U.S. And Russia Renew Arms Talks

Warning Issued As Envoys Open Moscow Session

MOSCOW (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union began a second round of arms talks here today in the shadow of a Soviet warning that world disarmament hopes hang in the balance.

President Kennedy's special disarmament advisor, John J. McCloy, and Soviet negotiator Valerian Zorin sat down together at the Spiridonovka palace to launch the new phase of the bilateral talks that opened in Washington last month.

The talks resumed only hours after the Communist party newspaper Pravda said that only Washington and Moscow can forge a meaningful disarmament treaty.

Pravda this morning restated the Soviet position that any bilateral talks must take up the whole topic of general and total disarmament.

But McCloy told newsmen on his arrival he is sticking to the U. S. position that these talks should decide the agenda and composition of a 10-nation conference to be held later under United Nations auspices.

Little concrete news is expected while the McCloy-Zorin talks are in progress. The two sides have agreed to postpone any communique until the negotiations end.

HYANNIS, PORT Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy flew back to Washington from a Cape Cod weekend today to tackle a wide range of problems affecting U.S. threats.

Kennedy's first appointment was the swearing in of two new officials involved in Latin American relations. One was DeLesseps S. Morrison, as U.S. representative to the Council of the Organization of American States.

The other was Robert S. Woodward, as assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

The Chief Executive's schedule also included meeting with Prime Minister Julius Nyerere of Tanganyika and a talk with another group of congressmen on foreign aid. This would be his fifth attempt in less than two weeks to seek the backing of members of the House and Senate committees considering his request for a $7.5 billion program of economic aid loans over five years without congressional appropriations.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Sam Rayburn D-Tex., says the threat of war over Berlin is "more serious" than those leading up to World War I and World War II.

The veteran House leader said Sunday Western civilization stands in its greatest danger and the United States must be prepared "if the worst comes to the worst."

Rayburn said this country must meet force with force. Asked in a television interview whether he thought fighting over Berlin would be limited combat or massive retaliation, he replied:

City Commission Meets Tomorrow
Pampa's City Commission will hold its regular weekly meeting in City Hall at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

City Manager John Koozt said today indications were that the commission's routine matters will have mostly routine matters up for consideration.

Record Art Theft Stirs Authorities

ST. TROPEZ, France (UPI) — The people of this little fishing village were elated six years ago when a benefactor willed them a fortune in rare paintings and statues.

They converted an old chapel into a picturesque museum to display paintings with such illustrious signatures as Matisse, Utrillo and Signac.

Thieves entered the gallery over the weekend and took 37 paintings in one of the biggest art thefts in modern times.

Authorities of the Annonciade Museum said the works were priceless but they put a nominal value of $2 million on them.

Not a single one of the paintings had been insured against theft.

The thieves broke down an iron gate, a lockd steel door and a plate glass front door. They took the paintings intact in their frames.

No fingerprints or other clues were found in the museum, and police, called in from Paris and Marseilles, were baffled as to where to begin the search for the thieves.

Early Sunday morning a charwoman made the shocking discovery.

Among the missing paintings were works by Matisse, Bonnard, Utrillo, Derain, Van Dongen, Dufy, Signac, Vuillard and Vlaminck.

The best-known of the stolen pieces was Matisse's "Gypsy."

The collection was founded in 1925 when a French industrialist, Georges Grammont, willed 191 paintings and five statues to the village, which was devoted largely to the fishing industry before it became a tourist center after World War II.

Kennedy, returning from a weekend at his Hyannis Port, Mass., home, scheduled the fourth in a series of meetings on foreign aid with key congressmen at the White House.

Fulbright, hoping to take a final vote on the foreign aid program this week, has threatened to call night sessions if his committee is not well along by mid-week.

In testimony made public Sunday night, the Arkansas senator told Henry R. Labouisse, head of the International Cooperation Administration, that Congress must be given "a very serious paper saying we have examined all of this and this is absolutely vital to the continued security of the country."

Despite Fulbright's warning, however, Speaker Sam Rayburn predicted in a TV interview that Congress would approve a "pretty good" foreign aid program.

