UPPER HOUSE IS LIKELY TO CHANGE BILL

SENATE MAY VOTE OUT A MEASURE OF ITS OWN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—A crushing house majority today passed and sent to the senate a bill authorizing immediate cash payment of the bonus to nearly 3,500,000 world war veterans. Its immediate cost was estimated variously from $1,000,000,000 to $2,000,000,000.

The vote on passage was announced by Speaker Byrns at 355 to 58, more than the two thirds required for passage, over a presidential veto.

The final ballot was taken before galleries packed with spectators. The bill was backed by the American Legion, veterans of foreign wars and disabled American veterans.

Prompt consideration of the cash bonus issue by the senate finance committee was promised by Chairman Harrison (D Mass.).

Unless pressure for the house bill is too great, the committee was considered likely to amend the measure or vote out a less liberal one of its own, realizing President Roosevelt is opposed to full payment at this time.

Democratic leader Robinson has conferred with the president and was believed to have conveyed the executive's attitude to all bonus camps whose representatives have been conferring in secret for several days.

Robinson was hopeful a bill can be passed that will meet executive approval.

Just before final passage, the house defeated 919 to 89 a motion by Rep. Treadway (R Mass.) to return the bill to committee under instructions to require payment with unexpended relief funds.

Every seat in the galleries was occupied long before the balloting got under way.

On the floor, members were so unconcerned about the outcome that they chattered noisily. Several were reading newspapers. Speaker Byrns had to crack down his gavel repeatedly so those who had not yet voted could hear the clerk call their names.

Fred Hobart Is Reelected ANL Vice-President

Fred A. Hobart of Pampa and Canadian was re-elected vice-president of the American National Livestock association at its annual meeting in Phoenix, Ariz., yesterday. Albert K. Mitchell of Albert, N. M., was elected president and El Paso was chosen as the next convention city.

The Pampa man was named to office last year and succeeds his father, the late T. D. Hobart as an active member of the association. The late Mr. Hobart was president of the association a few years ago.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 10. (AP)—The American National Livestock association concluded its 39th annual convention today after aiming denunciations at the Canadian tariff act and the Argentine sanitary agreement.

The tariff reduction treaty, the cattle grazing agreement, a resolution, is unfair to the industry and may encourage other nations to demand similar pacts.

Demand also was made that future tariff or trade agreements be ratified by the senate.

Ratification of the Argentine pact, lifting the embargo on cattle importations from that South American country, was opposed on the grounds it would endanger American ranges to infestation of foot and mouth disease.

The projects, sponsored by the State Highway department, contemplate improvement of existing recreational areas through clearing, grubbing, construction of drives, walls, benches and other facilities for motorists stopping along the highways.

MORGAN FIRM CHARGED WITH PANIC IN 1915

WITNESS GIVES FLAT DENIAL TO EVERY ACCUSATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—J. F. Morgan whaled away today at a senator's charge that his big banking house brought on a foreign exchange panic in 1915 in order to force Woodrow Wilson to permit loans to the allies.

Repealed Senator Clark (D, Mo.) contended it was plain from documentary evidence that Morgan's support of the British pound was withdrawn, with resultant complications for America's booming war trade, to force Wilson's hand.

Heiress Charges Mother Maimed Her

A sensational fight of daughter against mother, in which Ann Cooper Hewitt, left, 21-year-old heiress, charges she was duped into a sterilization operation so her two-thirds interest in a $2,000,000 fortune would go to her mother if the girl died childless, is forecast in the $500,000 damage suit filed by the girl in San Francisco.

The heiress declared she had suffered years of mistreatment from her mother, Mrs. Marjorie Bruguere Hewitt D'Eranger McCarter, right, internationally famed divorcee, but two San Francisco doctors and a psychiatrist, named co-defendants, declared the operation was necessary because of Miss Hewitt's weak mentality.

WORDS O.E.H.

Check on things...

Twinkles

What is the most expressive word in the English language? Judge Hoover says it is "twinkle." Second place, he adds, belongs to "o. k."

For the most meaningless word in the language, because of too much use, we pick the word "hell." Certainly things cannot be as mean as "game" as, not as, sold as, ad nauseum, as popular custom would have us believe.

While we think of it, how do YOU pronounce the word "water?"

Any hike in the price of crude oil is welcome, but we regret that the top for Gray county crude was put at 98 cents. It is so much easier to talk of "dollar" oil.

Mother Nature knows best—snow looks unclean times better than those largely-m-a-n-made duststorms.

Musing of the moment: We're vindicated in our claim that commas are too lightly regarded in writing. Example: Sale of liquor is supposed to be forbidden within 300 feet of a church, school, and certain other places. The current law left out the comma between church and school, making it church school. And eliminating churches from the list.

Brevitorials

BECAUSE THE AAA is declared unconstitutional is no reason why Uncle Sam should not keep his contracts. Gray county farmers operating in production control associations are interested to the extent of about $90,000, under contracts now in force. Payments not yet made include the second on 1935 wheat contracts, one payment on corn-hog contracts, and about a score of delayed cotton payments. Wheat accounts for about $75,000 of the above. Applications had been made for new wheat contracts but signing had not begun.

A neat academic problem is what should be done with processing tax money collected from consumers but held up by court injunctions. Processors shouldn't keep it, because the people paid it to help the producers. But how can Uncle Sam determine how many pounds of taxed farm commodities we bought? In other words, we figure that if the farmers can't be given the tax money, we ought to have our contribution returned—but it is a futile hope.

BUT the Supreme Court decision is in the books. The question is what to do about it. Locally, a group of democrats has sent President Roosevelt a telegram expressing a desire to vote on a constitutional amendment to make such things as AAA possible. This seems the most logical alternative in case no legal substitute can be devised. To tamper with the number of Supreme Court justices appears to be regarded as politically and practically too dangerous, inasmuch as there are already 9 of them and natural death is certain to remove a number of them in the next few years anyway. Although the average man probably believes that the Supreme Court majority acted under partisan impulses, local attorneys and such life-long democrats as Judge Hoover of Canadian, who was the Jackson day dinner orator here this week, are not inclined to take this view. They believe it is more of a question of liberal vs. conservative.

In any event, it appears that the Constitution has been so well established by conservative lawyer-justices are willing to construe it.

Finding substitute legislation for AAA may prove easier than many persons believe. The power of Congress to equalize economic opportunity is not open to question—every session grants subsidies, relief, etc. The trouble starts when the federal government attempts to enter into production control contracts with citizens of the several states, with penalties for not keeping faith. It is still within the authority of Congress to carry out its old contracts and make appropriations to achieve aims similar to AAA. The question may resolve itself into this: Congress can furnish the money to provide parity; can it farmers through voluntary agreements by states cut down production to control surpluses? It is being done in oil; can it be done in wheat, cotton, and corn-hogs?

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT should not be criticized for making haste slowly in announcing his plans concerning resurrection of alphabetical agencies. One amendment, that on child labor, has been offered for several years and it is still far from acceptance in agricultural and other states. The amendment now proposed to validate AAA would almost certainly

HARVESTERS CRUSH WHITTENBURG 22 TO 11 AND WIN 17TH STRAIGHT TILT

PAMPA GAGERS PLAY SANDIES IN NEXT WEEK

CLUB PLAYS QUAIL AT 3 O'CLOCK THIS AFTERNOON

The Harvesters basketballers carried the 17th notch on their run last night by falling a belated, mauling Whittensburg team coached by "Dumb" Newman, formerly of Hedley, 22 to 11.

The game was played in the first half when the Harvesters led 17 to 7. Thereafter, panic and pandemonium reigned. The boys on either team did little except run themselves raised, lither and yon, up and down the court, crassing into each other, taking a running jump and diving for the middle of the tangled players. As many as three times there were five players in a heap on the floor at once. Pampa had the game in the bag at the end of the first quarter when the Harvesters led 10 to 0. That lead was never relinquished.

