their initial week.

Hamilton Holmes, 19, the other Negro student, said he was encouraged by events of the past week. "Everything went off without a hitch," he said. The two students were admitted to the school under federal court order a week ago Wednesday. Their presence touched off rioting, however, and they were suspended for their "own protection."

The federal judge who first ordered them admitted later suggested the rioting could have been averted by state authorities and ordered them re-admitted. They went back to classes last Monday and were accepted with open arms.

Ex-President's Role Fits, Wife Like A Shoe

By WILLIAM J. EATON — GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Late citizen Dwight D. Eisenhower slipped into the lonely exile of being an ex-President today as if it were a comfortable shoe.

He seems anxious to be in a warmer climate," Wilson said after their talk. Ike plans to fly Monday to Albany, Ga., on a quail-hunting trip as the guest of W. Alton (Pete) Jones, a New York oilman and close friend. Mrs. Eisenhower will remain at the farm.

"I hope for the best," and I'm trying to keep from anticipating anything. When I'm there I concentrate on just three things, zoology, psychology and physics," he said.

'Herman,' The Amorous Alley Cat, Honored

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Herman the amorous cat occupied center-stage Saturday as honored guest at the Ohio State Persian Club's annual cat show.

The San Francisco half-breed was the hit of the show inside his four-foot square cage decked out in blue satin drapes and huge sign overhead reading "Herman."

Weather permitting, a new romance may be in the offing for Herman with an eligible female from Dayton, Ohio.

Signed Judge William C. Bryant, President Ohio State Persian Club.

Herman attracted considerable attention on the West Coast recently because of his habit of visiting neighbors' houses with full-bred Siamese females. His prowling resulted in a $3,500 suit filed against Herman's owners.

"We heard about Herman and invited him to our show," Common Pleas Judge William C. Bryant, who is president of the Ohio State Persian Club, said. "And he has taken central Ohio by storm."

Since his arrival by airplane Monday, Herman has been on live television shows, visited a department store for two five-hour exhibitions and received a telegram from a lonesome female.

Blonde Designer In Senate Race DENISON, Tex. (UPI) — A pretty, 40-year-old blonde designer of children's clothes became the 18th contender Saturday for the U.S. Senate seat vacated by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

She said she arises about 7:30 a.m., makes coffee in her room and leaves for her first class psychology, at about fifteen minutes to nine. Class lasts until 9:50 a.m. and she usually spends another hour catching up on lessons she missed. She then walks across campus for her history class, and

Dr. Franz J. Polgar, whose demonstrations of mental telepathy, memory feats, and power of suggestion have baffled scientists and held audiences spellbound, will address the Knife and Fork Club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Pampa High School Cafeteria.

She is Mrs. Martha Tredway, vice president of Diaper Jeans, Inc., and a designer for the company, which makes infants' and children's wear.

Miss Hunter, a journalism student, said her campus life at Pampa has shaken down into a pattern.

Acknowledged to be a master in the field of telepathy, hypnosis and other psychic phenomena, Dr. Polgar, once of the University of Budapest, has convinced skeptics of New York University and other institutions of learning in the United States of the power of thought transference. Before coming to America he worked in the psychiatric and surgical departments of the Budapest Polyclinic, and had rigorous experience in criminology with the Hungarian Secret Service.

Following the film Dr. Joe Donaldson will speak briefly on the disease and the preventative science has prepared to combat it.

Safecrackers 'Double-Doored' At Perryton

PERRYTON (Sp) — The efforts some people go through to obtain money are, in many cases, frustrating. However, the persons who broke into the F. W. Woolworth Co.'s store here early Saturday must have found their chore a most unhappy one since, you might say, they were "double-doored."

Deputy Sheriff Bobby Jack Watson, the investigating officer, said a lock had been pried off the front door to gain entry and that the knob and handles to the firm's safe had been broken off in getting off a door of the safe, then in and behind, the safecrackers were confronted with a second door. This, apparently, was too much, for it was untouched and the labor was all in vain.

Later, Watson said, two men were apprehended at Beaver and they are being questioned on the case here and the burglary of a farmhouse near Beavers.

Pushed Through Expense And Pay Hike Bill

State Legislators Have Done One Thing, Anyway

By FLETCHER ROBERTSON Daily News Special Correspondent

AUSTIN — The 57th Texas Legislature has been in session since Jan. 10 and about the only thing it has accomplished has been the passage of a bill to pay for the cost of the session—almost $2,650,000 which includes salaries of the legislators.

The lawmakers have been and will remain at ease until House Speaker James Turman announces committee appointments. Committees are a must in the business of making laws in Texas. All bills dropped in the hopper are referred to committees for study and recommendation before they even come up for consideration by the legislators.

Speaker Turman said Thursday shortly before the House adjourned for the weekend that he "hopes" to get the committees lined up by Wednesday of this week. There are 43 standing committees of the House and it's a big job to get the right man in the right place. So until the committees are ready to do business the legislators will continue to take it easy.

Most important House committees are the Appropriations, Revenue and Taxation, State Affairs (policy matters), and Redistricting. Chairmanship of these groups undoubtedly will go to Turman as a supporter in his fight with Rep. Wade Spilman of McAllen for the speakership. They are the plum assignments and Turman is not about to give them to Spilman men.

Spilman said Turman came to him after the election and told him he could have anything he wanted in the way of a committee job.

A chairmanship? "No, indeed not," Spilman said. "I wouldn't accept the chairmanship of a committee because I'd be responsible for the type of legislation drafted for consideration by the House. Mr. Turman and I don't agree in some areas." Spilman and Turman are divided in their governmental philosophy. Turman leans to the liberal side and Spilman admittedly is a conservative.

Liberals are in the saddle in the House, but the conservative element, headed by Spilman, is sure to provide plenty of opposition on legislation where the two factions clash head-on. And, in all probability, the conservatives will be able to tone down any wild bills that might come up for action.

It's strictly conjecture, but they're saying on the floor of the House that B. H. Dewey of Bryan and George T. Hinson of Mineola will get the nod from Turman for the chairmanship of two big committees.

Dewey is reportedly a shoe-in as head man of the Appropriations committee and Hinson is slated to get the job of guiding deliberations of the Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Other legislators who will likely end up with committee chairmanships are L. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi, Joe M. Chapman of Sulphur Springs and Bob Eckhardt of Houston, all of whom were in there fighting for Turman in the speaker's race. Eckhardt is a former AFL-CIO lobbyist.

There's no question about it, they've got sin on the run in the Beaumont-Port Arthur area and apparently the people of Texas want the House to continue its look-see into vice.

The dirty work in Jefferson County was exposed by the House Interim Investigating Committee and everybody connected with the probe has been getting letters of commendation and asking that the inquiry be continued.

The interim group, headed by Rep. Menton Murray of Harlingen, was automatically dissolved when the 57th Legislature convened and it is not likely the same group will be reappointed. However another committee might be named to continue the job. Murray said he has received more than 200 letters patting the committee on the back from preachers, school people, civic-minded groups, mothers and fathers and just plain citizens.

Incidentally, there is a report here that vice also exists in other sections of the state and that, if the investigation is continued, another area will be singled out for exposure. Everybody here is wondering where the sin hunters will strike next.

Financially speaking, the State of Texas is in a bad fix and something's got to be done by the 57th legislature. That "something" is the enactment of a new tax law to meet the growing cost of government.

Trouble is, the legislators are divided on the type of tax bill to raise the money. Several plans have some active supporters among the lawmakers.

Gov. Price Daniel has suggested a one-per-cent payroll tax which would be split by the employer and employee. However, the Daniel plan has not been received to enthusiastically by all the lawmakers. Opponents say the measure, in reality, would be a gross income tax on a selected group of families and a payroll tax on the cost of doing business for the employer.

Proponents of a sales tax think their plan would distribute the load more equitably and are sure to introduce a bill proposing such a "tevy".

Another group favors the extension of selected sales taxes to come up with the necessary cash. There are still other alternatives.

The legislators are not hurting for plans. Somebody seems to have a plan for practically every conceivable type of bite to put on the people. What the lawmakers have to do is agree on a tax law and somebody's gotta give before that happy day arrives.

Practically every day the Legislature is in session, at least one group of school kids is in the gallery to watch the lawmakers in action.

A class of about 40 first-graders came by Friday and was taken on a tour by a capitol guide. The House had adjourned for the weekend and the guide pointed to the 150 desks on the floor where the legislators sit.

"What do they do?" a little boy wanted to know.

Several adults in the crowd, including the teacher who had the kids in tow, laughed out loud at the question.

However, the laughter didn't make sense to the boy and he repeated the question.

The teacher explained that the legislators make the laws of the state and the kid seemed satisfied. But not for long.

"What are laws?" he asked.

That was too much. The teacher nudged the boy to move along on the tour, then looked around and smiled.

'The Theatre Men'

Noted Concert Group To Appear Saturday

The Theatre Men, famed concert group organized from the vast resources of the Lyric Opera of Chicago, are coming here for a concert in Pampa Junior High Auditorium Saturday with Margaret Lukaszewski, soprano of the opera, and David Burk, concert pianist. This vocal ensemble is one of the most carefully selected, and most expensively trained, of any touring concert group today. It is said that the musical staff of the Lyric Opera heard 1,200 auditions to choose 34 new professional ensemble singers. Then Bernard Izzo, baritone, with one of the opera's conductors, chose the visiting group.

Last spring they made a five-week Pacific Coast tour. This season they have 16 concerts in the Maritime Provinces of Canada, and five in Florida, as well as a tour of the Central West and South.

Soviet's Seven-Year Plan Doesn't Impress Foreign Agriculture Unit

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) says the eyes and ears of the Agriculture Department overseas are not impressed with the progress of the Soviet Union's current seven-year plan (1959-65).

The Soviet plan calls for a 70 per cent increase in gross agricultural output over the 1958 level. The "world agricultural situation for 1961," FAS noted that estimates of farm production in the Soviet Union during 1960 showed a slight gain over 1959 output. An increase in the output of livestock commodities was expected to offset the drop in crop production. The increase in net farm output did not keep pace with the population increase, but total farm output was calculated as sufficient to cover consumption and export requirements.

Weather, the major factor limiting the 1960 bread grain and cotton production, combined with organizational difficulties in harvesting operations, resulted in the second year of the current plan being as disappointing for the Soviets as the first.

The Soviets increased their 1960

total crop area by more than 16 million acres over the previous year, reaching a reported 501 million acres. This is the first significant increase in total crop area since 1936, the peak expansion year of the "new-lands" program.

FAS said increases in the output of feed grains, sugar beets, sunflowers and flax were not expected to offset the drops in the production of bread grains and cotton.

FAS said the Soviet farm economy continued to increase the output of livestock commodities during 1960.

Livestock numbers on collective and state farms continued their upward trend during the first half of 1960. According to mid-year reports, meat production of these farms during the first six months of 1960 was almost 26 per cent greater than during the first half of 1959. The reported mid-year numbers of cattle, hogs, and poultry on collective and state farms were significantly higher than the year before, but there was a slight decline in sheep numbers.

TALL HUNTING TAIL

This story has a real point! A New Mexico conservation officer, the National Wildlife Federation is advised, approached a man who was illegally hunting too near a farm house. On investigation, he learned the man was a non-resident without a hunting license. The hunter first claimed he was shooting rabbits, then a meadowlark. Finally, the hunter's dog came and held a perfect point as the officer located eight quail hidden under the spare tire of his truck. His fine was $25 and loss of the illegal game.

100 Dying Each Day

Congo Famine Still Unsolved

food airlift to the Congo. He said this could be done in 36 hours if President Eisenhower gave the order. But an administration official said in Washington Monroney's scheme was "humanitarian but impractical," because "we can't take unilateral action—we are bound by the U.N. machinery."

On Monday, a minor airlift to fly in 100 tons of maize, began from Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, and FAO flew in some badly-needed seed. There had been similar recent mercy flights but none were sufficiently large-scale.

By GEORGE F. GAAL

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Today we are facing a situation where . . . between 250,000 and 300,000 people are actually starving in South Kasai, with an estimated 200 people dying daily from sheer starvation.

Land And Water Vehicles Eyed By Engineers

By LLOYD NORTARD

The speaker, Secretary-General Hammarskjold of the United Nations. The date: Dec. 13, 1960. Today, about 8,000 deaths later the secretary-general's estimate, the 59 member nations of the world organization still have failed to come up with a solution to the problem that U.N. experts call the world's worst famine in years.

Within the past two weeks the world's conscience seems to have been stirred by the tragedy of the Baluba Tribesmen in the Congo's Kasai Province. But further aid unaided or given appears far too late and its eventual delivery may be far too late to have much lives.

