

Six Die, 14 Hurt As Giant 35-Ton Crane Crashes At Missile Base

ROSWELL, N.M. (UPI)— The giant 35-ton crane rumbled toward the edge of the intercontinental missile launching site under construction.

Suddenly the ordinary cacophony of construction was obliterated by the screech of twisting steel, the dull rumbling of crushed concrete, followed by the anguished screams of stunned workers 170 feet below.

The accident Thursday killed six men and injured 14 others. Two of the injured were not expected to live.

The Roswell base still is under construction. Eight catwalks ring the silo at intervals of about 20 feet. Some men were on these catwalks when the crane toppled over. At least one was swept 14 stories to his death.

The crane operator jumped clear just in time to save himself. The more quick-footed workers at the bottom of the silo ran into a tunnel leading off from one side to escape the fire and falling debris. Those who hesitated were killed.

It was not possible to determine exactly how many men were in the silo when the crane started to fall, but at least five of those killed were at the bottom.

Each silo is designed to hold one missile, completely hidden underground and standing on its tail. The silos are spaced several miles apart to keep them from all being wiped out at once in case of enemy attack. This was the second time a crane has fallen into one of the big concrete-lined pits. In the other similar accident the crane operator jumped out just as it went over and suffered a broken leg, but no one else was injured.

Pampa National Guard Unit Placed On Alert During 'Muster 1961'

Pampa's National Guard Unit will be on the alert tomorrow through Feb. 26 for "Operation Muster 1961" along with all other Guard Units in Texas and throughout the nation.

The local National Guard Unit, commanded by Capt. Lawrence Hurdle, is Co. B, First Battle Group, 142nd Infantry of the 36th Division.

Lieut. David Crossman, alert officer for Muster Day, said that while the period of Operation Muster covers a period of nine days, the actual designation of Muster Day is left to the state Adjutant General.

"Operation Muster 1961" finds the Texas National Guard at the highest state of readiness in its peacetime history, according to Capt. Hurdle.

"By readiness," Capt. Hurdle said, "we mean the ability to react instantly to either military threat or a local disaster. Individually, every member of the Texas National Guard is trained to do his job and it is this training which makes all the difference in the world."

While Operation Muster 1961 carries on a tradition that dates back to Colonial days, in this modern era it amounts to a community-by-community progress report on each Guard unit's status of readiness. At National Guard armories, including the Pampa Army, and at air bases troops all equipment may be inspected by the public.

Actually, Capt. Hurdle said, National Guard Muster Day commemorates the annual muster of the militia on the village green in colonial times.

As an integral part of the reserve of the U.S. Army (or, U.S. Air Force) the National Guard unit in Gray County is an integral part of the United States defense team. Taken as a whole, the National Guard is organized as a combat force with missile, artillery, infantry, armored, aviation, medical, transportation and special forces units making up the bulk of the Army aide, and fighter interceptor, air transport, tactical control, and communications, and aeromedical evacuation squadrons in the Air Guard. Nationwide this is a force of 472,000 officers and men. At the present time there are some 10,000 men in the Texas National Guard. In this state the Army National Guard is made up principally of the 36th Infantry Division and the 49th Armored Division. Here in Pampa the Guard is represented by the 142nd Infantry.

Union Claims Leadership Is At Stake

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The AFL-CIO told Congress today that U.S. world leadership might stand or fall on how this country deals with the current economic recession.

The union said in prepared testimony that the United States must show other nations that a free, democratic government could meet such problems with speed and concern for the people. Nelson Cruikshank, AFL-CIO Social Security director, told the House Ways & Means Committee there might have been a time when this country could afford "breadlines" in the court of world opinion, but not now.

Gas Tax Plan Hit In Hearing

AUSTIN (UPI) — That group of businessmen Gov. Price Daniel branded as "arrogant lobbyists" during the last legislature were swarming around the Capitol again today.

They were on hand to twist Daniel's latest gas taxation proposal at a public hearing of the Revenue and Taxation Committee.

The committee will study Daniel's proposed 3 per cent, one-year increase in the natural gas production tax to raise $22.5 million to apply to the state's glaring $63 million general fund deficit.

Daniel, who had a tax during the last legislature aimed at gas pipelines, blamed the gas lobby for lawmakers' failure to enact quickly a tax bill and for the three special sessions of the legislature.

Sponsored by Rep. George Hinson of Mineola, the temporary tax increase would hike the levy to 10 per cent. Lawmakers have temporarily increased the tax several times in recent years.

The Revenue and Taxation Committee has been busy all week with Daniel's program to retire the deficit.

The House met today for the first time during the current legislature. The Senate adjourned Thursday until Monday.

Daniel made one of his rare appearances before a legislative committee Thursday to champion his controversial abandoned property bill.

