

Fund For Leukemia-Stricken Tot Passes $400

Lorinda Wagner Enters Houston's Anderson Hospital Tomorrow

Little Lorinda Wagner and her mother, father and baby brother left last night for Houston where the five-year-old leukemia-stricken tot will enter M. D. Anderson Hospital tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Wagner said yesterday afternoon that Lorinda is scheduled to undergo her first examination at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday and that "We thought it best to leave as soon as possible so that the trip won't be too hard on her."

And Lorinda went to Houston with the assurance from the people of Pampa that her parents will be at her side, for the Lorinda Wagner Fund soared past $400 last night with more money coming from various companies where employees have voluntarily contributed to the cause.

And the fund is being continued.

Whether-or-not the Wagners and Lorinda will need it, as Mrs. Wagner put it, beside the point.

She said:

"We are so very grateful to the people of Pampa. We don't have any idea how long we must stay in Houston, how long Lorinda will be hospitalized. But my husband and I definitely know one thing: when we were told what had happened to our daughter we were suddenly in another world. We were horribly sick. We felt we were alone with an overwhelming burden, and we didn't know where to turn. But the people of this city came to our aid. How we shall ever thank everyone, we don't know. But we shall always try to see that the people in Pampa understand that we are so very appreciative of their generosity.

"We shall never forget," Mrs. Wagner said.

Thus, with the Wagners en route to Houston and Lorinda assured the best of care, the many citizens who have joined this project through their money and their efforts will be awaiting word from that point. And Mrs. Wagner informed The Daily News that the newspaper and radio station KHHH will be fully informed of Lorinda's progress and details of the physicians' findings will be forwarded.

And, Mrs. Wagner suggested this as they were leaving:

"We hope that any money that remains will be held in the fund where some other child, some other family in need will be able to benefit from the foundation and that they, too, will realize the true meaning of friendship."

And, following a discussion on the matter today with Mrs. Don R. Stephens, the Pampa mother who instigated the drive to assist Lorinda and her parents, the fund will be continued. Whatever money remaining in the fund that will not be used to help the Wagners will be held for such emergencies, and the money will be made available to those needy, worthy families or individuals.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court's refusal to abolish film censorship by cities and states today evoked an industry response like John Paul Jones' "I have just begun to fight."

President Eric Johnston of the Motion Picture Association of America said that the ruling "should be a trumpet call to all believers in free expression."

State Senate Begins Work On Huge Spending Bill; Committees Readied

By PAT CONWAY — AUSTIN (UPI)—With a whopping $2.48 billion state spending bill to work on, the state Senate today was ready for business in the 57th Texas Legislature.

The Senate completed its final organization Monday when Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey appointed lawmakers to the upper chamber's 24 standing committees.

States receivers early today and reported "all is normal aboard."

The Radio Corporation of America's station at Chatham, Mass., reported receiving the message on 500 kilocycles.

In English, the message was addressed "To all newspapers," then in Portuguese it said: "All is normal aboard. We will inform the world in due time. We will make a telephone transmission on 2037 kilocycles."

The Portuguese part was translated by the National Broadcasting Corp.

The message was signed "Captain Henrique Galvao," a former army officer whom the Portuguese government charged with leading the most fantastic act of piracy in modern times.

There was no indication from the message where the ship was, where it was headed or what condition the 600 passengers and more than 300 crewmen aboard were in. RCA said there was no hint when the next transmission would be made.

Two U.S. destroyers, a British naval frigate and American planes were hunting the Atlantic for the push liner despite a reported threat by the pirate band to send the ship to the bottom of the ocean if a warship approached.

The Portuguese government said Galvao led a band of 70 heavily armed men in the takeover early Sunday.

He vowed that the movie makers would fight censorship in legislatures, in courts and "wherever pressures shall be applied."

The high court, in a 5-4 decision Monday, rejected an appeal by Times Film Corp., to strike down Chicago's 50-year-old censorship ordinance.

The majority opinion by Justice Tom C. Clark upheld the right to censor but withheld judgment on exactly how the job should be done.

The opinion said the states should be free to select the most effective remedy for preventing the showing of obscene movies.

Times film had argued that the sole remedy was prosecution under the pornography law after the picture had been shown. The company started the lawsuit to have the ordinance declared unconstitutional after refusing to submit its film, "Don Juan," for examination by the Chicago police commissioner, who issues permits.

Cabot Employees' Art Work Put In Library

Pampa has an opportunity all this week to view an unusual art exhibit in Lovett Memorial Library.

Eighteen paintings, winners in the fourth Ralph Bradley Art Contest conducted among Cabot Corp. employes and members of their immediate families, are on display in the library from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily through Friday and on Saturday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The contest was conducted in the Cabot plants. There were more than 60 entries. Among the selected by the professional judges was one by the son of an employe of Cabot's Pampa Machinery Division.

"Moses and the Ten Commandments" was painted by Kenneth Mitchell, son of Richard E. Mitchell, 713 N. Nelson. The judges gave Mitchell a special award—the best single work with use of the human figure. Young Mitchell also has another work in the current display, a pencil sketch titled "Moses and Space." This picture came off with an honorable mention award from the judges.

The contest pictures are being taken on a tour of all Cabot plants. Each division employe also was asked to cast their votes and make selections for first, second and third places.

Disarmament Policy Studied By President

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy called in his State and Defense Department high commands today to work on a coordinated disarmament program as the foundation of future negotiations with Russia.

The new chief executive also arranged a conference with House and Senate Democratic leaders to set a date for his State of the Union message to be delivered to a joint session of Congress sometime next week.

Kennedy will have an opportunity to report on his national security and disarmament conference Wednesday night when he holds his first televised press conference.

The chief executive has long believed that the general field of disarmament offered the best of opportunity for fruitful negotiation with the Soviet Union and this was the idea behind his meeting today.

His disarmament conferees included Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, John J. McCloy, director of the U.S. Disarmament Administration, and Jerome Wiesner, special assistant to the President for science and technology.

This was the third consecutive day on which the President occupied himself primarily with a sweeping re-evaluation of foreign and defense policy. He is devoting more time to this area of urgent planning than to any other aspect of his new administration.

Senate Finance Committee went to sea Monday when Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey appointed lawmakers to the upper chamber's 24 standing committees.

House Members Still Limited To Action

House members are still limited to action on routine resolutions until committee assignments can be made by Speaker James A. Turman.

Turman said he expected his selections to be complete by late in the week. He has only had two weeks since the start of the session to interview the 350-member lower chamber on their committee preferences.

Ramsey, who was assured of his return as presiding officer of the Senate last summer, was able to complete his committee assignments earlier.

The lieutenant governor shuffled two committee chairmanships between Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo and Sen. Wardlaw Lane of Center. Hardeman, who headed state affairs last session, was named chairman of the Jurisprudence Committee. Lane, last session's jurisprudence chairman, became head of state affairs.

During a brief House session Monday, Rep. W. T. Oliver of Port Neches introduced a resolution authorizing the creation of a general investigating committee "to initiate and continue any and all inquiries and hearings into matters pertaining to state government."

Oliver seeks a committee to resume the vice probe in Jefferson County and indicated he was ready to skirmish with Turman if the speaker won't permit early action on the measure.

Turman allowed Oliver to express his views.

Solons Again Call Hoffa Over Hoods In His Union

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Teamster President James R. Hoffa was summoned before Senate investigators today to answer charges that he allowed racketeers to infiltrate his union despite a promise to clean up the giant labor organization.

The Senate investigations subcommittee particularly wanted to question Hoffa about alleged payoffs to racketeers by Local 233 and other teamster locals in New York City.

The investigators also wanted to find out more about a secret 1959 conference between two Local 233 officials and racketeer Antonio (Tony Ducks) Corallo. Police who planted a microphone in

Corallo's Apartment Submitted A Recording

Corallo's apartment submitted a recording in which the Teamster officials allegedly quoted Hoffa as directing Corallo:

"I don't care if you want to steal, if you want to rob, go ahead, (but) don't get caught, don't get caught."

Legislation: President Kennedy holds his first meeting with Democratic congressional leaders. Speaker Sam Rayburn was expected to tell him the outcome still is in doubt in the fight to enlarge the House Rules Committee in order to break the conservative coalition which dominates the panel and threatens Kennedy's legislative program. The House will vote Thursday on Rayburn's plan to add three new members to the committee. House Republicans came out against the plan Monday.

Nominations: The Senate Foreign Relations Committee called for questioning — and then was expected to quickly approve — three more top members of President Kennedy's State Department team: George W. Ball, named undersecretary of state for economic affairs; former Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams, appointed assistant secretary for African affairs and Roger W. Jones, selected for deputy undersecretary.

Peace Agency: Twenty-three Democratic congressmen introduced legislation to create a national peace agency. The agency would study scientific approaches to disarmament controls and political and economic tensions that lead to war.

Icy Rain, Sleet May Trail Cold Into State

By United Press International

Old Man Winter wound up for another Sunday punch at Texas today, as an unexpected surge of cold Canadian air plunged into the state with promises of raw winds, freezing rain and possibly sleet.

Cold wave warnings were issued for the entire northern half of the state.

A loath-chattering 12 degree is forecast for Pampa tonight, with a high of 24 expected tomorrow.

The state with readings expected to plunge as low as 8 degrees in the upper Panhandle, to around the 15-degree mark along the entire Red River Valley and to around 20 deep into North Central and Northeast Texas.

