City Commission Votes To End Federal Aid On Plan Project State Tie Cut; Private Accord Will Be Sought

Pampa's City Commission voted 4 to 1 last night to terminate federal financial aid and get out from under state "guardianship" in its urban planning program.

At the same time the commission took preliminary steps to begin two-party negotiations with Koch & Fowler and Grafe, Dallas consulting engineers, to complete the plan project.

The only change in the city's plan setup, Mayor E. C. Sidwell explained, will be that the federal and state governments no longer will participate in the program.

Commissioner L. P. Fort made the motion to break the existing contract. Commissioner Lloyd Simpson seconded the motion. Mayor Sidwell and Commissioner Leon Holmes joined in supporting it when the vote was taken. Commissioner Newt Secrest cast the lone dissenting vote.

Secrest said that while he agreed with the others in their stand against government aid, he thought it would be cheaper for the city to take the contract to the half-way mark and then renegotiate for completion of the planning job.

Adam Grafe, head of the Dallas engineering firm, said it will be about ten per cent cheaper on the overall price of the planning if the federal and state agencies are removed from the contract.

Technicalities in the contract-breaking now call for the city to notify the Texas Department of Health, the state agency designated by the federal government to supervise the planning program, to give the Dallas engineering firm five days notice of the current contract's immediate termination.

When this formality is completed, it was stated, the city of Pampa will pay the engineers for all work they have done to date. The city and the engineering firm then will open contract negotiations of their own for completion of the planning job.

Grafe told the city commission last night that the engineering firm will go ahead and complete the work as set up in the original contract, but that the overall expense of the job will be about ten per cent less than the original contract price of $36,800.

The city's portion of the cost to date is around $8,500 of the $15,589 now due the planning engineers.

All-Out Battle On School Aid Possible Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An all-out scrap could break out today in the Senate over a key provision in President Kennedy's compromise $2.1 billion school aid provision.

The decision was up to southern Democratic opponents of this provision — a $225 million public school construction proposal — could force the showdown and probably will if they feel they can win a floor fight.

The education committee was ready to call up a $615 million bill which carried the most controversial feature left in the educational offering.

This was the one-year program of federal grants to states to pay up to 40 per cent of the construction costs of new classrooms for financially poor and overcrowded schools.

The second bill in the Kennedy package was a five-year, $1.5 billion loan and grant program for construction of public and private college classrooms, libraries and laboratories.

Other congressional news: Aid: Assurance that a long-term loan financing compromise was "wholly satisfactory" to President Kennedy eased the way for congressional approval of a $4,253,500,000 foreign aid authorization bill. House-Senate conferees scheduled a final mop-up session on minor details still to be worked out between House and Senate versions of the program.

Rights: The Senate scheduled a showdown vote on the future of the Civil Rights Commission. Leaders of both parties were determined to push through a simple, two-year extension of the commission, brushing aside southern effort to kill it and northern liberal attempts to make it permanent.

Water Meter Reader Took It Too Easy

BILINGHAY, England (UPI) — Charlie Green blames his "easy going" ways for losing the job he held for 15 years as the local water meter reader.

There were just two problems as he saw it. Reading meters was a "complete bore" and the meters were in the oddest places. "One was even in a field that had a big bull," he said.

So, Green said, seven years ago he "gave up" trying to read the meters and kept his records by "guesswork." But some of Green's estimates were too high, and he was caught after users complained.

State Wins Court Case POKER PLAY

HOUSTON (UPI)—It was a game of courtroom poker and the prosecutor won with a bluff.

James R. Strickland, 39, an ex-convict, went before Dist. Judge Fred Anderson last February.

Asst. Dist. Atty. David Ball had offered Strickland 20 years in prison for a plea of guilty, but Strickland refused. Then just before court opened, Ball learned that Anderson had moved to Oklahoma and without the prosecuting witness the case could not be tried.

Ball sat silent. And when the case was called, he rose and in a loud voice announced: "The State is ready."

Strickland beckoned to Ball. "If you'll give me 15, I'll take it," Strickland muttered. He got 15 years.

German Leader Defies Commies To Visit Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — West German President Heinrich Lübke defied Communist charges of provocation and began an on-the-scene study of the Berlin crisis today.

Lübke arrived in West Berlin Tuesday night after flying from Bonn aboard a U.S. Air Force plane. His trip was announced only after he was in the air.

The West German leader, ignoring an East German complaint that his visit is "provocative," arranged to confer with West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and the city's three Allied commandants.

Later, Lübke will visit the Marienfelde refugee camp which is crowded with East German refugees who managed to escape Communist rule before the East-West Berlin border was sealed Aug. 13.

The Communist East German news agency ADN promptly repeated the threat in the latest Soviet note to the West that the air corridors to West Berlin are only "temporarily available to the Western powers."

"With Lübke's visit," ADN charged, "Bonn politicians continue their provocative activity in West Berlin."

The Communists maintain that West Berlin is in the territory of East Germany. However, the Western Allies insist that West Berlin is a four-power city and may be visited by any West German citizen whenever he wants.

Observers feared that the East Germans will use Lübke's visit as a pretext to clamp even further major restrictions on the border.

An American soldier who was patrolling the West-East German zone border near Coburg was arrested Tuesday by Communist police when he accidentally stepped into East German territory.

U.S. Army headquarters in Heidelberg identified the soldier as Spec. 4 Bobby E. Scott of Edgerton, Mo. Scott is a member of the 2nd Armored Cavalry.

The Army said it has ordered the U.S. military liaison mission in Potsdam, East Germany, to ask Soviet military authorities to release Scott.

Kennedy Calls Berlin Parley

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has invited the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany to meet here next month in a new bid for a Berlin solution, diplomatic sources said today.

The meeting would map Western negotiating plans and lead to Berlin talks with Russia.

Diplomats said the Allies agreed to the meeting Tuesday. The date — shortly before the Sept. 19 opening of the United Nations General Assembly — was expected to be announced today, possibly by Kennedy at his news conference.

The ministers, Britain's Lord Home, France's Maurice Couve de Murville and West Germany's Heinrich von Brentano, were to meet with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and also were expected to see Kennedy.

Administration officials said, meanwhile, that Kennedy's advisers have been discussing the advisability of his personally going before the United Nations in a major bid for settlement on Berlin and nuclear testing.

They said no decision has been made on this.

The Western ministers were expected to use their meeting to issue strong new pledges to maintain Western rights in Berlin. But any Berlin negotiating positions they decided on might remain hidden temporarily in diplomatic secrecy.

The Allies now were in basic agreement on a plan for quiet "exploration" with Russia of the possibility of a Berlin settlement.

This might take the form of New York talks between Rusk and Home and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who was expected to head the Russian U.N. delegation, though he has not yet said so.

If these talks brought results, more formal negotiations with Russia would follow.

Brazil Reported Near Civil War Over Presidency

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Reports that six of Brazil's 20 state governors support Vice President Joao Goulart's claim to the vacant presidency brought this deeply divided country a step nearer to civil war today.

Gov. Leonel Brizola of Rio Grande do Sul, Goulart's brother-in-law and chief supporter, said in a radio broadcast the vice president also is supported by the governors of Bahia, Goias, Santa Catalina, Ceara and Pzguiz.

It was typical of the confusion caused in Brazil by the resignation Friday of President Janio Quadros that the support of the governors of Santa Catalina and Ceara was claimed simultaneously by the military leaders who have vowed to bar Goulart from the presidency.

Not all of the nation's generals and admirals were arrayed against the vice president. The commanders of the 3rd Army and the 5th Air Force, both based in Brizola's capital of Porto Alegre, have pledged their support to Goulart.

Ex-President Juscelino Kubitschek also has declared his unrestricted support for the vice president, who was his own running mate in the 1955 election.

Goulart himself said in Paris Tuesday that he planned to return to Brazil, but that he wanted first to reach agreement with "all responsible forces" in the country.

War Minister Odilio Denys, strong man of the anti-Goulart forces, apparently could count on the support of about three-quarters of the nation's 120,000-man army, its 50,000-man navy and most of its 10,000-man air force.

and Courmayeur, on the Italian side of the Alps.

The plane had clipped the cable during a training mission flew back to a base near Luxeuil where a judge ordered it seized and held pending an investigation of the accident.

Two American students came through the ordeal unharmed. They were Hugh Putnam, 20, a Harvard student from Milton, Mass., and Katherine Blodgett, a Radcliff College student from Grand Rapids, Mich.

"We spent 15 hours dangling in the cable car and we were a little cold and a little frightened but we really did not know what was happening," Miss Blodgett said. "There was a lot of jerking back and forth and that scared me."

The tourists were stranded in an aerial cable railway about 11,000 feet above sea level in the Mont Blanc range Tuesday afternoon when the cable was slashed by a jet fighter. The lift stopped dead.

The last group was hauled to safety shortly after 8 a.m., nearly 19 hours after the accident occurred. The group included 11 women and one child.

Officials said two American women had been rescued earlier and were taken to Heilbronn and the end of the cable line suffering from shock. Their identities were not immediately known.

French air force Alouette helicopters were ferrying the rescued persons from the mountain sides to Chamonix, in eastern France.

