In Neutral Countries

India Proposes Test Monitoring

GENEVA (UPI)—India today proposed a network of monitoring stations in neutral countries to police an immediate moratorium on nuclear testing until the big powers can agree on a treaty with adequate safeguards.

Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon suggested the compromise to the 13-nation disarmament conference in an attempt to break the East-West deadlock on nuclear controls.

Krishna Menon's proposal was closer to the Soviet stand than that of the United States and Britain.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk reacted immediately with a renewal of the Western demand for inspection as well as detection. He said this was the only way to end suspicion.

Rusk, in a statement issued by the U. S. delegation said:

"The remaining issue to be settled—if there is to be a nuclear test ban—is the ability to obtain the necessary amount of objective international scientific information and inspection."

"Such information and inspection would place a burden on no one and involve no espionage. What it would do is to remove suspicion and provide confidence that agreements not to test are being adequately maintained."

Krishna Menon offered his plan after Britain said the Soviet Union could have the military advantages gained in its nuclear tests last autumn if it will sign a test ban treaty with adequate international inspections.

Krishna Menon said that existing Soviet and American detection systems could be "supplemented by a series of monitoring stations in uncommitted nations" to check for possible violations of the moratorium.

U.S. May Send Food To Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A White House aide indicated today the government might be willing to donate surplus food to relieve hunger in Cuba despite U. S. opposition to the Castro regime.

George McGovern, an assistant to the President and director of the food-for-peace program, said the government would be "very sympathetic" to any request for donations of surplus foods to private charitable agencies for use in Cuba. Food shortages have forced Premier Fidel Castro to impose rationing of basic foods.

De Gaulle To Ask French People For Approval Of Cease-Fire Pact

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle told Parliament today that the cease-fire pact with Algerian nationalists will bring such a "sweeping and profound transformation" he must ask the French people to sanction it by referendum.

De Gaulle made the statement in a three-minute message read for him at extraordinary sessions of the two houses.

Deputies and senators stood in silence to hear the message except for three independent "French Algeria" deputies who remained seated in protest. There was no applause at the end.

De Gaulle said the country would be called upon under Article II of the Constitution to endorse a bill which would:

Approve a communique issued by the French cabinet Monday night announcing appointment of diplomat Christian Fouchet as French high commissioner in Algeria and other measures that will set the territory on the road to independence.

Authorize De Gaulle to arrange a referendum vote in Algeria and to set up an independent state there in cooperation with France that is what Algerians want.

'School Systems' Is Club Topic

"Texas School Systems" was the topic presented at the regular meeting of the Top O' Texas Kiwanis Club Monday night in the East Starlight room of the Coronado Inn.

The topic was presented by Herb Willborn of Amarillo, a member of the Texas State school board.

Guests at the meeting included an inter-club group from Amarillo; 14 members from the Downtown Kiwanis Club of Pampa; two Key Club members and three out-of-town guests.

Israel, Syria In Exchange Of Gunfire

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)—Israeli and Syrian troops exchanged gunfire across the border at the Sea of Galilee today, an Israeli spokesman reported.

It was the second outbreak of shooting around the sea, which also is known as Lake Tiberias, in recent days. Last week an estimated 30 persons were killed in a border clash.

The military spokesman said Syrian troops opened fire with machineguns, recoilless rifles, anti-tank guns and mortars at an Israeli patrol boat this morning, and Israeli troops returned the fire.

He said two Israeli policemen were wounded by the Syrian shots.

(Baghdad radio broadcast a report from Damascus, capital of Syria, saying Syrian artillery shelled Israeli patrol boats "which repeated their attempt to penetrate into the waters of the demilitarized zones.")

The Israeli government said the shooting followed violation of Israeli territory by Syrian Soviet-made MIG-17 jet fighters this morning.

Hints Of Legal Complications In 'Recall Election' Are Made

Nixon Says JFK Endangered Cuba Invasion Secrecy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon says that President Kennedy endangered the secrecy of the Cuban invasion when he was campaigning for the White House.

Nixon, in his book, "Six Crises," wrote that the Central Intelligence Agency briefed Kennedy on plans for the invasion during the 1960 campaign.

But the former vice president said his Democratic rival came out publicly on Oct. 20 for U.S. intervention in Cuba and aid to anti-Castro forces.

"I thought that Kennedy, with full knowledge of the facts, was jeopardizing the security of a United States foreign policy operation," Nixon wrote.

The Republican candidate said this was the only time he personally got angry at Kennedy during the campaign. He said it particularly disturbed him because he had been advocating for nine months inside the Eisenhower administration that the anti-Castro forces be armed, but could not say so publicly.

Nixon's book, published by Doubleday and now on sale, recounts crises he faced during his Washington career, from the Hiss-Chambers case to his losing fight for the presidency.

OAS-Inspired Violence Erupts In Algiers

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—Violence erupted today in the port city of Oran after thousands of Europeans staged a defiant demonstration in support of the extremist Secret Army Organization (OAS).

Shooting broke out on at least two separate occasions according to reports from the city, which is an OAS stronghold.

The reports gave no details of the circumstances of the shooting or whether there were casualties.

First reports said the shootings took place in two separate districts in the downtown area of the city in western Algeria—the Place Les Cure and the Cite Perret. The headquarters of the Oran television service are located in Cite Perret.

The shootings came after a noisy noisy demonstration by Europeans broke up without violence. Heavily armed troops supported by tanks and armored cars patrolled streets and barbed wire barricades at sensitive points.

A general strike led by the OAS, which crippled Algerian cities Monday, tapered off today and Algiers cautiously stirred back to life.

An unidentified gunman fired into a crowd of Arabs in Algiers early today, killing one person and wounding another. The casualties increased the year's toll of terror to 1,787 killed and 3,478 wounded.

Moslems and Europeans emerged in the early hours, to what would happen in Algeria at the end of the 24-hour strike called by the right-wing Secret Army Organization (OAS).

Tens of thousands of armed troops occupy Algiers, Oran and other big Algerian cities, ready for an expected new bloodbath in the OAS effort to keep Algeria French.

55 Attend Tourist Clinic

Approximately 55 Pampa business men and women interested in tourist development attended a tourist clinic noon luncheon meeting today.

The luncheon, held in Poole's Steak House, was co-sponsored by the Texas Branch of the U.S. Highway 60 Association and the Tourist Development Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Principal speaker at the meeting was Herbert C. Schall, executive vice president of the Oklahoma State Chamber of Commerce.

Schall spoke to the group on tourist business and the proper servicing of the traveling public.

He pointed out the importance of getting the traveling tourist to slow down and telling them what they can see in the Panhandle.

"Traveling tourists do not come to a town the size of Pampa to spend two or three weeks, therefore it is important to let the public know what your town and surrounding area has to offer," he said.

"According to the latest highway tourist count, an average of 3 persons occupy a tourist car and spend approximately $33 a day," he continued; "therefore if your town can get them to stay a day or two it has helped the economic status of your city, which will mean new money and more jobs."

The business meeting was called to order by George Kleeburg, chairman of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Commissioner Says He Was Threatened With Bodily Harm

Hints of legal complications over the upcoming recall election in Pampa and charges by a city commissioner that a private investigator has been hired to "check him out" and that he had received a telephone call threatening bodily harm, highlighted today's regular weekly meeting of the City Commission in City Hall.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell indicated the possibility of legal complications over the proposed recall election when he referred to a statement made at last week's commission meeting that the cost of an election would run only about $350.

"I believe it will be found," the mayor said, "that this figure is ridiculously low. In fact I think you will find that the city's legal fees would be several times that amount, assuming that we have to get the legal advice we anticipate."

"And, there is a good possibility that the city will require this legal advice if, as and when the recall petition signatures are presented to this commission."

The mayor said he wanted to suggest that the taxpayers be given an accounting of every penny spent, in event the recall election is held, and be accounted for and a public report filed for the benefit of taxpayers.

"This accounting," the mayor said, "would exclude, of course, the damage done to you commissioners and to myself."

Junior Chamber of Commerce officials stated late this forenoon that the recall petitions were not discussed at their board meeting, held early today.

A spokesman for the Jaycees said it was decided to take no action on the petitions until their regular meeting next Tuesday.

The petitions, which Jaycee officials said are complete with more than enough signatures, ask that an election be set for the recall of Mayor Sidwell and all four city commissioners.

The petitions first must be filed with the City Secretary who, according to the city charter, must turn them over "at once" to the city's governing authority — the city commission.

City Commissioner L. P. Fort made a statement near the end of today's commission meeting in which he said:

"The 'organization' held a meeting last week and it was revealed to me by a friend of mine who attended the meeting — and he is present here in this room this morning — that a private investigator has been hired to dig up anything he can find that will discredit me."

Commissioner Fort went on to say that he also had received a telephone call at his home in which an unidentified man's voice said:

"If you don't resign within the (See COMMISSION, Page 3)

Ex-Nuclear Technician Is Charged With Atomic Energy Act Violation

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI)—A former Army nuclear technician who said he was "tired" of the arms race was returned to Leavenworth County jail by federal officials Monday after an arraignment in U. S. district court in Topeka on charges of violating the Atomic Energy Act.

