Tunisian Forces Open Campaign To Oust French

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI) — Thousands of Tunisian police, troops and volunteers today sealed off France's big Bizerte naval base in a campaign to drive out the French. France retaliated by rushing in paratroop reinforcements.

The semi-official Tunisian news agency reported that Tunisian forces arrested 35 French soldiers riding around the base because they violated a Tunisian government ban on movements of troops occupying the installation. The reports said the troops later were released and returned to the base.

Reports from the Bizerte area said more than 10,000 young Tunisians were surrounding the base by midday. At the same time officials announced Tunisian forces have orders to shoot at any French military plane flying in "Tunisian airspace."

Tunisian forces, aided by civilian volunteers, threw up roadblocks on all highways leading to the base to back up President Habib Bourguiba demands that France withdraw.

Shortly afterward in Paris Information Minister Louis Terrenoire announced the dispatch of paratroop reinforcements to Bizerte following a meeting of President Charles de Gaulle's cabinet.

"I confirm simply that paratrooper elements destined to complete those now at the disposal of the base have been or are being sent down there," Terrenoire said.

Bourguiba is trying to force France to at least agree to pull out of the Bizerte base, which has about 5,000 to 6,000 men. On Monday, he gave France until today to make up its mind. But France replied it would not negotiate under threats.

There were reports that volunteers had left the Tunisian frontier to plant the Tunisian flag on Sahara Desert territory claimed by France, but this could not be confirmed officially.

Armed Tunisian soldiers stopped all vehicles on the Bizerte access roads for checks of identity papers. It was impossible to leave the city this morning without a pass from the regional governor.

French troops erected barbed wire barricades and set up machine-gun posts around the base. Tunisians have been clamoring for the ouster of the French ever since Tunisia won independence, but Bourguiba refrained from pressing the issue because he hoped for a peaceful solution to the Algerian question.

Informed sources said, however, that Bourguiba became angry at French President Charles de Gaulle's tough approach to the Algerian peace talks and decided to crack down on the French last week.

State's Cowboys To Be Eulogized At Rodeo Dinner

Texas cowboys will be eulogized at the annual banquet of Top O' Texas Rodeo Association directors Thursday night, July 27, in Colorado Inn.

Jake Osborne, association president, said today the pre-rodeo banquet meeting will honor past presidents and past directors of the group.

Principal speaker at the banquet will be Melvin Munn of Pampa, who will have as his topic "The Texas Cowboy."

Certificates of merits will be presented to five past directors of the association including A. L. Mills, R. E. Grey, Fred Thompson, Coy Palmer and Joseph Looper.

Osborne also stated that announcements will be made on the final details of the annual rodeo scheduled for Aug. 7-12 at Recreation Park in Pampa.

Osborne reported that Arvil Johnson, in charge of the Canadian Wagon Train, which will be one of the rodeo features again this year, said today the Wagon Train with some 40 covered wagons and 200 riders will leave Canadian at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 6.

The caravan will camp Sunday night on the Bob Campbell Ranch between Canadian and Miami. On Monday night the train and riders will stop for the night on the John P. Sims farm, 12 miles east of Pampa.

The group is scheduled to arrive in Pampa at 10 a.m. Tuesday and will take part in the rodeo parade in downtown Pampa at 3 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 8.

School Offices Slated To Move From City Hall

The City Commission at its regular weekly meeting yesterday gave City Manager John Kooz authority to request the Pampa Independent School Board to move the school business office from its present basement headquarters in City Hall.

Crowded conditions in the City Hall and the need for more office space was given as the reason for the action.

The city manager said it is planned to move the City Water Department on the first floor to make more room for the City Tax Assessor-Collector's office.

Kooz said other changes in City Hall offices may have to be made later in order to make the best possible use of space in the building.

Thomas V. Lane Rites Tomorrow

Funeral services for Thomas V. Lane, 73, 615 N. Somerville, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the First Baptist Church with Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor and the Rev. M. B. Smith, pastor of the College Street Baptist Church in Big Spring, officiating.

Mr. Lane died at 7:21 a.m. today in Highland General Hospital after an illness of several days.

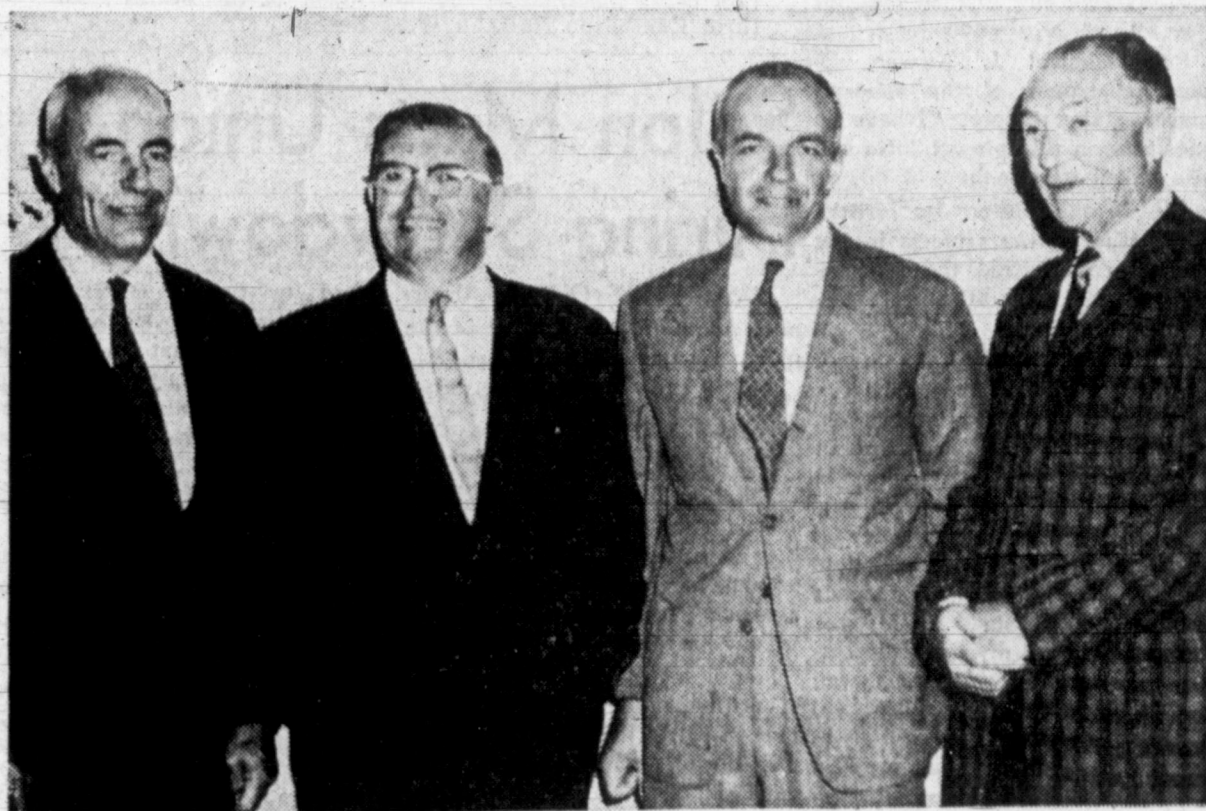

He was born Jan. 9, 1888 in Woodward, Okla., and came to Pampa at the age of six weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Lane. As a young man, he farmed for several years with his father, five miles east of Pampa. Later he was in the grocery business with his father-in-law, C. P. Woodward for 11 years. He was engaged as a bookkeeper for the M. P. Downs Insurance Agency until retirement in 1953.

Mr. Lane was a member of the First Baptist Church and of the IOOF Lodge.

Survivors are his wife, Mary C. of the home, three daughters, Miss Eloise Lane of Pampa; Mrs. A. D. Eastham of Borger, and Mrs. Floyd Guinn of Lubbock; nine grandchildren, two great-grandchildren; two cousins, Mrs. A. A. Tiemann and H. L. Case, both of Pampa.

Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Huenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home with Francis Hukill, M. L. Turner, H. C. Forsman, T. B. Solomon, Joe Brown, Park Brown, W. W. Estes and Lloyd Batson as pallbearers.

The family requests that any memorials be given to the American Cancer Society.

Kennedy To Tell Nation About Berlin Crisis Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy announced today he will make a speech to the American people next Tuesday night on what steps must be taken to build U. S. defenses during the Berlin crisis and in days ahead.

The President said he also would ask Congress next Wednesday for whatever measures the administration decides must be taken to guard against mounting Soviet threats.

Those decisions will be made following a meeting of the National Security Council today and consultation with the NATO allies.

Kennedy made these announcements at a news conference after delivering a sternly worded statement in which he warned the Soviet Union again that it is risking war over Berlin.

"Today there is peace in Berlin, in Germany and in Europe," the President said. "If that peace is destroyed by the unilateral actions of the Soviet Union, its leaders will bear a heavy responsibility before world opinion and history."

The President stressed that the issue of Berlin is "very basic" and the United States intends to "honor our commitments."

He gave this as an indirect answer to a reporter who asked whether he agreed with Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov's reported comment that the American people would not go to war over Berlin.

Kennedy said he did not know if Menshikov really said it, but he did not think it possible that anyone could think that after reading the U. S. note to Russia on Berlin Tuesday and Kennedy's statement today.

Ex-Convict May Go Free Though Guilty Of Causing School Blast

NEW LONDON, Tex. (UPI) — Authorities who will have to prosecute William Estel Benson if he is telling the truth about causing the 1937 New London school disaster say it will be next to impossible to punish him for it.

"It doesn't look like there is a thing in the world we can do," Robert Allen, assistant district attorney, said today.

"You have to have corroboration to prosecute for murder in Texas. And if a witness has not come forth before now, you can bet we are not going to find one after 24 years."

Benson could get before a jury and tell his story and we still could not convict him for killing those (293) children and teachers.

The President said his talk to the nation next week would discuss "what our responsibilities are, what our hazards are, what the situation appears to be, what the consequences could be, what we must do and what our allies must do."

It will deal with "the general problems the United States faces in the security field in the summer of 1961" and go beyond the Berlin situation, he said.

In a serious mood, Kennedy made these other points before a record-high attendance of 427 newsmen.

Because Congress will be in session and dealing with a number of important issues, including foreign aid, he has decided against attending the inter-American economic and social conference in Montevideo, Uruguay, Aug. 5. He will send a delegation headed by Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon.

He hopes the House of Representatives will use procedures open to it to force a vote the aid to education legislation which the House Rules Committee tabled and all but killed Tuesday by a vote of 8 to 7.

His defense message to Congress will reveal whether taxes might have to be raised to support additional defense spending. But he indicated there would be no such request.

He feels the so-called "freedom riders" have a constitutional right to travel in interstate commerce regardless of whether people agree with the purpose of their trips into segregated areas of the South.

He has the fullest confidence in Undersecretary of State Chester have their amendments ready.

The bill is a $360 million substitute for Gov. Price Daniel's revenue-raising recommendations.

Sales taxes would raise $281 million of the bill's potential revenue.

The major sales tax item is a 2 per cent levy on all forms of tangible personal property sold at $5 or more. Food and medicine would be exempt from the levy only if they cost less than $5.

Selective sales taxes include a 2 per cent levy on all motor and power driven objects and construction materials; 2 per cent on consumer utility bills; 2 per cent on automobiles and 3 per cent on restaurant meals costing more than $1.

The bill would also equalize at 2 per cent the gross receipts tax paid by private utility companies, increase driver license fees 50 per cent from $2 to $3 for a private license, expand the present corporate franchise tax, and levy a "severance" tax on natural gas aimed at pipelines.

Daniel had recommended a broad program of 2 per cent selective sales taxes. The substitute embraces his other major recommendations.

Waiting for a tax program is the state's record $2.52 billion budget for the next two years.

The House gave tentative 77-61 approval to its version of the budget Tuesday, but refused to suspend the rules for final passage. Suspension takes a four-fifths vote.

"An attempt by a coalition of conservatives to stage an economy revolt was nipped before it started."

Rep. B. H. Dewey of Bryan, vice chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, rammed through a motion to block amendments to the bill. It carried 70-65.

