Claims Three Lives

Winter's Worst Storm Hammers West Texas

A surprise blizzard in the West Texas Plains and a coating of dangerous ice across much of North Texas left Texans shivering today as the worst storm of winter battered the state. The storm, which threatened to paralyze some areas with a hard blast of ice or snow, already had claimed three lives early today. Meteorologists said high temperatures this afternoon across practically the entire state would be much above the freezing mark. At dawn this morning the freezing line ran in a generally east-west direction from about 50 miles west of Houston to about 50 miles north of San Antonio. Light snow was falling in North Texas, and light freezing rain and drizzle spread deep into the Central Texas area as far as the Antonio area. Locally heavy snow was predicted for part of Northwest Texas, with an accumulation of from two to four inches expected.

Amarillo reported the lowest early morning temperature. The mercury there dipped to nine degrees in a snow flurry just before 4 a.m. Lubbock, Abilene and San Angelo also reported snow. The warmest spot in the state at 6 a.m. was Brownsville, where it was 56 degrees.

Four inches of snow accumulated at Plainview Tuesday and more was forecast for the area today. Little melting is expected, with temperatures not predicted to go over the freezing mark during the day.

Ice began forming on many roads in North Texas Tuesday and by nightfall numerous roads were closed or were extremely hazardous. Scores of motorists were stranded at times.

Blizzard conditions were reported in the West Texas Plains area Tuesday with heavy snow whipped by strong winds. Some points in the South Plains reported winds up to 60 miles an hour.

More than 100 cars and trucks were stalled on U.S. Highway 81-287 between Rhame and DeCatur on the main Fort Worth-Wichita Falls highway Tuesday night, the Department of Public Safety reported. icy conditions forced the closing of the highway later.

Forty-six telephone poles were reported broken in the Lubbock area from the massive winter storm which sent temperatures tumbling in the teens, coated highways with a dangerous glass and toppled power lines in the South Plains where residents braced for near-zero temperatures.

A Seminole school bus carrying a driver and 23 students overturned Tuesday afternoon, and one student was slightly injured. An automobile skidded out of control on ice-covered state highway 199 Tuesday night near Seymour and collided with a trailer-truck loaded with cattle, killing a North Texas State College coed and injuring another student.

The victim was Linda Kay Williams, 18, of Post, Tex. She was a passenger in a car driven by (See STORM, Page 3)

GETTING ACQUAINTED — Members of Chamber of Commerce Industrial Activities Committee, headed by Floyd Watson, yesterday visited the American-Marietta Company's pipe manufacturing plant located east of town at the site of the old Dancing refinery. The visit was a part of a schedule of calling on industries which have been located in Pampa in recent years. Eight Hurt In Blaze At Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—Three explosions in a gasoline storage tank sparked a spectacular fire on the Houston Ship Channel in the heart of the city's industrial complex Tuesday night and seven persons were injured during the two-hour fight to control the blaze.

A hospital spokesman said two of the injured were on the critical list today. One was a young boy who was burned when he rushed toward the fire to get a better look.

Houston's fire department answered the call in swarms, fearing that the blaze would spread through the industrial complex, which is near a large number of homes.

Houston Fire Chief C. M. Bullock said an eight-foot earthen wall helped prevent the fire from spreading. His men used foamite to control the fire and watered down a number of butane storage tanks nearby as a precaution.

The explosions split the side of the big tank. Flaming gasoline poured from these openings.

Robert L. Van Kamp, 11, a spectator, was injured critically when he ran toward the blaze. A beam of blue flame shot through the air and burned him.

The boy and two others, Edward Leroy Van Kamp, 14, his brother, and Herman Holcomb, 12, were playing near the tank when the explosions occurred.

A refinery employe, Gabriel Corder, 31, of nearby Pasadena, Tex., was the second critically burned victim.

Fireman Johnny Peters, refinery employe, Charles C. Rogers, and an unidentified refinery employe, suffered less severe burns.

Before the fire was extinguished, the Coast Guard cautioned all traffic in the ship channel to keep clear of the Signal Oil Co. docks.

U. S. Navy Says Liner Is Off Caribbean Isle

By CHARLES E. TAYLOR

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — The U.S. Navy announced today that it had made a radio "fix" on the luxury liner Santa Maria about 400 miles east of the island of Guadeloupe in the Caribbean Sea.

Four patrol planes were dispatched to the area for the hijacked ship, which appeared to be heading north.

The radio bearing fixing the position of the ship east of Guadeloupe in the Leeward Islands was made here this morning at the headquarters of the Caribbean Sea Frontier. Several hours earlier another radio "fix" had indicated the ship was about 400 miles east of Barbados.

Cmdr. Charles Rainey, public information officer at San Juan, said planes had searched the area east of Barbados throughout the night without finding a trace. The new position reported indicated that the Santa Maria was heading northward at a fast speed.

Rainey said that if the search planes should spot the missing liner, a naval vessel would be sent from San Juan unless it was decided to use the destroyer, Wilson, which has been stalking the Santa Maria since its hijacking on Sunday. The Wilson was en route to Trinidad for refueling.

As the search for the ship that was seized by political opponents of Portugal's Premier Oliveira Salazar narrowed, messages from more of the 600 passengers aboard the liner arrived at the Radio Corporation of America receiving station at Chatham, Mass.

Between 4:30 a.m. and 5:20 a.m. RCA received three messages from passengers reassuring their families that they were safe and well in spite of the shipboard insurrection.

Presumably it was the sending of these messages from the ship that made it possible for the Navy to narrow the search area.

"As a result of broadcasts from the ship, we are hoping we have narrowed down the area where she might be," Rainey said.

The rough seas and low visibility which hampered search craft and hindered radar operations Tuesday were expected to clear somewhat today although there were forecasts of some squalls for the area.

Rainey said that as yet there (See RADIO, Page 3)

Everyone 'Nose' This Is Taking Things Too Far

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jacqueline Kennedy noses are the latest styles among beauty-conscious women parading to plastic surgeons.

"There was a time when the girls used to come in for plastic surgery to make their noses over like Myrna Loy's," said Dr. Oscar J. Becker, a Chicago surgeon here for the 30th annual Research Study Club convention.

"Then came the Hedy LaMarr era; until girls wanted to have noses like Grace Kelly's and then, Jackie Kennedy noses," said Becker Tuesday at a press conference.

Becker, a specialist from the University of Illinois, described the first lady's nose as "not exactly patrician... more, let us say, straight, a little uptilted. 'I guess you'd say it's just Jackie's,'" he said.

Goes, Pals Of Castro Demonstrate

HAVANA (UPI) — Friends and supporters of Premier Fidel Castro staged rival demonstrations Tuesday night in front of the Church of Our Lady of Carmen, near Havana University, it was reported today.

The official radio said "rapid intervention" by police prevented a Castro crowd of more than 100 persons from "punishing the anti-Castro" disturbers of the peace.

Casualties were reported. The radio report said Castroites rushed to the scene when opponents of the government tried to stage a demonstration outside the church. The anti-Castro crowd quickly dispersed, and the Castroites massed to chant anti-Castro slogans before returning to their homes.

Castro set the stage for "indefinite persecution" of his political foes by assigning a new commander to the forces battling government guerrillas in central Cuba.

Gen. Victor Bordon took command of Castroite forces cordoned off guerrilla held areas in the Embury Mountains, possibly a prelude to an all-out offensive on the anti-Reds.

Havana's Cabana Fortress prison, the "revolutionary tribunal" which had been idle for five years resumed proceedings against political prisoners held in camp cells.

Flood Of Proposals Due Texas Teachers' Pay Increases Urged On Cost Of Living Basis

By PAT CONWAY

AUSTIN (UPI) — Legislation to put public school teacher salaries on a cost of living basis was urged today by Rep. Maco Stewart of Galveston.

Stewart called for the cost of living adjustment along with an $800 annual raise recommended by the Hale-Aikin education study committee.

His bill, filed for introduction in the House, provides that Texas' central education agency determine the percentage of increase or decrease necessary to adjust teachers' salaries to the cost of living.

"We must remake the fundamental law and the institutions based on it," Kasavubu told delegates who assembled to lay the groundwork for a round-table conference next month designed to unite warring political factions.

The delegates included 450 parliamentarians, tribal chiefs and notables. The meeting was being held in a theater at the Leopoldville zoo.

Before going to the meeting Kasavubu called on U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold for Security Council investigation of charges of "flagrant meddling" by the United Arab Republic in Congo affairs.

President Drafting U. S. Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy today continued his non-stop examination of America's position in a world of crises by calling his chief advisers together to draft policies and procedures for coping with Russia and the cold war.

Kennedy had a meeting with the Joint Chiefs of Staff, his first all-military conference since taking office. He also called an afternoon conference to explore the U.S. economic position with special emphasis on the balance-of-payments problem.

His first major statement on international affairs since the inauguration was expected at his initial news conference late today.

The slow process of completing the new administration also continued. To help with speeches and messages, Kennedy planned to add to his White House staff in the near future Arthur Schlesinger Jr., the historian, Harvard professor and election campaign consultant to the President.

