Quick End Claimed To Portugal Revolt

Rebels Capture, But Soon Lose Army Barracks

LISBON (UPI) — Rebel troops captured an army barracks early today, but government forces counter-attacked and swiftly recaptured the barracks, the army ministry announced.

The army ministry statement said the rebel assault on the barracks took place at 2 a.m. local time. The attackers were made up of a group of civilians led by former opposition candidate Capt. Varela Gomes.

The barracks were not fully occupied because of the New Year holiday. When the rebels struck, the officer of the day locked himself in the officers' mess and alerted local police and the national republican guard.

The government said Lt. Col. Jaime da Fonseca, army under-secretary, was killed when loyal troops counter-attacked. Three of the rebels also were killed, the ministry statement said, and Capt. Gomes was reported wounded and captured, along with an unspecified number of his followers.

The attempted coup apparently was directed against the regime of Antonio Oliveira Salazar, who has ruled Portugal since 1928. Salazar's government has been plagued in recent months by trouble in Portuguese Angola.

And only last month, the Portuguese suffered the loss of Goa, a territory they had owned for 451 years, to India.

Beja is an agricultural center in the poor section of southern Portugal. There is some unemployment in the area, and this has led to unrest there against government policies.

The government ordered a state of alert throughout the nation following the outbreak of fighting. The government announced that four persons were killed in the brief but apparently fierce night-time clash at Beja, an agricultural center 125 miles from the capital.

A short time later, the government announced the alert and brought out troops around the country for police duty. There were unconfirmed reports of additional incidents at two other barracks, but details were not available. The leader of the government forces, Lt. Col. Jaime de Fonseca, and three rebels were killed in the fighting, an army ministry communiqué said.

Lisbon, the capital, was quiet on the New Year's holiday, with no outward sign of trouble.

Lebanese Government Crushes Armed Revolt

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Lebanon's security forces have arrested more than 400 persons, most of them right wing Arab nationalists, following the unsuccessful weekend attempt to overthrow the government, Beirut radio announced today.

The government radio said although conditions have returned to normal, the army and security forces were continuing "pursuit and arrest operations."

Weapons and ammunition caches, including 300 heavy machine guns, 200 rifles and 60 light machine guns, have been discovered, the radio said.

The latest arrests came this morning after security units swooped down on two villages and rounded up 120 armed men, the state radio said.

It added that the Lebanese army and security units suffered no losses. However, no mention was made as to whether there were any casualties inflicted on the rebels.

The state radio said the army "quelled the rash movement yesterday evening" and then officers who had been arrested were permitted to return to their posts.

Dr. Abdullah Saadah, leader of the Social Nationalist party, a right wing Arab nationalist group also known as the Greater Syria party, was among those arrested in Sunday night's roundup, the broadcast said, Beirut radio said.

Four boxes of ammunition and explosives and a radio transmitter were found in Saadah's home, President Fuad Chehab's gov-

Robbers Get Gems Valued At $44,700

NEW YORK (UPI) — The head of a safe firm that built vaults for Fort Knox was held at gunpoint Sunday while his beautiful blonde wife was robbed of $44,700 in jewels and cash.

John Mosler, 39, and his wife Sheila, 27, were returning from a wee hours night club party when two gunmen forced their way into the Mosler car just as they pulled up to their Fifth Ave. apartment house.

Mosler, president of the Mosler Safe Corp. which built some of the vaults for gold at the government's Fort Knox, Ky., storehouse, calmed his wife, assuring her the gunmen were "real pros—they won't kill us."

The well-dressed thugs drove the couple around while Mrs. Mosler peeled off her $25,000 earrings, a $16,500 diamond solitaire and a wedding band, and gave them to the thieves.

Bus Strike Deals Blow To Gotham

NEW YORK (UPI) — A bus strike affecting 1.5 million daily passengers hit the nation's biggest city today along with a New Year's Day snowfall.

Transport Workers Union (TWU), Local 100, struck Fifth Avenue Coach Lines and its city subsidiary, Surface Transit, Inc., were in deadlocked negotiations over a new contract. Some 1.3 million persons ride the two private lines daily.

Another 200,000 in Westchester County commuting communities are affected by a walkout at another subsidiary, Westchester Street Transportation Co.

New York City Transit Authority subways and buses, as well as buses of five other private lines, continued operating normally. They carry several million riders each day.

The walkout came with hundreds of thousands of New Year's revelers out on the town—600,000 in Times Square alone—and with a fresh light snow coating streets.

However, whatever inconvenience the strike caused celebrants would be minor compared to the transport snarl in store Tuesday morning when workers return to their jobs after the holiday weekend.

Fifth Avenue Coach and Surface Transit provide all the bus service in the Bronx Borough, which has a population of nearly 1.7 million, and much of it in Manhattan Borough. Some service between Manhattan and Queens also was affected. Many of the uptown-downtown routes are paralleled by subway lines, so hardest hit will be crosstown travelers.

TWU President Michael Quill joined his followers in setting up the first picket line at a Fifth Avenue Coach Lines garage in Manhattan.

Prizes Awaiting First '62 Baby

Pampa's first New Year baby had not yet arrived on the scene at noon today.

Attendants at Highland General Hospital said there weren't even any prospects at that hour. Two babies were born Sunday, missing the New Year's Eve midnight deadline by some 12 and 16 hours.

A boy was born at 4:18 a.m. Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. George Hazard, 332 N. Zimmer, and another arrived at 11:38 a.m. when a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Teague, 219 Sunset Drive.

The first baby of 1962 has a host of prizes awaiting its arrival. Here's a list of prizes the first baby and its parents will receive and the names of the donors:

- Sleeping Bag, Mayes Youth Store.
- Silk Skin Girdle to the mother, Behrman's.
- Two Dozen Birdseye Diapers, Dunlap's.
- Wash and Lube Job, McAndrew Pontiac.
- Pair of Baby Shoes, Lad & Lassie Children's Shop.

Defense Guide To Be Sent Out

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Starting Tuesday, the government will distribute free throughout the nation 25 million copies of its new civil defense guide for survival in a nuclear war.

The 48-page document will be made available largely through post offices and civil defense agencies. Defense officials have urged that it be required reading for both young and old.

President Chosen 'Man Of The Year'

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Kennedy was named Sunday night Time Magazine's 35th Man of the Year.

Time said the choice was made by its editors for the man who "dominated the news" in 1961 and "left an indelible mark — for good or for ill — on history."

Tuesday Dollar Day In Pampa

Tuesday will be dollar day in Pampa stores. Downtown merchants are offering unusual post-holiday bargains and shoppers who take advantage of tomorrow's sales will probably find one of the biggest opportunities to save in a long time.

The Dollar Day sales were postponed until Tuesday because the first Monday of the month fell on the New Year's holiday.

Arrests Are Few As Pampa Grooms New Year Quietly

City and county law enforcement officers started off 1962 today with the slate almost clean as far as arrests over New Year's Eve was concerned.

Police Captain Denny Roan reported today that only a few arrests were made last night and that it was one of the quietest New Year's Eves on record.

"We had a few calls of domestic squabbles, several persons who were getting a little 'under the weather' were sent or taken home," Captain Roan said, "but, all in all, it was real quiet for New Year's Eve."

Sheriff's officers had a similar report. It was quiet all through Gray County. There were no major disturbances of any kind. Highway patrolmen said there were no serious accidents in the Pampa area.

NEW GRAND JURY SWORN IN—This was the scene this forenoon in the 31st Judicial District Courtroom at Gray County Courthouse when District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich swore in 12 grand jurors, shown standing in the jury box, for the January term. Judge Goodrich is at the right. Seated on the judge's right is Robert M. Baker, court reporter, and seated at the table in front of the bench is Ross Buzzard, Pampa attorney. (Daily News Photo).

New Grand Jury Meets, Adjourns Subject To Call

A new grand jury was impaneled in Judge Lewis M. Goodrich's 31st Judicial Court here this morning.

The jurors went into session at 10:15 a.m., and immediately adjourned subject to call. The entire business was wrapped up within a half-hour period and everybody went home to finish observation of the New Year holiday.

Members of the new January term grand jury seated today included:

R. H. Keahey, White Deer, foreman; George M. Clark, R. S. Anderson, Mrs. Henry McClellan, Mrs. Mary Anne Keyes, Charles Shelton, Taylor G. Groves, Clyde L. Carruth, and S. R. O'Dell, all of Pampa; Don Blair and Boyd B. Smith, McLean, and J. P. Bussell, Lefors.

Judge Goodrich also called the docket today of cases to be considered by the petit jury for trial during the week of Feb. 12.

One Dead, 2 Hurt As Ski Lift Slips

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich. (UPI) — One person died and two others were injured seriously Sunday when a ski lift spun into reverse at Nub's Nob, a winter resort near here.

Larry Orr, 32, Ada, died of internal injuries. Joan Wilhelm, 37, Ann Arbor, was among those hospitalized. She suffered a possible skull fracture and internal injuries and was listed in critical condition.

Police said the two lift chairs carrying Orr and Miss Wilhelm were thrown into the gears of the ski lift after an arm of one of the 50 chairs broke and spun the gears into reverse.

Price-Wage Spiral Fear Voiced By U.S. Leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges and Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg have warned that a new price-wage spiral could imperil chances for continued prosperity in 1962.

Hodges emphasized the need for American-made goods to be competitive in the world market. He said any further increases in wages, with some exceptions, "ought to be tied in with productivity as a whole." He did not identify the "exceptions."

The commerce secretary said Sunday in a television interview (Issues and Answers—ABC) that the U.S. economy expanded by about 3 to 3½ per cent in 1961, but he would be satisfied with nothing less than 4 per cent growth in 1962.

Hodges said an expansion of U.S. trade abroad was the key stone to this country's future economic growth and its continued rule as leader of the free world.

Goldberg, in a year-end statement, asked both labor and management to "bear in mind that a recovery can be impeded by lack of restraint with respect to both prices and wages during crucial months."

He appeared to be directing his reference to "crucial months" to steel industry negotiations next spring when the Steelworkers Union and the companies begin talks on a new wage contract.

Goldberg said the unemployment situation improved significantly in 1961, but still was not satisfactory. He forecast that new job records would be set in the months ahead.

In another year-end statement, AFL-CIO President George Meany called for Congress to fight unemployment by enacting an emergency public works program and giving the President power to cut withholding of income taxes.

Meany said the AFL-CIO would fight "shoulder-to-shoulder" with President Kennedy for his program to reduce tariffs and increase world trade.

Holiday Traffic Toll Kept Down

By United Press International
Celebrating Americans apparently heeded traffic safety suggestions as they rang in the new year today.

A National Safety Council official said, "The way it is going now this New Year's weekend could wind up with the smallest number of traffic deaths since Memorial Day of 1949, a three-day period when 253 persons were killed."

The council originally had estimated that 330 persons might be killed in street and highway accidents during the 78-hour holiday weekend. They said the total now might wind up below 250.

A United Press International count showed 192 persons had been killed in traffic accidents since the holiday weekend started at 6 p.m. Friday.

The breakdown:
Traffic 246
Fire 85
Planes 4
Miscellaneous 47
Total 382
California led the list of states with 28 deaths, Texas was next with 21.

'Courtesy Club' Nominees Awaited

A campaign was launched yesterday to select Pampa's "Friendliest and Most Courteous" man and woman employee.

Readers of The Pampa News are invited to vote, using the ballot on this page. This same contest was conducted by The News three years ago and proved to be one of the most popular contests the newspaper ever sponsored.

Persons nominated will become members of Pampa's "Courtesy Club" and their names will be in The News. A Courtesy Club membership card will be presented to each person nominated.

Hundreds of persons were nominated in the 1959 election as interest mounted in the wide-open contest.

The two top winners (one man, one woman) will receive the title "1962 Friendliest and Most Courteous" and each will receive a $50 cash award in addition to a framed award certificate.

JFK Held Confident Concerning '62 Plans

EDITOR'S NOTE: President Kennedy feels that in 1961 he made a good start on the basic domestic programs of his administration. Now in 1962 he is ready to push for some of the more controversial items. Here is an account of how the President appraises the domestic situation, written by veteran UPI White House Reporter, Merriman Smith.

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President Kennedy in 1962 plans to make a major drive for passage of one of the most controversial pieces of legislation in many years — medical care for the aged financed through Social Security.

He also plans to press again for federal aid to education on the collegiate, as well as the secondary school levels. Kennedy believes he has strong bipartisan support for liberalization of the reciprocal trade program and he intends to fight for creation of a new cabinet department for urban affairs and housing.