J. E. Murfee Jr., Pioneer Pampa Merchant, Dies

Interment rites are pending for J. E. Murfee Jr., prominent pioneer Pampa businessman, who died suddenly at 9:40 o'clock this morning in his apartment in the Coronado Inn.

Mr. Murfee was chairman of the board of the First National Bank and served as the second president of the Chamber of Commerce in 1926. He was a member of the First Methodist Church.

Born March 1, 1894 in Haskell, he moved to Lubbock as a small boy and attended Lubbock schools. He came to Pampa in 1912 with the Panhandle Lumber Co.

In 1915, he was married to Augusta Duncan. For eight months, they resided in Miami where he was associated with a lumber company. He moved back to Pampa in 1916 and opened the Murfee Department Store, which was later sold to Dunlaps' Department Store.

He was a partner in the Texas Furniture Company at the time of his death.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Charles Cook of Pampa; two brothers, Lattimer of Houston, Louis of Lubbock; three sisters, Misses Mae and Vera Murfee, both of Lubbock, Mrs. Dewey Spencer of Abilene; two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

Six Persons Die In Park Accident
MONTERREY, Mexico (UPI) — High winds collapsed a 60-foot high ferris wheel at an amusement park Sunday night killing six persons and injuring 38.

Some of the victims were crushed underneath the heavy timbers and steel supports that crashed to the ground.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — News-papers, broadcasters and all other users of leased teleprinter, telephoto and telephone circuits face an increase of up to $2,250,000 in yearly charges by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Western Union.

The Federal Communications Commission made the estimate in prescribing or authorizing substantial changes in the design of rates for leased teleprinter services of Western Union and leased phone circuits of AT&T.

The changes were detailed by the FCC in a 150-page document released over the weekend. It constituted the FCC's initial decision in a five-year, four-month investigation of the rates and regulations for leased facilities of the two carriers.

The FCC said AT&T and Western Union claims for 10 per cent earnings were excessive and unwarranted but "we conclude that

Solons May Hasten Tax Bill Action

AUSTIN (UPI) — After long hours of give-and-take discussion, the fate of Gov. Price Daniel's selective sales tax plan today depended upon five members of the House.

Rep. Charles Sandahl of Austin, chairman of the tax subcommittee studying Daniel's proposals, said he expected the group to report its findings to the full revenue and taxation committee tonight.

Representatives and senators were scheduled to meet in joint session at 11 a. m. to hear Pakistani President Mohammad Ayub Khan and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. House action was also expected on its version of the state's $2.5 billion budget.

Sandahl's subcommittee was urged by Rep. Charles Ballman of Borger, chairman of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee and sponsor of Daniel's bill, to report as soon as possible.

He reminded lawmakers that in a 30-day special session time means everything. He said he hoped the House could vote on a tax bill by the middle of the week.

Lawmakers have spent one week of the session introducing and hearing tax programs and tentatively passing two huge spending programs.

Ballman's committee also scheduled hearings today on four more tax proposals, including a combined sales-corporate income tax by Rep. Maco Stewart of Galveston and a 1 per cent general sales tax by Rep. Tom Andrews of Arkansas Pass.

Daniel's tax program was severely criticized last week by Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, who said it would be hard to collect and enforce.

The governor replied, in effect, that Wilson didn't know what he was talking about.

For the pair exchanged hot words about 24 hours and then let their fire smolder.

However, Wilson's comments were expected to have strong impact on lawmakers who favor a general sales tax to Daniel's 2 per cent levy on selected items costing more than 50 cents. Daniel's tax package also included a gas pipeline tax and a new two-factor corporation franchise tax.

No Delay Seen In Tomorrow's Scheduled Trip

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Barring any late-hour setbacks, America will rocket the smallest of its seven human astronauts into space at dawn Tuesday.

The weather is right, the machine is ready and the man is parin' to go.

The "flight countdown" began at 7 a. m. EST today. Grissom, Glenn and their five fellow astronauts and the scientists in charge of the nation's $400 million Project Mercury program returned to the job of getting the man and machine ready.

Late weather forecasts indicated little possibility of a delay from that quarter. The morning forecast said conditions were expected to be within the prescribed limits and added that the weather "is not expected to be any great concern" in Tuesday's firing.