Key members of the Kennedy administration have some advanced ideas for improving federal tax collections. The Chief Executive favors greater concentration on larger tax evaders.

Kennedy and his top advisers Tuesday began shaping a revised disarmament program which the new administration believes offers the best hope of launching fruitful cold war negotiations with Russia.

Key officials felt that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is eager for a resumption of disarmament negotiations.

Rayburn's Prestige In Jeopardy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Veteran Speaker Sam Rayburn battled today to stave off a crushing blow to his prestige and possibly to the prospects of President Kennedy's liberal legislative program.

Little more than three weeks after electing the 79-year-old Rayburn for the 10th time to his powerful post the House Thursday will decide whether he or Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., 77, and another old pro of the Congress, will be its real boss.

Impartial nose counts today indicated the outcome would be close. Smith's partisans claimed the votes to win, by a narrow margin. Even some of Rayburn's backers conceded privately that Smith, as of today, might be ahead.

The question is whether to approve Rayburn's plan to enlarge the House Rules Committee. Smith is the committee chairman and with other conservative members, is in position to block bills he doesn't like.

Rayburn wants control of the committee and would get it through appointment of two new Democratic members. Otherwise, he said, Kennedy's legislative proposals couldn't be assured of a chance to come to a vote in the House.

House Democrats, as a group, have endorsed the Rayburn plan. Republicans have opposed it. There are 281 Democrats and 174 Republicans in the House. But Southern Democrats are deserting Rayburn in droves, and there is no assurance he will pick up the GOP votes he needs.

A United Press International survey showed that 75 of today no more than 37 Southerners plan to support Rayburn while 61 will back Smith and one, Rep. George M. Grant of Alabama, will be absent due to illness.

There also were reports that some other Southerners, unwilling to face Rayburn's wrath if he loses but equally unwilling to vote with him, may not be present at the rollcall.

The UPI survey showed the following lineup but several congressmen warned that there might be changes as Rayburn and Smith continued to Marshall their votes:

Alabama: Rayburn 5; Smith 3, absent, 1.

Arkansas: Rayburn 3; Smith 3.

Florida: Rayburn 1; Smith 6.

Georgia: Rayburn 2; Smith 8.

Louisiana: Rayburn 3; Smith 5.

Mississippi: Rayburn 0; Smith 4.

North Carolina: Rayburn 1; Smith 10.

South Carolina: Rayburn 0; Smith 6.

Woman Doctor Is Chosen White House Physician

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Janet G. Travell, a silver-haired lady doctor considered a medical "genius" by President Kennedy, has been chosen White House physician — the first woman ever to hold the post.

Dr. Travell's appointment as official guardian of Kennedy's health was expected to be announced soon. She will be the first civilian White House doctor since the Harding administration, breaking a long line of military physicians.

The mother of two married daughters will succeed former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's White House doctor, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder.

Kennedy credits the robust, 50-ish Dr. Travell with being largely responsible for curing the back ailment which plagued him for years and put him on crutches at one point.

The woman doctor discovered that Kennedy's left leg was slightly shorter than his right leg, placing an added strain on his back. She prescribed a quarter-inch lift in the heel of his left shoe.

Dr. Travell and Dr. Eugene J. Cohen examined Kennedy recently and issued a statement on inauguration day pronouncing the new President's health as "excellent."

At the request of the Secret Service, Dr. Travell accompanied Kennedy on several trips after treated Kennedy and members of his family for the past six years, after the November election. She has

United Fund Still Short Of Its Goal

The Pampa-Lefors United Fund drive still is approximately $9,000 short of its $88,746 goal. Fund officials said today contributions now total slightly more than $59,000.

Fund directors, under chairmanship of Hugh Burdette, will hold a meeting at 4 p.m. tomorrow in fund headquarters in City Hall, to discuss means of reaching the goal.

Wright Files For Senate Race

AUSTIN (UPI)—U.S. Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth filed for the U.S. Senate election Tuesday with a pledge to be the hard-worker in the campaign.

"I am going to get up earlier, work harder, see more people and to bed later than any other candidate," he said.

Wright pledged to work for a better life for the United States in "a world seething with foment."

Dejected Inmate

ANGOLA, La. (UPI) — Inmate Richards at the state penitentiary here got word that his sentence was commuted to 15 years — and was he dejected!

His original sentence was three years.

The governor's office says the commutation probably meant to say 15 years instead of 15 years, and checking into the case.

New York Public School Is Told To Desegregate

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (UPI) — A federal court order to "desegregate" a public school in this suburban New York City community today presaged similar action throughout the North.

U.S. District Judge Irving R. Kaufman ruled Tuesday in New York City that the New Rochelle School Board had manipulated school district lines and made undercover transfers of white students to create a 94 per cent Negro student body at Lincoln School.

He ordered the board to submit by April 14 a plan for desegregating the school to take effect within the 1961-62 school year.

Negro leaders were gratified at Kaufman's decision and predicted repercussions for other public schools in the North where segregation is practiced either openly or behind the scenes.

"Boston, Chicago, Detroit and other cities will have to start looking very closely to determine whether their schools are predominantly white or Negro plants in the Lincoln School case told United Press International.

Zuber said the ruling "will have tremendous impact on practically every Northern city in the United States where segregation is practiced on a wholesale basis by officials who mouth support for integration."

Kasavubu Seeks Constitutional Changes In Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — President Joseph Kasavubu today called for revision of the Congo's Constitution and reorganization of its government to help pull the nation out of its seven-month crisis.

"We must remake the fundamental law and the institutions based on it," Kasavubu told delegates who assembled to lay the groundwork for a round-table conference next month designed to unite warring political factions.

The delegates included 450 parliamentarians, tribal chiefs and notables. The meeting was being held in a theater at the Leopoldville zoo.

Lefors Highway Plan Discussed

LEFORS (Sp) — The Lefors Lions Club met Monday for a pancake breakfast prepared by R. E. McDonald and John Archer. The regular board of directors meeting was held.

Much discussion was held concerning the new highway to come through Lefors. A committee was appointed from the Lions club, comprised of Jerry Jacobs, chairman, Fred Blackwell, Bill Teel, John Archer, Boyd Beck, Jack Thacker, L. D. McCaley, and David Robinson. The object of the club is to get the highway started as soon as possible.

Boyd Beck reported on the mid-inter conference meeting.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The technical position of the market has been weakened, according to the International Statistical Bureau. This is reflected in the decline in short interest (representing future demand) and in the fact that it requires a great deal more volume to get even a moderate advance in the market.

In short, progress has been lagged, and this suggests the market may be "tired". A pause, and even a temporary reaction for consolidation would not be illogical, the bureau advises.

Spear & Staff reports that although liquidation may not yet have been completed in General Electric, it would hold the stock at current levels. It advises purchase of Revlon, Aldens, William H. Rorer, CBS, Florida Power, Martin Co., A. C. Nielsen, American Hospital Supply, and Southern Co.

Other End Of The Lion Can Be Dangerous, Too

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA)—Why America Comes to New York. Today's Pilgrim: Gary Johnson, 30, from Laramie, Wyo.

"By the time I was seven," Johnson reports, "there was no longer any question about it in my family. I was going to follow in my father's footsteps as a professional."

"And so, by the time I was 25—after 18 years of hard work, heartache and constant practice—I was in the big time. I had landed a job in the Ice Follies playing the back end of a lion."

"It was quite hot in there as I recall. And somewhat musty. And my back hurt from skating stooped over. But it was the big time."

"Now, contrary to public conviction, it is not so easy to be a rear end. It requires forethought, split-second timing, day upon day of rehearsal, almost an ability to receive communication by mental telepathy from the front end."

"You see," Johnson explains, "only the front end has the eye holes and knows where you are going, when you must turn, and so forth."

"You, on the other hand, are bent in half holding on to a pair of suitcase handles strapped to his belt. You can see only a little patch of ice under his skates. You get all your cues from there."

"You don't know where you are or where you're going. You can't judge the audience reaction. You are whipped, dragged and spun. Your years of learning perfect posture evaporate. You begin to lose touch with the outside."

"And worst of all, the front end takes the bows.

"Oh, it's rough," Johnson says. "There's a lot that goes on in that rear end the public never sees. But it was the big time. I was a pro. I determined to give it all I had."

"And so, with each performance, he became more and more adept at the part. He wore out three partners. He became so convincing that when the lion went into the audience—a set routine—people would kick or jab pins into him."

"By the time the act was ready to be changed, the follies' owners, Shipstads and Johnson, gave young Gary the part as the rear end of every spotlight and eye on me. a skating St. Bernard dog.

"A year later, he was the rear end of a cat. Another year, and he was the hind quarters of cocker spaniel."

"Oh, I was good all right," Johnson said. "I had carved out a place for myself in the big time. Nearly three million people saw me each year. It was steady work. And my wife came to accept my job as the way things are."

"Even I came to accept the fact that I might be in the big time, but I wasn't ever going to be a cue."

UBWAY FOR SAN FRANCISCO—A subway planned for an Francisco is depicted in this combination photograph-drawing. The five-county Bay Area Rapid Transit District is developing the system which will be tied in with existing transit network. High-speed trains will use the subway's upper level while streetcars now operating on the surface will utilize pedestrian mezzanine where stations, escalators and entrances to downtown shops will be located. Similar subways are planned for nearby Oakland and Berkeley.