Truce Halts Auto Strike

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther returned to the bargaining table at General Motors today under a truce inspired by the federal government that will delay any strike in the auto industry until at least Sept. 6.

Reuther personally resumed command of negotiations at GM after his union Tuesday night singled out the giant of the industry, with 310,000 UAW employees, as its strike target but at the same time agreed to delay any walkout until Sept. 6.

GM — and Ford and Chrysler — also agreed Tuesday night to go along with a request by the Federal Mediation Service to extend current contracts beyond the scheduled Thursday midnight expiration and continue negotiations "without interruption."

Federal mediation chief William E. Simkin sent telegrams to the Big Three companies and the union late Tuesday urging the contract extension, just before the union met to choose a strike target.

The UAW executive board went ahead with pinpointing GM for a strike, but also voted to accede to the Simkin request.

The Federal Mediation Service's intervention in the contract talks was viewed as possibly the first open indication of concern by the Kennedy administration that the industry might be tied up by a strike right at the start of a new model year. But Simkin denied he was acting at the behest of President Kennedy or Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg.

The union, still flushed with enthusiasm for its precedent shattering profit-sharing agreement with American Motors, was trying obviously to use the American Motors settlement to pressure a new offer from the Big Three.

But Big Three negotiators insisted they planned no new offer and that their present offer was superior to that of American Motors.

However, they weren't able to compete Continental out of business. So they decided to resort to the hard sell, and tried to shoot it out of business.

This curious interpretation of the free enterprise philosophy they had inherited from their old board chairman, Al Capone.

The outcome of it all was that the big witness's boss, James Ragen, was voted out of office in a hail of gunfire and young Thomas Francis Kelly became the president of the Continental Press Service, whose chief service was informing bookies which horse won what race where in a hurry.

But Kelly was extremely close-mouthed about all this. Kelly, in fact, refused even to tell the senators Tuesday that he heard Rice's account of his business career. In all, he took the Fifth Amendment about 50 times.

Rescue Ends Long Ordeal In Alps For 81 Tourists

CHAMONIX, France (UPI) — Rescuers toiling by moonlight and searchlight high in the Alps early today saved the last of 81 tourists left trapped in dangling cable cars when a low flying jet snipped a tow cable.

Six persons — four Germans and two Italians — were killed when three cars fell 500 feet to an alpine snowfield after the French plane clipped the cable.

Officials said all 81 survivors were in good condition, although several were suffering from fatigue and shock as a result of their terrifying wait in the cold air. The last to be rescued had been trapped nearly 19 hours.

The tourists were stranded in an aerial cable railway about 11,000 feet above sea level in the Mont Blanc range Tuesday afternoon when the cable was slashed by a jet fighter. The lift stopped dead.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John G. Tower, R. Tex., announced Tuesday the appointment of LeRoy (Pete) LeMaster, Perryton, Tex., as his administrative assistant.

LeMaster served as congressional liaison officer for the Department of Agriculture during the Eisenhower administration. He is a native of Ochiltree and a graduate of Texas A&I at Kingsville.

LeMaster replaces Peter O'Donnell of Dallas who has been serving temporarily in the post.

Quarterback Club Meet Interrupted By Need For Air

Fresh air. That was what members of the Pampa Quarterback Club and their guests sought Tuesday night and in a hurry.

The club was holding its first session of the season in the high school cafeteria. There were about 25 persons present. Suddenly what appeared to be a tear gas missile landed in the midst of the meeting.

Some of those present began crying. Others had a distinct need for fresh air. They dashed outside.

This morning School Principal Cameron Marsh said it was evidently ammonia that had been tossed into the room. He said it apparently was the work of pranksters and no action is planned.

Schools Opened, Plea To Drivers Issued By Police

Police Chief Jim Conner today issued his annual plea to motorists to drive with caution in school zones and to be on the lookout for children going to and from school.

Speed limit in school zones is 15 miles an hour.

Drivers should remember that school is in session again," the chief said, "and they should be thinking in terms of safety for bicycle riding and pedestrian school children."

Parents, too, the chief stated, should caution children about looking both ways before they cross the street and not to dart out from behind parked cars.

Producing Properties Oil Income Boosted

DALLAS (SpI) —Producing Properties, Inc. today reported consolidated net income for the nine months ended May 31, 1961 was $920,684, as compared with net income of $1,142,537 in the corresponding period of 1960, a decrease of approximately 19 per cent. Earnings per common share outstanding on May 31, 1961 after provision for accrued preferred dividends were 31 cents as compared with 40 cents for the nine months period ended May 31, 1960.

The decrease in net income amounted to $221,853, and was caused primarily by an increase of $408,318 in interest expense and amortized debt charges. Revenues from oil and gas sales for the first nine months of the current fiscal 1961 were $9,151,049, an increase of 29 per cent, or $2,045,295, over the first nine months of the previous fiscal year. Total operating costs and expenses were $6,758,381, an increase of $1,754,738, or 35 per cent over the comparable period last year. The increases in revenues from oil and gas sales and expenses are attributable principally to property acquisitions made since January 1, 1960.

Cash flow from operations for the nine months ended May 31, 1961 amounted to $4,622,342, an increase of 21 per cent, or $816,408, over the nine months ended May 31, 1960. Cash flow per common share was $1.72 as compared with $1.42 for the comparable nine months period in fiscal 1960.

Net crude oil produced in the nine months ended May 31, 1961 amounted to 2,874,857 barrels (an average of 10,531 barrels per day), an increase of 18 per cent over the comparable nine months ended May 31, 1960. Net gas produced amounted to 9,163,645 MCF (an average of 33,566 MCF per day), an increase of 33 per cent over the same period last year.

As of March, 1961 the Corporation purchased all of Shoreline Petroleum Corporation's producing and non-producing working interests, royalty interests, mineral interests and net profits interests, principally located in the Anna Barre Field in DeWitt County, Texas, the Claytonville Field in Fisher County, Texas, the Bloomington Field in Victoria County, Texas, the Greta Field in Refugio County, Texas, the LaGloria Field in Jim Wells and Brooks Counties, Texas, the North Pettus Field in Goliad, Bee and Karnes Counties, Texas, the East Texas Field in Gregg and Rusk Counties, Texas, the Ender Field in Kimball County, Nebraska, and the Salem Field in Marion County, Illinois. These properties were purchased for $6,292,347 in cash and notes and were subject to reserved production payments of $11,792,086 plus interest. At the time of acquisition these properties included estimated reserves of 13,513,261 barrels of crude oil and condensate and 72,211,473 MCF of gas. The net reserves to the Corporation over and above those necessary to satisfy the reserved production payments were estimated at 9,679,798 barrels of crude oil and condensate and 37,626,858 MCF of gas.

The Corporation has entered into agreements for the purchase of certain oil and gas properties consisting principally of producing and non-producing working interests in leases in Arkansas, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas. It is expected that the Corporation will pay approximately $270,000 in cash for these properties and that these properties will be acquired subject to reserved production payments aggregating approximately $900,000.

The shares of common stock of the Corporation outstanding as of May 31, 1961 increased to 2,614,776 shares as the result of the exercise of restricted stock options granted in 1956.

SIZE 'EM UP

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clothing and shoe sizes are not standard throughout the world. A size translator produced by a New York store (Macy's) reports that American sizes are measured in inches, European and Latin American sizes in centimeters. One example: a women's size 32 in America rates a size 40 tag in Europe and South America.

Coed's Father Bares His Financial Burden

(EDITOR'S NOTE: It's the father of the college girl, like the father of the bride, who pays. In the following dispatch, one father spells out his financial woes with college educations.)

By JACK WOLISTON
OLD GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) —My wife checked over the "what to bring" list and my daughter nodded affirmatively as each item came up.

I mentally considered how much each item had cost me. "One bedspread," my wife said. "Check," said Marilyn.

"Six dollars and 98 cents," I thought. "It says here bring plenty of dimes for the automatic laundry," my wife said.

"Five dollars for dimes, Dad," said my daughter, extending her hand. "That does it," I said. "When your sister went through college she took her laundry dimes out of her allowance."

"Let's not argue," said my wife. "We've got to get this done." I gave Marilyn the money. I had learned my lesson five years earlier when my oldest daughter departed for the halls of higher learning with 18 skirts, 12 dresses, 4 evening gowns, and an assortment of other clothing, most of which she never used during her four years in residence.

(I found out later that the typical college costume is the same skirt — forever — different blouses, tennis shoes and woolen socks. This costume, of course, changes on week-end dates, and we apparently provided the right changes. The first daughter is married now to an instructor at Northwestern University).

This, of course, was my second encounter with the "check off" and actually is almost the last step before you bundle your pride and joy on the train.

The "check off" is the climax of months of shopping, shopping, shopping. There seems to be no end of it. Closets fill. Bundles pile up in corners. The bank calls to say your checking account is overdrawn.

Except for providing the funds and pointing out occasionally there will be no money left for college if the clothes-buying spree continues, the man of the house has no role in the "getting ready" stage. This is a mother-daughter affair where male suggestions

Washington Window

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress is waving a small club at state legislatures which have been balky about redistricting House seats in time for the 1962 congressional primaries and elections.