Only trouble of a major proportion could keep stocky Air Force Capt. Virgil I. Grissom from following in the spacepath blazed more than two months ago by the nation's first astronaut, Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr.

Ahead of Grissom as the sun rose today were 24 hours of final physical examinations, electrical and mechanical checks on his "Liberty Bell 7" space capsule and Redstone rocket booster, last-minute instructions.

And, perhaps the hardest part of it all, waiting.

Grissom and his astronaut running-mate, Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., returned to their work today after a Sunday of rest and relaxation—their last before the Tuesday morning shot.

Swirling Waters Block Rescue Effort At Cave

ORLEANS, Ind. (UPI) — Rescuers crawled into the flooded entrance of an unmapped limestone cave today and said "fantastic suction" caused by swirling waters blocked efforts to reach two veteran spelunkers trapped inside.

A forecast of thundershowers threatened new flooding of the underground Lost River. That meant further delay in the search for Indiana University graduate students Ralph Moreland and Thomas Arnold, both 25, who entered the cave Sunday.

James Langhammer of Indianapolis, one of three National Speleological Society members who crawled 300 feet into the cave after dawn, said rushing water mounted nearly six feet "up to my armpits. Then I stepped off into nothing."

Moreland and Arnold were trapped about 5 p. m. Sunday during preliminary explorations of the cave on Wallace Shaul's farm. "That hole winds around like a snake" Shaul said. He said the cave is dotted with side passages and the limestone walls are "very slick."

Moreland and Arnold both Indiana University graduate students arrived at Shaul's farm on Sunday for preliminary exploration with Carl William Biky Jr., 24, of Fort Collins, Colo., and Allan Lipscomb, 16, of Bloomington, Ind., a high school junior.

Biky, a graduate zoology student and Moreland's brother-in-law, was with Lipscomb in an adjoining cave when a cloudburst (See WATERS, Page 3)

Evangelist Ends Record Crusade
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham met with the board of directors of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association today after his biggest one-week crusade in the United States.

The upper Midwest crusade drew more than 300,000 persons to eight services at the Minnesota State Fair grandstand. Crusade officials said 6,652 persons came forward to make "decisions for Christ."

More than 75,000 persons filled the grandstand and over a flowed onto the race track and infield to hear Graham at his final session Sunday. Veteran Fairgrounds Supt. James Libby said it was the biggest crowd he ever had seen.

Some fanned themselves with Bibles in the hot sun. The evangelist said God would intervene in history just before man was about to destroy himself.

"The Communists have a plan," he said. "They announce their plan to create a super-kingdom without God. But God says he will have His kingdom and only He will be the head of it. I believe that when we stand on the brink of disaster, just before man is about to blow himself to bits, Jesus Christ will intervene in history again."

Dear Abby... Exchange Amateur ... For A Professional!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine offered to paint and paper my house. He looked over my place and agreed to do the whole thing or $350. The colors he put on were not the ones I picked, and he got the doors on backwards. He kept using screws and bolts, and I was all the time running to the hardware store to replace the stuff he lost. He got varnish on my good bedspread, and tried to take it out with turpentine, thereby ruining it completely. I paid him in full for the job before he started, and it isn't done yet. Should I let him finish the job or stop him now or what? I hate to hurt his feelings.

MADE A MISTAKE

DEAR MADE: Your friend is obviously an amateur. If you want a good job, stop him now and hire a professional to do it over. Anyone who puts doors on backwards must not know whether he is coming or going. This was a very expensive lesson.

DEAR ABBY: There is a boy in our neighborhood who is 16, but acts like 10. He has a crush on me. He let the grass grow in their back yard and, when he mowed the lawn, he cut my initials in the lawn. All the kids in the neighborhood have seen it, and they think it is a riot. It is very embarrassing for me. How can I get him to quit advertising his feelings?

TEASED

DEAR TEASED: Hand your friend a pair of shears, and ask him to please cut it out.