Young Men Found Dead In Cavern

ORLEANS, Ind. (UPI) — Rescuers today recovered the bodies of two university students from a cave where they were trapped Sunday and a farmer vowed to seal the cavern forever.

The bodies of Ralph Moreland Jr. and Thomas Arnold, both 25, were brought 3,000 feet to the surface from the fatal T-shaped intersection where they drowned on a mapping exploration.

Wallace Shaul, whose farm was the scene of a 55-foot underground search, said "no one will ever go back in that cave again."

The bodies were found at 1 a.m. A six-man rescue team, led by spelologists Arthur Davis, 46, and Robert Armstrong, 26, directed the four-hour recovery.

Armstrong, of Indianapolis, said the men lay "crumpled on the floor of the passageway, apparently right where they drowned."

He said Moreland and Arnold, both veteran cave explorers and classmates at Indiana University, were found several yards into the right arm of the intersection. Rescuers probed only a few feet away in the left arm of the junction Tuesday.

"They were just a little bit this side of the cave's only known high roof area," Armstrong said. "It was about five feet wide, and a little beyond that it went to 25 feet."

"But even if they had made it, it probably wouldn't have done any good," he said. Armstrong scratched by flood debris said Sunday's flooding probably sealed off all air.

Taxation Prime Issue Facing State Solons

AUSTIN (UPI) — By an overwhelming 111-33 vote, the Texas House today killed a substitute tax program designed to raise $360 million without levying a general sales tax or personal income tax.

AUSTIN (UPI) — Taxation—the main reason for the 3-day special session of the Texas Legislature—became the prime issue in the House today.

Speaker James A. Turman said he would lay out the compromise tax bill reported Monday by the House Revenue and Taxation Committee for a showdown fight.

Also ready for final action is a $2.52 billion state budget.

Rep. Charles Ballman of Borger, chairman of the tax committee and sponsor of the compromise bill, urged lawmakers to have their amendments ready.

Wave Of Torture Erupts In Congo

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—United Nations sources reported today that hundreds of tribesmen were fleeing to escape a new wave of murder and torture that has erupted in the Congo's Kasai Province.

U. N. experts said that forces of South Kasai "King" Albert Kalonji were on the rampage against Kanioka tribesmen burning villages and killing rival tribal members.

One unconfirmed report reaching here said "thousands of women and children" had been shot and burned in the course of violence in the Jankioka tribal area, but there was no official confirmation.

In Leopoldville, a U. N. spokesman said three Katanga gendarmes were killed and two wounded in the clash between Indian U. N. troops and Batanga soldiers at Niamba in Katanga Monday.

The Katanga government said that two of its gendarmes were killed and several more wounded, two of them gravely, in the clash.

The U. N. spokesman said there were no U. N. casualties.

New Hop Time Not Announced, May Be Tuesday

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Bad weather at the last moment today forced a second postponement of America's attempt to hurl a second astronaut into space.

The "scrub" meant that astronaut Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom's space hop could not come before Friday and might be delayed until Tuesday. Forecasters said Friday's weather prospects were poor.

A Caribbean weather front had prevented the launching originally scheduled for Tuesday morning. Space officials re-set the hop for today.

When the countdown started at about midnight, the skies were generally clear and starry. Grissom entered his capsule, atop a fuming Redstone rocket at 4:38 a.m. CST and was sealed in at 5:32.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced the "scrub" decision at 8 a.m. No new launch date was announced immediately but the odds appeared to be that it will be re-scheduled for Tuesday.

The early-morning weather was fine. But by 6:30 a.m. clouds which had been drifting in from the sea had blanketed the cape with a 15,000-foot cover. Minimum requirements are for a ceiling of at least 35,000 feet.

At 6:30 a.m., with the countdown only 10½ minutes from shot time, officials ordered it held up.

A postponement after the rocket has been fueled and filled with liquid oxygen automatically puts off a new attempt for 48 hours while the oxygen is drained out and the missile dried.

But bad weather could lengthen the postponement. As today's scrub announcement was made heavy banks of clouds lined the area north and west of the cape. Indications were that a storm probably would move over the area later today. This left scientists with no hope that they could get the rocket off by 1 p.m., the cutoff time for today's shot.

When the postponement decision was made, Grissom had been in his space craft for three hours and 22 minutes. He was freed shortly after the scrub announcement.

Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr. was in his capsule four hours and 14 minutes before his historic rocket hop of May 5.

Grissom was to have taken the same space trail blazed by Shepard. The plans call for him to soar 115 miles into space and 300 miles out to sea.

Bad weather had forced an earlier postponement on Tuesday. Mercury man-in-space officials rescheduled the shot for today on the basis of favorable forecasts.

Minutes before today's shot time the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that "all elements"—Grissom, the rocket, and his spacecraft, Liberty Bell 7—were ready.

Then the weather went bad.

A crowd of newsmen estimated at less than half the number that covered Alan B. Shepard Jr.'s historic flight on May 5 waited anxiously. There were hundreds of sightseers on the beaches.

As time wore on, there was more and more speculation among reporters that they might pay a return visit Friday morning, or possibly next week, if the weather didn't clear up enough to launch soon.

Grissom had entered his spacecraft at 4:38 a.m. and had been sealed in at 5:32 a.m. He had been roused at 12:25 a.m. to make ready for his scheduled 15-minute flight into space.

AIR EXPRESS—Sliding on a thin film of air, vehicles like this "Levacar of the Future" may provide fast intercity and interstate travel in coming decades. The Levacars would use "levapads" instead of wheels, supported on a cushion of air only a fraction of an inch above the rails, and move at speeds of 200 to 500 miles an hour. In the 40-passenger model in drawing above, power for both lift and propulsion would be obtained from two turbojet engines. The design is the result of studies by Ford Motor Co. engineers, who have already built and tested a one-passenger model.

Two Irrigation Projects Voted Rio Grande Area

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two irrigation projects in the Lower Rio Grande Valley sailed through a closed House appropriations subcommittee meeting without a single question being asked about them.

The committee made public the transcript of hearings in May on the Mercedes and La Feria divisions of the Lower Rio Grande rehabilitation project. The Bureau of Reclamation requested $1,851,000 for the Mercedes division and $1.2 million for the La Feria division.

Rep. Michael J. Kirwan, D-Ohio, chairman of the subcommittee, stated simply: "I have no questions on this project." No one else asked any, either.

The bureau placed its written explanation of the projects in the hearing record, and the subcommittee proceeded to other matters.

The bureau justified the outlay for the La Feria division because it would provide a full water supply for 27,541 acres in Cameron County. The bureau has already received $575,000 for this project, and it told the subcommittee it would take $3,963,000 to complete it after 1962 fiscal year funds were provided.

The Mercedes division is located in Hidalgo County. The bureau estimated it will take $10,822,000 to complete irrigation works to fully-water 68,000 acres. It has received $4,344,250 so far. It estimates it will need $4,564,750 to complete the project after the 1962 funds are provided.

As in other such projects, local irrigators will repay the government costs in full.

SILENT GIANTS—Although these two giant bells are silent, they will ring out for the delegates and visitors from both East and West Germany attending the 10th German Evangelical Church Convention. They are part of a collection being installed in the bell tower of the Berlin Funkturn Exhibition Halls in West Berlin.

Solon Maps Union Hiring Showdown

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chairman Adam Clayton Powell of the House Labor Committee yesterday set the stage for a showdown with organized labor on the issue of racial discrimination.

The New York Democrat introduced a bill that would prohibit the Labor Department from approving or sponsoring any apprentice training program in which discrimination is practiced.

Powell has kept up a drumfire of criticism against trade unions that bar or segregate Negro members, and last week said organized labor could expect no legislative help from his committee until the racial bars are dropped.

The Labor Department has for some years helped unions and industries set up programs designed to train apprentices in various crafts. Powell said in a statement today that Negroes and other minority groups are allowed only token enrollment in programs for the building, graphic arts, and service trades and virtually excluded from transportation and metal craft trades.

"This abhorrent condition exists not only in the south, but in the north as well, beginning right here in the nation's capital," he said.

Powell also raised the possibility of a confrontation with President George Meany, of the AFL-CIO. Powell said that Meany, with whom he has had a running feud, would be invited to testify on the apprenticeship bill when it is considered soon by a subcommittee headed by Rep. James Roosevelt, D-Calif.

'Leak' Revealed Quiz Of Pentagon 'Leak'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Washington's diplomatic community is wondering why the Kennedy Administration "leaked" the fact that a recent Defense Department "leak" is under FBI investigation.

The original leak provided a news magazine (Newsweek) with information on suggestions for a partial mobilization which are being considered in the Pentagon to strengthen the U.S. military posture in the Berlin crisis.

Through the second leak the public learned that the Pentagon leak was being investigated by the FBI.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger rejected what he called "the wild theory" that the investigation was leaked to dramatize the Berlin situation to the American people. At the same time Salinger confirmed that an FBI investigation of the Pentagon leak was under way.

Salinger's denial did not answer the question why the FBI investigation was disclosed.

There are few government agencies in Washington that are virtually leak-proof or can act without drawing immediate attention to what they are doing.

The Pentagon is notorious for its leaks—many of them resulting from inter-service rivalry, or from disagreements between Defense and State Department officials.

The original Pentagon leak of the suggestions for a partial mobilization received attention—but there was no way to check on it, or to get an official confirmation. Such confirmation was, however, implicitly provided when the FBI investigation was revealed and finally confirmed.

In the meantime, there was another published report in a New York newspaper that the FBI inquiry had aroused resentment among high Pentagon officials.

Salinger said he had not heard of any such resentment. Said one reporter after the Salinger briefing:

"I haven't heard, either, that the Pentagon guys received the FBI fellows with gifts of flowers and candy."

If the FBI finds the source of the latest Pentagon leak, the culprit is expected to be "exiled" to some obscure military installation.

Informed sources said this is the fate that befell the last leaker.

This man informed a Washington newspaper about a memorandum in which Secretary of State Dean Rusk suggested Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to consider how the nuclear threshold could be raised, in order to avoid local wars touching off world wide nuclear disaster.

Doubt Evident As To Staging Of Jones Show

By FRED DANZIG
NEW YORK (UPI)—That Jones boy, Spike, Always kidding. Opens his new summer show on CBS-TV Monday night singing about how it's coming to us live. Then, as the show ends, the announcer throws in the punch line, "This program was pre-recorded."

Does that make it a live pre-recorded show or a pre-recorded live show?

But that's not the point. There was a larger area of disappointment. By promising more than it was ready to deliver, Spike's half-hour again reminded me how studiously TV's prime time "satire" looks for new ways to travel in old ruts.

Spike Jones has an inventive, satirical mind. The writers for the opener, Mel Tolkin, Don Hinkelley and Sheldon Keller, are regarded as tops in the business. And, with their talents combined, what target do they harpoon: Good old TV, that's what. Now, TV is always fair game and spoofs about it are usually good for a few mild laughs. It's when they start going around in circles that I begin to suspect that the satirists are copping out on the everyday non-TV follies that inhabit our world.

So "The Spike Jones Show" comes along and fails to break out of the vicious circle and stir the juices. If you want meaty satire on TV, you've got to go with the early-morning or late-night shows such as "Today" and "The Jack Paar Show," when the Premier Players or Second City improvisers pay a visit, or comedians in the Peter Ustinov-Jonathan Winters mold are turned loose. Or watch the religious shows Sunday morning. They'll get a rise out of you.

Spike Jones? It's a tidy show. It came in with a promising touch as a penguin paddled on-stage to signify the non-peacock black-and-white status of the program. A take-off on Perry Como's "Sing to me" TV segment was funny. Here, a Como-like silhouette was shown climbing to a stool on a raised platform. He toppled backward, vase over rose petal, before he could sing a note. This blackout was the show's highlight. Two variations on it later on only served to blur the vividness of the first offering.

The Channel Swim: Victor Borge, now in Europe, returns to New York in mid-August to begin rehearsals with Hermione Gingold and pianist Leonid Hambro for his full-hour CBS-TV special. The show airs Wednesday, Sept. 27.

