Malaya Ready To Send More Troops To Bolster U.N. Command In Congo

By JOHN McNUTT

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—UPI—Malaya came to the aid of the faltering U. N. Congo troop operation Saturday with an offer of 800 more soldiers. But Ghana demanded that the troubled African country be put under "all African" control with all white officials removed.

Malaya's offer to bolster the U. N. troop command, led by defections by nations supporting slain ex-Premier Lumumba, was gratefully accepted by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Discoverer Satellite Launched

WANDENBERG AIR FORCE Base, Calif. (UPI)—A Discoverer satellite—the second launched two days—streamed toward the earth Saturday for a test of instruments sensitive enough to measure sunlight reflected off a surface more than half a mile away.

The launch came despite a 25-minute delay.

The 25-foot long Discoverer satellite was aimed to join another satellite—Discoverer 17—launched Friday in orbit over the poles. Air Force missilesmen said it would take two hours before they could tell if this one worked.

The 81-foot bullet-shaped rocket, firing XXI, belching fire and smoke, lifted from its launch pad 2:58 p. m. PST (4:58 CST).

Twenty-five minutes after launch, the Air Force announced preliminary radio data indicated the second stage of the Agena B satellite had fired as scheduled. There was a three-hour delay in the scheduled launch time to allow the Discoverer XX to clear the area above the base and avoid the slim possibility of a space traffic jam. By launch time Discoverer XX was on the other side of the world.

Although aimed at the same spot around the earth, Saturday's satellite was basically different from Friday's which is supposed to have a recoverable instrument package in orbit for a record 90 days before scientists try to retrieve it.

Today's Lenten Message

By THE REV. DR. JOHN F. WILLIAMS, Pastor, First United Presbyterian Church, Franklin, Ind. (Written for UPI)

LENT — "a time of penitence of a self-denial. Penitence for what, and to what end shall we be penitent? To be penitent simply because we regret either the commission or omission of certain sins, and to deny self simply to develop a little pride in will power—these are hardly worthy motives."

to really be penitent because so casually fall short of the example of our Christ, and to deny self that we might more fully approach the selflessness of our Christ, would more likely conduce for us the spiritual potential of the season contains. The possibility of a more definite identification with the reality in our Master's life should eventuate in less of the nebulousness of faith and a deepening of faith in the specifics of our Lord's discipleship.

It may be that Lent could come for us the "great adventure" in seeking the Holy Grail of Christian devotion.

Pampa Guard Unit Gets Early Muster Day Call

Pampa's National Guard Unit, Co. B, First Battle Group, 142nd Infantry of the 36th Division, moved into its second day of "Operation Muster 1961" this morning, following a Saturday afternoon surprise alert.

The local unit, made up of some 134 Pampa and Panhandle area residents, is under command of Capt. Lawrence Hurdle.

Operation Muster will run through next Sunday. Yesterday turned out to be the time for a quickie alert which was sounded from the State Adjutant General's office in Austin. Within an hour and a half the Pampa unit joined completely mobilized, with other Texas units for a 4-hour drill.

Capt. Hurdle and Lieut. David Crossman, alert officer for Muster Day said the alert could have come any time during the nine-day period, and local officers actually were not expecting it on the first day, although they were prepared.

Capt. Hurdle said that the Pampa National Guard armory and its equipment will be open to the public all during "Operation Muster" through next Sunday.

"The public is invited to inspect our installation," Capt. Hurdle said.

In connection with Operation Muster, Mayor Ed Myatt has issued a proclamation which says in part:

"Whereas: The purposes of Muster Day is to commemorate the days when the militia was mustered annually on the village green—that is, assembled and counted off, to determine how many able-bodied men were available to bear arms in event of an emergency; and

"Whereas: The defense of our country and the preservation of our freedoms are dependent upon a strong militia in order to deter any attempt of any enemy to do so;

Members of the cast of the annual Lions Club Minstrel, "Alabama Bound," go into their final three days of rehearsal in the Pampa Junior High School auditorium this afternoon.

The old-time minstrel show will be staged in the Junior high auditorium Thursday and Friday nights of this week.

In addition to this afternoon's rehearsal the cast also will go through their paces Monday night at 8 p. m. and then on Tuesday night the final dress rehearsal will be held. The cast will rest Wednesday night and the final touches will be made to the stage settings for the opening curtain on Thursday night.

Tickets for the show are on sale at Richard Drug store and may be obtained from any member of the Lions Club. Proceeds of the two nights entertainment will go into a Lions Club charitable fund.

Max Presnell, who is directing the 1961 edition of the minstrel, said yesterday that this year's production tops anything the club has yet produced.

"We have a wonderful cast," he said, "and everyone is helping to whip the show into great shape."

The minstrel will be presented in two acts. There are some 60 persons taking part in this year's production including the chorus, Dixie Land Band, end men inter-locutor and the specialty singers and dancers.

Tax Plans Getting Nowhere

By FLETCHER ROBERTSON
Pampa News Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — There has been some talk — not much, but a little — that the liberal element in the House which, for the most part, has opposed a general sales tax might want to compromise on a give-a-little, take-a-little basis and go along with the measure before it's all over.

Nobody wants to be quoted, but a legislator said the other day there is a good chance that the liberals would approve a board based sales tax if a provision calling for an income tax of 1 percent on earnings over $1,000 is tacked on.

Whether the conservative sales tax group would buy a deal like that is questionable. They conceivably could evaluate the proposition as a means of opening the door to an income tax. Which it would do. And once an income tax law is on the books, it's sure to go up, and probably at frequent intervals.

They're saying around the Capitol that Gov. Price Daniel's proposed payroll tax is as dead as some of the people were when they voted in the last general election. In fact, it's hard to find a legislator who can find a good word to say about a payroll tax.

There is a strong element among House liberals whooping it up for a state income tax which has been endorsed by the Texas AFL-CIO. Several members of this group reportedly have admitted they don't have a chance of getting an income tax by the House; however, they are quick to add that they have enough support to block a sales tax. And certainly that is within the realm of possibility.

Governor Daniel has committed himself against a general sales tax and an income tax and probably would veto either one if it passed the Legislature.

So if you rule out the sales, payroll and income tax plans, the lawmakers have only one route left to raise the money to meet the financial needs of the state: an expansion of the selective sales tax program.

However, sales taxes on additional selected products would mean only a temporary solution to the state's money problem and the legislators would face another financial crisis when they meet for the 58th session of the Legislature in January of 1963.

"We have a wonderful cast," he said, "and everyone is helping to whip the show into great shape."

Insurgents Inflicting Heavy Losses On His Inexperienced Militia

HAVANA UPI — Premier Fidel Castro has rushed to central Cuba, where a band of insurgents in the Escambray Mountains are inflicting heavy casualties on his inexperienced militia, a high army source said Saturday.

The source said Castro left Friday night for Santa Clara with his field commanders after Maj. Dermidio Escalona reported he was "gravely concerned" because his militiamen were suffering between 20 and 30 casualties daily in guerrilla fighting.

Reliable sources have estimated 2,000 guerrillas are holding out in Las Villas Province against about 30,000 recently recruited militiamen. But insurgent resistance was reported stiffening.

Most of the government casualties were reported in the Trinidad-Sancii Spiritus — Fomento triangle where the insurgents were said to have repulsed several attempts to dislodge them from their well-protected mountain positions.

Military sources emphasized the militiamen completed a double ring around the insurgents to prevent help reaching them by land. They said the casualties were inflicted on units which were ambushed as they moved within these circles.

Cuban army commanders also were portrayed as dismayed over a lack of cooperation from peasants in the central Cuba area, compounding government's problem of finding food and housing for its far-flung units.

They attributed the cool attitude of the peasants to their belief that Las Villas Province had been neglected by Castro's agrarian reform program, which has been concentrated on bringing schooling and social benefits to the poorer Sierra Maestra peasants in the east.

Castro continues to express confidence he will soon crush the insurgent pockets despite reports of continuous airdrops of food and weapons. He said the government is capturing 80 per cent of the dropped supplies Cuba has said comes from the United States.

Government sources also admitted "political differences" existed in Camaguey in Eastern Cuba where "user-conservative" police officials have been unable to adapt themselves to the Castro revolutionary program.

Off Shewmaker Enters School Board Contest

Ott Shewmaker, Pampa insurance broker, filed his candidacy yesterday for trustee in the Pampa Independent School District, according to Homer Craig, school business manager.

Shewmaker will run for one of two vacancies on the Pampa School Board at the election to be held Saturday April 1. The two vacancies are left by expiration of the terms of E. L. Green Jr. and D. E. Holt, both of whom are finishing out three-year terms.

A resident of Pampa since 1934, Shewmaker was a teacher in the school system for six years. He taught two years in grade school, two in junior high and two in the senior high school.

Shewmaker is married and lives at 225 N. Sumner with his wife, Lenice, and three children, James John and Mary. A daughter, Mrs. Martha Hunter lives in Wichita Falls. Shewmaker is a member of the Church of Christ, Mary Ellen at Harvester, and is active in affairs of the congregation.

In connection with his candidacy, Shewmaker issued the following statement:

"I believe that every citizen should work for the betterment of the community in which he lives. I also believe in the basic principles upon which our public school system is established. I therefore announce as a candidate for school board member of the Pampa Independent School District. I make only one promise: If elected I shall serve to the best of my ability for the continued growth and improvement of our schools."

Race, Color Signs Must Come Down

MONTGOMERY Ala (UPI) — All methods of racial segregation in Birmingham's terminal station have been ordered "obliterated" by a three-judge panel of the 5th U. S. District Court of Appeals. United Press International learned Saturday.

The court reversed a district judge's ruling Friday which had upheld the Birmingham terminal's practice of allowing Negroes to enter interstate travel to occupy a white waiting room but segregating Negroes traveling within the state.

The ruling, made in New Orleans, was disclosed by the office of Judge Richard T. Rives, a member of the appellate court, who lives in Montgomery. His office received a copy of the decision through the mail from New Orleans.

The appellate judges took note of an Alabama Public Service Commission ruling of 1956 which required the posting of visible signs segregating Negroes in interstate travel.

They held the terminal is "a public utility and an arm of the state in the execution of state policy."

Wheat Growers Are In Double-Barreled Drive To Whittle Down On Uncle Sam's Huge Surplus

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Early this month, a farmer-financed group called Western Wheat Associates announced that for the first time in history, Burma had agreed to buy U.S. wheat.

In March, a consumer-acceptance test of a new canned, prepared wheat-food called redi-wheat, developed under sponsorship of the farmer-financed Kansas and North Dakota wheat commissions, will be launched in Wichita, Kan.

Both developments, compartively small standing alone, are part of a double-barreled drive by wheat growers to whittle down the wheat surplus which has ballooned into one of the governments most perplexing and costly problems.

One prong of the grower campaign is a drive for new markets in the U.S. and overseas. This work is done through wheat commissions in seven major Great Plains and far Western producing states, and regional organizations like the Great Plains Wheat Market Development Association and Western Wheat Associates.

These groups cooperate with the U.S. Agriculture Department in joint overseas market promotions and in research aimed at bolstering foreign sales. Financing comes through taxes levied on farm sales of wheat.

Because the state commissions and regional promotion groups are financed with public funds, they stand apart from the other prong of the drive to reduce the 1.5 billion-bushel wheat surplus—a politically-controversial attempt to cut wheat production by rewriting the federal price support and production control program.

Farm policy experts and farm organizations are still divided on how the job of shrinking production should be tackled. But the National Association of Wheat Growers, backed by two of the KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI)—From Kingston, Jamaica's capital and industrial hub, to Montego Bay, where vacationing Americans escape the rigors of winter on white beaches and in luxury hotels, it is 120 miles.

In those 120 miles, and at either end, are the elements which epitomize Jamaica's problems and its promise as one of the 10 principal islands of the West Indies federation which in the next year or so will take its place among this hemisphere's independent nations.

Here in this westernmost of the West Indies, there is an acute awareness of Jamaica's proximity to Castro's Cuba and to troubled Haiti and the Dominican Republic.

Here also is awareness that Jamaica's exploding population, with a heritage based 90 per cent on that of the slave and the indentured servant, could result in a race problem based neither on Castromism or communism.

But with it is a determination that Jamaica, benefited by a stable government, can lick its own problems through its own resources and ingenuity.

The road from Kingston winds narrowly upward through tropical hills, climbs steeply across Diablo Mountain and then plunges by twists and turns to Montego Bay on the north coast. It passes through Spanish Town, Jamaica's former capital, and along hillsides where earth moving machines big bauxite which will become aluminum.

Jamaica's promise lies in an aggressive program of industrialization which encourages foreign investment in the pattern of Puerto Rico, in its expanding drive to encourage tourism, in a broad program of education and in an agricultural drive to get the most from its crowded acres.

The problem lies in the fact that for 300 years Jamaica slept in the sun under an agricultural economy, where time was determined only by sunrise and sunset. It neither had nor felt the need of industry's time-clock precision or the education that went with it.

Jamaica's awakening dates from not much more than 10 years ago. Now it has a $30 million a year tourist business. The bauxite industry employs thousands and the farm output is up nearly 40 per cent.

A stable middle class is developing and personal income in the last 10 years has more than doubled.

It's here!

Invasion Rumors Hit Cuba Again

HAVANA (UPI) — The abrupt transfer of a city police force clear across this island nation appeared today to lend weight to rumors of an "invasion" of central Cuba by foes of Premier Fidel Castro.

Reports reaching here said the entire police force of the south-coast city of Cienfuegos was moved without explanation Thursday night to the north coast in the vicinity of the city of Sagua la Grande.

These reports coincided with rumors that an unspecified number of anti-Castroites had landed near Sagua la Grande.

Pampa Engineers Join National Observance

Mayor Ed Myatt yesterday issued a proclamation designating the week opening today through Friday as National Engineers Week in Pampa. The proclamation is in part:

Whereas, engineering has through the ages, from a time relating the building of the great pyramids, played a very important and vital role in the progress of mankind.

Whereas, there exists today a need for engineers, and a need for educating our youth in engineering to fill the acute shortage of trained men in this field of labor.

Whereas, National Engineers Week was started about ten years ago by the National Society of Professional Engineers in honor of George Washington, America's first engineer.

Whereas, National Engineer's Week will be observed in the city of Pampa by appropriate displays and activities.

"Now therefore, I Ed A. Myatt, mayor of the city of Pampa, hereby proclaim the week of February 19-25, 1961 as National Engineers Week in Pampa and do call upon the people of our city to participate in the observance of the week by attending the displays which have been arranged and by taking part in the general program."

Pampa City Engineer Monroe Moore announced that the Pampa Chapter of registered Engineers is planning many activities for the observance of National Engineers' Week.

Moore said G. K. Reading, Texas Highway Department engineer is chairman of the speakers' committee and is planning a program for local civic organizations to hear speakers on phases of engineering throughout the week.

Plans to have a display of engineering books in the Lovett Memorial Library have been completed, Moore said.

Winding up "National Engineers' Week" will be a banquet Friday, Feb. 24, to which all Panhandle registered engineers will be invited. The event will be held at 7 p. m. in the Tascosa Club in Amarillo.

The theme for the banquet will be "Engineering, A Career Of Opportunity." The program will be highlighted by announcement of the outstanding engineer of the year.

West Germany Puts Top Price On Head Of Jewish Children's Killer

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — West Germany put a top price Saturday on the head of missing Dr. Josef Mengele, accused of killing Jewish children with chemical injections at Auschwitz concentration camp.

Officials said they believed Mengele has fled to South America. Rumor has placed him in Brazil, and the German Embassy in Rio de Janeiro is holding an arrest order for him.

If caught, the 50-year-old Mengele probably could stand trial in the "Auschwitz complex," a group of nearly a thousand cases prepared by Frankfurt prosecutors.

against personnel of the notorious Nazi concentration camp.

The prosecutors Saturday upped the reward for Mengele to 20,000 marks ($4,475 dollars)—twice the reward offered for Auschwitz Commandant Richard Baer just before his arrest last December.

The new policy of rewards for war criminals so far has led to the arrest of Baer and Franz Novak, a former aide to Nazi executioner Adolph Eichmann who is awaiting trial in Israel.

Saturday's announcement said Mengele was wanted for "countless arrests of persons, particularly children, who were killed with phenol injections, and in connection with the transportation and gassing of thousands of persons at the Auschwitz-Birkenau camp."

Canadian Cold Front Pushes Mercury Down

By United Press International

A Canadian cold front drove deep into Texas Saturday night, bringing an end to springlike weather which has covered the state for a week.

The front was expected to drop temperatures to 20 in the Panhandle Saturday night and to the freezing level across all of North Texas. The front was expected to reach the southern half of the state by late Sunday.

The front dropped the temperature to 26 degrees at Dalhart and Amarillo early Saturday. Dalhart reported 46 degrees at midnight during the last Legislature.

McLean Youth To Join In Pacific Fleet Ceremonies

LONG BEACH, Calif. (SPL) — Billie V. Shelton, hospital corpsman second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Daniels of McLean, serving aboard the attack cargo ship USS Mathews operating out of Long Beach, Calif., is scheduled to take part in ceremonies tomorrow, marking the 19th Anniversary of the Pacific Fleet Amphibious Force.

Established by the late Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, the force is comprised of ships, landing craft and specialized units with the mission of landing troops in assaults on hostile shores.

Under command of Vice Admiral Howard A. Yeager, ships and units of the amphibious force throughout the Pacific will observe the anniversary in their operating area with formal military ceremonies and open house programs in honor of force personnel and the contributions they have made to national defense.

Scouts Set For All Skills Night

The third all-scouts night is scheduled for 7 p. m. tomorrow in the girls gym at the Harvester field house, according to George Flaherty, special activities chairman.

A special Indian dance group from Borger will stage a program centered around the evening's theme, "Indian Lore."

Awards will be presented for merit badge advancement, new members; uniform inspection, special exhibits and Indian costumes and dancing.

The public is invited to attend and see the Scouts in action, according to Mr. Flaherty.

County Heart Group Pushes Fund Drive

The Gray County Heart Association is continuing its observance "Heart Month" with a renewed zeal for contributors to help combat the work, Dr. T. D. Harvey, president, said yesterday.

All of us, at one time or another," Dr. Harvey said, "have in face to face with the economic emotional crises that over a family when heart disease strikes. Such experiences are readily forgotten. They explain new volunteers are constantly joining the vast army of men and women who freely give their time, energy, year after year, to the Heart Fund drive."

Dr. Harvey went on to say that heart diseases not only cause human suffering but they also affect our community's economic life. They are as much a threat to the well-being of the economy as they are to the security of the family. To understand this fact, we only to gauge the impact of heart disease on those in the most productive years — the years between 45 and 65 years of age.