DETROIT (UPI)—Detroit engineers are talking about two new types of land-and-water vehicles. One is a truck that swims and the other is a ground effect machine that skims along over land and sea on a bubble of air.

Both were mentioned prominently at the recent first international congress and exposition of automotive engineering in Detroit.

T. J. Bischoff of the ordnance tank-automotive command and T. R. Gondert of Stevens Institute of Technology describe the truck as a 2 1/2-ton Army cargo truck designed to increase mobility in tactical vehicles.

President Eisenhower was reported to have been asked to re-use another $5 million of mutual security funds for the Congo, on top of the $10 million spent since the country became independent in July. This aid, if granted, would go for general purposes, never, and not specifically to the Balubas.

Pointing out that vehicles must be able to surmount obstacles as they occur, Bischoff and Gondert said that tactical plans, in general, envision crossing bodies of water on a broad front without ever massing for conventional bridge crossings, or to take advantage of ideal fording situations.

The truck, which remains afloat even when fully flooded with water, can enter a moving stream from a 60 per cent slope at 10 miles an hour, or from a 20 per cent slope, ending a four-foot vertical drop, at 25 miles an hour. It can cross an inland body of water at more than five miles an hour.

Called the X-M 521, the unsinkable truck makes extensive use of aluminum and advanced adhesive bonding developments and techniques.

The ground effect machine (GEM), which rides on a bubble of low pressure air, is capable of speeds of up to 175 miles an hour.

An ocean voyage between New York and London aboard a GEM would last about a day and a half, compared with four days for the fastest ship.

P. G. Fielding, of Booz-Allen Applied Research, who has done GEM research, says a void exists in the transportation picture between ocean liners and transport aircraft, "a void which would nicely fill the ground effect machine."

He said the air-cushion vehicle offers potential for all forms of amphibious and high-speed over water transport.

U.S. Weather Science About Best In World

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U. S. weather science and service is about the best in the world.

The credit is due largely to more than 12,000 men and women in the 50 states who make regular observations, without pay and often at the risk of injury or death, for the Weather Bureau.

These volunteer workers include both young and old. Some are members of families which have been faithfully reporting the weather for half a century or more. The Towler family of Rome, Ga., for example, has been taking weather readings for more than 100 years.

Who are these people? The Weather Bureau says they are country store owners, housewives, farmers, working men and women, lawyers, judges, preachers, doctors, teachers, company executives.

The Weather Bureau has fewer than 400 stations manned by full-time professionals. So without the volunteers, the bureau simply could not accumulate the data it has to have to get a slant on the climate, make forecasts, and do weather research.

The bureau chief, Dr. F. W. Reichelderfer, said recently that the records of the cooperative observers corps "enable us to provide an effective climatological service—in fact, one of the best in the world."

The volunteers have saved uncounted lives and prevented incalculable damage with timely warnings of floods and tornadoes. Their records have settled many a court case. What do they get out of it? Lapel badges, special awards, certificates, personal satisfaction plus, on occasion considerable discomfort and trouble.

They have been loyal unto death. Ernest W. St. John of Mena, Ark., had just completed his morning reading then he died of a heart attack Sept. 2, 1957. The St. John family had kept continuous records for 47 years.

Zachry J. Compton of Riverton, Va., died June 24, 1954. His last words to his son were: "Remember to send in three copies of the weather report at the end of the month."

One day Robert E. Bittel of Elk Valley, Calif., started for his instrument shack and almost did not make it. A sudden wind storm snapped a 150-pound limb from a tree. The limb crashed down through some telephone lines. Bittel was knocked groggy by the limb and tied up by the wires. The wind then slammed him against a building. But he got his readings.

J. E. Duane, in charge of a fishing camp at Long Key, Fla., had a busy night when a hurricane hit the Key Sept. 2, 1935. He wound up unconscious in a palm tree.

But he managed to jot down continuous barometer readings before the sea rose up and snatched the instrument away from him, and when he came to four hours later—20 feet up in the tree—he was able to climb down and make his report.

At Leoti, Kans., a tornado blew away the home of Mrs. L. E. Gorsuch at 5 p.m. Aug. 4, 1923. But she took the regular 6 p.m. observation on schedule.

Mrs. Adaline M. Hiel, observer two miles south of Yeso, N.M., once had to kill a rattlesnake to get at her rain gage. Wink Creekpaum of Sperry, Okla., swam a horse repeatedly through flood waters to read a river gage. He asked no reward for himself but said he thought the horse deserved retirement with a perpetual supply of oats.

Roy W. McNeely observed a tornado approaching Grovespring, Mo., Sept. 26, 1959, and drove through the town giving the alarm and helping people to safety. Most of the town was destroyed. These incidents are typical. Why do these people take on and chain themselves for years to so exacting a job?

High Riding Wood Duck

The son of Albert Kleis, a Michigan Conservation Department employee found a wood duck frozen in a small pond near his home. Chopping the bird loose, the boy took "Woody" home, thawed him out, and nursed him back to health. However, by this time it was too late for the duck to fly south on his own. The National Wildlife Federation received word that Kleis contacted Eastern Air Lines, which was inaugurating jet service to Miami, and made arrangements for "Woody" to get a 600-mile-an-hour hitch hike ride south. It is doubted if the airlines will accept return reservations.

Pokin' Fun At Winter Oil Demands Dip Sharply

WASHINGTON (SpI) — Oil demands fell 210,000 barrels daily short of expectations in the past three months, due partly to "declining industrial activity," the Independent Petroleum Association of America announced.

Fourth quarter consumption of heavy oil, primarily by industry, was 100,000 barrels daily below the same period a year ago, and 90,000 barrels less than IPAA's supply and demand committee had forecast last October.

In its January "Supply and Demand Outlook," IPAA said total fourth quarter demand of 10,140,000 barrels daily, for all petroleum products, was only 1.5 per cent above the same period in 1959.

The association said the outlook for the next three months indicates total demand for oil products will be 10,220,000 barrels daily — 165,000 barrels or 1.6 per cent less than in the same months last year when March was 30 per cent colder than normal.

Failure of demand to reach expected levels in the past three months left petroleum inventories at the end of Dec. 28 million barrels higher than IPAA's supply and demand committee had anticipated on that date.

Lana Turner Cut Down in Pictures

By JOE FINNIGAN
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Lana Turner has decided to cut down on motion picture appearances. She intends to spend more time producing movies with her own company.

Turner has been one of the top stars in Hollywood for many years. She has worked for major motion picture studios. Now, she's calling it quits as far as acting for someone else is concerned.

Turner recently married a Los Angeles businessman. She said she'd like to travel a bit. She's not sure she'll be able to do that.

Turner said she'd like to move to Hollywood and live on a ranch. She has a surprising desire for a movie career.

Worst Air Tragedy Exposed Flaws in U.S. Traffic Control System

By ROBERT J. SERLING
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's worst air tragedy exposed serious but not unsolvable weaknesses in the federal government's air traffic control system.

The FAA has been criticized for its handling of the Dec. 18 collision of a United DC8 and a TWA Constellation over New York City.

The FAA itself concedes that perfection of three-dimensional radar may be several years away.

The hearing revealed that pilots assume they are getting more surveillance than they actually are. The most puzzling aspect of Dec. 16 was why radar didn't spot the Unit jet off course when there was sufficient time for a warning.

There is a further and more reliable "back-stop" — a device known as distance measuring equipment (DME) which tells a pilot at a glance exactly how far he is from radio check points.

The CAB heard reliable testimony that the VOR ground signal which was guiding the United plane apparently was malfunctioning intermittently.

While government stockpiled free silver has dwindled to 122 million ounces from a billion in 1943, De Seyes says he believes silver consumption exceeded production by about 50 per cent for the second straight year in 1960.

The regulated natural gas industry's confused status with the Federal Power Commission is making the industry unattractive as an investment, a securities analyst said in Tulsa this week.

The financing of almost any phase of the natural gas industry is one of the principal problems faced by the companies during this period of well above average growth, Dixon said.

PRAYERFUL LANDING... A shipwrecked family gives thanks for its survival in Walt Disney's Panavision-Technicolor feature, "Swiss Family Robinson." # Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — J. Malcolm de Seyes of Hemphill, Noyes is strongly recommending purchase of silver stocks.

The broker says there are mounting indications that a silver shortage is in the offing — an enviable opportunity for the patient investor to make a handsome profit.

Gray County commissioners met yesterday and opened bids for a new motor grader for Pct. 4 at McLean.

Unusual Housing Project Includes Huge Play Area

MIAMI (UPI) — To qualify for 40-year FHA mortgages, and to offer home buyers values he presiders unbeatable, builder Herb Hefter has opened here an unusual housing project.

Hefter's 2,000-house Sunset Park — only partly built — includes a "playdium" — a central, recreational area which might qualify as a country club if it had a golf course.

As it is the playdium includes a large swimming pool, tennis courts, baseball diamond, shuffleboard lanes, handball courts, locker rooms, an indoor stage facing a small auditorium, a restaurant, bar, snack bar and an all-purpose activity room.

In the words of the Federal Housing Administration, which is insuring mortgages on the entire development, the playdium is a "community facility."

monthly payments. That brings Hefter's homes within the budgets of more families — which presumably means more sales.

Houses in Sunset Park, are priced from $13,285 to $14,970, with minimum monthly payments ranging from $85 to $115.

Hefter's pitch to the public is that he is "donating" the playdium.

He acknowledged in an interview, however, that his prices are higher than they would be without a community facility. Whether the mark-ups cover the entire cost of the playdium — estimated by Hefter at more than $500,000 — is not known.

Gas Industry's Standing With FPC Confused

By MAC SEBREE
TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — The regulated natural gas industry's confused status with the Federal Power Commission is making the industry unattractive as an investment, a securities analyst said in Tulsa this week.

Maurice Dixon, utilities specialist for the New York City office of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, said the industry's uncertain position as the only fuel producer subjected to stringent government controls comes at a time when natural gas is far from a monopoly.

'Gunsmoke' Becomes One-Hour Show In Fall

"Gunsmoke," television's most consistently popular program since its debut as a Saturday night half-hour feature on the CBS television network in September 1955, will be expanded to a one-hour series starting next fall, it was announced today.

In announcing new plans for "Gunsmoke," Katz said the full hour would give the series added scope in terms of greater character and plot development.

The IRS representative said his fund checks from other years which can't be delivered due to illegible writing on the taxpayer's district office still has many reports.

Income Tax Information

"Typing or printing your name and address on your 1960 tax return could mean the difference in receiving an eligible refund," Wiley E. Davis, Administrative Officer, Internal Revenue Service, here, said today.

The IRS representative said his fund checks from other years which can't be delivered due to illegible writing on the taxpayer's district office still has many reports.

FAMILY TREND

THE FRACTIONAL PEOPLE — Neither the fractional person nor the "average" American family exists, but both serve to make graphic the fact that the downward trend in size of the American family has been reversed, as shown in Newschart, above. # Kroll Fights Weather, Foes To Capture Crosby Golf Lead

Casper Sets Golf Mark With Hot 65

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Ted Kroll, the old Army sergeant from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., successfully battled late-arriving winds and gales Saturday to carve out a four-under-par 68 at Pebble Beach and fashion a four-stroke lead over the field at the end of three rounds in the $50,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-amateur Golf Tournament.

Kroll had a 34-hole total of 203 — four strokes ahead of Dave Hill, Denver, Colo., and five ahead of Roberto de Vicenzo, the South American who plays out of Mexico City.

Despite his great effort, however, Kroll had to share the spotlight with big Bill Casper, the round man from Apple Valley, Calif., who cracked a 19-year-old Pebble Beach course record when he turned in a seven-under-par 65.

The old mark was set by amateur Bud Brownell in 1942.

Casper was 16 strokes off the pace to start the day and moved past about 50 men in the field. But he gained only three strokes on Kroll, who was the second round co-leader with Bill Collins, Crystal River, Fla.

Kroll, wounded three times in fighting in Europe during World War II, fought the gales on Pebble Beach more easily Saturday.

He had two birdies on the front nine on the par-five holes, where he got home in two each time, and posted a 35. The weather was calm and sunny for this part of his game.

But when the winds came up, Kroll caught on fire. He knocked in a 25-foot birdie putt on the 11th and chipped into the cup from 50 feet for a birdie-deuce on the 205-yard 13th hole. On the 400-yard, par-four 16th he had an "impossible" second shot to a green that is completely surrounded by traps. He had to fade a five iron around a tree, keeping the ball low and still make it stick on the green. He did—the ball winding up four feet from the pin and another birdie. He finished with a 33.

The 23-year-old Hill, playing at Cypress Point, was five under par after 10 holes. But he got caught in the winds and bogied the 15th, 18th and 17th to end up with a two-under-par 70.