The Chief Executive seems confident of success in these and other legislative fields because he feels that in 1961, after a razor-thin election majority the previous autumn, he has picked up powerful public support for what he refers to as a progressive program. He characterizes his program as progressive, rather than as liberal or as some critics have claimed, middle-of-the-road.

It was possible to present these highly authentic attitudes of the President at the start of the new year on authority of associates and others who have talked with him as he worked here on his State of the Union and economic messages for Congress, plus the budget for fiscal 1963 which will be submitted in balance.

Over the New Year's Eve weekend it was also possible to report the President's views on the complicated international scene. After constant crisis in 1961, he sees little signs of lessening tension in 1962 but he feels that in the past 12 months the Soviet bloc suffered more setbacks than the Western Alliance. In this sort of negative encouragement, he is determined to push what his associates call a grand design in international affairs building the non-Communist nations so their internal resources are sufficient to maintain their freedom and independence—whether we like their political ideas or not.

Pampan And Wife Held For Attempt To Thwart Arrest

A Pampa man and his wife were free under $500 bond each today, following their arrest Saturday midnight for interfering with police officers who were attempting to arrest a man.

Police said the incident took place in the Hacienda beer parlor, 740 W. Brown.

Officers said they were attempting to arrest the man for intoxication when the man and his wife "jumped" them and said they couldn't take the man with them.

The upshot of the whole thing, according to a police report, was that all three landed in city jail. The man and his wife were released Sunday noon on $500 appearance bonds. The arrests were made by Lt. J. B. Goad and Patrolman H. E. Shaffer.

They have been ordered to appear in county court Tuesday morning when police said they will be charged with opposing the arrest of another for a misdemeanor.

Pampan Accused Of Shoplifting

A shoplifter was caught in the act Saturday afternoon in Ideal Food Store No. 3, 801 W. Francis St.

The shoplifter, a 37-year-old Pampa man, was spotted and police were called while the man was detained by store employees.

After the arrest was made police said they found a package of meat in the man's coat pocket.

Police said today the man will be arraigned in Gray County Court tomorrow on the shoplifting charge.

Convict Bares Story Of Missing $480,000

LYNN, Mass. (UPI) — Police kept a strict 24-hour guard today on a Mississippi convict who claimed he was released from prison to pick up nearly $500,000 in stolen funds.

Mississippi prison officials disputed parts of the story, saying the man was on a "regular" Christmas leave and asked for his extradition from Massachusetts.

Kimble Berry, 24, of Greenville, Miss., arrived here Dec. 7 in a 1961 Cadillac, two days after being released from Parchman state penitentiary in Mississippi.

He unfolded a strange tale of robbery and intrigue to Lynn police and the Massachusetts Parole Board. His story involved several persons, but officers declined to reveal any names.

The $500,000 involved, Berry said, was taken in the burglary of the Fairchild Construction Co. of Hattiesburg, Miss., last summer. He said he was told it was left for him in a safe deposit box in an Arkansas bank.

Dist. Atty. James Finch at Hattiesburg said all the men believed connected with the burglary had been convicted and sent to Parchman but that about $480,000 in negotiable securities was still missing.

Parchman Supt. Fred Jones, said Aubrey-Botts, convicted in connection with the Hattiesburg robbery, had recently offered to tell where the money was if his term were cut. Jones said the offer was refused.

Berry told Massachusetts officials a fellow inmate asked him if he were interested in a pardon. Berry had less than six months to serve on a five to eight year term for manslaughter but said he was interested.

Then Berry claimed he was taken to a conference with three men he was led to believe were prominent politicians and was released.

A day later, Berry said he was released, given $20 in cash, a gun, a Cadillac, and the power-of-attorney to open a safe deposit box at Keiser, Ark., where the money was supposedly stashed.

Mrs. Gatha Wilson, assistant cashier at the Keiser branch of the bank in Wilson, Ark., confirmed she received a call notifying her Berry would arrive and would have power-of-attorney to take the money.

She said the FBI was brought into the case. The box was later found to be empty.

Berry said when he arrived at Keiser, he became suspicious when he saw two armed men outside the bank and so he didn't go in. Instead, he said, he drove here to stay with his brother, paying for the trip by selling the gun, the car's hub caps and spare tire.

Berry was unable to explain why the offer was made to him in the first place. He said he accepted it simply to get out of prison.

Priso: Supt. Jones said Berry was out on a "regular" 10-day Christmas leave and asked for his return from Massachusetts.

At Greenville, Miss., Berry's mother said some men who had arranged the alleged deal with her son had talked with her several times this month. She said they first offered her son $10,000 to return with the money.

Attempt By County Clerk To Aid Cupid Proves Futile

County Clerk Charlie Thut got up early this morning to come down and open his office and play Cupid for a couple he thought wanted to take out a marriage license and get married on the first day of the year.

The county clerk said he received a call yesterday from a man in Angleton, Texas, who said he and his intended bride would be in Pampa today and they wanted to know if Thut would be kind enough to open the office on the holiday and issue them a license to marry.

The county clerk said he would be happy to accommodate them. They made a date to meet in the clerk's office at 9:30 a.m. today.

Clerk Thut and a News photographer who thought it would make a good New-Year's Day feature picture, were on hand at 9:30 a.m. They waited and waited. No word from the would-be bride and groom.

Finally, about 10 a.m. Thut decided there was no use to wait longer. "I guess one or the other of them must have chickened out," Thut said.

Wounds Are Fatal To Colonel's Wife

OCEAN CITY, N.J. (UPI)—A retired Air Force colonel's wife died in Shore Memorial Hospital in nearby Somers Point Sunday, three days after she was found with a bullet wound in the head at her home in the Ocean City Gardens section.

Assistant prosecutor William J. Hughes of Cape May County said police were continuing an investigation into the "mysterious elements" of the shooting of Mrs. Roberta Knight, 49. An autopsy was ordered.

Viet Nam Plans Reform Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A sweeping program of social and economic reforms aimed at increasing the will of the South Viet Nam people to resist mounting Communist guerrilla attacks will be announced within a few days.

Officials said Sunday the reform program would be announced in a joint communique issued later this week by Viet Nam and the United States. The United States is paying the cost of both the reform measures and the military aid.

Snowfall Hits Southern Area

By United Press International
Sudden snow squalls struck parts of Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia early today while cloudy skies covered most other areas in the nation.

Fog clung to the coastal areas of Washington and Oregon and fog or haze occurred in the interior valleys and along the coast of California.

Near zero weather persisted in parts of the Midwest. It was five degrees above zero early this morning at Minneapolis.

Rioting Occurs In Nevada Town

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Nearly 3,000 carousing New Year's Eve celebrants erupted in a two-staged riot on the main street of downtown Reno this morning.

Police were still arresting the participants in the overzealous celebration at 4 a.m. A police spokesman said the number of demonstrators arrested was probably in the "dozens."

TALK ABOUT GAS MILEAGE—This car goes a long way on a thimbleful of gasoline—if somebody pushes it. The car has no engine, no transmission. They were removed by car strippers working in Fort Worth, Tex. The car was stolen from a dealer's lot and, after recovery, car salesman Cleston Moore stands where engine used to be. The car had been driven but seven miles when stolen.

Hopelessness Grips Man, Church Notes

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

"Today many people, even Christian people, have succumbed to a spirit of hopelessness," So said the General Council of the United Presbyterian Church in its annual Christmas message. Few will deny the truth of this observation. Even amid the forced festivity of the holiday season, it is easy to discern an underlying mood of pessimism and despair of the future. If a pastor should enjoin his congregation this weekend to face the new year with hope, many people would feel that he was being unrealistic, refusing to face the grim facts of life in a death-shadowed world. But he would be faithfully expounding the message of the Bible.

The nameless men of ancient Israel who wrote the Psalms of the Old Testament were no strangers to suffering. They had known war, exile, poverty, persecution, the loss of loved ones, the wasting of disease. They knew, at least as well as modern man, how hard it can be at times to visit relatives for a week. Mr. and Mrs. Omer Smulcer and Rocky and Randy Harlan visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dyer in Wheeler Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Goodwin and children of Amarillo visited Mr. and Mrs. Andy Goodwin Sunday and Monday. Visiting Mrs. W. M. Tibbets during the week end were Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Garvin and children of Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jordan and Joey of Seagraves; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Tibbets of Lefors. Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Daugherty were Miss Jewel Cousins, Borger; Mike and Cathy Rae of Amarillo; Mrs. Charles Lowary and children Debbie and Nicky of Clarendon; Mrs. J. Perryman and Jay William of Houston; the Charles Cousins, S. A. Cousins, the Earnest Becks and Geo. Patton of McLean. Marilyn Magee accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith of Ama-believe that this world is really the creation of a benevolent God. They cried out, even as men do today, "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?" But they never gave way to ultimate despair, because they had also known the nearness of God. Even in their darkest hours, his love and mercy were an experienced reality which they could not and would not deny.

And so these men of a troubled time have handed down, through hundreds of troubled generations, their strong, sure words of hope: "The Lord is my shepherd... though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil." "Thou, Lord, art my defender... under the shadow of Thy wings shall be my refuge until this tyranny be overpast." "Thou hast been our refuge from one generation to another... our fathers put their trust in Thee, and were not confounded." "The heavens are the work of Thy hands. They shall perish, but Thou shalt endure."

"The darkness is no darkness with Thee... Thy loving kindness is better than life itself." Life was no bed of roses for the early Christians, either. They may not have had to worry about nuclear bombs raining from the skies, but they were constantly exposed to death in other forms, including crucifixion, stoning, being fed to lions in the Roman arena, and being used as pitch-soaked human torches for Nero's garden parties.

Yet in the records they left behind one looks in vain for the kind of self-pity and hopelessness that is fashionable today. On the contrary, hope was so steady a feature of their lives that one of their number, a tent-maker named Paul, listed it along with faith and love as one of the hallmarks of a Christian.

The hope which sustained the early Christians was not based on an unrealistic optimism about what was likely to befall them in this world. Jesus had warned them that "in this life, you will have tribulation," and their experience had abundantly confirmed those words.

But Jesus had also told them: "Be not afraid... I have overcome the world."

And they were certain that He had triumphed, even over death. They did not fear the worst that life can offer because they were convinced, as Paul put it, that "the sufferings of this present time, are not worth comparing with the glory that is to be revealed to us" in the new and indestructible life which Christ had opened to men.

There were, even in the First Century, A.D., people who sneered at this "other-worldly" hope.

And there are, even today, people who hold the hope so firmly they can say with Paul: "I am sure that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord."

Alabaman Slain In Gun Battle

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Andrew Blount, 37, was shot to death Sunday night by policeman Massey Moseley in a gun fight at the Blount home.

Police Chief Talley Rollings said Moseley fired after Blount opened up on the officer with a shotgun, shooting out a patrol car's headlights and putting 15 holes in the car.

The shooting followed a family squabble involving Blount, his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Skelton after a drinking party at a night club. Rollings said. The party ended in a street fight.

Cheap Timepiece Doubted As Clue To Man's Wealth

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How many men do you know in the 100,000-and-over bracket who wear $14.95 wrist watches?

Unless you have a much broader acquaintanceship than mine, you count them on one finger or less.

But, according to the Caricaturists Society of America, this is the price that the average American with a six-figure income pays for his timepiece.

The society currently is sponsoring a campaign to change the traditional manner in which the well-to-do in this country are depicted in cartoons.

A typical caricature, it said, presents the wealthy American as "a gaudy fashion plate — complete with huge diamond stickpin, monogrammed silk shirt, custom suit, alligator leather shoes, diamond-studded gold watch, vicuna coat and big black cigar."

"I don't wish to quarrel with the society, which should know its business, but it seems to me that this description more closely fits a typical caricature of a political boss."

It has been my observation that caricatures of a rich man almost always show him wearing a vest fastened with dollar signs.

At any rate, the society feels that the cartoonish image of the wealthy American is a "dangerous distortion," resembling the one used in the Communist press.

Its aim is to persuade U.S. cartoonists to picture the wealthy American in a more "realistic" image by toning down his wardrobe and haberdashery.

Toward this end, the society has put out a model caricature based on "the true appearance of the well-to-do American." It said it was qualified to do this because its members had "sketched hundreds of men in the $100,000-and-over income bracket."

The caricature shows a square-jawed individual striding purposefully forward, briefcase at the ready. He is wearing a $100 ready-made-suit, a $15 hat, a $6.50 shirt, a $30 pair of shoes and a $10 pair of gloves.

He is smoking a $12 pipe and is glancing at a $14.95 watch on his wrist. The price of the briefcase was not listed.

I agree that the society's caricature may be a truer delineation of today's well-heeled citizen than was the traditional version. But I find it hard to believe that the typical $100,000-a-year man wears a $14.95 watch.