"Hemingway," a chronicle of Ernest Hemingway's career, is scheduled to be NBC-TV's "Du Pont Show of the Week" for Sunday, Oct. 1.

"Berlin: Act of War?" is the title of CBS-TV's one-hour special about the Berlin crisis which is slated for viewing on Friday, Aug. 18.

Big Fish Landed After Hard 13-Hour Battle

By RALPH L. VILLERS
HAMPTON BAYS, N.Y. (UPI)

The boat got a late start from its dock.

Once outside the net the Atlantic was calm and shrouded in fog.

As the boat rode the silvery water, the five men waited and watched until the calm under the sea was broken with a jolt. It was a big fish and it ran.

On the other end of the line Harry Neumann, a muscular young man, braced to fight the big fish. It was 1:30 p.m. on Sunday when the fish went for the hook.

For hours the fishermen from Wagandanch, N.Y., and the big fish gave and took line.

"It was a very strong fish," recalled skipper Fred Muhs. "He just couldn't seem to wear it down."

Three, maybe four times, the fish charged the 36-foot boat. Each time Muhs speeded ahead.

It was a big fish, a swordfish, and it was hooked. And swordfish have been known to ram through a charter boat's planking trying to break free of the line.

It was hot for a couple of hours. And it was hard work for the fisherman.

The late darkness of summer came, but still the fish fought. The fisherman kept a light drag at first. But as the hours passed, little by little he increased the pressure on the drag.

Not once did the young fisherman give up his chair to any of his four companions.

Even when the clock swept in Monday the big fish fought on.

Even after 12 hours of fighting the big fish was not vanquished.

"He could have lost it at any time," said Muhs.

And the fisherman almost did lose his catch at the 13th hour. The fish was all fought out. It was alongside and the fisherman saw it was foul hooked.

"In hitting the bait he got foul hooked in a pectoral fin," said Muhs.

Just as the gaff was driven home, the hook fell out.

But Neumann had his swordfish.

By then it was foggy again, too foggy to head for port with the catch. But there would be no nibbling on this fish. It was pulled aboard.

When light came on the second day, the dolphin and its fishermen and Capt. Muhs cruised toward shore. They had been out a long time since Neumann felt the strike on his line six miles off Long Island's Shinnecock Inlet.

They weighed the swordfish at Muhs' canoe place dock. It scaled 406 pounds. Not a record, but quite a feat, reflected Muhs, and "quite a fish."

After 13 hours of fight, Neumann had convinced the big fish. And younger though he might be, the fisherman might easily have thought, as did the aged Santiago in Hemingway's "Old Man and the Sea": "I am a tired old man. But I have killed this fish."

Creamed honey, nut meats, and a dash of cinnamon make an excellent filling to use in apples to be cored for baking.

Powers Grant Would Give JFK Authority To Deal With Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A declaration of a national emergency by President Kennedy would give him enough authority to take all measures being considered for a short term Berlin crisis, in the opinion of government legal experts.

On his own declaration, the President could call up as many as a million reserves, could sharply increase the draft, and could suspend competitive bidding on defense purchases.

But, if the crisis should be extended, the legal experts think the President would have to go to Congress for more authority as well as for the money to pay for emergency operations.

The administration has been considering in the past two weeks only short-term measures, which if adopted, would strengthen American forces during the next six months.

In one key area—the possible commandeering of commercial planes for troop or supply airlifts—a presidential declaration would not provide any additional authority.

However, the Defense Department has voluntary agreements with the private airlines under which a large number of planes could be chartered immediately on a declaration of emergency by the defense secretary.

A presidential declaration also would fail to provide authority to keep men in service beyond the expiration of their enlistment, draft or reserve obligation terms.

Only a congressional declaration can require service "for the duration." In the case of enlistees, and draftees, the experts believe, legislation would be needed to extend their terms.

Small Executive Staff Declared Best In Industry

NEW YORK (UPI)—The widely held notion that there is a big shortage of executive manpower in the United States is largely poppycock, no matter what the executive recruiters say, believes President John G. Brooks of Siegler Corp.

"American business is often way overstaffed at the top executive level," said Brooks, who runs his $10 million a year diversified enterprises with a top echelon of exactly four men including himself.

"I'm not one of those chaps who keeps a dictating machine in his bedroom and usually I only work eight hours a day. But if I had 40 executives in the main office in Los Angeles instead of four I'm afraid I'd have to work 16 hours a day and wouldn't get half as much done; the other fellows would take up so much of my time."

In companies with too many executives, Brooks said, lots of them become excessively timid—they spend most of their time trying to avoid making mistakes, or offending each other.

Inflated executive staffs kill initiative too, Brooks said. Siegler's division presidents have lots of autonomy and are not bothered by protocol and red tape involving numerous personalities at the top.

"Another reason I believe in small top executive staffs," he said, "is that it seems to me, outside consultant help in many fields—legal, scientific, marketing and public relations, for example—often is far more expert and economical in the long run than keeping people sitting around on the payroll to do these things."

Pampans To Go To Municipal League Session

City Manager John Koontz said today a Pampa delegation will attend a regional meeting of the Texas Municipal League at Hereford next Wednesday night.

Principal business will consist of talks and discussions on various procedures in municipal operations, Koontz said.

Steve Matthews, former Pampa city manager and now executive director of the league, will be one of the principal speakers.

Paving Program Given Approval By Commission

Pampa's City Commission yesterday approved a paving program covering 13 1/2 blocks on ten Pampa streets.

Streets to be included in the program are:

The 900 and 1000 blocks and the east one-half of the 1100 block on W. Decatur, 100 block of E. Allen, 1500-1700 blocks inclusive on N. Faulkner, 1000 block on S. Dwight, 300 block on S. Barnes, 700 block on E. Albert, 400 block on E. Tyng, 600 block on N. Starkweather and the 1200 block of W. Buckler.

Total cost of the paving program scheduled to get under way as soon as bids can be let, will approximate some $75,000 to $80,000.

Phone Firm Awaiting 'Go Ahead' On First Communications Satellite

The Bell System stands ready to foot the bill to launch a communications satellite — and give America another "first" in the space race — if government agencies will give the go-ahead signal, according to George Newberry, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company manager here.

Newberry cited a recent statement by Frederick R. Kappel, American Telephone & Telegraph Company president, who said, "We have been ready to go ahead for a long time, and pay our costs as we go. We don't want the taxpayers' money. The first immediate need is a go-ahead to get experimental communications satellites aloft."

At stake for the American people — because of present indecision in Washington — is the possibility of the U.S. falling behind in the space communications field.

Moscow Flings Charges At U.S.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet press and radio accused the West today of working up a "war hysteria" over the Berlin and Germany questions.

In sharp reaction to the Western notes on Berlin, Moscow radio charged the Western powers with "aiding and abetting the sinister forces which seek to start another war."

The radio warned against "adventures," saying the Soviet Union "has all it needs to defend peace and deal a crushing blow to warmongers."

The Communist party newspaper Pravda echoed the charges. It said the West was using Berlin and the question of a German peace treaty as a reason for "a new rush of military hysteria."

It accused West Germany of trying to provoke a clash between the great powers.

Moscow radio said the West rejected the Soviet proposal for a German peace treaty and for "normalization" of Berlin. It claimed the Allies oppose a peaceful settlement of the questions.

Stating that there is an "unprecedented war hysteria in the United States," the radio said "the enemies of peace are responding to the peaceful Soviet initiative by framing plans for a special mobilization, stepping up the arms race, and preparing demonstrative military provocations."

Argentine Plane Crashes; 60 Dead

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — An Argentine Airlines DC-6 with 60 persons aboard was reported today to have crashed in flames south of the city of Azul, in southern Argentina.

All 60 were reported dead.

The report of the crash came from provincial police.

According to the sketchy information reaching here, the big, four-motored plane went down south of Azul, between the railroad towns of Miramonte and Pardo and on the outskirts of the village of Flores.

Berliners Hold Religious Rally

BERLIN (UPI) — Thousands of German pilgrims converged on West Berlin today for a Protestant church rally which the Communists branded a "cold war provocation."

Although the Communist East German regime condemned the affair, about 10,000 persons from the eastern sector were expected to make their way into West Berlin to join an equal number of West Germans at the rally. The city was tense because of the Soviet-Western dialogue over its future.

West German officials said many of the rally participants from East Germany likely would use the occasion to join the heavy flow of refugees to the West stimulated by Communist pressures on the city.

Communist border guards between East and West Berlin were reported relaxing controls on East Germans crossing to the West. There was no immediate explanation.

The five-day Evangelical Church rally originally was scheduled for both sectors of Berlin, but the Communists banned any observance in their part. The Reds also blocked a plan to run special trains to take the pilgrims to the city, deep in Communist territory.

The Communists charged that the rally was a "sharpening of the cold war." They banned East German attendance on the ground that West Berlin is a "cold war stronghold." The Reds also criticized West German clergymen because some of them have served as chaplains with the West German armed forces.

DIPLOMAT — Brinda Mall is the first woman to become an officer in the foreign service of Nepal. She'll be first secretary of the Nepalese Embassy in Washington. Born and educated in the United States, the 23-year-old diplomat came to Nepal in 1956 and entered the foreign service.

with a family friend at the Shaul farmhouse a mile from the cave when police told her Moreland was dead. She cried softly. Moments earlier she had given a friend a list of persons to call if her husband were found dead.

Shaul, whose 1,009-acre, heavily wooded stock farm lies atop the cave, never had penetrated the cave more than a half-mile. He said the limestone walls were treacherously slick with few if any footholds.

Lefors Optimists Have Steak Dinner

LEFORS (Spl) — The Optimists Club members enjoyed a steak supper in the civic center, recently cooked by Francis Cox and Calvin Lacy.

Chestene Dunn reported on the zone meeting in Amarillo. Attending the zone meeting with Dunn were Jimmy Pennington, Calvin Lacy, Ben White, Leonard Cain, and Archie Chisum.

Sylvester Torres was appointed as chairman of the building committee. Assisting him will be Bob Clemmons, Harley Lewis, Calvin Lacy, and Ben White.

A board of directors meeting was held following the regular meeting. Fifteen members were present.

C-C Committee Plans To Discuss Pampa Borchure

Members of the Industrial Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce will meet at 2 p.m. Friday in the Chamber of Commerce offices at City Hall to work on details of a new brochure to be used in the city's industrial promotion program.

Floyd Watson, committee chairman, stated that members of Pampa's newly created industrial team also have been asked to attend Friday's meeting.

Members of the team, each qualified to act in an advisory capacity on special subjects of interest to prospective industries, include W. P. Seitz, Norman Henry, John Koontz, George Newberry, William Ragsdale, Kenneth Peoples, Frank Culbertson, Floyd Imel, Fred Neslage, Leon Fain, Herschel Wilks and E. L. Green.

Forest Aflame In California

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Some 400 firefighters and Air Force personnel, aided by seven borate-bombing planes, today fought a forest fire which threatened a vital radar installation in the Santa Cruz Mountains.

The fire was reported some 1,200 yards from the Almaden radar station, 40 miles south of San Francisco.

Here's that nut from Zale's again. If you didn't get down in time to get in on the bargains Monday or Tuesday, I'm giving you a chance to share yet. Get here earlier this time.

Getting hot isn't it, and it is not just this sale — it's summertime. As good as they are even these fans can't cool this price — 10" fan — $12.95 — 12" — $13.95. I've got 2 — $79.95 Evaporative air coolers that go for $79.95, but I'm keeping one to cool the boss off when he gets back! The other one you can have for $39.95.

I'd like to see the look on his face, if he could see us selling his Hi Fi records for 49c — Haven't got a record player? You will! I'll let you have a $19.95 one for $15.00, or take your pick — 1 each $79.95 — now $59.95 — $129.95 for $79.95 (stereo yet). Who hasn't got one?

I've got my bags all packed, but before the boss chases me out of town, I'm letting you in on this 2 pc set of luggage — $10.95 regularly for only $8.25. Let's all take a trip. While you're here fill it up with these red hot — Salt & Pepper Shakes — 29c; Silver covered dishes — $1.50; gift ware you name it 25% off. I've got a few of those watch bands left — 99c.