DEAR ABBY: We have a summer place on the lake. Believe me, we are not anti-social. We love company, but we would like to invite them ourselves. Every weekend we are swamped with "drop in" guests who bring their families (and even their friends, who are strangers to us) and stay all day. Some folks bring weiners or potato salad, thinking the refreshments make them welcome. It never occurs to them that we may have invited other guests for that day. Or there are days when we don't want any company at all.

Is there some way we can put a stop to uninvited company without losing their friendship?

LAKE LOVERS

DEAR LAKE LOVERS: What is so precious about the "friendship" of those who would impose upon you in the manner you describe? Rather as much nerve as it takes to tell them PLEASE to telephone before coming. If you lose their friendship, you haven't lost much.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. L.: The "deal" you describe is risky and foolish. When adopting a baby, deal only with a reliable adoption.

'Sells' Way Of Life To Practical Nurses

JERRY BENNETT
Newspaper-Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Quadrupling the number of practical nurses throughout the country each year is the goal of a charming New Englander who has devoted most of her professional life to training women to care for the ill.

She is Eleanor A. Gaffney, president of the National Association for Practical Nurse Education and Service, Inc. NAPNES is the national accrediting association for schools of practical nursing and provides special medical training programs for members.

Composed of about 100 of the 700 state accredited schools, the organization's biggest job these days is recruiting new members. Explains Miss Gaffney:

Eleanor A. Gaffney

"About 70 per cent of the nurses in the nation's hospitals are practical nurses. Although we are turning out 25,000 new practical nurses a year, we need 100,000 annually to meet growing medical needs."

Many reasons are responsible for this skyrocketing demand. Probably most important is the change in duties of practical nurses. No longer do they fit the stereotyped picture of the "carpet-slipped midwife" that was common before World War II, Miss Gaffney says. Today practical nurses are performing many duties formerly carried out by registered nurses.

Hospital administrative duties, plus highly technical medical tasks that used to be done by doctors now occupy most of the time of registered nurses.

The increase in the number of hospital beds in the nation, and their increased use because of the growth of medical and hospital insurance also have contributed to the new demand for practical nurses.

Mrs. Gaffney says the passage of President Kennedy's proposal to build 200,000 more nursing homes for the aged will put even Men now make up about 10 per cent of the profession's members. In addition to recruiting young people, efforts also are under way to interest the middle-aged in practical nursing. Miss Gaffney believes it is an excellent occupation for women who have reared families and are seeking a useful way to occupy their time. Practical nurses' salaries range from $65 to $80 a week.

Most states require a year of training for a license. Courses cover all aspects of medical care ranging from human relations to pharmacology. Says Miss Gaffney: "The program trains students to take care of the individual from the cradle to the grave. Not only does it prepare young girls for a career, it is a very good background for being a wife and mother."

Miss Gaffney, who was born in Lowell, Mass., is director of nurses of Lemuel Shattuck Hospital in Jamaica Plain, Mass., and chairman of the Massachusetts Board of Registration in Nursing. She has been active in nursing training since graduating from Boston University in 1934.

To Look Pretty In Summer Wear Be Sure Garment Is Right Size

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper-Enterprise Assn.
To look pretty on the beach, by a pool, in a patio or the back yard, make sure that your swimsuit or shorts fit you; that is, fit you in the sense that a dress does. When you shop for a dress, you are careful to see that the skirt is not skimpy, the top not too tight. The same rules apply to sports and leisure clothes.

If you have heavy thighs and legs, stay away from tight shorts. Look instead for brief skirts which allow you freedom of movement. You'll look much prettier. Pick a skirted swimsuit rather than boy shorts or a sheath suit. And this is very important: buy the proper size, the one that really fits you.

Every summer, girls and women squeeze themselves into skimpy swimsuits a size too small on the theory that this will make them appear smaller. What it does is call unflattering attention to heavy legs, a large bosom or a hip problem.

SUMMER'S LOSS

Teen-agers who want to lose weight will find summer vacation the ideal time to do it. Get Mom to keep a supply of cottage cheese in the refrigerator for you. Since she's sure to have fresh fruit and vegetables, you have the makings right here of a delicious, low-calorie meal.

No matter what the family is eating, prepare your own salad. Vary it a little each time so that you don't get bored with the whole idea and go off your diet.