Twenty-five-year-old George John Gessner appeared before Judge Arthur J. Stanley Jr., accused of turning over restricted information about the nation's nuclear and guided missile systems to Communist agents. The act allegedly took place in the Russian embassy in Mexico City after Gessner had deserted his post at the U. S. Army guided missile center at Ft. Bliss, Tex., Dec. 7, 1960.

Earlier Monday, Gessner denied giving information to Russian agents. He said he decided to become a missionary after completing six years of training in the missile field.

"I just wanted to get away for a while, and think," he said, explaining his desertion from Ft. Bliss. "But I didn't give them any classified information."

He said he visited the Russian embassy in Mexico City to apply for a visa to visit the Soviet Union. Upon discovering he was a deserter, Gessner said the Russians attempted to arrange a trade, information for a visa.

Gessner appeared before the packed courtroom wearing a brown suit, tie and horn-rimmed glasses. He remained motionless during the proceedings, speaking in a low voice that could be heard only a few feet away.

Judge Stanley appointed Topeka lawyer Stanley J. Gessner as Gessner's attorney. (See EX-NUCLEAR, Page 3)

Textbooks Approved By School Board In 4-1 Vote

Recommendations of the local textbook committee for books to be used in Pampa schools for the next five to seven years were adopted by a 4-1 vote of the school board of trustees at a called public meeting in Pampa Junior High School last night.

Board members Elmer Wilson, R. M. Hampton, Warren Fatheree and R. D. Wilkerson cast affirmative votes. John Gikas, who voted "no," did not express disapproval, but said when questioned after the meeting there was one history book in the list which did not agree with his convictions on a particular subject matter.

Only six persons, in addition to school board members, school officials and newsmen, attended the meeting. The audience consisted of three women and three men.

Supt. Jack Edmondson explained to the group that the ten-member local textbook committee, of which he was the automatic chairman, had spent nearly 15 months in working on the job which resulted in their adoption on Feb. 28 and recommendations made last night. He said some 170 local teachers had participated in the selections finally made by the local committee.

The committee, working locally, had taken lists of books submitted and recommended by the state textbook committee. Not all of them were accepted, Edmondson said. The local committee substituted books in some instances other than those recommended by the state committee.

"These books actually have been screened and studied by some 11,000 teachers in Texas before getting to the point of final recommendation," Edmondson said.

Lists of the books selected were read at the meeting and all persons present were given a copy of the state textbook recommendations and those which had been accepted and recommended by the local committee.

There were no objections to any book on the list from board members or from any of the six outsiders at the meeting.

Two or three asked questions concerning when Pampa schools might adopt foreign language teaching on the elementary school level, and what impact, if any, the National Education Association could have on the selection of textbooks locally.

Superintendent Edmondson said the lower grade level has been discussed here but so far has not been adopted because of a lack of money and a lack of teachers. Cost of television instruction right now would be prohibitive, he said. Board President Fatheree and Edmondson both stated NEA had no influence on the selection of Pampa textbooks.

Members of the local textbook committee which made the recommendations to the school board last night, in addition to Chairman Edmondson, included McHenry Lane, Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, Mrs. Louise Richardson, Mrs. Sallie Holcomb, Miss Nova Mayo, Mrs. Virginia Brook, Wen-

DIFFERENT?

What's different
about Rambler's
rustproofing?

It goes all the way up to the roof. Only Rambler has Deep-Dip rustproofing—entire body immersed in primer paint right up to roof—plus 8 other body rustproofing steps.

What's different
about Rambler's
brakes?

They stop when other brakes can't. Double-Safety Brake System has tandem master cylinders. If front brakes fail, rear brakes still work and vice versa. Self-adjusting brakes standard, too.

What's different
about Rambler's
headroom?

It's greater than any other American car's. Rambler Classic 6 and Ambassador V-8 beat all other makes in front-seat headroom (even Cadillac)—can seat six 6-footers easily.

What's different
about Rambler's
muffler and tailpipe?

They won't rust out. Ceramic-Armored muffler, tailpipe guaranteed against defect as long as you own your new Rambler. If either rusts out, collision damage excepted, a Rambler dealer makes free replacement.

What's different
about Rambler's
prices?

They're America's lowest. Only Rambler brings you America's lowest suggested retail prices for convertible, 2-door and 4-door sedans and wagons—all quality-built with Rambler excellence.

Deceptive Labeling Is Studied By Senators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) prepared an exhibit today of government-seized candy, cookies, bake mixes and spaghetti for a Senate hearing on confusing and deceptive labeling.

FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick planned to show the products to a subcommittee headed by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich. The labels, he said, were hidden or could not be read without a magnifying glass.

Larrick said the items were seized in the FDA's stepped-up effort to enforce laws requiring labels on food packages to contain a readable summary of the quantity and contents.

So far this year, he said in a prepared statement, FDA has taken legal action against 23 food shippers for violating the labeling requirement. But the majority of food manufacturers obey the law, he emphasized.

FDA agents seized the candy—chocolate bars—because the label was printed against transparent cellophane paper in the same color as the chocolate, thus making it unreadable.

The cookies were seized because the content information was printed on metallic paper which could not be read except when held on a certain angle toward light.

The listing of the bake mix contents was obscured by a recipe pamphlet stuck against the box, and the spaghetti information was given in what Larrick called microscopic type.

five days allotted to you by the recall petitions, you'll be hurt bad."

Commissioner Fort stated that he was not worried by the private investigation of his past. He said he had names and dates to verify his charges which he stated he would like to have investigated by the FBI or any proper investigating authority. "I would like to have investigators come here and question me," Fort said. "We need to have these charges investigated, but I would like to see my playmates on the witness stand, too."

And Fort said, in closing his statement:

"I would like to add a note of advice to persons who have been placing notices on public billboards that they wear gloves so they won't leave their finger prints."

Mitchell Hill, Southside businessman, told the commission that back when the water controversy first erupted in the City Hall, a man came to his house one night and threatened to beat him up after using some loud language. Hill mentioned the man's name.

"He came right into the house," Hill said, "and when I went to the telephone, he left after I had dialed the first two numbers."

In other business today, the city commission approved appointment of William Sims and Harry McWaters to the City Electrical Board, approved a $10,000 bond for City Manager R. B. Cooke, approved bills for 1,000 postcards for the city tax office, payment of a bill for $967.28 to Continental Oil Co., gave the city manager authority to go ahead with the work of dismantling buildings and cleaning up the grounds at the site of the old city warehouse and garage, and authorized the city manager to take steps to get an easement for a road across land in the vicinity of 23rd Ave. for access to the city dump grounds.

The commission also voted approval for installation of a 10-inch water line to connect No. 2 and No. 3 water wells, the work to be done with city workmen and materials already on hand.

Commissioners Newt Secrest and Leon Holmes were appointed to work with the city manager in making arrangements for a regional municipal meeting to be held in Pampa in April or May.

A progress report on a sewage and drainage survey for improvements on Hwy. 273 and 152 were given by Wayland Merriman, of Merriman and Barber, consulting engineers. Merriman said the State Highway Department still was studying needs on Hwy 60, but stated he expected to have the complete report on the overall survey ready within the next two weeks. Merriman estimated the cost for the entire sewage and drainage system would run slightly more than $1-million.

An appraisal board named to bring in an estimated cost of obtaining right-of-way property for the improvements on Hwy. 273 and 152 was authorized to continue its work and the commission offered any additional help that the three-man board would need.

Satan Acts Up And Canine Corps Goes To The Dogs

OLATHE, Kan. (UPI) — The entire Canine Corps of the Johnson County sheriff's office has been fired — all because of a dog named Satan.

Sheriff Ralph Burger said things went reasonably well at the outset, about two years ago, although all the dogs displayed a few problem personality traits, among them a unanimous aversion to drunks.

"The drunk," Burger said, "always wanted to pet the dogs, who were trained to be vicious on command and sometimes didn't wait for the command. Sometimes an officer who was arriving had a hard time keeping a friendly prisoner and an unfriendly dog apart."

Satan had a brand of devilry all his own. Burger said three men were discovered inside a rug store late at night. Ordered into the darkened premises to flush them out, Satan firmly braced his feet in refusal. One officer pulled and another pushed until the reluctant, 125-pounder was maneuvered inside.

Satan was not seen again until after officers had rounded up and handcuffed the three burglars. Then Satan was found sitting outside, licking his chops — coated with chocolate from candy he had stolen from a display counter.

"This," said the sheriff, "was embarrassing." Satan, however, was not fired then.

Dismissal came after he took sides in a family argument in his master's household. Each dog rode, during working hours, with the officer to whom he was assigned, and lived, when off duty, at the officer's house.

Satan had a special fondness for one of his master's children and an unconcealed dislike for the man's wife, the sheriff said. One day when the mother bent over her offspring to administer a scolding, Satan roared to the child's defense.

"The dog grabbed the startled housewife by the lower stern section and hung on," the sheriff said.

That did it, Satan was sold back to his trainers at Springfield, Mo., and the era of canine police work in this Kansas City suburban area came to an end.

"From now on, we'll try to get along with men," Burger said.

Pettit Services Set Wednesday

McLEAN (Sp) — Funeral services for John Robert Pettit, 28, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Alaneed Baptist Church with the Rev. J. I. Herndon, former pastor, and the Rev. Steve Greenwood also of Alaneed, retired Baptist minister, officiating.

