

Hijackers Wanted To Sell Jet Airliner To Cuba's Dictator

Father And Son Face Charges Of Kidnaping And Theft At El Paso

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — A federal official said today that Leon Bearden and his 16-year-old son, Cody, hijacked a $5 million jet airliner with the apparent intention of taking it to Havana, selling it to Fidel Castro's government and living like kings on the proceeds.

The federal official is U.S. Commissioner Henry C. Clifton, who set $100,000 bond for Bearden, 38, and his son late Thursday on federal charges of kidnaping and flying a stolen plane across state lines.

Airline Crews Are Authorized To Carry Arms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress moved swiftly today to provide stiff prison terms for sky pirates, and the federal government authorized arming of airline flight crews.

The double-barreled attack to prevent further seizure of U.S. airliners followed the abortive father-son hijacking of a Continental Airlines Boeing 707 jetliner Thursday at El Paso, Tex.

The Senate aviation subcommittee met to consider legislation to provide tough criminal penalties for aerial hijackers. Chairman A.S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., predicted approval of the measure by nightfall.

Monroney said he expected the subcommittee to approve a modified version of a proposal by Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., which would make hijacking punishable by life imprisonment. The bill would broaden the penalties against piracy on the high seas to cover commercial flight.

In addition, Monroney said, the Senate group probably would recommend 20-year prison terms for anyone threatening flight crews. Carrying of concealed weapons aboard airliners also would be prohibited.

The federal crackdown was announced in a six-point memorandum issued by Federal Aviation Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby. Halaby said the government would offer a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons plotting to seize an airliner.

He said the FAA had authorized airlines to place armed guards aboard planes.

President Wins Plane 'Gamble'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy gambled and won in directing federal agencies to hold a hijacked jet airliner on the ground at El Paso, Tex., and reject deals with "thieves and kidnapers."

That is how Federal Aviation Administrator Najeeb Halaby pictured Kennedy's role in the successful effort to block the flight of a $5 million plane to Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Details of the plane seizure flowed into the White House Thursday as if it were a battlefield command post. Halaby said Kennedy made the crucial decision himself after consulting his top aides.

Halaby said the gunmen's proposal to swap the jet for a DC-7 and free the hostages in return for a safe-conduct flight to Havana was seriously considered at one point. But Kennedy vetoed the idea.

"The President directed that we not let that airplane leave the ground and not make any deal with thieves or kidnapers," the FAA chief said.

Halaby said he and the President realized the decision to hold the plane at El Paso by force may have risked the lives of the crew and the hostages.

"But I felt it was worth the risk to preserve law and order in the U.S. aviation industry," he said. "The President and I do not think we should condone this kind of action."

Water Pollution Measure Passed

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Senate Thursday passed a bill 22-7 to establish a water pollution board as a watchdog for disposal permits into Texas streams.

The Senate amendments to the House bill will be sent to the House for concurrence.

"All we, the FBI or anyone else could get out of them, was that they wanted to go to Cuba and take the plane and sell it," Clifton said.

Was there already a pre-arranged deal with the Castro government to buy the plane?

Clifton did not know, but he pointed out that the FBI noted that Bearden, an ex-convict on parole, contacted the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City last January and indicated he wanted to go to Cuba.

The Beardens—the son armed with a 45-caliber automatic and the father with a 38-caliber revolver seized the Continental Airlines Boeing 707 jet early Thursday on the Phoenix-El Paso leg of a Los Angeles to Houston, Tex., flight.

There were 67 passengers—including the hijackers—and a crew of six on board. Everyone aboard believed at first the hijackers were Cubans.

When they landed at El Paso on the pilot's plea that he had to refuel to get to Cuba, the Beardens let all of the passengers except four go. They kept the four passengers—who volunteered to stay behind—and six crew members hostages.

They ordered the pilot to take off after the plane's tanks were filled. FBI agents and border patrolmen, acting on President Kennedy's orders, chased the taxing plane in squad cars and shot out the tires and one engine with submachineguns and rifles.

Finally, after more than nine hours, Leonard Gilman, assistant regional commissioner of the Immigration Service, slugged the elder Bearden. It laid Bearden's jaw open and broke Gilman's finger. An FBI man and a border patrolman subdued the son.

R. Ewing Thomason, federal judge of the Western District of Texas, plans to talk to U.S. Atty. Ernest Morgan of San Antonio, Tex., today about calling a special grand jury into session.

"We haven't decided yet, but I believe it safe to say I'll call a grand jury next week," Thomason said. "If I do, the trial will probably be held next month."

The maximum penalty on conviction under a federal kidnaping charge is death under the "Lindbergh Law," but the death penalty only applies if the victims are harmed.

The Beardens threatened their hostages with death. They held a gun to the head of one of the two hostages and to the head of the pilot, Capt. B. D. Rickards.

"But the only injury happened when one of the hostages was cut by flying glass when the FBI and Border Patrol opened fire to (See HIJACKERS, Page 3)

Kennedy May Cut Off All Cuban Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — High State Department officials have recommended that President Kennedy invoke the "trading with the enemy act" to cut off the remaining trickle of U.S.-Cuban trade, sources said today.

The move would be retaliation against Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's failure to do as much as reply to the U.S. demand that he return a hijacked Eastern Air Lines plane.

The sole remaining trade between the two countries is food, exported to Cuba, and tobacco imports to this nation valued at $50 million a year.

Kennedy has been reluctant to invoke the act, since his policy has been to concentrate on helping other Latin American nations and ignoring Cuba.

But it was learned that mounting congressional pressure increased by Thursday's attempted plane hijacking has swayed Kennedy to consider a complete embargo.

If Kennedy does decide on such a step, it probably would not be made until the end of the Inter-American Economic Conference which opens Saturday in Uruguay.

Soviet Ready To Negotiate On Berlin

West Gets Note Revealing Firm Stand On Treaty

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union in relatively mild notes to the Western Powers made public today said it is ready to negotiate with them on a German peace treaty.

If the United States, Britain and France will not negotiate such a treaty, the notes stated, the Soviet Union will conclude a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

This restatement of the Soviet position was contained in notes of some 6,000 words delivered to the Western powers Thursday and made public here today. They were similar in content but not identical.

Tenor of the notes, observers here felt, was somewhat milder than previous Soviet statements on Germany.

The notes said the Soviet Union did not propose to restrict the freedom of West Berlin nor encroach on western rights there. But they left vague the nature of the guarantee for rights of access to Berlin. Nor did the notes give any specific clue as to how negotiations on a peace treaty should be held.

A previous six-month deadline—until the end of 1961—for a settlement on Germany was not mentioned.

Talks here between Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani indicate the Soviet leader is as determined as ever to change Berlin's status—but by negotiation rather than war.

Khrushchev tipped his line in talks with Fanfani. After emphasizing that, in the Soviet view, Berlin's status must be changed, Khrushchev told Fanfani Thursday that negotiations on the problem were both "opportune" and "possible."

Westerners in this capital believe neither East nor West is anxious to open such negotiations before the West German elections in September or the Communist party congress in October. After those events both sides will be freer to make decisions.

Thus the Soviet strategy apparently will be to keep the international temperature slightly below the boiling point until negotiations are arranged, perhaps in late fall. Khrushchev said once again Thursday that the Soviet goal is to sign a peace treaty by the end of the year.

But he carefully stopped short of laying down an ultimatum that he would sign by then if he were unable to reach some accommodation with the West.

Berlin Commie Believed Told To Be Careful

BERLIN (UPI) — Informed sources reported today that East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht had asked Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev for permission to seal the West Berlin border against the flight of refugees. The report could not be confirmed.

The sources said Ulbricht made a secret flight to Moscow to tell Khrushchev that an immediate settlement of the Berlin problem was necessary.

The sources said they did not know Khrushchev's answer but believed he recommended caution until possible East-West talks on Berlin take place.

Despite the lack of official confirmation, weight was given to the report by the fact that Ulbricht was absent from East Berlin early this week.

He did not attend a government reception Tuesday for President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana. The sources said Ulbricht wanted drastic measures to plug the West Berlin hole through which refugees from his regime have been streaming to the West at the rate of 1,000 a day.

More than 1,000 East Germans fled again today despite color Communist police checks of all Berlin-bound travelers in Germany's Soviet Zone.

Thursday, the U.S., British and French military commandants in West Berlin protested to the Soviet commander of East Berlin about restrictions against East Berliners who have jobs in West Berlin.

They have been threatened with jailing and economic reprisals and some have lost their identity cards through refusal to quit their West Berlin jobs. The East German Radio's reaction to this today was to term the protest "provocative" and "hypo-critical."

Searing Summer Weather Reigns; Relief Unsighted

Searing summer temperatures, the hottest of the year in much of the state, baked Texas Thursday and little relief was expected today.

The mercury plummeted to a cool 53 degrees before dawn today at Alpine and to 62 at Dalhart but it was a far different story Thursday when Wichita Falls fell.

PAMPA AND VICINITY — Partly cloudy and hot through tomorrow. Low tonight 66. High tomorrow 92.

Recorded 102 and Mineral Wells had 101. Dallas and Fort Worth both got 100.

Alpine, with a high of 86, was the coolest spot in the state. All other Weather Bureau reporting stations had maximum readings in the 90s.

Clear to partly cloudy skies are expected to remain over the state through the weekend.