Lawmakers in the last session were convinced the bill would hurt the state's banks and turned it down.

"We have done everything in our power to meet every objection that was raised two years ago against this bill by the bankers," Daniel told the Revenue and Taxation Committee.

"No one ever introduced or proposed this bill to pick on the banks," he said.

Panhandle Not Expected To Give Much Trouble In Redistricting

By FLETCHER ROBERTSON
Pampa News Austin Bureau

AUSTIN (SpI) — Rep. Grainger McIlhenny of Wheeler says he doesn't think the Panhandle will give the Texas Legislature much trouble in the job of redistricting the state under the 1960 federal census. The population of the area has increased, to be sure, but not quite enough to warrant another representative.

McIlhenny's 8th district, consisting of Gray, Wheeler and Collingsworth counties, has a population of a little more than 50,000, he said. The population of Gray County listed in the 1960 census was 31,535, up from 24,728 in 1950.

Potter County population in 1960 was 115,580, compared with 73,266 in 1950. Rep. J. Edgar Wilson's 33rd district is in Potter County and Rep. Ted Springer's 94th district is in Potter, Armstrong, Carson and Randall counties.

The Potter County population is a little more than the required 106,000 for two representatives and there is a distinct possibility that the people from that area will try to get two full-time legislators and work the county into another legislative district.

They might as well give it a whirl. Could be that the Legislature will say go ahead and have another representative, rather than try to make sense out of all the figures. So, right now, the mad scramble for additional seats in the legislature is on by representatives of smaller, growing communities of the state.

It probably will end before the 190-day regular session is over. But not necessarily so.

A Constitutional Amendment provides that if the lawmakers fail to reshuffle legislative districts before the regular session adjourns, a five-man board shall step in and take over.

And as a further guarantee of action, the law says that if the board sits around and does nothing on the matter, the Supreme Court shall order it to do so — and pronto.

Rocket Expert Says Space Race Between U.S., Russia Is Close

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — Rocket expert Werner von Braun feels that Russia's Venus-bound rocket proves the Soviet Union leads the United States in brute rocket power but "nothing else."

"You cannot say that one is ahead of the other," Von Braun said. "We are ahead in some things and they are ahead in others."

Von Braun, head of the civilian space agency here, said the Russian rocket shot toward Venus "confirmed again what we have been saying all along that we have a lack of booster capability to make a similar shot now."

"For this reason," Von Braun said, "we have been trying to do our darndest."

The missile expert indicated, in an exclusive interview Thursday that the United States began its space exploration on too small a scale. He said such programs "had to be big enough on the ground floor."

Von Braun said the Atlas, this nation's largest proven rocket, has a 350,000-pound thrust while the Russian rocket used in the Venus shot had a 750,000-pound thrust.

However, he said the George C. Marshall space flight center, which he heads, is working on the giant Saturn booster which has a 1.5 million-pound thrust.

The German-born scientist singled out two American accomplishments which he said surpassed the Russians. They were the TV satellite which sent pictures back to earth and a satellite which reflected earth to earth communications.

Von Braun said he opposed any "crash" program in an effort to "catch up" with the Russians.

Firmer Action Called For; 'Summit Meeting' Of Leaders Is Sought

By BRUCE W. MUNN
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —

Surprising support from an Afro-Asian peacemaking group for the United Nations operation in the Congo drew cheers from the West today and caused some embarrassment to the Soviet Union and its African friends.

Western sources said recommendations from the 11-nation conciliation commission which has spent six weeks in the Congo appeared to be generally in line with a program U.S. Ambassador Adlai

New Wave Of Violence Breaks Out

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — New waves of terror and violence rolled across the Congo today, Lumumbist youths attacked Roman Catholic missions and killed and mutilated a priest in Bukavu, a stronghold of Lumumbist forces in the north.

A United Nations spokesman said bands of youths protesting the death of Patrice Lumumba swarmed through the streets of Bukavu, capital of Kivu Province, sacked and burned a Roman Catholic mission and attacked priests and nuns.

A group of Lumumba supporters in Stanleyville beat to death a man who had openly criticized his successor, Antoine Gizenga. Gangs of youths roamed the African quarters of Leopoldville during the night, attacking supporters of President Joseph Kasavubu and hacking one man in two.

Kasavubu, who has been cool to United Nations operations in the Congo, did an abrupt about-face today and pledged his full support to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

To show his power he sent a battalion of well-armed paratroopers swinging past the U.N. headquarters in Leopoldville. They marched in perfect step and wore immaculate jungle green uniforms.

Kasavubu cabled Hammarskjold, "At the moment when your person is being violently attacked by different countries we want to assure you again of our confidence and the wish of the legal government of the Congo to cooperate with you."

Bandit Caught After Killing Hostage

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UPI) — The young Negro bank robber ordered his three hostages, two women and a man, out of the car and shot them as they fled.