One Whittensburg player, Trent, forward, did all the scoring for his team. He made 7 points in the first half and four in the last half. The rest of the Phillips boys took shots at the goal at spasmodic intervals, but for the most part they passed the ball to Trent, who scored despite the fact that he was covered up well.

Every Harvester contributed to the Pampa score in the first quarter, each of the five players chalking up a field goal. Green scored 7 points, Strickland 4. The only two field goals of the second half were made by Green and Bailey. Pampa beat Whittensburg 22 to 11 Saturday night in Hutchinson county.

The Harvesters left at 1 o'clock this afternoon to play in the Mobile Journal. Their first engagement will be against Quail at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Quail has one of the strongest teams in Collingsworth county. It is said to be stronger than Samnorwood's team which is reputed to be powerful.

Next week, the Panhandle Panthers, starting under a 22 lick administered by the Pampans at the first of the season, will come here for a game Thursday night. The Harvesters whipped Panhandle on the second day the Panthers practiced, and tough opposition is expected. Better barely meet up Panhandle twice, and the Panthers have showed steady improvement.

Sandies Coming!

On Saturday night, the Amarillo Sandies, 1935 district basketball champions, will be the Harvesters' foe. The biggest crowd of the season is expected. Last year, the biggest crowd of the winter saw Amarillo and Pampa play here, with the Harvesters winning by more than a dozen points. Previously, the Sandies had beaten the Harvesters at Amarillo by six points. Amarillo was one of the four teams that went to the regional last spring, and was the first to be eliminated.

Last night's crowd was the largest of the season. The gym was comfortably filled. Martial music was supplied by Sam Houston's school smartly uniformed band. The youngsters play "the football tunes" well and seldom tooted off-key, which was something!

The score:

Arkansas' Tallest Team To Make Debut Against Aggies

LONGHORNS TO SEE IF THEY'RE REALLY GOOD

By BILL PARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer

The University of Arkansas basketball team starts their 1936 Southwest conference championship drive tonight at College Station against Texas A. and M.

Arkansas will make a second appearance Saturday night against the Aggies. On the same night the University of Texas takes on Baylor at Waco, and Southern Methodist invades Fort Worth to play Texas Christian.

The Razorbacks, said to be the nation's tallest team, are co-favorites with the Rice Owls to win the championship.

Coch Matty Karow's University of Texas hoopers, leading advocates of the blockout and delayed offense, showed themselves into the championship picture Wednesday by a jolting 41 to 32 decision over Rice. Rice invaded Austin after defeating Baylor Tuesday, 35 to 33.

Working from a fast breaking attack designed especially for his fleet sophomore forwards, Coach Karow will find out Saturday whether his boys are really good or merely played an inspired game against Rice. The Bruins proved strong enough to force Rice into two extra periods before a final verdict was reached.

The Southern Methodist and Texas Christian game doesn't promise much. Both were seriously hampered in their basketball practice because of the lateness of their football camps which carried Southern Methodist to the Rose Bowl and Texas Christian to the Sugar Bowl.

Rest Periods in Grid Games May Be Lengthened

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Ways and means of providing additional protection for prep football players were under consideration today as the rules committee of the National Federation of High School Athletic associations met for its annual two-day session.

It was likely, said Henry V. Porter, of Chicago, secretary of the committee, that the interval between periods would be lengthened. The traditional one minute rest between the first and second, and third and fourth sessions was expected to be increased to two or three minutes, and the 12 minutes between halves boosted to 15.

Porter said statistics indicate that most of the serious injuries on prep gridirons occur near the start of the second half. Feeling that lack of proper warming up may be partly responsible, coaches, in answers to questions, he suggested an extra three minutes between halves, devoted to limbering exercises.

Basketball Over The Panhandle

WESTERNERS WINS AND PLAINVIEW IS DEFEATED

LUBOCK, Jan. 9.—High school basketball games of the vicinity last night saw the Lubbock Westerners retain their undefeated standing by beating Meadow on the latter's court and Shallowater win from the Plainview High school bulldogs in a close game.

Murray Venable led the scoring with 17 points as the Westerners took a 30 to 21 victory at Meadow in the main event of the evening's program. In a curtain raiser, the Lubbock second stringers went down to inglorious defeat, 13 to 43, at the hands of Meadow's second team. It was the first competition for many of the Lubbock second stringers.

Burleson led Meadow's scoring in the main game with 7 points, but Gamble, forward on the second team, took the evening's honors with 24 points.

Shallowater edged out Plainview, 23 to 22. The game was close all the way, Shallowater leading, 11 to 10, after the halfway mark.

Mabry, lanky Plainview center, led the scoring with 11 points, and McCullon, Shallowater center, led the winners with seven centers.

A double header is scheduled in the Shallowater gymnasium Friday night with the girls and boys teams of Meadow.

Plainview Bulldog caeters tomorrow night take on what promises to be one of the toughest assignments of the season when they tangle with the Lubbock Westerners in a match that will open the conference round for Plainview.

Lubbock recently overcame Shallowater by almost two-to-one score, and Shallowater's showings against Shallowater makes the dope against the Bulldogs tomorrow night as regards the score. A grid victory this season over the tough Lubbock rivals places the Bulldogs on a parity position they will not relinquish without knowing the reason why.

Plainview probable starters are Driver and Lowry, forwards; Redford, center; and Chisholm and Miller, guards.

The game will be called at 8 o'clock at the high school gymnasium.

Hoppe Leading Welker Cochran

CHICAGO, Jan. 10. (AP)—Willie Hoppe of New York, gray-haired and 42 years old, still is the wonder of billiards.

The famed New Yorker, who has played championship billiards 29 years through three generations of sport stars, today had a lead of 28 points over Welker Cochran, San Francisco, in his challenge match for the world's three cushion billiard championship. He beat Cochran 60 to 41 in 57 innings, in their opening block yesterday afternoon, and polished him off 69 to 51 in 65 innings last night.

This afternoon and tonight they play their third and fourth blocks with the finals tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night.

PROS ARS FAVORITES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10. (AP)—A dozen pro star golfers ranked as favorites today in the 11th annual Los Angeles 85,000 open tournament. The 129 qualifiers were scheduled to play 18 holes today, 18 tomorrow and the 36-hole championship round Sunday.

Most feared opponents were Macdonald Smith, four times winner of the event; Horton Smith, recent Pasadena open winner; and Harold McSpaden, runner-up in the last three tournaments in Southern California.

Sooners Favor Slight Change In Constitution

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—Representatives Jack Nichols, Eufaula, Okla., and Phil Ferguson, Woodward, Okla., moved today to change the constitution to make less likely such decisions as the supreme court invalidation of the farm act.

They proposed a change of punctuation in the section giving congress the power to levy taxes upon debts and work on the country's defense and general welfare to broaden congressional powers.

"By this change of the punctuation of this section," they said in a statement, "the meaning would be so changed that there would be conferred to the congress additional powers which it does not now possess, that would enable the congress to pass legislation irrespective of state rights where the same was passed either for the common defense or the general welfare of the United States."

The Oklahomaans would have the section punctuated as follows:

"The congress shall have power to levy and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises; and to pay the debts, and to provide for the defense and general welfare of the United States."

This section now is punctuated in this manner: ". . . imports aid excises, to pay the debts and provide for the defense. . ."

Saltzman Beats Baxter in Game

Hap Baxter, one of the 100 shooters in the 14 one-rack tournament now in progress at the Pampa Athletic club, went down before Hates Saltzman last night, 80 to 78. Saltzman, an 80 man, had a handicap of 20 and it was too much for Baxter to overcome.

In the other match played last night, Carl Stewart beat Walt Moss, 100 to 77.

The remaining two games in the first round of play will take place tonight when LeRoy West meets Bill Stark at 8 o'clock and Bill Crowson tangles with Ralph Stine at 8:30 o'clock. Stine is another 100 shooter and will have to spot Crowson 20 points.