I know several men who paid less than $15 for watches, and none of them makes more than $99,999.

Fact

The gold stock at Fort Knox is valued at more than $10 billion. And the government is taking no chances. The fabulous treasure is housed in a bombproof building, constructed of granite, steel and concrete, enclosing a torchproof steel and concrete vault. Added security is provided by guards, sentries, a steel fence and a photoelectric eye. And if that isn't enough, a nearby army post gives further protection.

Patent Applications Gain During The Year

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — Last year some 82,000 applications for patents were filed in the United States, a 3,000 jump over the year before. This year the top two amateur electronics magazines will go into nearly a million homes. Next year, sales experience predicts, another 300,000 of us will buy soldering irons and a complete set of plans for something and become basement tinkers.

So, where in this frenzy of invention and flux are today's Thomas-Edisons, Alexander Graham Bells, Eli Whitesneys?

It's a question that has begun to alarm both science and industry. For behind it is the daily deepening shortage of technician that, if it continues, will desperately hamstring vital work in both physics and engineering.

Well, where are the Elisons? A trip through the field, from electronics workshop to Patent Office, turns up some curious answers to the question what has replaced what used to be our national genius.

THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS

ual aids — and so are things you make with your hands. You're usually a lot better off licensing from an established firm, or swapping one of the patents you hold on something that's not in your line."

"A child can learn a lot more by winding wire to make a radio condenser than he can by reading a biography of Marconi."

And from an inventor whose electronics memory systems are in use in many computers today: "You've got to be out of your mind to be an independent. Even if you come up with something basic, you can't police the whole nation to see that nobody's infringing on you. And you can't afford to prosecute when you do catch somebody."

"It only cost him 25 cents to get a copy of your patent from the Patent Office, and then the burden of proof is on you."

"No, you're a lot better off getting a job with a big firm and working with a team and keeping what you discover a trade secret."

Posture, Please
Once you realize that your body, as well as your face, has a profile visible to the beholder, you'll be aware of the importance of good posture.

PENCILS FOR PANAMA — This necklace of pencils worn by Ann Ruffing is symbolic of people-to-people aid extended to Latin Americans by U.S. citizens. Specifically, these pencils and thousands more are being sent to Panama by employees of a company in Columbus, Ohio, as a private project. This aid is in addition to the $165,000 the firm's workers have contributed for self-help projects (kerosene lamps, tools, etc.) in Honduras, Costa Rica, Guatemala and Panama. Will Hellerman, left, relayed message after visiting Panama: "Send pencils for the kids."

Home Agent Leaving Carson County Soon

MRS. JANIE FLETCHER

By MRS. C. F. HOOD
Daily News Correspondent

PANHANDLE (Sp) — Mrs. Janie Fletcher, home demonstration agent of Carson County for five and one-half years, is leaving the county, January 7, to go to Washington, D. C. There she will take six week's training at the National 4-H Club Foundation for work with the Brazil 4-H Peace Corps Project. The National 4-H Foundation is a non-profit educational corporation.

Mrs. Fletcher, who had signified her interest in that type of work, when the Peace Corps was first started, was invited to become a trainee on Dec. 14, by the National 4-H Club Foundation, which is under contract to the Peace Corps. The Foundation has been conducting a closely related program, The International Farm Youth Exchange for the past fourteen years. The 4-H Peace Corps project is a natural extension of IFYE, People-to-People and other 4-H related international activities.

In Washington Mrs. Fletcher will study the Portuguese language, the history and culture of Brazil, the history and culture of the United States, cross cultural adjustment, technical job skills, physical and mental health, physical training and recreation, the Peace Corps and have various examinations, physical, psychological, psychiatric, etc.

On Feb. 17, she will return to Carson County, where she will complete arrangements for leaving the county. On Feb. 21, she will leave for Arecibo, Puerto Rico, where she will be at the Peace Corps Training Center until March 23.

On March 24 she will leave for Brazil and a ten weeks training program with major emphasis on Portuguese language training and added training areas of Brazil County study, technical job skills, physical health and physical conditioning.

Selected to go to Brazil will be 28 teams of two persons each or 56 persons, with one project director, provided by the National 4-H Club Foundation, and three Area Supervisors (Peace Corps Volunteer Leaders), in cooperation with the Peace Corps Country Representative in Brazil. The period of the Project extends from January 1, 1962 to December 31, 1963, with a probable continuation for two to four additional years.

Mrs. Fletcher was born in Tyler and moved to Denton County when 12 years old. She has a bachelor of science from Texas Woman's University, Denton, with a major in clothing and textiles and a minor in food and nutrition. She received her master of science degree from the same University in 1960.

She has done graduate work at Teachers College, Columbia, New York; New York School of Design; University of California, Berkeley; Colorado A.M. Fort Collins, Colorado; University of Houston, Houston, Texas and has taken several field courses at the same schools.

She has taught home economics in Cuero, Ozona and Plainview High schools; served as home demonstration agent in Seymour, Waller and Carson County, and was for twelve years Farmers Home Administration, USDA Supervisor in Kaufman and Groesbeck.

Before coming to Panhandle from Waller county, where she had been agent for nine years, she toured Europe with a farm group and since coming to the county has attended both state and national meetings of both the THDA and HDA. She was honored in 1959 by being chosen one of the agents of the year, in ceremonies at Chicago.

Because of the holidays and the shortness of notice, no replacement has been named for Mrs. Fletcher. Miss Edith Lois Wilson, district agent of Amarillo, will name a successor, with the approval of the Carson County Commissioners' Court.

Calendar Advocate Change Stays On Job

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—During the calendar year 1961, I struck up a correspondence with Dr. Willard E. Edwards of Honolulu, whose middle name is Eldridge but ought to be "Endurance."

Edwards spends a lot of his spare time worrying about the calendar, and in the course of our communications he got me started worrying about it, too.

The exchange began with a piece I wrote about the "Perpetual calendar" which he invented. At the time, I wasn't greatly interested in the subject, and treated it in a rather off-hand fashion.

Since then, Edwards has sent me a sizable stack of additional literature on the need for revising our calendar. This was what impressed me about his endurance.

I learned that he invented the perpetual calendar in 1919 and during the intervening years has campaigned ceaselessly to have it adopted.

A less dedicated man might have given up long about 1949, but his last letter to me was filled with enthusiasm and trust that people ultimately will see the light.

I won't attempt to explain the thing again, other than to say that his invention would enable everyone to use the same calendar year after year.

Although its adoption has been proposed in every U.S. Congress since 1943, and in 55 foreign countries as well, as far as I know Edwards and I are the only people currently using it.

I follow it in dating my copy, but someone on the copy desk keeps changing the date back to conform with the old-fashioned standard calendar. Copy readers are notoriously unprogressive.

At any rate, in his most recent letter, Edwards reminded me that the end of the year is approaching and suggested it might be appropriate to point out what year we are about to enter.

Next Monday, he wrote, "will mark the completion of 1,962 years of the Christian era, and the beginning of the 1,963rd year. This will surprise many people who look at 1961 as the 1,961st year, and will think of 1962 as the 1,962nd year."

To tell you the truth, it rather surprised me. I had always been inclined to think of the year 1961 as being just that—no more, no less.

But Edwards says this is wrong because in order to count the years correctly, you have to begin at zero. To argue that there was no year zero A.D. is stupid, he adds, because the A. D. concept did not originate until the 6th Century, A.D.

Texas Grid Men Are Underdogs In Dallas Tilt

By United Press International
Mississippi looked for its sixth straight bowl success today while Minnesota, Alabama and Louisiana hoped to return to winning ways in post season classics. All were favored to win their New Year's Day football games.

Ole Miss was a three-point favorite against Texas in the Cotton Bowl televised by CBS at 1:30 p.m. CST. Both teams entered the game with 9-1 records. Mississippi relied on the air arms of quarterbacks Doug Elmore and Glynn Griffing to offset the ground attack of Texas All America Jim Saxton.

Minnesota, beaten in the Rose Bowl last New Year's Day by Washington, hit the revenge trail against UCLA and was the eight-point choice to come out smelling

Indians Top Hockey Play

By United Press International
The Springfield Indians ended the 1961 phase of the American Hockey League season with a comfortable 10-point lead in the Eastern Division after downing Rochester, 5-4, on Bruce Cline's goal in overtime Sunday night.

Hershey elung to second place, three points ahead of Providence, by downing Buffalo, 4-3, in overtime while the Reds were edging Quebec by the same score. Willie Marshall scored two goals and assisted Mike Mahoney on the winning goal for Hershey.

Saturday night Jim Mikol scored two goals to lead Cleveland to a 4-0 triumph over Rochester. Bo Elik notched two tallies as Pittsburgh defeated Providence, 6-3; Quebec upset Springfield, 3-1, and Hershey battled Buffalo to a 1-1 tie.

Natural Flow Wins In Race

SUNLAND PARK, N. M. (UPI)—Natural Flow won a neck victory in the Sun Carnival Handicap at Sunland Park Sunday.

Natural Flow, owned by Don Angle, paid $8.60, $3.40 and $2.40 in making the six furlongs in 1:10.1.

ANNOUNCE BETTING RECORD
CHICAGO (UPI)—The Illinois state racing board reported Sunday that a record high of almost a quarter of a billion dollars was wagered in pari-mutuels during the 1961 Illinois racing season. A new attendance record of 3,079,130 was set by the seven tracks on 301 racing days.

Nicklaus Completes First Pro Golf Meet

MIAMI (UPI)—National Amateur golf champion Jack Nicklaus has one professional encounter under his belt now, and is $2,500 richer for his efforts.

The strong-swinging, 21-year-old from Columbus, Ohio, turned professional in good company here Saturday and gave a respectable accounting.

Nicklaus played in a $10,000 exhibition match over the Country Club of Miami course with Gary Player. Sam Snead and Arnold Palmer. Prior to the match, the four agreed to split the prize money equally four ways.

Against his more seasoned opponents, Nicklaus toured the course in one-over-par 73, good enough to tie for third with Palmer.

Player, top-money winner on the circuit this year, came in ahead of the foursome. The little South-African fired a two-under-par 36-34-70 round.

Second was won by the veteran Snead with a one-under-par 34-37-71 round.

Nicklaus recorded his score on rounds of 36 and 37, while Palmer fired 37-36-73.

NOT WASTED
NEW YORK (NEA)—The next time you throw a wad of paper into a wastebasket, pause respectfully.

That's how basketball was discovered, it is revealed in a television feature.

In 1892, Dr. James Naismith in Springfield, Mass., found football too rough for an indoor winter game. Baseball was too hard on window panes. A ball was essential to all team games.

"To replace the kick-off, I thought of the center jump," said Dr. Naismith. "To check running and tackling, I devised the dribble. I reasoned that everyone enjoys throwing something at a target. I found the answer when I threw a wad of paper into a peach basket being used as a wastebasket."

Cage Teams Get Needed Rest Period

United Press International
The time has come to take a breather in the dizzy college basketball whirl and nothing could be more welcome to such tournament title winners as Ohio State, Cincinnati and Kansas State.

Each of those three top-ranked teams put in a lot of time on the hardwood last week before finally wrapping up individual titles, and now that they have them, what could be better than to sit back a few days and enjoy them.

Ohio State's Buckeyes, the No. 1 team in the nation and winner of the Los Angeles Classic, aren't the least bit unhappy that they don't have to swing back into action again until Jan. 6 when they'll try to make it 11 in a row in a Big Ten clash with Northwestern.

The Buckeyes won the Los Angeles Classic Saturday night as expected, Jerry Lucas hitting for 38 points in a 76-66 win over fourth-ranked Southern California.

Third-ranked Kansas State also can use a rest and will get one until Jan. 6 when Colorado is the next foe. Kansas State had to come from behind to win the Big Eight Conference tournament crown, barely out-lasting an inspired Iowa State team, 69-67, at Kansas City, Mo.

And second-ranked Cincinnati gets a few days off, too, after winning the Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden for the second time in three years.

The Bearcats, whose next date is against St. Louis on Jan. 4, made a romp out of their tournament final against scrappy Wisconsin, running up a 20-point margin at half-time and beating the Badgers, 101-74, as Ron Bonham scored 26 points.

Most of the other tournament winners also are going to have a chance to enjoy the New Year holiday without having to worry too much about basketball.

Detroit, winner of the Motor City Tournament, and Mississippi State, the Sugar Bowl winner, don't resume competition until Jan. 6; Temple, which won the Hurricane Classic, and Drake, the Queen City conqueror, are off until Jan. 4, and two other title winners — Villanova and Bowling Green — aren't scheduled to play again until Wednesday.