If you want to mix it up, I'll let you have our Chrome Regent blender for $16.88. I'm sure the Boss is going to use one on me. Maybe I can bake him a cake with one of our G. E. portable mixers if I've got one left. Yep — marked them down to $16.88. I'm getting so dizzy slashing prices I don't know what time it is — but you will with one of our special selection of kitchen clocks at $1.99. In fact I've got a whole group marked $3-$4-$5-$6—you look them over.

I'm not only practically giving our merchandise away—I am giving it away tomorrow night. Be sure and pick up your tickets when you're in the store. You might get the biggest bargain of all — prizes for free.

It's back to school in prints and plaids and deep solid colors, too. Dress with subtle fitting (left) is a pre-teen fashion. Dacron batiste is the fabric; trim is black velvet. Coordinated separates in plaid (center) are in a new fall shade: magenta. Dacron-and-cotton blend means that the pleats are there to stay. One-piece dress with look of jumper-and-blossie (right) is done in blend of dacron-and-rayon. Color is eggplant, a deep purple.

Goodwill HD Club With Mrs. Osborn

Goodwill Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Jack Osborn on Tuesday morning at 9:30 for a program given by Mrs. C. B. Hicks on "What Can We Do To Fight Communism."

Included in the morning's program was a discussion by Mrs. Leland Diamond on "New Cotton." She discussed types and advantages and pointed out that wash and wear requires little or no ironing; can be thoroughly laundered for complete cleanliness and freshness; not sensitive to hot water or drying temperatures; dries quickly and smoothly and will not shrink out of shape.

Mrs. Diamond also discussed the merits of warm weather, fall and winter cottons.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

It was announced that Mrs. Doty Warner will be hostess for the August 1 meeting at 9:30 a.m. in her home, 1137 Terrace.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. John Osborn, Lee Jackson, W. E. Autry, C. B. Hicks, Horace O'Neal, Marvin Rowan, Leland Diamond, Don Nensiel and A. P. Coombs. Mrs. B. G. Moring was welcomed as a new member.

Every Silhouette Stylish In Fall Coats This Year

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The coating news for fall is all sugar. Any silhouette you select in coats will be fashionable.

Coat shapes fall into three major categories — the reefer, the body-conscious which hints at the shape of the figure instead of hugging it, and the voluminous cape coats.

The reefer is lean and narrow, usually cut on cardigan lines, and often double-breasted. The body-conscious is like the old-time princess, with flare at the hemline. The cape shape has exaggerated fullness from shoulder to hem, with low-placed armholes, dropped-shoulder line, and bell-shaped sleeves.

These are the major styles to emerge in the fall and winter collections from members of the New York Couture Group, holding its semi-annual press week.

Hem Covers Knee
Coat lengths remain as short as suits, or just covering the knee. Fox, Leopard, Mink and blanket plaids, and a group of shaggy dog dresses were of long-nap orlon.

Belts on Hipbone
Nat Kaplan showed cutaway jackets and slightly flared skirts in the suit division. Belts on dresses were shaped to rest on the upper hip bone. In late day clothes, fringes, trimmed buttons, pocket flaps, scarf ends, jacket edges and hemlines.

Ben Reig featured jackets just below the waist, three-quarter length sleeves and skirts either straight and severe or softened with swing pleats or panel flares. Patullo designer Jo Copeland featured a loosely-fitted silhouette, with what shaping there was managed with seaming, pleats or a bias cut of the fabric. There were Jacqueline Kennedy type over-blouses galore, and so many sleeveless dresses that the firm announced it would sew in some arm protection if store buyers requested it.

Dear Abby... Electrician Knows ...Watt's Watt!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an electrician, and every day he comes home and tells me how another lady made a pass at him. He says they all have a different approach, but the idea is the same. My husband is happy at home so I have never lost a night's sleep because he goes into different homes every day and could run into some floozy who is looking for a cheap thrill. But what if some day my husband gets too weak to resist temptation? I keep asking myself how long can a man stay true when he has this kind of thing thrown at him constantly?

WORRIED
DEAR WORRIED: Don't blow your fuses yet! Just keep him happy at home and be grateful that he can joke about the women who try to tempt him. A good electrician not only knows how to short a live wire, but he knows watt's watt.

It's Back To School In Dark Autumn Colors

By GAILE DUGAS
NEW YORK (NEA) — That first day back to school is an exciting one for all participants. And clothes count here, of course.

This is a big year for plaids for both preteens and teens. And for small sister, too. These will be done in light-weight blends and in dark autumn colors.

Tartan plaids, always part of the school scene, take on new importance this year. Many have a fresh look through color combinations featuring green or blue with gold, magenta and turquoise turn up both in plaids and as solid colors.

The well-planned school wardrobe will include this year, jumpers or skirts with blouses or over-blouses. There will be many one-piece dresses cut with a two-piece look. Here, both neckline and sleeves are done in a contrasting color or white.

Use of man-made fibers insure pleats will stay, that garments will wash easily, wear long.

To some extent, children's clothes in this country always reflect adult fashions. This year, we'll see the slightly lowered waistline, pleats and plaids, flared skirts and such colors as eggplant, magenta and antique gold.

Mrs. Wedge Feted At Lodge Banquet

SKELLYTOWN (SpI) — The junior past noble grand of the Rebekah Lodge, Mrs. Howard Wedge was honored with a banquet in a local dining room recently. The colors pink and green were used in the table and room decorations. Arrangements of summer flowers were placed at intervals on the banquet table.

Mrs. Tomie Hill, mistress of ceremonies, introduced the program. The honoree was presented a past noble grand's regalia of the Rebekah lodge and a scrapbook filled with clippings and other mementoes of her term of office.

Attending were Mrs. Floyd McCoy, John Simmons, Al Elwess, R. E. McAllister, R. C. Heaton, C. C. Hoskins, J. H. Wedge, Fred Gerrett, T. Hill and A. W. Shubring.

Lullaby Shower For Mrs. Jones

SKELLYTOWN (SpI) — Womens Christian Endeavor of the Skellytown Community Church honored Mrs. Bob Jones with a stork shower recently in the church recreation room. A centerpiece of summer flowers, surrounded by miniature storks, graced the serving table. Mrs. Jones and her husband, the Rev. Bob Jones are leaving this month for the mission field in Brazil.

Attending were Mrs. B. Flowers, mother of the honoree from Perryton, Bill Price, Bob Billings, Ben Weisner, Hal Brown, Con Foster, Lloyd Cowart, T. C. Coffey, J. C. Jarvis, Jr. Ellis, L. R. Randall, L. Z. Rhodes, Clarence Kaiser, E. J. Hunt, Richard Payne, and Misses Joan Jarvis, Linda Payne, Billie Price and Judy Brown.

equation of her absence with mysterious peril makes him very angry. Though his tears and restraining embraces seem to express flattering devotion, what they really express is intense resentment. They say to his mother: "You bad person, how dare you leave me if leaving me scares you so? How dare you go away instead of staying here and protecting me against these unimaginable dangers you have hinted at?"

Why then does she hint at the dangers? Is her reason: "If I make a big enough display of my concern for this child, nobody will suspect that I often resent him — and accuse me of failing in my maternal duties?" Could be.

Anyway, whatever her motive she's arranging a pretty awful first day at school for Warren by this constant equation of her absence with catastrophe.

Bathing Suit Dress Latest Fashion Idea

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — One designer who defends the plastered-on fit to feminine apparel is Luis Estevez, whose latest offering is the bathing suit dress.

This, for the benefit of girl watchers, is made of stretch fabric and fits like a wet bathing suit. Its aim is to make every woman look like Marilyn Monroe, said the Cuban-born Estevez.

Clinging clothes long have been the trademark of Estevez, who holds several fashion awards. So are his plunging necklines, which for fall and winter expose most of the back in evening wear.

Estevez stood almost alone with sexy fashions among the fall and winter collections presented this week. Most designer members of the New York Couture group, holding its semi-annual press week for visiting reporters, talked more about the relaxed silhouette and the free fitting look.

Estevez came up with a group of "four freedoms" designs. They were the freedom sheath, which is a contour-skimming bit of curve and dart in dressmaking; the freedom hemline, with a flare around the knees; the side-draped princess dress, and that bathing suit number.

But not all was wallpaper fit in the collection. Estevez also produced sleeveless overblouse cocktail dresses in black crepe, and the princess silhouette softened with side panels, some of them falling free from the shoulder.

"Clothes are edging closer to the body, yet the fit still is easy," said Larry Aldrich, the manufacturer, of his collection designed by Marie McCarthy.

Aldrich presented dresses with relaxed jackets and overblouse tops, shortened slightly and darted to give them more of a shape instead of a blousy look.

Herbert Sondheim also left the silhouette easy instead of tight, and many daytime costumes in his collection designed by Sara Ripault looked as if they were made with Mrs. John F. Kennedy's tastes in mind.

Skirts skimmed the kneecaps. Collars were eliminated. Colors ranged from clear reds through the muted tones such as a putty, which looked like pale gray with a greenish overcoat.

Pauline Triger, produced a collection with a strong medieval influence in the high waists (two inches above normal), the bulky hoods on coats and capes, chain-like necklaces embroidered on some evening wear, and evening fabrics of lame or so heavily embroidered they looked like coats of mail.

The Mature Parent Bad To Associate Absence With Disaster

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Last night Warren's parents attended a barbecue party.

Before leaving, his pretty young mother scribbled down the neighbor's telephone number and reminded his baby sitter of it four times. She warned darkly of fires started by neglected cigarettes. She spoke of digestive upsets that could turn out to be appendicitis, of the darkness of the upstairs hall and Warren's fear of it. She located the thermometer and the fire extinguisher for his baby sitter. Anxiously scribbling again, she said:

"This is Dr. Wickham's number. If anything goes wrong, first call me, then call him. No, you'd better call him first. Remember, don't answer the doorbell. One never knows."

As a result, Warren wept, roared and clung so persistently to his mother that he made his parents an hour late for their party.

One cannot blame him. His mother has practically convinced him that her absence from him

Oregon's Effort To Lure Industry Found Varied

By DOUGLAS GRIPP

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon is in the black financially but has a huge green welcome mat out for industry.

The mood is generated by young, vigorous Gov. Mark Hatfield, a 33-year-old Republican. But the Democratic 1961 Legislature kept the ball rolling by approving significant legislation in this field.

The more important measures include:

—A law authorizing the state to lease a unique 150,000-acre tract, mostly sagebrush, in northeast Oregon, to Boeing Co. of Seattle for testing facilities. The area is called the Boardman Space Age Industrial Park, and has been operated as a practice bombing range by the U.S. Navy, which has agreed to share it with Boeing. The idea was Hatfield's. Boeing has leased the property for 80 years at $60,000 a year, and new payrolls are expected.

—A law permitting the state to build a highway 101 between Mexico and Canada. Sponsors predict a shot in the arm for the coast trade route. Convenience of tourists was also a big factor.

Washington, closing the last gap lease its 550,000-acre offshore lands to private companies for oil and gas exploration. Up to now, Oregon's craggy coast has been inviolable, and the bill specifically forbids impairment of the "aesthetic" values of the coast. Shell Oil Co. indicated interest even before the law was passed and other big firms are expected to try for permits and leases too.

—A law letting the State Land Board grant easements to industries which require pipelines across beaches. Nearly all of Oregon's coast is owned by the state. The law requires that any pipes or equipment must be buried under the sand, and not interfere with recreation.

—Appropriation of $24 million for a 4.1-mile bridge over the Columbia river mouth linking Oregon and Washington. Oregon frowns on land tax breaks as an industry lure and has feuded occasionally with Washington to the north, charging that Washington is doing this.

The 1961 Oregon Legislature which ended May 10 had an impressive package of tax reforms before it, a streamlining recommended by a Legislative Interim Tax Committee. But they all died in the closing hours of the session as Conservative-Liberal elements refused to compromise on method.

The Legislature had a 5 to 10 per cent state income tax reduction within its grasp. But it slipped away in Senate-House clashes. Also killed was a plan to repeal the personal property tax on business inventories despite the fact it probably would have given Oregon the best business tax climate in the West. Again legislative conferees clashed over method, and extent.