National Guard Call Not Slated At Present Time

NORTH FORT HOOD, Tex. (UPI)—Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general, U.S. Continental Army Command, said Thursday that the 36th Texas Infantry Division will not be mobilized in the foreseeable future and all National Guard units may undergo additional training at home.

Powell told Maj. Gen. Carl L. Phinney of Dallas that "our plan is a gradual buildup of U.S. military might, and we do not contemplate any flash action."

Powell made a whirlwind tour of the division's training area Thursday.

"We want a good steady effort that will result in a force capable of immediate reaction in national emergency," Powell said. "I do not see an immediate call-up of any National Guard units. We have other good military forces capable of moving quickly."

He said it was possible that the 27 National Guard units throughout the nation may undergo additional training at home "or possibly spend a few extra days at summer encampment in the years to come."

Senate Pushes Huge Defense Money Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democrats were expected to repulse a GOP move to tack on federal aid to impacted school districts today before approving a $46.8 billion defense budget bill.

The GOP-backed amendment was made the pending order of business as the Senate returned to push for final action on the huge military spending measure.

Republicans want to write into the defense bill a provision for aid to schools whose enrollments are swollen by children of federal employees. A similar maneuver failed Tuesday when the provision was offered to a 5.1 billion-labor-and-welfare appropriation bill.

Hopes for quick passage of the defense money bill Thursday were abandoned when the Senate bogged down in a scrap over funds for long-range bombers.

The Senate defeated, 87-4, an amendment by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., which would have eliminated $525 million added to the President's budget by the Senate Appropriations Committee for B52 and B58 bombers.

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, also served notice he would seek to cut $207.6 million sought by President Kennedy for civil defense to protect civilians from surprise nuclear attack.

Addition of the new aircraft money by the Senate Appropriations Committee made the defense money bill larger than the top annual expenditure during the Korean War.

The measure also contained the $3.5 billion extra in military and civil defense funds President Kennedy asked to bolster America's ability to face any armed crisis over Berlin.

House May Ask Compromise On State Tax Bill

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas senators, their tax recommendations rejected by the House, today faced demands for a compromise.

Members voted 97-43 Thursday to reject the $360 million tax package senators passed only 15 hours earlier.

Rep. Charles Sandahl of Austin called for a joint conference committee to write a tax measure the House can accept. The Senate's measure, based on a 2 per cent general sales tax, was a substitute for a House bill.

Should the Senate turn down the House request for conference, representatives would then have to discharge their conferees and vote directly on the Senate's bill.

Speaker James A. Turman appointed Reps. Charles Ballman of Borger, Bob Eckhardt of Houston, Don Kennard of Fort Worth, Menton Murray of Harlingen and Sandahl as conferees.

Sandahl told members, "We are going to have to get this bill in workable shape. If we want to get something done this session, we better take advantage of the time that is left."

Officers Swarm Church Retreat To Seize Marine

LOUISVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—More than 130 FBI agents and state police swarmed into an embattled estate behind a gate-busting half-track today and arrested an AWOL Marine and the leader of an anti-Communist religious sect who had given him refuge.

The 109 state troopers and 25 FBI agents invaded the 100-acre estate of mauler tycoon John R. Harrell just before dawn. Despite Harrell's threat to fight to the death to protect Marine Dion Davis, no shots were fired.

A state police plane flying overhead broadcast the order to Harrell's followers to surrender and give up their arms. The voice from the sky blared, "Come out—you're surrounded."

Bear equipment means satisfactory work, come see us, Pampa Safety Lane, 411 S. Cuyler, MO. 5-7711.

The members of Harrell's "Christian Conservative Church" obeyed. The few who emerged from their dwellings with rifles in their hands were put under immediate arrest. Sixteen of them, in addition to Harrell and his son, Todd, 15, were taken into custody.

The only person injured was Todd. He came out with a rifle and tried to attack one of the invaders. The boy was overpowered, suffering a cut on his forehead. Police said "we went easy on him because with his long hair we thought he was a girl."

Harrell, who also affects long hair, was found in a tunnel he had built under his mansion, which is a replica of George Washington's home at Mount Vernon.

Davis, the 19-year-old Marine from Greenville, Pa., who left Camp Lejeune, N.C., four months ago, was found in a cottage on the southern edge of the estate.

From Washington, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the raid was ordered because Harrell and his 100 followers were "in effect in a state of armed insurrection against the United States."

Harrell, 39, was hustled off to East St. Louis, Ill., to face arraignment on charges of harboring a fugitive. Davis went, too.

under charges of being absent without leave. The others were charged with resisting arrest and persistence in harboring a deserter.

An alarm bell tolled when surprised guards discovered the invasion.

Mrs. Natalia Harrell, the mother of the former bomber pilot, said the sect was outnumbered.

"They were as the sands of the sea," she said.

Mrs. Harrell said there was no resistance because "the Lord told him (Harrell) not to fire a shot."

"The coming of the officers was no surprise," she said. "The Lord had told us they would come."

Chief target of the raid was Dion Davis, 19, who said he left a North Carolina camp because the Marines "teach men to hate" and "flout sin in your face."

N.C., four months ago and said the Marines "flout sin in your face," condone atheism and teach men to be killers. He took refuge on Harrell's estate three weeks ago and Harrell told newsmen of his whereabouts Tuesday.

Harrell, former Methodist Sunday School superintendent and World War II pilot, vowed that sectarian followers whom he supports and houses on his estate would resist any attempt to take Davis by force. Davis was free to leave voluntarily, however.

Harrell backed up his threat by arming guards in 40-foot towers with Mausers and sidearms. He said he has "thousands" of rounds of ammunition and "enough supplies to last for weeks."

Harrell had told newsmen of his whereabouts Tuesday.

If it comes from a hardware store we have it, Lewis Hilde.

The youth fled Camp Lejeune.

How To Adjust Those Lovely Gift Dresses

Inserts lengthen dress.

MARY BROOKS PICKEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Some frequently asked questions are answered in this column. I hope they'll be of help to you.

Dear Mrs. Picken: My little girl was given some lovely dresses. They fit around her nicely but are fully 4 inches too short.—M. L.

Dear M. L.: Buy some plain fabric of a similar texture or of a print if dress is plain color. Cut the dress apart in the bodice and in the skirt. Cut enough fabric to add a 3-inch band to the skirt and 2 inches to the waist. You must realize that a seam top and bottom of each band will take up 1/4 to 1/2 inch in each seam. So provide for this in your measurements.

You can buy as little as 1/4 yard fabric if you want so, so do not be embarrassed about asking for a small amount. Remember to do this adjustment in length so that it looks like it was a part of the design plan rather than done of necessity.

Dear Mrs. Picken: I inherited some lovely dresses, just my size. Colors and fabrics are lovely, but the sleeves look old-fashioned. Have you a remedy?—S. M.

Dear S. M.: Buy a smart pattern your size, with a sleeve you like. Rip the sleeves out most carefully from the dress. Recut the sleeves according to the new pattern.

Notch armholes of the dress so notches of new sleeve will meet. Baste sleeves to place. Try the dress on before you stitch sleeves to place.

So many dresses are sleeveless. Why not face the armholes and do away with the sleeves?

Dear Mrs. Picken? I have a beautiful sari, plain gold with a border 2 1/2 inches wide on one side, 1 1/4 inches on the other. How can I use it?—P. L.

Dear P. L.: Saris are beautiful and can be made into very pretty dresses. Yours sounds like it might be lovely done shirtwaist style, with the wide border down center front of both blouse and skirt, and for the collar.

Use narrower border for bottom of sleeves and belt. Choose a pattern that you like, one that has a center front opening. Let it guide you for fit.

Many make a strapless bodice with wide border at the top. Use narrow border at bottom of skirt, laying knife or box pleats at the top of the skirt where it joins the bodice.

I have seen straight loose evening coats made of the metallic saris that are lovely.

Cutting, planning, making may take a little extra time, but your result should reward you for your efforts. Shirtwaist-style dresses are favored for cocktails and dinner.

Dear Mrs. Picken: A friend of mine took perfectly good sheets, cut them for contour sheets. I was shocked. Do you think that was good economy?—B. B.

Dear B. B.: If your friend had a large number of sheets and had the time to make them into contours, I see no objection. Most people use contours only on the bottom.

Seems to me I'd use my sewing time for making a smart dress, and would buy some contour sheets just for use as the bottom sheet.

We must think of our time as money and use it where it brings greatest reward in smartness and money saved.

Dear Abby... If At First You Don't Succeed, etc. etc.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please don't tell me to see a psychiatrist because I have already been to one, and he said I was sane.

I have been married and divorced three times since 1951 — each time to the same man. I wish we had the money we spent on lawyers. Right now we are divorced, and considering marriage again. I feel like a crazy kid. We have no children, so that's not the reason we keep going back together. I can't get interested in anyone else, and he is the same way. If he doesn't call me up before going to bed, I call him, and we talk for hours. I really want to marry him again, but I am afraid of what people will say. Can you help me make up my mind? I am 34 and he is 37.

LUMP IN MY THROAT

DEAR LUMP: Don't marry each other again until you both sit down with a clergyman, or a competent counselor, and try to determine why your past marriages have failed. If you can discuss your past mistakes objectively, and profit from them, your chances for a shatter-proof marriage are excellent. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am eleven years old, and I don't have a boy friend yet. I have had my eye on a certain boy for a long time, but I am not making any headway with him. He is 12 and I think he likes me but is too bashful to show it. Everybody says I am cute and smart. He wears a ring, and I would like to get it. Can you help me?