Dave Debuschere was the pace-maker for Detroit in its 77-70 upset over St. Bonaventure, popping in 30 points, while Mississippi State coasted to its ninth straight victory with a 73-51 win over Louisiana State at New Orleans.

Temple won the Hurricane Classic at Miami Beach, Fla., Friday night by mauling Miami (Fla.), 85-67, and Drake took the Queen City Tourney title with a 66-65 squeaker over Cornell at Buffalo, N.Y., one night later.

Unbeaten Villanova raced to its 11th straight victory in beating Iowa, 69-56, for the Quaker City crown at Philadelphia, and Bowling Green captured the All-College Tournament championship with a 47-45 conquest of Houston.

In other tournaments around the country:

Santa Clara won the West Coast Athletic Conference title by beating St. Mary's, 48-42, at San Francisco; Yale captured the Evansville, Ind., tournament title with a 78-69 win over Tennessee; Rochester defeated Columbia, 82-65, at Bangor, Maine, for the Downeast Classic title; Colorado State wound up with the San Diego Tourney title by topping San Diego State, 71-57; West Virginia Tech beat Indiana Tech, 72-68, for the Rochester Invitational championship; Centenary won the Gulf South Classic at Shreveport, La., by defeating South Carolina, 87-79; Arkansas took the Poinsettia Tourney title with a 72-42 triumph over Georgia Tech at Greenville, S.C.; Georgetown beat VMI, 67-59, for the Richmond Invitational championship, and Valparaiso downed Harvard, 63-66, to win the Washington University Tourney at St. Louis.

As for the consolation games, Dayton settled for third place in the Holiday Festival with an 81-67 win over LaSalle, and St. John's gained fifth place with a 77-57 victory over inter-city rival, New York U.

TIE PINS—Mrs. Venice Pelton shows a few of the pins she bagged to tie the women's four-game world record. The Cleveland bowler's score in capturing the Cleveland All-Star qualifying test was 992. Her games of 235-255-233-269—for an average of 248—squallied the high set earlier in 1961 by Janet Holm of Chicago. That's spilling 'em.

Resolutions Offered For Sports Figures

By OSCAR FRALEY
MIAMI (UPI)—A few of the New Year's resolutions Fearless Fraley would like to see made along the sports beat now that the time of soon-to-be-fractured promises has arrived:

Sam Snead—To train seriously, even down to roadwork for those 48-year-old legs, in one last big shot at the U.S. Open.

Ray Robinson—To follow Carmen Basilio into retirement before the lumps get bigger than the purses.

Arnold Palmer—To stop counting dollars and start counting strokes in the old saving manner.

Cus D'Amato—To quit acting as if everybody who doesn't agree with him was Frankie Carbo's brother-in-law.

Major League Umpires—To cease and desist from hamming it up in such burley-cus fashion before the TV cameras.

College Football—To get off its dented derriere and do something definite about its scandalous death and injury toll.

Sonny Liston—To finish the cleaning and dusting and then keep the house in spotless order.

Mickey Mantle—To made additional progress from prima donna to the "new DiMaggio."

Johnny Longden—To hang up the tack while he's so far ahead and before slowing reflexes tempt the ever-waiting rail.

The Cincinnati Reds—To walk with high head and firm tread in the knowledge they went much farther than anybody thought they could just by winning the pennant.

Jack Nicklaus—To say what he means, and means what he says.

Warren Spahn—To stay loose and easy and not sneer at anything less than 20 victories.

Tommy Bolt—To keep the same kind of firm grip on his temper he has on his talented driver.

Pro Football—To get together and work out a sensible dual program, world series and all-star game that would mean something.

Roger Maris—To keep laughing all the way to the bank and swinging all the way from the heels.

Jack Price—To run Carry Back a bit more selectively so the final straw isn't piled on the great little horse's back.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association—To get behind a U.S. Open championship that would be a brand new spectacle for blasé tennis fans and a salvation to the game.

Archie Moore—To save some of that end-of-the-trail boxing loot so they don't have to run any benefits for a great fighter.

Bob Cousy—To stop making some of the stepladder basketball brood look so much like awkward automatons.

Floyd Patterson—To meet at least one legitimate challenger this year — or sometime.

Jack (Doc) Kearns—To change the tricks of a lifetime and start banking some of that boxing loot.

Casey Stengel—To take his return to the second division with first division smiles and gags.

Ford Frick—Not to fall on his asterisk in '62.

All of Us—To be better sports, nicer people and give a few cheers to us losers, too.

Fouls Mark Cage Battle

By United Press International
The Los Angeles Jets may not have the smoothest club in the American Basketball League, but they certainly have one of the roughest.

The Jets rolled to a 119-108 victory over the Pittsburgh Rens in the finale of an afternoon double-header in Los Angeles Sunday which was marked by 65 fouls and another fight involving Bill Spivey. The seven-foot former Kentucky star, who has been rough on several players this season, traded blows with Pittsburgh's John Cincebox in the opening quarter but both combatants were allowed to remain in the game.

The Rens matched Los Angeles foul-for-foul and ended up on the long end in that department, 33-32.

George Yardley broke loose for 23 points in the second half to pace Los Angeles to the win, which dropped Pittsburgh into a first place tie with Cleveland in the League's Eastern Division.

Kansas City shaded San Francisco, 11-90, in the opener at Los Angeles to remain two and one-half games in front of the Jets and Washington defeated Chicago, 108-95, in other games.

Kansas City held a 15-point lead late in the third quarter, but the Saints rallied to take a 90-89 lead with 44 seconds to go, only to have it erased for good when Larry Comley of the Steers hit on a driving layup with two seconds left. Larry Staverman set up the winning goal when he stole the ball with 10 seconds remaining.

Staverman finished with 20 points to lead the Steers, while Jim Francis scored 26 for the Saints.

The Washington Tapers, who announced Sunday they are moving their franchise to Commack, N.Y., for the remainder of the season, rode to a 108-95 win over the Chicago Majors, on the 30-point effort of Roger Kaiser.

The win moved the Tapers within a half game of escaping the Eastern Division cellar.

Weekend Sports Events

Saturday
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Galen Hall threw three touchdown passes in Penn State's 30-15 victory over Georgia Tech in the Gator Bowl.

SAN FRANCISCO — The West beat the East, 21-8, behind Kansas' John Hadi at the annual Shrine All-Star football game.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — A 37-yard field goal by Butch Blume of Rice gave the Gators a 9-7 victory over the Blues in their annual game.

NEW YORK — Cincinnati defeated Wisconsin, 101-71, to win the annual Holiday Festival Basketball Tournament.

LOS ANGELES — Ohio State won the Los Angeles Classic basketball tournament with a 76-68 victory over Southern California.

ARCADIA, Calif. — Najin won the $64,290 California Breeders' championship at Santa Anita.

Sunday
GREEN BAY, Wis. — The Green Bay Packers, led by Paul Hornung's 19 points, defeated the New York Giants, 37-0, for the National Football League championship.

Miami Game Seat Sales Fall Short

MIAMI (UPI) — Three-teaming Louisiana State, cast in the favorite's role, goes against Colorado University's gambling "17 good men" today in the 28th Orange Bowl football classic before a near-capacity crowd of 70,000.

Cold weather that marked the departure of the old year was on the wane and the temperature was expected to be in the 70s for the 12 noon CST kickoff.

The game report will go to the nation over ABC television and radio. However, the TV showing was blacked out within a 150-mile radius of Miami in a last-minute but apparently futile effort to sell all the tickets. Bowl officials expected there would be 3,000 empty seats.

LSU's Tigers, co-holders with Alabama of the Southeastern Conference title and ranked No. 3 in the nation by the United Press International board of coaches, went into the game as solid, 13 1/2 point, favorites. They finished the regular season with a 9-1 record, losing only to Rice in their first fall game.

Colorado's Golden Buffaloes captured the Big Eight crown and No. 7 national ranking with a 9-1 season. They lost a "let-down" game to Utah.

Both squads were in top physical condition after a week of practice on Florida soil. That meant three full teams for LSU Coach Paul Dietzel — the White team, a two-way outfit; the Gold team, offensive specialists; and the Chinese Bandits, gangtackling goal line defenders.

Colorado Coach Sonny Grandelius claimed to have only 17 real football players on his squad, "but they're good ones." Several of the chosen few mountain men expected to play 50 minutes or more each, despite any threats of flatland heat.

The men to watch offensively for LSU were halfback Wendell Harris, leading 1961 scorer in the SEC; halfback Jerry Stovall, and fullback Earl Gros, the team's leading ground gainer.

Colorado's outside ground threats will be handled by halfback Ted Woods, an Olympic 400 meter runner, and the probes at the LSU line will be made by fullback Loren Schweninger and halfback Leon Maviety.

Hornung Sets Scoring Mark As Green Bay Whips Giants

National Grid Title Annexed By 37-0 Count

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Nearly 42 years of frustration came to an end for professional football fans here Sunday, and as a result this city is nursing the biggest hangover in its more than 200 years history.

The home town Packers of Coach Vince Lombardi clinched a three-year rags-to-riches rise by winning the National Football League championship in a big way — trouncing the big town New York Giants, 37-0.

"This is the greatest team in the history of the National Football League," said Lombardi. And few people, especially those playing for the Giants, would argue with him. "They've got a helluva offense and a helluva defense," said Charley Conery, Giant quarterback who at 40 is the oldest active player in the NFL.

The Packers, held scoreless by the Giants in the first period, literally exploded in the second. With halfback Paul Hornung, whose 19 points established a championship game scoring record, showing the way, the Green Bay boys scored 24 points in 15 minutes to virtually wrap up their first NFL championship since 1944. It was the first time in the 42-year history of the team that a championship was played here, and turned into an occasion the fans will find hard to forget. They celebrated into the wee hours of the new year in their homes, at bars and on the streets.

Hornung opened the scoring in the second quarter as he banged over from six yards out and then added the extra point. Interceptions by Ray Nitschke and Hank Gremminger set up two more scores, with Bart Starr tossing 13 yards to Boyd Dowler for the first TD and 14 yards to Ron Kramer for the second. A Starr-to-Kramer pass, good for 37 yards, set things up for Hornung's first field goal of the game. He booted it 17 yards on the last play of the half.

A 64-yard punt by Dowler, and ensuing fumble by Joe Morrison and the recovery by Packer tackle Forrest Gregg on the game's 22 set up Hornung's second three-pointer in the third quarter and later in the quarter Starr passed 13 yards to Kramer for another score.

Hornung's 19 yard field goal in the final period, his third of the game, tied the record for the most field goals in a game and boosted his point total to one more than that of former Cleveland Brown Otto Graham, who scored three touchdowns in 1954. The National Football League's player-of-the-year also picked up 89 yards rushing to lead both teams in rushing. His performance earned him a new car as the game's outstanding player—as well as the plaudits of Lombardi.

"Paul was tremendous," said a jubilant Lombardi. "The bigger the game, the better he plays." Hornung, on leave from active Army duty, played the game at five pounds under the 218 he played at most of the season. "I felt better," he said. "I hope I can stay at this weight now." The weight loss seemed to increase his speed, but didn't affect the driving power he's always had.

"Hornung never looked better than he did in practice this week," said Starr. "I decided I'd go with him every chance I could. He sure was great."

The victory was doubly sweet for Lombardi, the former Giant assistant who came to Green Bay in 1959 after the Packers had suffered through a miserable 1-10-1 record in 1957.

Benny Reynolds Garner Cowboy Title At Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Benny Reynolds of Melrose, Mont., reigned today and for the coming year as king of the cowboys. He claimed the all-around cowboy crown last night as the National Finals Rodeo wound up its five-day competition.

Reynolds, 25, took first place in bareback bronc riding during the last two go-rounds to win a total of $2,611 at the rodeo and a total of $31,309 for the season.

The world's champions are chosen on the basis of total money won during the season.

Two Texas cowboys, James Bynum and Eddie Akridge took world championships in separate events as did Ronnie Rossen, Dean Oliver and Winston Bruce.

Bynum, from Forreton, won the world title in steer wrestling, Akridge, from Midland, took the title in bareback bronc riding.

Rossen, of Broadus, Mont., won the world championship in bull riding. Rossen was injured in the seventh go round but had piled up enough points to beat his nearest opponent, Freckles Brown of Lawton, Okla. Brown was thrown on the last bull and was put out of the competition.

18 Harness Horses Die In Blaze

HAMBURG, N.Y. (UPI)—Eighteen harness race horses are dead and financial losses of close to $200,000 are feared today in the wake of a stable fire at the Buffalo Raceway.