Mr. Pettit, a U. S. mail carrier, who resided at 534 Davis, Pampa, died at 5:25 p.m. Sunday in Highland General Hospital from an accidental gunshot wound occurring at 2:10 p.m. in the home of his mother, Mrs. Buddy Day, eight miles north of Alaneed.

He was born Feb. 2, 1934 in Alaneed and had lived in Pampa for three years after moving there from Alaneed. Prior to this time, he had served in the Navy from 1952 to 1956.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his father, Oscar R. Pettit of San Bernardino, Calif., and one sister, Mrs. Nan McGinley of Pampa.

Interment will be in the Alaneed Cemetery under the direction of Lamb Funeral Home.

Youth Is Hurt In Automobile Accident

Police today were still investigating a one-car accident which occurred last night, injuring a 17-year-old Pampa youth, who was hospitalized.

Investigating officers said Ronnie Wayne Hepler, 2115 N. Banks, was driving his automobile north in the 700 block of Lefors St. at 8:33 p.m. yesterday when he apparently lost control of the vehicle, veered across the street and struck a small tree, bush and then crashed into the corner of a house.

Mrs. Jess Pyles, owner of the house, 701 Lefors, told officers she was sitting in the living room when the accident occurred. She was not injured.

Hepler was taken to Highland General Hospital where he received treatment for cuts and bruises.

Estimated damage to the vehicle was $350. Damage to the tree, bush and house was set at $183.

WHAT I SAW IN RED CHINA

TO BE PRESENTED BY THE NEWS

Communist China: a mysterious land known to only a handful of Westerners. Population 700 million — growing by 7,000 each hour. How does this swarm of Chinese people live? How do they work, eat, love?

One of the few non-Communist newsmen to see Red China in the past year is Fernand Gilon. Armed with camera, notebook and Swiss passport with Communist Chinese visa, he spent three months in that country last fall. Now, writing for Newspaper Enterprise Association, he tells his story.

Gilon describes the sham and reality of the Red rural communes, the grim haggling in the sidewalk black market, a strange modern Chinese marriage ceremony.

He records the words of the commune bosses, peasants, merchants and even a princess — a curious holdover from imperial China, living today in rigidly communistic Peking.

Gilon's three-part portrait of a land and its people, "What I Saw in Red China," begins in The Pampa News tomorrow. Don't miss it.

DELAVER, Ill. (UPI)—Delavan will celebrate its quasicentennial this summer even if it's not in the dictionary. Retired engineer Frank Hatten explained he coined the word because he liked its sound — to describe the 125th anniversary. He also got the U.S. post office

Now Television Justifies Violence By Presenting As A Documentary

Television In Review
By RICK DUBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The best way to justify violence on television is to present it as a documentary—and that's what NBC did Sunday night in a superficial study of the history of American crime, narrated by Edward G. Robinson.

Easily the most enlightening moment of the "Project 20" special, entitled "Cops and Robbers," was the revelation that in the early days of this nation, "scolding women were shackled into iron bridges."

Otherwise, the show—despite the brilliantly edited film clips of the old Chicago gang wars, the taut writing and thorough research—was mainly a rehash of the oft-told tales of such notorious criminals as Al Capone and John Dillinger.

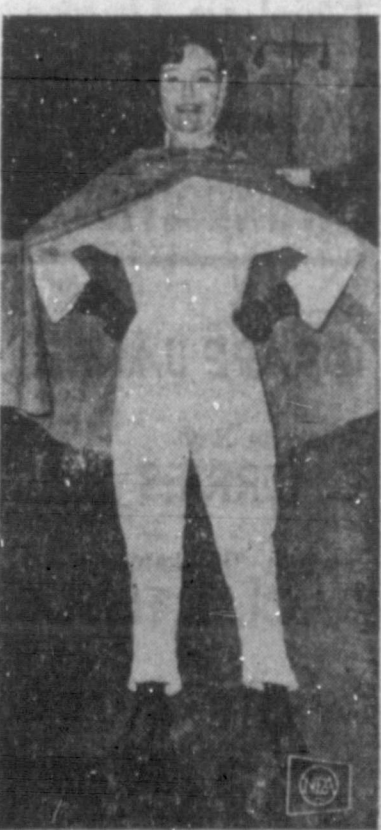

More notable—if the program really intended to be an important study—were some topics glaringly omitted from probing. For instance:

The historic controversy over capital punishment, including such crucial cases as that of Caryl Chessman; prison reforms; crime in so-called respectable businesses and labor unions; increasing financial burdens which have brought ordinary citizens to jokingly refer to expense accounts as "swindle sheets"; the social effects of movies made by Robinson and others which glorified gangsters, and equivalent offenses by television itself.

Some of these points were brought up and glossed over. But the program was generally geared not to disturb the brain. After all, nobody likes to think too much after a Sunday dinner. It's easier to show the less cerebral "stick 'em up" hoodlums, even though their significance nowadays is relatively minor.

It is difficult to question the honest intent of such responsible persons as writer Philip Reisman Jr., who last season did the script for "The Real West," the prize-winning program narrated by the late Gary Cooper, or of producer-director Donald B. Hyatt, whose staff is reported to have spent 18 months preparing "Cops and Robbers."

Yet the large amount of time devoted Sunday night to the 1920s and 1930s gave this viewer the impression that "Project 20" could not resist a pseudo-intellectual capitalizing on the national fascination with this period, as exemplified by "The Untouchables" and such imbecilities as television's "Marge." Intellectuals could watch "Cops and Robbers" without the feeling they were doing anything wrong.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

As is common practice in the United States, Indian politicians have been assessing results of the general elections which returned Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's Congress Party to power by its usual comfortable margin.

Greatest surprise of the election was the North Bombay vote which returned V. K. Krishna Menon, Nehru's controversial defense minister, to Parliament by the greatest margin ever recorded in India.

Krishna Menon's win over old Ghandi follower, A. Kripalani, by more than 100 thousand votes was greater than any ever achieved by Nehru himself.

The campaign was one of the bitterest in the history of Indian elections, and at one stage threatened to split the Congress Party itself.

Kripalani played heavily on the theme that a vote for Krishna Menon was a vote for Communism, and even brought up a 10-year-old charge of misappropriation of public funds.

The latter arose from the so-called $100,000 jeep scandal in which Krishna Menon was a central figure although never accused of personal profit.

Also campaigning for Kripalani were most of Bombay's newspapers, industrialists who donated time as well as money to the campaign and a half dozen or so smaller political parties.

Politicians concluded that Kripalani had overplayed his hand.

His campaign touched the peaks of invective while Krishna Menon held to a high intellectual level.

Politicians also believed that the voters reacted against right-wing conservatism as represented by the entrenched wealth which supported Kripalani.

Nehru went all out to assure his chief lieutenant's political victory and now is expected to profit by it through an increase in his own prestige.

The Congress Party with which Nehru returned to power, not only in parliament but in virtually every state in India, has been the country's chief political party for more than three-quarters of a century.

Under socialist Nehru, India's economy operates in split between state planning and free enterprise.

Observers in India expect no sharp turn to the left as result of Krishna Menon's victory. But they do expect Nehru to deal severely with his critics and to press even more energetically his plans for a socialist economy.

U.S. SUBS SUPERIOR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rear Adm. I. J. Galantin, head of the U.S. Polaris program, said Sunday night Russia had nothing to match America's nuclear-powered missile-firing submarine.

Galantin, appearing on a television program with Rep. Harold C. Ostertag, R-N.Y., said the Soviet subs must surface to fire their missiles and their weapons don't have the range of the Polaris.

Sixty-six persons were killed by tornadoes in the United States during 1958.

For a group of Denver, Colo., policemen these obstacles were not enough to deter them from looting the supermarket. They used milk from the store shelves to cool their cutting wheel as it ground nearer and nearer the money inside the safe.

Their crime, as it turned out, was less than perfect. They were found out earlier this year, as a straggled citizenry discovered that a police crime network had been operating at will in Denver for months.

The supermarket crime, though dramatic, points up a problem which has descended on many cities with varying degrees of seriousness.

Who watches the watchers? This perennial question has cast a shadow on the integrity of the vast majority of the nation's policemen. A minority, who have abused their trust to commit crime — ranging from patronizing illegal bookmaking parlors to grand larceny — have shaken the faith of millions of citizens in their law enforcement agencies.

From three major cities around the country, come these reports on police department troubles and what the communities are doing to clean house.

'Watchers' Off Major Problem In Crime Fight

By Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Could a greater temptation be devised? In the supermarket safe lies $35,000. Working time to get the money with the tools you carry is 30 minutes. Police are stationed outside to keep watch in case the store manager appears unexpectedly on the scene.

Entry into the supermarket is no problem. You have the key. Nobody thinks twice about your departure late at night because a police patrol car is waiting to take you and the loot to safety.

You are furnished also with a policeman's uniform — working clothes for the arduous job of drilling your way through the steel safe. But the pay is very good, as we have seen.

The only obstacles to the enactment of this dream crime are (1) your conscience which tells you that it is wrong to steal, and (2) the fact that you are a member of the city police force, entrusted with the task of preventing crime, not committing it.