Most of us in that age bracket," said, "are at the peak of our lives — whether we are salesmen, industrial executives, machine operators, factory foremen, physicians, lawyers or newspapermen."

As a group, he stated, we are one of the prime targets of cardiovascular diseases which, most Americans now know, are essentially diseases of old age. The fact that more than 50 percent of all deaths, from all causes, among persons 45 to 65 are due to heart diseases.

Contributions to the local Heart Fund should be mailed to Box 915, Pampa, Texas.

Women Demand Equal Rights Be Firmly Cemented In Lawbooks

By PAT CONWAY

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Legislature will become the arena for the battle of the sexes this week.

The donnybrook is scheduled Wednesday night when the ladies go before the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee to demand equal rights with men.

They want to change the state constitution to make sure the double standard is firmly cemented in the lawbooks.

Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan is their champion, and 12 more senators have joined with them as sponsors of the proposed constitutional change that voters will have to approve in the next general election—if it gets past the Legislature.

The issue was lost in subcommittee during the last Legislature.

The opposition, headed by Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center, tried to point out that the change would force sweeping revisions of state laws that may have the statutes in a muddle for years to come.

That fight is only one of many scheduled during the week.

Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo will be ready Tuesday to battle with anyone who thinks the state's merit rating car insurance plan is any good.

Hazlewood has two—not one—bills to correct the plan. One measure tells the State Insurance Commission how to change the program. The other, more-outrageous, forbids them from doing anything not specified in the first measure.

Hazlewood has been the leading critic of the program that went into effect last January. It bases insurance rates on a driver's record of accidents and traffic convictions.

group decided to release a report proposing stronger U. N. action in the Congo. The report was drawn up by an 11-nation conciliation commission to the Congo.

Stevenson sought release of the report against Russian insistence it be kept secret. Sources said at Saturday's two-hour session Guinea strongly backed Russia's stand. But Stevenson had his way.

The advisory group agreed to make the conciliation commission report available to all U. N. delegations with a note stating that the 1,000-word document reflected the opinion of the conciliation commission delegates, not necessarily that of their home governments.

The conciliation delegates came from Ethiopia, Ghana, India, Liberia, Nigeria, Morocco, Pakistan, The Sudan, Tunisia, Malaya and Senegal.

The Pampa Daily News

YOUR FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from the government. Freedom is not license. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, The Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to promoting and preserving YOUR freedom as well as our own. For only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Elsewhere on today's editorial page of the Pampa Daily News, we are reproducing a special feature which deals with price determination as a free market phenomenon. Since there is so much misunderstanding as to how prices are determined, this explanation by the great Austrian economist, Eugene Bohm-Bawerk, can serve as an excellent primer on the subject.

More and more we hear that the Kennedy administration plans to pursue courses of action which would tend to eliminate the normal market procedures in price determination. Like all who are imbued with the socialist-communist philosophy that it is the state's place to determine market forces, Mr. Kennedy and his retinue of collectivists will find the increasing necessity for more laws, more regulations and more controls to constantly try to repair the damage they have been responsible for effecting in the first place.

But, when men play god with other men's productive abilities and lives, the outcome can be easily anticipated. As time passes, the New Frontier resembles the frontier of Karl Marx and such men as Bohm-Bawerk, Carl Menger and Ludwig von Mises are looked upon as "reactionaries" for recognizing the inseparability of free market phenomenon and all other freedoms.

We commend this essay to all who desire to better understand the economic forces which make for price determination.

One of the fallacious beliefs during the present century and, we are sorry to say, taught in most schools and many churches and by all labor unions, is that labor is not a commodity.

We have never seen a clearer statement of the fallacy of this belief than the one issued by Frederick Nymeyer in the December 1960 issue of his magazine "First Principles in Morality and Economics." We want to pass this masterpiece on to our readers.

From here on we are quoting from Mr. Nymeyer: "An American educated in the first half of the twentieth century will almost certainly have been taught that 'labor is not a commodity.'"

"The statement that 'labor is not a commodity' is usually proclaimed with an air of righteous astonishment that the contrary is being considered, and with an attitude of indignation which appears to be intended to give evidence of religious protest against human indignity." The writer, whose early youth was spent in a rural environment, far from centers of employment, was nevertheless definitely conditioned, by his environment, to that idea, to wit, 'labor is not a commodity.'

"The conclusion which was intended to be drawn from that premise or principle was that the labor rate — the price of labor — was not to be determined by the ordinary laws determining the formation of the prices of commodities. The idea was that 'labor' was peculiarly human, and that it should be treated on a basis different from commodities. But what that different basis should be was not specified, except that there was the inference that wage rates; to be determined by some noncommodity principle, should be more generous and more 'just' than if they were determined by the laws of supply and demand which determine commodity prices generally.

"However, as far as price-determining economic laws are concerned, labor is in the same category as commodities. This is not a question of doctrine, about which to be emotional, but one of making proper distinctions regarding facts. It should not be difficult to come to a solution which correctly looks at labor as a commodity, but which also removes the anxieties of moralists, social philosophers and theologians who afflict themselves with the fear that men are being demeaned into being no more than chattels such as horses, cows, etc., when men's labor is considered economically to be similar to the services of a horse.

"The distinction which it is necessary to make is between the laborer and his labor. A laborer is not a commodity unless he is a slave, but his labor is a 'commodity,' or more accurately, a service. It is different with a horse; its labor is a commodity, or service, but the horse itself is also a commodity which can be bought and sold (as well as separate segments of the labor it can perform.) The whole horse can be sold, and naturally its labor power then goes with it; or a portion of the labor of the horse can be sold, as for a day, a week, a season.

"In a free society, a man may not be sold like a horse. He therefore never sells his total labor, to do so would be to sell himself into what would be considered slavery. But a man does sell — should be prepared to sell — fragments of his labor. In other words, a laborer is not a commodity, but specific units of human labor are services to be priced as commodities are priced. It is — always will be — unfortunate to confuse a laborer and his labor.

"What makes anything valuable? Something which we may call, using a term of Bohm-Bawerk, 'renditions of service.' It will be helpful to compare a farm, a horse, and a man relative to 'renditions of service.' 'Why is a farm valuable? Because it will contribute certain 'renditions of service' in connection with producing foodstuffs. A farm has no intrinsic value in itself. Its value derives from the 'services' it can provide, which services are wanted.

Justice And Injustice In Price Determination

JUSTICE AND INJUSTICE IN PRICE DETERMINATION UNDER FOUR DIFFERENT CIRCUMSTANCES

In the October and November issues extracts were presented of Bohm-Bawerk's analysis of the price they will prevail for a horse or horses under four different circumstances: (1) isolated buyer and seller, (2) one-sided competition among buyers, (3) one-sided competition among sellers, and (4) two-sided competition.

In isolated bargaining the price of a horse (under Bohm-Bawerk's assumptions) can vary in a wide range, between $100 and $300.

Under one-sided competition among buyers, the prices will fall in a higher and narrower range, between $250 and $300.

Under one-sided competition among sellers, the price will fall in a lower and narrower range, between $100 and $125.

Under two-sided competition, the price will fall in a middle and very narrow range, between $210 and $215.

Chart I shows the foregoing, graphically.

1. When there is one buyer and one seller, the range in which the bargaining takes place can be very wide. The trader who is better, or bolder, or more ruthless, can force the price far in the direction of his own idea of what the price should be, and far away from what the other man would like the price to be. (See the heavy portion of the first horizontal bar in Chart I, which shows the range in which the price can fall.)

2. When there is one seller but many buyers, the seller has a heyday. He easily obtains a higher price, not because he is a better, bolder, or more ruthless trader, but because the buyers compete with each other by outbidding each other. To get a high price is not evident that a man is an extortionist and hardhearted; it often is nothing more than evidence that buyers consider it to be for their own good to outbid each other. It is not so much the seller who extorts for himself the higher price; instead he recouls the higher price effortlessly because of the eagerness of the several buyers. (See the heavy portion of the second horizontal bar in Chart I.)

3. When there are many sellers and one buyer, a situation is reversed. The sellers under-sell each other. A low price is not conclusive evidence of skillful and heartless pricing by the buyer; it may instead be evidence of eagerness of sellers to sell. It is for that reason that the price of the horse that is sold will be lower. (See the heavy portion of the third horizontal bar in Chart I.)

4. When there are many buyers and many sellers, the range in which the buyers and sellers can be "tough" toward each other is narrow. The range in our example became a trifling $5 compared to $200 in isolated trading. Skillful and ruthless traders have no real range in which to "extort" from another what their intelligence, wealth or strength might induce them to attempt to "extort." "Free markets" restrict them. (See the small heavy portion in the middle of the fourth horizontal bar in Chart I.)

Definition of Justice and Injustice

The four horizontal bars in Chart I are divided into sections labeled "Justice" and "Injustice." The terms need definition.

What is justice in price determination? That no buyer coerces a seller beyond the limits that the seller is willing to go; and vice versa, that no seller coerces any buyer beyond the limits that the buyer is willing to go.

Readers who have not read the preceding two issues may not fully realize that this is an absolute requisite for justice. Justice assures noncoercion, and therefore noncoercion is part of the definition of justice. Every buyer and seller, by this definition, himself wishes to be a buyer or seller at the price that prevails. Every actual buyer and seller prefers to pay the price he is paying or receiving, versus not trading at all. Every buyer and seller, according to his own estimation, gains by the transaction. He trades willingly. The market he creates or helps create is, in that sense, a free market.

What Justice Does Not Include

But the term justice in price determination does not assume some things. It may be well to be explicit about that.

1. First, it does not assume equality of circumstances. It assumes instead inequality — one man wants a horse, and another man with a horse to sell wants something in place of his horse. The valuations of the participants in the market will necessarily be different.

CHART I "Just" and "Unjust" Market Prices for Horses Under Four Circumstances

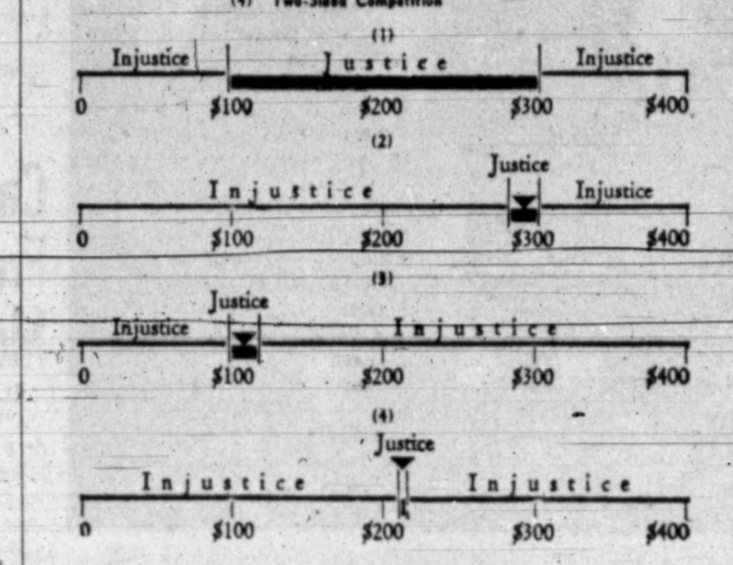

CHART II Chart To Show The "Mode" Of Horse Buyers And Sellers In Our Example

TABLE I Buyers And Sellers Of Horses In Two-Sided Competition

show "brotherly love" to each other more — by voluntary exchanges than by any other activity. (See what has been written about Ricardo's Law Of Association or Cooperation in Volume IV, numbers 7 to 18.)

2. Nor can justice in price determination assume that there is perfect knowledge by the participants of the ultimate wisdom of what they are doing. There is no perfect human wisdom. We have only partial knowledge. Every man must engage in exchanging and trading according to his own "light." That some have more light and others less is inescapable.

Every man must be his own judge when he buys and sells. That responsibility is accompanied by some undesirable features. The alternative is that another makes the decision for the first man. But such an arrangement, that we are our brothers' keepers, is accompanied by even more undesirable consequences. The abuses of paternalism and mandatory control over others are worse than the abuses of freedom. It is safer to rely on protecting the self than to rely on protection by others.

The concomitant of Justice

But the further question may be asked: is nothing more to be relied on than atomistic competition, and is it always: every man for himself only?

To have that perspective of a free market is to fail to see its character clearly and realistically.

The bid prices of other buyers in a free market are educational for a particular buyer; his fellows truly help orient him. Similarly, the offering prices of other sellers in a free market are educational for a particular seller. "Free markets" daily teach more than do the schools of the efforts of mankind what the north star is to the sailor at sea; free markets tell what is done — by the market, transportation, discontinued, increased or decreased. Buyers really help other buyers; sellers really help other sellers, and vice versa.

The more standard that merchandise is, and the greater the number of buyers and sellers that there are, the safer the world is for the foolish, weak, inexperienced and imprudent. It is the existence of nonstandard merchandise, markets, which potentially contributes to injustice in buying and selling. The highly organized markets for standardized, graded merchandise, which are characteristic of the modern world, work toward frustrating injustice.

The Alternative

That the "market" is not a perfect ideal for "just" exchanging is undoubtedly true. In this world, in which fallible men are neither perfectly good nor wise, the only other standard is whatever other alternative may be available.

Such an ideal of a fixed or administered price, for which many devout moralists and religionists seem to yearn, requires that the are perfect in their subjective evaluations. There are no such men and never will be in this dispensation. To assume that perfectly just prices exist, or will exist, is to assume the impossible.

JUSTICE — AND MATHEMATICAL AVERAGES (Libertarian Press, 1960)

Prices may be determined in "isolation," that is, arrived at by bargaining taking place between two people, alone by themselves, without contribution by others; or they must be arrived at in a "market," that is, arrived at by many buyers and sellers mingling with each other in the bargaining process.

In the first case, we are dealing with a specific price. In the second case, we are presumably dealing with a price determination which involves averaging of some sort. A natural question arises: What kind of average is developed out of the price-making process, and how meaningful and "just" is that average? The answer is not difficult to discover and will be illuminating. For the following analysis, we shall use the data on horses appearing in Table I on page (223) in the November issue. For convenience, the table is repeated here:

Readers of the November issue will remember that under the situation described in the Table, five horses will be sold, to wit, the five available for less than $215. The other three priced at $215, $250 and $300 will have to be led home, unsold. However, as was made clear in the analysis, the second marginal pair that determine the price is the first excluded pair, to wit, Af and Bf, the sixth buyer and the sixth seller who were willing to buy or sell at $210 and $215 respectively. These two cannot get together on a deal because they are $5 apart. Nevertheless, they are the real marginal pair in the determination of the price. They must be included in any averaging, in order to arrive at a price.

There are four well-known averages, (1) the popular average known as the arithmetic mean; (2) the geometric mean; (3) the median; and (4) the mode.

The arithmetic mean for the first 12 figures in Table I is arrived at by dividing by 12 the total of the twelve figures, that is, in algebraic form: ($300 plus $280 plus $260 plus $240 plus $220 plus $210 plus $180 plus $170 plus $150 plus $110 plus $100) divided by 12. The result is $215.50. This method of averaging has the effect of giving greater weight to the smaller items in the series.

The median means the mid-most number between the high and the low. If there is an odd number of items, e.g., the seventh if the total number were 13. But there are only 12 items in this series, and so we compute an arithmetic mean of the mid-most pair, which is $210 and $215. The answer is $212.50. This has the effect of minimizing the extremely high and low items.

The mode means that value where the items cluster together. To demonstrate the mode a chart should be drawn. See Chart II. Each column represents a buyer or seller. The cluster in this small series is between $200 and $220. We might call the mode $210 (the midpoint between $200 and $220). The mode, similar to the median, ignores the extreme values in the series and selects the value that seems to be most popular (is "in style," from which the term mode is derived). An average which is a mode will tend to be skewed on the low side; at least lower than the median.

It happens, because Bohm-Bawerk took a typical series of prices, rather than an exceptional series, that the results of all four processes of averaging fall in a rather narrow range, between $210 and $220. In actual life it does not always turn out that way.

When the question is asked: Which of these four averages on the basis of logic and "justice" should be used in pricing, then the answer can be found by a process of elimination. The geometric average should be excluded because it gives too much weight to the lower figures. The mode should be excluded because it is (usually) skewed. That leaves the arithmetic mean and the median. Between the two the final choice should be with the median because it gives lesser value to extreme figures than does the arithmetic mean. The median is the midmost figure, and is more typical and easily computed than any other average.

Which average according to Bohm-Bawerk's analysis, is the one which is actually used in the price determining process? The median.

A market analyst who makes price analyses on the basis of means, or modes, does not follow a method in harmony with what really happens. Price analyses, in order to be strictly realistic,

He Misses Winter Tourists In Europe

By HENRY McLEMOP

ROME — I am one of those tourists who misses tourists. To me, a foreign city is at its best when it is alive with people from Cleveland, Buffalo, Sioux Falls, Tuscaloosa, Bowling Green, West Palm Beach, and Waco. Also Allentown, Chicago, Roanoke, Carson City, and Chimney Rock.

The absence of these tourists is the only fault Europe has in the winter. I like the restlessness they give to Rome, London, Paris, or Madrid. You can't keep a city still that has thousands of American men, women, and children roaming about by day and by night. Something is jumping at all the time.

I like the way touring Americans look, too, and turn a deaf ear and an appreciative eye toward sports shirts, two-toned shoes, comfortable jackets, and hats worn at an angle. Our casual dress enlivens the scene, just as a flock of jays or robins would a field of somber crows.

Missed, too, in Europe in winter is the sound of voices that seem wonderfully natural. It would be good to have someone walk up right now and say, "Gotta light up" or "Where can I find some coffee in this town I can drink?" (I could provide the light but I'd have to take the man to my house to satisfy him about the coffee.)

There isn't as much laughter with Americans missing, either. The gay European is somewhat of a myth. At home, anyway. In the summer, when Rome is jammed from the Tiber to the hills with Americans, the sound of laughter is everywhere. Some critics say the laughter is a little on the boisterous side, but not for me. It sounds like people having a good time, and what's wrong with that?

The so-called advantages of a touristless Europe are for people less fussy than I am. An empty shop isn't half as much fun to buy in as one that is loaded with customers picking and choosing and bargaining. There's a faster service but little charm.

There are more tables to choose from in restaurants and more waiters hovering around. But there's no noise, no action, no bustle, no heated discussions as to what European dish to choose, what to tip, and there are few wandering musicians with their hats out.

There's no scrambling for taxis in the winter, and there are few happy parties ambling about in horse-drawn carriages. Europe takes on an air of business in winter, and gets down to business. The mail line at the American Express office is a foot long, not a mile, and one can get one's letters without ever finding out how the weather is in Dallas, the Dodgers' chances, or hearing a single complaint about the funny money over here.

