Kennedy And Khrushchev Plan Parley In Austria

Talks Are Scheduled For June 3-4 After JFK Sees DeGaulle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy will confer with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in Vienna on June 3-4, the White House announced today.

Following the informal talks in Austria between the American chief executive and the Russian leader, Kennedy will go to London for a brief conference with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Kennedy will see Khrushchev after his previously announced meeting with French President Charles de Gaulle in Paris May 31-June 2.

The White House emphasized that the Kennedy-Khrushchev talks were not designed for the purpose "of negotiating or reaching agreement on the major international problems that involve the interest of many other countries."

Kennedy will be accompanied to Paris, Vienna and London by his wife. The President will leave London late June 5 for the United States, but Mrs. Kennedy will remain there for a few more days with her sister, Princess Radziwill.

The Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting has been under consideration for about nine weeks, and the chief executive decided to proceed with definite plans after sounding out other Allied governments.

Kennedy was expected to discuss his plans for meeting Khrushchev with the National Security Council today at an afternoon session.

Preliminary arrangements already were being made in Vienna. The Austrian government ordered the former imperial Hapsburg palace at Hofburg and the Schoenbrunn and Belvedere estates spruced up as possible sites for the conference.

Vote Kills School Aid Smoke Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate defeated today a GOP amendment to the administration's aid-to-education bill which would help pay for the program by returning to the states three out of every eight cents collected in federal cigarette taxes.

The vote rejecting the amendment was 63 to 29. It was sponsored by Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., with some modification by Sen. Jack Miller, R-Neb.

The cigarette tax amendment was defeated shortly after the Senate convened at 7 a.m. three hours earlier than usual to resume work on the $2.5 billion measure. The administration bill would pay for the program by outright federal grants and loans.

Next the Senate was to consider Sen. William Proxmire's proposal, which would finance the bill's program of aid for school construction and teacher salaries through a system of tax rebates rather than federal grants.

Then, the Senate was committed to start its discussion of allocation formulas with consideration of an alternative proposed by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

The school segregation issue was still the school bill's not very silent partner Thursday—a day in which virtually no progress was made on the measure.

THREE OF THE CRAZIEST—Downtown merchants, left to right, Bill McComas, Lou Troja and Sam Jacobson appear to be perfectly balanced on a rope across Cuyler St. in this photograph, dreamed up by Daily News Photographer Bob Hale. But that was today. Tomorrow they will be as unbalanced and wacky as you can get. For tomorrow is Krazy Day in Pampa. Scores of Pampa merchants and store clerks will join with this Krazy Trio in a special day of Krazy Bargains in their stores. Many of these bargains practically will be give-aways. The day opens with a Street Coffee for the clerks and store managers at 8 a.m. They'll all be in costume. Then at 9 a.m. the stores will open for the craziest sales event in Pampa's merchandising history. A 4-foot loving cup will go to the craziest-looking store and a special prize to the craziest clerk. Tornadoes Again Pelt Wide Area

By United Press International
Rains up to five inches, baseball-sized hailstones and tornadoes battered West Texas again Thursday night and the U. S. Weather Bureau said no relief is in sight.

A low pressure system producing the turbulence has refused to budge from its trough over West Texas and Southwest Oklahoma. Temperatures overnight ranged between 49 degrees at Dalhart to 77 at Corpus Christi.

A five-inch rain at Colorado City filled streets of that West Texas town with 18 inches of water, and golf-ball-sized hailstones knocked out dozens of windows. The Colorado River, Champion Creek and Morgan Creek, all near Colorado City, were bankful.

At least three tornadoes were sighted in open country around Pecos, Fort Stockton and Big Spring.

High winds smashed windows and picked up a carport in Lubbock. Baseball-sized hail inflicted heavy damage in the Oklahoma Lane community, 12 miles northwest of Muleshoe. The ground was white with hailstones near Bovina and L.A. Northcutt, a farmer between Bovina and Muleshoe, said wheat was damaged very heavily.

Four inches of rain fell in the Snyder area and water covered U. S. 84 between Lubbock and Littlefield and U. S. 87 five miles north of Abernathy.

Lightning set fire to a battery of oil storage tanks between Garden City and Big Spring.

State Sales Tax Action Uncertain

AUSTIN (UPI)—The next installment in the Texas Legislature's tax battle will be played Saturday as House members took a holiday today while senators worked.

In the last chapter, the House refused Thursday to give immediate consideration to the 2 per cent sales tax that passed the Senate a few hours earlier and adjourned until 11 a.m. Saturday.

Senators agreed to work today so a conference committee could be appointed if the House rejected their $330 million tax plan. The bill they sent to the House was a substitute for a 2 per cent sales tax passed earlier in the lower chamber. The House can either accept the plan or refuse to concur in the amendments and call for a conference committee to iron out the differences.

Reps. George Hinson of Mineola and Charles Ballman of Borger were both turned down Thursday night on motions to suspend the rules for immediate consideration.

Opponents said the bill hadn't been printed, and they wanted time to study the measure.

Rep. John Huebner of Bay City pointed out that the bill had been published in the Senate Journal and said "we're evading the issue."

If the House refuses to concur Saturday, it will be late Monday before a conference committee can go to work. There will only (See STATE, Page 3)

Racial Freedom Group Expelled From Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—A racially-mixed group of students taken into "protective custody" after they tried to desegregate a bus terminal was reported driven out of Alabama during the night.

A Negro integration leader charged the group was taken out of town against their will. City officials refused to comment. Reliable sources told UPI that the eight Negroes in the group were taken from the jail in a black limousine and were driven back to Tennessee, the origin of their abortive "freedom ride" which ended here Wednesday.

Bus drivers refused to take them any farther for fear of violence from gathering crowds and in face of a warning by Gov. John Patterson that he would not protect the students.

The two white members of the party were reported to have been released earlier Thursday. All attended colleges in Nashville, Tenn.

The Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, Birmingham Negro leader, said the students were taken to Ardmore, Tenn., just over the border, and dumped on the streets at 4 a.m. He said they were told not to return to Birmingham but said they would be back.

Mississippi Flood Being Held Back

DYERSBURG, Tenn. (UPI)—Volunteer workers and 66 convicts sandbagged a 15-mile long levee to keep the rampaging Mississippi River away from 200 homes and reported today that it was holding.

"It looks like it's going to hold," Sheriff Ted Pitts said. He had predicted earlier that the levee "could break any minute."

The apparent victory came with 550,000 acres of Midwest lowlands flooded.

Armed Forces Parade Slated For Tomorrow

Pampa's five armed forces reserve units will join tomorrow in observance of Armed Forces Day with a parade in the forenoon, a luncheon for key personnel and civic leaders, and an afternoon of defense equipment exhibits.

The Army, Navy, Air Force, Marines and National Guard units will take part in a downtown parade scheduled for 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Reserve members of the five units will march and ride with equipment used in their local training.

An Armed Forces Day luncheon is scheduled for noon in the Coronado Inn. Key personnel of the reserve units and civic leaders will attend.

Among special guests from the various units will be Capt. Bill Cooper of the U. S. Army, Capt. Jack Miller of the U.S. Navy, Col. James R. Brown and Col. Travis Lively of the U.S. Air Force, Capt. Pernal Scoggins and Captain O'Rourke of the U.S. Marines, and Capt. Lawrence Hurdle of the National Guard.

Sgt. Wesley Langham, executive officer of the Pampa National Guard unit, is coordinating the program for tomorrow. It will include a history of local reserve units, a brief talk by E. Roy Smith, president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, and special awards to be made by Chief Petty Officer D. W. Brown of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Service in Pampa.

Tomorrow's luncheon will be presided over by Rev. Ronald Hubbard, pastor of First Presbyterian Church. Pledge of allegiance to the flag will be led by Gerald Sims, commander Pampa American Legion Post. Invocation will be given by the Rev. Richard Crews, pastor of First Christian Church.

Special entertainment will be furnished by Miss Jean Holman, vocalist, and Jean Prock, pianist. Special exhibits of armed forces equipment used by the local reserve units will be on display tomorrow afternoon in the First National Bank annex and the adjacent parking lot.

Edward A. McDermott, deputy director-designate of OICDM, said in opening the symposium that he is not too concerned about how the public would behave if disaster struck.

"Considerable evidence has been gathered," he said, "to refute the notion that violence, hysteria, and general mayhem would be rife under such conditions."

Korean Regime Seeks Friendship With U.S.

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—The republic of Korea's new ruling military junta extended the hand of friendship toward the United States today and proclaimed a battle to the end against communism.

American officials responded with an announcement that U.S. aid to South Korea would continue uninterrupted.

Lt. Gen. Chang Do Yung, head of the revolutionary committee which toppled the government of Premier John M. Chang, outlined his program to newsmen.

He said his regime had "nothing to worry about" in its relations with Americans despite initial opposition to the coup by the U.S. Embassy and Gen. Carter B. Magruder, commander of United Nations and U.S. forces in Korea. "Up to now, the military, more than any other agency of this nation, has maintained close relations with the Americans," he said.

"Therefore, now that the military has come out to take charge of national affairs, I am firmly convinced the Americans will support and cooperate with us as they did in the past."

American diplomatic and aid personnel already were back at their jobs working with Korean government and civilian agencies although U.S. servicemen remained restricted to their compounds.

"American soldiers fought side by side with Korean soldiers and they shed blood together in the past, and they are eating and sleeping together with Korean soldiers today," Gen. Chang said.

"There should not be any doubt about friendship with the United States," Chang said that about 930 Communists or suspected Communists had been arrested up to this morning.

He said they all would be investigated and either released or "severely punished."

One of the reasons the generals staged their coup Tuesday was because they believed the former government was soft on communism. There had been talk of negotiations with the North Korean regime.

Gen. Chang said this will not happen under his rule and he warned students not to hold demonstrations in favor of this.

"We will not bow down to communism," he said.

Premier Chang and his cabinet, who announced their resignation Thursday, were being held in house arrest. The general said they would be punished "if they are found guilty of violating laws."

The United States aid mission officials informed the reconstruction ministry that American aid programs would continue as they had in the past.