Expand Currency, Advises Bankhead

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—Currency expansion was projected by Senator Bankhead (D., Ala.) as a means of boosting farm prices today as President Roosevelt confers with legal, financial and agricultural aides on problems presented by AAA's death.

Bankhead, who assailed the supreme court AAA decision as "astounding," told the senate the administration has "another way" of getting "a fair price" for farmers.

"If it becomes necessary," he said, "the president can protect farm prices by increasing the currency."

"He has the power and I think he should exercise it to issue currency against all the silver owned by the government and against the gold now lying sterile in the treasury."

Before going to the white house meeting, Attorney General Cummings told newsmen "No plan has been accepted yet," adding:

"There have been various suggestions, quite a large number in fact. They are all under discussion and analysis by experts."

Denton Eagles Beat McMurry

ABILENE, Jan. 10. (AP)—The North Texas Teachers college Eagles of Denton staged a three-minute scoring spurt last night that enabled them to defeat the McMurry caeters, 35 to 28.

Turner, Eagle forward, was responsible for the rally. He found the basket three times in as many minutes at the start of the second half. The Eagles held a one-point lead at the half.

Turner was high scorer with 11 points. One point behind him was Arants of McMurry.

PLINT WINS TRIAL

PALESTINE, Jan. 10. (AP)—Sid Ferris Firth, painter female, paid her owners $250 by winning the Texas open championship at the annual Texas field trials at Bethel near here. The lemon and white champion, owned by J. N. Edens, Jr., of Corsicana and Jett Crawford of Malakoff, also won a "leg" on the Sid's Ferris Joe memorial trophy. It was offered by the Texas club in memory of a former champion.

GRONDS SHOW BIG INCREASE IN PAST YEAR

FREE SCORING ADDS TO INTEREST OF GAMES

(This is the seventh of a series written especially for the Associated Press by national sports leaders on results of 1935 and prospects for 1936.)

By MAJOR JOHN L. GRIFFITH, President, National Collegiate Athletic Association.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10. (AP)—Each athletic year is very much like the ones that have gone before. Changes in college athletics are usually of an evolutionary rather than a revolutionary nature.

Yet there are a few outstanding features of athletics as developed in the colleges in 1935 which might be assumed. First the attendance in college athletics are usually of an evolutionary rather than a revolutionary nature.

Some have suggested that more attention be given to college teams were paid by the college or by outside individuals or groups for playing than was true in other years. There is no scientific evidence on which this statement can be affirmed or refuted.

There were at least 30,000 men on the various college varsity squads. Over a million students attend the institutions of high learning and there are several million alumni, most of whom are tremendously interested in college athletics. It may be assumed that some of these 30,000 players were aided contrary to the codes.

The individual colleges, the college conferences and their National Collegiate Athletic association all recognize that some people cheat for high school athletics. These institutions and organizations are doing what they can to discourage these illegitimate practices.

Basketball last season not only held its own in popular favor but in many sections made progress. New rules have tended to speed up the game.

The high point of interest in college track was reached in the National Collegiate Athletic association meet held last June at Berkeley, Calif., and won by the University of Southern California.

The best of the outstanding track performance was turned in by Jesse Owens who, in the Big Ten conference meet held in Ann Arbor, won the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the 440 yard dash, making record performances at each event.

The Olympic track games committee under the direction of William Bingham of Harvard university has been making plans for the Olympic games this summer in Berlin.

Indications are that the United States track and field team will be well qualified to defend championship honors won by the 1932 team in Los Angeles.

We may look back upon the year 1935 in college athletics as a year which showed some improvement over the year before and as a year which presages an even better year in 1936.

Stanford Grid Star Charged With Insanity

SAN JOSE, Calif., Jan. 10. (AP)—Dale Beedle, Stanford university football tackle who helped his team to victory in the Rose bowl New Year's day, is in Agnew state hospital today.

An insanity warrant was issued after the strapping 198-pounder from Miami, Ariz., was removed from a north-bound train here yesterday.

Trainers said he threw bottles and dishes on the floor and raced through the cars, awakening passengers.

Beedle's condition was due to overwork and acute worry, said Dr. E. C. Mullins, hospital superintendent. In 1934 he was in the Agnew and Arizona state hospitals.

Stanford officials said they believed Beedle's condition could not be attributed to a football injury.

Beedle was captain of the 1933 freshman team and his grades were slightly above average.

Four Die in Sing Sing Death Chair

OSISING, N. Y., Jan. 10. (AP)—Just minutes were required to put to death in the electric chair four young slayers of a New York policeman—grim aftermath to a career into which they were led by a middle-aged "Pagan."

Newman Raymond Jr., 21, son of Mayor Newman Raymond Sr., Alexandria, Va. contractor and former evangelist, was the first of the four to die.

While the elder Raymond, who in 1913 was an independent candidate for mayor of New York, stood in the prison yard, emotionally exhausted and mute from grief, the "son" walked slowly to the chair. The father's request to accompany him was denied.

At five-minute intervals, the state then executed the extreme penance of Amerigo Angellini, 30, Thomas Gibbide, 30, and Ray Orley, 21.

It was the first time in 15 years that four men had been electrocuted at Sing Sing in one night.

BODYGUARD KILLED LONG?

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 10. (AP)—Dr. C. A. Weiss, father of the asserted killer of Senator Huey P. Long, has declared the shooting was the result of a "personal difficulty."

Dr. Weiss did not explain what the "personal difficulty" was but added that in "all probability" Long was shot by one of his own bodyguards and not by young Weiss.

ALLISON HEADS NET RANKINGS SECOND TIME

DONALD BUDGE ADVANCED TO SECOND PLACE

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. (AP)—Wilmer Allison, despite his recent defeat by Arthur Hendrix, young Florida player, again led as a candidate for the United States Davis Cup team today after topping the national tennis rankings for the second year.

The rankings, marked by a wholesale revision of the "first ten," also placed Donald Budge of Oakland, Calif., and Bryan M. (Bobby) Grant of Atlanta in the forefront of cup team prospects.

Budge, ranked ninth last year, his first time in the big ten, was advanced to second place—and Grant was moved from tenth to third. The 31-year-old Allison, conqueror of England's Fred Perry in the national championships, has been a "first ten" player for eight successive years.

The others in the first ten: Frank X. Shields, Sidney Wood, and Gregory S. Mangin, New York; Frank Parker, Milwaukee; J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J.; Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C.; and Berkeley Bell, New York.

Bell, who turned professional after the outdoor season closed, makes his debut as a paid player here Saturday.

Shields and Wood, who is in an Iowa hospital after an emergency appendicitis operation, also are considered likely candidates for Davis Cup berths, as is the youthful Parker.

Allison and John Van Ryn, the No. 1 doubles team, probably will get the call for the international competition. Hines and Henry M. Culley of Santa Barbara, Calif., ranked third, may be added to the squad as a reserve team. Budge and Gene Mako of Los Angeles were rated the No. 2 doubles combination.

The rankings, which will not become official until the formality of approval is completed by the annual United States Lawn Tennis association at Philadelphia next month, list Helen Hull Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., as No. 1 woman player for the fourth successive year.

Her only rival for the place, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, was unranked because of insufficient data. She played only in England last summer, winning the Wimbledon championship.

Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold of Los Angeles, another recent convert to the professional game, was ranked second in the women's division, followed by Mrs. Sarah Paulsen, Berkeley, Calif.; Carolyn Van Ryn, Philadelphia; Gracy Wheeler, Santa Monica, Calif.; Mrs. Mary Greer Harris, Kansas City; Mrs. Fry J. Lammie, Rye, N. Y.; Mrs. Dorothy Andrews, New York; and Carolyn Wolf, Elkhart, Ind.

Top fanlies in other divisions: Intercollegiate singles, Wilbur Hess, Rice; doubles, Paul Newton and Richard Bennett, California; junior singles, Robert Riggs, Los Angeles; doubles, Riggs and Joseph Hunt, Los Angeles; boys' singles, Isador Bella, Philadelphia; doubles, Joseph Fishbach, New York, and William Umstaeter, Milburn, N. J.; girls' singles, Patricia Henry, Los Angeles; doubles, Patricia Cumming, Westfield, N. J., and Hope Knowles, Philadelphia.

