Judge Pays $13 To End Slacks Row

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Superior Judge Steven S. Weisman is a patient man, but even his patience was tried sorely by two women arguing over a $13 pair of slacks.

Weisman was listening yesterday to an appeal from a small claims court decision awarding Mrs. Millie Kahn $13 for a pair of black slacks she claimed to have made to order for Mrs. Margaret Longenecker of nearby Van Nuys.

Mrs. Longenecker claimed she (1) did not order the slacks and (2) they did not fit anyway.

"If you can't settle this," the judge suddenly remarked, "I'll write you my personal check." He thereby wrote Mrs. Kahn a check for $13. He then told Mrs. Longenecker's husband — attorney Harold Longenecker — who was representing her that he could have the slacks as his fee.

Mrs. Kahn said she planned to give the $13 to charity and Longenecker said he would give the slacks to charity too.

But Weisman made it plain he was not setting a precedent. His next case concerned a $200 suit between a contractor and a grocer.

'Kicks' End For Youthful Terror Gang

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The "kicks" are over for 12 youths accused of conducting a reign of terror against a middle-aged Jewish couple — but the reckoning they knew would come is just beginning.

Eight of the boys were indicted Thursday on charges ranging from arson to making obscene phone calls. Three more, juveniles were scheduled to be named today. A twelfth, currently at a National Guard summer camp, will be booked on his return.

The youths — all from "good families," authorities said — are accused of harassing Mr. and Mrs. William Bowman, Jewish immigrants from Europe, for 15 months.

They all said that the terror waged against the Bowsmans was "for kicks," and not because of anti-Semitism.

The youths two of them sons of a policeman, were neatly dressed and a little embarrassed at San Francisco's city jail. Like routine criminals they were photographed, fingerprinted and booked.

Nigeria Seeking Home Builders, Visitor Asserts

NEW YORK (UPI) — While they're waiting for a big upturn in housing demand in the United States, American home builders could pick up some fine profits in the African nation of Nigeria, minister of finance F. S. Okotie-Eboh said today.

Chief Okotie-Eboh is one of a 23-man Nigerian economic mission who recently arrived in the United States on a trip around the world seeking new enterprises for their country.

Nigeria needs housing because the country is booming and the government of the western region of Nigeria is offering some tempting inducements to foreign builders.

These include—tax relief for up to five years, full permission to repatriate dividends and profits from the completed projects and government funds in amounts of $25,000 to $140,000 on individual projects. Although Nigeria is financially a small country it spent more than $50 million on slum clearance in its 1959-'60 budget.

Nigeria has plenty of building materials and plenty of labor for the building trades, Chief Okotie-Eboh said. There are modern factories making plywood, cement, asbestos cement board, metal windows and prefab building frames.

But there is a shortage of builders and Nigeria's population, already at 40 million, needs housing desperately.

Too many Americans don't think about investing in Nigeria because they don't know how stable and dynamic this most progressive of the new African nations is, said trade minister Adeybi Adeyi, another member of the mission.

"Many Americans don't stop to realize that Nigeria is more than one thousand miles from the Congo, for example," Chief Adeyi said. "The press headlines about troubles in the Congo, therefore, rob American business and capital of great opportunities for investment in Nigeria, whose economic growth is sound and whose government is stable, democratic, and pro-Western."

McLean Manager To Leave Post

McLEAN (Sp) — The resignation of City Manager B. J. McCartney was presented to the City Council by Mayor John C. Haynes at the regular session July 11. The resignation was accepted effective September 15.

McCartney has served as city manager for the past 15 months. He does not have a position at the present time, but plans to locate near Galveston.

McCartney has been in municipal work for 12 years, having served at Edinburgh and Corpus Christi before coming to McLean.

Mr. and Mrs. McCartney have two sons, James, age 7 years and Mike age 17 months.

New City? Though it has a recorded history going back to the 13th century, Warsaw, Poland, is one of Europe's newer cities. About 85 percent of this capital city was destroyed in World War II. Rebuilt on the ruins, the new city now houses more than a million.

CHEAP MEDICINES CAN BE EXPENSIVE

The greatest part of the cost of the average prescriptions drug is usually the many tests and controls needed to produce maximum purity and potency. There is always someone willing to sell for less by eliminating most of these costs.

Since the average person now spends less than $15 per year for prescriptions, is it wise to look for bargains? You can depend on your pharmacist to supply the best at a fair price. Why take chances that may retard recovery.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Pledge By Dulles Seen As Threat To Okinawa Base

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI) — Two words spoken by the late John Foster Dulles 10 years ago, today threaten the security of this billion dollar base in the Ryukyu Islands. The words "residual sovereignty" promised by the then secretary of state assured Japan that she would eventually regain control of Okinawa, which now is the keystone of the entire American defense system in the Pacific.

Ever since, American military commanders and civilian administrators have been plagued by increasing Okinawan demands that the United States give up control of the Kyuku Islands and allow them to revert back to Japan as a prefecture.

Communist and left-wing groups on Okinawa naturally have been the leaders in the revisionist movement, and now they have the support of many nationalistic conservatives who feel they have been abandoned by the Americans and that Okinawa's future lies with Japan.

The Americans here — both in and out of uniform — blame Washington's vacillating and weak foreign policy for the dangerous trend of events. One blunt-spoken authority forecast that there will be "bloodshed on Okinawa unless the United States makes a strong stand immediately to clarify the situation so the Okinawans will know that we are either going to be here a long, long time or castigate ourselves by giving Okinawa back to Japan."

No time limit has ever been set on the occupancy of Okinawa by the Americans. Dulles later attempted to clarify his "residual sovereignty" statement with the explanation that the U.S. would exercise its powers here while conditions of threat and tension continue to exist in Asia.

The Okinawans claim there would be no "threat and tension" if the Americans would pull their military might out of Okinawa and stop threatening "peaceful" Communist China, which lies less than an hour's jet flight from here.

The rise of nationalism in Japan has increased the tension in the Ryukyus. The Japanese, both in and out of government, encourage the revisionists, and are becoming increasingly insistent that Okinawa be returned as a Japanese prefecture.

Even the Okinawan leaders of the revision movement admit that the Ryukyans fared badly under the pre-war Japanese government. Okinawa was Japan's poorest prefecture, her people had an almost "untouchable" status with the Japanese and little or no self-government. Postwar Japan, insist the Okinawans, will be different. "We are of the same heritage, speak the same language and are of the same culture," explained one Okinawan official. "People of the same genealogy belong together."

The ideal solution to the Okinawans would be for the Americans to retain their big-spending bases here, but turn over the civilian government to Okinawans and Japanese. They say it was done in Japan and the Philippines, why not here?