When one of the women squirmed in the dirt on the side of the road, he pulled out a knife and stabbed her again and again to make sure she was finished. The other two lay sprawled on the ground and "played dead." It probably saved their lives.

It happened Thursday night before closing time at a branch of the Gulf National Bank. The branch stays open late on Thursday.

Less than three hours after the bandit stuffed $14,049 into a little black suitcase and kidnaped the three bank employees, he was arrested at a roadblock driving the car belonging to Mrs. Julia Ferguson, 50, who died en route to a hospital. She had been stabbed in the throat and near her heart.

Mrs. Doris McCain, 30, and Jay Hickman, 58, manager of the branch, were reported to be recovering from their bullet wounds. Doctors took a bullet out of Mrs. McCain's neck early today. Hickman was shot in the shoulder.

Back in the days of the old hand-cranked phonograph, boredom and curiosity led an inventive teenager to gouge a second hole in a Caruso record, to play it and to find perverse delight in the distortions that resulted.

But, even in the capricious mind of that teenager, novelty could not substitute for the ordered beauty of the original aria.

That two-holed record is still one of my prized possessions — a reminder that even a recording can be good and satisfying only when it works according to the plan of its creator. The record was the fruit of ordered creativity—the result of a plan emanating from an inventor, manufacturer, artist and engineer. When I tampered with their work, I imposed my own will. I only distorted an excellent thing.

We are the creatures of God, the divine, all-wise-and-all-loving Creator. He made us according to His most excellent plan — to center our lives in Him. When we establish for ourselves any other center of our lives but God, we may have fun for a while but the end result is chaos and destructive distortion of what God meant to be good.

20-Man Group Named To Seek Remedy For Ailing Economy

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has named a 20-man committee of government, business and labor leaders to seek ways to cure the nation's ailing economy.

The committee, including Henry Ford II and Walter Reuther, was set up Thursday as the government announced that personal income taxes would be raised to help pay for the new federal highway program.

The new Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy will be composed of Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg, Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges and 18 others. Goldberg will head the committee this year and Hodges the next on all alternating basis.

The White House said the committee would recommend labor-management policies to promote "free and responsible collective bargaining, industrial peace, sound wage and price policies, higher standards of living and increased productivity."

The committee also is intended to study problems of automation and maintaining competitive U.S. prices in world markets.

The latest dark economic report showed the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production fell by 1 per cent to 102. Stumping automobile production contributed heavily to the industrial decline.

It meant that factory, mine, mill and utility activity was only 2 per cent greater last month than it was in 1957, the base year for the index.

Perryton School Board Meets In Busy Session

PERRYTON (Sp.) — The Perryton School Board met this week and was asked to explain the 20-point credit system for graduation.

Supt. Gilbert Mize explained that although the state requires only 18 credits for graduation, it is left up to the individual school systems to set their own requirements, with a minimum of 18.

A questionnaire, "School Attitudes Toward Education Legislation," from "The Committee of Ten" was discussed by the board members. It was decided that a further study of some of the questions was necessary before the board could send in an opinion.

The board discussed the possibility of equipping all school buses with two-way radios. This matter was tabled for further study and investigation and will be voted upon at the next regular meeting.

Lawrence Elzey was appointed to the equalization board to replace W. C. Herndon, who can no longer serve due to poor health. Re-appointed to the board were Louis Bryan and Sidney Jones.

The board voted, on the recommendation of Supt. Mize, to offer new contracts to each of the school's principals. The present coaching staff will also be offered new contracts for next year, with the addition of Ray Hopkins as head football coach and athletic director and Mr. Love as line coach.

Supt. Gilbert Mize's contract was renewed for three years. Contracts for teachers and other personnel will be considered later.

Sam Hergert was appointed judge for the school board election to be held April 1. Six men have filed for the three positions to be filled on the board.

Bruce Holmes, a farmer, was the latest addition to the list of candidates. Also seeking the post are Harold Simpson, incumbent; Joe Erickson, John Hardy, Norman Swink and Marvin Montgomery.

Schools Face Money Trouble In New Orleans

The embattled New Orleans school board was not expected to be able to pay teachers and school employees of the recently desegregated city school system, but the U.S. Justice Department broadened its court attack on state officials it accuses of being responsible.

The school board said it needs $14 million to meet the $1.85 million school payroll due today. The board said it could not get the money.

"State legislative action as a result of federal desegregation orders has tied up our funds and effectively impaired our borrowing capacity to such an extent that unless we are able to meet payrolls we may have to close all public schools," President Louis Riecke said in a wire to President Kennedy.

The Justice Department, meanwhile, broadened its pending contempt suit against State School Supt. Shelby M. Jackson and accused him of "open and flagrant contempt" of federal court orders that prohibit interference with desegregation.