For a group of Denver, Colo., policemen these obstacles were not enough to deter them from looting the supermarket. They used milk from the store shelves to cool their cutting wheel as it ground nearer and nearer the money inside the safe.

Their crime, as it turned out, was less than perfect. They were found out earlier this year, as a straggled citizenry discovered that a police crime network had been operating at will in Denver for months.

For Long After Easter Sunday: The Costume

GAILE DUGAS

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — Because Easter is late this year, it will be a warm weather parade in many parts of the country.

On a warm and sunny Easter Sunday, nothing could look prettier or be more comfortable than dress or costume in silk or cotton. Either can be worn on Easter Sunday on into summer and for summer travel, too.

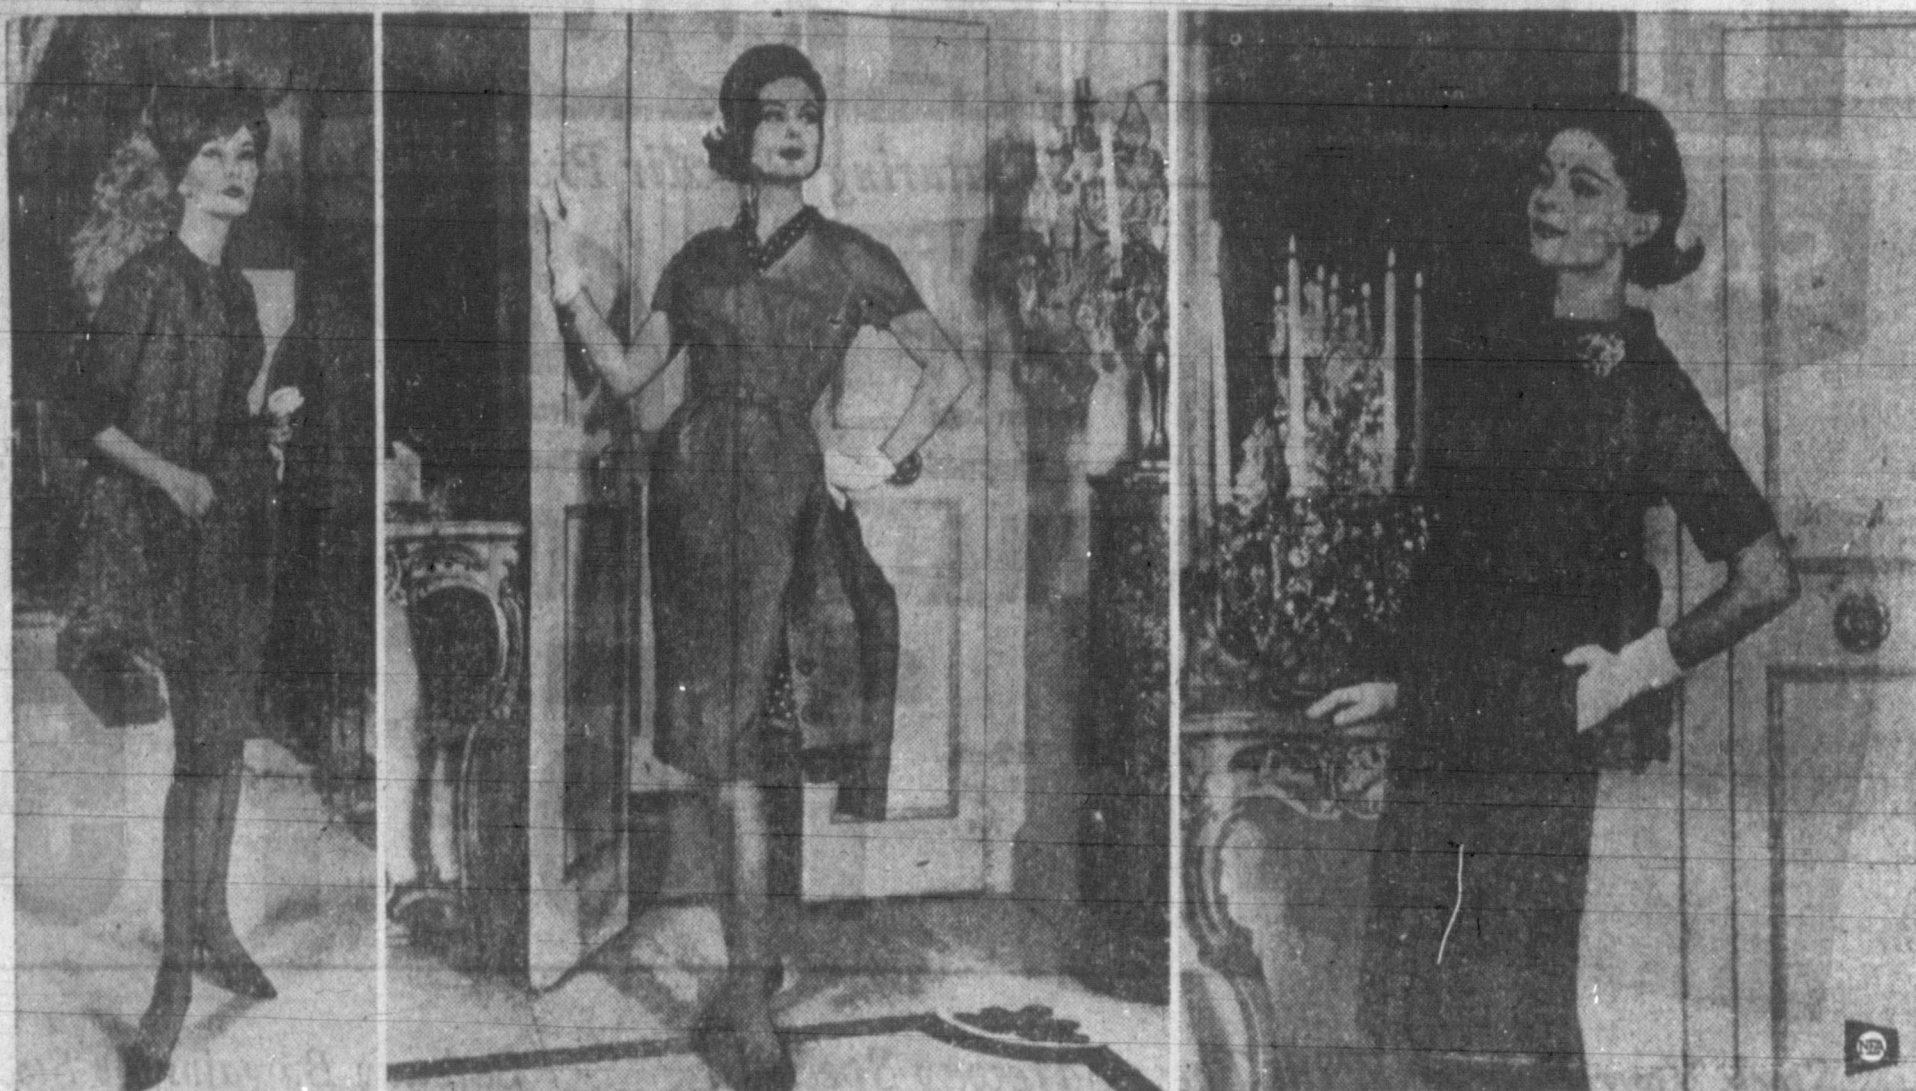

In silk linen, silk tweed or cotton tweed, the shaping of daytime dresses and costumes for Easter Sunday is notably soft and feminine. Even slim dresses are eased with front or side panels, pleats or bias cut.

Some costumes are made up of dress and soft little jacket. Others consist of dress and coordinated coat that may serve as a dress on its own. Either is a happy solution for an Easter when the weather is certain to be uncertain.

In choosing your Easter-Sunday fashion, think of it in terms of accessories. Once you've decided on color and style, plan on paper exactly what you intend to wear with it. This is the most efficient way to achieve a chic and coordinated look. You may want to treat yourself to handbag and shoes in one of the brilliantly colored patent leathers. In such case, make your costume the soft background for accessories.

While black patent leather means spring to most of us, you might consider white patent leather. Or, if your costume has just a touch of navy and red, pick up the navy or the red for bag and shoes. Have your gloves in white, in this case.

And remember: no dress pays its way when it's worn on one occasion only. So plan your fashion choice to fit into your wardrobe when Easter Sunday is over.

For a warm and sunny Easter Sunday and many days thereafter, here are fashions in lightweight fabrics. Silk tweed is used (left) for this two piece costume. Simple dress with patent leather belt is topped by buttonless jacket lined in gold silk. Costume in silk linen (center) combines dress with waist-length jacket. Jacket is lined in red-and-white polka dot silk which is repeated in small scarf at neckline. Step-in dress (right) of cotton tweed has panel front. These are Ben Barrack designs. Any one of the three could be the backbone of a wardrobe.

Duplicate Bridge Club Has Several Sessions

Pampa Duplicate Bridge Club held three different sessions of play last week in the Coronado Inn.

On Saturday afternoon, 11 tables played the Howell Movement in Mixed Pairs sessions.