CUTE BUT MUTE

DEAR CUTE: What's the rush? There is only trouble ahead for the girl who wants to get a band on her finger before she gets the bands off her teeth. Slow up, honey.

Leforian Park Is Picnic Scene

LEFORS (Sp) — The Married People's Department of the Baptist Church had a picnic in Leforian Park on Saturday night, with each couple bringing a lunch and sharing it together.

The Forts are former members, who recently moved to Pampa. Rev. and Mrs. Luther Berry came a short while after supper.

ey. You are much too young for such notions.

DEAR ABBY: My two small children and I live with my parents. My father tells my 6-year-old son that he must shake hands instead of kissing him, before he goes to bed; that he may kiss women, but "big boys do not kiss men." Mother and I feel that my son should be allowed to kiss his grandfather, who must act as a substitute father in this case. My own father kissed his son (my brother) until he was in his teens, and I don't think there was anything wrong with it. How do you feel about this?

DEAR YOUNG MOTHER: There is no reason why a six-year-old child shouldn't kiss his grandfather.

Squirmy Things Don't Bug This Lovely Lady

By BETTY KLARIC

CLEVELAND (NEA) — The woman who squeals at the sight of eels, spiders, worms and the like wouldn't be very happy in Mrs. David DeLong's shoes.

The crawly creatures are part of her everyday life.

So much so that she's apt to forget how women react to them.

But the point was brought home to her recently when she showed up with some of her creatures at a meeting of the Cleveland Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club.

"I'd forgotten women can be so sensitive," she recalls.

Like Real

Granted her bugs are not alive. But at first glance you'd think so. They are, in fact, soft vinyl plastic fishing lures manufactured by her husband's company.

The man of the house runs the business, but his wife is at his side whenever he's needed. "I have the woman's willingness to organize details — to pick up threads that others working here don't have time to do," explains Mrs. DeLong.

She has just finished work on the yearly catalogue, at her suburban Cleveland home.

That's quite a job, considering that DeLong's manufactures about 190 different lures. There are some 50 different creatures and the figure gets up into the thousands if you include the various hook and color combinations.

The catalogue is just one of the regular assignments for the silver-haired grandmother. At the plant she handles the advertising, tracks down materials and does all the research — into colors, orders and anatomy — that is necessary before a new lure is put into production.

Has Mrs. DeLong ever been squeamish about bugs?

"I got over that when I taught biology," she answers. "The boys brought me snakes and things so I had to learn not to be frightened."

Nature Never Made 'Em

In trying to outwit the fish the DeLongs have come up with everything from a squirm ("a cross between a squid and a worm") to a sneel ("snake and eel").

The lures are so lifelike they not only fool fish — they trick birds, according to Mrs. DeLong. "We had one of the worms in our back yard and a robin came by and carried it off," she says.

Practical jokers find them very useful, too.

"We've heard lots of funny stories. People like to put the little green worms and corn bores in salads," she says.

Those little horrors are part of everyday life for Mrs. David A. DeLong. Her husband's company makes the plastic lures.

A restaurant owner screamed soloist and a teacher before she married her husband 11 years ago, after both of them had been widowed. Now they not only work together, they play together.

The play, needless to say, usually centers around fishing.

The wholesale lure company buys the plastic formulated to its own specifications.

"Then we fuss around with it to get various degrees of hardness and softness and add our own color and odor," says Mrs. DeLong. "We are the only soft vinyl company that molds the hooks right into the lure."

Hobby Started It

DeLong began his business as an outgrowth of his fishing hobby about 13 years ago. Prior to that he had spent some 18 years in the grocery and insurance businesses.

Mrs. DeLong had been a church

The Mature Parent Anger, Like Love, Is A Christian Emotion

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

As younger children, our two older girls were devoted to each other. The older one would never leave for school without her sister. I took such pride in them. Now at 12 and 15, they haven't a decent word for each other. Even at meals they scream at each other, calling each other names. There are constant scenes before guests. When I think how hard we've tried to be good Christian parents.

Answer: Why are you so frightened by human hostility?

Have you always been scared of it? I expect so. It's bad fear for parents to indulge. For like us, children of ten fall short of the Christian ideal of perfected love. If they sense that their unideal

Formby To Enter Governor's Race

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (UPI) — Marshall Formby of Plainview, former state senator and onetime chairman of the Texas Highway Commission, Thursday said he expects to make a formal announcement of his candidacy for governor sometime in December or January.

He has written letters to friends over the state recently saying he "definitely will be a candidate for governor in the 1962 election."

"The answers I am receiving by mail, phone calls and telegrams are very encouraging," Formby said.

Crewmen Burned In Airliner Fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three crewmen escaped an Eastern Airlines cargo Constellation that caught fire and burned fiercely while taxiing at Idlewild Airport for a midnight flight to Puerto Rico.

Capt. Dave Mudd, Katonah, N. Y., and co-pilot Paul Shipper, Southold, N. Y., were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with burns and other injuries. The crew reported in "fair" condition early today. The third crew member, engineer John Bollinger, Farmingdale, N. Y., escaped without serious injury.

stop the plane from taking off. Bearden, a roofer by trade who had been working as a used car salesman in Chandler, Ariz., was sullied before Clifton. His son acted like it was all part of a great adventure.

"Well, did you do it or didn't you?" asked the commissioner. "They caught you red-handed."

"Obviously," Bearden muttered in a low voice.

They stood silent, refusing to enter a plea. A representative of the U.S. attorney's office said he would consider both were pleading innocent and father and son were marched off to separate jail cells.

In Coolidge, Ariz., 60 miles east of Phoenix, where Bearden recently moved from Clifton, Mrs. Bearden said she had no idea what prompted her husband and son to do such a thing. There are three other children.

Bearden has a long criminal record and is currently on parole for a five-year-to-life sentence on a 1957 first-degree robbery conviction.

Norman Simmons, second officer on the Continental flight 54, said that Bearden told them while they were being held hostage that he was bitter about the way the U.S. government was treating Cuba.

A Marine Corps private, Ron Tiner, 18, of Houston, was one of the passengers allowed to leave the plane at El Paso.

"They didn't try anything with me," he said. "They knew I was a Marine and that we're going into Cuba and clean them out sooner or later anyway."

"The younger of the two hijackers looked just like any nice high school kid, but I'll never forget him sitting there on the floor at the doorway where you go into the pilot's cockpit. He just sat there juggling that 45 in his right hand."

"When I got off, I called my folks and told them that the two of them were going to take the plane on to Cuba."

"Dad said, 'if they rest a hand on you, give them all you've got.'"

Najeeb E. Halaby, Federal Aviation Administrator, called Gilman the "hero" of the capture. Gilman was one of the passengers

Two Are Killed In Plane Crash

CASTLE ROCK, Colo. (UPI) — A veteran jet pilot and an Air Force academy freshman cadet were killed Thursday in the crash of a T37 jet trainer in Newland Gulch, about 10 miles north of here.

Authorities at Denver's Lowry Air Force Base identified the victims as Maj. Gerald L. Williams, 45, Aurora, Colo., and Lawrence Glen Paul, 17, Buffalo, N.Y.

Williams, a native of Dayton, Tex., was launch control officer of the 724th Missile Squadron, 451st Titan Missile Wing at Lowry.

State Tax

given to the gas pipeline tax contained in the Senate bill, Sandahl said.

"If we can't make it constitutional, we should delete it," he added.

The House Revenue and Taxation Committee Thursday asked the attorney general to determine whether the pipeline tax was unconstitutional when it left the House or whether Senate changes made it unconstitutional.

Eckhardt, author of the tax, charged the House added a section of questionable constitutionality, and the Senate added a clause that would void the entire tax if any part of it is unconstitutional.

The Senate passed its tax program early Thursday morning, 15 hours after Sen. Wardlow Lane of Center brought the bill up for debate.

Eight of those hours were consumed by Sen. Henry Gonzalez in a futile filibuster against the sales tax section of the bill. The tax would apply to most items costing more than 25 cents.

Lane killed every attempt to amend the bill, including two tries at the pipeline-tax to suit Eckhardt.

The bill passed the Senate, 20-10.

who volunteered to stay behind as hostage.

The father and son did not know he was a Border Patrolman. He sat quietly waiting for his chance. The plane had been sitting on the ground nine hours while federal agents tried to negotiate.

FBI Agent Francis Crosby was allowed to come aboard to negotiate. Bearden dropped his guard, and Gilman saw his chance. He leaped and threw a smashing right to Bearden's jaw. Crosby reacted instantly, and overpowered the youth.

Bearden and his son at first wanted to make a trade... ransom the jetliner for a smaller DC7 which could land easier at a Havana airfield.

But Kennedy decided against this and ordered the FBI and Border Patrolmen to hold the plane on the ground.

Western Pacific Case Recessed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Western Pacific case has recessed with an important third group remaining to be heard.

The "third parties" in the complex case are the various groups which favor neither Southern Pacific nor Santa Fe in their fight for control of the Western Pacific. Included in this group are the regulatory commissions of eight western states, 24 national railroad unions and a number of commercial interests.

Both the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe completed presentation of their cases Thursday in three weeks of hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Now that the members of the third group have heard the main arguments, their attorneys will confer with their superiors to plot their course of action.

The question in some cases was whether they will continue to urge that Western Pacific be kept independent—or switch to the side of the Santa Fe.