The gesture is unimpressive because the lawmakers would not have waited until the eve of the adjournment rush if they had any serious intention of trying to use the weapon.

It is in the form of a bill which would require the Census Bureau to take on the job of congressional redistricting in states where the legislatures refuse to do so. It would apply only to those states which are losing House seats as a result of population shifts shown by the 1960 census.

The census dictates a reduction in the size of the House delegations for 16 states and increases for nine states.

Deadlocks in some state legislatures — notably Pennsylvania, Illinois and Minnesota — have prevented redistricting. Incumbents in the House want no part of any such free-for-all. In a statement to a House subcommittee last week, Rep. Robert J. Corbett, R-Pa., offered the nightmarish vision of 700 candidates in the congressional primaries in Illinois next April.

If that could happen in Illinois, it could also happen in Corbett's home state of Pennsylvania. Corbett is one of three House members sponsoring bills to require reapportionment by the Census Bureau if the legislatures fail to act.

The Senate sponsor of the same proposal is Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, another state troubled by redistricting disputes.

The House Judiciary subcommittee started hearings on these bills last week, primarily to prod the states into action. At the same time, it heard testimony in support of bills which would relieve some states of redistricting problems. Those bills would enlarge the size of the House.

Temporarily enlarged by the two new seats allotted to Alaska and Hawaii, the House now contains 437 seats. Under present law, it will revert to 435, the figure maintained from 1911 until the admission of Alaska to statehood.

House leaders have taken a cold view toward bills to enlarge the House because they think a legislative assembly of 435 members is as big as it should be. However, 20 House members have introduced bills to increase the number of seats. Some would settle for two more seats and some want as many as 34 more. Nineteen of the 20 sponsors come from states which are losing seats.

Missing $2,100 In Death Case Called An Error

BEAUMONT (UPI) — The Jefferson County district attorney's office today described the loss of $2,100 — classed as "possible evidence" in a murder case — as "just an honest error."

The money was part of $6,700 found by Port Arthur police last Tuesday when they arrested James Virgil (Buddy) Eaves, former Eloy, Ariz., police chief, and charged him with the gunshot slaying of Homer Widener at nearby Groves.

The money had been released by Sheriff Charles Meyer to wyan Baldwin, Eaves' lawyer, and deposited in the American National Bank with instructions that it not be placed in circulation.

But when the district attorney's office obtained a warrant last Friday to seize the $6,700 as evidence, only 46 $100 bills remained. The missing $2,100, according to Baldwin, was in bills of small denominations and would be impossible to trace.

President Kennedy has said that the key to physical vigor among the nation's youth rests with the individual family.

They've found it's as much fun to "load" the dishwasher as it is to load their guns for cowboys and Indians. Much easier on mother's nerves, too. Handwashing dishes takes an average of 728 hours a year — that's a monthful of 24 hours a day. It's hard on the hands, too.

A portable dishwasher — that requires nothing special in plumbing or wiring — or a built-in model will cut your dishwashing time down to minutes. Gets the kids in the act, too — willingly and safely.

Nine Negro Students Enter Atlanta Schools

ATLANTA (UPI)—Nine Negro students brought 15 minutes late for classes the first day of school, entered four previously all-white high schools today in an historic and symbolic breaking of racial barriers in Atlanta.

All of the nine neatly-dressed Negro 11th and 12th graders, most of them smiling nervously, were driven to the schools exactly 15 minutes after the white students were in their seats.

There were no notable incidents although police at Brown High, one of the more sensitive of the integration targets, questioned two men in working clothes and took them away in a police cruiser before the Negro students arrived.

Three young men also were arrested in front of Murphy High. Details of the incident in which they were involved were not known immediately.

In each case, the pupils were brought to the front sidewalk of the schools by a Negro driver. They were not accompanied into the schools but police guarded all the buildings. One of the drivers was identified as a Negro police detective driving his own automobile.

A man identified as Bill Cody, wearing an emblem from the American Nazi Party, was arrested 10 minutes after two Negro students walked into Henry Grady High. Officers said Cody asked them if he would be allowed to picket. He was immediately arrested, placed in a paddy wagon, and taken to city jail.

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins was reported as saying, "We'll put him somewhere out of the way until we get through with our business...then we'll talk to him."

Cody, of Arlington, Va., was listed in a police bulletin as one of several individuals now in Atlanta and affiliated with well-known "hate" organizations.

The segregation of the four schools was brought off with almost military precision by city authorities and police, determined to show the world that the violence of Little Rock and New Orleans would not visit Atlanta.

The token integration brought racially mixed public school classes deep into Dixie seven years, three months and some days after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that racial barriers must be lowered "with deliberate speed" in tax-supported schools.

room at City Hall.

The meeting was attended by five representatives of the engineering firm and William Walker, representing the State Department of Health.

Approximately 50 or 60 persons were in the lobby. It was necessary to bring in extra chairs to seat members of the audience.

Former Mayor Tom Rose Jr. spoke from the audience and said he had been told if the contract was terminated the planning program would also be killed. He asked clarification on the point, Mayor Sidwell answered by saying the commission was incomplete.

Rose said he was in agreement with the commission's stand against federal help and if the city was going ahead with urban planning — that answered his question.

Mrs. Hazel Hahn also spoke out from the audience. She commended the commission for its stand against federal aid.

Following last night's meeting, Charles Spivey, director of planning for Koch & Fowler and Grafe, reported to the commission on another phase of the planning program just completed.

The interim report is called the Major Thoroughfare Plan and is intended as a guide to the city in the development of a major street system.

Glossy Boots Lack Appeal For Marines

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The Army likes to see soldiers wearing boots polished to a high gloss, as any ex-G.I. knows.

But the Marines will stick to their scuffed — up old "boondockers," thank you.

Capt. William A. Potter Jr., told the American Podiatry Association convention here Tuesday that a year-old survey shows Marine boots retain a lot more heat moisture than the slick combat boots worn by soldiers.

"Boondockers" are ankle-height boots of rough leather resembling suede. Potter, a Medical Corps physician, said the survey showed four times as many Marines suffer foot rash than Army personnel.

But he added Leathernecks indicated they don't want to change. Perhaps they don't want to bother with the shoe polish which accompanies the issue of Army-type boots, Potter indicated.

Attorney Jailed When His Client Flees Courtroom

BELTON, Tex. (UPI) — The defendant in a burglary trial escaped from the courtroom, so Judge James K. Evetts sent the defense attorney to jail.

Milton C. Kitchens of Fort Worth went on trial Tuesday charged with burglarizing a business and as an habitual criminal which could mean life imprisonment upon conviction.

After a jury was seated, Jack Mackin, Kitchens' attorney, asked Judge Evetts for a recess before he entered a plea so he could confer with the prosecutor.

It was granted. But when court reconvened, Kitchens could not be found.

Judge Evetts was so angry he held Mackin in contempt of court for "deliberately and in open court misleading this court by requesting a recess prior to the plea and causing the continued absence of Kitchens from the court."

He fined Mackin $10 and ordered him to serve three days in jail.

Mackin served almost 10 hours of the sentence before he was released on $1,000 bond by Judge W. A. Morrison of the court of criminal appeals in Austin on a motion by Toby Goldsmith, one of Mackin's law partners, for a writ of habeas corpus.

A hearing on the writ is scheduled for Oct. 2.

Mackin said he was "the most surprised guy in the courtroom" when Kitchens failed to reappear.

Blanton Rites Held At Blanco

Funeral services were held at 3 p.m. today in Blanco for Mrs. Laura Blanton, 94, of that city, a former Pampan.

Mrs. Blanton and her husband, the late L. G. Blanton, came to Pampa in 1916, residing 2 1/2 miles southeast of town, where they farmed for several years before moving to 1107 S. Hobart. Following her husband's death nine years ago, Mrs. Blanton moved to Blanco to live with her daughter, Mrs. Lorene Linderman.

Survivors, other than Mrs. Linderman, include one son, L. D. Blanton of Pampa; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Former Officer Admits Slaying

BEAUMONT (UPI) — James Virgil (Buddy) Eaves, 37, a former police chief at Eloy, Ariz., confessed Tuesday night he fired the shot that killed a Port Arthur golfer.

Eaves earlier admitted he shot John Ben Widener, 70, a Corsicana rancher, who is the professional's father, but claimed it was in self defense after Widener had shot and killed his son, Homer Widener, 45, professional at the Pleasure Island golf course in Port Arthur.

Seven Persons Saved As Luxury Yacht Sinks

PORT ISABEL, Tex. (UPI)—A brief ship-to-shore radio message today unfolded the story of a rescue at sea as a Coast Guard cutter headed toward Galveston with seven persons saved just before a luxury yacht sank.

The 81-foot yacht Empress sank Tuesday night in the Gulf of Mexico some 250 miles southeast of Brownsville.

The Coast Guard cutter Cahoon, due to reach Galveston this morning, identified the persons aboard the Empress as Capt. and Mrs. James C. Crader of Azusa, Calif.; R. W. Gobert of Galveston; Moss Jackson of New Orleans; Ray Radcliff of Port Isabel; Maurice Addeley of Brownsville, and John A. Smith of Houston.