It should be bread on medians. If the question is asked: What is the most important average in life, the common answer would be the arithmetic mean. But the most important average by far in the world is the median, because the exceedingly important price determining process consists in finding that kind of average.

When looking at the situation from a mathematical viewpoint, the median value, for the participants in a market, is the most just value.

There's no reason why tourists shouldn't be here in droves in winter, either. You can't beat the weather. It's never real cold, with lots of days like Indian summer. There are plenty of hotel room guides and seats on sightseeing buses to spare. It's a bit chilly in the churches and museums, but two pairs of socks takes care of that. Or nearly.

If I were you I'd come on over. I'll meet you at Piazza di Spagna or anywhere you say. And give you a light.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, Feb. 19, the 50th day of the year with 316 more to go.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mars and Venus.

On this day in history: In 1473, famed astronomer Copernicus was born at Torun, Poland.

In 1864, the Knights of Pythias fraternal organization was founded in Washington, D. C.

In 1945 the U. S. Marines landed on Iwo Jima.

I am frightened. Last night I saw a film showing what our god enemy has been doing to us. The past 15 years Communist imperialism has: 1. Conquered more than one fourth of the earth's surface. 2. Enslaved more than a billion people. 3. Taken over the lands, peoples, developed and undeveloped resources than all the conquerors of history combined. 4. Done all these things without losses in land, sea, or air.

This is not a cold war. It is the hottest war in all human history and the most dangerous.

On Jan. 17 Khrushchev, in general meeting of the Moscow party organizations, described policy of peaceful coexistence but one of the factors which make for the world victory of communism, is not far off.

Lenin's blueprint for world domination is summed up in this statement, his exact language: "First we will take Eastern Europe, then the masses of Asia. Then we will surround America, the last citadel of capitalism. We shall not hit to attack. She will fall into our lap like an overripe fruit."

Can even the most optimistic among us deny that is what is happening? Everyone in Pampa should see this film, "Communism on the Map." It is the property of Cabot Companies. I have been informed that it is available for viewing by any group that requests it.

Hollywood Stars Forced To Sell Their Homes And Estates

JOSEPH FINNIGAN
LYWOOD (UPI) — Income and the high cost of keepers, maids, butlers and chauffeurs. Others in high income brackets have tired of battling expenses involved in fancy living.

John Clerc-Scott, regional vice president of Previews Inc., an international real estate firm, says some Hollywood homes can be purchased at what amounts to bargain prices.

"That is if you consider anything costing in the neighborhood of $300,000 a bargain. Suffice it to say, these aren't tract homes."

"This strong and steady growing trend has established a new low ceiling on prices for this type of home and it now is possible to buy many luxury establishments at a fraction of their original cost," said Clerc-Scott.

The realtor admitted, however, that buyers are scarce for the same reason that owners want to sell — high upkeep costs and taxes.

Judy Garland and her husband Sid Luft, left for England and put their 19 room English Tudor mansion up for sale at $335,000. The beautiful home is located on a landscaped estate in the fashionable Holmby Hills section of Los Angeles.

Actor Jack Webb has his eight room ranch-style home in Encino for sale at $174,500. The Webb home contains $40,000 worth of hand-carved paneling designed and built by George Montgomery. Dinah Shore's husband, taxes on Webb's property are approximately $2,379 a year. Preston Foster is offering his home and 100 acres of working ranch property for $185,000. Located in the Sierra Paloma Mountains about 50 miles from Hollywood, Foster's "Twin Oaks Ranch" has all the elements of a working cowboy spread.

The property has a home, recreation building, cow barn, milk house, blackhouse shop, gas station, poultry shed and bunkhouse for cowboys. The yearly tax bill is approximately $1,600.

Cold Weather Causes Losses In U.S. Economy

By GEORGE C. HARLAN
NEW YORK (UPI)—The blizzards and biting cold that slowed the pace of life to a crawl in recent weeks in many parts of the nation also congealed the bloodstream of the economy, piling up losses of untold millions of dollars.

Economists and statistical agencies declined to hazard a guess as to the actual dollar loss in trade, production and wages, but they were agreed the expected dismal showing of the economy recently cannot be blamed entirely on the recession.

The local retailer undoubtedly was hardest hit by the near-record snowfalls and Siberian cold wave.

Merchants in this metropolitan area virtually have written off a week of business as a complete loss as a result of a ban on all non-essential passenger car travel and paralyzed public transportation.

Retail dollar sales in the week ended Feb. 8 slumped by as much as 40 per cent nationally, according to Dun & Bradstreet, a retail business reporting agency. Merchants in New England who bore the brunt of the winter onslaught reported their business was down by as much as 20 per cent.

Doors Swing Wide Open For 'Fonda' But All The Hurts Come To Jane

By DICK KLEINER
NEW YORK (NEA) — If you had never heard of her, and saw her on the street, you would say, "That's Henry Fonda's daughter." . . . And if you were lucky enough to meet and talk with her, you would be sure of it. . . . Jane Fonda has the same intensity, liveliness with flashes of humor, as that of her father.

"A year ago," she says, "I would have said that being Henry Fonda's daughter was a big help to me. Now I'm not so sure. It helps open doors, of course, and I'm certainly going to take advantage of that."

She was badly hurt not long ago. . . . She's in a Broadway play, "Invitation To A March." . . . Some weeks ago, somebody reported to her that a certain actor saw her performance and said, "She got the part because she's Fonda's daughter. She should be clubbed off the stage."

"It made me feel awful," Jane says. "I know, intellectually, that I got this part on merit — I read for it just like everyone else. But still they resent me. I know some other actors resent me because of my father. I don't mind being resented by people with no talent, but it hurts when they are people with talent."

Her first TV part is on the NBC special, "A String of Beads." . . . Like most actors, she found the rehearsal period too short, the tension too high, the pressure too great. . . . But she still got a kick out of it.

Jane never wanted to act as a child. . . . "In fact, I actively wanted not to act." . . . That was after an unhappy stage experience at 15, when she felt "petrified and vulnerable." . . . But, later, teacher Lee Strasberg made her feel "comfortable" on stage, and now she's a dedicated actress. . . .

It has been five years since Herb Shriner has had his own TV show. . . . And he thinks he's proven that a comedian doesn't need TV to get along.

Shriner pioneered (in our generation) the off-beat, semi-topical monologue. . . . The same kind of humor now purveyed so successfully by Bob Newhart and Mort Sahl. . . . "I've been doing the same kind of thing as Sahl and Newhart for years," Herb says, "only it's been masked, because I'm a country comic."

He hopes to come back on TV, only with a new kind of show. . . . "The last frontier of comedy is people," he says. "I'm working up

Lutherans Send Woman Observer To Work Among Eskimo Communities

By MARY FOWLER

Miss Henriette Lund, nationally noted social worker, currently serving the National Lutheran Council as an observer at the United Nations, has been sent on a mission to Alaska by the Evangelical Lutheran Church. Miss Lund is to work and observe among Eskimo communities in which the Church has established congregations. She visited the new state and recommended that a full-time social worker be sent there to help in counseling and community work among the Eskimos.

A former German missionary to China has returned to Berlin from a visit to the communist mainland of China with the report that "one has to search for churches and Christians with a microscope" in most towns. However, Frau Gerda Buega, who joined a tour to China organized in East Berlin, did discover that the church is still comparatively active in Shanghai, even though the number of parishes there has dropped from 200 to twenty since the communists came into power. A Methodist minister informed her, she said, that all ministers in the city now meet regularly and that denominational differences no longer matter. Three services are held in his church each Sunday, and each is attended by some 300 persons. In other towns, Frau Buega reported, only one Sunday service is generally conducted and seldom more than 60 persons are in attendance.

While there were 65 churches in Peking in 1957, four congregations still meet regularly. Writing in the Berlin-missionary newspaper, Der Ruf, Frau Buega noted that she returned to the mainland after several years' absence "with the sincere desire to understand the people of the new China, both Christian and non-Christian." While there, she resumed contact with various Christian groups, visited a bishop of past acquaintance, and talked with several pastors. Frau Buega confirmed earlier reports that pastors generally work in factories, some full time. However, she disclosed that several Christians she met had responsible positions. In one province, Frau Buega said, some 50 Christians in various towns have been elected by the people as their representatives. But as "followers of Christ" they were tolerated as a minority group and had none of the status enjoyed by communist party members. The wives of some ministers work as nurses while that of a bishop is employed in an envelope factory.

Witnesses Back From Meeting In Albuquerque

Jehovah's Witnesses of the Pampa congregation have returned from their winter circuit assembly held at the Fair Grounds in Albuquerque, N.M. Daniel Katsanis, presiding minister, stated entire families attended the assembly. The theme of the convention "Be Taught by Jehovah" was sounded by R. L. Anderson, of New York when he formally opened the assembly Feb. 10.

Saturday's program included the discourse, "Dedication and Baptism" after which 32 new ministers were immersed at the YMCA pool.

Highlight of the three day meeting came Sunday when Daniel Katsanis heard Mr. Anderson, deliver the timely address, "Is God Interested in the Affairs of Men?" "Men may put forth many reasons to argue that God is not interested in the affairs of men, but proof that He is interested is abundant," Anderson declared.

He cited as proof of God's interest the creation of the earth so admirably suited to the needs of man; God's provision of a written guide for man, the Bible; the sending of His son, Christ Jesus, to rescue obedient mankind; and the establishment of His Kingdom to rule in righteousness.

Clarence Newcomb, circuit supervisor spoke on the subject "Be Swift to Hear - Slow about Speaking" for thirty minutes after which Mr. Anderson gave a closing counsel "Safeguard Your Thinking Ability" to the convention delegates.

The local congregation resumed their services Friday evening at 7 with a written review on Bible material covered the past four weeks in the Ministry School. This was followed by a Bible reading by Luther Platner and Jimmy Doyle Helms which concluded the school session.

Today at 3 p.m. the week's activity will be climaxed by the lecture "Will Many Now Living Never Die?" by a visiting minister, Doug Cullins of Borger. This lecture will be followed by the presiding minister, Daniel Katsanis acting as chairman for the weekly Watchtower Bible study class. All services are conducted at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, 944 S. Wight St.

Modern Churches Are The Rule In Midwest

By JOYCE SCULLER

CHICAGO (UPI) — Modern churches are becoming the rule in the West and Midwest, according to architect William M. Cooley of Park Ridge, Ill. One of the first in this area to specialize in designing modern churches, Cooley estimated that 90 per cent of the churches built in the Midwest since World War II were modern in design.

"At the same time, there has been a tremendous boom here in church building," he said. He has designed more than 300 churches in the past 10 years — well over 90 per cent of them modern.

"New churches are springing up along the Eastern Seaboard, too," Cooley said, "but they are still running heavily traditional." Cooley said many persons, unfamiliar with modern churches, had the mistaken impression they were cold, straight-lined, commercial-looking structures.

"Nothing could be farther from the truth," he said. "Modern churches, particularly Protestant ones, have more purely decorative touches than practically any of the older churches."

He said many Protestant sects building modern churches were, for the first time, going in heavily for stained glass windows, murals, sculpture and carvings.

"There seems to be a growing tendency for fundamentalist churches to adopt the trappings of liturgical or high Protestant churches," he said.

An artist as well as an architect, Cooley frequently sketches the designs for modern stained glass windows and church sculpture. He tries to keep stained-glass designs strong and uncluttered — frequently makes such startling use of color as tinting the face of a Biblical figure purple.

"The point of these departures is to represent emotions rather than the physical details of a religious drama," he said. Cooley and others who design modern churches stray even farther from tradition in their designs for the actual buildings.

Cooley designed a tent-like structure for Bethel Lutheran Church in suburban Evergreen Park because the congregation regarded a church as a "tent of the Lord." The windowless walls of the new church curve inward like a tent and light filters in from outside only through a narrow stained-glass roof.

The site of another Cooley church, in neighboring Des Plaines, influenced its design. Set beside a lake, in view of a highway on the other side, it has a high-arched, vertically fluted white roof, slanted forward and arily set atop a low, dark base. The sharp color contrasts and sculptured look of the building combine to make it a standout even from across the lake.

Religious doctrines also influence the design for a church, Cooley said. "A liturgical or high church is generally designed with emphasis on the cross and altar area," Cooley said. He frequently achieves this effect with a skylight over the altar and small windows at the side of the chancel. "Large picture windows, on the other hand, may be more suitable in a fundamentalist church, where the congregation prefers a bright, airy nave," Cooley pointed out. He's found at least one influence, however, that seems to cut across formal religious doctrine in affecting a congregation's tastes in church architecture.

"Groups with the strongest, surest religious convictions tend to be more receptive to experimental architecture," he noted.

At the 6:30 p.m. service, children, youth and adults will separate for one hour of planned activities, followed by the adult study course directed by Rev. Adcock.

The final service this evening at 7:30 p.m. will be conducted by the pastor who will speak on the subject, "The Power Of Faith."

At 7:30 p.m. service, children, youth and adults will separate for one hour of planned activities, followed by the adult study course directed by Rev. Adcock.

The expansion program involves $1,200,000, a part of which will be raised through contributions from a wide area, according to J. W. Blanton Sr., president of the Home's board of trustees.

Rev. Howard W. Washburn, administrative director of the Home, said construction would begin this Spring and the completion target is within a year. The present home at 1431 Stearns Avenue will continue in operation.

"The initial expansion will permit us to minister to an additional 11 men and women, where we now accommodate only 52 at the present home," Rev. Washburn pointed out.

Although owned by the Methodist Home, the C. C. Young Memorial Home ministers to aging from all denominations.

The new national concept pioneered in Dallas involves the feeling that the residential-type home is much the best for our aging people and this idea is exemplified in the treatment accorded the project in its planning stages.

'Love' To Be First Baptist Sermon Topic

Dr. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will be in the pulpit for both services Sunday. He will speak on the topic, "Love, The Greatest Thing In The World," at the 11 a.m. worship service.

Special music will be a solo by Joe Whitten, minister of music, who will also direct the church choir in singing the anthem, "Holy Art Thou" by Handel. Miss Eloise Lane, organist will play "Beside Still Waters" for the offertory.

"Christian Resurrection — The Blessed Hope" is the topic Mr. Carver will use for his evening worship sermon.

Next week the group training school will be held in the Central Baptist Church for the Baptist Churches in Pampa and will continue through Friday Feb. 24.

Rev. Pete Adcock, superintendent of the panhandle district, and pastor of the First Foursquare Church of Amarillo, announced that all churches of the district were banding together to begin the round robin revival, with each church and its congregation participating, and their respective pastor officiating on a given night.

The revival is to begin Monday Feb. 19 and continue thru Feb. 24.

Rev. Phil Demetro, of the Guymon, Okla., Foursquare Church will be officially opening the revival on Monday night, followed by Rev. W. B. Cochran, pastor of the Second Four Square Church of Amarillo, on Tuesday evening, Wednesday evening Pampa Foursquare will be conducting the service, with their own pastor, Rev. W. F. Spencer, bringing the message.

Thursday evening Rev. Pete Adcock will be bringing a number of his members from the First Four Square Church of Amarillo. The revival will be concluded with Rev. C. H. Elwood of the Four Square church of Dumas on Friday.

Each group headed by their pastor will begin a canvass of the neighborhood of the local church, inviting folks to attend the revival on their respective evenings.

Special music will be a feature of every service. The public is cordially invited to attend all services, of this Round Robin revival.

All services will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Special object sermons will be given for children in connection with the services, the Rev. Mr. Bruns said.

Evangelist Now At Revival Center
Ruby Burrow, pastor of the Revival Center located at 1101 South Wells announced that a revival is now in progress.

The evangelist, Lyndon D. Petty known across the nation for his ministry, is special guest for the services.

Services are being held at 7:30 p.m. each evening in the church.

'Darkest Hour' Is Sermon Topic At St. Paul's Church

The Rev. Jack Riley of the St. Paul Methodist Church, has chosen, "The Darkest Hour-The Dawn" for his sermon topic in the early morning worship service at 9 a.m. today.

Sunday school will be at 9:45 a.m., followed by the morning worship at 11 a.m.

The conclusion of the mission study, "The Stumbling Block," led by Dr. Joe Gates will be held at 6 p.m. Sunday with a covered dish meal preceding the study session.

Central Baptist Training School Set For Monday

"Sower, Seed, Soil" will be the title of the sermon to be delivered by the Rev. Thurman Upshaw, pastor of Central Baptist Church, in the morning worship service at 11 a.m. today. The scripture reference is Mark 4:1-9.

In the evening worship service at 7 p.m. he will be speaking on the subject "Remember the Lord's Day," the fourth commandment, as he continues his sermon series under the general title "God's Mighty Hand."

Sunday school will begin at 9:45, with Training Union at 6 p.m. this evening.

The Central Baptist Church of Pampa will be host to a training school for Baptist church members from Pampa, White Deer, LeFors and Skellytown.

The group training will be held at 7 p.m. Feb. 20 through 24, with the pastors, educational director and Sunday school leaders instructing the classes.

"Nearly all phases of the Baptist work will be covered."

Hungry Tots Die In Congo By Hundreds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Rev. Archie Graber would like you to know that while you are eating dinner tonight, eight children will die of starvation in the Congo.

If this information disturbs you, several thousand miles away, you can imagine how it affects the Rev. Mr. Graber, who is a Protestant missionary in the Congo's war-torn Bakwanga Province.

"He doesn't read about starving children. He watches them die at the rate of 200 a day, and helps to bury their bloated little black bodies."

ZION LUTHERAN CHURCH
PAMPA, TEXAS

Luke 18,31-34:" Then He took unto Him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold we go up to Jerusalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of Man shall be accomplished. For He shall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked and spitefully entreated, and spitted on: and they shall scourge Him, and put Him to death: and the third day He shall rise again". The Lutheran Church, so named not by choice, but by her opponents, observes Lent together with other formal or liturgical churches. However not by constraint or by orders from a ruling individual or a ruling body in the church, but by the free choice of the individual. While no sermon should be delivered from a Christian pulpit in which the hearers are not shown the way to salvation by faith in the crucified and risen Savior of the world, yet the season of Lent provides opportunity for a special study of the life, death, and resurrection of our Lord. The followers of Christ especially take note of the words of our Lord to His disciples: "Behold we go up to Jerusalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of Man shall be accomplished". All that was written in the Old Testament must be fulfilled in Him. Leave one prophecy concerning the Messiahs unfulfilled, then we Christians are of all people most miserable. Then Jesus is not the Christ but an imposter, a fake, a liar, an enemy of man. According to prophecy He is to be delivered to the Gentiles, Mocked, Spitefully entreated, and spitted on; He must be scourged and put to death, and on the third day He must rise again. These things were accomplished especially during the last week of our Savior's life on earth. Read the four Gospels and compare them to the Old Testament prophecies and know for yourself. This is the main reason why Lent is observed to have special services to reassure us that Jesus is the Christ and that through Him we shall be saved.