Grant Is Out to Repeat Victory

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 10. (AP)—"Bibby" Grant of Atlanta, third ranking tennis player in 1935, set out today to repeat his last year's victory in the Miami Billmore tennis tournament.

Five other seeded players and one dark horse, Weston Painter of Minneapolis, will contend for semi-final berths.

Louis Armstrong Causes Sensation

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. (AP)—Orchestra Leader Louis Armstrong created a sensation in a Broadway night club early today with the announcement:

"We are pleased to play the next number for Lady Ashley and Douglas Fairbanks."

The crowd turned and stared at a couple sitting with Lord and Lady Cavendish, the former Adele Astaire. Fairbanks jumped from the table and bounded out of the club.

But Armstrong had erred. It wasn't Lady Ashley, who London social circles believe soon will wed the actor. It was just another member of the Cavendish party.

Fairbanks arrived Tuesday night from England where Lady Ashley has remained. His divorce from Mary Pickford becomes final today.

Hostess to two bridge clubs this week, Mrs. Russel G. Allen chose bridge-luncheons to entertain members and added guests at her home, Club Mayfair was favored today, and London club Tuesday at noon.

Lady Took Cardui During Middle Life

Women who are entering middle life will be interested in the experience of Mrs. Y. E. McDonald, of Pampa, Ark., who writes:

"I cannot say anything but good about Cardui. I think it is a grand medicine. I took Cardui during change of life. I was so weak, nervous, I could hardly go. I just dragged around. I had fainting spells and would just give down. My back and head hurt. I knew I had to take something to give me strength. I read of Cardui. I took about seven bottles. It gave me relief and strength. I am now 60 years past, and can do a pretty good day's work in the house and garden."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. (Adv.)

MEN ARE SPEAKERS, LEADER, AND MUSICIANS AT EVENING HORACE MANN P-TA PROGRAM

Garments to Clothe Pupils Asked at The School Leads Program

Men presented the entire program at an evening meeting of Horace Mann Parent-Teacher association yesterday. Eugene Mann, teacher in the school, was in charge. Panel talks and music were featured.

Supt. R. B. Fisher led the opening sing-song in which the audience participated, and the Rev. L. Burney Shell gave the invocation. A trombone solo by Lloyd Harner was accompanied by Mr. Mann.

Four speakers discussed the program topic, Teamwork Between Home and School. Judge C. E. Cary, in the opening address, spoke of citizenship and pointed out that Americans expect too much of their school system; that home and church must keep pace with the school to train the well-rounded child.

Dr. C. D. Hunter traced the physical development of the child from birth to adolescence in his talk, stressing the cardinal requirements of food, exercise, and rest to make strong bodies.

Mr. Shell, speaking of spiritual development, said, "Religion is life, not something to be put on and off on Sundays."

Mr. Fisher concluded the talks with a discussion of education. The educational system of a nation is what the people make it, he said. The American system is recognized as the best in the world today, as it emphasizes the need of wider contacts for the child who is influenced by his every contact.

A brief business session in charge of Mrs. A. L. Burge preceded the program. Donations of usable clothing were asked, to be sent to the school for distribution to children who need garments for school wear.

Eugene Mann, faculty member at Horace Mann school, was in charge of the program at an evening meeting of the Parent-Teacher association there yesterday.

A delicious lunch served buffet style was enjoyed at the close of the games by Messrs. and Mrs. J. C. Jarvis, E. M. Stafford, D. Bower Johnson, Tomlin; Mrs. Joe Carroll and L. R. Jones.

Children's Hour In Afternoon Is Revival Feature

"Getting into heaven is not an elevator process," evangelist George Davis told his audience last night at the First Christian church where he and Howard House, pianist and artist, are assisting the local minister, John S. Mullen, in a revival meeting. "Getting into heaven is a ladder process. You must climb, for if you have been baptized half a dozen times, if you are a backslider you are in the same position as the man outside who has rejected Christ and you are going to the same place."

"I don't care who you are or how much money you may have, if you have rejected Christ you are headed for hell."

A large number of children are taking the course of Bible drills under the direction of Mr. House. This course, free to all children, meets every afternoon at 4 o'clock for study. The course includes Bible stories, crayon pictures, Junior choruses and object lessons illustrated with magic. A public program is planned for some night soon when the children will give a demonstration covering their study of the Bible.

Four large delegations were present last night contesting for the picture "In the Garden" which Mr. House painted on Wednesday night. Two of the delegations were so large and so nearly equal that the artist offered to make an extra picture so they might each have one.

"Tonight the sermon subject will be 'Little Shams,' Mr. House will illustrate the song, 'The Lower Lights be Burning' while it is sung by a male quartet."

Husband Would Be Luxury, Says Mary McCormick

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 10. (AP)—A husband, even though he qualifies as "the world's greatest lover," is a luxury no singer can afford, asserted Prima Donna Mary McCormick today.

But another fiver in matrimony wouldn't be impossible, the former wife of Prince Serge Mdivani admitted while awaiting an opera appearance here, "if there were a nice eligible man around."

"I am a lazy trifling thing. I'd like to be taken care of and made to do as much as I should."

"An American husband? Miss McCormick was asked.

"Now you know as well as I do that there are just as many bad American husbands as foreign ones."

"The American opera singer, who once analyzed her marriage to the sinner of the 'marrying Mdivanis' as a 'noble experiment that didn't work out,' was emphatic in declaring she wouldn't choose an oriental husband again.

"The Mdivanis are Asiatic," she said, "No amount of western civilization can change their oriental ideas of keeping women in seclusion and subjection."

FDR Extends His Power to Shift Gold in Dollar

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—President Roosevelt today extended for another year his power to shift the dollar's gold content within a 10 per cent bracket and continued in effect the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund.

Exercising by proclamation a power granted in the gold reserve act, Mr. Roosevelt said the "emergency" prompting that measure's approval in 1934 "has not been terminated by international monetary agreement or otherwise" but, on the contrary, continues and has been intensified in divers respects by unsettled conditions in international commerce and finance and in foreign exchange.

The present dollar is 50.06 of the pre-revaluation gold content. Mr. Roosevelt's action today continued for another year his power to lower that content to 50 per cent of the old level or increase it to 60 per cent.

Both this power and the stabilization fund would have expired if the president had not acted.

The president would not reply to questions about the prospect of international monetary stabilization.

WALLACE

ment program was found among delegates from widely scattered areas.

"The time has come for those who believe that the balanced welfare of agriculture is essential to the general welfare to speak plainly about obstructionists. I am sure that most business men and consumers are friendly to the farmer, but there are certain small but powerful cliques which have steadily fought all efforts on the part of this government and preceding governments to extend even a modest aid to agriculture.

Challenge Urged

"Whenever the obstructionists to the future welfare of agriculture and the nation may be found, no matter how openly or how obscurely they may burrow in the service of special interests and outworn principles, they ought to be challenged.

"This seems a suitable occasion to throw the spotlight of challenge upon them in the name of agricultural welfare and the general welfare. These obstructionists will be found in all parties from the extreme left to the extreme right.

"I would like to speak for business men generally. Of the hundreds of encouraging telegrams that have come to us this week, an astonishingly high proportion are from country bankers, merchants and other independent business men. It is up to all who are constructively minded to push forward in the name of agricultural unity for the sake of national unity in the long run.

The secretary warned of a 16,000,000 bale cotton crop this year.

With favorable weather and no acreage control, Wallace said, it is quite possible that we may have this year a 16,000,000 bale cotton crop or even larger. Similarly as to corn, it is conceivable that without acreage control there will be planted 110,000,000 acres which, if we have a favorable crop year, would give us fully 500,000,000 bushels in excess of the demand by the present livestock population and possible mill takings."

WHEAT IS HIGHER

CHICAGO, Jan. 10. (AP)—Late upturns of wheat today resulted in an all-time rise to well above yesterday's closing level.