No taxes were raised. Oregon has no sales tax, a tradition it opposes. A proposed 3-cent-a-pack cigarette sales tax failed.

Hatfield presented the Legislature with a $359 million state budget for the next two years and he called it a "miracle" budget — it raised the level of state services without increasing taxation.

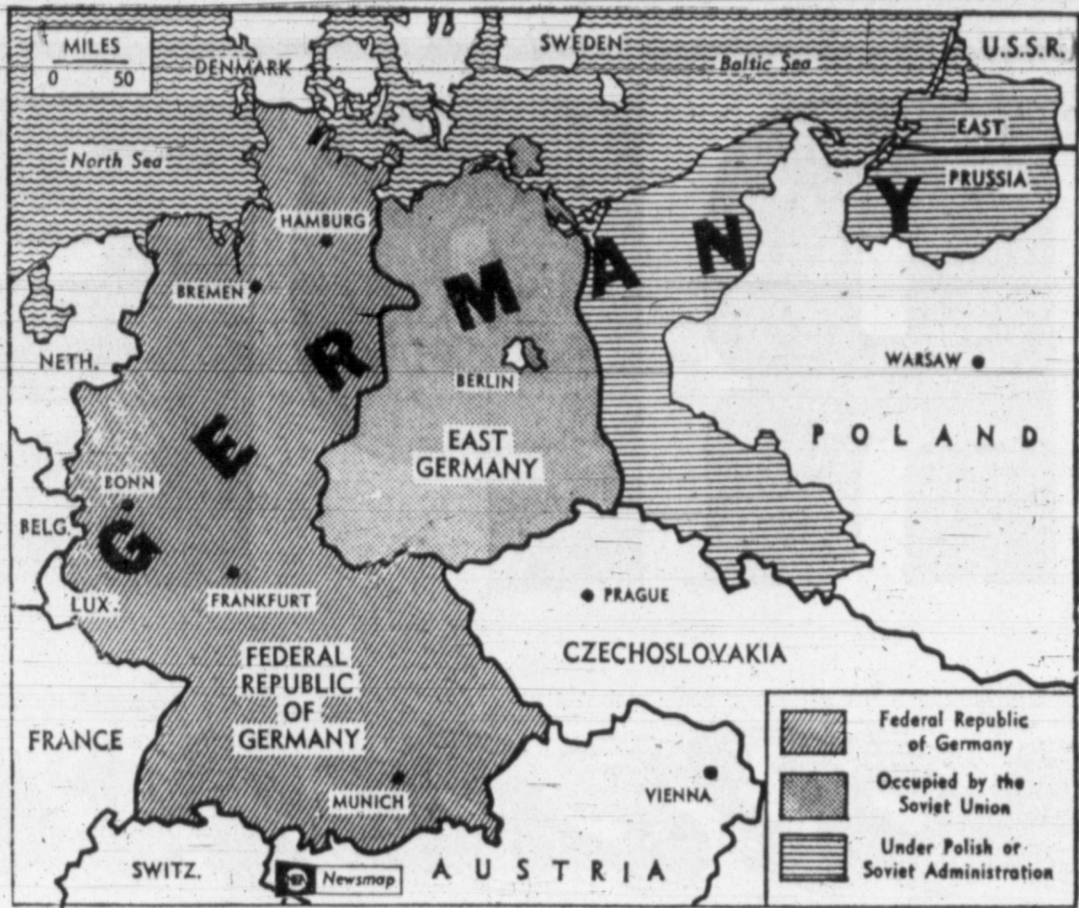

The Legislature made almost no changes in it, but wound up with a final $366 million figure. Since Oregon usually has a state surplus at the end of every biennium, the state still expects to be in the black despite record spending for highways, higher education, welfare and other items.

Oregon is said to have one of the best labor codes in the nation and the AFL-CIO successfully defeated a so-called "Little Landrum-Griffin" bill sought by a group of employers. It would have extended the Federal Landrum-Griffin law to small employers not covered by the U.S. statute.

The most significant piece of labor-management legislation to get through was an act setting up a state elections procedure, secret balloting conducted by a state referee to let employees determine a bargaining agent.

The AFL-CIO said the law was unnecessary, but did not oppose it. One of the most bitter fights was over workmen's compensation, and the act remained unchanged. The state has a monopoly on industrial accident coverage and insurance companies fought a hard but losing battle to open this up to private firms.

Biggest problem in the Oregon economy, while solvent, is the need

Airman Admits Tossing Acid In His Own Face

AMARILLO (UPI) — Airman Thomas J. Avinger of Florida admitted to police yesterday that he threw acid in his own face because "he wanted out of the service."

Avinger, 21, of Daytona Beach, Fla., told police July 10 that three teen-agers beat him on a downtown Amarillo street and threw the acid in his face. Later, he repudiated the story and said he did it himself.

Avinger was blinded temporarily, but hospital officials say he will regain complete vision.

Gen. Charles H. Pottenger, commanding officer of Amarillo AFB, said Avinger had signed a statement that the burns were self-inflicted.

Pottenger said: "I deeply regret this unfortunate incident has occurred. I want to express my appreciation to the citizens of Amarillo for their cooperation throughout the period when it was thought that Airman Avinger's attack was inflicted by a person or persons unknown."

Avinger stumbled into a service station the night of the acid throwing. He told attendants his story about the teen-agers.

Amarillo businessmen had doctored $850 as a reward for the arrest of the youths.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

A recent dispatch from Saigon reported a major victory for the South Viet Nam government over Communist guerrillas.

Both the Vietnamese defense secretary and the army chief of staff rushed to congratulate government troops who killed 167 Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in a six-hour action.

But the dispatch, filed through government-controlled communication routes, made comparatively little of a fact even more important. That was that the Communists have now become so numerous, so well organized and so bold that they were willing to abandon guerrilla tactics and meet government forces in open combat only 11 miles from Saigon.

Since their successes in neighboring Laos, the Communists have stepped up their activities markedly in South Viet Nam.

So much so that an alarmed United States in April agreed to finance and arm an additional 20,000 men for the South Vietnamese army and to supply experts to train Vietnamese troops in the particularly brutal tactics of guerrilla warfare.

Broadly speaking, Communist tactics in South Viet Nam are aimed at creating popular distrust in the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem and spreading terror among the populace to prevent its cooperation with government forces.

New industries built by the government regularly are sabotaged. In the last two years more than 4,000 government representatives have been assassinated.

The enormity of the task facing the United States and pro-Western forces in South Viet Nam may be illustrated by example.

Except for the major towns, most of 13 provinces located in the rice-rich delta of the Mekong River are under effective control of the Viet Cong rebels. Red Com-for diversification. For decades the state has depended upon its big three industries — lumber, agriculture and tourism. The problem is in the seasonality of all three.

Hatfield considers this one of the biggest challenges of his administration and is concentrating his energy along these lines.

Slash In Bomber Output Opposed By Gen. Lemay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Curtis LeMay, singing the praises of the supersonic B70 bomber, told Congress yesterday he feels bomber production should not be cut off now.

The new Air Force chief of staff gave his personal views under questioning by the Senate defense appropriations subcommittee. President Kennedy's budget calls for no new bomber funds well into 1962.

LeMay put his personal opinion on the line in opposition to the President's while the administration worked on revised defense plans of its own. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., announced that Kennedy has promised to submit a supplemental budget request this week.

Kennedy scheduled a meeting late today with the Joint Chiefs of Staff and another Wednesday with the National Security Council.

The subcommittee is at work on the House-approved $43 billion defense budget to which the President will ask that additional sums be added. The policy question is, Robertson said, whether the United States is to have a striking force of missiles or of missiles and bombers.

LeMay said this is a "critical period," and that he believes the United States "should not close down bomber production at this time." He said he favors continued bomber production even if missile programs progress satisfactorily, because he thinks the nation needs a "mixture" of weapons for a flexible defense.

He said he knows of "nothing else that will fulfill the role that the B70 was designed to do."

Arguing for manned bombers, LeMay said a missile offense puts "your finger is either on the button and you're at war or its off and you're at peace."

Resolution Asks Telephone Study

AUSTIN (UPI) — Sen. Preston Smith of Lubbock introduced a resolution yesterday calling for a study of telephone company operations in the state.

Smith said the Legislative Council should find out why there is not more cooperation between public and private utilities. Rates were not included in the suggested study area.

The resolution was referred to the Senate State Affairs Committee.

Privileged Class Among Refugees From Soviet Rule

FRANKFURT (UPI) — Political pressure forces thousands of East German youth westward to freedom each year, although they are usually regarded as a privileged class under the Communist regime.

The flow reached its all-time peak last August when 3,443 refugees between the ages of 12 and 25 were counted at western reception camps.

During 1960, some 12,000 boys and 3,773 girls passed through the Iron Curtain camps of Friedland and Uelzen alone. Thousands more crossed over in Berlin and at other points.

Ninety per cent of the youthful refugees are between the ages of 16 and 23, and more than 70 per cent leave their homes and families for political reasons.

They are all from an age group on which the Communists spend vast sums for education.

The story of a 20-year-old boy from Brandenburg reveals how little it takes to panic a youth into fleeing Communism, once his discontent reaches a certain level.

This boy had been given a thorough education in agriculture, and finally was ordered to take over a leading position in a farm cooperative. His wages were good, but little by little the continual political pressure made his life unbearable until he finally decided to flee.

"I would rather have been a farmer on my own ground, although I wouldn't have made as much money," he said.

Another refugee at the Friedland camp was the son of a prominent East German doctor who fled because he could no longer stand the political indoctrination that accompanied his medical training.

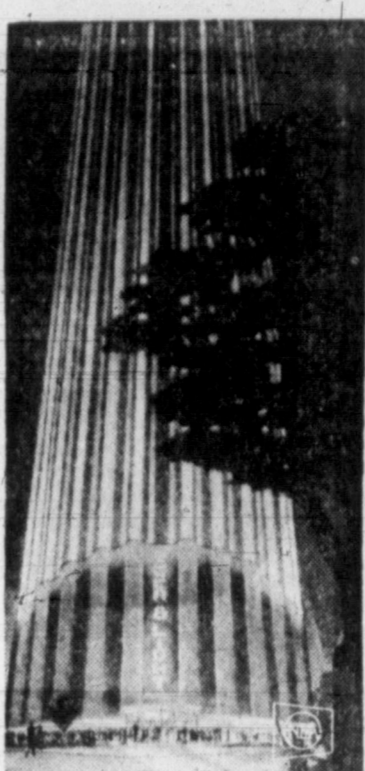

This boy enjoyed a privileged status as a member of the intelligentsia — status which included better food and the possibility of attending a university. But, he said, "every lecture, even on purely medical subjects, began with political phrases, and that did it."

A 25-year-old construction engineer left a promising career, his family, and his fiancée to begin with nothing in the West.

Starting as an apprentice bricklayer in East Germany, he had drawn the attention of party functionaries in East Berlin. He passed with high marks and finally became deputy chief of a planning office for the East German construction industry.

Then he dropped it all and fled west. "I don't know the situation here, but I'm sure it can't match the exploitation of workers in East Germany," he told interviewers.

"I don't care if I ever go to school again," he added, "so long as I finally can work as an engineer and not spend my time traveling around to give speeches on production aims in which I don't believe myself."

A LIGHT TASK—A tower of light with the brilliance of 24 billion candlepower will be part of an exhibit at the 1964-1965 New York World's Fair by electric utility companies. Artist's conception shows a rainbow-hued building 80 feet high with 24 "light cannons" each of a billion candlepower. Its light is expected to be visible from as far as Boston and Washington.

Government Not Slated To Enter Water Business

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall has informed Congress that just because the government is selling converted seawater at Freeport, Tex., is no indication of an intent to "enter the municipal water business."

Udall and C. F. MacGowan, director of the Office of Saline Water, went before the House irrigation subcommittee to support an administration bill to expand the saline water conservation.

They said that the Interior Department seeks only to push research and development of salt water conversion processes.

But Udall warned once again that the production of fresh water from the sea "cannot in the foreseeable future be a substitute for other broad programs of water conservation to meet agricultural needs."