Raceway officials said one horse barn was destroyed and would cost at least $50,000 to replace. They declined to place a financial value on the horses that were lost but said the animals might be valued at about $100,000.

Officials expected that the current estimate of $150,000 in losses would mount to close to $200,000. One horse, Megan Hanover, was purchased several weeks ago for $15,000 by Edward C. Fallon of Hanover, N.Y.

All the horses involved were harness racers which had been stabled at the track for the winter. A second barn was damaged but the cost of fixing it is believed to be slight.

Shoemaker Draws Five-Day Suspension

By United Press International Willie Shoemaker left horse-players something to remember him by before starting a five-day suspension at Santa Anita.

Shoemaker, a past national jockey champion, rode both ends of Saturday's double stakes events. He guided Najin to a 2 1/2 length victory over Bold Corporal in the $64,390 California Breeders' championship and then reined Olden Times to a 4 1/2 length triumph over Spy Flight in the $28,150 Malibu Stakes.

TAPERS MOVE FRANCHISE WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Tapers of the American Basketball League have transferred their franchise to Comack, N.Y., and will play their first game at the Commack Arena on or about Jan. 16.

The shift of the club to the New York area was brought about because of poor attendance in Washington, D.C.

75,504 Fans To See Dallas Bowl Battle

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Underdog Texas, which hasn't won a bowl game in 10 seasons, and Mississippi, which has won the last five times out, meet today in the 26th annual Cotton Bowl football classic with Ole Miss a three-point favorite.

Crisp upper-40 degree temperatures and fair skies favored the sellout crowd of 75,504 fans as well as the wide-open, freescoring machinery the Southwest and Southeastern conference rivals put on the field.

Coach Johnny Vaught's Ole Miss Rebels started their current post-season victory string on this same Cotton Bowl turf in 1956 with a 14-13 victory over Texas Christian. Today's contest figured to be just about that close with perhaps a few more touchdowns thrown in for good measure.

Included in the Mississippi week," said Starr. "I decided I'd go with him every chance I could. He sure was great."

The victory was doubly sweet for Lombardi, the former Giant assistant who came to Green Bay in 1959 after the Packers had suffered through a miserable 1-10-1 record in 1957.

Howe Sets New Mark In Hockey

By United Press International Gordie Howe celebrated New Year's Eve in the ideal manner for a hockey player — by scoring the 13th "hat trick" of his National Hockey League career.

Howe's performance paced the Detroit Red Wings to a 4-2 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday night, while the Boston Bruins beat the New York Rangers, 7-4, in the only other game played.

The three goals by Howe gave the veteran right wing a total of 18 for the season, snapped a six-game winless streak for the Red Wings and boosted them into a fourth place tie with the idle Chicago Black Hawks.

The Bruins broke their game with the Rangers wide open by ramming home three goals within two minutes and 40 seconds of the second period and then adding two more in the same stanza to take a 6-3 lead.

Houston Looms As Nerve Center Of Space Tests

HOUSTON (UPI)—The year 1962 will see the beginning of some $30 million in construction that will physically start Houston on the road to becoming the nerve center of this country's man-on-the-moon project.

The enormity of converting a 1500-acre cow pasture into a complex manned spacecraft center employing some 50000 scientists and workers of all sorts is almost beyond comprehension.

But officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration already are in the middle of the project, and from this point on, they indicate that progress should be visible almost daily.

It was only last Sept. 19th at NASA announced in Washington that it had selected a site south-east of Houston, near Clear Lake, for its manned spacecraft center.

That was the go-ahead signal for a crash program put into operation by President Kennedy to get this nation into outer space, and to land a three-man vehicle on the moon and return it before 1970.

The significance of locating the spacecraft center here to Houston, the Gulf Coast area and the entire state still has not been fully realized by many.

The project was hailed as the greatest single asset to the area economy since the Houston Ship Channel was completed in 1917. It will pour literally millions of dollars and thousands of new residents into the area in a continuous stream until the project reaches its expected peak toward the end of 1964.

The Houston spacecraft center primarily will be responsible for designing, developing, evaluating and testing spacecraft for the Apollo project—or the man-on-the-moon vehicle. It also will be responsible for associated equipment and systems, and for the training of Apollo astronauts who will be picked for the moon flights and other space missions.

Actually, NASA barely has a toe-hold in Houston at this time. But site manager Martin Byrnes already has established a temporary office with about 90 employees in the city, and is in the midst of a program that will see big expansions in the coming months.

"Our most urgent current assignment is the establishment of interim facilities here into which we can grow from a size which is now about 530 at Langley Field, Va., to 1300 here by the end of June, 1962, and probably to about 2700 by the end of the following June," Byrnes said.

The Gene Harlan family visited over the holidays with Mrs. Harlan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hease in Seminole, Oklahoma. On their return home they visited Mr. Harlan's uncle, Bryan Kible, in Oklahoma City.

Club Boss Holds Job For Waiter Despite Jailing

HOUSTON (UPI)—A 46-year-old waiter at the fashionable Cork Club who had his boss, Anthony Fertitta, jailed for aggravated assault, still has a job if he wants to return to it.

Fertitta, once closely connected with the Maceo gambling and night club empire in Galveston, was freed in $400 bond and returned to the Cork Club Tuesday night.

"I've got no animosity towards anyone," Fertitta said today. "His name is still on the payroll," he added in reference to the waiter, Steve Zeles, 46.

Zeles, who is in St. Joseph's Hospital, filed the charges Tuesday. He said Fertitta beat and kicked him at the Cork Club shortly after midnight Dec. 17, the night of the annual wild game dinner put on by Cork Club owner Glenn McCarthy.

When he was booked into city jail late Tuesday Fertitta said, "I have no idea what this is about. There was no ruckus of any kind at the Cork Club that I know about."

From his hospital bed, Zeles said Fertitta had knocked him down with his fists and then beat and kicked him. He said his ribs were hurt, four teeth loosened and he was beat until blood ran from his mouth.

SEISMIC APPROACH TO NUCLEAR RESEARCH — As part of the Atomic Energy Commission's Plowshare program for peaceful use of nuclear explosives, a Cities Service seismic crew in Gaines County, West Texas, made this 100-foot seismic record of the program's first underground nuclear explosion December 10. The record covers the 120-second period during and after the explosion. It indicates "good energy pickup" from what is believed to be the Mohole region below the continental layer. The record, plus others made by industry and research groups, will be used in an attempt to identify underground nuclear explosions and differentiate between explosions and naturally-occurring earthquakes. Members of Cities Service's seismic section are shown here examining the record.

Helium Plant Starts Operation In Arizona

NAVAJO, ARIZ. — The nation's first privately owned helium processing plant selling primarily to the commercial market was dedicated recently by Kerr-McGee Oil Industries, Inc., of Oklahoma City. The plant is located near the Pinta Dome field at Navajo, Arizona (Apache County).

Officiating at the ceremony were: C. H. Brady, manager of Kerr-McGee's gas processing department, Okla. City; Cliff Wise, superintendent of the helium plant; Martin T. Bennett of Washington, D. C.; W. W. "Red" Malone, president, and Raymond Lopp, in charge of arrangements, for Holbrook (Ariz) Chamber of Commerce; and Robert Howard, member of the Arizona Oil and Gas Conservation Commission.

Following the dedication, guests were taken on a tour of the helium processing facilities. Technologists from Kerr-McGee explained the major steps involved in processing the helium into a high quality product ready to be delivered to the ultimate consumer.

In the Pinta Dome field, Kerr-McGee owns 90 per cent interest in 12,400 acres which cover 95 per cent of the helium-bearing structure in the field. The company also owns 90 per cent interest in the processing plant that it built and put into production in December 1961. The other 10 per cent of the plant and acreage is owned by Bennett, a consulting engineer.

Natural gas reserves in the Pinta Dome field are estimated at 7.5 billion cubic feet. Of the gas, 8 per cent is helium, 90 per cent nitrogen and 2 per cent other gases.

Construction of the helium processing plant was started by Kerr-McGee in August 1961 and went into production in December. It is capable of processing 2.5 million cubic feet of helium bearing gas a day with a daily yield of approximately 200,000 cubic feet of pure helium.

The natural gas mixture is piped from six producing wells to the helium processing plant where the helium is separated by application of refrigeration and pressure. By means of a purification unit the helium is upgraded to a 99.995 per cent pure quality product. It is stored in high pressure vessels at the plant site to await delivery to market.

Kerr-McGee's customers are distributors who buy the product in bulk quantities and resell it in smaller volumes. The Kerr-McGee helium is sold primarily to distributors on the West Coast.

Industrial Mart Average Boost Declared Sure

NEW YORK (UPI) — On the basis of historical probabilities since 1919, the industrial average will now have to reach new record highs before a major decline can be technically indicated, James F. Hughes concludes.

The Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath analyst says, however, that while new highs in the industrial average "are virtually guaranteed," they won't mean much from a long-range viewpoint unless they are confirmed by increased market breadth.

Thomson & McKinnon says while some market uncertainty has been created by renewed unrest in the Congo and tension in India and Dutch New Guinea, basic confidence of the investor remains. With tax selling pressure disappearing, the market seems to be in a technical position to rally, the firm feels.

Although some skepticism is apparent in certain quarters as a result of the recent foreign news, the general market appears to lack nothing so much right now as a sudden new bullish incentive, or more vigorous leadership supplied by some of the major groups, according to Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co.

In any event, says Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co., "we would look for a sizable year-end rally and despite the strong overhead barrier of the November and December highs, we feel that these historic peak levels will be tested again before long."

Cooler Summer Days And Warmer Winters Are Expected For U.S.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — We can look forward to a warmer winter and cooler summer in most of the continental United States for 1962, says Dr. Charles G. Abbot, 89, former head of the Smithsonian Institution.

The venerable scientist goes even farther than that. He says summers will be cooler and winters warmer for the next five years.

This is no woolly-bear caterpillar prediction based on thickness or sparseness of the crawler's coat. Abbot bases his forecast on what he calls "a hidden family of harmonic regular periods that exists in weather."

To discover this family, Abbot — presently a research associate of the Smithsonian — analyzed temperature recordings from 1870 to the present in 10 major U.S. cities.

After computing the average monthly temperature for each of these cities, Abbot applied his harmonic cycle theory to predict future temperatures. These are measured in terms of deviations from the average.

His latest paper on the subject, "A Long-Range Temperature Forecast," has just been published by the Smithsonian.

The scientist's forecast in nine of the 10 cities — New York, Washington, Atlanta, St. Paul, Detroit, St. Louis, Omaha, Abilene, Tex., and Los Angeles — will be welcome to those who beef about weather extremes regardless of the season. The general trend in these cities is for a definite lessening of the extremes over the five-year period.

The sole exception is Salt Lake City, where the prediction is colder winters and hotter summers.

The predicted temperature drop — or rise — however, is generally less than three degrees in each case.

Abbot doesn't claim to hit the nail on the head every tie. He points out that his method is chiefly valuable in predicting weather extremes. "The ability to anticipate weather of unusual kinds is what makes a forecast financially valuable," he adds.

He checks his results by "back-casting" five years into the past without peeking at actual weather records. The correlation, between calculation, and actuality is pretty high.

The directions of predicted changes check out better than 75 per cent of the time. In most of these cases, though, he calculated rise or fall averages about a degree off the recorded temperature.

In 1962 Abbot sees a winter warm front stretching from the East coast across the north of the country and down the Pacific coast. For the South-central and Mountain states, he predicts both a colder winter and hotter summer.

His forecast calls for a cooler summer throughout the country, except for small stretches in the South, Midwest and Rocky Mountain regions.

"A Long-Range Temperature Forecast" has not been greeted with great enthusiasm on the part of Washington meteorologists. One complaint is that Abbot's 10 cities are not a true random sample.

"He's limiting himself to those cities that have temperature records as far back as 1870," says a critic.

The chief gripe, however, is with Abbot's attempt to validate his methods by successful "back-casting." "That's kind of like Monday morning quarterbacking, isn't it?" asks one scientist.

Scoffa another: "Race horse handicappers don't get rich touting the results of last year's races."

Nevertheless, there's still that happy forecast. And most folks will be anxious to give Abbot the benefit of the doubt.

Wooten-Barnett Say Nuptial Vows

LEFORS (Sp) — Mrs. Katie Wooten and Charlie Barnett were united in marriage on Dec. 24 in the Lefors Assembly of God Church with the Rev. Pete Roberts officiating for the single-ring service.

Mrs. G. W. Games provided the traditional wedding music and served as accompanist for Wesley Wooten and Mrs. Glen Fisher, children of the bride, as they sang "I Love You Truly" and "Whither Thou Goest."