Moore-Schoeppner Bout Postponed Until May

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Archie Moore-Eric Schoeppner light-heavyweight title fight in Madison Square Garden has been postponed until May 27. It was announced Saturday night by Humbert Pugazy, executive director of Feature Sports, Inc.

The bout was originally scheduled for March 20 or 21 in the Garden but it was postponed two months "because Moore wanted a little extra time to reduce," Pugazy said.

Moore, still recognized as world champion in New York, California and Europe, originally was supposed to meet Schoeppner in a title bout at Toronto last July. But that fight was postponed indefinitely when Moore claimed a leg injury and asked additional time to pare down to the 175-pound limit.

Pugazy also admitted that another reason for the latest postponement was the refusal of Telemeter, Inc., to arrange a closed-circuit theatre-television package for the March date.

Yanks Sign Bob Turley

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Turley, veteran right-hander, signed his 1961 contract with the New York Yankees Saturday for an estimated $30,000 salary.

He was only the fourth member of the American League champions to sign for the coming season.

Turley had a 9-3 won and lost record with the Yankees last season and a creditable 3.28 earned run average. However, he finished only four of the 24 games he started during the 1960 campaign.

In the 1960 World Series against the Pirates, Turley won the second game although he was cuffed for 13 hits and had to be removed in the ninth inning. He started the seventh game and was yanked in the second inning after giving up the first three runs in the Pirates' decisive 10-9 victory.

Trinity Extends Winning Streak

SEGUIN, Tex. (UPI)—Trinity University jumped into its longest winning streak in history Saturday night by defeating Texas Lutheran College 83-77 for its 13th consecutive basketball victory.

Independent Trinity dropped its first three games this season, before roaring back for 13 straight wins. It is the longest winning string posted by any Texas team this year.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—Purdue defeated Iowa, 47-41, in a wild Big Ten basketball game Saturday night, dropping the Hawkeyes from the conference lead.

Iowa made a desperate bid in the final seconds to stave off its first conference loss in five games, closing the gap to two points, 43-41, with 17 seconds left. But then high scorer Terry Dischinger hit two free throws for Purdue and Tim McGinley sank a last-second field goal to win going away for the Boilermakers.

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—Ralph Lowe's New Policy, injured earlier in the meeting, made a smashing comeback Saturday at Santa Anita when he raced to a 1½ length victory in the $28,550 San Pasqual Handicap on a double stakes program.

Jockey Ismael Valenzuela, who booted New Policy to his won, came back in the $20,250 San Marcos Handicap at 1¼ miles on turf to win with Longshot Anisado, a 7-year-old grass specialist from Argentina. Anisado paid $57.40 to win.

Advances To Finals

Streit Shoots For Third Win

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Defending champion Marlene Streit ousted Marge Burns of Greensboro, N.C., 6 and 5 Saturday to gain the finals and a chance to win a third straight Helen Lee Doherty women's golf championship.

Her opponent Sunday in the 36-hole finals will be 21-year-old Phyllis Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., who defeated Curtis Cup veteran Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, 4 and 2, in the other semi-final match.

Mrs. Streit, of Toronto, Ont., scored birdies on two of the first three holes and parred the other one for a quick three-hole lead over Miss Burns. She won the eighth with a bogey four when it took Miss Burns two strokes to

Just 'Usual' College Fun

HOUSTON (UPI) — Nine youths, five of them Rice University football players and another a football manager, were jailed early Saturday following a fight outside a cafe near the Rice campus.

Eight of the boys were charged with affray and released a short time later on $15 bond each. The other was jailed on a charge of carrying a pistol.

The weight advantage was all with the football players, who included a junior letterman from Coach Jess Neely's 1960 varsity squad and four members of the freshman team. The sixth Rice student is a varsity football manager. The other three youths used two knives and a pistol as "equalizers."

Wells Signs With Texans

DALLAS (UPI)—Tommy Wells of Georgia Tech, termed "the second greatest field-goal kicker of modern-day football" by Dallas Texans officials, Saturday became the 17th rookie to sign a contract with the American Football League club.

Wells kicked a total of 14 field goals during his Georgia Tech career, including three in one game in the season opener this past year when Tech defeated Sugar Bowl-bound Rice 16-13. The 6-1, 195-pound Wells accounted for 74 points at Tech, all by kicking.

The Texans acknowledged that only Auburn's muckly publicized Ed Dyas ranked above Wells as a field goal expert.

Panhandle 'Hall of Fame' To Honor Area's 1960 Selection

Twelve of the Texas Panhandle's best athletes and coaches, including Larry Stroud, Pampa High school baseball star, and Ed Lehnick, Lefors football coach, will be honored at a banquet at 2 p.m. today in the Amarillo YMCA.

The banquet will be featured by the installation of Bob Seeds, former major league baseballer, as the third member of the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame.

A second team all-district selection as a sophomore in 1959, Stroud will complete his high school ball career this coming spring. Coach Deck Woldt's PHS nine Lehnick was named for his feats which brought Lefors from a 1-5-1 record in 1959 to District title in 1960.

With a team that averaged approximately 140 pounds Lehnick fell victim to Stinson's Big Rattlers, 42-0.

Pampa, ACYC, Borger Triumph In Perryton GG

PERRYTON (Spl) — Perryton's Pee Wee boxers, wearing the colors of the American Community Youth Club, pounded out four regional championships to tie Pampa's Optimists for the Pee Wee team title and shared headline honors with a final round of a TKO-dotted card in last night's Perryton District Golden Gloves tournament.

Borger won the high school team crown with five victories. The open division bouts were still under way at press time.

Keynoting Perryton's title were two TKOs, the first coming in the 50-pound bracket as Billy Taylor TKO'd Andy Grim of Pampa Optimists at 35 seconds of the first round; the second game two bouts later as Darrell Bohn TKO'd teammate Johnny Thomas, who had fought once previously last night, at 50 seconds of the initial round.

Other Perryton regional champions crowned last night were Rickey White, who defeated Raymond Moore of Borger in the 55-pound division; and Dwayne Bohn who won the 100-pound crown unopposed.

Pampa's winners in the pee-wee bracket were Jim Watson, 80-pounder who downed Edgar Lester of Borger; H. D. LaRue, who felled fellow Optimist Keith Jones in a 85-pound title match; and Donald Dunn and Warren Pettit who won unopposed titles in the 95/and 90-pound brackets, respectively.

Terry Sanders was the lone Lefors winner on the night's championship card as he TKO'd Terry Slaughter of Perryton at 40 seconds of the third round in the 65-pound championship.

In the high school division, Tommy Woodruff of Pampa Optimist won the 118-pound title unopposed and Jerry Cline of Liberal, Kan., won the 175-pound championship by default over Pampa's James Webb.

In one punching upset, Allen Wann of Liberal TKO'd Borger's Joe Janeway at 1:20 of the first round. And, in the only other TKO decision of the night, Eugene Kerwin TKO'd Jimmy Johnson at 1:35 of the first round in a battle that featured all-Borger participants.

Yorky Sets Pace In Hialeah Race

HIALEAH, Fla. (UPI)—Famed Tim Farms captured its first race, in nearly seven months Saturday with Yorky setting home in the $30,000 Royal Handicap at Hialeah by five lengths.

Guided by Johnny Sellers, Yorky toyed with eight rivals in the mile and one-eighth race. It also was the first stakes victory for the four-year-old son of Bull Lea.

Derrick, winner of the recent Orange Bowl Handicap at Tropical Park, came with a late rush down the long Hialeah stretch to capture second place by half a length over Better Bee. Francis S., the favorite, finished fourth, another three-quarters of a length back.

The much-talked-about Venezuelan entry of Micarlo and Ripiqueito finished last in the field of nine with Ripiqueito bringing up the rear far back.

Without undue punishment, Yorky ran the nine furlongs in the creditable time of 1:49.3 on a fast track. The colt paid $5.90, $3.60 and $2.90 as second choice of the chilly-day crowd of 19,382.

Tall Invaders Hang 70-50 Loss On PHS

By ARTHUR MAYHEW
Daily News Sports Editor

Local construction men today were checking Harvesters Fieldhouse after reports Friday night that the roof caved in on the Pampa Harvesters in the midst of their District 3-4A basketball game with Amarillo.

The contractors probably will find everything in order, but you couldn't convince Coach Terry Culley and his Green and Gold forces after Amarillo parlayed a 33-31 lead into a 70-50 victory with an explosive last-half performance that sent Pampa to its fifth straight district defeat and 11th in 19 games this year.

The victory kept the Sandies in the running for the District 3-4A crown with a 4-2 mark. They and Monterey, 64-52 winner over Plainview, are tied for second behind Berger (5-1), which defeated Lubbock, 33-48, and Amarillo Palo Duro (5-1) which tripped Tascosa, 53-41.

Big Harold Denny, 6-7 senior, and Louis Ridings, 6-4 senior, sparked the Sandie attack with 18 points each, while Bob Dibling had 12.

Denny's performance kept him in the district scoring lead with 109 points but it took a strong second half spurge to hit his night's total after Randy Matson, 6-3 Pampa soph, held Denny to one field goal and six free tosses in the first two periods.

Pat Carter, 5-10, and Allen Wise, 6-3 — both seniors — provided the scoring punch for the home crew with 15 and 14 points, respectively. Matson, the seventh best scorer in the district until Friday, was held to three points, all free throws.

For the first half, it looked like anybody's game as the lead changed hands 15 times and the score was tied nine different times in the first 16 minutes.

The score was tied 3-3, 4-4, 6-6, and 8-8 before Matson and Wise hit a bracket of free throws each while allowing one field goal by Johnny Garcia to give Pampa a 12-10 bulge going into the second period.

Pampa upped its lead to the longest of the game — 4 points — at 7:27 of the second period when Gordon Balch hit a jumper from the side to make the score 14-10 before a tip-and-four 5 and 1 free throws in a little over a minute. Amarillo in front, 16-14.

Carter hit two straight jumps in between a two-pointer by Denny to give Pampa its last lead of the game, 25-27, at 1:15 remaining in the second period but the Harvesters retired at halftime trailing 31-33 as Pampa's Ronnie Chase scored on a line-drive jumper that rolled around and in at the half buzzer.

Wise meshed one free throw at the beginning of the third quarter to cut the gap to 32-33, but then the Sandies erupted for 11 straight points while holding Pampa to one free toss to take a commanding 44-33 lead with 3 minutes left to play.

Pampa could salvage only one field goal—a set shot by Wise—in the third period and Amarillo took a comfortable 51-39 lead into the last period.

Pampa went without a field goal for the first four minutes of the last period — Wise and Chase combining for three points at the charity line — before Carter hit a jumper; but, by that time the Sandies were ahead 62-44 and it was all over but the shouting.

The Harvesters finally cut the margin to 16 (50-66) on a beautiful under-the-goal shot by Bob Neslage but Amarillo spurred for four quick points in the last minute to wrap up the win, its first ever over Pampa in Harvesters Fieldhouse.

Pampa hit a hot 52 per cent from the field the first half (11 of 21) but went stale in the last half and wound up with a 30 per cent average (15 of 50). Amarillo, meanwhile, hit 25 of 59 for a good 42 per cent.

In the first game, Pampa's Shockers ran their newest winning string to three and made them 15-4 on the year with a resounding 76-59 victory over Amarillo's Yannigans.

Kries was high for the Shockers with 25 points, followed by Bob Neslage's 14 while Lyons had 12 for Amarillo.

Science Hunts Answers To Vegetation Problem

By BILL CLAYTON
United Press International

Some of the new herbicides are effective in control of aquatic vegetation, but it takes some lake level change and adhesion to do the job, the Game and Fish Commission said Saturday.

The commission's division of inland fisheries has been experimenting with dalaon amnortazole, kuron and others of the newer weedkillers, in Harrison and Van Zandt counties.

Project leader Charles Gray said the herbicides had 75 to 90 per cent success on vegetation in experiments testing habitat improvement for fish.

Dense shoreline growth of sawgrass was reduced on Highland Lake, northeast of Marshall, but lake level had to be lowered to expose crowns of the plants for spraying. The experimental plot had 90 per cent kill and 10 per cent regrowth.

Herbicides cut down white water lilies by 75 per cent in an experiment on garden lakes in Van Zandt County. However, spreader-sticker had to be added to the solution to prove effective.

Maiden care treated with dalaon in Sanders Lake in Harrison County was killed effectively with herbicide, but best results were on plants growing on the shore.

Only the tops of plants in the water were killed.

Fish control experiments on Lake Whitney show an effective method for control of gizzard shad "has not yet been found," project leader Leonard Lamb said. Large, deep lakes thwart efforts to ride the waters of nuisance shad.