To the American military, the idea is out of the question. "Okinawa is the only place in Asia," pointed out the high commissioner, Lt. Gen. Paul W. Caraway, "where the United States can move troops and weapons in and out without asking the permission of another government."

Other line officers claim the effectiveness of this base would be largely neutralized if Okinawa were returned to Japan, particularly because of Japan's disapproval of atomic weapons and her touchy internal political situation. They contend that security on Okinawa can only be maintained with Americans in over-all charge.

American officials attribute the small independence movement here to the Ryukyans' desire to belong to somebody.

"The Ryukyans have always belonged to somebody," explained one veteran administrator. "Once it was China, once Japan, once both. They fervently wanted to belong to us at one time, but we turned our backs on them, so they have no one to turn to now but the Japanese."

The Okinawans have no passports, only an identification certificate, which the Department of State asks all foreign countries to

Tipping Tips From Cafes

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago and Illinois Restaurant Association offers these tips on tipping.

—Leave a minimum of 13 per cent of the total bill for food and drinks. The old 10 per cent tip went out with free lunches.

—At banquets and luncheons, a group tip of 15 per cent is plenty for the waiters. Captains or headwaiters should be tipped separately.

—For individual parties, headwaiters could be given a dollar for a desired table.

—Leave tips for counter as well as table service.

—Checkroom attendants should get 25 cents per person.

—Travelers on the American plan at hotels should allow $1.25 per day for meal tips; the prevailing rate on the European plan is 15 per cent.

—Scale for bellhops is 50 cents for one bag, 75 cents for two and $1 for three or more, except in smaller cities where 25 cents per suitcase is acceptable.

—Hotel maids get $3 to $5 a week.

—Doormen get 25 cents for opening the door or hailing a cab, 50 cents for parking the car.

Algerians Ignore France's Holiday

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Frenchmen in Algeria underscored their hostility to President Charles de Gaulle's government yesterday by coldly ignoring France's Bastille Day celebrations.

Their refusal to join in official observance of France's patriotic holiday came after right-wing extremists went on one of their biggest bomb-planting rampages.

In Algiers only the government buildings had flags out. There were few persons in the public stands as a military parade passed by, and even in the official stands there were many empty seats.

Perryton Fun Club In Meet

PERRYTON (Sp1) — The Fun Club met Friday and traveled to Lake Fryer for a day of fun and enjoyment.

While at Lake Fryer there were baseball games, handicraft, archery, naturelore and singing. The children returned to the City Park and went for a dip in the pool.

In order to take part in the Fun Club, children must be registered each week prior to Friday, YMCA officials announced.

Boy Scout Exposition Scheduled

The Santa Fe District Adobe Walls Boy Scout Council will hold a day-long Scout exposition Oct. 21 in the Pampa National Guard Armory, according to an announcement yesterday by Art Smalley, district chairman.

There are 54 Units of Cub, Explorer and Boy Scouts in the Santa Fe District, which comprises Gray, Carson and Roberts counties. Each unit will be invited to put up a booth displaying work it has accomplished. The exposition will be conducted with a couffy fair type of atmosphere, and there will be a small admission charge.

"A Scout Exposition is a series of booth demonstrations by Cubs, Scouts and Explorers, showing the advancement and activities programs of Scouting," Smalley said. "It's the units' opportunity to show mother, dad, neighbors, friends and the public at large what the Scouting program is doing."

Hershel Wilks has been named general chairman of the exposition. Fred Neslage is vice - chairman; Jack Imel, ticket chairman; Jimmie McCune, activities chairman; W. A. Morgan, arrangements chairman; and Warren Hasse, publicity chairman.

Jay Leath is the district scout executive.

Kiwanis Club Hears Report On Convention

Reports on the recent Kiwanis International Convention in Toronto, Canada, were given at the regular Friday noon meeting of the Pampa Kiwanis Club in Methodist Church.

The reports were made by Joe Fischer and Sam Begert, the club's delegates to the convention.

Reports of the Key Club International Convention in Philadelphia will be given at a meeting of the Pampa Key Club in the film room of Pampa High School at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Considering Troubles Airlines Are Doing Good Schedule Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Are you one of those passengers firmly convinced that airline schedules are drawn up by former Gestapo agents who hate people?

Do you really think you could do a better job?

Recently, the Air Transport Association (ATA) held a symposium on flight scheduling for a group of reporters. After three hours of lectures on the whys and hows of scheduling by top U.S. airline officials, the newsmen were convinced:

—The airlines do a pretty good job considering all the difficulties involved.

—If the average citizen had to plan flight schedules for a single airline over a one-month period.

For example:

You have a $5 million jet sitting on the ground at Los Angeles around 4 p.m. with no place to go. Fine, you say, we'll schedule a flight to New York. There's only one thing wrong with that decision. It seems the public avoids west-to-east non-stop flights which leave between 4 p.m. and 10 p.m. (Pacific time) because they arrive too early the next morning.

Another problem is the annoying and often unexplainable inconsistency of travel habits that vary among cities. One airline offered said his company always can count on a good load from Dallas to New Orleans or to Atlanta on flights leaving at 7 a.m. But in the reverse direction, any flight departing Atlanta or New Orleans to Dallas before noon will be flying almost empty.

Scheduling is a sensitive business. One airline made a 20-minute change in a flight leaving Louisville, Ky. This cost it 10 passengers a day—they began patronizing another airline whose corresponding flight left 40 minutes earlier.

On another occasion, an airline wanted to schedule a New York departure time 15 minutes later than the former departure time. It had to scrap the idea because the seemingly minor change would have:

—Caused severe gate congestion at Pittsburgh.

—Ruined interline connections at Atlanta.

—Required doubling ground personnel and equipment at St. Louis.

Every schedule change, no matter how small, often results in such chain reactions through an entire system.

You may board early morning flight 300 from Washington to New York. When 300 terminates, the plane is serviced and becomes flight 400, New York to Chicago. It arrives in Chicago at noon and leaves an hour later as flight 500 to Denver. At midnight, it leaves Denver as flight 600 to Dallas. In Dallas, it enters a hangar for an overhaul. Three days later it is restored to service as flight 700 Dallas to Chicago.

This utilization goes on seven days a week, involving about 2,000 planes. And it is only part of the story.

Suppose you have a DC7 operating with good loads between New York and Chicago. A competitor comes along with a jet leaving about the same time. You might as well abolish your DC7 trip; jets invariably drain passengers away from piston or prop-jet equipment on competing runs.

On a mid-day prop-jet flight from Boston to Chicago, an airline suffered a 50 per cent drop in loads when a competitor introduced a pure jet flight leaving at the same time.

Jet deliveries can have a tremendous impact on scheduling.