Instead of drinking soft drinks, have fruit or vegetable juice. Good for you and low on sugar. Think twice before you have a malted milk, a sundae or a soda. Decide which you prefer: a pleasure which lasts just a few minutes or a trim figure.

PRETTY ARMS

It's a rarity when a mature woman has a pretty upper arm. When she has, it means that she has exercised, played tennis or done a lot of swimming. But the majority of women have not. So the best way for them to look their prettiest is to avoid the sleeveless dress. There are alternatives: little cap sleeves, little jackets, brief summer sweaters. What hold true for daytime is good for evening, too.

The only purpose in showing off arms or shoulders is just that — to show them off. If the skin is mottled or rigid looking, it's clever to conceal it. Many mature women know this, of course, but those who do not would do well to borrow a secret from their friends. The one time to be absolutely ruthless is when you look into the mirror, close-up or full-length.

BAGS OF STRAW

Just pick your straw for a summer handbag: wicker or cellophane, plain or fancy toyo. Those wicker bags come with patent or natural trim.

Ask The Designer

By GAILE DUGAN

Dear Gaile: Not long ago, I bought a pair of very pretty dress pumps for summer. After I wore them a few days, my ankles started to swell and my feet to burn. I stopped wearing the shoes and the swelling went down.

So I examined them closely, and found that the soles were made not of leather, as I thought, but of something else, plastic, I believe. When I bought the shoes, there was no tag that said anything about their having plastic soles. I took them back but the store refused to do anything because I had worn them.

Isn't there anything that can be done about this? I don't want to buy shoes with such soles in the future. — Mrs. H. J.

Dear Mrs. H. J.: I went to Arthur Schwartz, designer for Customcraft shoes, to get the answer to this one. He says:

"You are entitled to know what you're buying. That's why federal law provides that all apparel must be labeled as to content. Unfortunately, there is no such law, as yet, covering shoes. Nonleather soles do not have the comfort or pliability that you need. They do not mold as well either. Such a sole will spread and the shoe will lose its original shape."

To this, I add: Ask the sales clerk the next time you buy a pair of shoes if the soles are plastic or leather. Explain to him that you do not want plastic soles under any circumstances.

As for the shoes under discussion, I suggest that you return them once more. Ask to see the store manager and tell him that the clerk did not explain to you that the soles were plastic when he sold you the shoes.

Dear Gaile: I would like to know the correct way for a woman to wear a belt. (I am speaking here of belts that buckle in front.) Also, I have another question. Is it correct to wear black patent leather in winter? I would appreciate an answer very much. — Mrs. D. H.

Dear Mrs. D. H.: Here is advice on the belt question from Mrs. Alice Kreisel, designer for Colony Belts. "A belt may be worn anywhere you desire... at the waist, below or above the waist."

"If it is a contour shap, it is made to buckle from right to left. If it is a straight belt, it can be turned upside down and buckled left to right."

Now for the other question: patent leather is worn the year around these days.

RUTH MILLETT

Sometimes a wife won't let a man have anything of his own, if he takes up golf, his wife decides to take up golf, too. And the four-somes are replaced by a husband and wife twosome.

If the husband of a "me too" wife starts to talk about his job, his wife lets everyone know that she knows as much about his business as he does.

If he plays poker with the boys a few times, the first thing he knows she has gotten the "crowd" together for the kind of game where the wives keep asking helplessly, "Tell me again, does straight beat a flush or is it the other way around?"

If he builds himself a workshop before it is finished she has six jobs lined up for him that he has to do before he can think about making the things he wants to make.

All he has to do to have a plan changed or improved upon is to tell it to his wife.

If he starts off to do some errands, she either says "Wait a minute and I'll go with you" or "Why don't you take the kids along?"

Wives like this seem to feel that once a man marries he isn't supposed to have any life of his own.

Being Truthful Gombats Tantrum

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: Our 5-year-old boy has had several temper tantrums lately — kicking, screaming, banging the floor. As I know he is frustrated by having to share me with his new baby sister, I have tried to quiet him by telling him I love him more than his sister. Is this wrong? It does not seem to quiet him.