White Deer String Ends At 20

Stinnett Stuns Bucks

Stinnett's Rattlers, the only team to defeat White Deer in football last season, ended the Bucks 20-game winning streak in Stinnett Friday night with a stunning 47-46 overtime victory in a District 1-A basketball encounter.

White Deer, which has polished off Stinnett twice earlier in the year in two different tournaments, was behind, 33-26, at halftime but rallied to go ahead, 43-40, early in the fourth quarter. However, 6-3 Gerald Bichsel — the Bucks backboard ace — fouled out and Stinnett came on to tie the game 45-45 at the end of regulation time.

Larry Anderson, one half of the potent Stinnett football combination, scored on a jump in the three minute overtime while Bob McAllister hit one free throw for White Deer and the game was over.

Tom Lester was high man for the Bucks with 16 points while Dickie Hanna and McAllister had 9 each. Malness Gibson and Duce McLean had 13 and 12 points, respectively.

The loss dropped the Bucks into second place and set up a first place battle with Gruver Tuesday in White Deer. The Bucks are 20-1 and 3-1 in district while Gruver is 20-2 and 4-0 in 1-A action.

In a girls' game, Juanna Moore, 19, Leona Traylor, 17, and Kay Allen, 13, paced White Deer's Does to a 57-33 win over Stinnett's girls.

Betty Norton had 19 for Stinnett. In other area games Friday, Perryton downed Quanah, 51-43, in a District 5-AA game. Danny Witt and Harry Drake chipped in 15 points each to the Ranger attack while Noel Brooks had 12 for Quanah.

Panhandle skinned Stratford's Elks, 62-51, as Harley Hager netted 26 points but the Panhandle girls had a rougher time, losing by an identical score. Annette Farrell hit 13 for the losers.

McLean, behind the 15 point show of Jim Watson, downed Lefors, 49-42, Friday. Jack Simmons had 12 for Lefors. The McLean girls also triumphed, 33-32, in a thriller. Helen Smith had 17 for McLean and Betty Lewis had 15 for Lefors.

Miami took both ends of a boy-girl doubleheader Friday as the Warriors downed Mobeetie, 58-36, Lee won going away.

Lee Seventh Ups Streak

BORGER — Robert E. Lee Seventh, one of two undefeated teams in Pampa's junior highs, ran its record to 5-0 with a convincing 49-38 victory over Austin of Borger here Friday.

Gary Crossland sparked the Rebel attack with 18 points, while Kenneth McWilliams added 12. Other Lee scorers were Teddy Bird, 8, David Cain, 8, and Mike Wise, 2. Lee led by only 15-11 at the end of the first quarter, but a rugged defense limited Austin to only three points in the second quarter and Lee won going away.

NFL Owners Open Big Winter Talks

Plan Eyed To Bolster New Clubs

'NEW YORK (UPI)—National Football League owners open their annual winter meeting Tuesday to stock the new Minnesota franchise with players and to vote on a proposal to expand the 1961 schedule from 12 to 14 games for each club.

Television, rules changes, the pro football Hall of Fame, players' benefits and constitutional amendments also are on the agenda of these sessions which are expected to last until Friday or Saturday.

First order of business will be the adoption of a plan for providing experienced players for the Minnesota Vikings, who will operate as the 14th team in the NFL next season.

The Vikings will have an opportunity to pick three players from every team in the league except the Dallas Cowboys, who themselves were stocked in this manner last February for their first season in the NFL. Dallas lost 11 games and tied one.

Despite the NFL's aim at striking an even balance of competition among its teams, many owners do not feel it is necessary to offer the Vikings such a wide range of selection as they did the Cowboys last year.

"Dallas did not participate in the draft; Minneapolis did," explained Commissioner Pete Rozelle, in relaying the sentiments of some of the owners. "Minneapolis should have the one type of player that Dallas lacked—a good running back with speed. This Tommy Mason (of Tulane) the Vikings have drafted is regarded the best running back in the colleges this year."

To stock Dallas, the owners expanded their rosters from 36 to 38 players and each club put up 11 players from which the Cowboys could select three.

There is strong sentiment to return the player limit to 36 and reduce the number of players from which the Vikings can select. Besides the collegians drafted, the Minnesota club obtained a key player in quarterback George Shaw, through a deal with the New York Giants.

Minnesota paid $600,000 for its admission to the NFL of this sum, $50,000 goes to the league and the remaining $550,000 will be divided among 12 teams to pay for the players picked by the Vikings.

Broussard Paces SWC Cage Stars

By United Press International

Southern Methodist's Jim Hammond, who averaged only 1.4 points per game in five league games last year, has turned up with the sharpest eye among Southwest conference basketball scoring leaders chasing front-running Carroll Broussard of Texas A&M.

Hammond, a long-armed string-bean youngster, doesn't shoot as often as some of his more-publicized contemporaries, but when he takes a pop at the basket the ball is apt to find its target 62 per cent of the time.

Broussard, whose two 37-point games within a week's span has shot him to the top of the heap in official conference statistics for both the full season and in league play, ranks No. 4 in proficiency with a 34.8 per cent record.

Roger Hennig of Texas Tech at 57.6 per cent and Pat Foster of Arkansas at 54.8 outrank Broussard in efficiency.

But, Hammond has only tried 50 shots from the floor to 95 for Broussard, while Hennig has tried but 33 and Foster 42.

Hammond, however, ranks among the top five scorers since title play started Jan. 3, averaging 17.5 points per game—good for No. 4 spot.

Broussard sports a fabulous 29.2 point average, trailed by Steve Strange of SMU at 20.0, Steve Smith of Rice at 19.0, Hammond and Al Almanza of Texas and Phil Reynolds of TCU, who sport 17-point marks.

From the free throw line, Broussard ranks No. 3 behind Almanza and Pat Sanley of Texas A&M. Almanza has hit 19 of 23 for an 82.6 per cent, Stanley 14 of 17 for 82.4 and Broussard 44 of 54 for 81.5.

Over the full season, seven other players have better completion percentages than Broussard's 46.6 per cent, but his 321-point total puts him in front of the pack with a 22.9-point average to 21.5 for Strange, 20.6 for Texas Tech's Del Ray Mounts, 18.1 for Tech's Harold Hudgens and Arkansas' Jerry Carlton.

Olle Shipley of Rice has the best percentage from the court over the full season with 50.4 per cent connections, while Carlton at an even 50.0 and Hammond at 47.8 trail.

Houston Ups Margin In Pee Wee Battling

Houston, after two weeks of play, has emerged as the team to beat in the Kiwanis-Optimist Pee Wee basketball league with a glossy 4-0 record, including Saturday's 50-16 victory over Baker as Jack Thompson poured in 30 points: a year high.

Austin and Travis, tied for second in the sixth grade loop, with 2-1 marks, also posted victories yesterday as Austin trimmed Wilson, 17-4, and Travis downed Mann, 11-7.

For Austin, Osborne had 8 points while Price and Rice shared the scoring.

'Shoulda Stood In Bed'

Weather-Worn Scribe
'Mushes' To Demo Party

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was a grand night for a "gala"—if you stayed home in bed. I don't mean it wasn't a great pre-inaugural show that Frank Sinatra & Co. put on for our new President here Thursday night. I just mean it was sort of inaccessible.

To get there, I drove six miles through snow-stalled traffic, walked four miles in a blizzard, fought 45 minutes for a taxi and missed my dinner. I made it on time, but the program was two hours late.

Judging from some of the comments I heard, many of the affluent Democrats who paid $100 to $1000 for tickets must have had similar experiences.

The "gala" officials made things as easy for us as they could. They made evening dress optional instead of mandatory. This was lucky for me because a tuxedo doesn't go very well with my surplus Army boots.

Most of the lady Democrats, however, wore their finery anyway. After all, when the car skids into a ditch, they don't have to get out and push.

The hall abounded with celebrities, both on the stage and in the audience. As brother of the new President and as the new attorney general, Robert F. Kennedy naturally received "VIP" treatment. The usher took him to the wrong seat.

The three-hour extravaganza was held in the vast D. C. Armory, which seats about 12,000 Democrats. Milton Berle, one of the comedians on the program, looked around and said "I've played in cities smaller than this."

Joey Bishop, another funny man, told Kennedy that "I haven't seen your quarters at the White House but I sure like your recreation room."

The new vice president, Lyndon B. Johnson, who is something of a gagster himself, said the fact that so many spectators came on such a dismal night showed that "neither rain, or sleet, nor snow can stop the Democrats when they're ready to go."

But I thought Bishop topped Johnson as a weather commentator. "Are those Republicans losers?" Bishop exclaimed.

To me, the finest line of the evening came from Bill Dana, who portrayed America's first astronaut. Asked how he expected to pass the time during the long journey through space, Dana said "I plan to cry a lot."

My feelings, however, were best summed up by Berle, who said "I wanted so long to get on it's time to vote for Stevenson again."

Allies Send Greetings To President

LONDON (UPI)—America's allies offered President John F. Kennedy best wishes Friday for success in "the biggest job in the world."

Among the first heads of state to congratulate Kennedy on his inauguration was Italian President Giovanni Gronchi, who called "cordial greetings" from Rabat. King Mohammed V of Morocco sent his best wishes for the new President's "success."

The tabloid Daily Mirror, Britain's largest circulation daily newspaper, said Kennedy was assuming "the biggest job in the world."

The Paris newspaper, Combat said that "under the Republican administration, the United States met defeat in the field of technology where it thought it was beyond competition."

Peg O' Pampa

HERE'S A THOUGHT to stir you to wakefulness!! Leap year is over for another four years, gals, and there's a new one in the White House this morning for another four years, liticos!! ... hadn't thought of the similarity of Leap Year events before ... that of it being tradition to secure a man for the White House or a man for a vine-covered cottage all the same leap year ... that is, we hadn't thought before use it as a column-opener for an event that we want to discuss at length in the next paragraph.

WE HAVE HEARD that some Pampan's received the beautifully impressive and beautifully engraved eight by ten inch invitations to attend the Presidential Inaugural Ball ... among them were Roy and Julia McKernan ... Lynn and Edwina Boyd ... Jack and Romona Smith ... Paul and Hazel Crossan ... and the Charles Wades ... we haven't heard whether any of them attended but we do know that a friend 'Ted Hicks', Dr. Evelyn Powers of Amarillo, had been making plans in that direction ... after all is said and done, and with no hint of sour grapes, we were just as content to view the proceedings from our comfortable, reclining chair in front of a television ... but on the other hand, it must have been a wonderful feeling to know that you could have gone if you had wanted to ... we watched the television coverage of the rush of ladies at the White House Fashion Tea given on Wednesday ... the tea that had so many guests ... there was no room left to serve refreshments ... and we learned later that the Fashion Tea, pretty and charming Susan Rogers, daughter of Walter and Jean Rogers (Pampans loan to Congressmen Washington for service to this area) had modeled an inaugural gown worn by a former First Lady at her husband's inaugural Ball ... First Ladies' have to give up these gowns later, don't they? ... to be put on display at the Smithsonian Institute for posterity? ... From who we have read, Jacqueline Kennedy's gown will make a beautiful addition ... she signed it herself and it was executed by Oleg Cassini, we had someplace ... everyone is talking and writing about the Jackie Look ... how she is going to affect the fashion world with her elegant casualness ... elegant casualness comes pretty high, so we hope the "Jackie Look" will be in our wardrobe-price bracket ... for we, as one of many, have every admiration for her tastes and shall try an imitation of it with a small, printed card, which we shall carry with us "any similarity between our appearance and Jackie's is purely fictional."

LET'S LEAVE THE Washington scene and come back to Pampa ... after all, there's no place like home, as the old saying goes and we have some beauties right in our own midst ... like for instance Judy Wells, daughter of W. W. and Helen Wells, who was among the ten finalists for the title Miss Mademoiselle for the coveted honor of occupying prominent spot on the cover and on the pages of "Mademoiselle" in the 1961 issue of LaVentana, Tech's yearbook ... judges' eyesights must have been poor for our Judy should have won! ... anyway, as a finalist she will still appear in the year book's section allocated to campus beauties ... one of the prizes given to all of the finalists was a weekend skiing trip to Hondo Ski Valley near Taso, N. M. ... she didn't go, however, for she had already planned to attend a retreat with her sorority sisters of Pi Beta Pi ... from beauty we switch to brown and mention the skiing trip that is now in progress at Alpine Lodge in Red River, N. M. ... some of our local ski enthusiasts, J. B. Veale, Bob Curry and Buzz McGuire headed down their station wagons with their own sons and a lot of friends and took off this weekend to do some skiing ... Moms, who were left behind, were not asked to stock up on limonings for most of the lads or qualified skiers ... among the local lads swishing down the slopes today are Don Perry, Tommy Veale, George Creech, John Fite and Frankie borne; just to name a few ... they took along with their special guest Jarl Molvar of Norway, American Field Service student, who is spending a year here as a student in Pampa High School ... imagine Jarl will feel quite at home on the slopes.