The bride, given in marriage by her son, Wesley Wooten of Long Beach, Calif., wore a blue dress with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Attendants for the couple were Mrs. Glen Fisher, daughter of the bride and Carl Barnett, bridegroom's son.

Rickey James Wooten, bride's grandson, was ringbearer.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bridegroom.

The serving table was appointed in blue overlaid with a white crocheted cloth centered with a white and blue net Christmas tree. Mrs. Roy Wooten Jr. and Mrs. Carl Barnett presided at the punch and cake service.

For travel, Mrs. Barnett wore a black and white dress, black accessories and a white carnation corsage. Upon their return, they will make their home at 502 E. S.

Mr. Barnett is retired from the Coltex Company. Approximately 50 friends and relatives of the couple attended the wedding and reception.

Miss Greene Feted With Bridal Party

Miss Nellie Beth Greene, bride-elect of Stanley McDonough, was honored with a bridal shower on Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. T. J. Worrell, 1707 Christine with Mrs. W. S. Marsh, Homer Taylor, R. E. Montgomery, Al Prigmore, H. B. Taylor, D. A. Caldwell, Skeet Roberts and W. F. Taylor as co-hostesses.

Forming the receiving line were the honoree; her mother, Mrs. W. A. Greene; the bridegroom-elect's mother, Mrs. Lewis McDonough; the honoree's grandmother, Mrs. L. H. Greene. The honoree was presented with a white carnation corsage showered with Royal Blue ribbon; the mothers and grandmother's corsages were fashioned from white carnations.

Mrs. Jim Greene was guest registrar. Miss Lynn Taylor, at the piano, provided background music during the reception.

The refreshment table was appointed with a white Italian drawn-work cloth centered with an arrangement of white carnations and mums in a silver and crystal epergne with white tapers.

Angel Logs and spiced tea were served by Miss Sue Greene and Mrs. W. H. Greene. Approximately 100 guests attended or sent gifts.

Country Neighbors With Mrs. Blackwell

GROOM (Sp) — The Country Neighbors Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Guy Blackwell recently for a holiday party and gift exchange. During a brief business meeting conducted by Mrs. George Lotta, it was voted to continue the secret pals for another year. Games and refreshments comprised the afternoon.

Attending were a guest, Mrs. Frank Curry; and members Mrs. John Brooks, Mary Kuehler, Glynn D. Harrell, George Latta, Robert Kuehler, Joe Britten, John Homer, Thelma Pool, J. A. Quirk, R. A. Snyder, Charlie Hermesmyer, Jim Hermesmyer, Dan Ashford and Guy Blackwell.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Guy Blackwell, Charlie Hermesmyer, Jim Hermesmyer, John Homer and Mary Kuehler.

Entre Nous Club With Mrs. Tucker

GROOM (Sp) — The Entre Nous Needle Club met in the home of Mrs. Rudolph Tucker recently for a holiday party and gift exchange.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. C. A. Morrow, Roy Ritter, Benton Moreman, Mary Kuehler, Margie Emery E. R. Hess, C. L. Ludwig, Van Earl Steed, Eulice Monroe, Truett Fields, R. T. Foster, Phil Farley and the hostess, Mrs. Tucker.

Marriages Die For Lack Of Nourishment

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am so starved for a kind word and a little affection that I don't dare let a salesman in the house any more. I have been married to a machine for 18 years. He has no feeling for me whatsoever, I am treated like a housekeeper. No one would believe it, because to outsiders we look like the ideal couple. He is a hard worker, and I know he doesn't have anyone else because he comes right home after work and sits here watching television and reading the paper. I almost wish he would hit me or something just to let me know he is around, are there other women in the world with this problem? If there are, I wish they would let me know how they have kept from going crazy.

NEGLECTED

DEAR NEGLECTED: According to my mail there are many women who share your problem. They don't go crazy — they become neurotic instead. Many marriages dry up and die for lack of nourishment, and that is what happened to yours. Revive some of that come-hither charm you used 18 years ago to hook him. He's probably just as hungry for "a kind word and a little affection" as you are.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle an argument? Do you drink or smoke? Have you ever? If not, why not?

MEMPHIS TEEN-AGER: I neither smoke nor drink — and never have. I refrained at first to please my parents. I never took up the habits later because I have a teen-aged son and a teen-aged daughter, and I know that example is not only the best teacher, it is the ONLY teacher.

APOLOGIES to the Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club: In the Sunday issue, there was a picture lay-out and story about their formal presentation ball. The first paragraph was correct in that it stated that the Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club had presented its 12 pledges for the 1951 rush season at a "Southern Dreams Ball" in the Coronado Inn — but from then on the story referred to another girls' social club. Our apologies. Miss Sandra Wheelchel is president of the Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club. Miss Linda Andis, Sigma Delta Sub Deb Best — for 1950, presented the traditional one dozen red roses at the 1951 Best Pledge, Miss Sharon Haught — Doris E. Wilson, woman's page editor.

DEAR ABBY: I don't agree with you at all when you say it's WRONG for a wife to help herself to money from her husband's pants pockets while he sleeps. If that's the only way she can get it, I say more power to her. It's as much hers as it is his.

"DONE IT FOR YEARS" DEAR "DONE IT": If a man doesn't give his wife enough money to run the house and feed the family, he's a dirty so and so. And if his wife wants to clobber him with a frying pan while he's awake it's all right with me. But to fleece him while he sleeps is just plain WRONG.

Are things rugged? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 3365 Beverly Hills, Calif., and don't forget a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Resolved: To Be More Beautiful And Charming In The New Year

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
After the holidays, things settle down on an even keel in both home and office. This is a fortunate thing for most of us. Children would love Christmas — 365 days a year, but adults will settle for something less.

And because there is a period of quiet, it's the best time to decide what you want to achieve in the coming year. For many women, this is the spur to a diet, to exercise, to better grooming and therefore, a more cheerful outlook. Somehow, it no longer seems possible to let things slide; action seems essential.

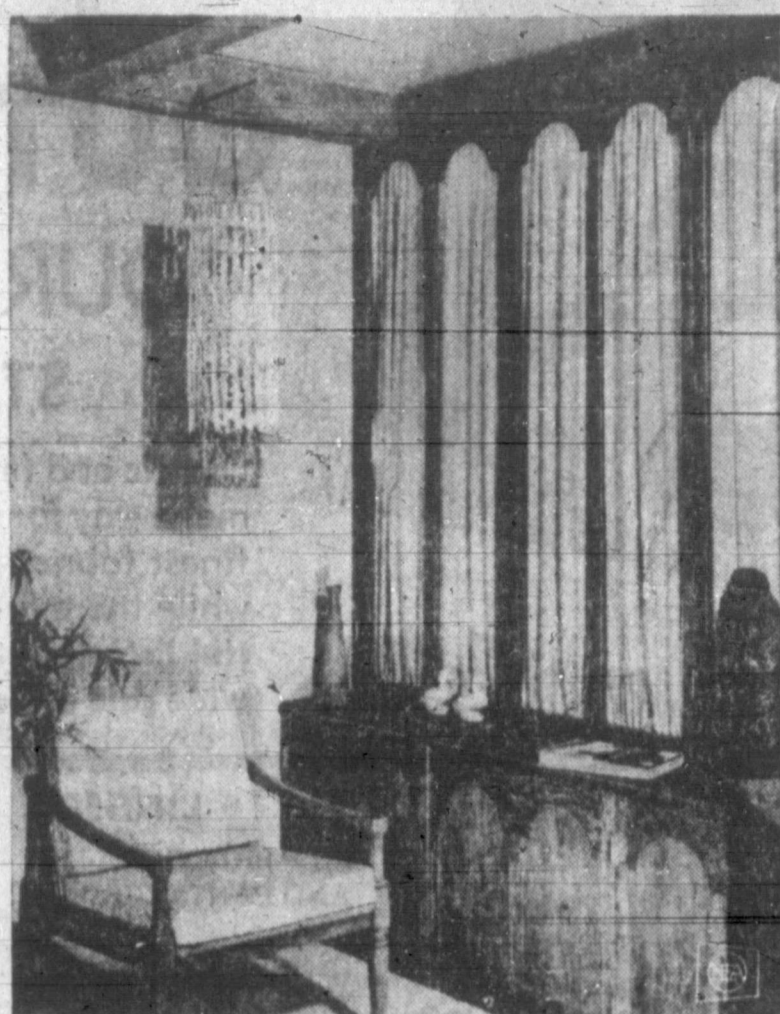

The best method is to make a list of the things you really want to do. (You won't get through all of them, but don't let this worry you.) Your list might include weight loss, hair care plan, more rest, daily exercise, spot reducing, and so on.

Once you've made the list, don't discuss it with anyone. For in discussion, your will power can evaporate. Keep the list in a drawer and check it daily to make sure you're following your program. You're bound to achieve some results.

GUARD YOUR COMPLEXION — During the winter, it's important to keep a moisturizer on your skin, under your make-up, all day long. The best way to do this is to apply it very lightly after washing in the morning. Give it 10 or 15 minutes to penetrate your skin before proceeding with your make-up. (Have your coffee in the meantime, or assemble the clothes you intend to wear that day.)

SCARF MAGIC — A girl's best protection against make-up film on dress and coat collars is a wardrobe of scarves. Nothing is as unsightly as a ring of make-up clearly visible on a coat collar.
But a series of pretty scarves in chiffon, silk and satin will provide the solution.
Have them in lovely, light colors as an antidote to the somber grayness of winter, and have them cleaned often, for they will pick up soil easily.
Learn to tie them in butterfly bows or catch them up with pretty, glittery pins. You'll not only protect your clothing; you'll add a touch of flattery for yourself.

Imaginative Approach To Window Treatment

Unattractive apartment windows are concealed behind this handsome wood-stained facade which resembles a costly breakfast. This or similar architectural treatment of window wall is not as expensive as it appears. Chandelier over the chair is made from a stovepipe perforated by acetylene torch and painted silver.

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Window problems can happen anywhere but the city's small apartment seems a particularly prone to them. Windows that look out on a dismal alley or next door building are little comfort. City soot and grime fly in when windows are open and sift in when they are closed, streaking and deteriorating fabrics. The glass itself is often a smeary reproach to the housekeeper.

Recalling my years as an apartment dweller, when I fought an unsuccessful battle to keep tall, narrow Victorian windows clean and curtained, I was delighted to accept an invitation to see how a more imaginative person had dealt with apartment windows.

Jack Denst, a talented young Chicago designer of wall coverings, blocked out three windows on a wall in his tiny one-room apartment with an arched facade he designed himself. This facade looks like a costly breakfast, except that it has no back and no floor. It is sized to fit snugly from wall to wall (approximately 12 feet) and from floor to ceiling.

Made of white pine, stained walnut and waxed to a soft sheen, the facade combines tall arched open panels above with solid front cabinet doors below. The open panels are filled in with washable cotton shirred onto rods. A substantial amount of storage space is provided back of the low cabinet doors.

Important also to the apartment dweller is that such a built-to-measure facade is not permanently installed. It is in sections and could be dismantled and moved to a new location.

An interesting side benefit is that the strong vertical lines and the arched design of the facade actually make the apartment look larger than it did before it gave up about 18 inches of space. This also emphasizes Denst's conviction that in a small room a few larger pieces are more space-making than many small-scaled items.

Architectural treatments of this type are a custom-made proposition because dimensions must be sized to individual measurements. But Denst did point out that designers of such window or wall camouflages have a speciality service available in some larger cities. And there is nothing to prevent one from hunting up a good carpenter to translate your own design.

Mrs. McIntire Bridge Hostess

CANADIAN (Sp) — Mrs. Bill McIntire of Pampa entertained the Finesse Club at a dessert bridge recently at her home.

Present were Mrs. Dick H. Barton, Jim Waterfield, Glen Bill Walker, Allen Webb, John McMordie, Boyd Hull and one guest Mrs. Don Morrison.

High score for the afternoon of bridge was tallied by Mrs. Walker, second high by Mrs. Waterfield and low by Mrs. McMordie. Christmas gifts were exchanged.

Mine Union Held Unfit To Bargain For Any Employees

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A subversive Activities Control Board examiner has recommended that the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers be declared "a Communist-infiltrated organization" and ineligible to bargain for any employees.

The next step is for the five-member board to consider the recommendation. The board will hear oral arguments before issuing a final order, which in turn can be appealed to the courts.

The examiner's recommendation was announced today by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. He said the action against the union, which has headquarters in Denver, began on July 28, 1955.

A member of the board, Francis A. Cherry, sat as an examiner in the case. He said the record convinced him that the union "is substantially directed, dominated or controlled by individuals who are (or have been) actively engaged in giving support to the Communist party of the United States."