ANSWER: Do you truly feel love for this small boy when he is howling and banging the floor? If you don't please reconsider the wisdom of lying to him in his crises of discouragements.

Because a person who is having a temper tantrum has lost trust in himself. He is terrified of the tide of uncontrollable passion sweeping him on to some unpredictable end. So he needs self-trust: a person around him whose own feelings do not frighten him. He needs the truth of those feelings in order to recover human contact. For many of us that truth is:

"I've had enough of this roaring. Now I'm taking you upstairs where you can roar to your heart's content until you are ready to tell me why you're so mad."

Would you enjoy being assured of love by a person who had enraged you? I bet you wouldn't. I bet you would find such assurances intolerably patronizing. I bet

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

German Girl Chosen New 'Miss Universe'

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The royal world of Miss Universe opened with a flourish for Marlene Schmidt of Germany at a $35,000 coronation ball Sunday night.

Her jewel-studded tiara riding gracefully on her blonde head, the new queen of world beauties was still caught in a Cinderella mood from the Stuttgart research laboratory where she worked in pre-coronation days.

"I still can't believe it," said the green-eyed beauty. "It's so wonderful."

She danced half the night away before 900 socialites who paid $20 apiece to watch and admire her in a white satin bouffant skirt with fitted bodice and silver white gloves.

Her escort, Navy Ensign Hugh J. Smith of New Orleans, cut a fine figure in his white dress uniform complete with sword. He spoke no German, but Miss Schmidt, who speaks virtually no English, didn't seem to mind.

"He's a good dancer," she smiled.

The grand ballroom of the Hotel Fontainebleau, plush with red velvet carpeting and stately marble columns, must have seemed far removed from her work as an electronics engineer, inspecting barometers, thermometers, and thermodynamic systems.

For Miss Schmidt, 130 pounds distributed in 36½-23-36 measurements over 5 feet 8 inches, Cinderella's story came true Saturday night.

While 8,000 spectators and a nation-wide television audience watched, judges named her the most beautiful of the 90 Miss Universe entries. The decision brought her a $5,000 check, a $5,000 mink coat, a $10,000 year's personal appearance contract, a movie screen test, and a wardrobe among other prizes.

Only last year, "fed up" with life under communism in Wernigerode, East Germany, Miss Schmidt had boarded a train with a teddy bear and a good luck charm and fled to the West.

The "Miss Germany" contest was the first beauty contest she had ever entered.

She is the first German and the fourth European chosen Miss Universe in the pageant's 10-year history. She succeeded Linda Bement, Salt Lake City, Utah, last year's winner.

Pakistan's Chief Beams At Cheers Of Texas Crowd

STONEWALL, Tex. (UPI) — His eyes flashed. A smile tempered his tone. But Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan spoke straight from the shoulder.

The 600 Texas dignitaries stood on the banks of the Pedernales River that runs through the ranch of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and cheered.

They interrupted Ayub a dozen times as he talked. He smiled at the applause and beamed at the ultimate in shouts of approval—the Rebel yell.

When he finished, Johnson stepped up to the platform rigged for the occasion, and said the best way he could describe Ayub was to use the words of Speaker Sam Rayburn.

"I like you because you've got steel in your spine, brains in your head and guts in your belly."

The Pakistani president said that he can understand Texas and Texans should understand his people because his country today faces some of the same problems that the Lone Star state did in its days as a Republic.

"But time is short in this modern age in a county's battle for independence and survival," he said. "Those who wish to keep themselves free must hang together."

"We look to America for leadership. We expect a lot from you, but most of all, moral courage—moral courage more than anything else."

"We welcome our friends' understanding of this necessity. Texas survived and made good, that means you are really good. You have a great responsibility on your shoulders."

"You must go on and on and on in defending freedom. The other side cannot win until they defeat you."

Successful Drop Over Niagara Falls Costs Negro

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (UPI) — A husky, 30-year-old Negro, who went over Niagara Falls Saturday in a tailor-made ball, pleaded guilty today to a charge of "stunting" in the Niagara River.

Nathan Eoya of New York City paid a $100 fine and $113.50 in court costs and was released.