Winners were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Carroll of Borger first; Mrs. Amy McDonald, Sam Harbison, both of Amarillo, second; Mr. and Mrs. Don Forsha, third; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Brown of Amarillo, fourth; Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Duenkel, fifth; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Murphy, sixth.

On Saturday night Master Point was observed with 16 tables playing the Mitchell Movement.

Winners in Section A, north and south, were Mmes. P. V. Rowe and Ralph Dunbar, first; Mmes. Fred Richmond and J. A. Watson, second; J. H. Hudson and Mrs. W. H. Dunnaway of Amarillo, third.

Section A, east-west winners were Mmes. J. E. Torvie and Bryan Hampton, first; Don Forsha and Greeley Warner, second; Earl Crouch and Mrs. Rae Bell of Amarillo, third.

Section B winners playing in the north-south positions, were Mmes. Frank Roach and Greeley Warner, first; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Brown of Amarillo, second; Fred Richmond and P. V. Rowe, third.

The club extends a cordial invitation to all interested Duplicate Bridge players to join any of its sessions held in the Coronado Inn on Saturday and Monday nights.

Goodwill Club With Mrs. Conner Hicks

Goodwill Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Conner Hicks, 1124 E. Francis for a program given by Mrs. Leland Diamond on "How To Understand Teenagers."

In ensuing remarks, Mrs. Diamond told the group "that a teenager is never dull. They protest and gripe about everything. They want to have some independence but generally not complete freedom. A parent should know where and with whom his teenager is going, but they shouldn't ask for all small details as it would seem to be prying. A teenager wants to be treated as a young adult rather than a child."

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Mrs. Nola Cole was welcomed as a new member.

Dear Abby.... Just Let "Guessers" Be Suspicious!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know if it is proper to wear your engagement and wedding rings if you are divorced. I have two children, and people look at me as though I have never been married when they see me with my children, and notice I am not wearing any rings. To tell you the truth I did not put away my rings, my husband took them back when we got divorced. I have been thinking about buying myself another set just to keep people from wondering what kind of a woman I am.

DIVORCED
DEAR DIVORCED: Don't buy yourself a set of rings. Anyone who is interested in knowing your background will ask you. As for the "guessers" — let them guess. YOU know you were married.

DEAR ABBY: For 15 years I have been working in a store. I like the work (I am a clerk) and give the customers good service. Recently, women customers have been asking me, "What is your nationality? You have an accent. Where are you from?" Do I have to give strangers my life history? I meet all kinds of people during my day's work and I would never ask such a question of them. How shall I answer?

D. A. K.
DEAR D. A. K.: The simplest answer is a two-word reply. "From France, Germany, Holland" (or wherever you are from). You needn't recite your life history. If any questions are asked beyond that, start selling.

DEAR ABBY: Have you ever heard of anybody going down the aisle in a wheelchair? Well, that's what I would like to do, but everybody is trying to talk me out of it. I am a polio victim, been in a wheelchair for years, and will never walk again. I have always wanted a beautiful church wedding with a veil, my fiancé says there is no reason why I shouldn't have it. Tell me honestly if you think I am foolish for wanting this type of wedding in my condition.

ON WHEELS
DEAR ON WHEELS: I am sure there are others who have gone down the aisle in a wheelchair, see no reason why you shouldn't. If you and your fiancé desire it, keep your wheels oiled, and go.

DEAR ABBY: Is it all right to have married bridesmaids? My sister says that it is and I am not sure because the word BRIDE MAID means "maiden" or unmarried person.

NEEDS TO KNOW
DEAR NEEDS: It is permissible to have married bridesmaids and is frequently done.

Stop worrying. Let Abby help you with that problem. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Berkeley Hills, Calif.

Program For Farmers Set In Amarillo

Farmers and grain dealers throughout the High Plains area will have an opportunity to hear legislation currently before Congress, analyzed by national leaders, Monday, March 26th.

The information and education session is being jointly announced and sponsored by the Texas Association of Wheat Growers and the Grain Sorghum Producers Association. The meeting will be at the Herring Hotel, Amarillo, beginning at 9 a.m. through 12 noon.

Dr. John E. Schnitker, economic analyst on Secretary Freeman's Staff, Washington, D.C., will evaluate and discuss the "Food and Agriculture Act of 1962" which is generally referred to as the Administration's bill, calling for continued price supports, acreage adjustment and gradual stock reduction together with reduced Treasury outlay.

The "Cropland Retirement Act of 1962" which is commonly referred to as the "Soil Bank Act," calling for diversion of whole farms from production and a rental payment for voluntary participation will be analyzed by a nationally known speaker now being selected.

The "Projected Economic Outlook and Need for Effective Farm Policy" will be discussed by the head of the Department of Agricultural Economics at Texas Technological College, Dr. J. Wayland Bennett.

The presidents of the two sponsoring organizations, Frank Moore of Plainview and Kenneth Kendrick of Stratford, stress that there will be ample time for discussion of comments and questions from the floor. They urge that anyone seeking further information about current farm programs take full advantage of the opportunity to receive first-hand information from these nationally known experts who will be at the meeting.

Directors of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association will hold their regular annual meeting and election of an Executive Committee at 1:30 p.m. also on Monday, March 26th, at the Herring Hotel, Amarillo.

TEACHER TAX CUT WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Herbert Zelenko, D-N.Y., today proposed legislation to cut about $300 a year from a teacher's income tax. It would exempt the first $1,500 of income from taxation.

Zelenko said his measure, covering teachers from the elementary school to post graduate level, would help keep instructors from leaving the education field because of poor pay.

Russell Winner Of President's Cup For Third Time In Career

NEW YORK (NEA) — He's not among the first 10 scorers in a league that's point-conscious.

He's not even a leader in any single category.

But the most valuable player in basketball and the winner of the President's Cup for 1962 is Bill Russell, the selfless center of the Boston Celtics.

Awarded by the National Basketball Association and determined by a vote of its players conducted by Newspaper Enterprise Association, the trophy is the ultimate recognition for a professional.

Russell, who came into the NBA in 1956 and immediately transformed the Celtics into the greatest basketball unit ever, is the first three-time winner of the award.

In a season where Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors has scored 100 points in a single game and is averaging more than 50 (as opposed to Bill's 18.8), there has been a running debate about MVP merits.

Maybe Eddie Gottlieb, the owner of Wilt's Warriors, settled it when he said, "Chamberlain is the best player in the league. Russell is the most valuable."

The Celtics never realized it more than in a mid-season spell when Bill strained his Achilles tendon and was forced to sit out four games. Boston lost all four.

Pampa Cindermen To Host Borger Squad

The Harvester cindermen will try to get in their dual meet with Borger today if the old weatherman permits at the high school cinder track.

The meet, scheduled for 4 p.m., will be a make-up of a triangular event originally set for last Tuesday, but called off because of bad weather. Phillips, the third team slated to participate is unable to make it today.

The Harvester thinclads, building their district hopes around the record-setting tosses of Randy Matson, will add several new faces to the meet today in an effort to strengthen their corps of entries.

Matson, of course, though falling off from his record setting pace of 58 feet eight inches in the shot-put, has still managed to toss the iron ball further than his fellow opponents with the 12-pound sphere. The junior cinder star suffered a pulled muscle in his side a couple of weeks ago and has been favoring it ever since then. Last weekend, Matson added another mark to his growing list of records, by tossing the shot into orbit against a strong field in the Odessa Relays for another first place finish and all the points which the Harvesters were able to accumulate.

New faces will dot both the sprints and the field events today, with newcomers Joe Gallett, Clive Seymour, Harold Thrasher, Lloyd Haney, Keith Reimer, Gerald Rosco, Danny Mathis, Larry Hop and Don Sears all seeing action for the first time.

Harvester entries: 100 — Ralph Palmer, Travis Tucker, Gallett; 220 — Gallett; 440 — Palmer, Seymour; 880 — Bill Hughes, Thrasher and Haney; Low hurdles — Tommy Ayres; High hurdles — James Webb and Ayres; High jump — Bill Martin and LOOK MA, FOUR HANDS — Furman's Gerald Glur, 55, didn't become one of the major college rebound leaders by using four hands. It just looks that way as he and Clemson player behind him go for the basketball in a fast game in Greenville, S.C.

Double Play Record
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Harland Giff, formerly with the St. Louis Browns, holds the record among third basemen for double plays. He participated in 50 during the 1937 season.

Young 'Un

Harvesters Slate Battle With Bulldogs Today At 4

Big Jerry Glover, a fire-balling righthander for the Harvesters, will take the mound today against the Borger Bulldogs at 4 p.m. in enemy territory in an effort to inch up on the league leaders.

Pampa, 3-2 stands in second place in the loop standings behind the Bulldogs, 2-0. The Harvesters topped the loop standings up until last weekend when the local crew split a pair with Hereford and dumped Dumas the day before to log a 2-1 record for the two days of diamond action.

Glover was the big man in the victory over Dumas last Friday, both on the mound and with the lumber. The 6-0 junior moundsman fired a nifty five-hitter against the Demons as the local crew carded a 5-2 victory. Glover also crashed out a couple of home runs and a triple good for three runs batted in, providing the margin of victory.

This will be the Harvesters first clash with a district team this year. Pampa plays the Bulldogs twice and tangles with Elk City, Okla. twice before opening up district play April 3.