The collision of this frigid air with a northward-spreading rain belt called for forecasts of possible freezing rain or sleet tonight and Wednesday in the upper-half of the state.

The cold front threw the weatherman a curve, since earlier forecasts had said the frontal system was not expected to cause much change in temperatures.

At daybreak, the front still was north of the Red River except in the Panhandle where it had penetrated below Amarillo. But, its southward push was so strong it was due in the Dallas-Fort Worth region by around noon.

Ahead of the front, Texas basked in mild, if somewhat damp weather.

Only one point recorded sub-freezing readings by 6 a.m. That was Dalhart with a 30-degree reading. Amarillo reported a low of 34 and Lubbock 36. Otherwise, readings were in the 40s and 50s.

Temporary Indian Affairs Aide Post Given To Cherokee Leader

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Interior Secretary Stewart Udall today named W. W. (Bill) Keeler, an Oklahoma oil executive and Cherokee leader, as his chief adviser on Indian affairs for three months.

Keeler's appointment was announced at a breakfast sponsored by Oklahoma Democratic Sens. Robert S. Kerr and A. S. Mike Monroney.

Udall said Keeler had turned down the permanent job on the grounds that he could not leave his post with Phillips. He said Kerr, whose Kerr-McGee Oil Co. is one of the largest independents in the field, had interceded with Phillips to get Keeler a 90-day leave.

Udall said Keeler would draft a reorganization plan for the Indian Affairs Bureau. The plan will concentrate on decentralization of bureau affairs, to place more authority into the field forces. Udall said Indian problems varied from tribe to tribe and reservation to reservation, making administration from Washington difficult.

The new secretary said the 90-day period Keeler agreed to serve was a "crucial" one in getting Indian affairs off to a good start.

Glenn Emmons of Gallup, N.M., has been Indian commissioner. He resigned effective Jan. 20.

Freeman Orders Food Purchases For U.S. Needy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman today ordered federal purchases of pork, beans and dried eggs for donation to the needy.

Freeman's action followed up President Kennedy's executive order Saturday to expand distribution of free food to underprivileged families.

Freeman's announcement did not indicate how much would be purchased. He said, however, that shipments of canned pork and gravy, dried edible pea beans, and dried whole egg solids will be available to states for distribution to the needy by late February or early March.

The food distribution program, handled locally by state and local welfare agencies, has been moving flour, corn meal, non-fat dried milk, rice, lard and butter to about 3.5 million persons in 42 states. Kennedy's order directed that the food donations be doubled.

Poll Tax Sales Campaign Begun By GOP Women

Women members of the Gray County Republican Club are selling poll taxes today and tomorrow in various locations in the city, and Mrs. David Smith, county vice-chairman, said her group will be contacting residents on the sales throughout the week.

Sales today were conducted in the Hughes Bldg., the Combs-Worley Bldg., the First National Bank and the Citizens' Banks and Trust Co.

Sales will be conducted tomorrow in a majority of the supermarkets in Pampa and numerous offices in the downtown area will be visited, Mrs. Smith said.

Speaks Tonight

Members of the Knife and Fork Club will hear one of the nation's outstanding telepathists and memory demonstrators in the club's monthly dinner meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Pampa High School cafeteria.

Dr. Franz J. Polgar, the Hungarian-born man of mental mystery who has memorized telephone directories and exhibited startling feats of mental capacity, will be here for one night only and is expected to be one of the most interesting speakers to appear here in recent months.

Kennedy Drops In On Friends Unexpectedly

By LEON BURNETT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—For Mrs. Benjamin Bradlee it was just another Sunday morning—until in popped the President of the United States.

What is the reaction of a housewife, doing routine chores in her around-home clothes, when such a distinguished caller appears unexpectedly?

"Oh," she said in an interview later, "we're used to him dropping by . . . (pause) but then he is the President now, isn't he?"

"I was upstairs bathing the baby at the time. I was wearing my old clothes.

"I took the baby down and we she, her husband, President Kennedy, brother Edward Kennedy and Paul Fay, (newly named Navy undersecretary) chatted for I guess five minutes—five or 10 minutes.

"He said hello to the children. Then he said goodbye and left. That's about all there was to it. "It was just an old friend stopping in—except that he just happens to be President."

Mrs. Bradlee is the attractive, blonde wife of a Newsweek magazine correspondent. The Bradlee home is just two doors from the Georgetown residence Kennedy vacated to enter the White House, and the families have been close friends for several years.

The new President, who has a flair for doing the unexpected, visited the Bradlees on his way to church. He just walked up, opened the door and went in.

"Anyone at home?" he called. "Sure," replied Bradlee running down the stairway. "Why don't you come up for a few minutes."

The President then greeted Mrs. Bradlee, whose "old clothes" consisted of orange capri pants, a gold blouse and a cocoa-colored sweater. She was holding her 2-month-old baby, the youngest of six Bradlee children.

Mrs. Bradlee told the President to have "Jackie" (his wife, Jacqueline) call her.

"She will," Kennedy replied as he walked briskly away.

Elizabeth, Philip On Hunting Trip

JAIPUR, India (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth of Britain journeyed south yesterday to the hunting lodge of the fabulous Maharaja of Jaipur and possibly a tiger shoot in the forests.

The queen and her husband, Prince Philip, left this city of pink sandstone palaces Sunday night on a 100-mile train trip to the hunting grounds at Sawaimadhopur.

There was no indication whether the queen and her husband would actually participate in a tiger hunt or just watch from a high, safe platform.

There has been a considerable outcry both in India and England from animal lovers who object to hunting for sport.

Elizabeth rode into Jaipur on a huge elephant named Sundergaj, with the wealthy maharaja, Philip and the maharaja's wife rode on a second elephant.

The queen appeared nervous as the maharaja helped her into the howdah atop the elephant, but a few minutes later she appeared completely at ease.

She waved to thousands of Indians jamming every available rooftop, window and curb space.

Scribe Agrees To Carry His Part Of The Load, But He Needs Time

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In his inaugural address President Kennedy told us that "the final success or failure of our course rests more in our hands than in his."

Fair enough, I say. Since we're all in this together, it seems only right that we carry a part of the burden and share in the credit or blame for what happens.

I hope, however, that the new President will wait at least another day or two, before he tells us what it is that he wants us to do. I, for one, need a little more time in which to recover from the inaugural itself before I pick up my part of the load.

My hands and feet still haven't thoroughly thawed out from that first day on the new frontier, which seems to follow a line roughly paralleling the Arctic Circle.

Kennedy said the weather that prevailed here during inauguration would add "zest" to the ceremony and that it did—if "zest" is a synonym for frostbite and pneumonia.

Besides that, I would like to have a somewhat clearer idea of what "our course" is before I start doing my bit. I don't want to wander off in the wrong direction. But as soon as we all warm up and get our bearings, Kennedy can count on plenty of help. We Americans have never been niggardly about advising our President and usually we don't even have to be solicited.

Solutions to various national problems already are beginning to trickle in from some quarters. I was particularly impressed by the helpful spirit shown by "Roll Call," a weekly newspaper circulated in Capitol Hill. In its inauguration edition, "Roll Call" reviewed the entire panorama of problems facing Kennedy and offered suggestions that went something like this:

Farm supplies—Persuade distributors and lunch counters to put wheat instead of lettuce on a sandwich plate. The customers will push aside the wheat as they do the lettuce and thus help reduce the surplus.

Cuba—Step up the policy of non-invasion. This will force Castro to strengthen his defenses. When the non-invasion policy reaches a climax, Castro will use up all his ammunition not resisting it, and peace and calm will return to Cuba.

Laos—Suspend all aid to Laos until the United Nations can publish a scorecard showing who is fighting whom. This will give us at least a 50-50 chance of helping the right side.

Red China—Hold Quemoy and Matsu at least until after the next election. They're lousy islands but they make good issues. Oppose the two-China policy. One is trouble enough.

Trade Deficit—Trade the deficit with some other country.

Foreign Aid—Continue to help underprivileged countries until they are prosperous enough to refuse to help us.

PRESS GAL—Bearing a resemblance to her boss, Miss Pamela Tunure has been appointed press secretary for Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy. She's a New Yorker.

Eyewitness To Piracy Tells Of Liner's Grab

Editor's Note: The following eyewitness account of the hijacking of the Portuguese luxury liner Santa Maria was given to police at St. Lucia Island by the ship's assistant purser. Police declined to identify the ship's officer, who was put ashore by the pirates.

PORT CASTRIES, St. Lucia (UPI)—It was like something out of those pirate stories you read as a boy.

At 6:00 hours (1 a.m.) Sunday, a gang of about 50 to 100 of the savagely took over the Santa Maria off Caracas.

They went up to the bridge, got one officer and wounded a second officer. They took over everything with hardly any trouble.

I was in my cabin and heard a noise on the deck, so I went to see what was going on.

I found these pirates had told the captain to do what they told him or be shot. They were armed with tommy guns, grenades and pistols.

I heard one of the crew say they were Communists, but I don't know.

Anyway, they were all Portuguese. The ringleader had escaped jail in Portugal some time ago.

I don't know yet where they got on board.

The passengers were all very frightened, of course. But none of them—at least those I saw—tried to do anything, fight back or get away in the boats.