Electrical System May Solve Problem Of Iced-Over Bridges

STIN (Sp) — Electric energy heading a determined assault by the Texas Highway Department against an old and deadly foe—ice—has been used to solve a problem of iced-over bridges.

The hope of permanently solving this age-old peril to motorists, highway Department engineers now experimenting with an electrical prevention system in Wichita Falls. First testing was completed last Friday.

Part of its kind ever undertaken in Texas, the research project is in place on twin bridges of 287 at its intersection with View Drive near the north-city limits of Wichita Falls.

The anti-icing system employs use of electrical heating elements embedded in the concrete slabs through which are sized small amounts of electricity which heat the elements and the bridge deck a few degrees above freezing. The system is controlled by a control panel set up to an electric utility.

The headache of iced-over bridges has been particularly acute in Texas, where flash freezes periodically during the winter months. Ice forms more easily on bridges than on highways because cold air circulates both above and below them. Temperatures of the adjacent highway are reduced more slowly, may not reach the freezing point at all, due to the influence of heat radiated from the earth.

This creates a deceptively dangerous situation for the winter months, who may be driving comfortably at 60 miles an hour along a frozen highway and suddenly upon a glazed-over bridge.

Sand and salt have been the traditional standbys used by Department maintenance crews to the icing process, although has often meant all-night searches for a better way to prevent ice from forming on bridges.

The search for a better way to prevent ice from forming on bridges.

THOMAS VIOLA has been added to the FBI's list of most wanted criminals. Viola, 48, escaped from Ohio State Penitentiary where he was serving a life sentence for murder. He is 5-8", weighs 168 lbs., has brown hair and eyes. CAUTION: Viola should be considered armed and dangerous. Any person having information concerning this fugitive should immediately contact the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Hamlin Air Tool Co. Has Low Rental Fees

One of Pampa's more expanding businesses is Hamlin Air Tool Co., 212 N. Houston St., where owner George O. Hamlin has just about any type of air tool one needs for rental at a price one can afford. These tools are just one of the features of the firm, since Hamlin also specializes in sand blasting and industrial painting, and he is highly qualified at either task.

Among the many type air tools the company has to rent by the week or month are: air compressors, paving breakers, air tamps, clay spades, chipping guns and rock drills. And, if needed, Hamlin will deliver in the city and pick up the unit when you're finished. Hamlin also will deliver outside the city if one wishes the tool for a week or more.

And there is no added cost for this service. Hamlin put it this way:

"We don't charge an individual or a firm for delivery. We feel this is just a way of saying 'thank you' for the business. We're happy to offer this service."

Hamlin Air Tool Co. prides itself in keeping its equipment in A-1 condition, and one may be assured when renting one of the tools that it will be ready to give the service one requires.

"When one of the tools is let out the last thing we do is check it to see that it is in proper working order. When the piece of equipment is returned to the stock room we again check it to see if any repairs are needed. This way we know that when one of the items we have at hand is put to use the person using it will be satisfied," said Hamlin.

The company also specializes in repairing air tools, and Hamlin has been schooled in the proper way of making these repairs, being a graduate of one of the better known equipment repair schools in the South.

The firm owner also has been schooled in the proper techniques of industrial painting. He is a registered and certified coating engineer, having gained this distinction from the Houston Coating Society, and the National Association of Corrosion Engineers, among others, which definitely places him in the top echelon of men qualified in this field.

Thus, in the event you need an air tool, telephone Hamlin Air Tool Co., Mo 4-8843. You'll find a rental or repair price that will surprise you, since, as noted before, the fee is well below that which you've paid for such service in the past in Amarillo and Borger. And, of course, in the event you find yourself needing industrial painting or sanding blasting, remember the name—George Hamlin, a highly qualified man in his chosen fields.

Firestone Moving To North Gray

The Pampa Firestone Store, located for the last 12 years at 117 S. Cuyler, will move to a new location about Feb. 10, according to P. K. Ragland, store manager.

The store's new home will be at 120 N. Gray, in the building formerly occupied by the old Pontiac Automobile agency.

Greater space, 4,800 additional square feet, and proper service facilities for tires, brakes and front-ends, are the reasons Ragland gives for making the move.

The larger building will allow an expansion of the store's lines of supplies for the home, garden and automobile.

The move will be made overnight, according to Ragland, and it will not interrupt the normal business routine. Hours at the new store will remain the same: from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

A large service area is planned for the new outlet. Eight bays will be used for brake, front-end alignment, wheel balance, and tire and battery service.

Assisting Ragland at the new store will be Dennis Taylor, credit manager; Ken Weaver, commercial salesman; and Arnold Baten, service man. Two additional men will join the new store.

THE DRINKING MACHINE—Dr. H. Rotter is head of the Vienna bureau established to combat alcoholism in Austria. Dr. Rotter designed this machine to show how liquor affects the human brain. He pours liquor into the funnel. Bulbs in the figure's brain become brighter. (Indication: brain activity increases; tensions and fears disappear along with inhibitions.) More liquor and the lights go out. (Indication: dead drunk.)

'Tom Kitten' Moves Into White House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Caroline Kennedy's cat, a big grey, furry ball called "Tom Kitten," has moved into the White House—with a slight cold.

The kitty made its public debut Tuesday with about as much fur or as a visiting dignitary.

First, assistant White House press secretary Andrew Hatcher told reporters and cameramen that the yellow-eyed cat couldn't be shown because it was "resting."

A few minutes later he came running back to announce that "Tom Kitten" was up and would pose for pictures.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's attractive press secretary, Pamela Turnure, finally carried the cat into the White House press room.

"Don't scare him," she admonished cameramen crowding around. She confirmed that "Tom Kitten" had been visiting Mrs. Kennedy just before the picture session.

Newsman teased presidential news secretary Pierre Salinger by asking in mock earnest such questions as "How old is the cat?" and "Which door did he come in?"

Caroline was given the cat last summer. "Tom Kitten" has been staying with the child's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, in nearby McLean, Va.

Three-year-old Caroline will be reunited with her pet when she returns from Palm Beach, Fla., to move into the White House in about a week or 10 days.

Jaycees Won't Take Stand On Charter Issue

Jaycees members Tuesday voted to take no stand on the proposed changes to the city charter, but did decide to continue their drive to get out the vote.

The first decision came after former mayor Lynn Boyd spoke to the organization in behalf of the proposed changes and City Commissioner James Crawford spoke in rebuttal.

The organization also decided that it would again install its poll tax booth in the 200 block N. Cuyler all day Saturday and Monday and Tuesday evenings, and that a sound equipment truck will be used throughout the city to urge all residents to pay their poll tax and thus be eligible to vote.

Eloise Brawley, Lois Steward and Arlene Matthews of the C-C, and M. C. Johnson, Melvin Bailey, Dennis Dane and Lloyd Brummett were guests for the noon luncheon in the Palm Room of City Hall.

Little Electric Space Engine May Serve As Booster To Mars

CLEVELAND, Ohio (NEA)—A rocket engine without a single moving part and less power than a model electric train one day may send us zooming through outer space at 62 million miles per hour or faster.

Such an engine is being tested at Lewis Research Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in Cleveland, Ohio.

Scientists there envision a larger model capable of propelling men to Mars with about the force—"thrust"—of a woman pushing a baby carriage.

This eventually could destroy the present space age image of powerful rockets continuously exhaling titanic clouds of fire and smoke.

Scientists make the engine work by electrically bombarding particles of vaporized mercury. Goaded by high voltage electrical blasts, these electrified particles (ions) of mercury shoot out the tail of the engine at speeds up to 300,000 m.p.h. Electron guns keep the ions charging out into space and prevent them from turning back into the engine.

If the engine were mounted in a rocket, the rearward race of the ions would exert a tiny forward thrust on the ship. And in gravity-free space, the slightest tap will send an object moving ahead, conceivably forever unless there is a counterpart, reports William R. Mickelsen, a scientist working on this project.

Also, because acceleration in space is constant, the silent, unseen, steady thrust of billions of ions could build up to tremendous speeds, theoretically almost to the speed of light, about 186,300 miles per second.

Here's how Mickelsen describes a theoretical electric rocket flight to Mars:

Eight men board a rocket weighing 175 tons. Its engine draws electric power from a small nuclear reactor. The craft either is lifted by a huge conventional rocket into orbit around the earth or it is assembled piecemeal in space.

To free the craft from the earth's gravity, the crew starts up the electric engine. Nothing seems to happen. The 35 pounds of thrust are hardly noticed. Days and weeks pass.

Eventually, the rocket's speed increases and its orbit widens. Each swing around the globe carries it farther away. After 70 days, the space craft coasts at 70,000 m.p.h. away from the earth's gravitational pull and into a vast orbit intended to intersect Mars, 35 million miles away from Earth.

To return home, the craft reverses the procedure. The round trip could take as little as 500 days—about half the time a conventional "fire" rocket would need.