Last weekend, the Harvesters played two different brands of ball. In the opener against Dumas, the locals won a close 1-0 decision on the strength of Mike Clark's three hitter and Mike Stewart's timely game winning single in the sixth inning which drove in the game's only run.

In the second game, however, the Harvesters forgot their hitting shoes and came out on the short end of a 13-6 decision. Dee Wright was shelled out in the first inning and Bobby Price finished up the one-sided affair, giving up eight runs during the remaining six innings.

Coach Deck Woldt will go with his regulars once more with Wright at first, Ab Cullender at second, Butch Crossland at shortstop and Larry Gregory at third to round out the infield.

In the outer pasture will be John Arthur in left, Howard Reed in center and Gerrel Owens in right field.

Mike Stewart will handle the catching chores while Glover will be aiming for victory number two on the hill. He has yet to lose this year.

Yankees Training Site Is Nothing But Plush

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Al Schacht, the veteran clown prince of baseball, still was saucer-eyed after an inspection trip of the New York Yankee clubhouse in their new $1 million spring training stadium.

"What a layout," he shook his head. "What a layout."

It's the same with all of the old timers when they get a look at the opulent pinch-hit palace this tourist-happy city tossed up in the palmetto scrub west of town to lure the world champions away from St. Petersburg.

The reason is obvious. For, while the city fathers are reluctant to estimate how much additional cash is pumped into their town by the presence of the Yankees, they do figure it could run as high as $20 million a year.

But one thing is sure.

They made it attractive to the ball club—and to the players.

Schacht shook his head from side to side in wonderment while he inspected the spacious locker room, the roomy trainer's room with its sparkling medical equipment and the tiled showers with stalls for a dozen players.

"It reminds me, because it's so different," said Schacht, "of when we played in Sportsman's Park in St. Louis back in the mid-20's. They had one pipe which served as a shower for 25 players. You didn't regulate the water, either. It was cold, and colder."

"But I figured out how to beat the rap," Schacht grinned. "When I pitched, I always managed to get knocked out of the box in the first inning, which was easy for me. That way I always had that one shower to myself."

"I maybe wasn't the best pitcher in the American League," Al chuckled, "but I was the cleanest."

Joe DiMaggio, when he got his first look at the new Fort Lauderdale locker room, had the same reaction.

"I was born 20 years too soon," Joe said. "When I first came up with the Yankees for spring training, over in St. Pete we had to share a locker with another player. There were so many equipment trunks sitting around you couldn't hardly get in and out of the little room where we dressed. Here they even have a storage room for trunks."

To a fellow like Johnny Cullen, a 22-year-old pitcher out of Belleville, N.J., even being up with the big team for a spring look before being sent back to the minors for further seasoning this is all sort of like a delightful dream.

Because down in many places in the minors, things still are what they used to be in the majors.

The Yankees are housed at a flamboyant hotel right on the ocean and have their own private pool as well as beach privileges. The food is the best that the hotel serves, the ballplayers' presence naturally drawing many of the tourists, too.

"It's wonderful," said young John. "I pitched for Amarillo in the Texas League last season. We play some interleague games with a Mexican league and sometimes it's 115 degrees in the shade. Then there are those 70-mile bus rides and you get right off the bus and pitch. Murder."

"Excuse me," he laughed, "just thinking about it is sending me out to that nice clean, clear pool."

APTLY NAMED — Sonny Sunkett's square front handle is Golden. He's a star backcourt man for Seton Hall of South Orange, N. J.

CLIMBER — Bobby Sims, 12, looks like he's on a ladder as he leap's in trying to outreach Wilt Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors as the pair go after a rebound under the St. Louis basket in overtime at Detroit Olympia.

AN INDEPENDANT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Another Screwball Idea

Prof. Eugene Staley of the Stanford Research Institute has come up with an idea for raising funds for the United Nations which is as impractical as the organization itself.

Funds would be raised, under the Staley plan, through independent revenue sources not now being tapped by the nations of the world.

The first reaction to Staley's plan is one of astonishment that any nation has overlooked any possible source of revenue.

But the professor tells us what these sources may be—space traffic and communications rights, polar resources and those ocean resources lying beyond the three-mile or 12-mile limit, to mention some of them.

Well this is all very fine in theory, but like so many abstractions, it would not work in practice.

The professor's theory is based on the assumption that the various nations would pay out whatever the United Nations charged them for whatever rights were involved.

In so far as space rights are concerned, mostly the US and Russia would be involved. We would have the same old business of the US paying, the Russians renegeing whenever they felt like it.

The same would be true of the other charges. Just as some countries pay UN assessments now and some don't, some would pay for "rights" and some wouldn't.

If Russia failed to pay for space rights, who would do what to enforce the rules? If the Red Chinese chose to fish outside the 12-mile limit without paying, whose gunboats would stop them?

The United Nations is dead. It was a nice try, maybe, and if others had been as sincere as the US, perhaps it would have worked. But let us not be naive any longer. There are other nations—very powerful ones—who do not want the same kind of world that we want and are prepared to go to any length to see that our idea of a peaceful existence is never realized.

For this reason, the United Nations hasn't worked and never will under the present organization.

This fact will be more universally understood when we fail to be anything more than amused by such illogical theories as that advanced by the Stanford professor.

Not The Same

Persons who profess to hate communism, but demonstrate by their words and actions that they merely hate Russia, have confused a system of belief with a particular nation. Communism and Russia are not synonymous terms.

A Fuller House Proposed

The oddsmakers on Capitol Hill are less sure than they were a while back that the House will vote to enlarge its membership from the present 435 to 458 seats. But the chances are still considered strong.

The proposed legislation would permit Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Missouri each to retain a House seat they would otherwise lose under the reapportionment demanded as result of the 1960 census.

Harsh criticisms have been made against the bill, largely to the effect that it is a pet project of Speaker McCormack, aimed at relieving his own Massachusetts of the necessity of wiping out two seats instead of one in a redistricting program.

Some lawmakers and Washington observers contend that Massachusetts is not entitled to escape this burden, inasmuch as Minnesota, Illinois, Pennsylvania and New York have all mastered tough reapportionment problems involved in the loss of seats.

Perhaps surprisingly, however, not too many legislators feel this way. With their own states' problems behind them, many are willing to endorse the modest increase in House size, especially since the Speaker favors it.

Furthermore, amid all the assaults on Massachusetts, one reasonable counter-argument has force with House members. Never before in history has House membership not been increased when new states were added to the Union. The total of three marked for Hawaii and Alaska would exactly balance the proposed increase under the pending bill.

This point is said to have carried some weight with the late Speaker Sam Rayburn, who generally was opposed to any substantial rise in House numbers. No increase has occurred since the admission of New Mexico and Arizona to state status.

Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Missouri would be the beneficiaries of the 438-seat proposal under a complex mathematical formula for figuring the relative population standing of the 50 states.

Altogether, 38 states stand to lose seats. To rub out all their losses and still have a House with representation on a 1960 population basis would compel an enormous boost in membership.

Some students of Congress think even the existing 435 total makes the House unwieldy today. But it is hard to see how three more would alter the picture significantly.

'ATHLETIC HEART' IS TOPS ON LIST OF MEDICAL MYTHS

By DR. HAROLD T. HYMAN

I would like once again to draw your attention to that hardy medical myth, "the athletic heart." Like all fairy tales, it continues to be told and retold from generation to generation.

Without seeking any further explanation, the "athletic heart" is blamed for any and every attack that occurs to a participant in a sports contest of any sort. And to any and every attack that occurs to an athlete without regard to what he may have been doing at the time of his difficulty.

What should be, but won't be, the last nail in the coffin of this medical myth has been furnished by Drs. Currens and White of the Massachusetts General Hospital. With the cooperation of Mrs. Clarence DeMar, these famous cardiologists examined the heart of Mr. DeMar, who was popularly known in the world of amateur athletics as "Mr. Marathon."

During the course of his life, DeMar, who had been told in his youth that he had a "weak heart," participated in 1,000 long distance races, including 100 marathons of 25 miles or more.

The first of DeMar's long distance runs of record took place in 1909 when he was 21. In that race, a cross-country event, he finished fourth and was awarded his letter at the University of Vermont where he ran as an undergraduate. The last of his races was a 15 kilometer "marathon" (about 10 miles) that he ran at the age of 69 at Bath, Me. And, in the intervening 45 years, he ran 34 marathons and, in seven of them, was winner.

In the last of these marathons, that he ran at the age of 66, he finished 78th in a field of 133 qualified runners.

Nor is that all. In addition to working as farm manager, proofreader and teacher, he ran two evenings a week, took a degree in fine arts at Harvard in 1915 and his master's degree in education at Boston University in 1932.

And, in 1912, he represented us in the Olympic games but failed to finish due, in his opinion, to a vegetarian diet that was inflicted on him by the trainers and officials of the team.

Yet withal, including an operation for an intestinal cancer some two years before his death, his heart and its coronary vessels revealed no changes other than those that might have been found if he'd lived his 69 years commuting between bedroom and dining room. "Athletic heart" indeed!

For a copy of Dr. Hyman's leaflet "YOUR HEART: angina pectoris," send 10 cents to Dr. Hyman, care of Pampa Daily News, Box 489, Dept. B, Radio City Station, New York 19, N.Y.