After all, it was useless. They were not armed, and where could they go?

There was only the ocean around us.

The captain, as far as I know, is still navigating. The pirates forced him. He had no choice in the matter.

I'm pretty sure all the pirates were men. I didn't see any women. But they were a mean-looking lot of men.

The passengers were mainly Americans, Portuguese and Spaniards. I didn't see any of the pirates try to harm them.

But I'm glad they left us here.

Officials Urge Attendance At College Classes

Two classes in the West Texas State College extension courses being sponsored by the Adult Education Committee of the chamber of commerce were organized last night in Pampa Junior High School.

Persons taking Art 101 will meet at 7 p.m. on Monday nights. Spanish 106 students will meet at 7 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Disappointment was expressed by WTSC extension officials when only 15 out of the 27 who signed for English 101 showed up for class organization last night. The same was true of the Education classes.

Instructors for both of these classes said they would make one more attempt to organize the classes. The final attempt to form the English 101 class will be made at 7 p.m. next Tuesday and anyone interested in Education classes is asked to meet in the same place at 7 p.m. next Monday.

Organization of two classes in Accounting 231 for 7 p.m. in Rooms 212 and 215 at the Pampa Junior High School. Also tonight a class in Shorthand 121 is scheduled for 7 p.m. in Room 216.

Tomorrow night students enrolled for History 201 are asked to meet for organization at 7 p.m. in Room 115.

Huelyn Laycock, head of the WTSC Public Relations Department for extension and correspondence courses, said only one more opportunity will be given to persons who failed to show up at last night's organizational meetings.

James Hart, chairman of C. of C. Adult Education Committee, urged everyone who has signed and anyone else interested to attend at the designated times for their assigned classes.

Pirates

been headed from La Guayra and Curacao, two islands off the Venezuelan coast, for Port Everglades, Fla., the port for Miami, with gay vacationing men, women and children.

The pirates were reported to have seized control early Sunday morning in a gunbattle in which at least one man was killed, several wounded and the captain imprisoned.

The ship was last seen Monday near the island of St. Lucia, one of the lesser antilles that stretches in a gentle arc from Puerto Rico nearly to the north coast of Venezuela and hems in the eastern Caribbean Sea.

Then it vanished on the high seas and where it was headed was only a guess; to Brazil where the pirates might seek asylum, to Cuba where they might pick up reinforcements, to the Cape Verde Islands off West Africa to set up an opposition Portuguese government in exile.

The Portuguese government identified the leader of the pirate band as former army Capt. Henrique Galvao, 60, a short, baldish, dark-eyed man and a bitter foe of Portuguese Prime Minister Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

The Portuguese government stressed that none of the crew was involved but eight wounded crewmen landed at St. Lucia, in the Windward Islands, were reported to have said it was led by mutinous crewmen.

No passenger list was available immediately but those aboard were said to include Americans and Europeans.

Under international legal terms, piracy is defined as taking a ship on the high seas from the possession or control of those lawfully entitled to it.

Britain and the United States launched the hunt at the request of Portugal. In addition, anyone has the right to chase and capture a pirate.

The bold seizure of the luxury liner was unprecedented in modern times although it took place in an area where such notorious pirates as Capt. "Long Ben" Avery and Edward (Blackbeard) Teach plundered shipping in the late 17th and early 18th centuries.

The U.S. Navy put Rear Adm. Allen Smith Jr., commander of the Caribbean Sea Frontier, in charge of its operations. He threw the destroyers Wilson and Damato and three patrol planes into the hunt.

They were ordered to "find the ship, determine if an act of piracy had been committed, and if so, in accordance with the provisions of international law, bring the ship into the nearest U.S. port."

The destroyers were expected to refuel at Trinidad today and head for a rendezvous with the British frigate Rothesay somewhere near St. Lucia.

The U.S. destroyers carry normal complements of 350 men each and have top speeds of 35 knots, compared to about 20 knots for the Santa Lucia.

Reports reaching Bridgetown, Barbados, said the crewmen at St. Lucia reported that soon after the ship left Curacao Saturday evening, some crewmen demanded the captain set course directly for Miami.

The reports said the skipper refused and the crewmen mutinied, imprisoning the captain and shooting the chief pilot.

The seizure of the ship had repercussions in Portugal itself. Police patrols were out in greater numbers than usual in Lisbon as speculation grew that Galvao might be headed for Portugal's Cape Verde Islands to stir up a revolt.

Political sources in Lisbon said Galvao possibly had arrangements with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro to pick up reinforcements somewhere in Cuba.

Galvao has been a member of the Portuguese Parliament and was a great admirer of Salazar.

Oliver said he would "talk to Turman and find out how he stands on this. If he is favorable to the creation of the committee, I will go along with him. But if he is opposed to it then I will have to use whatever means are at my disposal."

The Jefferson County lawmaker could engineer a floor fight by attempting to suspend House rules to bring the resolution from committee to a vote on the floor.

With senators free to introduce legislation, a barrage of bills was expected. Senators introduced 34 measures during Monday's opening scramble, including an $800 pay raise for public school teachers and a bill to give the University of Houston complete state support.

Sen. A. M. Aikin, sponsor of the pay raise, said it would cost the state $12.9 million over the next two school years.

Whichever size you go for, you'll go better in a Dodge

Some people like full-size cars. Others prefer compacts. Either way, it's OK by us. We make both. Our standard-size car is the Dodge Dart. It is priced model for model with Ford and Chevrolet. However, Dart has features its major competitors can't match: A unitized, rust-proofed body. Torsion-bar front suspension. And a new device called an alternator-generator that charges at idle, makes a battery last far longer than usual. There are 23 Dart models with Economy Slant Six or one of five V8 engines. Try the full-size Dodge Dart at your dependable Dodge Dealer.

On the right, Lancer, the new Dodge compact. It comes in six models: sedans, hardtop, wagons. With two engine choices: 101 and 145 h.p. Dodge Lancer is priced right down the line with Comet, Corvair and Falcon. It has a battery saving alternator-generator. A fully unitized, rust-proofed body. Want to know more? Dear Abby... Old-Fashioned Morals Need Lacing Up!!

AB-GAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been seeing the young man for less than a year, and are neighborhood is giving her 15-year-old daughter a stork shower. The girl is not married and will not be by the time the baby arrives. The 17-year-old father-to-be spends all his time at the girl's house. He quit school last year, hasn't a job and isn't looking for one. The juvenile authorities won't allow the couple to get married because the boy "seems unable to accept responsibility" and has a poor family background. All the mother of the girl says is, "It could happen to anyone, and what's done is done, so give the kids a break!" Fifty people are invited to this shower. I think it is in very poor taste. Am I —

"TOO STRAIGHT-LACED" DEAR "TOO": Not in my opinion. We need to lace up some of those old-fashioned morals a little tighter. To attend a stork shower for an unmarried girl — under those bold circumstances — is to imply your approval of the whole unfortunate mess. What's done is indeed done but needn't be overdone!

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and my boy friend is 22. We've been seeing each other for almost a year. He tells me he "loves" me, but he never mentions marriage. I am not trying to rush him into anything, but I date only him, and pretty soon I won't have a chance to get anyone else. Putting it cold, how can I get a proposal of marriage out of him? All my friends are getting married and I feel —

WD Art Club Meets With Mrs. Freeman

WHITE DEER (Spl)—The White Deer Art Club met recently in the home of Mrs. J. C. Freeman. Games of "42" were played, with the floating score going to Mrs. W. J. Stubblefield, high to Mrs. L. C. O'Neal, and low to Mrs. Vern Crumpacker. Refreshments were served to members. Mmes.: George Coffee, Vern Crumpacker, Harry Edensborough, Byron Hodges, Girtha McConnell, L. C. O'Neal, Julia Powers, W. J. Stubblefield, R. A. Thompson, E. F. Tubbs; and two guests, Mrs. Harry Buchanan and Mrs. Horace Brooks. The next meeting will be Jan. 26 in the home of Mrs. Julia Powers.

Family photographs can create decorating problems. Scattered here and there on tables, mantelpiece and over walls, they tend to turn order into chaos. Pictures of friends and relatives are dear to us. But do give them the attention they deserve by creating an important family group. Ideal spots for such arrangements are the bedroom, hall, den, family room or master bedroom. Special care should be given to framing. Inexpensive, narrow molding frames can be painted alike in one color to spark up or accent your color scheme. Colored mats are often effective and very striking when black frames are used around black and white photographs. Plot the arrangement carefully before you ever hang a single picture.

Mrs. Ragsdale Is Hostess To Club

GROOM (Spl) — The Friendship Needle Club met Thursday, in the home of Mrs. Willie Ragsdale. A short business meeting was held with Mrs. Roy Ritter in charge. Eschle, Roy Ritter, Jessie Ham, Thelma Pool, Loula Wall, Hanna Keeter, Alice Ward, Jeff Gray, Pete Fields, Margie Emery, George Whatley, and a visitor Mrs. Felix Ledwig.