Crader was master of the Empress, a white and orange yacht owned by Manuel C. Sussman of Beverly Hills, Calif.

The mahogany-trimmed yacht was enroute from Port Isabel to Los Angeles by way of the Panama Canal, with its first stop scheduled at Belize, British Honduras.

On the first leg of the trip the Coast Guard said the Empress was escorted by the motor vessel Vencemere IV. No reason was given why the escort was needed.

At midmorning Tuesday the two vessels ran into heavy seas and the Empress began shipping water, settling slowly as its pumps failed to keep up. With the Empress unable to make headway in the rough seas, the Vencemere IV took the yacht in tow and headed for Belize.

Just before noon, the Coast Guard said, it became evident the yacht would not stay afloat long enough to reach port, so the Vencemere radioed an SOS distress call for help.

The Coast Guard cutter Cahoon, skippered by Lt. Lawrence Otto, was only 70 miles away on a routine patrol and set a course by radio directional finders. It arrived at 5:40 p.m. to find the yacht with decks almost awash.

Five of the seven persons aboard had been transferred to the Vencemere IV, which was standing by, the Coast Guard reported.

Battling towering waves, the Cahoon sent a boarding party to the stricken yacht with salvage pumps to see if the vessel could be afloat. The boarding party was aided by two crewmen of the Empress who stayed aboard.

Otto reported that the Empress began settling fast at 7 p.m.

"It was evident she could not stay afloat, so the boarding party was removed," he said. "The Empress sank at 7:10 p.m."

The Cahoon's skipper said the seven rescued from the Empress were treated for cuts and bruises but none was seriously hurt.

After the Empress sank, the Cahoon, which is stationed at Galveston, headed for its home port some 600 miles, away, and the Vencemere IV continued to Belize.

Dear Abby...

In Other Words...

It Should Be "Bust"

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a Navy guy. He has been stationed in California, and will be for some time. He wants me to make a trip there to visit him. I haven't seen him in over two years. He is willing to pay for my fare both ways, but my father won't permit it. Isn't it proper for a fiance to pay for his girl's transportation? I am 19 and he is 21.

"CALIFORNIA OR BUST"

DEAR CALIFORNIA: Your "Navy guy" has had enough leave in two years to have visited you. And if he can pay your way to see him, he can pay his way to see you. I'm with your father. Bust!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are at odds about my attitude toward the telephone. I say our telephone is for OUR convenience, not the convenience of others and, therefore, I will answer it WHEN and IF I feel like it. He says I should answer it every time it rings because it might be an emergency. I say if it is an emergency they will call again.

I have been up to my neck in housework when a friend has phoned to "chat." I have even gotten out of the tub, rushed to answer the phone, bumped my shin and cracked my toe, only to find that it was a wrong number. Or some dance studio is calling.

ing to inform me that I have just "won" a free lesson. I have trained my husband to call at 12:15. I will answer the phone at that time no matter what I am doing. I'd like your opinion, and the opinion of others on this subject.

DEAR MIND: Although the telephone is unquestionably the number one time-saving miracle of the age, it can also be an annoying intrusion. If you are one of the few who can hear the bell toll, and care not a whit by whom it is tolled, then let it ring. It's your privilege.

DEAR ABBY: I have heard that a red-headed woman is much harder to get along with than a blonde. Is this true?

SHOPPING AROUND
DEAR SHOPPING: No! I know a woman who has been both, and the color of her hair didn't affect her disposition in the slightest.

Do We Do Too Much

Talking To Children?

"Some youngsters have just been talked to death. We have talked, talked, talked to them" a school superintendent in Ohio told his school board. He asked that paddling pupils be permitted in his school.

The superintendent is right. Some kids have been talked to death at school and at home, too. The talking, or "reasoning," begins when the child is just a toddler and couldn't care less about long-winded reasons why mama must say, "No, No."

Mama keeps it up until six or junior is old enough for first grade and the schools take it on from there. Mama could paddle if she wanted to but most schools are not permitted mama's prerogative.

Since kids aren't so dumb that they don't know when they've got the upper hand, they have made good use of the no paddling rule to push their teachers to the limits of their patience and endurance.

After all, kids may get tired of talk, talk, talk, but it doesn't hurt and it isn't humiliating like a good, old-fashioned paddling.

The school superintendent (who, by the way, now has the right to paddle) says, "Some pupils are quite defiant and tell us in no uncertain terms. You can do what you want to, but you can't put your hands on me."

Either at home or at school it isn't good for a kid to be sure that no matter what he does or how he acts the worst he is going to get is a good talking to.

As long as he can count on that all the talk will just go in one ear and out the other.

But, when talk is backed up by a paddle, kids listen, whether it is mama or teacher who says, "I'm telling you for the last time."

Friendliness Of Pampans Impresses Exchange Students

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Staff Writer

The friendliness of Pampans, the drive-in restaurants and drive-in movie theaters, and the fact that Americans ride everywhere in automobiles instead of walking or riding bicycles are the things that have made the most impression upon Pampa's two American Field Service exchange students during their short stay here.

Cathy Papanthassopoulou of Patras, Greece, is the "daughter" of Dr. and Mrs. Julian M. Key, 1840 Fir, during her stay here; and Chris Jonsson of Helsingborg, Sweden, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Palmer, 2117 N. Russell, while in Pampa. Both are 17 years old and are enrolled as senior students in Pampa high school.

"Anyone looking at Cathy and Chris would think they were American teenagers as their dress is very similar to that of our teenagers. As young Chris put it, "Sometimes Europeans are more American than Americans."

CHRIS

Chris, also amazed that he ride in cars so much, said, however, that he was getting all the exercise he needed as a member of the percussion section of the PHS marching band. His instrument, though, is the piano which he has studied for five or six years. He says schools in Sweden don't have bands like ours, but they do have classes in music theory.

Although Chris attended an all-boys school in Sweden, he says they do have co-educational schools. He has completed four years of elementary school, four years of middle school, similar to our junior high school, and two years of senior high school, with two more years to go before graduation.

He rides his bicycle to school, about a 10-minute ride, and was surprised that he has seen only one bicycle in Pampa since his arrival Aug. 22.

His home, Helsingborg, with a population of 75,000, is in the southern part of Sweden, about three miles across the sound from Denmark. He lives with his father, a customs officer, and his step-mother in one story of their house and his grandmother lives in the other story.

Both were favorably impressed with the friendliness and informality of the people of Pampa. As Chris put it: "Everyone just says 'hello'."

very interesting, but a little rough, especially the bronc riding. She was enthralled by the drive-in restaurants and theaters which she said "are very strange to me."

After attending the luncheon and style show given by the Future Nurses Club, she said she was surprised that the style show was a combined with a luncheon. In Greece, she said they go to see clothes modeled, but they don't eat at the same time.

Going-Away Supper Honors Mrs. Wells

LEFORS (Spl) — Mrs. C. C. Wells, who is moving to Pampa, was honored with a surprise dinner and ice cream supper in Leforsian Park.

The occasion was a work night held by the home demonstration club's park committee, of which Mrs. Wells was a member for three years.

Attending were Messrs. and Mrs. R. W. Beck, Paula and Bill, Boyd Beck, B. J. Diehl, O. O. Bishop, and Mrs. A. J. Rollins, Mildred Kinsey and W. K. Davis. Sending gifts were: Mrs. D. T. Pfeil, B. D. Vaughn and Walter Elliott.

Touch Of Tile Can Ease Cleaning Jobs

"Part of a loaf is better than none" is probably the most meaningful piece of practical philosophy ever applied to the home—especially where a tight budget is a strong third party.

With thought, imagination and very little cash outlay, you can add to the convenience and beauty of your home by concentrating on certain strategic areas against the day when a more bountiful bankroll will allow you to have the "whole loaf."

First, make a complete survey of your present home. Look for small areas that represent major cleaning problems. As you do it, be alert to what can be accomplished with a specific material like ceramic tile that combines beauty, practicality and all-important versatility.

Here are some examples of directions your quest may lead: Perhaps, when your home was built, the ceramic tiling was limited to the area immediately around your tub or shower. Trouble is that the wall areas around the lavatory, light switches and towel bars also receive a lot of moisture and — what with children's grimy hands — present a many-times-a-day clean chore.

Later on, you'll want to finish the entire bath, but for now, content yourself with tiling just the area that needs it most.

Another likely spot for a touch of tile is the floor immediately surrounding your laundry equipment in the basement. Rugged and attractive quarry tile is a natural for the few square feet involved here.

Window sills and mantels which take a lot of abuse from sudden storms and plant-watering accidents are two more natural areas for permanent improvement.

Another idea for tile that is part decorative and entirely practical is to set a course of decorative tile around your kitchen just at the height where chair backs do the most damage to your present walls. The result will be simple to achieve, distinctive and easy to keep clean.

Endless examples could be given, but you know your own home and needs better than anyone else. If you can't have the whole loaf just now, why not help yourself to several slices of comfort and convenience until you can?

The Mature Parent

Continuing Support

Should Follow Praise

Last June Peggy's parents received a letter from her high school principal. It told them that although she'd missed a $2,500 college scholarship by a poor math mark he considered her a student of outstanding ability. He said that his counsel would be available for other tuition grants.