AROUND THE WORLD

MUCH TOO COLD—Mighty Niagara Falls can't buck winter weather, and the cold has almost managed to silence the roaring waters. One of the earliest heavy ice buildups on record has cut the flow over the American side of the Falls (left) to about one-third. Goat Island is at right; Prospect Point, left, and the new American Rapids Bridge, top.

TEA TIME—And Fifi, a chimp at a zoo in Toronto, Ont., Canada, is failing to show any party manners as she gets herself potted. She was attending a tea party, but apparently Fifi was too thirsty to wait to drink it from a cup.

FOR BOOZERS—Plastic bags held by a policeman in Vienna, Austria, enable traffic cops to determine if a suspected drunken driver is intoxicated. A chemical in the small glass tube changes color if the alcohol on the driver's breath exceeds the "sober" state.

SPOONING—Two-year-old Mimi Tinmaung was the youngest guest at a reception in London, England, that marked the 13th anniversary of Burmese independence. It took place at the Burmese Embassy, where Mimi wielded a spoon with the best of them.

TIMBERRR!—London is quite a long way from being a deep woods, but there is plenty of lumbering activity going on for some city-bred lumberjacks on an embankment along the Thames River. Perched high in a tree, a saw-wielding daredevil goes about his job of pruning branches that might damage power lines or break off and hurt someone walking below.

BLACK SEE—Rome designer Laura Aponte sends women down to the sea in shifts as she styles a "lampshade" beach tunic of black silk-and-chronoflex knit. Designed for chic and easy beach lolling, the tunic is crisply pleated from its neckline to the flaring skirt.

MUSIC GAL—Zillah is a French poodle in Washington, D. C., and she is showing that she can play the piano like any professional. Her owner, Mrs. Catherine Stidham, claims Zillah was very adept in learning to pound that toy keyboard.

WITHIN THE LAW—Actor Andy Griffith was made a deputy sheriff at his home community on Roanoke Island, near Manteo, N. C. Sheriff Frank Cohoon pinned the badge on Griffith, who acts the role of small-town lawman on his weekly "Andy Griffith Show," televised from Hollywood.

ON THE GO—As they flee from pro-Communist troops, refugees cross a bamboo bridge to reach the Laotian village of Tha Tom. They were escorted by troops loyal to the Royal Laotian government. Tha Tom is a lonely outpost 140 miles from Vientiane.

AMONG THOSE PRESENT—When they got married, actress Sandra Dee and singer Bobby Darin had no time for a honeymoon. Work caught up with them, and the happy occasion had to be postponed. Here, in Miami Beach, Fla., they finally cut a wedding cake with comedians Marty Allen (right) and Steve Rossi (left).

A VERY FLIGHTY COED

BUSY GAL—Student-and-airlines stewardess Marie Louise Hurley is walking to class on the campus of City College of New York (left). The Baton Rouge, La., belle commutes to Europe as a Pan American stewardess between classes. She attends school from Monday through Thursday, leaves for Europe on Friday morning and returns on Sunday. She is shown in class (center) as she studies specimens for a geology course. At right Miss Hurley is ready for a flight.

ON HER WAY—After she returned to New York from viewing the latest fashion showings in Paris, designer Livia Sylva flew to Palm Beach, Fla., to put on a fashion show of her own. It seems to be all work and no play for this working gal, who is her own best model.

IN REVERSE—Digging a hole in the ground seems an odd way to reach for the sun, but that's what is happening at Kitt Peak National Observatory in the Quinlan Mountains of Arizona. Site of the world's largest solar telescope, the giant hole will contain an observing room where scientists will work to learn more about the sun.

County Chairman Thompson dresses Young Democrats

Democratic Party is the party of young people have changed. Roosevelt leadership, and party dedicated to serve the people," J. E. Thompson, chairman of the Young Democratic Club, said in a speech to the club members at the Young Democratic Club Thursday night in the County Court house.

Thompson traced the history of the party from its birth in 1792 to the present. He said that the party had about the party and its processes, to the day.

In his speech, Thompson mentioned the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1933 and the nomination of Ernest Wilkinson, chairman, Mrs. Jack C. Smith, Mrs. Roy McKern-

Kennedys Selling Their Town House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Negotiations are being held to sell President Kennedy's Georgetown house, but Presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger won't identify the prospective buyers.

Kennedy purchased the house for $78,000 in 1957 as a gift for his wife while she was in the hospital for the birth of their daughter, Caroline. The Kennedys were said to be asking $105,000 for the home.

Communist Purge Hits Red China

HONG KONG (UPI)—Students returning from Communist China reported Saturday the Communists were staging public trials and executions of "bad elements" in a purge of minor party officials designed to appease the famine-stricken public.

The Communist Party Central Committee itself admitted a purge was underway last month and the students said it appeared to be gaining ruthlessness and momentum as the Red masters sought to lay blame for the famine.

Eight students came from Red China on passes to celebrate the Chinese lunar new year. Only a few said they were going back. Conditions were too bad.

PHS Cage Year Full Of Thrills

It seems like only yesterday that we were piling into our oil-leaking auto and heading for Quanah where the Harvesters were opening their 1960-61 basketball season.

Pampa lost, 60-57, that night back in early December, after trailing 57-58 with less than a minute to go. Prophetically, the first game was to be an indication of the season that was about to unfold, a season that would see half of the Harvesters' games decided by four points or less.

In non-conference, Pampa lost to Phillips, 47-45; Birdville, 55-51; and Quanah, while defeating Dumas, 40-39, and Seminole, 59-56 and 59-55, the latter pair both in overtime.

With a 7-6 record and a six-game winning streak, PHS entered District 3-4A play where the throat-cloggers were again the big factor. Picked to finish sixth, Pampa bore out the prognosticators with a 4-10 district mark — but had the ball bounced the other way in several games it would have finished higher.

In district action, Pampa lost two by one point (Borger, 51-50; and Amarillo, 63-62); two by two points (Plainview, 58-56 and Palo Duro, 41-39) and one by three (Borger, 58-55).

On the credit side, the Harvesters won one by two (Lubbock 55-53) and one by three (Plainview, 68-65).

None of the defeats were easy to swallow, but the one-point losses to Borger and Amarillo — and the two-point defeat by Palo Duro were the hardest to take, for in each of the three victories was so close . . . and yet so far.

From the won-lost standpoint, 1960-61 was not a banner year. However, play on the part of four sophomores — Randy Matson, Gordon Balch, Ronnie Chase and Wayne Kries — gives heart to next year's PHS cage followers.

The whole year was chock full of individual performances and occurrences that even today bring back vivid memories. Of such there was:

The initial PHS-Dumas game in which Randy Matson — still hobbled by a football injury — made his first appearance. The 6-5 soph only scored five points but the potential was there and he later proved it by scoring up fifth in the district in winding, ending his season with 27 points against Plainview.

The second Pampa - Birdville game in which Pat Carter poured in 30 points, nine short of the all-time single game record set in 1956 by Gene Brown.

Allen Wise, one of only three seniors, who strung together consecutive free throw strings of 18 and 20, topping his season off — ironically enough — at the free throw line against Plainview with 150 fans standing on the floor around him and cheering him on.

Ted Leach, Borger sports editor, who stood up with the "rest of the students" to sing the Borger school song word for word. Talk about spirit.

Putt Powell, pro-pro-Sandie supporter who suddenly started covering Palo Duro games after his beloved Sandies fell flat on their faces in district after being a pre-season title choice.

The clock incident at Palo Duro along with the two-man game of catch between the two officials as Pampa tried desperately to get hold of the ball.

The exciting district race that went down to the final night before Palo Duro won, and a race that was featured by the surprising showing of the Monterey Plainsmen.

And finally, there was Bill Neslage, coming off the bench to score the winning points and cap his senior season with a goal that defeated Plainview, 68-65, and gave Pampa sixth place in the standings.

There may be better teams to come in the future for Pampa, but for sheer breathtaking basketball, future Harvesters are going to have to go a long way to top the Class of '61.

Snider Cops Initial Win With Rights

FORT WORTH (Spl) — Pampa carpenter, Charles Snider, opened up in the third round to win a technical knockout over Ken Staggs of Waco in their middleweight bout Friday night in the State Golden Gloves Tournament.

The two fought on fairly even terms until the third round. The Waco middleweight won the first by landing several left hooks, but Snider took the second and hurt Staggs with a right to the head.

In the final round, Snider slammed home three hard lefts and a right to the jaw and finished Staggs in 1:15 of the round.

"I never opened up until the third round," Snider said Saturday. "I set him up with two right punches under the heart and then I dropped his elbow and I caught him with two left hooks."

"I didn't do anything the first or second rounds but I thought I was ahead by a little bit," the 20-year old Pampa fighter said. Snider had Staggs' nose bleeding freely in the third before he finished him off.

"I believe I'm a lot better fighter than when I came here as an alternate in 1958," Snider declared. "I lost my first fight then. This time I'm a lot stronger and heavier."

Staggs said after the Snider fireworks that his performance was "lousy."

"It was the worst fight I ever had," the Waco entrant declared.

two rounds here Saturday night when he punched out a TKO decision over Teddy Shores of Dallas in the 160-pound quarterfinals of the State Golden Gloves Tournament here.

Shores, who had won three Dallas regional titles, was a past state finalist and a Marine Corps champion before being discharged recently, had been predicted to make short work of Snider but the 160-pound Pampa puncher turned the tables.

Both fighters exchanged blows evenly in the first round and a half, but Snider opened up with his patented overhand rights late in the second round and threw in one good right cross that jarred Shores.

In the third round, Snider scored with a right and left overhand punch, and then hit Shores with an overhand right that cut Shores above the left eye and the referee called the fight, and awarded the TKO verdict to Snider.

Snider's victory set up a semi-final match Monday night with another Pampa — Bobby Wilhelm, who is fighting for Corpus Christi — who decided Claude Bollins of Abilene, a pre-ministerial student at Hardin-Simmons University.

Other Amarillo victors in last night's second round were Eddie Gonzales over Angel Alba Jr., of Waco in the 112-pound bracket; Durwood Williams over Arthur Jimenez of San Antonio, 127-pound, and Elmer Clements, who KO'd Richard Fairchild of Odessa, in the second round of the 175-pound battle.

Amarillo and Corpus Christi are tied for second in the battle for team honors with 8 points each, one point behind Fort Worth. However, Amarillo is given a good chance for the team title as they still have six boxers left in the competition while Fort Worth has five.

The tournament resumes Monday night and will conclude Tuesday night. Winners here will advance to the national Golden Gloves tournament in Chicago, in early March.

FOLLOW THE BALL — Pat Carter (44) ends his successful senior season with a clutch jumper late in the game Thursday night to help defeat Plainview, 68-65, and sew up sixth place in District 3-4A. 'Mutt-Jeff' Push Tech Past Arkansas, 87 To 81

A&M Wins, Stays Near

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) Texas Tech's Mutt 'n Jeff combination of Del Ray Mounts and Harold Hudgens rocketed the Red Raiders past Arkansas, 87-81, Saturday night to keep the winners atop the Southwest Conference standings.

Mounts, 5-10, poured in 31 points and Hudgens, 6-10, funneled home 24 points to help Tech to an 8-2 conference record. Arkansas fell to a 6-4 league mark.

Texas A&M beat Rice, 68-65, to earn a 7-3 mark and stay in contention as Tech's closest challenger.

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Baylor, embedded in the Southwest Conference basketball cellar with nine straight losses, played like champions and hit 59 per cent of its shots Saturday night in dumping Texas Christian, 74-60.

Senior forward Richard Tinsley, a 6-4 forward, connected for 20 points as the Bears overcame an early TCU lead to build up a 25-12 margin midway in the first half and go on to their first loop victory.

PHS Eyes Improvement Over 1960 Record

Pampa Cindermen Open Year At Fort Stockton

Pampa's 1961 Harvester track team, possibly stronger in the weight events but dotted with a sophomore tinge, today were pointing towards its first activity of the year on Feb. 25 when it will enter the Comanche Relays at Fort Stockton.

Dwain Lyon, Panhandle Track Coach of the Year in 1959, has been working his 30-man squad out since Christmas, but has had few good days for workouts, most of them coming in the last two weeks.

With a dirt track — Pampa is one of only three schools in District 3-4A without a cinder track and the only school in the conference without a curved track — Lyon's harriers have been further hampered by a muddy track following snow and rain.

Despite the handicaps, Lyon feels that this year's group could make a better showing in the various scheduled meets, but still will be far from a district contender.

Lyon can count on only two returning lettermen, sprinter Steve Dobbins and Billy Cooper, main threat in the high and low hurdles. Dobbins, whose fastest time last spring was 10.3, will head up the relay teams which will include

Strong Baylor Golf Team Boasts Pampan

WACO — Odis Beck, Baylor golf coach and pro at the Ridgewood Country Club, believes he has his most promising Bruin links squad in several years, getting ready for a schedule that includes nine team matches and three tournaments.

Beck, assisted this spring by Johnny Arreaga, 1960 Baylor ace and now a Ridgewood assistant pro, returns three players from last season plus a 1959 letterman in Don Prigmore. In addition he has two promising sophomores, giving him the best depth he has ever had at Baylor.

Prigmore, from Pampa, is a senior, currently ranked No. 2 in a close race with another senior, Raymond Stoker from Odessa, who is No. 1. Sophomore Tom Langston, from Santa Fe, N.M., is currently ranked No. 3, just a step ahead of Bruce Bangert, Adair Ratliff and Randall Meeks, who are bunched closely in a scrap for the No. 4 position.

Bangert, from Waco, and Ratliff, from Monahans, are junior lettermen, both members of last spring's top foursome, while Meeks is a Dallas sophomore.

In addition, Beck is working with three promising freshmen, Herschel Orr from Bay City, Bobby Lockett from San Angelo and Joe Rickett from Olney, as well as two sophomores who plan to bid for places on the 1962 varsity team, Charles Rabensburg from Bastrop and Bob Christie from Pasadena.

Cooper, Robbie Robison and Ralph Palmer. Palmer is a sophomore, the other trio seniors.

However, Lyon feels that the quartet may be shuffled once Randy Matson — the do-everything sophomore — sheds his basketball togs for track.

"Matson is probably one of the fastest boys we'll have out," Lyon commented. "However, he's our main threat in the shot and discus and could be one of our big point gainers."

Lyon backed up Matson's cinder potential by pointing out that last year — as a freshman at Pampa Junior High — Matson broke four records at the district junior high meet and finished fourth in the high school division at the Lubbock Invitational Meet last year in the shot put.

Other potential point winners are Bill Hughes, who is working out on the mile now but may be used on the 880-yard dash; John Pitts, a sophomore hurdler; Bill Martin, a sophomore high jumper who leaped 5-8 in junior high competition last year, and a pair of juniors, Larry Brawley and Danny Mathis in the shot and discus, respectively.

Sullivan Sinks Clutch Putt To Bypass Field

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Handsome Buddy Sullivan, an unheralded professional from Yuba City, Calif., roared in a two-foot pressure putt on the 18th hole Saturday to take undisputed leadership at the end of 54 holes in the $20,000 Tucson Open golf tournament with an 11-under par score of 199.

White Deer Tops Gruver

BORGER — White Deer's Bucks broke open a tight game in the last quarter here Saturday night to defeat Gruver, 60-49, in the District 1-A playoff game and move into a bi-district clash with Canadian Tuesday.

The Bucks will play Canadian at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Pampa High School's gym for the right to go to the regional tournament in Lubbock this weekend.

The lead changed hands 15 times and the score was tied 15 times before White Deer broke the game open with 5:47 left in the last quarter when the Bucks took a 46-41 margin. Gruver once came within two, 49-47, but the hot Bucks pulled away in the fading minutes.

Four Bucks hit in double figures, paced by Robert McAllister's 15 points. Robert Logsdon had 14 for Gruver, which had won the regular season 1-A title with a 9-1 record.

The win boosted White Deer's record to 28-2 and left Gruver with a 26-5 tally.

White Deer's Gruver and Stratford will play in Doer Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to decide the 1-A girls' bi-district entrant.

Rinaldi OKs Moore Fight

ROME (UPI) — Giulio Rinaldi of Italy, who scored a non-title victory over Archie Moore last October, Saturday agreed to final terms for a June 10 lightweight championship fight against Moore in New York Madison Square Garden.

Rinaldi, who had been balked at the fee offered him, agreed Saturday after he and his manager, Luigi Proietti, conferred two hours with Lew Burston, Garden's ambassador-at-large who came here to see him.

Burston, who also had met with the Italian and his manager Friday, said they discussed "the tails" of the contract. He said they had no major disagreement but that the details could not be settled in a few minutes.

Rinaldi had been asking that $25,000 guaranteed him be free, while Burston had been insisting that Rinaldi should accept $25,000 less taxes. It was not closed on what basis the disagreement was resolved.

Rinaldi defeated Moore here in a decision last October. Moore called the decision "unjust" — American and international stars.

Indiana Romps

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Big Walt Bellamy jammed in 23 points in the second half Saturday to end a three game Indiana losing streak and hand Wisconsin its eighth loss in a row, 98-84.

Italy Wins Bobsled; Trinity Accepts Bid

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — Italy's steel-nerved Eugenio Monti, undisturbed by an accident to his countryman or by the pressure put on by America's Stan Benham, led the world four-man bobsled championships Saturday with an aggregate time of 2:18.40 for two heats.

Monti, the defending world four-man champ and a five-time winner of the two-man title, had identical runs of 1:09.20 on the one mile Olympic course at Mt. Van Hoevenberg.

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Trinity University, whose cagers have won 17 of their last 18 basketball games, Saturday accepted a bid to compete in the NCAA college division basketball tournament March 10-11.

George Ziegenfuss of San Diego State College, western NCAA regional chairman, extended the bid to Trinity.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Cousy, basketball star of the Boston Celtics, edged co-middleweight champion Paul Pender by three points in the January poll for the Hickok "professional athlete of the year" award.

Cousy received 24 votes for first and 98 points while Pender got 14 first-place votes and 85 points. George Blanda of the Houston Oilers was third, followed by Elgin Baylor of the Los Angeles Lakers, Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors and Frank Maho-

Doser Captures Lead In Senior Golf Play

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Clarence Doser shot even par golf Saturday to move to a two-stroke lead in the third round of the 22nd PGA seniors championship.

Doser, of Gaithersburg, Md., finished with a 72 and a 54-hole total of 207, two strokes better than Paul Runyan of La Jolla, Calif., who also shot a 72 in Saturday's round for a total of 209.

Doser, playing steady in clear but windy weather with gusts up to 25 miles an hour, was two under par on the first nine holes, but evened up his card with two bogeys on the back nine.