Bid For A Smile

Jones was unusually abashed, and as he was about to sail for Europe with his wife and family, a friend came down to see him and make sure that all was right. The friend was late. It was within twenty minutes of sailing time, but he found Jones smiling and happy.

Friend — Hello, Jones! All right?

Jones — Yes, trunks, tickets, letter of credit, steamer chair—everything. Flatter myself that all is right this time.

Friend — That's good. Where's Mrs. Jones and the family?

Jones — Have to say bon voyage to them and hurry ashore.

Friend — Jove! I think they're waiting at home.

The class was in the middle of their first lesson on how to bake a cake.

Miss Miller — Mary, please go into the kitchen and see if the cake is done. Just stick a knife in the cake and see if it comes out clean.

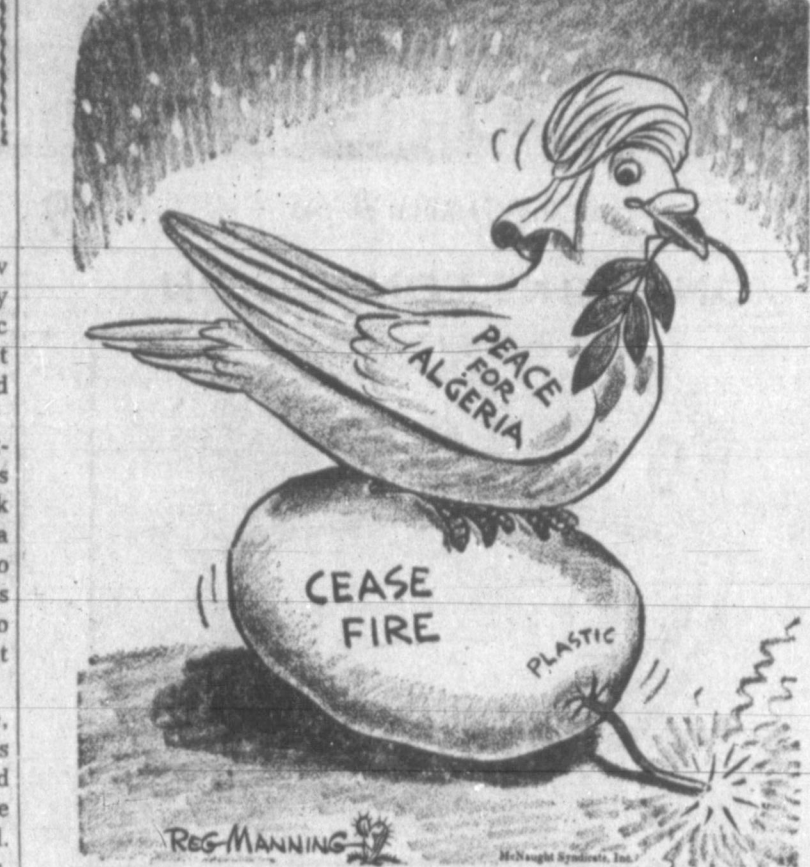

In a few minutes Mary was back.

Mary (excitedly) — Oh, Miss Miller, the knife came out so clean that I stuck in all the other dirty knives, too.

Northern Coed — Men are all alike.

Southern Belle Roommate—Men are all like, too.

New Intelligence Reports Readied in Cuba— May Soon Be Operational

WASHINGTON — Soviet technicians have completed work in Cuba on four bases suitable for launching intermediate range ballistic missiles against the U.S.

These secret rocket installations are located near the Cuban cities of Holguin, Camaguey, Matanzas and Pinar del Rio — all within a 90 to 175-mile range of the Florida coast.

The completion of these rocket bases is reported in an intelligence estimate now being circulated at the highest level of the Kennedy Administration.

The intelligence report spread an almost visible chill through the Defense Department with its conclusion that these bases are ready for the installation of operational IRBMs.

Under construction since Fidel Castro took over in January 1959, these bases now consist of cement launching areas, control block houses, and missile and fuel storage areas.

There is one unconfirmed report that Soviet IRBMs already have been installed at the Holguin base in Oriente Province. However, U.S. intelligence agencies have been unable to confirm this report from the Cuban underground.

The unloading of two 60-foot missiles at the Holguin base late in January was reported by a member of the Cuban underground. Numerous U-2 reconnaissance flights over the base by U.S. pilots failed to produce photographs of the missiles. But the flights did confirm information about the base which the same underground informant had provided a U.S. intelligence agency.

Other information about the Cuban bases that U.S. authorities have confirmed includes a report that General Enrique Lister, former Spanish Republican Army general, is in charge of the four bases.

It was also learned that General Lister, schooled at Russia's Frunze Military Academy, has control of all secret-police work in Cuba. He handles the issuing of Soviet-bloc visas to Cuba's fanatical, combat-ready civilian militia, and the training of Cuban military officers assigned to the missile bases.

THE NEW THREAT — The completion of these Cuban missile bases poses a real threat to the security of the U.S., according to a study by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

These military advisers of the President take the blunt position that the U.S. must take military action, if necessary, to keep Castro from installing operational IRBMs that close to the U.S.

This alarming JCS warning has so far brought no affirmative response from President Kennedy. He has refrained from acting on the ground that the U.S. still lacks "hard" intelligence that any actual missiles are at these bases.

The JCS takes the position that if missiles are not in underground storage areas, they will be stationed at the bases as soon as Premier Khrushchev believes it is to Russia's advantage to do so.

In addition to their missile base warning, the JCS has sent the White House a third report that Russia has supplied Cuba with poison gas.

The latest information comes from two Cuban Army defectors who told U.S. intelligence agents that they helped unload Czech-made "gas" shells from a Soviet ship.

The first report came from a reliable informant in Havana. He furnished the Defense Intelligence

Pegler Says:

The dogged campaign to kill off the pro-American uprising in the outback of our country is concentrated on the John Birch Society whose program is offensive to "the forces of the revolution" which Whittaker Chambers so desperately described in his testament, entitled "Witness."

The Birch Society is impalpable, almost mythical, but that may be all the better for these people. A political resistance which has no substance cannot be shot. Publicists of the "revolution" will snarl and threaten those who call themselves pro-Americans, but that is not very frightening. They pose as pro-Americans themselves so it infuriates them to be classified as liberals or henchmen of the liberals, I believe, as Chambers did, that they are winning and realize, as he did, that we pro-Americans are beset by powerful and vindictive enemies.

I visited recently with Robert Stripling, a Texas country boy who was harassed by adherents of Eleanor Roosevelt for opposing the issuance of a Naval commission to her protégé, Joe Lash. Stripling was the bloodhound who helped to expose Alger Hiss in the conferences and hearings of the House Committee. Though Hiss finally went to prison for perjury, actually, Bob Stripling realizes now, "The forces of the revolution" are more abusive and arrogant than they were even in Roosevelt's day.

It should be transparent that in pretending to oppose "communism," the liberals are recklessly, joyously hastening its day. If all the known and declared Communists were buried in Katyn trenches tomorrow, the revolution would whoop along, nullifying the constitutions of the fifty states and bringing out Supreme Court decisions. The opposition to the misallied integration decision, which actually made for disintegration of the Republic and the several races of mankind, never based their opposition on segregation of whites and Negroes. Many of them, including me, had gone to school with Negroes in childhood. But we tried to maintain the Constitutional right of the states to manage those matters without intrusion organized by the liberals in New York and Washington.

Only belatedly has General Edwin Walker, an expendable now doomed to proud, patriotic ignominy, revealed his own objection as a soldier to the unlawful military duty imposed on him by President Eisenhower when Walker was commander-in-chief in Arkansas. Governor Faubus did not appeal to Eisenhower for troops to keep the peace, but like sent in Regulars to usurp the authority of the State. No riot act was read.

Why, Stripling asked a few days ago, are the liberals always serene in the presence of the revolution but always frantic at the mention of a revival of the Ku Klux Klan? Calm in the presence of union slowdowns at Case Canaveral which magnified the cost of Colonel Glenn's flight and delayed our progress in "space" immeasurably, but horrified when a party of Italian-Americans hold a steak fry on private premises? The harmless but obviously patriotic William Dudley Pelley was hounded into prison on a trumped-up charge of petty fraud for organizing a fraternal society so weak in numbers that it could not have carried out a Halloween window-soaping raid in a 9 o'clock town. Why were the liberal off-Americans so compassionate to Alger Hiss but so indifferent when Lucille Miller, of Bethel, Vt., was tear-gassed out of her little home in a woody, leftist retreat, dragged away from her children, deported to the Government Bedlam in Washington and detained for three weeks.

Her unfortunate, toiling husband then got a year in Danbury prison for brandishing a gun during the tear gas raid — all because Lucille rightly maintained that troops drafted in time of peace for overseas war were performing involuntary servitude. The issue never was tried because Mrs. Miller was right. But no liberal ever said or spoke a word of protest. Her letter describing a horrible night among the pervers and yowling drunks in the Women's Prison in New York, absolutely without excuse under law, is a classical memorandum of this revolution against the pro-Americans. But none of the revolutionary papers ran it.

This is rear-guard stuff, I know. Our Republic is gone.