Bridal Couple Honored By Friends With Wedding Shower In Civic Center

LEFORS (Spl) — Mr. and Mrs. Billy Morse were honored with a wedding shower in the home of Mrs. R. H. Barron on Monday night. Mrs. Morse is the former Miss Sandra Elms. The honoree was presented a corsage of white split carnations. Pink and white were the colors used in party decorations. The table was laid with a pink cloth, overlaid with white lace, appointed with crystal and silver, pink and white napkins. Pink and white cake was served by Miss LeAnn Pafford; hot spiced tea by Miss Mary Barron. Hostesses with Mrs. Barron were Mmes. E. J. Pafford, J. W. Stubblefield, Bud Cumberland, Bill Crabtree, and Harland Padgett. The bridegroom registered the gifts as the bride opened them. Attending were Mmes. Alton Morse, Troy Bennett, Bennie Corey, S. R. How Bingo Was Evicted From Old Folks' Home

By WARD CANNEL
NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. — It had to happen sooner or later. The police have finally cracked down, exposing the New Rochelle Women's Club and the Burn Memorial Home for the elderly for what they really are.

What looked for all the world like long afternoons of fun, games and jolly beans among the ladies of the old folks in this proper New York suburb has turned out to be at least a violation of penal section 1388.

At least that's what some law enforcement authorities claim. And a reporter is mighty suspicious of listening to confessions wrung from members of the Women's Club.

At police piece it together, the sole business started several years ago when the junior section of the club voted to expand its activities.

They were already taking care of a Korean orphan, helping at a center for the handicapped, collecting food and money for the Aviation Army and doing volunteer work at a hospital.

So it was just a case of one thing leading to another when the ladies turned their civic eyes toward the Colburn Memorial Home for the aged.

What jolly fun it would be, they read, to have a monthly bingo game at the Home with socks and a writing paper for prizes.

With homemade cookies, soda pop and jelly beans for refreshment. What jolly fun!

Well, the road to hell is paved with good intentions. And bingo, according to the state's Lottery Control Commission, is one of the biggest paving blocks.

According to the commission chairman, Judge Richards Hannah, bingo has become such big business and entertainment and the temptations to defraud have become so great that a half dozen states have already passed regulatory laws and more will probably have to do so in the very near future.

In New York state alone, bingo accounts for about $40 million worth of gate and prize receipts annually. With that much at stake, infractions of the regulatory laws are frequent enough to keep the commission's 18-man staff overworked while trying to help local police departments uphold the law.

It was, therefore, many months before lottery control investigators tumbled to what was going on in the New Rochelle old age home.

The first break in the case came as it often does, from an oversight by the guilty. The Women's Club posted an announcement in the local paper that its next bingo game would be held on . . .

Following this flimsy clue, investigators discovered all sorts of violations. There were no posted rules of playing. Financial statements of the game were not filed with the commission. No $10 license to play had been obtained.

"Ten dollars?" one club lady wailed. "Why, we don't spend that on a whole afternoon's bingo."

Nevertheless, the law is the law (which in this case equals more than a half million dollars in $10 licenses per year). New Rochelle police were alerted. The crack-down began.

"I sure hated to do it to them," Detective John Murray said. "But it was section 1388 of the penal law. I had to."

The Women's Club took it gracefully, consulted their lawyer on the law, and changed the monthly game at the old age home to another individual card-and-counter game called Pokeno.

The old folks seem to like it quite well, according to civic committee chairman Mrs. William Alford, although there is still some confusion at the Home. Winners usually call out "Bingo" instead of "Pokeno."

"Yes," says lottery control commissioner Hannah. "However, what people say when they play the game does not fall under our jurisdiction."

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the general acclaim for President Kennedy's inauguration speech, the phrase which particularly seemed to catch European attention was this:

"Let us begin anew. Let us never negotiate out of fear. But let us never fear to negotiate."

In Bonn, the mind of the West German government must turn inevitably to the questions of Berlin and divided Germany.

Here, the imagination and the bold new approach to world problems which Europe generally expects of the new U.S. administration will be needed. Both have defied solution since 1944.

In his statement of Soviet policy earlier this month, Premier Nikita Khrushchev made it clear that there will be no Communist departure from the previous tough line on both Berlin and Germany.

To these proposals, President Eisenhower said in March 1959: "The United States will not try to purchase peace by forsaking two million free people of Berlin," nor will it submit to any permanent and compulsory division of Germany.

as a whole. In general, Khrushchev demands the end of West Berlin's Allied occupational status, a withdrawal of the 10,000-man Allied occupational status, a withdrawal of the 10,000-man Allied garrison and establishment of West Berlin as a "free, demilitarized city" under international guaranty.

For Germany as a whole he has demanded either international recognition of a permanent division in separate peace treaties with the East and West Germans, or, possibly, a German confederation to be worked out by the Germans themselves and giving both East and West an equal voice in its administration.

The latter, in effect, would give the 18 million Germans of East Germany a voice equal to 54 million West Germans and provide a built-in Communist veto against any ties with the West, including NATO.

Cuban Mothers Routed After Havana March

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro vowed early today he will wipe out his enemies despite growing opposition to his "firing squad justice" climaxed Monday night by a violently-dispersed mothers' march on the Cuban "white house."

In a two-hour speech to 1,200 volunteer teachers, Castro declared his political foes will be subjected to "persecution so tenacious and implacable it cannot be imagined."

Manhattan 'White House' Is Exclusive

NEW YORK CITY (UPI)—President Kennedy has chosen as the New York City "White House" a hotel so exclusive that it allows ex-President Truman and Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru to go as unnoticed as Mr. Smith or Mr. Jones.

It is a white house in the sky and set with the grandeur of Paris on an avenue in New York City lined with art galleries and fashionable shops. Thirty five stories above the street from his duplex apartment in the Hotel Carlyle the President can watch the sun rise or set. He can see west to New Jersey, east to the United Nations building and south almost to the tip of Manhattan Island.

At night, he can see the delicate blue lights which gently illuminate the small trees in front of the hotel. In the direction of Fifth Avenue, just a block away, are the twinkling lights of Central Park and, a bit north, the facade of the Metropolitan Museum of Art spotlighted as dramatically as the Louvre. The view is as exciting as any seen from Paris' Place de la Concorde or San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge.

They say at the hotel that only "the privileged" have stayed in Suite 34B. It is reckoned that its rent for the average citizen would run close to $40,000 a year.

The presence of Truman, Nehru, France's ex-Premier Pierre Mendès-France and the cream of international society is taken as everyday occurrence by the guests of the 500 room hotel. Their composure is a natural part of the elegant 18th Century decor.

But the residence of Kennedy, younger, more glamorous and President of the United States, has excited the unusually undemonstrative guests and raised the blood pressure of the hotel staff from manager down to bellhop.

"We've had Truman here but never the hoopla surrounding Mr. Kennedy's visits," said one secretary.

Have We Forgotten?

A friend who is concerned about what has happened in the United States of late called one of the Freedom Newspapers editors the other day.

"America has lost the goals upon which it was founded," he said. "We've forgotten the foundations of this country which made it great — the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the self-reliant spirit of our pioneer fathers."

While we were talking to him another editor handed us a propaganda release from one of the national television chains. It was in the name of Producer Bill Leonard of "CBS Reports" and discussed the shooting of the program, "Our Election-Day Illusions: The Beat Majority."

Mr. Leonard says he was astonished "by what I learned about our so-called democracy during the shooting of the program. For instance:

"I was told in interviews by a former president, a representative from Vermont and a state senator from Alabama that we do not live in a democracy... and were never intended to."

Mr. Leonard may never have read the Constitution which does not once mention "democracy," and which was designed to provide a republic or limited representative democracy.

The TV producer seems concerned that Sen. Harry F. Byrd, the Virginia advocate of economy in government, received 15 votes in the electoral college. He writes: "On Dec. 19 we sent camera crews to the capitals of six states to record the meetings of the electoral college. Its members, chosen by popular vote Nov. 3, are pledged to vote for a specified candidate, yet some electors told me that they felt no obligation to live up to their pledge. As a result, this year (1960), a senator, Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, who was not a candidate of any party and who got a few, if any, popular votes, received almost twice as many electoral college votes as Republican candidate Alfred M. Landon did in 1936. If this year's electoral college vote had ended in a tie, a handful of such 'independent' electors could have chosen the president of the United States."

He seems to have forgotten that 14 of those Southern delegates were unpledged, and that it was no surprise to most folks that they voted for a Southern conservative. Only one man kicked over the traces. However, there is nothing in the Constitution which would require any of the electors to vote for Kennedy or Nixon.

With such comments from most radio and television people and newspapermen everywhere, as well as from many teachers and preachers, there is small wonder that the people have forgotten the foundations of this republic and the self-reliant spirit of our pioneer fathers.

Lift Touring Clamps

Apparently President Eisenhower's campaign entitled "Visit the U.S.A." was a dismal failure. Inside a Newsletter, which seems to have a pretty good view of what is happening nationally, reports the reasons:

"1. Getting a U.S. visa is often complicated, inconvenient and red-tape laden. 2. U.S. travel agencies have been more interested in exporting tourists than in receiving them. 3. Intra-U.S. travel has been more expensive than the average European tourist can afford."

We think this is an interesting commentary on the fact that American tourists have been spending some 2 1/2 billion dollars a year on travel to foreign lands while foreign tourists have been spending only a billion a year in coming to the United States.

Other than characters like Khrushchev, the United States has been singularly unwilling to open its gates to visitors from foreign lands. We know of one young Englishman who wanted to visit these shores a year or so back. He had relatives who wanted to entertain him, but before he could be admitted it was necessary for them to post a cash bond to guarantee that he would not take any gainful employment while here, would not be a public charge, would violate no laws and would return to his native land at the end of six months.