The ICC has made clear it is sympathetic to proposed consolidations in the railroad industry.

Guest Minister To Fill Pulpit At First Baptist

Rev. Glyn Rives, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Waverly, Missouri, will be guest preacher in the First Baptist Church for both services of worship Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Rives is a graduate of Hardin Simmons University and the Mid-Western Seminary of Kansas City. He has been pastor of the Waverly Church for four years.

At the 10:30 morning worship the Rev. Mr. Rives will speak from the subject, "The Magnetic Christ." Joe Whitten, minister of music, will present the church choir in singing two anthems, "Take Me As Your Child, Lord" by Angell and "Praise The Name of The Lord" by Ivanoff. Miss Eloise Lane will play, "Beneath His Sheltering Wings" by Clarke for the organ offertory.

"The Christian Home" is the sermon topic for the evening worship. The church choir will sing "All Hail The Power of Jesus Name" by Ellor, and Miss Eloise Lane will play "Andante" by Kohler for the offertory.

The First Baptist Church is making plans and preparing for the greatest youth-led revival that Pampa has ever had. This revival is city-wide, and will be held here in the First Baptist church on Aug. 14 through Aug. 19.

'Spirit' Subject At Science Church

The spiritual foundation of divine healing will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Included in the Lesson - Sermon entitled "Spirit" is the account in Matthew of the healing by Christ Jesus of the man with the withered hand.

One of the citations to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 51) describes the basis of Jesus' healing mission in his healing mission in his. His spirituality separated him from sensuousness, and caused the selfish materialist to hate him; but it was this spirituality which enabled Jesus to heal the sick, cast out evil, and raise the dead.

The Golden Text is from Zechariah (4): "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts."

Witnesses Going To District Meet

About 25 Jehovah's Witnesses from Pampa will be delegates to the United Worshipers District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses in Oklahoma City, Okla., August 8-13.

Daniel Katsanis, area presiding minister, said all meetings of the group at their Kingdom Hall at 944 S. Dwight will be suspended during convention week.

The assembly will be held at the Oklahoma State Fairgrounds Grandstand and FFA building in Oklahoma City. Upon arrival the delegates will find the Grandstand and tract before it transformed into a huge convention hall prepared by assembly managers to accommodate an expected 10,000 people. Advance information received by Katsanis indicated that Jehovah's Witnesses will be on hand from 29 states as well as from four Canadian provinces and even from Central America.

HUNGRY DUCK

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (UPI) — A duck owned by David Lazar earned the title of "happiest pet" Thursday at a playground pet show. Then he demonstrated that he also was the "happiest."

As the pets lined up for awards, the duck broke loose from its master and gobbled up a frog, two worms and a cricket.

All the victims were contestants.

Salvation Is Goal

Many Persons Seek It Outside Churches

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — On just about any Sunday morning except Easter, a national census shows that some 60 million Americans can be found in church.

But where are the remaining 120 million? Surely, not all are in the crib, the infirmary, the guard-house or the missile site. No, many instead are exploring the unanswered in their own individual ways outside the realm of religious organizations.

Another five million Americans actively search for spiritual leadership through metaphysical groups outside the traditional Judeo-Christian churches. And our serious reading public is buying more books on the occult, supernatural and metaphysical than ever before.

These are only a few of the help-less statistics a reporter can find on the American church doorstep today. There are many more and they all add up to one thing: Our major churches are facing real problems and most of our clergymen say so — in private.

Claire Cox, in her report on the situation today, "The New Time Religion," points out that lagging church attendance is only one of the tattle-tale signs of trouble. In addition, there are:

- Increasing hazards in bonding church officers to handle church funds.
- Changing stature of clergymen as the principal intellectual and spiritual leaders in our communities.
- Frenzied efforts by Americans who never had it so good to turn their old time religion into the promise that the here and now will last forever.
- But if the major highways are in need of repair, the spiritual byways appear to be paved with gold. This reporter has heard no complaint about lagging membership from the Rosicrucians, the Church of the Truth, The Unity School of Practical Christianity, the Brotherhood of the White Temple or the Church of Religious Science.

Dealers and publishers of Yoga, Zen, parapsychology and the mystic arts see a very rosy tomorrow.

Psychoanalytic psychiatry has long been heralded with a religious fervor by its supine missionaries who say that there may or may not be a God, but Sigmund Freud certainly is His prophet.

Why are all these individuals and organizations rising now to challenge the major churches?

This reporter has heard the extreme view from Indians, Africans, Asians — people from lands where Christianity is under fire say that Christianity's day may be over.

Dr. Eden Gray, ordained at the College of Divine Metaphysics and a practitioner in the Church of Religious Science, suggests that our society is freeing more and more people to investigate for themselves their relationship to life and the universe.

Felix Morrow, president of the Mystic Arts Book Society, says the signs today may be pointing to a period of syncretism — a time like the dawn of Christianity when old and traditional religious forms were dividing and subdividing and re-aligning along broad new lines. In addition to Protestant and PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford University's carillon of 35 bells atop the tower of the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace is one of the few in the United States.

The carillon was cast in Belgium for the Belgian Pavilion at the 1939 World's Fair in New York. It was given to Stanford after the fair's close in appreciation of former President Herbert Hoover's humanitarian work in Belgium during and after World War I.

Concerts are given on it every Friday.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

BIBLE BAPTIST CHURCH

Acts 4:31 "and when they had prayed the place was shaken, where they were assembled together, and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost and they spake the word of God with boldness."

Of what use is a church that does not pray? Prayer is the life of the believer. True prayer is the breath of God in the soul. As God in the beginning breathed into man's nostrils the breath of life, and he became a living soul, so people who are converted, who have recognized in Jesus Christ, the Son of God, instinctively pray.

You will remember how the fears of Ananias in Damascus were quelled by the Lord from Heaven, when he commissioned him to go to Saul of Tarsus to show him how great things he must suffer for Christ's sake: The Lord said, "Behold he Prayeth." Prayer is the cry of the soul to God. The church that is composed of new born souls; not of dead bones, but of vitalized people, who have been made alive by the regenerating grace of the Holy Spirit, a church thus constituted is made up of souls through which the very breath of God courses. Such a church is bound to pray. Our business is to pray for our neighbor, for those who are sick; but most of all for our Government, our President, our Country, especially, in the hour of great crises. Therefore, let us not fail our country in this hour by not praying. But, rather, let us use the greatest weapon that God has put into the church — prayer. For prayer changes things.

Pecos Ends Pampa Pony Loop Season

Pampa Pony League All Stars was eliminated from the Sectional Tournament in Lubbock last night when they lost an error filled 8-3 decision to the Pecos All Stars.

The locals committed eight errors in giving up six unearned runs. Meanwhile Pecos hurler Larry Lumpkin limited the Pampa hitters to just four hits.

Pecos grabbed an early 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first when lead-off batter Junior Haynes connected for a home run off of losing starter Jerry Garrison. But Doug Scaggs tied the score for Pampa in the second when he too hit a solo homer.

In the bottom of the second three walks by Garrison, two errors and a single by Lumpkin gave the Pecos team a 4-1 advantage that they never lost.

Pampa rallied briefly in the third when Steve Molberg and Herman Waite led off the inning with singles and the bases became loaded when Philip Smith was safe on an error. Another error on Kerry Roper's grounder allowed one run to score and the second run scored on Jimmy Brown's sacrifice fly. After that the losers could garner only one hit, a fourth inning single by Waite.

Pecos loaded the sacks in the third but couldn't score. They scored once in the fourth on a walk, a fielder's choice, and an error. They sewed it up in the sixth on two doubles, a single, and a three-base error.

Molberg relieved Garrison for Pampa in the second frame with Arthur coming to Molberg's rescue in the third.

Waite was the only Pampa batter to get two hits, both singles.

Colts Exchange Richardson For Giants' Guzik

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (UPI)—End Jerry Richardson, one of Baltimore Colt ace Johnny Unitas' favorite pass receivers, was acquired by the New York Giants today in a trade for linebacker John Guzik.

Richardson played his college ball at Woffard College and understudied Ray Berry for three seasons with the Colts.

Guzik is a former University of Pittsburgh star who is regarded as one of the most rugged linebackers in the National Football League.

Pirates Bombard Cardinals 19-0

United Press International

Christmas came two years and two months too late for little Harvey Haddix of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Haddix, you'll recall, pitched 12 perfect innings against the Milwaukee Braves on May 26, 1959, but his teammates couldn't score a single run for him. The Braves finally ended the spell with a run in the 13th for a 1-0 victory and baseball's best pitched game wound up in just so much exercise for Haddix.

Thursday night, however, base runners were scurrying around the bases so fast and so often at St. Louis that even Harvey had trouble keeping track of them as the Pirates buried the Cardinals, 19-0, to tie a 55-year-old National League record.

Practically lost in the confusion was Haddix' pitching. Harvey, who'll be 36 in September, gave up just four hits, three of them singles in the third inning, struck out seven batters and walked just one in notching his seventh victory of the season against five losses.

Smoky Burgess with two home runs and six runs batted in, Dick Stuart with a grand slam homer and five runs batted in, and Roberto Clemente with five hits in six at-bats and two r.b.i.'s, spearheaded the Pirates' 24-hit attack against three St. Louis pitchers.