Eoya was taken to the chambers of Magistrate Johnstone L. Roberts after his discharge this morning from Greater Niagara General Hospital.

He had been accused of violating a parks commission law prohibiting stunts in the river by riding the ball he called a "plunge-o-sphere" over the falls.

The daredevil was quoted as saying, "I have integrated Niagara Falls" after he rode the six-foot ball over the falls.

Eoya became the fifth person in history to survive the 160-foot plunge over the Canadian Horse-shoe Falls. The New York adventurer appeared generally in good shape. He received only bruises on his back and few other aches and pains.

Thousands of tourists thronged both sides of the border when Eoya's ball was first spotted near Gull Island at 10:15. Park police followed the ball's route past Three Sisters Island, through the turbulent rapids, and over the falls.

The "plunge-o-sphere" bobbed crazily under the bottom of the

Vacation-Bound Man Shot, Wife Severely Beaten

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) — Vacation-bound Joseph and Irene Yilek of Fontana, Calif., made two mistakes. They failed to heed warnings about camping along the road and tried to befriend another traveler.

Yilek was repaid with two bullets in the heart. Mrs. Yilek was terrorized, fought off, attempted rape and finally was beaten unconscious. All before the eyes of their two young sons as the California sun rose over U.S. Route 99, three miles north of here Sunday.

The Yileks' vacation ended tragically in its first few hours as they attempted to catch some rest in their auto-towed 16-foot cabin cruiser alongside the highway.

A massive manhunt is on for the middle-aged gunman.

Mrs. Yilek, 25, who is in serious condition at Memorial Hospital from shock and multiple bruises and cuts, reconstructed the crime for Kern County sheriff's deputies, this way:

She and her 27-year-old husband had spent the night sleeping on the boat's deck, while their sons, Tommy, 7 and Roger, 3, slept inside the locked cabin.

At daybreak, a middle-aged man with reddish-blond hair stopped his car beside the boat trailer and asked for water. As Mrs. Yilek was fetching a cup of water, the man drew a pistol and demanded the couple's money.

Yilek gave the man some bills, but the intruder declared, "You're holding out on me. I want all of your money."

Then the man began firing his gun. Yilek fell with two bullet wounds in his heart as the boys watched terror-stricken from the boat's portholes.

Mrs. Yilek wrested the gun from the man and threw it into a field.

Tigers Top AL Again

United Press International
It's easy to say hold that tiger but what do you do when there's a pair of 'em like Rocky Colavito and Norm Cash on the loose?

Nobody could hold either Sunday, much less both, and that in a nutshell is the reason why the Detroit Tigers are back on top in the American League today.

Between them, Colavito and Cash ripped Kansas City's pitching for 16 total bases and 12 runs batted in during a doubleheader. Detroit swept the two games, 11-1 and 8-3, thus taking over first place by one percentage point from the New York Yankees, who beat the Baltimore Orioles, 2-1.

Colavito drove in five runs in the nightcap with his 23rd and 24th homers, while Cash, who contributed a three-run double in the opener, belted his 25th home run with one on in the nightcap. Rookie Dick McAuliffe also homered in the second game to help Phil Regan to his ninth victory.

Southpaw Don Mossi limited the A's to five hits in the opener and contributed a home run to his own cause. Al Kaline hit his 11th homer off loser Jim Archer.

In other AL games, the Cleveland Indians took the opener from the Minnesota Twins, 7-5, but dropped the nightcap, 12-5; the Los Angeles Angels beat the Washington Senators, 11-2, then lost the second game, 4-3, in 10 innings, and Boston split with Chicago, the White Sox winning the opener, 4-3, and the Red Sox taking the 12-inning nightcap, 3-2.

Cincinnati's lead in the National League was sliced to five games when the Chicago Cubs defeated

Yanks In Dual Meet Honors In

5 Dual Meet

MOSCOW (UPI) — Frank Budd, Ralph Boston and Wilma Rudolph emerged as the individual heroes for the United States in its two-day dual track meet victory over Russia.

Budd won the 200-meter race in 20.8 Sunday and got the Yanks rolling toward a 124-111 victory over the Russian men's team.