Legal action in Alabama, South Carolina and Tennessee highlighted developments in the rest of the South.

A federal court hearing was scheduled today at Columbia, S.C., on a suit to desegregate waiting rooms at the Greenville, S.C., airport terminal.

Trial begins Monday in the Justice Department's suit charging registrars of Macon County, Ala., with discriminating against Negro voter registrants.

New Cold Front Crosses Texas; Rain Threatens

By United Press International

A Pacific cold front moved across Texas today, setting off a new round of thunderstorms that has already sent a number of Central Texas streams out of their banks but the cool air was expected to shut off the showers by Saturday.

Precipitation in some form or other, rain, mist or heavy fog, covered most of the state, although temperatures were mild. Dalhart recorded the lowest.

The forecasters say cooler weather is in store for the Panhandle with the possibility of rain tonight and Saturday. Yesterday's high in Pampa was 68. This morning's low was 48. Temperatures five to ten degrees cooler are expected tonight.

The rains were blamed for an accident near Mount Pleasant that killed four persons.

A series of thunderstorms rolled through the upper Gulf Coast region bringing heavy rains, hail and some high winds in the Houston area.

The Houston Weather Bureau recorded 3.45 inches of rain for the 24-hour period ended at 8 a.m. today. There was some minor street and underpass flooding in some sections of the city.

A sudden wind and rain storm swept through northwest Houston late Thursday, tossing cars about, breaking utility lines and disrupting traffic. Nearly one and a quarter inches of rain fell in 90 minutes.

Another thunderstorm hit southwest Houston sections about 4 a.m. today and hail the size of large marbles fell in some areas. But there was no extensive damage reported.

Labor Says JFK's Plan Is Too Weak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The AFL-CIO today attacked President Kennedy's proposal to raise the minimum wage law as "not good enough."

AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer William F. Schnitzler asked Congress to approve an immediate step-up in the federal floor under wages from $1 to $1.25 an hour and expansion of coverage to six million additional workers.

Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg, former AFL-CIO special counsel, was expected to defend the administration's proposal for a gradual increase to $1.25 and extension of the law's protection to 4.3 million more persons.

Goldberg was called as the lead-off witness at hearings before a House labor subcommittee on the wage-hour improvements endorsed by Kennedy as anti-recession tools.

Schnitzler, in testimony prepared for delivery to the subcommittee, said enactment of the AFL-CIO's proposals would put $1.2 billion into the hands of consumers compared to $600 million under the Kennedy program.

Other Congressional news: Farm Assistant House Democratic Leader Carl Albert, Okla., and Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of an agriculture subcommittee, pledged fast action on Kennedy's plan to bolster sagging income of feed grain producers.

They forecast approval of the plan, but predicted a battle would delay passage until after spring planting time.

Defense: The House Science & Astronautics Committee heard Army officials in a review of the Defense Department's research and development program.

Panhandle

bad if you don't get one. Nobody else has either. So—

Here's the system in its simplest terms:

The four big counties of the state, Harris, Dallas, Bexar and Tarrant, don't have anything to squabble about and won't be in the fight. Their representation is fixed like this:

Each county gets one representative for each 50,000 persons, up to a maximum of seven, representing a population of 350,000. Between the 350,000 and 700,000 population figures a county's representation is static at seven. After a population of 700,000 is reached a county gets one representative for each 100,000 persons.

Here's the 1960 population of the four big counties and the number of representatives each has:

Harris: 1,243,198 for 12 representatives; Dallas: 951,527 for nine; Bexar: 887,151 for seven; Tarrant: 538,495 for seven. The big counties have a total of 35 representatives. Remember the number 35; it's important later on in the way the system works.

So the big city folks have nothing to argue about. Their case is closed. The battle will be put on by legislators from the smaller, growing areas.

And now, here's how they plan to redistribute the rest of the state: Take the total Texas population of 8,579,677 and subtract 3,420,331 (population of the four big counties), which leaves 5,159,346.

Now subtract the 35 representatives from the big counties from the total House number of 150; that leaves 115 seats for the rest of the state.

Now, divide 115 into 5,159,346 (state population excluding the four big counties) and you get about $3.566. Which is the number of persons each House member will represent under the new deal.

Congo

stives on the commission endorsed practically the same proposals.

The Russians are on record with a demand that the whole U.N. operation in the Congo be ended within 30 days.

The commission recommendation called for:

—Upholding the Congo's fundamental law on which the government of pro-Western President Joseph Kasavubu is based.

—Broadening the Kasavubu government to include other political factions, presumably under a federation plan, a step to which Premier Joseph Ileo and other Leopoldville leaders were said to agree.

—Immediate cessation of all military operations.

—"Insulation" of the Congolese army from politics.