Oh, how proud they were! They told me about it. Her mother called relatives to read them the letter. Her father took it to his office to show his colleagues. They praised and praised and praised.

Yesterday a pale and disappointed Peggy said to me, "Do you know what Papa said to me last night? He said I ought to be thinking of finding a job for the fall. He said that at my age girls shouldn't plan to just hang around the house all day — that I'd be needing pretty things he couldn't afford to get me."

Even if college tuition grants were still available, Peggy wouldn't want one. Not any more, not, anyway, for a long while. In the past I have suggested that praise of a child's achievement is a hidden demand for continuing achievement.

It also contains a promise of continuing support of the achievement. Please don't misunderstand me. I think that young people can survive without college degrees. I think that parents who can't afford to finance the earning of the degrees are entitled to say so.

But I also think that they should say so as soon as possible so that their children know where they stand, instead of depending on the promise which is implicit in all the praise of school achievement.

Nor is it just their academic successes that we boast about without any substantial intention of supporting them. We'll glowingly applaud Joan's decision to make herself a dress — but when she comes to a tricky sleeve, fitting find ourselves too busy getting supper to help.

We'll brag of Howard's violin skill — but when his teacher's arrives, wonder sadly how we'll be flated to the skies for the chocolate cake she has made — and then get fussed at for the number of dishes she used for her icing.

Let's watch it. Such praise is like lifting a two-year-old up on a high table, saying, "Jump — and I'll catch you," and then moving away so that he jumps into nothing.

Put mildly, it is not very kind.

Miss Kay Lawson Honored At Buffet

Miss Kay Lawson, bride-elect of Jimmie Schuneman, was honored with a salad supper recently by Miss Marilyn Steele, 1901 Dogwood.

The honoree was presented a corsage of white pom-pom mums. The entertaining rooms were decorated in the bride's chosen colors of blue and white.

The centerpiece for the informal buffet was a crystal basket filled with white pom-pom mums and lemon leaves.

Attending were Misses Martha and Sarah Gordon, Priscilla Dobbin, Susan Kay, Sue Ann Thompson, Linda Worley, Carol Tripples, Joan Ann Thompson, Joan's sister, the bride-elect's sister, Miss Kay Lawson, the bride-elect's sister, and Miss Steele.

Elasticized slippers are the new thing in children's shoes for fall. This one has elasticized gorings at the side or concealed under the tongue help to hold shoes on and make for a better fit.

'National Will' Claimed Needing Reinvigoration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frank B. Ellis, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, issued the following statement today:

"Unfortunately, our nation has developed a dangerous national habit of confusing the real with the ideal. This dulls our sensitivity to the long-term continuous perils which we face.

"As director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, soon to be known as the Office of Emergency Planning, it is my earnest belief that President Kennedy's firm and candid leadership will help every American break this debilitating habit.

"More importantly, we must appreciate that the pattern of the Communist drive is far more dangerous than we seem to conceive in its effort to break and destroy our national will.

"It is to the reinvigoration of this national will that I shall direct my efforts as the civil defense director for the President in the Office of Emergency Planning.

"We expect to contact, through the distribution of pertinent literature, every home of America before the end of the year, informing each citizen what he can do to help in the effort for national survival."

College's Land Quest Approved

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — It is okay for Texas A&M President Earl Rudder to negotiate for the purchase of the 2,000-acre Bryan Air Force Base and its 378 buildings.

The Texas A&M College Board of Directors Monday authorized Rudder to begin negotiations. The board also approved budgets for the four colleges, and six research, extension and service agencies of the system as well as for its general administrative offices for the coming year.

The base has been declared surplus by the federal government. A & M would use it for research, extension and other educational programs. Authority to acquire the facilities was granted by the state legislature with the prohibition that no general revenue funds be used for the purchase.

The base is eight miles northwest of the college.

New U.S. TV Primer Found Minus Appeal

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As a rule I am less than enraptured by official government publications and I have just now run across the exception that proves it.

It is a booklet called "Pogo Primer for Parents (TV division)," which recently was published by the Children's Bureau of the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

The Primer is the handiwork of Walt Kelly, a syndicated cartoonist who contemplates the world through the eyes of a possum.

Kelly has come to be regarded by America's comic strip cognoscenti as something of a philosopher, ranking in eminence with such abstract thinkers as Kierkegaard, Schopenhauer and Jack Paar.

Much of his success stems from the fact that he has wide appeal among the eggheads. By "eggheads," I mean people who not only look at the drawings in comic books but can read the words as well.

In this booklet, Kelly turns his attention to the problems that television has created in the households of America. With Pogo and Albert the Alligator playing the roles of parents, he undertakes to prove that children and adults can live under the same roof with a TV set and still be friends.

Some parents, he points out, fear that watching television is harmful to children and yet do not interfere. There are several reasons for this.

For one thing, the male parent "is busy with the sports pages." As Kelly explains, "It takes time to find out the editor is wrong about the box score."

The female parent, on the other hand, must spend a lot of time talking to somebody about something important and having headaches. Therefore, the parents "let the TV set watch the children."

According to Kelly, "This is better than letting the child get run over by a truck."

At this point, two psychiatrists enter the booklet in the forms of Howland the Owl and Churchy the Turtle. Kelly obligingly tells us what psychiatrists do. They "study people's heads" and "make reports" and say things like "basic behavior patterns are not necessarily caused solely by mass media in whole or part."

"If you said that," Kelly adds, "you would be invited to speak at the PTA meetings where you could drink lots of cold coffee and eat little wet cakes."

Kelly's approach to the problem, as I read it, is for parents to select the problems to be viewed and then watch them with their children. In my household, I'm afraid, that would create more problems than it would solve.

A better plan, I believe, would be to turn off the television and read Pogo books instead.

Firm Does Not Expect Major Mart Setback

NEW YORK (UPI) — Oppenheimer, Neu & Co. continues to feel that a major reversal of the uptrend does not seem to be in the cards in view of the decidedly favorable economic outlook for the rest of this year as well as 1962.

However, it does not exclude the possibility of a temporary setback due to foreign politics and the domestic labor situation.

Technically, most members of the auto, chemical, steel and rubber groups look lower and selling in these groups in trading portfolios would be indicated, according to Joseph Granville of E. F. Hutton & Co. He recommends switching into "defensive" issues that are technically strong.

J. W. Sparks & Co. feels that the present weakness does not alter the upward trend of the market but is creating additional buying opportunities in a number of securities.

Rites Held For Union Official

DETROIT (UPI) — Funeral services are scheduled Wednesday for Henry Lower, one of Teamster boss James R. Hoffa's top lieutenants.

Lower, 58, died Sunday at Palmer Park osteopathic hospital.

His son, Theodore, said he died of cancer. His death came six weeks after an indictment against him was quashed on a technicality.

The indictment alleged that Lower and Hoffa had used the mails to defraud in a Florida real estate development project.

Advice Offered To Tired Women

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — A Cleveland doctor says the reason a new disease—the tired mother syndrome—is sweeping the country is because mothers "work 16 hours a day, seven days a week and get no union protection."

Dr. Leonard Lovshin, head of the internal medicine department at Cleveland Clinic, said today's mothers simply have too many things to do.

He said her busy schedule includes what he called "togetherness vacations" where mother works harder on camping trips than at home.

The number of children a woman has is not necessarily a cause for fatigue, he said. "A woman with one child worries four times as much as a woman with four children, so it all comes out even."

He said that a few extra pounds will not affect the mother's illness, "asking a tired mother to reduce simply changes her from a fat tired mother to a slim tired mother," Lovshin said.

The main reason the mother is so tired today is that she has to do all the decision-making, he declared. Mothers of a half-century ago worked harder physically, but were less tired.

The cure? Lovshin's suggested treatment includes:

- Buying a new hat.
- Getting a good report card from the kids.
- Learning to say "no."
- Getting away from the family.
- Tranquilizers, to be given to the husband, children and family dog.

Foreign Commentary

By DON C. BECKER

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Malayan Prime Minister Tengku Abdul Rahman is unquestionably a man who likes to "think big."

Two and a half years ago he conceived together with Philippine President Carlos Garcia a plan for a cooperative organization of eight free states of Southeast Asia.

The proposed association was to comprise Indonesia, Thailand, Burma, Cambodia, Laos, South Viet Nam, the Philippines and Malaya.

Although Rahman said the plan was to be strictly economic and cultural in nature, political implications and internal strife have kept five of the invited nations from joining. At present, newly-launched association of southeast Asia lists as members only the pro-Western nations of Thailand, the Philippines and Malaya.

However, Rahman looks upon this as only a start and has hopes of expanding the association to include more nations, some possibly from outside the original group of eight.

No sooner had the details for the launching of ASA been worked out, than Rahman came up with another proposal.

This one called for the merger of Malaya, Singapore, and the three British territories in North Borneo — Sarawak, Brunei and British North Borneo.

The proposal was predicated, he said, upon the fact that the five territories were really too small to go it alone. The five have much in common, including the straits dollar and a long history of British rule.