Legislative Gun Bill Unites Chicago Gangs

CHICAGO (UPI)—A squabble over machine guns united Chicago crime fighters and gangsters today for the first, and probably the last time in the violent blood-spattered history of the "Chicago typewriter."

The Illinois House of Representatives Thursday killed, 82-31, a criminal code amendment that would have made it legal to fire the weapons inside state borders.

The bill's sponsor, Republican Rep. Rae Heiple of Washington, said he introduced the rider for the benefit of gun collectors.

Chicago spokesmen on both sides of the law felt the legislative suggestion had little to do with the facts.

Veteran Chicago Crime Commission Director Virgil Petersen said the move was "ridiculous."

"Most of the people who have been collecting machine guns in the past have been mobsters, and they don't use them to hunt rabbits," Petersen said.

A leading crime syndicate figure and pal of reputed syndicate chief Anthony (Tony) Accardo said he did not know why he was asked about the proposed law.

"I don't know nothing about that," he said, and asked that his name not be used.

"What the hell do I care if anyone goes shooting off a machine gun?" he said. "I think those guys in Springfield are shooting off their mouths."

In the state capital, Heiple said machine guns "are no more dangerous than shotguns." The legislation would not affect more than 25 persons in Illinois, he said.

Democratic Rep. Alan Dixon of Belleville countered that he couldn't see "why we should endanger the entire state of Illinois just so 25 guys can sit on their back porch and blast away with machine guns."

Nuclear Attack Would Panic Public, Scientists Say

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American public would panic if struck with a nuclear attack, according to two university scientists.

The scientists said public ignorance and the idea that "if you ignore it, it will go away," have bred American apathy toward civil defense.

The scientists spoke at a symposium on behavioral science and civil defense sponsored Thursday by the National Academy of Sciences and the Office of Civil Defense Mobilization.

Other scientists disagreed about the public reaction to nuclear disaster, but there was general agreement about apathy toward family fallout shelters.

Dr. Jum C. Nunnally Jr. of Vanderbilt University, said he is pessimistic about getting "effective action from the public in the first 24 hours after an attack."

"We are going to have to control the public for the first 24 hours to keep it from hurting itself," he said.

Dr. Lewis J. West of the University of Oklahoma said the public has a psychopathic refusal "to come to grips with reality." He said it involves the "sort of magical thinking we see in children normally, in adults neurotically, and in societies all the time."

This attitude toward any problem, whether the threat of nuclear war or the issue of racial discrimination, is that "if you ignore it, it will go away," West said.

He said many persons feel that "if you build fallout shelters, they'll be used; if you don't build them, you won't need them."

Nunnally attributed to civil defense lethargy to the fact that "our national goals are not spelled out."

He said "our key people are divided and the populace is anxiety-ridden."

Nunnally said "positive incentives" are needed to get civil defense cooperation from the public. He said such incentives are used by the Russians who cite a "cooperative individual" as a good citizen and hang medals on him.

Edward A. McDermott, deputy director-designate of OICDM, said in opening the symposium that he is not too concerned about how the public would behave if disaster struck.

Dr. Chiles P. Loomis of Michigan State University disagreed. "Even if half of all the people were destroyed, the people living would come together" and work for the common good, he said.

Called In Cuban
Invasion Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Senate foreign relations subcommittee called the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff today to explain the role the U.S. military played in the unsuccessful Cuban invasion attempt.

Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer also was expected to tell who ordered the Pentagon to play a role in the attempt to overthrow Cuban dictator Fidel Castro and how closely U.S. military men worked with the Central Intelligence Agency.

Subcommittee Chairman Wayne L. Morse, D-Ore., said "we want to know what the extent of military participation was in the venture — and why."

Lemnitzer was the first scheduled witness as the Morse group moved into the latest phase of its inquiry into the Cuban debacle in the visitors' gallery of the often starchy Canadian House of Com-

Space Platforms
May Be Base For Study Of Stars

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (UPI) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) is building two observatories in space platforms with which to study the stars.

What is learned from experiments performed by these 1½-ton Orbiting Astronomical Observatories (OAO) is expected to contribute to man's knowledge of the makeup of the stars and planets and of space itself.

Scientists believe the OAO's also may help provide a few answers to maddening flight problems, although this is not their basic purpose.

NASA plans to launch the first ½ by ½-foot OAO into a 500-mile circular orbit from Cape Canaveral on an Atlas-Agena B missile vehicle in 1962.

In such an orbit, the space observatory would be above much of the earth's atmosphere which previously has prevented telescopes on earth from getting a clear view of the stars.

Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. has displayed a model of the OAO's it is building here under the direction of NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center.

The body of the model looks like a large, eight-sided box which a Grumman spokesman said would be the observatory's coated aluminum skin.

This box has a double set of square "ears," paddles covered with solar cells to provide 300 watts of electricity to power the OAO's instruments.

And it wears a sunshade — a curved paddle set vertically in the center of its top to shade its "eye," a telescope aperture, from the sun.

The OAO's being built on a $23 million NASA contract have another feature visible on the model — "star trackers" which look like small knobs. The star trackers are part of a stabilizing system to provide enough information by television and radio messages for scientists on the ground to send the observatory orders aiming it at a specific star or area of the sky.

The space observatory would be turned in the direction of its target by gas jets or wheels activated by these radio orders from earth, the Grumman spokesman said.

Walter Scott, Grumman's Space Sciences Department chief, said the stabilizing instruments would be "so sensitive they would detect the vibration caused by the coursing of blood through a human body."

He said these instruments would give the OAO "better pointing accuracy than that of any existing large observatory here on earth."

He compared this accuracy with keeping sighted on a basketball 500 miles away.

The Grumman spokesman said each of the OAO's was designed as a "standardized shell," into which one or more separate experiments could be fitted for each flight.

Planned for the instruments are experiments proposed by the Goddard Center, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, the University of Wisconsin, Princeton

Famous Dog Buried With Full Honors

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Old "Sarge" never placed at any dog shows. And he never starred on television or in the movies.

All the German shepherd ever did in his 26-year lifetime was fight with the Marines on Guadalcanal, Saipan and Tarawa, save the lives of nine U.S. servicemen, earn the Silver Star for heroism under fire and get a Purple Heart and two clusters for combat wounds.

Army Sgt. Edward Platt bought "Sarge" (Major Von Luckner III) at the age of six months and gave him to his wife.

When World War II came, the Platts all went to war, including their dog.

"We all wanted to go to war — my son, my husband, myself," said Mrs. Platt. "I worked for the government too and I didn't want Major to join the city pound."

"Sarge" became a sentry at a prison camp in Mississippi — Camp Shelby, but ½ years of his five with the military were spent with the 2nd Marine Corps Regiment in the South Pacific.

He was wounded three times. A bomb concussion threw him into the air. He was shot in the tail once and the head once. He carried messages and was a fighter. Nine times he came upon wounded men and, according to Mrs. Platt, dragged them to safety "with the help of God."

The 81-pound dog carried the official rank of sergeant on his K9 uniform and was discharged in 1947, one of the three most decorated dogs of the war.

The city of Los Angeles gave him lifetime free dog license tags. More than 100 persons attended his birthday party last month.

The canine Marine, the last known battle dog hero of World War II, died of old age Wednesday after 26 years, 1 month and 1 day of life, the equivalent of a human life of 146 years.

The Marine Corps League of California buried him with full military honors.

Helicopter Sets
New Speed Mark

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy has claimed a new world speed record for helicopters — 192.8 miles an hour.

The fastest speed previously reached was 166.5 miles an hour, achieved by a Russian helicopter on Nov. 21, 1959.

The Navy said the new record was set Thursday by a Sikorsky H53 at Bradley Field, Windsor Locks, Conn., over a 1.86-mile straightaway.

University Observatory and Harvard University.

St. Matthew's School Students Feted At Dinner

More than two hundred and twenty pupils and their parents attended the Annual Family Night Dinner of St. Matthew's Episcopal Day School last night, held in the Parish House of the Church.

In addition to the children and parents a large number of public school teachers attended as guests of the Day School. Following the dinner a musical program under the direction of Mrs. George Casey was presented by the Kindergarten, the First, Second and Third grades of the school.

The Rev. William E. West, rector and headmaster of the school, announced that conversation French would be taught to all grade pupils next fall. Enrollments for the fall terms are rapidly being completed and the Rev. West urged those parents who had not yet registered their children for next fall to do so this week.

The children and teachers held open house in their classrooms following the program and class work was displayed and explained to the visitors. St. Matthew's Day School belongs to the Episcopal Schools Association and is accredited by that organization, composed of over 1200 schools. Rev. Mr. West is a member of the national accreditation committee of the association.

John Skelly Named To Head State Center

Skelly, of 916 N. Somerville, was recently named to head the Texas Rehabilitation Center of Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation in Gonzales, a non-profit, charitable corporation dedicated to the physical rehabilitation of disabled Texans.

Also named to the Foundation's Board of Directors was Herman Whitley of 312 Browning. Bob Clements of 1437 North Hobart was elected to the board at the 1960 annual meeting.

Skelly and his team of Texans are responsible for the operation of the $2,500,000 center, located near Gonzales in South Texas.

Other Panhandle board members are Joe Macrander, 104 North La Salle, Amarillo; Harlan A. Hodges, fourth vice - president, Lubbock; and Paul L. Spring, M.D., of Friona.

Two Men Accused Of Home Burglary

Two men, one from Amarillo and the other from Borger, were in city jail today for questioning about the theft of a record player from the home of John Moseley, 318 W. Albert.

Moseley said his record player disappeared after he gave the two men a key to his house and told them they could go there and shave.

Police Chief Jim Conner said today he was getting very little cooperation from the two prisoners.

"One says he knows nothing about it," the chief said, "and the other said Moseley told them they could borrow the record player."

Moseley says it isn't true and he would like to know where the record player is. So far police have been unable to locate it.

The police chief said the men will be questioned further.

The Senate gave the levy 19-12 approval Thursday. But the sales tax's House sponsor, Rep. Charles Wilson of Trinity, met the Senate version with mixed emotions.

Wilson said the bill was better written than the tax he guided through the House, but said he wanted the bill to go to conference committee in hopes the group would add a tax on corporate income.