One airline had its November schedules all set by mid-August, when it was informed it was getting four new jets a month sooner than expected. It meant only four new planes available for November flights, but these four planes caused changes in 90 per cent of the carrier's entire schedule pattern.

American Airlines cites the perfect example of what can be involved in scheduling. Until recently, it had a flight (179) from Memphis to Dallas, connecting with a non-stop DC7 from Dallas to Los Angeles. Along came the jets and American put one on its Dallas-Los Angeles run, but leaving 30 minutes earlier than the former DC7 trip.

This meant passengers wanting to fly from Memphis to Los Angeles couldn't make the Dallas connection. The solution was simple. Just bring flight 179 into Dallas one hour earlier to make the connection with the Los Angeles-bound jet.

But American found that 179 was delivering an average of 22 passengers daily to connecting flights at Dallas, only four of whom were destined to Los Angeles. Bringing 179 in an hour earlier would be fine for those four, but would inconvenience the other 18 by a one hour longer connecting time to other flights.

So why not schedule the jet to leave 30 minutes later? Also simple. Except that the jet, when it reaches Los Angeles, turns around and becomes flight 12 Los Angeles-Boston leaving at 3 p.m. (Pacific time). Delaying that Dallas departure would result in a subsequent Boston arrival of after midnight — highly unpopular.

American then tried to find another jet which could be used as flight 12 from Los Angeles to Boston. It found it had flight 77, a

Wealth, Death
Seen As Result
Of Aswan Dam

CAIRO (UPI) — The Aswan High Dam will give the United Arab Republic 2 million more acres to cultivate — and several thousand more cases of Bilharzia and malaria to worry about.

Completion of the dam still is seven years away, but the worries of the Ministry of Health already have begun. An extensive program to combat Bilharzia and malaria is underway, with the assistance of the World Health Organization.

Bilharzia is an endemic disease caused by parasite worms. It gradually saps the body's strength and eventually leads to death.

The disease is probably the worst that inflicts the Egyptian region of the United Arab Republic. Officials estimate that about 60 per cent of the population suffers from it. Experts believe it costs the country between $224,280 million each year in lost manpower.

Bilharzia strikes extensively in villages where potable water still is unavailable. Inhabitants there rely solely on canals for their water needs and almost all canals — even the Nile River itself — are infested with snails carrying Bilharzia.

The Ministry of Health is worried about the huge lake that will form behind the dam when the construction is completed. The lake will be about 300 miles long, — the largest man-made lake in the world. But it will also be another fertile breeding ground for carrier snails.

Then there is the question of malaria. Carrier mosquitoes breed in cultivated areas, and with the 2 million more acres to be cultivated when the dam is completed the battlefield will be almost doubled.

About 77,000 cases of malaria were reported in Egypt in 1959. The Ministry of Health says frankly that this is about one-tenth of the actual number of persons suffering from the disease.

A project now underway is designed to stamp out Bilharzia completely. It ranges from establishing scientific research centers to building health centers in the remotest parts of the country. The government already has established 859 centers for treatment of the

Modern Sales Plan
Began 100 Years Ago

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A hundred years ago a 22-year-old delivery boy put men's wear under a roof, and modern merchandising was on its way.

John Wanamaker took in $24.67 on his first day of business, spent $24 of it for advertising and held out 67 cents for change for his next day's customers.

Twenty-seven years later he was to buy space for what is believed to be the first full-page newspaper advertisement by a department store.

Before that, however, he'd "invented" the department store itself, and used enough direct and stunt advertising to set off a century of retail ballyhooing.

At least one stunt backfired. A Chinese gong set at the doorway to herald the arrival of each customer, for instance, scared some of them into a wild dash in the other direction.

The clothing store was itself no pioneer, but in it Wanamaker initiated a one-price system eliminating the barter and haggling over price tags which had gone on for generations. And he guaranteed satisfaction, promising to refund the money on return of the goods "if they don't please the folks at home."

In 1876, Wanamaker gathered under one roof — an old Philadelphia freight station — goods which had previously been sold only in small specialized shops. He called the store the Grand Depot, describing it as "a composite store" and advertising it as "the store of a thousand surprises."

More than 70,000 persons gathered to wonder, and buy, on its opening day.

Wanamaker went abroad to buy, in France, the home of his ancestors, and elsewhere, offering large quantities and varieties of imported goods for the first time in America. He also invited local home

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hind sight being what it is, the Republican party can be faulted for missing its best and last opportunity to regain the support of Negro voters.

This opportunity existed during the eight years of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's White House tour. The bid for Negro votes could have been made with federal jobs.

Neither Franklin D. Roosevelt nor Harry S. Truman did much of anything for Negroes in the way of top drawer federal employment. Barring an obscure clerkship or some such, FDR and HST managed to operate the White House without Negro assistance other than house servants. Their appeal to the Negroes was with words, legislative maneuvers that failed to score and with relief and housing provided by the taxpayers.

There was hard-nosed civil rights legislation during the Eisenhower administration, although by a Democratic Congress. General Ike even called out the troops to support integration of Little Rock schools. But the jobs for Negroes situation remained as was.

Too late the Republicans realized they had let slip their opportunity to win Negro votes by giving Negroes jobs. Henry Cabot Lodge got the word midway in his Republican campaign for the vice presidency. Lodge occasionally mumbled something about a Negro in the cabinet if the Republicans won in 1960. That did not fool anyone, however, including presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon.

The Republicans were too aware of Southern white voters to make a solid commitment that a Negro would be named to the Cabinet if the Nixon-Lodge ticket won. Anyway, it would have been bad politics to make such a commitment.

Lodge had played the Negro in the Cabinet card, however, and John F. Kennedy had to trump it. He did so as president-elect in December 1960.

Kennedy played the scene on the front stoop of his Georgetown home. His straight man was a Negro, Rep. William L. Dawson, a Chicago Democrat. To the audience of newsmen, Kennedy announced and Dawson did not deny that the president-elect had tendered the congressman the office of postmaster general. Kennedy also said Dawson had refused.

By reason of Dawson's age, 74 years, and his South Side Chicago political connections political realists suspected that the incident was a phony. But it also was a political grand slam.

There is nothing phony about the fact that Kennedy is working many Negroes into the federal service in jobs heretofore reserved for non-Negroes. Andrew Hatcher, a Negro, is assistant White House press secretary. Kennedy is digging pay dirt.

Effective August 1, the Texas State Board of Insurance has directed an increase in auto insurance rates for all companies.

Rates were last raised August 1, 1958 and reduced approximately 10% August 1, 1959. Since that time rates have been further reduced with discounts for insuring second cars and Safe Driving Discounts, which apply to the majority of auto insurance buyers in the state.