Boston, the world record holder in the broad jump, extended his mark even further Sunday when he leaped 27 feet, 2 inches to add more points to the growing U.S. total.

Miss Rudolph, the Olympic triple gold medal winner, equalled her own world record of 11.3 seconds in winning the women's 100-meter dash and then brought the 400-meter relay team from behind the win that event, too, Saturday. However, the American girls bowed to the Russian amazons, 68-39.

Although the men's and women's meets are scored separately, Soviet newspapers were expected to combine the scores and claim victory for Russia.

Altogether, six world records were set in the two-day meet, three of them coming on the final day.

Valery Brumel, the high jumping champion, took John Thomas' measure for a fifth straight time with a world record-breaking leap of 7 feet, 4 inches, and Tatyana Schelkanova set a women's broad jump record with a leap of 21 feet, ¾ inches.

Brumel, the 19-year-old Moscow schoolboy, won the high jump when he cleared 2.24 meters (7-4) on his third try. Thomas failed on all three after both he and Valery had eliminated Bob Avant of the Southern California Striders and Olympic gold medal winner Robert Shavlakadze at 7-2½.

Dixon Farmer's failure to bring his own shoes from the hotel cost the U.S. points in the 400-meter hurdles. He borrowed a pair of shoes and finished a disappointing third to Cliff Cushman of the United States and George Cheyachalov. Cushman won in 50.5 seconds.

Jim Beatty and Jim Greele, filling in for the ailing Dyrrol Burleson, the American mile champ, finished 1-2 in the 1,500 meters (3:43.8 and 3:45.3). Jay Silvester took the discus throw with a heave of 190 feet, 4¼ inches, and the 400-meter relay team of Adolf Plummer, Charlie Frazier, Earl Young and Uli Williams sprinted to a 3:08.8 victory.

Russia's most notable victory besides Brumel's was turned in by Yuri Kutenko in the decathlon. He scored 7,615 points for the 10 events, while Paul Herman of the U.S. had 7,484 for second place and Dave Edstrom had 7,293 for third.

Young finished with an 8.38 clocking which broke the American record of 8:40.8 set by Phil Coleman three years ago in the 2,000-meter steeplechase. Nikolai Sokolov, the winner, was timed in 8:35.4.

The United States finished 1-2 in the men's competition in the pole vault with John Ules and Henry Wadsworth, the shot put with Gary Gubner and Silvester, the 400-meter run with Williams and Plummer and the 800-meter run with Jerry Siebert and Jim Dupress. The Yanks took 1-3 in the 110-meter hurdles with Hayes Jones and Fran Washington.

Joe Adcock hit two homers and Lee May one in the Braves' victory over the Cardinals. Rookie Bob Hendley was the winner but gave way to Don Nottebart in the seventh after Carl Warwick hit a pinch homer and Curt Flood singled. Al Cicotte was the loser.

And Ramon Ramos of the Poza Rica team of the Mexican League, and Larry Maxie of Austin in the Texas League did it. Friday night Ramos hurled a no-hitter against the Senators. Poza Rica won it 11-0. Saturday night it was Maxie's turn.

He allowed nine baserunners—six on walks, one he hit with a pitch, and two got on base on errors. It was Maxie's second no-hit game of the season, and the Senators won it 5-0.

On June 14, Maxie shut out Victoria for a 2-0 win in Texas League play.

HIGH AND FLIGHTY — Thrilling scenes such as this were duplicated many times during the Pampa Boat and Ski Club tournament Sunday with the local club winning over entries from Amarillo, Lubbock, Canyon and other towns to retain the annual team trophy for the second year. Individual trophies included: Women's slalom and trick events were won by Pat Enloe; Ruth Sargent took the senior women's tricks and senior women's slalom contests while Larry Degraff nabbed the men's tricks tilt. The above picture shows Joe Cash in a thrilling leap at Cypress Gardens, Fla. Degraff, a former instructor there, was unable to make his 'kite-flight' Sunday due to lake conditions.

Errors were charged to Moreland, R. Howard, A. Howard, love, Dean and Fortin.

The game drew only a small crowd and at the time it was called, players outnumbered fans in the bleachers.