He said he believed that would melt much of Gov. Price Daniel's opposition to the tax. The governor has said he will veto a general sales tax.

Two Burglary Suspects Held For Grand Jury

James L. Watson, 629 N. Christy, and Steve K. Harris, 809 W. Foster, today were awaiting grand jury action following arraignment yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace J. W. Graham on burglary charges.

Watson and Harris were arrested early yesterday in connection with burglarizing the Service Liquor Store, 800 W. Foster, and the Owl Liquor Store, 108 E. Craven.

They were each charged on two counts of burglary and Justice Graham set bond at $1,500 on each count.

Police accused the two men of breaking a glass window in the liquor stores and stealing several bottles of liquor from a display.

Federated Congo Republic Favored

COQUILHATVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—A plan for a middle-road federated Congo republic of 18 states emerged today from the conference of Congolese leaders headed by central President Joseph Kasavubu.

The states would replace the present six provinces and would be combined under a fairly strong central government. Leopoldville would be the federal capital with status similar to that of Washington, D. C.

Tower Confers With Eisenhower

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower gave some much-wanted help today to the Republican candidate for senator from Texas.

Eisenhower, a native of Texas, met with John G. Tower, the youthful senatorial candidate, for about half an hour in the former president's office at Gettysburg College.

The two men participated in a filmed interview to be used in the final week of Tower's campaign on Texas television stations.

Tower was in Pampa only yesterday conferring with his supporters.

Tower faces Sen. William Blakley, now holding the Senate seat by appointment, in a runoff election May 27 for the Senate seat once held by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The TV interview was the first for Eisenhower in behalf of any senatorial candidate during or after his administration.

After their meeting, Eisenhower escorted Tower to the door of the red brick house he uses as an office and told his caller, "thank you for coming up."

"Good luck, good luck," the former President said as he bade Tower goodbye on a gray, chilly day.

Nationwide Rail Strike Seems Near

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—A nationwide railroad strike which could halt all freight and passenger traffic service by most major lines has been scheduled for Monday by the AFL-CIO Railroad Yardmasters of America.

The 5,800-member union has been negotiating for 18 months with railroads on wages and fringe benefits. E. L. Kirkpatrick, Cleveland, union general chairman, said if members of other unions respect yardmaster picket lines the strike could halt traffic on 39 railroads serving major communities.

Setting of the strike deadline was expected to open the way for President Kennedy to refer the contract dispute to an emergency board, which could delay the walkout for several months.

Railroads involved in the dispute include the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Erie, Nickel Plate, Baltimore & Ohio, and Chesapeake & Ohio, Kirkpatrick said.

bill the meeting as a "summit" conference. Rather, Kennedy planned a type of "get-acquainted" meeting which would give him an opportunity to dispel any misapprehensions Khrushchev may have about U. S. determination to resist Communist encroachment.

They said there was no intention on Kennedy's part of attempting to reach agreement with the Soviet premier on the major issues between the two nations.

However, they will discuss some of these problems. Kennedy, for example, was expected to sound out Khrushchev on whether there is any hope for a nuclear test ban and stress the need for a solution in Laos to assure stability in Southeast Asia.

Plane-Returning Yanks From Cuba

MIAMI (UPI)—A special airliner from Havana was due to land here today, bringing home 82 Americans—the first to be repatriated since Premier Fidel Castro proclaimed Cuba a "socialist republic."

The Swiss embassy in Havana, which arranged the repatriation as the representative of U. S. interests in Cuba, said another 89 Americans are being cleared for departure.

Teacher Who Fled Soviet Union Graduates Back To A Classroom

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — A professor without proof of a degree and who last year was a janitor today is teaching 15 hours of Russian and German at Gonzaga University in Spokane.

The jump from the Catholic school hallways he cleaned to the classrooms where he now teaches was not one, however, for which 56-year-old Valentin Herzog was unprepared.

More than 20 years ago, Herzog was superintendent of an 84-school district which employed 320 teachers in the Ukraine, USSR. He resigned in 1940, he says, "because of the difficulties of being a German in Communist Russia."

At least two generations of his family had lived by the Black Sea and Herzog had attended the Institute for Teachers, had married and was the father of four children when the war years came along to tear up his life.

Nazi Germans herded a 34-mile-long line of Germans, including the Herzogs, out of Russia in 1943. He remembers vividly the weary two-month trip during which his wife gave birth to their fifth child, a boy.

"They finally let her rest for two days before we had to start out again... we were all so tired and had no idea where we were going," Herzog recalled.

The Herzog family was settled in Poland, but Valentin was drafted into the German army. When the Russians came into Poland, his wife, fearful she and the children might be sent back to Russia, fled and with the aid of the Germans went to Berlin.

But Mrs. Herzog, again fearful of capture, destroyed all family papers and records. With the aid of an understanding neighbor, the woman managed to get Polish citizenship papers.

"And that's what happened to my degree," Herzog said, "although at the time I knew nothing about it... I had no idea what had happened to my family."

Schools Are Declared Burdened With 'Junk'

By FLETCHER ROBERTSON
Daily News Austin Correspondent

AUSTIN—Methodology or "Mickey Mouse" education courses are a big laugh and insult the intelligence of capable students. But wait a minute. Maybe they're not such a laugh after all. These required courses are driving potentially good teachers to other fields of endeavor in droves and that's no laughing matter.

Education courses are supposed to teach teachers how to teach, but miss their mark in many instances. Altogether too many instances. As a matter of fact, the whole philosophy of these courses is debatable.

Prerequisites for a good teacher are knowledge of and enthusiasm for a subject and when a teacher has these qualities he can impart the knowledge to students.

The man who expressed these opinions was Rep. Henry C. Grover of Houston, a freshmen member of the House who is on leave as a classroom teacher from the Houston school district which qualifies him to speak with some authority.

Grover has concentrated his efforts in the Legislature in one area: an attempt to cut down the number of hours in education courses required for Texas teachers.

A bill by Grover to lower education hours required for secondary teachers from 24 to 12 and reduce the hours for elementary teachers from a recommended 60 to 24 has passed the House and awaits action in the Senate. The bill is sponsored in the upper chamber by Sen. Hubert Hudson of Brownsville.

Here's more of what Grover had to say on the "Mickey Mouse" courses:

"Those classes emphasize the obvious. They try to teach common sense in handling classroom situations and if a person doesn't have common sense to start with he will never be a good teacher."

"Many college professors of education have never had a actual classroom experience in subjects they are trying to teach. I think the Texas Education Agency should require all professors of education to have from three to five years teaching experience in elementary and secondary grades before they are eligible to teach education courses."

"Another thing: these courses have been so diluted, or spread out to embrace such a wide variety of phases of teaching that it looks like the educationists are primarily concerned with creating more jobs. Of course, the professional school people are lending a hand toward this objective."

The Texas State Teachers Assn., of course, is opposed to the Grover bill and that figures. They don't want to disturb the way things are now and the teacher certification law is an integral part of their Bill Of Rights. Grover is a member of the TSTA. However, he said his relationship with lobbyists of the organization is rather cool and formal. That also, figures.

Grover insists the official position of the TSTA doesn't represent the thinking of its members, especially in regard to the required education course.

"And I can prove it," Grover said. "I sent out letters explaining my bill to 600 teachers all over the state and asked for their opinions on it. Roughly two-thirds of the 300 answers I received favored the bill. And only 16 of the more than 200 who wrote with me on the bill did not belong to the TSTA. So you could hardly say the TSTA speaks for its member in this case."

The Houston lawmaker also has what seems to be valid conclusions on how the Texas educational system got like it is, top heavy with administrators, counselors, supervisors and other folderol. He went on:

"The method under which Texas teachers are paid is largely responsible for the mess we're in. The competent and incompetent are paid the same salaries and that destroys all incentive to get ahead."

There's only one answer to the problem and that's to work out some kind of merit pay system. It's going to be a difficult thing to do but we've got to do it.

"Another fallacy of our system is that too many people use budgets as yardsticks for progress. Education is something that can't be measured in terms of money. Certainly money is necessary but it doesn't always buy quality education."

Rep. Kilgore Asks Expansion For Weslaco Soil Laboratory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Joe Kilgore, D-Tex., and two soil conservation district supervisors from Texas have asked Congress to expand the soil and moisture research laboratory at Weslaco, Tex.

In testimony delivered May 4 before a House Appropriations subcommittee, the three said agriculture in the Valley was absolutely dependent on available water from the Rio Grande. The testimony was released today.

Hubert Thompson of Mission, Tex., and Albert Hughes of Orange, Tex., gave technical testimony on availability of water and its use on various crops.

The problem, they explained, since amount of water was limited, was to find ways to increase yields with the supply they had.

Kilgore noted that he did not ask for a specific sum of money for the laboratory because appropriations for such work are made in a gross amount, with the Agriculture Department distributing the money where most needed.

The congressman said later, however, he had given a breakdown justification to the Agriculture Department in support of increased research at the Weslaco station.

Kilgore also disclosed that he has asked another subcommittee to approve funds for an agriculture weather reporting service for the Rio Grande Valley.

The congressman said there were two ways this could be done. One was to expand the weather bureau at San Antonio to include the whole of South Texas in agriculture forecasts. He estimated this would cost about $60,000.

The other was to expand the Brownsville weather office to serve the Lower Valley with agricultural weather information. He estimated this would cost about $30,000.

Both plans would require a communications system and a number of area reporting stations.

Brethren Church To Hear Visitor

Eugene Hartman, a young man who recently completed a term of service in domestic Peace Corps project, will visit Pampa Friday and speak at 7:30 at the Church of the Brethren, 600 North Frost.

Hartman, who hails from York, Pennsylvania, spent two years working with migrants in the Corcoran, California, area as his assignment in the Brethren Volunteer Service - Alternative Service program of his denomination. This assignment followed two months of intensive training at the Brethren Service Center in New Windsor, Maryland.

Giving leadership to boys' clubs, a teenage club, and a church school class, as well as visiting in the homes of underprivileged Spanish-speaking, Negro, and Anglo farm workers were included in his duties at Corcoran. Through his experiences working with the California Migrant Ministry and through attending conferences on the migrant problem, he is well-informed regarding the situation of migrant farm laborers in the United States.