How many Americans would travel abroad if they were required to post similar guarantees in every foreign land?

As to the responsibility of U.S. travel agencies to "import" tourists, we rather suspect they would be only too happy to work on such a project if they could see a chance for a return on their investment in such a promotion. Inside Newsletter says one travel firm plans March 15 to start personally escorted two-way "competitors," charging $707 for 17 days. Americans will see seven European cities; Europeans will see Washington, New York and Boston.

On point No. 3, we rather suspect the high cost of touring in the United States is based largely on the fact that there are higher costs generally here than in most countries, principally for labor and taxes.

GOVERNMENTAL PLANNING, A MEDIEVAL IDEA

The idea of governmental planning for the economy is not new. On the contrary, it was taken for granted during the most of recorded history. Free private enterprise was unthinkable in most countries during the greater part of ancient and medieval times.

In the eighteenth century, all economic activities in Europe outside of Britain and Holland, were narrowly circumscribed by law or tradition. The thinking men of the time were continually devising schemes to improve the lot of their fellow men and many of these schemes were tried out by many governments. Most of these schemes were startlingly like those that have recently been discovered by our pink intelligentia, and by the large recent crops of Ph.D.'s in economics who obtained their licenses to pose as experts on governmental and business activities without ever having had any business experience and without apparently ever having studied economic history or political science.

It would seem that the only device for promoting prosperity that was not tried out in the 18th century, although it was discussed under the name of Laissez-faire, was the scheme of free enterprise.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — There seems to be a good deal of agitation around because a blonde movie actress named Marilyn Monroe is sharing a hot steak with her former husband, Joe DiMaggio, a former baseball player, these New York nights and people with romance in their hearts are reading orange blossoms and requited love into these meetings. There is also a good deal of terrible reporting going on at the same time.

A wire service known as United Press International broke out into a reportorial rash the other evening and said that Miss Monroe, Giuseppe DiMaggio, a gentleman of Broadway named George Solaitary, an actress named Susan Strasberg and her father (an acting school director named Lee Strasberg) all dined together in glittering splendor at an expensive restaurant named Le Pavillon. Well, let's see: Marilyn was there and Joe was there, George was there. But Susan was not there and neither was Lee. Lee's wife, Paula, was there. Paula is Marilyn's dramatic coach. The restaurant was Le Pavillon. Out of five persons, two errors. As to Le Pavillon's being expensive, that's relative. What is expensive for one need not be to another.

I have this all straight and correct from George, who so often goes to the theater with me that some low persons have wondered whether my wife and I had gotten a divorce. The explanation for my addition to George is simple. If anyone is interested, my wife has a stainless steel mind and can detect a blooper in the theater just about the time it goes into rehearsal. She has no intention of wasting her evenings at dull, inept and very bad plays. I have to go. It's part of my job. I have no intention of taking any other woman and kindling vulgar conjecture concerning my home life. George has been on and around Broadway for high into 40 years and knows more about theater than anyone else of my acquaintance, besides which his commentary, muttered privately, is always incandescent and provocative. George is one of the foremost ticket brokers on Broadway and needs me to take him to the theater the way the Chase Manhattan Bank needs 4 cents. And that's why I go to the theater with George Solaitary and why I know that Lee and Susan Strasberg didn't dine with Marilyn and Joe the other night.

Having got this less than cosmic information all ironed out nice and smooth, let us turn to DiMaggio and the blonde bombshell. They never did hate each other even though they did get a divorce. They remained what is known as friends. They didn't communicate often, but when they did it was in a civilized and relaxed way and not edged with sharp words and recriminations.

Miss M. has parted from Arthur Miller, a playwright. She is in a mood to whip up a new prairie fire, even though some journals have printed that she has a more than detached interest in a married French actor named Yves Montand. It is my opinion, unbuttressed by intimate information, that this so-called romance was put together to help sell tickets to and create publicity for a picture they made together. I could be wrong.

When a girl is not in a mood to start new heart-throbs and wants just to sit back for a while and have a little fun without involving herself, I can't think of a more sensible date than her divorced husband with whom she shares mutual friendship without edges of anger.

The nation is strewn with men from coast to coast who could not imagine being in the presence of Miss Monroe without surges of passion and visions of romance. This, of course, is utter and adolescent nonsense. You can be in the presence of Miss Monroe for several hours without having any wonderment more romantic than anxiety if it is going to snow tonight or if you can get a taxi. I say this not in disparagement of her authentic and genuine charms but in support of the truth that not all men swoon away into a sea of visions and purple dreams everytime they come within eight feet of her. And there is a small secret to be imparted: she prefers the company of men who don't swoon away and become idiotic just because she is Miss Monroe, girl blonde.

This, then, is the reason she likes to go out with Giuseppe, her one-time husband. He is no plague to her and she is no plague to him and they like to talk to each other with no pressure building up. Is this all clear and straight now?

PRO AND CON — Secretary Hodges is arguing the $300 million depressed areas program should be run by the Commerce Department because it already has the machinery for that.

Also, he proposes to name a new Assistant Secretary to direct it.

The Douglas-Feldman group challenge the Commerce Department's claimed "machinery."

They hold the Department is primarily concerned with business and not recovery measures.

Further, they assert a new and independent agency would "dramatize" this extensive economic underlining that involves both federal loans and grants.

On the pressing need for such a program, President Kennedy has a before him a special report by his new Council of Economic Advisers, headed by Dr. Walter Heller, former economics professor of Minnesota University. The study stresses three points:

"All signs point to unemployment (now around 4.5 million) getting worse before it gets better."

"If the unemployment rate continues to rise to 7.5 per cent (it exceeded 8 per cent in December), then the President should immediately act to Congress for an emergency tax cut."

Tug-of-War Developing Over Which Agency Should Run Depressed Areas Program

ROBERT S. ALLEN PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy's high-priority multimillion dollar program for depressed areas is running into an old Washington stumbling block—wringing over who is to run it.

Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges is demanding this massive plan be turned over to him.

But influential staff assistants of the President are vigorously insisting that a new and independent agency be set up expressly to administer this far-flung economic program.

Heading this potent inner group is Myer Feldman, deputy special counsel to the President and one of his oldest and most trusted aides.

Supporting them is Senator Paul Douglas (D. Ill.), who directed the special task force that strongly recommended large-scale federal assistance for depressed areas. He was one of the leaders who put such legislation through the Senate last year, but it got nowhere as the House Rules Committee bottled it up.

However, another top advocate of this program is disagreeing with both sides.

Senator Joseph Clark (D. Pa.) wants it to be under either the Labor Department or the independent Housing and Home Finance Agency. He contends the latter is especially experienced in dealing with community problems.

This backstage jurisdictional dispute is so serious that it is slated to be taken up at the new President's first cabinet meeting this week.

An immediate decision is urgent for two reasons:

(1) To inform the Senate Banking Committee, which is now working on this legislation, what Kennedy wants done about the control issue; and (2) to strengthen his position in finding a director for the program.

Several possibilities sounded out on that stated they first wanted to know the administrative set-up.

One made it clear he was not interested if the agency isn't independent.

Former Governor George Leader (D. Pa.) is an eager aspirant for this job on any basis. But he still hasn't the approval of the party leaders of his state, some of whom are not overly enthusiastic about him.

PRO AND CON — Secretary Hodges is arguing the $300 million depressed areas program should be run by the Commerce Department because it already has the machinery for that.

Everybody's Money

By MERYLE STANLEY RUKESYER

As a new administration is about to come to power, important blocs appear to be depending increasingly on governmental assistance as an alternative to self-help and prudent individual and group policy decisions.

Thus, in a recent diagnosis of the shape of things to come, the executive council of the AFL-CIO sees continuing heavy unemployment "unless decisive government measures to lift sales, production and employment are quickly adopted."

In giving its prescription, the labor organization declares: "Immediate measures to reverse the downward trend are needed. These steps should be backed up by long-range measures to assure stable economic growth and full utilization of human and physical resources. In addition, economic and social adjustments should be planned to ease the economy's developing structural problems which affect groups of workers, businesses, consumers, and communities."

The blueprint is vague, and there is little in the way of a bill of particulars except for a demand that the rate of annual growth of production must increase 5 per cent a year, whereas "present indications are that the real value of total national production may rise no more than 3 to 4 per cent (this year) — on the basis of current trends."

It seems to me desirable in the interest of a forward movement to create better understanding in the minds of workers of the process of job creation in the United States.

In a competitive society, jobs are created by private enterprises through investment in capital goods (tools) and by distribution of consumer goods.

Management, instead of being the foe of employees, is the salesman of the hours of labor of workers. Capital goods are bought freely when environmental conditions and prospects build up the confidence to make long-term commitments.

Likewise, consumer goods are acquired on a rising crescendo when housewives and their spouses confidently look forward to conditions which assure continuity to their personal and family incomes.

Gloom talk from politicians and others does not create a climate conducive to increase the tempo of national economic growth. Neither do maladjustments in the national economy, such as a profit squeeze, or an imbalance between costs and prices.

To be specific, the AFL-CIO Council speaks of the increasing inventory in the hands of dealers of unsold new automobiles.

The solution does not lie in pump priming tricks, but in wooing the customer. The customer can be attracted by the formula of offering more for less — thus reversing the post-war inflationary trend of offering less for more. This has to do with quality, design, and new technological appeals as well as with price.