The assault produced the biggest shutout victory in National League history since the Cubs beat the Giants by the same score on June 7, 1906. The American League record is 21-0, set by the Tigers over the Indians in 1901 and matched by the Yankees over the A's in 1939, while the all-time major league record is 28-0, set by Providence over Philadelphia in 1883.

Meanwhile, the first-place Cincinnati Reds made it 15 in a row over the hapless Philadelphia Phillies, beating them, 7-1, the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers kept pace by nipping the San Francisco Giants, 4-3, in 10 innings and the Braves defeated the Cubs 5-2, in other NL games.

In the American League, the Detroit Tigers cut the Yankees' lead to 1 1/2 games by beating the Washington Senators, 2-1, while the A's throttled New York, 8-1; the White Sox overcame a four-run, first-inning deficit to beat the Indians, 8-6; rookie Don Schwall won his 12th game of the season in pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 4-0 win over the Los Angeles Angels, and Hal Brown extended his consecutive scoreless inning streak to 32 as the Baltimore Orioles beat the Minnesota Twins, 3-0.

Ken Johnson, whom the Red Sox purchased from Toronto of the International League on July 21, went the route to gain his second straight victory as Cincinnati maintained its one-game lead over the Dodgers. Frank Robinson batted in two runs with a homer and single to extend his league-leading figures in both departments to 33 and 96.

John Roseboro's 16th homer in the bottom of the ninth enabled the Dodgers to tie the score against the Giants at 3-3 and they won it in the next inning on three walks and a bobble by San Francisco second baseman Joe Amalfitano. Larry Sherry gained the victory in relief, while Jack Sanford was the loser.

Lew Burdette, who gained that memorable victory two years ago over Haddix, picked up his 13th of this season against seven losses while limiting the Cubs to three hits, one of them Ernie Bank's two-run ninth inning homer. Frank Thomas and Roy McMillan hit Milwaukee homers.

Rocky Colavito batted in both Detroit runs with his 30th homer and a single and Jim Bunning pitched a four-hitter in registering his 12th victory against eight losses. Except for Colavito, losing Washington pitcher Bennie Daniels pitched six-hit ball.

The Yankees, threatening of late to run away and hide from the rest of the AL, ran aground when Bob Shaw, a New York boy who went west to make the big leagues, stopped them on six scattered hits. Errors by the usually reliable Tony Kubek and Billy Gardner paved the way for three unearned A's runs in the first inning and Shaw took over from there.

Bubba Phillips hit a grand-slam homer for the Indians in the first inning to get them off to a good start, but the White Sox kept pecking away and by the fifth inning held a 6-5 lead. Homers by Camillo Carreon and little Luis Aparicio helped Russ Kemmerer gain his first victory of the season. Tito Francona and Jim Pier-sall also hit homers for the Indians.

Schwall, who came up to the majors in May, checked the Angels on three scattered hits to run his latest winning streak to six straight. The Red Sox broke open a scoreless tie in the eighth to score all their runs. Ken McBride, who matched Schwall until the eighth, was the loser, giving up all nine Boston hits.

Brown's complete game shutout was his third in a row and his 32 scoreless innings set a Baltimore club record, wiping out the old mark of 29 set by Jack Fisher a year ago. The Orioles scored all their runs in the eighth on two singles, a walk and two throwing errors.

CLUTCH HITTER — Johnny Blanchard, reserve catcher for the New York Yankees, holds two bats counting for the fact that he won two consecutive games for the Yankees with pinch-hit homers to beat the Boston Red Sox and keep New York in first place. One of Blanchard's blasts was a grand-slammer.

Gene Fullmer Lays Title On Line Against Cuban

OGDEN, Utah (UPI)—Ned Winder, chairman of the Utah State Athletic Commission, announced today there will be no compulsory eight-count in case of a knock-down during Saturday night's Gene Fullmer-Florentino Fernandez middleweight title fight.

Winder said the commission had voted to waive the compulsory eight-count rule for this nationally televised 15-round outdoor bout at Ogden's Municipal Stadium.

The action was taken, he explained, despite the precedent set by the Miami Beach commission before the third Floyd Patterson-championship contest last March. Ingemar Johansson heavyweight 13.

In other words, the Utah commission is not favoring Fullmer, the Utah strongboy, although he is risking his half of the 160-pound crown against Cuba's Fernandez, perhaps the most dangerous puncher he ever faced.

Winder added that eight-ounce gloves will be used for the bout and that the scoring by a referee and two judges will be on a 10-point-must basis.

Meanwhile, 30-year-old Fullmer, who is recognized as champion by the NBA, rested at his home in West Jordan, Utah, 5 miles south of Ogden. Fernandez, 25, relaxed similarly at his quarters in Ogden.

Fullmer is favored at 2-1 because of his experience, aggressiveness and stamina.

The promoters, who had been hoping for a record Utah gate of between $135,000 and $150,000, lowered their sights today and said the advance sale indicated between $100,000 and $125,000. The record of $133,000 was set by the Rex Layne-Ezzard Charles heavyweight fight at Ogden in 1952.

Fullmer, making his sixth defense of the NBA crown, will receive 45 per cent of the net gate plus $60,000 of the $100,000 TV money. Challenger Fernandez gets 20 per cent of the gate and only $10,000 from TV, co-promoter Norman Rothschild disclosed.

In case Fernandez wins the title, a return bout contract binds him to give Fullmer a shot at the crown in Las Vegas, Nev., Oct. 7. The contract stipulates he

Stars And Eagles Battle Tonight

CHICAGO (UPI) One of the best College All-Star squads in years will try to upset the National Football League champion Philadelphia Eagles tonight before some 75,000 fans in the 28th annual contest between the pro holders and the year's prize collegians.

Weather forecasters anticipated a hot humid night, with the temperature in the 80s, perhaps to give the deeper and younger college squad, coached by Otto Graham for the fourth straight season, an edge.

Graham's teams won over the Detroit Lions in his first appearance as mentor of the college kids, and lost the last two years to the Baltimore Colts. Overall, the All-Stars have won eight games, the pros 17, and two have been tied.

The Eagles, who rang up a record of 11 wins and two defeats last year, were 9½ point favorites for the match, although two major factors in last year's victory string were missing, quarterback Norm Van Brocklin and coach Buck Shaw.

Van Brocklin retired to become coach of the Minnesota Vikings and Shaw yielded to one of his assistants, Nick Skorich.

Graham was optimistic about the outcome of the game, praising the quality of the 50 players on his roster, even though he believed that lack of experience could hurt his team.

"I'd like to take this squad into the league season," he said, "and after five or six games, it would be the equal of anybody."

It was anticipated that the All-Stars would rely on the passing of Norm Snead, Wake Forest; Bill Kilmier, UCLA, and Tom Matte, Ohio State. All three have worked well in drills, and Graham has found some standout receivers, notably Aaron Thomas, Oregon State; Mike Ditka, Pittsburgh; Glynn Gregory, SMU; Bob Crespino, Mississippi; Pervis Atkins, New Mexico State and Joe Bellino, Navy.

The All-Star ground game has not been impressive, even though such "horses" as Art Baker, Syracuse, and Bill Brown, Illinois, have stood out.

The Stars will be of comparable size to the Eagles in the line, both teams boasting numerous players in the 250-pound category, and the Stars learned about pro style last week in a game-condition scrimmage in which they tied the Chicago Bears 14-14.

Graham held his last major workout last Saturday and since then has worked on polishing his offensive maneuvers. Both the Stars and Eagles worked out in Soldier Field, site of the game, to accustom themselves to its turf and lights.

The Eagles may rise or fall on the performances of quarterbacks Sonny Jurgensen, Van Brocklin's understudy last year, and King Hill, obtained in a trade with the St. Louis Cardinals.

But Skorich also has some fine runners, in Clarence Peaks, Billy Barnes and Ted Dean.

The game will be both telecast and broadcast nationally, starting at 10 p.m., EDT.

Venturi And Lema Lead

BALTIMORE (UPI)—San Francisco's double-barrelled entry of Ken Venturi and Tony Lema paced the field into the second round of the Eastern Open golf tournament today.

But you can't convince Baltimore golf fans that the eventual winner will be anyone except Gene Littler, the sweet swinger from Singing Hills, Calif.

Littler, who led from start to finish to win this event here last year, could do no better than a fifth-place 70 Thursday. But this was not discouraged his followers.

In fact, the manner in which Gene performed in the opening round was convincing that he can do no wrong on this 6,800-yard municipal Pine Ridge layout.

Venturi and Lema, a couple of par-busting buddies from the San Francisco Bay area, presented a dark outlook for Littler's chances to repeat when they posted four-under-par 68's.

Littler, who did not have a chance to play a single practice hole, staggered around the front nine in two-over-par 38. He said: "It must have been the worst round I've ever played."

However, his fans refused to give up and Littler rewarded their confidence by firing four straight birdies, starting at the twelfth hole. This allowed him to close the gap to two strokes on the leaders.

A single stroke off the leaders' pace going into today's second round of the $35,000 tourney were Rex Baxter, a rookie from Amarillo, Tex., and Doug Ford, veteran New Yorker.

Top Welterweight Contender Beaten

DALLAS (UPI)—Curtis Cokes was the first in his fistic career. And it was a bitter pill to swallow, after being quoted last week that he didn't even know Cokes' name.

A crowd of 2,500 watched the fight.