Why does the John Birch So-

New Attempt Shapes Up To Orbit Space Accord

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — First thrusts towards international cooperation for peaceful uses of outer space will be made by a United Nations committee meeting in New York March 19. This will probably be the first test of Nikita Khrushchev's sincerity in proposing that the United States and Russia pool their space research.

Khrushchev's big idea was welcomed by President Kennedy as a hopeful sign. But the Russian's effort to climb aboard the successful flight of astronaut John H. Glenn's Mercury capsule, "Friendship Seven," is also regarded with some amusement.

The United States has been proposing international cooperation in space exploration and the Russians have been blocking it — for five years. Khrushchev nevertheless put forward the proposal in his congratulatory message to Kennedy as though it was a brand new idea — his — Khrushchev's.

Amb. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. suggested it to the U.N. Jan. 12, 1957. In September 1958 the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles proposed to the General Assembly that the U.N. take first steps in organizing international cooperation in outer space.

The 1950 Act of Congress setting up the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) authorized American cooperation with other nations for the benefit of mankind. Also, President Eisenhower gave the U.N. a four-point plan in 1960.

President Kennedy in his 1961 State of the Union and United Nations addresses called for international co-operation in space research for weather forecasting, satellite communications and probes of Mars and Venus.

Head of the United States delegation for this meeting will be Francis T. P. Plinton, deputy to Adlai Stevenson at the U.N. Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator of NASA, ad some of his top scientists will be technical advisers. Whom the Russians are sending has not been announced. Nobody ever knows till they show up.

International law, including the United Nations charter, is to be ciety try to carry on? Don't we know we are licked?

Why, Stripling asked a few days ago, are the liberals always serene in the presence of the revolution but always frantic at the mention of a revival of the Ku Klux Klan? Calm in the presence of union slowdowns at Case Canaveral which magnified the cost of Colonel Glenn's flight and delayed our progress in "space" immeasurably, but horrified when a party of Italian-Americans hold a steak fry on private premises? The harmless but obviously patriotic William Dudley Pelley was hounded into prison on a trumped-up charge of petty fraud for organizing a fraternal society so weak in numbers that it could not have carried out a Halloween window-soaping raid in a 9 o'clock town. Why were the liberal off-Americans so compassionate to Alger Hiss but so indifferent when Lucille Miller, of Bethel, Vt., was tear-gassed out of her little home in a woody, leftist retreat, dragged away from her children, deported to the Government Bedlam in Washington and detained for three weeks.

Her unfortunate, toiling husband then got a year in Danbury prison for brandishing a gun during the tear gas raid — all because Lucille rightly maintained that troops drafted in time of peace for overseas war were performing involuntary servitude. The issue never was tried because Mrs. Miller was right. But no liberal ever said or spoke a word of protest. Her letter describing a horrible night among the pervers and yowling drunks in the Women's Prison in New York, absolutely without excuse under law, is a classical memorandum of this revolution against the pro-Americans. But none of the revolutionary papers ran it.

This is rear-guard stuff, I know. Our Republic is gone.

New Attempt Shapes Up To Orbit Space Accord

Lenten Message

By JOHN B. MANNION
Executive Secretary
Liturgical Conference
(Roman Catholic Layman)
Written For UPI

Let us not mistake the primary purpose of Lent. It is our preparation for the greatest Christian feast, Easter, the day of the Lord's Resurrection. The victory that Jesus won through his death and Resurrection is the victory that is pledged to all who have been baptized into His body (Romans 6:3-5). The gift that we have been given as Christians is a share in the life of the risen Christ. Now we are adopted sons of the Father, one in Christ, through the power of the Holy Spirit.

Each year at this time we commemorate our redemption. But we do not merely celebrate events of history. We rejoice that here and now we can meet the Savior as he continues through time in the mystery of the church, bringing salvation to all men who believe and accept him. More than that, we also look to the future when Christ shall return in glory and the triumph of His Resurrection will be made manifest to all. During Lent, then, we prepare ourselves for this central celebration of the kingdom's progress toward fulfillment. By fasting we remind ourselves of our frail humanity and our absolute dependence upon God. By our penances we express sorrow for our repeat failures — our personal sins and our corporate sins as the family of man — and we admit our terrible responsibility for the suffering, injustice, corruption and strife that prevail among us. Finally, by our prayer, we ask God to restore us to our baptismal innocence so that our unity with Christ will be pure, selfless and complete as we gratefully celebrate, and renew within us the saving realities of Holy Week and Easter.

Jesus said He is the Resurrection and the Life. He is our Resurrection and our Life. Let us prepare to rejoice and give thanks for the great things he has done for us.

Helicopters are credited with nearly 10,000 evacuations and rescues of Allied troops during the Korean conflict.

Lawrence Hagy Named Chairman Of 'Symphonic Drama' Committee

The appointment of Lawrence Hagy as Chairman of the Development Committee for the symphonic drama campaign has been announced by Wales Madden, general chairman of the campaign.

The drama, based on the history of the Texas Panhandle, is planned for the Palo Duro Canyon where an open air theater will be built for the purpose.

Hagy said, "Symphonic drama provides a means for us to preserve our great heritage here in the Panhandle in a most unique and thrilling way. Thousands of additional tourists will be lured to our area. Rewarding benefits from both an economic and cultural standpoint will surely result."

The Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation Development, sponsoring the symphonic drama drive, was established to "recapture, recreate, and preserve the history of the Panhandle by presentation of symphonic drama in a permanent theater in Palo Duro Canyon."

Paul Green, noted playwright and essayist, and originator of symphonic drama will write the script for the story of the history of the Panhandle. Symphonic drama marks the first major step in the development of the area arts by the Amarillo Area Foundation.

ma marks the first major step in the development of the area arts by the Amarillo Area Foundation.

Hagy, a long-time civic leader, independent oil man and cattleman, has headed many local civic drives since he came to Amarillo in 1923. He is a past director of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, past mayor of Amarillo, and past president of the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Association. He is currently a Director of the Amarillo Area Foundation, and past director of the Amarillo United Fund, the Amarillo Country Club and the Amarillo Club.

He served in WW II and was discharged with the rank of Lt. Colonel. In 1945 he received the Legion of Merit.

The symphonic drama campaign goal is $350,000. The money will be used to build the amphitheater in the Canyon and to pay the operating expenses for the first year.

Where Stork Brings More Than Babies

CICOGNA, Italy (UPI) — The postmaster of this small town has a problem.

All the boys and girls who want baby brothers and sisters write to him because "Cicogna" means stork. The postmasters of towns named "Santa Claus" only have to worry at Christmas time, but letters to the stork pour in all year.

Appeals from all over Italy addressed to the stork land on the busy desk of Postmaster Foppiano.

"Bring me a baby brother," asked Elena from Rome.

"Bring one, not two like you did the last time," warned Robertino from Naples.

And the Postmaster spends most of his spare time answering the children's letters. He makes no promises but says that if the youngsters are patient a little brother or sister should be on the way. The boy who complained about twins was assured that the stork would try to do better next time.

Italian children's faith in the stork and the Italian Post Office's theory that the mails must go through at all costs are responsible for the Postmaster's problem. As long as there is a town

Postmaster Vacancy In Area Town

An examination for Postmaster at Canadian, salary $5790.00 a year, will be open for acceptance of applications until April 10, 1962, the Civil Service Commission has announced.

This examination has been announced under revised qualifications standards recently agreed upon between the Commission and the Post Office Department.

Competitors for the postmaster vacancy in this city must have at least 3 years of experience (education above high school level may be substituted for 1½ years of experience) showing that they have the ability to conduct and manage the community's postal business efficiently and to supervise employees so that customers that they are of good reputation are satisfied with the service.

Competitors must also show that they can deal with the public agreeably and effectively.

Applicants must take a written test. Those who pass will be assigned final ratings on the basis of this test and on their experience, and fitness for the position. They must have resided within the delivery of the office for one year immediately preceding the closing date of the examination. In addition, they must have reached their 18th birthday on the closing date for acceptance of applications. Persons over 70 years of age cannot be appointed.

Complete information about the examination requirements and instructions for filing applications may be obtained at the post office for which this examination is being announced. Application forms must be filed with the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C., and must be received or postmarked not later than the closing date.

named "Stork" all letters addressed to the busy bird must be forwarded there. If the letter is undeliverable, the Postmaster is authorized to open the letter and look for a return address.

No Post Office regulation requires postal employees to answer the letter. But Signor Foppiano, a kindly man who hated to disappoint the children, took to acting as the stork's secretary.

GRADUATE—Mary Elizabeth York, 18, granddaughter of Sgt. Alvin York of World War I fame, has graduated from Women's Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, near San Antonio, Tex.

FRIENDLY SONS UNFRIENDLY PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Friendly Sons of St. Patrick were anything but at their annual dinner Saturday night when Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., proposed a toast to President John F. Kennedy, the "only Irishman ever elected President of the United States."

About a dozen lumpy noses resulted during a disagreement at three tables over how many other presidents had Irish ancestry.

After the brawl was over a spokesman said six others had claimed roots in the Auld Sod.

EMBARRASSING MOMENT LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — The Fire Department parked one of its trucks too close to a grass-fire Sunday night and the vehicle's gas tank exploded.