Runyan pulled up into second place Saturday — the same spot he has finished in this tourney for the past two years.

Longhorns Gore Ponies, 71 To 65, In SWC Battle

AUSTIN (UPI)—The University of Texas Longhorns staged off a late Southern Methodist rally Saturday for a 71-65 nationally televised victory that kept alive glimmering hopes of a successful defense of their Southwest Conference basketball title.

Texas led all the way and capitalized on a height advantage as 6-8 Al-Aimansa and 6-11 Wayne Clark controlled most of the rebounds.

PAMPA STARS — Pat Carter, left, and Randy Matson captured two places on the District 3-4A All-District second team...

Carter, an honorable mention selection last year as a junior, was the Harvesters' season-long scoring champ, setting a 1960-61 one-game record of 30 points against Birdville in a non-conference battle.

In the classic Georgian Capitol on a hill in Montgomery, Ala., 44 delegates from six southern states met Feb. 4, 1861, to create a new nation. Delegates from a seventh state, Texas, were on their way, the state having seceded Feb. 1.

The Montgomery gathering was distinguished, the average ability higher than "any of the 16 Congresses I have been in at Washington," Alexander H. Stephens, a delegate of Georgia, concluded.

The delegates likened their task to that of the Republic's founding fathers at the First Continental Congress. Free man shaking off the shackles of tyranny, they called themselves in the metaphorical language so dear to the hearts of the orators of the day.

There was no Thomas Jefferson to write their aspirations into a ringing declaration of independence; no Washington to head up an army of liberation. But the will to break off from the rest of the United States was resolute and in four days the delegates formed a provisional government, adopted a provisional constitution and in one more day — on Feb. 9 — elected a provisional president — Jefferson Davis of Mississippi, one-time U.S. senator and secretary of war.

They called their new nation the Confederate States of America, although Thomas R. R. Cobb, another Georgian, suggested "The Republic of Washington" to show the seceded southerners were going back to first principals. Another name put forth, "The Confederacy of the Cotton States," was right on the target because Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas still were outside and at the moment showed no inclination to go along.

But parallels between the Montgomery assembly and the First Continental Congress were few. Where the Continental Congress worked in open session, the Confederate Congress drew the blinds and worked secretly. Where the Continental Congress met in Philadelphia, the largest city in the colonies, the Confederate Congress selected a comparatively obscure capital, founded only 44 years before, and passed up such more famous cities as Charleston and Columbia, S.C., or Savannah and Milledgeville, Ga. One parallel did exist without doubt, Montgomery was named New Philadelphia.

Sessions of the Confederate Congress were so secret that little is known about them even yet. Not until 1904 was a skimpy journal published and then by the U.S. government. Only glimpses of the meetings have come through in letters of the delegates.

On the surface the decisions of the delegates of the six states were unanimous. Underneath individual ambitions clashed, an inevitable result when 44 politicians meet together.

Howell Cobb of Georgia was named to head the one-chamber Congress by virtue of his fame as secretary of the treasury under President Buchanan. He also was angling for the presidency of the budding nation. So was his colleague, Robert Toombs, shaggy, tobacco-chewing Georgia planter and former U.S. senator. A mild boom also blossomed briefly for Stephens.

With the provisional constitution — copied almost in full from the U.S. Constitution — out of the way and a committee named to draw up a permanent document, the business of electing the first president got under way.

The question of whether Davis was drafted for the office as he contended, or whether he was elected accidentally as Stephens claimed to the day of his death, seems destined to go down in history as unsolved.

There is little doubt that Davis wanted to be commander-in-chief of the Confederate Army rather than President. And it seems just as certain that Georgia rated and expected to obtain the presidency. Both ambitions broke on the rocks of the overwhelming desire for unanimous action so as to present a solid front to the world.

Cobb soon faded out of the presidential picture. He had jumped to the Whig side in the compromise of 1850 and the '61 Democrats had long memories.

When the Georgia delegation met the night of Feb. 8 to name its choice for the election next day — each state had only one vote — Toombs indicated his willingness to undertake the presidency if it came "cordially." But then Georgia heard that four states had plumped for Davis — Mississippi, his home state, abstaining from recommending him in deference to his wishes for a military position.

To maintain unanimity, Georgia went along and Davis was elected. 4-to-0. As a sop, Stephens was elected vice president, also unanimously. Stephens claimed a foul — that Toombs really was the choice for the presidency — and his animosity against Davis dated from that day.

Davis was working in his rose garden at Briarfield, the Mississippi plantation his brother, Joseph, had given to him, when a messenger arrived with the news. Mrs. Varina Howell Davis wrote later that her husband dropped his shears in surprise and turned pale when he read the telegram.

"He looked so grieved that I feared some Evil had befallen our family," she wrote. "After a few minutes of painful silence he told me, as a man might speak of a sentence of death. As he neither desired nor expected the position, he was more deeply depressed than before."

The Vicksburg telegraph office was being held open for his reply and Davis immediately wired acceptance.

The clanging plantation bell summoned Davis' slaves. He made a short speech to them — the last time he would see them in bondage — and distributed supplies, giving Uncle Bob, a rheumatic old hand, an extra quantity of blankets to shut out the Mississippi River chill.

Another slave, Isaiah Montgomery, rowed Davis out to the river to Old Tom Leathers' steamboat, the Natchez. It headed north to Vicksburg, and the President-elect of the C.S.A. was on his way to Montgomery and his inauguration ceremonies. Mrs. Davis would stay and set the plantation in order before following with the children.

Enroute Davis, with sincere regret, resigned his commission as major general of the Army of (the state) Mississippi, putting away forever the specially designed uniform that went with it.

Another president-elect was on his way to inauguration, too. The day before Davis renounced a military career, Abraham Lincoln had said farewell to Springfield, Ill., and started a 12-day journey to Washington.

Unanimity Fails Once

The unanimity which ruled when the Confederate government was formed in Montgomery was broken only once.

When provisional congressmen were taking the oath to the new Constitution, Judge Thomas J. Withers of South Carolina refused to kiss the Bible. Withers was an avowed infidel, T. R. R. Cobb wrote.

The last survivor of the 425 Confederate generals, Felix H. Robertson, died in Waco, Tex., April 20, 1928 at 89.

William McKinley was the last Civil War veteran to become president of the United States. He was in the army at the age of 18.

WAS WE HAD BETTER GET STARTED on this and quit looking out the window at the pretty clouds sailing by. Did you notice the article last week on the women who are moving on Austin in quest of equal rights for women? Just happens that in this past week's Saturday Evening Post there is an article on the difference between American French women which sheds some light on the subject in a different angle. Maybe you should read it. It seems that French women are much worse off than Texas women, but Texas women have some of the same battles to fight. The thing is that here in Texas we may have some chance of seeing a few changes, while in France the situation is to be pretty well unchangeable! But, dog-gone it, it could just as soon have doors opened for me, and to heck with equal rights. If we don't watch out, we'll have it so we can't go out and buy a new hat when we feel blue. After all, the men don't do that, do they?

The bravest thing you can do when you are not brave is to profess courage and act accordingly. Corra Harris

DOWN TO BUSINESS you will forgive us for such a long first paragraph. But at least it wasn't about the other. It was rumored last week that Johnny Campbell finished with his law degree and may visit in Pampa soon. And we noticed that one of Wanda's books was being reviewed in Amarillo last week. We noted with interest the fact that old eye-glasses and frames can be used in India. Ground lenses can be distributed where needed. The mbo Circle of the First Christian Church has collected patches of these to send to India to Dr. Rambo, an eye surgeon here. Nancy Crossman is the circle president. Thelma Cruise, Helen Maxey, Loraine Payne, Hazel Eckert and Margaret Washington are some of the members of this circle. An interesting project.

HAT NEXT? Well, how about a party? The Mardi Gras dance held by St. Vincent's church was highly successful. Majunta Hills and Lillian Smith made the atmosphere with their decorations. The theme of Hawaii. They made palm trees and crepe paper coconuts. And a rmaid on the shore in one corner. And strung fishnets all around the Parish Hall where the dance was held. Guests wore leis, and leis decorated the hurricane lamps at the center of the tables. Heard that everyone liked the band that played. The Starlighters, and the impromptu show staged by some of those present. Emceed by Horace Prince. Klahr Jewel and Majunta Hills were the stars of the show in their brilliant muumuu. Linda Holt and the Wells from Jeanne Willingham's studio entertained with authentic Hawaiian dances. Our informant told us that the prettiest shirt worn by a man was Bill Braly's. A uau or buffet was served at midnight. Sounds like a party.

True courage is not the brutal force of vulgar heroes, but the firm resolve of virtue and reason. Paul Whitehead

NEW ARRIVALS to change the population figures. Icebergs flew off to Dallas last week to view a granddaughter. Born on February 16th to Raymond Jr. and Marie. Last report the name had not been chosen, but it has been now, we are sure. Jon and Joan Jones are the parents a son. Whom they named Jon Jeffrey. Jon arrived bruary first. Do you remember Jon was a minister of a Mary-Ellen Harvester Church of Christ. And they now live in Tuscaloosa, Alabama. Jon was welcomed also by big-sister, Janet. Isn't it fun that all the names in the family begin with the letter "J"? That keeps Jones from sounding ordinary, doesn't it?

NOTES... Jean Prock, daughter of Ralph and Fern Prock, won a first place in the Amarillo Symphony Contest held a week or so ago. The achievement carries with it the chance to perform with the symphony. There were twenty-nine other contestants in the 11-years and under division of the contest. Jean is a sixth grader. We'd like to hand chids to her. The senior class play this year was "The River Whistle". A comedy. The cast included Bill Byler, Kristi Brown, Don Curry, Rudy Hullender, Fredia Flowers, Tom McPeak, Reta Robinson, Verena Hunter, David Pattison, Mary Helen Ayres and Judy Miller. Mike Moreman, Sterling Price, Wendell Hinkleblack, Kathy Stroebel, Dian Huff, and Prince Alton. And so on and on. Ah, the tradition of the Senior Class Play!

There is too much animal courage in society and not sufficient moral courage. Mary Baker Eddy

HERE AND THERE... Mrs. H. M. Norris, who has been giving the interesting column about the Senior Center, the Senior Center Corner, broke some ribs this week. We hope she will mend soon, for she loves to laugh. And at this point it must be rather painful. Note to friends of Maxine Ethridge. She is out of the hospital now, after long stay there, and is getting about the house, a little slow. We are so glad she is on her feet again, if only for a little bit each day. Saw Al Schuneman downtown last week, with a jaunty red carnation in his lapel buttonhole. For Valentine's Day, no doubt. Saw Freda LeMond doing a little shopping. And so it goes.

SPRING NOTE... saw a huge flock of robins on the lawn of one of the city's many parks last week. They were arm-bunting, we guess. And then a few blocks away there was a pretty flicker. Has the Spring migration of birds already begun?

NOTICE, POSTER, KEEP OUT, NO FISHING... Gertrude, the bass in the fishpond at the Inn has been joined by three more of the same. We heard that Roy Bourland is responsible. Are we right?

NOW WE HAVE SEEN EVERYTHING DEPARTMENT... or other, to be strictly truthful (which we always are, aren't we???) we have just HEARD about it. A coin-operated dry-cleaning machine. It runs like a washing machine, and dries up to eight women's dresses or three men's suits!

SN'T Sharon Vinyard (alias Miss Amarillo) a doll?? She will add her charming and talented presence to the proceedings at the Cotillion luncheon tomorrow noon, in the Inn. This is the Spring Fashion show, and maybe you can still get a ticket if you get on the phone right now, and call Betty Ellis (Dr. N. J.) or Thelma Bray or Erma Lee Barber (Mrs. Gene). Have you noticed that the Youth Center is nearly ready to occupy? Pampa's two exchange students on the American Field Service Foreign Exchange program are being kept busy with speaking engagements. Just recently it was to the Lions Club. They are fine young people, and are very articulate in English. Guess this is about all for this week.

Love, Peg

Roof Of Europe' Forms Club Topic

Twentieth Century Culture Club met with Mrs. J. L. Chase, 2328 Duncan, on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. E. L. Henderson as co-hostess.

A social hour preceded the business meeting conducted by Mrs. J. D. Merchant, president and the program introduced by Mrs. Philip Gates.

Mrs. Gates gave a background for the program, a short resume of the characteristics of the Swiss people.

The program on Switzerland "The Roof of Europe" was presented by Mrs. R. E. Dobbin and Mrs. Ross Buzzard.

Mrs. Dobbin, displayed a long with her portion of the program, a tiny locket which had been presented to her at birth by a native Swiss neighbor and a plate brought back to her from Lucerne by her husband on his trip to Europe.

Mrs. Buzzard used material in her program supplied by a niece, Mrs. A. L. Buzzard of Lubbock, who has been teaching German in Lubbock schools.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Mmes. Jeff Bearden, G. L. Craddock, J. W. Edminister, L. H. Hart, W. L. Hasse, V. L. Hobbs, Ronald Merrill, Doyle Osborne, E. E. Shelhamer, N. D. Steele, Michael Wilson and L. J. Zachry.

Marguerite Baldwin, H. C. Grady Jr. Repeat Nuptial Vows In Chapel Rites

Mrs. Marguerite K. Baldwin and H. C. Grady Jr. were united in marriage with double-ring vows solemnized on Thursday morning at ten o'clock in the chapel of the First Methodist Church. Dr. H. H. Bratcher was officiant for the service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kirchman, 1910 Mary Ellen. Mr. Grady's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Grady Sr. of Brownwood.

For her wedding, the bride wore a three-piece, basket-weave suit of Chinese Blue complemented with a blue-toned straw hat, black patent accessories and an orchid corsage.

Wedding attendants were children of the bridal couple; Scott and Laurie Baldwin, Steve and Jimmy Grady.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Tom Atkin at the chapel organ.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kirchman wore a blue suit with blue accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Grady, chose a black ensemble with black accessories. Their corsages were fashioned from pink rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Grady left for a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nev. and will be staying in the Desert Inn.

Mr. Grady is an accountant-consultant with offices on North Hobart Street.

Pre-nuptial courtesy was extended the bride at a Tea on Friday afternoon in the First Methodist Church parlors. Hostesses were Mmes. Bill Bridges, Raymond Reid, and Travis Lively Jr.

The refreshment table appointments were carried out in a red and white Valentine motif.

The honoree was presented with a corsage of white carnations accented with red hearts; her mother, Mrs. Kirchman was given a corsage of red carnations.

Approximately 50 guests called during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davis were hosts for a dinner on Tuesday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Grady in the Coronado Inn.

Scientist-Poetess Feted At Autograph Reception

An Autograph Reception for Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter was held in the home of Mrs. Julian Key, 1840 Fir, on Friday evening with members of the Future Nurses of America Club as hostesses.

Copies of Mrs. Ledbetter's book "Triumphant Moment" were cleverly arranged throughout the entertaining rooms. A large copy of the title poem was displayed on an easel near where Mrs. Ledbetter autographed copies of her books for guests.

The serving table was attractively appointed with white milk glass on a soft, green, raw silk cloth. The centerpiece of crab apples in brown tones and tied with green velvet bows was lighted with emerald green vigil cups.

Mrs. Walter Purviance presided at the coffee service and Mrs. M. McDaniel at the punch bowl.

Guests were greeted by Miss Carol Smith, FNA president and Miss Judy Stafford, board member. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Graham registered guests.

Other members of FNA assisting were Misses Gwen Davis, L. L. Abbott, Quenelle Archer, Sue Fife, Shirley Bonner, Lajoma Hinds and Mickey Biard.

Approximately 100 guests called during the evening.

Mrs. Ledbetter came to Pampa in 1951 and has been teaching in Pampa schools since that time. She was born in Tonkawa, Okla. and attended Northern Oklahoma Junior College. There, she organized and was first president of the Biology Club, which is still active. She served as president of the Literary Society and had poems published in "The Maverick," the college paper.

While attending the University of Oklahoma, she was on the House Presidents Council for three years and was president of Phi Sigma National Honorary Biological Society during its silver anniversary year.

Her husband, William Ledbetter, is district clerk, Texas-New Mexico District, at the Skelly Oil Company.

For the past three summers, Mrs. Ledbetter has been the recipient of National Science Foundation Scholarships to attend the University of Arizona and the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies Oak Ridge, Tenn. for special work in chemistry.

Special honors, which have been bestowed upon Mrs. Ledbetter include: president for the Science Teachers Association of Texas for 1950-51; Past Matron of the Order of the Eastern Star in Oklahoma, 1948-49. She is a life member of the National Education Association and the National Science Teachers Association and the Anticancer Chemical Society and the Texas Poetry Society.

In 1955, she served as president of the Pampa Classroom Teachers Association and also organized and has served as director of the Pampa Science Fair Council.

Mrs. Ledbetter's hobbies include photography and writing poetry. Photography is actually more than a hobby with her as she has been a professional photographer since 1950 and has her own studio and dark-room in her home. She has won honors in an annual newspaper snapshot contest on three occasions, 1953, 1955, and 1956.

In the collection of poems contained in "Triumphant Moment," published by The Naylor Company, San Antonio, there is poetry of today with an echo of a long gone yesterday. It has a 17th century mellowness and depth where one can glide over the lines or read into them.

Books may be purchased at the Pampa News Stand, at the News Service or from Mrs. Ledbetter.

Talent Winners

Miss Elaine Thornburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Thornburg, 1433 Charles, and Jerry Baxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baxter, 2306 Mary Ellen, won first place and $125 in cash in a Talent Show last Sat. in Liberal, Kan. held in connection with that city's annual Pancake Festival. The first place rating was accorded over 38 other talent entries. Their prize-winning performance was a piano duet with the numbers "Kitten On the Keys" and "Malaguena" by Lecyona, Miss Thornburg and Mr. Baxter also appeared as guest artists on Cotton John's Channel 4 television show yesterday playing their winning entries. They are the piano students of Miss Lois Fagan.

Helene Huff Is ABWA Speaker

American Business Women's Association held its February dinner meeting Tuesday in the White Way Restaurant.

Miss Helene Huff, guest speaker, who is author of western stories written under the pen-names of "H. Andy Huff" and "B. E. Brown," spoke to the group of "Women and Children of the Old West."

Mrs. Clemon Herd, president, presided during the business meeting as Mrs. Wayne A. Neff was appointed chairman of the Spring membership drive, which will be highlighted with the "Hand of Friendship" Tea on March 19.

Mrs. Neff was winner of the door prize.

Guests attending were Miss Huff and Mrs. Wally E. Marthiljohn.