This rate increase merely brings automobile insurance rates back to their approximate 1958 level. In most cases, after the application of safe driving discounts, you will pay less for auto insurance than you did in 1958.

Olympic Village
Housing Center
Now For Romans

ROME (UPI) — The glory of Rome's Olympic Village has faded into acres of middle-class homes.

The Village, home for more than 7,000 athletes from around the world during last year's summer Olympiad, has become a housing area for Italian civil servants. It is quite a change.

During the Olympics, there were athletes of every race, religion and size. The village, surrounded by a high wire fence, became one of the tourist attractions of Rome.

Daily, thousands gathered outside the gates to watch the athletes.

Now, the occasional tourist who visits the former Village, located in the Parioli district of Rome, sees only a few remnants of its former glory. The houses on stilts still are there and the highway still runs overhead. But the fence surrounding it is gone — as are the athletes.

There are a few children playing in the sun and a few women chatting, but little else.

The government's plan to make the Village a housing area for civil servants has not been a success.

So far, 1,348 families have moved in, almost filling the buildings. But they are not happy. They complain that prices for the apartments are about the same as they would pay for a similar apartment anywhere in Rome — and certainly not cheaper.

And housewives complain about the shopping facilities. During the Olympics there was a shopping area in the center of the Village.

Now the stores have been replaced by a supermarket. And in Italy, supermarket goods always seem to cost a few lire more than goods from regular shops.

EIGHT HORSES with riders out on North West Street the other hot July afternoon... yup, pardner, we saw them... though you will probably find it difficult to believe in these times of slinky, shiny souped-up cars... we finally decided... as we nervously drove around them... that they were practicing for the rodeo parade, which is looming up on the not-too-distant August horizon... we can hardly wait... for there's nothing like Pampa Town during Rodeo Week... gaiety and color everywhere... spills, chills and thrills every night for six consecutive nights at the rodeo arena... that's the week TV cowboys take a back saddle to real life ones!!!!

BUT BACK TO THE PRESENT... one of the gayest birthday parties we've heard of recently was the one that Georgia Crutchfield gave for her mother, Mrs. J. J. Crutchfield recently... there was as much giggling and fun as at any teenagers!... sparkling red punch and snowy white Angel Food cake were consumed between giggles... how we would have liked to hide away in someone's Brunch Coat pocket and attended the "Come As You Are Breakfast" that Ruby Crocker gave for a group of her friends last Sunday morning... understand that all the latest "come as you are" fashions were in evidence... including a pretty white bathing suit worn by Dena Crocker... a bathing suit at 7 ayem in the morning!!!!... we'll have to figure that one out... winning prizes for looking the most like "come as you are" were Ethel Bryan and Virginia Cox... we'll post this warning to all of our friends... don't ever have a "come as you are" breakfast and invite us... you couldn't stand it!!

ONE OF THE LOVELIEST brides of the current July season was Mayna Faye Bratcher who become Mrs. J. D. King last Saturday evening in the First Methodist Church... in addition to becoming a bride, one of Mayna's most cherished dreams came true... that of having her father, The Rev. H. H. Bratcher, First Methodist Church pastor, perform the ceremony for the wedding... and it will be doubly cherished, for her grandfather, the Rev. Seba Kirkpatrick of Mineral Wells, who is also a Methodist minister, assisted with the ceremony since her dad escorted her down the aisle and gave her in marriage before stepping into the role of pastor, also... Mayna wore the loveliest heart-shaped lavalier of pearls and diamond, which also added a sweetly sentimental note... it belonged to her grandfather, who had received it as a wedding gift for his wedding 52 years ago... originally it had been stick-pin, fashionably worn in ties along about that time (SO WE HAVE HEARD!!)... J. D. and Mayna are now on a wedding trip to Evergreen Valley in New Mexico and will later make their home in Petersburg.

ALL OF THOSE females you will see buzzing around the Coronado Inn today are Desk and Derrick Club members, who have come from far and wide to attend a two-day meeting here... it all began on Friday with a Splash Party in the Inn's swimming pool... entertainment was provided by Marian George's group of Synchronized Swimmers... our own pretty June Allen, who heads the local D&D Club, with Marie Smith, Yvonne Guthrie, Hildred Cook, Selma Heard... Pat Eads, Knoxine Russell and Betty Cooper are the hostesses for the district meeting... the session is to break up at noon today... with each delegate returning home in time for her job in an oil company office on Monday morning... much credit is due these Girl Fridays of the oil industry, who toil in offices all over the United States... for without them, who could decorate the office as well or keep production records as accurately... these little gals are the unsung heroines of a mighty business.

THE DICK DUNHAMs were in town last weekend visiting with his parents, the S. O. Dunhams, who live west of the city... Dick is a lieutenant in the United States Army now and they were on their way to Fort Benning, Georgia, where he will receive training for service in Korea... after leaving here, Dick and his wife planned to stop off for a visit with her parents, the W. C. Griffiths, former Pampanos, who are now living in Lubbock... for the past year, Dick has been employed in the Amarillo School system and received his commission in the army following graduation from West Texas State College, where his wife was also graduated... have you noticed all those cute little teen-agers about town with strange-looking caps and buckets... looking for all the world like modern little milk-maids in shorts and Bermudas... these little maids are Kit Kat Klub, Sub Deb and Las Cresos Club-pledges, who are undergoing the happy rigors of becoming members of the teen-age clubs... the darling little Hep Cats completed their pledging about a week ago and celebrated at a Heck Night Party held in the home of LuRae Nation... quite a bit of "gripping" about the trials and tribulations of pledge life... but not one of them would give it up for the world.

THE POINT... Dear Abby has been conducting quite a crusade against pointed toes in feminine shoes, hasn't she? and she does have a point... but, quite frankly, we like the slender, classic look of the toes... for it seems to us that proper fit in the lasts are more important than whether the toes are eased into a pointed shape or stubbed against rounded toes... what is more of a menace... are the stiletto heels that ruin hosiery... punch holes in car mats and trip you up on carpeting and tiny cracks... that sink deep into softened paving on hot days... almost pulling your shoes off and bringing you to an abrupt stop... but since we are a sheep of fashion as long as these toes and heels are in style we'll continue to take the damage to our car and peril to life and limb in our pointed-toe stride... we're happy, though, to see the flared skirt... as opposed to the straight skirt... coming back into fashion this fall... the flared skirt is femininely flattering to everyone!