INTERTIME GOLFERS are keeping things humming out at the Pampa Country Club ... and so are the masonry-men and carpenters, who are taking advantage of the club being closed during January, to enlarge the swimming pool and floor ... when the club reopens in February, Country Club members are getting ready to welcome a new club member Jack Thorpe and his family, who are coming here from mid, Okla., where he managed the Oak Country Club ... very lively ... it seems to us, Ted and Kathryn Herriman, former club managers, got away to Edmonds, Washington, before we could tell them good-bye ... they will be missed, we are sure ... Kathryn was so clever and modest about her spur-of-the-moment birthday poems, which she composed and presented along with a tiny cake to members on their birthdays when she knew of them ... also with the re-opening of the club there should be a new slate of officers taking over ... unless it is decided to keep the same ones who did so well on an excellent job during this past year ... like, for instance, Tom and Harlene Rose, Jack and Joan Osborne, Harles and Audrey Robison.

IMPSES OF PEOPLE ... Elaine Ledbetter is the author of a book of poetry, "Triumph of Moment" which will be available to the public the early part of February ... we can hardly wait to buy a copy of it ... as you know, Elaine is a science instructor in Pampa High School and has gained, during her career, quite a few honors in this field ... that science and poetry talents can be all in one attractive, blonde adolescent seems phenomenal to us ... saw Aleith Curry one day recently step from her shiny, black Cadillac wearing a smart black and white checked coat with the collar upturned to her sportily-coiffed dark hair and carry what looked to be a dish of delectable tid-bits into the home of a friend on Somerville ... we also glimpsed Don Lane, busy young toymore about as busy as usual this day as he came out of the City Hall after attending a meeting for the Mothers' March which will be staged here by members of the PTA units on January 30 ... we hear that the Joe and Myrt Pafford have bought the former home of Frank and Mildred Smith on ... we've always loved that house ... and we heard in the bird ... a very early, early bird ... that Evelyn ace, Gladys Harkins, and Marion Osborne arose before a crack of dawn Thursday morning to attend the Congressional Breakfast sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce's legislative committee, held in Starlight Room of Coronado Inn for purpose of hearing an enlightening discussion of a proposed changes in the city charter, which will be coming up for approval or disapproval in an election on January 31 ... Amarillo Little Theater has its third production the season well underway for presentation on Feb. 1-4 ... personable, cast is rehearsing now for "The Bad Man" which again is a distinct departure from the first two productions, a musical and courtroom drama ... certainly is a pretty face on the front edifice of the First Baptist Church ... in a bright 'n modern ... quite a large crowd turned Thursday morning for the first PTA study course session in Travis School ... approximately 100 people ... there seems to be a lot of interest in these courses, which the A City Council is sponsoring ... there are five more of them scheduled on each consecutive Thursday morning from 8 a.m. until 11 a.m. ... the one this coming Thursday is at Horace Mann with Baker School as assisting school ... end-of-semester report cards are due this week and on a happy, happy note, we'll say 'bye' for now ... Love, Peg

Writing Techniques Are Outlined For Authors

By DORIS E. WILSON

"Granted that a person has writing talent, the two most important factors for successful writing are sincerity and determination. They must be combined in the same person for the lack of either forms a stumbling block towards successful writing." Wilfred McCormick of Albuquerque, N.M., professional writer, told Panhandle Pen Women at a quarterly meeting held Tuesday in the Amarillo Country Club. "I have had students, who were good writers, but either they lacked sincerity in themselves or with their readers; or they lacked the determination to withstand setbacks and criticism of their work." Mr. McCormick, author of more than 500 short stories and 33 published works (five of which were published last year, one a reprint), shared with Pen Women, during a talk after lunch, what might be called the "McCormick Method" of writing a "slick paper story." He has instructed for 12 years in the Adult Education Department of the University of New Mexico and currently is counseling a 2-hour weekly session for writers; some of whom are professional people and some of whom are novices. More than 125 of his students have sold literary material to a variety of magazines. In addition to his illustrative of his prolificacy, he has both motion picture and television contracts on published works and is much in demand as a dinner speaker, on television and at Staff-Writers' Conferences at universities around the country. "The slick-writing field is almost wide open," Mr. McCormick stated, "because most of the professional writers have left this field. The cost of living has gone up; but the rates for writing for the "slicks" remain about the same, so the field is not quite as crowded as it used to be."

In discussing basic fundamentals for a good, first-class slick story, he advised "you need at least five different, established view - points before beginning to write a story, and never violate a character's view-point unless you know what you are doing." He revealed methods of achieving suspense to make a reader want to stay with the story. "A speaker has a lot of visual aids at his disposal to keep his audience interested in listening to him. He can wave his arms, move around; but a writer has to have a different set of tricks to keep his audience." He listed appearance of characters, dialogue, motivation, and action as time tested tricks for keeping readers interested. "A three-scene story is best for a 3500 to 4500 story. And you must set the scenes, if you don't, the reader will do it for you. Appeal to the readers by putting him in the story too. This is a good trick for keeping him with you." "Too, you must put yourself right next to your character. It is necessary for you to feel very close to him and know him very well."

"Don't write too fast," the speaker cautioned. "You are not going to sell those 'inspired' stories because they are written too fast. Stay away from the type-writer, until you are sure of yourself and your story has grown with you. If it is any good, it will be right there when you are really ready to write it."

Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Andis, 1710 Mary Ellen, announces the recent marriage of their daughter, Bobbie Lee, to Jerry C. Bond, son of Mrs. C. B. Bond of Hoover. ## Beef Rolls

Here's one more use for leftover roast beef. Cut it into thin slices and top each with a mound of mashed potatoes, seasoned with onion, Roll up and fasten with wooden picks. Brush rolls with meat drippings, butter or margarine and bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes.

Norwegian Student Tells Of Field Service Plan

Jarl Molvar, American Field Service scholarship student, whose home is on the island of Sula on the west coast of Norway, was guest speaker at Twentieth Century Allegro Club's meeting Tuesday in the home of Mrs. John Cundith. Jarl, who is 17 years old, is spending his senior year in Pampa High School, following a selection of students by the American Field Service from his school in Norway. His father is a fisherman; his mother, a housewife. He has a sister, Marie, 22, who is married and also a housewife and a brother, Erling, 18, who is a sailor.

Jarl told the group that the AFS program in Norway has 119 Norwegian students studying in the United States this year in exchange for 99 American students studying in Norway. "I was selected to attend school in America following information obtained from the school principal; interviews with the local AFS committee and with the AFS committee in the state capitol. I was also recommended for the scholarship by three written letters to the capitol. Ten applied from my school and two were accepted." In addition to the personal interviews and recommendations, grades, hobbies, and activities are also taken into consideration before acceptance. The guest speaker told the Allegro members that he wanted this year to study in the United States because he felt it would help him decide what field he would continue in his further education. Jarl described the differences in the Norwegian and American school systems by saying "Only seven years of education, which are called elementary years, are required in Norway. Further education can be acquired in high school, a trade school or the 'gymnasium.' But high school can be attended only by taking entrance examinations. You attend classes six days a week for 10 months from 9 a.m. until 2:25 p.m." "High schools have no choice of subjects," he continued, "and no activities. The classes are lecture type. There are only seven colleges in Norway and only two universities."

PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS CARDS—Early last December, the Machinery Division employees of Cabot Corporation made a pact among themselves to pool the money they would have spent for greeting cards for fellow-workers and put this money into a fund labeled "for the Exceptional Children." The plan had worked before for them. So successfully, in fact, that last year they were able to buy an RCA tape recorder for these students. Their goal this year was enough to purchase materials to make stand-up boxes that would enable a child that normally could not leave his wheelchair to stand unattended and take part in many more activities in his class. This idea caught on enthusiastically and pictured above are two of the four boxes that are in use in the Exceptional Children's classroom at Travis School. Their practicality is being illustrated by Jimmy Spence, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Spence and Gene Barker, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barker. Not only were the machine shop employees financially able to buy the material for the boxes and make them themselves, there was enough money left over to buy two Orthopedic Walkers to present to the classrooms. ### St. Margaret's Guild Sets February 14 Date For Annual Mardi Gras Supper

The annual Mardi Gras Pancake Supper to be sponsored by St. Margaret's Guild of St. Matthews Episcopal Church was set for February 14 at a meeting held by the Guild on Thursday in the home of Mrs. James Morris.

Both the junior and senior Episcopal Young Churchmen will again help the members of St. Margaret's make the supper a success as they have in years past, according to Mrs. Carl Thomas, Guild president.

The history of the traditional pancake supper, which is held locally each year, goes back many centuries, when it was designated as a time to use up all the leaven in the house before the meatless Lenten Season began. The custom of meeting in the church for a pancake supper grew with everyone attending services afterward.

Later the Mardi Gras developed around a simple congregational gathering. Today many religious groups observe shrove Tuesday the following day.

The proceeds from St. Margaret's Pancake Supper will go to St. Francis Boys' Home in Salina, Kan., and for the Junior and Senior EYC.

Preceding a discussion of the Mardi Gras supper, a devotional was given by Mrs. Carl Thomas and a program on the Epiphany season by Mrs. Don George.

Attending were Meses. Carl Thomas, James Hart, James Dailey, Sallie B. Holcomb, William J. Ragdale, William E. West, Gerald Shutt, Albert S. Knox, Jack Cooper, Horace Watkins, Don George and Miss Ruth Huff.

Mmes. Morris and Knox were hostesses for the social hour.

Pampa Rose Group Sets Year's Goal

Pampa Rose Society met Tuesday evening in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stubbe, 2118 Christine, with Dr. and Mrs. Weldon Adair as co-hosts.

A program of colored slides was given by guests, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Gee, who showed slides of the Keukenhof Gardens of Holland and the Versailles Palace in France.

During the business meeting, conducted by the president, Martin Stubbe, the goal for the Rose Society this year was set to continue to improve the Rose Garden in the park just north of Stephen F. Austin School and to have a Rose and Flower Show sometime this year.

It was approved to meet on the third Tuesday of each month.

Secretary's report was given by William Bennink.

Members presented Mr. and Mrs. Stubbe with a rose gift certificate in appreciation of their past service and as a memento for their new home.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Johnson with Milo Carlson as program leader.

Attending were Messrs. and Meses. William A. Bennink; H. H. Boynton; Stanley Brandt; Milo Carlson; A. B. Carruth; Cecil Collum; Ray Darsey; Glenn Radcliff; Ira Carlton; Mmes. D. A. Caldwell and A. B. Whitten.

Serve meat patties in this casserole combination. In a baking dish first arrange a layer of sliced raw potatoes then a layer of canned or frozen whole kernel corn. Top with meat patties which have been lightly browned. Add a can of diluted condensed tomato soup and bake in a 300 degrees F. oven for 1 hour.

Serving Stew
Vary your ways of serving stew. Serve it over hot fluffy rice, split squares of corn bread or hot biscuits. Or give it a meat pie topping of pastry, biscuit dough or mashed potatoes.

Liver is all meat and no bone. It has little fat, so needs additional fat during cooking. Too high temperature or too long cooking tends to make the liver less tender and also tends to destroy the flavor.

Hoe Down

These past few days of Spring-like weather reminds us that it is now time to start planning our gardens. This can be done as we sit beside the fire with a cup of coffee and read catalogues and gardening magazines all around us. Don't forget to order those plants that you said last year you wanted to try in your own garden this year.

You plan to add more trees and shrubs to your home-grounds; it is the time to sit down and sketch a plan on paper. A home landscape should have design just as surely as any other work of art. Grounds should be developed in a style in harmony with the character of your home. Naturally, the landscape of a house in the traditional tradition would be more formal than the landscape of a ranch-type house.

Trees, shrubs and flowers should be planted in a haphazard fashion but with regard for the unity of the composition as a whole. The small property deserves as much consideration or more than the larger property in planning. There are many rules to follow which may suggest that as you go around Pampa or other cities, the homes that are pleasing to you. It is possible that they are good landscape design. Then serve closely the kinds of shrubs used and how they are arranged.

A few simple rules to follow might be: Use trees or shrubs at corners of the house to tie the vertical line down to the horizontal lines of the ground. Use shrubs below windows. Plant greens, both needle-type and broad-leaf, for your foundation plantings so that you won't have skeleton effect during the winter months. Combine shrubs of different colors for a striking effect. Some of the Nandina bushes in beautiful shades of red now available means combine different shades of green in your evergreen chases.