Members attending were Mmes. Roy McWright, Rex Barber, Ed O. Wylie, Francis A. Bradley, Clemon Herd, James M. Quarry, Frank Hearse, Kenneth O. Butler, Harold E. DeVore, Wayne A. Neff, O. E. Payne, Misses Barbara Grissom, Jeanne Casey and Novis Parker.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held on Mar. 14 at 7 p.m. in the White Way Restaurant.

Warren-Starks Say Nuptial Vows

Mrs. Addie Warren of Angleton, former Pampa resident, and Maxam Starks of Old Ocean, were united in marriage in the Church of the Nazarene in Angleton on Jan. 28 at 5 p.m.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Bobby Good, pastor of First Baptist Church in Old Ocean, assisted by the Rev. George Marross, pastor of the Angleton Nazarene Church.

Organist for the ceremony was C. P. Atkinson of Old Ocean.

The bride wore a rose wool, dressmaker suit with a corsage of pink roses.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hurst of Houston. Mrs. Hurst wore a suit of dark green wool with a corsage of white carnations.

A reception followed in the home of Mrs. L. W. Engberg, 120 E. Locust.

Punch and wedding cake were served from a table appointed with a white, Italian cutwork cloth centered with an epergne of pink chrysanthemums flanked by white tapers.

Misses Gay Hickerson of Baytown and Miss Lerna Engberg of Houston presided at the punch and cake service. Miss Linda Kostelnick was in charge of the wedding gifts and Miss Jackie Ewald was guest registrar.

Mr. and Mrs. Starks will make their home in Old Ocean, where Mr. Starks is employed by County Commissioner E. L. Danford.

Mrs. Chandler Feted At Party

PERRYTON (Sp) — Mrs. Coleman Chandler was honored with a pink and blue shower recently in the home of Mrs. Wayne Griffith. Hostesses were Mrs. Griffith, Mrs. Clarence Wiley and Mrs. Raymond Juarez.

Those present include Mmes. Jerry Parks, H. H. Ishom, Charles Dewees, Sterling Browning, H. P. Jones and Robert Trapp.

Twentieth Century Club Orbits Into Outer Space

Mrs. Walter Pung was hostess to members of the Twentieth-Century Club on Tuesday afternoon in her home, 2222 Bech.

Mrs. R. H. Sanford, as program leader, introduced the program on "space" by refreshing members' minds with grade school science studies. She remarked, "Since the first missile was shot on Oct. 4, 1957, space has been the principle topic for study. One of our most important frontiers is outer space." She explained gravitational force holds moons, asteroids in place in the universe while gravity is what holds on earth. "Our size and importance shrinks as we look into space," she said. "We become as a grain of sand in the universe."

Mrs. R. W. Stowers in discussing rockets began by saying "All rockets are not new, but the accuracy of them is new." Mrs. Stowers employed the use of diagrams to explain the rocket program.

Rockets described by discussion and illustration included the Vanguard, which is used for exploring the magnetic fields; Explorer, for radiation belts around the world; Pioneers, research with radio; Tiros, study of weather; Transit, study for navigational fixes for ships in all weather; Midas, infrared detection ray for missiles; Samos, as the spy in the sky 300 miles above the earth; Echo, the largest satellite in orbit acts as a radio mirror; Courier study in active communications, which actually receives messages and later relays them to earth; Discoverer, study for re-entry into earth-for-men; Mercury, man into space project; Saturn, project to launch the largest payload; Syna-Soar, a rocket plane to travel into and out space.

The United States projects are for the aid of mankind and the Russian tests are to create prestige. These rockets can be of great value to us in mapping the earth, in weather control; navigational control and radio broadcasting," Mrs. Stowers concluded.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Ronald Hubbard, president, Mrs. Paul Harbaugh was welcomed as a new member. Members voted to award a scholarship to a graduating senior from Pampa High School.

Attending the meeting were Mmes. Bob Andis, G. F. Branson, W. R. Campbell, F. M. Culbertson, Jack Foster, J. W. Gordon, Raymond Harrah, L. M. Hicks, Ronald Hubbard, V. D. Jamieson, Corne Locke, R. E. McKenn, Fred Neslage, W. J. Pung, Bill Root, Tom Rose, R. H. Sanford, H. E. Stanfield, R. W. Stowers, H. R. Thompson and Paul Harbaugh.

ENGAGED

Miss Sally Osborn

GROOM (Sp) — Mr. and Mrs. Sloan Howard Osborn of Friona announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sally, to Douglas Carol Whately, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Whately of Groom. Date of the wedding has been set for June 3 in the First Baptist Church in Friona. Miss Osborn attended Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va., and is now a senior at the University of Texas. Her fiancé is also attending the University of Texas.

Senior Center Corner

By MRS. H. M. NORRIS
Senior Citizens Center

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Our admiration for Mrs. Norris knows no bounds as we submit the following column this week. Our columnist suffered a broken rib in a fall last Sunday morning as she was preparing to leave for church. In spite of the uncomfartableness she is experiencing, she attended Senior Center on Thursday afternoon and gathered the following news items which comprise this week's column.)

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Clemons, 927 E. Scott, were visitors at the Center on Thursday afternoon for the first time. They said they were very happy they came and that they were coming back again.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker Smith and daughter of Butler, Okla. visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moseley on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Smith is Mrs. Moseley's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moseley visited with their grandson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Roberts in Claude on Sunday afternoon and then drove to Amarillo to spend Sunday night with their daughter and her husband, Cleo and Ruby Vaughn. On Monday they drove to Plainview to visit with their grandson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vaughn and Monday night, Mr. and Mrs. Moseley spent the night with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. McCampbell in Post.

Jack Lesher, N. H. Shireman and Uncle Billy Frost, borrowed Jay Flanagan's car, and drove to Amarillo last Saturday to visit with N. A. Cobb and to celebrate Mr. Cobb's and Mr. Lesher's birthdays. They reported a lovely visit with Mr. Cobb and a good time. They found him much improved in health and looking fine. We hope to have him back in Pampa and at Senior Center soon.

Mrs. Mary Fleming, 928 E. Scott, visited the Center for the first time on Thursday and reported a very pleasant afternoon. Attendance is growing at the Center and this growing attendance makes the Senior Citizens very happy. The more the merrier!!!!

Thanks to Pampa hairdressers, (who are members of Unit 81, Texas Beauty Ass'n.) for being so nice to Senior Ladies. The hairdressers invited the ladies to their shops for new hairstyles last week.

Kit Kats Visit Base Hospital

Kit Kat Klub members, sponsored by the American Red Cross, recently took a program of music, dances and skits and refreshments of punch and homemade cookies to the patients of the Amarillo Air Force base hospital.

Following the program and social hour, club members and sponsors went to the Silver Grill for dinner.

Attending were Kit Kats, Misses Sheri Walker, Adele Pung, Linda Rhyon, Judy Stephens, Gloria Langford, Gail Culpepper, Sue Maxey, Ann Evans, Sandra Weatherly, Linda Worley, Julia Vail, Carolyn Jones, Janice Cope, Judy Esary, Judy Vanderburg, Sandra Braly, Sue Ann Thompson, Jan Grady and Beverly Stephens.

Adults sponsors attending were Mrs. Libby Shotwell, Red Cross executive secretary, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Worley; Mmes. Chester Thompson, Floyd Walker, Clay Crossland and Doyle Ward.

High School Students Suggest New Trends

"True Individuality... What Is It?" was discussed by a panel at the February meeting of Sam Houston PTA held in the school auditorium.

Panelists were members of the Pampa High School speech class, Jarl Molvar, Pete Lewis, Ginger Jolly and Lanell Riley with Prince Altom as the moderator. Mrs. Jack O. Miller, program leader, introduced the panelists.

Pete Lewis gave his views on "Odd-Ball Type" or the wrong type of individual, which included the Beatnik or fad-type of person who only thinks he is different. "But in reality is conforming to his own undesirable group."

Ginger Jolly pointed out the good individual. "There are too many conformists who follow a set pattern. There should be more non-conformists as they think for themselves and are not afraid to be original."

Lanell Riley said that "children pattern themselves after their parents. They expect some leniency but not too much. They expect and require discipline." She also pointed out that an individual has the strength of his convictions and the ability to say "no" where the matter concerns right or wrong. "It takes an individualist to be a Christian."

The moderator posed the question "Do social clubs suppress individuality?" The consensus of opinion was that they do suppress original thinking for the greater part; that members of a clique do not dare to be different and are lulled by the false security of "conformity." The panelists agreed that it is desirable to conform to good customs and laws in that the example of parents invariably set the pattern for children.

Jarl Molvar remarked that people are much the same in his country of Norway. He believed that the home is the most important place for the development of individuality. "In Norway," he said, "the children have to assume many responsibilities for the operation of the home. In this fact, in turn, increases the children's ability to make decisions for themselves and increases their self-confidence in their own abilities."

He also remarked that in Norway, the schools do not have athletic programs such as football, basketball. "They do have a compulsory physical education program, but competitive athletics are restricted to athletic clubs outside the school."

Prince Altom remarked in conclusion that the question many high school students ask themselves is "Where are our true individuals, our great thinkers, such as Henry Thoreau and Billy Mitchell?"

"Jesus Christ," he remarked, "was, in his time, considered a religious revolutionary. It takes a true individual, not an organizational man, to be a Christian."

The afternoon's program opened with honor to the flag with the entire assembly singing "God Bless America" led by Mrs. Jack Benton. The devotional, reading of the Parent-Teacher Prayer, was led by Mrs. Joe Fischer, unit president.

A nominating committee was elected as follows Mrs. Robert Karr, Mrs. Eben Warner Jr., and Miss Melbie Bird Richey.

It was announced that Sam Houston would be hostess for the PTA Study Course, which was held Thursday in the school cafeteria from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Mrs. John Hart was awarded the door prize, a cake baked by Mrs. Ray Brady.

Mrs. C. R. Stowell's fourth grade room won the prize for having the most parents present at the meeting.

An executive board meeting preceded the general meeting held in the school cafeteria.

If you want to be a beauty when you pose for a photograph, be yourself. Friends or family will be looking at that picture for years to come. So the movie star glamor pose (left) is out. Check jewelry over carefully (center) to make sure that it doesn't outshine you. This photo (right) will be a success. She's relaxed. Her make-up is light and natural. Her dress is a classic style that won't become dated easily. Her hair is worn in a simple, soft style.

Hardy Vines Topic At Garden Club

Mrs. Raymond Welch, 2201 Chestnut, was hostess to the Monday afternoon meeting of the Top O' Texas Garden Club.

Mrs. Helen Knox, program leader, discussed the topic "Hardy Vines for the Panhandle" and mentioned English Ivy, Wisteria, Clematis, Honeysuckle and Silver-Lace vine as a few of the hardier vines.

Mrs. C. R. Stowell's fourth grade room won the prize for having the most parents present at the meeting.

The remainder of the meeting was spent making floral arrangements for shut-ins.

Mmes. Myron R. Dorman Jr., Ruel M. Samples, R. S. Brumley, Mrs. Welch's mother, were welcomed as guests.

It was announced that Mrs. R. E. Anderson, 1818 Chestnut, will be hostess for the Feb. 28 meeting at 1:30 p.m.

Refreshments were served from a table appointed in a Valentine motif with a red satin cloth with an overskirt of red net centered with an arrangement of Valentines in a silver bowl.

Members attending were Mmes. R. E. Anderson, Jamie Deal, Fred Hinkley, John Howard, Kenneth Osborne, Tom Patton, O. M. Prigmore, and L. B. Robertson.

Be Your Own Carefully Groomed Self When Posing For Picture

When a friend asks for your photograph, you should remember that it's YOU he wants — not some unrecognizable stranger.

Even if it's just a year-book picture you're planning to have taken, bear in mind that simplicity is the key to a striking portrait.

Here is some advice that should help you look your natural best: Select fresh, young shades of make-up, applied with a light touch so that the natural "you" comes through.

The camera has a sensitive eye, so be sure that your complexion is radiantly clean before picture-taking. Start a stimulating two-minute wash and facial with a deodorant beauty soap.

The antiseptic will help keep your complexion clear even under your make-up, and a mild soap won't rob your skin of natural oils.

Select a light foundation that's as close to your skin coloring as possible, and use a translucent shade of powder.

Since the camera will pick up every flaw, the Dial research laboratories advise that your eyebrows be perfectly tweezed. But don't tweeze them just before you set out to be photographed or the skin irritation may show up in the picture. If your brows are light accent them with short strokes of a brown eyebrow pencil.

Don't overdo the eye makeup. And if you've never used mascara before, leave it alone. This is no time to experiment.

Your lipstick should be clear red, pink or coral. Deeper shades will look too dark in a black-and-white print.

Make certain your hair is clean and shining, and don't try a new hair style for the picture. It won't look like you.

Be careful about the dress you choose. Keep it simple. A dress style can date the picture. Your jewelry, too, should be kept to a minimum. A simple strand of pearls and small earrings are enough to point up your beauty. Anything more elaborate will draw attention away from your face.

Practice a few poses before a mirror to learn your best angles and expressions. And when you sit before the camera, relax until the photographer is ready. Then glance don't stare, at the spot he indicates.

Don't "get yourself up" in imitation of a beauty queen. You'll be delighted with the results if you just look your natural best.

Mrs. O. H. Odom Group Hostess

Mrs. O. H. Odom, 515 E. Foster, was hostess to the Tuesday evening meeting of the Sharp Group of First Christian Church in her home.

The meeting opened with prayer by the leader, Mrs. Murray Castleberry. Reports were given on help given to a local family in need; visits, flowers and cards to the shut-ins and ill church members.

An inspirational devotional entitled, "Whatever Is Lonely" was given by Mrs. Ford Herring.

The program, "Being A Real Person" was presented by Mrs. Jim Cunningham.

Plans were made for "World Day Of Prayer" which was held Friday under the auspices of the United Church Women.

Refreshments were served during the social hour from a table appointed in a Valentine motif. Mrs. Odom was assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Laramore with hostess duties.

It was announced that Mrs. Cunningham will be hostess for the March meeting at 7:30 p.m. in her home on Star Route.

Attending were Mmes. Jim Cunningham, Lloyd Laramore, Bob Rogers, Legn Howell, Given Vance, Murray Castleberry, E. B. Jackson, L. C. Wassell, Don Elledge, Pearl Thurman, Fort Herring, L. L. Stewart, O. H. Odom. Guests were Mrs. Ralph Converse, CWF president and Miss Dorothy Sorenson.

The Clemmons Are Feted With Housewarming

LEFORS (Spl) — Mr. and Mrs. George Clemmons were honored with a surprise housewarming recently in their new home in the Thut Addition. The occasion also honored Mrs. Clemmons' birthday.

A birthday cake was brought by the hostesses, Mrs. Eddie Clemmons and Mrs. Bob Clemmons and was served with coffee and tea.

Games of 42 comprised the evening's entertainment.

Attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Larwood Glick, Floyd Chitwood, Ellie Clemmons, Bob Clemmons, Pat Patterson, Troy Shipman; Mrs. E. R. Audridge and Mrs. Emily Smith, all of Lefors. Out-of-town guests included Messrs. and Mmes. Bill Clemmons and family of Gruver; Noel Clemmons and family of Post; DeWitt Henry of Altus, Okla.; J. E. Turnbo of Pampa; Jeff Ray of Pampa and Boyd Smith of McLean.

Conservation Of Lives Topic For Civic Culture

Lieutenant Jack Higginbotham of the Texas Highway Patrol was guest speaker at the Tuesday-afternoon meeting of the Civic Culture Club held in the home of Mrs. Willis White.

Lt. Higginbotham, who has been stationed in Amarillo for the past 10 years and is second in command of the Amarillo district, spoke to the group on "Conservation of Human Lives."

"Conservation of human lives," Lt. Higginbotham said, "is the basis on which our democracy is built. Yet 33,000 killed annually in traffic accidents is the staggering figure we have to consider. In the last 10 years there were more people killed on the roads in accidents than in wars."

"There are a number of solutions, but nothing at present that will stop accidents in our present way of life," the speaker continued. "One of the enigmas of the situation is that people are much more provoked over a traffic jam than they are in preventing accidents. Law Enforcement officers are primarily concerned with people, you and me, not with the vehicle. Any situation that exists in a democracy is the result of what you and I, as citizens, have done or have failed to do, and we have already sacrificed some of our privileges. Why should we have to have armed men patrol our highways to enforce laws to protect ourselves? Law enforcement is merely the employment of democracy."

"Accidents are caused because we fail to know the law, fail to pay strict attention to our driving or because we violate the law," Lt. Higginbotham said delinquent drivers in the making can be found amongst some of our young people, who, through some lack of parental or background training, are growing up with a bad attitude towards authority. "In fifty per cent of the accidents, there is only one vehicle involved. In fifty per cent of accidents, there is one drinking driver involved. But," he continued, "not many people realize that a suspected drinking driver involved in an accident does not have to take a blood test in the State of Texas and the fact that he refuses cannot be entered in the testimony in the trial. This law has remained unchanged because citizens have failed to write and make their wishes known to their representative in Congress."

The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. A. C. Houchin.

Mrs. Ophelia Morris conducted the business meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Emmett Osborne.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Attending were Meses. Stanley Brandt, R. E. Dauer, Emmett Gee, A. D. HJlls, A. C. Houchin, Ophelia Morris, C. F. Pennington, W. C. Scott, K. A. Sorenson, Louise Sewell, J. B. Townsend, and Katie Vincent.

Friendship Class

The Friendship Class of the First Methodist Church met Tuesday evening in the Fellowship Hall for its annual Sweetheart Banquet.

Dining tables were appointed with Valentine arrangements of red and white carnations, red tapers with Valentines at each guest's place.

Mrs. H. H. Butler, class president, presented the Rev. and Mrs. Phil Gates with a floral arrangement as the only couple present who had been married for 50 years. Mrs. Walter Purviance was presented with a similar floral arrangement for being the first teacher of this class.

Miss Linda Key presented an interesting program on the history, customs and costumes of Hawaii and its people with a background of Hawaiian music playing throughout her talk. She was assisted by her sister, Cindy Key and brother, Gene Key and Miss DeAnne Drew in showing Hawaiian fashions.

The program guests were presented with a floral arrangement and boxes of candy in appreciation for the program presented.

Topic On Time Given At Meet

CANADIAN (Spl) — The Christian Missionary Society of the First Christian Church met recently for a covered dish luncheon. The business session was conducted by Mrs. Perc. Hill. The program was given by Mrs. Danny Urschell who spoke on "Time."

Mrs. Wjaren Hill gave an early history of the Hawaiian Islands and Mrs. Troy Newton spoke on modern Hawaii.

Hostess for the meeting were Mrs. Harry Haines and Mrs. Kate Ford.

Architect's Book Reviewed For Twentieth Century Forum Club

Twentieth Century Forum Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Aubrey Steele, 1800 Grape.