Hartman is a link in the chain of more than 1,500 persons, mostly youth, who have taken part in Brethren Volunteer Service since 1945. This Church of the Brethren program was lauded recently in the Congressional Record by Congressman John Brademas of Indiana as "a voluntary program very similar to the Peace Corps plan" now being established.

During the month of May, Hartman will be visiting various churches in Missouri, Oklahoma, and Texas to tell of the story of Brethren Volunteer Service and other aspects of the Brethren Service program. He plans to entertain Elizabeth College in Pennsylvania this coming fall.

The general public is invited to attend. VISIT NORWAY OSLO (UPI) - The Shah and Queen Farah of Iran arrived Thursday for a three-day official visit to Norway.

Programs Listed For 1st Baptist Services Sunday

Dr. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pampa, will be in the pulpit for the three worship services Sunday. At the 8:30 morning worship his subject will be "A Man With An Inferiority Complex." The Chapel Choir will occupy the choir loft and will present special music "Lead Me Lord," an anthem, under the direction of Mr. Joe Whitten, minister of music, Miss Eloise Lane, Church organist, will play, "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour," by Kohlmann for the offertory.

One viewpoint is sometimes called "exclusivism." It is widely held in the 19th Century, and is still the official doctrine of many evangelical or fundamentalist Protestant bodies. Its adherents believe that no man can be saved except through conscious faith in Jesus Christ. They recognize no real values in other religions, and they are convinced that all non-Christians are going to hell, however hard they try to live uprightly by their own lights.

People who hold this view are likely to have a tremendous sense of urgency about proclaiming the Christian gospel to those who have not heard it. It is no accident that fundamentalist denominations pour far more money and manpower into foreign missions, in proportion to their size, than other Christian groups.

Recoiling from exclusivism, some American church members have gone to the opposite extreme. They have adopted what they regard as a broad-minded and tolerant view which has the effect of putting all religions on an equal footing. A popular expression of this attitude is that "it doesn't matter what a man believes because all religions are merely different pathways to the same goal."

People who hold this view - which theologians call "syncretism" - are likely to feel that it is arrogant and presumptuous for Christians to send missionaries abroad. If they support mission programs at all, they want the emphasis placed on providing schools, hospitals and other humanitarian services, rather than trying to win converts.

The third view lacks the all-or-nothing simplicity of the other two. It has never acquired a convenient label, and it cannot be

Religion In America

By LOUIS CASSELS United Press International

Why do Christians send missionaries to people who already have a religion of their own?

That question troubles many church members. It comes up in nearly every discussion of foreign missions. In answering it, a Christian necessarily makes a choice among three different attitudes toward non-Christian religions. And each of these attitudes has theological implications which go far beyond the immediate question of missionary effort.

One viewpoint is sometimes called "exclusivism." It is widely held in the 19th Century, and is still the official doctrine of many evangelical or fundamentalist Protestant bodies. Its adherents believe that no man can be saved except through conscious faith in Jesus Christ. They recognize no real values in other religions, and they are convinced that all non-Christians are going to hell, however hard they try to live uprightly by their own lights.

People who hold this view are likely to have a tremendous sense of urgency about proclaiming the Christian gospel to those who have not heard it. It is no accident that fundamentalist denominations pour far more money and manpower into foreign missions, in proportion to their size, than other Christian groups.

Recoiling from exclusivism, some American church members have gone to the opposite extreme. They have adopted what they regard as a broad-minded and tolerant view which has the effect of putting all religions on an equal footing. A popular expression of this attitude is that "it doesn't matter what a man believes because all religions are merely different pathways to the same goal."

People who hold this view - which theologians call "syncretism" - are likely to feel that it is arrogant and presumptuous for Christians to send missionaries abroad. If they support mission programs at all, they want the emphasis placed on providing schools, hospitals and other humanitarian services, rather than trying to win converts.

The third view lacks the all-or-nothing simplicity of the other two. It has never acquired a convenient label, and it cannot be

Witnesses To Attend Meeting

Jehovah's Witnesses of Pampa are planning to support a three-day Bible convention to be held at Berger June 23-25. Under the sponsorship of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, the local spokesman for the group, Mr. Katsanis, presiding minister stated.

The assembly is one of over 250 similar assemblies that will be held this year in the United States by the World-wide Organization of Jehovah's Witnesses.

The three day seminar will follow the theme, "Walk in the Name of Jehovah Forever," based on the Bible text of Micah 4:5. Opening sessions will include Bible lectures, demonstrations and discussions to aid the witnesses to become more effective ministers.

Featured speaker and chairman will be Joseph Scaglione from Brooklyn, N. Y., world headquarters for Jehovah's Witnesses. He will be assisted by Wilfred Carpenter Jr., traveling circuit supervisor.

Aluminum Dome Coliseum on West Wilson is scheduled to be the site of the convention. Some 500 persons are expected to attend from the Panhandle areas of Texas and Oklahoma and also from Southern Kansas.

'Missionettes' Are Organized

The Rev. J. S. McMullan, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church, announced that a junior girls missionary group has been formed within the church.

U.S. Officer Spurned 'Last Minute' Korean Plea, Informants Say

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following dispatch reports that the United States rejected a dramatic last moment plea that U.S. troops intervene against the Korean rebels who this week overthrew the government of Premier John M. Chang. Highly qualified sources tell for the first time of the maneuverings which preceded the coup.

One contributing reason for this undoubtedly was Magruder's statement calling on the whole army immediately to restore control to the overthrown government. The American army always had strong influence on the Korean military.

Filling Tiny Auto's Tank Cost Seller

NEW YORK (UPI)-"Fill 'er up, the tank's almost dry," said the driver of a small foreign car which had pulled into a gasoline station advertising free gifts. The one-cylinder car (Isotta) took 2.2 gallons of gas for a charge of 66 cents.

The attendant dutifully handed the driver a free set of four drinking glasses when the manager came rushing from the station house.

"What are you doing, what are your doing," he yelled at the attendant. "Giving the free glasses," the man replied. "For 66 cents worth of gas" the manager said incredulously.

The driver kept the glasses but settled on a compromise. The attendant did not have to wipe the car's windshield.

MUTUALS TARGET OF BILL

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

By: JOHN DYER
Pastor, Hobart Street Baptist Church
In Southwest Pampa

"Honor the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase." Proverbs 3:9.
Someone has said, "There is power in wealth" This is true. Power to bless or power to curse. It is God's will that we use our substance to bless. We give gifts as a token of our love. Jesus said, "If you love me keep my commandments." One of the commandments in God's Word is "Bring ye all the tithe into the storehouse." Mal. 3:10. If a christian does not tithe, he does not love God.

I. FOUR THINGS WE CAN DO WITH OUR MONEY

1. Carelessly waste it—so that it does not profit anyone.
2. "Blow it in"—with self indulgence—so that it harms us and ours.
3. Carefully invest and save it—for selfish ends.
4. Use it to bless mankind and glorify God.

II. WHY SHOULD WE HONOR GOD WITH OUR SUBSTANCE?

1. He commands and demands it.
2. He is the real owner of it.
3. He can mightily use it—if given over to him in the right spirit.
4. Our property and money is a part of our selves.
5. God is going to call us to give an account some day.

III. HOW MAY WE HONOR GOD WITH OUR SUBSTANCE

1. The honorable support of our families.
2. Giving regularly the tenth of it to our church for Christ's cause.
3. Investing and using the other nine-tenths in accord with God's will—and as his stewards.
4. If occasion demands, giving all we have and are to HIM.

IV. THE GLORY OF HONORING GOD WITH OUR SUBSTANCE.

1. Consciousness of doing God's will with our substance.
2. Glory of working with God in his plan of redemption for the world.
3. Rendering greatest service to one's fellow man.
4. Certain and glorious rewards: Matt. 19:27-29
The secret to a happy life is giving for God's glory.

Some Foreign Students Reported Quitting Red China In Disgust

HONG KONG (UPI)—The lure of the motherland has a powerful attraction for overseas Chinese, and the Peiping regime has been preying on this tie to win the support of would-be admirers.

It is difficult to assess the success of this communist propaganda drive which is designed more to win friends for the Red regime than to subvert foreign governments.

This is in line with Peiping's long range goal of seeking support from its own people as a method of gaining recognition for the Communist regime.

One field which has been extensively cultivated is education. The Red Chinese government has offered free college educations to hundreds of foreign students and overseas Chinese. By assessing the success of this effort, it is possible to gain some insight into the overall program.

The trend today in Red China appears to be much the same as it was in Moscow—where African students labeled the Kremlin's Institute for Foreign Students as an apartheid university. Reports from Moscow told of Afro-Asian students walking out of their classrooms because Russians refused to attend the school.

Disenchantment with Communist Chinese scholarship colleges came for a different reason. Former students who have returned from behind the Bamboo Curtain tell of brainwashing, of manual labor, of food shortages and of low educational standards.

Four Sudanese students returned home from Peiping University disgusted with their treatment. Only one stayed behind.

They were Sudan's first group of students to go to Peiping.

Reports published by the Singapore Immigration Department shed some light on the waning attraction of free studies offered by the Reds.

The report showed that in 1957, 803 Chinese students left Singapore to seek their educational fortunes in Communist China; in 1959 the number declined to 212, and last year it was 152.

The Singapore figure may not necessarily imply wholesale decline of Red China's prestige with the overseas Chinese communities in Southeast Asia. But it is readily agreed that the overseas Chinese are among the most interested and the most critical judges of China's position.

In Hong Kong, the British government said there has been "a persistent decline" in the numbers of students from the British colony migrating into Communist China during the last three years.

The four Sudanese students lent to Communist China to study science on free scholarships given by the Peiping government.

In the capital they were met by Russians and established in the best hotels for 15 days. Then the Chinese took over and the disillusionment began, it was learned in Hong Kong.

First, their subsistence level dropped to such an extent that, although they were guests in a foreign country, they could not live on their allowances and had to ask for more. This was refused because the authorities said there were "general financial difficulties." Even by remaining in

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

The announcement that the Congo Parliament soon will be called back into session marks one more step toward peace in an area which has been the United Nations' greatest source of worry for most of a year.