The Japanese Quince will soon be blooming. It has beautiful red-orange blossoms long before its leaves appear. Now is the time to force the blooms on some of the spring-flowering shrubs and use inside your home. We mention more about that in our article. I'll never forget early Spring the enormous argument of blooming forsythias in the Bob Vail home, where there were no signs of spring of doors.

Waldon Moore, president of Pampa Garden Club, has just received information from Jackson Perkins Rose Growers that of the test roses in the local garden has been selected as

Parent Education Names Officers

Mrs. W. J. Derington was elected president of Parent Education at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Bob Michael. Also elected were Mmes. Jack Orme, vice president; Bill Gething, secretary; E. R. Sidwell, treasurer; W. L. Arrington, parliamentarian; Elmer Wilson, reporter; Doris Venderell was welcomed and introduced as the afternoon's guest speaker. She chose review excerpts from "Youth, Years From Ten To Sixteen" written by Arnold Gesell, M.D., M.P.S., Ph.D. of the Gesell Institute of Child Development.

This book is based upon first studies of a selected group of normal adolescents. It traces the development of behavior in the home, school and community. By trends of successive stages of growth, the psychology of the adolescent becomes more understandable and many of its problems less formidable and more interesting," Vendrell said.

"Child Behavior" by Frances L. Ames and Louise B. Ames was recommended by Dr. Vendrell as a classic guide to child behavior in its vital formative years from ten to sixteen. Members attending were Mmes. L. Arrington, D. T. Beaman, Carmichael, A. J. Carubbi, J. Derington, H. C. Federer, J. Garren, Bill Gething, T. D. Gething, Julian Key, Charles Lock, Rex McAnelly, Jack Osborne, R. Sidwell, C. E. Steel, R. K. Snason, Tom Snow and Elmer Snason.

"Music And Stories Of Old South" For Mozart Music Meet Theme

The Mozart Music Club held its January meeting at the home of the recording secretary, Linda Garrett, 1722 Chestnut.

Opening with the singing of "Texas, Our Texas" accompanied by the president, Miss Susan Patrick the group then repeated the Club Pledge and Prayer led by Charles Jackson. The attendance award was won by Miss Paula Daugherty.

"Music and Stories of the Old South" was the program theme, with piano solos — "Mighty Lak a Rose" by Nevin played by Miss Shirley Williams and "Interlude" by David C. Glover, Jr. played by Miss Garrett.

Following the musical numbers, a story, "Cathie Quinine" was given by Tracy D. Cary, the club counselor, telling of the dolls stuffed with medicine which the sympathetic ladies of Philadelphia sent during the Civil War. "Often the family jewelry and money were also stuffed into the dolls to keep them from being stolen during travel," he related.

The program closed with the playing of "Dixie", "The Yellow Rose of Texas", and "The Bonnie Blue Flag".

Refreshments were served from a table covered in pink linen centered with a triple urn of pink and white flowers.

May we make one suggestion? Since we have not had any moisture in Pampa recently, be sure to water your trees, shrubs, etc. before they become too dry.

Robert R. Bucker, gardening columnist in this area, suggests that a good New Year's resolution would be to resolve to work or relax a part of everyday in the garden, even if for only a few minutes. "The hours in the garden will prove to be the most valuable of the day." — Thelma Bray, Pampa Garden Club.

If the person sitting beside you on train, plane, or bus seems disinclined to talk, respect his desire for privacy.

Beauty Of The Orient Illustrated At Sorority

"Culture of the East" was the program topic for the recent meeting of Beta Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority presented by Mrs. Fay Dellis Adams, chairman, assisted by Meses. G. M. Wells, G. L. Pounds, and T. R. Bones of Groom.

In introducing the program, Mrs. Adams asked "Why should we learn about the ways and values of a foreign culture?" and answered the question by saying "By doing so, it helps us exercise new muscle awareness and it opens our eyes to things we have missed. Our American ways are predominately emphatic, exuberant, positive and forceful. The cultural ways of the East are restrained, non-emphatic, suggestive, tranquil and understated."

"The aesthetics of the East have produced depths of beauty of which we can be jealous. Their understanding of great and lasting beauty in art objects, in rooms, in color surmounts that of any other culture. Like all other charms of the East, the dance tells a story, using rich, colorful costumes and a series of graceful and intricate steps and movements of arms and hands."

Illustrative of points in Mrs. Adams' talk, Miss Ann Evans and Miss Linda Holt, Beaux Arts Studio dancers, presented an oriental dance.

Mrs. Pounds discussed the subject of foods and cookery of the Orient. "This interesting subject comes more interesting when we notice that Japanese and Chinese people look considerably younger than they are and they have fewer cases of obesity, high blood pressure or heart disease. The cornerstone of Japanese cooking is a basic soup stock made of dried fish and kelp cooked quickly and strained to be completely clear. Another basic requirement is the dipping sauces; all of which revolve around soy sauce. Each person is provided with individual servings of dipping sauces so they can adjust the seasoning to their own taste.

"One of the secrets of this delightful food is that only the most tender and youngest food-stuff is used. All food is cut up into bite size and cooked quickly in the basic soup stock. Their vegetables, whether it is beef, sea food or vegetable, is better than our best." Mrs. Pounds challenged members to blend oriental foods with the American diet for an ideal way to lower intake of calories.

Mrs. Walls introduced members and the work of translation has just to a new word, "Shibui," which means quiet, mellowed, understated richness, intrinsic good quality. "The term is not altogether foreign to America for it is synonymous with the satisfying richness that people associate with old, paneled rooms, fine old oriental carpets, real and fine antique furniture.

"In the East," Mrs. Walls said, "they have the knack of assembling things in such a way that the whole is better than the parts. They use ratio of dark colors to light, pattern to plain, shininess to dullness."

Literature of the East was discussed by Mrs. Bones, who stated "The aged books of the Orient are not yet open to us for the simple reason that we cannot read them. The glimpses we do have are delightful and modern studies have shown that the early literature of these peoples had considerable influences on our own early writings. One of the great Chinese lyric poets is Li Po, who lived in the eighth century. He seems to have been a delightful combination of Francois Villon, Omar Khayyam and Heine. The Indian poet Tagore has many western readers. He is mystical and he saw God in all the beauties of nature."

"The verse of Japan is unusual and there is no market for it in Mrs. Bones continued. "For writing in Japan amounts almost to a national pastime. It is uncommon to see a young girl attach a poem to a blooming cherry tree so that those who come to enjoy the flowers may also read her poem."

"The haiku is the most popular of their poetic forms; haiku is short and the writer expresses a moment of truth, setting down his observation as an especially vivid incident of daily life. An example by Buson: 'The persimmon left one can tell till he tastes it.' M. Hage is even so."

Miss Sybil Turner, president presided at the business meeting. During the social hour, refreshments were served from an attractively appointed tea table by Miss Kenneth Walters. Hostesses in charge of arrangements were Meses. Roy Sullivan, J. B. Whelan, Lillian Carr and Miss Daisy Corder of Canadian.

A silver offering for the scholarship was taken as members registered.

The meeting closed with initiation of two new active members. Mrs. Howard Graham of Pampa and Mrs. Lena Laman of Shamrock. Mrs. MacHenry Lane was charge of the ceremony assisted by the Beta Delta Chorus accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Gunn. Sixty six members attended.

Miss Patterson listed several reasons why it is good to have credit: "It is good for emergency; convenience; savings; consolidate debts; reduce family expenditures; get better service on equipment; and to establish a good credit rating.

She gave several guides to help a family decide if it should establish credit: 1) is it more sensible to save and pay cash? 2) will it advance a long-time goal for family? 3) is it a planned purchase? 4) will it give lasting satisfaction? 5) consider adjustment family will have to make in living expense in order to make credit payments.

Finally she advised, "Make sure credit is a tool and not a trap."

PLASTIC dinnerware is so durable that it's even safe in the slippery hands of children. But it needn't look utilitarian. The latest designs are as beautiful as fine china.

HOME TIP A semiannual dusting before applying new wax or polish, will help to keep furniture in good condition.

TOGETHERNESS For dressy winter evenings: the short turtleneck dress with co-ordinated brief jacket of damask. Dress has a belt of the damask.

Valentine's Day will be with us soon, and at RICHARD DRUG there are beautiful boxes of candy for your selection. Pangburns and Russell Stover offer delicious chocolates of all kinds in heart-shaped boxes, with lavish trimmings. Some of the candy boxes are trimmed with little stuffed toys of dolls that would gladden the heart as well as the taste of little or big girls. Of course, the wonderful chocolates inside the boxes are what is most important, and you cannot buy finer candies than Russell Stover or Pangburn's. I fell in love with the darling little stuffed toys Richard Drug has, too, for Valentine's Day. One is an adorable red and white dog with a heart-shaped felt sign around his neck saying "I Am Bug-Eyed Over You," and he has a bumble-bee on one ear! Another is a monkey with his appropriate sign. Candies in Valentine Boxes range from sixty cents "up," and you can find just the one you need at RICHARD DRUG, 111 N. Cuyler.

I walked into the PAMPA HARDWARE last week and there on one of the tables was an absolutely beautiful display of Italian stainless steel in a contemporary pattern, "Capri." This tableware is as handsome as any I have ever seen, and the accessory pieces are most elegant and clean-lined. There is everything from a superbly designed carving set to little pickle-and-spreading forks-knives. Do go in and look at it. A service for four, including salad fork, soup and teaspoons, dinner knife and fork, is just $19.95. Next to this lovely table ware is some Italian import pottery in salad bowls, salad plates, and other accessory pieces, all in a leaf design. You must see these pieces, for they will bring a new and different look to your table. And under a bower of beautiful plastic flowers of all kinds, there are hand-painted Lefton China birds, finely detailed. Do stop by this fascinating store and by the way, don't forget that there is a wide selection of inexpensive gifts for bridge prizes, and other uses, at PAMPA HARDWARE, 120 N. Cuyler.

Hearts and flowers are "in" now at PAMPA OFFICE SUPPLY, too. I found that their valentines are all on display—and such beauties, and so many! This year Hallmark has a new line called "Heirloom" valentines, nostalgic designs with a sweetness and daintiness right out of the 1800's. There are also some cute huge-sized ones to send. You will find fun in browsing amongst them. There is a kit of Dennis the Menace valentines that are really charming, and there are valentines appropriate for boys and girls to send; some to make themselves. Of course, there are Hallmark party decorations from tallies and napkins to a real centerpiece—a coach in gold, red, and white, all for Valentine's Day. The coach is 9 1/2 inches tall, and so easy to assemble, as are all Hallmark party decorations. There are coordinated accessories of course, so that party-giving is a delight when you use Hallmark designs from PAMPA OFFICE SUPPLY, 211 N. Cuyler.

When I dropped by at CLAYTON flower shop last week, Mr. Kay showed me the cutest article he had read in one of the "trade" magazines he gets. It concerned a man who had his eyes opened to the "power of a flower." I thought you would be interested in the story. The man was in the hospital. He says, "There you are, lying in bed staring at the walls wondering if the doc took out the wrong thing. Then flowers are brought in. You think to yourself, guys don't get flowers. But after the first embarrassment wears off, you are amazed at the difference. Flowers make in your room, morale, and everything. You stop concentrating on your sore stomach, and you feel cheered and warmed." I thought this was wonderful. For there is nothing "sissified" about flowers for a man who is ill, especially when they are by a florist who exercises imagination in preparing the arrangement. This they certainly can do at Clayton's. Don't hesitate to call up and order flowers next time one of the men you know is ill and/or in the hospital! But be sure you call CLAYTON FLORAL COMPANY, 410 E. Foster, MO 4-3334.

This coming week will see the end of the winter sale that is on, and has been on for the past two weeks at HILAND CHILDREN'S SHOP. A re-groing and re-pricing of the stock has been made so that you can find even better bargains. There are especially good buys now, and you should take advantage of it, for there are still some cold, cold days ahead of us before we get into Spring, as far as weather goes. There will be a rack of dresses, Helen Wells told me, from which you may buy one dress, and then select another one from the rack FREE. The reason for this gigantic sale is, of course, that Spring merchandise is coming in daily, and wintery clothing must be cleared away in all departments, in all sizes. For instance: those beautiful velvet slim pants with dacron blouse that I told you about some weeks ago are now reduced tremendously. Some of the Spring things are out on the tables now—cute and new are embroidered denim sets of shorts and tops and cute mother-daughter sundress fashions in red and white. Do drop by and don't miss the sale prices on winter clothing for your boy or girl, at HILAND CHILDREN'S SHOP, 1619 N. Hobart.

