AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

By HENRY McLEMORE

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandmants, the Golden Rule and corps than the Italian Tombalori. the Declaration of Independence.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK-The public often goes into a swivet; even critics sometimes go into a swivet. But it isn't often that the realistic, practical men who make up the show business of Broadway go into one. The present cause swiveting such sagactous and not easily ignited men as David Merrick. Adolph Green and Garson Kanin, not to mention Jule Styne and some cold-eyed authors, is a young woman whom I have known for five years and who currently is walking about town under a crimson hair-do so nearly like a balloon that Joseph Michel and Jacques Etienne Montgolfier, Gallic and fraternal inventors of the balloon, must be whirring in their celebrated graves, The immediate cause of all this date fixed for it. She learned singing, learned poise, learned acting, got singing jobs in small night clubs, used her excellent notices to move on to better clubs and recently has closed an engagement at the Living Room in New York, where all of the gentlemen named above came to see and hear her. Having done so, they began thinking in terms of putting her demonstrated talents to work in a musical for next season. We lunched in Sardi's earlier this week and Meg Myles is facing the professional future with considerable nore happiness.

"If I had any talent. If I did have any, I had to find out how best to use it. It didn't seem to me that motion pictures, as they impinged on me, were a realistic way to find out. I had a figure, a face not exactly calculated to sink the Queen Mary and some people thought I could sing. I'd saved some money and I spent it on improving the figure, driving a sense of poise and confidence into myself, learning to sing instead of just warble and compelling myself to keep my right leg from tremb-shakes show. "The first club jobs were shattering. Noisy audiences, less than glamorous premises. But they got better as I got better. The Living Room engagement of three weeks was wonderful because the kind of men I told you about came around reasonably often to study me and hear me. These aren't the kind of men who tell you everything is set and you have a big job. They ask to meet you and are as impersonal as statues. They talk - but never mention working for them. They are the highest type of producer and creator-not the showoffs. Not one has yet definitely offered me a definite show for this coming, fall, but they have told others of their interest. That's the way it should be."

Even though not having a definite show in her clasp, did she feel better about living in New York than in Hollywood?

more stimulating and demanding here. If you make it here, you have it made. You become part of-so to speak. In pictures you make a picture and may never make another, you become typed, you become part of a baffling system. Broadway isn't 'personally 'interested ever - it asks only that if you get a chance you make it the biggest chance you 'ever had. I like that. It is strict in its professionalism. You put your talents on the line every time and the rules are harsh. Be good - or else. That's the best kind of discipline and the sanest kind of ground rules. For the first time in my life I feel confident, I feel it WILL happen. (Distributed by McNaught Syndi-