—A summit conference of political leaders at a neutral spot, outside the Congo if necessary.

—Release of all political prisoners.

—Reconvening of parliament.

—Full enforcement of U.N. resolutions on the Congo.

The United Arab Republic, Ceylon and Liberia were working out a draft resolution aimed at getting all Belgians out of the Congo, investigating Lumumba's death and empowering the United Nations to force a peace on the Congo by use of arms if necessary.

It appeared certain the Soviet Union would veto it if it came to a vote and the problem then would shift to an emergency session of the 98-member General Assembly, perhaps as early as next Tuesday.

Seek Return Of Bodies To Keep Peace

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — The United Nations tried to persuade Katanga Provincial President Moise Tshombe today to return the bodies of Patrice Lumumba and two aides slain with him to their families for burial.

U.N. sources said such a gesture, which Tshombe's government so far has rejected, might go a long way toward cooling off the passionate reaction which the death of Lumumba has aroused.

The Katanga government has said the three were killed by tribal villagers who caught them escaping and the graves were being kept secret so their followers would not try to turn them into shrines.

U.N. officials were worried about an increasing wave of brutality by Lumumba supporters in Kivu and Oriental provinces on the one hand and the growing strength of Tshombe's armed forces on the other.

Among the latest ominous developments:

—Twelve Europeans, including a woman and a five-year-old child, were beaten in Kalima, Kivu, by Congolese soldiers who arrested them.

—Twenty-five Europeans were reported arrested and beaten in Bukavu.

—A Belgian priest was knifed in Leopoldville by an African.

—Three French jet fighter planes were delivered to Tshombe in Elisabethville. A Katanga government spokesman said it was a "terrible mistake" but he did not say if they would be sent back or whether six others on order would be delivered.

Dan True, the Panhandle's weather "guess-man," was the evening's guest speaker on the topic "Tornadoes."

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jay Leath; Mr. Leath is a district executive for the Boy Scouts of America.

Leon Holmes, awards chairman, presented 47 awards, to scouts present, ranging from Bob-Cat through Lion; also gold arrows, silver arrows, dinner stripes, year pins and 50th anniversary awards.

Approximately 200 parents, scouts and scouting friends attended the banquet.

Wants Uniform For Children In Public Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover has suggested that U.S. school children be compelled to wear uniforms to keep their minds on their books instead of clothes.

Rickover, whose views on education have stirred controversy, said uniforms would remove "the preoccupation of the boys and girls with clothes where they try to outdo each other or emulate each other."

The admiral advanced the idea Thursday on a radio broadcast taped for Connecticut stations with Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn. Rickover noted that Russia and some other countries require uniforms.

Dear Abby...

Risk Your Life In Car?

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a married man who has a very dear friend. I always do our market errands together because a car and I do not. I suppose you'll think I'm terrible for complaining, but she's like a maniac. Every time I get into her car I feel like I'm my life in my hands. She goes through red lights and so much she doesn't watch she's going. Do I dare tell her she's a poor driver? Or should I just keep my mouth shut and try to get out of there as fast as I can?

DEAR ABBY: I was recently engaged and people have been congratulating me. I was very well brought up and was taught that when a woman marries, it is the husband who is congratulated. The wife is given "best wishes." What do you say to these rude and ignorant people who say "congratulations" to a bride as though she had finally captured a rhinoceros?

PUZZLED: I am amazed at the number of people who wouldn't dream of leaving a home where the food is poisoned, yet they'll get into an automobile with a driver who is careless, incompetent and intoxicated. Tell your friends to drive with her unless they give safely and obey the law.

ANNNOYED: Say "Thank you." Anything else would reveal that you weren't as "well brought up" as you think.

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband has been writing to me constantly, telling me what a fool he was to give me up. He wants me to break up my home and come back to him. I have been married for 15 years to another man and we have a fine family. My ex-husband is also remarried and has children of his own. (We never had children together.)

Ruth Millett Better Good Deeds With Gracious Touch

How do you do a favor for someone else is often more important than what you do.

When you offer to take a friend who has no car to a party to which you are both invited, do you wait until the last minute and call up to ask: "Do you have a ride?" Or do you call the day before and say, "How about our going to the party together?" One sound as though you are doing your good turn for the day. The other sounds as though you really want the friend's company.

When you help out a friend, do you keep still about it? Or do you tell everyone you know how you pitched in to help — so that you will get full credit for whatever you have done?

When you go to a great deal of trouble to do a favor for a friend do you let the friend know exactly how much trouble you went to on his behalf? Or do you make light of what you have done, so that he won't feel so deeply obligated?

When, out of kindness, you voluntarily spend time with a bore because you feel sorry for him, do you do so graciously — that is, quietly? Or do you groan to others about what a trial it is to spend time with anyone so dull?