Offerings became scarce toward the end of the day's dealings. House passage of the bonus bill at Washington appeared to have the effect of making sellers of wheat futures cautious.

Wheat closed firm, 1/4-1/2 above yesterday's finish. May 101 1/4, corn 1/2 off to 3/4 up. May 60 1/4, oats unchanged to 1/4 higher, and provisions unchanged to 18 cents advance.

COTTON FUTURES

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. (AP)—Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 8 to 27 points.

6 Justices Are Guests of FDR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—Six of the nine supreme court justices who pass upon new deal legislation moved last night in the social atmosphere of the White House to receive a smile and handshake from President Roosevelt.

The 6 to 3 attendance at the annual judicial reception was not split the same way as the decision which wiped out AAA.

All the justices were there except Brandeis, who almost never goes out nights, and who voted to uphold AAA, and Justice McReynolds and Butler, two of the six who voted against the farm measure. Both were reported to have minor illnesses.

The white-shocked, sage-visaged Justice Cardozo said: "This is late hours for me (then 9:30) but as between pleasure and duty—I chose pleasure."

The tall-coated justices were a center of attention as President and Mrs. Roosevelt took their places in the blue room. The honor guests were received in order of precedence, with Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes first.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10. (AP)—John Gilbert, last of the silent screen's "great lovers," left a fortune estimated at nearly $1,000,000 when he died.

A heart attack yesterday ended the career of the 38-year old actor, who climbed from extra ranks to stardom on the screen, then faded into retirement because his voice was too high-pitched for the "talkies."

A large share of the fortune his fame reaped was swept away in the stock market debacle of 1929, but in August of that year he signed a three-year contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer which reportedly paid him $500,000 annually.

The estimate of Gilbert's estate was made by his attorney, Judge Peyton H. Moore, who said: "He could have lived to a ripe old age in luxury on the income of his investments."

"His fortune included extensive real property, annuities and securities. Income from these provided for his current expenditures."

Judge Moore declined to say whether Gilbert left a will, and how his estate would be distributed, pending the funeral.

Private services will be conducted Saturday morning in a Beverly Hills mortuary chapel, with only relatives and close friends attending by invitation. The Rev. Neal Dodd of the Church of the Angels will officiate.

Town Hall Blows Up and Kills 4

PENDELTON, Ind., Jan. 10. (AP)—The fourth victim of a terrific gas explosion was dug from the fire-scorched wreckage of the Pendleton town hall by salvage workers early today.

The body was that of Irvin Taylor, Pendleton tool-maker, who dropped his glasses in an abandoned cistern under the building last night and asked Town Marshal Garland Brookbank to help look for them. When the marshal lit a match, accumulated gas let loose with a blast that wrecked the two-story hall.

The explosion injured five members of the newly-elected town board holding its first meeting, and buried the town's fire equipment. Flames raged unchecked until firemen arrived from Anderson, eight miles away. Thirteen persons were known to have been injured.

Four known dead, the only other body identified was that of Frank Wapenik, 24, of East Chicago, Ind., trusty at the nearby state reformatory. Two other blackened bodies pulled from the debris were believed those of transients allowed the shelter of the basement on cold nights.

Miss Junnie Balson of LeFors underwent an appendectomy at Pampa-Jerratt hospital last night. Her condition this morning was favorable.

UTILITY HEARING HELD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—The Texas Utilities company began presentation to the securities commission today of financial records in support of its request for permission to buy capital assets of the New Mexico Utilities company. M., should have an opportunity to vote on the proposed transfer since their utility plants were sold to the New Mexico concern. He was granted permission to have New Mexico attorneys prepare a brief.

MYSTERIOUS 'FAULKNER' ASSERTS HAUPTMANN'S INNOCENCE

STRANGE NOTE IS MAILED TO GOV. HOFFMAN

'WATCH JAFSIE,' SAYS WRITER TO JERSEY EXECUTIVE

BY SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN
(Copyright, 1936, by The Associated Press)
TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 10.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's insistence he has nothing new to tell decreased today his chances of escaping the electric chair.

Gov. Harold G. Hoffman said it was "extremely" doubtful the court of pardons tomorrow would make the unprecedented move of sitting at the prison and hearing the plea of the man condemned to die a week from tonight for the kidnap-killing of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

Previously the governor had said the court was disposed to meet at the prison instead of the state-house only if Hauptmann had a last minute statement to make.

Hauptmann in his written request to appear, delivered to the governor a few days ago, limited it to an offer "to answer all questions."

"I doubt Hauptmann will be asked to appear," Hoffman said. "I don't think it is the intention of the court to call any witnesses."

Hauptmann, in questioning by Col. Mark O. Kimberling, prison warden, has refused to change the story he told at Flemington—that he received the Lindbergh ransom money from Isidor Fisch, his partner who died in Germany.

Story Unchanged
It was reported today that Hoffman went to the state prison death house secretly in October on assurances that Hauptmann would "talk" only to him. Hauptmann talked, but his story—it was said—was unchanged.

Asked today whether the story were true, and told that it had been attributed to him, the governor replied: "I won't affirm it or deny it."

His preparations for the pardons court hearing tomorrow included the assembling of many of the trial exhibits for inspection. Five of the court's eight members, who as members of the court of errors and appeals affirmed Hauptmann's guilt, already have studied most of them.

Hoffman will deliver to the court a letter affirming Hauptmann's innocence, signed "J. J. Faulkner," a name that has long been one of the mysteries of the four-year old Lindbergh kidnap-murder case.

The name was signed to a deposit slip in 1933 when $2,980 of the ransom money was put in a New York bank.

The governor said the signatures on letter and slip were "similar." He awaited a full report from an unidentified New York handwriting expert to whom he submitted the letter.

"I don't know what significance, if any, there is to the letter," Hoffman said. "It didn't sound like a crackpot letter."

"As the zero hour in the Hauptmann case draws near," the letter read, "I feel impelled to direct these few lines to your excellency in order to dispell the pre-conceived idea of the guilt of Hauptmann or rather to sustain and affirm you in your own and rightly-so formed idea of his innocence."

"All the poor bum is guilty of is his money-madness, which made him risk a thousand dollars or so of his own good money in the belief and greedy notion that he could get independently rich and by hiding this cheaply acquired hoard he brought himself into all this trouble, nearly causing him to lose his life, which I hope will now be spared."

Purchased Money
The implication was that Hauptmann had purchased some of the $20,000 ransom bills as "hot money."

The letter said the writer could not go into further details "for personal reasons."

"As far as (Dr. John H.) Condon is concerned," it said, "you would be well advised to take his assertions with a grain of salt. He has reasons."

Ellis H. Parker, chief of detectives of Burlington county who has expressed the belief that Hauptmann is innocent, said the author of the deposit slip and the author of the ransom notes used different methods of penmanship.

Parker added that he had not accepted an opportunity to question Faulkner because he did not regard the man as "important." His identity had been established, Parker added, although other authorities said they had been unable to trace him.

An advertising copy writer named Jerome K. Faulkner jumped to death from an eighth story window of the Chrysler building, New York, shortly after Hauptmann was arrested in September, 1934.

Notes he left described his poor health. Agents of the department of justice said there was nothing to connect him with deposits of ransom money.

Parker, the lone official to publicly announce that he was convinced of the condemned man's innocence, said he would not appear before the pardons court.

Seven Men Held In 1934 Holdup

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. (AP)—Seven men, suspects as members of the gang which held up an armored car and stole $27,000 outside the Fubel Ice corporation plant in Brooklyn, in August, 1934, were arrested today. Representatives of the company, victims of what is believed the largest cash robbery ever attempted, and operators of the armored car from which the money was taken, were summoned to police headquarters.

The police refused to disclose the names of six of the men in custody. The men were believed also to be implicated in bank robberies throughout the metropolitan area.

John Polley, small son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Polley, is recovering in Pampa-Jarratt hospital from an attack of intestinal influenza.