SUMMER FILLIPS... Bea Southard has just returned from a vacation trip through Ohio, Kentucky and Colorado... in Kentucky, she renewed the acquaintance of an old friend, whom she hadn't seen for years... Jewell and Carlton Nance are in California helping to welcome a new granddaughter... Lorena and Clyde McNaughton are entertaining their daughter and her husband, Virginia and James Varney, who are visiting here from New Iberia, Louisiana... David Haberle of Jacksonville has been visiting with his cousin, Bob Black and attending the Christian Adventure Week activities of the First Methodist Church... Loy Studebaker, our horticulturist graduate, has his sights set on being a member of the Peace Corps... Mildred Sullivan will be the luncheon speaker at the Delta Kappa Gamma workshop to be held in the YWCA in Amarillo on Tuesday... she's the past state chairman of the committee on music... Pat Hassell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hassell of Amarillo, has been visiting with his grandmother, Lida Ramsay... it's so nice to see Margaret (Mrs. Russ) Allen of Boston, Mass. back in town... she and her four daughters are visiting with her father, C. P. Buckler... hope all of the present and future newcomers of Pampa will enjoy the new club that is being especially formed for them... it's fun to discover a new town and learn how you can fit into its activities, when you are with someone else who is in the "newcomers' boat," too... we hear that the Jaycee-ettes are organizing and if they become anything like their male counterparts, it should be a live-wire club, too... Business and Professional Women's Club are beginning to make plans to entertain District Nine conferees here in the Coronado Inn on Oct. 28-29... smart gals, for sessions like this take a lot of pre-planning... we've been so patient, but when is the Duncan Street Bridge going to be opened for traffic?... we want to "cross over"...

The candlelight nuptials of Miss Judy Kay Miller and Glen Ray Howell were solemnized on Friday evening at eight o'clock in the First Baptist Church... Miss Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Miller, 2223 Aspen, Mr. Howell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Howell, 1002 S. Hobart... Dr. E. Douglas Carver, pastor, was the officiant for the exchange of double-ring vows said in a setting of white girdlers flanked by candleabra holding white tapers.

broided lace accented with pearls fashioned with a scalloped neckline rounded in front dipping to a v in the back and brief, scalloped sleeves. The molded bodice was designed with a lace top with the Empire waistline elongated to v-shapes in the front and back. The bouffant skirt of satin featured a back bustle appliqued with lace and seed pearls terminating in a chapel train. The gown was designed and made by the bride's mother. Her elbow length veil of Illusion with satin edging draped away from a tiara of pearls. She carried an arrangement of white roses atop a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS
Mrs. Don Cates, twin sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor wearing Peacock Blue satin designed along princess lines with short cap sleeves and pleated skirt. She carried a cascade of feathered white mums accented with rain-drops.
Mrs. B. L. Hoover Jr., sister of the bride, and Miss Patti Foster were bridesmaids identically dressed as the matron of honor and each carried a cascade of white feathered mums.
Tommy Jackson served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Don Hinton, Jimmy Enloe, David Holt and Richard Gardner.
For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Miller wore a dress of embroidered beige silk organza with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Howell, wore an embroidered Bone silk with matching accessories. Both mothers' corsages were of pink rosebuds.
Miss Eloise Lane, organist, provided the traditional wedding music and served as accompanist for Jerry Nichols as he sang "Because," "Whither Thou Goes," and "The Lord's Prayer."
Miss Cheryl Landes, bride's cousin and Miss Beth Watson lighted altar candles wearing white organza frocks with blue satin sashes and matching headpieces. Each wore a white carnation wristlet.

Miss Pullman Bride Of Russell Duane Barnard

Wedding vows of Miss Helen Harrison Pullman and Russell Duane Barnard were solemnized by Dr. Albert Buckner Coe in the Winnetka Congregational Church on July 8 at five o'clock.

Mrs. Russell Duane Barnard
... Helen Harrison Pullman

Miss Pullman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cooper Pullman of Winnetka, Ill. Mr. Barnard's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Barnard, 605 Deane Drive.

White, cream and pale yellow roses formed the altar arrangement with a background of summer garden flowers. The choir rails were entwined with Lemon leaves.

BRIDE
The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an Ivory Silk Mist floor-length gown fashioned on modified Empire lines with scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The front fullness of the skirt concentrated in soft folds at the sides and flowed into a wide Chapel train. Her elbow-length veil of Illusion tulle draped away from a circlet of Alencon-lace re-embroidered with seed pearls and accented at the back with a silk rose.

She carried a bouquet of Dutch roses.
ATTENDANTS
Miss Joan Frances Patt of Shaker Heights, Ohio, classmate at Vassar College, attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Ardis Barnard, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Ellen Cole Fetter, Miss Jane Keith, both of Winnetka.

The feminine attendants wore white linen frock designed with short, bell-shaped skirts, scoop necklines and short sleeves. The waistlines were encircled with Moss Green velvet with small apple motifs of yellow embroidery.

brother of the bride, Jerry Yarbrough, Norman Dolph, both of Chicago and Paul Loomis of Evanston, Ill.
Mr. Hudson, Mr. Kolehmainen, Mr. Dolph and Mr. Loomis were all classmates of the bridegroom. Ushers were Philip Kolehmainen of Chicago, Christopher Pullman, in the Process Design Division of the Sinclair Research Co. in Harvey, Ill.

For her daughter's nuptials, Mrs. Pullman wore a green silk-linen dress with beading around the scoop neckline. Mrs. Barnard, mother of the bridegroom, chose a bright, medium-blue silk dress for the affair.

The bride was graduated from Vassar College in 1961 and the bridegroom was graduated from Yale University in 1960. They will make their home in Chicago.

Hoe Down

This article and the weekly series following were taken from lectures given recently to the Top o' Texas Garden Club and will concern the different phases of chrysanthemums culture, propagation, planting, watering, maintaining, fertilizing, pinching, dis-budding, and training; also, their troubles and diseases.

Perhaps, one may think that this article has been written too late in the season to be of much value to this year's chrysanthemums. Quite the reverse is true. It is still not too late to plant cuttings or transplant chrysanthemum plants. The first of this series will deal with propagation.

Most new varieties of chrysanthemums come from seed. Try sowing a few blooms this year for seed. Let the blooms stay on the plants until the bloom has completely turned brown; this may be after frost. Insects will normally do the pollinating or selected crosses may be made. Then early next spring sow your seed to have plants with a surprise of color and blooms.

Divisions are the poorest method of propagating mums because insect pests and disease are carried with the plant. However, if divisions are the only method of propagating possible, be sure to plant only the young offshoots. The woody portions of the divisions will not perform as satisfactorily as the young vigorous offshoots.

Believe it or not, grafting is even used on chrysanthemums. Even so, chrysanthemum grafting is limited.

Terminal cuttings are the best means of propagation mainly because practically no diseases are present in the cuttings. Cuttings are best made from a stock plant that has 12 inches of healthy vigorous growth. A terminal cutting about 4 inches long is made from the stock plant, and further cuttings can be made throughout the spring from the same stock plants.