Men Needed By Highway Patrol

The Texas Department of Public Safety still has an ever present need for young men who are interested in the field of Law Enforcement as a career. Major Harry Hutchison, Commander of the Department's 60-county Region No. 5, announced the deadline of Feb. 10, for applicants who desire to take the next entrance examination. The next examination to select recruit policemen to fill the vacancies now existing in the Department's Field Services will be given in different cities of the State on Feb. 14, 15 and 16.

"Young men between the ages of 21 and 35, and who have the other basic qualifications have an opportunity to receive the best police training in the nation," Major Hutchison said.

Our Training Academy in Austin offers approximately 14 weeks of training in all of the modern, up-to-date methods and procedures of police work. The salary starts when the recruit starts training, and upon graduation from the school all of the proper working tools are furnished each man.

Young men who are interested in becoming a patrolman with the DPS should contact the nearest field office of the Department of Public Safety or the Department's State Headquarters at Box 4087, North Austin Station, in Austin. Additional information may be obtained from Sgt. E. G. Albers in the Highway Patrol office in the courthouse here in Pampa.

Kennedy's Press Conference Set For TV Tonight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy will usher in a new era of presidential public relations late today when his first news conference will be carried across the nation on "live" radio and television.

The press conference was set for 6 p.m. EST in the theater-like auditorium of the new State Department building several blocks from the White House. There will be seats for nearly 800 reporters, eight glassed-in broadcast booths, platforms for 29 still and newsreel photographers and four TV cameras.

APPOINTS NEWSPAPERMAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has appointed Edwin O. Guthman, Pulitzer Prize reporter for the Seattle Times, as Justice Department chief of information.

Guthman, 41, will succeed Luther A. Huston, long-time New York Times Supreme Court reporter, who has held the Justice Department position since 1957. Guthman will assume his duties on Feb. 6.

Biting Cold Harasses Most Of The Nation

By United Press International
A midwinter invasion of Arctic air which coursed across the Canadian border a week ago dominated two-thirds of the United States today.

Biting cold harassed Americans from Maine to New Mexico and from Montana to Florida. It was the coldest night of the year in many sections.

Sub-zero temperatures pushed south into Kansas, Missouri, Kentucky and Virginia, and freezing or near-freezing weather reached to the Gulf Coast. The mercury shrank as low as 20 below around the Great Lakes, and thermometers read down to 15 below from West Virginia and Pennsylvania through New England.

By contrast, it was above freezing at Anchorage, Alaska, during the night.

The death toll from exposure, overexertion, cold weather fires, asphyxiation and weather-caused traffic accidents continued to mount. The cold wave had claimed at least 82 lives.

The driving cold touched off ice storms in the South. Freezing rain iced some highways from Texas and Oklahoma into Alabama. Up to an inch of new snow fell in New Mexico, western Texas and western Oklahoma.

The cold, whipped through Chicago and across Lake Michigan by winds up to 40 miles an hour Tuesday, combined with lake moisture to dump up to four inches of snow in northern Indiana where more than a dozen schools closed. A similar fall brought four inches of new snow to Pennsylvania counties along Lake Erie.

In New York City, thousands of motorists found themselves without cars in near-zero weather. More than 4,000 cars and 73 trucks were towed from streets where snow removal crews were trying to clean up after last week's 10-inch snowfall.

Many homes faced the cold without heat or water at Columbus, Ohio, when a fire at the municipal light plant left much of the city without electricity. About 40,000 children were sent home from unheated schools.

Eleanor Powell Plans Comeback

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Eleanor Powell, movie dancing star of the 1930s, announced a comeback Tuesday and promptly launched into a dancing routine.

"I know you all want to see if I'm senile or not," the 48-year-old stender dancer said at a press conference.

Clad in a blue leotard, black stockings, tap shoes and the familiar top hat, Miss Powell performed with ease several intricate dance routines she said she would use when opening a month-long engagement at a Las Vegas, Nev., night club Feb. 28.

Miss Powell, divorced Nov. 24, 1959, from actor Glenn Ford after a 16-year marriage, said her last professional appearance was in Las Vegas in 1949.

PLAINVIEW — Two clutch Plainview free throws in the last two seconds nullified a brilliant last-quarter Pampa rally here Tuesday night as the South Plains Bulldogs sneaked to a 58-56 victory in a District 3-4A basketball game.

The loss was Pampa's sixth in a row in district and 12th in 20 games and kept the Harvesters in the cellar with Lubbock, also 1-6 in 3-4A play, as it lost to Monterey, 48-32.

Pampa deserved a better fate last night. Trailing by as much as 15 points — 31-45 — late in the third quarter, the Harvesters were all but out of the game as the fourth period opened with Plainview leading 47-36.

However, in the last 8-minute period, Pampa — which had been colder than the snow-laden temperature that surrounded Bulldog Gym — shook off the shackles of an erratic three periods and began to make its move.

Leslie Reeves, 6-4 Plainview forward, was all alone under the basket to hit one of the only two field goals for the home forces in the last quarter to up Plainview's lead to 49-36 at 7:40.

Then, Pat Carter tallied on a driving layup, Randy Matson meshed two free throws and Allen Wise, shooting with ease, hit a jumper from the side while Pampa allowed only two free throws to close the gap to 42-51.

The Bulldogs' Jim Terrell bucketed two free throws, then it was all Pampa again as Carter hit a jump, sophomore Ronnie Chase hit four straight free throws and Wise hit another jump shot from the left side to bring Pampa within three points, 50-53, with 3:51 left in the game.

Plainview spurred momentarily as Jackie Swanner, who pumped in 22 points during the night, battled in a rebound and Tom Aday hit a free throw to again lead by six, 56-50.

With 2:24 left in the game, Wise scored on two free throws, then

Carter hit a jump and — after Plainview missed one free shot — Wise again hit from the left side to tie the score at 56-all with 18 seconds left in the game.

Plainview's Andy Taylor was fouled with 10 seconds left but missed the shot; however, the Bulldogs grabbed the rebound, but as Plainview tried to set up another shot, Pampa stole the ball and came down-court.

The Harvesters worked the ball around once, then sophomore

Wayne Kries went barreling in the field and leading 35-25 at half-time.

Pampa led only twice in the game, 1-0 on Wise's free throw at 7:59 of the first quarter, and 3-2 on a layup by Matson at 6:20.

From that point on, it was all Plainview until the exciting fourth period.

The Harvesters' "Big Three" — Matson, Carter and Wise — all hit in double-figures: Wise and Carter, each hitting for nine points in the last half, both posted 15, while Matson had 12.

Beside's Swanner's 22-point outburst, Aday had 12 and Novice Nicholson had 11.

Heavy snows in the area prevented the appointed officials from reaching the game and Weldon Trice, assistant Pampa High School principal who had come to the game as a representative of PHS, wound up officiating the contest along with Charles White, a principal of one of Plainview's junior highs.

WTS Buffaloes Edge North Texas, 84-81

By United Press International
Tennessee A & I, the nation's No. 1 ranked small college basketball team, stepped out of its division but not out of its class Tuesday night in rolling to its 6th straight victory of the season.

The small Negro school from Nashville, which has produced Olympic track stars Ralph Boston and Wilma Rudolph and basketball player Dick Barnett of the Syracuse Nationals, knocked off St. Francis of Loretto (Pa.), a major team, 84-53, at Altoona, Pa.

Tennessee A & I, which hasn't lost since dropping its opener to Jackson State, held a slim 26-25 edge at halftime and finished strongly on the shooting of Porter Merriwether, who led the Tigers with 16 points.

Cal Fowler's 20 points topped the Frankies, who dropped their ninth game against four victories this season.

Georgia Tech, winless in four Southeastern Conference games, downed Auburn, 48-43, in a non-league contest as the Yellow Jackeets' Roger Kaiser, tossed in 21 points, including eight in the overtime session. Porter Gilbert with 14 points paced Auburn, which is 2-2 in conference action and 4-3 overall.

Jim Curtisinger led three clutch free throws to lead West Texas State to an 84-81 triumph over North Texas State. Curtisinger scored 24 points and Bob Grave edge at halftime and finished strongly on the shooting of Porter Merriwether, who led the Tigers with 16 points.

NEW YEAR, NEW HOPES — Jim Fitzsimmons at Haleah Park is primed for the rich three-year-old stakes with Hitting Away. The dean of American trainers hopes that the colt can join the former great runners he has handled, standouts like Gallant Fox, Omaha, Johnstown, Nashua, and Bold Ruler. Must Rely On Draft Picks

Vikings Offered Slim Choices By NFL Clubs

By NORMAN MILLER

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Minnesota Vikings were offered slim pickings by the other National Football League clubs today and face tough going in their first season unless quarterback George Shaw and the players they drafted come through.

In arriving at a formula Tuesday for stocking Minnesota with experienced players, NFL owners chose to give the Vikings their choice of three from a list of eight submitted by every club except the Dallas Cowboys.

This did not even constitute a wide range of selection as the Cowboys were offered last year. Dallas had its choice of three players from each club's list and wound up its first NFL season with a victory. The Cowboys lost 11 games and tied one.