In contrast to Laos which has been specifically a United States concern, and with the exception of the Soviet Union and France among the great powers, the Congo has been a United Nations effort.

Now it appears that the forces of President Joseph Kasavubu are ready to press ahead with efforts toward a strong central government, and, with United Nations aid, to meet the challenge of secessionist Katanga Province and Communist-supported Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville.

That aid is certain to be forthcoming, since a reconvening of Parliament, suspended last fall, has been one of the primary demands not only of such leaders as Nehru of India and Nkrumah of Ghana but of Gizenga as well.

Ginzenga, a protégé of the slain Patrice Lumumba, has been touting himself as Lumumba's successor as Congolese premier.

Congolese experts, however, believe he can obtain only about 40 of the 69 vote he would need to control a majority in the 137-member assembly.

Thus any legal claim he might have on Lumumba's former post would be eroded.

The other outstanding personality opposing the Kasavubu government is Moïse Tshombe, premier of Katanga. But Tshombe is in six months detention and faces charges of sedition.

Tshombe has been one of the enigmas of the Congo problem.

As Congo leaders go he is one of the best educated, the economics of his province are tied to the West, he is pro-white and anti-Communist.

Backed by strong tribal elements, he reasoned that the rest of the Congo was not the problem of Katanga with its rich veins of copper, gold and tin.

His arrest, with United Nations approval, sprang from his insistence on Katanga independence or at the very least virtual autonomy within a loose federation of states.

From the ideological standpoint, his Leopoldville adversaries are described as just as anti-Communist as he. They would prefer to be less dependent on the white man than they are, but are sensible enough to realize that a certain number will be necessary to help run the country for many years to come.

Russian Space Rockets Lead In Power Thrust

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Man still has a long way to go in space. Yuri Gagarin hit a peak altitude of 203.19 miles, according to the Russians, in his orbital flight around the world April 12.

Alan B. Shepard Jr. got 115 miles away from the earth in his brief trip May 3.

But the moon is still some 240,000 miles distant. Venus never gets closer to earth than about 26 million miles. Mars, at its nearest, is around 35 million miles away.

The other planets are either too close to the sun, in the case of Mercury, or too far from it, in the case of Jupiter and the others beyond, to be considered for the time being in man's space travel plans.

So where do we stand? Both the Soviet and American astronauts proved that man can go into space and survive. Their flights mean that most, if not all, of the really basic scientific and engineering problems of space flights have been solved.

Higher and longer flights can be undertaken just as soon as more powerful rockets and bigger and better spaceships can be built. How soon will this come about? Which nation will be the first to land men on the moon and bring them back?

The answer to "How soon?" can only be guessed — in six to 10 years, perhaps. As to whether the first man on the moon will be an American or a Russian, the only honest answer now is that the odds strongly favor the Russian.

The Russians, by their own account, have been preparing for manned space flight for at least 10 years. This country's Mercury man-in-space program got under way about 2½ years ago.

At the moment, Russian space rockets are more than twice as powerful as America's best. The year 1967 has often been mentioned speculatively by American space experts as the Soviet target date for a manned moon landing. But only the Russians know the Russian schedule.

The U.S. moon goal, like the moon itself, changes from time to time. Last year it was "some time after 1970." Early this year the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) mentioned a specific year, 1971.

A few weeks ago Dr. Robert C. Seamans, associate director of NASA, advanced the target year to 1969 or 1970. Could the United States send a man to the moon and back as early as 1967?

Yes, Seamans told Congress—if it wants to spend an extra $20 billion to $40 billion in an "emergency kind of all-out effort."

Scholars Bare Doubts About St. Christopher

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Will St. Christopher go the way of St. Philomena?

Some Catholic scholars believe there is a good chance he will. The name of Philomena was stricken from the roll of saints by a recent Vatican directive.

Dick Clark, Wife Plan Separation

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Friends of television's teenage idol Dick Clark and the former high school sweetheart he married eight years ago were shocked today by the couple's sudden announcement they would ask a divorce.

The 31-year-old entertainer, who rose to national fame as master of ceremonies of a televised afternoon dance for teen-agers, refused to expand on the announcement that he and his wife, Barbara, 30, "have consulted our attorneys and the divorce papers will be filed in the near future."

The Clarks said in their joint statement Wednesday that they had "tried very hard to resolve our differences but have decided that it is best that we take this action."

Neither would describe the "differences" but friends emphasized that no third party was involved in the marital dispute.

Clark and his wife, a former schoolteacher, were married in 1952. They have a four-year-old son, Richard Augustus.

The boyish looking and soft-spoken Clark, who can't sing or dance, skyrocketed to fame after taking over as emcee of the local "Bandstand" show in 1956.

Scholars of the Sacred Congregation of Rites decided there was no sound historical basis for attributing heroic martyrdom to a young girl whose body was found in a Roman catacomb in 1802.

Christopher is known as the "patron saint of travelers." Millions of Catholics, and a considerable number of non-Catholics, carry Christopher medals on trips, or display them from the dashboards of automobiles.

When the United States finally placed a satellite in orbit in 1958, after several humiliating failures, members of the launching crew disclosed they had bolted a Christopher medal to the successful rocket.

Catholic scholars who are dubious about St. Christopher's future status point to the text of the instruction issued by the Sacred Congregation of Rites at the time that Philomena was dropped.

It noted that there are hundreds of saints, of unquestioned historical authenticity, whom Catholics may venerate.

Popular legend, which has been enshrined in a famous woodcut by Albrecht Durer, depicts St. Christopher as a riverman who carried stranded travelers across a swollen stream on his shoulder.

Church scholars have found little historical evidence to corroborate the legend. The only firm fact that is known about St. Christopher, they say, is that a church bearing his name was built near Constantinople around the middle of the 5th Century A.D.

New Legal Weapons Asked Against Rackets

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy asked Congress yesterday to give federal officials a battery of new legal weapons to fight racketeers who have gained power which local authorities are unable to combat.

Kennedy appeared before a House judiciary subcommittee considering a series of bills dealing with interstate crime. Kennedy, who was chief counsel of the Senate rackets committee, said some of the proposals were new but a number had been proposed in previous years.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., made clear in an opening statement that the subcommittee would not act without an exhaustive study of the proposals.

FHA Names Member For Annual Honor

Miss Judy Lane, Miss FHA

LEFORS (Spl) — Miss Judy Lane was crowned Miss FHA 1961 at the annual Mother Daughter Tea held Monday night in the school cafeteria. The honor goes to the most outstanding girl in FHA according to points. Her name isn't revealed until the night of the Tea.

Miss Lane daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lane.

Dear Abby...

No One Is Too

Old To Learn!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a confession to make, but I haven't the courage to tell it to the person I wronged. She is my only and beloved daughter. When she was 19, she fell in love with a boy of another faith. I didn't want her to marry him and told her so. She tried to forget him, but if ever a girl was deeply in love, she was. When he went into the Service, she would mail him a letter every day. Now here is the part I am terribly ashamed of. When letters would come from him, I would tear them up. It was awful to see her looking for his letters, knowing I had destroyed them.

When he returned from the Service, he called the house and I told him she had married and moved away. (Not true.) He never called again.

Our daughter did meet a fine young man of her own faith. They are happily married and have a family. My conscience still bothers me. Should I tell her?

DEAR GUILTY: Forget it. And hope that other mothers won't meddle in the lives of their children "for their own good." Children need to be "guided" — but well-meaning mothers cannot lead their lives for them. You are lucky. Mother, your daughter may never have found another love.

DEAR ABBY: My husband died nine months ago and I have continued to wear my wedding ring because I would feel "lost" without it. My friends say I am no longer married and I should not wear it. Are they right?

WONDERING WIDOW
DEAR WONDERING: Wear your wedding ring as long as you wish. Remove it only if and when you consider dating again. A ringless finger indicates "availability." It's a widow's privilege to wear her wedding ring forever if she feels like it.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married 20 years and for the past 10 years my wife has cost me a fortune in doctor bills. She claims she gets "dizzy" if she is left alone. She also says that any kind of housework or cooking make her dizzy. I have had to hire help to do everything. We have no children.

I have had her to one doctor after another, and they can't find a thing wrong with her. She has never fainted, but says if she is left alone she knows she will. I have paid people to sit with her. She goes shopping and belongs to clubs and is in the best of health and spirits. I refuse to stay alone one minute. I welcome your suggestions.

WORN-OUT HUSBAND
DEAR WORN-OUT: If she has gone "from doctor to doctor" and they can't find anything wrong with her, depend on it — there is something wrong with her. Since the "dizziness" is in the head, that is where the trouble is. Take her to a psychiatrist.

'Babe' Pleased As ST Ends

Exes-Futures Game Scheduled Tonight

By JIM EASTERWOOD Daily News Sports Editor

Babe Curfman, football coach, sat with his feet propped atop his desk in his office at Pampa High School's Girl's Gymnasium.

His usual pleasant face was masked in serious concentration as he pondered the writer's question:

"To put it concisely," he slowly answered. "We'll be improved if our second unit comes through and if we can avoid injuries." A couple of injuries this year and brother its katey-bar-the-door."

So regressed Mr. Curfman, who awaits with some apprehension the conclusion of spring training tonight with the Future-Exes grid game at 8 p.m. "We'll see if they have it," he observed, before adding half-heartingly: "Maybe it'll rain."

"Babe," who will start his fourth year in September as boss man of the Harvesters, says he wishes the season would start tomorrow. "Gee," he said, "the boys are all in fine shape — but you can bet they won't be that way in September."

As of this moment, however, "Babe" was beaming over the team's hustle and desire. "Normally, he declared, the boys tend to relax a bit in the spring — but not this crew."

Although depth looms now as Curfman's number one headache, lack of speed in the line has also given the personable mentor cause for concern. "Gosh, we could sure use some more speed. 'We're slow up front.'"

And on the debit side, Curfman sizes up his strong points like this: Better overall backfield speed than last year, and improved strength at the guard and tackle positions.