When you help someone out of a bad spot, do you let the matter drop once it is over? Or do you keep bringing it up to the person who would probably like to forget the matter?

When you have volunteered to do a favor that proves more troublesome than you thought it would be, do you keep your good nature and see it through cheerfully? Or do you begin to complain because you have bitten off more than you want to chew?

In whatever you do for others, the gracious way you do it counts for as much as the good deed itself.

Hoe Down

By THELMA BRAY Pampa Garden Club

Mrs. Waldon Moore, president of the Pampa Garden Club, has received information on the Sears-Roebuck Company Grant of $7,800 to the Texas Federation of Garden Clubs. Any federated garden club interested in applying for a portion of the money to be used for local projects may fill out the necessary forms and send in clippings, drawings and other information to the judges before Mar. 1. Four classifications included for the grant are landscape, design, civic beautification, highway beautification and memorial gardens.

If interest in this grant is great enough, Sears-Roebuck company plans to increase the grant for next year. This company has been carrying on a project of this sort in other states for as long as 20 years.

News of interest to those interested in civic beautification is that the Girl Scouts of America has been granted permission to plant yellow roses in the rose garden north of Stephen F. Austin School in observance of the Girl Scouts' Golden Anniversary.

"Since it is still a bit early to do much work in our gardens, we might do well to be studying the art of flower arrangement so that when we do have fresh flowers for our homes, we will know how to arrange them properly.

Everyone, from the savage to the most highly civilized person, likes flowers. In addition to their beauty, flowers have great commercial value. The roots, leaves, fruits, seeds and flowers of many plants are used in the preparation of drugs and medicines. The leaves of Foxglove, or digitalis, which is grown in most of our gardens in Pampa, are used to manufacture a heart medicine. Opium, which is of great value in the relief of pain, is made from the juice of the poppy seed-pod. A poison spray for killing insects is made from the flower heads of the Painted Daisy. Flowers have been used by man for thousands of years in making perfumes. Scents made from roses, lilies and hyacinths are among the most familiar aromas known.

Flowers have always been an inspiration to artists, writers and poets. In all ages, painters, sculptors and architects have used flowers as a basis for many of their designs. Floral designs are found in many articles from dress materials and hats to wallpaper and draperies.

The Spanish legend of the origin of flowers relates that when the world was quite finished, the angels assembled upon the rainbow until it became so crowded that it broke into millions of pieces, which fell to earth. Until then, though the world was very beautiful with its towering mountain peaks, its deep blue lakes, and its chattering brooks, the plants were without flowers. But when the rainbow broke, the earth became clothed with its carpet of blue Alpine gems, its prairies of Goldenrod, its colored tropical trees, with gay eye-filling blossoms which had every hue of the rainbow.

Flowers were used in religious festivals and other celebrations in all parts of the world long before they were used to decorate the home. In ancient Egypt, each dinner guest was given a small garland of flowers. This custom was also used widely among the Greeks and Romans. In modern times, flower arrangement has become one of the arts.

(Editor's Note: In the next publication of "Hoe Down", written by Garden Club members in Pampa, Mrs. Tom Price will discuss "Flower Arranging In A Changing World.")

Attending were Mmes. Gordon Robinson, Kenneth Brown, W. G. Hughes, Doyle Harris, James Means, O. R. Henry, Jeff Davis, Jimmy Pennington, Ralph Carruth, J. B. Martin, Alton Fitchum, L. P. Fort, Ann Glover, and Charles Roberts.

ARE GOOD VITAMINS MORE EXPENSIVE?

It is true that sometimes the dependable vitamins, made by the same reliable firms who supply us with our prescription drugs, do cost a little more than unknown brands. Vitamins made to sell for less eliminate expensive testing and research.

You can be certain the dependable vitamins we supply are not only potent, but that the designated ingredients are in a purified form your body will absorb. Too often, some cut-rate vitamins pass through the body with little benefit.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. Many we compound yours?

Harvesters Handcuff Plainview, 68 To 65

By ARTHUR MAYHEW
Daily News Sports Editor

Neslage, Pampa's forgotten for most of the 1961 district campaign, came off the bench six seconds left in the game to slam the door on Plainview at Harvester Fieldhouse.

Neslage's Goal Sparks Last-Second Victory

in the Green and Gold last night. There was Randy Matson, the magnificent 6-5 sophomore who gave promise of things to come as he plunked home 27 points to lead all scorers on the floor; and there was Wayne Kries, another sophomore, who bucketed a set shot from the side with 30 seconds left in the game to cut Pampa's deficit to 64-65 and set up Neslage's boomer.

with two free throws in the last two seconds — was given another chance when an official called Neslage for charging after he scored what turned out to be the winning goal.

he did, and he calmly sunk free throws, despite the more 100 fans who crowded around him. With the final shot good, fans picked Wise up and toted to the dressing room behind the scene.