The union was expelled several years ago by the AFL-CIO.

In one of 238 separate findings, Cherry said "the aid and support flowing to the Communist party from (the union) and its controlling leadership has been real, substantial and significant."

Through the union, Cherry said, "the Communist party has acquired and will continue to have a dependable foothold in the labor movement in the United States."

Cherry heard evidence from Feb. 25, 1957 to May 17, 1961. Nearly 150 witnesses took the stand and more than 300 exhibits were introduced. The transcript totaled 9,721 pages.

The Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950 established the designations "communist-action" and "Communist front." In 1954 the act was amended to add the designation "Communist-infiltrated."

This is the first case to be based on this last designation. The Justice Department filed a petition in 1955 against the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America but it was later dismissed.

The mine workers' union claims a membership of between 50,000 and 60,000.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

"What the world is seeing at the moment is a perfect example of the kind of a nationalist a neutral can turn into when scratched."

It was the Sydney, Australia, Sun speaking editorially of the Indian attack on Goa and two other tiny Portuguese enclaves on the west coast of India.

It was a reaction which must have been shared by many witnessing the conflict between Jawaharlal Nehru, the philosopher of world peace, and Neru, the prime minister of India hurling massive military strength against three little territories whose value seemed scarcely worth the bother.

Certainly, his military venture against the small and ancient Portuguese holding on the Indian subcontinent seemed out of accord with his own words in Mexico City scarcely a month ago.

There, speaking to Mexico City councilmen at the municipal palace, he said:

"War cannot solve any problem... (I hope that) men will adjust their minds to the idea of peace."

But two weeks later, back in his own favorite forum before the Indian parliament in New Delhi, he expressed his own inner conflict.

"I am free to confess to this house," he said, "that my soul reacts against war anywhere. That is the training I received throughout my life, and I cannot easily get rid of it at the age of 72."

But there had been other examples of the conflict between Nehru, the philosopher of peace, and Nehru, the Indian nationalist.

There has been his continuing refusal to permit a plebiscite in Kashmir whose predominately Moslem population almost certainly would vote to join neighboring Pakistan if given free self-determination.

This, despite his earlier promises to the United Nations that such a plebiscite would be held.

There has been his tough action against home-grown Communists even as he promoted his five principles of co-existence with Red China.

An example was his take-over in 1959 of the administration of the state of Kerala after a Communist election victory there and a subsequent period of chaotic Communist rule.

The quarrel between India and Portugal over Goa has been festering for 15 years. Repeatedly Nehru has called for the Portuguese to get out and repeatedly he has said their departure would be accomplished by peaceful means.

clearer market picture nearing, broker believes

Clearer Market Picture Nearing, Broker Believes

NEW YORK (UPI)—The market picture will become clearer after the first of the year when the stock indexes begin to reflect more normal conditions, according to Harris, Upham & Co.

The technical picture currently is not as good as it might be, the firm points out, but window dressing by institutions and the presence of tax selling at the year-end make it unwise to draw definite conclusions.

Historically, the statistical record of the past 10 years shows that chances are 10 to 1 for a market advance during December, Harris-Upham notes.

"However, as we move into the new year the ratio falls with a 2.3 to 1 chance for an advance in January down to 0.7 to 1 or less than an even probability of an upward move in February."

Current business momentum should carry over until the middle of 1962, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. But in the latter part of next year, a slackening of economic activity may develop, the firm adds.

"Any curtailment at that time should not be serious enough to prevent 1962 as a whole from going down as one of the United States' more prosperous years."

It is said there are about 3,000 different kinds of lizard.

Kansas is known as the "wheat state."

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

The Russian Constitution

FIRST OF A SERIES—

We are beginning today a series of editorials on the subject of the Russian constitution. There is so much confusion in this area of thought that we deem it advisable to cover certain of the more important aspects of the Russian system of government for the further understanding and enlightenment of our readers.

We believe that people tend to fear that which they do not understand, but that when they understand they can properly prepare themselves to meet almost any threat.

The Russian constitution came into existence in 1933 under the leadership of Lenin. It has been amended repeatedly from that day forward. It took as its central theme the Marxist dogma: "From each according to his ability; to each according to his need."

Perhaps the most significant amendment ever made occurred in 1936 after Stalin had gained power. Stalin amended this central doctrine to read: "From each according to his ability; to each according to his WORK," thereby officially recognizing that rewards had to be provided for effort rather than on the basis of charity. From that day forward, Russia has more and more drifted away from socialism and has now a STATE CAPITALIST IMPERIALISTIC government.

Not long ago we obtained a copy of the Russian constitution. It was published in English in the Foreign Language Publishing House in Moscow, in 1937. Inserted in our copy is a flyer from the Russian Embassy in Washington containing amendments as brought up to date December 25, 1950. Any changes in the constitution from that date forward, if any, are unknown to us.

Our copy is set in large type and easy to read. It has more than 83 numbered pages. The form of this constitution is the same form employed by the charter of the United Nations. That is to say, the constitution is divided into chapters, and each chapter into articles which are numbered consecutively from beginning to end. There are thirteen chapters and there are 146 articles.

Meaning Of 'Soviet'

SECOND OF A SERIES—

We will by-pass the table of contents of the Russian constitution and go directly to Chapter I. This is entitled: "The Social Structure." It is important and we will spend some time with it.

"Article 1. The Union of Soviets of Working People's Deputies, which grew and became strong as a result of the overthrow of the power of the landlords and capitalists and the conquest of the dictatorship of the proletariat.

"Article 2. All power in the U.S.S.R. belongs to the working people of town and country as represented by the Soviets of Working People's Deputies."

The term "Soviets" is an important word in these articles and in the entire constitution of the Russians. It has a unique meaning, but for our comprehension of it we may use the word "group" as a possible synonym. This provides one of the basic keys for our understanding.

The entire Russian system is a system of political GROUPS. This nation is TOTALLY organized along political lines. Individuals, as much as possible, have been ruled out of the Russian equation. In Russia you are a member of a group, possibly more than one group, or you have virtually no existence at all.

The fly-leaf, in bold red type, carries the slogan made popular by Karl Marx at the conclusion of his "Communist Manifesto": "WORKERS OF ALL COUNTRIES, UNITE!"

By this, even the dullest of us can gather that the Russian constitution is an effort to put into practice the ideas set forth by Marx in his manifesto. In other words, the manifesto was an "inspirational" document intended to inspire just the kind of government Russia has established. At least, this is what we are supposed to believe.

The Russian constitution is the embodiment of that "inspiration." The title page says: "Constitution (fundamental law) of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics." This in large red capitals. Then, in smaller black type: "As amended and added to at the seventh session of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R., fourth convocation."

On the next page is the great seal of Russia. It is reminiscent of the seal of the United Nations charter. There is a world globe in the center, surmounted by the hammer and sickle. It is bracketed by curved shocks of wheat on either side, which are swathed in a Russian scroll, the writing of which is unintelligible to us since we do not know the Russian alphabet. At the top is a red star.

Beneath the globe are slanted rays, presumably from a rising (it could be a setting) sun. Article 143 describes this seal. "The arms of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics are a sickle and hammer against a globe depicted in the rays of the sun and surrounded by ears of grain, with the inscription, 'Workers of All Countries, Unite,' in the language of the Union Republics. At the top of the arms is a five-pointed star."

On the following page is a picture of the Russian flag. Article 44 describes it. "The state flag of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is of red cloth with the sickle and hammer depicted in gold in the upper corner near the staff and above them a five-pointed star bordered in gold. The ratio of the width to the length is 1:2."

We are dealing with TOTAL political activity. And we are dealing on an organized group basis. Power is another key word. The entire objective of the Russian government is an effort to mesh all groups into an active-political structure.

There are visible three classes of persons at the outset. The workers form one class; the peasants form a second class. The unnamed but inferentially necessary third class is that of the professional politician.

Power is supposed to reside in the organized groups of workers and peasants but the power is confided to the professional politician (in theory, at least) are to act for the workers and peasants.

In theory, there are no landlords and no capitalists. The so-called "classless" society of Russia is composed of three classes as outlined.

Now let us continue. "Article 4. The economic foundation of the U.S.S.R. is the socialist system of economy and the socialist ownership of the instruments and means of production, firmly established as a result of the liquidation of the capitalist system of economy, the abolition of private ownership of the instruments and means of production, and the elimination of the exploitation of man by man." This is a most meaningful article. It proclaims the base of the Russian economy as being socialist in character. Its means will be more grasped as we proceed. It is im-

TRUTH-FORUM

With Ed Delaney

John Q. Citizen and his wife should join with others of their kind and have a lobby in Washington to fight against periodic gouges into their pocketbooks by vote hungry politicians. A hint of another imposition on the poor taxpayer was revealed in the dying days of the last session of Congress by Sen. Mike Mansfield Democrat of Montana. The Congress, he said, should grant President Kennedy's request next year for higher postal rates to wipe out what Mansfield calls "the postal deficit." But Congress has shown utter inconsistency and insincerity in that lament over what they term a "postal deficit" and on the contrary displayed callous disregard for the interest of their constituents who sent them to Washington.

On the last day of the first session of this 77th Congress they rammed through a bill, rightly called a "junk mail franking privilege" by the terms of which they may flood the country with tons of their own political campaign material, delivered without charge to themselves but adding to the operating costs of the postal department.

They voted themselves the privilege of dumping bales and bales of political piffle, otherwise known as "junk mail" into the postal hopper at Washington or in their own home city, all being addressed to "Occupant." The same kind of junk advertising material that presently clutters up your mail box and waste basket. The members of Congress are not even put to the effort and expense of acquiring mailing lists. They may just toss the material into the postal chutes addressed to "Occupant" of the apartment houses, office buildings, homes and farms. This junk mail is more or less political campaign material. It is solely for the benefit of the senator or representative and will be delivered at the expense of the taxpayers. A fair estimate of this additional burden on the postal system is put at a million and a half dollars a year, depending on how much the individual member of Congress uses the privilege. It could well be double that figure.

All members of the House did not vote for that aid to their political campaigns. Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio who opposed it said the majority party rammed the bill through on the last day of the session and insisted there be no "roll call votes." He called it a flagrant abuse of the franking privilege.

The federal government itself is the greatest user of the mails, sending out tons of it daily—for free. The postal system loses tens of millions annually in the handling of second class matter, such as the magazines of Time-Life-Fortune, the Saturday Evening Post and similar publications. Why should the taxpayers pay the cost of delivering their slick-paper publications? Because they are a "sleek." They have a powerful lobby in Washington to fight any rise in cost to them. So Congress will saddle more of the burden on the poor, unorganized taxpayer. He, who can least afford it, will have to pay 5 cents for a letter instead of four. Perhaps enough of them as individuals might write their representatives in Congress saying: "If the cost of the letter rate is raised, it will cost you my vote." They understand that kind of language.

Exploitation, we will discover, relates to employment. And Russia has eliminated (or, more properly, attempted to eliminate) the private person as an employer. The government is the only employer.

Hence, were we to be precise, we would suggest that in eliminating "exploitation of man by man," Russia has supplanted this with exploitation of man by the state. This follows as the only legal employer in Russia is the state.

To the socialist, this is a highly desirable condition of affairs. He does not wish to be hired by private persons, as he distrusts private persons. But he does wish to be employed by the state, which he does trust. Thus, few doctrinaire socialists would say that the state can exploit. They would argue that when the state employs, exploitation ceases.

The history of Russian economic development demonstrates conclusively the contrary. There is, in fact, nothing more so skillful as an exploiter of humanity as the state. (continued tomorrow)

Attorney General
Preparing Anti-Trust Action Against GM—Case to Be Filed by February

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Robert Kennedy has a New Year "greeting" for General Motors Corporation even more jarring than his Christmas "gift" to General Electric.

It's an anti-trust prosecution designed to force giant GM to divest all but one of its five passenger car departments.

The case will be filed before the 26-year old Justice Department head starts on his goodwill tour early in February. The anti-monopoly suit will be his largest since taking office — and likely will continue to hold that record for some time.

In attempting to forcibly split up General Motors on monopoly grounds, Kennedy will be following through on a Republican recommendation.

Robert Bicks, crusading young chief of the anti-trust division in the Eisenhower administration, vigorously urged such action after several years of investigation and preparation.

But former Attorney General William Rogers, after lengthy deliberation, left the highly explosive issue on the desk of his Democratic successor.

It has taken Kennedy a year to make up his mind to tackle GM. This decision was reached after an intensive study of his own, and further careful investigation by the anti-trust division headed by Les Leovinger, Bicks' successor.