But when the market is tougher, it does not help for Walter P. Reuther, a big wheel in the labor federation, to be making threatening remarks about new demands on the automobile customer which his union will formulate in April.

Mr. Reuther, for example, said that the union would press hard to preserve the cost-of-living and improvement-factor provisions in the new contract. At the same time, Mr. Reuther stated that steel workers had been forced to compromise on the cost of living issue and that General Electric had eliminated cost-of-living provisions after the recent strike.

Mr. Reuther said that these two provisions had added $1.12 an hour additional since 1948 to the pay of auto workers.

The real question is whether automobile buyers will favor U.S. cars with such built-in additional social costs against foreign competitive cars free of such burdens.

The competition is more clear cut in standardized products, such as steel bars, where style differences don't cloud the issue.

Job creation can be accelerated by making clear to workers that their interest is tied up with the success of their employers. A satisfactory profit gives the employer the motivation to innovate, to explore and to pioneer. And at this juncture, after the pent-up demand of wartime and other abnormal years has been made up, and when business depends on replacement demand, growth is linked with new products and new services. This creative process can be helped by appealing to the profit motive — to the prospect of rewards and incentives.

Economic growth, however, will be impeded by class warfare and by putting arbitrary obstacles between the seller and the customer. (Mr. Rukesyer will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems.)

The American Way

By JOHN T. FLYNN

A new assault of the American mind is underway. Its object is to make you love Fidel Castro. Now don't give a loud "ha-ha" — and say that nobody can sell you on the bearded leader of the Red Cuban revolution. Only the very young, and those with short memories, should not know that a similar job was done on our minds a dozen years ago in the case of the Chinese Reds. At that time an outfit called the Institute of Pacific Relations, plus a small batch of Communists, plus a much larger batch of pro-Communists and their "liberal" dupes in and out of the American government went to work with books, magazine articles, special stories, radio commentaries, etc. They told us that the Nationalist Chinese government was corrupt, fascist-minded, dictatorial; that the Chinese Reds were not Reds at all, merely "agrarian reformers" who wanted to bring peace and democracy to China. So successful was their campaign and their influence that they actually succeeded in getting certain elements in the American State Department to help bring the Reds to power in China.

Well, there is now in operation an outfit called the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. It is busy organizing all over the country, especially among college students. It says it is distributing literature, motion pictures, supplying speakers, holding rallies, sponsoring all-expense tours to Cuba. It boasts that it has 2300 dues-paying student members, and that it has already set up chapters in 35 to 40 colleges.

Who and what is this Fair Play for Cuba Committee? One of its leading lights is a professor at Columbia University. He went down to Cuba, spent three days flying around in a helicopter with Fidel Castro, came back and wrote a book about what a wonderful guy he is and how he has made the Cubans "enormously happy."

The professor does not explain why, if they are so "enormously happy," they are escaping by the thousands from Castro's Red paradise to Miami.

Another leader in this organization with the innocent-sounding name of Fair Play for Cuba Committee is a professor at Michigan State University. Then there are a couple of former newscasters for a large radio and TV network plus three or four left-wing writers. There is also Vincent Hallinan, chief counsel for leftist labor boss Harry Bridges. Hallinan was the vice-presidential candidate eight years ago on the Communist-dominated Progressive Party ticket.

Still another sponsor of this pro-Castro outfit is Kenneth Tynan, a British drama critic who also worked for an American magazine. Last year he put on a big TV show in England. The idea was to give Britishers a picture of America. He collected two dozen Americans for the purpose and as the New York Daily News said at the time, their assembled beards added up to: "The United States stinks."

This was quite natural, because among Mr. Tynan's experts on America were Dalton Trumbo, the left-wing screen-writer who served a jail term for contempt of Congress, and Alger Hiss! Besides sponsoring this love-Castro committee, Mr. Tynan repays American hospitality by smearing the Senate Internal Security Committee. Its great crimes in his eyes, is that it asked him some questions about his strange activities.

Of course, no one disputes the right of this Fair Play for Cuba Committee and its sponsors to plug for Fidel Castro and his Communist-dominated regime in Cuba. But it is also within the rights of the rest of us to know what is going on, who is behind it, and what kind of so-called "education" some of these college professors are feeding to students.

Incidentally, if any of your college-age sons and daughters, or anyone else you know, has fallen prey to this latest propaganda drive, a good antidote to the poison is a book called Red Stars Over Cuba (222 pages, Devine-Adair Co., N.Y., $4.50). It is written by Nathaniel Weyl, who was once a member of the Communist Party (he has since denounced it) and who specialized in Latin American affairs while in the party. He tells in his new book the revealing and shocking truth about Castro and his Red regime in Cuba—90 miles from the mainland of the United States.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clark Dodge & Co. forecasts that 1961 steel consumption will drop to 95 per cent of capacity against 97 per cent in 1960.

Production on the other hand should total between 82 and 84 per cent of capacity against 87 per cent in 1960, Clark Dodge estimates.

The brokerage house says that statistics, which would actually require less output than in 1960, give little hope for improvement in steel company earnings.

Selective price increases seem remote at projected operating levels and those operating economies achieved will not be fully effective at such a low production rate, the firm finds.

Noting that many steel stocks are now selling at 16 to 17 times earnings, the firm concludes that these ratios are already quite steep, considering the long-term prospects of the industry and shows no improvement over the two prior years.

Walston & Co. says its business gets a favorable depreciation in the new administration could help several dozen companies producing machine tools and labor-saving machinery. It finds that Bullard, Warner & Swasey, Bucyrus-Erie, Clark Equipment, Caterpillar, The Shovel, Cro-Con, Westinghouse Air Brake, Allis-Chalmers, Burroughs, GE and E. W. Bliss among others are "speculative."

Thomson & McKinnon expects the long term market outlook will continue its bullish trend but adds that minor near term corrections will provide buying opportunities in selected issues such as Eastman-Kodak, Procter & Gamble and Johnson & Johnson which are now in buying range for long term growth holding.

Standard & Poor's feels that demand prospects for the electronics are still favorable, assuring extension of the industry's growth pattern in 1961.

According to Reynolds and Co. Bailey Selburn Oil & Gas, who 1960 earnings are expected to up 53 per cent, is in an excellent position to participate in the Canadian gas boom now getting underway.

The Doctor Says:

DR. HAROLD F. HYMAN

In an article in the Western Journal of Surgery, Dr. J. V. Brown has described a series of 16 cases in which gunshot wounds of the leg were caused by what he calls "The Fast Draw Syndrome."

The origin of Dr. Brown's paper is, of course, the present day Western, shown in the movies or on TV with monotonous regularity.

I'm sure you know the formula for the fast draw: Good guy and bad guy meet in the town's main street. They approach each other as remaining members of the cast run for cover.

Suddenly the bad guy pulls his gun. But the good guy is quicker "on the draw" and "fills him full of lead."

Wherever, the villain dies without a struggle only to be replaced after a short delay by another bad guy who pulls his gun only to meet the same fate at the hands of the "faster draw" and so on and so on as long as the sponsor sells his product.

In the real life cases observed by Dr. Brown, a "young man in his late teens or early twenties presents a small caliber gunshot wound of the lower extremity, accidentally self-inflicted while practicing the 'fast draw.' Too slow on the draw and too quick with his trigger finger," he fires the weapon before it is disengaged from the holster and shoots himself in his right foot.

In a more serious modification of the accident, called "The Dodge City Syndrome," and apparently very familiar to Chicago as well as other police officers, a bullet of larger diameter is fired from a .45-caliber gun.

Under these circumstances, the point of entry is apt to be behind the knee in the vicinity of the large vessels that bring blood to and from the foot. The wound is deeper and more gaping and the damage inflicted may produce permanent crippling if not amputation. Commenting editorially on the situation to which Dr. Brown has so forcibly drawn attention, the Journal of the American Medical Association suggests that those who profit from these gangster and horror shows ought to make their programs more realistic by showing the disfigurement, invalidism, lameness, blindness, coma, deafness, job loss, economic costs and family misery that follow

Harvesters Hike For 3-4A Plainview Tilt

Pampa Hunts Second Conference Victory

By ARTHUR MAYHEW
Daily News Sports Editor

PLAINVIEW — Pampa's Harvesters, after being rudely pushed around in their last two outings, hope to do a little pushing of their own here at 8 p.m. today when they do battle with Plainview's hot and cold Bulldogs.

But the game will have to take a back seat to the important tilt in Burger tonight between Amarillo Palo Duro and Borger, both tied for the District 3-4A title with identical 5-1 conference tallies.

Elsewhere on the 3-4A scene tonight, Amarillo (4-2) will be out to keep its championship hopes alive when it hosts once-dangerous Amarillo Tascosa (2-4) while Lubbock (1-5) and Monterey (4-2) meet in an all-Lubbock game in Texas Tech's Coliseum.

Pampa, 1-5 in 3-4A play and out of the title picture, can nail the coffin shut on Plainview's (2-4) hopes with a victory tonight and, at the same time, move out of the district cellar, a place it has occupied since the first week of play.

But, Pampa Coach Terry Culley is not expecting Plainview's Bulldogs to roll over and play dead.