"This is probably as equitable a formula as could be worked out under the circumstances," said Bert Rose, general manager of the Vikings. "We know we have a rocky road ahead of us, just as Dallas experienced. We are prepared to face it.

"Dallas provided us with a good looking glass for what we and our fans could expect," Rose continued. "It will take four or five years of hard work and a little luck for us to become a contending team — and I'm not talking about a champion."

Each club must submit its seven-man list to the Vikings by noon today. Rose, Coach Norm Van Brocklin and chief scout Joe Thomas will scan the names and make their selections by noon Thursday.

The players chosen by Minnesota will not be announced, however, until they have been notified by the teams for which they played last season.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle explained that the Vikings were offered a smaller list of players to choose from because they had participated in this year's college draft, whereas Dallas did not have the opportunity to draft last year. Minnesota selected first on each of 20 draft rounds.

Still In October Clock Remains Stopped For Buc Batting Star

Pittsburgh over the New York Yankees.

Bill Mazerowski has discovered he has stopped the clock.

For the clever second baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates it's still 3:36 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time, Thursday, Oct. 13, 1960. Place: Forbes Field. At exactly that moment, he belted a home run that won the 1960 World Series for Pittsburgh over the New York Yankees.

"I'm still getting letters about that homer," said Bill, relaxing in his home before dinner.

"Fan mail keeps coming from all over the country — although it's tapering off now. Most of the letters are from kids and their words are the greatest tribute. They tell me I'm their idol. I get a lot of mail from Canadian fans too.

"It's the same at banquets whether I'm in New York, Chicago, Columbus or Buffalo.

"People come up to me and shake my hand. They want to talk about that homer. That's all right with me, I like to talk about it. The answers are nearly mechanical now — yeah, greatest thrill in my life — a high fast one — ball one — Terry was pitching."

Maz said the recollection of that moment when his homer gave the Pirates their first world championship in 35 years still gives him a glow.

"I've seen those World Series movies about three times," he confessed. "It's like re-living that moment."

Bill estimates he has received nearly 1,000 letters and has replied to all by sending his autographed picture. His mother, Mrs. Mamie Mazerowski, addresses the envelopes and mails out the pictures.

LA Angels Grab Two Good Bets

By MILTON RICHMAN

United Press International
Frank Lane and Gene Autry aren't exactly the fastest guns in the West and their aim is a bit high, but you gotta admit, partner, their first two shots were a pair of baseball bullseyes.

Lane, a born maverick who never does anything on a small scale, triggered his first trade as general manager of the Kansas City Athletics Tuesday and it was an eight-player deal with the Baltimore Orioles.

Autry, all decked out in his five-gallon hat and cowboy boots, ceremoniously signed the first two players for his new Los Angeles club of the American League in a lush Hollywood setting that even Cecil B. DeMille might have envied.

Lane dispatched outfielders Whitey Herzog and Russ Snyder to Baltimore, plus a minor leaguer to be named later, for outfielder Al Pilarcik, first baseman Bob Boyd, catcher Clint Courtney, pitcher Jim Archer and infielder Wayne Causey.

"It wasn't an earth-shaking deal," Lane said matter-of-factly, "but it will give us a respectable club with which to open spring training."

Herzog and Snyder should help the Orioles where they need it most—in the outfield. Gene Woodling and Jackie Brandt were the most consistent Oriole outfield operatives last season and Woodling was lost to the new Washington club in last month's player selection pool.

The two Los Angeles players Autry signed were former Yankee outfielder Bob Cerv and little Albie Pearson, who played the outfield for the Senators and Orioles.

Both players were present at the swank Brown Derby restaurant in Hollywood where the signing was announced. Also present were approximately 100 sports writers, newspaper cameramen and a few others who happened to be outside and wondered what all the excitement was about.

RAIDERS SIGN THREE

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders of the American Football League signed three new players for the 1961 season Tuesday, including one who was their 20th draft choice and the 21st pick of the rival Pittsburgh Steelers.

NC Request Granted

Heels To Withdraw From ACC Tourney

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — The University of North Carolina was granted permission to withdraw from the Atlantic Coast Conference championship basketball tournament in March, but there was growing speculation today that the nation's fourth-ranked team may have been penalized.

Earlier this month, North Carolina was placed on one year's probation and barred from championship tournaments by the NCAA council.

Reports both here and in Greensboro indicated that Jim Weaver, ACC athletic chairman, apparently investigated the "violations" for which North Carolina was put on probation by the NCAA and penalized the Tar Heels too.

But neither Weaver nor university officials offered any comment on the conference's action to permit North Carolina to withdraw from the ACC post-season tourney.

The ACC's executive committee in Greensboro Tuesday to consider "internal matters" but Dr. J. T. Penney of South Carolina, who acted as chairman, said flatly "we have no comment."

But the internal matter was believed to be in regard to the North Carolina basketball case.

International Tourney Opens

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The "follow the sun" golfers teed-off in the early morning fog in Harding Park today in the $5,000 amateur event — prelude to the $50,000 Lucky International Tournament starting Thursday.

The weather forecast for the weekend of golf is "cloudy" with possible showers. If it stays that good, everybody will be happy — including the pro golfers and sponsors.

Today's feature attraction won't be the professionals, however. Steh man on the entertainment world as Bing Crosby, Phil Harris, Dennis Morgan, John Raitt, Howard Keel, Johnny Weissmuller, and James "Maverick" Garner will be in the pairings.

Citizens Bop Borger, 77-51

Citizen's Bank and Trust's Citizens basketball team ran its record to 18-1 last night with a 77-51 victory over Phil Black of Borger in the Pampa Junior High Gym.

Citizen's was paced by Gene Brown, 25, who tallied 22, 20, 21, and Sam Combs, 11. Vonstins had 27 for Borger.

Dons Nip Dogs, 62-60

BORGER — Steve Carter hit a long jump shot in the last seconds of the first overtime period here last night to give Palo Duro a 62-60 victory over Borger. The win pushed the Dons into first place in the tight District 3-4A basketball race.

Carter wound up with 29 but had to take a back seat in scoring honors to teammate Toby Hall, who posted 23. Bruce Francis had 11, For Borger, Jeff Levine had 18, Vernon Welch, 15, and Gale Simpson, 11.

AMARILLO — Amarillo moved into a second place tie with Borger and Lubbock Monday here last night with a 56-45 win over Amarillo Tascosa as Harold Denney pumped in 15 points. Dick Remke had 15 for the Rebels. The Sandies, Monterey and Borger all have 5-2 marks in 3-4A play, while Palo Duro is in first with a 6-1 mark.

LUBBOCK — Lubbock Monterey stayed hot on the heels of league-leading Palo Duro here last night with a 48-32 victory over Tom S. Lubbock John Holloway and Jerry McGuire paced the Plainsmen's winning spree with 16 and 15 points, respectively. Buzzy Henderson had 10 for Lubbock.

WHITE DEER — Gruy's Grayhounds put a severe crimp in White Deer's District 1-A basketball hopes here last night with a narrow 67-56 victory. White Deer's Tommy Lester took high game honors with 24 points while Gary Osborne had 14 for Gruver.

It was the second district loss in less than a week by one point for Coach Bob Moore's Bucks. White Deer now stands 20-2 on the year and 3-2 in district.

PERRYTON — Perryton's hot Rangers ran their District 5-AA mark to 4-1 here last night with a convincing 46-36 win over Shamrock. Harry Drake had 17 points for the winning Rangers, while Don Prueitt made 11 free shots.

Walter Rogers Reports

U.S. Won't Let Up On Commies

The mail in the office of a member of congress brings many varied items. It would be impossible to include in one newsletter a discussion of all of the subjects touched on in one day's mail. Usually, this mail increases tremendously during the first part of a session of Congress. Some letters have to do with the problems of veterans; others have to do with the problems of the farmer, perhaps the general farm problem, or the trials and tribulations encountered under one of the many facets of the government farm program. Others have to do with the many segments of commerce, both domestic and international. Passport problems are always plentiful. Matters concerning the many, many problems which beset the Social Security system always make up a large part of the mail. The several military services are always high on the yardstick of problems affecting the people of this country. There are many, many more items which could be mentioned, but I want to discuss one particular item which always holds a high place in the concern of the people of this country. That is the mail concerning communism and the Communist movement in this nation. We are all deeply disturbed by any activities which might appear to be Communist-inspired or advocated.

During the last several weeks, I have received much mail concerning a report that a Communist march on Washington was to be held during Inauguration week, to impress the congress and the executive branch of the government that communism is very strong in this country, and to pressure congress into abolishing the Committee on Un-American Activities, curtailing the activities of the FBI, and getting rid of J. Edgar Hoover. I do not know where this report started, but I have made every attempt to run down any information concerning the report or a proposed march. If such a march is to take place, it is one of the best-concealed secrets in the Capital. And, I might add, with all of the columnists, newspaper reporters, television and radio commentators who are continually on the go in the nation's capital, the keeping of a secret by anyone or any group is quite an achievement.