The backfield is Curfman's strength. With senior Butch Crossland in the man-under position, the Harvesters are assured of a better than average passing attack. "Crossland has been looking great," says Curfman. "I just hope he stays healthy." With a passer like Crossland, Curfman anticipates going to the airways at least 20 times per game.

"Passing should be our strongest offensive weapon," Curfman says, "now that our two ends are coming around." Holding down the terminals tomorrow night will be James Webb — a transplanted tackle — and Corky Godfrey. Webb, especially, has improved his receiving. "Heck, he had five thumbs when practices started but he's really come along," says Curfman.

In addition to Crossland, who Curfman rates a 10.2 man (for the 100), the rest of the backfield speed should read like this: Robbie Robinson, left half, (10.2); Mike Stewart, right half, (10.6); and fullback Jerry Glover (10.8). "I know it doesn't compare with Tascosa's greyhounds, Curfman wryly commented, "but it's not bad."

Curfman, who feels he should have at least 150 boys out for the team (There's 70 on the roster now, also will be without the services of four griders tonight due to various injuries. Definitely sidelined are Osborne, bad knee; Trent Olsen, busted ear; Dee Allen, bad back; and Mercer, broken thumb. Preston Parrish who would have been the number one center, broke his foot on the first day of training — "going through a rope."

Propable starting lineups for the Harvesters tonight: Webb, 170 and Godfrey, 168, at ends; Larry Brawley, 192, and John Brown, 189, at tackles; Danny Mathus, 180, and Jimmy Hoyley, 155, at guards and Billy Hughes, 168, at center. In the backfield will be Crossland, 160, at quarterback; Robison, 170, and Stewart, 160, at halves, and Glover, 160, at full.

For the Futures, coaches Bubba Hill and H. L. Leduc will choose their starters from seniors Roy Stephens, Bill Cooper, Sherrill Miller, Jimmy Crouch, Lucky Dunham, Larry Taylor, Steve Dobbin, Duke Garren, Jackie Brombow, Dickie Wills, Lynn Schoolfield, Charles Geise, Keith Cable, Jim Storms, Bob Fowell, and Jim Boyles.

Curfman said a brief scrimmage between the reserves will precede the 8 o'clock tilt at 7 p.m.

Preakness Challenges Carry Back

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Sharper turns and a shorter stretch at Pimlico will not bother Carry Back, the Kentucky Derby winner, in the Preakness Stakes Saturday, trainer Jack Prince said today.

Fred W. Hooper's Crozier, Leonard P. Sasso's Globemaster, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Dr. Miller, Ogden Phipps' Hitting Away, Jacob Sher's Sherlock, Crimson King Farm's Crimson Fury, Bill Resseguet and Ben Weiner's Orleans Doge, and Boncrist Farm's Nashua Blue will challenge Carry Back in the mile and three-sixteenths race.

The Preakness was the stumbling block which tripped up six Kentucky Derby-Belmont Stakes winners in their quest of a triple crown sweep. The turns and short stretch generally were blamed for their failure.

Needles, a Florida-bred horse like Carry Back, who made his bids from far off the pace, was the latest to fail. He went down to defeat in 1950. Before him were Middleground, Shut Out, Johnstown, Twenty Grand and Zev.

Conley Wins Brilliant Victory Over Detroit

United Pro's International

He's 6 feet, 8 inches tall and he stands out for the Red Sox this year like the Empire State Building on the Boston Common.

He's Gene Conley, of course, and he still maintains his touch as a star baseball pitcher even if his career as a pro basketball player is very much in jeopardy.

Conley, who helped the Boston Celtics win the National Basketball Association championship last season and recently was picked up by the newly-formed Chicago Packers, isn't sure about his basketball future but his baseball skills are still sufficient to bring a smile to the face of the much-harassed Red Sox manager Mike Higgins.

Cage Probe Group Eyes Gamblers

NEW YORK (UPI)—A collective drive by New York and North Carolina authorities singled out gamblers today as the primary target in the investigations of the college basketball bribery scandals.

Alfred Scott, chief investigator for New York County Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan, and Lester V. Chalmers, district solicitor from Raleigh, N.C., met Thursday to discuss the probes.

Chalmers hinted after the meeting that the college players involved in the fixed games may escape prosecution because "we feel the gamblers are the ones we want."

"We are all agreed on one plan of action and that is we've got a prime target...to get the gamblers," Chalmers said.

Conley demonstrated Thursday night that he still has the "star touch" in baseball with a brilliant four-hitter that earned the Red Sox a 4-0 victory over the American League leading Detroit Tigers. It was Conley's second win of the year and reduced the Tigers' first-place lead over the idle New York Yankees to 4½ games.

The Kansas City Athletics edged out the Minnesota Twins, 4-3, and the Chicago White Sox beat the Los Angeles Angels 6-4, in the only other major league action of day or night. Washington at Baltimore in the American League was raised out and no National League games were scheduled.

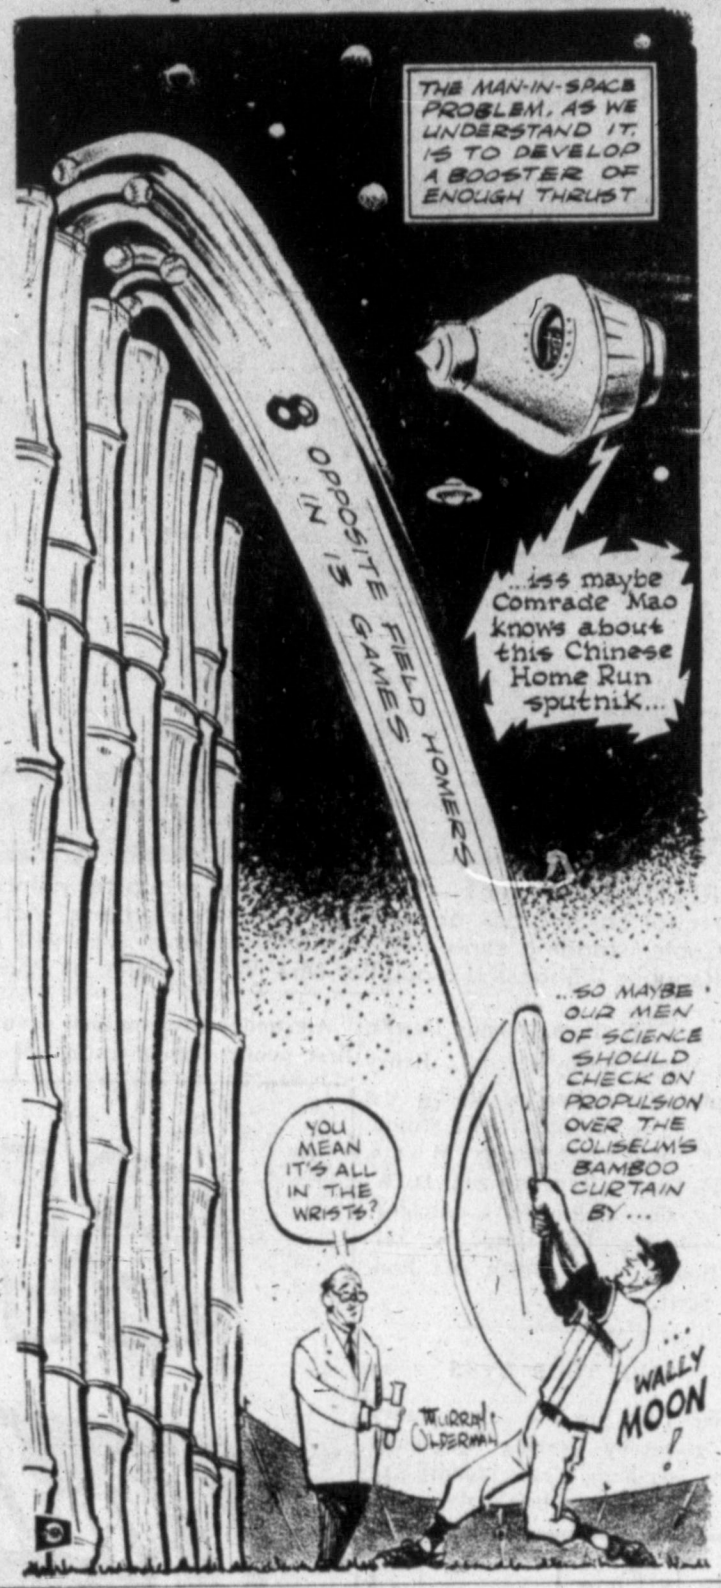

Conley, whose basketball skills deteriorated sharply this year, walked only two batters and struck out five for the weak-hitting Red Sox. He got the only run he needed in the fifth inning when Pete Runnels singled, and Don Buddin followed with a long double to right field.

The Tigers, who had scored 29 runs in their three previous games, threatened in the fourth inning when Rocky Colavito walked with two out and Norm Cash singled. Conley, however, induced Steve Boros to fly to rightfielder Jackie Jensen for the final out of the inning.

Jensen had two doubles for the Red Sox who tagged Al strikeout king Jim Bunning with his fourth loss of the season compared to two victories. The Tigers started the series with the Red Sox after a triumphant three-game sweep of the Baltimore Orioles during which they hammered manager Paul Richards' top-grade pitching staff for 29 runs.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UPI)—Art Wall Jr. came here to take thermal baths for an aching side, but he may take a lot more before he leaves if his first round play in the $20,000 Hot Springs Open golf tournament is any indication.

The injury-plagued swinger from Pocono Manor, Pa., fired 33-32-65 Thursday to tie part-time pro Buster Cupit of nearby Fort Smith for the first round lead. Cupit shot a 31-34-65.

Two strokes back in third place were Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., who didn't miss a green all day, and rookie Jerry Steelsmith, 25-year-old Glendale, Calif., red head.

Thirty-one golfers broke par and 15 others were at an even 72 for the 7,011-yard course, which was dampened by early morning showers.

Tied at 68 were Doug Sanders, Julius Boros, Al Geiberger, Dave Ragan and Mason Rudolph. Seven others, including Doug Ford, fired 69s.

All-American High School Game Tonight

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—The North's heavier line, averaging 215 pounds is expected to break down the resistance of the South's lighter forward wall tonight in the 13th annual All-American high school football game.