CHARGE MORGAN FORCED WILSON TO AID LOANS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—An angry dispute as to whether Morgan pressure forced Woodrow Wilson to let down the bars to the flotation of huge allied loans in America reverberated today as the senate munitions committee called J. P. Morgan to the stand once more.

Hot words ended yesterday's session as a committee member accused Morgan of applying "leverage" and the big banker, flushing indignantly, shouted "fallacy."

Today the committee was ready with a new stack of documents in its effort to show, in the face of banker denials, that financial ties with the alien banks, a major part in drawing the United States into the world war.

Committee investigators sought yesterday to link 1915 activities in the foreign exchange market with a swift change in the Wilson administration's neutrality policy. At first the administration frowned on American loans to the belligerent, Secretary of State Bryan, who later resigned, held they endangered neutrality.

Evidence was introduced to show the Morgan firm, fiscal agency for Great Britain, withdrew support of the British pound. It sagged from $4.77 to $4.56, with consequent complications for the booming business between American industry and the allies.

At this point, investigators produced a Morgan cable sent to his London associates. It said "We have today sent word to the secretary of treasury (William Gibbs McAdoo) that we regard the exchange situation as very serious from the point of view of our commerce, in order that the administration may be fully informed."

The Golden Text is: "In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world" (John 16:33).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer. . . be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life" (Revelation 2:10).

The lesson-sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Sorrow has its reward. It never leaves us where it found us. The furnace separates the gold from the dross; that the precious metal may be given with the image of God" (page 66).

Men in Uniform Charmed Mother, Claims Daughter

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10. (AP)—Prosecutors delved today into the circumstances of Ann Cooper Hewitt's sterilization, the basis of a $500,000 damage suit against the 21-year-old heiress' mother, who stated her daughter was easily intimidated by men in uniform.

"Mother felt that way about men in uniform," the girl retored, "and naturally she expected me to."

Puzzled authorities in the district attorney's office called a conference to determine if there were grounds for criminal prosecution in the operation, for which the girl brought a $500,000 damage suit against her mother and three doctors.

"Startling evidence" in the bizarre suit was promised in quotations attributed to Elizabeth C. Kells, former nurse for the heiress, who claims she was duped into the operation so her mother, Mrs. Maryon Hewitt McCarty, eventually would get her fortune.

In an affidavit filed yesterday in Hackensack, N. J., Mrs. McCarty said her daughter nearly ran away with a chauffeur four years ago.

Jimmie Pearson of Lincoln, Ark., former Pampa resident, is a visitor here for a few days.

ON CHARACTER EDUCATION

It is sometimes mistakenly assumed that character education is something limited to religious training, and that public schools need give little attention to anything except extolling of the advantages of common honesty.

Character and religion are closely connected, but certainly not synonymous, insofar as outward manifestations are concerned. True Christianity points the way to the ultimate in character, but promotion of character growth depend much upon habits formed in every-day living. In this the schools can make a monumental contribution.

Parents would do well to give more attention to character growth and somewhat less to grades, except to the extent that grades indicate character. A "report of progress" devised for Brownfield schools, for example, gives parents the answers to these questions about each child: Is he dependable? Does he use time to good advantage? Does he work and play well in a group? Does he respect law and order? Does he give and take suggestions in a courteous manner? Does he keep to the point in discussions?

It is easy to imagine the surprise and indignation of some short-sighted parents who are told that their offspring is discourteous and unsocial. Yet it is entirely possible for parents to be unconscious of the trends developing in their children.

Similarly, posture, cleanliness, and rest are health factors which can affect character development.

Education cannot overlook character training, health, and the sum of all of a pupil's experiences. Pampa schools are built around these principles, although fundamentals of mental training are not neglected.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—There are several possible denouements on the especially tense European crisis—and don't let anyone tell you your guess isn't practically as good as the next fellow's.

One outstanding possibility which has become much likelier in the last month, however, is collapse of the League of Nations.

Although it did appear for a while that the league had been greatly strengthened by its unexpectedly firm attitude toward the aggressor Italy—an appearance to which Britain contributed much substance—there is now a distinct chance that the western European powers may agree to ditch the league and form an old-fashioned imperialistic alliance.

The object, sought earnestly in certain European capitals, would be a four-power pact entered into by England, France, Germany, and Italy.

Objective of this pact would be preservation of the status quo—and of peace—for England and France and simultaneous realization of the grim German and Italian ambitions for expansion.

Soviet Russia and Ethiopia would be the goats.

Terms of the ill-fated Hoare-Laval peace plan demonstrated that neither the British nor the French government is afflicted with sentimental regard for the league and its principles or its assurances of protection for small nations.

If the plan had been adopted, the league would have been as good as dead. Subsequent halt of the sanctions program has increased the fear here that the league may soon die on the vine anyway.

England and France will avoid if they possibly can the general European war which so many observers regard as inevitable. That's why most of their statesmen are willing to give Italy what she wants in Africa and why, despite the outburst of indignation which sank the Hoare-Laval plan, they may do just that in one way or another unless the Ethiopians fight the Italians to a standstill.

But Hitlerized Germany is the big problem of Europe, a menace which has constantly frightened England and France as they sought to deal with Italy.

(The big British navy would have a tough time fighting in the North Sea and the Mediterranean simultaneously in case Germany and Italy were to fight as allies—to say nothing of trying to protect England's Far Eastern position against an aggressive Japan.)

There are powerful elements in both England and France which hold that destruction of the Soviet government would be a fine thing for the world.

An alternative plan calls for an "iron ring" around Germany, which would require appeasement of Mussolini and co-operation from Italy. (The appeasement presumably would cover a benevolent Anglo-French attitude toward Italian designs on Austria.) That alternative may yet be chosen.

BARBS

Cagney is off the movie payroll, unless he can choose his own stories. For a change of pace he might try the lead in "He Who Gets Slapped."

Hawaiians say their goddess, Pele, appears as an old hag or a beautiful girl. Depending, of course, whether it is early morning or afternoon.

Human beings first used edged rocks as cutting instruments 100,000 years ago, which shows how all but women who sharpen pencils with razors have progressed.

Now that a home loan racket has been uncovered in New York, how does one go about reporting a situation in which a wife says she gave you $5, not $1?

War activity is centering about Quorum, which was our first intimation Ethiopian commanders had mustered one at the front.

It seems silly to kidnap one's self for publicity, but what else can an actor do who has no theory to advance in the Todd case?

Could the naming of that New York City bridge as "Triborough" be subtle propaganda for the Idaho senator?

CAPITOL CHATTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Jan. 7. (AP)—The dispute over the control of liquor is expected to be renewed in the legislature when amendments are offered to remove inequitable provisions in the law passed at the second special session.

If current indications are accurate the prospective third special session likely will see a determined drive for numerous changes in the law.

Criticism has been directed in many sections, especially the medicinal permit provision of the statute. In Dallas, for instance, as a result of the local option election dealers in the city proper must pay an annual license of $500 and are subject to numerous restrictions as to hours of sale, etc. Across the Trinity river in Oak Cliff, liquor may be sold under a $50 medicinal liquor permit with few restrictions.

This particular inequity may be remedied when enforcements get into full swing but it admittedly will require numerous inspectors to check violations under medicinal permits.

Reports also were trickling into Austin that the inhibition against sale by drinks, containing more than 14 per cent alcohol by weight was being generally violated in some sections, especially the heavily wet areas. It is thought the state will have much trouble ferreting out this type of infraction.

Municipalities also were reportedly dissatisfied with the section barring cities and counties from collecting from dealers a tax equal to one-half the state license fee. A test case may be brought under a Dallas city ordinance authorizing the tax collector to assess such a levy, enacted on the theory that the constitution gives municipalities that right and it cannot be abridged by the legislature.

Both sides to the liquor controversy are looking to the general election next November when the voters will decide the question of a state monopoly over liquor sales. There seems little doubt that amendments proposed in the special session will be moulded with an eye toward that election.