Swanner, who wound up with 22 points, missed his first shot — which would have tied the game — but Matson grabbed the rebound and passed to Wise who was fouled as the game ended.

Inaugural Day Slowed Congressional Affairs

Congress got off to a slow start this year. This was due to several reasons, number one being the inauguration of a new president.

The inauguration of a President takes place at noon on the 20th day of January. Hence, you can see that there is a lapse between the convening of Congress and the inauguration of the President.

As most of you know, the issue was settled on Tuesday, January 31st. The settlement was not to my liking, nor in keeping with my voice but it was settled. Immediately thereafter, the machinery of naming and electing the several members of each committee by the Democratic and Republican Parties ground into action.

The fact is that Congress should have gotten started earlier and should have much of its work behind it. But the further fact is that this has not been done.

PROPULSION WIND tunnel at Arnold Center is in foreground of this aerial view.

Tennessee Is Now 'Windy City'

TULLAHOMA, Tenn. (NEA)—Residents bragging about Tullahoma's 15,000 miles per hour winds aren't just shooting the breeze.

For Tullahoma, located between Nashville and Chattanooga, is the site of the Air Force's Arnold Engineering Development Center which houses 12 of the largest, most powerful wind tunnels in the world.

In addition to duplicating supersonic wind conditions, the tunnels are able to simulate altitudes as high as 300,000 feet. Thus, engineers can find out how every component of a missile or plane will withstand the severe stresses of space flight before the vehicle leaves the ground.

Some of the tunnels are used only for testing scaled-down models. Others are large enough to hold full size missiles or planes.

Arnold graduates include Atlas Titan, Discoverer and Polaris. The supersonic B-70 bomber will be put through its paces here before its first flight.

The Air Force occasionally invites townspeople to the Center for conducted tunnel tours. The good-will gesture almost backfired one time when a group of women entered a tunnel that was still breezy.

When the red-faced officer in charge apologized, a middle-aged lady replied: "Oh, I'm not angry. But I'll always be a little suspicious about it being accidental."

The Center conducts tests for all the armed forces and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Airplane companies are permitted to rent tunnels when they are not being used for military projects.

Brig. Gen. Homer A. Boushey, commander of Arnold, says the $325 million installation is a great money saver to taxpayers as well as a boon to national defense.

Tunnel tests often uncover flaws in seemingly perfect equipment that would cause the destruction of a multi-million dollar missile or plane during flight.

Since there is not enough electrical power in the area to supply Arnold and commercial industry at the same time, the wind tunnels have to be operated at night.

Working here are 16 military personnel, about 160 Air Force civilian employees and 2,000 engineers and technicians of ARO, Inc., the civilian contractor for the installation.

With the exception of a few minor misunderstandings, relations between natives and high altitude wind experts have been as pleasant as a summer breeze.

One incident occurred when a local policeman stopped two airmen on the highway and hauled them off to jail. He was convinced that the metal drum in the back of their pickup truck was a whiskey still instead of a wind

The fact is that Congress should have gotten started earlier and should have much of its work behind it. But the further fact is that this has not been done.

Career Center Attracts Scientists, Engineers

By JERRY BENNETT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Scientists and engineers are going into a literal market place to find new jobs these days.

To eliminate some of the costly, behind-the-scenes pirating of technical personnel, many companies now compete openly for experienced manpower at industrial trade shows as they have been doing in their search for new talent each year on the nation's career centers.

The market place where potential employers and employees get together is called the Career Center. It's the creation of William Douglass, 30, president of Careers, Inc., a unique employment service with offices in Washington, New York, Los Angeles and Chicago.

The idea already has meant savings to industries, and to individual taxpayers since recruiting costs for defense contractors often are paid with government funds.

Here's how the Career Center works:

Companies attending trade shows pay Douglass for the privilege of setting up recruiting booths.

Scientists and engineers seeking new jobs visit the Center and list their qualifications on special registration forms. To protect applicants who don't want their bosses to know they are shopping for new positions, numbers instead of names are used on the forms.

Each form is typed, photoreproduced and sent to all company recruiters attending the show.

They send back the numbers they want to consider further to the Center's central desk. When the numbers are announced, applicants are directed to the interested recruiters. No applicant has to reveal his name until he is ready.

A survey at one trade show showed that most of the job hunters were in the $8,000 to $12,000-a-year salary bracket with four to seven years of experience.

Two of every five applicants were in electronics or electrical engineering, another in mechanical engineering. The rest covered a wide range of scientific and electronic fields.

Douglass set up Career Centers at a half dozen trade shows in this first year of operation. The next one will be for radio engineers in New York, March 20-23. He is establishing a permanent Center in Los Angeles.