The stunned Rodriguez, 145, was an easy mark for Cokes after the 5th round. Cokes rocked the Cuban with a right and followed it up with a flurry of punches. A straight right sent Rodriguez to the canvas for an 8-count.

Rodriguez had smooth sailing in the first three rounds. His speed and fast left jabs baffled Cokes, 23. But after Cokes' big punch Rodriguez was sluggish.

"He was lucky to get in that good punch," Rodriguez said. "That (the first one) was the only one that hurt me."

Rodriguez, 24, was asked if he thought it hurt him to have the fight canceled. (Rodriguez was aboard a Miami to Dallas airliner that was hijacked last week and the fight was re-scheduled.)

"It will always hurt to have a fight canceled," he said. "But I'm offering no excuses. He's a good boy."

Judge Lonnie Hudkins scored it 100-94 for Cokes; referee Zora Foley 98-87 for Cokes; and judge Dick Dixon 96-95 for Rodriguez, a card that was roundly booed.

UPI had it 99-92 for Cokes. Cokes, 147, a bank messenger, and Rodriguez have agreed orally to a fight in Miami, Fla., in 60 days.

The knockdown for Rodriguez four team members will not be in uniform, guards Sid Fournet, and Al Reynolds, defensive end Dick Frey and rookie end Ced Price.

Wright Tops Ladies Open

WATERLOO, Iowa (UPI) A veteran professional who has won five championships this year and another professional seeking her first title carried one-stroke leads into the second round of the Waterloo Women's Open golf tournament today.

Mickey Wright, 26, Dallas, Tex., whose victories this year include the Women's National Open, and Katy Whitworth, 21 Jal, N.M., tied for medalist honors Thursday with 3-under-par 69s.

Miss Whitworth finished her 18-hole round in a light sprinkle and muffed a chance for an undisputed lead when she missed a three-foot putt that would have given her a birdie two and a 68 total.

The disappointing shot after an unerring tee shot came on the final hole of the round.

One stroke behind the leaders was Jo Ann Prentice, Birmingham, Ala., with a 70, and two strokes farther back was Marilyn N. Smith, French Lick, Ind., with a par 72.

Judy Kimball, Sioux City, the home state favorite after winning the American Open, had trouble with her chip shots and putts. She turned in a 78.

Amarillo Gold Sox Trounces Tulsa To Up Lead

By United Press International

The Amarillo Gold Sox unleashed their heavy artillery late in the game to come from behind Thursday night and whip Tulsa, 10-4, with four runs in the seventh and in the eighth innings.

that made the difference in an 8-4 victory over San Antonio. Victoria rallied in the seventh and eighth innings, and then held off Ardmore in the ninth inning to win 8-7.

Amarillo widened its league lead to 7½ games over second place Tulsa.

In other action, Ray Withrow socked a grand slam homer to spark a five-run seventh inning outburst for the Austin Senators.

Profits Boosts Declared Prime Market Factor

NEW YORK (UPI)—While stock market activity rises again and earnings reports for the 1961 second quarter come to light, an investment firm partner said today that industry's ability to increase profits may decide the staying power of this recovery.

Edmond duPont, senior partner in the Francis I. duPont and company, analyzed some of the factors which may show in a study of profit margins—which, he said, determine many business decisions.

"In all likelihood," he wrote in a company publication, "earnings now being reported for 1961's second quarter will prove unsuitable as a yardstick for profit margins because most companies are still substantially below the most desirable operating rate. Nor will those for the third quarter be, for the same reason.

"But certainly late 1961 or early 1962 will provide the test."

Reduced to simplest terms, a profit margin is what a company makes on what it sells. DuPont noted that after the 1954 and 1958 recessions, overall profit rose "very sharply." Comparing after-tax earnings of manufacturing corporations, as reported by the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission, he found profits rose by 60 per cent between the low quarter of 1954—the first quarter to the high of 1955—the fourth quarter; they rose by almost 100 per cent from 1958's low quarter, the first, to the high of 1959.

Profit margin improvement is not the entire story of earnings gains, he cautioned; larger sales volumes send the earnings rising also in a recovery.

DuPont feels that the "very mildness and shortness of the recession may contain a warning there is less catching up to do than in either 1955 or 1959."

'Crash Program' Being Pondered For Waterfowls

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Senate Commerce Committee today was considering a 10-year, $20 million "crash program" to set aside refuges for migratory waterfowl.

Frank P. Briggs of Macon, Mo., assistant interior secretary for fish and wildlife, told the merchant marine and fisheries subcommittee that the Interior Department favors legislative calling for an interest-free $150 million federal loan to buy wetlands for the refuges.

The funds, plus an additional $50 million estimated to be forthcoming from the sale of duck stamps, would be used over a 10-year period to acquire more than four million acres of land.

Baggs said the $150 million loan would be paid back after the 10-year program by turning over to the treasury 75 per cent of the proceeds from duck stamps. All proceeds from duck stamps now are used to pay for wetland acquisition and to enforce hunting regulations.

The program also called for raising the price of duck stamps from $3 to $4 after $50 million was spent on the program and to $5 after a total of $100 million was spent. The increase, however, was rejected in the House-passed version of the bill.

Hot Dog Record

NEW YORK (UPI)—Americans will eat a record 13 billion hot dogs this year, with or without mustard.

That is the prediction of the National Hot Dog and Sausage Institute.

The grand total will represent an average of 72 hot dogs per man, woman and child.

Last year's figure was just over 11 billion—an average of 62 per person.

CARED OF HORSES? — That appears to be the trouble with the little dog at the top of the picture as he looks into the curious face of the pony on the left and the apparent determination to charge on the part of the animal on the right. Steel Earnings Found Pleasing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Goodbody & Co. says it is encouraged by the strength in the principal steel equities and by the second quarter earnings reports of these companies.

The brokerage house notes that some doubled their first quarter profits and a few even outpaced the second quarter of 1959, despite only a slight improvement in operating rates.

The trend of steel operations and earnings over the next few months is "clearly higher," in line with rising auto production, construction and general industrial activity, Goodbody says, and ingot production may average about 75 per cent of capacity in the fourth quarter, going even higher toward yearend.

This bullish outlook, it concludes, is not yet fully discounted in the leading steel stocks.

Joseph E. Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co. says he interprets President Kennedy's speech of last week as "a signal for rising security prices for perhaps many weeks and months to come."

Bache & Co. says the interest was not as widespread as the big rise of the Dow Jones industrial average to a new high on Tuesday indicated, since the more comprehensive Standard & Poor's 500 made a lesser gain. Nevertheless, it thinks enough of the miscellaneous issues have developed a following to provide significant trading opportunities over the near-term.

'Miss Lubbock' Contest Winner

BEAUMONT (UPI)—Miss Lubbock, 18-year-old Frances Annette Cochran, won the first round bathing suit competition at the third annual Miss Texas contest at judging Wednesday night.

Miss Fort Worth, Linda Jacklyn Loftis, 19, won the talent competition among the group in that division. The blue-eyed blond soprano sang an aria from 'La Traviata.

Jazz Music Interlude Described As Unusual

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jazz music is being touted as a medium for drawing the people of the world closer together, and I don't doubt that it has that power.

I saw a remarkable demonstration of its togetherness qualities this week at a program put on here by sponsors of the World Jazz Festival.

On this occasion, jazz drew together Sen. Jacob K. Javits and Sen. Barry Goldwater. If it can do that, it must be the greatest cohesive factor since the invention of mulligan.

The program was staged in the rotunda of the old Senate Office Building, which is about as unlikely a setting for a jam session as any cat is likely to run across.

Javits, who made a short talk, described himself as a jazz buff and told the audience that Goldwater, who also was present, was a fellow aficionado.

Although both are Republicans, Javits and Goldwater are about as far apart politically as New York and Arizona, their home states, are geographically.

Finding them in concert on anything is, to say the least, a bit unusual. It's sort of like finding Louis Armstrong playing a duet with Lawrence Welk.

The purpose of the World Jazz Festival, which will get underway this fall, is to show how jazz can promote better "intercultural understanding" among various nations.

Owen Engel of New York, a jazz clarinetist who is director of the festival, said he would like to take a group of U.S. musicians to other countries and record them playing with the natives.

Perhaps it would be a good idea if he also took them around to GOP meetings in this country. It might promote better inter-Republican understanding.

To demonstrate how his plan would work, Engel assembled in the rotunda a combo of amateur percussionists from the diplomatic colony here. They beat out native rhythms of their countries while Engel improvised hot licks on his clarinet.

The other instruments consisted of two African "talking drums," a pair of Indian table drums, a set of Latin-American bongos, and what was either a Turkish darabuka drum or an Indonesian kending drum.

There was supposed to be both a darabuka drum and a kending drum but one of the beaters didn't show up. Possibly this was

German Star Wants Role In Hollywood

By VERNON SCOTT

MUNICH (UPI)—Will the real Lilo Pulver please stand up! In the United States she would be greeted by a resounding: "Who is Lilo Pulver?"

Here in Europe Lilo would be swept off her feet by whistles and considerable foot stomping. A blonde Swiss chick with pleasing dimensions, Lilo is a European movie star, unknown to American audiences.

Lilo has starred in French and German pictures, playing comedy roles in 32 films.

Like actresses in Hollywood, she has problems. Such as Brigitte Bardot, who has a strange hold on romantic roles.

"I never play interesting sexy roles," Lilo complained in a charming version of English with overtones of French and German. "There are so many sex bombs over here imitating Bardot they don't even need me."