If the wet bloc is successful in turning aside the monopoly movement there will be an immediate movement for repeal of the current law and enactment of a statute that would permit sale by the drink.

JAP ADMIRAL SAYS PARLEY IS ON ROCKS

NAVAL CONFERENCE TO COLLAPSE SOON, HE PREDICTS

By LLOYD LEHREAS
(Copyright, 1936, by The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Authoritative Japanese sources said today Admiral Osami Nagano, chief Tokyo delegate to the international naval conference, was convinced the die was cast against the Japanese and predicted the parley soon would collapse.

The Japanese said they understood the delegations of the other great sea powers—virtually had reached a decision to vote Monday on Tokyo's demand for fleet equality with no doubt as to the result.

Immediately after reporting this action to Tokyo, authoritative sources said the Japanese delegation expects to receive instructions to withdraw formally from the conference at the following session, probably Wednesday or Thursday.

With the judgment day for future naval limitations postponed until Monday, all delegations engaged in reinvestigated deliberations and bilateral discussions, charting their courses to meet the crisis.

After Anthony Eden's futile attempt to conclude the Japanese last night, the hitherto comparatively calm conference, called to find a substitute for the expiring Washington and London limitations treaties, generated intense activity.

The British arranged for separate conversations throughout the day with the Americans, French and Italians.

Japanese representatives reiterated their demands for equality in total fleet tonnage—instead of the old ratio system, giving a basis for 3 for Japan to 5 for the United States—and in the future agreement to continue naval limitations and avert an unrestricted building race.

The opposition of the other four powers to this demand brought the issue out clearly.

The European and American bilateral conferences were designed to achieve a two-fold purpose:

1. To decide whether it was worthwhile to attempt to placate the Japanese, and if so, to explore conciliation possibilities and agree on compromise proposals.
2. To set the future course, in event of a Japanese walkout, including a study of the advisability of continuing the conference on a four-power basis.

Discussions between Anthony Eden, Britain's new foreign secretary, and Norman H. Davis, head of the American delegation, were understood, however, to have resulted in an Anglo-American understanding that further attempts at conciliation were unlikely to prove worthwhile.

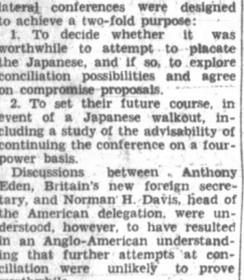

P. O. Boxholders May Get Rebate On Their Keys

Postoffice boxholders who give up their boxes or who lose them for non-payment of rent can surrender their keys and secure a rebate of 20 cents for each key. When the new postoffice was opened, boxholders were allowed up to three keys at 20 cents each.

New keys are available at the same price. If the quota for each box has been purchased and some of them lost, orders will be taken for new keys which will be made.

Keys returned for rebate should be in the hands of postoffice officials within 30 days after the box has been surrendered.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

Chapter 15
DEFEAT

"Stick around and rest up a couple of days." That was useless and Bucky Corrigan knew it. He went on casually—"There's been shooting in the streets in Propionaire."

Willett said nothing.

"If the port is mined—"

"Then I'll get at Dos Rios and cut around 'Propionaire.' Willett spoke with a snap and bite to his words. "Get a gang from one of those villages on the lower Palva and get portered up the river."

Corrigan hesitated.

"I'm not trying to make it hard, son, but those villages are tied up with the fever."

"I don't give a damn how hard it is," said Willett grimly. "I'll get through. Don't worry about that."

And Corrigan abruptly knew that Terry Willett would get through. He had bet his last dollar on the tall redhead.

They rolled up near the small, drab banana steamer. The dock was littered with signs of the recent landing: straw, broad green leaves, burlap, blackened stems, and squashed unripe fruit.

Willett struck out his hand.

"So long, Bucky."

"So long, fella. Maybe we'll be together on a job some place—be swell, wouldn't it?"

"Sure," said Willett. "So long."

Corrigan watched him walk quickly through the fine grey mesh of rain.

Then he leaned back in his seat, stuck his feet against the partition and eyed his enquiring driver with an anti-Spig glare.

"Redmont, Bar, you punk."

Futility! It was expressed in every detail of the camp on the banks of that tropic river—futility, despair, and a malevolent frustration. There was no life—no sound except the humming of insects in that fever-ridden spot.

All was beaten and groveling—hugged in by a fringe of tangled vegetation and matted creepers that looked hollow and unreal—with a cursed muddy river licking the shabby bases of the pontoons that supported a would-be conqueror.

The clearing was scarcely larger than a child's playground—it was but a spot plucked from the jungle and slowly returning to its own-decaying, torpid, and heated in its pathetic civilization like the head of a culture close to the sun.

The main hut that spoke Authority was square and flat-ceilinged with two-by-fours lining the walls; the window was jaggedly screened—insights mocked it as the river mocked the dredger.

A work table was littered with crumpled blueprints and shreds of soap suds with sprawling calculations—two unmade cots with the mosquito netting in jumbled confusion over the disordered sheets—and sickness and madness everywhere.

There was one thing that defied the squalor and defeat of the place—then there was the tall bearded man who slouched wearily over a table. His eyes were very bright, too bright, and the fine straight nose breathed jerkily, thin nostrils dilating like a racing thoroughbred's.

But, withal, a hint of Mayfair club to him; a square appearance of the shoulders, the breeding in his face, the shape of the hand that trembled with pen—perhaps.

He was writing, not darning to lose the chance of what might be a last lucid moment.

"This is left for you should I not be able to last. I know you'll get here and whatever you find—"

The usual last request nonsense—take me back to the States; Cartaret, Virginia, is where I began—I'd like to return there. This undreamed-of sentiment will probably surprise you, but I know you'll respect this last wish—"

For a moment a brief attempt at a smile appeared on his face. As if he cared where he was buried. But it was good enough as an excuse to get Terry out of the country should he by any change have had other ideas.

His eyes returned to his message. The last vestige of humor gone, and he had to rest his head on his free hand as the pen resumed its shaky progress.

—and take it easy for awhile. Don't go rushing off to some Pluto's playground right away or I'll jinx everything you try to build—there are other things in life—give them a chance and they'll find you—

Cheerio, Dad."

His pen dropped from his fingers and rolled across the table. He rested his head in both his hands and tried to focus on the framed picture of a beautiful woman with a wealth of auburn hair and a smiling mouth. He'd smatched the rattle from her baby's hand and given him a whip.

"He's going back, Vic," he murmured. "Back to whatever you'd have wanted, I hope. Almighty God, how I hope so—"

Then Lawrence Willett permitted his head to sink upon one arm, and sighed like a tired child who is quite willing to be put to bed.

Two weeks later a young man boarded the "Atlantica," New York bound, at Dos Rios, the last open coffee port since the guns of the revolution had begun to roar.

He passed by the rail and leaned on an elbow. For a while he watched the scurrying coffee porters down on the dock, then his gaze shifted to the long low range of hills in the background.

Behind them—Propionaire, the Palva, Pluto's playground—his eyes were misty for a moment, but only for a moment.

Something about him, the line of his mouth, the set of his shoulders, the jut of his chin, perhaps—could be named by one word.

Iron!

The bar of the Arundel club was of glass, and silver. It was filled with fish, some of them very queer. There was one called a Trigger Fish because of the alignment of a fin, and this fish could go seventy miles an hour when it wanted to. It never wanted to.

The place had a thick carpet of Pompeian red, a sunken black dance floor, and walls panelled with full length mirrors.

Uptairs men and women in evening clothes played roulette and baccarat from midnight until dawn. The midnight crowd at the Arundel was famous.

There was quite a cluster about Allaire West. She invested all the qualities of a duel in her play, chasing the bank up a tree or losing her shirt and doing either in a graceful, composed way that inspired three cheers. Everybody was surprised when she suddenly got up and asked to be cashed in.

"You're stopping early tonight, Miss West," said Louis.

"I'm tired of it."

"Is everything all right?" he asked anxiously.