"Greater Malaysia" would have a land area of 132,000 square miles and a population of slightly more than 10 million. Malaya itself has a population of about seven million spread over 50,000 square miles. Singapore's fast increasing population is 1.6 million on an island only 217 square miles in size.

The three Borneo territories are sparsely populated with only about 1.4 million persons in an area comprising more than 80,000 square miles.

"After my investigation I would say the conditions at the hospital are not dirty, but are just plain filthy," Stack said.

The state VFW commander said he found "roaches running around and ants, bread left exposed, food trays left unfinished on air-conditioners in windows there."

"The worst condition I found was five specimen bottles filled that had been there since Saturday on the air conditioner less than two feet from where the patient was eating his meals," Stack said.

Following the report by the district VFW contention, Carl Sears, public relations director of the hospital said that "It isn't dirt, but progress."

Vets Hospital Found 'Filthy' By VFW Chief

HOUSTON (UPI) — Peter Stack, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, went to the hospital Monday to check a report it was the dirtiest VA hospital in the United States.

He said today he found that conditions there "are not dirty, but just plain filthy."

The report on the condition of the hospital that Stack wanted to check personally was made at a district VFW convention in Houston.

Linksters Slow Filling Entries

Registration for the Top O' Texas golf tournament to be held at the Pampa Country Club Friday through Monday has been slow according to Hart Warren, the club pro.

Only 12 golfers had signed up for the tourney Tuesday noon. All local linksters who plan to play in the tourney are urged to register as soon as possible to avoid the

Light-Heavy King Wins

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — NBA light heavyweight champion Harold Johnson successfully defended his six month old title Tuesday night by scoring a split decision over game but half-blinded Eddie Cotton in a 15-round outdoor match.

Johnson received the biggest pay check of his career — $20,000 — for the fight, but he had to earn every penny of it.

Cotton was in the fight for 10 rounds but began fading in the 11th when a slowly swelling lump closed his left eye.

The champion came up with a needed strong finish to make his second successful defense of the title he won last February.

Johnson had much praise for Cotton, a 33-year-old veteran getting his first chance at a title.

"He (Cotton) is tough — smart," Johnson said. "He's smarter than most of the fighters I've fought. He's tricky and very hard to hit."

Johnson, who stretched his winning streak to 16 with the victory, said he didn't expect the fight to go the distance.

usual last minute rush. Most of the out-of-town participants are expected to register Friday, the day which the qualifying rounds begin.

No one will be allowed to play at the Country Club during the tournament's four days and Warren also stated the Country Club "will be closed lock, stock, and barrel Tuesday to allow us to recuperate from the tourney."

Anyone planning to play a round of golf had better do so before Friday. Qualifying round for medalist play will start Friday morning. Borger's Don Seamster is the defending Top O' Texas champion.

Entry fee for the tournament is $15. Among those already entered are Max Hickey, the city and Country Club champion. Hickey finished third in the 1960 tourney behind Seamster and runner-up Bobby Briggs.

Approximately 160 participants are expected to enter tournament play this year.

SMU Star Tries For Comeback

DALLAS (UPI) — In 1958 Max Christian was a bone-crushing All-Southwest-Conference center for Southern Methodist, but this year he will be trying to make a comeback.

Max was hobbled by injuries his junior year. Last year, in what would have been his senior season, Christian suffered a shoulder separation in practice and had to sit out the Mustangs' football schedule.

He came through the wear and tear of spring training in good shape. "I'm as ready as I'll ever be," Christian said of the 1961 season which starts Friday.

The 6-3, 225-pound center-linebacker said he did not think SMU was going to be the pushover this year everyone has them tabbed to be.

"We're gonna win. I don't know how many or when, but we're gonna win... I thought we had a really good spring training," he said. "I knew we had a good first line but we developed a second line, too."

Christian spent his summer in school and plans to be graduated next spring with a double major in insurance and management. Before going into business he said he would like a whirl at pro ball.

He was not chosen in last winter's professional drafts, although he was eligible. Most scouts were afraid Christian was injury prone.

EYES TO TITLE

One of the top golfers in the area, Pampa's Max Hickey, will be among some 160 contestants vying for the 25th Top O' Texas golf championship. Hickey is the city and Pampa Country Club champion. In 1960 he finished third in the tourney behind the winner Don Seamster and runner-up Bobby Briggs.

Staretta Takes Race At Belmont

By United Press International

Even champions need activity to maintain their competitive edge as witnessed by Berlo's fourth place finish in a $10,000 Allowance Test at Belmont Tuesday.

Berlo, who won seven of nine races last year while en route to the 3-year-old filly championship, made her first start of 1961 Tuesday but never came into contention after a poor start.

The race was won by Staretta, a 4-year-old daughter of Dark Star who had finished eighth in her last New York start. This time Staretta showed a top performance, moving into the lead at the top of the stretch and then holding off a late drive by Great Dame to win by a neck.

Apprentice Jockey Sheridan Mellon rode Staretta over the seven furlongs in 1:24. The winner returned $15.90, $8.00 and $5.70.

Larry Gilligan rode a consecutive triple at Arlington, scoring aboard Buckley Woods ($5.00) in the fourth, Wined Victory ($9.50) in the fifth and Fluoresce ($5.80) in the sixth. However, the feature was won by Sid Lejeune aboard Playgor ($13.20).

Covered Bridge drew away from the field for a two and one-half length victory over Royal Ration in the feature $4,500 allowance test at Atlantic City.

Red Hot Milwaukee Braves Move Past Giants To Third

Redlegs Blank Pittsburgh 3-0

By United Press International

Charlie Dressen keeps telling everyone the Milwaukee Braves "ain't dead" yet, and this time it looks as if he's finally got a live one.

You remember Charlie? He never says die. Even last year, he kept assuring folks the Braves would come on to win. It got to be such a joke that one wag predicted Dressen would finish five games ahead of the Braves.

No one is laughing at Charlie now, though.

For one thing, his Braves are playing the best ball in the majors with 15 victories in their last 20 games. For another, they have taken over third place in the National League. The hopped-up Braves still are seven games off the pace, but as Dressen is quick to point out, they are only four games down in the vital loss column.

Eddie Mathews' 26th homer in the 13th inning gave them a 7-6 victory over the fading San Francisco Giants Tuesday night. Willie McCovey's two-run homer in the ninth sent the game into extra innings but merely served to postpone the Giants' fifth straight loss.

Frank Thomas got the Braves started with his 26th homer in the second inning. Before they won it, the Braves frittered away 3-0, 4-2 and 6-4 leads, but Don Nottebart finally nailed down the victory after taking over for starter Lew Burdette in the ninth.

The Cincinnati Reds retained their 3½ game lead with a 3-0 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates after the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the Chicago Cubs, 2-1, in a day game. The St. Louis Cardinals ran their winning streak to eight by beating the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-4, in the first of two games, but lost the nightcap, 4-3.

The two top American League contenders both lost. The Minnesota Twins blanked the New York Yankees, 3-0, and the Chicago White Sox beat Detroit, 4-3, leaving the Tigers 1½ games out of first place.

Cleveland handed Washington its 11th straight loss, 6-4, Boston downed Kansas City, 8-4, and Los Angeles took two from Baltimore, winning the opener, 6-5, and the 11-inning nightcap by the same score after Oriole manager Paul Richards announced his resignation.

Freddie Hutchinson Hates Losing Games

NEW YORK (UPI) — Back in the days when Freddie Hutchinson was a pitcher he was noted as a man with an implacable hatred for defeat.

"I always knew how Hutch did when we followed Detroit into town," Yogi Berra once said. "If we had stools in the dressing room, I'd know he'd won. If we got kindling, he lost."

That grim desire for victory is one of the leading factors behind the fact that the pilot of the Cincinnati Reds is a cinch to be the major league manager of the year.

The Reds already have publicly admitted the magnitude of the job he has done by extending his contract two more years. That was what he wanted when he walked out on the Tigers in 1954 and returned to his native Seattle to manage a minor league team. He quit "as a matter of principle."

There is no question, in the front office or among the players, as to who runs the ball club. When he managed the Cardinals from 1956 until his firing in 1958, he was under constant pressure from above. There was an occasion when owner Gussie Busch insisted that Hutch play a certain man.

"If I want to play a clown I'll hire Emmett Kelly," Hutch told him, and walked out.

Replacing Mayo Smith as manager of the Reds two years ago, he brought the club up from seventh to fifth. Last year they dropped to sixth but Hutch was making his changes and, never second guessing his players, drew from them an ever-increasing respect. Meanwhile, the old pitcher whose background drew scorn was rebuilding that Cincinnati staff.

If the Reds lose it won't be because they hit the panic button. "You can't do that," he says. "You grind, day after day, and the worst thing you can do is second guess yourself. That's when you panic."

There's one more thing you can be sure of. Under Hutch they won't quit fighting. That's what he knows best and, win or lose, he's done the best job of managing in the big leagues this season.

Amarillo overcame a four-run fifth inning by the Oilers. Al Herring had a two-run homer for Tulsa, as did Chuck Buheler for Amarillo.

Today Amarillo is at Tulsa; Austin is at San Antonio; and Victoria-at-Ardmore.