Four other demonstration plants — each using a different process — are being built in San Diego, Calif., Roswell, N. M., Webster, S. D. and Wrightsville Beach, N. C. None will exceed one million gallons per day in the production of fresh water.

Udall told the subcommittee headed by Rep. Walter Rogers, D-Tex., that the administration bill would provide "limited financial assistance on a 'share the risk with industry' approach" in the construction of further demonstration plants and actual operating units.

Teenage Driving Program Succeeds In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The teenage driver — once labeled wild and reckless now is considered among the safest and most courteous of motorists in a city where heavy emphasis is placed on good relationships between the teenager and police.

Much of the credit for this reverse in attitude should go to a unique organization of police officers who volunteer their time and services through the Los Angeles County Advisory Council for Car Clubs.

Established in 1954, the council assists members of teenage car clubs in planning constructive programs as well as helping to guide the young drivers into the right channels.

Officer Gordon Browning of the Los Angeles Police Department, a founder of the countywide organization, considers the program an extremely successful effort in building a close relationship between young drivers and police.

"I can't over-emphasize the importance of proper attitudes among young drivers," said Browning. "This can have a tremendous effect on driving habits later on."

Browning also works on a full-school driver education program as part of a police department effort to reach young drivers while their habits are being formed.

"We very seldom have any problems with teenage drivers in Los Angeles," Browning said. "The youngsters are anxious to learn and to do what is right. They do a great deal of good."

He noted that traffic records showed a poorer record among drivers in their 20's than those in their teens.

"I think the fine attitude and record of the majority of young drivers in the Los Angeles area is a result of a combination of efforts to create friendly relations with police, along with the driver education program in the schools and the recognition given by the press to teenagers who are doing constructive things," he said.

"To me this is America in action — the kids working for the community, and the community working for the kids. When youngsters get proper recognition for doing constructive things, they are less likely to get into trouble."

The officer also had high praise for the National Hot Rod Association, which he said has been a leader in elevating standards among car clubs and automotive enthusiasts.

Wally Parks, president of the Hot Rod Association, is equally enthusiastic about today's teenage drivers.

"We feel that the organized car club provides a kind of 'bridge' for teenagers at a time when their interests are changing," Parks said. "Many of them may lose interest later on, as they become interested in other things, but the club gives them a sense of belonging that is so important, and their activities can be channeled in the right direction."

Sgt. Bob Thomas of the Lynwood Police Department, current president of the Police Advisory Council, noted that most police departments are "100 per cent behind the program."

"We don't attempt in any way to run the clubs," Thomas explained, "but we will advise the clubs in any way we can and will help with organization or any other problems that might come up."

He called attention to such car club projects as providing transportation to and from church for shut-ins, or taking voters to and from polling places.

A highly popular event sponsored by the council is an annual safety competition, in which teenage drivers pilot new stock automobiles provided by dealers.

The run, which starts June 26 this year and follows a route from Lynwood to San Jose, Calif., grades drivers on their ability to handle a car, adherence to traffic and safety rules and economy.

There also are reliability competitions and car shows.

Solons Squabble About Turnpike

AUSTIN (UPI) — State senators from Fort Worth and Dallas clashed today over a proposed request that the federal government buy the toll road between the two cities.

Sen. Doyle Willis of Fort Worth introduced a resolution petitioning the national Congress to make the turnpike a part of the system of interstate and defense highways.

"I think it's stupid and wrong," shouted Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas.

The concurrent resolution was sent to the Senate State Affairs Committee at the request of Willis. He said a delegation from Fort Worth would like to come to Austin for a public hearing on the measure.

"I want Texas to be in the same position as other states," Willis said. "If the federal government buys any turnpikes it should buy all of them."

The Fort Worth senator added that people in his city were unhappy because tolls on the turnpike had recently been raised 30 per cent. Willis said the 30 mile turnpike was the only toll road in Texas.

Bridge Favorite Game Of Six-Year-Old Boy

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Ask 6-year-old Mark Leake what his favorite indoor game is, and he'll swear it's bridge.

He used to count points on his fingers under the table, but not anymore.

Mark is an "all-around boy," his mother says. He plays bridge mostly with his family. Outdoors "his first love is baseball and the Milwaukee Braves."

Marks parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Fletcher Leake, Jr. tried to discourage him from playing bridge.

"We're a closely knit family," Mrs. Leake said, "and when we started taking bridge lessons Mark didn't want to be left out."

The parents and an older boy, Fletcher III, 13, started taking bridge lessons last fall at the Memphis Athletic Club from Mrs. Vernon Place, who has written a book on the game.

Mark insisted on going along.

"On the first practice day, the mother said, 'Mark took five tricks, more than the others.'"

Mrs. Leake said she tried to tell Mark that bridge was "too difficult" for him to learn at his age.

"I tried to talk him out of it," she said. "But Mark wouldn't have it."

Mark can just about spread out his cards in his little fingers. He takes the game seriously, talks little "but makes facial expressions all the time."

Mr. Leake said Mark doesn't show anger or annoyance at his partner's mistakes.

"We were partners one night," he said. "I lead a queen heart trumps, and Mark had to lose his heart jack, when I should have known better and played a smaller trump to make his jack good. Mark didn't say a word, he didn't want to hurt me."

Unlike most youngsters who squirm while playing cards, Mark pays attention all the time.

"He's at his best when the dealer's," Mrs. Leake said, "because it doesn't give him time to do anything but think out his hand and the one on the board."

"How does Mark compare with adults," Mrs. Leake was asked.

"Now, I'm not going to hurt anybody's feelings, but Mark does play better than some adults I know."

Mrs. Place, Mark's tutor, said she thinks the boy is one of the youngest members in the American Contract Bridge League. She said his greatest bridge triumph was a little slam in spades.

Of Mark, Mrs. Place said, "He is a very interesting player and one with whom playing is most enjoyable."

"He really seems to understand the game and can hold his own in bidding and playing the cards."

Mrs. Place said she told fellow bridge fans at a recent national meeting in Denver of Mark's progress and found none of them had ever encountered a player of Mark's age. He'll be 7 in December.

"None of us are experts," said Mrs. Leake. "We're still learning."

In the beginning, Mark used to ask "what's trumps" as a reminder, but he doesn't ask anymore.

CLOWNING AROUND—Although he is being made a clown of, Kevan Howerly of Kansas City, Mo., doesn't mind—mainly because, Chuck Burnes is doing it. Chuck is the youngest clown at 30 with Barnum and Bailey's circus. First, Chuck applies the basic coat of white zinc oxide, left, to 6-year-old Kevan. This is followed by black and red paint, center, to give the clownish features. In the end, Kevan can hardly recognize himself—to be made a clown of by a professional is a real treat.

Pittsburgh Triangular Layout Top Problem In Solving Traffic Woes

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — It can be said of Pittsburgh that it probably is the only major city in the world where Fifth Ave. crosses Sixth Ave.

This, in itself may be enough to make traffic planners dizzy. But add these facts and you really have traffic troubles:

—The street layout in the downtown section is in a triangular, rather than rectangular, pattern.

—The terrain is hilly.

—There are more bridges in the metropolitan area than in any other city in the United States.

—The Golden Triangle, or business district, is bounded on one side by the Allegheny River. On the other side flows the Monongahela. Where these two rivers merge at the Point, the Ohio River is formed.

One of the most serious problems currently confronting traffic experts is facilitating the traffic flow which attempts to by-pass the heart of the city.

This problem has been eased somewhat with completion of an east-west parkway and the recent opening of a multi-million dollar dual-level bridge which leads to a cavernous tunnel used by south and westbound traffic.

Planners also report that a north-south cross town boulevard which now is being built, should help speed through traffic when it is in operation.

Because of Pittsburgh's triangular layout, streets are a confused mass of unusual angles.

The city's chief planning engineer, W. W. Rankin, said it is very difficult to blueprint a smooth traffic pattern because of this situation.

Several efforts have been made in the past to convert some of the narrow streets to one-way traffic.

However on each occasion public transportation officials have won injunctions against the moves. The city not long ago created a port authority for the sole purpose of improving traffic and transit problems. One of the authority's first aims was to plan replacing the public transportation system with an authority-operated set-up. But red tape and confusion over proposed routes are delaying progress.

The possibility of subways is out. The three rivers edging the business section prevent construction of such a subterranean network. As a partial relief, two new bridges have been built in the last three years and two others are under construction.

What about parking? It could be worse if it weren't for the many new off-street parking garages constructed under the direction of the Municipal Parking Authority. A big boom in parking garages developed under the authority's guidance in the last decade and more garages are on the drawing boards.

However the Monongahela Municipal Parking Wharf — once capable of accommodating about 60 cars — isn't always available to its customers. For example, for three weeks this year in late February and early March the parking surface was under water which had spilled over from the flood-swollen river. This is not an uncommon occurrence during the winter and spring months.

After careful study, the city has increased on-the-street parking in some sections and is considering expanding the plan.

Pedestrian traffic admittedly is causing concern to traffic planners and safety officials. Most of the city's buildings have been or will be built right on the building line. This, in addition to the narrowness of most streets, leaves little room for widening of sidewalks.

The only solution engineers can see is for a long-range plan of overhead crosswalks. There is a jaywalking ordinance on the city's books, but police have failed thus far to find an effective way of enforcement.

Pittsburgh indeed has a traffic problem, but since the beginning of the city's building renaissance, great strides have been made to lick the problem. Much more progress is expected.

However, there still is an old saying among Pittsburgh housewives: "When it rains or snows, plan on dinner an hour late!"

Army Shields Yanks From 'Iron Curtain'

BERLIN (UPI) — Sgt. Leroy E. Piatt's job is rehanging the Iron Curtain.

The 27-year-old soldier from Las Vegas, Nev. (1823 W. Charleston Blvd.) helps fight one of the three dangers confronting American soldiers here — a 103-mile East-West border, the elevated railway and cheap beer.

Piatt in a sense keeps the Iron Curtain from getting rusty. He inspects and repairs the signs erected on the American sector side of the border to keep soldiers from wandering across.

The beer at about three cents a glass, and the el also can cause wandering but they're not Piatt's problem.

Along the 28-mile border between East and West Berlin and the 75-mile border between West Berlin and East Germany signs stand on the western side to caution travelers.

Piatt takes care of the signs in the American sector where there is a 16-mile border with East Berlin and a 34-mile border with East Germany.

He takes about two days a week off from his other Military Police duties to make sure that the signs along the borders still are up and are legible.

The American sector has 457 signs and Piatt replaces about 25 a month.

"There's no pressure," Piatt said. "It's the same as any other duty. I get along pretty well with the people on the other side of the border. They always watch us at work."

The purpose of the signs between West Berlin and East Germany is to keep soldiers in the West.

Western nationals under four-power agreements may enter East Berlin freely, but not East Germany. If they cross the "zone border," as distinct from the "sector" border, they are arrested.

They may and do enter East Berlin and the signs of the East-West city border are there simply to let soldiers know what they are doing.

The Army requires enlisted men to wear their uniforms when they go to East Berlin. Officers are requested. Officers may enter East Berlin any time they please. Enlisted men are supposed to tell their unit commanders they are going so they can be searched for if they don't return. But there's no way of enforcing that.

One thing that is apt to lure soldiers to East Berlin is cheap liquor. The prices are not lower, but at the East-West market exchange rate a glass of beer costs the equivalent of three cents in the East.

One West mark worth 25 cents buys about five East marks on the free market in West Berlin. So with a bit of currency juggling you can get five beers in the East for the price of one in the West.

The Communists, quite naturally, try to prevent such dealings, but their measures are not GI-proof.

The Army, too, prefers members of the 4,000-man American garrison here to do their drinking in the West. Among other things, it tells the soldiers the bars are better in the West. That is no lie.

Liquor and the el can combine to get a soldier in trouble. The el runs out into forbidden East Germany and American units are stationed in West Berlin suburbs near the East German border.

If a soldier falls asleep and passes his stop he'll wind up in East Germany in Communist custody for a few hours or days.

Therefore soldiers are "discouraged" — as the army puts it — from using the el. Some do and some don't.