Throughout this long scrutiny, Kennedy never discussed the dynamic-loaded case at a Cabinet meeting, or with individual members of the Cabinet.

Reason is Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, former head of Ford Motor Co.

The Attorney General did talk the matter over with his older brother, the President. They agreed on one thing: The decision would be up to the Justice Department chief.

Bicks' militant recommendation for a massive monopoly suit against General Motors was based on four major contentions:

(1) Numerous complaints from car dealers and others throughout the country, headed by GM's leading competitors; (2) an extensive investigation by Senator Estes Kefauver, D. Tenn., and a blistering report by his committee; (3) A federal grand jury probe that has been in progress in New York for two years; (4) A three-year long inquiry by the anti-trust division.

Other Federal agencies also were asked to contribute, but the office of education was no help. It notified the internal Security Division it had no information on the subject. . . . Red China is trying to exchange scientific and technical information with the U.S. Despite the lack of diplomatic relations between the two countries, and Peiping's daily diatribes against the U.S. (the Reds' Institute of Scientific and Technical Information has sent to Washington a catalog of publications available for exchange. This is the first time in years the Communists have put out such a feeler. . . . More than 75 per cent of Cuba's trade is now with Iron Curtain countries. Before Castro came into power, Cuba did virtually no business with the Reds. But in the past year, Castro has greatly increased this dependence on the Soviet Bloc. Principal non-communist lands still doing business with the Cuban dictator are Canada, Britain, the Netherlands, United Arab Republic and Morocco.

POPULAR FELLOW — President Arturo Frondizi invited President Kennedy to visit Argentina in March or April — that country's fall. Kennedy promised to give the proposal "serious consideration." . . . This is the latest of a number of invitations to make official trips to Latin American countries. They include Mexico, Panama, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Peru, and Chile. . . . Vice President Johnson, who did much foreign traveling in 1961, is likely to do even more this year. In addition to the Texan, like the President, plans to campaign throughout the country, in the congressional and state elections.

The Nation's Press

THE UNPAID U.N.

(The Wall Street Journal)

There is something a little pathetic about the United Nations' planned bond issue. In its own way, this attempt to raise $200 million tells a good deal about the sad state of the organization's political as well as financial affairs.

The trouble, of course, is that a lot of members just won't pay their dues. Some are delinquent in general; others refuse to pay for specific operations, notably policing the Egypt-Israel border and waging war in the Congo. The unpaid assessments total nearly $104 million — member, the Soviet Union, owes the lion's share.

One might suppose a reasonable approach would be to require the members to pay up or get out, but instead the UN wants to dodge the issue by peddling bonds. Already the U.N. Government, in the grand tradition of making up the deficiencies of others, is considering buying as much as $100 million of the stuff. Somehow we think there must be better things Uncle Sam could do with taxpayer's money.

For the UN's financial "crisis" tells, in a fashion more down to earth than political orations, the story of rivalries and disunity that have been its lot from the beginning. And when a great many people are no longer willing to pay their club dues, it's time to wonder about the club's future.

THE MARXIAN CLASS CONFLICT DOCTRINE

DR. LUDWIG VON MISES
Visiting Professor of Economics
New York University

The most popular of the Marxian teachings is the doctrine of the irreconcilable conflict of social classes.

In the precapitalistic age the characteristic mark of society's organization was status. In the status or caste society there prevail legal differences among individuals. The individual's station in life is fixed by his status. He inherits at birth his caste membership from his parents and his position in life is rigidly determined by the laws and customs that assign to each member of his rank definite privileges and duties and definite disabilities. Exceptional good or bad luck may in some rare cases elevate an individual into a higher rank or debase him into a lower rank. But as a rule, the conditions of the individual members of a definite order or rank can improve or deteriorate only with a change in the conditions of the whole membership. The individual is primarily not a citizen of a nation; he is a member of an estate (Stand in German, état in French).

This system that in England had already been substantially tempered and humanized in the Middle Ages is incompatible with the capitalist methods of the market economy. It was finally abolished in the countries of the European continent by the French Revolution and by the revolutions and reforms which the French Revolution called forth. Its last vestiges in the capitalist part of the world disappeared when slavery was step by step abolished in the Americas and in the overseas colonies of the European powers.

In the status society there prevails on the one hand a solidarity of the interests of all members of the same caste and on the other hand an irreconcilable conflict of interests between the members of different castes. All slaves, for instance, are united in having a stake in the abolition of slavery while their masters oppose it. All members of the European nobility were opposed to the abolition of their tax exemption, from which their Third Estate people expected a relaxation of their own burden.

But no such conflicts are present in a society in which all citizens are equal before the law. No logical objection can be advanced against distinguishing various classes among the members of such a society. Any classification is logically permissible however arbitrarily the mark of distinction may be chosen. But it is nonsensical to classify the members of a capitalist society according to their position in the framework of the social division of labor and then to identify these classes with the castes of a status society. It is precisely this that the Marxian doctrine of the irreconcilable struggle of classes does.

The classes that Marx distinguishes within a capitalist society have a continually fluctuating membership. Class affiliation is not a hereditary quality. It is assigned to each individual by a daily repeated process, as he buys and then to identify these classes with the castes of a status society. It is precisely this that the Marxian doctrine of the irreconcilable struggle of classes does.

The classes that Marx distinguishes within a capitalist society have a continually fluctuating membership. Class affiliation is not a hereditary quality. It is assigned to each individual by a daily repeated process, as he buys and then to identify these classes with the castes of a status society. It is precisely this that the Marxian doctrine of the irreconcilable struggle of classes does.

But a closer inspection reveals a different aspect of the case. The abundant biographical material about Marx collected and published by his followers and the Marx-Engels-Lenin Institute in Moscow evinces the fact that Marx had ceased to work on his book many years before his death. There cannot be any doubt about the reason. When faced with the task of telling in precise words what he had in mind when perorating about social classes and giving reasons for his doctrine of the irreconcilable conflict of interests between the social classes, Marx faltered thoroughly. He had to acknowledge to himself that he was perplexed and was at his wits' end. He did not know what to say in the planned 32nd chapter of the third volume and this embarrassment induced him to desist from produced, there is equality of all citizens under the law. Nobody is hampered in his aspirations and ambitions by any legal obstacles. Everybody is free to compete for any social position or function for which his personal abilities qualify him.

But Marx saw things in a different light. He maintained that capitalism did not abolish bondage and did not do away with the servitude of the working and toiling masses. It did not emancipate the common man. The people merely changed their masters. Formerly they were forced to drudge for the princes and aristocrats, now they were exploited by the bourgeoisie. The division of society into social classes is, in the eyes of Marx, sociologically and economically not different from its division into castes. The bourgeois of modern age is no less a predatory extortioner than were the noblemen and slaveholders of ages gone by.

But what characterizes the social class as such and what entitles us to equate it with the castes of the status society? To this question Marx never gave an answer. All his books, pamphlets and writings turn around the concept of the social class and the essence of his political and economic program is the abolition of the social classes and the establishment of what he styles a classless society. But he never told us what he had in mind when employing the term social class and what justifies ascribing to the division of society into social classes the same effects its division into castes had.

The main treatise of Karl Marx is Das Kapital. It was designed to provide a scientific justification of the ideas Marx had expressed in his numerous pamphlets and manifestos. Only the first volume of this book was — in 1887 — published by Marx himself. Two years after the death of Marx his friend Engels published the second volume and finally, in 1894, eleven years after the death of Marx, the third volume, which consists of two parts together of 870 pages. Yet, the book remained unfinished. The third volume contains 52 chapters and then follows a 32nd chapter that is headed The Classes. There is only one page of this chapter in which Marx declares that the first question to be answered is: what constitutes a class. But he does not provide an answer. Instead we read a note of Engels, the editor, saying: Here the manuscript breaks off.

One could be tempted to say: It is really tragic. Here is an author to whom fate has denied to define and to explain the fundamental concept of his philosophy, the concept on which all he said, argued and planned depends. Just in the hour in which he was to write down the most important thing he had to tell mankind death took him off. How lamentable!

But a closer inspection reveals a different aspect of the case. The abundant biographical material about Marx collected and published by his followers and the Marx-Engels-Lenin Institute in Moscow evinces the fact that Marx had ceased to work on his book many years before his death. There cannot be any doubt about the reason. When faced with the task of telling in precise words what he had in mind when perorating about social classes and giving reasons for his doctrine of the irreconcilable conflict of interests between the social classes, Marx faltered thoroughly. He had to acknowledge to himself that he was perplexed and was at his wits' end. He did not know what to say in the planned 32nd chapter of the third volume and this embarrassment induced him to desist from finishing his great treatise. The essential dogma of the Marxian philosophy, the class conflict doctrine which he and his friend Engels had propagated for many decades, was unmasked as a flop.

The only resort that Marx, Engels and all their followers down to the Russian Bolsheviks and the European and American professorial admirers of Marx knew to advance against their critics was the notorious ideology doctrine. According to this makeshift a man's intellectual horizon is fully determined by his class affiliation. The individual is constitutionally unfit to hatch out and to grasp any other doctrine than one that furthers the interests of his own class at the expense of other classes. It is therefore unnecessary for a proletarian to pay any attention to whatever bourgeois authors may say and to waste time in refuting their statements. All that is needed is to unmask their bourgeois background. This settles the matter.

This is the method to which Marx and Engels and all later Marxians resorted in dealing with all dissenters. They never embarked upon the hopeless task of defending their self-contradictory system against devastating criticism. All they did was to call their opponents stupid bourgeois and to ascribe their opposition to their bourgeois class affiliation.

But also in this regard Marx and Engels contradicted their own doctrine. For they both were sons of bourgeois families, brought up and living in a typically middle class milieu. Marx was the son of a well-to-do member of the bar and married the daughter of a Prussian nobleman. His brother-in-law was Cabinet Minister of the Interior and as such the Chief of the Royal Prussian Police. Engels was the son of a wealthy manufacturer and himself a rich businessman, he indulged in the amusements of the British gentry such as riding to hounds in a red coat, and snobbishly refused to marry his mistress because she was of low origin. From the very Marxian point of view one would have to qualify Marxism as a doctrine of bourgeois origin.

The enormous power that the Marxian ideas and the political parties guided by them enjoy in the present is not due to any inherent merits of the doctrine. It is an outgrowth of the moral and intellectual indifference and apathy of those whose duty it ought to be to offer unswerving resistance to false doctrines and to disclose their untruth. Some eminent philosophers and economists have provided irrefutable arguments to show the perversion, the misrepresentation of facts and the self-contradictions of the Marxian creed. But their books are not read by those whose responsibility it is to enlighten the public. Thus the masses today indolently endorse all the socialist slogans and look upon every step forward on the way toward totalitarianism as a progress toward the establishment of an earthly paradise. It is the inertness and sloth on the part of many of our most eminent fellow citizens that make the impetuous advance of the communist power possible.

The task of fighting Marxian dialectical materialism and all the various epistemological, philosophical, economic and political doctrines emanating from it can only be accomplished by well-informed people. Those who want to contribute seriously to the defense of Western civilization against the onslaught of the dictators must acquaint themselves with the doctrines they plan to fight and must with full vigor study the writings of those authors who have long since entirely demolished all the Marxian fables and distortions.

OUT OUR WAY

J. R. Williams

ACRES OF METAL—Part of the 4½-acre flight deck of the USS Enterprise is shown in this view from the ship's bridge. Workers continue finishing operations following official acceptance by the Navy at commissioning ceremonies at Newport News, Va. Not only the largest warship ever built, she is the most expensive—$415 million. The 85,000-ton Enterprise is powered by eight atomic reactors that can propel her to a speed better than 40 miles an hour and for a distance of over 400,000 miles at cruising speed between refuelings. She'll carry 4,100 men.

- 1 Cord of Thanks
Howard A. Bronner
We hope these few words will express our thanks and appreciation to each and every one who helped in so many ways during the loss of our loved one. We thank you for the food, for the cards, words of kindness and sympathy, the beautiful flowers, and most of all your prayers. We pray God will remember each of you.

Car-wise motorists buy Brand Name products

Why do you buy Brand Names? Because you trust them. You know that they are consistently good, that they always meet the high standards of quality you've set for yourself and your family. You'll find Brand Name products wherever you go. No guesswork shopping. Like good friends, they're always there.

The Brand Name manufacturer has built a reputation. He must maintain it, so he keeps his standards high, and strives constantly to make his product better. He's always first with new products and ideas. He employs lots of people. He helps balance the economy. You depend on him. He depends on you.

Know your brands, and buy the brands you know. You'll find some of them on the pages of this newspaper.

A Brand Name is a maker's reputation