It is best to dip the ends of the cuttings into some rooting hormone powder for better-rooting and dip into fernate to combat rot. Sand is perhaps the best media for rooting. Be sure to remove any leaves from the base of the cutting that would be in the sand so as to discourage rot. Shade is helpful and beneficial, and the cuttings will root in 14-20 days.

Leaf bud cuttings are a portion of the stem, a leaf, and a bud and are used when insufficient stock plant material is unavailable, or when some stem produces a mutation or "sport."

After the cuttings, roots grow an inch or so transplant them in 3 inch peat pots or into the bed. Plants grow directly into the bed after rooting definitely require more care and maintenance. One must avoid "hardening" chrysanthemums in any stage of their growth. Hardening is actually letting the plant become woody, and is usually caused by insufficient water. Hardening also stunts and dwarfs the plant thus reducing its blooming potential.

Next week's article will concern planting distance and time, watering and maintaining, and fertilization of chrysanthemums.

Clark-Goodnight Wed In Dallas Ceremony

The North Temple-Baptist Church in Dallas was the scene for the marriage of Miss R. L. Parsley, Kay Clark and James Ray Goodnight on June 29 at eight o'clock.

The Rev. Jack Riddlehoover, pastor, performed the double-ring ceremony in a setting of pink and white gladioli flanked with white tapers in candelabra entwined with greenery.

Miss Clark is the daughter of Mrs. Dillie Mae Clark of Dallas and Bailey W. Clark of Grapevine. Mr. Goodnight is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Goodnight, 1711 Beech.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in bridal white Chantilly lace fashioned with a portrait neckline edged with dainty lace, short lace sleeves and a ballerina skirt enhanced with taffeta bows.

Her veil of white net, bordered with Spanish lace, was held to a tiara of white beads in starburst design. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

She carried a bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses in cascade centered with a white orchid showered with pink streamers and a bow.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Roberta Nell Clark, twin sister of the bride, served as maid of honor wearing pale chiffon over pink satin. She carried a nosegay of pink Sweetheart roses and white carnations.

Roy D. Rust of Cleburne, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Mancil Wilfred, cousin of the bride and William Goodnight, cousin of the bridegroom.

Miss Linda Goodnight, cousin of the bridegroom, provided the traditional wedding marches at the organ.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Clark chose a blue lace dress with matching accessories. Mrs. Goodnight, mother of the bridegroom, wore a pink linen sheath with lace trim and matching accessories. The mothers' corsages were fashioned from pink Sweetheart roses and white carnations.

RECEPTION

Friends were received in the bride's home, 3828 Wemdon Dr. immediately following the ceremony. Miss Patricia Green, Mrs. Richard Duke and Miss Bonnie Salas were reception-hostesses.

For a wedding trip to Fort Worth, the bride traveled in a pink linen suit with matching accessories and wore the orchid from the center of the bride's bouquet.

For the present, the couple will make their home at 1230 Vincent in Dallas. The bride and bridegroom are both junior students at North Texas State University.

The wedding party were guests at a rehearsal dinner given preceding the wedding by the bridegroom's parents.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Wayne Lee Harrison of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. James T. Stephens of Electra; Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Hardin Jr., Mrs. S. H. Newberry, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. "To Millions Dying in Their Sin" was the title of the program. By Mmes. Charley Thomas, J. P. Adams, and R. L. Higginbotham with Mrs. Don Turner providing vocal interludes.

Mrs. Charles Terrell read the calendar of prayer and led in prayer for the missionaries.

Mrs. M. O. Burns gave the first program part, discussing the New Orleans Rescue Mission where more than 30,000 men come for help each year. "There are many lasting benefits and permanent changes for good in the lives of these men through the spiritual help of this mission," she said.

The remainder of the program was in interview form with reporter Mrs. Tony Maples, talking with the following:

Mr. Brantly, director of rescue mission work for the Home Mission Board was represented by Mrs. W. C. Bass. She said that rescue missions are places of refuge for drifting, wayward and rejected men and women. She also said that a rescue mission is not a church, but is an arm of service for churches.

Mr. Hubert A. Neely, director of Baptist Center, Memphis, Tennessee was represented by Mrs. Dan Ray. "This mission has been doing an effective work since being opened in 1954," she said.

Rev. J. T. McGill, superintendent of Rescue Missions, East St. Louis, Illinois, was represented by Mrs.

Lloyd Ray who said that at present the mission serves each month, from 2500 to 3000 meals and provides a place to sleep for 800 to 900 men.

Mrs. Claude Turner closed the program with her part on the Good Samaritan Home in New Orleans, a home which meets many needs for women.

Mrs. A. P. Holligan led the closing prayer.

Two visitors, Mrs. Frank Cole and Miss Sue Miller were welcomed.

Refreshments of coffee, punch, and doughnuts were served to the 46 women in attendance.

Mrs. Washbourne SS Class Hostess

Bethany Class of Central Baptist Church met with Mrs. Forest Washbourne on Tuesday morning at ten in her home, 2209 N. Wells.

Mrs. Gene McClendon opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. V. C. Moore gave the devotional, which included a poem "Life's Mirror" and a concluding prayer, "Just For Today."

Mrs. Bob Dorris, who is moving to Arkansas, was honored with a handkerchief shower. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Attending were Mmes. Bob Dorris, Delbert Thurman, Earl Edward, Don Riley, L. E. Harris, V. C. Moore, Albert Stokes, Earl Murphy, Forrest Washbourne, Clifford W. Hill and Gene McClendon.

It was announced that the group will meet next for a Coffee and business meeting with Mrs. Hill, 709 Lowry on Aug. 8 at 10 a.m.

SPLASH PARTY — Among the social activities included in the three-day seminar for the Region-V, Desk and Derrick Clubs was a splash party on Friday evening in the Coronado Inn pool. The Aqua Maids and the Aqua Maniacs under the direction of Mrs. Don George performed for out-of-town and local members. Pictured above, seated from the left are Virginia Meler of Wichita Falls, Jean Tarbet of Bogger, Helen Sams of Pampa, Katie Nabours of Abilene; standing from the left, Ruth Smith and Lois Teel, both of Pampa. ### 4H Club Blue Bonnet Club Members Model Fashions Made At Meetings

A fashion show of garments made by members of the 4H Blue Bonnet Club were modeled for parents and friends on Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the Courthouse Annex.

Members in Unit One made skirts with elastic waist bands and popette blouses.