Pampa QB Club Suggests Program For All Sports

The Pampa Quarterback club had its initial meeting of the season Tuesday night and immediately went to work trying to increase Harvester boosters and planned a bar-b-cue for the football team and the coaches.

The bar-b-cue will be held Saturday night after the team returns from a scrimmage game in Perryton. It will be in the southeast corner of the football field. Any interested parties or future Quarterback Club members are invited to help with the picnic and to attend the club's next meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Discussion also centered on the organizing of a consolidated booster club for all sports and the band. President Paul Brown extended an invitation to all interested parties to come to the next meeting and to make suggestions toward this goal.

Harvester's coach Babe Curfman spoke to the club. Curfman emphasized the fact that the club needs to boost the boys, which is the purpose of the Quarterback organization. The Pampa mentor praised the gridders for their hard work and good spirit during the workouts despite the hot weather.

Curfman said that barring injuries the Harvester could be tough. He also praised the teams in the district and the coaches noting that district 3-AAAA is probably the toughest in the state and that the coaching is among the best.

Brown told the group that the Quarterback club's duties was to back "the kiddos" and "build enthusiasm behind the boys."

Two new coaches on the Pampa staff were introduced. They were Ken Ford, former Hardin Simmons passing ace and Mack Choate, just up from Clarendon head coaching post. Both will handle the Robert E. Lee teams.

Net Association Suspends Champ Dennis Ralston

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States Lawn Tennis Association followed up its suspension of tempestuous Dennis Ralston today with a warning that it will throw the book at other court stars who don't mind their manners.

Ralston, the nation's third-ranking player from Bakersfield, Calif., was suspended by the USLTA Tuesday for "bad conduct" during the recent Davis Cup matches against Mexico.

Final action of Ralston's suspension will not be taken until the USLTA executive committee meeting Sept. 8. However, the 19-year-old Californian definitely will be missing when the world's best amateur tennis players gather at Forest Hill Friday for the start of the National Singles championship.

COLTS DROP TWO

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts cut their roster to 43 players Tuesday by placing halfbacks Don Kern and Ed Kovac on waivers. Kern came to the Colts last December as their sixth draft choice, while Kovac, who came to the club from the Beas a year ago, saw little action during the 1960 season.

DALLAS PRO-AM TOURNAMENT STARTS

DALLAS (UPI) — The world's best golfers began arriving today for the $8,000 pro-am tourney Thursday and the $30,000 Dallas Open Friday.

Many of the players planned tuneup rounds today. Already on hand were Bill Maxwell, Cary Middlecoff, Henry Ransom, Gary Player, Bruce Crampton, Roberto DeVicenzo, Jacky Cupit and others.

Arnold Palmer, Tommy Bolt, and defending champion Johnny Pott were expected to arrive today. Nine of the 10 top money winners on the tour will play in the tournament. Bill Casper in fourth place is the only one who will miss the play.

First place is worth $4,300.

Richard's Quits Baltimore Post

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Paul Richards, manager of the Baltimore Orioles since 1935, resigned Tuesday night and indicated he would accept the general manager's post with the new Houston team of the National League.

His announcement came in a taped radio interview just before the two-night doubleheader against the Los Angeles Angels.

Just hours before, the Orioles told Richards to decide by Friday whether he wanted to stay in Baltimore or go with Houston.

"I am willing to manage for the rest of the season for the Orioles if they want me," Richards said.

Club President Lee MacPhail and board chairman Joseph Iglehart said they did want Richards to remain the rest of the season.

When they handed him the ultimatum, MacPhail and Iglehart said a "fully capable" successor can be found.

Following Richard's announcement Tuesday night, George Kirksey, acting general manager of

Houston Oilers May Be Stronger Champs

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — De- backs: Bill Groman and Charley Hennigan receivers; and Bob Talamaini and Hogan Wharton the offensive guards he had in mind.

The head talent hunter also feels the Oilers will be much stronger at right end if coach Rymkus ever starts playing ex-Chicago Bear Willard Dewveall.

During practice this summer Rymkus used John White, who was short of what it took to play regular last year, ahead of Dewveall in several exhibitions.

Dewveall joined the Oiler squad under similar, but somewhat less costly circumstances as Billy Cannon last year.

Oiler owner "Bud Adams was the brunt of a few jokes last season about the tremendous expense with the NFL Los Angeles Rams over Cannon. But the LSU star likely will be one of the biggest bargains Adams ever struck.

Cannon is expected to be one of the AFL's most dangerous backs this year as a pass recipient. Billy Cannon, the former Louisiana State great, and Dave Smith are the running

Same Type Ball Ruth Hit Claimed Used Now

NEW YORK (UPI) — The man who makes the big increase in home runs, Parker said, is the Babe Ruth of today's version is the same as the Babe Ruth of 1927 when he set the all-time home run record of 60.

"I've said it before many times and I'll say it again," declared Edwin L. Parker, president of A. G. Spalding and Bros. "The ball is not one bit livelier today than it was in Babe Ruth's time."

Parker made his declarations in answer to growing criticism over today's baseball — that it is livelier — and that is why Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle are closing in on the immortal Ruth's record.

"If Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle break Ruth's record this season," Parker explained, "it will be because of their ability and factors existing in the game today, but not because the ball is livelier now than it was in Ruth's day."

He pointed to several factors in backing his argument and at the same time dismissed a recent survey by a national sports magazine which claimed that the 1961 ball bounces higher and is firmer and heavier than balls of previous years.

Caleb Favored In Harness Racing

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UPI) — Caleb, a strapping light colt, owned by Mrs. Charlotte de Van of Hanover, Pa. today was the unofficial favorite with his pole position to win the 36th Hambletonian harness race here Wednesday.

The black colt was listed as a 4-5 unofficial favorite at the non-betting Du Quoin State Fairgrounds track.

Caleb will race against a field of 13 for the $131,573.01 purse.

Golf Tourney For Amateurs Set For Sept.

A classy field of 16 golfers headed by Herb Durham of Dallas, Texas-Mississippi winner, qualified Tuesday at Odessa, Houston and Dallas for the National Amateur Golf tourney at Del Monte, Calif., Sept. 11-16.

Durham shot 142 for the 36 holes over the Brook Hollow Golf Club in Dallas. Hugh Thompson of McKinney also shot 142. The Abilene, and Dudley Wyssong Jr. of McKinney also shot 142. The fifth qualifier at Dallas was Jack Cameron of Dallas with 143.

Two former National Amateur finalists failed to qualify. Rufus King of Wichita Falls had a 148 and Spec Goldman of Dallas dropped out because of illness after 18 holes.

At the Brae Burn Country Club in Houston, John Garrett, ex-Rice star, and sharp-shooting Romer Blancas, University of Houston ace, turned in the best shotmaking of the day for the three cities. Both fired 139s for the 36 holes. Blancas had one sizzling round of 67.

The other five Houston qualifiers were Ronnie McCall, Beaumont, Ed Loesch, Houston, and Harris Greenwood, Houston, all with 144s; and Harlan Lane, Houston, and Richard Yates, Corpus Christi, 146s.

Ray Stoker Jr. of Odessa came out of the rough on the final hole and birdied it for a four-under-par 140 to win medalist honors at the Odessa Country Club course.

Texans Recall End Tony Romeo

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Texans recalled rookie end Tony Romeo of Florida State Tuesday, trimmed their roster to 35 and worked out behind locked gates.

Romeo got a reprieve because Fred Arbanas, a rookie end from Michigan State, may undergo an operation to correct his back trouble. The Texans will decide today whether to place Arbanas on the injured reserve list or waive another player.

The Texans also asked waivers on end veteran end Ed Berner and put rookie tackle Jon O'Day on the injury reserve list. The club also had put Romeo on waivers.

The Texans, without the services of injured back Abner Haynes, meet the San Diego Chargers Sunday in a pre-season game.

Albany, Anahuac Class A Pick

Albany and Anahuac, the teams generally picked to wade through to the state finals, bump into tough Class AA foes this Friday night as schoolboy football's Class A teams open their 1961 schedules with a 134-g-me program.

Defending state champ Albany, blessed with three all-stars among a dozen returning lettermen, plays the Olney Cubs at Olney. The Cubs defeated Albany 20-12 last year in the opener and were the only outfit able to turn the trick all season as the Lions went on to a 14-1 mark.

Anahuac, boasting speed and balance among 14 lettermen, faces Dayton at Anahuac and could well stumble over the first hurdle, although it would not count against the Panthers in their title search.

Crosby, the team which fell 20-9 to Albany in last year's finals, may have trouble hurdling Barbers Hill in its own district this year and isn't rated among the major title threats.

The Wink Wildcats and Martined Panthers, both familiar names in week state playoff ranks, are due to return to power and possibly reach the semifinals. Coach Truman Nix lost only two boys from his 1960 Wink squad and has his team virtually intact. The Wildcats open against Jal, N.M. Coach Cotton Lindloff has 14 lettermen at Mart, including six starters. His Panthers open against Teague.

Forney, Farwell, Mt. Vernon, Bastrop and Sealy are other top contenders opening this week.

Communications Satellite May Not Pay Profit

NEW YORK (UPI)—Whatever the outcome of the present controversy over control of an orbiting satellite communications system, there is little possibility of any immediate profits for anyone, a financial publication said today.