The Southerners, aiming for their third consecutive victory, hope to utilize superior speed to offset the 16-pound-per-man weight disadvantage up front.

A wide open game with plenty of scoring was predicted by South coach Horace McCool, Delta State College mentor, and North head man Sammy Baugh of the New York Titans.

The Travers Stakes at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., first run in 1864, is the oldest stakes race in the United States.

Sports Slivers

By JIM EASTERWOOD

(Note: The following interview was conducted by this scribe, just after pitching great Bob Feller arrived in Amarillo by plane enroute to Pampa for Tuesday Night's Little League kickoff ceremony.)

Wearing a dark blue suit and looking like the prosperous businessman he is, Bob Feller Tuesday scarcely resembled the lanky farm boy who once stood American League hitters on their collective ear for 20 years.

Of course he's added a few pounds (about four) and his hair is turning slightly gray around the temples. However, once this imposing six-footer shed the "civies" for his baseball uniform, any resemblance between Insurance man and ballplayer disappeared.

He still looks like he could fire that hard one past the likes of DiMaggio, Dickey and other feared hitters he faced in his two decades with the Cleveland Indians. Just how does he manage to stay in shape?

"I still find time to play a little," Feller said, in explaining his like-appearance. Feller, now 43, took the mound Monday night at Houston, when he engaged in a "brief" home run hitting contest with Houston "Buff" hitters.

"I said it was brief," he grinned. "I walked off the mound after the last guy up hit my second pitch over the wall." Even retired, Rapid Robert doesn't like to lose.

Although now in the insurance business, Feller still says he maintains a deep interest in the game. "I have to," he points out. "It's part of my business." Feller now works on a protective pension plan for ballplayers, a plan designed to give them semi-independence when their playing careers are washed up. "I put my dough away, instead of blowing it a 11 in," Feller declared. "I'd like to see these young bonus players do the same."

Feller, who was signed for nothing by Cleveland scout C. C. Slapnicka, took a slight dig at today's managers. "Heck, you can't tell to day whether a pitcher has the stuff or not — they don't leave them in the ball game long enough." Feller also questions the importance of a manager to a ball club. "He's primarily a baby-sitter," jibed Feller, "and overrated in my books."

"The best manager I played under? Well, I suppose it would have to be Al Lopez. At least he's been the most successful."

How about "Cry Baby" Oscar Vitt, your manager when the Indians staged their player revolt? "I had nothing against Vitt personally," Feller said, "but I sided with the players in the revolt."

Feller, for those who might have forgotten, pitched three no-hitters in his career — one on opening day in Chicago, 1940. His second came in April, 1946 against the New York Yankees. Of the three, he feels this one as his best game. "I had terrific stuff — my fastball was humming," he said. "It was also my most thrilling game because Joe Reichler, associated press Sports writer, said I was washed up before the game." (Reichler was the first man to congratulate Feller after the game.) His third no-hitter occurred in 1951 against the Detroit Tigers.

Feller and his wife Virginia, have three major league prospects — Steve, 15; Marty, 13; and Bruce, 10. Any pitchers? we wondered. "Steve doubles at shortstop, and pitching," Feller said. "He's got a fair arm."

Just like his Old Man? We got an abrupt no.

Any predictions on this year's pennant race? "Detroit could take it — they've got off to a good start — but don't count the Yanks out. Cleveland? Too many 'ifs'. Bell has to come through and so far he hasn't won a game."

Concerning expansion, Feller feels the American League's two new clubs — Washington and Los Angeles — will make the grade. "But having to pay $75,000 for their players was ridiculous — $25,000 would have been plenty."

A very astute man — Bob Feller.

Snead Leads Own Tourney

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI)—Sam Snead took his own advice and that's why he was in front today in his home-course golf tournament.

That advice: Lots of practice and the realization that nobody's too old to learn something.

For Snead, the practice consisted of spending a lot of time on the putting green. And from intimates he got a few suggestions. A couple of weeks ago, his improved putting paid off to the tune of $10,000 in winning the Las Vegas Tournament of Champions.

Snead is still following that formula. He needed only 29 putts Thursday in firing a five-under-par 65 for a two-stroke first-round lead in the Sam Snead Golf Festival. And it came on a soggy course drenched by a hard half-day downpour.

Snead, who at 48-almost-49 still outdoes just about anybody in the

Arnie, Sam To Defend Canada Cup

NEW YORK (UPI)—Defending champions Arnold Palmer and Sam Snead said today they will be on hand along with competitors from 27 other nations for the International golf championship and Canada Cup matches in Puerto Rico, June 14.

There had been some question as to whether Palmer and Snead would defend the Canada Cup team trophy they won for the United States at Dublin, Ireland, last year because sponsors of the Memphis Open said they had first call on the service of the two pros.

But at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where he is competing in a tournament, Palmer said he had "made the pledge at any time to play in Memphis" and said he thought he felt he owed it to the U. S. as a member of the defending championship team.

The selection committee is now in the process of choosing the players and coaches who will participate. Sponsored by the Price College PTA, the game matches high school graduates from AAAA and AAA (City Slickers) schools against AA, A and B (Sodbusters) schools.

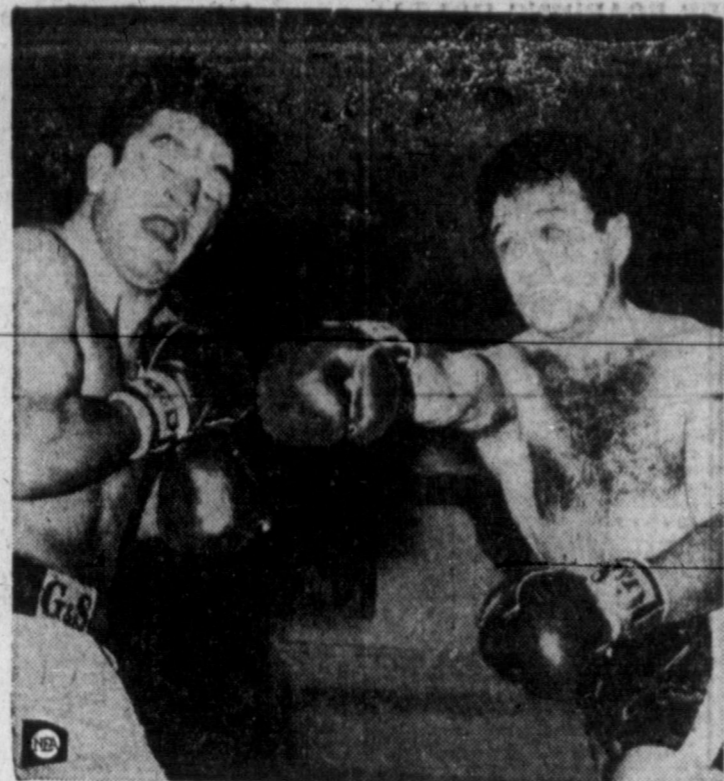

For the past three years, this game has proved an exciting and hard hitting contest with the City Slickers winning two and the Sodbusters one. The Sodbusters will be out to even the series this year to show that small schools can also produce great players.

4th Annual Grid Game At Amarillo

AMARILLO (Sp1)—Frank Hodnik, General Chairman of the Panhandle Grid Classic, announces that the 4th annual high school all-star-football game will be held Saturday night, August 19, 1961, at Price College Stadium in Amarillo.

Qualifications Closing For Memorial Day Race

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The game of musical chairs in race cars starts in earnest tomorrow when the second and final weekend of qualifications opens for the 500-mile Memorial Day classic.

The old saying "you can't tell the players without a program" becomes meaningless at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway when car-hopping begins in the traditionally hectic windup of the time trials.

The long-range weather forecast called for fair and warmer Saturday, an indication that yet-to-be-qualified teams will attempt to make the race field that day, rather than wait another 24 hours in a gamble that could wreck their chances.

Only six spots were still open in the holiday field of 33 roadsters, by virtue of qualifications last weekend. However, at least one and possibly more cars were listed as doubtful starters May 30 because they may lose their places to faster cars.

Once 33 cars are qualified, the bumping process begins.

Rookie Norman Hall of Los Angeles at a speed of 141.861 miles per hour will be the first bumped.

Missions Top Texas Title Race

By United Press International
San Antonio climbed back to the top of the Texas League alongside Valley today with the help of third-place Amarillo.

Amarillo whipped the Giants, 6-3 Thursday night while San Antonio pushed in front with two runs in the eighth and another in the ninth to beat Victoria, 7-4 and Austin nipped Tulsa 2-1.

Dick Bernardino sparked a four-run outburst in the fourth that did the trick for the Gold Sox. He got the only homer of the game with two mates aboard. It was one of six hits loser Tom Bowers gave up. Jim Bouton, the winner, and Paul Erickson gave up 10 safeties.

Catcher Ralph Holding belted a two-run homer in the eighth for San Antonio to help pitcher Don Prince nail down a nine-hitter. John Stokoe was the loser. Bill Parsons and Bob Nelson, picked up this week from Little Rock, homered for the Rosebuds.

Paul Chenger went the distance for Austin, giving up six hits. He pitched shutout ball until the seventh, protecting a one run lead his mates gave him in the opening frame. The Senators pushed across the winning run in the last of the ninth. Gordon Richardson, charged with all eight Austin hits, suffered the loss.

The league begins a new set of series tonight with Amarillo at Victoria, Tulsa at San Antonio and Austin at Valley.

Lakes Fishing Tourney Opens

MARBLE FALLS, Tex. (UPI)—Murray Muston and George Raven of Austin, defending team champions, turned in the best string of the day as the state bass tournament opened on the five Highland Lakes northwest of Austin.

Qualifying continues today and Saturday with finals scheduled for Sunday.

Fight Results

McKEESPORT, Pa. (UPI)—Fred Martinovich, 136, Pittsburgh, outpointed Dick Diveronica, 137, Syracuse, N. Y. (10).

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Tony Herrera, 126, Inglewood, Calif., outpointed Johnny Cate, 125, Oakland, Calif. (10).