"Of course, Louis. I don't seem to enjoy it any more. Seems a waster of time." She smiled. "Something I ate, no doubt."

She went downstairs and joined a small group at the bar, nice-looking blond man who might have passed as a Viking made room for her.

"Are you going to drown your sorrows, or celebrate your luck?" he inquired.

"Neither, Charley. What's the matter with that fish? Doesn't it ever move?"

"All it does is eat," complained Charley.

Allaire tapped on the glass with a slim forefinger in a futile effort to stir the lethargic Trigger Fish. Charley tapped too. So did all the others. They ooped, and the Trigger Fish didn't even budge.

"Heavens!" exclaimed Allaire suddenly. "What fools we are. Getting all excited over a fish."

"I know it," said Charley. "But just think, Allaire, that fish can go seventy miles an hour. They've even reinforced the glass at the ends of the bar in case it should smack into them at full speed. If it ever got going places I imagine it would be hard to stop."

"I imagine it would," agreed Allaire thoughtfully.

"And," continued Charley plaintively, "with all that preparation, what does it do? It lolls around, eating and preening itself. Wouldn't it be a thrill if it should suddenly go—phht?—Justify its existence?"

"There," said Allaire, "you have raised a very pertinent point, Charley. Justification of existence is confined not alone to denizens of the briny deep. Oh, as in the instance, a dozen of an aquarium bar is a plus-ultra gambling jern."

"True," admitted Charley. He shook his head sadly and looked dejectedly at the fragile, long-stemmed cocktail glass in his fingers. "What is a Trigger Fish without ambition? A very woeful thing indeed. Nobody's any good without ambition."

"What's your, 'Charley?' the girl inquired.

"Orange Blossom," said Charley. "Try one."

Chapter 16
SPEED

"They all aren't as nice as you, Charley," Allaire stood with hands on hips and regarded the polished interior of the Arundel speculatively. "We really can't blame the Trigger Fish. Why should it go seventy miles an hour when it's just as satisfied to sleep and eat?"

"Pshaw," said Charley. "I'm no biologist. Or is it biologist? Say, where are you going?"

Allaire turned. She leaned forward and patted him on the shoulder.

"Out," she said mysteriously, "to go seventy miles an hour." Night Charley.

Few saw her take her wrap in the foyer, nod to the doorman, and slip out into the night. Charley couldn't figure her out.

She never got drunk, but when she wanted to blow off steam she pulled the throttle wide open in bursts of sheer headlong speed. She'd been driving like that ever since she came back from South America. Probably angry at somebody or something, although she'd never choose to let you know it.

He gave up. Much easier to deliberate on the whys and wherefores of the Trigger Fish who sat on the bottom of the aquarium like a rock. What an existence for a fish. Charley was convinced it was the stupidest existence he'd ever seen.

Allaire operated independently of the separate establishments maintained by her parents. Her course lay between her father's New York town house, her mother's family home in Washington, and her father's country place in Virginia, with little side excursions and disappearances of her own thrown in for good measure.

And she was driving like hell again. She whipped down to Washington, spent a couple of days there, and then took to the open road again.

It was thirty miles to sunrise when her long blue roadster raced through a quiet Virginia countryside in the hush of early dawn. Already the first faint red glow was touching the hills, and her father's country home was thirty miles up the valley.

A police motorcycle picked up her trail and chased her down a long stretch of open pavement in a duel of roaring motors.

Then the policeman won. He drew up abreast and careened about a curve with the car in a hairbreadth partnership of burning tires and screaming brakes.

"Get over!" he yelled frantically. The girl flinched a hand and brought the car to a stop. Her white pool coat was streaked with dust and her bright hair bound by a purple ribbon was afloating at her temples from the windblast of her terrific speed.

"Hello, Murphy," she greeted lazily. "Well, this is a pleasure. It's been a long time since you arrested me last."

"The officer shoved his goggles up on his brow and stared.

"Well, for the love of Mike! Miss West—"

"It is," said Allaire. "And one of these days Miss West is going to get a car that will make you think you're pedaling a tricycle. See if I don't."

"You got away from me plenty, Murphy said. 'I still can't figure out how I lost you in Middleburg, that time last spring."

"I can't either," she smiled. "I put it down to masculine gallantry. How are you, Murphy?"

"O. K. But listen, you hadn't ought to speed like this, Miss West. You'll crack up some day, so help me."

"I'm trying to get home by sunrise. It's perfectly beautiful then."

"You always go too damn fast," and Murphy.

"That's why I like to drive at night. No traffic."

They lit cigarettes in a gesture of truce between two friendly enemies.

"This ain't night," insisted Murphy. "It's perfectly beautiful then."

"I'm not arguing with you, Murphy. I'm just saying where you've been? This is the first time you've come through here in months, ain't it?"

"I've been in South America," said Allaire.

"Yeah," said Allaire, nodding. "What kind of a place is it?"

"Dangerous," said the girl. "Murphy, I nearly fell in love. Isn't that awful?"

"Oh, yeah?" said Murphy rising belligerently to the defense of the male sex. "Listen, one of these days some guy is going to come along who'll tone down your speed plenty, lady."

Allaire smiled and flicked her cigarette out into the road.

"I'll be on the lookout for a tall dark stranger on a motorcycle," she promised.

That reminded Murphy. He fumbled awkwardly for his book.

"I ought to give you a ticket, Miss West. But listen, take it kind of easy the rest of the way and I'll let you off. Shucks, it's still pretty early."

Few dark eyes rested on him, amused.

"Better give me the black spot, Murphy. Today is my birthday and I'd like to feel I'm getting some place fast."

"Birthday?" said Murphy. He put his book away with obvious relief. "Aw, to hell with it. Go ahead. I'll slap it on you next time."

She waved thanks and the next moment had swept off in a purring crescendo of speed. Thirty miles to sunrise and minutes had flown. But she'd make it!

She did. The sun was just beginning to strike the roof of Westlands when she stepped on the rest of the hill that overlooked her father's estate.

The beautiful old red brick mansion with its white columns and broad portico was graced by lovely lawns and set in a park of great trees with walks bordered by double rows of boxwood extending in all directions.

PHILADELPHIA SELECTED AS MEETING CITY

DEMOCRATS TO HOLD CONVENTION IN QUAKER CITY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—The democratic party was off to a flying start today toward a well stocked campaign chest, by virtue of selecting Philadelphia for its convention city and the recent series of Jackson day dinners.

Complete reports on returns from the 2,000 Jackson day dinners will not be known for several days, but in that breathless hush before the unsoftened light of day, before motors began to roar down the drive and cocktail shakers rang through the house, the place was old Virginia at its loveliest and most courtly. A heritage of tradition hovered about.

Allaire had a strange love for old battlefields, historic houses, and early sun that made her feel like an interloper, a party to vandalism, as she sat in her car and looked down on the changes wrought by modern wealth.

"Yeah," said Allaire, nodding. "What kind of a place is it?"

the party treasury held a cool $200,000 in cash from the Pennsylvania city which won the convention late yesterday after a stiff bidding contest.

The decision of the national committee carries the democratic convention into the heart of the industrial east, home grounds of many of the business men who oppose the new deal.

In some quarters the selection was interpreted as a move indicating an aggressive democratic campaign for the electoral votes of the thickly populated eastern states. It will be the first democratic convention ever held in Philadelphia.

But Chairman Farley has discounted the political importance of the convention site. It was apparent that in selecting Philadelphia, the committee was moved as much, if not more, by financial considerations than others.

Chicago had been reported in the lead for the convention when the national committee met. But the Illinois city offered only $50,000. San Francisco bid $20,000 but did not put up the money.

Philadelphia's republican mayor, S. Davis Wilson, offered $200,000 in cash, plus a free convention hall, and a number of other concessions. He estimated the total value of the bid at $250,000 to $300,000.

The convention will meet June 22, two weeks after the republican convention in Cleveland. This is the usual time for both gatherings. For many years the republicans have been meeting first.