If such a march develops, it will be a surprise to many Washingtonians if the Washingtonians notice that a march is in progress. The truth of the matter is that there are quite a number of "marches" on Washington each year. Most of these are about as bona fide as a wooden nickel and about as valuable, before or after inflation. They are usually made up of a sorry-looking bunch of questionable characters who are more interested in getting their own names in the paper or pictures on the television screen than they are in some cause. In fact, I would dare say that 95 percent of them would not know what they are supposed to be marching in favor of or against. But they are exercising a right guaranteed them under the Constitution of the United States under Amendment I, which I quote as follows:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

Of course, there are different views as to what constitutes the right of people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances. Some believe that this gives them the right to picket the White House, Ceram ruins and regulations have been adopted which do not violate this right, but do provide certain lines beyond which the pickets cannot go. Many times great publicity has been given to these White House pickets. In Washington, very little if any attention is paid to them. I remember one particular instance where pickets were supposed to have been marching in front of the House for a number of days. I had driven by the White House no less than three or four times each of those days, and had never noticed these pickets. The other members of the Congress are equally impressed, or perhaps I should say unimpressed, with these activities.

As I said before, I have tried to run down all of the reports and stories about this alleged march on the nation's capital and the White House. I have checked with the FBI, I have checked with other security agencies, I have checked with the newspapers, the radio and television, as well as many members of congress, but have failed to find any information from any of these sources indicating that any mass march of any kind was even contemplated by any groups. I have also checked and re-checked the possible jeopardy to the Un-American Activities Committee, the FBI, and Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, although I was satisfied in my own mind that these groups were in no danger of having their powers or authorities curtailed. I can report to you that I have been reassured that the Un-American Activities Committee will continue with full authority to investigate and to ferret out communism or other subversives; that the FBI will continue and even step up its relentless pursuit of Communists, subversives, and criminals of all sorts over whom this body has jurisdiction; that J. Edgar Hoover will continue to head up the FBI at the instance, request, and invitation of President Kennedy. He was requested by Pre-pickets were supposed to have been

Vanna Make Sumpin' Of It?

British Lads, Lassies, Too, Run Rings Around Our Boys

LONDON (NEA) — American youths are "soft," the British say, and the British have the muscles to prove it.

Even some British girls, with a hand tied behind their back, presumably could lick American boys of comparable age and size. The girls have the figures (mathematical) to prove it.

To put it simply, the American boys flopped in a recent series of fitness tests given to 10,000 on both sides of the Atlantic. It also indicated that the Scotch and Irish, who took part in the test, were tougher than the Americans. To add insult to injury, the London Sunday Times says that the average 14-year-old British school boy can write a better essay than an American college freshman. The newspaper also claims that a possible for an American to go through four years of high school without ever writing an original English composition.

Contrast this with the youngsters in Nottingham who claim they are up with TV and beg for more network, headmaster Walter Bos in the Times.

And if the American youngsters want to make something of it, let them put up their dukes, the British say, and that will decide who is smarter.

Of course if Americans read the result of tests conducted by the American Assn. for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, they wouldn't dare tussle with the British.

Even the British lassies beat American boys of the same age — 10 and 11 — in "endurance for sustained activity." In "leg-power," the lassies from 10 to 13 outscored American boys of the same age. The British boys were ahead in six out of seven contests; the Americans only proved superior in arm power because they did more ball throwing than the British. On an average, the British lads were 14 per cent fitter.

Britishers interviewed claim America's affluent society weakens the American youngsters. While Children in Britain generally walk or pedal bikes to school, American high school students too often are driven or drive their own cars.

An American mother probably would be horrified at the sight of school girls with dripping hair after a swim in a public bath going out into the cold. It is common place here.

Small British boys in light clothes play soccer in the rain sloshing around in the mud.

Altogether, there is much more emphasis here on physical education in the schools and such outdoor activities as camping.

"Most British children like to get out into the country even if they live in town," says Dr. Daltell Ward, medical director of the Central Council for Health Education.

"But in the U.S., even young people drive cars and a country walk would probably seem a bit odd to many of them."

"Dr. Ward says a British committee was set up in 1964 to examine the "physical deterioration of the nation" while "it is only in recent years that the Americans have gotten around to talking about this. That could mean we have a 50-year lead" in physical fitness. So ya wanna make sumpin' of it, huh?

It Was True Then

We recall that only a few weeks ago someone wrote that we might ultimately get so far away from reality that we might even begin to criticize the government operation of the Post Office.

At that time, we commented in support of his supposition and tried to show that we had long held to the view that government in all things ought to be handled by private persons in all departments.

To our delight, just the other day a friend of ours forwarded an item from the March 19, 1959 issue of Harper's Weekly. And this item, more than a hundred years old, reveals that our views of the government Post Office have as long and honorable heritage if we will take the trouble to dig out the historic facts.

We reproduce here "The Post-Office Question" taken from the aforementioned magazine. "Congress has adjourned without making any provision for the Post Office deficiency. It is the intention of the President to construe the omission as a rule of conduct, and to reduce the Post-office expenditures as nearly as possible to the limits of the receipts of the department.

The consequences will, of course, be very serious. The injury will be felt partly by the contractors, and partly by the public. Large reductions will be made in the allowances now made to steamboat and railroad carriers, and in many parts of the country, it is probable that unproductive mail-routes will be altogether cut off.

"The Post Office question in this country needs thorough ventilation. As at present administered, the

Ad Men Surrender

Something of a major management error has occurred in Oregon and we believe the implications from this type of error are far-reaching enough so that it deserves comment.

Some time ago, a move got underway in that far western state, as elsewhere, to ban billboard advertising. This is a part of a well-orchestrated campaign to strike a blow against private emotional efforts and to bring everything under the control of the government relating to private management of business and promotion.

In Oregon, the contest turned into a debate at the polls with the voters casting ballots on last November 8th in a state initiative. And, to the relief of all who are informed on the issue, the measure lost. Furthermore, it lost by a wide majority, almost two to one against a proposal that would virtually have wiped out billboard advertising in the state.

But in whipping up the electoral support of its position, the advertising people who own the billboards committed themselves in haste. They promised that if the measure were defeated they would then offer a program which would "protect all scenic highways and which would qualify for federal aid."

In other words, the outdoor advertising men decided that if they could defeat the law that had been offered, they would still come forward to cooperate on setting up a "sound regulatory law" which would do much the same thing the law they wanted defeated would have done. The difference would be that the "regulatory" law would be more modified and would permit the industry to remain functional in certain areas at least.

Without in the least being up against the place where any pushing of the panic button was indicated, the outdoor ad men pushed the button.

Within a week after they had won the point in the voting they came forward offering to meet with just anybody and everybody to try to set up some means which would permit the state to run the outdoor advertising business. Doubtless, this made the politicians feel really good about it.

But the result for the ad men will be a disaster and if they don't know it yet, they will and most of them will live long enough to repent at their leisure their rash action.

For the government complied by setting up a five-member State Scenic Highway Commission which were appointed by the governor and who "represent" the many interested groups including the AFL-CIO.

The commission is now authorized to declare any particular part of the state as a "scenic" area and thus to ban outdoor advertising in that area. True, before making such a designation stick, the commission has to hold public hearings.

But all of this is foolishness and costly. The taxpayers will now be called upon to pay commission salaries, to pay for hearings, to pay for all the comings and the goings, and in the end the outdoor advertising people will be as hemmed in and controlled by law as they would have been if they had saved their breath in the first place.

Why any intelligent businessmen want to compromise their position like this we simply cannot fathom. True, the ad men had agreed to this sort of procedure before the election, and hence were honor-bound to carry out their folly. They can be commended for sticking to their wholly irrational agreement.

But long before they had even made such a promise they should have recognized that the state is their enemy and not their friend in this matter, and they should have opposed this incursion against their business right down to the starting gun without any kind of quarter being given.

Meanwhile, all the rest of the nation will be called upon to help pay for the mistake via the federal aid gimmick, and the fat is in the fire for certain.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

If you've suffered a severe burn at any time in your life, you now have an opportunity to make a practical expression of gratitude for your recovery.

Let me explain. The death rate from burns is sharply rising more than 30 per cent of the body's surface has been charred. And when the area of involvement is more than 50 per cent, the prospects for recovery fall off sharply despite improved methods of treatment that make use of intravenous infusions, transfusions, antibiotics and other innovations.

In a joint effort to increase the recovery rate from extensive burns, investigators from the University of Illinois, members of the medical staff of Chicago's St. Anne's Hospital and the faculty of Our Lady of the Angels school undertook a coordinated study of the youngsters who survived a disastrous school fire Dec. 1, 1958.

Briefly stated, the results of this admirably conceived investigation were:

Isolation of a circulating "burn toxin," produced in the charred skin and tissues and apparently responsible for most of the distressing manifestations and the high mortality rate among those who suffered extensive burns.

Demonstration of a "burn antitoxin" in the circulating blood of survivors of extensive burns.

Evidence of the capacity of "burn antitoxin" to lessen the damaging effects of circulating "burn toxin," as the latter is being produced in charred areas of the skin and tissues.

Here, then, is how a survivor of an extensive burn can make a practical expression of gratitude for recovery.

Offer a sample of blood for testing at the nearest hospital or branch of the Red Cross.