The Bulldogs of Coach Bob Clendaniel were the preseason pick for a third place 3-4A finish but the ravages of a diphtheria epidemic which sidelined one starter, the injury to another key player and the loss of a 6-4 starter who quit the squad early in January have crippled the Bulldogs thus far.

With a 4-8 record going into district play, Plainview fell to Borger, 86-53; then it turned on the steam to defeat Lubbock, 74-62, and upset Tascosa — then in a first-place tie — 53-42; in Amarillo before coming upon bad days.

In their last three outings, the Bulldogs have lost to Palo Duro, 70-46; Amarillo 68-65 in overtime and Monterey, 64-52.

Twin keys to the Bulldog attack are Jackie Swanner, a 6-3 junior letterman who ranks fifth in district scoring with 91 points, and Tommy Aday, a 6-3 senior letterman who is 3-4A's ninth-best scorer with 82 points in six games.

Other starters, all juniors, for Plainview will be Danny Taylor, 5-9; Novice Nicholson, 5-11; and Don Ford, 5-9.

Johnny Messer, 5-10 senior who was the Bulldogs leading scorer until he broke his heel a month ago, may see some action but only in limited spots.

Pampa, 8-11, off to one of its poorest district starts in history, will be aiming for its second conference win against five losses — all of which have come in a row —, the biggest of which came last Friday when Amarillo whacked the Harvesters, 70-50, in Pampa.

Culley may insert another sophomore into the starting lineup tonight in the 5-7 form of Ronnie Chase, bringing to three the number of starting soph.

Chase, ineptible scholastically until the Amarillo game, scored six points in the Sandie tilt, and despite his inexperience is one of the best ball handlers on the Harvesters varsity.

Chase will be flanked by Pat Carter, the 5-10 senior who got back on the scoring beam with 15 points against Amarillo; Allen Wise, 6-3 senior who is Pampa's second top district scorer with 69 points; and two sophomores, 6-5 Randy Matson and 6-0 Gordon Balch.

In a game evading the varsity battle, Coach Dean Evans' Shockers will be hunting for their sixth victory in 'B' team district play and 18th of the year against four losses.

Plainview's Bullpups are 4-2 in district, losing to Tascosa, 41-40, and Lubbock, 45-44.

Ohio St. Firms Grip In UPI Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ohio State was the unanimous choice of the United Press International Board of Coaches for the nation's No. 1 college basketball team for the third straight week today and Southern California moved into the top 10 group.

St. Bonaventure (14-1) and Bradley (13-1) remained in second and third place as the college season arrived at the slow-down stage because of mid-year examinations.

North Carolina (12-2), St. John's (10-2), Duke (13-1) and Louisville (14-2) each advanced two places and were rated fourth through seventh inclusive. Iowa (12-2), Southern California and Kansas State (11-3) completed the top 10 group.

Ohio State, the only remaining undefeated major college team, again was the top choice of all 35 coaches who comprise the UPI rating board. The Buckeyes are the first team ever to win unanimous support from the coaches.

UCLA again headed the second 10 group, with Kansas 12th, and Indiana and Memphis State tied for 13th place. Next in order came De Paul, Cincinnati, Utah, Xavier (8) and West Virginia. Wake Forest and Wichita were tied for 20th.

TCU Suspends Cager, Wife

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Jerry Cobb, Texas Christian's leading point maker, was suspended from school Monday because he was secretly married.

The 6-3, 210-pound senior, is a two-year letterman and is the fifth-leading scorer in the conference with an average of 16.1 points a game. He also was the team's leading rebounder.

It was reported that Cobb had been married since November. His wife, a TCU student, was also suspended.

There is no rule against married students competing in athletics at TCU, as long as their marriages are not secret.

NC Asks Withdrawal From ACC Tourney

CAPE HILL, N.C. (UPI) — Carolina's request to withdraw from the annual Atlantic Conference basketball tournament today caught the Tarheel by complete surprise and forced sharply-divided coaches from rival ACC colleges, the same time the executive suite of the ACC met.

McGuire, enroute to Chapel Hill from New York, was not available for immediate comment but sources close to the team said he did not realize the request was imminent.

All-America candidate York Larese, who heard the news while listening to a TV program, was described by students in the dormitory as being "stunned by the news." Other players also were said by students to be "shocked" and "surprised" by the announcement.

"Such withdrawal would preclude the possibility of an ineligible team eliminating one of more eligible teams," Chancellor Aycock said in his telegram. "We therefore, request permission to withdraw participation in the tournament and respectfully urge you to approve or secure approval of this request as soon as possible."

Borger Bowl Team Cops Merchants Keg Tourney

Pampa's Reapers (9-1) hunt their eighth straight victory of the season at Borger today when they battle Borger Austin in an attempt to retain their hold on first place in the Panhandle Junior High School basketball race.

The Reapers are 5-0 in district play but must play six of their next eight games away from home, including second place Borger Houston and city rival Robert E. Lee, still in contention despite two narrow losses.

Lee, meanwhile, will be trying to stay in the race when it hosts Phillips here at 4:15 p.m. today. The Rebs lost a heartbreaking 40-37 district game to Borger and need to win the remaining games to fight Pampa for the title.

Also today, Lee Eighth (3-0) will be out to protect its unblemished record when it meets Phillips Eighth in a game following the Lee-Phillips ninth grade encounter.

Ketta Henricks Stars As Bowling Play Ends

Sparked by Ketta Henrick's three trophy-winning performances, the third annual Pampa Women's Merchants Bowling Tournament drew to a record-breaking close at Harvester Bowl late Sunday.

Mrs. Henricks, of Pampa, was a one-woman terror in the Class B division where she won the singles trophy with 583, took the All Events title with a 1,637 and teamed, with Marie Parsley to capture the doubles crown with a 1,036 score.

Despite Mrs. Henricks' bowling heroics, Borger Bowl won the team trophy with a 2,839 pin total, displacing last week's leader, Panhandle Fishing Tools. For its victory, Borger Bowl parted home $200 in prize money, part of the approximately $1,800 that was distributed to the winners.

Pampa winners, other than Mrs. Henricks, were Peg Kastien, Class A singles, 610; Peggy Russell, Class C singles, 512; Fern Jackson and Joyce Gray, Class E doubles, 822, and Fern Jackson, Class E all events with 1,158.

In the ragtime doubles play held in conjunction with the two-week-end tourney, Maxine Hawkins and Eudell Burnett rolled a 1,336 to best fellow Pampans Lloyd and Laverne Henson, 1,330, and Jay and Ketta Henricks (again), 1,328.

Pampa teams finished in four of the top six places in the tournament. Following the top two team winners were Clayton Husted (2,899); Celanese No. 2 (2,783), and Windsor Well Servicing, (2,761).

The tournament, which began Jan. 12, drew 82 teams, shy of the record 86, but set new records in singles and doubles play with 115 singles and 230 doubles participants.

Lee, Pampa Resume Play In District

Hickok Winner Seeks Golfdom's Grand Slam

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, proud new wearer of the $10,000 diamond-studded Hickok belt, said today he will try for golf's "grand slam" — victories in the Masters, PGA U.S. and British opens — this year.

The 30-year-old Latrobe, Pa., pro voiced his intention of becoming the first man ever to win all four of those titles during the same year after being honored here Monday night by the Rochester Press and Radio Club as the "Professional Athlete of the Year" for 1960.

Winner of the U.S. Open and the Masters' last year, Palmer said his biggest disappointment in 1960 was his failure to win the British Open.

"I had a feeling I was going to win it," he said, "and when I didn't, I was tremendously disappointed."

Palmer, who won eight major tournaments last year and set a money-winning record with more than $75,000 in tournament prize money, talked for the first time about the golf game of ex-President Dwight Eisenhower, with whom he played a "command performance" round at Augusta, Ga., last April following his Masters' victory.

"He plays a fairly good game for a man his age," said Palmer, who feels it's all right to talk about the former President's golfing ability now that he is a private citizen.

"During the round we played together, he asked me to correct his swing a couple of times and I gave him as much help as I could. He likes to hit good shots like any golfer but his seriousness ends there."

ROY SIEVERS ... "I'll take it!"

In Midst Of Chicago Banquet Sievers Accepts Offer

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

Roy Sievers hollered "I'll take it" — and did — in what amounted to the most spectacular $37,000 catch ever made before a dinner audience.

All this came about Monday night in Chicago where White Sox President Bill Veeck was making a speech before a gathering of sporting goods salesmen. Sievers was there because he represents a sporting goods firm.

Veeck said he knew Sievers was in the audience but that he had not had a chance to talk with him privately about signing his 1961 contract.

"During his speech Veeck recalled the days when both he and Sievers were with the St. Louis Browns. He pointed out raises never exceeded $100 or $200 in those days.

"But now things have changed," he went on. "We talk in terms of thousands. For instance, I am ready to offer Sievers $2,000 more than my original offer for 1961."

That's when Sievers made his move.

Jumping up from his chair, he shouted, "I'll take it!" Veeck, never missing a cue, said "Fine, see me later."

After the speech-making was over, the two met privately and Sievers, who led the White Sox with 29 home runs last season, agreed to terms calling for the estimated $37,000.

The question, of course, was whether the novel agreement to terms wasn't all carefully rehearsed beforehand. Veeck claimed it was spontaneous. Maybe so, but it was the first time on record that the normally quite Sievers ever got up to break in on a speaker. Ordinarily, the only time Roy jumps up to yell like that would be if his house was on fire.