Douglass believes his system eliminates much of the high pressure, expensive pirating of talent that companies engage in particularly those in defense industries. But admittedly, such piracy continues.

A congressional investigating committee recently reported that 74 firms doing more than 50 per cent of their business with Uncle Sam spent an average of $1,022 for recruiting each scientist or engineer. Much of this expense came out of the taxpayers' pocketbooks.

One company, for example, spent $2,757 to hire each new technical employee. Three other firms topped the $2,000 mark per man. Several companies each spent a half million dollars per year on want ads alone.

Companies pay Douglass $975-$1,275 to participate in a Center. The cost-per-hire, Douglass says, averages out to $200.

At a recent Los Angeles Center, 24 firms participated. Some 5,000 scientists and engineers attended; 1,500 asked for interviews. Several companies reported that they hired enough men to more than compensate for Douglass' fee.

Tech Alumni Seek To Change Name Of Lubbock School

LUBBOCK (UPI) — Alumni of Texas Technological College want the school renamed Texas Tech University.

The executive board of the Texas Tech. Ex-students Association Wednesday recommended the change in names to the college board of directors.

Clint Formby of Weatherford, president of the alumni group said the board "was requested to take necessary action to make this change as soon as possible."

Formby explained that the association felt it would help recognize the "true status of Texas Tech" and that the academic program at the school has been equal to or better than university status for many years.

Texas Daily Names General Manager

CONROE (UPI) — Appointment of Edwin C. Beu, 34, as general manager of the Conroe Daily Courier was announced yesterday by publisher Rigby Owen.

Owen said Beu, 34, a native of Kansas, would take over active management of the newspaper immediately. Owen announced earlier that he would relinquish his duties at the newspaper in order to devote full time to a newspaper brokerage enterprise, which he is establishing.

Beu, advertising director of the Anchorage, Alaska, Daily News for the past two and one-half years, formerly worked for the Jacksonville (Tex.) Daily Progress, Longview (Tex.) News-Journal, and Shreveport (La.) Times.

Yarborough Has Brighter Hopes For Island Park

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., said yesterday he was "more optimistic than ever" about congressional approval this year of a national seashore preserve on Padre Island.

Yarborough said Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., assured him the Padre Island bill will be considered "as expeditiously as possible" as soon as committee reorganization is completed. Anderson is chairman of the Interior Committee.

Yarborough also reported the seashore park had the strong backing of Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall. He said he had conferred with Udall and was satisfied the department would actively support the measure in Congress.

The senator also said he was pleased at the swing in sentiment in Brownsville and Cameron County for the park. He said his mail from that area was overwhelmingly for the park. He estimated that 90 per cent of the people living there supported the preserve.

"The only opposition mail I have received is from some of the landowners," Yarborough said.

Zoo Changes Day Into Night And The Nocturnal Galagoes Love It

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Why doesn't he get up and do something, daddy?"

This frequent complaint by youngsters because zoo animals always seem to be sleeping and snoring when they should be leaping and roaring soon may be muffled by the noisy activities of nocturnal animals deceived into thinking day is night.

The heralds-of this new age in zoo visiting may be two little button-eyed African "bush babies," better known as galagoes.

In an elaborate experiment staged Wednesday, the Bronx Zoo managed to keep the galagoes in tow. They romped and ran the way they always do at night and it was 10 a.m.

The experiment, conducted in the basement of the lion house, involved a series of 15 bright electric lights and a dim 15 watt red light suspended over their cage.

The galagoes, primates eight inches long with tails a foot in length, were sleeping peacefully under the glare of intense illumination when the experiment began.

Promptly on signal from J. A. Davis, associate curator of mammals, the bright lights were extinguished and replaced by the solitary red bulb.

Within moments, first one bush baby and then the other opened a hesitant eye, peeked around, and began frolicking on tree branches, believing for all the world the sun had gone down.

Eventually, Davis predicted, the zoo might open a nocturnal house, filled with night-moving creatures tricked into daytime activities.

Trying for Change
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — British beauty Diana Dors has signed for her first screen role since the birth of her baby.

The actress, who announced she will abandon sexpot roles for serious acting, will portray an international charmer who acts as a "steerer" for a gambling house in "The Big Bankroll." "I'm tired," she said, "of being called the British Jayne Mansfield."

When Sen. John C. Stennis heard about it today he indicated his Senate preparedness subcommittee would conduct a preliminary inquiry to determine whether the government also pays inflated prices.

One airline, Trans World, thought enough of the problem to call in recently every supplier with whom it was doing business — and read the riot act. TWA cited these examples:

It was paying $122 for a toilet seat identical to one selling for $3. On one jet, the flight engineer's seat cost $2,500; on another jet, an almost identical seat cost only $685—270 per cent less.

One manufacturer charged $1,537 for a cabin temperature control unit; another only $329.