Inform local officials, including members of the fire and police departments, of your readiness to donate blood containing "burn antitoxin" to any acutely burned individual especially one whose area of involvement exceeds 25 per cent of the body's surface.

Always provided, of course, that preliminary tests indicate that the bloods are compatible.

It was suggested that the carrying of letters was not a proper function of government. The framers of the Constitution, however, had so many radical innovations to occupy their minds that they neglected this one, and the Post-office Department was left in stasis (sic) quo. It has now worked eighty years to the infinite disadvantage both of the public and the government.

"It answers no useful purpose whatever. It inflicts three decided injuries. Letters are not carried safely or swiftly, and thus the public are injured. The annual deficit in the revenue is enormous, and thus the government is embarrassed. The appointment of postmasters on political grounds tends to demoralize citizens throughout the country, and thus it works mischief among the most active class of the people. Here are three arguments - each of which is conclusive - against the system. The subject may vainly be searched for a single sound argument in its favor."

"If the postal service were thrown open to the public the express companies would at once undertake it. Letters could be carried at least as cheaply as at present; and in case of loss, the amount lost could be recovered from the carrier. Competition would secure speed in transmission and exactness of delivery. The government - that is to say, the tax-payers - would save five or six millions a year. Express companies could serve, without loss, post-routes which cost the present Postal Department a large sum annually; they would make enough on freight to reimburse them for any loss on letters.

"The arguments in favor of the change are, in fact, so overwhelming that nothing can prevent its speedy realization but the base desire of politicians to keep up the present patronage of the department - to which, more than to any other single cause, the demoralization of our politics is due."

Had we written this ourselves a hundred years ago we could not have more accurately stated the case that presently confronts us today. And as our ideological precursor correctly points out in his last paragraph, the only thing to keep the government operating the postal system is the "base desire" of the politicians.

No further observation should be needed.

"I tried reason and cooperation. But I got nowhere. I have been strongly urged to purge the committee. I do not want to do that. This is a reasonable way to solve this problem, and if it isn't done in this manner, then the only alternative will be drastic measures. Because I am determined to permit nothing to stand in the way of action on the President's five legislative programs. We can either handle this matter with his moderate proposal, or else..."

"The President does not plan to ask for major civil rights legislation this session," replied Rayburn. "He does intend to ask that the life of the Civil Rights Commission be extended. But that is all. He is fully aware that raising the civil rights issue would imperil his big programs for the aged and the national economy."

Rayburn also told the caucus that he plans to run for re-election in 1962.

Now 79, the noted Texan will complete 50 continuous years in Congress with this term - an all-time record. Several years ago, Rayburn indicated he was considering retiring after a half century in the House.

But he definitely is not thinking that way now. Noting that he did not have any extra tickets for last Friday's inaugural, he declared "However, I can tell you this, God willing, I am going to be here for the next inauguration, and I promise you there will be a lot better distribution of tickets in 1964."

The caucus resounded with laughter and applause.

ATOMIC SQUAWKS - Dr. Glenn Seaborg, appointed chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, will be confirmed by the Senate, but Democratic leaders of the Joint Atomic Committee are frankly miffed by his selection. Representative Chet Holifield (D., Calif.), new Chairman of this potent committee, and Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.), Vice Chairman, are making no bones of their displeasure. One complaint is that they were not consulted.

Holifield is telling House Democratic leaders, "The first I heard about this appointment is when the President called me from Palm Beach and said he was going to make it. Later, after checking on Seaborg in California, I was startled to learn he was very close to former Vice President Nixon, and that he hadn't been active in Democratic affairs since 1951. I telephoned Kennedy and told him that, but all he said was that Seaborg's appointment would be announced the next day."

Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of the President, will be named Under Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. This appointment has been under inner council debate for a month, because of Shriver's family relationship to the President. But the latter has finally decided to go ahead anyway... Republican Senator John Sherman Cooper is contributing a member to the new White House staff. His administrative assistant, Lee White, is joining Kennedy's staff. A Nebraska White once worked for Kennedy when he was first elected to the Senate.

HOFFA "LACKS" FIRE WASHINGTON (UPI) - Martin F. O'Donoghue, former chairman of a court-appointed board of monitors for the Teamsters, doesn't have too much faith in Teamster President James R. Hoffa cleaning up corruption within the union. "To clean up the Teamsters," O'Donoghue told Senate investigators Tuesday, "a man would have to have fire in his belly. Hoffa just hasn't got it."

Taking Some Kick-Out Of It

ROBERT S. ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

Allen - Scott Reports: No Major Civil Rights Legislation To Be Requested This Session by President

WASHINGTON - President Kennedy contemplates asking for "no major civil rights legislation" at this session of congress.

He will seek continuance of the Civil Rights Commission.

It expires Sept. 6. As this column disclosed a month ago, the President is having a study made for the purpose of possibly asking that this agency be made permanent and be extensively reorganized.

That includes replacing the six incumbent commissioners, and many of the 75-member staff, a number with salaries ranging from $10,000 to $22,500.

Speaker Sam Rayburn is authority for the inside word on these plans.

The veteran Texas leader discussed them in talks with close associates, and at the House Democratic caucus that approved his compromise to expand the Rules Committee from 12 to 15 members to wrest control from a Republican-Southern coalition.

Illustrative of Rayburn's private comments was his discussion with Representative Frank Smith (D., Miss.), who supported the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

"The President needs our help to enact the five major legislative programs he will submit to congress," said Rayburn. "We must do our utmost to ensure he can do that for the sake of our country and party."

"What are these five legislative programs?" asked Smith.

"Aid to depressed areas, medical care for the aged, housing, education, and increasing the minimum wage," replied Rayburn.

"What about civil rights?"

"There will be no major civil rights legislation this session," said Rayburn. "The President realizes that raising this issue would only jeopardize the programs he deems urgently necessary to bolster the economy and security of the nation. So all he intends to recommend is continuance of the Civil Rights Commission. Congress has voted that twice, and he will ask it to do so again."

THE CAUCUS SHOWDOWN - At the Democratic caucus, Speaker Rayburn was equally emphatic about the need to support the new President.

"As Democrats we have a responsibility to make sure the Kennedy program will be considered by congress," said Rayburn. "A majority of the American people voted for that program, and we owe it to them to act on it."

Representative Howard Smith (D., Va.), Chairman of the Rules Committee and a leader of the opposition coalition, bluntly challenged this argument.

"We also owe it to the people not to pack the Rules Committee," he shouted.

"I have never packed a committee in my life," thundered Rayburn, "and you know it. My proposal to expand the membership of the Rules Committee is not a packing scheme. It is a necessary step to make certain that the Democratic process in the House will work and that our President's program will have a chance to be fairly and properly considered."

"I tried reason and cooperation. But I got nowhere. I have been strongly urged to purge the committee. I do not want to do that. This is a reasonable way to solve this problem, and if it isn't done in this manner, then the only alternative will be drastic measures. Pegler Says:

Henderson Labor Case Part Of Terrorism War

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Last November eight rioters who had conspired to dynamite and set fire to portions of a cotton mill in Henderson, N.C., were escorted to prison to serve from two to 10 years. There was a farewell demonstration of sorrow by relatives of some of the men. Officials, professional unionists of the Textile Workers' Union conducted a demonstration that included a marchant, "Solidarity forever," which has been a war cry of communist mobs for years. Three officials of the union got from six to 10 years, four local disturbers, five to seven, and the low man on the pole, a local dupe, got two to three.

Both supreme courts, state and federal, had turned them all down in appeals and Governor Luther Hodges, now Secretary of Commerce under President Kennedy, denied executive clemency.

This is a development in a campaign of northern unionists to drag southern workers into authoritarian southern unions, concentrated in New York and Washington. It is an incident in a long war of terrorism. In June, 1951, criminals on the union side killed a woman employee at Berryton, Ga., named Miss Nellie Tucker as she was riding toward one of the Berryton mills. A gang mobbed her car and dumped it in the fashion perfected in the Auto Workers' insurrection in Flint and Detroit in Roosevelt's wild '30's. There were four other women but no men in the same car. Miss Tucker's head was crushed and she apparently died instantly. A. B. Hammond, the general manager of the mills, wrote that the pickets "stood around the automobile and sang songs and refused to help us turn the car upright."

The Berryton mills later were sold to the Henderson, N.C., cotton mills and the violence spread to Henderson.

Twelve rioters were indicted in the Berryton murder, but only one went to trial. He was convicted of involuntary manslaughter, served one year of a 3-to-5-year term, and was pardoned in response to political agitation directed from Washington. In 1955, after this fall-guy was let out he got permanently drunk. He committed suicide the following Christmas, leaving a wife and five small children.

There was no expression of sorrow at that Christmas-tide for Miss Tucker, long in her grave, but the unionists managed a few official tears for the suicide's children:

As to whether his conscience goaded him to his final act there was local speculation. But he was an ignorant, local rank-and-filer, and expendable - and his family were as well.