As with most European stars, Lilo's fondest desire is to star in Hollywood pictures. Movietown is the Shangri-la of all performers for several reasons — mostly financial.

"You have to make too many pictures here in Germany, France, Italy or England to become a recognized star," Miss Pulver said.

"But you make one Hollywood movie and it is seen everywhere in all languages. Therefore, a Hollywood star can make one or two pictures a year and be seen by more people than if she worked in a dozen European films."

"Another reason for working in a Hollywood picture is that there are 150 million Americans I would like to have know me."

Lilo will have her opportunity to become known in "One, Two, Three," a Mirisch Company production, which costars Jimmy Cagney. If the picture clicks, Lilo might be half way to Hollywood.

Further evidence that addresses the world over have much in common is provided by Lilo's own eccentricity — a race horse.

His name is Shakespeare, a three-year-old whom Lilo rides in amateur races. She also enters him at professional tracks but employs a jockey to do the riding.

"We haven't won any races yet, but I just want to be a part of racing — even if I am a loser."

"My silks are white with a black star. And being a female jockey isn't as dangerous as some people think. Because racing is my hobby, I've played several roles in which I impersonate a boy."

As a parting shot Lilo said, "I've learned to speak English so I will be ready to make American movies. It helped in landing this role in 'One, Two, Three.'"

"But it isn't easy to talk German all day long, then try to act in English."

Some Ads Create Yawns

Advertising is selling through effective use of communication. It's as simple as that, whether services or products are sold. Effective advertising may employ photography, television, radio sound effects, musical jingles, commercial art, or the printed word. It may sell insurance, soap, cereals, banking or trips to Tahiti.

Effectively used, advertising creates new markets faster and at less expense than any other method of selling to the consumer. Properly used it lowers costs... costs of manufacturing, distribution, buying or financing. The necessity of repeat sales results in consistent product improvement as advertising increases competition through vigorous selling. BOMBER INTO TRANSPORT

Scale model of a supersonic transport gives a peek at what may be coming up in the air travel field in the next few years. The aircraft, proposed by General Dynamics engineers, would use the delta wing design of the twice-the-speed-of-sound B-58 Hustler bomber, but would have a larger and longer fuselage for passengers. The plane would not be a commercial transport but a pioneer test vehicle for the supersonic airliner to come.

The Pampa Daily News

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

It appears that after 25 years of living cooperation the Business Advisory Council of the President and Luther Hodges, Secretary of Commerce, have gone piffit.

We are delighted. This rift appearing at the upper level of political chicanery, is a harbinger of good tidings, if the rift can be made to widen and be extended thru the entire political structure.

So long as the Business Advisory Council cooperated with the political structure it was possible for Americans to imagine that the economy of the nation and the political structure of the nation were a part of the same fabric.

But this is an illusion and it is time for us to put aside our illusions. The economy of the nation is always the sum total of natural resources, human energy and tools in use. Individual value judgments, left a free reign in an economy, result in the production and distribution of goods and services on the basis of supply and demand.

The economy is the way we human beings contribute our own meager share of energy on a voluntary basis, and derive from the economic mass of such energy the satisfactions and ease made possible by the largest cooperative and profit-making procedure known to man. This process works independently of government. Indeed, government cannot bring this process to pass, nor can it totally disrupt it without destroying everything.

Government is not a part of the economy. It is a separate thing sitting astride an economic structure like a giant parasite, sucking the substance and energy from it and living at the expense of the reproductive forces at work.

To suppose that a parasite makes a contribution to healthy life or growth is to suppose that organized banditry brings a blessing to its victims. But so the popular notion has it. It is felt in many quarters that business and industry MUST cooperate with government and that all of these factors together make up man's economic structure.

This illusion is abetted when Spengler held that man grows on the earth similar to the way moss grows on a rock.

The lichen of homo sapiens, according to Spengler, emerged in rural areas as the "eternal peasant." This peasant built cities; the cities grew to metropolis size; then they grew into a giant megopolis.

This growth of the city was the cancer of human survival. When the cancer grew large enough, the metropolis would collapse and human-kind would return to the soil as the "eternal peasant" once more.

This is a charming theory except for one thing. Human beings are not moss. But observation of the rise and fall of civilizations has caused many thoughtful persons to concede that the philosopher may have had a point.

Man, at his earliest, in most primitive times known, was a creature of the hunt and of the soil. He depended directly on nature and on the energies of his fellows for survival. Savage man is a herd animal.

In these conditions, man did not survive well. The North American Indians, who were of early stone age development at the time the white man came, had never learned how to make even a few of the most basic tools.

They had fire and bows and arrows, true. But they did not understand the wheel, they could not make iron, and they had a kind of writing in glyph or picture form, they had no reliance upon this device and passed information from father to son by word of mouth.

In these crude times, survival was so difficult that ethnologists have stated it is unlikely that more than three million Indians savages lived in what is now the

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK - It's not much fun to throw a spear at another man's way of making himself a dollar for the rent and the table, but the way things are going these days in New York I feel I'm about ready to tee off at the most arrogant, opinionated, rude and bumptious set of men I ever encountered—the elevator operators.

I work in three buildings in the course of a day and one of them is infested with the most irritating set of prima donnas you could imagine. You begin your day of annoyance with one of the starters. He is a small, curly-haired wight who lets you walk the long distance from the sidewalk to the elevators and, just as you are ready to board one, imperiously snaps his finger and send it on its way, leaving you standing there looking foolish. I had a small revenge on him recently, but it wasn't really satisfying. I walked in and, as usual, he sent an elevator car zooming up just as I reached the doors. While waiting for the next one, he turned and said: "Who's ahead in the third inning?" I said I couldn't help him because I was a cricketer man myself and felt it distasteful to discuss baseball in any form.

"You mean you know but won't tell me?" he gasped. "That's right," I said. "Nothing about baseball ever sullies my lips. I won't discuss it."

He still looks at me as though I had lost my buttons and he may be right. One of his operators is the kind who slams the door open on an upper floor—say the 20th—after you have rung to go up and says: "THIS car is going UP." At 7 in the morning this is tensing routine. One morning, one in which I wanted no trouble from anyone, I said: "You'd be a fool to stop here on signal if you weren't going up," and he hasn't spoken to me since.

The prize of the lot is the one known as the Editorial Writer. He is a wired-up little man who never got past the third grade, no matter how much he tried, but you can depend on him the minute you enter his car. He closed for three full minutes. They put him on the freight elevator for a week and chopped him off the overtime list for a month. Now he opens car doors quickly and correctly.

There was one you could label Lover Boy. His voice and his eyes lingered over every pretty secretary kid who got into his car and he used to offer arch commentary on their beauty, their limbs, their dresses and so on. But that ended last week. He found himself alone descending 20 floors with a nice, self-respecting youngster and he made a sort of post at her. Nothing really serious, but a definite pass. He lasted for three minutes after the car reached the main floor. She didn't even go to the building superintendent. She walked into management—and said: "Do I call the police and get this building some embarrassing publicity or do you fire Tony here, now and instantly?" They fired Tony instantly.

The other two buildings don't seem to have any of these troubles. Their operators don't think of themselves as men able to solve all the world's problems, or men who insist on your recognizing them as important or men who fondly look upon themselves as irresistible.

It's a pleasure to be in the other two. But that one-ouch believe, is made possible only by conformity.

They are right. Savages must conform to group consciousness or one of two things will happen. They will die, or they will stop being savages.

Civilization begins when man becomes INDIVIDUALISTIC enough to build a city. For the city is a tool made by men which provides for him many of the things he needs for survival and hence makes his own individual specialization possible. The city encourages individualism.

But this is the very thing which leads to the collapse of the megapolis as interpreted by Spengler. For many men fear individualism, even as they fear freedom. And they conspire against the city by setting up giant governments in an effort to conquer the loneliness which can only be experienced in cities.

But the government is a parasite which devours the city and the individualism of man. When such a cycle is complete, the city collapses and men are driven back to the land to huddle together again in fear as herd creatures.

Civilization is the product of individualism and also the matrix of further individualism. Savagery is the product of collectivism and is also the matrix for further savagery.

Columnist Soon Becomes Smartest Man In World

By HENRY McLEMORE

ROME, Italy—Let a man write a newspaper column long enough and he'll be the smartest man in the world.

His reader will educate him with their letters. If he writes about free balloon ascensions, a hundred authorities will write pointing out mistakes and setting him straight. The same is true if he writes a column dealing with covered bridges, stained glass windows, the night habits of the tapir, the boyhood prank of Johann Bach, or indirect lighting for dead end streets.

For proof, I had a letter today from George Siau, Jr., of North Las Vegas, Nevada. Shocked by my ignorance of judo (see column of June 22nd) he gave me four single-spaced pages of judo information.

Two more letters from George and I will be qualified to lecture on the subject and handle a ny desperado who sneaks up behind me in the dark.

I intimated that judo was a rough sport, in which a man was likely to have a bone broken or a muscle torn. How wrong I was! "Judo is the gentle way," writes George, and to prove it quotes a remark by the Master Judo man, Mr. Mifune, written on his 70th birthday.

"There is no boundary in the way of gentleness, and the heart that softens shall have no enemy. Let us go hand in hand with the people of the world, to build the paradise of peace. This and this only is the genuine way of gentleness."

That's a pretty sentiment, no doubt about it, and I like to think that it was composed while Mr. Mifune was hurling an opponent as high as a silo.