Modeling their work during the afternoon were Misses Linda Adcock, who wore a skirt and popette of orchid cotton printed with blue and purple flowers; Janet Dormian, who wore a blue and white checked skirt with a red and black figure overprint and a popette of matching gingham; Miss Susan Elkins modeled a gay overall print skirt of flowers and leaves on a tan background; Linda Higginbotham showed a skirt of black and pink bubble print complemented with a pink bobette; Cynthia Hogsett modeled a turquoise check skirt with a white ruffle trimming the bottom of the popette; Sandra Seal wore a skirt and matching popette of olive green background with brown and orange design; Mary Shewmaker wore a dress of turquoise background with a block overprint; Cathy Wilkie showed a purple print skirt with matching purple popette; Phyllis Atwood modeled deck pants of navy blue with a popette of white and red and blue design; Dale Cain modeled a blue jumper dress; Harriet Henderson wore a gold jumper with black accessories; Barbara Veale wore a navy blue jumper dress with white blouse and white cotton gloves.

Blue Bonnet members also modeled their clothing at the County 4H Club Dress Revue held Wednesday afternoon in Lovett Memorial Library.

One way to forget your other troubles is to wear tight shoes.

EARLY RISERS — If you see a lot of activity around the parks early in the morning these summer days, it will be garden club members, digging and working in the parks. Each Monday morning at 6:30, you will find some of the members working in the parks. Approximately 450 Sioux Petunias were planted last week by Pampa Garden Club members in the Ward and Hobart Street Park. These plants were given to the club by the Texas Tech Greenhouse at Lubbock through the efforts of R. L. Studebaker. Over 300 chrysanthemum plants have been ordered and will soon be planted in the Hobart and Ward Streets park for fall blooming. Successful Headway Made in Garden Clubs Civic Beautification Project

The Garden Clubs of Pampa have appreciated the response from the citizen's to their recent Park Fund Campaign. A total of $533.00 has been received to date from the campaign.

Letters were sent out to 1000 local citizens who the members felt were interested in civic beautification.

With all the projects undertaken to beautify Pampa by the clubs, outside financial help was needed to carry out this program. The areas now being developed by the clubs are the Aspen St. Park, located just north of Stephen F. Austin School; Ward and Hobart Street Park; the terraced area at Yeager and Starkweather Sts.; and Perryton Parkway at 22nd and Hobart Sts. Other locations being planted are the grounds at Highland General Hospital, Court House Annex and the Youth Center. The money received will go toward the further development of these Parks and Areas.

The Garden Clubs are grateful to the following people who have made contributions to this Park Fund Campaign:

Ivy Duncan, E. C. Sidwell, Melvin N. Clark, Don Cain, M. K. Brown, Hugh Burdette, Donald Beaman, Edwin L. Hart, R. W. Curry, G. M. Martin, E. L. Green, Jr., A. J. Beagle, Jack Towles, Don L. Turner, R. D. Wilkerson, William Arrington, Gene Fatheree, Roy Sullivan, W. G. Kinzer, Mmes. Irvin Cole, Clyde Fatheree, Curt Beck, John Hessey, Pearl Spough, Jim Tripplehorn, J. A. Sears, Mar-ton Osborne, De Lea Vicars, A. L. Wagner, Elbert Walker, Harold Wright, Gene Sidwell, E. T. Hicks, A. R. Killen, R. L. Royse, J. A. Thurmond, Eben Warner Jr., Frank Yealy, R. E. McKernan, Dan Glaxner, Drs. Falkenstein & Elder, Dr. J. L. Chase, Coston's Bakery, Hom & Gee Grocery, and Windsor Servicing Co.

The current campaign will officially close on August 1st, but contributions will be received and appreciated after that date. You may mail your contributions to The Garden Clubs of Pampa, Mrs. Waldon E. Moore, 2908 Mary Ellen, treasurer of the Park Fund Campaign.

The Garden Clubs invite any one interested in becoming a patron of a Garden Club to call Mrs. Thelma Bray at MO 4-4189 for further information.

Contributions received from patrons will be placed in a special Civic Beautification Fund, with a board of directors set up to administer the funds.

Dear Abby...
Tell Wife, Girl Friend
Lawyer... Then Pray!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You've got to help me out of this mess. I am a married man with a family. I was laid off my regular job, so I took a job in another state. I got mixed up with a young girl there. I didn't tell her I was married. I did a foolish thing and gave her an "engagement" ring. I must have been nuts.

She told me last Friday she is in a family way, and we have to get married right away. I can't marry her because I am already married. I know her father, and I'm afraid he will kill me. If I run out on her and am caught, will they put me in jail? My job pays good money, and I don't want to leave town. How do I get out of this mess?

Mrs. Gill Gives Group Program

The Ross Group of the First Christian Church met in the church on Tuesday morning for its monthly meeting and a program "New Times Require New Spirit" presented by Mrs. John Gill.

Plans for the Church Ice Cream Social to be held July 20 at the church were discussed. Each member is asked to bring a freezer of ice cream or a cake.

Members were also reminded to bring savings stamps, hose and old shoes to the next meeting.

Mrs. Jack Chisum will be hostess for the August 18 meeting to be held at 9:30 in her home, 621 Bradley Dr.

The meeting adjourned with benediction by Mrs. Don Patchin.

STUPID AND MESSED UP

DEAR STUPID: I doubt if you'll be lucky enough to get into a nice, safe jail. Tell your girl friend about your wife. Then tell your wife about your girl friend. Then tell a lawyer about both of them. And pray.

DEAR ABBY: How do you stop a grown man of 24 from licking his plate? Yes, Abby. This husband of mine (and father of two children) just loves to lick his plate. He does it all in fun, and to show me what a good cook I am, but the children are going to start to imitate him. Any suggestions would be appreciated.

DOTTIE

DEAR DOTTIE: If your great big overgrown boy doesn't stop licking his plate — give HIM a licking.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was asked to be a bridesmaid again. This will be the third time she has her own dress and shoes, and get a present for the bride. Each time it has run us about $60.

Our daughter goes to college, and does not earn her own money. We have another child in college, and have to budget ourselves very closely to make ends meet.

Am I wrong in thinking that if the bride's mother wants her to have a big wedding, with bridesmaids, she should pay for the bridesmaids' dresses?