For the afternoon's program, Mrs. C. V. Wilkinson reviewed Lawrence Wright's book "Clean And Decent," the unfruffled history of the bathroom and the water-closet.

Mrs. Wilkinson introduced the author as an English architect and artist, whose paintings have been exhibited in London museums and galleries. "Clean and Decent" is a serious architect's distinctive contribution to his profession," Mrs. Wilkinson said. "His book is an extraordinary history of personal hygiene down through the ages and contains a solid core of social history and innumerable lively reflections on changing manners. It is apparent to Lawrence Wright that more can be learned about past peoples from their bathrooms than from their battlefields."

Mrs. Homer Johnson discussed modern, artistic bathroom decor, which she illustrated with examples of new materials available to home-owners interested in new construction or remodeling.

Following a brief business meeting conducted by Mrs. Howard Federer, refreshments were served by Mrs. Perc. Hill. The program was given by Mrs. Danny Urschell who spoke on "Time."

Mrs. Wjaren Hill gave an early history of the Hawaiian Islands and Mrs. Troy Newton spoke on modern Hawaii.

Hostess for the meeting were Mrs. Harry Haines and Mrs. Kate Ford.

Featherweight woolen fabrics with a really lacey lightness are used for these spring fashions. Off-white tweed is plaided boldly in black (left) in this three-piece ensemble by Monte Sano-Pruzan. Wide, cape-like coat is same house into dress with gentle blouse back (center). Jacket has elbow-length sleeves. Coat (right) with blouse back is in a coral-and-white light-weight tweed. All fabrics are British woolens. All show a new and unusually vivid approach to color for spring.

Wool Knits Blossom For Spring With Lacy Lightness

NEW YORK (NEA) — Even if you should have a chemise or two left in your closet (which is unlikely), don't haul them out this spring, gals. You'll be strictly dated.

For the new silhouette (Democrats call it the "Jackie Kennedy look") has nothing to do with the sack. Fortunately, the sack was exactly that, from neck to knee.

But the new spring look evolves from the silhouette of past seasons actually. It hasn't sprung full-blown from any one source. All top designers have their interpretation of the relaxed or easy silhouette.

Characteristics of this silhouette are the dropped waistline, the set-in belt, the gentle fit, the narrow but artfully cut skirt. Dresses often are sleeveless and coats are collarless, with elbow-length sleeves.

Fabrics are the lightest and laciest woolens ever. Thus, they adapt beautifully to ensembles. Even the overblouse for a three-piece costume can be cut from these woolens.

Jackets are wide with brief sleeves and open necklines. Many have a capelike look. These look especially well in spring's bold checks and plaids.

Baptist Classes Have Cupid Party

LEFORS (Spl) — The Intermediate class and young people, their guests and the department workers were entertained with a Sweetheart Banquet, Monday night in the First Baptist Church.

With soft music and candle light, with hearts, cupids, and heart trees decorating the walls, ceiling and tables, formed the party atmosphere.

The Rev. Luther Berry, pastor, as master of ceremonies, introduced a variety program with Phillip Earhart, "Eating Fire"; a song by Bettye Williams; a monologue, "Entertaining Sisters Beau," by Mrs. H. L. Teel; and "Love Story Melodies," by Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McPherson.

Food for thought, "True Hearts Forever," was presented by Dr. Douglas Carver, pastor of First Baptist Church in Pampa.

Those in charge of the Banquet arrangements were the superintendents of the Intermediate and Young Peoples Departments of Training Union and Sunday School, Mmes. W. B. Minter, Tom Fiorance, Frank Cooksey, and Buster Sublett. The program was under the direction of Mrs. H. L. Teel.

By MRS. TOM PRICE
Pampa Garden Club

Flower arrangement as an art has been changing. It would be amazing if it did not. In a world where everything else changes all the time, it is only natural that flower arranging, which is influenced so much by how we live, what furnishings we have around us and what we think is beautiful, should also differ from what it was ten, twenty or thirty years ago.

The big difference between flower arranging and the other things is that the basic materials with which we work, flowers and leaves, have not changed. What has changed, however, is what we think should be done with them.

The modern homes of today need arrangements with contemporary design. It is the feeling for definite, clear and bold design that most distinguishes contemporary flower arrangement from its predecessors. Today it is commonly acknowledged that in modern arrangement, design is the single, most important factor. Just as in the design of a modern table, one part seems to flow into another, so greatly do they complement one another, so in arrangements, every leaf and flower must have meaning in its relationship to other; nothing is haphazard.

Before starting to make a design from a piece of material, you either buy a pattern and go by it or you create your own plan as so complete your design. Design flower arrangement means the same thing. It is a plan or a pattern. Design can be good, bad, indifferent and certainly what a person likes another will not.

In order for you to really enjoy flower arrangement and make good designs, you will need to study some of the principals, such as scale, balance and harmony. They may sound difficult but it isn't. There are many excellent books at your fingertips that will go into detail explaining these principles in an easy step by step method with illustrated pictures. My favorite book is "The Complete Book of Flower Arrangement" by Roywell and Grayson.

At a recent meeting of the women of St. Matthews Episcopal Church, plans were made to continue the Junior Cotillion again this year with registration for fall and winter classes to begin in April.

"The Cotillion consists of bi-monthly class instruction in social etiquette and dance steps," Mrs. Carl Thomas, women's organization president has announced. "The classes are composed of third grade through Junior High school students and are separated according to age groups."

The meeting opened with the first seven Lenten meditations presented by Rev. William E. West following the weekly service of Holy Communion. The theme of meditations was "The Rule of Life."

During the business meeting, delegates were chosen to attend the council to be held Mar. 10-12. They are Mmes. C. R. Howard, J. R. Reeve Jr., Henry Rose, Donald Beaman, Albert Knox and Billie Davis, as alternate.

Coffee was served during the social hour by Mmes. West and Reeves.

Attending were Mmes. Clem Followell, James Dalley, Gerald Shults, Florence Esmond, Jay Meador, William L. Arrington, Felix Vendrell, E. Roy Smith and Joe Daniel.

The meeting concluded with a devotional by Mrs. Thomas.

with ELEANORE

It is incredible how early Easter is this year, and it really is time to begin planning for the Spring season. How about a head to toe "perk up" for the Season: starting, of course with the Head. Bring your head to the BOB-ETTE BEAUTY SALON, for they are experts and will know what to do with all that pretty hair! The new Honey Hug trend is perfect for a Spring perk-up; and how about a new color for your hair along with the new style? Hair coloring is so safe, so pretty and so much fun now. The colors for Spring are not so pale as those for winter. They are brighter, with a zest which complements the rich colors in clothes this spring, as well as setting off the pale lilacs and yellows you see everywhere on the clothes-racks. Do telephone for an appointment. BOB-ETTE BEAUTY SALON, 2110 Per ryton Parkway, MO 8-3591.

Wondering where to find it? Well, probably the HOBBY SHOP will have it. For instance: here is a list of hard-to-find items carried. Spray adhesive, glitters, sequins, felt squares, spray paints for fine hobby work, jewelry findings, sterling wire for making jewelry, flocking, copper enameling supplies. There are art papers of all kinds, paints, pastels, brushes, special erasers, and the hard to find Jon Gnagy drawing sets. AMERICAN FLAGS, 3 feet by 5 feet, plastic, only $2.00. Scout supplies for all Scout activities. Books on Indian lore and crafts. Pearl fasteners and grippers for Western shirts, stencil lettering guides, text file paints. Parts and supplies for something you are making are likely to be in stock. Loopers for weaving looms. and on and on. See what I mean? You can find just about anything you need for hobbies, crafts, and so on, at the HOBBY SHOP, 102 S. Cuyler.

If you love kitchen "gadgets" as I do, you should just see the array of useful items at the PAMPA HARDWARE.

New idea for kitchen convenience is the Ekco-Flint under-the-cabinet "Susan Holder," for ladle, spatula, fork, spoon, potato masher, and so on: just spin the holder and select the tool you need — saves space, as it is installed under the kitchen cabinets. There are Dazey icecrushers, can-openers, and magnetic knife holders. You can find cookie presses, donut presses and salad-makers. Icecream scoops and measuring cups. Nice indeed are the "Maggie Magnetic" towel-tote, or holder rack, that hangs on the refrigerator, or other metal surface and holds towels, or measuring spoons or what — have — you. There are racks of gadgets — everything from skewers to dish mops! Drop by and see these and many, many more at the PAMPA HARDWARE, 120 N. Cuyler.

This time of year, it is especially necessary to safeguard your health, and help prevent those miserable Spring colds, and so on. One good way is to be sure your body has the vitamins it needs. RICHARD DRUG has their own formulas compounded especially for them and for you! Decaplex is the Richard Drug formula of vitamins especially prepared for children—contains no sugar or alcohol. There is a therapeutic formula with minerals in a one-a-day capsule, a 100-day supply just $5.89. Richard Drug "Youth Caps" are vitamin tablets for children. Richard Drug has also Bexel multi-vitamin syrup for children, Bexel Special Formula Capsules, and Bexel children's vitamin tablets. There is also Geritol, liquid or tablets, and Geritol Junior, fortified therapeutic tonics. Take time now to get vitamins and safeguard your health. RICHARD DRUG, 111 N. Cuyler.

At HI-LAND CHILDREN'S SHOP the newest warm-weather togs are famous Scotchies knits, in sizes for toddlers to subteens, and in colors pretty enough to suit anyone at all. It is almost unbelievable the number of combinations you can make with the shorts, capris, and shirts available for your daughter. The colors are lilac, orange, mossy green, white, and wheat, with the cutest tops matching any of a number of solid color shorts or capris. You'll always be able to find a combination that matches and is clean if you stock up on these mix-and-match wonders. They wash and dry beautifully too, with little shrinkage. They wash as well as Buster Brown clothes. The Wells-Esley Co. has been remodeling the Boys Shop, too, and you've never seen so many shirts, slacks, and sets of shorts and shirts for little boys. There are dress-up suits for little ones, also, and the fine Dotty Dan designs, in sizes through six. There are jackets and shirts and clothes for boys through size twelve, at HI-LAND CHILDREN'S SHOP, 1617 N. Hobart.

When I walked in a CLAYTON FLORAL COMPANY I saw a week, my nose was assailed by the odor of hyacinths, an other Spring flowers which they have by the dozen in pots in their display area. I passing, here are some interesting notes in connection with the popular flowers that "come in bloom in greenhouses just in time to keep us from getting too blue with the winter weather, and to brighten our homes for Spring. Tulips were cultivated in Turkey long before Europeans discovered them in 1534. The name comes from a word meaning turban. Hyacinths were found in Asia Minor. Azaleas were first found in the Himalayas in 1847 by Sir Joseph Hooker, English botanist. Why not capture the spirit of Spring now with some of these gorgeous blooms, and brighten your home and heart? You will find plenty of them at CLAYTON FLORAL COMPANY, 410 E. Foster.

Even though it was the middle of the morning, Stu Kine had a cup of "Country Leeke" soup brought out for me to sample, and was truly delicious! This specialty of the CORONADO INN is a recipe brought from Scotland by the chef. It has an interesting history: was concocted by the Marquis de Montrose in 1822, on the occasion of the visit of King George IV of England, the first state visit of an English sovereign to Scotland in 200 years. It became a national institution; and no wonder, because this potato-based soup with a delicate flavor of leeks is really good. Try some next time you are at the Inn. Don't forget that you can handle, in its six private dining rooms, groups of any size from five to 300; from the Emerald Room to the Starlight ballroom. These facilities are used by people with private parties of all sorts and by organizations and official groups. Telephone Stu for information. (By the way: the fish-Guy trade now has some playmates: three new heads have joined her, Pampa's Pride, the CORONADO INN, invites your patronage.

Help Your Husband Prepare His Heart

him learn to enjoy the less strenuous avocations.

We are less physically active and more sedentary as a result of an automated civilization, but to compensate does not mean to go overboard. Moderate and regular exercise will keep us physically fit.

The role of emotional strain, whether inherited or acquired, is not established. More research, such as that made possible by the American Heart Assn., will improve doctors' judgment on this question.

Meanwhile, there is no harm in the wife helping her husband to be more tranquil and avoid tensions. She can set the example in engaging in activities that are enjoyable but, at the same time, are not so ambitious as to prove frustrating. She can suggest avocations for her husband.

A wife can help her husband cut down on cigarette smoking and point out the statistical risk involved to young people. There is no doubt that excessive cigarette smoking (two or more packs a day) is associated with higher risk. We do not know why this is so.

Some revisions in the husband's way of life may be necessary as you can see. Most involve proper investment of time and restraint. It is a speculative investment but the rewards may be great.

Let me note that many doctors are following these precautionary steps, accepting the various inconveniences and changes, to safeguard their own hearts. Any time a doctor swallows the unpalatable medicine he so eagerly prescribes, you probably have something worthwhile.

If your husband's record indicates that his blood relatives and ancestors were affected by heart ailments, he may be predisposed. So heredity plays a part. For the altering hereditary transmitters (genes) or their chemical components to prevent clinical atherosclerosis, but at the moment little can be accomplished here.

But you can do something about high blood pressure, for example. High blood pressure increases the risk of a heart attack. Doctors are better equipped to reduce high blood pressure, so make sure your husband knows this and carries out the doctor's orders.

A wife also can enforce the motto of moderation and regularity to build up her husband's capacities for exercise. But don't encourage him to be a weekend athlete who sits at his desk all week and then overdoes physical work in his spare time.

and blood cholesterol level. The risk probably will be greater if the physician finds that your husband has had a heart attack, stroke or certain other diseases.

One saving grace is that the victims of such attacks are so shaken by the experience that they learn to live more sensibly and follow their doctors' advice more faithfully.

Also, physicians can use drugs to reduce blood clotting to safeguard against repeat attacks.

DEAR ABBY: "Cold wives" are often the subject of discussion in your column, but I don't recall having seen any mention of "cold husbands." I am interested in this subject because I am married to one.

My husband was very affectionate when we were first married. Now, only three years later, he pulls away from me the moment I make a gesture of affection. He says I am still very attractive and there is nothing wrong with me. (I know this is true.) I am certain other wives must be faced with this problem. What do you advise?

"WARM WIFE"

DEAR "WARM": If, by your husband's own admission, there is nothing wrong with YOU, then there is obviously something wrong with HIM. Send him to a physician to find out why you don't send him any more.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is very serious to me. I am ten years old and I am cute, and I mean real cute. My mother won't let me date and I am asked out by 7th and 8th graders all the time. Don't you think if the boys think I am old enough to date, my mother should let me?

MATURE TEN

DEAR MATURE: Trust your mother's judgment. Honey, little girls who start dating at 10 have nothing to look forward to at 18 but a rocking chair and a game of gin rummy.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter has a friend (her age) who makes a practice of stealing money from her father's wallet. She has stolen $20, $40 and even $50 at a time. Her father is well-to-do and apparently doesn't miss it because she has been getting away with it for a long time.

This girl admits to her friends where she gets the money. She squanders it on sweaters, jewelry and lunches for her friends. They all think it is a big joke.

We know the girl's parents, and they are the kind of people who

Here are just a few of the new hat shapes for spring. The cloche goes romantic (upper left) in this pink taffeta version by John Fredericks. Sally Victor does a dashing profile hat (upper center) in white textured straw with patent leather band. Sophisticated sailor (upper right) by Mr. Arnold is in coffee, black and white strawcloth. Airy cloche by Emme in pale green organdy (lower left) has butterfly trim. The miniature hat makes a comeback (lower center) in many forms this spring. This one, by Irene of New York, is in black cherries with single white narcissus. Ethereal turban (lower right) by Lilly Dache is made of little pink straw flowers crowned with veiling. This is a very flattering version of the turban.

Italian-American Ways Of Life
Compared By AFS Exchange Pupil

Miss Marika Minelli, American Field Service exchange student, whose home is in Brescia, Italy, compared life in Italy to that in the United States at the noon luncheon meeting of the Altrusa Club of Pampa in the Coronado Inn on Monday. She stressed the importance of better understanding between the two countries through the efforts of American Field Service students, to reduce the effect of communist propaganda against the American way of life. "School in Italy," she said, "is more extensive as it takes 13 years to complete. Students attend school on Saturdays and carry twelve subjects." "The women in Italy do not work so much in public," Miss Minelli informed the group, "as the jobs are given mostly to men. The women have few social clubs and they do not have the appliances that are considered a part of American homes." "Due to the late dinner hour in the Italian homes, dating is mostly in the afternoons and it is not proper for a girl to date until she is seventeen."

A Pretty Hat For Every Head This Sunny Spring

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. reveal more of the hair rather than covering the entire head. Foaming with blossoms, they even offer up the morning glory to spring sunshine. And, naturally, violets and roses, white daisies and dandelions. Aside from shape, there's one thing that makes these first hats of 1961 look really new: they're young looking. And thus, they're bound to make the wearer look younger. The trying, difficult hat shapes have vanished. Straws have a textured, lacy, rough or sleek look! Ant they come in the wild and beautiful colors of this particular spring: green, orange, pink, lemon, bright black and white. How, the coffee table has to be considered as necessary to a living room as a sofa. Great care should be given to selection. In scale and style, it should fit into the room.

Some rooms, two small tables will be more effective than a single long one. When they come, they can be separated and placed by any chair room. If they're sufficiently heavy, they can be pressed into use for extra seating. But avoid bringing up a small living room with a bulky, unwieldy coffee table that requires four hands to move it.

Dear Polly: I have beige walls carpeting in the living room of my new home. Drapes are plain green and couch is pink. One is brown tweed and one is with silver threads. A third, dark brown checked cushion fits like the couch, the white or the brown one. What do I do?

Dear R.F.W.: Start with matching covers for the couch and chair. Select floral chintz or one with a light green ground brown, cream, deep green and berry red in the design. Cover brown chair with raspberry and things will look better.

Dear Polly: In my new house, I lean toward violet and blue. My bath has light blue tiles. What colors should I use in the living room? — Mrs. J. S. B.

Dear Mrs. J.S.B.: For quite a some effect in your new bath, I suggest that you paper walls with a white and gold galle design and hang white embroidered curtains at the window. Repeat blue of the fixtures in the rug for the floor. Use blue towels with metallic gold motif. Some amethyst glass bottles and perhaps a blooming African violet would provide accents of your favorite color.

Grooming Violets Topic For Society

The Pampa African Violet Society met recently in the home of Mrs. C. C. Matheny with Mrs. Lee as presiding officer. The opening of the meeting with reports were given by Mrs. Norman Walberg, acting secretary by Mrs. R. F. Dirksen on the revision of by-laws, which are to be voted upon at the next meeting.

A program on grooming and preparing African Violets for shows was given by Mrs. J. E. Carlson and Mrs. Mrs. Dirksen.