"There are no deep secrets in judo, nor is the sport surrounded by mysticism, as you inferred," George writes. "If such a secret existed in judo, it could best be explained by the Ball and Cone, one mobile, quick, elusive; the other steady, firmly poised, sharp yet in repose."

See how wrong I was in thinking there was anything of mysticism in judo! The Ball and Cone are as clear as Grecian air, and I thank George for setting me straight. No sport involving thought of the Ball and Cone could be obscure.

There's only one thing George didn't straighten me out on, and I hope he will do so in his next letter. And that is this: What was it the Army taught me under the name of judo? I had three weeks of the stuff when I was taking my infantry basic training, and it might not have been mystic, but it was rough. There was nothing gentle about it. The sergeant who taught me had never read Mr. Mifune's words.

There were many mornings, when the sergeant was throwing me up to land on frozen ground, that I wasn't sure whether I would survive to meet the enemy. And when he would grab my throat and twist my arms and make pretzels of my legs, it would have been hard to convince me that judo was soft, gentle, and body-building.

The sergeant said it was judo he was teaching me and the other recruits, and that it would stand us in good stead if we ever met the Japs. It would have, too, if the Japs used a gentle judo against us. We would have torn the m limb from limb with the American type judo.

Let me hear from you, George. And give Wilbur Clark my best. Gene Murphy, too.

Mock Missile

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—The most economical "missile" in the U. S. Air Force arsenal these days is a light jet bomber.

The Air Force has modified a B57 to double as a TM-76A Mace missile for ground crew training. The plane's nose has been fitted with the Mace guidance system so that ground controls guide it throughout flight. The difference: a human pilot gets off the ground, has a free ride during the test and then brings it back, to fly again another day.

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

Until I read a recent report issued by the subcommittee on accidental poisoning of the American Academy of Pediatrics, I thought that lead poisoning (plumbism) in children was a danger that no longer existed to any extent. With the elimination of lead from indoor paints used on cribs, toys and the like, it appeared that a serious threat to our youngsters' health had been removed.

However, the subcommittee now draws attention to chronic plumbism that results from the child chipping off and swallowing flakes of outdoor paint, now and then. Since lead is slowly absorbed from the intestines and even more slowly excreted, evidences of chronic plumbism may not appear for several months. Then, if they are not recognized and if steps are not taken to prevent further ingestion of flakes of exterior paint, the child's health and life are placed in serious jeopardy.

How do you recognize the principal symptoms of chronic plumbism in your child? You will note that they may easily be confused with those of poliomyelitis, particularly if they occur at the time of an epidemic.

Loss of appetite. Tendency to become less alert and playful. Progressive irritability and clumsiness. Awkwardness at play and in handling eating and drinking utensils.

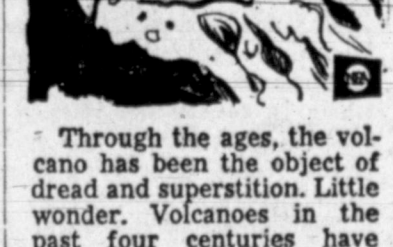

Otherwise unexplained attacks of nausea and/or vomiting. And, in prolonged serious poisonings, convulsions.

Once suspected by the alert mother, lead poisoning is readily detected by the examining physician and soon confirmed by laboratory tests.

Of course, the most important way to keep your child from poisoning is to keep him away from the source. Most victims are between the ages of 1 and 3.

So it is up to parents and older children to protect the little ones from this dangerous appetite for lead-bearing paint flakes.

Happily, there is a rich promise of successful treatment if the child's plumbism is caught at an early stage and not continued.

Through the ages, the volcano has been the object of dread and superstition. Little wonder. Volcanoes have killed an estimated 100,000 people. Yet they have contributed something. They have provided some of the world's richest soils, as well as deposits of diamonds, sulphur, lead and zinc.

OUR ANCESTORS

"If she'd put on about 20 more pounds, she'd be a real beauty!"

Tuned Chaos
HARMONY, Minn. (UPI)—Harmony got its name from an argument.
According to legend, b.e.d.l.a.m broke loose during a town meeting to decide on a name for the village.
"Let us have harmony," called the chairman, in an effort to quiet the group. "That's a great idea," said someone in the crowd. And so the name was chosen.

Weather Phone Line Turned To Aviation Agency

The Federal Aviation Agency officially took over operation of the direct telephone line to their office in Amarillo on Aug. 1, according to Ralph Prock, chairman of the Aviation Committee.
The FAA will furnish the same information to private fliers in the Pampa area as they furnish in Amarillo. The information includes all weather conditions, flight plans, and other navigation information. The number to call for any of the above information is MO 4-3360.
The public is urged to restrict use of this line to aviation information. It is not intended to be used for domestic purposes.

Two Producers Disclose Their Success Recipe

MUNICH (UPI) — Dynamic is the word for the Mirisch brothers, a trio of movie-makers who provide a glimmer of hope in Hollywood's twilight hour.

In Germany for a peek at their newest production, two Mirisch boys, Harold and Marvin (Walter stayed home to watch the store), exude confidence in the future—which is more than any studio in its wildest moment of optimism would dare reveal.

Success-formula for the Mirishes is simple — nobody gets paid unless they work.

"We're a studio without walls," Harold said in the plush suite of Munich's fanciest hotel. "We manufacture movies like any other product is manufactured. But we don't have a factory."

Harold and his brothers travel light.

They buy a book or screen play, hire a director and actors, rent a crew and studio and shoot the picture. When it is through everyone goes off salary until the boys are ready to roll the next one.

This system has produced such hits as "The Apartment," "Some Like It Hot" and "The Magnificent Seven."

It also has earned the boys $43 million in four years.
Other producers, along with the studios, wail about not being able to land top stars for their pictures. But not our heroes.

They have such performers as Shirley MaLaine, Jim Garner and Audrey Hepburn beating down the doors pleading for parts in their films.

"We have a system for that, too," said brother Marvin.

"We try to buy the best raw material—properties, writers and directors. These people attract the best actors."

"We're successful because we have three of the best directors in the business doing pictures for us," Harold put in. "We landed Billy Wilder, William Wyler and Fred Zinnemann. And we're choosy about what we make."

Both men said major studios are saddled with heavy overhead, paying a fortune for crews and performers, taxes, upkeep and other items, even when there are no pictures shooting.

Thus, to justify the overhead, the studios are forced to grind out mediocre or worse movies to keep everybody busy.

"We've made some bad pictures," Marvin said, "but not just for the sake of making films. We aren't forced to work by economics."

"Another thing," Harold added, "directors would rather work with us than MGM or Paramount because they have more freedom. We don't interfere with them, nor with our writers."

"Creative people don't like to work in a studio where businessmen take priority and interfere with their work."

"Take this picture we're making here, 'One, Two, Three,'" Marvin said. "Billy Wilder didn't like the rushes of the first couple of days of shooting. So he called Harold in Hollywood to ask him

Foreign Commentary

Portugal gradually is regaining confidence that she can contain and ultimately crush the revolt in Angola and continue as a major power in Africa.

But reports from Lisbon say Portugal also is keeping her powder dry and shipping out troop reinforcements to other Portuguese overseas territories where trouble might erupt. These include Goa, the tiny enclave fastened to the side of India, the Timor Islands, and the huge East African province of Mozambique.

Peter Knox, UPI correspondent in Lisbon, reports that the Angolan outbreak came as a surprise to the Portuguese. They were the first European power in Africa 500 years ago and they believed their policy of racial tolerance had beaten the color problem.

The intensity of the racial hatred brought out in the Angolan revolt came as a shock.

But the Portuguese still insist that it was outside influences, rather than any failure of their own policies, which brought about the revolt.

The Communists, Protestant and European nations that have freed their one-time colonies, all are held responsible in one way or another.

On the grounds that the United Nations has no right to interfere in the international affairs of a nation, Portugal barred a U. N. committee appointed to investigate the Angola crisis.

The committee now may go instead to the Congo to take testimony from Angolan refugees there.

A U. N. spokesman, quoting missionary sources, said there are indications as many as 60,000 penniless and starving refugees have crossed the border recently.

Charges that they have massacred Angolans anger the Portuguese.

Harold shook his head. "I told Billy not to call me about such things. He knows now that he should just go ahead and do the job. Billy never forgot that."

The boys don't have a studio, but they will turn out eight pictures this year, compared with 12 for Warner Brothers Studio last year.

This makes the Mirisch company a potent force in world moviemaking and they are well aware of the fact.

guess who firmly believe the "winds of change" sweeping Africa need not have reached them, and who are sticking with their determination to go ahead with development of a multi-racial Portuguese Africa.

In their battle to prevent the crumbling of their empire, the Portuguese have had to impose sharp new taxes at home. Luxury taxes already have been boosted and income tax boosts may be next.

The future will determine whether the Portuguese are fighting a lost cause. Current events seem to suggest that they are.

Employment Dips 440,000 In July

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment fell by 440,000 in July to 5,140,000, but the decline was slightly less than usual for this time of year, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg reported today.

The number of jobs also dropped by 207,000 to 88,499,000 last month. It was possible for both unemployment and employment to decline because the number of persons in the labor force fell by 607,000.

Despite the jobless decline, the rate of idleness after seasonal adjustments rose by one-tenth of one per cent to 6.9 per cent of the labor force.