CUTTING CORNERS

DEAR CUTTING: The most common practice is for the bridesmaids to buy their own gowns. The other way is the exception, and not the rule. The bride's mother has an obligation to keep the dress modestly priced. If she

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

Ronald E. Hubbard, Pastor
First Presbyterian Church
Pampa, Texas

Message Of Inspiration

"The fool hath said in his heart, 'There is no God.'" Many people who think that they are entirely honest have said, "But I'm not foolish, for I have never said there is no God." It is true, most of us have not actually said those words. The Psalmist, however, did not say that we were safe from being "a fool" if we but kept these words from forming in our mouth—he indicated that we are foolish, simply ridiculous, and profoundly lost when this declaration is IN OUR HEART. Multitudes of people who have never thought of saying "there is no God," say it by the way they live. Do you? Even you who would be horrified if someone said that you were an atheist: do you by your attitudes, actions and very demeanor actually say almost every moment of your existence, "There is no God"? In God's name, I plead with you; consider seriously what it is that you are saying in your heart as you live your daily life. If, in your heart, you say that God is, then you are constantly seeking to worship Him (almost without exception worshipping people attend church) you are obedient to His commands even unto death, you realize that what you have and what you are comes from His Hands (so use your possessions and your life in serving Him and His Kingdom), you are as concerned for the welfare of others (even strangers and enemies) as He is concerned for your welfare, and you live your life daily as one who is a citizen of eternity and not as a dying creature of earth. This is your portrait if you are really saying" in your heart, "God is, and He is love."

However, no one perfectly fits this picture; and no one ever has—except One, Jesus, the Christ, the Son of the Living God. So all of us are "fools" as the Psalmist goes on to say in the very next verse. All of us need to be saved from our foolishness — and this is what Christ's Good News (the Christian Gospel) is all about. As we would repent and confess our foolishness, He would redeem and save us. At the same time He would transform us so that now the world would call us fools, but God, our Creator, would call us Blessed!

Gas Association Magazine's Staff Changed By IPAA

TULSA, Okla. — On July 1, 1961, the Natural Gasoline Association of America officially changed its name to "Natural Gas Processors Association" and the familiar NGAA symbol became NGPA.

This is the fourth change of name for the organization though the first name, "Association of Casinghead Gasoline Manufacturers," was used only briefly.

Alan L. White, editor of the association's magazine, the Independent Petroleum Monthly, will be transferred to Washington, D.C., in August as assistant director of information.

Young O. Mitchell, former associate editor, has been promoted to editor. He will continue in Tulsa, as will Joseph W. Farmer, the new associate editor.

White, with IPAA since 1956, is former oil and business editor of the Tulsa Tribune. Mitchell was an oil writer with the Tulsa World before becoming associate editor of Independent Petroleum Monthly a year ago.

Farmer, a former advertising manager of Welox, Inc., spent 12 years in advertising, public relations, sales promotion and publication work before joining IPAA's membership department in 1960.

'Get Red Here,' Usual Cry When Oil Fires Occur

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — From Sumatra to Santa Fe, N. M., when an oil or gas well burns out of control, the standing order is, "Get Red here!"

And Red Adair will get there. Stocky, 46-year-old Adair is world-famed for his fire fighting skills. And he did not come by his reputation easily. The fact that he has had an absolute monopoly in his business for over a decade is testimony to his skill and the danger of his job.

Naturally, Adair's favorite color is red. And when roughneck sweating out a roaring well fire see the fire fighter's famous red overalls, it's likely to be their favorite color, too.

Most of his work takes more skill than daring. He says he doesn't often have to wear the Man-from-Mars asbestos suits — or carry a charge of nitro or TNT into the center of a burning well.

Usually, cotton work gloves and careful maneuvering of heavy machinery is the operating procedure. But, when it does take a hazardous approach to get the fire out, Adair shows why his name and Houston, Tex., phone number are likely to be on the desk of oil producers around the world.

Red says, "It's only a calculated risk." But his calculations are dangerous enough to let him name his own fee. And the well owners and insurance companies figure his price is well worth the job.

Adair's fees vary. "If they've got to ask me what I charge, they can't afford me," he says. Research might seem foreign to firefighting, but Red says he continues to study his profession.

"No two fires are alike in every way," he says. "Each has characteristics of its own. As a result, we take pictures of the fires and what we do. We take many notes on the procedures we used and the conditions we met."

When he reports to the scene of a well blaze, Adair usually surveys the situation before taking any action. First, debris and materials must be cleared from the area. This is usually done with cranes and bulldozers.

Then water must be brought to the scene. Sometimes this itself is difficult. At a fire in the west Texas desert, Adair had to transport in 75,000 barrels of water at a dollar a barrel. That fire took 29 days to extinguish.

When water is fed on the fire, Adair's crew pulls away the derrick if there is one. Then they go into the well head area and start shutting off valves. Some have to be blasted shut. Then the well is capped.

Adair says his roughest fire was at Empire, La., in 1958 when seven wells caught fire through a blaze which raced along connecting tubing. Seven men died in that fire.

Moonshiners Declared Just Plain Murderers

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — A meek, soft-spoken man has become the scourge of moonshiners in the hills of this city, once called the "moonshine capital of the world."

He is Donald E. Mason, manager of the Greensboro Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, a municipal liquor monopoly. His ire was aroused a number of months ago when 14 persons, all in the low income brackets, died after drinking poison moonshine in a neighborhood.

Contrary to what most people think, Mason said, the moonshiner is not a picturesque hillbilly whose favorite pastime is playing cat-and-mouse with revenuers. "He is a murderer," he said, "Mason said, the moonshiner is not a picturesque hillbilly whose favorite pastime is playing cat-and-mouse with revenuers. "He is a murderer," producers of white lightning last year, cheating the government out of about $650 million in excise taxes. The moonshiner also is a cut-throat competitor of the licensed industry, and Mason, whose board has a legal monopoly on liquor in this city, won't brook competition from any source.

Mason does not believe that enforcement at the local level is sufficient. On the national level, he said, "the only realistic approach is that proposed by the Schenley company — that 1 per cent of the revenue collected on tax-paid liquor be earmarked for a war of extermination on the moonshiner."

A typical day in Mason's life begins at 4:30 a.m. when he leaves home to keep a rendezvous at daybreak with his own staff and Federal or local agents in mountains 100 or 200 miles to the west of here.

Rolling over the backroads of the Piedmont range, Mason's motorcade of six unmarked cars and a truck heads into a small valley where it waits for information to be radioed by an agent in a small airplane.

Shortly after noon, the air-server reports: "we get one!" Then Mason and his men move in to where the pilot circles and dips the wings of his plane.

There is an exchange of shots, but the moonshiners soon disappear into the trees and the agents arrive at the still, in clear sight on a mountain top.

Mason, who has devised a vest pocket size testing kit, at once tests the moonshine for its lead salt content. A few minutes after he adds a chemical, the white lightning turns a bright red.

"Pure poison," he says. "It's loaded with lead salts."

He explains that lead salts remain within the human body for life. The effect is cumulative, building little by little until it kills the victim.

One of the agents removes six sticks of dynamite from an old Army musette bag. The dynamite is placed in the still and exploded.

Mason and his men move on in search of another still.