Three or four homes of other Berryton workers were dynamited at night, a water-line was blown up, an act of terror typical in southern union apostolates of recent years, and a number of non-strikers, who refused to join the union, suffered the normal wear and tear of persuasion by clubs in the hands of persons unknown. None of the strikers ever was hired back by Berryton, the union never got a contract and the other defendants in the mob who were indicted quietly faded out of the community. Their cases may be almost as tragic as that of Miss Tucker. For it was apparent that excited workers on both sides were victims of organized agitation by professionals from "outside."

In the more recent troubles in Henderson, big shots from Washington created an atmosphere that discouraged some regular workers. There were many explosions, windshields of workers' cars were pierced by steel balls and rocks, men were shot and slugged - and farmers from the out-back went to town to earn wages that exceeded their normal income.

During the war when the industry was heavily concentrated in New England, a regional director

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (UPI) - The 1,500-ton nuclear submarine "Shark" successfully completed its preliminary sea trials Tuesday and returned to port to prepare for commissioning ceremonies Feb. 9. The Shark, believed the fastest undersea craft in the world, will be used primarily as an anti-submarine weapon.

FOR CUBAN DOCTORS TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - About 300 physicians who fled Cuba to escape the Fidel Castro government may find jobs in state hospitals and institutions in Florida.

They now are undergoing a "crash" course at the University of Miami to prepare for practice in this country. Gov. Farris Bryant suggested Tuesday the state hire as many as needed.

AGENT GUARDS IKE WASHINGTON (UPI) - A veteran Secret Service agent who is on loan to former President Eisenhower for about a month is being paid by the government.

The Secret Service said Tuesday that the agent, Deeter (Dick) Flohr, who chauffeured Eisenhower and Presidents Truman and Roosevelt, was being paid his regular salary of $9,215 a year.

THE COLLEGES AND THE SIT-INS

(The Carolina Israelite)

The recent wave of sit-ins started by Negro college students in the South helped to point up the fact that our colleges have played an ever-important role in the struggle for civil rights in America.

even hazard the opinion that today the colleges wield a greater influence in the area of civil rights than the editorial offices or the pulpits of the country. You must remember that throughout history the students have always been the most responsive segment to political and economic changes.

I am mindful of the opinion many people ventured when Harvard, Yale, Sarah Lawrence, Cornell and other colleges refused to accept government funds for scholarships because these grants entailed a loyalty oath. "These are old, well-endowed institutions and they can afford an independent stand," was the consensus. But the truth is that these institutions are old, well-endowed and firmly established precisely because throughout their history they always took such a stand.

Staying In Condition All Night; Learn To Learn While Snoozing

NEW YORK (NEA) — It's 3 a.m. in 100 darkened bedrooms in this city 100 electric timers turn on 100 tape recorders. A special signal plays briefly and 100 sleepers begin another night in an experiment that may finally confirm one of mankind's oldest suspicions.

These timers, tapes and sleepers are part of a nationwide project by the Research Institute of Sleep Education, a non-commercial association of engineers, psychiatrists and educators.

Their purpose: to find out — and increase — the amount you can learn while you sleep. Their record after five years of work, according to managing director Robert

Monroe: "Proof that you can sleep — learn almost anything, from Latin to machine tool operation to better golf."

Isolation of the human factors that have kept many sleep teaching methods to a low 20 per cent success rate.

Discovery of a channel to the mind of the sleeper, bringing retention and recall of data to an amazingly high 72 per cent — and higher scores expected as techniques improve.

Now, man has long suspected that dumb old sleep was a waste of time, regardless of his most interesting dreams. So today sleep teaching via home record courses is at least a $10 million business. Courses run from self-improvement (for dieters and wall flower) to foreign language lessons.

But according to a spokesman for the U.S. Army Language School at Monterey, Calif., "We've tried one or another of these methods from time to time. In the end, we have sleepy students and not much improvement."

There are three good reasons for traditional low scores in sleep learning, according to the Research Institute's Dr. Lewis Wolberg, one of the best-known names in psychiatric and psychiatric hypnosis today. The problems, he says, are:

A lack of motivation to learn. Sleep itself which sorts out disturbances and pushes the harmless ones (like lessons) beyond hearing. And anxiety — something threatening in the sleep lecture — which wakes up the sleeper.

"Even if you avoid anxiety-ridden concepts or words," Dr. Wolberg said, "the best-motivated student must still be conditioned not to push the lesson out of hearing. Conditioning seems to be the answer to all three of those nighttime learning headaches.

This conditioning, Dr. Wolberg explained, is something like hypnosis. In the words of Institute director Monroe, it is "building a channel" into the sleeper's mind. You use a signal, such as a special mixture of sounds, which opens the channel. Then you feed in the data.

A taped lesson lasts 11 minutes and is repeated 10 times during the night. The average motivated student will learn his 72 per cent one night. Almost anybody with an open channel can learn it in seven nights.

Monroe's nine-year-old daughter, for example, has sleep-learned her multiplication tables up to 24 times 24.

If he wanted to, Monroe could play that sound signal, open up the channel and teach her to operate a turret lathe or shoot pool or anything. If he wanted to.

Gershwin's Music Still Thrills Ethel Merman

NEW YORK (UPI) — The great lady wore pink flowered-blue pajamas, pink slippers, a white silk scarf wound over head and under chin, and had her hair in curlers. She swung wide the door of her apartment and said:

"Come on in. We've got a sudden rehearsal called here, but there's nobody here yet but the accordionist."

In a place of honor in the living room, sitting atop a wall cabinet, was a framed photograph of a young man at the piano, and on the bottom margin in his handwriting was printed: "For Ethel — a lucky composer is he who has you singing his songs. Oct. 28, '30."

Underneath that he had written a few bars of music and printed in the words: "I got rhythm, I got music."

Two weeks before that photograph was autographed, Ethel Merman — plucked from the Brooklyn Paramount Theater — had loosed her lung power on Broadway for the first time. Gershwin's musical "Girl Crazy" opened Oct. 14, 1930, and on Oct. 15, 1930, Ethel Merman was a star.

And now, exactly 30 years and three months later, Miss Merman — now acclaimed as first lady of the American musical theater — goes once again under the spell of the Gershwin Music Sunday night. The program is the 90-minute "The Gershwin Years" on CBS-TV the third "General Electric Theater" special of the season.

The show aims to reflect the life of the 1920's and 1930's against a background of Gershwin's music, and Miss Merman, as one of the stars, will do song bits and appear in skits.

What kind of person was the composer?

"To me, he was a very shy

Dutchess Rakes British Royalty

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American-born Duchess of Windsor has spoken out against the attitude of the British royal family, the British government and many of the British people toward her husband and disclosed "24 years of persecution."

In the first of a series of non-sensational columns in McCall's Magazine, the Duchess said she decided to write the column because "the money is useful" and "at last I had a chance to tell the world what I think about the treatment of my husband."

"It suddenly occurred to me how ridiculous it is to go on behind a family designed government-manufactured curtain of asbestos that protects the British Commonwealth from dangerous use," she said.

The Duchess charged that "for 24 years, my husband has been punished, like a small boy who gets a spanking every day of his life for a single transgression."

But she said the Duke, who abdicated the throne to marry her in 1936, never said one word to her about how he felt until she consulted him about writing the column.

"His hurt has been deep, and although I would not have our life together one which is different from what it is now, I cannot but know that the hurt he feels has been caused, to some extent, by me."

The Duchess denied that she and the Duke live a "playful existence" and said she and her husband pay their bills.

Mother Who Doped Tots Given Term

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — Mrs. Lillian Fratantonio, mother of the "sleeping beauty" sisters, has been given the maximum sentence of one year in jail and a $500 fine for drugging her daughters into mysterious comas.

Juvenile Court Judge Albert A. Woldman said there was no evidence that she suffered from mental illness which might have caused her to give the two little girls drugs.

The state maintained that Mrs. Fratantonio gave drugs to her daughters, Bernadette, 3, and Venuta, 6, which caused the sleeping sickness which baffled doctors for months.

Financial Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — The forgotten art of redyeing has been reborn.

And the current recession has played a big role in bringing boom times to the redyeing trade.

The redyeing business picks up when the nation's householders are determined to save money, and right now the wholesale dye plants serving retail dry cleaners are busier than they have been in 15 years.

The Garment Dyers Guild of America said reports from across the nation indicate that the past six months may have been the best in professional redyeing since just after World War II when millions of veterans brought their khakis, blues and jackets to neighborhood dry cleaners to be redyed for civilian use.

With high unemployment conditions for well into 1961, Guild leaders look for further expansion in the redyeing business.

In most families clothing and household furnishings are the first things economical homemakers keep off the shopping list during hard times. So refurbishing rather than replacement becomes the order of the day.

Guild members reported that the redyeing business is approximately 15 per cent above last year, which, because of increased public acceptance of improved developments, had been the best year in the previous five.

While the bulk of redyeing business today remains in garments, wholesale dyers noted that more and more fabric furnishings are being tossed into the rotary dyer for stripping, scouring, re-coloring and refinishing.

And while most dyers term the increased attention to fabric redyeing a reflection of many homemakers' uncertainty as to when they may be able to afford replacements in the near future, many see redyeing of fabric as a permanent home furnishing trend.