SIGN TITAN PACTS
NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick LeDuc, better of the University of Maine and Francis Morelli of Colgate have signed 1961-62 contracts with the New York Titans of the American Football League. Leadbetter, a 6-2, 230-pounder, and Morelli, a 6-2, 258-pounder, are equally adept at offense and defense.

PICTURE NEWS

AROUND THE WORLD

BY DAWN'S EARLY LIGHT—Looking more like the frosting on some fantastic cake than the real thing, the dome of the U-S. Capitol is reflected in the pool of the Union Station Plaza fountain. The fairyland scene proves that not all beauty can be solely appreciated in springtime sunlight, and all that glitters is not eatable.

LIKE A LOG—Lying atop a log pile at the London Zoo, Chi Chi, the popular panda, catches up on his sleep on a warm spring afternoon. He certainly displays no evidence of pre-performance jitters as he awaits curtain time and the crowds of young visitors.

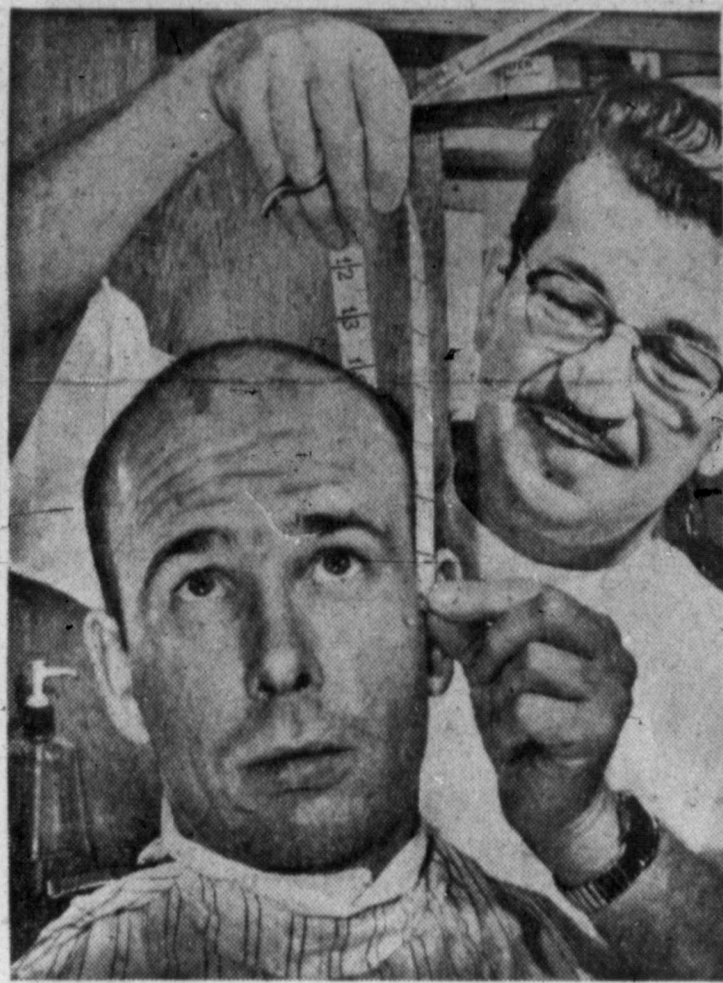

TOO YOUNG TO READ—It appears that youngsters in Evian, France, can't read the parking lot sign. Actually, the playground was originally meant to be a lot in preparation for a possible conference between the representatives of France and the Algerian rebels.

THIS ONE DIDN'T GET AWAY—Mermaid Marilyn Allen, a member of the underwater ballet at Florida's Weeki Wachee Spring, gets an unexpected buss from Arthur Godfrey as both finish a number 10 feet down for a television show. Uke was used as bait.

FEET GET LIFT—Students at Maryville College, St. Louis, Mo., enjoy the comparative luxury of hot concrete after abandoning the shoes that brought dignity but discomfort during a dedication ceremony.

SPLITTING HAIRS—Sam Columbus, a barber in Lakewood, Colo., has a sense of fair play about hair pay. Armed with a tape measure, Columbus charges less for those unfortunates with less hair. The worried frown on customer Jerry Opperman indicates a wishful desire to pay as much as his barber does.

TANK TURNS MODERN—The old-time tank suit goes stylish and sophisticated this summer in quick-drying acetate and cotton with a waist-nipping belt. Swimmers may wear the broad straps in place; sun bathers slip them off the shoulder. Venerable swimsuit tries to stay in the swim of things. The suit should attract a lot of attention at the beach.

WALKER-TALKER—Comedienne Nancy Walker, star of "Do Re Mi," indulges herself in woman's dearest love—conversation. She loves to knit, too. So she had a transistor telephone loudspeaker installed in her Broadway dressing room and does both.

LAUNDRY, LAUNDRY EVERYWHERE—The disgusted young man would like to take a dip and dry in the sun, but the available grassy shore of a stream just outside Tananarive, the capital of the Malagasy Republic, is obviously taken up by drying laundry. He will just have to wait until women's work is done.

PEACE AND QUEUES—Set for a 48-hour "vigil" in deck chairs and blankets, London ballet fans made sure they had tickets for the Leningrad State Ballet performance at the Royal Opera House. Two of the 70 two-day "campers" catch up on world events.

DISAPPEARING TRICK—As a reporter, Cleve Corlett sometimes finds himself in the trickiest of positions. While covering a swearing-in ceremony in Washington, the newsman covered every angle of the story by dropping on all fours to retrieve his pen. Receptionist Mrs. Mary Buttler wonders how he vanished.

THAT'S ME?—Zero Mostel, winner of the Antoinette Perry Award as the season's Best Actor, can't believe he's that rotund. Canvas by Paul Freeman depicts the character Mostel portrays in Broadway hit, "Rhinoceros." The actor can now see himself as the audience sees him!

JACK AND THE BEANS—Unaware of the economic problem he is playing with, this youngster in Manizales, Colombia, gets a kick out of a growing mound of coffee beans on a drying platform. The dilemma in various Latin American nations, concerning coffee surpluses and the lowest price level in 10 years, doesn't amount to a hill of beans to him.

HAWAII CALLING—Hawaii's traditional MuuMuu and the favorite occupation of a pre-teen girl combine to make happy talk at bedtime. The lightweight lilac batiste nightgown by M. C. Schrank is appliqued with cartoons of stuffed-animals, telephones and a teen-age chatterbox. The youngsters should go for this.

American Scientists Expecting Possible Lunar Landing In 1967

EDITOR'S NOTE — The United States and the Soviet Union both have said they are headed for the moon and planets. The goals are common, the difference is in the timing. In the following dispatch, a U.S. space timetable is discussed along with the possibility of a lunar landing by 1967.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Russians say they are going to the moon and planets. So are we.

The Russians, addicted to secrecy, give no timetable for their next man-in-space ventures. Here are America's plans:

In the next couple of months or so, two or more suborbital rocket trips like Alan Shepard's, with John Glenn, Virgil Grissom, and perhaps another astronaut on the pilot's couch.

Then orbital flights by a Mercury spacecraft, the first one empty except for instruments, the next one perhaps occupied by a chimpanzee.

Late this year or early next, an orbital ride by a Mercury astronaut three times around the earth.

Eventually, the Mercury man-in-space project may see an astronaut sailing up to 18 times around the earth and enduring weightlessness for 27 hours, compared to an hour and a half for Russia's Yuri Gagarin and five minutes for Shepard.

When men no longer ride the Mercury capsule in space, chimps may take over for extended bouts with weightlessness ranging from two days to two weeks.

After Mercury comes Apollo, a program to put three men at a time into space for periods of weeks. The Apollo spaceship, unlike the cramped Mercury cabin, will be roomy enough for its crew members to move about, and comfortable and secure enough for them to work in their shirtsleeves instead of a pressure suit.

The crew will fly it, once it has been boosted into space, just as aircraft crews fly modern jet transports. Shepard's "Freedom 7" and Gagarin's "Vostok" could be maneuvered to a small extent. But, except for braking rockets to bring them out of orbit, the America and Soviet craft have no control over speed and trajectory.

Apollo crews, however, will be able to change speed and trajectory at will, and they will be able to land the craft under its own power at places of their own choosing.

The first launching of an unmanned design model of the Apollo spaceship may come in 1964 when the first version of the big Saturn space vehicle is expected to be ready for regular assignments.

The year 1965 may see three Apollo spacemen soaring in orbit

Mexicans Dump Strawberries

ZAMORA, Mexico (UPI)—Highways here are strewn with dumped strawberries and hundreds of acres of the fruit are being plowed under as a result of a collapse in the market, dealers here reported today.

The demand for strawberries, grown here the year around, has been rising to high levels in recent years, especially for export to the United States.

With the big market, large additional acreage was planted, glutting the market both for export and for the canning and preserving outlets, it was said.

First postage stamps for letter postage were issued in England in trees and long grass.

around the earth for as long as three weeks. This craft, an orbiting laboratory, would be the forerunner of future space platforms.

These orbiting platforms in turn will serve as spaceships rendezvous, spaceship assembly, spaceship crew exchange, and supply stations for manned missions to the moon or planets.

Before men make lunar landings, however, they will be put in orbit around the moon and brought back to earth. This could be done in 1967 if a second generation Saturn is ready, as expected, by then.

Not even the second generation Saturn will be able to lift enough weight to land men on the moon in craft equipped to keep them alive while there and to carry them back home.

This will take Nova, which at present is just a "concept" built in men's minds around the F-1 engine now being developed. The F-1 is a single engine developing as much thrust, 1.5 million pounds, as the Saturn booster's eight clustered engines.

The Nova first, or booster stage, may consist of F-1 engines clustered to produce 12 million pounds of thrust. The Nova vehicle, as well as some late versions of the Saturn, may have a nuclear rocket among its upper stages. Scientists are convinced that nuclear engines are necessary for long-range space exploration.

The first lunar landing by an American conceivably could come in 1967. But 1969, 1970, or 1971 appears much more probable. Flights to the planets, taking more than a year for the round-trip, cannot be scheduled until the engineers see how the moon trips turn out.

Planetary flights by man are, as the space people say, "planned but not programmed."