Here's news for knitters: the HOBBY SHOP is now carrying a complete line of knitting needles, straight and circular, in all sizes! Other items of interest that I noticed this week were bulletin-boards and a new shipment of HO gauge train equipment. There are new car kits, and an assortment of the neatest station accessories ever. Made in England, these accessories are everything from tiny trolley and trailer and driver sets to platform benches (not 3/4 of an inch long) and dust bins with teeny lids. There are also boxes of road signs and the like. A new shipment of plastic molds for the enthusiast has arrived. And when our cold weather finally hits (it has to sometime doesn't it?) be prepared to keep the children happily though confined in the house with a game or art kit from the Hobby Shop. Pat has some yarn picture kits complete with plastic frame, to make "clip-yarn" pictures, all sorts of motifs and hundreds of games! It's absorbing and interest absorbing that is name for the things available at the HOBBY SHOP now 102 S. Cuyler.

Have you figured out how much time you've spent in a beauty salon during the course of a year? The way I figure it must be around a hundred hours, if it takes you about two hours to get the job done each week. And if you spend that hundred hours or so at the BOB-ET Beauty Salon it can be relaxing and fun (as well as beneficial to your beauty). You feel at home, the friendly atmosphere, and your attractiveness is the concern of the skilled operators who are staff. One of the patrons the other day said that one thing she appreciated was the fact that Jack and Edna and all the others most accommodating in meeting the needs of their patrons when emergencies arise and it becomes necessary to change an appointment. It is these little things that make the BOB-ET a wonderful place to have your hair cared for. Why not phone for an appointment this week? Telephone MO 5-35.

A HAPPY BIRTHDAY was celebrated last Friday, the CORONADO Inn dedicated on January 18th, 1960 and the first year of business was January 20th, 1961. So this birthday marked the first year of very successful operation. The Inn, over the past year, served a real community need, a meeting place, a gathering place for groups, and community. Before the Inn was open, there was no place to have conventional meetings, conventions, banquets, etc. There have been 130 meals served at the Inn so far. Isn't that a record? I think the friendly staff should be given credit for their splendid part in making the Inn the Community gathering place it is. Various organizations have cooperated in community projects. You know the display of works of art done by local people which are displayed in the lobby, and the garden clubs have helped in obtaining flowers, and so on. Truly, Pampa's pride is the CORONADO Inn.

Dear Abby... Some Husbands Have No Imagination!!

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am married to the most selfish man in the world. All the 15 years we've been married he has never bought me anything just for myself — like perfume, a compact or a nightgown. Always been something we can use, or something we need. For my anniversary he bought me a very expensive television set. Don't tell me he is being conservative. You should be in our garage! It's piled to the ceiling with hunting and fishing equipment. Don't you think a husband who really loves his wife should buy her something personal in a while?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Not necessarily. Some husbands have absolutely no imagination when it comes to giving gifts for their wives. Don't tell him what's on your mind, and offer to go shopping for him.

Ruth Millett Tell Hubby The 'Why' Of What You Buy!

In today's mail is a letter from a reader who feels guilty because she has been less than frank with her husband in money matters. For years, she says, she has had secret charge accounts which have nearly driven her crazy. She has to stretch her household allowance to pay a little on this account and a little on that one.

This has come about, she says, because she dreaded the long discussions that always followed when she asked her husband for money for this or that special purchase.

Her feelings of guilt are understandable — but she certainly shouldn't feel alone in her deception. There may not be a lot of women who have charge accounts their husbands don't know exist.

But an awful lot of wives do mighty fancy juggling of household money, rather than tell their husbands exactly what they spent for a hat, a new sofa, or a party dress.

It isn't that they are married to skinflints, either. Most of them aren't. Then why do they feel they have to do all that financial finagling? One reason is probably that they think a man wouldn't understand the necessity for some of the things they buy. What looks "perfectly all right" to a man often looks out-of-date or absolutely hopeless to a woman. Another woman would understand perfectly — but would a man?

The other reason is that the clothes, furniture, and knick-knacks a woman's heart yearns for are often so expensive that her common sense tells her they are more than she can afford.

She expects her husband to be bowled over by the price, because she herself thinks it is unreasonable. But still she wants what she wants and so she begins to figure how she might manage to "finance" it, without coming right out and asking for the money.

Perhaps, the best way for wives to avoid the temptation to be less than frank about money matters

The Sum Of The Parts

Many people are obviously afraid in a sea in which their reference points are floating with them. This is pretty tricky. If you are trying to adhere to a philosophy which states as an absolute that there are NO fixed points of reference, then the only fixation you can have is the conviction that you cannot do anything but float.

If the lighthouse and the ship are both unmoored, how can one help to guide the other?

Doubtless the reason for this fluid state of mind relates to some of the ideas promoted with such devotion in our schools. In an age in which much of the dogma of the past has come to grief, there is a temptation to disregard all rules and to assume that no rules can ever be made. This, on its face, is folly.

Yet it is a folly to which thousands, if not millions, are clinging with a devotion worthy of a better philosophy.

Deep at the root of this "fluid" view of life is the conviction in many minds that the sum of the parts in some mystic way is greater (or less) than the whole.

It is our contention that there is a fixed law of nature, as fixed and inexorable as a law of arithmetic, that the sum of the parts will ALWAYS equal the whole, neither more nor less.

But our opponents argue as follows:

Take a number of chemical ingredients and add them one by one, in a test tube. One of these ingredients has the property of combining with a prior ingredient in a fashion which actually reduces the atomic weight of the two substances. Thus, the sum of the chemicals by weight would be smaller if one of the ingredients were added; larger, if the ingredient were omitted.

Or this argument: A workman takes certain kinds of wood, glue, metal bits, cat gut and wire. He puts them together in such a way as to manufacture a violin. With other wood, metal and horse-hair he contrives a bow. With these items he can produce a melody. The melody does not exist in any of the parts.

Or, finally, this one: There are between 12,000 and 15,000 pieces which are used to manufacture the

Siren Call Of Government

One must concede that there is something to the luxury appeal of governments. Businessmen, industrialists, merchants, all must limit their actions to that which is economically feasible. And this is trying. Always they face a budget which is arbitrary and ironclad.

No one having dealings in the market place can proceed with safety beyond the point of customer acceptance. The individual who courts a further boundary is due for bankruptcy and total loss.

The successful entrepreneur moves always with economic feasibility hanging over his head like the sword of Damocles. He DARE not disregard it.

Government is different. All it has to fear is public disfavor. But public disfavor can be offset by well-paid propagandists. Facts, especially economic facts, need not deter the ambitious politician.

He has only to paint a glorious picture to his constituents, and they will go along with him since he can make it appear that they are getting something for nothing. For the politician this is an endless pursuit. The businessman would find a road that ends at the poor house.

The businessman has to put a price on his product. And the customer is painfully aware that, if he agrees with the businessman, the cost is inescapable and he must bear it.

Hence, customers of business are always bargaining in their own minds. They do NOT spend either time or money until they have assured themselves that such expenditures are to their advantage. The businessman does not take advantage of them? He cannot, however he is motivated. He MUST secure

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — When Robert Webber, a dark, intelligent and uncommonly able young actor, opened "Period of Adjustment" it seemed to me both accurate and right to describe his satisfying performance as involved in wild and woolly discussions which, although vastly funny, had areas of bitter truth in them. Conversation with him away from the theater can be funny, too, but it is more likely to contain bitter truths. He is forthright, open spoken, not easily cowed, a young man to whom truth is a banner and who is of the concerted opinion that what the world gravely and sorely needs is a period of adjustment all its own. Right back to those healthy and useful times when a man could speak his open mind without having others dodge him as though the first faint signs of leprosy were evident on him.

Webber is, of course, utterly right. We have come onto, after a sorry decade of practice for it, a time when the man who speaks his mind is a man looked upon with awe. Some of the more cowardly of the abject conformists cloak their anxiety by hanging labels on him. Some seeking the gib and blithe inditement, call such a man a troublemaker. This is the bleak era of full, fat membership in the Me Too Club, a less-than-attractive-junta situation, refreshing to find a man who shares with one a vast irritation with the fatuous and conformist.

I am about to pin a small label on Webber myself. He has no small talk. If he has, we didn't exchange any. I certainly do not mean that he is a dour man, a self-conscious unhappy and unsmiling dweller in our dubious times. As one who enters the no-wallet filled with small talk himself, I have no indictment to make of Webber.

He finds it odd that two or three singularly bright and demolishing intellects, celebrated for making hash of the pretensions of our time, are known as Sick Comedians. He finds in the pronouncements of such as Bertram, Salt and their like a salutary candor and detects in the mass wish to call them sick a mass inability to face his own sickness and pusillanimity.

Let us think not that Webber scowls and frowns at all that lies in his times. He has his heroes and his heroines. I've just mentioned two by name. He has enormous regard for anyone who has something real and valid to say and the courage to say it. He respects with what amount to awe a writer who isn't weaseled by the mores of today and says his say out in the open, with a fine Anglo-Saxon suggestion for those who don't like what he has to say. Although he makes his buck in the theater he is ineradicably convinced that the theater as we know it (better: have known it) is vanishing swiftly. I don't know about you, I have come away from a young man like this with a new and frankly impressed opinion. Perhaps because so seldom is candor a crusade these days, I could no more consider such a person a troublemaker than I could consider a man on crutches an annoyance. The analogy is a little twisted, but the point remains.

Webber was a Marine Raider at 18 in World War II. He says with no heat or a trace of pathos that he joined this difficult, perilous outfit to die. He didn't find his first 18 years of life exactly a county fair with lights and flags. He didn't die. He did, however, two bewildered officers discussing the need to get up a show to entertain Marines bound for possible massacre in the Pacific and with only 18 days to do it in. He combed his way into their confidence as a practiced M.C., which he wasn't, met a man on board ship who had been in burlesque for 10 years and together they whipped up a show. Later in a California junior college, he learned how to act, hitched his way to New York with a grouch bag of $500 shared with another youth dazzled by the theater, and here in the hard and lasting way he learned how to act when to act and how to find a job. The theatrical history books can fill in the rest.

And perhaps, this is the reason why, to some businessmen, the government looks like a greener pasture for them than the market place. It's a wearing experience, always trying to live within one's means. So, if a businessman can get the government to intercede in his behalf, some of the vigilant effort he must otherwise put forth can be abandoned.

The bureaucrat can argue and obtain a larger appropriation, based not on customer demand or acceptance but purely upon prior bureaucratic efforts to add to his own staff of office workers. Thus, the larger the bureau becomes, the more the bureaucrat can justify in expense money. And the more he can justify in expense money, the larger his bureau can become. There is no end to this sort of thing. And thus the government grows on space.

So it is that some businessmen grow weary of the strife and turmoil of the market place, long for the tranquility of a governmental structure. In the peace and stagnation of a government office, one can always hire an extra worker, obtain extra furniture, get a new gasoline af-

Allen - Scott Reports: President Takes On New Duty - Monthly Chore At Nursery School

ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy is undertaking one responsibility that is wholly new to his office.

Through the First Lady, he is committed to attend the monthly parents' meetings of the co-op nursery school in which his three-year-old daughter Caroline is being enrolled.

Mrs. Lawrence Speiser, an official of the school, got that commitment from the First Lady in an unusual telephone talk. The two women had never met, and Mrs. Speiser, wife of a Washington attorney, had no inkling the new White House family was aware of her nursery school.

As she relates it, the intriguing chat went as follows: "I have a three-year-old daughter, and I would like to enroll her in your nursery school."

"That will be fine," said Mrs. Speiser. "We'll be very glad to have your little girl. But you understand this is a co-op school, and you will have to help out once a week and your husband will have to attend our monthly meetings. We are very insistent on both these requirements."

"Yes, we have been told that, and my husband and I will gladly do our part."

"Excellent," replied Mrs. Speiser. "What is your little girl's name?"

"Caroline."

"And your name?"

"Kennedy."

"You mean Mrs. John F. Kennedy?" exclaimed Mrs. Speiser breathlessly.

"Yes."

After recovering somewhat, Mrs. Speiser ascertained that Caroline and her new brother John Jr., will join their parents in the White House early in February. Mrs. Kennedy explained the children are remaining in Palm Beach, Fla., to keep them out of the inaugural hubbub, and to prepare a nursery for the baby.

The presidential couple are taking a number of cherished household belongings to the White House. They include oil portraits of them, and heirloom china and furniture. Also the large desk the President used in his Senate office. It was his father's when he was Ambassador to Britain. The President is installing it in a small office in the upstairs living quarters of the White House. Accompanying the desk is the plain old-fashioned rocker he had in his Senate office.