Anyway, the White Sox also signed two other players under far more quiet circumstances. They were southpaw pitcher Juan Pizarro, acquired in a three-way trade with the Milwaukee Braves and Cincinnati Reds, and catcher Bob Roselli.

Three youngsters — pitcher Jim Golden, catcher Doug Camilli and shortstop Ralph Plumlee — agreed to terms with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Vikings Open Player Picks

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Minnesota Vikings, with a coach, a quarterback and a prize college draft pick, select 36 experienced players from other National Football League clubs today, with high hopes they'll fare better than the Dallas Cowboys did last year.

Stocking the new Minnesota club with players is the first task of the NFL owners, who began their annual winter meetings today.

Once the Vikings pick their players from the grab-bag, the owners will tackle the more difficult problem of expanding next season's schedule to 14 games for each team.

Although most owners were not too happy with the pushover record of 11 defeats and one tie which Dallas compiled during the past season, chances are that the Vikings will not get such a wide range of selection as the Cowboys did last year.

In stocking the Cowboys the NFL clubs expanded their rosters from 36 to 38 players and each placed 11 men in a pool. Dallas picked three players from each club.

Minnesota also will have an opportunity to pick three players from each club except Dallas. But the number of players each team will furnish for the pool probably will be less than 11.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle explained the reasoning behind this: "Dallas did not participate in the draft last year; Minneapolis did. The Vikings should have the one type of player Dallas lacked — a good running back with speed. This Tommy Mason (of Tulane) the Vikings have drafted is regarded the best running back in college football."

The Vikings also have acquired an experienced quarterback in George Shaw as a result of a deal with the New York Giants.

Fabulous Story Of "Ben Hur" To Open At LaVista Theater Thursday

For eighty years, the story of Ben-Hur has never been out of print. Probably no other novel has ever had such influence on so many millions around the world. In the title, Ben-Hur, there seems to be the magic that stirs the heart and uplifts the soul. About once every twenty years since 1880, Ben-Hur has roared over the literary and theatrical horizon to create a new global furor.

All of this began when a man of war decided to write about the Prince of Peace. In the eyes of critics, he was not a great writer; by his own admission he was not a deeply religious man. Yet, as he wrote, seated under a beech tree in Crawfordsville, Indiana, his pen dipped into purple ink, there must have come to him some inspiration; some force must have formed his thoughts and shaped his words. How else can one explain the appeal of his novel, completed some eight years later? How else could he have composed a story that, as one literary historian reported, "brought millions to their feet to cheer and more millions to their knees to pray?"

General Lew Wallace, flamboyant hero of the Civil War, lived a fantastic life. He could have written about his adventures on the battlefields. He could have found a novel in his contact with Billy the Kid and other desperados who ruled the Territory of New Mexico during his days as Governor of that frontier territory. He might have written exotic tales of his days as U.S. Minister to Turkey.

But he chose to let his thoughts roam from the tranquility of his Indiana home to the Holy Land which he had never seen, thousands of miles and thousands of years away.

He selected the turbulent times of the pagan Roman Empire and that period of history which influenced all mankind—the years between the birth of Christ and His crucifixion.

General Wallace, always an optimist, told his wife, back in 1880, that it was quite possible Ben-Hur would provide them with as much as $100 a year in royalties! He lived to see his book return greater royalties than any other novel had ever earned. There came a time when he negotiated a "million dollar" deal for the stage rights; and his heirs arranged another "million dollar" contract for the silent screen rights.

Since Wallace's death, in 1905, Ben-Hur has become recognized as one of the most valuable theatrical properties in the history of show business. And today Ben-Hur has become a "best-seller" once again. No less than a dozen publishers now have new editions of the novel on book shelves and in the libraries.

For years, General Wallace refused to permit dramatization of his book. He finally yielded and in November, 1899 Klaw & Erlanger revealed to a startled, cheering Broadway the first stage production of Ben-Hur. For twenty years, the play ran on and on, touring hundreds of American cities and circling the globe. The original two chariots, on treadmills, became five, then eight chariots; numerous "Ben-Hurs" and "Messals" played the leads, beginning with William Farnum and William S.

Hart, long before they became film stars. Wherever Ben-Hur played, there was a frenzied response. Babies were named for the hero of the day; merchandise adopted Ben-Hur as a trade name; schools studied the book; churches heard sermons on it.

In 1926, the silent screen version of Ben-Hur again made theatre history. The lavish $4,000,000 production was a milestone in the development of the screen. That picture might still be running if talking pictures had not replaced the silent screen. Now, all this is happening again. A great wave of interest in Ben-Hur is sweeping the nation and the world. With the modern magic of the motion picture art, Ben-Hur promises to reach a new pinnacle of public acclaim.

Pampans now have an opportunity to witness this great motion picture. It starts its Pampa run at 7:30 p.m. Thursday night at the La Vista theater, with only one show nightly and matinees on Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday.

Notices are being mailed out to Gray County wheat farmers that excess wheat must be destroyed by May 10 in order to place the farm in compliance with government regulations set up by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Evelyn Mason, manager of the Gray County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office, states in a newsletter to farmers that reporters now are measuring wheat in the field. The letter specifies that in order to be counted, the destroyed wheat must be in regular shape such as square, rectangle, following terraces or some similar regular pattern.

Wheat farmers are advised that if they overplant, their farms will be checked after May 10 without charge. If enough wheat has been destroyed, a charge of $4 per farm plus $2 for each additional plot will be applied to check the farm again. After this year, the newsletter from the ASC Office says, a charge will be made to check the disposition of the first time.

The newsletter also advises that Jan. 31 is the deadline to obtain CCC loans on wheat, barley, rye, oats or grain sorghum. The Gray County ASC office reports many such loans have been made since Jan. 1 and urges farmers to make their loans now and not wait until the final day.

Galveston Prepares To Integrate

GALVESTON (UPI)—Dr. Steve Lewis, president of the Galveston School Board, today began issuing orders to prepare for integration of the city's public schools this fall in compliance with a court ruling.

Federal Judge Ben C. Connally Monday ordered the city's schools integrated on a "grade-a-year" basis, starting with kindergarten and the first grade.

Lewis said the board definitely would not oppose the court ruling. "We fought the ruling when it first came out to the best of our ability," he said. "We feel if we try to fight it any more it would only be a waste of the school district's money."

Connally's ruling was the ultimate outcome of a suit filed in Galveston County by the parents of Patricia Ann and Jo Ann Robertson, two Negro school girls.

Monday's ruling was substantially the same ruling Connally issued nearly two years ago for Houston public schools, which before last Sept. 8 operated the nation's largest segregated school system.

At Least Four Escape As Jet Bomber Falls

By ALAN D. RESCH

The planes went down about 15 miles north of Goldsboro. The Air Force said apparently it developed a fuel leak and then a sudden and dramatic loss of fuel. The four crewmen who escaped received only minor injuries. The helicopter crew which picked them up rushed them to the base hospital, but a hospital spokesman said the men were "up talking and walking around."

The survivors were identified as Lt. A.C. Mattocks, 27, Jacksonville, N.C.; Capt. Richard W. Rardin, 33, San Antonio, Tex.; Capt. Paul E. Brown, 37, Beardstown, Ill.; and Lt. William R. Wilson, 27, Somerville, N.J.

Names of the four missing men were withheld until relatives could be notified. The bomber was attached to the 421st Strategic Air Command Wing at Seymour Johnson.

Before moving to Roff, Harris did evangelistic work in Tennessee and Oklahoma.

Mrs. Kennedy's Image In Store Windows Now

By BARBARA BUNDSCHU
NEW YORK (UPI)—A paint and plastic image of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy is staring into the street today from store windows across the country.

In some of them, she's standing beside a toothy store dummy with the head and name of President John F. Kennedy.

And only a blizzard, it appeared prevented a pair of the mannequins from presiding over a "little inaugural ball" at a swanky New England country club during the weekend.

There's nothing unusual about the use of such "reasonable facsimiles" of the president or other respected individuals in store windows celebrating a patriotic event, display firm executives said here. Normally they're made of plaster for such special displays, however.

No one could recall a previous president and first lady who had been made up and sold ($150 each) as dress and suit display figures. Which may be just because it's a long time since a president's lady has been both a tall, mannequin size 10 and a spectacularly fashionable figure.

It's stirred up something of a tempest about good taste in a fashion world already brimming over with "Jackie Kennedy hats" and "Jackie Kennedy hair-dos" and the overall "Jackie Kennedy look."

Steve Carano, president of the mannequin firm which put the President and first lady's names on the models, is hurt by the question. He had "informal clearance" from a "proper source" close to Kennedy, Carano said. "We certainly made it in good taste. I don't know how it's any different from all the newspaper ads and every young girl in the street trying to look like her. Mrs. Kennedy is the biggest thing in fashion today. We tried to compliment her."

A competing mannequin manufacturer said her firm would have no Mrs. Kennedy model—"We thought it was in rather bad taste." But another said his company certainly does have one, sculpted from photographs.

Income Tax Information

According to Ellis Campbell Jr., Internal Revenue Service District Director, Dallas District, Texas, community property law in most cases gives both husband and wife one-half of the total income and with-holding credit each one receives.

The Director explained that in this state the husband and wife must either file a joint return including all income, or each report one-half the combined community income on separate returns.