Steels Hovering Near Lows But Mart Signs Good

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steiner, Rouse & Co. finds that steel stocks in many cases are selling much closer to their lows of 1960-61 than to their highs, and given the favorable business climate that now appears to be a good possibility over the rest of 1961 and into 1962, the group could exhibit a leading market position.

Gersen of Wall Street says the bull market of 1961 should achieve much greater heights before it eventually runs out of steam.

International Statistical Bureau says despite the disappointing market trend last week, it would not reduce holdings.

The Wiesenberger investment report says that if this market follows its seasonal pattern, activity should continue on the low side for several more weeks while prices firm.

Adequate Home Wiring Essential, Association Says

NEW YORK (UPI) — Too many homeowners fail to plan a head when they arrange for wiring in new houses or re-wiring of old ones, according to the American Standards Association.

The association, which sets standards for the manufacture and use of all manner of equipment, ranging from ladders to lawn mowers, recommends that space be left in the electrical plant of a home to allow for additional circuits for lights, wall outlets and heavy appliances that might be desirable in the future.

The idea is to handle the needs not only of today but of the future as well.

Good indications that a home needs re-wiring are the absence of lights on stairways and entrances, the use of "octopus outlets" and the need to grope in the dark to find light switches. Another sign of need comes when a homeowner finds he is installing a 30 ampere fuse where only a 15 ampere fuse should be used. He does this because the 15 ampere fuses are blowing out under the load put on them, and he takes a dangerous step when he up-grades them.

A rule of thumb offered by the association for determining the number of outlets that should be included in any room is to divide the total area by 150. If a room is 390 square feet in size, divide that by 150 and arrive at an answer of 2.6 outlets as the basic minimum for that room. That means installation of at least three outlets.

There are three kinds of outlets — lighting, convenience and special purpose. No special locations are recommended for lighting or special purpose outlets, but convenience outlets should be 12 inches above the floor line and wall switches should be 48 inches from the floor.

Branch circuits are needed for all lighting and convenience outlets. Special circuits are recommended for the kitchen and individual heavy appliances, such as the electric range, clothes dryer, washer, air conditioner, fans and dishwasher.

"Homeowners should change themselves by not having a good wiring system," an association spokesman said. "A 5 per cent voltage loss in a circuit will give the housewife a 10 per cent loss of heat in the clothes dryer, iron or rotisserie and a 17 per cent loss of light from an electric bulb. It means more cooking time, too, on the electric fryer."

Here are some of the association's suggestions for planning home wiring:

—The kitchen: Good lighting is essential. There should be lights over the range, sink, counters and tables. Electric refrigerators should have outlets 44 inches from the floor. Convenience outlets are needed for clock and radio. Special purpose outlets are needed for ventilating fan, sink waste disposer, toaster, mixer, electric iron and other appliances.

—The living room: Good lighting is the most important element. At least five convenience outlets are needed for the average room. They should be placed so that a six-foot cord from any lamp would reach an outlet. Also needed are outlets for vacuum cleaners, TV and radio and an air conditioner.

White Ties Batting Mark In Victories By Cardinals

Yanks Back Into Lead; Reds Lose

United Press International
If you think Mickey Mantle's hot, get a load of Bill White! Mantle put in a fair night's work last night in blasting his 34th and 35th homers to lead the New York Yankees back into first place in the American League.

But Mickey's performance paled alongside that of White, who equalled Ty Cobb's major league record of 14 hits in two consecutive doubleheaders while pacing the St. Louis Cardinals to 8-3 and 7-5 victories over the Chicago Cubs.

White, the 27-year-old first baseman of the Cardinals, began his record-tying feat with eight hits in 10 tries during a two-night twin bill against the Cubs on Monday night.

The Pampa Daily News

10 WEDNESDAY, JULY 19, 1961 54th YEAR

He added six more hits in eight trips last night with a home run and two singles in the opener and a double and two triples in the nightcap.

That gives White a .778 average for his last four games. He started his streak batting .289. Now he's up to .317.

Cobb set the record with the Detroit Tigers in doubleheaders on July 17 and July 18, 1912.

As for Mantle, he drove in three of the Yankees' runs last night in a 5-3 victory over the Washington Senators.

Mantle's 35 home runs tie him with teammate Roger Maris for the major league lead. Both are 18 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record pace.

Prior to last night's game at Griffith Stadium, Mantle, performing in a special home run hitting contest, hit a ball that struck the last row of the left field bleachers, and bounced over. Mantle is the only man ever to hit a ball over those bleachers.

Then when they got down to business, Mantle belted a two-run homer in the first inning and another in the eighth that broke a 3-3 tie. Both blows came off rookie Joe McClain. Reliever Luis Arroyo was the winner.

Only one other game was played in the National League besides the Cards-Cubs doubleheader. In it, the Milwaukee Braves handed Cincinnati its third straight defeat, 12-8, and cut the Reds' lead to 3½ games over the idle second-place Dodgers.

Lew Burdette, pitching in relief, blanked the Reds on one hit over the last three innings to earn his 10th victory against six losses. The Braves pulled a double steal, a triple steal on which Hank Aaron scored, and collected 13 hits, including Eddie Mathews' 21st homer.

In the American League, the Baltimore Orioles dropped the Detroit Tigers into second place with an 8-7 triumph in 10 innings, the Chicago White Sox beat the Kansas City Athletics, 4-3, the Boston Red Sox downed the Cleveland Indians, 9-2, and the Los Angeles Angels took over eighth place with a 4-1 decision over the Minnesota Twins.

Jim Gentile's 23rd home run in the 10th inning off Bill Fischer settled matters between the Orioles and Tigers after Baltimore had trailed 6-1 at one point. The Orioles tied the score with a six-run rally in the seventh, during which Hank Foiles hit a two-run homer and Jackie Brandt connected with two on. Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito homered for the Tigers. Knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm was credited with his seventh victory.

Nellie Fox, back in the White Sox lineup after being benched for light hitting, tripled with two on in the seventh to sink the A's. Juan Pizarro, frequently in hot water, went the distance for his sixth win even though he allowed 10 hits. With the bases full and two out in the ninth, Pizarro got pinch hitter Hank-Bauer, Kansas City's player-manager, to fly out to end the game. Gerry Walker was the loser.

Two home runs by Gary Geiger helped Red Sox rookie Don Schwab register his ninth victory at the expense of the Indians. Geiger, who now has a total of 13 homers, drove in four runs for Boston. Both of his homers came off loser Jim (Mudcat) Grant.

George Thomas and Lee Thomas each homered for the Angels in their victory over the Twins. Ken McBride struck out 11 men and gave up seven hits in gaining his ninth win against five defeats. Pedro Ramos was charged with his 11th loss compared with six victories even though he allowed only four hits and struck out 10 in the seven innings he worked.

Texas Leaguers Slap Pan-Ams

By United Press International
Texas League teams swept five of six games from Mexican League clubs Tuesday night in the first Pan American Association baseball games of a two week junket in Texas.

The Mexican City Red Devils were the only Latin team to escape unscathed, shutting out San Antonio, 2-0, behind the five-hit twirling of Al Osorio. Don Prince had a no-hitter going until he gave up two runs in the eighth inning.

Second baseman Dennis Loudenback hit a solo home run in the ninth inning to push Ardmore past the Puebla Parrots, 5-4. Puebla had tied the Rosebuds with a run in the top of the ninth.

The Austin Senators also sneaked across a run in the ninth inning to trim Poza Rica, 6-5. Herminio Cortes lashed a two-run homer in the seventh inning to put the Oilers ahead. But the Senators rallied for single tallies in the last two innings.

Amarillo did not have it easy either. The Gold Sox went 10 innings before Chuck Buheller cracked a homer for a 2-1 victory over the Monterrey Sultans. Gold Sox reliever Paul Erickson choked off a rally in the top of the 10th for the win.

At Victoria, Johnny Weekly hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning to pace the Giants to a 5-1 victory over the Veracruz Eagles. The Tulsa Oilers jumped off to a five-run first inning against the Mexico City Tigers and then staved off the visitors in the final frames for an 8-6 victory. Tulsa added single runs in the 6th, 7th, and 8th innings to offset a 4-run Tiger rally in the seventh inning. Amarillo remained 2½ games ahead of Tulsa for the top spot in the league.

Nine Americans Left In French Golf Tournament

PARIS (UPI)—Nine Americans survivors took out after front-running Kel Nagle of Australia today on the final two rounds of the French Open golf championship with little hope of catching him.

Nagle, the 196 British Open champion, shot a three-under-par 69 on the La Boulie course Tuesday to take the 36-hole lead by one stroke over his countryman, Pater Thomson. Nagle's total was 137. Thomson shot a second-round 70.

The closest Americans among those who made the grade for today's final two rounds were Harley Long of Troy, Ohio, and Paul Kelly of Philadelphia. But their 145 total was eight strokes off the pace. Kelly shot a 71 Tuesday and Long a 72.

4 Winners Are Ridden By Hartack

By United Press International
Some racing "experts" have been hinting that jockey Bill Hartack is over the hill, but don't believe it.

Hartack, still young in racing circles at 29, has been having trouble settling down lately but he showed some of his old form at Arlington Park Tuesday when he brought home four winners, including Nalita ($7.00) in the feature seventh.

Hartack also scored aboard Solar Stone ($9.20) in the first and Wasn't Looking ($12.00) in the second for a $62.20 double and then with Diana Diver ($9.40) in the fifth.

The favored We're Hoping won by two lengths over Ronnie's Ace in the $21,350 El Dorado Handicap, at Hollywood Park. Willie Harmatz was aboard We're Hoping, who returned $5.60, $3.20 and $2.20. Songman finished third.

Chalvedele recovered from a poor start to win the featured $7,500 allowance fest at Aqueduct by a half-length over Ringitlam with Linda J. A. finishing third. Chalvedele covered the mile in 1:36 3/4 and returned $5.40, $4.00 and $3.40.

Fifinella Miss, an unpredictable daughter of Big Dipper 2nd, scored an easy victory over Craftiness and Green Trunk in the feature at Monmouth. Walter Blum rode her over the six furlongs in 1:11 and Fifinella Miss paid $17.40, $6.80 and $4.60 for her second triumph in five attempts this year.

Intoxicating notched her second straight triumph with an easy three and three-quarter length decision over Valerie J. at Rockingham. Timed in 1:11 2/5 for the six furlongs. Intoxicating paid $4.00.

BIG FUTURE, TOO

Eulogies For Ty Cobb Declared To Be Late

NEW YORK (UPI) — They bury Ty Cobb today and it's a pity that he can't hear the eulogy. Baseball men across the nation are lavish with their praise and words of warm admiration. All of them come a trifle late.

For Tyrus Raymond Cobb needed it most in the vacant years after he left the game, years in which he was a lonely man burdened with the ready hatreds and undying dislikes of a scornful youth.

It is easy to sound as if you are disparaging him. Because, aside from the icy incomparability of the records he compiled, Cobb never was loved by the men of baseball or their fans. That was reserved for the smiling ones, the Ruths and the Gehrigs, and their easy-going like.

Cobb knew he was revered as a player. But he also knew he had accomplished his objective with unflinching anger and a flagrant air of superiority. There had been too many years in which he riled, scoffed and shunned people. Summing up his career, he recalled the manner in which the older players had hated him when he first went up to Detroit. The wattled neck turned crimson at the furious memory.

"I resolved I'd be tougher and meaner than any of them," he growled. Nobody ever succeeded so fully. Thus it was, as the years closed in on him, that in the twilight of his career few words of encouragement ever were written to him. Every season toward the climax there were dire predictions, with an overtone of happy anti-bearable. Cobb, never one to ask for quarter, carefully concealed his pity. Yet, on occasion it blazed through. Where others of his era praised the players who came later, Cobb with all of the old disdain unsoftened by mellowing friendships, barked: "Nothing means much today. Some second rate hinky-dink can come up and pop a ball clear to the fence, a hit that with the old ball would have barely got out of the infield."

It did little to endear him to the moderns, and it told the old ones that Cobb still was Cobb. Thus time did little to dull the fangs of the legend and Cobb experienced the frustration in many ways. Like the time an oldster introduced his son to Cobb. "Oh, yes," said the boy, "I remember you. You were known as the spiker."