Plans are under way to use earth satellites to beam telephone, radio and television signals to any spot on earth where reception facilities exist. In the United States, the Federal Communications Commission has tentatively—but not finally—approved a plan to put ownership of such a system in the hands of 10 companies.

During the weekend, 35 Democratic congressmen petitioned President Kennedy to reject the plan, on grounds it could lead to monopolistic ownership and put American Telephone and Telegraph in a top spot.

AT&T in its summer issue of Bell Telephone magazine discussed its proposed participation in a satellite system, and said flatly that "such a system would not be dominated by AT&T."

The Financial World, an investment and business weekly, pointed out the tremendous need for a satellite system, if only to handle a volume of overseas telephone calls growing at the estimated rate of 20 per cent per year.

The magazine said that one FCC official had estimated that global communications satellites could be handling telephone and telegraph messages and relaying TV programs on an experimental basis by 1963, and permanent operation could follow within a year.

"But profit potentialities are much harder to figure," the magazine continued.

"The most likely prospective beneficiaries are the Bell system (which obviously plans to invest heavily in the satellite system) and other firms in the international communications business."

BERLIN: ISLAND CITY IN RED TERRITORY — Berlin is the largest city in Germany. It lies in the heart of Europe, midway between Germany's central range of mountains in the South and the Baltic Sea in the North, and between the Elbe River in the West and the Oder River in the East. Four highways, four railway lines, three air corridors, and two waterways serve as the main arteries to Berlin, which is completely surrounded by Soviet-controlled territory. It is 110 miles from West Berlin to the nearest West German frontier. West Berlin has a population of 2.2 million people. Although it is smaller than Paris, France, which has a population of 2.8 million, it is larger than Rome, Italy, 25th largest city in the world with 2.1 million people. The combined total population of Berlin, counting the 1.1 million people of East Berlin, make it the tenth largest city in the world, just 200,000 less than Chicago, the ninth-ranked city.

Berlin Settlement Top Problem Facing World

By RAY BERNARD
The crisis over Berlin has been intensified by the recent threats of Premier Khrushchev to sign a separate treaty with East Germany before the end of the year.

The artificial separation of Berlin from the rest of Germany has been a constant source of international tension. The problem most often posed in high political circles around the world is "When and how will the Berlin question be settled?"

The division of Germany into different occupation zones and the establishment of a separate "Berlin Area" were agreed on by virtue of the London Protocol signed on September 12, 1944, by the European Advisory Commission composed of the representatives of Great Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States.

The London Protocol stipulated that the "Berlin Area" would be occupied by the armed forces of the United States, Great Britain and the Soviet Union for their "joint control of the administration of 'Greater Berlin'." The addition of France as an equal partner became effective with a July 26, 1945 Addendum.

It was agreed by the military commanders that the armed forces of the West would have free access to Berlin by rail, land and air.

The Allied Control Council went into operation in August, 1945. Its rulings were to have been unanimous along the lines of military command decisions.

But the repeated vetoes exercised at the conference table by the Soviet members of both the Council and Military Command jeopardized the proposals of the West of political, economic and cultural life in Berlin and Germany. As early as the end of 1945, this obstruction resulted in the establishment of a form of community life in the three Western Sectors that was completely different from the one prevailing in the Soviet Sector. The two Berlins — West Berlin and East Berlin — became a study in contrasts.

In March, 1948 the Soviets walked out of the Allied Control Council in order to obstruct Western proposals to restore economic and political life in "Greater Berlin" as well as in Germany as a whole. Berlin lies 110 miles inside the Iron Curtain, surrounded on all sides by Soviet-dominated territory. Access to the city from the West is controlled at prescribed rail, water and highway points by Russian soldiers and the East German police.

The Soviets tried to choke off life in West Berlin by a blockade of all entry points. In June, 1948 the Soviets halted highway, passenger and freight rail traffic; and all electric power was cut off.

To prevent the people of Berlin from starving and freezing to death, the American Commander-in-Chief in Germany immediately ordered supplies into the Western Sectors of the city by air. The airlift supplied the city with food, fuel and medical supplies. For eleven months, there was no communication by land or water between Berlin and West Germany. But freight planes of the American, British and French Air Forces carried the day. In May, 1949 the Soviets were forced to abandon the blockade as futile.

What do the Soviets plan for Berlin? What do the Western Powers recommend?

The Soviet Union has proposed the establishment of three "distinct political entities":

- 1. The "Free City" of West Berlin.
- 2. The German Federal Republic (W. Germany).
- 3. The so-called German Democratic Republic (E. Germany).

There would be a loose "confederation" of these three States, and separate peace treaties would be negotiated with East and West Germany.

Political authorities noted that this would force Germany to sever its close ties with the Western Powers. It would leave West Germany "neutral" and helpless in the face of any attack from the East. Berlin would become dependent on Russia, and eventually be absorbed into the Soviet orbit. Such control of Berlin would also halt

Rating System For Television Shows Defended

By JACK PERLIS
NEW YORK (UPI) — It has long been fashionable among video's assorted detractors to cite the undeniably shoddy character of much that is available on the medium.

And in their frenetic fugue of despair can be heard certain contrapuntal themes: Cheap programs drive out the good... Public taste is being debased... The ratings are at fault... Why don't the networks or sponsors do something about it?

I would like to do something about it. Where I part company with some critics is on the subject of ratings. To be sure, ratings are imperfect. But all programs are judged under the same inadequacy and, to a surprisingly large extent, ratings do reflect the taste of the mass viewing audience. This is not to suggest that I am in the least satisfied with a system that seeks to project the taste of millions on the basis of an absurdly small sampling. Put it this way: I am for trying to live with ratings because some kind of national nose-count is essential. Herewith, then, my moment of truce:

I propose that we weight the ratings. Let them reflect the fact that the largest possible number of viewers that a top quality program can attract is a figure just about half that of an audience for "Gunsmoke" on a cold, rainy Saturday night.

Let us assume that the largest possible audience for a quality show like "Leonard Bernstein and the N.Y. Philharmonic," "CBS Reports" or the NBC Opera is around 25 million viewers.

Let this figure of 25 million represent 100 per cent in our modified rating system. Then, any quality program that attracts 12.5 million viewers would get a rating of 50. Sure, this is to some degree a matter of semantics, but it is more than just that.

The psychology of big numbers plays a large role in the Madison Avenue ceremonial dance. Ratings are status symbols and to the symbol-minded status-ticians along the martini-circuit, saying that an "Omnibus" garnered a 40 last night sounds a lot better than an anemic 13.

A dual rating system would stress a basic fact of TV in this country. Here, TV is divided into programs aimed at mass appeal and those intended for minority tastes. Each type of show can do a specific selling job for the appropriate sponsor. Since our form of video is commercial and thus sponsor-oriented, this fact is pivotal.

The maker of a chewing gum would hardly get the most for his money were he to sponsor a series devoted to the ballet. Marrying the product to the correct audience is important, but that is the job of the advertising agency representing the sponsor.

What concerns us here is that a pluralistic system of ratings, weighted as to mass audience, appeal and quality programming, takes into account the nature of American television. This system could serve a useful purpose and contribute substantially to the survival of quality programs.

Auto Makers Expect Record Sales In '62

EDITORS: — Al Rothenberg is automotive editor of the Cleveland Press. He has written this special roundup and interpretation of the 1962 automobile shows especially for NEA and your readers. Pictures of the new models are not yet released.

By AL ROTHENBERG
DETROIT (NEA) — The auto industry is betting on a near record 1962 sales year — but at least four manufacturers will travel movie-goers from Hong Kong it.

The initial round of press previews — staged by Ford Motors' Ford and Lincoln-Mercury divisions, General Motors' Oldsmobile and American Motors — indicate wide market disagreement.

Ford and Mercury are counting on greater model variety to pace the uprising.

The Ford division cut its big car line to only two series — Galaxie and Galaxie 500. Falcon, the nation's top selling compact, and Fairlane, the new intermediate, are the blue chip entries.

Mercury, although retaining medium-priced Monterey, will give equal production billing to its fast stepping compact, Comet, and the Meteor — a first cousin to Fairlane.

Olds clings to its traditional place in the middle price bracket with a major facelift of the 88, Super 88 and 98.

In a reversal of the trend away from longer automobiles, Olds added two inches to the length of its high priced 98 line.

Olds apparently has learned that styling similarity of its big cars with the F-85 did not produce desired results. Too many buyers of the established products were disturbed when their friends were unable to distinguish the difference.

As a result, the facelifted afforded Olds was as extensive as possible without a change in the basic body shell. F-85 is a carbon copy of the '61 compact.

At the other extreme is American Motors. As competition widened model variety, President George Romney promptly announced a 30 per cent reduction.

Furthermore, the auto industry's "David" flatly decreed near oblivion for the standard sized American car. By Romney's definition, that means an automobile 200 inches or more in length.

Many dealers, outside the Rambler fold, privately will cheer Romney on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to murder in an attack on Susan Kipp, Long Beach, Calif. The little girl was released from Parkview Baptist hospital Saturday.