Another item being brought to the White House is a horseshoe by a well-wisher before the Los Angeles convention. Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, the President's personal secretary, hung it over the door of his private Senate office and she has taken it to the White House for continued good luck. She plans to hang it over the door of her office that leads into the President's.

TWO OF A KIND — Yale Professor James Tobin finally agreed to become a member of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisors only after he sprang a unique clinching argument.

In their talk, Tobin listed a number of reasons why he was reluctant to go to Washington: chief among them that he and his wife much preferred the academic calm and usefulness of New Haven to the "bureaucratic razzle-dazzle" of Washington.

Kennedy was sympathetic, but he pointed out every citizen owes it to his country to serve as best he

PAUL SCOTT

"You are absolutely right, Mr. President," replied Tobin. "But I seriously doubt I can best serve my country as a member of your staff in Washington. You see, I am what might be termed an ivory tower economist."

"Oh, that's perfectly all right," said Kennedy. "We ought to get along famously. I am what might be called an ivory tower President."

Laughing, Tobin exclaimed, "You win. I accept."

INAUGURAL ITES — Between the election and inauguration, President Kennedy traveled more than 15,000 miles between Washington, Massachusetts, Florida and New York.

First draft of his stirring address to the Massachusetts legislature was written by Professor Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Pulitzer Prize winning historian and biographer of the New Deal.

With the exception of the President and the First Lady, every member of his large family paid for tickets to the fund-raising gala night before the inauguration. Joseph Kennedy, the President's father, forked over $10,000 for a box between O and P Sts., is being called "Kennedy Lane" by neighbors because various members of the new President's family rented furnished houses there for the inauguration, several of them at $200 a day. That includes utilities and servants, but not food and drink.

Those gray-striped pants Speaker Sam Rayburn donned for the inauguration have performed the same function since the induction of President Wilson in 1913. And the veteran Texas leader says they are good for more inaugurations and he expects to be wearing them. Rayburn fondly calls them his "cast-iron breeches," and they still fit him as well as they did years ago.

Philadelphia's Democratic organization, headed by Representative William Green, produced a whopping 330,000 majority for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, and the same kind of turnout at their inauguration. More than 6,000 Philadelphians came to the Capital for the event, upwards of 3,000 on special-rate excursion trains.

Head of the inaugural committee's housing section was a lawyer — Charles Edward Rhetts, who arranged hotel and other accommodations for people from all over the world. Among them were Eskimos, Chinese from San Francisco, Indians from New Mexico, and other Western states, and VPs from Europe, South America, and the Far East. Asked how he happened to become an "inkeeper," Rhetts replied, "Somebody had to do this job. I was asked; so I took it on."

For band leader Meyer Davis, it was the seventh inauguration since the induction of President William Howard Taft-Davis has also provided music for 35 White House parties, the wedding of the President and Mrs. Kennedy, and that of her mother, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss.

Two teenaged sisters, Mary Alice Flynn, 17, and Katherine, 14 had a special inaugural gift for the President. It's a small leather-bound prayer book, inscribed in gold on the cover, "John F. Kennedy," and inside in handwriting, "From Mother, Easter, 1944 to Jack Kennedy, Palm Beach, Fla., Hyannis Port, Mass." The two girls found the small Sunday missal in the balcony of the Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Georgetown, after the new President attended mass there.

The American Way

By WILLIS E. STONE
THE NEW YEAR

The headlines recently told us of our national troubles which caused some of our top government department heads to travel about Europe asking the beneficiaries of our "foreign aid" to give us a helping hand by not taking away our gold.

This is surprising because our administrators have freely been giving our resources to foreign socialist and communist countries under the pretense that our resources were endless, and that this was the way to gain friends. Now these countries can transfer the resources we have given them into gold — our gold — and draw upon it as they wish. We hear that these countries now have, as our gifts, about $24 billion in claims against our $18 billion gold reserve — and we are now face-to-face with our folly.

Despite this disastrous result of "foreign aid," our bureaucrats are busy promoting more of it. At the same time it is proposed to restrict American travel in foreign countries as a means for preventing the flow of American dollars to these countries.

To further complicate our national finances, the bureaucrats now advocate a further devaluation of gold, which is the basis for our currency. From past experience we know this political expedient will do much to price American production out of world markets and create more inflation.

Speaking of foreign trade, it will come as a shock to most of us that less than 10 per cent of our foreign trade now travels in American ships, particularly since the Maritime Administration has spent billions of our tax dollars under the pretense of "building up" our shipping industry. Way back when private enterprise ran our shipping industry, before subsidies and political controls, most of our foreign trade traveled in American ships. Today only two passenger ships in the North Atlantic fly the American flag. We are no longer a maritime nation.

These, and a multitude of similar problems must be faced in 1961. The indications are strong that these factors will contribute tremendously to more taxes and more inflation during the new year.

However, Americans are resourceful. Seeing the coming dangers, a project is already afoot which can eliminate the causes of most of these problems and prevent their recurrence. This project is known as the "Proposed 23rd Amendment."

The proposal will outlaw the practice through which the federal bureaucrats use taxpayers' money to set up business in direct competition to the taxpayers. At present the federal business activities, which operate without constitutional authority, number more than 700. They have taken over 40 per cent of the land area and 20 per cent of the industrial capacity of the nation, and require more than half of the total federal revenue to keep them running despite the fact that they operate interest free, dividend free, rent free and tax free.

By restoring Constitutional protection to private property and private enterprise, the "Proposed 23rd Amendment" will abolish Communist and socialistic practices. It will remove the major cause of inflation.

It will cut the costs of the federal government in half. It will re-establish the historic principle of State Sovereignty. It will end political competition of the most ruthless nature.

It will put all business under equal and identical legal controls. It will eliminate most of the causes of strikes and labor disputes by restoring to labor its full earning power — WITHOUT WITHHOLDING TAXES.

It will prevent the folly of attempting to "buy" friends.

It will restore equitable foreign trade and protect our resources from foreign aid.

It will do these things, and more, by restoring the original Constitution and giving it new force and effect. The proposal pending in Congress as H. J. Res. 23, has already been approved by the states of Wyoming, Texas, Nevada and Louisiana.

To avert the disasters which threaten America as the result of years of political folly, public support should rally behind the "Proposed 23rd Amendment." Its enactment would indeed make 1961 a Happy Year, not only for America but for all the world. For full details, write National Committee for Economic Freedom, 6413 Franklin Ave., Los Angeles 28 California.

Visit To Italian Medic

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME, Italy — An American doesn't realize how American he really is until he has to call a doctor in a foreign city.

It brings out his Patriotism more than a war.

His love and devotion for his homeland increases with the rise of the mercury in the thermometer; and by the time it reaches 103 degrees or so, he wants to struggle from his bed and head for America by jet.

It's Up To You

by HOWARD KERSHNER
L. H. D.

How much of the poverty and suffering in our country could be avoided? What portion of the billions of dollars paid out for "relief" is unnecessary?

Last night we rode with a taxi driver who told us of his happy home and his five children. The older son has finished a term in the Navy and is soon coming home accomplished in electronics. The older daughter is in college. Two children are still in high school and one is in grammar school. This family has never been on "relief," lives in its own home, my driver proudly told me that he occasionally took his wife to New York for a day in the city. On such occasions they enjoy a meal in the railway dining car.

All this has been accomplished on the wages this man earns driving his cab.

To my astonished inquiry, as to how he did it he replied, "There is a great deal of affection in our family. We love one another and we work together. None of us smoke, drink, gamble or waste money. We live carefully and we have enough." My driver assured me that he had no source of income other than his cab.

This man may have unusual ability and the family may have extraordinarily good health but the main difference, I think, between these seven human beings and so many of their fellow citizens who live below the poverty line is the fact that these seven are sober, God-fearing, honest, patient, careful, thrifty and industrious. If all families were like this one, what a country we would have!

If the $7,634,000,000 spent for tobacco, the $5,600,000,000 spent for liquor and the estimated $30,000,000,000 spent in gambling, not to mention other wasteful practices, were more wisely used the degree of spiritual and material well-being in our country would increase so enormously as to take on the proportions of a nation-wide miracle. Think what a difference $46 billion would make!

No, we are not trying to control the expenditures of the people but it is true that there are many who spend a large part of their own earnings for tobacco, liquor, gambling and other wasteful practices and then fall back upon "relief" for such items as food, shelter,

BUYERS AND SELLERS OF REAL ESTATE
PAMPA REAL ESTATE BOARD
ANNOUNCES Multiple Listing Service
Multiple Listing Service assures the fast action and fair prices essential to a mutually-satisfactory transaction. This service, brought to you by the newly created Multiple Listing facilities of the Pampa Real Estate Board, serves both the seller and the buyer of real property. And it is available to you through all members of the Multiple Listing Service (MLS), as listed below, at no extra cost.

IF YOU WANT TO SELL YOUR HOME (or any other Real Estate)
1. You list it with the MLS Member of your choice, specifying that you want it multiple-listed.
2. The member of MLS lists your property on a special Multiple Listing form, sending the original to the Multiple Listing Service.
3. At the Service, all the facts about your property go on a card. Exact duplicates of this card are rushed to the Service's subscribing members. Starting membership of the MLS is 20 brokers and salesmen, who at once become your salesmen.
You pay nothing extra for this service, but you can easily see the benefits it brings you: faster action, due to dozens of sales contacts instead of a few — fair prices and clean-cut deals because the right buyer is found at the right time.
IF YOU WANT TO BUY PROPERTY
You go to any Member of the MLS and tell him where you want to live, the size home you want and how much you will pay. (Or any other property you might wish to buy)
1. He consults his Multiple Listing file, containing all the data on properties in the area, classified by location, size, price, etc.
2. Within five minutes he can tell you about scores of properties — giving you information that would take you days to get if you had to visit all the Realtors who originally listed these properties. You get the widest possible choice immediately and with the least effort.
To get the benefits of Multiple Listing when you sell to buy real estate, make sure you are dealing with a member of the MLS of the Pampa Real Estate Board. You will recognize his ads in these columns by use of this emblem or some other reference to MLS in his daily classified advertising.

New Strike Plan Nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The voluntary strike - financing plan of the AFL - CIO Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers Union swings into operation March 1.

This is a non-convulsive program under which the members will build up a big reserve to tide them over long strikes. It will be in addition to direct benefits provided by the union.

The plan was conceived in 1959 by president O. A. Knight as an outgrowth of protracted walkouts which all but depleted the union strike benefit fund.

There has been no real need for such a fund this year. Most of Knight's locals have been successfully negotiating a 14-cent-an-hour across the board wage increase. But the program looks to the years ahead when the union may be less fortunate.

When it hits peak operations about three years from now, strikers participating will be guaranteed as much as $25 a week until their strike ends. Strikers not contributing will have to rely on regular but limited union benefits. Hence, union secretary - treasurer T. M. McCormick is urging all rank-and-filers to participate.

Thus far more than 50,000 have volunteered to contribute $1 a month to the war chest beginning March 1. Another 50,000 are the target of McCormick's plea. He asked them to sign up by March 20 so they will be eligible, along with those already subscribing, when first benefits become available next September.

When proposing the war chest, Knight pointed out that unlike the oil companies the union was not able to finance long strikes and in consequence its defense front was not as solid as it should be. The 1959 union convention at Cleveland quickly ratified his plan but stressed that participation must be voluntary. It also directed that no local could receive benefits from the fund unless it had voted to contribute.

Benefits will vary until a big reserve fund is in the bank. After six months and up to 24 months of participation, 50 per cent of the benefit will be paid. From 24 to 36 months it will be 75 per cent, and after 36 months the full amount will be paid.

McCormick said that once the reserve reaches $2 million or more the union executive board will adjust the base benefits upward in line with the general benefit schedule. At no time, however, will these special benefits affect regular weekly benefits — usually $10 — paid as a matter of right to all workers on strike longer than 31 days.

Wheeler Postmen Are Delivering 'Dimes' Mailers

WHEELER (Sp) — The men cannot walk at all. Local postmen began delivery of hundreds of envelopes that will allow Wheeler County residents to contribute by mail during January to the efforts of the National Foundation to prevent the crippling diseases of birth defects, arthritis and polio.

"We hope our message brings speedy replies in the form of cash, money orders and checks, because March of Dimes contributions are desperately needed to finance National Foundation programs in patient aid, research and professional education," said Mrs. Rena Savage, campaign director.

"Approximately 250,000 American children are born each year with significant birth defects. These birth defects cripple more children than any other cause besides

"More than 11,000,000 of our neighbors suffer from arthritis, some form of rheumatic disease, with a loss to the nation of 31,000,000 work days every year," she added.