Mrs. W. E. Hinton and Mrs. Mary Gruben were welcomed as guests. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Attending were Mrs. J. E. Carlson, R. F. Dirksen, Lee Moore, B. Ellis, Holly Gray, Clay Cosby, Charles Glison, Norman Walberg, Cecil Holmes, Thelma Bray, Willie Rhendel and C. C. Matheny.

It was announced that the next meeting will be with Mrs. Lee as presiding officer.

Ever stop to think what a big influence that yearly tax to Uncle Sam has on our way of thinking? Well, it isn't unusual to hear a young married couple hope their first born arrives in time to be a tax deduction — instead of waiting until after the first of the year. And there do seem to be an increasing number of marriages around Christmas time. As inconceivable as that time might be to the bride's mother, it means the happy couple can file a joint return.

Lots of people get entertained by business associates who wouldn't bother — if the entertainment weren't tax deductible.

And plenty of husbands drive a big car while their wives take a little, economical "second" car when the husband can charge off part of his car as a business expense.

Wives have even been known to quit their jobs because their pay check boosted the family income to a higher tax bracket.

And a man can always be cheered up when he has lost money in the stock market or made a bad deal by the reminder that he can take his losses off his income tax.

Annual Sweetheart Valentine Ball Highlighted With Royal Coronation

Theta Rho Club and Junior Oddfellows entertained with its annual Sweetheart Valentine Dance on Saturday evening in the IOOF Hall, 800 E. Foster. As a highlight of the party Miss Barbara Graham and Paul Bynum were crowned Valentine Queen and King by Miss Mary Sue Cass and Terry Beard. Attending the queen were Miss Janine Dorsey and Miss Ava Stemberge with Jack McNeil and Rickey Morrison as the King's attendants.

The ballroom was decorated with red and white streamers and red hearts. The King's and Queen's throne was covered with white accented with red hearts and glitter.

Games of "Keep Talking" began the festivities and dancing comprised the entertainment following the coronation.

Adult hostesses were Mmes. Homer McNeil, Thurman Stapleton, Linzie Johnson, Golda Bennett and Eura Davis. Advisory officer for the Theta Rho Girls was Mrs. Niles Franklin; advisory officer for the Junior Oddfellows was Linzie Johnson and Thurman Stapleton.

Approximately 75 guests attended.

Plans for the Valentine Dance were made at a previous meeting held in the IOOF Hall conducted by Miss Linda Tadlock, president.

Decorative committee members, appointed by the president, were Misses Kathy Smith, Mary Sue Cass, Jeanine Dorsey, Ovi Smith, Jo Ann Johnson and Mrs. Eura Davis, youth committee members.

Following a secret ballot, Paul Bynum was elected king with Rickey Morrison and Jack McNeil as attendants.

Following the business meeting, the Rebekah Drill Team under the direction of Mrs. Mary Dell Mc

Surprise Come-As-You-Are Feature Highlights Rho Eta Chapter Meet

Rho Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Charles Crowson.

Preceding the meeting time, three chapter members planned a surprise "come as you are" and started ringing door bells at 8:30 to pick up members dressed as they were to go to the meeting. Mrs. Bill Tarpley was presented with a box of Valentine Candy as the member who came most typically dressed for a "come as you are."

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. H. L. Meers, president, the chapter voted to send $25 to the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority endowment fund; also voted to donate to the Council of Clubs on its fund-raising project for a women's club building.

Mrs. Jim Terrell read biography on names submitted from members of Beta Sigma Phi chapters of Pampa on their choice for the Woman of the Year for 1961. After each history was read, members voted by secret ballot for their choice, which was then given to the chapter's chairman serving on the Woman of the Year committee.

For the program, Mrs. Jim Terrell and Mrs. Crowson discussed "You and Your Audience." Hostesses during the social hour were Mmes. Crowson, Terrell, Jack Chisum and Jack Florence.

It was announced that the Feb. 28 meeting will be with Mrs. Tarpley.

Production Up With Increased Oil Allowable

AUSTIN (UPI)—With 134 additional wells in production, the state's calendar day oil allowable showed an increase of 6,709 barrels daily during the past week, the Railroad Commission reported Saturday.

The commission said the allowable was 2,782,599 barrels. Commissioners reported 197,869 wells. Wildcaters made three oil finds in the Houston district and two in the Corpus Christi and Midland districts. A single find was reported in the Abilene district.

Three gas discoveries were reported in the Abilene district. There were 185 oil well completions to bring the total for the year to 1,223 compared with 1,334 a year ago. Gas well completions numbered 24 to bring the total for the year to 315, far ahead of the 206 reported a year ago. There were 94 dry holes reported during the week.

Many Uses
TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—The major products made from crude oil are gasoline, kerosene, light and heavy fuel oils, lubricating oils, wax, asphalt and coke, the Midcontinent Oil & Gas Association says.

In 1959, the average 42-gallon barrel of crude produced 18.8 gallons of gasoline, 9.7 gallons of light fuel oil, 4.9 gallons of heavy fuel oil and 1.5 gallons of kerosene.

W. W. DIDLAKE ... He's Lion Candidate

Borger Man Gets Backing For Lion District Governor

BORGER (Spl) — The Big Four Lions Clubs of Borger, Bunavista and Phillips, have announced their sponsoring of W. W. (Bill) Didlake as a candidate for District Governor of Lions District 271.

Lion Didlake has been prominent in civic and church work in Borger for a good many years. His home club is the Borger Noon Lions Club.

Lion Didlake graduated from Kansas State College of Pittsburg in Business Administration, followed by graduate work at the University of New Mexico in Foreign Law. He was employed as a School Administrator for nine years and served on the War Manpower Commission for four years. He has been employed by Phillips Chemical Company for the past 17 years, presently as personnel director of one of the Borger installations.

In civic work, other than Lions, he has served as Chairman of the Board of Directors, Hutchinson County Chapter, American Red Cross for three years; member of the City of Borger Civil Service Commission for two years; and for two years, President of the Hutchinson County United Fund.

Didlake is listed in the Sixth Edition of "Who's Who in the South and Southwest" and he is currently being listed in "World Who's Who in Commerce and Industry."

He is a member of the First Methodist Church of Borger. Didlake's activity with Lions Clubs started as a charter member of the Tribune, Kan., Club in 1932.

Producing Oil From Shale Looms Bigger

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—With the world-wide oil glut continuing, a potential yield of more than one trillion barrels of shale oil. This amount is tremendous considering that between 1885 and 1956 the entire world has consumed only 95 million barrels.

Producing oil in this manner has been going on for many years in many countries; in Scotland since 1850 and in Sweden since early in World War II.

In the U. S. it was toyed with in the 1920's until the discovery of huge oil reserves relegated the project to the shelf. Ominously, the largest shale oil industry known today is in the Soviet Union.

Still, oil shale mining is still just a plaything for a few experimenters. Why?

Union Oil Co. of California has conducted probably the largest oil shale operation to date. It has achieved an output of 1,200 tons of oil shale per day.

And the U. S. Bureau of Mines has done the most pioneering work with its plant near Rifle, Colo., and laboratories in Wyoming.

Recovering oil from shale is a three-step operation: mining, retorting, or heating the rock to temperatures of about 900 degrees to force out the oil, and refining. Conventional methods require bulky, expensive equipment and even unproved shortcuts, like using nuclear explosives to fracture the shale in the ground, are both hazardous and uneconomical.

However, oil shale technology is still in its infancy and it seems inevitable that advances will be made by future research.

Oil shale proponents look forward to that hope, along with predictions by P. D. Tietelbaum of the National Planning Assn. that the U. S. energy requirements will double before 1980.

And they say that if liquid oil ever does grow in short supply, this country need only exchange its drill bits for clamshell shovels to find the needed energy.

Story Hour Has Large Attendance

In a monthly report to the library board, Mrs. Lillian Snow, librarian, reported that there were 182 children enrolled in the Peaschool Story Hour, with an average attendance of 80-100 per week.

She also reported that 740 magazines had been used for reference work during the month of January; 8,840 books circulated; 190 new books added to the shelves and 129 new patrons registered.

In discussing over-due books, the librarian reminds the public that the maximum fine for overdue books is still 50 cents and the library would much rather have the books reclaimed than to collect the fines on them.

The library has a book drop in front of the building where it is convenient to place books after library hours.

It was suggested by the board that a list of people with holding books be kept at the charging desk and these people would be denied the use of their cards until the matter of overdue or lost books was cleared up.

Oil and Gas Industry Waits On Tax Reforms

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The time approaches when the oil and natural gas industry will learn what kind of tax reforms President Kennedy has in store for it.

Kennedy was committed in the Democratic platform to close tax law loopholes. There can be no quibbling about that. They could include the industry's cherished 27.5 per cent depletion tax allowance which is, or isn't, regarded as a billion-dollar-a-year tax escape hatch, depending on which side of the fence you're on.

The industry sees warning signs ahead and is quietly intensifying its ceaseless drive to preserve the allowance in toto. It is keeping in mind the fact that the last time the issue was before the Senate 34 senators favored reductions.

The President has installed in the treasury a real tough cookie on tax laws. He is Harvard law professor Stanley Surrey, chairman of a task force which drafted a not-yet-published program of reforms for the White House.

Surrey advocates harsher treatment of many types of income currently accorded special tax advantages. Among these is the percentage depletion allowance for minerals.

Surrey is awaiting Senate confirmation as assistant secretary of the treasury but already has been installed in a treasury office. If confirmed, he will become the treasury's top tax-policy maker, subject only to Kennedy and the Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon.

The appointment provoked protests from mining and oil & gas interests and senators and congressmen who, through Surrey's books and papers and previous appearances before congressional tax committees, are all too familiar with his tax dogma.

Clinic Held For Children

A clinic for exceptional children attending classes in Travis and Sam Houston elementary schools was conducted yesterday in Travis School.

Professional people conducting the one-day clinic were Dr. J. D. Donaldson, MD and Dr. E. E. Snell of the Lubbock Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center; Dr. Maurice Healy, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist; Dr. C. E. Ratcliff, MD, orthopedic surgeon and Dr. R. P. Anderson, Ph.D., all of Lubbock.

Approximately 40 children were examined throughout the day for various types of handicaps.

The professional services for the clinic were made possible through the interest and donations of Pampa's civic clubs, industrial companies, volunteer workers and the cooperation of Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools, according to Lee Eslick, president of the Exceptional Children Association.

Mrs. Bertie Turner at Sam Houston and Stephen McGrady at Travis are the instructors in the exceptional children's classrooms.

The Exceptional Children's Association, which is the adult sponsor for the children's program, meets the second Monday of each month and invites interested persons to participate in its program.

Claims Ike Has Secret Papers On World War II

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Eisenhower has in his personal custody the long-secret papers of various World War II conferences of heads of staff, the New York Daily News reported Thursday.

In Palm Springs, Calif., Eisenhower said: "I have no records here and no recollection of anything they are talking about."

Eisenhower took the papers with him when he left the White House as insurance against tampering with or suppression of them by the Kennedy administration. News correspondent Ted Lewis reported from Washington in a copyright dispatch.

The News said Eisenhower has proof sheets of the 1943 Cairo-Tehran and the 1945 Potsdam conferences which are classified secret. The documents had been scheduled to be released by the State Department later this year under arrangements made by Eisenhower while he still was president, the newspaper said.

Texas Ranger Named Public Safety Chief

AUSTIN (UPI)—Capt. Tom Hickman Sr., a story-book type Texas Ranger who gained national fame for his daring deeds, has been elected chairman of the Texas Public Safety Commission.

Hickman, from Gainesville, succeeds C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder, chairman of the three-man commission.

"Capt. Hickman is a living symbol of law enforcement in Texas," McLaughlin said. "We consider him one of the outstanding as Rangers of all time."

Hickman, who will be 75 on Feb. 25, gained wide acclaim for keeping peace and stamping out lawlessness during the "Roaring Twenties."

He restored peace to the Breckridge oil fields after a reign of law terror; captured two bandits as they left the Red River National Bank at Clarksville with $125 in 1926; and headed the search that found the "Santa Ana" gang that held up the bank in Cisco two days before Christmas in 1927.

He joined the Rangers in 1919 and spent 15 years with them before returning to a job as deputy sheriff at Gainesville. He later was chief of security for the Gulf Corp.

Industrial Arts Teachers To Hold A&M Conference

COLLEGE STATION (Spl) — More than 400 persons throughout the United States are due to attend the Industrial Arts Teacher Conference to be held at Texas A&M College, Feb. 24-25. Leslie V. Hawkins of the Industrial Education Department, is conference director.

Dr. M. Ray Karnes, College of Education, University of Illinois, will deliver a major address during the conference. He will talk on "Industrial Arts in the Years Ahead." Dr. Karnes is one of many outstanding authorities who will take an active part in the conference.

The conference will be divided into two sections, the Industrial Arts Section of which Phil Wright of the Fort Worth Independent Vocational Industrial Education Section with M. A. Stevens, Waco public schools, president, Earle B. Blanton is program director of the IAE and Frank J. Konecny is program chairman for the VIE.

Sessions will be held in the Memorial Student Center and the exhibits will be in the Mechanical Engineering shops building. The conference is sponsored by the Texas Industrial Arts Association, Texas Engineering Extension Service and the College's Industrial Education Department.

'One-Sided' News Hit By Senator

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Several Oklahoma state senators, irked at what they called "colored reporting" by the press, fired broadsides Thursday at "two-bit newspapers trying to run everything, including the legislature."

As an example of "colored" reporting, Sen. J. H. Belvin cited a news story last week which stated that he had knocked a man's glasses off in a scuffle at the Capitol.

Said Belvin: "I carefully took off his glasses ... and then laid them on a table gently so they would not break."

"Then I waited for him to rise so I could hit him."

Texas Has Open Mind On Padre Island Preserve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. J. T. Rutherford, D-Tex., new chairman of a national parks subcommittee, said he has "an open mind" on making Padre Island a national seashore preserve.

Rutherford will head the subcommittee, which was named to consider all matters pertaining to national parks, historical monuments and sites, seashore preserves and recreational areas.

Rutherford said he was aware of a movement in the Lower Rio Grande Valley for a national seashore preserve on the island. But he added he also was aware there was opposition to the park.

"I have an open mind on the project," Rutherford said. "I can approach it with objectivity and, I might say, with sympathy."

Card of Thanks
DEWEY ROBERTS
We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to everyone who in any way assisted us at the time of our sorrow in the loss of our loved one, DEWEY ROBERTS who passed away on February 11, 1961.
To Rev. John Blum and Rev. A. C. Roberts for their comforting messages of condolence, to those who brought and prepared food in our home, and to the floral offerings, which were so beautiful. May God bless each of you.
THE DEWEY ROBERTS FAMILY
VIRGLE L. LYNCH
We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many friends for their kind words and expressions of sympathy during our bereavement.

DOES anybody want to sell their grass and land? We will buy any amount from 100 acres on up in the Pampa vicinity and will pay good money. Would appreciate getting some mineral in the deal, but would not insist. We will not expect to get any answers on the grass and land but thought we would run it anyway. This grass business is pretty slim right now, but there are sure lots of buyers.

Librarian Strikes Back On That Story About People Arrested For Failure To Return Books

By WARD CANNEL

EAST ORANGE, N. J. (NEA)—Right from the beginning it seemed tailor-made to be fun and games at the little East Orange Free Public Library.

The TV cameras rolled. The flash bulbs flared. And library director Harold Roth behaved exactly like a librarian is supposed to behave after he has signed the necessary papers sending detectives into the night to arrest citizens who have not returned their overdue books.

Groups of newsmen smirked at each other behind Current Fiction. How often do you get a story like this — 11 in jail, the town in a rage, the mayor promising an investigation, Roth promising more arrests, the magistrate defending public authority.

But away from the library, the joke took on a hollow laugh. A spot-check by this reporter of librarians, librarians and library experts around the U.S. brought almost unanimous applause for Roth's firm action. As it turns out in real life:

There is a growing—and serious—disregard throughout the nation for library materials. Outright theft is on the rise.

The cost to communities is immense: Suburban East Orange last year lost about $4,000 of library materials which had to be replaced.

LIBRARIAN ROTH: "We send out reminder cards."

Most libraries have no way to enforce their circulation regulations other than reminder cards or telephone calls. Even where community ordinances provide for law enforcement of regulations, the libraries are reluctant to sign complaints and prosecute.

Never reported or prosecuted, for example, is a recent case in New England where a man stole nearly $7,000 worth of irreplaceable books and documents in the past several years. He was left alone because, a library investigator told me:

"It's bad public relations to go to court. A library is supposed to be a warm and friendly place."

One big chain of lending libraries reports that even with the use of attorneys and demanding letters, only about one per cent of its long overdue books are returned.

"In East Orange," Roth said, "we generally send out six or seven reminder cards over a period of months. If these don't work, an informal court summons is sent asking the people to appear in court. Then, we merely take back our books."

But in recent years, he said, fewer and fewer citizens have bothered to answer the informal summons.

"I got a call," he said, "from the magistrate's court asking me to sign formal complaints. So I did."

Unfortunately, serious library men said, the detectives made their arrests at night, giving the matter a dramatic quality it did not justify—and, by contrast, grounds for ridicule.

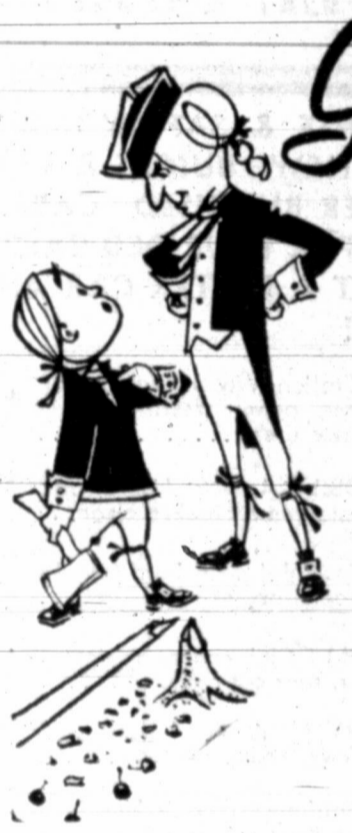

Library school administrators, however, were not surprised at Roth's action. At Roth's alma mater, The Columbia University Graduate School of Library Services, Dean Jack Dalton said he was sure Roth had acted justifiably—and only after long consideration of this serious problem. In East Orange, however, it was not so agreeable. While congratulatory telegrams were coming in from distant libraries, early newscasts were already out with the obvious. So were the irate in East Orange.

Roth was a fool, a Communist, a Fascist, a publicity-mad librarian.

"Be fair," Roth kept saying while the newsmen packed up. "Try to be fair."