Nag Stirs 'Big Din' At Track

By BILL McCORMICK
NEW YORK (NEA) — That window-shattering din that panicked Orange County, N. Y., was not caused by the accidental detonation of a hydrogen bomb, a quiet rally of pro-Castroites or a second Black Tom explosion.

It was brought about by an even more dire calamity. Somebody named a horse after the vacationing full-time proprietor of this column!

To compound the catastrophe, it's a good horse. The uproar that shook the countryside was set up by Harry Grayson as his namesake, Meadow Grayson, romped in first in both heats of a two-year-old pace that closed Grand Circuit Week at Historic Track in Goshen in a blaze of glory.

"Class will tell," expanded the Newspaper Enterprise Association sports editor, shaking his gray mane in the winner's circle. "Breeding is everything."

Meadow Grayson, a lanky, big brown gelding, is by Meadow Rice out of Isolde. His papa won at Goshen as a two-year-old and went on to take the Little Brown Jug — Kentucky Derby of the pacers — in 1952. His best time for the mile was 1:58.1 and he wound up a great-free-for-all pacer with winnings of $205,000.

Isolde, Meadow Grayson's dam, was by Nibble Hanover, a world champion trotter.

"Grayson's so speedy I had to take him wide on the turns," said Del Miller, the Squire of Meadowlands who bred the gelding, echoing a common complaint against the horse's god-father. "Even at that, he won the first heat in 2:05.2."

A 2:05.2 mile puts the green gelding right up there among the more experienced pacers. It also paces even faster time on the mile tracks of the Grand Circuit, where he will have to make only two turns.

"Meadow Grayson has been entered in eight stake races," confessed owner-driver Miller, indicating great confidence in the youngster. Following a year or so on the Grand Circuit, Meadow Grayson may be aimed for some of the huge purses on the mink-lines, big-betting tracks.

"He performs well and I can foresee only one difficulty," said Miller. "Being named Grayson, he may bolt for the clubhouse on the first turn at the big tracks."

Cobb, never one to ask for quarter, carefully concealed his pity. Yet, on occasion it blazed through. Where others of his era praised the players who came later, Cobb with all of the old disdain unsoftened by mellowing friendships, barked: "Nothing means much today. # 12-Inning Shutout Duel Staged By Pitchers Before Rally Ends It

They say Frank Carpin of the Richmond Virginians is a good bet to make the grade with the New York Yankees one of these days, and when he does, it's doubtful if he'll ever run into a pitcher as tough as Tom Tresh.

"I resolved I'd be tougher and meaner than any of them," he growled. Nobody ever succeeded so fully. Thus it was, as the years closed in on him, that in the twilight of his career few words of encouragement ever were written to him. Every season toward the climax there were dire predictions, with an overtone of happy anti-bearable. Cobb, never one to ask for quarter, carefully concealed his pity. Yet, on occasion it blazed through. Where others of his era praised the players who came later, Cobb with all of the old disdain unsoftened by mellowing friendships, barked: "Nothing means much today. Some second rate hinky-dink can come up and pop a ball clear to the fence, a hit that with the old ball would have barely got out of the infield."

It did little to endear him to the moderns, and it told the old ones that Cobb still was Cobb. Thus time did little to dull the fangs of the legend and Cobb experienced the frustration in many ways. Like the time an oldster introduced his son to Cobb. "Oh, yes," said the boy, "I remember you. You were known as the spiker."

Action On Again In American

By United Press International
Lea guleading Indianapolis hosted Omaha today when American Association action resumed after a two-day layoff.

Louisville, 53 winners over the league All Stars Monday, travelled to Houston. The Colonels earned the right to host the All Stars because they were in first place in the standings on July 5. Indianapolis gained a 1½ game lead over the Colonels by winning eight games during an 11-game series at Louisville and Indianapolis just before the All-Star game. Third-place Denver met Dallas-Fort Worth at Fort Worth.

Silent Kubek Pleased With Shortstop Post

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — It's not the honor of being named shortstop for the American League All-Stars that impresses Tony Kubek.

"It's the money," said the rangy Yankee who cut short the three-year reign of little Luis Aparicio as abruptly as a South American revolution.

"Think what it means when you go into your boss's office to talk salary. They got to respect it. I wish I made the All-Star team four years ago."

For Tony that constitutes a speech. "I'm not much of a talker," he confessed. "You know what Casey (Stengel) called Bobby Richardson and me. The Silent Infield."

It makes a guy remember the Yankees of Joe McCarthy's "push button" days when from the cool green caverns under the Stadium strode a stream of strong, silent types with bats like machetes and an inner compulsion to level everything in sight. Which they did.

Kubek is like that — a mechanically superb, relentlessly efficient ball player who keeps the little storms of competitive fire hidden behind his bland Slavic face. There's a little bit of Charley Keller and Earl Combs and Red Rolfe in the quiet, yet brilliant way he plays baseball.

This lack of outward fury might explain why recognition has been delayed until his fifth year in the majors, although Tony is still a few months away from being 25. He did a "god job" of hiding his emotions as Stengel switched him from third to second to left field to centerfield, almost every place it now seems but his eventual niche at shortstop.

Tony didn't like it, and he'll tell you so, but his protests were hushed by the old chestnut of wanting to do what's good for the team. The damage of shifting positions was a tenseness that only Tony felt.

"Relaxation," he explained, "isn't something you can just turn on and off. Knowing I'm going to play short every day relaxes me. The old way I used to have to go out on the field early every night, before the other guys, and work a half hour in the outfield. Then come in and work a half hour in the infield. It would take away from my concentration on hitting."

Colts Rap Elk City

Pampa's Colts took a 9-to-6 victory, their sixth straight win from the Elk City baseball crew Tuesday night in a game featured by seven doubles and a grand slam home.

Elk City scored in the first inning while holding the Colts scoreless. The Colts came back in the second, however, to take a one run lead by scoring twice. The Colts scored again in the fourth and fifth innings, getting two runs in each. In the sixth the Colts got another run and added two more in the eighth.

Elk City scored five runs in the eighth inning in a strong rally but left them short of the necessary winning runs.

Zale's Assistant Managers Direct Sales Campaigns

There are over 200 "Johnnies-on-the-spot" this week as assistant managers of Zale Jewelry Company stores in 33 states take over the managerial reins while their bosses are in New York attending the company's semi-annual sales meeting.

"We're quite serious about this 'Johnny-on-the-spot' business," company President Ben A. Lipshy said. "We've grown very rapidly in the last three years, adding over 100 stores in this period of time. Good managers are needed for the further expansion we anticipate, and next week will give assistant managers a chance to prove their capabilities."

Assistant managers will have complete responsibility for store operation, and what is accomplished during the specially-planned Assistant Manager's Sale will help guide company officials in selecting future store leaders.

"We know each of them is capable of selling, and running the store when the manager is out for a day or so. What we don't know is: Can he plan and execute a successful sales promotion," the Zale president added.

TIRES AND SAVINGS — Vernon Maddox of Central Tire Works, 618 E. Frederic, displays some of the all-new recaps now available at terrific savings to you. These tires will give new tire service. Trade in your recappable tire now and when you get your retread tire you pay only for the new tread. Central Tire retreads are stocked for most all sizes of passenger and truck tires. Come in today. (Daily News Photo)

Central Tire Works Recaps Tires With Precision For Long Service

Precision work with the best materials. That describes the tire retreading and repairing at Central Tire Works, 618 E. Frederic, MO 4-3781.

You are invited to visit Central Tire Works, watch Wade Maddox, owner and operator, and his son, Vernon, repair and retread tires. Notice how modern the equipment is.

Every tire is buffed before retreading it. Object of the buffing on the Precision Buffer is to make sure that the tire is perfectly round and to insure a perfect union with the new tread. After that tire is placed on a balance indicator which shows the heavy and light parts of the tire. A touch of extra rubber makes the balance perfect.

Central Tire Works uses the famous Bacon Retread Molds because these machines are designed for the low pressure, cold process which gives longer life and more miles to the tire.

Heat does not touch the carcass of the tire in the Bacon Retread Process. The body of the tire which is covered in the process, stays cool. Test the coolness, put your hand on the side of a tire. Wardie is retreading.

The molds in Central Tire Works can retread just about all passenger car tires, and truck tires up to the largest in the Panhandle, the big 10 by 20.

One point about recaps: Central Tire retreads will hold their balance longer than new tires. The reason: new rubber stretches as it aligns itself to the wheel and the stress of wear. Therefore a new tire will go out-of-balance and out-of-round in its early miles. But in a retread the rubber has stretched and will hold its balance and shape.

Grimes Molds for conventional and tubeless tire repair are used at Central Tire Works. The vulcanizing is done exactly to the damaged spot. This makes the repaired part of the tire actually stronger than the original tire. And no extra heat is applied to the tire.

Come in, take advantage of Central Tire Works' retread plan. You will like the tires, repairs, retread and prices at Central Tire Works, 618 E. Frederic.

Wealthy British Earl, Princess Marry In Secret

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Grace Radziwill, 38, and the wealthy Earl of Dudley, 67, were secretly married yesterday, the London Evening Standard reported.

The princess is the former wife of Prince Stanislas Radziwill, now the husband of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's sister, Lee.

Dudley, whose two previous marriages ended in death and divorce, is a close friend of the Duke of Windsor. His family coal and iron fortunes make him one of Britain's wealthiest men.

The newspaper said there were pre-wedding difficulties because neither of the couple's previous marriages was recognized by the Roman Catholic Church. It said Dudley, now taking religious instruction to become a Catholic, had to get special papers from Rome.

Game And Fish Member Named

AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Price Daniel named Wilson Southwell of San Antonio today to the Game and Fish Commission succeeding Hal Peterson of San Antonio.

Southwell is a Texas member of the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission. He was appointed to the unexpired term ending Sept. 1 and to a full six-year term thereafter.

Peterson resigned for health reasons.

Research Reveals Most Americans 'Right-Eared'

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. Lennart L. Kopra of the University of Texas speech department believes that the United States is a nation of "right-eared" people. "We may be exposed to noise more on the left side than the right," he said after hearing tests showed more people hear better with their right ears.

The difference in hearing threshold levels between the left and right ear was less than two decibels, statistically significant, according to Kopra, although of no practical concern.

"This doesn't make much difference in ordinary listening," he said, "because normal speech amounts to 60 decibels."

Kopra bases his conclusions on six years of research on the hearing ability of members of the U.S. Air Force stationed at Bergstrom Air Force Base near Austin.

The latest survey, on 446 men whose jobs aren't near enough to the flight line to expose them to loud noise, supported earlier findings that persons hear better with their right ears.

"While our findings on the effect of noise on impairing hearing aren't complete," Kopra said, "I expect that the overall noise problem is not as great as we thought five years ago." "Some individuals may sustain a hearing loss, but even jet engine roar and gunshots apparently do not hamper hearing much," he added.

Getting back to the conclusion that people hear better with their right ears, Kopra cited results of tests given to visitors at the 1954 Wisconsin State Fair and 75,000 Air Force personnel.

Viet Nam Claims 167 Communist Soldiers Killed

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI)—The South Vietnamese government reported today government troops led by paratroopers killed 167 Communist Viet Cong guerrillas Sunday in a six hour battle.

It was a major victory for President Ngo Dinh Diem's campaign to wipe out the Red rebels and officials made no secret of their elation.

Defense Secretary Nguyen Dinh Thuan and army chief of staff Gen. Le Van Ty personally rushed to the area to congratulate the victorious troops.

Congo Parliament Meeting In Doubt

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Chances that the Congo's parliament could reunite this nation appeared doomed today even before the opening session.

Katanga Province President Moise Tshombe let it be known from Elisabethville Monday that he would not attend.

Antoine Gizenga, the leftist leader of Stanleyville, has not yet shown up either, although many of his deputies have arrived.

Central government President Joseph Kasavubu seemed determined to carry out the plan to reconvene parliament anyway, perhaps in hope that once it starts the other leaders will be attracted to it.

"Since poorer hearing is observed consistently in the left ear, it exists between right and left ears," our cultural environment, Kopra said. The fact that most people better.
